Algeria Revolt Grows

France Put On Near War Basis

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle started mobilizing special army reserves today to stop a military revolt in Algeria from leaping across the Mediterranean into France itself.

De Gaulle, invested with dictatorial powers, acted after the country had gone through a six-hour invasion alert. The alarm was canceled early this morning but France remained tense.

Official sources disclosed President Kennedy had sent De Gaulle a message of support in the Algerian crisis. U. S. Ambassador James Gavin took it to Elysee Palace Sunday night.

In Algeria, the rebel generals who proclaimed their revolt last Saturday appeared to be extending their power without bloodshed. They claimed complete control of Algiers, Constantine and Oran — the three key military centers in Algeria.

UPI correspondent Alain Raymond managed to get a brief dispatch out of Algiers today by a roundabout route. He reported the city was calm this morning, that stores and cafes opened normally and the population went to work as usual.

Algiers radio reported that two more insurgent leaders— Pierre Lagaillarde and Gen. Raoul Salan —had arrived in Algiers. It also claimed the support of 400,000 French troops in Algeria.

The insurgent broadcasting station in Algiers, calling itself "Radio France," branded De Gaulle a "traitor" for planning to negotiate a peace in the seven-year war with Algerian Moslem rebels.

De Gaulle, fighting back over the airwaves, called the rebel generals "partisan, ambitious and fanatical" and appealed to his people:

"Frenchmen, Frenchwomen, help me."

He ordered Frenchmen every

Castro Hints Mass Executions And Hurls Threat At America

MIAMI (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro, brushing aside the plea of five Latin American presidents, was expected today to unleash the biggest firing-squad bloodbath yet in "socialist' Cuba.

The bearded Cuban also was expected to build up his government's defenses against what he called probable new invasion staged by the United States.

In a 4-hour-and-33-minute telethon Sunday, Castro said such attacks would sound the death knell of the United States.

He sneered at U.S. leaders, calling Sen. Barry Goldwater R-Ariz., a "moron," and saying President Kennedy reminded him of Adolf Hitler. He threatened blows at the "very heart of the Yankee empire" — presumably meaning retaliation by Russian rockets.

Castro said Allen W. Dulles, whose Central Intelligence Agency has been denounced by the Castroite press and radio as the brains behind the attack, should have been fired and "shipped along with the invaders."

He also ridiculed President Kennedy's "White Paper" on Cuba, and said reports in U.S. newspapers and magazines kept him up to date on rebel planning.

"We are not afraid of the Marines," Castro said. "We will give them a grand reception. If they destroy us, it will mean the destruction of the Yankee empire.

"The day they invade us will be the day the Yankee empire disappears from the face of the earth."

He said the entire U.S. Army would be needed to protect American ambassadors to Latin American nations if U.S. forces invaded Cuba.

Despite pleas for clemency from the presidents of Argentina, Colombia, Costa Rica, Mexico and Venezuela, Castro indicated he would deal mercilessly with 700 prisoners he said were taken in last week's fighting.

"Don't ask for clemency, because we aren't going to give it to them," he said. "Ask them for clemency for the children killed in the bombings."

Castro also confirmed indirectly that there was a mass roundup of Cubans after the April 10 invasion, affecting perhaps as many as 50,000 persons. He said it was necessary to arrest "all suspicious persons," but added that those proved innocent would be released.

As Castro spoke, leaders of the Cuban underground were appealing to the United States and the rest of the free world for the aid which they said was necessary to keep Cuba from becoming a new Hungary.

"We believe that if we do not get U.S. help we will be doomed," an underground statement said. "We may suffer the same fate as our parents who died in the struggle to free Cuba from Spain."

Underground leaders also complained that the U.S. Navy was at least partly to blame for the defeat of the invasion.

They said U.S. naval vessels accompanied the invaders from Guatemala but that their commanders kept the attackers waiting too long offshore "giving Castro more time to muster his defenses and making the rebels weak with seasickness."

Flagman Hurt In Attempted Rescue Effort

An unidentified crop-dusting plane pilot was killed 16½ miles northeast of Pampa today when his craft crashed and burned. The pilot's name was being withheld pending notification of first of kin. It was learned, however, that his first name was Gerald and that he was probably from Arizona.

Jerry Purdue of Hollis, Okla., was burned about his legs when he attempted to rescue the pilot after the plane crashed and it caught fire. Purdue was taken to Hghland General Hospital for treatment. His injuries were not believed to be serious.

The pilot's body was brought to Pampa in a Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home ambulance.

Purdue and the pilot were employed by Scotty's Spraying And Dusting Service of Altus, Okla. They were engaged in spraying for greenbugs on the Gordon, Gordon and Lewis Cole farm when the accident occurred.

Purdue said that the pilot had started a turn to come in over the wheat field when the plane hit a high line. It plunged straight to the ground, landing on its back.

Purdue said he and Frederick Gordon were working as flagmen, assisting the pilot in the dusting process. Gordon was too far away to reach the plane. Purdue, however, about a hundred yards away, ran to the plane and attempted to rescue the pilot. The flames spread too quickly, however, for him to succeed in the effort. It was then that he received the burns on his legs.

Cuban Situation To Be Discussed With Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy will confer Tuesday with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York in his effort to keep major political leaders informed on the Cuban situation.

Kennedy already has talked with former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and congressional leaders about Cuba.

The White House said the invitation to Rockefeller was issued Friday during a telephone conversation with the governor. An aide said Rockefeller would fly here Tuesday afternoon.

Kennedy also had his discussion with Truman in a telephone call Friday. He has asked Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson to give Truman a further briefing Tuesday in Independence, Mo.

The President and Eisenhower talked over the Cuban situation for one hour and 25 minutes Saturday at secluded Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains. Eisenhower later called on all Americans to support Kennedy in the crisis.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev sent Kennedy a note Saturday declaring that the United States was following a "slippery and dangerous path" in Cuba and elsewhere that could lead to world war.

The State Department promptly retorted that Kennedy had decided not to be drawn into an "extended public debate" with Khrushchev over the Cuban invasion.

Sales Tax Measure Now Up To Senate

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The first retail sales tax in Texas history became the Senate's responsibility today.

The 2 per cent levy passed by the House Friday was expected to be consigned to the Senate State Affairs Committee. The House action was the first time either chamber of the legislature approved the tax.

It is believed that sentiment for a sales tax is even greater in the Senate than the House. However, Gov. Price Daniel held out a hint that he might veto the bill if it passes the Senate.

The bill by Rep. Charles Wilson of Trinity was estimated to raise $127 million a year.

The House was scheduled to work on a docket of priority bills. Rep. George Hinson of Mineola was expected to ask members to suspend the rules to consider his bill to put East Texas State College under its own board of regents. Rep. Don Kennard of Fort Worth scheduled a bill to create a state savings and loan commissioner.

Senators were also expected to hear more filibustering against a bill to give the University of Houston complete state support.

Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center stalled two days last week against the measure by Sen. Robert Baker of Houston. The House late Friday passed its version of the bill and sent it to the upper chamber.

Opponents object to the $5 million a year it will cost the state to bring Houston into the college system.

With one of the major tax issues out of the way, the House was free to turn its attention to how it should spend some $2.5 billion.

Their version of the record appropriations bill moved to the floor last week. A vote was expected late this week.

Written as a substitute for an appropriations bill passed by the Senate in March, the measure calls for spending some $16 million more than was recommended by the upper chamber. Some $52 million in new spending would be from the depleted general revenue fund.

Flow Of Mexican Crude Into U.S. Prompts Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Joe Kilgore, D-Tex., warned today that if the flow of Mexican crude oil through the "Brownsville loophole" was stopped that Mexico might build a port at Matamoros or a pipeline to the U.S. border from Tampico.

"Preservation of this movement (of oil) under the present quota system may well be the best way to prevent a sharp increase in the importation of Mexican crude," Kilgore said in an interview.

If Mexico built either a pipeline or port facilities "she could then under the import restrictions greatly increase the crude shipped to the United States," he said.

The controversy clearly has two sides in Kilgore's view. He represents both the port of Brownsville and many oil producing areas.

Under present regulations, U.S. importers are licensed to bring into this country by sea a specified amount of oil. Importers do not want to take the Mexican oil, because it is generally of a low grade or asphaltic content. They prefer to import on their quotas higher grade petroleum so less refining costs are involved in its ultimate sale.

However, Mexico traditionally has sent to this country between 10,000 and 15,000 barrels daily. To preserve this historic level, the government agreed to the "loophole."

Under this arrangement, Mexican crude was shipped via ocean tanker to Brownsville, where it was put under bond. Then, it was unloaded onto tank trucks and carried across the Mixican border. It was then returned to the U. S. and treated as an overland import and thus not subject to restrictions.

But now that the average daily imports have increased to about

Three Are Slain, Another Wounded As 'Feud' Erupts

SNEEDVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — "Bad feelings" between two hill country constables was blamed today for a mountain shoot-out which left three participants dead and another badly wounded.

Six other men, relatives of the feuding law officers, were arrested and charged with murder in an apparent ambush early Sunday just outside this rural Cumberland mountain community.

Killed were Constable C. B. Oakes, 32, and Hancock County Deputies Alex Morris, 47, and Lon Tayler, 48. Sheriff Verlin Maxey was hospitalized in nearby Knoxville with stomach and shoulder wounds. His condition was listed as fair.

Authorities said the feud had its beginning several weeks ago when Maxey, 45, arrested Oakes on a drunkenness charge. A grand jury refused to indict the constable, but townspeople said Oakes bore a grudge against the sheriff.

Thunderstorms Possible Today In West Texas

By United Press International

Warm, moist Gulf air colliding with a weak cool front in West Texas promised another round of widely scattered thunderstorms over Texas today.

An unconfirmed tornado hit the Snyder area in West Texas during the night, and knocked the police radio off the air for nearly an hour. High winds, hail and rain pounded Snyder during the storm, turning over an unoccupied house trailer and smashing plate glass windows in the city.

The cool front lay over the Texas Panhandle and extended into far West Texas today.

Temperatures headed for the 80s and 90s again over much of the state, after a hot, windy weekend.

Texas baked under summertime levels Sunday despite banks of clouds over much of the state. Childress had 87 degrees before noon. That was around 30 degrees higher than the average temperature for the Panhandle city at this time of year.

Temperatures climbed into the 90s in much of South Texas and West Texas following the hottest day of the year Saturday at Presidio — 106 degrees.

Presidio recorded 104 Sunday for its fourth consecutive day as the hottest spot in the United States. The mercury rose only to 75 at Galveston.

A little cooler weather was forecast for most of the state today.

Southeastern Texas was the only portion of the state expected to miss scattered thundershowers.

President Talks Guinea Problem With Indonesian

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy personally greeted Indonesia's neutralist President Sukarno on his arrival today for talks which may provide a gauge of U. S. prestige in the wake of the Cuban incident.

After the airport welcome, the presidents drove to the White House for a morning conference and a working lunch with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio.

Sukarno also planned to meet with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the afternoon.

Officials expected the talks will test whether American influence among the uncommitted nations—high after Kennedy's inauguration —has been damaged by the acknowledged United States role in the unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Fidel Castro in Cuba.

According to administration sources, Kennedy will try to persuade Sukarno not to invade another trouble spot half-way around the world—the Dutch colony of West New Guinea.

Indonesia claims the Dutch wrongly kept the island territory when the rest of the Dutch East Indies became the independent nation of Indonesia a decade ago.

Eight Employees Of State School At Abilene Fired

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI) —Eight employes of the Abilene State School have been suspended by the Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools Board's executive committee, following an investigation into reports of alleged mistreatment of the school's students.

A statement issued by the board said the supension were "for either mistreatment of patients, misconduct or violation of board policies."

French Robertson of Abilene, chairman of the board, said the eight persons suspended "ranged from a department head to a ward attendant" but declined to disclose their names.

Agreement Announced For Laos Cease-Fire

LONDON (UPI) — The British government announced today that an agreement has been reached with the Soviet Union for a cease-fire in Laos.

The announcement was made in the House of Commons by J. B. Godber, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs.

Godber said Foreign Secretary Lord Home had reached agreement with the Russians on preliminary arrangements for a cease-fire and a conference on the war-ruptured Asian kingdom.

The agreement came after weeks of consultation between Britain and the Soviet Union, acting in their capacities as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference that settled the war in Indochina.

Godber said the agreement included three "communications" which will be published Tuesday. They are:

A call for a cease-fire.

A call to India to convene the three - power international supervistory commission.

A call for a 14-nation international conference on May 12 in Geneva.

Godber said that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had "assured her majesty's ambassador in Moscow (Sir Frank Roberts) of the desire of the Soviet government for an immediate cease-fire to precede the international conference."

Violent Deaths Toll Increased During Weekend

By United Press International

A head - on collision between two automobiles near Dallas which claimed five lives and a fire at Hillsboro that burned three persons to death topped the list of tragedies that swelled Texas' weekend violent death total.

A United Press International survey for the period that began at 6 p.m. Friday showed 19 violent deaths, including 10 traffic fatalities.

The auto crash at Dallas Friday had such an impact a cutting torch had to be used to remove the bodies. The victims included Mrs. Cecilia A. Parker, 50; her daughter, Mrs. Mary Kate Parker Spencer, 27, Mrs. Spencer's daughter, Sharon Kate Spencer, 3, and Culbertson H. Spencer, 28, and John D. Meier, all of Mesquite.

Twin girls and their 18-months-old step-sister, Brenda Johnson were killed Sunday when a fire swept their frame home.

Prosecution Promises Proof Eichmann Killed Jewish Boy

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The prosecution said today it would call two eyewitnesses to prove that Adolf Eichmann lied when he said he never personally killed a Jew. They will introduce testimony that Eichmann beat a Jewish boy to death for stealing fruit from the back yard of his home in Budapest.

This information came from Israeli Solicitor General Gabriel Bach outside the courtroom. He declined to identify the two witnesses and said they probably would not testify for two months.

The keystone of Eichmann's defense is that he never ordered a Jew to be exterminated and never personally killed one. In a one-million-word statement which Eichmann dictated after his capture, he said he was solely concerned with arranging transportation of Jews to the extermination camp and had no part in formulating the policy of Adolf Hitler's "final solution"—extermination of the Jews.

Gabrial Hausner, attorney general of Israel, challenged Eichmann's assertion that he had never killed a Jew in his opening statement.

"In this trial," Hausner said, "we shall encounter a new kind of killer. The kind that exercises his bloody craft behind a desk and only occasionally does the deed with his own hands. True, we know of only one incident in which Adolf Eichmann actually beat to death a Jewish boy who had dared to steal fruit from a peach tree in the yard of his Budapest home. But it was his word that put gas chambers into action . . . His signature it was that sealed the doom of thousands and tens of thousands."

Eichmann's lawyer tried in vain to get the Israeli police to admit they obtained the statement from him by threats and duress.

Capt. Abner Less of the Israeli police denied coercion was used and said Eichmann made the statement voluntarily.

City Commission To Name Tax Men

Three men will be named to the city's Tax Equalization Board when the City Commission holds its regular weekly meeting in City Hall at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Several routine matters will be up for consideration of the commissioners, City Manager John Koontz said today.

Safe And $3,000 Taken From Cafe

FORT WORTH (UPI)—A safe containing $3,000 was taken from the Clover Leaf drive-in restaurant right last night.

Employes of the drive-in discovered the safe missing when they arrived for work today.

Police said the burglars apparently wheeled the safe outside to a waiting car or truck after unsuccessfully trying to open it.

Texas Physicians Open Meet Today

GALVESTON (UPI) — Some 3,500 delegates were expected to attend the Texas Medical Association's 94th annual convention which opens today.

The total includes some 2,500 physicians from throughout the state and 1,000 medical personnel connected with the University of Texas medical branch in Galveston.

Pampa Burglars Include A Tree In Weekend Loot

A cedar tree, a tachometer and a motorcycle comprised the loot in three separate thefts in Pampa over the weekend.

Mrs. A. W. Winborne, 713 N. Dwight, reported to police that someone dug up the cedar tree in her front yard. It was one of three that had been planted three months ago, she said.

Jack Williams, 1714 Aspen, said someone stole the $20 tachometer from the steering wheel of his parked car.

Mrs. Pearl Thurman, 703 E. Craven, reported that an All-State motorcycle was stolen from a garage at the Thurman home. It carried license tag 9-M4136.

Koontz To Attend Meet In Childress

City Manager John Koontz and possibly other city officials will attend a quarterly meeting of Region 2 of the Texas Municipal League in Childress Wednesday.

Koontz, who will lead a panel discussion among officials on various forms of city government and how they operate, said Pampa's mayor and city commission will be invited to attend the one - day session.

Laurels Rest Lightly On Eleanor Roosevlt

By REGINE ERLANDER

NEW YORK (NEA) — How does it feel to be a legend in your own lifetime? Ask Eleanor Roosevelt. She knows.

A little too early for my appointment with her, I paused in the vestibule of the small, old brownstone apartment house on New York's E. 74th St. On the row of iron tenants' list, its push buttons carelessly painted red, only the word, ROOSEVELT, designates the great lady's quarters.

Instantly my mind flew back 20 years to when, as a fledgling newspaperwoman, I had received two embossed cards from the White House, inviting me to a State Luncheon, the one using the day and the hour, the other indicating with a cross my place, according to protocol, at the table.

The Supreme Court justices' wives, their guests and one or two other mavericks like myself stood formally in the Blue Room, while the gold-braided, red-coated Marine Band played "ruffles in the wide marbled corridor. After a while, Mrs. Roosevelt appeared and shook hands graciously with all of us, her eyes aglow with hospitality.

Now I climbed a worn red carpeted staircase. On the third floor, the door of Mrs. Roosevelt's huge living room stood ajar. A German maid in uniform admitted me.

Quickly, my eyes took in the red damask - covered sofa, the half dozen square cocktail tables laden with books, the waxed floor with many small Oriental rugs worn thin as tapestry, and dozens of pictures of FDR on the ivory walls.

A log fire laid in the old fireplace was drawing very badly as Mrs. Roosevelt entered, dressed in a light green silk blouse and darker green skirt. In a voice almost trembling with weariness, she asked me to sit on that side of her where she could hear me better.

We reminisced about her days in the White House, and we spoke of how it is to be a widow. When I reminded her how much the world admires her for adding so many laurels after her husband's death, she said wistfully:

"It is all a woman who has lost her husband can do. It is a compensation, but not a substitute for marriage and companionship. It is only a way to go on living."

Widowed men, she agreed, cannot get along by themselves. But a woman alone can often discover her own center of gravity, after the many years when her first consideration was her husband's welfare and her husband's wishes.

From there we went on to politics. She likes President Kennedy very much, she said, and regards him as a tremendously able young man. She approves of all of his cabinet choices although she fears the appointment of his brother Robert might rise up to smite him.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

"Although Robert Kennedy has proved his ability," she said, "there will always be someone who will criticize. When I was made head of Civilian Defense, after having had that post only two months, I was required to turn it over to Jim Landis because of the criticism I, as the President's wife, received.

Talking of children, I asked Mrs. Roosevelt whether she thought mothers should ever interfer with or advise their grown offspring.

"Not unless you're asked," she answered. But an instant later, her eyes averted, she said slowly:

"Perhaps I should not have taken the aloof attitude I did with my children. But I had been interfered with and advised so much during my own childhood and young womanhood, I probably bent backwards to avoid doing the same to my children."

To my query as to whether she had heard it said that years from now she will be the woman most remembered from this era, she replied, suddenly brusque:

"Who cares what happens in a hundred years?"

As the hour neared, she seemed to grow increasingly tired, across her face flitting the look of a woman who would be grateful to be allowed to rest. But, because she is a legend in her own lifetime, she must continue proving she is always alert, is an indefatigable traveler, has unlimited energy.

I stood up to leave. As Mrs. Roosevelt went to the hall closet to get my coat, her maid announced another visitor, his name a brisk young man with a portfolio. So I bade Mrs. Roosevelt goodby.

Standing properly may do more for your looks than you would dream possible. No one admires a slouch that makes you bulge in the wrong places. Stand with your back flattened and hips tucked under.

Mrs. Roberts To Serve As Prexy Of dePaul Parish

Mrs. David C. Roberts was elected president of the Altar Society of St. Vincent dePaul Church at a meeting conducted by the retiring president, Mrs. S. W. Kretzmeier, Tuesday in the school cafeteria.

Other officers named include Mmes. Kenneth Cummings, vice president; Charles Walsh, secretary; W. P. Mast, treasurer, and Joe Di Cosmo, parliamentarian. The new officers will assume their duties starting with the May meeting.

Mrs. Carl Williams announced that Mrs. Olan Aemmisger is moving from Pampa and the group voted to present her with a rosary spiritual bouquet for the excellent work she has done with the Catholic Charities Committee while in the parish.

A report on the recent Deanery meeting held in Pampa was given by Mrs. Williams.

Even though we seem to be a sitting - down nation when it comes to exercise, women still have aching feet. One reason is improperly fitted shoes or wrong shoes for the occasion. Foot exercises will help strengthen foot muscles and also ease tensions of the day. One good one is to stand barefoot on a towel and pleat the towel with your toes. This is good for the arches.

Pampa Deanery Delegates Told That "Homes Basis Of Society, Nation"

Most Rev. John L. Morkovsky, Bishop of Amarillo's Catholic Diocese, was the luncheon speaker for the Pampa Deanery of Catholic Women on Thursday noon at a Spring meeting held in the Coronado Inn.

"The home is the basis of society, the nation, the world," the Bishop told the 150 ladies attending. "It is the home which is being so greatly tested today. Will we as Christian nation, as Christian homes, truly be Christ -bearers? Do we truly deserve the title of Christians? Not unless we take up the Cross and become Christ-like, Christ-bearers, lay apostolates, to practice His examples and spread His teachings."

The Bishop urged the ladies to pay more strict attention to their "personal spiritual development and to the spiritual development of the members of your families. Encourage your men - folk to attend the diocesan Holy Name convention, which will be the weekend of April 28 in Amarillo."

He announced the dates of the "closed retreat" for the women of the diocese as April 28-30 and June 18-21 in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Mrs. Raymond Laycock, credentials chairman, registered 11 priests in attendance with 34 delegates and 66 guests for the morning session; 95 guests for the afternoon session.

Mrs. Fred Hedinger and Mrs. E. J. Dunigan presided at the refreshment table serving coffee and hot breakfast rolls during the registration hour.

The message of the president of DCCW was given by Mrs. Walter Kale of Borger, in the absence of Mrs J. E. Healy. "Many times," Mrs. Kale said, "delegates have a thankless task to do, but ladies, unless you listen and absorb what you hear and see, then take it back to your organization, unless you do this, you waste your time."

Mrs. Jim Wolf, outgoing president of the deanery, conducted the installation ceremony of new officers, which included Mmes. Richard Falkenstein of Pampa, president; Mrs. Bob Babcock of Groom, vice president; Mrs. E.B. Polson of Pampa, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Charles Warminski of White Deer, parliamentarian, and Miss Cecilia O'Gorman of Shamrock, historian.

Following an invitation from Groom delegates, it is planned to hold the 1962 Spring meeting in Groom.

Sensitivity Key To Development Of Finer Art Of Living: TCC Speaker

"A falling leaf; a clock ticking in the silence of the night; a tree silhouetted against the darkening sky, these things are beautiful," Mrs. Frank M. Carter said in discussing "Developing Fine Art" at the Twentieth Century Cotillion Club meeting held recently in the home of Mrs. Malcolm Douglass.

Mrs. Carter pointed out that the difference between laymen and artists is that artists are able to receive and then record this beauty around them. "They are sensitive," she said. "Sensitivity is probably the most important factor contributing to inspirational training in the fine arts and in the fine art of living."

"Though we may not have the hands of artists," she said, "we can develop the hearts of artists by being senitive. Senitivity enables one to become more aware of life, friends, moods, families needs, wants and beauty in ordinary events and ordinary people."

"Appreciatio nis another important factor contributing to our inspirational training," Mrs. Carter continued. "We can understand something beautiful, a painting music or poetry. But what about the completely ridiculous painting or the unharmonious music? The least we can do is appreciate the effort and time put into a work of art. It must take a lot of courage to subject one's work to the critical eyes of the public. Surely this courage deserves our appreciation.

Whether we are trying to understand a painting or a composition, or our own friends and family, the only real understanding comes by getting inside the other person's heart and looking out through his eyes," she concluded.

Member attending were Mmes W. B. Adair, Alvin Agan, Gene Barber, Thelma Bray, Jim Campbell, Frank M. Carter, Harbord Cox, Malcolm Doulgass, James Gallemore, Jim E. Hess, Ralph McKinney, W. D. Price Jr., Jack White, Lee Fraser, Dale Thut, Bob Williams, Gene Imel and Betty Brown.

Dear Abby...

Husband Should Figure Again!

DEAR ABBY: My husband had not been acting like himself for about six months. I finally got it out of him. He said it all started when he gave his bookkeeper a few kisses occasionally because he couldn't afford to give her a raise. He says now she isn't satisfied with kisses, and keeps pestering him to meet her somewhere after work. He swears he doesn't want to get involved with her, but he can't let her go because she is the best bookkeeper he has ever had, and he couldn't run the business without her.

I told my husband I would forgive him for the past, but I wouldn't tolerate anything he does in the future. He promised to give her the cold shoulder. Do you think I should insist that he fire her?

MOTHER OF THREE

DEAR MOTHER: It is pretty hard to give a girl the "cold shoulder" after she's been given the hot lips. Your husband should get another bookkeeper. What does it profit a man to keep his business in the black when his marriage is in the red?

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your advice that men who work around machinery should not wear a ring because it could catch in the machinery and they could lose a finger. How about a ring that is so tight I can't get it off?

WORKS AROUND MACHINERY

DEAR WORKS: Better to have the ring cut off now than after you lose your finger.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to have your help, or the help of someone who has had to face this problem, because I don't know what to do. My children are 14, 12, and 11. Their father has been in prison for nine years. He was sentenced to serve for a life term, so I don't think he will ever be a free man.

We are now living in a different state, but there is always a chance of someone telling the children about their father. Of course I would rather they never be told. (They think he is sick in a hospital far away.) Do you think they are old enough to know? Or should I keep silent?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: Your chances of keeping the whereabouts of their father a secret for long are very small. Tell them. The news, coming from you, will be less of a blow.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MADE A BET": You lose. I do not smoke . . and never have.

Yes, Abby will answer your letter personally if you write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Reports On Castro's Plant Power Declared Basis For Questions

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The present humiliation of the United States may spark some smart politician to ask a sharp question and to press for an answer. The question would be:

"How did that fellow Castro grab Cuba in the first place?"

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., was almost on the target in the early days of January when he demanded a first class fumigation and house-cleaning of the State Department.

Smathers demanded that the department be cleansed of all officials who used bad judgment in making policies which determined U.S. relations with Fidel Castro.

As the Truman administration was accused of losing China, so the Eisenhower administration was being accused of losing Cuba. The senator was not effective. Nothing happened. Smathers should have been more specific. For example:

Any well informed U.S. senator should know that U.S. intelligence agencies had Castro's number before his entry into Havana. Some years before that, our agents knew the Beard was in cahoots with Communists. Any senator not so informed should inform himself.

A senator could accomplish that by telephone calls to the FBI and to the Central Intelligence Agency. The next step (are you listening, Sen. Smathers?) would be to learn what the FBI did with its information on Castro's Commie connections.

The inquiring senator would learn, your correspondent believes, that intelligence reports on Castro's Communist sympathies had been submitted in detail to the White House, the State Department and the Pentagon. The senator with questions to ask then should ask this one:

"Did the President and top officials know about these intelligence reports or were the reports diverted, suppressed?"

The answers to that double track question would be interesting. If the reports were submitted and neither Eisenhower nor his top aides ever received them, who did get them? And why were they diverted from the top men? If they were diverted, then by whom? These are fair questions and they should be answered. Answered? These questions have not even been asked. (How about it, Sen. Smathers?)

The word in Washington is that Intelligence reports on Castro's Communist orientation were submitted regularly for the guidance of administration policy makers.

The word is not so clear as to who actually received the reports. There is some evidence, however, that these reports never reached the top where the decision was made to encourage Castro and then recognize him on his entry into Havana.

It is reasonable to suspect, if not outrightly to believe, that understrappers in government cut off the secretary of state, the President and perhaps the secretary of defense from information vital to them in judging Castro.

Somebody in Congress should have the gumption to find out about that. If it happened, the guy probably still is in Washington somewhere with a desk, a title, and a salary from the taxpayers—ready, willing and able to do it again.

where to help put down the rebellion "by all means —I say by all means."

Premier Michel Debre repeated this order when he announced suddenly Sunday night the government had received word that the Algerian rebels were about to launch the paratroop invasion of France.

He said it would be concentrated on the airfields and particularly in the Paris area.

"As soon as the sirens sound, go there —on foot or in cars — to cinvince these misled soldiers of their grave errors," he appealed to the people.

A French news agency reported at one point that the planes actually were on their way from Algeria but just before dawn Minister of Culture Andre Malraux announced the danger was over, at least for the moment.

He said the govern.ent had intercepted a message from one of the insurgent generals, Maurice Challe, indicating the rebels had not sent any planes.

After the invasion scare ended, Orly, Lee Bourget and Bale Mulhouse fields were reopened but a government spokesman said they might be shut down again without warning.

De Gaulle was up all night with his top military and civilian advisers at Elyse Palace. The palace was surrounded by 2,000 loyal troops and a half dozen tanks.

The Interior Ministry across the street was turned into an arsenal.

Despite De Gaulle's lack of troop force, there was little doubt he had the overwhelming support of the people, who approved his Algerian policies by a 75 per cent vote in a referendum last January.

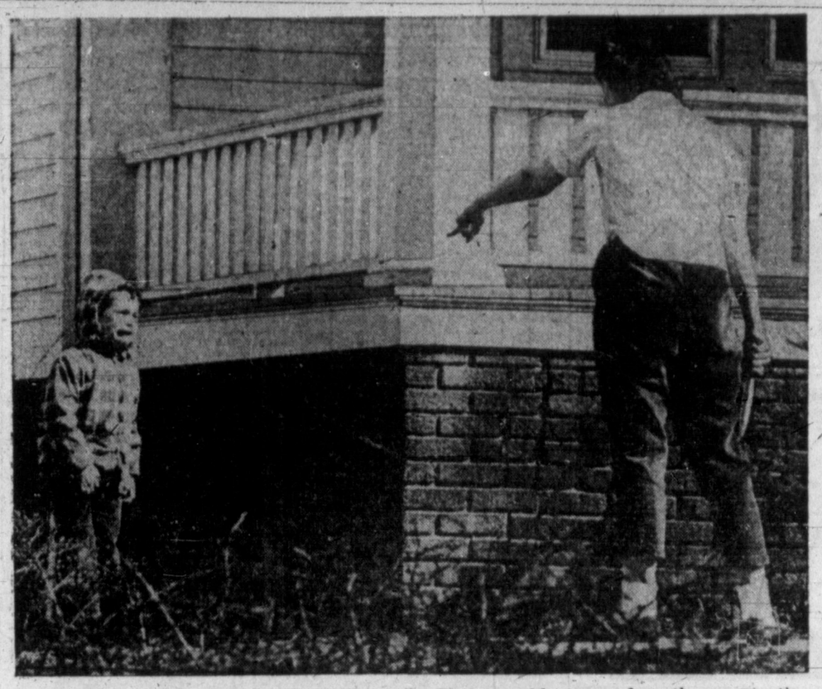

All four trade unions — including Communist and Catholic leaders — proclaimed support for him in the Algerian crisis. They called a one-hour strike for this evening as a demonstration of their solidarity.

De Gaulle also appeared to have just about unanimous backin from other nations around the world.

Crash Of Autos Causes $150 Loss

Estimated damage of $150 was caused yesterday afternoon in an automobile collision at Hamilton St. and 22nd Ave.

Police reports show that cars driven by Frances Vanhooser, 2124 N. Wells, and Sharon Haught, 1900 N. Wells, collided at the intersection. No one was injured.

● Mexican

30,000 barrels a day, the Interior Department has decided the entire import program is threatened.

Texas oil poducers now are limited to eight days of production a month. They look with disfavor on any import program — legal, illegal or extra legal — that cuts into their production.

On the other hand, the port of Brownsville serves a wide area of northeastern Mexico. If the Mexicans built their own port at Matamoros, this port business would be lost to Brownsville.

Likewise, if Mexico built a pipeline from Tampico to the border, it would undoubtedly carry more than 30,000 barrels a day, which would further add to the problems of the domestic producers.

In addition, the Mexican oil is refined in Brownsville. If such imports were eliminated, the refinery probably would close.

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall warned last week that unless the high level of Mexican imports were reduced, his department would take action. He added, however, that he hoped a satisfactory agreement could be reached with Mexico.

Britain, Russia Reach An Agreement On Laos

LONDON (UPI) — Britain and Russia have reached agreement on a three - phase Laos peace settlement and will call or a cease - fire today, authoritative sources reported.

An official announcement is expected to be made in the House of Commons this afternoon.

The sources said three documents will be released by midnight (5 p.m. CST) which will be 9 a. m. Tuesday in Laos.

The documents will include: Text of an appeal by Russia and Britain for a cease-fire addressed to the warring factions in Laos; text of a letter to Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru to convoke the supervisory commission; invitations to the Laos peace conference in Geneva to the nine countries who participated in the 1954 Indochina conference, the three nations of the supervisory commission and Thailand and Burma.

A dispatch from New Delhi said Britain and Russia had asked Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India to reconvene the three-power international supervisory commission for Laos at once. The three nations—Poland, India and Canada—would police the cease-fire.

The New Delhi reports also said that a 14-nation conference on Laos has been set or May 12 in Geneva.

The agreement was worked out in Moscow after weeks of consultations between Britain and Russia acting in their capacity as co-chairmen of the 1954 Indochina conference in Geneva.

Basis of the agreement is a three-stage British plan backed by the United States.

A Western condition is that a peace conference on Laos be conditional on a cease-fire being effectively established and verified by the supervisory commission.

Ex - Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma and Prince Souphannavong, leaders of the neutralist and Communist factions in Laos, fire during their recent visits to publicly agreed to a cease - fire duri[illegible] their recent visits to Moscow. Pro-Western Premier Prince Boun Oum also has indicated his willingness to end the fighting.

Phyllis Flowers and Linda Guill took first place honors as a spelling team and Nancy Meacham placed second in poetry reading.

In the elementery school Donna Glass and Teresa Mertel placed first in the spelling team competition; Linda Tindall won first in declamation and Vernon Hawkins won second in number sense.

Other McLean students competing brought home five fourth place and one fifth place.

ROCKET TEST FAILS

TOKYO (UPI) — A Japanese rocket engine, which is expected to be used to hurl Japan's first satellite into orbit in 1965, failed its first test Sunday. The first stage of the planned three-staged rocket ran for only about 10 seconds after it was started in its first experimental, test on land.

Miscalculations In Cuban Revolt Failure Studied

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower strongly recommended to President Kennedy before the inauguration that the United Staes allow plans for the ill-fated Cuban invasion to go ahead, authoritative sources said Saturday.

At the same time, officials trying to evaluate this country's intelligence miscalculation of Cuban military power revealed that 13 or more Soviet ships were apparently in Havana Harbor unloading arms the week before the assault.

Sources which described Eisenhower's endorsement of the assault said they did not want to place any blame but merely wanted to set the record straight.

They said that former Vice President Richard Nixon also backed the plan and so did the joint chiefs of staff under Eisenhower.

At one point the assault was scheduled to take place last fall, but rebels could not get organized in time, they said.

Sources said U. S. intelligence badly misjudged both Castro's military power and his degree of police-state control over his people which prevented a local uprising.

They said the entire procedure of intelligence, decision making, military appraisal, and diplomatic machinery involved in the incident are under major review.

High sources made clear Kennedy has no plans to take any action against Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen Dulles and has confidence in him.

But possible reorganizations of government machinery were known to have been discussed at a National Security Council meeting here Saturday.

Sources said Eisenhower and Kennedy discussed the proposed Cuban invasion at one of their pre-inaugural meetings.

They would not discuss on what timetable Eisenhower recommended the plan—that is whether he thought the timing was right.

Sources said one of the major military miscalculations was in not knowing the number of planes Castro had in operation. Reports that he had Soviet Migs in operation have not been verified in the opinion of top officials, but it is known he had more propeller planes than anyone had known.

TEXAS WOMAN KILLED

TRENTON, N. J. (UPI)—A 54-year-old Texas woman was killed Sunday when she apparently pulled her car into the path of a tractor trailer after changing a tire on the New Jersey turnpike in nearby Hamilton Township. Mrs. Bessie F. Nathan of 5038 Brookview Dr., Dallas, was pronounced dead on arrival at Trenton Hospital.

Geographic Society Finds Space Flier Flew 'Backward' In Time

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Back yonder when Einstein first propounded the theory of relativity, some minor poet of waggish temperament attempted to capture its essence in a limerick.

As I recall it, the poetic interpretation of the Einstein theory went something like this:

"There once was a young man named Wright,

"Who could travel much faster than light.

"He took off one day

"In a relative way

"And returned the previous night."

I was reminded of this lampoon of the time-and-distance paradox as I was reading a thesis prepared by the National Geographic Society on the recent Russian space flight.

The Geographic Society has got it figured out that Maj. Yuri Gagarin's epic ride across the firmament compressed 25 hours into 89 minutes, as time is measured here on Earth.

At one point, relatively speaking, Gagarin actually was going backward into time. Either that, or he got ahead of time. I can't figure out which.

At any rate, he came disturbingly close to making a prophet out of that limerick writer. You wil see what I mean when you examine the astronaut's time schedule as worked out by one of the society's cartographic engineers.

Gagarin blasted off from a base in the Black Sea area at 9:07 A.M. on a Wednesday. The Soviet Union operates on daylight time, so this presumably was 8:07 standard time.

He soared into space above the Pacific and crossed the international date line northwest of Hawaii, where it was 5:30 p.m.

"Now," says the Geographic, "He was back on Tuesday, the day before he took off."

WARREN SPAHN
...40 years young

Spahn Celebrates 40th Birthday With 3-1 Victory

Phils Blank Cubs Twice, Dodgers Retain Grip On NL

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Art Mahaffey and Jim Donohue have good reasons to celebrate today but even those sturdy, 22-year old right-handers must stand in line for a slice of 40-year-old Warren Spahn's birthday cake.

For, as even Spahn himself might say, "They're a couple good young 'uns, all right, but time will tell."

Mahaffey gave the down-trodden Philadelphia Phillies something to shout about when he came within one strikeout of the all-time major league single game record by fanning 17 batters in the nightcap of a 1-0 and 6-0 sweep of the Chicago Cubs Sunday while Donohue fanned the Detroit Tigers' early-season pennant hopes by relieving in both games of their 3-2 and 3-1 victories over the Los Angeles Angels.

Old man Spahn, meanwhile, ticked off April 23, 1961, on the calendar — his 40th birthday — with a classy seven-hitter that earned the Milwaukee Braves a 3-1 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates and Spahn the 289th victory of his career. He needs 11 more wins to become the sixth pitcher in modern history to win 300 games during his career.

The Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Cincinnati Reds, 5-1, to hold a half-game grip on first place and the St. Louis Cardinals scored five runs in the ninth inning to score a 7-4 decision after losing the first game of their doubleheader to the San Francisco Giants, 2-1, in Sunday's other National League action.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles beat the New York Yankees, 4-1, the Minnesota Twins edged out the Washington Senators, 1-0, the Cleveland Indians out-scrambled the Kansas City Athletics, 10-8, an dthe Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox divided a pair, the Red Sox winning the opener, 4-3, and the White Sox taking the nightcap, 7-1.

Mahaffey, a 6-1, 200-pounder from Cincinnati who had a 7-3 record and 2.32 earned run average for the Phillies in 1960, missed by one strikeout equalling the major league record shared by Bob Feller and Sandy Koufax. He fanned five Cubs in a row in the first and second innings and struckout the side in the second and sixth. He fanned Ernie Banks, Ron Santo, Frank Thomas and Don Zimmer three times each.

The Phillies, who gave ex-Red Sox pitcher Frank Sullivan the only run he needed when Bobby Gene Smith homered in the ninth inning of the first game, backed Mahaffey with a seven-hit attack featured by Johnny Callison's three-run fifth-inning homer. It was a big day indeed for the Phillies but they started and ended it in the same place — last place.

Pampa Awaits Streaking Palo Duro

Pack Slims In PCC Tee Tournament

A field of four, including last year's champion and the runner-up, moved into the semifinal round of the annual Pampa Country Club's Men's golf tournament yestereday afternoon at PCC with impressive victories.

Dr. Foster Elder, the 1960 champion, defeated Jim Deaton, 1-up yesterday to move into the semi-finals against Tommy Adkins, who downed Grover Heiskue, 3-2 yesterday also.

In the opposite bracket, Max Hickey, last year's finalist who was defeated by Dr. Elder, moved past Johnny Hatcher, 4-3, and will meet Brian Prigmore — 1-up victor over Buster Carter — in this week's play for the right to move into the finals on Sunday.

In other play yesterday, L. L. Garren moved into the finals of the first flight with a 2-1 win over Ralph McKinney and Dr. Frank Kelly advanced to the second flight championship finals with a 1-up win over Gene Groom.

Jack Thorpe, PCC manager, defeated T. Buck Hines yesterday to move into the finals in the fourth flight while Jerry Boston and Jeff Truly advanced into the championship finals in the fifth flight with wins yesterday, Boston downing John Hatcher Sr., 4-3, and Truly topping Delmar Jones, 4-2.

In the only other championship match yesterday, Dallas Bowsher defeated Roy B. Webb, 1-up in the sixth flight to gain a finalist position.

Semifinal rounds in the championship flight must be played by Saturday, Grover Heiskell, tournament chairman reminded today, and all finals must be unreeled before Sunday night. Other flight participants have until Sunday to complete the championship portions of play.

Pony Star Sets Mark

ODESSA, Tex (UPI) — Andrews High School's Ted Nelson broke the national schoolboy 440-yard record of 46.5 seconds Saturday, but he had to get a little hot under the collar to do it.

"If I hadn't been mad, I wouldn't have done it," the husky youngster said.

His feat around two turns bested the previously - recognized mark of 46.6 seconds set by Dave Mills of Lakewood, Ohio High, in 1958.

Nelson was mad because he blamed himself for his team's disqualification earlier in the regional meet in the 440 - yard relay when he ran up on the No. 2 man in the relay and forced him to drop the baton. It was the first time an Andrews team had ever suffered such a fate.

Johnson Sets Defense Of Light-Heavy Title

PHILADELPHIA(UPI) — Harold Johnson, a new champion with an old hunger, defends his National Boxing Association light-heavyweight title tonight against Von Clay, a fellow Philadelphian with a big punch.

The 3-1 odds favoring Johnson reflect his confidence that the 21-year-old Clay will be his 65th victime in a 73 bout career. Why else would the champion, who has fought through 16 lean years, risk a bread-and-butter title just two short months after winning it?

Johnson captured the NBA version of the 175-pound title by whipping Jesse Bowdry at Miami Beach in February after the NBA had stripped Archie Moore of the crown for failing to defend in 18 months. However, Moore is still recognized as champion in New York, Massachusetts and Europe.

Clay, making a bid for the 175-pound crown in his 19th professional bout, is billed as the devastating puncher in the no-TV, 15-rounder expected to attract a crowd of several thousand at the cramped Arena.

Harvesters Wind Up Home Season Action

Pampa's Harvesters hope to end two opposite streaks at 4 p.m. tomorrow when Amarillo Palo Duro, currently one of the hottest teams in the conference, comes to Harvester Park for a District 3-4A battle that will conclude Pampa's home schedule for the year.

The Harvesters will be seeking a victory to break out of a slump that has seen them lose seven of their last eight —including three in a row over the weekend to Lubbock and Monterey—while a win over the Dons would stop a four-game winning streak by the Amarillo school.

Coach Deck Woldt has nominated sophomore Jerry Glover (2-4) as his starting pitcher tomorrow while Don Coach Bubba Hillman probably will go with Steve Carter, the all-state basketball player turned hurler.

The Harvesters are tied with Plainview for seventh place in 3-4A play with 3-8 district marks, two games behind the Dons who have won their last four games and now stand 4-6 for the year.

Palo Duro, which started off last week by dumping Borger 4-3 and thus ruining the Bulldogs chande for a district title, capped off its string Saturday with a 6-5 win over Amarillo Tascosa and could be the most improved ball club in the 3-4A race this year.

The Harvesters fell to Lubbock 3-0, on Friday and then were belted twice by Monterey, 8-5, and 5-1, on Saturday to drive them closer to their predicted cellar finish.

In the first meeting between tomorrow's opponents, Pampa pulled out a 3-1 victory as Glover and Mike Clark combined to throw a three-hitter and Roy Don Stephens poled a home run to star for the Harvesters.

Pampa has tentatively scheduled a makeup game with Tascosa in Amarillo Wednesday and concludes its 1961 season Friday in Borger against the Bulldogs, who lost three games last week to fall from contention.

Venturi, Hebert Meet In Classic Tourney Playoff

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Slender Jay Herbert, so far behind the leader on the 13th hole he was pulling for Tommy Bolt to win, birdied three of the last five holes Sunday to erase a five-stroke lead and tie Ken Venturi, forcing the $40,000 Houston Classic golf turney into a playoff.

The playoff—the third straight for this spring classic—will be played over 18 holes today beginning at 2 p.m. EST. The winner will take home $7,000 and the loser will sack $3,600 second place money.

Some 20,000 spectators swarmed the course on a sunny, windy day to see Hebert melt Venturi's almost invincible lead.

Venturi, of Palo Alto, Calif., sailed into the 14th hole with an accumulative six-under-par card. Hebert of Lafayette, La., was one under at that point.

Then Venturi, a smooth-swinging golf stylist who learned how to play golf from Byron Nelson, lost two strokes to bogeys when his usually accurate iron shots failed.

Hebert, who said he was pulling for Bolt because Tommy was only three strokes behind Venturi, began to wax hot.

The former Louisiana State golf star capped his comeback by canning a 25-foot birdie put on 18 to give him a 67 for the day and a 276 total.

Venturi faced a 30-foot putt on the final green for the Houston plum, but pushed it two feet past for a two-under-par 68 and 276.

Bolt, former Houston swinger now playing out of Crystal River, Fla., turned in an even par 70 for a 278 total and third place, good for $2,500.

Lionel Hebert, Jay's brother, took fourth with 279. Strongman Arnold Palmer, Master's champion Gary Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, and Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, came in with 283 each—good for a 10th place tie.

SEEKS THIRD STRAIGHT

DARLINGTON, S.C. (UPI) — Fireball Roberts will bid for his third Rebel 300 convertible classic at Darlington Speedway on May 6. Roberts won the inaugural in 1957 and repeated in 1959.

After Dropping First Set

Bartzen Roars Back To Cop Dallas Play

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, a tough defensive player, roared back after a bad start Sunday to slam fellow Dallasite Ham Richardson, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-0 to win the singles crown of the Dallas Country Club Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Richardson, a former Davis Cup star who now plays mostly on weekends, won the first set with ease. But Bartzen stuck to his determined defensive style and Richardson's errors spelled his defeat.

Bartzen was awarded a replica of the Country Club's three - year perpetual Challenge Bowl, which he can keep if he wins it two more times.

In the doubles, Rod Laver of Australia and Luis Ayala of Chile tripped Australians Roy Emerson and Neale Fraser, 10-8, 6-3 in a crowd - pleaser.

A stiff wind of 25 miles per hour hampered both players. "The wind made it tough to play real good defensive tennis," Bartzen said.

Bartzen, fourth - seeded in the tournament and No. 1 U.S. amateur player, seemed satisfied with his victory.

"Basically, I just played my game and counter - punched," Bartzen said. "Ham just played too well for me in the first set but you can't play that well forever."

Sox Pace TL Chase

By United Press International

The Texas League pennant chase is getting tighter than Dick's hat band and one reason why is that each team boasts good pitching.

Take Sunday's results for an example. Pace - setting Amarillo rode the stingy seven-hit pitching of big Pete Mikkelsen to a 5-3 victory over fifth - place Victoria.

The Gold Sox had to have a clutch pitching job because second - place Austin came up with some ace hurling of its own. Leslie Bass survived a shaky first inning in which he yielded three runs to cut down the Valley, 5-4. The victory enabled the Senators to stay one-half a game behind the leaders.

Third - place San Antonio and fourth - place Tulsa split a twin-bill which featured tight twirling. The Missions took the opener, 6-2, on a stout seven-hit effort by lefty Morris Steevens. Tulsa bounced back for the nightcap behind little Paul Toth, who fired a five-hitter at the Missions to win, 4-3. The split left San Antonio one-half game behind Austin. The Oilers stand one game in back of the Missions.

Battle Of The States

Thirty-five of the 50 state governorships will be up for grabs next year in a free-for-all that could affect the political balance of power for some years to come.

On the block will be the statehouses in five of the country's six most populous states — New York, California, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Texas. Illinois is the lone exception in 1962.

Texas, is, of course presumed safely Democratic. But all the others shape up as tremendous battlegrounds.

Among those expected to be risking their skins are Governors Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Edmund Brown of California, David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, Michael DiSalle of Ohio. Rockefeller is the only Republican.

Democrats today hold 34 of the 50 states. Republicans have a shot at New Jersey this year and conceivably could break into any of the 14 Democratic states among the 35 up next year.

A major GOP break through in 1962, especially if it encompassed several of the bigger states, could vastly widen the party's operating base for the presidential fight two years later.

The GOP's intraparty competition for the presidency also would be materially altered by the geographic distribution of any 1962 governorship victories.

For example, if New Jersey should go Republican this year, Rockefeller win re-election in New York and Republicans capture Ohio, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts (now GOP), Michigan and Connecticut, a powerful new segment of party strength would be created. Insofar as eastern leaders might bulk large in such a lineup, the party balance might swing away from the strong conservatism which seems to mark party representation in Congress and among many of the presently held 16 governorships.

Most party men agree that it was Dwight Eisenhower's big edge among the 25 GOP governors in 1952 that weighed heavily for him in that year's national convention.

The leaders feel they need broader statehouse control to enhance Republican presidential chances in 1964. Yet they acknowledge that when that wider base exists it is as much an offeset as a supplement to their congressional strength, and tends to favor the nomination of a more liberal candidate.

The Democrats' approach to 1962 is simpler but not necessarily easier. They must hold what they have, for the most part, in order to nourish the political structure they count on to achieve the re-election of President Kennedy.

They won't be giving anything away, and they will enjoy the advantage of offering incumbent governors in several key states. They understand as well as their opponents what is at stake in 1962.

Supporting Ghost Towns

After the "silver fever" died away at the end of the last century, Silver City, Nev., became a ghost town. So did a lot of other mining towns that enjoyed fabulous prosperity from the 1860's on. The residents of those towns found a solution to their economic problems, however. They simply moved to other communities and obtained other work.

But if the Kennedy depressed area bill had been in effect in those days, Silver City would have been so classified and would have been eligible for part of the $400 million loan - subsidy plan. The plan, of course, would have been to give employment to Silver City miners who were out of work. Other growing cities in the nation would have been strapped down in order to keep the mining towns alive. Fortunately for the development of this great nation, Congress and the President in those days were not so foolish to attempt any such silly experiment. They believed in independence and self-reliance. They knew a free economy had to follow its own pattern of growth.

Not so today, however. The Kennedy administration does not believe that people should move to where jobs exist. Instead, it prefers to take from one prosperous community to keep a declining city going. It wants to buttress non-progressive areas at the expense of forward - looking, enterprising communities that are fast on their way to becoming Sleepy Hollows.

For all that the Kennedy administration refers to itself as the voice of the New Frontier, it is determined to stay within old frontiers. It wants to perpetuate outmoded and defunct economic patterns.

In New England, for example, there are many dying towns. Once these towns were centers of the textile and other industries. In grim factories the immigrant labor from Europe manufactured goods sold throughout the United States. Today, however, the textile industry is largely located in the southern states. Modern, attractive mills built in recent years offer workers better surroundings and mill owners more profitable operation. The new efficiency is vitally needed, for there is the continuing threat of imports from the Orient. These new mills, and other industrial operations as well, have contributed to the progress of the southern states. Together, these states are making a healthy contribution to the total economy of the United States.

Obviously, a progressive administration would use its energies to build up the new, busy communities and to encourage New Englanders, if they are unable to revitalize their own communities, to move south where better opportunities exist in the years ahead. Instead, the Kennedy forces want to pump more and more money into stricken industrial centers. They want to spend the national income giving blood transfusions to out-worn industrial bodies instead of helping advance the interests of areas that, on their own initiative, are creating jobs and income.

To make the prosperous pay for attempts at economic revival in areas where, among other things, labor union restrictions and work rules thwart new development is a cruel penalty.

How long will the American people support the Silver Cities of today? Once they learn the cost, as written into their income taxes, they are likely to decide that subsidizing communities on their way to becoming ghost towns is not proper business for the government of the United States—a government that should be for self-reliant as well as for dependent citizens. That is, assuming American taxpayers have any spunk left!

The Doctor Says:

DR. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Most of us have family Bibles in which we record births, weddings and deaths. Why can't we keep a similar record of health — the name, date and nature of every immunization given to each member of the family?

Harvard University Medical School runs a clinic at which immunization is offered for little or no fee. Hundreds of parents bring their children there for protection.

Recently, medical students under faculty direction began to survey the parents who brought their children in for immunization against smallpox, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and poliomyelitis. Each parent was asked: "Have you been immunized against this disease? Do you have a record?

The shocking result of the survey was that one-fourth did not know whether they had ever been immunized. Slightly less than two-fifths had never been immunized for diphtheria, whooping cough or tetanus (lock jaw) and more than one had not taken advantage of polio vaccine.

Stated in positive terms, only a small minority had profited by the opportunities for health protection offered by the clinic. And if this is the immunization status of parents living in close proximity to a medical center such as Boston, one shudders to think what the results might be in rural areas where protection is less readily obtained.

Now what are the explanations for this self-neglect on the part of parents including those whose failure in immunization led them to get protection for their children?

For one thing, it is the erroneous impression that certain diseases, especially whooping cough and poliomyelitis, are "children's diseases." To be sure more children than adults are afflicted with these infections. But that's only because most adults suffered the disease in childhood, recovered and developed a natural immunity.

What they seem to forget is that this immunity is not transferable from one adult to another. In other words, the adult who did not develop an immunity as the result of a childhood attack of the disease is just every bit as susceptible as an unprotected youngster.

A second cause for this neglect is the false notion that artificially acquired immunity produced by protective injections, is lifelong. Thus, many of us who had shots in childhood or in the armed services settle back in the secure belief that we're untouchables. But this is not so, especially in the case of tetanus, to which so many farmers, laborers, motorists and even amateur gardeners are occupationally exposed. Booster shots are needed periodically to assure a sufficiently high degree of protection in the case of wound contamination, especially of a penetrating type.

Finally, for present purposes, we don't keep proper records of health protection. And this is especially regrettable at a time when so many "white-collar" employes are shifting jobs.

I wish I could persuade readers to keep an immunization family record. I do not exaggerate when I state that such information might well be of vital importance at some future time.

Christian Leadership Embracing Socialism

Why are the Communists winning the "cold war"? Because a considerable part of Christian leadership has embraced socialist ideology. This has long been true in Europe, and to a lesser degree in our own country; but it is now openly confessed by American churchmen occupying high positions.

The United Church Herald, February 9, carries a startling statement by Dr. Nells F. S. Ferre, Abbot Professor of Christian Theology, Andover Newton Theological School. Dr. Ferre says that his "...hope and goal, is that the Christian forces dissociate themselves from capitalist ideology and strike out confidently for a social, economic and political order that envisages true democracy and that makes world peace its immediate goal."

Thus he repudiates capitalism and takes his stand for socialism.

The Communists are winning the "cold war" because so large a part of the leadership in Christian, educational, cultural, and commercial circles has lost confidence in a society which emphasizes individualism, self - reliance, private ownership of property, incentive, reward for effort, and profit, and is steadily pursuing Marxian ideals.

We have crumbled from within. No wonder Khrushchev gleefully declares that war is not necessary to usher in a socialist world. Both in Russia and in the satellite countries I have heard high Communist officials with complacent self-assurance tell me that we have already gone so far toward socialism that there is no turning back, that they will not have to prod us, but only to wait a few years until we voluntarily come into their camp.

The tragedy is that free people are renouncing their freedom, and accepting socialism. They hope to avoid the cruelty that is so dominant in the socialist countries, but their hope is in vain. In the beginning, the socialism which they seek will be mild and administered by kindly, generous, well-intentioned officials. In the end, they will have to use coercion, curelty, the secret police and the jails to force the people to accept their planned economy.

Not only will freedom disappear, but the standard of living will decline. Men and women will be degraded. They will tend to lose their dignity, responsibility and moral ideals and to become submissive creatures, looking to he state for direction, education, jobs, wages, relief, pensions, medical care, perquisites and hand-outs of all kinds.

It is incomprehensible to us why intelligent people prefer socialism to the type of Christian civilization which has grown up in the Western countries and which had made a promising beginning toward conferring the same blessings upon other peoples in all countries. Why should this be surrendered for socialism? Only the socialist countries have ever had to erect barbed-wire barriers, employ police dogs, mine no-man's lands, build control towers containing machine gun operators, and use every known savagery to prevent the people of their unhappy lands from going elsewhere. Even so, and in spite of these obstacles, tens of thousands of tormented men and women manage to escape from Communist lands every month.

Why should we transform our wonderful and beautiful country, with all the priceless privileges which we have enjoyed for generations, into a police state, such as that which exists in all countries that have embraced Marxism?

We think it cannot happen here, but it will just as it has in Cuba. We thought it would never penetrate the Western hemisphere, but it has, and it has done so because of the help given by our own country.

And the sad part of it all is that this is not being forced upon us, but we are voluntarily accepting it.

It's Hard To Cut Down—

Allen - Scott Report:

Justice Dept. Getting Big File on Waste, Fraud In Defense Procurement from General Accounting

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON, D.C., — The General Accounting Office is turning over to the Justice Department an astonishingly thick file of facts on waste and fraud in defense procurement.

The report of the GAO, Congress's auditing arm, involves more than 50 cases and will be used to support a series of Justice and Defense Department actions, including:

(1) Government lawsuits, aimed at recovery of overpayments;

(2) Increased renegotiation of defense contracts, to recapture excessive profits;

(3) Increased use of competitive bidding in place of contract negotiation; and

(4) Streamlining of Pentagon procurement agencies.

The cases range the gamut of defense buying from space hardware to underground launching pads. Blame for overcharges fall two ways: On contractors themselves, for overstating their costs or ballooning their prices, and on government agents, for ineptness and carelessness in signing up and paying contractors or in managing their supply needs.

Among the more spectacular cases reported in the file are: A negotiated contract for aircraft engines with a price of $58,985,320, found too high by $1,480,000; A Navy contract based on costs to tally unrelated to the work, leading to an overpayment of $2,596,000, and an outlay of $2,105,640 to buy electronic equipment to replace "lost" items which later turned up.

Senator Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), who also has been given a copy of the GAO file, has the staff of his House-Senate Joint Economic Committee examining the document. He wants to know what congressional action should be taken to end this "incredible waste in defense procurement."

DANGEROUS SITUATION --If Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman has his way there will be no more picketing in front of the White House.

He has told a House Appropriations subcommittee that a law forbidding the picketing should be enacted immediately.

"I'm deeply concerned that one of these days the picketers or demonstrators that parade in front of the White House will become violent and try to harm members of the First Family," Baughman warned.

"A large group of demonstrators could easily overwhelm the small police force that is on duty on the White House grounds. This could create a dangerous situation.

Baughman pointed out that picketing is already forbidden by law on the Capitol grounds and in front of the Supreme Court.

PRE-INVASION HASSLE — A tense policy split in inner White House councils preceded the anti-Castro invasion of Cuba.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff vigorously advocated U.S. military intervention here on the ground Russia was actively doing that by heavily arming Castro with "offensive" weapons and hundreds of technicians, a considerable number of them military personel.

The Pentagon leaders urged this after the Central Intelligence Agency reported Castro would receive at least six navy ships and 25 additional MIG-17 fighters from the Soviet in May.

The Joint Chiefs contended this constituted "aggressive military intervention" directly counter to traditional U.S. policy in the Western hemisphere. They also warned Russia was steadily building up a powerful military base in Cuba that was increasingly a menance to the U.S. and Latin American countries, particularly in the Carribean.

Secretary of State Rusk and Undersecretary Chester Bowles strongly opposed this view.

They held U.S. military intervention in Cuba would be "another Suez" unless approved by the Organization of American States. They also advised against seeking such authorization at that time "as certain to do more harm than good."

One consequence of this inner council split was to convince leaders of the anti-Castro forces not to delay their invasion any longer.

When Dr. Miro Cardona, their Acting President, made that decision known, he was assured the U.S. would block any attemp by a foreign country, including Russia, to aid the Red-dominated Castro regime.

Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles supported the insurgents' plan for an immediate invasion and setting up a provisional government in Cuba.

BOOKS AND SONGS — President Kennedy is reading two new books — "Not to the Swift", a novel about the presidency by Tris Coffin, veteran Washington correspondent; and "John C. Calhoun: A Reappraisal" by Professor Gerald Capers, Tulane University. Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.), lauded Coffin's book on the Senate floor as a "fascinating novel that completely captivates the reader. It is important and timely, and I call it to the attention of my colleagues." . . . The President' favorite "Irish song" is "Danny Boy". That's what he told veteran Representative Michael Kirwan (D, O.) when they got to discussing favorite melodies.

Hankerings

Antiques Worrying Rome Correspondent

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME, Italy — There are few more resolute defenders of the freedom of the press than I, but there are times when I wish it were possible to clip its wings a bit.

I'd like, for example, a law, written or unwritten, which would suppress the news when some lucky fellow buys a painting for $8.00 and it turns out to be a Fra Lippa Pippa worth $150,000, even without the frame. I'd put the same damper on the news when a housewife, tidying her attic, uncovers a Gutenberg Bible, or some such treasure, and makes a packet.

How is a man to enjoy browsing about Rome when he can't be certain that he isn't passing up a million dollars worth of old and undiscovered paintings every block or so?

Take my walk of yesterday, when I strolled the length of Via del Coranari. I was miserable the whole time, for the Via del Coranari is lined with antique shops, from its beginning near the Ponte S. Angelo to its end near Piazza Navona.

The walls of the shops are covered with old paintings, and there are piles of them stacked everywhere. Hundreds of them, thousands of them. In square frames, oval frames, plain frames, and gilt frames.

Pictures of saints and devils, fat cherubs and skinny dukes, charging horses and patient burros, churches and landscapes.

Many of the pictures are to be had for a few thousand lire, and how is one to know that by not buying, say, that saint sitting on a rock with a bird atop his head, that one isn't passing up a small fortune?

Or that in refusing to give $7.00 for a dark and gloomy painting of seven cherubs lighting on a cliff he is turning down a Saltibocca that has been the object of an intense search for six hundred years?

The result is, a walk in Rome such as the one I took is a mixture of misery and tired feet. Even the pictures that to my untrained eye were not well done could not be shrugged off, for we have all read of how people have scraped off the top picture and found a genuine Tricamontante at the bottom.

Several times I came close to buying. In a little shop near the Piazza Novona I discovered, way in the back, a giant of a canvas that I could get for $11. There was ten dollars worth of kindling in the frame. Not only that, but there was a good-sized piece of eggshell stuck in one corner, and am I not right in believing that the old masters used a lot of egg shells in mixing their paints?

But I didn't buy it. It would have cost $3.00 to get it to the house by truck, and that would have raised the total cost to $14, a bit more than I was ready to spend.

I have been haunted by that picture ever since. I can almost see the four saints in it whispering to me what a fool I was not to go as high as $100,000, for six layers down there was an early Raphael worth a king's ransom.

Tomorrow I am going back to see if it's still there. If it is, I probably won't buy it. If it isn't —well, I'll be sick and envious and afraid to read the papers.

Cliches Of Socialism

By LEONARD E. READ

President, Foundation for Economic Education

"If we had no social security, many people would go hungry."

Of some forty-five professors attending the dinner meeting at which I spoke, the two or three who might have agreed with the free exchange, private property, limited government philosophy kept discreetly silent. All of the questioning, particularly by one professor of economics, was deliberately antagonistic — not at all in the spirit of inquiry.

Following this meeting, I went to an auditorium to address the Student Forum. Some of the professors also attended.

Upon the concluson of my address, one student said, "As I understand the extent to which you would limit government, there would be no place for social security." Then he asked, "Wouldn't that bring a great hardship to many people?"

"Let me answer your question," I replied, "by going back to October 1948," and I told him the following story:

Just a month before the Truman - Dewey election, I asked a chance acquaintance if he thought the rapid trend toward socialism would abate, should the Republicans win.

"Rapid trend toward socialism? What do you mean by rapid trend toward socialism?"

I named a dozen items, including compulsory social security.

"Do you mean that you do not favor social security? What would you do, let 'em starve?"

"You are as old as I, are you not, Mr. G.?"

Being considerably older, he replied in the affirmative.

"Then you were around when Mr. Roosevelt took office?"

"Yes, I was."

"Did we have any compulsory social security previous to 1933?"

"No, I guess not."

"Tell me, did you ever know of anyone in America who starved prior to that date?"

Mr. G. acknowledged that he had never heard of anyone in America who had starved prior to F.D.R.

That was the end of my story to the student. But the professor of economics, who had led the antagonistic questioning at the dinner session, could not let this pass. Shouted he, "I have seen a dozen starve."

"Do you mean to tell me, professor, that you actually stood by and watched a human being starve to death?"

The professor, of course, had never witnessed a human being starve to death, and the students were well aware of the fact. Even a gangster, who would murder a competitor, could not stand by and watch a kitten, let alone a human being, starve to death.

The Nation's Press

CONSPIRACY AND COMPETITION

(The Wall Street Journal)

These columns have made sufficiently clear our opinion of the electrical equipment price - fixing conspiracy exposed by the Eisenhower Administration. But it is essential to understand what constitutes price - fixing and what does not — especially since the Kennedy Administration seems to misunderstand the difference.

As this newspaper reported the other day, the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission plan to look into suspected price-fixing in many businesses. That is well and good, but the Administration wants to go much further and stamp out all kinds of so-called identical pricing.

We hope it will promptly abandon this notion. Otherwise, in the name of competition, it will do a lot of damage to competition. And needlessly, for there is nothing very mysterious about the difference between illegal price - fixing and identical pricing for competitive reasons.

In the electrical-equipment case, men from various companies conspired together to set prices, they colluded in darkness and secrecy and employed occult signals and weird formulas. More than that, they conspired to split up the market among themselves and to assign any newcomer a specific share. This is the shape of cartelism, the enemy of free competitive enterprise.

But uniform prices also result from the toughest kind of competition. If Businessman X cuts his price, what is Competitor Y supposed to do? He may choose to hold to his higher price and stress what he considers the superior virtues of his product. An obvious alternative, though, is to meet X's lower price, in which case his quality argument will carry even more weight.

If Y does so, he is trying to take business away from X, not share the market with him. This is by definition competition. And it is in such price-lowering competition that the consumer benefits.

So it's no use looking at two makes of autos with the same list price and saying the uniformity is prima facie evidence of collusion. It is far more likely to be evidence of competition, with a far lower price than would result from collusion.

Now what happens if the Government tries to do away with competitive identical pricing? Businessman X cuts his price but Competitor Y is not permitted to meet it and cannot afford to undercut it.

This prohibition automatically destroys the essential ingredient in price competition — ability to meet a competitor's price. With the price - lowering process under such abnormal restraint, everybody, and notably the consumer, loses.

Not the least disservice performed by the electrical - equipment conspiracy is to spread this kind of confusion about price - fixing and competitive identical pricing. Because collusion existed in this case, it is easy to assume that the same shenanigans are rife in the business community. Easy, thoughtless assumptions, however, are a poor justification for drastic Government action.

We take it the Kennedy Administration is interested in promoting competition, not killing it. If so, let it by all means prosecute any more conspiracies it can find. But let it be clear about the difference between conspiracy and competition, lest it exact an exorbitant price for its confusion.

Climax Nears In U.S. Space Flight Program

By ALIVN B. WEBB JR.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Two U.S. rockets tuned with urgency but tempered by scientific caution may put an end within nine days to cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin's exclusive franchise on manned space travel.

Since the momentary disillusionment caused by the April 12 space flight of the stocky Russian major U.S. scientists have resisted a wave of panic withadetermination to do the job the way they planned in the first place.

"Project Mercury" space capsules are mounted atop a gleaming Atlas missile on Pad 14 and a slender white Redstone is perched on Pad 5. They are the products of around-the-clock schedules, hundreds of hours of overtime and a peculiar scientific resistance to discouragement.

If all goes well, the United States will pull the trigger on this doubebarreled "partial answer" within a few days by launching the Atlas on an unmanned orbital flight. Then, on May 2, it fires an astronaut 115 miles into space for a "sub-orbital" ride in the Redstone.

Since April 12, scientists in charge of this nation's Mercury program have had to swallow the jibes of Russian leaders, near-panic among some of their own leaders and their own personal disappointment at knowing they will be runnersup in early made space flights.

The chance to be first is gone forever. And the upcoming "answer" won't be a complete one, since an actual full orbit ride for a U.S. astronaut is at least six months away.

Still, scientists consider the Russian flight only the initial dive into the water. Man still must learn to swim in the new environment, and toward that end U.S. scentists have shifted their aims in manned flight programs.

U.S. missilemen were aware from the start that the Mercury program began in 1953 with two strikes against it and the third well on the way as far as beating the Russians was concerned.

It was a case of too little and too late. The Atlas and Redstone rockets, the most powerful and most reliable this nation could come up with, were midgets compared to the missile behemoths the Soviet Union has had under development since shortly after World War II.

The penalties were obvious. Gagarin's space cabin weighed 4.5 tons and was a veritable apartment compared to the one-ton, coffin-tight confines of the Mercury capsule.

America's seven astronauts — Leroy Cooper, Scott Carpenter, Virgil Grissom, John Glenn, Alan Shepard, Walter Slayton and Walter Schirra—also had no illusions that they would beat the Soviets to the punch. Time and again they emphasized the longer-range aims of Mercury.

They are human and the scientists are human, and they were disappointed to a man when word of Gagarin's voyage came.

A pall of disappointment settled over this "Spaceport U.S.A." It still hasn't totally dissipated. Expecting a knockout blow doesn't ease the pain or make the recuperation any faster.

Many contended American could have won, had it been a little less cautious. Perfection of the capsule's escape system, for example has run up against a series of problems that have delayed the initial manned flight on numerous occasions.

A few even doubted the truth of Gagarin's flight. But generally, the feeling was and is that expressed by one official of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA):

"We have no reason to doubt that the Russians didn't do exactly what they said they would do."

If there has been any doubt, it was in connection with rumors that Gagarin was not actually the first or maybe even the second Russian to fly into space. But most scientists here prefer to talk rather positively of their own plans, rather than rumors about Russia's doings.

Gagarin's flight has done nothing to relieve a sort of college "rah-rah" spirit that has sprung up around America's astronauts. This is still a new game, and the U.S. is waiting for its chance at the ball.

Tension here is mounting as the days pass. Newsmen already have begun pouring into the area to cover the big event.

The Soviet success seemed to increase rather than decrease the urgency of getting the Mercury program spacebound—and added to the psychological handicap of the participants. Of concern now is how the United States would look if it failed with a sub-orbital, comparatively brief flight such as that planned for the manned Redstone, coming so soon after Gagarin's globe-circling success.

But this doesn't get the job done. U.S. scientists are confident to a man that they have the program going smoothly now, and America's venture into manned spaceflight is just arud the cr-tai spaceflight is just around the corner.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

The City Commission of the City of Pampa, Texas, will receive sealed bids in the City Commission Room, City Hall, Pampa, Texas, until 10:00 A.M. C.S.T., Tuesday 16 May 1961, for the furnishing of all necessary materials, machinery, equipment, superintendence and labor for constructing 176,539.52 Sq. Yds. Asphalt and Aggregate Seal Coats for certain City Streets. Bids shall be addressed to Edwin S. Vicars, City Secretary, City Hall, Pampa, Texas.

Bidders must submit Cashier's Check or Certified Check issued by a bank satisfactory to the owner, or a Bidder's Bond from a reliable Surety Company payable without recourse to the order of E. C. Bidwell, Mayor, in an amount not less than five (5%) percent of the largest possible bid submitted as a guaranty that Bidder will enter into a contract and execute bond and guaranty in the forms provided within ten (10) days after notice of award of contract to him. Bids without required check or Proposal Bond will not be considered.

The successful Bidder must furnish performance bond and payment bond each in the amount of 100 percent of the total contract price from an approved Surety Company holding a permit from the State of Texas to act as Surety, or other Surety or Sureties acceptable to the Owner.

All lump sum and unit prices must be stated in both script and figures. The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities. In case of ambiguity or lack of clearness in stating the prices in the bids, the owner reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof or to reject the bid. Unreasonable (or "Unbalanced") unit prices will authorize the Owner to reject any bid.

Attention is called to the fact that there must be paid on this project, not less than the general prevailing rates of wages in accorance with the act of the 43rd Legislature of the State of Texas.

Instructions to Bidders, Proposal Forms, Specifications and Plans may be secured from the City Engineer, Pampa, Texas.

Nine Lose Lives As Home Burns

NORTH BEACH PARK, Md. (UPI) — A pre-lawn fire toda destroyed a two-story frame home here and killed an entire family of nine, state police reported.

The victims included William Bowden, his wife and their six children, and Bowden's mother according to Percy Gerierson of the North Beach Fire Department. All nine bodies were recovered.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. State police from Annapolis theorized it might have stemmed from an open fireplace.

Gerierson said alt the victims were white.

German, Sheep Flee East Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — An East German led his entire flock of 500 sheep into West Berlin today despite the frantic attempts by Communist border police to turn them back.

The shepherd slipped across first with the bellwether of the flock and the other sheep dutifully followed.

The German was given asylum in a refugee camp while his flock was turned over to a West Berlin farmer for safekeeping.

The argali is the largest wild sheep. It is found in the Altai Mountains of Siberia and Mongolia.

Publishers Open New York Meet

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 1,200 U.S. and Canadian newspaper executives gathered here today for the opening sessions of the 75th annual American Newspaper Publishers Association convention.

The third annual United Press International Regional Editors and Publishers Association's breakfast this morning will kick off four days of meetings, discussions, panels and social events at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Frank H. Bartholomew, president of UPI, will preside at the breakfast.

The events associated with the convention will be climaxed Thursday night by a speech by President Kennedy at the annual dinner of the ANPA's Bureau of Advertising.

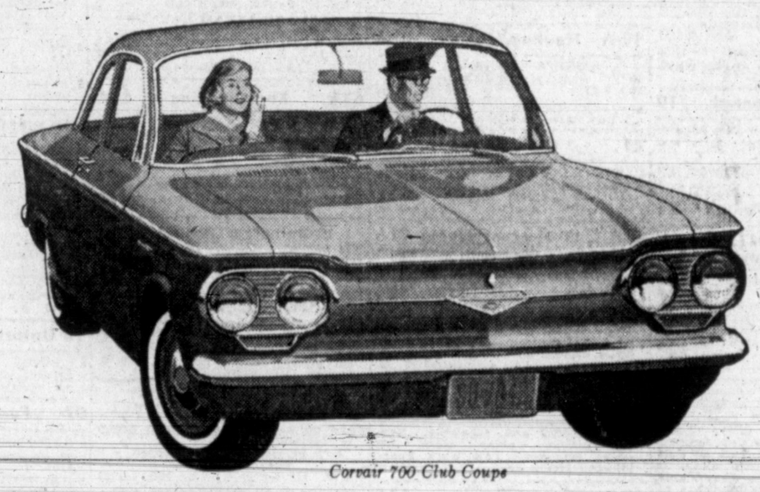

Varying hares are so named because the color of their coats varies with the seasons, brown in summer and white in winter.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription
Stops Attacks in Minutes . . . Relief Lasts for Hours!
New York, N.Y. (Special) —The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.
Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.
This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold—without prescription in most states—in tiny tablets called Primatene®. These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections.
The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.
So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Primatene only 98¢, at any drug store.

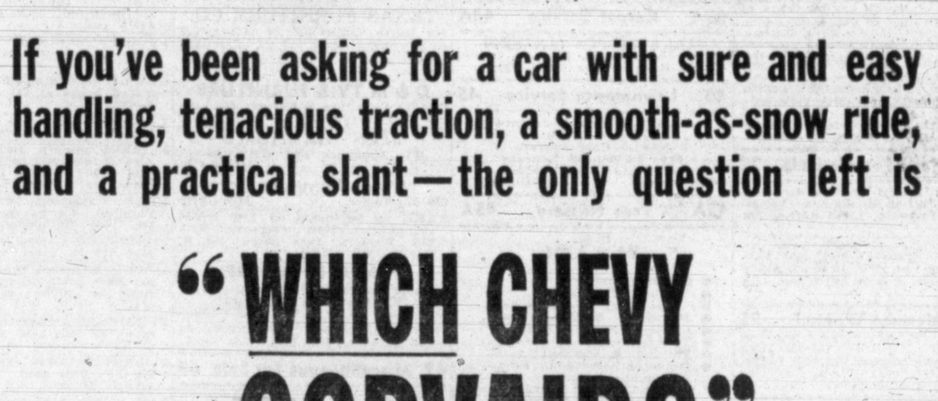

Corvair 700 Club Coupe

If you've been asking for a car with sure and easy handling, tenacious traction, a smooth-as-snow ride, and a practical slant—the only question left is

"WHICH CHEVY CORVAIR?"

If you'd been able to watch the 1961 Corvair walk away with first place in the 1,265-mile Canadian Winter Rally, you'd know exactly where to find those things we mentioned. But since Corvairs come in lots of different models, you still have to decide which fits your needs best. The Corvair Monza 4-Door? You'll love the way it handles—and the handsome way it looks. (Bucket-type front seats are optional at extra cost.) Maybe you go for the 700 Club Coupe, though. It captures you with its thrift, not to mention its thoroughly agreeable style. The only way to make up your mind, really, is to see them both at your Chevrolet dealer's.
