BUNCH OF BULL — This is just to let you know that Tommy Steiner's top rodeo stock has already arrived and is resting up for the opening performance of the show at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. This old bull said, "I hope I draw one of those champion riders like Don Gay or Denny Flynn or Bob Berger. I'd rather buck off the best of them. If you want to have some fun Wednesday through Saturday, come out and watch. You'll see who is the winner."

Ethics committee finds

Sen. Tower cleared of any wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Adlai Stevenson says a Senate Ethics Committee investigating Korean businessman Tongsun Park and his dealings with senators has found "no impropriety" on the part of Republican Sen. John Tower.

During a news conference Monday the Illinois Democrat who chairs the committee went on to compliment Texas's senior senator for cooperating with the investigation.

The committee Monday released a 558-page transcript and copies of 137 exhibits compiled during the nine-month investigation into alleged influence peddling on the part of Park. Stevenson said the probe is continuing.

Stevenson; Sen. Harrison H. Schmitt, D-N.M., the committee vice chairman; and special counsel Victor H. Kramer would not speculate as to how many, if any, senators will be tainted in the committee's final report that, they said, will draw conclusions and "list names."

Noting that the testimony before the committee was given under oath, Stevenson said the transcripts had been turned over to the Justice Department for possible perjury violations.

Park and Tower differed sharply in their recollections of their dealing.

The South Korean rice dealer repeatedly referred to Tower as a "close friend" or "dear friend" while Tower labeled Park merely a "social acquaintance."

"That's his perception of my relationship," countered Tower during a late-afternoon press conference following the Senate Ethics Committee press conference. "My relationship is that of a social acquaintance."

Park did, however, sponsor Tower's membership in the Georgetown Club, when the Texas Republican first came to Washington. "But I paid the initiation fees and all my own bills," Tower said, adding that he was no longer a member "for financial reasons." When asked why he joined the club, Tower repled that it was "free of noise...and has the best food in Washington, or did."

During closed-door hearings on March 15, Park said he had a part in arranging two separate meetings — in 1962 and again in 1967 — between Tower and the director of the Korean CIA.

Tower said he could not recall any such meeting in 1962 and said the 1967 meeting was arranged by "either the U.S. Embassy or the U.S. military" during his tour of South Korea. The subject of the meeting was the infiltration by North Korea, Tower added.

Tower also denied receiving — or asking for — any campaign contributions from Park. When Park was asked if Tower has requested a contribution for his 1972 campaign, Park replied: "I don't think so. It is possible that he did, but I don't recall."

Tower stated flatly Monday that he had never received or asked for any contribution from the South Korean.

Rep. Krueger quick to attack opponent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bob Krueger lost little time in trying to turn Sen. John Tower's association with South Korean businessman Tongsun Park into a political bonanza.

Krueger, the New Braunfels Democrat, is trying to unseat Texas' senior senator in the November general election.

After the Senate Ethics Committee released the transcript of executive session hearings involving 15 persons — including Park, Tower and four other Senators — Krueger berated Tower for "repeated contacts with a foreign influence peddler."

Tower refused to trade verbal blows with Krueger. When asked late Monday afternoon how he would respond to criticism from the Krueger camp, Tower said, "That's petty stuff...just campaign flak. I'm not going to get involved with it."

Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., chairman of the ethics committee, said Monday that the investigation had so far turned up no "impropriety" on the part of Tower and praised the Texan for his cooperative spirit.

Krueger, however, was quick to call attention to the "tremendous disparity" in Tower's testimony before the committee and his previous public statements.

"The most striking thing to me is that Tongsun Park considered John Tower one of the family," began Krueger. "And a year ago, John Tower (told reporters) he had met Tongsun Park only once. He told the committee he had met Park on at least seven occasions."

"He is either abandoning his friends when they're in trouble or he has a selective memory."

Tower said Monday that he does not feel the Senate hearings will dampen his chances for a third term, "because the committee's final report is due in August" and the matter will not be an issue in Novenmber.

"I'm surprised he didn't say sometime in December," countered Krueger. "His record for accuracy on this matter hasn't been a very good one thus far."Tower's credibility has been damaged, added Krueger, "because he has not been giving a full and honest account to the people of Texas."

Carter administration has taken stand in Africa, Young says

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — The Carter administration has already taken a very strong stand in Africa in the form of its stand on human rights and its criticism of countries who violate those rights, Andrew Young said here Monday night.

And, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations said, there's no chance the United States will be sending troops to Africa "at this time or any other time."

Young made the statements at a press conference in Lufkin before addressing the Angelina County Citizens Chamber of Commerce banquet, an annual Juneteenth celebration of the predominantly black organization.

The best supporters of our foreign policy initiative are the Africans themselves, Young said, adding that the United States has a dominant influence over 47 of 49 states on that continent. He said Ethiopia and Angola are the lone holdouts.

Young also said Africa has and will continue to turn to the United States for development, citing the need for American capital as the force behind the countries' actions.

President Carter's human rights stand is an attempt at "trying to move beyond detente" initiated before he took office to "get some sort of agreement about what (policy) is acceptable all over the world."

On the issue of Cuban affairs in Africa, Young said he fears the Cuban people consider themselves "an Afro-Latin republic" and that the country will be involved in Africa "for some time."

He said the United States is not as concerned with Cuba's involvement in Africa as it is with the country's method of involvement.

On the issue of the Panama Canal, Young said the recent treaty has been termed a "tremendous victory" for the United States and he said anyone who has ever been to the Canal Zone will see it as such.

He said, "500-thousand troops couldn't defend the canal" and the defense must be a joint effort of the U.S and the Panamanian governments."

The United States is not really giving up anything in Panama, he said, because that country needs continued American assistance which is sure to last until after the canal is turned over in 22 years.

After those 22 years, development and democratization will be taking place in that country with an economic system very much influenced by U.S. banks, the ambassador predicted.

Young also touched on the issue of Carter's image, which he termed "one of confusion."

He said the Carter administration human rights campaign is not losing momentum but is gaining, evidenced by the number of countries moving toward democracy.

Mondale announces $2 billion bank

ATLANTA (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale announced a $2 billion National Development Bank program today to encourage business investment in nearly 12,000 American communities large and small.

The "Urbank," the keystone to President Carter's national urban policy, is the last major piece of legislation in the package. Mondale said it was being submitted to Congress today.

"The development bank is crucial to our joint efforts to bring jobs and private investment to cities, counties and communities," Mondale told the annual convention of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Mondale said 1,800 large communities throughout the country will be eligible for assistance automatically under the program and 10,000 smaller communities will be eligible "if they meet the test of need, and work together to create an economic and employment base large enough to support the bank's projects."

The vice president said the administration hopes the program will bring at least $16 billion in private investment to decaying communities at a cost of less than $2 billion in federal outlays.

The Urbank will provide federal incentives in the form of loan guarantees, interest rate subsidies and grants to encourage businesses to develop in urban areas.

A key to the program is its inclusion of small as well as large cities, he said.

Mondale said the program will be "carefully targeted to communities with the greatest need" and will rely on local officials "to identify projects and set priorities."

After the vice president's speech to the annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, other top administration officials were scheduled to conduct a briefing on the program.

Mondale, a late substitute for President Carter, follows Sen. Edward Kennedy, who told the mayors Monday that they are not to blame for a national "hemorrhage of revenue" that has infuriated voters.

"It isn't fair to blame our problems on the cities or their mayors," the Massachussetts Democrat said, echoing sentiments similar to those voiced by the mayors.

Man, woman suspected of robbery captured

The Seven-Eleven Store at Fourth and Franklin was robbed, 1 a.m. today, and moments later Lt. Arvin Henry had slapped two local suspects in irons.

According to reports, a man walked into the store, approximately 1 a.m. today, poked a sharp object against the ribs of the lone clerk and said, "This is a stickup."

The clerk emptied the cash register and the robber made his exit. Unfortunately for him, however, Lt. Henry was cruising Fourth at the time, and became suspicious when he saw the suspected getaway car scream out of the Seven-Eleven parking lot.

The officer followed, and when the news of the robbery came over his police radio, he closed in. Officers Allen Parrish and Jerry Edwards also were there to help with the arrest.

The car was driven by a 25-year-old local woman, accompanied by a 26-year-old local man. Between them on the front seat of the car was a pair of trimming shears which may have been used in the robbery.

The man also carried $108 in cash at the time of his arrest.

Bond was set at $25,000 apiece for the suspects by Justice of the Peace Bob West this morning.

Vietnam accuses China of seeking to break relations

BANGKOK,Thailand (AP) — Vietnam today accused China of systematically seeking to destroy relations between the two former allies following Peking's closure of Vietnamese consulates in three Chinese cities.

The Chinese government announced Monday that it ordered the consulates in Kunming, Nanning and Canton shut down "as soon as possible" amid growing tension between the neighboring Communist countries.

The note on the consulates was delivered Friday, a day after two Chinese ships sailed to evacuate some of the thousands of ethnic Chinese who are leaving Vietnam because the Communist regime has abolished private enterprise.

Hanoi's Communist Party newspaper Nhan Dan said the closing of the consulates was "another unilateral action aimed at worsening relations."

Offbeat: Flight foils Ford fete

MONROE, Mich. (AP) — While the Ford Motor Co. was celebrating its 75th anniversary with parades, parties and the plant dedications last week, the man who runs the show missed all the fun.

Auto company Chairman Henry Ford II not only missed Friday's festivities — he also missed the whole day.

Ford flew from California Thursday for a meeting in Tokyo with Japanese auto industry leaders, according to Louis Ross, executive vice president of Ford's Diversified Products operation.

"It was the 15th when he left from the West Coast," Ross said, "and it was the 17th when he landed in Tokyo."

By crossing the International Date Line, Ford lost June 16.

Tops on TV: 'Good Mornin' Blues'

On a rather molasses-like night on the tube, you might get a kick out of a couple of musical offerings. Both are on at the same time, however, so choose wisely. On NBC, at 8 o'clock, the story of "Scott Joplin: King Of Ragtime" is reproduced, probably with more drama than in real life. And on PBS (same time), B.B. King narrates a look at the blues from the turn of the century to just after World War II on "Good Mornin' Blues."

County dads to hire extra help

Howard County Commissioners, in their meeting Monday, agreed to hire additional clerical help for the County Judge and County Attorney's offices.

The slot, which will be open July 1, will be filled at a third deputy's salary of approximately $6,900. According to County Judge Bill Tune duties for the new position will include setting the criminal docket and pre-trial hearings and filing of appeals.

Those duties are presently handled by the secretaries to the Commissioner's Court and the County Judge and the County Attorney's secretary.

The request for more manpower was made in light of the upcoming "speedy trial" law which provides for dismissal of charges not handled in a 30- to 60-day period after their filing in County Court.

Said Commissioner Jack Buchanan, "I felt the postion could pay for itself in fines taken in. The position would also assist the District Attorney's office if time permitted."

The court also discussed record-keeping procedures in the Sheriff's office with Sheriff A.N. Standard.

The court then asked Standard if he would "pick up" a compressor now at Webb AFB. The compressor is believed by the commissioners to be the property of the county and is valued at $1,000. According to the court, the property may have been illegally moved to Webb from the County Airport.

Standard said he could not act in the matter until the proper owner of the compressor was determined.

In other action, the court agreed to draw up a tentative lease on the County Airport for the Industrial Board, take bids on replacing the boiler at the Howard County Library, and sign a resolution opposing the 24 per cent increase requested by Texas Electric at the recent Public Utilities Commission pre-hearings.

The court also worked on the budget for the coming year with County Auditor Virginia Black.

Prostitution ring probed

CHICAGO (AP) — FBI and postal officials are investigating a child pornography and prostitution ring that authorities said is based in Chicago and may have involved transporting boys across state lines and to some foreign countries for purposes of male prostitution.

Investigators began examining an extensive card file that police said lists the ring's customers and their sexual preferences. From 50,000 to 100,000 pink file cards were among evidence seized in a north side apartment, authorities said Monday.

Baby whale fights for life

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Marine biologists were fighting to save the life of a four-foot baby pilot whale that beached itself near Vero Beach after its injured mother floundered ashore and died.

Joe Baucom, a marine biologist at Sea World, said Monday that chances of the 80-pound baby's survival were marginal. The baby repeatedly beached itself earlier in the day despite attempts by bystanders to push it back into the ocean.

A Marine Patrol officer said the mother may have been shot with a spear gun.

Unsafe lines will close

ATLANTA (AP) — Unsafe rail lines will be closed, if necessary, to protect the public from derailments of tankers and boxcars carrying dangerous substances, a federal transportation official says.

Chester C. Davenport of the U.S. Department of Transportation told a workshop at the U.S. Conference of Mayors on Monday that railroads are being warned to repair substandard lines. But, he said, "if they don't do that ... what we're going to do is close down the railroads. We've done that in a number of cases already."

He declined to say which lines have been closed, but he said about 300 to 400 miles of track are involved.

Man, 75, earns degree

CUMMING, Ga. (AP) — Samford V. Wagoner, 75, finally got around to collecting his college degree after a 50-year break from the academic world.

Wagoner, a retired hardware store owner, left Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., in 1925 to take a high school teaching job. At the time he was 12 credit hours short of receiving a bachelor's degree in business administration.

When he contacted college officials last fall, they said his experience as an accountant could be substituted for the needed school work and they allowed him to graduate with the class of '78. He received his diploma on May 20.

Softball players injured

OLD LYME, Conn. (AP) — A dozen women softball players were injured when lightning struck a nearby oak tree, officials said.

The women, members of the Old Lyme and Madison YWCA softball teams, suffered second- and third-degree burns, officials said.

Rain had delayed the game at the Mile Creek School when the lightning struck Monday night, throwing most of the women to the ground. They were taken to area hospitals for treatment.

Economy shows little growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy showed virtually no growth in the first three months this year but did not decline as economists thought it would, the Commerce Department said today.

It usually takes a growth in the Gross National Product of about 4 percent per year to keep the economy growing rapidly enough to create jobs and keep business active, economists say.

After adjustment for inflation, the nation's output of goods and services grew by less than one-tenth of one percent in the first quarter, the department said.

The department had estimated in April that first quarter growth declined 0.6 percent at an annual rate and in May it revised the decline to 0.4 percent. An annual rate means the growth for a period within a year is extrapolated to determine what the increase for the entire year would be if the growth continued at the same rate for 12 months.

Most forecasters say the economy is growing at an annual rate of about 8 percent to 10 percent in the second quarter, enough to make up for the sluggish winter.

Economic indicators show the economy should grow more slowly than that in the second half of the year, closer to the 4 percent to 4.5 percent predictions by the Carter administration.

However, Barry Bosworth, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, and others say the economy could go into a recession if inflation is not brought under control.

The report indicated prices rose at an annual rate of 7.1 percent in the first quarter.

Before removing the effects of inflation, the department found that total output grew at an annual rate of $33.5 billion, or 7 percent, to $1,995.3 billion.

The main reasons for the revisions, the department said, were $500 million in increased consumer spending, $1.4 billion more spent in inventories and a $900 million increase in exports.

However, money spent by businesses on fixed investments, a sign of business confidence, was revised downward by $900 million.

The department said the economy would have grown about 2.5 percent to 3 percent in the first quarter if it had not been for a coal strike and an unusually cold, wet winter.

Energy

Oil discovery in Dawson field

A discovery was assured in Dawson County this week in the oil patch.

An unidentified oil discovery, probably lower Spraberry or Dean, was assured in Dawson County with the swabbing of 25 barrels of oil in 6½ hours at Mitchell Energy Corp., Houston, No. 1-6 Waldrop, in 6-34-5n-T&P, approximately 1,500 feet north and slightly east of the depleted one-well Key, North (Spraberry) field, 1⅞ miles east-northeast of the Walls (Wolfcamp) field and 5½ miles northeast of Lamesa.

Production was through perforations at 7,288-292 feet, which had been acidized with 250 gallons. Testing continued.

The Key, North opener, Texas National Petroleum Co. No. 1 R.F. Jackson, a Pennsylvanian failure, was drilled to 8,928 feet and finaled Aug. 12, 1960 to pump 60.03 barrels of 40.2 gravity oil, plus 60 percent salt water, with gas-oil ratio of 91201, through perforations at 7,010-70 feet.

Vandals drain Early water

EARLY — The community of Early, located outside Brownwood, lost several hundred thousands gallons of water to vandals, who sometime between 10 p.m., Sunday and 7:30 a.m., Monday opened the four valves that control the flow of water to and from the city's only water tank, completely draining it.

Although the act offered no threat to the city's water supply, water superintendent Johnny Williams said the damage was a "severe loss" to the city's storage capacity. The water pressure caused by the drainage also nearly washed away an earthen dam near the reservoir, with the result that a Hillsboro firm had to be summoned to undertake repairs. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

Early residents recently defeated by a 6-1 margin a bond issue which would have eliminated the water treatment plant.

Underwriters install Joe Dunn as president

Joe Dunn was officially installed as president of the Big Spring Chapter of the Life Underwriters Association at a dinner meeting Monday at La Posada.

He was installed by Zeph W. Pease, state president of the group from Portland. Other new officers are John Bennett, CLU, vice president and Ray Wier, secretary-treasurer. Louis Stallings, CLU, is outgoing president.

Pease stressed the importance of the family in maintaining freedom and important values. He also stressed the importance of free enterprise and what life would be like without it.

He stressed involvement in the political scene and quoted Bernard Baruch's, "We didn't all come over on the same ship, but we're all in the same boat."

In stressing working toward good government, he also quoted Plato's "If the wise man refuses to do his part in government, he will live in a government of unwise men."

JOE DUNN

In stressing moral character, he pointed out, "You can judge a lot of a man's character by the way he treats people who cannot help him."

Delegates to the state conference in Amarillo in July were selected with Dunn, as incoming president and Bob Whatlington of Snyder, Texas Leaders Round Table president. Alternates will be Bennett, incoming vice president and Stallings, outgoing president.

Walter Stroup served as chairman for the dinner. Special guests included Bill Jowell, state director from Midland and several Farm Bureau officials, attending as guests of Dunn.

Plant blast injures trio

SWEETWATER — Three Midland men suffered burns in an explosion at the Tipperary Corp., gas plant in Claytonville, which occurred at 4:30 p.m., Monday.

James Melton and his two sons, Maxie, 22, and a 17-year-old unidentified by a name were taken to a Sweetwater hopital for emergency treatment.

The father was later removed to a Dallas hospital specializing in burn treatment. Reports indicated he had burns over 80 per cent of his body.

The two sons are in stable condition in the Sweetwater hospital.

Boll weevils finding 'homes' in Howard

By MARJ CARPENTER

"As soon as the boll weevils emerge from their winter habitat, they are seeking a cottonfield in which to colonize," James Lee, county entomologist said today at the monthly agriculture breakfast at Herman's Restaurant.

The old boll weevil folk song says exactly the same thing 100 years ago when they sang out "The next time you see the boll weevil, he's looking for a home."

Lee pointed out that early checks of the boll weevil traps showed less than last year, but the week of June 5, the count was almost identical to the last season.

The boll weevils usually emerge in the last week in May and the first week in June. Dry spring weather and hailed out early crops have combined to make the planting a little later than usual this year.

"This will help with the boll weevil problem," Lee told the farmers. "The boll weevil, after he emerges, usually only lives around 14 days and if the cotton hasn't reached a one-third square status by then, the weevil will not move into the fields and colonize and survive."

The entomologist also discussed the habitat management project, which is a three-year study of the boll weevil in heavily infested areas. Early management attempts of chaining and burning and bull-dozing have not produced much difference.

The project still has several more means of fighting the boll weevil to attempt in the project.

The first results have also firmly backed up the old boll weevil song, "The next time I saw the boll weevil, I put him in a red-hot fire. The boll weevil said to the farmer, 'Here I are, here I are', just a lookin' for a home."

Lee presented boll weevil charts drawn up by Dr. Don Rummell, who is considered "Mr. Boll Weevil" of the High Plains area.

Most farmers now have their cotton in the ground and it has a good stand in many areas surrounding Big Spring. It is expected to square out too late to have much boll weevil damage this year.

"However," Lee cautioned, "The weevil always seems to find a way to survive and enough of them will colonize and winter over to be here next season."

Lee pointed out that weevils keep moving a little farther west and that some have been found in the Fairview and Martin County areas in the traps. "So far, they're not in Knott. They've skipped that area again."

Van Gaskins, a Knott 4-Her presented his talk on cotton to the farmers, pointing out that wearing cotton clothing can save energy. "If enough people insist on wearing cotton, they can affect the textile industry which produces many materials which have oil as a base."

He emphasized saving energy by wearing cotton and thereby saving the energy for the operation of the mills and raising food for America.

Property taxes interest light

City, county and school district Boards of Equalization drew only a light turnout today on the second floor of the Howard County Courthouse.

Of the 14 persons appearing before the boards, all but three had their problems resolved by the Tax Appraiser's office.

Two of the persons appeared before the city and school boards, and one party appeared before the county board. Fred Luft told the city and school boards his house was appraised at too high a price, R.E. McClure told the same board that his airplanes were over-valued, and J.V. Cherry appeared before the county to ask about right-of-way.

Local chapter one of largest

The Big Spring Chapter of the Texas Manufactured Housing Association is fast becoming one of the largest in the state, larger than chapters in Midland-Odessa or Abilene, according to Denton Marsalis, president of the group here.

He announced another new member this week when Lewis Buick-Cadillac joined the local and state association.

Marsalis said, "The large number of local members makes it possible for us to have a strong chapter here in Big Spring without having to be affiliated with another chapter in this part of the state."

Califano to announce decision in flu case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is making a long-awaited announcement on the question of liability in the case of hundreds of persons who were paralyzed in the ill-fated swine flu inoculation campaign of 1976.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare, planned to announce the decision at a news conference today.

Some government officials speculated that a settlement could be in the works for some of the claims among the total of 1,483 filed so far involving $775 million. Fewer than 500 of the claimants are paralyzed.

Forty-two million Americans received shots in late 1976 at the urging of then-President Gerald R. Ford to protect against an outbreak of swine flu that never occurred.

In undertaking the nationwide inoculation campaign after a soldier at Fort Dix, N.J., died of a disease suspected to be swine flu, the government agreed to exempt the five vaccine manufacturers, and the health agencies and individuals who gave the shots, against any lawsuits filed by individuals.

The government, however, could sue the vaccine makers if it believed there was any negligence on their part.

The inoculation campaign was brought to a halt on Dec. 16, 1976, two months after it began, after some persons who received shots contracted the rare but deadly Guillain-Barre syndrome. Ultimately, 535 persons got the disease and 23 died.

The syndrome is a paralyzing disease that is fatal in about 5 percent of its victims. It also occurred in people who were not inoculated.

Federal health officials say any inoculation campaign increases a person's small risk of contracting Guillain-Barre.

As of early June, 439 of the claims against the government were filed by someone who contacted the disease or his survivors.

Of the total of 1,483 claimants, 105 persons have filed suit in federal courts to press their case for $107 million in damages. Of these, 66 involve Guillain-Barre victims.

The Justice Department has denied 249 claims and approved only three, in which people were awarded a total of $363.

Several dozen suits have been combined for hearing here before U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell. A court clerk said a conference on the case was held two weeks ago, but he referred other questions to a Justice Department attorney who declined comment.

The Ford administration mounted the $135 million drive out of fear that a flu pandemic might occur like the one that swept the world in 1918-19, killing 20 million persons, including 500,000 in the United States.

Medical Board denies charges

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The secretary of the State Board of Medical Examiners has denied that clubbiness among doctors keeps the board from punishing those who prescribe pills for drug abusers.

Dr. Bryan Spires, chief operating officer of the board, sharply differed with police officers who said a code of brotherhood among doctors makes the board ineffective.

The officers were quoted by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in a Sunday story contending that as many as 300 Texas doctors pump millions of dollars in amphetamines into the illegal drug market annually.

"I believe from the bottom of my heart that this business of a code of brotherhood . . . is just not true. Physicians, by and large, are more interested in getting rid of the rotten apples than anyone I know of. A big problem is keeping board members from crawling over the board table and physically assaulting some of the physicians who have appeared (for disciplinary hearings)," Spires told a news conference Monday.

The Star-Telegram said 10 doctors account for a third of the illicit pills obtained by Fort Worth drug abusers.

It quoted authorities as saying doctor-written prescriptions provide a third of the illicit pills obtained in San Antonio, half in Houston and a fourth in Dallas.

Spires said Fort Worth police have not told the board the names of the 10 doctors who allegedly are major pill suppliers to the city's illicit drug market.

He said nine of 13 licenses cancelled by the board since Sept. 1, 1976, involved illegal prescription of drugs.

In addition, he said, the board curtailed the authority of 23 doctors to prescribe "controlled substances" — drugs that are subject to abuse.

Doctors can be prosecuted under federal, but not state, law for non-therapeutic prescribing of controlled substances.

Spires said the board supports legislation giving Texas authorities the right to prosecute a doctor for illicit prescribing.

Sam Stone, board attorney, said that criminal prosecution has been taken or is pending in federal court against the doctors whose licenses were revoked for non-therapeutic prescriptions.

He said 753 doctors were under investigation by the board in the 1976-77 fiscal year.

There are more than 19,000 licensed physicians in Texas.

"A fair inference could be drawn that any large city in Texas has several physicians under investigation at any given time," Stone said.

John Sortore, the board's chief investigator, said about a third of the investigations involve non-therapeutic prescribing and this is the largest single source of complaints.

Stone said removing a doctor's license requires an airtight case since the board can act only upon evidence that would stand up in court, where a doctor can appeal revocation.

Carter warns Soviets to ban satellites

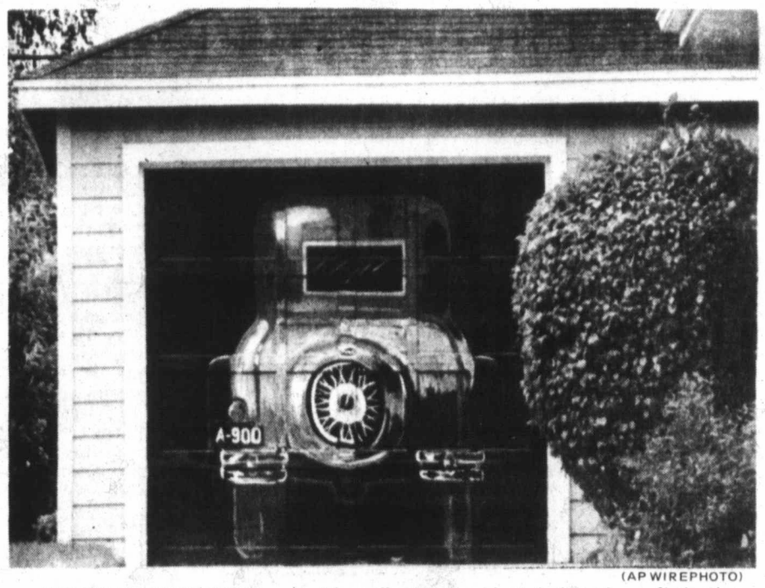

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is warning the Soviet Union that it must agree to a ban on killer satellites or the United States will not hesitate to escalate the arms race in space.

"We're the world's most technically advanced nation," an administration official said on Monday. "We can achieve a system that is of higher quality and better than theirs."

He said he hoped the two countries would agree to curb anti-satellite systems before the superpowers engage in a new and "unhealthy" space arms race that could cost each nation billions of dollars.

The official, who asked not to be identified, briefed reporters on a new national space policy recently drawn up by President Carter. The policy is dedicated to continuing U.S. technological supremacy in space, with strong emphasis on military systems to counter possible Soviet threats.

Early in his administration, Carter made a public appeal to the Soviets to outlaw satellitedestroying systems. But that nation has staged five tests since then and has given no signs it intends to forgo the killer satellite system.

Change in Social Security law

Older teachers without pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Summer is near and that means no more pencils, no more books for school children. For some of their older teachers, it means no more Social Security checks, too.

In the past, a quirk in the law allowed active teachers aged 62 or older to obtain Social Security checks for July and August even though they worked the rest of the year.

But a recent change in the law ends the payment, and also forces some teachers and others who retire this year to wait until January to draw benefits. An estimated 250,000 persons are losing $159 million in benefits this year.

The government reduces Social Security benefits by $1 for every $2 a retired person earns over an exempt amount, which is $4,000 this year. Benefits are not reduced during a person's first year of retirement, or after age 72.

The 250,000 teachers, farmers, seasonal workers and some self-employed persons used up their grace period either by receiving Social Security checks on a part-time basis previously or simply by signing up for Medicare when they turned 65.

The government now considers that a person's retirement year begins with any month in which he earned less than $334 (one-twelfth of $4,000), even if he did not seek retirement benefits.

"Teachers who decide to retire this year at age 67 or 68 are getting shafted out of six months of benefits," charged Byron Spice, a retirement expert with the National Education Association.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. in April decided that the stricter retirement test would be applied to the 250,000 who had received part-time benefits previously, as well as to those signing up for the first time.

"That's a lot of people on whom to change the rules of the game at the last minute. I think it's an outrage," said James Hacking, a lobbyist for the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association.

He said his groups are considering challenging the agency's interpretation of the retirement test in court.

Gary Thorn, a Social Security research analyst, said the change in the monthly retirement test "shocked the teachers, because they didn't realize it was coming."

Thorn said the teachers' groups would like a grandfather clause to protect those who had taken advantage of the system's old rules.

Vance outlines program to avoid confrontation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has decided to work with the Marxist government of Angola "in more normal ways," Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said today.

In a speech prepared for a Jaycees convention in Atlantic City, N.J., Vance said the administration has two goals: Reconcile the dispute between Angola and western-leaning Zaire; and achieve a peaceful settlement in South West Africa, or Namibia, which is under South Africa's control.

Angola has served as the staging ground for incursions by Katangan rebels into Zaire's Shaba province. It also supports guerrilla forces striking against Namibia.

A government official, backgrounding Vance's speech for reporters in Washington, said the administration does not plan to establish diplomatic relations with Angola.

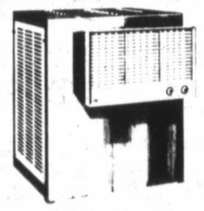

However, the official, who barred use of his name, said there have been a number of exchanges between Washington and Luanda, the Angolan capital. These include a recent meeting in New York between Vance and the Angolan foreign minister and a visit to Luanda by Donald Easum, the U.S. ambassador to Nigeria.

In the 1975 Angolan civil war, the United States backed two factions that eventually lost out to the Marxist group now in power. One of the losing factions, Unita, is still waging guerrilla warfare against the central government.

According to U.S. estimates, some 20,000 Cuban troops remain in Angola, where they helped President Agostinho Neto take power.

Vance gave a preview of the administration's new focus on Africa in an appearance Monday before the House International Relations Committee in which he sought to dispel the idea that the administration had reverted to a Cold War approach in dealing with the Russians.

"Thanks, boss!"

Almost three million Texans are grateful and happy that their companies provide Blue Cross and Blue Shield Insurance.

Why?

Because they know it's the best group health insurance coverage ... and the best group health insurance value. They know it offers a complete insurance package—not just health care coverage. They know that claims filing is easy, and that claims are paid promptly. And they know their familiar I.D. card is instantly recognized by doctors and hospitals everywhere.

Best of all, almost three million Texans know their companies think enough of them to provide the best health care insurance.

That's something they can be really thankful for. And their companies can feel really good about.

Good advice to follow in emergency

Pinkerton's, a firm which has built a solid reputation on successfully fencing and dealing with crooks, recommends strongly that if you discover you have an intruder in your home or apartment it would be advisable to avoid confrontation.

In short, move quickly and quietly in the opposite direction. Never enter and search alone and unarmed.

There are other rules to keep in mind, according to the nation's largest security agency.

IF YOU ARE sure you have a prowler who has gained access to your home, go to a neighbor's house or apartment and summon the police. If possible, have that neighbor watch your house but not approach it.

If you open your door to actually find somebody inside, shut the door and go for help. In most instances, an intruder will be so shaken and panicked by being discovered, he will quickly flee the scene, often leaving behind him the loot he has assembled.

If the intruder you encounter is armed and escape is not possible, be quiet and submissive. Don't make the mistake of moving suddenly. Let him leave with whatever valuables he has collected — and your wallet, too, if he demands it. Don't be like Jack Benny by taking your time to make up your mind whether your life or your money is more valuable. Your belongings are replaceable. Your life isn't.

If you awaken to find an intruder in your bedroom or hear one elsewhere inside, the standard advice to 'play possum' is still sound. Burglars feel a need to work swiftly and depart. They want to avoid confrontation almost as much as you do. (There's always the chance you'll see them later in court).

Most burglars break in with simple tools such as a metal bar or screwdriver, then are apt to arm themselves with a kitchen knife, fireplace tool or some other blunt instrument. For that reason, keep your kitchen knives out of sight. If you display firearms, keep the ammunition hidden.

CONSIDER ADDING window bars or extra door locks to your bedroom. An intruder who finds valuables elsewhere in the house is unlikely to try and force his way into a bedroom locked from the inside. Window bars, however should be of the kind that swing or slide open if the window is a logical way of escape in the event of fire.

If you're staying overnight in a hotel or motel, lend a little thought and planning to an escape route should escape become necessary. Any kind of emergency can arise.

If you see an intruder, remember something distinctive about him — features about him or his apparel that could later help the police.

If you are in places where houses or apartments are close together, make as much noise as possible after the burglar has departed, turn on any outside lights or floodlights. If you succeed in startling him, he may decide to abandon some of his ill-gotten gains.

Filters, Middle East

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — I just received, anonymously, an unclassified cable to the State Department from the American Embassy in Doha, Qatar, one of the Arab countries involved in the boycott of Israel.

It reads as follows, and I swear I did not make up one word of it.

"1 — During routine visit to Doha Boycott Office, Embassy Commercial Specialist was made aware of possible problem with Philip Morris Tobacco Co. may face in marketing Merit cigarettes in the Middle East. Something about the structure of the filter on Merit cigarettes causes tar to be deposited on the mouthpiece end of the white filter in the form of a six-pointed star. The star is clearly visible when the cigarette is smoked approximately half its length. (Further smoking causes the star to be lost in a general brown stain.)

"2 — Our Commercial Specialist told Boycott Office officials that this obviously is not a serious matter. Office Director agreed but indicated he had already received numerous complaints (including one from the palace), and he then introduced our man to the latest batch of complainers who were sitting in his outer office.

"3 — Boycott Office Director is trying to head off complaints, but fears that sale of Merit cigarettes, and subsequent complaints about the star appearing on the end of the filter element, may lead to the banning of all Philip Morris products, including the immensely popular Marlboro brand."

YOU MAY laugh, if you want to, but if you're a stockholder of Philip Morris, this is no joking matter. The Philip Morris Co. never, in all its wildest dreams, thought of developing a cigarette filter which would produce a Star of David on it, and even if it did, it certainly wouldn't export such a cigarette filter to an Arab country.

The only explanation that makes any sense is that the Israeli secret service people have developed such a filter and infiltrated the Merit factory. If this is true, it is one of the great breakthroughs in postwar covert operations, and one that has made the CIA green with envy.

There have been rumors that for years CIA scientists have been working on a cigarette filter which would produce an American flag when half-smoked by someone in a Communist country. But the Central Intelligence Agency has not been able to overcome the incredible problems of getting the tar to produce 50 stars and 13 stripes that would fit on the filter.

THE SOVIET UNION'S KGB is also said to be unsuccessful in developing a filter that would produce a hammer and sickle while someone was puffing away. Even the Japanese, with all their technical know-how, cannot make their tobacco burn in such a way as to duplicate a rising sun.

I called the Israeli Embassy to see if I could get further information on how they did it.

The man on the other end of the line was very upset. "How did you find out about it?"

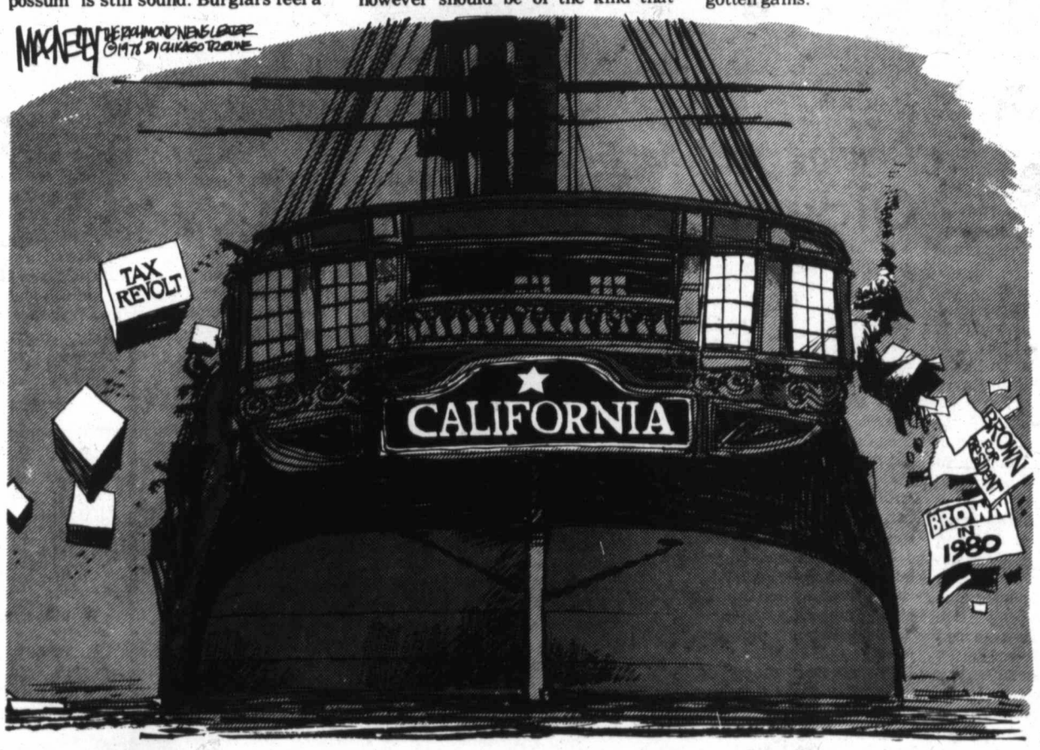

I told him I couldn't reveal my sources.

"We don't have such a filter," he said. "And if we did, we couldn't talk about it."

"But the Arabs insist you do. There are Stars of David in ashtrays all over Doha, and they're getting very upset."

"Then they shouldn't smoke so much."

"That's not the point," I told him. "Something like this could start another Middle East war. You start messing with Philip Morris cigarette filters, and no one knows where it will lead."

Vitamin absorption can decline with age

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Should an 86-year-old woman who appears somewhat anemic be taking vitamin B-12 supplements? I believe I heard that this is the vitamin some bodies cannot absorb. Is that true? The woman is my grandmother. She doesn't eat well, either. — Mrs. O.E.

From what you tell me, I believe it is wise for this lady to have some extra B-12. That is the vitamin involved in pernicious anemia. Some people lack the ability to absorb B-12 properly. Some are born with this defect. With others it can be a factor in old age. This possibility and the fact that she doesn't eat well anyway make supplements all the more advisable. She may need other vitamins besides and probably could stand a complete blood analysis to determine her general nutritional status — to learn, for example, if she really is anemic.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read in your column that there are medicines that can be helpful for hypoglycemia along with the high protein diet. Please identify the medicine. My doctor says diet is the only treatment. — A.L.B.

I had in mind instances where the low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) is caused by glandular insufficiency, as in low thyroid, adrenal, or pituitary fluid. My reference was to hormone or tranquilizer therapy. In most cases, a diet high in protein with six daily feedings (three are snacks) and relatively low carbohydrate content is sufficient. My booklet, "Help for Hypoglycemia," discusses diets for this in detail I cannot go into here. For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor has told me I have alopecia areata. This has affected different parts of my body, mainly my scalp. The bald spots itch. I have had it for about three years off and on. Can you tell me more about this and the treatment and how long it will continue? — F.R.C.

A sudden patchy loss of hair (usually on the scalp or beard) is called areata alopecia when there is no obvious skin disorder or no systemic disease, such as one affecting the thyroid, for example. The itchiness indicates a scap infection, which medication might control.

When it appears in adult life, alopecia areata usually subsides in a few months. It can be associated with tension and nervousness, and regrowth occurs when that cause is removed. In others it may be a reaction to medicines or drugs.

There is really no certain treatment for this. Corticosteriod drugs may produce regrowth, but they must be used for such an extended period that the therapy is usually not justified. Locally applied medicine is useless.

I can't speculate on how long your condition will last without knowing the cause.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does rheumatism differ from arthritis, and if so, how? — M.K.

Rheumatism is a catch-all for muscle and-or joint pains, including arthritis. The term means something only to the user. Arthritis is more specific. That refers to pain caused by disease of the joints proper. Rheumatoid arthritis is a disease of the joints caused by inflammation of the joints and adjacent tissue. It can be considered a form of "rheumatism."

The pillars of SALT

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My Sunday School class is puzzled over something. Where did Jesus go when He ascended from this earth, and why is the ascension important? — D.O.C.

DEAR D.O.C.: The ascension of Jesus is told most fully in Acts 1:9-11. In that passage we are told that Jesus "was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight" (verse 9). A few chapters later in Acts we are told clearly that Jesus had ascended into Heaven itself and would remain there "until the time comes for God to restore everything" (Acts 3:21, New International Version). Elsewhere we are told "he entered heaven itself, now to appear for us in God's presence" (Hebrews 9:24, NIV).

The Bible tells us several reasons why the ascension of Jesus into Heaven is important. First, it was a clear sign to the apostles that Jesus' earthly ministry was completed. Also, the ascension of Jesus into Heaven tells us that Jesus Christ is now — even at this very moment — in Heaven praying for us before the throne of God. This is a wonderful truth, and one that we perhaps do not think about enough. "Because Jesus lives forever, he has a permanent priesthood. Therefore He is able to save completely those who come to God through him, because he always lives to intercede for them" (Hebrews 7:24-25, NIV). The apostle John wrote, "If anybody does sin, we have one who speaks to the Father in our defense — Jesus Christ, the Righteous One" (I John 2:1, NIV).

Still another reason why Jesus ascended into Heaven was to enable the Holy Spirit to come and dwell within believers. "Unless I go away, the Counselor will not come to you; but if I go, I will send him to you" (John 16:7, NIV).

Like the resurrection, the ascension of Jesus Christ tells us beyond all doubt that Jesus Christ was no mere man; He was the Son of God. It assures us that Jesus Chrisl is "far above all rule and authority, power and dominion, and every title that can be given" (Ephesians 1:21, NIV).

Takes a while

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

Ohhh, my aching muscles! For the past three weeks my body has been in a constant state of pain. You see, I have joined a softball team and practice is taking its toll.

I haven't put on a glove or swung a bat since I was a senior in high school. And then, it was only for about a week. It was for the annual senior-junior girls Powder Puff clash. I played third base and we, the seniors, won by a landslide.

IT TOOK A WHILE to get back into it again, but after all those years of practicing with my three brothers when I was in grade school, it wasn't difficult. While my brothers were in Little League and my Dad was coaching them, I had to help shag balls on Sunday afternoon when Dad gave them "extra" practice. My "reward" for this sometimes begrudged duty was a chance at bat.

My Dad was just as hard on me as he was on my brothers and I was not even playing for a team. There were no girls softball or baseball teams there when I was growing up. Now they let the girls play with the boys. But, nevertheless, I was "coached" and the "coaching" stuck. I can still hear my Dad when one of his players would miss a ground ball: "Get that glove down on the ground and keep it there and get your body in front of the ball!"

Despite the sore muscles and bruised flesh (caused by the "coaching"), I am enjoying every minute of it. It gives me the much needed exercise that I don't get during the day sitting behind a desk and a typewriter. It has also given me a chance to meet new people and fill some of my leisure time.

Now, if the muscles would just "get back into it", I would have it made.

•••

Sunday I had my first real case of homesickness.

IT WAS THE FIRST Father's Day that I have not spent with my Dad. When I called him, there were sounds of laughter emanating from a family gathering. My aunt and uncle from Alabama, my 83-year-old grandparents and the remainder of my aunts and uncles and their families were there.

I was struck by visions of my mother's delicious cooking overflowing on the dinner table, long talks after the meal had been enjoyed and an afternoon of volleyball in the front yard. It was sad being 400 miles from all the activity.

And if that wasn't bad enough, my youngest brother informed me that he had been in a car accident. His head hit the windshield when his car collided with another. He had to have stitches. I wanted to be there to "console" him.

The accident was his fault and he did a total of $1,500 damage to both cars. Also, we have always been very close and I have been very protective of him, even though at six feet, three inches and a soon-to-be-freshman at college, he doesn't need much protection. But even so, he is still and always will be my "baby" brother and very special, despite his tendency to get into more "trouble" than my other two brothers combined.

Labor bill goodies

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — While still shy of enough votes to end the filibuster against the labor law revision bill, the White House dangled succulent offers to get the magic 60 votes, including an ambassadorship for 78-year-old Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

Sparkman, who retired in January after four years as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has neither encouraged nor discouraged speculation that he might like to top his career with an ambassadorial plum — possibly to Belgium. But intimates say he is definitely interested.

Sparkman's vote for cloture would raise to 59 the number of senators willing to forcibly end debate on the Senate's most bitter economic battle in years: the Carter administration's effort to make it much easier for labor unions to become legal bargaining agents for employes, particularly affecting such less unionized Southern states as Sparkman's Alabama.

Giving a senator a juicy inducement to rescue a stalled bill is as old as politics, although Mr. Carter did not understand the tactic until he used it with some success in the Panama Canal treaties. Deals on the labor bill abound. Republican Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska switched and voted to end the filibuster on June 14 after being warned by the Senate Democratic leadership the Alaska land bill might never reach the floor.

THE WHITE HOUSE also has been toying with the idea of slowing cheap sugar imports into the U.S., long demanded by sugar-state senators, to get over the top on cloture. But that game will not succeed. Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, a sugar-bloc leader, has privately informed the administration that the sugar problem transcends the labor; in any event, he will not switch his vote on the cloture issue.

A footnote: Despite the administration's inability to break the filibuster in repeated cloture efforts, AFL-CIO president George Meany gives Mr. Carter good marks for trying. That indicated Meany rejects earlier speculation that the president is not fully committed to the bill.

TAX REVOLT CONVERTS

The tax revolt is enlisting Democratic senators even if it means opposing President Carter, with Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York the most notable convert to a Republican tax-cutting scheme.

Moynihan, who has a growing number of both foreign and domestic policy differences with the president, now backs the Republican Steiger amendment that would sharply cut capital gains tax rates. An earlier backer was a senior liberal Democrat in the Senate, Frank Church of Idaho.

Moynihan still opposes the Republican Kemp-Roth bill to cut personal income taxes by 30 percent spread over three years, but it has picked up its first Democratic backer: Jimmy Carter's own senator. One week after the tax revolt erupted in California, Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia endorsed Kemp-Roth.

Nunn soon may have some company from Democratic senators up for reelection. Likely prospects to endorse Kemp-Roth are Sens. Walter D. Huddleston of Kentucky and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia.

A footnote: Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, a liberal Republican running for reelection, ended previous opposition to Kemp-Roth and embraced it the same day as Nunn. That was one week after the stunning primary election defeat in New Jersey of fellow liberal Republican Sen. Clifford Case, who opposed Kemp-Roth. "I think Chuck's hearing footsteps," a Senate Republican told us.

BROOKE'S WOES

Even before the personal difficulties of his divorce settlement broke into the open, Sen. Edward Brooke was shown by a private poll to be in deep trouble for renomination by the Massachussetts Republican primary.

"Extra! Extra! Read, see and hear all about it! Supreme Court rules I'm not an evil monster and won't be chopped up!"

Four nights of rodeo kicks off Wednesday

By MARJ CARPENTER

Four big nights of rodeo will highlight the 45th annual event in Big Spring this week with performances at 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday through Saturday at the rodeo arena near the fair barns.

Once again Tommy Steiner will produce the show. Steiner, who headquarters in Austin is one of the top rodeo producers in the business.

The clowns this year are Quail Dobbs, well-known Coahoma rodeo clown who is well-known throughout the nation in rodeo, and Jack Sheifield.

Four musical stars for the four nights of rodeo include the country western singer, Judy Lynn who performs at Wednesday night's opener; Billy Walker on Thursday, Fiddling Frenchie Burke on Friday and Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys on Saturday.

LONGTIME HEAD — Charlie Creighton and Malcolm Patterson are shown going over details for this year's big show. Creighton is the last charter member on the board of directors and serves as president. Patterson is parade marshall and secretary of the board.

Vicki Tyer and Micki Dahn McNutt will present trick riding numbers at the show nightly.

Steiner had the largest number of XOS Ranch stock represented at the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City this past December. All of these top animals will see action in the Big Spring Arena.

Making his first trip to the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion will be Don Endsley of Drasco, Ark. Don's colorful commentary of all the action will help make the rodeo an enjoyable and exciting experience for everyone.

Dobbs, who is now probably the most sought-after clown in the rodeo business works such rodeos as the Cheyenne Frontier Days, the Houston Livestock Show, Calgary, Canada and many more.

Sheifield is from Austin and is also one of the outstanding bull fighters in the business today.

The local rodeo will again feature the Winston scoreboard, which allows the fans to keep up with all the times and scores and follow the arena more closely.

The cowboys and cowgirls earning prize money during the rodeo here will also be trying to qualify for the first state wide finals to be held in Abilene in November. This will have the same format as the National Rodeo Finals in Oklahoma City but will feature the top 15 contestants in each event from rodeos held only in Texas.

The stars will hold dances after the rodeo in the County Fair Barn.

The parade will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday and will feature the Queen of the American Association of Sheriff Posses and Riding Clubs and many riding groups as well as floats by various businesses and organizations around the community.

A barbecue will be held by the Kiwanis Wednesday from 5-8 p.m. at the Old Settlers Pavillion in Comanche Trail Park. The riding groups will be served at a barbecue at the fair barns.

The barbecue at the park is open to the public with tickets on sale by Kiwanis members or at the barbecue.

Tickets for the rodeo itself are $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. They are available at the Coahoma State Bank, Big Spring Chamber, First National Bank, First Federal Savings, Ward's Western Wear, Smallwoods, Western Wear, Citizens Credit Union and Driver Insurance.

Tickets also are available nightly at the gate.

JUDY LYNN
. . . opening night star

First night star slated

Country Western music is a favorite of lots of folks, but the folks who hear Judy Lynn present Country Western end up liking it whether they are a fan or not.

Judy Lynn is the star who dared to take Country Music to Las Vegas, where everybody predicted it would fall on its face.

After ten years at the Golden Nugget, she turned the place into a home for country performers and has done more than her share to get the music accepted by the audiences.

After more than a decade in the business, she is still a delight and will have people tapping their foot in time to her numbers.

One local fan wrote in singing her praises this week, delighted with the local rodeo association for bringing her to Big Spring.

"I'm working now because I want to present a good show," she bubbled over recently as she was making the fair and rodeo circuit.

She has played at top clubs all over the United States. She originally went to the Miss America Pageant as Miss Idaho and although she didn't win the big title, she won an international career.

It's a long way from the Snake River Stampede in Nampa, Idaho to the plush digs of the Las Vegas Strip, but Judy Lynn made the trip gracefully.

She has played in New York's Carneige Hall and the London Palladium, but Judy Lynn keeps in touch with the people through her annual rodeo and fair tour and she'll be in Big Spring at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday night only.

Square dance set

A goold old-fashioned square dance will again be the kickoff event for the rodeo and will be held at 8:30 p.m. tonight.

The dance will be on the east side of the Howard County court house and everyone is invited to come and join in the fun.

The local square dance club will be featured at the street dance.

Riding groups dominate parade

A large number of riding groups will be featured in this year's rodeo parade Wednesday afternoon which takes the traditional route north on Main Street from the old clinic or the new location of State National Bank, down to the courthouse and around the square and south on Scurry past the Big Spring Herald.

The groups this year include the Lubbock Saddle Club, the Sundowners Riding Club of Snyder, Dawson County Sheriff's Posse, San Angelo Saddle Club, Scurry County Posse, Abernathy Riding Club, Post Posse, Ector County Posse, Scurry County Junior Posse and Lubbock Rangers.

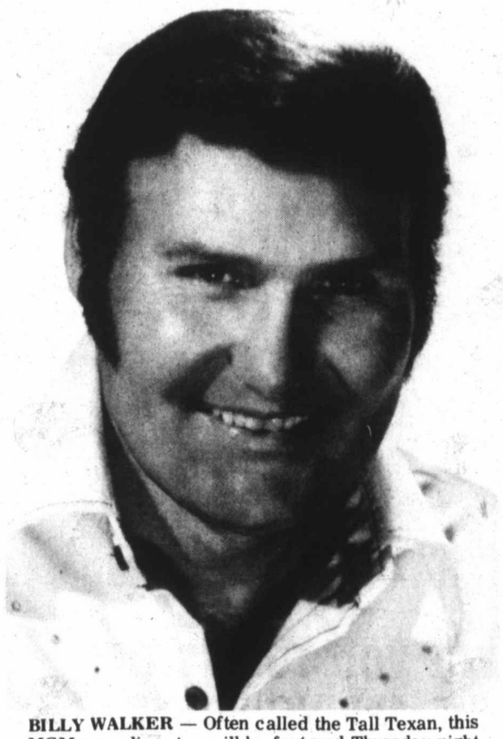

The Howard County Sheriff's Posse and the Howard County Youth Horsemen are co-hosts for the event.

At the parade, each posse and saddle club rider receives one barbecue ticket to a barbecue for the parade riding groups which is held at the fair barns. This is separate from the public barbecue in the park, according to Mrs. Ruby Allred, secretary of the local posse. Each rider receives two rodeo tickets.

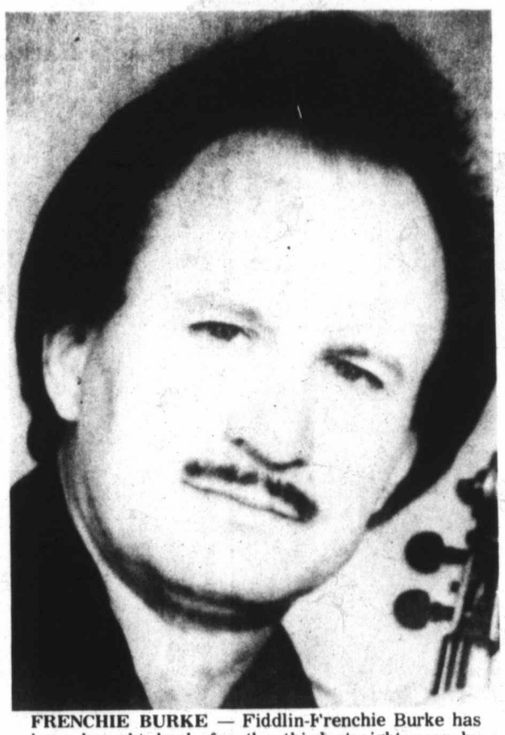

Among the dignitaries featured in the parade will be Miss Renee Crisp, 1978 queen of the American Association of Sheriff Posses and Riding Clubs.

Others will include Garland Hargis, Ft. Worth, president of the group, Becky Albers, Lubbock, regional princess and Inga Stewart, San Angelo and Julia Johnson, Lubbock, district queens.

Malcolm Patterson is parade marshall again this year. Floats will be judged with prizes awarded. There will also be trophies for the top riding groups in the parade, which are judged by a separate group of judges.

BILLY WALKER — Often called the Tall Texan, this MGM recording star will be featured Thursday night with such great hits as "Cross the Brazos at Waco" and "Charlie's Shoes" for an evening of top entertainment on Thursday at the Big Spring rodeo. The show starts at 8:30 p.m. followed by a dance featuring Walker in the Fair Barns after the show.

FRENCHIE BURKE — Fiddlin-Frenchie Burke has been brought back for the third straight year by popular demand and will be the featured star at Friday night's rodeo performance. This master of the fiddle features "Frenchie's Cotton-Eyed Joe", "Tib Mamou" and others with Cajun fiddling at its best. He will star in the dance after Friday's show.

HOYLE NIX — Wellknown and well-loved in West Texas is Big Spring's own Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys. They feature western swing with such greats as "Big Balls in Cowtown" and "The Orange Blossom Special" on Saturday night for the final performance. They will also be featured at the final dance.

Stars featured at each show

Stars will be featured nightly as part of the big annual Big Spring rodeo.

On opening night, the Judy Lynn show will kick off our great nights of singing stars. She is billed as America's favorite singing cowgirl. Her "Elusive Butterfly" has been sung all over the country.

On Thursday, Bill Walker will perform and will surely receive a big Texas welcome for this recording artist often is billed as the Tall Texan.

Friday brings back Fiddling Frenchie Burke for the third straight year because Big Spring rodeo fans enjoy his Cajun fiddling music.

The final night is a tradition and is Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys. The Big Spring product played years ago with Bob Wills and is on constant call all over West Texas for performances.

Champion eyes three

Tom Ferguson, current world champion, sets his goals high. His dream, he says, is to take all three championships in the same year:

By the end of the next two seasons, Tom had nailed down two more all-around crowns (Leo Camarillo shared the one in 1975) and was banking around $60,000 a year. Then, in 1976, the cowboy was sizzling hot. He took money out of almost 100 rodeos, going on to the National Finals Rodeo where he claimed $9,005 and the world all-around buckle. With Winston and PRCA bonus payoffs, Ferguson became rodeo's first $100,000-a-year cowboy.

QUAIL DOBBS
. . . Coahoma's own star

Rodeo clowns add to show

Quail Dobbs is a Big Spring rodeo legend in recent years. Raised in Coahoma, he is a great favorite in some of the top rodeos in the world and especially is a favorite in Big Spring.

He will be assisted this year again by Tommy Sheifield of Austin. Tommy is one of the outstanding bull fighters in the business today.

"The protector of the cowboy, the entertainer of the crowd," so said a well-known sports commentator. He was referring, of course, to the rodeo clown. Rodeo clowns come in all shapes and sizes and all have to be top-notch athletes in peak physical condition. They have to be agile, alert, fearless, have the memory of a computer and an encyclopedic knowledge of bulls.

There are basically two types of clowns, the bullfighter and the barrelman. They both have serious jobs to do with a little flair of comedy thrown in.

The bullfighting clowns are the track stars. They are out in the arena to distract the unpredictable bull from a downfallen cowboy. Pick-up men on horseback can't be used around the ill-tempered animals.

Sometimes bull riders get "hung up", their hand becomes caught in the rope, they are dragged helplessly, virtually a prisoner of the bull. The clown moves in to free the cowboy's hand and focus the attention of the bull on himself.

The bullfighter will get down on his knees, pawing the ground like an angry toro, while staring the immodest beast in the face. He will grab the bull by the tail, the horns, or even jump over him. The clown will play a game of ring-toss, using an oversized innertube as his ring and the horns and head as the target. A dead ringer is a delight to all ages.

The other type of rodeo clown is the barrelman. He uses himself and his barrel as a diversionary obstacle. He hauls a heavy, battered, reinforced metal barrel around, and folds himself up inside like an accordion. Once inside the barrel, he awaits the blows of the irate bull and sometimes receives an unwelcome horn or hoof inside with him.

The first barrels used were closed at one end with a rope attached to the bottom for the barrelman to grasp. In 1949, the great Jimmie Schumacher originated the two-hole barrel. This invention not only gave mobility to the barrelman, it also provided an escape hatch when nosey bulls stuck their heads in the top.

Rodeo clowns have been known as far back as 1904 when the renowned Will Rogers appeared at the St. Louis World's Fair as a rodeo clown for Colonel Zack Mulhall's Wild West Show. Among the early greats are Jasbo Fulkerson, George Mills, Hoyt Hefner, John Linsey, Homer Holcomb, Elmer Holcomb, Jimmie Nesbitt, Benny Bender, Homer Harris, Billy Keen, Pinkey Gist, Red Sublette and Jimmie Schumacher.

Rodeo clowns are entertainers during lulls in the arena action. These funny men come to rodeos equipped with a menagerie of trained mules, horses, dogs, monkeys, ducks, skunks, not to mention comical cars. They may also compete as professional cowboys in rodeo events.

Some have even started their own clown and bullfighter schools, several of which are held each year for young, aspiring potential clowns.

Clowns are contract members of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association. They are hired by stock contractors and rodeo committees. The clowns are paid a salary but pay their own expenses. They travel as hard and fast as most cowboys, criss-crossing the country by truck and trailer rather than plane because of their props and miscellaneous acts.

All in all, the rodeo clown is a regalia of grease paint, baggy pants, a child's vision of wonderment,

Big Spring draws stars

The Big Spring Rodeo, in its 45th year, again will draw some of the top contenders in rodeo for the four nights of performances here.

Many of the big stars fly back and forth between two shows, but Big Spring always draws some world leaders.

Among the bareback contenders here this year will be Bruce Ford of Greely, Colo., who is currently in the national lead in this event, he will be here along with Jack Ward of Springdale, Ark. who has been in the national finals often in this event. He is a former Odessa cowboy.

Big Spring's Jack Himes, along with Lyle Sankey of Rose Hill, Kansas will also be top contenders in this event.

Although in rodeo, you never can tell. On a given night an unknown can knock off the champions. But in saddle broncs, Bobby Berger of Norman, Okla. is certainly expected to be strong since he's already collected about 15 grand this season. Monty Henson of Mesquite is always good in this event and will be back to Big Spring.

In bull riding, watch for Don Gay, top bull rider for the past three years. Denny Flynn of Springdale, Randy Majors of Comanche, Berger, and Bill Connell a past champion will be among the top bull riders at this year's show.

In calf roping, watch Phil Lynes of Artesian Wells, Barry Burk of Duncan, Okla., Jeff Coepngagen of Oleda and Kim Gripp of up in the plains area. These are all champions at one time or another.

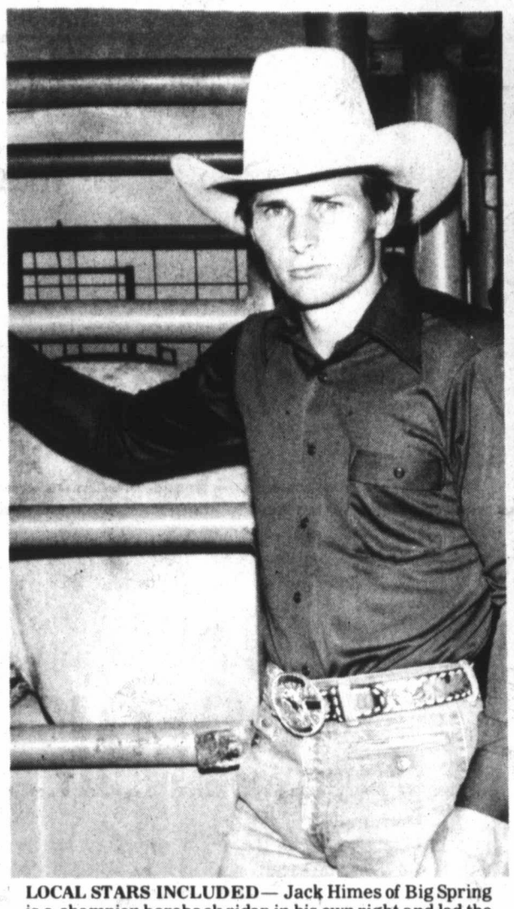

Top steer wrestlers expected here include the 1976 champion, Rick Bradley of Burkburnett as well as Rex Bland of Trent who has been in the national finales on many occasions and Butch Bodine, well-known dogger from Milano.

The top roping teams include Guy Allen, who was the 1977 single roping star and his brother, Gip Allen, as well as James Allen, past singles steer roping champ from Santa Anna and Phil Lyne and Rex Bland and George Cox.

But in team roping, you better watch them all.

Carol Goosetree, currently in the lead in barrel racing in the nation, will be a contender along with past champions such as Jimmie Gibbs of Valley Mills and Connie Combes of Comanche, Okla., Terri Himes, Thay Lewis, who are both local riders and many others.

Attend The Big Spring Rodeo

LOCAL STARS INCLUDED— Jack Himes of Big Spring is a champion bareback rider in his own right and led the field here last year in that event, knocking off some of the top riders. Thay Lewis, shown at the right, is one of the top barrel riders in the country traditionally in the top 15 riders in the country in barrel racing more years than not. These two locals join a long list of top rodeo stars to perform in the four shows this week.

Ferguson leads the pack in '78

Tom Ferguson, a 27-year-old out of Miami, Okla. has participated in the last two Big Spring shows but was not yet registered for this year's competition early in the week.

He is one of the winningest cowboys the sport of rodeo has ever seen — and it looks like he's not going to stop winning any time soon. Late in 1972, Tom came on the pro-rodeo scene like a shot out of a cannon, and he hasn't stopped flying since.

For the second year in a row, Ferguson cracked the $100,000 mark in a single season. He first set his name against a $114,110 earnings column on his way to the PRCA and World All-Around championships in 1976. Last year, with arena earnings and bonus money, Tom salted away $100,080.

Ira, the patriarch of the Ferguson family and former timed-events hand, got his sons started in rodeo when the family lived in San Martin, Ca., and always kept them in stock and horses. It's still a family affair, of sorts; Tom's wife, Debbie, sometimes travels with him, hauling the horses while her spouse grabs a snooze, and his older brother, Larry, took the PRCA steer wrestling championship last year.

Tom donned his first world all-around buckle, the calf roping title and came within a hair of taking the steer wrestling crown in 1974.

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD
. . . trick rider

Young Trickster to perform here

Fourteen-year-old Micki Dahn McNutt of Stuart, Oklahoma, will be featured in the local rodeo and leads a very busy life traveling across the North American Continent thrilling crowds with her acrobatics on hroseback. At this early age she has become quite popular and in demand as a rodeo trick rider. She has to her credit the experience of having performed in many of the major rodeos in the United States and Canada and entertained for six consecutive weeks (a total of some 60 performances) in an exclusive dinner club equestrian show in Mexico City.

Micki Dahn began her career at the age of 9, receiving her professional trick riding training from her Aunt and Uncle, Vicki and Leon Adams, world famous trick riders and horsemen. Micki Dahn admits she's a dyed in the wool trick rider. "There's nothing now I'd rather do," she says. "I think I'll always be a trick rider. You never learn all there is to be learned," she said.

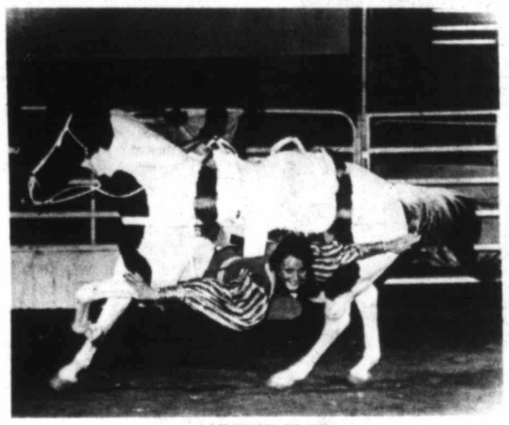

A few of the rodeos Mick Dahn has performed at are Texas State Fair, Jackson, Mississippi, Montgomery, Alabama, Burwell, Nebraska, Atlanta, Georgia, Jacksonville, Florida, and Morris, Manitoba, Canada.

To help keep in condition and to acquire the poise, agility, and coordination necessary to trick riding, Micki Dahn trains in gymnastics and is a member of the competitive gymnastics team at the McAlester Girl's Club.

Even though her travels take her away from the classroom, it does not take her away from her studies, as she maintained a 3.9 grade average at Stuart Junior High where she was named Valedictorian of her Eighth Grade graduating class this past spring. Micki Dahn is also active in sports and 4H Club work. She was named Yearbook Queen for the Junior High this past school year.

Micki Dahn performs her fast and daring stunts on her beautiful palomino mare she calls Sugar. Some of the acrobatic stunts that you will be seeing her perform at the Big Spring Rodeo will be the Stroud Layout, The Fender Layout, The One Foot Fly Away, The Cossack Drag, Vaults and Spin the Horn, and the famous Hippodrone Stand. Micki Dahn has a beautiful wardrobe of brightly colored jumpsuits designed with many rhinestones and sequins.

The remainder of 1978, will be taking Micki Dahn to other cities such as Atlanta, Indianapolis, Memphis, Louisville, Dallas, and Kansas City.

VICKIE TYER
. . . speciality rider

Young top trick rider featured in rodeo

Vickie Tyer, one of the speciality acts in the Big Spring rodeo this year, will perform nightly Wednesday through Saturday during the show.

A childhood dream became reality for Vickie, one of the top professional trick and fancy riders in the running horse.

"I first saw trick riding as a small child when I attended the local rodeos. I was fascinated by it and made it my goal in life," says the brown-eyed specialist who has caught the eye of professionals in the business and captured the hearts of spectators young and old.

Not coming from a rodeo family or having the opportunity to learn and practice everyday proved no obstacle for Vickie. She worked to earn money for trick riding lessons from World Champion Dick Griffith.

A kowledge of horsemanship is instrumental in trick riding as well as style, coordination and balance. She displays them all with equal ease.

Becoming a member of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association in 1974, Vickie displayed her ability and was accepted readily at some of the largest rodeos in the world including the Cheyenne Frontier Days, Fort Worth Fat Stock Show, Little Rock, Burwell, Nampa, Belle Fouche, the Kentucky and Indiana State Fairs, The Pacific International and the Denver National Western.

Riding her brown and white paint horse, she performs fast colorful runs including such acrobatic stunts as reverse flips to the neck of the horse and vaults off the rear. Vickie Tyer has become nationally known for performing the most daring and most difficult feat of all time. The feature trick is to pass under the belly of a running horse.

Vickie has combined showmanship, beautiful wardrobes and the rare art of trick and fancy riding to give rodeo spectators the thrill and excitement they expect when she enters the arena.

Long road leads Ward to bareback championship

Jack Ward of Springdale, Ark., finally poked his head through the clouds in the right year at the National Finals Rodeo to capture his premier world title in bareback riding. It "ended" a long journey down the rodeo road for Jack, who picked up his PRGA permit in 1969.

He's made it to the Finals each year since 1972; several times, he's been up for the all-around championship after qualifying in bull riding, too. Jack was runnerup for the world bareback crown last year after winning the NFR average in the event for the third consecutive time. If the new system of determining world champions had been put into effect three years earlier, Ward — as the winner of the most money at the Finals — would be donning his third her aunt and uncle, Vicki

Jack and younger brother James, who grew up in Odessa, Texas, first made their names known on the intercollegiate circuit. Jack took the national bull riding title in 1969, and James followed several years later with the collegiate all-around crown. The younger Ward broke his neck last summer at the Red Lodge, Mont., rodeo, and although he came out of it, Jack says "it doesn't look like he'll get to rodeo anymore."

For Jack, however, this season brought the "spoils." At the '77 NFR, he used the new absence of average payoffs in the riding events to his advantage. All of the money went into the go-round payoffs, and Ward didn't miss his chance to collect. The cowboy took back-to-back victories in the first two rounds, then came back on his next mount to split third. He wound up placing three more times, including another first, to collect a total of $6,987 — capping a $35,509 season.

Ward is the bareback riders' representative on the PRCA Board of Directors. According to him, the job is a "challenge" and a chance to find out how the sport is run.

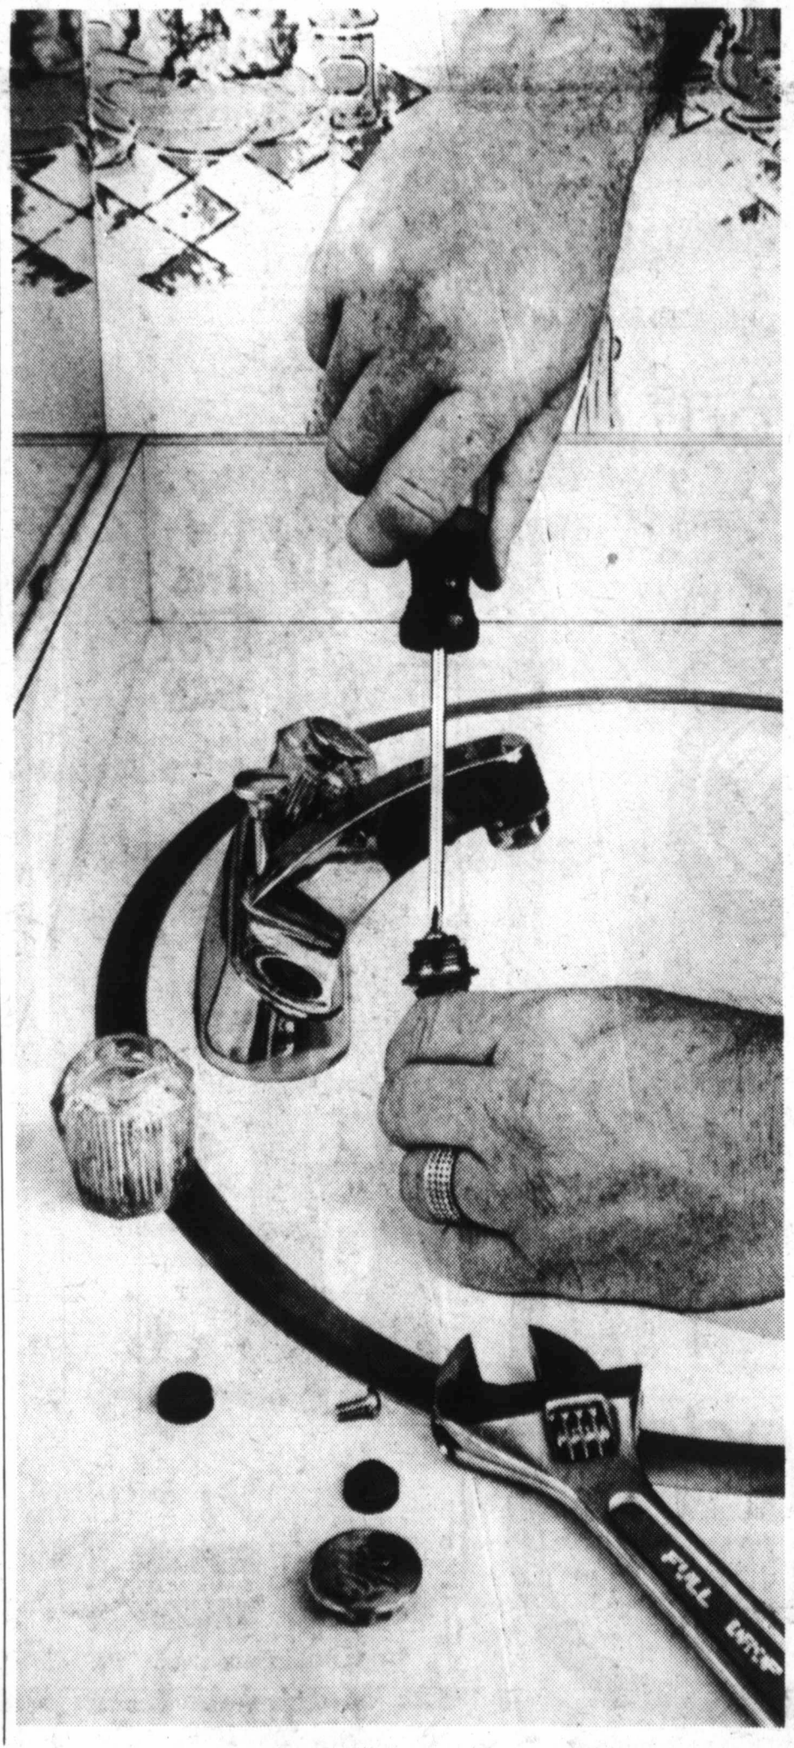

Rodeos begin in November

The rodeo season runs from early November to the end of the next October and includes more than 578 PRCA-sanctioned contests in the United States and Canada. The cowboys who win these titles in each of seven categories — saddle bronc, bareback and bull riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, team roping and steer roping — usually have traveled the hardest and rodeoed the most consistently throughout the year.

Don Gay: He can ride bulls!

Don Gay of Mesquite will again be at the Big Spring rodeo. He made rodeo history at the last contest of the 1977 regular season, and it meant triple rewards for him. The 24-year-old, who has dominated bull riding for the past four years, topped RSC's bull "Oscar" for a record 97 points at the San Francisco, Calif., rodeo.

The ride broke the old mark of 96 points set in 1974 by John Quintana. It also broke a near deadlock in the season-end Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association bull riding championship. Butch Kirby of Alba, Texas, was trailing Gay by a mere $24 going into the Cow Palace contest. But the ride earned Don first-place money — $2,414 — and his fourth consecutive year-end title. He wound up placing at 67 different rodeos for a total of $35,053.

When it came time for the world championship to be decided at the National Finals Rodeo, Don let everyone know he was there, too; this time, however, it was a ride-off. After ten regular rounds of competition, Gay and Randy Magers, of Comanche, Texas, were deadlocked with $6,521 each toward the title. Magers bucked off his ride-off bull; Gay hung on for 77 points and his second consecutive world crown.

Don grew up in rodeo. His father, Neal, was a bronc rider in the Association for years, and now runs the weekly Mesquite Championship Rodeos held during the summer months. Don and his brother, Pete, who is a former NFR bull rider, got their start at the Mesquite contests.

The cowboy, who also wins money in saddle bronc riding, used to pilot his own plane to rodeos, but since has modified his travel plans. He's looking for a smaller plane, and now usually lets a private pilot worry about the instruments — while he's busy contemplating the next bull.

She Wonders How Boyfriend Got It

DEAR ABBY: Can a person get poison oak through his clothes? My boyfriend got the most terrible case you ever saw. (I don't even want to mention where he got it the worst.)

Answer right away, Abby, because if he couldn't have gotten it through his pants, it is all over between him and me. Thank you.

MISSY

DEAR MISSY: My medical experts tell me it's not easy to get poison oak through one's clothing, but it's possible. Don't scratch him off your list.

DEAR ABBY: I am married and have two small children. I also have a loving and devoted husband. What more could a wife want, right?

Well, for the last year I have had a secret desire for another man. I never dreamed that such thoughts would ever enter my head, and my husband would die if he knew it.

The other man doesn't know how I feel about him. I see him often (he's a butcher at the supermarket where I trade), and the thrill I get out of just looking at him makes me ashamed. I know he's married and has a family, so nothing could ever come of this, but I can't help how I feel.

The Good Book says that to lust after someone is the same as committing adultery. I feel so ashamed and guilty. What's wrong with me?

LUSTING IN MY HEART

DEAR LUSTING: There is nothing "wrong" with you that isn't wrong with the rest of humanity. You are indulging in fantasy, which is normal—and harmless. The guilt feelings over your daydreams are doing you more harm than the daydreams. Don't dwell on them.

Now, go scrub the kitchen floor and take a cold shower—you'll feel better.

DEAR ABBY: I have preschool children and a large home to care for, but I schedule my time so that everything gets done. When the children nap, I read, write letters, watch TV or just relax.

However, lately nearly every afternoon a certain neighbor barges in on me. She helps herself to refreshments, then settles down for an endless outpouring of gossip, unasked-for advice and a monologue of opinions on various subjects. She is tiresome, boring and a vicious gossip.

I would pretend not to be home, but she can see my car in the carport. At first I found her entertaining, but she comes so often, I've taken a dislike to her. What should I do? No names or location, please. She has a sharp tongue and would make a better friend than an enemy.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: People who open their doors to bores and tolerate their company day after day have only themselves to blame. By your failure to discourage her, you encourage her.

If I had to make a choice between having a vicious, gossipy, gutsy pest for a friend or an enemy, I'd opt for the latter.

Farm-bred feminist says the two mix

WATKINS, Minn. (AP) — Farm life and feminism may seem like strange bedfellows, but not to chicken farmer Marianne Bruesehoff.

Ms. Bruesehoff, who raises 2,000 to 3,000 chickens in addition to helping with other farm duties and canning 1,000 quarts of vegetables, jams, fruits and pickles a year, has left home three times since last fall to represent rural woman in busy urban centers.

In November, she attended the National Women's Conference in Houston as a Minnesota delegate. In February, she was in Washington for a government-sponsored conference on rural women.

In March, Ms. Bruesehoff was back in Washington as an appointee to the International Women's Year continuing committee, set up to implement the national plan of action adopted by the women's conference.

Ms. Bruesehoff, who grew up on an egg produce farm in Long Lake, Minn., said she, her four sisters and one brother were raised in an atmosphere of equality.

"We were expected to assume family and business responsibilities, and it never occurred to my parents or to us that there was any distinction in ability," she said.

After Ms. Bruesehoff was married, she helped run the family farm, considering herself a partner with her husband, Hilton, who also works at the Cold Spring Granite Co. She started the poultry business eight years ago.

However, Ms. Bruesehoff, who is an avid reader, said she became incensed when she began running across material that pointed out the discrimination faced by women. That meant her two daughters might be restricted from doing anything they wanted.

"I'm offended by the assumption that men are the responsible members of the human race," she said.

Ms. Bruesehoff wrote a letter nominating herself as a delegate to the National Women's Conference while watching her daughter Laurie, 21, rebuild an automobile motor.

"I looked out the window and all I could see were bare feet sticking out from the car," she said.

Ms. Bruesehoff, whose involvement in women's rights has not been popular with many in her community, said she found the meeting reassuring because it helped erase her feeling of isolation as a rural feminist.

"I've always thought I wasn't marching along to the mainstream of society," said Ms. Bruesehoff, whose husband is sympathetic to her feelings.

"Your wife is a part of your life," he said. "She's half-partner in your business . . . You might say it's kind of dirty the way some women are treated."

Ms. Bruesehoff says she has tried to instill a non-authoritarian gentleness in her two sons and has brought up her daughters to be self sufficient — "that they shouldn't have the idea of getting married to have somebody to take care of them."

The Bruesehoff children have not shown an interest in farming. "The kids are still remembering the hard work," Ms. Bruesehoff said.

But for Ms. Bruesehoff rural life is just fine, especially since she has become acquainted with other women who share her views.

"I not only love it, I need it," she said. "It's just the only place I can imagine living."

Tip for a waitress

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Doctor Wallace: I am in my first year of college and work part-time as a waitress to help support my expensive habit — education.

While I am paid a small salary, tips are the major source of finances. You would be shocked at the number of people who leave little or no tips. What cheapskates!

Let their coffee cup become half-empty, and hear them holler, but to leave a decent tip would break their hearts.

How can I hint that their tip is part of my salary? — Joan, Ridgecrest, Calif.

Joan: You have got a lot to learn both in and out of college. A tip is actually a gift normally given for good to superior service. There is no rule that says a patron must tip (granted a few restaurants automatically include a 15 percent gratuity).

If you want to receive your share of the tipping trade, be courteous, smile, keep those coffee cups filled, and be the best waitress in the house.

Dr. Wallace: My brother was eligible to vote in the last election for the first time.

He was planning to vote for a certain candidate but changed his mind after talking to our uncle.

Uncle Fred told my brother he would give him $10 to change his vote and vote for the candidate my uncle was backing.

My brother agreed to change his vote and received

Don't you think my brother was wrong? — Tanya, Joliet, Ill.

Tanya: Not only was your brother wrong, but your Uncle Fred also displayed poor judgment.

Voting in America is our procedure for keeping our great country free and should not be taken lightly. Many people have given the ultimate sacrifice to keep it this way.

Please share my answer with your brother and with Uncle Fred.

Dr. David Rickey, chapter president, reviewed the chapter's goals for the coming year. One goal is to raise $7,300 in donations compared to $4,880 raised last year. The goal amounts to a 24 cent donation per capita population.

Goals were also set for CPR instructors, blood pressure screenings and heart curriculum education.

The chapter's monthly meetings will resume in September.

UNHAPPY REGGIE — New York Yankees Reggie Jackson argues with home plate umpire Ken Kaiser after he is called out on strikes by Boston Red Sox pitcher Tom Burgmeier in the sixth inning of play Monday night at Fenway Park. Boston took the first of the three game series 10-4.

Rangers end A's 11 game losing streak

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Oakland's Steve Renko had a two-hitter going against the Texas Rangers and would have preferred to pitch a while longer when manager Jack McKeon gave the signal in the eighth inning.

"You want to go nine innings, but Jack made the right move. Lacey came on, and then Sosa did a heck of a job in the ninth," said Renko, who evened his record at 2-2 with the A's 2-1 victory Monday night.

Catcher Jeff Newman delivered the game-winning blow, an eighth-inning home run into the left field bleachers, and Oakland ended its losing string at 11 games. Texas got just the two hits from Renko and one hit the last two innings off Bob Lacey and Elias Sosa.

Renko had retired seven batters in a row going into the eighth, but manager Jack McKeon called for Lacey when second baseman Mike Edwards bobbled a ground ball and let a runner on first. Mike Hargrove bunted to Lacey for a double play, and Bert Campaneris grounded out to end the inning.

With one out in the ninth, Richie Zisk walked for Texas and McKeon made another change, bringing Sosa in to face Bobby Bonds. Bonds singled, and both runners advanced on a ground out. Sosa walked Jim Sundberg to load the bases and then got Toby Harrah on a grounder to end the game.

It was Sosa's 10th save of the year.

"We've been letting the pitchers stay in too long, then the next guy hits it and it's gone. We were going at it hitter by hitter, after the sixth really," McKeon said.

Renko got an early 1-0 lead on Joe Wallis' single on the first pitch of the game, Dell Alston's sacrifice bunt, and Taylor Duncan's single.

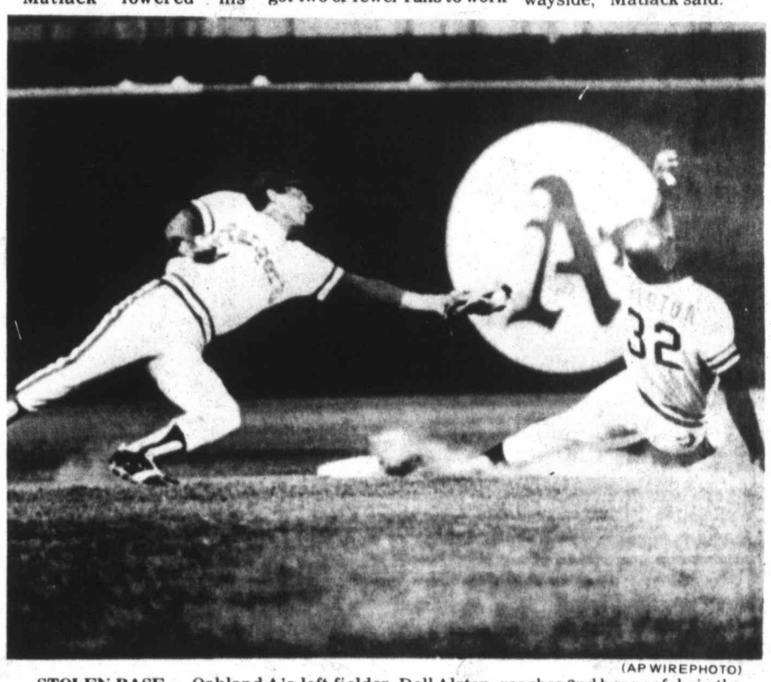

The Rangers tied it in the fifth when Harrah walked, stole second and scored on Hargrove's single.

Besides the ninth, the Rangers loaded the bases one other time but couldn't score. Renko walked three batters in the third, but got Bert Campaneris to hit into a double-play that ended the inning.

Matlack allowed Oakland only six hits, and had retired 16 of 17 batters before Newman hit an ankle-high change-up out of the park for his fourth homer of the season.

Matlack lowered his earnedrun average to 2.79, best on the ball club, but saw his win-loss record drop to 5-8. It was the fourth time in the past six outings that he got two or fewer runs to work with.

"The thing that bothers me, I don't know how many games I've got in me, and I hate to see them go by the wayside," Matlack said.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

Pole request could start WC revolution

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Polish soccer team, claiming to speak in the interest of fair play, wants Argentina to play a vital World Cup game Wednesday in the afternoon instead of at night.

If the request is granted it could cause revolution. The national team plays its matches at night, unlike the other competing squads, so that the whole nation can watch on television without closing down shops and factories.

While Argentina's games are in progress, the streets of Buenos Aires are empty. You don't see a car, or anyone on the sidewlks. Everyone is at home in front of their screens.

There is some logic behind the Polish protest, which has been sent to the International Soccer Federation (FIFA). Argentina and Brazil are racing neck and neck for top place in Group B, and Wednesday's games will decide which team wins the group and gets a place in the final.

Brazil is set to play Poland Wednesday afternoon, and Argentina faces Peru in the evening. If Brazil and Argentina are still even on points, the team with the better goals record goes into the final.

The argument is that Argentina will go on the field knowing the result of Brazil's game and knowing exactly how many goals it must score.

Brazil was the first to object. But Poland is involved too because theoretically it could still reach the final or more likely, the play-off for third place.

U.S. Open bridesmaids

DENVER (AP) — J.C. Snead and Dave Stockton were the bridesmaids in the 78th U.S. Open, but they accepted their $19,750 second place checks and flirtation with golf's most coveted prize in high humor and admiration for courageous Andy North.

"In a way I would have hated to see him miss that last putt because he would haved had to live with it forever," said Stockton.

"He's certainly a fitting champion. He played with Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player the last two days and he held together."

Snead had a 20-foot putt for birdie on the final hole and Stockton had a 12-footer for par. If either had made their putts, they would have been in a playoff with North.

"I said to David, I didn't know if I wanted a playoff or not," quipped Snead.

Immediately, Stockton kidded Snead about his tee shot on the final 480 yards of treachery at Cherry Hills. Snead's drive hit in the water and skipped out on the fairway like a stone.

"They ought to build a monument to Snead on 18," laughed Stockton.

"Hell, you choked and knocked one over in the bushes," returned Snead as both Mrs. Snead and Mrs. Stockton giggled in the background. "All I did was play a little low shot and bounce it off the water. I knew what I was doing."

Stockton painstakingly described his final round of 1-over-par 72 which included a topped second shot on the 14th hole.

"I didn't realized you played that bad," said playing partner Snead.

Still some pepper in Leo

By the Associated Press

Lunch for Leo Durocher was a plate of vanilla ice cream and a glass of milk, a kind of bland combination for the guy who once was baseball's most combative personality.

But there is still some pepper left in Leo, and it doesn't take much effort to find it. Just knock the All Star vote process, the way Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson did last week, and Durocher is all over you, ready to attack.

How about it Leo, don't you think the players would do a better job voting for the teams than the fans do? That's what Anderson said last week.

Durocher frowned at the question and you got the feeling that if there were dirt around to be kicked, your shoes and pants would have been awfully dirty at that particular moment.

"I like the system the way it is now, with the computer card voting," he said. "What's Sparky's beef? Doesn't he think the team the fans name is good enough?"

Well, essentially, what Anderson is saying is that the fan vote is influenced by expanded media exposure of certain teams. "Anybody that's been in the playoffs or World Series the year before, I promise you, look at his ballots the next year. Television exposes them to 90 million people."

That's why players like Greg Luzinski wandering through a so-so season, and Johnny Bench, who's been out of the lineup for three weeks with back woes, still lead in the vote totals. But Durocher thinks that when the balloting, sponsored by the Gillette Company is completed, managers Tom Lasorda of the National League and Billy Martin of the American League will have solid, representative teams for the July 11 game in San Diego.

"No matter who the fans pick, for either team, I'll take what's left over and I'll give you a battle," said Durocher, a bit of fire in his eye. "Let's say you're managing the National League team. Who's your third baseman? Rose? Okay, I'll take Cey. And then what do you do with Schmidt and Reitz?

"Who do you want at shortstop? Concepcion. Fine. Give me Bowa. There's only room for three outfielders but I can give you a half dozen who ought to be there. Who do you start? Foster, Luzinski and Monday? Okay, but then I'll take three others who are just as good. How can you keep Parker off, or McBride? What about Burroughs?"

Now the juices were flowing. It doesn't take much to get Durocher going, even with only ice cream and milk for fuel.

"Let me tell you, the All Star Game is some spectacle," he said. "Anybody who turns down the honor when he's invited is making a big mistake. Some guys say they'd rather have the three days off but that's bunk. I've had the three days off and let me tell you, I'd rather be at the game. Anytime."

Santone moves to top

By the Associated Press

Rick Nitz pitched a two-hitter Monday as San Antonio slammed El Paso 6-1 to move back on top of the Texas League's western division.

El Paso had taken the division lead Sunday after four straight wins over the Dodgers. The loss in the series' last game dropped the Diablos back to one-half game behind the leaders.

Each team has only six games left in the league's first season. San Antonio plays them at Amarillo while El Paso hosts Midland.

Mickey Hatcher had two hits and two RBI's for San Antonio.

Floyd Rayford was responsible for the Diablos' lone run with a homer. The losing pitcher was Ralph Botting.

Ali the peacemaker?

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, who has been trading verbal punches lately with the Carter Administration, traded bear hugs with boxer Muhammad Ali.

The former world heavyweight champion said that during his 35-minute private meeting with Brezhnev Monday the Soviet leader asked him to serve as his unofficial ambassador for peace to the United States. Ali also said Brezhnev had given him a private message to convey to someone in the United States. Ali declined to discuss it further when he was asked whether the message was for President Carter.

Ali, who has met Carter, former President Gerald R. Ford and Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, was the first American athlete to be received by Brezhnev, Soviet officials said.

Ali, looking ambassadorial in his pin-striped black suit, was greeted by a smiling Brezhnev who ushered him to a long, green-topped table and presented Ali and his wife Veronica with a watch, a painted box and a copy of his wartime reminiscences, "Malaya Zemlya," inscribed: "To Muhammad Ali, for happy memories, L. Brezhnev.

"I know Brezhnev. I've met Brezhnev," Ali exclaimed later to reporters after the meeting. "This is the biggest honor I've ever had in my life.

"I gave him a hug and kiss on both cheeks — that's a great honor for a Negro from the United States, a Negro who had trouble eating in white restaurants a few years ago."

The boxer said he told Brezhnev that " ... I didn't realize from the pictures I've seen and the things I've been told that he was such a quiet and meek gentleman."

At Soviet government expense, Ali has visited Moscow and the central Asian cities of Tashkent and Samarkand, where he prayed in a Moslem mosque and praised Soviet racial harmony.

Ali said he told Brezhnev that during his week touring the U.S.S.R. he has found the Soviet people "as human and as loving as any people on the planet."

Ali told the news conference he was impressed by Brezhnev's desire for peace, and that he also told the Soviet leader, "President Carter and the American government want nothing but peace.

"Our country's too beautiful to be destroyed by bombs and killing people. Nobody wants war. Nobody can win," Ali said.

ALI IS ALI — Former heavyweight champ Muhammad Ali, center, greets a Russian boy, Fedya Uranov, 9, upon his arrival in Moscow last Monday. With Ali is his wife Veronica. Ali said he was "excited and thrilled" to be in the Soviet Union. "It feels just like landing in America or any other country," he said. "Oxygen is oxygen, trees are trees, grass is grass and humans are humans."

Rose, mate splitting sheets

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose, the Cincinnati Reds all-star third baseman, and his wife of 14 years, Karolyn, have separated, an attorney for Rose has confirmed.

"They hope it's temporary and that they'll get back together again," attorney Reuven Katz said Monday.

No legal proceedings have been started, the attorney said.

Rose and his wife were married in January 1964. They have two children: a 12-year-old daughter and an 8-year-old son, Pete Jr.

Neither Rose nor his wife were available for comment.

Supe XIII won't be prime

MIAMI (AP) — Chances are slim that Super Bowl XIII will appear on prime-time television again next January, says National Football League Executive Director Don Weiss.

"Taking all things into consideration, we're thinking more of a 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. start," Weiss said Monday.

Among considerations made by the league before it sets a starting time for the Jan. 21, 1979, NFL championship game are weather patterns and eastern newspaper deadlines.

"We must take all things into consideration," Weiss said. "Sometimes it makes the network people happy. Sometimes it doesn't. And I'm sure if we decide not to play the game in prime time, they will register some disappointment."

IOC issues new dope book

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The International Olympic Committee has issued a new handbook listing banned drugs and defining the procedures for testing for drugs in Olympic athletes.

Prince Alexandre de Merode of Belgium, chairman of the IOC commission that prepared the booklet, said, "No new substances are on the list, only new explanations and new examples."

After a weekend meeting here, Prince de Merode and Dr. George Hart, chairman of the Lake Placid Olympic Committee's medical committee, discussed the issues of drug testing.

"Drug tests are not to hurt the athletes, but to help the athletes," Dr. Hart said. "If drugs are not controlled, we could have cases of morbidity and possibly mortality. Despite the high cost, it is necessary for the protection of the athletes."

Seaver, Guidry named PoW's

NEW YORK — Tom Seaver, who pitched the first no-hitter of his 12-year career last Friday, defeating the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0, was named the National League Player of the Week for the period ending June 18.

Seaver, who had five one-hitters with the New York Mets, walked three and struck out three in winning his seventh straight game and raising his record to 8-4. The three-time Cy Young Award winner has now pitched complete games in his last three starts.

NEW YORK — Ron Guidry, who struck out 18 California Angels in pitching his second consecutive shutout last Saturday, was voted the week's top American League player.

Guidry, who broke Bob Shawkey's team record of 15 strikeouts set 59 years ago, also set an AL record for left-handers. He came within one of tying the single-game major league record for strikeouts in beating the Angels 4-0. In his previous start, Guidry fanned 11 Oakland A's in a 2-0 shutout.

Tennis action prolific

LONDON — John James of Australia upset third-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania 8-6,9-8, the biggest of a string of upsets in the first round of the $125,000 Queen's Club international tennis tournament.

Fifth-seed Tim Gullikson was beaten by fellow American Billy Martin 6-1,9-8, while No.16 seed Jeff Borowiak fell 7-5,6-4 to Terry Moor. Tom Leonard, seeded No.15, was beaten by Roger Vasselin of France 8-6,1-6,6-2.

Britain's Mark Cox, seeded 14th, was beaten 6-2,6-1 by Colin Dibley of Australia. Italian Adriano Panatta went out 6-3,6-3 to Chris Lewis of New Zealand.

Second seed Sandy Mayer of the United States cruised past Von Winitsky 6-2,6-0. Sixth-seeded John Alexander defeated Roger Taylor of Britain 2-6,8-6,7-5, and seventh-seeded John Newcombe beat American Sherwood Stewart 9-8,9-8.

'Boomer' boosts Bosox

By the Associated Press

You can fool all of the sluggers some of the time, but not all of the sluggers all of the time.

George Scott, for instance.

The Boston Red Sox first baseman had gone down on strikes his first three times up against New York Yankee pitching Monday night. Then came the fateful eighth inning.

"When you strike out three times in a row," said Scott, "the law of averages is in your favor. Sooner or later, you're going to make contact."

The "Boomer" finally lived up to his nickname, smashing a tie-breaking single that triggered a six-run rally and started the Red Sox to a 10-4 victory.

The meeting was the first of the 1978 season for the fierce rivals of the American League East Division and was typical of past battles at colorful Fenway Park. Along with rain that delayed things at the start for a while, it had all the thunder expected.

"It's a good win for us," said Boston second baseman Jerry Remy, "because now we can't be swept in this three-game series."

He added: "I don't think there's a game in which we can be counted out, not with our lineup."

In other American League games, the Oakland A's edged the Texas Rangers 2-1; the Kansas City Royals nipped the Cleveland Indians 6-5 and the Seattle Mariners beat the Chicago White Sox 7-4. In the only National League game, the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 in 10 innings.

Carlton Fisk, who keyed a three-run fourth inning with a single, started Boston's gamebreaking eighth with a double off the famous "Green Monster" wall in left center against reliever Rick Gossage. Fred Lynn was walked intentionally to bring up Scott. The big slugger fouled off a bunt attempt and then singled to center, scoring Fisk to snap a 4-4 tie.

Dwight Evans sacrificed and Butch Hobson walked, filling the bases. Rick Burleson singled, scoring Lynn, with Scott also coming around as right fielder Reggie Jackson bobbled the ball for an error. Remy knocked in Burleson with a double and Jim Rice, the AL RBI leader, brought in Remy with the sixth run of the inning with a single.

The victory, Boston's 20th in its last 25 games, improved its East lead to seven games over Baltimore and dropped the defending world champion Yankees into a tie for third place, eight games back.

"We have 90-odd games to go so we can't be overconfident," said Burleson, who had a double and a single, scored two runs and drove in one. "Last year we beat them a lot here and they still won the world championship."

Said New York Manager Billy Martin: "We had hoped to take three straight but now we're going to have to try to win two of three. But even if they win all three here, it's a long season. It's a long way to go."

Royals 6, Indians 5

Clint Hurdle drove in one run and scored two more to pace Kansas City over Cleveland. Hurdle helped the Royals overcome a 2-0 deficit with a runscoring double in the third inning and came home moments later on George Brett's single as the Royals scored four runs.

Lopez aiding fem tour

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, the hottest item in professional golf in the last 33 years, is trailing sparks with her meteoric success this year.

The entire Ladies Professional Golf Association is benefitting from the 21-year-old record shattering rookie, already the richest rookie player — male or female — to use a set of golf clubs.

Lopez, fresh off her fifth triumph in a row, a two-stroke victory over Jane Blalock and Debbie Massey at Rochester's Locust Hill Country Club, leads the field for this week's LPGA event.

"It's given us a superstar, a real celebrity," said Betsy Rawls, a Hall of Famer and now the LPGA tournament director who is setting up this week's Lady Keystone Open.

"The women's tour had been growing by leaps and bounds without her. But she's really given us a boost. People come out just to see her. She's got a quality that attracts people. They like to watch her play," said Rawls, winner of 54 tournaments in her 25 years as a touring pro.

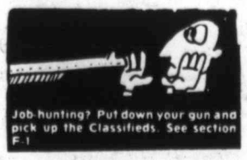

With Arnold Palmer-like flair, Lopez has won five straight tournaments, more than any other woman in the 28-year history of the LPGA. Only Byron Nelson, who won 11 straight events in 1945 on the men's tour, has won more in succession.

Lopez, who's been at par or better in 16 of her last 17 rounds, has won a total of seven tournaments and earned $153,336 since turning pro last July. That's $234 more than previous record holder Jerry Pate, who won two tournaments as a rookie on the men's tour in 1976.

By comparison, no other woman has won more than one LPGA event this year.

"I never thought one person could dominate the tour like that again because we have so many good players," said Rawls, who pocketed a personal high of $24,000 when she won 10 tournaments in 1959.

"It's phenomenal for a firstyear player. She's got everything going for her. If she doesn't win another tournament, she's had a spectacular year already," she added.

Borland wins Jr.

LUBBOCK — Dennis Borland, Lamesa, won the 16-17 division of the junior golf tournament held at Meadowbrook Golf Course here Monday, piecing together a one-over-par 73.

The win automatically qualifies Borland for the West Texas Tournament of Champions scheduled in August.

Sam Hansard, Lamesa, finished a stroke back of Mike Mathis, Lubbock, in the 14-15 age bracket.

A total of 58 golfers took part in the play.

A dual match with Lamesa will be held at the Figure Seven Tennis Center, 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

The Center will also hold a "Mixed Doubles Scramble" this Sunday. Participants need not sign up with a partner, just sign up no later than 10 p.m. Friday.

Play will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Enemy nuclear attack could kill 8 of 10, defense planners say

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sneak enemy nuclear attack on the areas U.S. defense planners consider the most likely targets could kill eight of 10 residents, according to a recent federal report.

"We have no civil defense program, merely the apparatus to start one," said Bardyl Tirana, head of the Pentagon's Defense Civil Preparedness Agency. He supervised President Carter's inauguration before moving to his latest job.

Dr. William K. Chipman, deputy assistant director of the agency, put it this way:

"Assuming people take shelter roughly where they are and assuming people got, say, 15 minutes of warning ... something like 110 million people would survive, give or take a million."

And the nation's vulnerability is not likely to diminish quickly.

America's civil defense program would need about a year of advance warning to provide actual shelter against the initial nuclear blast for half the nation's 230 million people, Chipman said.

A senate governmental affairs committee is set to open hearings today on a plan that President Carter unveiled Monday to reorganize into a single office federal agencies which deal with natural and manmade disasters.

While "there is a strong interest in civil defense ... there has been no decision to increase the emphasis on civil defense," Tirana said of the plan.

Among responsibilities of the new office would be the job of providing federal aid after a terrorist attack, which is not now assigned to any one agency.

The task force that devised the reorganization plan said in its report that "national security capabilities of civilian government at all levels have eroded considerably in the past decade."

Should an international crisis develop now, the Russians would be able to toss "the big chip" onto the table of the highstakes poker game between two nations brandishing the world's most fearful nuclear stockpiles. The "big chip" — in the vocabulary of preparedness agency officials — is the Soviets' ability to quickly evacuate their cities.

The United States, with no up-to-date evacuation plan, has no such chip.

That gives the Soviets two options, according to Dr. Leon Goure, a University of Miami expert on Soviet civil defense.

They can shelter their population in place and give little or no warning to the enemy. Or, he says, they can evacuate their cities, which "could give Moscow major leverage in a crisis situation, especially if the U.S. were unable to disperse, or effectively shelter, its own urban population."

Remembering the Berlin crisis of 1961 and the Cuban missile crises one year later, Americans can appreciate the Soviet desire for "major leverage."

During a March speech to the Institute of American Relations, Paul Nitze, the chief U.S. negotiator for SALT I, recalled the factors surrounding Berlin and Cuba. He concluded that the Soviets gave in to American demands because "there was nothing they (Soviets) could do about it."

"We also had sufficient strategic nuclear superiority so there was no chance that they would go on alert and threaten us in the situation," he said. "The upshot was that they had no alternative but to back down."

Today, the Russians "don't want a nuclear war. They simply want the same advantage we had during the Cuban missile crisis," said Nitze.

Goure quotes four-star Gen. Alexander Altunin, the Russian civil defense chief, to illustrate the Soviet point of view.

Economist proposes rate change

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A basic "customer charge" on an electricity bill "is like charging an entrance fee to a grocery store," says an economist who proposes reducing or eliminating such charges.

Frederick Wells told the Public Utility Commission on Monday that the charge that is levied whether or not the customer uses electriciy discriminates against the poor, who "are generally low-volume users."

Other witnesses testified that commercial and industrial users of electricity already are subsidizing residential customers by paying higher rates.

The commission staff is considering different ways of charging for electricity in a hearing that will end June 28, with the general public scheduled to testify the final three days.

"Utilities love customer charges" because they provide short-term financial stability, said Wells, a Bethesda, Md., resident representing Texas ACORN — Association for Community Organizations of Reform Now.

Wells was asked if the poor might not use more electricity if their rates were lowered, and he replied, "I find it very difficult to imagine."

He was asked what he thought about the distribution of energy stamps to the poor to offset rising power costs, and he replied:

"I support it in theory all right, except it tends to set class against class with the working poor paying for the unemployed. Also, it has all sorts of administrative problems. Generally, I'm not very interested in that."

Washington economists Charles King and John Rettenmayer said each class of electricity customer should pay its own way.

No Roach really means no more roaches

The manufacturers of Johnston's No-Roach are not bragging or boasting . . . they are just stating a fact — No-Roach means exactly that . . . no roaches!

This claim is made with knowledge obtained through twenty years sales experience, thousands of laboratory tests, and millions of satisfied customers.

Johnston's No-Roach is different . . . and it's different for many reasons. No-Roach is clean and easy to use and is effective for months.

When you use Johnston's No-Roach, simply brush this odorless, colorless liquid around baseboards, sinks, tablelegs . . . behind cabinets and appliances . . . on shelves and inside cabinet doors. Use Johnston's No-Roach in bathrooms and anywhere else cockroaches may breed. No-Roach dries fast to form an invisible path of death that kills cockroaches, ants, silverfish, spiders all crawling insects — and best of all it continues to kill effectively for months.

CONTROL ANTS

To keep ants out of the house, brush No-Roach across window frames and door sills. Ants will not cross the coating. No-Roach is available at: Safeway, Furr's, Sav-U, Gibson's, Foodway, Giant Discount and all grocery stores. Dist. by Winn Dixie, Ft. Worth.

Officials trying to dispose of radioactive dirt

WASHINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — The ground erupts like a miniature volcano when a bulldozer scrapes it. Turning the soil with a shovel sends sparks flying.

The dirt is radioactive, and both federal officials and the L.B. Foster Co., whose pipemaking plant is over the patch of ground, want to get rid of it. But how?

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission says the soil is laced with thorium — plus zirconium, a non-radioactive but highly combustible substance.

"If this was just radioactive thorium, you could just dig in and move it," NRC spokesman Ken Clark said Monday from Atlanta.

Workmen experienced the combustibility when they tried to install a machine in the Foster building. They were digging a hole when there was an explosion followed by a flash fire. Sparks shot up 30 feet, singeing the ceiling, said Walter Pavlo, plant manager.

"It's a spewing effect — throwing out rocks or anything in its path. How would you describe lava from a volcano? The ground around it is blazing hot for two hours," Pavlo said.

Several weeks later another explosion boomed when workers tried to dig up some of the radioactive soil.

According to Wood County emergency services director George Fox, once "they had a bulldozer in there and it was doing some grading and it got into it and it melted the tracks right off of it."

The NRC says the level of radiation presents no immediate health hazard to the 70 workers at the plant. But "it is high enough that it can't be allowed to stay in there for long," Clark said.

Foster also wants the contaminated soil removed. The company has been forced to suspend a $2 million construction project while investigators try to find a way to remove the dirt.

The investigators also want to know how the thorium got there.

Since 1957, three companies have owned the property just south of Parkersburg on the Ohio River, and all three — Foster, Amax Inc., and Carborundum Co. — disclaim responsibility for the dumping.

Inflation: how will it affect housing?

NEW YORK (AP) — In its fourth year, old age for an expansion, the economy is getting puffy with high prices and interest rates that, say those who claim to know, means the onset of tougher times.

And that means its time again to wonder what will happen to housing, which in past years always has been hit the first, the hardest and the longest by inflation and the downturns that follow.

Will it happen again? Maybe not. But a little background first.

The economic debate now is not whether a downturn will occur but when, and whether it will be a "rolling adjustment," as the economists call a spell of uneasiness, or something more like a fall on the face.

Samplings so far show an inclination toward the former, although some have dared use "recession," but like a doctor uncertain of his prognosis, prefacing their verdict with "brief" and "mild."

When? Nothing precise yet; maybe 1979, or perhaps not until 1981. The former seems to be nearer the consensus, but one very large bank maintains the odds favor a decline no earlier than 1980.

As usual, the housing markets need not wait. An economy that refuses to acknowledge its weakness always produces a temperature change, measured by the thermometer of interest rates. They are headed up now.

Home mortgage rates have risen in every month this year, and those for conventional loans — not backed by government — reached 9.37 percent in May, matching the highest ever recorded by the Federal Home Loan Bank.

Since mortgage expense often is the biggest factor in homebuying, sometimes doubling the basic cost, it is no surprise that housing starts fell 4.9 percent in May, though remaining at a relatively high level.

But this first symptom could be portentious. In the multifamily market, for example, Advance Mortgage Corp., a Citibank affiliate, forecasts a sharp decline in unsubsidized activity late this year.

Housing's sensitivity is not just with rates themselves, but with the drain on funds such rates produce, because money that in other times would be available for mortgages seeks higher rates elsewhere.

That process has not yet produced an outflow from the traditional mortgage lenders, the savings banks and savings and loan associations, but already it has restricted the funds available for housing.

The nation's mutual savings banks have just learned, for example, that they took in only $100 million over withdrawals last month, the worst May since an outflow of $182 million in May 1974.

The reason is obvious: savings institutions are by law limited in the interest rates they can offer depositors. Simply by transferring funds elsewhere, their depositors might be able to earn more.

However, the pattern of past years may be muted because, effective June 1, government regulations were eased, permitting thrift institutions to offer more competitive 8-year, 8 percent accounts.

Morgan Guaranty also suggests the possiblity that housing may fare better than in other economic cycles because, it says, potential buyers have a heightened recognition of homeownership as an inflation hedge.

And, says the National Associaton of Realtors, "Neither the shrinkage of mortgage credit nor the corresponding boost in interest rates has shown any sign of dampening the existing home market."

Again, the question: Will housing be dumped off its foundation again this year or next, as it has been during other inflation-downturn economic cycles?

It could be, yes, but this time there is a fighting chance it can maintain balance in relation to other sectors of the economy. The public seems eager, and the thrifts seem better able to hold onto cash.

But there is no question at all about costs:

—You will pay more for houses for months to come, and most likely for years and perhaps forever if serious recessions do not result in price deflation.

—You will pay higher and higher rates for mortgage loans — and may not get them at all where usury rates forbid higher rates — until inflation is brought under more control.

Consumer costs could double

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price residential customers pay for natural gas would more than double by 1985 under compromise legislation to deregulate the fuel, the American Gas Association says.

However, the pipeline trade group estimated the average family disposable income would increase at about the same rate. This would leave unchanged the proportion of natural gas costs in the average family budget.

Disposable income is the amount left after taxes.

The association's report Monday was not the first study on higher prices under the compromise, which soon will head for final floor action.

A congressional study said the measure would cost the average family of four that uses gas about $20 a year extra. The legislation would leave natural gas prices without government regulation by 1985.

Residential customers paid an average of $2 for a million heating units of natural gas in 1976, the gas association said.

The legislative proposal would increase the price to $4.36 in 1985, for an increase of 8.1 percent a year, the report said.

The group added, however, that the effects would vary with individual families.

Not Aloha, but hello

with Marj Carpenter

Over 700 persons attended the first anniversary of the Brass Nail, A Big Spring Supper Club, Saturday night.

The luau, held to celebrate, included Hawaiian dancers and a Country Western band, an unusual combination for West Texas.

The party stressed a Hawiian theme with oriental parasols along the top of the bars, straw mats, grass skirts, and palm leaves lining the walls and giant palmetto fans on each post.

The buffet in the club room held a towering arrangement of orchids flanked by two ice sculptures and holding an array of fresh fruit, smoked fish, oysters, shrimp, egg rolls, cheese, ham, turkey and fresh fruits and relishes.

The employees all wore Hawaiian gowns and wore leis or orchids and gardenias in their hair.

The first 500 guests were presented leis of miniature orchids, flown in for the party.

As the crowd continued to arrive, the club added tables until there were no more tables to add.

Charles and Joyce Wash, owners of the club, said, "We appreciate the big response. If we have a second anniversary celebration, we may plan a two-night stand."

There will be some of you who are interested in this and some who will wonder why mention the party in a column.

But I was thinking to myself that since the opening of the Brass Nail one year ago, there has been a long line of openings in this town.

Anybody who has paid attention at all knows that there has been a long, continuous series of ribbon cuttings and ground breaking including openings of cafes, expansion of a savings and loan facility, a new credit union building, a new car dealer building, a new mortuary, a new K-Mart, other night clubs, gift shops, realtor, small businesses, and many others.

There have also been expansion of churches such as the many improvements completed at First Methodist and those yet to come at First Baptist, and all kinds of signs of progress.

Real estate has moved fast and all the dire predictions of a year ago were really from the gloom-peddlers.

About the time Joyce and Charlie opened their new supper club, a lot of folks ventured the idea that they were completely crazy. Some days Joyce and Charlie will agree with them.

But they continue to offer entertainment — for instance, this week, the Long Necks, with country western music Wednesday through Saturday.

To the Washes and all of the many others who have ventured into opening a new business since last summer, we say, "Hurrah for you." And Big Spring is lucky to have so many people with a look-forward attitude.

So instead of saying aloha Big Spring at this point — I would say hello there — one year later. A year ago, it was three months after the announcement that Webb really would close, and three months until it actually had.

That's when things started happening — and have continued to happen — thanks to a lot of people who look forward — out around Big Spring — where I love to ride fence.

Textile union awaits reveiw of regulations

WASHINGTON (AP) — A disgruntled textile workers union is seeking a court review of the government's long-awaited cotton dust regulations, charging that the new rules aren't tough enough to protect workers from "brown lung" disease.

But the textile industry, attacking the Labor Department's standards as excessive and inflationary, warned they will lead to higher cotton goods prices.

The criticism from both sides came Monday in response to the department's announcement of stricter regulations to protect textile workers from high cotton dust exposure, which over time can cause byssinosis and contribute to emphysema and bronchitis.

Byssinosis, or "brown lung," is a disabling and sometimes fatal respiratory disease that afflicts an estimated 35,000 active or retired textile workers.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said the new regulations will protect workers' health without burdening industry with unnecessary costs.

But the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union disagreed.

Murray H. Finley, president of the New York-based union, said the standards "failed to protect the health" of workers exposed to cotton dust.

The textile union, joined by the AFL-CIO, asked the U.S. Court of Appeals here Monday to review the regulations.

The union complained that the permissible cotton dust exposure level for yarning operations is too high. It also objected to a four-year grace period industry would have to meet the final standards, saying the industry can meet the standard now.

However, the American Textile Manufacturers Institute said the new standards are "both highly inflationary and technologically impossible to meet in some areas of the mill."

Institute President Robert Small said the regulations, which begin to take effect in three months, will have "overwhelming financial implications for the entire cotton industry, not to mention boosting the price of any product containing cotton."

The institute appealed the standard to the U.S. Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va.

The Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) estimates the standards will cost industry an initial outlay of $625 million to buy ventilation equipment and other engineering controls and $84 million a year in operational costs.

By contrast, the standards as first proposed in December 1976 would cost industry $2.7 billion in inital outlays and $270 million a year to maintain, OSHA said.

The difference in cost reflects a weakening of the regulations for segments of the industry where cotton dust levels and the incidence of "brown lung" are lower, OSHA said.

Lone Star Gas denied rate increase

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The railroad commission Monday denied Lone Star Gas Co. a temporary gas rate increase in Fort Worth but authorized the company to reinstate rates that were in effect before the city council reduced them May 2.

The old rates date back to Aug. 6, 1977.

E.H. and Lucy Belle Bouillion

E.H. and Lucy Belle Bouillion came to Big Spring in March 1946 and immediately put in what turned out to be a highly successful interior design show, called Lucelle's.

They selected and ordered beautiful furnishings and appointments for many of Big Spring's finest homes, and they learned to love the community.

They retired six years ago after selling their business and stayed in Big Spring, which they consider home.

Their son, E.H. Bouillion Jr. is with Petrofina at Port Arthur. Their son, Bert is at Texas and Wes goes to A&M.

Lucy Belle said she met Elbert when he was "a drummer in Tahoka". She said her father, Mr. Swann, who was an early rancher, told her not to go around drummers, but she did and ended up marrying one.

He served in both World War I and World War II, which is a rarity. He was in the 36th Infantry in World War I and the Signal Corp in World War II.

"We love Big Spring and our many friends here and it is a delight to be selected to be honorees at First Federal Savings during rodeo week," Mrs. Bouillion stated here this week.

Friends of the Bouillions are invited on Wednesday to visit them during the day or while waiting for the parade Wednesday afternoon.

First Federal will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with the Bouillions as the guests of honor on Wednesday.
