

MILLIKEN CHARGES JAIL MISTREATMENT TESTIMONY CLOSES IN CONATSER TRIAL AT ANSON

UNEXPECTED REACH JURY EARLY TONIGHT

SHERIFF AND DEPUTY Y NO THREATS IN CONFESSION MADE

(By Associated Press)
ANSON, Tex., Oct. 21.—The state and defense in the Lloyd Conatser trial and their cases in Judge P. M. The court immediately began preparing his case to the jury, which was expected to be read in the afternoon, with proceedings to begin in the morning. The state recalled Sheriff O'Bar and Deputy Sheriff No. 1, who testified that no threats were made at the time Conatser made his confession.

Conatser took up the fight for his own behalf before the jury in 10th district court here on August 17. He made his own version of the shooting, and the state's version of the shooting was given in testimony to officers and newspaper men after his surrender at Columbus, Miss. that Bill Smith, alias Sheppard also charged with killing, fired all the shots, and fled from the scene at soon as the shooting began.

Abuse Is Charged
The defendant also related a series of abuse and threats which he claimed he received at the hands of Frank Whaley, Taylor, deputy, when he made a statement to Clem Calhoun, district attorney, in which he admitted first to the officers.

Log Case Halted
Tampers Charge
PORT WORTH, Oct. 21.—Charges of tampering with the jury panel, by Judge George E. Hoesy, resulted in postponement Monday of the Harry Canner logging case, in which Canner, a former Port Worth city detective, charged with violating the state mask law.

Charge Is Denied
Marilyn Simpson, defense attorney and District Attorney Jesse Martin, told Judge Hoesy they knew nothing of the alleged tampering, and Martin said his office would begin an immediate investigation.

Roxana Plans Line
From Texas Fields
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Inquiries for six hundred miles of pipe by the Roxana Petroleum company, subsidiary of the Shell Union Oil, in turn controlled by the Royal Dutch-Shell group, have reached steel mills, indicating the company is about to go ahead with construction of a main trunk out of the huge West Texas producing area. The order would give about 61,000 tons and its completion would involve an outlay of $15,000,000. The pipe would have about 20,000 barrels capacity, while additional pipe would make it feasible to run 40,000 barrels daily, and Gulf oil each has lines operating from West and Magnolia is laying a line out of that area.

CONVENTION IS RUSHED FOR THREE DAY TOUR OF VALLEY REGION

(By Associated Press)
DALLAS, Oct. 21.—The closing session of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities commissioners convention here today was being rushed through so more than 100 members might leave shortly after noon on a three day tour of the lower Rio Grande Valley.

The special train will return via Galveston and Houston. There has been arranged a stop over at Brownsville and a visit across the Rio Grande into Mexico.

Two Important Reports
Two of the most important reports prepared to be submitted at the closing session today were from the committee on express charges and public relations.

"Rank discrimination exists in express charges for 'pick up and delivery' service, declares one report. At the same time it praises the American Railway Express company for efficient management, declaring that 'it is evident that specialized service of this kind could best and most economically be operated by a single company as at present.'"

Useless Charge Made
The report explains that express rates include a charge for picking up and delivering packages, whether or not this service is actually performed. In many cases shippers make their own deliveries to the company because they cannot wait for the routine pick up service, it pointed out. This rate question should be adjusted, the report says.

Socialistic propaganda and misinformation is found in many school books dealing with public utilities, says the report on public relations. The report urges establishment of utility courses in schools and colleges and a more wide-spread dissemination of public utility information.

BANKER WOMEN DEPEND ON MEN LEADERSHIP

CONTACT WITH GROUP OF MEN HELD NECESSARY BY EXECUTIVES

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 21.—Women have achieved fame and thorough banking but they look to the male members of banking world for leadership advice.

When the American Bankers association meets at Houston, Texas, October 24 to 27, the association of Bank Women will simultaneously hold its fifth annual convention. The officers of the women's organization, a national group, all of whom are bank executives believe that its members have the benefit of contacts with the men of the larger men's organization.

Some Are Delegates
Some of the women are also delegates to the latter convention. In the same city and at the same time as the men's convention, a small local group of women, the leadership of Virginia Furman, then Assistant Secretary of the Columbia Trust company and dean of women bankers in New York City, agreed upon the advisability of assembling for joint conference the women serving in executive capacity in the banks and trust companies of Greater New York.

In the first year it grew from a local to a national organization. It has a present membership of 204, representing 22 states and 113 cities. Included in the membership list are executives of every rank and title within the gift of any bank or trust company.

The purpose of the association as expressed in a resolution adopted at its inception is: "To encourage mutual helpfulness and cooperation among its members with the end in view of making themselves increasingly valuable to the institutions with which they are associated."
"To help not only its members but other women wishing to take up the same type of work."

Three New Yorkers Serve
In the six years of the association's existence three New York women have served successfully as presidents. Miss Virginia L. Furman, then Assistant Secretary of Columbia Trust Company was followed by Mrs. William L. Lumber, formerly Assistant Cashier of the National City Bank. She was succeeded by Miss Jean Arno Reid, Manager of Women's Department of the Bankers Trust company, who is at present holding office.

In Houston, Texas, Miss Emma L. Meyer, Assistant Cashier, Guaranty National Bank, represents the organization. As local president of the convention she has had the major burden of the preliminary plans.

Covers Bin Field
The program for the convention under the direction of Miss Marjorie E. Schofield, Assistant Secretary, Assistant Treasurer of the Plainedge Trust company, covers subjects of special interest to each type of banker—savings, trust and commercial. Although none are controversial, they are designed to provoke stimulating and constructive discussion, officers said.

An exhibit of the various types of women's banking departments assembled for the first time at last year's convention will be repeated this year under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Robinson, chairman of the Exhibit Committee.

Mrs. Lena Riddle Stock of Austin, Texas, first woman president of the Texas Women's Bankers association organized 14 years ago will speak at the convention. Mrs. Stock, who once was at the head of her own bank in Austin, had also been chief of the banking department of the Texas State Department of Insurance and Banking.

The association is grouped in regional divisions similar to those of the Federal Reserve System, each division under the leadership of a regional vice president. A year book which is a who's who of women in banking is also published.

BAHIA WANTS HOTELS.
Exemption from taxation for 10 years is promised any person for corporation building a new hotel in the State of Bahia, which now is devoid of first-class hostelry. The structure must be 12 or 14 stories high, with at least 500 rooms, each equipped with telephone and hot and cold running water, electric elevators, barber shop, bar and proper sanitary facilities also required.

BALLOON DEMAND SOARS
Actually and figuratively by balloon exports soared during the first half of this year. The United Kingdom took half of the $250,743 worth sold while British India, Canada and Mexico took most of the rest. Canada sold $74,292 for a major share of the rubber toys and balls exported. The United Kingdom spent $20,251 for the next largest consignment.

Treatment Now Is Held Successful In Facial Cancer

(By Associated Press)
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 21.—With modern methods of treatment there is no excuse for persons to neglect cancer of the face and avoid medical aid because of fear of disfigurement, Dr. James M. Martin, professor of the Baylor University college of medicine, Dallas, Texas, declared in an address before the convention of the Interstate Postgraduate Association of North America.

There is a reason for so much difference, Dr. Martin said, and it takes a long time for a belief to become unshaken, once it is fixed in the public mind. Early methods of treating cancer of the face, he said, were far from successful. Cures were few and resulting scars and deformities were so often so objectionable that victims preferred to be dead.

Since then, however, Dr. Martin continued, methods of treatment have improved until death in properly treated cases of cancer of the face, except in advanced stages, is an exception and disfigurements are few.
To seek aid after the cancer has reached advanced stages, Dr. Martin said, was like sending for the fire department after the fire had burned its way through a building.

Ruth Plans Trip Over Atlantic In August Next Year

(By Associated Press)
LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 21.—Ruth Elder, undaunted by forced descent of her plane upon the Atlantic, plans to try to cross from New York to Paris by air again next August.

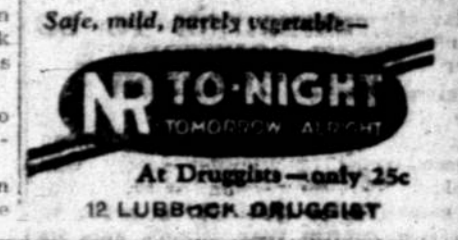

Miss Elder, who has arrived at Porto Delgado, Sao Miguel, Azores, on board the steamer Lima which is bringing her here, declared that she will fly from Lisbon to Paris and then to London. From London she will go by boat to New York and immediately begin preparations for her next venture.

Miss Elder said she intended to stay aboard the Lima until it reached Lisbon, landing here.
A plane has arrived from London which will fly to the mouth of the river here to escort the Lima to its anchorage as a guard of honor, while another plane is expected from Paris which will be placed at Miss Elder's disposal for the trip to Paris.

BIG TEN COACHES FEAR ZUPPKE AND HIS ILLINOIS GRID TRIB

NEW MEN WILL HELP TO MOLD SMART ELEVEN

NORTHWESTERN TO BE FIRST CONFERENCE FOE TOMORROW

Big Ten coaches are following the work of Illinois closely this fall. The impression among them seems to be that 1927 is going to be a Zuppke year. Illinois gets its first real test in Western Conference circles on Oct. 22, when it meets Northwestern at Evanston, Ill. Coach Bob Zuppke expects some of his new stars, Judson Tamm, L. J. Gordon, Russ Crane, Lloyd Burdick and Frank Walker, to add enough balance to his year's leftovers, to form a winning combination.

There are two games on the Illinois schedule, Michigan and Ohio State, for which Zuppke will carefully point his charges. These traditional rivals defeated Illinois last fall, Michigan winning 13-0, while Ohio State was just able to eke out a 7-6 victory.

Bob Zuppke, one of the most resourceful coaches in the country, is about ready to put over another winner. He doesn't believe in coaching losers. Last season he suffered the loss of the great "Red" Grange and there is no doubt but that the sensation of Big Ten circles for three years was missed.

Among the sophomores in this year's squad, Zuppke hopes to uncover another star, who will pull some of the stunts for which Grange was famous.

Purple Back Has 102 Yard Run In His 1927 Career

(By NEA Service)
EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 21.—Backs will be credited with 102 yards this season than the fullback "Tiny" Lewis of Northwestern already had to his credit.

Lewis has a run of 102 yards to touchdown in the record for 1927.

He grabbed a kickoff back his goal post a few days ago and the Purple was trimming 8-0. He eased his way down the entire length of the field to a touchdown. It was a run of yards.

Seaplane Squadron Hops Off For Italy

BERRIE, France, Oct. 21.—The British seaplane squadron of four planes which left Plymouth, England, on October 17, on a 25-mile Empire cruise, left at 9 a. m. for the Italian coast.

The annual requirements of railways of Great Britain include 18,000,000 tons of coal, 17,000,000 cubic feet of timber and 62,000,000 of oil.

MUSTANG CREW IS READY FOR MISSOURI TILT

GAME BRINGS CURTAIN ON FOOTBALL GAMES AT STATE FAIR

DALLAS, Oct. 21.—The football curtain of the 1927 State Fair of Texas will be rung down Saturday with the final whistle of the S. M. U.—Missouri game, A. & M. and Sewanee, and Texas and Vanderbilt having played the other two big intersectional games at the Fair Stadium this fall.

The S. M. U.—Missouri game bids fair to fill the Stadium to capacity if necessary three thousand side-line seats will be sold in order to take care of the crowd. These seats will not be put on sale until every seat in the stand has been sold.

Tied Last Season

Last year Coach Morrison and McIntosh took their fleet footed Mustangs to Columbia where the Tigers recovered a fumbled punt to make a tie game, 7 and 7. The game was played on a muddy and unimproved field which gave the Tigers a considerable advantage due to their weight while the speed of the Mustangs was held in check.

This year the game will be played on a well drained grassy field. The Mustangs, believing that it would be a lucky break for them, are praying for a dry, fast field and a hot day, for Missouri has a heavy team that will be apt to tire under a baking sun, to which they are unaccustomed.

Stronger Eleven

Reports coming to Mustangville indicate that Quinn Henry will bring to Dallas an even stronger eleven than that which the Mustangs faced at Columbia last year. In Capt. Plammack he has one of the greatest line plungers in the business. With a strong wall ahead of him he may be expected to do great damage to the lighter Pony line. But the Ponies say no. They are better teachers.

6-Day Bike Races Draw Cyclists To Chicago For Meet

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Chicago will start the six-day bicycle racing season rolling with the first major meet in the country October 23.

Around the Coliseum track the best riders of Italy, Germany, France and the United States will pedal in the long grind.

As has been the case in recent years, the participants will work in pairs.

It used to be that riders would reel around the track day and night, grabbing only what cat naps they could. Today, however, when a team member becomes tired, or has a particularly nasty spill, his partner takes up the race and continues to the cheers of an assemblage of fans like that seen at no other sporting event.

The six day bike fans usually represent many nationalities and their huzzas are loud and meaningful. When they cheer a favorite, wearily humping his way around the track, they put their heart into it, and in spite of a popular impression that few attend a six-day bike race, the crowds always are large.

Forty riders have entered the Chicago race. Franco Georgetti of Italy, the motor-paced champion of America, is paired with Bobby Walthour, Jr., youthful rider whose father was one of the foremost endurance riders of the old days. Eddie Madden and Harry Moran, two of the most popular riders in the game, also are paired.

Walthour and his Italian team mate are considered among the best riders entered in the race. Walthour has won five six-day races and scored four of his victories in Chicago. Georgetti has won three races, two in New York and one in Chicago. He won the last race in New York last March and after a month's rest came to Chicago and teamed up with Carl Stockholm to win here.

More than 2,000,000 pounds of copper were required for the minting of 5,115,675 one-cent and five-cent pieces which the United States turned out last year.

—submerged—him last year and believe that they can repeat.

The Mustangs will miss the burly Italian, Cortemeglia, who turned in one of the prettiest games ever played at Columbia according to Tiger players. They will also miss Logan Ford, veteran center, on the defense. But good men will fill their positions, men who have their hearts set on making football fans forget Cortemeglia and Ford during the S. M. U. Missouri tilt.

"We people of the theatre are, as a rule, extremists. This is the reflex action from overworked nerves. When a man smokes forty cigarettes a day, as I do, he must be sure of his brand. I smoke Lucky Strikes because I have found they are soothing to the nerves and at the same time they cause no throat irritation. My voice is always in perfect condition and I am never troubled by any coughing which might be annoying to me in my work as an actor."

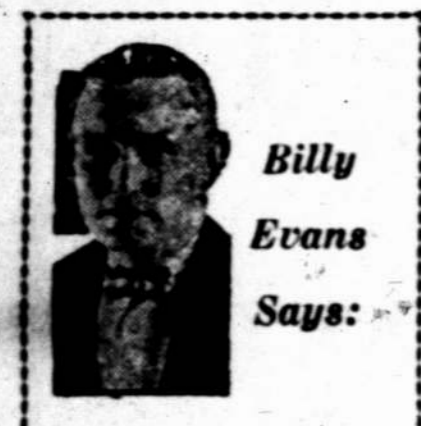

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"IT'S TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

SUL ROSS LOBOES
Of Alpine — Versus —
TEXAS TECH MATADORS
Saturday, October 22nd
Tech Field — Lubbock
Kickoff At 3:00 P. M.

Billy Evans
Says:

Used Fast Ball Only

A good fast ball is a winning asset even in a curve-ball league.

George Pipiras of the New York Americans conclusively proved that in the second game of the world series.

Despite the fact that the Pirates are noted for their fondness for speed, Pipiras won, as he pleased, a game in which he didn't use over a dozen curve balls.

I had a seat in the press box nearby John McGraw, famous manager of the New York Giants. During the early innings of the second game, there was much comment relative to the great number of fast balls used by Pipiras.

"No twirler can get away with that kind of pitching against the Pirates," was John McGraw's view point.

Pipiras did get away with it and in a most effective manner. At no stage of the game was he in danger, although he threw only a limited number of curve balls.

Curve-Ball League

The National League is known as a curve-ball league, which means the curve is the most used style of delivery.

John McGraw, one of the game's greatest managers, has always been an advocate of the curve. He likes the fast ball merely as a threat.

Since the ideas of one John McGraw are far reaching in the National League, most of the managers have come to the same view as McGraw relative to curve-ball pitching.

In the second game of the world series, George Pipiras, Yankee recruit, used a fast ball almost exclusively, against a team noted for its liking for speed and won because.

That can be taken as quite a compliment to the fast ball which Pipiras served to the Pirate bats. He must have had something on it.

Recruits Hog Glory

In the remarkable victory scored by the Yankee recruit, Pipiras much credit is due the clever manager in which Benny Bengough handled his stuff.

His was far from an one debut start when Lloyd Waner, the first man up for the Pirates, tripped to left. It would have upset many a youngster. No doubt manager Higgins immediately sent orders for someone to warm up.

However, Pipiras settled down, performed like a veteran and turned in one of the most remarkable performances ever credited to a pitcher, working his first year as a regular.

When I looked the Yankees over in the spring, no one for a minute thought two pitchers by the name of Moore and Pipiras would play prominent parts in the first two games of the world series of 1927. Yet that is just what happened.

I doubt if ever in the history of the game have two pitchers, little considered in the spring, came so fast as they did in a part in the success of a club as Wiley Moore and George Pipiras.

TECH EXPECTS HARD FIGHT IN LOBO CONTEST

SUL ROSS PLAYS HERE
 SATURDAY SHOWING
 FORMER MATADOR

Anticipating what is expected to be one of the hardest games of the season, the Matador trio of handlers, have attentively and cautiously worked throughout the week on the Bullfighters offense to be opened up on the Sul Ross Lobos here tomorrow afternoon on Texas Tech's splendid gridiron. Knowing and realizing that in order to compete with the Sul Ross Lobos, the experienced Texas Tech will put forth every effort in the club to give back the colorful attack that is expected of the visitors.

Warner System Seen
 A gridiron classic, indeed, is expected of the game tomorrow afternoon since practically all of the football used by the Lobos will be on the Pop Warner system. All color of the game will be flash as the Lobos execute the Warner plays. Then too, Gray's handling of the Warner system will be experienced to perform for him here is Gene Alford, former member of Ewing Y. Freeland's leads the backfield with a world of football ability. Alford is considered one of the best triple-threats in West Texas college circles. Captain Younger, Tubbs, who is playing his third year with the Lobos will perform for West Texas and Panhandle fans in the game tomorrow. Ford, the rangy winner of the Teachers, is a terror on offense and a flash on the defense. Ford will lead the line to "Mathews, colorful winner of the Matty Bell Horned Frog R. Grady, an experienced hand of the gridiron who has received several seasons of football training in the Yellow Jackets of Howard Payne, will be listed in the probable starting backfield of the Lobos.

Expected Late Today
 Coach Freeland expects the Lobos here late this afternoon and has made preparations for the visitors to use the Matador gridiron in a tight workout. The Lobos are making the journey from Lubbock via motor buses, the probable starting line-up for the Matadors in the contest at Tech tomorrow afternoon will be: Ewing Y. Freeland, ends; Vermilion Harris, guards; Corley, center; Woodrige, quarterback; Walker and Hamilton, halves; and Mathews, fullback.

MILLIKEN CASE

Austin. The doctor talked to Milliken and I wouldn't talk. Milliken said he was about forty years old, had been a doctor and had been "everything" including "student of chiropractic." Blundell asked him if he knew that he was being tried for "Circumstantial evidence," Milliken said. Later he said he understood it was for murder.

Green Big Breakfast

Milliken was taken out of district court Friday morning and fed four cups of coffee and a quart of milk, after he complained about not getting enough to eat at the county jail.

Injunction Issued

After being enjoined by his own court from removing Milliken from the city, District Attorney Fred Blundell renewed his fight today against the defense attempt to have the alleged slayer of Mrs. Virginia Pettit, San Antonio, transferred to another county for lunacy trial.

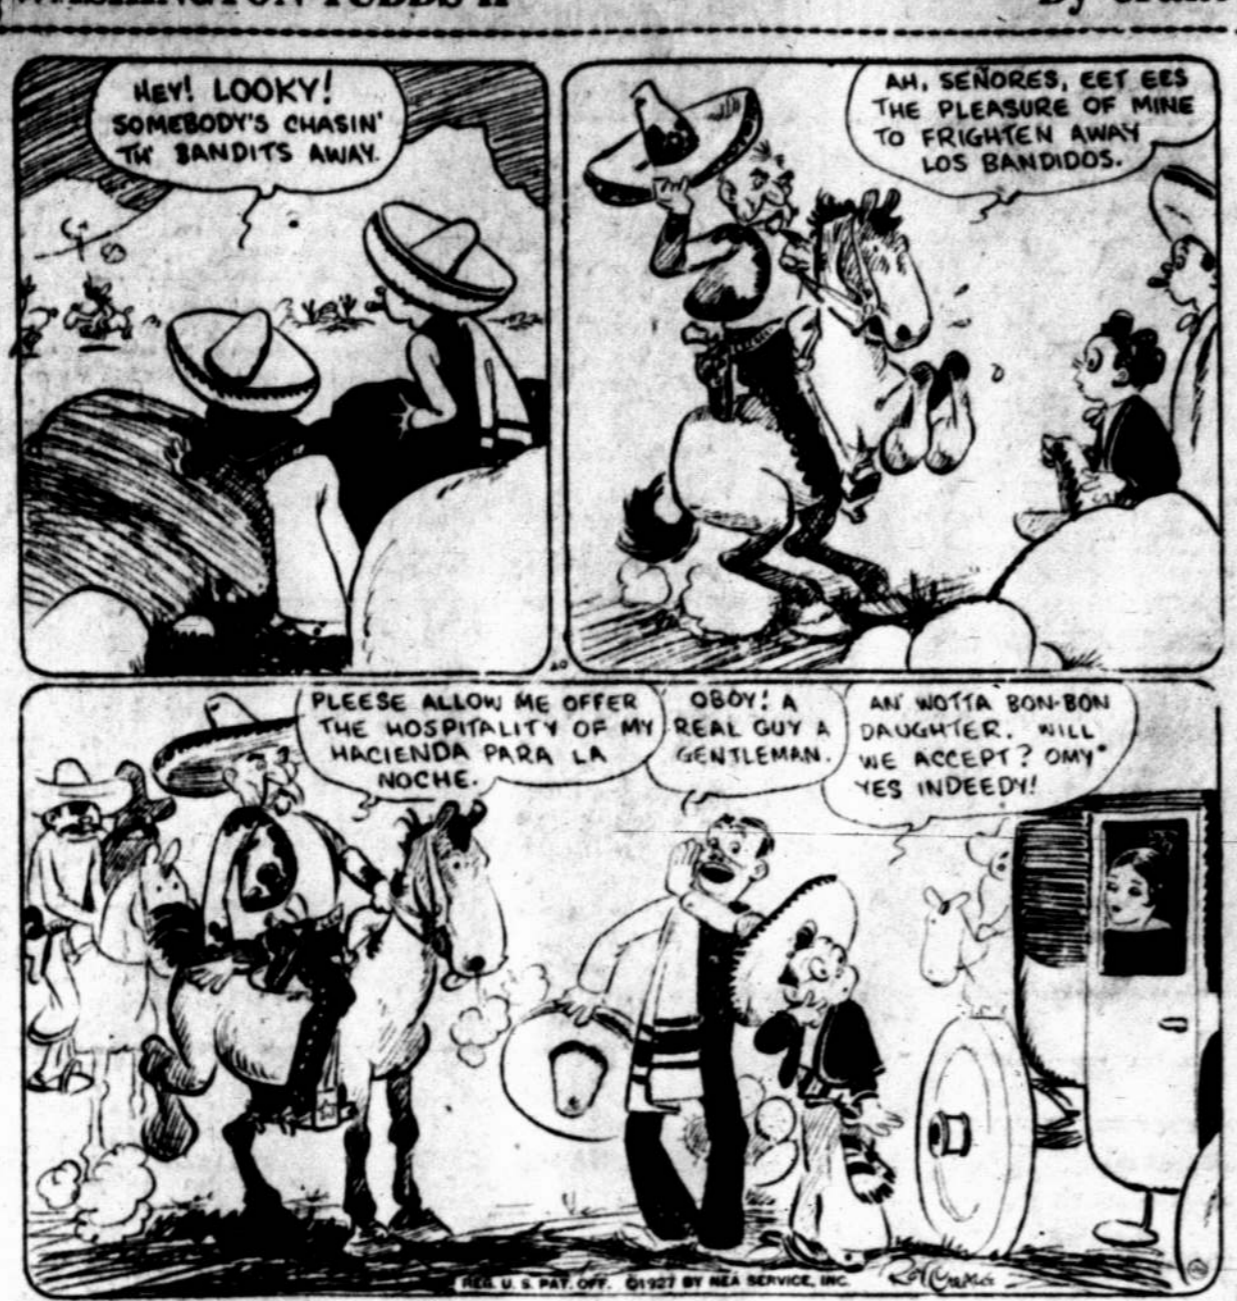

Trips Cause Wreck

Blundell's crew with Jim Mon and Wednesday to Austin physicians were under fire as Blundell today in an all-afternoon attack precipitated by the demolition for a chance of venue in the case against MILLIKEN in the county and charging him with a disinclination to insanity plea.

Court Opened Today

The court opened today, doctors said they would put "slightly important persons" and to prove their claims against the defendant.

WASHINGTON TUBBS II By Crane

Grid Grist By James R. Dow

The Westerners and Tigers go together this afternoon in the second conference game for each club. Coach Stanford, mentor of the Tigers, is of the opinion that his club is in much better condition for today's game than they were when they marched over the Washington Chiefs last week-end by a score of 46 to 6.

London Typist Off For Channel Swim

LONDON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, who started on a channel swim from Cape Gris-Nez, France, early this morning to vindicate the honor of her previous swim, gave up her attempt eight miles from Dover, says a dispatch to the Evening News this afternoon.

Ben Lee Boynton, Formerly a Resident of This City, Will Work in the Game Tomorrow Afternoon

Ben Lee Boynton, formerly a resident of this city, will work in the game tomorrow afternoon. Boynton is well known to the fans of this section and ranks high among the officials of the game in the Southwest.

Here will be possibly the starting line-up for the Matadors in the game with the Lobos:

White and Jennings, ends; Corley and Vermilion, tackles; Reed (Castain) and Harris, guards; Carley, center; Woodrige, quarter; Hamilton and Walker, halves; and Nicholas, fullback.

Vic Payne is in Fort Worth this week-end scouting the T. C. U. Aggie game for the Matadors.

Here is my opinion on the games for this week-end:

Texas vs. Rice—Texas. T. C. U. vs. A. and M.—A and M. S. M. U. vs. Missouri—Missouri. Baylor vs. Centenary—Centenary. Simmons vs. W. T. S. T. C.—Simmons. Texas Tech vs. Sul Ross—Texas Tech. A. C. U. vs. North Texas Teachers

Armour Is Leading In Atlantic Meet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Tommy Armour, American and Canadian open champion, led a field of sixty golfers today in the first round of the middle Atlantic open golf championship at the Indian Springs Golf club. He shot a 72, one over par.

 The third is —Size and dimensions
 The fourth is —Volume of production
 The fifth is —Freight and Overhead
 The sixth is —A fair and reasonable profit
 What makes the price to the dealer? The Manufacturer of course.
 Who makes the price to you? The dealer of course
 What do you pay; what the dealer asks, or is it what the dealer will take?
 What makes the price of any article $100.00 when the dealer sells it for $75.00? Who put the $100.00 price on it?
 Not you—not the manufacturer—not the newspaper man—no, it was the dealer.
 Is the selling of the article easier if he marks it $100.00 and calls it a $100.00 article, then sells it to you for $75.00? If a piece of merchandise was bought cheap then marked at a fair and reasonable profit its retail price is and should be the lowest price at which the dealer could sell the article. Why juggle prices—why call an article a $100.00 value when its only worth $75.00. If its a $100.00 value why doesn't he sell it for what its worth. Not many of you know anything about Gas Stove values. You do know what the dealer said a certain stove was worth and what he said he was willing to take for it. 'AVERAGE MAN' NOT AFFECTED ON CITY VISIT

IOWA CITIZEN IS GUEST OF CHICAGO TO FIND OTHERS OF KIND

(By Associated Press) CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Roy L. Gray of Fort Madison, Lee county, Iowa—America's average man—has come to Chicago for a couple of days to give the big town the once-over, meet some of the boys, take a walk about the night life, and find out if Chicago hasn't a few "average" citizens of his own.

Gray, who owns a one-man clothing store in Fort Madison, was picked as America's "average man" in an ingenious survey of the country published in the American Magazine. Iowa was found to approximate most nearly the "average" state and Fort Madison the "average" city. The folks in Fort Madison themselves picked Gray as being most representative of them all and therefore as being the "average" man.

Paper Host to Gray
The Chicago Herald and Examiner is host to Gray here. A reporter for that newspaper went to Fort Madison yesterday and found Gray selling an average top coat in an average clothing store.

Two Average Cigars
On the train ride to Chicago with the reported, Gray smoked two average cigars and chatted about subjects of average interest.

Why Want Photograph
At the Herald and Examiner office Gray was puzzled as to why newspapermen should want his photograph.

Why Want Photograph
"I thought newspapermen printed only pictures of important people or great criminals. But, no matter, I'm average enough to enjoy the thought of seeing what my face will look like when it comes out in print."

Why Want Photograph
He expressed misgivings when told he had been announced to make a radio talk.

Why Want Photograph
"Average—I know. But what is average in a speech?"

Why Want Photograph
"Well, I'd like to look some of the stores over, the stores on State street and elsewhere."

Why Want Photograph
He was likewise toward city suggestions for night entertainment—theaters, night clubs.

Why Want Photograph
"No, guess not. I go to the movies with the wife and children in Fort Madison now and then—and there's something good. And we've got a radio—just an average one. That's about all the entertainment I crave."

Why Want Photograph
But Gray made one request.

Why Want Photograph
"I would like to go some place and buy myself a light overcoat—not too heavy, not too light—just average."

Why Want Photograph
"Average—I know. But what is average in a speech?"

Why Want Photograph
"Well, I'd like to look some of the stores over, the stores on State street and elsewhere."

Shun Water And Worry To Live Long That's The Advice Of 106-Year-Old

Mrs. Levaopresto (right), 106, serenades a youthful neighbor, Mrs. Lacorn, who is a mere 90.

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—At 106 one should be able to speak with authority on the subject of how to live long. Mrs. Levaopresto, 106, who has just observed her 106th birthday, says the secret is to be wary of water.

Wary
She gave this recipe to scores of neighbors who came trooping into her Staten Island home to congratulate her.

Her Fears Unfounded
There was a twinkle in her eye as she went on to tell how her fears that she would have to turn from wine to water as a thirst quencher proved unfounded.

Lives Alone
Mrs. Levaopresto lives all alone. Seventy-four years ago she came to America from France, aboard a sailing vessel that was on route to New York.

Missouri Town Is Destroyed By Fire

SPRINGFIELD, Missouri, Oct. 21.—Panned by a stiff breeze, fire of undetermined origin, swept the entire business district of East town a small town 75 miles southwest of here early today, destroying nine two story buildings and causing loss estimated at $120,000.

Smoker chips made from milk were exhibited in New York last week. We suppose, however, that even so the fellow playing his first game who draws to inside straights will get all the cream.

Father Shot While Sons Are Helpless

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—While two young sons stood helpless nearby, Christopher Schumacker, 55, of the entire business district of East town a small town 75 miles southwest of here early today, destroyed nine two story buildings and causing loss estimated at $120,000.

Scientists have invented a mechanism that will photograph man's thoughts. Probably nothing will come of it though, there being laws against infernal machines.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 A woman's gloves and hand-erchief were found at the scene of Benson's murder and Markham, racing them to Miss St. Clair, as her brought to his office, he makes flippant answer to her questions but betrays concern when Markham asks if Leacock had not owned a Colt of the same type of gun that killed Benson. Vance tells Markham he is certain of the girl's innocence.

CHAPTER XVIII
 I believe you chaps have another illustration about crime," continued Vance, "namely, that the criminal always returns to the scene of the crime. The word has been explained on some recently and misty psychological ground.
 But I assure you psychology has no such preposterous doctrine. If ever a murderer returned to the body of his victim for any reason other than to rectify some under he had made, then he is a subject for Broadmoor—or Birmingham. How easy it would be for the police if this faithful doctrine were true! They'd merely have sit down at the scene of a crime, say bezique or Mah Jongg until the murderer returned and then es-ort him to the bastille, what?
 "The true psychological instinct anyone having committed a punishable act, is to get as far away from the scene of it as the limits of the world will permit."

"In the present case, at any rate," Markham reminded him, "we are neither waiting inactively for the murderer to out, nor sitting in Benson's living room trusting to the voluntary return of the criminal."
 "Either court would achieve success as quickly as the one you are now pursuing," Vance said.

"Not being gifted with your singular insight," retorted Markham, "I can only follow the inadequate processes of my reasoning."
 "No doubt," Vance agreed con-siderately. "And the results of your activities thus far force me to the conclusion that a man with a handful of legalistic logic most obstinate and heroic assaults of ordinary common sense."

Markham was puzzled.
 "Still harping on the St. Clair woman's innocence, eh? However, in view of the complete absence of any tangible evidence pointing elsewhere, you must admit I have no choice of courses."

"I admit nothing of the kind," Vance told him; "for, I assure you, there is an abundance of evidence pointing elsewhere. You simply failed to see it."

"You think so!" Vance's nonchalant cocksureness had at last overthrown Markham's equanimity.
 "Very well, old man; I hereby enter an emphatic denial to all your fine theories; and I challenge you to produce a single piece of this evidence which you say exists."

He threw his words out with as-perity, and gave a curt, aggressive gesture with his extended fingers to indicate that, as far as he was concerned, the subject was closed.
 Vance, too, I think was poked a little.

"I know, Markham old dear, I'm no avenger's blood, or vindicator of the honor of society. The role would here me."
 Markham smiled loftily, but made no reply.
 Vance smoked meditatively for a while. Then to my amazement, he turned calmly and deliberately to Markham, and said in a quiet, matter-of-fact voice:

"I'm going to accept your challenge. It's a bit alien to my tastes; but the problem, I know, rather appeals to me; it presents the same difficulties as the Concert Cham-petre affair—a question of disputed authorship, as it were."

inal history of New York.
 "Just how do you intend to proceed?" he asked.
 Vance waved his hand carelessly.
 "Like Napoleon, je m'en sarge, et puis je vois. However, I must have your word that you'll give me every possible assistance, and will refrain from all profound legal objections." Markham pursed his lips. He was frankly perplexed by the unexpected manner in which Vance had met his defiance.
 But immediately he gave a good natured laugh, as if after all, the matter was of no serious consequence.
 "Very well," he assented. "You have my word. . . . And now what?"
 After a moment Vance lit a fresh cigarette and rose languidly.
 "First," he announced, "I shall determine the exact height of the guilty person. Such a fact will, no doubt, come under the head of in-dicatory evidence—eh, what?"
 Markham started at him incredulously.
 "How, in Heaven's name, are you going to do that?"
 "By these primitive deductive methods to which you so touchingly pin your faith," he answered easily.
 "But come; let us repair to the scene of the crime."

He moved toward the door, Markham reluctantly following in a state of perplexed irritation.
 "The latter protested; and the place by now has no doubt been straightened-up."
 "Thank Heaven for that!" murmured Vance. "I'm not particularly fond of corpses; and untidiness, y' know, annoys me frightfully."
 As we emerged into Madison Avenue, he signalled to the commis-sionnaire for a taxicab, and without a word, urged us into it.

"This is all nonsense," Markham declared ill-naturedly, as we started on our journey up town. "How do you expect to find any clues now?"
 By this time everything has been obliterated."
 "Alas, my dear Markham," lamented Vance, in a tone of mock solitude, "how woefully deficient you are in philosophic theory! If anything, no matter how infinitesimal, could really be obliterated, the universe, y' know, would cease to exist—the cosmic problem would write Q. E. D. across an empty firmament."

"Our only chance of going on with this illusion we call life, if you see, lies in the fact that consciousness is like an infinite decimal point. Did you, as a child, ever try to complete the decimal, one-third, by filling a whole sheet of paper with the numeral three? You always had the fraction, one-third left, don't y' know. If you could have eliminated the smallest one-third, after having set down ten thousand threes, the problem would have ended."

"With life, my dear fellow, it's only because we're not aware of obliterate anything that we go on existing."
 He made a movement with his fingers, putting a sort of tangible period to his remarks, and looked dreamily out of the window up at the story film of sky.
 "Markham had settled back into his corner, and was chewing morosoly at his cigar.
 I could see he was fairly simmering; with impotent anger at having let himself be goaded into issuing his challenge. But there was no retreating now.

As he told me afterward, he was fully convinced he had been dragged forth out of a comfortable chair, on a patent and ridiculous fool's errand.

"In 'Popular Fallacies About Crime' (Saturday Evening Post; April 21, 1923, p. 8) Sir Basil Thomson also upheld this point of view.
 "For years the famous Concert Champetre in the Louvre was officially attributed to Titian. Vance, however, took it upon himself to convince the Curator, M. Lepelletier, that it was a Giorgione, with the result that the painting is now credited to that artist."

"Probably that dog belongs to Paul Varden or his guide," said McNally. "I guess we'd be in a peck of trouble if you'd killed the creature." "I wish I'd got him, trouble or no trouble!" replied Lockwill, still aflame with indignation. The clamor of the furious chase roared. Presently, from far, far away there came the sound of another rifle shot.

Then a great silence fell on the forest. A sigh came from Jack, almost a sob. "That's the end!" he muttered. "Now we'll never photograph the white buck! He's dead!"

Oppressed and saddened by the conviction that the white deer had been shot, the boys lingered there. A black cloud crept up the sky, thunder rumbled, a wind rose.

A panting man, half-naked and smoke-stung, came stumbling and hurrying across the clearing. He was Old Hunchy, and he stopped at sight of the boys. "They burnt my camp!" he jabbered. "Varden told 'em to do it! I know he did! And he shot the critter! But he won't shoot no more! I got him! He's tied to a tree—tied fast! I've set the woods afire! Let him burn!" (To Be Continued)

Foolishness

Moral suasion continues on its straight-lined march. Now the board of education of North Salinas, N. Y., establishes a curfew law for all "principlas, teachers and janitors" in the schools of that city.

We know that if we were a school kid in North Salinas, this would be the last story of the year for us—teacher "getting stood in the corner by his or her superiors. We might even poke a few jibes at the old boy (or girl) if we caught our beloved instructor hesitating to get there before 10 o'clock.

And if teacher ever got rough with us again, and we should see her at 10:30 at a dance in some neighboring village, we could relate the transportation of a little black maid! And just to make that chance possible, perhaps we'd do a little shopping now and then to see if teacher really did actually retire from the public eye at no later than 10 bells.

No, no, we fear this 10 o'clock curfew law for teachers just isn't going to dampen flaming youth and bling. Which brings up the whole question of just how youth is blazing at all, and why.

In this connection we are reminded that a young man and young woman usually have parents.

Carries Afar

In ancient Rome the Caesars were not only rulers of their people. They were also poets. There is evidence that the Emperor of modern Rome are among the ancient city. They have made Mussolini their Caesar. They, too, want him to be a poet.

Inside Italy, there is a cry. He who polices fun at Benito the great, he who criticizes him, or speaks lightly of him, can be beaten up by Fascist bullies or sent to Fascist jails, or exiled to bare rocks in the Adriatic. But the Benito bullies does not stop at the frontier. It goes into other lands. It takes unbridled at editorials. It strikes at jokes. It is shocked by clowns.

The other day a little one-act circus came to Sarajevo, the tragic town now included in Jugoslavia, where fanatics assassinated an Austro archduke and thus started the world war. In the course of his job, the clown in this circus sang a funny song about Mussolini. Everybody laughed except the Italian consul. He at once went to the prefect at Sarajevo and lodged vigorous protests. The poor old clown lost his job. Thus was fascist industry satisfied.

Can It Be Said

Epitaphs as a rule, are strange vain and often even funny. Put over in France the other day an American Legionnaire, in France for the convention, ran across a few words that really mean something. On a slab in the Aisne valley he found the words:
He Has Outscored the Shadows of Our Night.
It was the grave of a soldier, an aviator, whose death will be remembered by thousands. Again, there are other thousands from whose memory the man has slipped away forever.
That sublime sentence must remain, though, when all memory of the man has vanished from the earth. It was spoken from the heart of Theodore Roosevelt, a scrawling father but a father proud that his son had fought the good fight.
It was the grave of Quentin Roosevelt. And his life like his epitaph, need not be a lesson of war alone, but of everyday life, wherever it might lead us. How blessed to live and to die that such could be said of us:
He has outscored the shadows of our night.

THE PLAINSMAN

The Plainsman has been more than passively interested in reports from over the state relating the arrests of various motion picture theater owners when they sought to show the film of the recent Tunney-Dempsey fight. With but few exceptions—and Lubbock, thank Heaven was one of them—Texans attempting to show the fight pictures were halted by the hand of the law and medieval tyranny triumphed. In The Plainsman's opinion Lubbock added another feather in its cap when the pictures were shown here and no effort was made to stop them.

There is a law against the transportation and showing of prize fight films and when the law was passed it was a good one. Times have changed, however, and there is at the present time, at least, no dangerous violation of the code of morals in showing such pictures. Therefore it is time to throw aside the rusty law until another occasion for its passage arises. There is no need of uselessly shackling the people with any statute and if you see any judge of human nature you'll have to admit that the average citizen is usually sensible enough to distinguish between essential and non-essential laws.

The rule against the showing and transporting of fight pictures was necessitated when Jack Johnson, a negro, won the heavyweight championship belt, and the whole country was trying for a "white hope" who could end the Ethiopian reign in the squared arena. Pictures showing Johnson landing a white fighter a lacing caused racial hatred and so few concerned with the film were so sensible. Since no such conditions are prevalent now there is no reason to prohibit those who wish to see fight films from seeing them.

If we had a sixteen-year-old daughter The Plainsman would much rather that she see a prize fight film than some of the so-called "society dramas" which are infesting the motion picture industry today. Fight pictures, certainly would not give her a wrong idea of life.

The fact that the fight pictures were shown here and no effort was made to stop them proves that Lubbock is tolerant and tolerant is today one of the rarest of human qualities. People who were not interested in the fight or its films went to another theater if they wanted to see a show while the Tunney-Dempsey pictures were here. They didn't say "we don't want to see the pictures, so you who do want to see them can not." While other cities in Texas were showing themselves to be tyrannical, intolerant, "black villages" Lubbock was acting again. There are lots of ways for a city to prove its metal.

That Girl on Broadway says some of the modern dances remind her of a problem in arithmetic. Two divided by nothing.
There are a lot of people in Lubbock and Plainview who used a civic spanking. The Plainsman is referring to groups in both places who held suspicion of the city other than the one in which they reside and who mistake good-natured rivalry for enmity. As "competition is the life of trade" so rivalry between cities is the life-blood of the communities. The Plainsman wouldn't give a cigarette for a city which was hated by its neighbor and yet, at the same time, he has little respect for a man who wants to see his home town gain at the expense of another. There are a lot of people who will deny it, but there are folks in both Lubbock and Plainview who would be perfectly satisfied to see their particular town stand still, providing the other went backward. Everyone knows that is not the right spirit—and it is most assuredly not the spirit which has made West Texas expand in a very few years from a trackless waste to one of the garden spots of the world. Naturally we in Lubbock want our city to be best in all this section and we certainly should, as businessmen, work to that end. Yet it is just as natural for Plainview people to feel and to work in the same way for their city—and such is likewise commendable. The majority of the citizens in both Lubbock and Plainview realize these truths and hold no enmity for the other place. They are the folks who make all the noise and loud feelings between the two communities should be first shown the error of their way and then, if they do not fall in line, should be ignored. Edward West Texas! Forward Plainview, Lubbock and all the rest of the wide-awake cities in the territory.

Upon the corner they were told To wait their wifey dears. The wifey forgot to come, and they've Been standing there three years.

It Seems The War Was Won By Abraham Solomon—Lowman Draws Criticism For 'Dry In Fifty Years' Speech

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—When you want to check up the record of a World War veteran through the War Department, please be specific.
A request came to the army the other day for some information about Abraham Solomon. Investigation disclosed that the A. E. F. had:
Seventeen Abraham Solomons.
The War Department wonders why, with all the argument over who won the war, the Solomons haven't put in a claim backed by sheer force of numbers.
Estimating the time that will be required to enforce prohibition may become a popular sport in the next congress, now that the question has been raised. The dries, or many of them, have been saying all along that prohibition could be enforced and the wets have been saying that it never could be enforced. Perhaps they will eventually compromise and undertake to state the required time in terms of years.
Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman suggested that we would do well if we had a dry sober America with in 50 years—an estimate which did not please other high enforcement officials.
Equally interesting was a promise made in a recent speech by William C. Deming, chairman of the Civil Service Commission. Mr. Deming did not promise absolute enforcement, but after explaining that enforcement officials and agents had been put under Civil Service to cope with an "intolerable" situation, he said:
"The Civil Service Commission cannot perform miracles. We do not promise the impossible, nor will the entire character of the service be changed in the twinkling of an eye, but I am willing to say this—that given seven years, the length of time elapsed since the Volstead law became effective, we promise you results.

Officials of the State Department assume that in time, the rulers, premiers and cabinet members of the world will be able to talk with each other by long distance. Perhaps, in time of strain, serious trouble may be averted by a frank telephone talk. This idea was suggested when President Coolidge and President Calles conversed the other day between Washington and Mexico City upon the inauguration of this international telephone service.
The department looks forward to talking with Ambassador Morrow whenever necessary. The comparatively new telephone service to Cuba is frequently utilized to communicate in early morning becomes a commonplace—then is the time to set out—on any street or in any direction—that it does not matter where you go in one of the delightful things of Paris—but as you go peer through every open gateway and back into the little hidden courtyards.
And if you could not spend entire days enjoying the surprises, well you do not deserve to be in Paris, and, being here, I recommend that you spend your hours mellowing over the champagne cocktails in the basement of Ferris.

With Our West

BY JAMES L. DOW
Contemporaries

I hold that every man owes something besides his taxes to the community in which he lives. The more he has been favored materially the more he owes. In discharge of that debt, he is under obligations to do for the community something that he does not get paid for, something that he does not make money by.

It is often pointed out that purely governmental agencies are held to the minimum, that laws should be as few as possible, and that many city-building activities are out of the scope of official bodies. The above contention is, therefore, a stretch when the community actually receives beyond that for which compensation is provided. Public officials are of two types, those who are given a stipulated sum of fees, or both, for their work, and those who are on duty without pay.

Executive officers, because they are holders of honor, are held to a such that, once elected, a public servant should make some sacrifice if necessary. City offices have been too much of this type, for they have forced business men either to interfere beyond the power of wisdom, or have caused men of ability to shun an elective office. Use of the city-manager system which is coming into wide use in the progressive Panhandle cities is retaining the best men as commissioners, but is shifting the administrative responsibility where it belongs—upon the man who gives his time and his life to the myriad of little details which make up modern city government.

There are many opportunities for community service out of the official family. Civic clubs, Boy Scouts, bands, churches, sports chamber of commerce, and other agencies provide many opportunities for the man who would give something to his community for which he is not paid. It is a service to build a nice business in a city yet if every business man did the same, the city would not prosper enough to make business profitable. There are many competent merchants willing to build good stores—so many that merely being a good merchant does not distinguish a man in his community.

Fortunately for Pampa, this city has an unusual percentage of men of all ages who are readily willing to take this second step of unremunerative service. This spirit is building, and will continue to push forward, the Greater Pampa-Pampa News.
All the progressive men in the community can not be public officials even if they desired to be, and very few want to be bothered with the detail duties of an office, but they are willing to work, and help the other fellow put it over. The big job of men in public office, especially in city offices such as mayor and commissioner is a job, and it is not worth the mention so far as compensation is concerned. They give their time and their money in many instances to putting over the program, and are not appreciated as they should be, but some one must do it, and the very best men are needed. It is a big job to take care of the business of a city, as the program extends far into the future sometimes and it is hard to see enough ahead to really do the proper thing. It takes as all to build a city and the officials are merely leaders in public affairs while the balance of us should be on the sideline playing the game for all it is worth.

If marriage could be dissolved as easily as business partnerships in the country would be divorced tomorrow, according to J. Ham Lewis, but, Mr. Lewis, who'd get the cash register?
Perhaps the automobile is raising the younger generation, but that generation certainly has ruined plenty of automobiles.

mosaic with our ambassador at Havana and it requires no more than five minutes to complete the call.
The wire to Mexico City was clogged with a rush of business almost immediately after it opened when the revolution broke out against the Calles government. Government calls came first, of course, and there were plenty of them between the State Department and the American embassy in Mexico City and the Mexican embassy here and the Mexican foreign office.
Press associations and newspapers immediately undertook to raise their correspondents in Mexico City by telephone, especially when telegraph dispatches seemed to be held up. They had little success in completing calls on the first day, however, although the Mexican embassy here got one call to its foreign minister through in less than half an hour.

Educator Urges Teacher Training In Administration

(By Associated Press)
AMHERST, Oct. 21.—Teachers should be trained in the science of school administration that they may successfully cope with special problems and develop successful and harmonious relations with those with whom the administrator is to meet.

Boyd D. McKeown, dean of McMurry college here, believes there is a special phase to all executive positions and especially to those in school work. Learning how to get along with folks is an important and continuous study and is one deserving special consideration in the light of typical relationships to be met.
Difficult Situations
The school administrator meets many difficult social situations for which he could receive specific training because they are of such a nature as to hardly be anticipated, but he meets many that are typical and which he is critically trained to meet. These situations are trained to carry the public large amount of money. Known rectified, yet the could happen if the instructor react rightly in a given would be the loss of no patronage. The school administrator, however, the Dean in his hands the destinies of a community as successful of a problem of human relations may do untold good while take may spell direct train one or more lives.

PRESENTING the NEW MODES of WINTER

Almost over night the new season descends upon us and daily the new things are arriving for the gay winter season that is just beginning. Lovely new coats, many exact replicas of Paris models! Dresses that gleam and glitter and represent the authentic vogue for this new season. Then, too, there are clever copies of Paris millinery modes, exquisitely executed, fascinatingly priced! Your new wardrobe will be quickly and fashionably assembled when you turn to us!

Sparkling New Merchandise For Men And Women!

SMART MODES FOR JUNIORS

When one is no more a girl yet hardly a debutante, she is correctly named "the junior miss." This store will pay very particular attention to the apparel for junior misses.

Men's Suits

We have assembled men's suits—all with two pair of trousers, beautiful patterns in all wool material—which we believe will be the talk of the South Plains when you price them.

Also men's furnishings—shirts, underwear, gloves, ties and shoes.

Handbags

IN this group of smart new bags for early Winter wear, galuchat grained and reptile leathers are prominent. Pouch, envelope and under-arm styles, beautifully lined.

NEW WINTER MILLINERY

Hats for winter include felts, soleils, velvets, metallics and combinations in smart new little shapes and in all the newest colors. The most distinguished Paris models are represented, together with smart American inspired hats.

Finer Silk Hosiery

FOR evening wear there are these sheer chiffon hose, silk to the top, with the distinctive pecot edge in such lovely shades as atmosphere, flesh, blonde, stone and bamboo.

Brilliant Jewelry

THE importance of jewelry as a dress accessory—cannot be over-estimated. Gold and silver and brilliants all have their specific duty to perform. Bracelets, necklets and new rings!

Here in my new store, which will open Saturday, you will find some of the latest and choicest merchandise ever assembled in our city—for men, misses, women and young men. Be sure and visit us Saturday. —Ross Edwards.

Women Asked To Enter For A. & M. Club Exhibition

(By Associated Press.) COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 21.—Young women from many parts of the state who can handle bucking bronchos, are to be invited to participate in the middle school annual rodeo and pageant at A. & M. College here November 4.

Plans are under way for the affair which is designed to raise funds to defray expenses of the A. & M. stock judging team to the international meet at Chicago, includes fancy riding.

This year's rodeo is to include fancy riding, horse handling, broncho busting, ladies' riding contests, steer riding and roping.

The event is probably the largest affair of its kind in the state. It is to be held the night before the annual Aggie-S. M. U. football clash and is to be a home-coming occasion for all former annual has bandy students of the College and former A. & M. athletes.

The Saddle and Sireline club, which organized several years ago to further co-operation between college students of animal husbandry and stockmen of Texas, P. C. Faris, Uvalde, is president.

Officers are chosen from members of the junior class to arrange the program. They include Secretary Fields, ringmaster; Treasurer Story, business manager; R. J. Buchanan, Ryan, secretary; R. H. Woodruff, Illinois, publicity agent; and W. and M.

Building Passes Million Here By Elevator Permit

Building permits for Lubbock during the year passed the million mark yesterday with the issuance by the city of a permit to Jones Hertzinger Construction company of Kansas City for the erection of a concrete grade elevator for J. C. Whaley. The firm bid of the elevator will cost approximately $180,000. The location will be on Avenue M south of the Santa Fe tracks.

F. W. Smith of the Jones Hertzinger company will be in charge of the construction work, which will begin in a few days. The building will be entirely fireproof, as concrete and steel are to be the chief materials used.

Whaley Well Known Mr. Whaley, owner of the property, has been in business on the South Plains for a number of years. He recently sold a stock of lumber yards to another company and his home now is in Galvestone.

Permit was let to R. H. McCauley for the building of a 24,000 residence, and to R. L. Campbell for a brick veneer residence, costing $4,000. The three permits together this month's total to $199,150, and the total for the year to $1,854,527.

Cudahy's Puritan Ham

"Ripened Naturally" for Finer Flavor.

Cudahy's Puritan Ham is "ripened naturally"—a special Cudahy method which gives to Puritan its finer flavor and greater tenderness—qualities which make it so distinguished.

"Ripened naturally" is an exacting method. It defuses the rich juices of the choice young meats selected for Puritan in a natural way. There is no forcing or hurrying.

The result is like fruit tree-ripened, compared to fruit artificially ripened. Puritan is, therefore, naturally rich, sweet and delicious and so tender and mild, that par-broiling is unnecessary before frying or broiling.

Try Puritan. You'll be delighted with its finer qualities. At your dealers. "The Taste Tells."

Santa Fe Purchases Promote Prosperity

WHILE the Santa Fe is itself a large employer of labor—its payroll in 1926 totalled $107,000,000, and its employes number more than 75,000—indirectly as a buyer of materials and supplies it helps to furnish employment to many more. Such purchases last year exceeded $64,000,000. In addition it bought over $12,000,000 of new cars and locomotives.

Its largest class of material was fuel, which totalled $24,360,000. This consisted of about 2,267,000 tons of coal, and 507,800,000 gallons of fuel oil. The use of coal or oil on any division is determined primarily by which is the cheaper fuel in that locality.

The second largest class of purchases was iron and steel products, for which the expenditure was approximately $19,750,000. This included an expenditure of $9,500,000 for 152,700 tons of rail, frogs, switches, and fastenings. $1,500,000 went for wheels, axles, and tires, and $306,000 for flues and tubes for locomotives. Bridges, turntables, structural steel, forgings, and fabricated, unfabricated, and pressed steel took nearly $3,000,000. Steel and iron are basic necessities in railroading.

Purchases of forest products totalled $6,412,000, which included over 3,000,000 cross ties, and large quantities of lumber and timbers. The Santa Fe creates its ties and much of its timbers, otherwise greater quantities would be needed each year.

Folders, report blanks, notices, tickets, tariffs, and various items in the stationery line required $1,225,000, electrical materials $660,000, lubricating oil and grease, illuminating oils, waste, etc., $1,180,000, and air brake material $617,600.

These purchases were necessary to maintain the railroad properly and to give satisfactory service to the public. They were covered by 130,000 invoices and were made from 3,347 individuals and firms. Note the wide spread of this buying.

Thus the Santa Fe and all railroads are an important factor in maintaining the prosperity of our country through the employment arising from these large purchases of supplies, as well as the millions directly disbursed among their own employes for services.

When the railroads are doing well, they buy materials and supplies on a larger scale than when net revenues fall off. Money thus spent mainly pays for the labor of many persons, helping merchants, farmers, everybody—your own community included. You therefore are vitally interested.
