NEW BRAUNFELS, Sept. 18.—The fate of Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, charged with robbing the Farmers National bank of Buda, Texas, of $1,000 in 1928, rested in the hands of a jury here tonight.

The case was given the jury at 4:30 p. m. after a dramatic plea had been made by Otis Rogers, husband of the defendant and chief her counsel.

"Freedom or Death"
The youthful attorney, who left sick bed to come to the aid of a wife when he read of her conviction with the robbery, asked the jury to either turn the former University of Texas co-ed loose or else send her to the electric chair.

"I would rather see her dead than associating with criminals," Rogers pleaded to the jury.

Says Wife Inmate
He said other persons had been sent to the electric chair for similar deeds, and said he did not want the jury to show him any mercy if it did not believe his "child" was sane when she brandish a re-

Civic leaders of Lubbock this afternoon will meet at 2:30 o'clock in the office of the chamber of commerce for the purpose of discussing the Community Chest plan, proposed for this city sometime ago.

According to an announcement last night by George P. Kuykendall, chairman of the Community Chest committee.

Sentiment has grown in favor of the plan and consent has been given to investigate it and acquire data as to its use and success in other cities.

The chamber of commerce committee includes Mr. Kuykendall, chairman, J. J. Clements, Dean A. H. Leidigh, C. F. Drexel and Charles Whitacre.

Girl's Plea Told In Murder Trial

PORT WORTH, Sept. 18.—(AP)—A plea that there be no trouble "over a little thing like this" was made by Audie C. Pentris, 18, just before a fatal shot was fired in the dark, according to the testimony of Miss Francis Benedict, the state's main witness in the trial in criminal district court of Cecil Odneal, 26, on a charge of slaying Pentris near Lake Worth July 5.

Miss Benedict was one of four witnesses heard Wednesday afternoon after the jury was sequestered by the acceptance of Karl C. Young, bank employee, on the jury. Miss Benedict told of threats she said the defendant had made against her life. She underwent a grilling cross examination, denying that she saw Odneal shoot Pentris or even saw a pistol at the camp where a liquor party was under way.

Heavy Rains Aid Fire Fighters In Western Section

Loss Estimated At Above $3,000,000 As More Than 25,000 Acres Of Sheds, Oil Fields Are Razed

(By Associated Press)
VENTURA, Cal., Sept. 18.—Rain, which fell heavily this morning throughout Ventura county had before noon brought success to the efforts of 2,500 fire fighters in stamping out a two day brush fire which swept 25,000 acres of water-sheds and scattered oil fields with an estimated loss of more than $3,000,000.

Of the 2,500 men who fought over a 20 mile front only about 300 remained to patrol still smoldering spots. The fire was the worst in the country's history.

Damage Great
Damage to the fire-swept watershed was estimated by United States forestry officials at $200 an acre. A check-up showed 130 scattered oil rigs, outside the Ventura avenue field which was not reached by the blast, were left but heaps of ashes.

More than 200 persons, chiefly oil field workers and their families, were homeless. Five small school houses were burned.

Heat waves recorded at 114 degrees, which swept into Santa Paula citrus and walnut groves, scoured leaves into yellowed curls. One death resulted indirectly from the fire. Norman Beems, national forest official, died of injuries suffered when he collided with a truck as he motored through a smoke buried highway.

Observers at Stevenson, Wash., where fire fighting centered yesterday said the town was safe.

Before the Stevenson fire was controlled it destroyed the hotel and general office building on the Columbia River Timber company at Greenleaf, trestles and tracks of the timber company, the mill of the Mid-Columbia Lumber company near Carson and many cut logs.

Other projects were: Jackson county: 8.59 miles concrete pavement Highway 12, $178,047. Wilbarger county: 6.29 miles concrete pavement Highway 5. Denton county: 8.31 miles grading and drainage Highway 40, $76,694. Lavaca county: 8.46 miles grading, drainage and concrete pavement.

Historic Kings Mountain Serves As Background For Latest Acts Of Violence In Textile Strike

(By Associated Press)
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 18.—Historic Kings mountain, 30 miles from here, scene of a triumph by American patriots in the revolutionary war, today served as a background for the latest acts of violence attached to the Carolina textile strike.

In the early hours of the morning three men took Cleo Tensar, a National Textile Workers' union organizer, from his home, transported him a distance of about 14 miles into South Carolina and flogged him. Within an hour of his abduction a speaking stand which he and other union leaders had used in the past was destroyed by dynamite.

Kansas Promises Columnist Dead Time On His Next Visit To State

(By Associated Press)
TOPEKA, Sept. 18.—When Jay E. House, Philadelphia columnist and former mayor of Topeka, returns here for another visit, his last winter's hosts promise him "the dearest time he ever saw" to quote one of their number. House's statement that he was served liquor in 12 out of 14 of their homes yesterday caused six of his entertainers to undergo a gubernatorially-inspired grueling.

The investigation ended when A. J. Garruth, Jr., editor and one of those questioned, read a letter in which House admitted he had manufactured a quarrel with the anti-saloon league for publicity reasons.

Acts Misrepresented
Governor Clyde M. Reed, who directed the inquisition then replied that House "deliberately and willfully misrepresented the acts of his personal friends" and that Garruth's letter "completely discredits House and everything he has said about Topeka and about Kansas."

Garruth, in a statement of his own, said "the fact that Jay House is able to get a few social drinks of liquor in Topeka during his visits here is neither surprising nor is it an indication that the capital city is wet."

City Dads Discuss Plans For Temporary Electric Lights Over Principal Thoroughfares

Proposals for establishing temporary electric lights across main thoroughfares during the Panhandle-South Plains fair were discussed with a committee from the Retail Merchants association, an ordinance providing a two-hour parking limit for portions of Main, Broadway and Thirteenth street was passed at first reading, and the city engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for storm drainage sewers in areas north of Main street, between Avenue Q and the Santa Fe railroad tracks, at a meeting Wednesday night of the Lubbock city commission.

"The ordinance for a two-hour parking limit is designed with the hope of alleviating the parking congestion in the mercantile district," said Mayor H. D. Woods. "This traffic law would be enforced in the areas outlined."

As soon as the city engineer completes plans for storm drainage sewers the specifications will be published, the commission announced.

Moody Says State Will Be Richer Than Expected

AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—There will be more available revenue this fiscal year than believed possible when the tax rate was fixed, Governor Moody said today.

"Receipts indicate that we will have considerable more money than we anticipated," he said. "It looks like now we will have sufficient funds to begin work on a modern centralized penitentiary plant in the event the legislature decides one should be constructed."

Wife Of Slain District Attorney Claims Husband Had Lone Role In Borger

BORGER, Sept. 18.—Mrs. John A. Holmes, whose husband, the district attorney here, was assassinated by a gunman last Friday night, told reporters tonight that Holmes had played a lone hand in Borger and had prosecuted lawlessness when "the others were afraid."

Her statement followed closely upon two statements from Texas rangers investigating the case, one of which announced that the rangers had discovered the motive of the slaying. The other announcement said that rangers had obtained affidavits concerning an alleged plot for portions of Main, Broadway and Thirteenth street was passed at first reading, and the city engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for storm drainage sewers in areas north of Main street, between Avenue Q and the Santa Fe railroad tracks, at a meeting Wednesday night of the Lubbock city commission.

Fair Trippers To Make Third Jaunt Toward Southeast

Boosters Will Leave City Hall Early Tomorrow To Advertise Annual Fair To Neighboring Cities

FOLLOWING a meeting held Wednesday morning in the Lubbock chamber of commerce offices, committees yesterday afternoon were making efforts to sign up automobiles and representatives for the third booster trip advertising the Panhandle South Plains fair, to be held in this city September 30 to October 5, inclusive.

The committee met with fair success though they state that many other citizens will be visited today. E. L. Robertson, chairman of the committee, is being assisted in assembling automobiles and boosters for the jaunt by A. W. May, Vaughn Wilson, Allen Barwick, W. R. Pickett, B. Sherrod, L. H. McCarty, R. C. Smith and L. C. Ellis.

To Visit Many Towns
Slaton, Southland, Post, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Lamesa and Wilson are to be visited by the Lubbock delegation.

C. C. Williams, secretary of the Tahoka chamber of commerce, has announced that Tahoka is planning a genuine welcome for Lubbock when the trippers arrive there for lunch. Business men are cooperating to make Lubbock's visit a pleasurable one, he said. Community fairs will be visited at Wilson and O'Donnell.

Four Speakers Along
Four speakers will divide the time between them at each of the towns. Those who will make short addresses, presenting the invitation of Lubbock to its neighbors, are J. H. Hankins, E. Sherrod, J. J. Clements and J. O. Ellsworth.

"The trip will afford more time for visiting in each city," said Mr. Robertson. "For the route is but 164 miles. We will assemble at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning and expect to return about 6:30 p. m."

Band To Go
Accompanying the good will trippers will be the Lubbock High School band.

WOULD RAISE H. C. L. Shouse Says Tariff Would Boost Living Costs

LIVINGSTON, Ky., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The assertion that the administration tariff bill would raise the cost of living to American consumers "somewhere between $700,000,000 and $1,000,000,000" was made here today by J. J. Shouse, chairman of the national democratic executive committee. He was here in conference with Kentucky party leaders.

"Our executive committee's activities have been principally in the direction of doing what we could to oppose the enactment of the most reactionary tariff bill that has ever been sought to put over on the country," said the statement.

WOULD AID AIRMAIL Device For Picking Up Mail On Flight Expected

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Perfection of a device for picking up air mail while an airplane is in flight, less complicated than the original catapulting machine, is expected by delegates attending the national air traffic conference here to make possible a faster and more efficient postal service.

Such a device, a committee of the air transport executives reported today, probably will be sufficiently developed within the next few months to enable it to be placed in general use. A study of the problem, expected to solve the matter, was made by an air mail contractor selected to cooperate with the post-office department.

Experiments have proved, it was said, that a mail bag can be picked up from a dead standstill, and that a plane can stand a shock of several thousand pounds without damage to the machine.

Wagoner's Niece Tells Of Helping In Banking Fraud

YOUTHFUL Amelia Jones is Grieved That Testimony Is Damaging To Uncle; Aid Given Unwittingly

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Amelia Jones, youthful niece of Charles D. Wagoner, indicted president of the Bank of Telluride, Colo., tearfully told federal investigators today how she and Frances Carlson, 18-year-old clerk in the bank, unwittingly aided Wagoner in defrauding six New York banks of $500,000.

Grieved because her testimony was damaging to the uncle who cared for her and her sister, Margaret, when they were children, Miss Jones said she thought nothing of it when Wagoner asked her to send the half dozen fake coded telegrams that postal inspectors alleged enabled the Colorado banker to obtain the half million dollars credit.

Unaware Of Contents
The messages were sealed in envelopes, she said, and she was unaware of their contents. She said she gave two of the envelopes to Miss Carlson, to dispatch when she received a telegram from Wagoner directing her to send the six messages. She said she sent the others herself.

Fifth Man Enters N.Y. Mayors Race

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The position as mayor of New York, a four year job at an annual salary of $25,000, is sought by four candidates and a fifth is to be announced today.

The ballot at the November election, announced yesterday by a city primary yesterday will carry the names of Mayor James J. Walker, democrat; Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, republican; Norman Thomas, socialist; Richard Enright, former police commissioner, independent, and a candidate to be selected by the dry supporters of William M. Bennett, whom La Guardia defeated almost four to one in the primary.

As the final returns that gave La Guardia 62,777 votes to Bennett's 17,442 were tabulated, the republican faction that opposed the representative announced "there will be a straight republican named to run independently." La Guardia has been elected to public office as a democrat, a socialist and a republican.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 18.—A jury was completed at 7:15 o'clock tonight in the trial of B. A. Foshee, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting on September 7, of Elmer Wright, 23. The state exercised eleven of its fifteen challenges and the defense ten before a jury could be picked from the 70 veniremen called.

The taking of testimony will start tomorrow morning before Judge Homer L. Pharr, of the 72nd district court.

Courtroom Crowded
As the trial opened today, hundreds of spectators crowded into the courtroom to hear and witness the proceedings in Hockley county's first murder trial in history. Many were standing in the corridors, tipping and craning necks in an effort to catch a glimpse of the defendant, who appeared calm and untroubled by the hundreds who gazed at him with curious eyes.

Defense attorneys had not indicated tonight just what their plea would be but from questioning of veniremen today indications are that they will plead self defense. Weldon F. Johnson, of Levelland, and George Dupree and C. C. Crenshaw, of Lubbock, are attorneys for the defendant.

Navy Disarmament Urged By Hoover

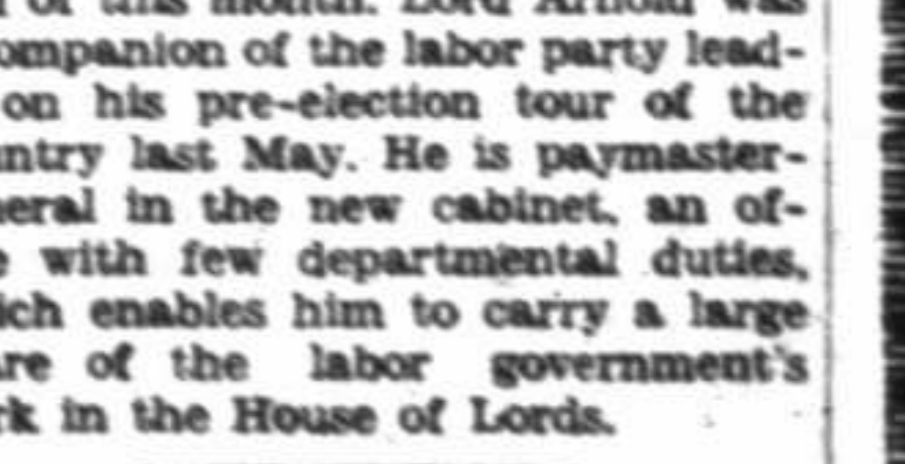

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The present naval disarmament negotiations were described by President Hoover in a radio address tonight as "proposals which would preserve our national defenses and yet would relieve the backs of those who toil from gigantic expenditures and the world from the hate and fear which flows from the rivalry in building war ships."

The speech was delivered through the Columbia broadcasting system in connection with the dedication of the New York studio of the broadcasting chain. It was the first time Mr. Hoover mentioned disarmament in a public address since the present conversations with Great Britain were begun.

The President in part said: "Of the untold values of the radio, one is the great intimacy it has brought among our people. 'This room from which I speak was the scene of our work and accomplishment of our presidents for over a century."

How to Achieve Beauty

Very seldom have I been criticized for saying that any woman can be beautiful, for most people who think of beauty at all are intelligent enough to know the many forms and shapes that beauty takes and the many possibilities that any type of beauty has. But recently a friend of mine surprised me by contradicting the claim I have always made: a claim supported soundly by a lifetime of pertinent experience—that there is beauty in every woman either already apparent, or latent beauty which she can develop.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Before the vogue of sun tan—several years before, in fact—when beautiful women were of the hot-house plant variety, freckles were a distinct handicap. Many a pretty little red-head cried herself to sleep nights because she couldn't so much as attend an outdoor picnic without looking as if she had been peppered with rust. Belle of sterner calipers bathed their faces and arms with lemon juice, buttermilk or brick lotions to dull the brilliancy of these freckles.

Today a Chicago lass with a bumper crop of freckles on her face, shoulders and arms comes along and wins a beauty contest and is selected by a hair dressing association to represent them in a national contest where she will compete for a Miss America title.

Said the judges: "The freckles added to her picture." The modern tendency in beauty is to stress individuality rather than conventionalities of features. Youth in her favor vivaciously a joy of living a girl can get away with pretty nearly any complexion of features and she can look dark or fair, tall or short, fit with the older woman that good picture, classic features, and a flawless skin really count.

A WEIGHTY SUBJECT

A woman who has been particularly successful in keeping her skin clear, recently returned from her studies. One of her dearest friends called her up and asked her: "All right—but I gained ten pounds while I was away" she answered.

"Goodly, goodly" exclaimed the friend, "I'm so glad." Then stopped demly.

Then there was an awkward silence for both as they realized the unobvious feminine antagonism involved. Both heard the cat meow.

"I don't know," she said, "I was surprised, particularly a woman who let it out."

"A good feminist who has learned to give and take in the business world, and who has watched petty houses and envies become feuds."

Europe Also Demands Farm Relief As Laborers Trek To Large Cities

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 18.—Statements of Europe, like those of America, are concerned with the problem of farm relief, says Dr. J. G. Lipman, director of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station who has just returned from a visit of several weeks in the principal European countries. All of Europe, he reports, feels the effects of a serious agricultural depression. European farmers, like those of America, complain bitterly of the unfavorable price situation. Dr. Lipman states, and to make matters worse, the harvesting of this season's crops is being made uncertain because of a serious shortage of help in some regions. Farm laborers in great numbers are deserting the countryside for work in the towns and cities. And many farmers, discouraged by their unsatisfactory condition of their lands, also are abandoning their plots to work in the city. So great has been the drift away from the farms that in some cities the influx of people from rural areas is causing an acute housing shortage. "The drift of population from country to city," Dr. Lipman states, "is general in England, France, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia and the Scandinavian countries. In East Prussia farmers are petitioning their government for permission to employ aliens in seasonal agricultural work. The laws of that country have banned alien labor except when sanctioned by the government. Despite the law however, some farmers prefer to pay fines for violating it rather than lose their crops." Swiss Losing Savings In discussing the price situation, Dr. Lipman refers to conditions in Switzerland as indicative of the handicaps under which European agriculture is laboring. "Dairying is the backbone of

Dr. J. G. Lipman reports European farmers in... Swiss agriculture, and the dairymen of Switzerland are well organized," Dr. Lipman explains. "Over a period of years they accumulated a fund of several millions of Swiss francs, to be drawn on in the event of milk prices dropping below a profitable level. That time has already arrived for the Swiss dairymen, and now their fund is being rapidly depleted. "Loss of some of the markets for their famous Swiss cheese is believed to be at least partly responsible for the present depression in the dairy industry of Switzerland in the United States, as well as some other countries. Swiss cheese is being manufactured at home, running markets for the original product. "Some leaders of the Swiss dairy industry are advocating a shift from cheese to butter making as one means of overcoming their difficulties. Even this plan may be difficult to carry out, however, for at present butter made in Denmark is under-selling the

Swiss product in Switzerland. Want Protective Tariffs

Dr. Lipman reports that dissatisfaction with farm prices has led European producers to demand tariffs that will protect agriculture from foreign importations. Growers of wheat and of sugar beets are particularly insistent in their demands for a tariff. Embargoes also are being sought as a measure of protection. In England there is a strong sentiment among dairymen for the exclusion of milk powder. "Throughout Europe," Dr. Lipman says, "the situation is such that the various governments are deeply concerned with working out farm policies that will keep their agricultural industries from becoming impoverished. "The problem in Europe closely parallels the farm situation in the United States except that it is further aggravated by an acute land problem. Farmers of this country have sufficient acreage to make an efficient use of machinery and other labor-saving equipment, but the European farmers do not enjoy the advantage. "Most of the farms are too small to provide a fair standard of living, and the few farms of large acreage are being reduced in area through the handicap of heavy taxation, through legislation, or a combination of the two."

Veteran Sailor - Surgeon Perfects Complete Cure For Seasickness; Method Tested For Many Years

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Good news for those who go down to the sea in fear and trembling—A cure has been perfected for seasickness.

It's A Matter of Diet. Since acid, according to the seafaring surgeon, is responsible for seasickness, attention is just as easy as the cure. He prescribes simple dietetic precautions.

For those who contemplate an ocean trip, I suggest a simple diet to be started a week before boarding ship. The diet may consist of grapefruit and oranges; lamb mutton or chicken; plenty of green vegetables and plenty of water...

HOORAY FOR JUSTICE: THREE rousing cheers for the district of Columbia Supreme court and its presiding Justice Suddens, who unceremoniously slapped a $50,000 fine on one Harry M. Blackmer, late of Denver, but now of Paris, France!

Blackmer, you'll remember, is the gentleman who waxed wealthy in this country got mixed up in the sinister activities of the Continental Trading company and the notorious leasing and looting of the Teapot Dome government oil reserves.

The funny part about the fine assessed the missing oil man is that the little old U. S. A. already has the money it will be deftly subtracted from $100,000 in bonds which the government had the presence of mind to seize when Blackmer turned up missing, and despite threats of his attorneys to appeal, is already in the old sock up at Washington.

There has been quite a bit said about Harry Sinclair, another oil magnate, who is serving a nine months jail term growing out of the same Teapot Dome deal but this newspaper has infinitely more respect for Harry Sinclair than it will ever feel for Harry Blackmer.

INITIATIVE FOR DISARMAMENT SHOULD BE TAKEN BY UNCLE SAM, THINKS SENATOR DAKOTA SENATOR

BY CHARLES F. STEWART Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—While naval officers worry over President Hoover's sea power negotiation with Premier Ramsay MacDonald, last John Bull got a few thousand tons of cruisers the better of Uncle Sam.

Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota continues to insist that the way to achieve international disarmament is for some one big, influential country to begin it, regardless of all the rest, and disarm down to its last pop-gun—when, says the senator, seeing that somebody really means it, the others will be mighty glad to follow suit.

It was Senator Frazier who proposed, three or four years ago, to make war unconstitutional. He wanted the United States to take the disarmament initiative—and still urges it.

The North Dakotan listens not unsympathetically to the Hoover-MacDonald discussion but refuses to wax enthusiastic concerning it. "It trends in the right direction," he agrees, "but does not progress far enough."

"How can it—on its present basis. "We suggest armament reduction to the British. They at least are willing to accept limitation. "We both are full of peace protestations. "Yet we plan to retain the world's two strongest navies. "Not very convincing!"

The objection raised to Senator Frazier's anti-war constitutional amendment would be easy enough to guess at—even if one had not heard it expressed, at the time the amendment originally was offered, from all corners of the country—

"To be sure we can make war unconstitutional for ourselves—but how can we make it unconstitutional for others to attack us?"

"The fact that it so obviously would be an attack is the crux of the proposition. "No people ever admits, to itself or to the world, that it fights offensively. It invariably takes it for granted, or is misled into believing that it fights in self-defense. Both sides give the same excuse and always have done so, as long as there has been history."

"Such a pretense would be impossible if we were disarmed and had outlawed war insofar as we were concerned, under any circumstances. A resort to arms would be an act of aggression against us—manifestly, to everyone."

Even so, individuals occasionally commit acts of aggression against perfectly peaceful, inoffensive folk—generally for plunder.

If individuals, why not governments?—which, after all are groups of individuals. It might be better, perhaps, to say that good would be done us to know that—if we were helpless to prevent it. "A government might attempt it," rejoined the senator, "but its own people would not follow it."

Assuming that all armaments were destroyed—might there not still be wars—starting with what we were concerned, under any circumstances. A resort to arms would be an act of aggression against us—manifestly, to everyone."

"With the destruction of armaments," said the North Dakotan, "an incentive to wars would be removed, at any rate. "They breed war. They lead to armament races, which presently become so expensive that it is cheaper to stop them by fighting, than to continue racing. "Besides, they foster a belligerent psychology. "The world has suffered from the war habit. This is an excellent moment for a resolute effort to break it—at a time when, having recently had a taste of it, it is temporarily sick of it. It is likely to recur, the more inconvenient we make a recurrence."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is another article in the series, "Know Your Food Values," by Dr. Morris Fishbein.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Americans eat tremendous amounts of meat, and with good reason. The meats most commonly used are beef, veal, pork, lamb, fish and fowl. The muscle meats do not provide many of the essential ingredients for a healthful diet, as compared with glandular organs, such as liver and kidney. Animals cannot live successfully on an exclusive muscle meat diet, whereas they can survive for considerable periods of time on diets containing much muscle meat and what used to be called entrails. The glandular organs or entrails contain considerable quantities of the important vitamins.

Meats are not especially to be selected in reducing diets, although a small portion of meat can do no particular harm if properly calculated as one crusty cracker. For example, the simple recipe of duck weighing about 84 grams or about one-sixth of a pound, provide 19 grams of protein and three grams of fat, 100 calories, a little phosphorus and iron, but very little of any of the important vitamins or any other important food constituents.

A slice of roast beef of the same weight provides 24 grams of protein and 16 grams of fat and 240 calories, a little phosphorus and iron, but little in the way of vitamins. A piece of steak, that is a slice about three inches by two inches by one-half inch in size, weighing about one-tenth of a pound, provides 10 grams of protein, six grams of fat and about 100 calories. Veal is about the same, but ham and bacon require much less in order to give the same amount of energy.

Four small slices of bacon will give 100 calories; one small pork chop will give 100 calories; a very small veal cutlet will give 100 calories. It is for this reason that the meat products do not enter largely into reducing diets, but are exceedingly often listed in diets planned to increase weight or to sustain normal nutrition, particularly for the working man.

So far as fish are concerned, two-thirds of a cup of oysters, or anywhere from six to ten oysters will provide 100 calories. One-half cup of canned salmon will do the same. One-fourth of a cup of tuna-fish, two small trout, or one medium-sized smoked herring will provide 100 calories.

Such portions will weigh about one-eighth of a pound. Anywhere from 10 to 20 per cent of their content will be protein, about one-third as much will be fat. They are very poor in general carbohydrate. The fish products are particularly valuable in yielding such minerals as calcium, phosphorus and iron and rather helpful for vitamins A and B.

Today's Poem

WHEN I LOVE I see— I only love the best in me; But when I hate the bad, I find I love your worst. O Heart of Mine!

I am a part of all I see; Both good and bad are parts of me And recognizing good and bad Is knowing things I've always had.

When people find the good they seek And recognize the bad they meet— To know these things, set them apart, They have to know them in their hearts.

You've no doubt heard doctors relate: "It's injurious to yourself to hate." We can't point out the faults in men And claim to hold no part with sin.

Now if you do not think this true Here is a little proof for you; Search for the good and you will find A world of beauty—clean and kind.

But search for ugly things and then You'll find the poor world black as sin. Or search for trouble and, my friend, You'll find that trouble has no end.

I know that I hold in my heart With all I see a kindred part. So for my selfish piece of mind— I'll simply love the good I find.

In three months of this year more than $4,000,000 worth of linen goods were sent from Belfast, Ireland, to this country.

Flowers which turn their faces toward the sun in the day time and to the ground at night have been found in Europe.

HATCHER IS SUED

Lamar School Trustees In Attempt After Funds AUSTIN, Sept. 18. (AP)—W. C. Hatcher, state treasurer, was sued for $20,851 by 47 Lamar county school districts in district court here today.

It was alleged that failure of Hatcher to honor drafts drawn on him for redemption of school bonds caused the districts to lose that amount. Six weeks elapsed between the date of drawing the drafts and their payment, it was alleged, and the bank which had handled the transaction failed, leaving the bonds outstanding. It was claimed that Hatcher not delayed the transaction, the money would have been paid in before the bank failure.

Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Groves AUTHOR OF 'RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL,' ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when the girls at boarding school tease her about posing as Miss Simplicity just to please her handsome guardian, LEONARD BRENT, with whom they accuse her of being in love. And her roommate calls her a fool after they see him at the Ritz one day with another woman. Brent refuses to tell her about her part-entail until after she graduates.

One day Brent spent a gold locket on a beggar who has fallen in an alley. He bends over to take the locket and hears mumbled words which cause him to try to save the beggar's life. However, he can learn is that the "beggar's" name is CHARLES OWENS NELLIN; that his wife is dead and that he has hidden a daughter from her wealthy grandfather, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM, of Yonkers.

Posing as a newspaper man searching for story material, Brent learns much of value to his purpose from the corner store gossip who knows the history of the eccentric millionaire. He goes back to find Nellin and the cheap hotel manager tells him that an old man by the name of "Owen" had died there and been sent to the morgue. Brent takes a look at the body and reflects that it is most fortunate for his plans that his second name had registered under his first name.

Helen graduates and he tells her that he is now ready to disclose her parentage and early history. The girl is amazed when he tells her that she is the heiress of Cyril K. Cunningham. He shows her a picture of EVANGELINE CUNNINGHAM and says it is his mother and that he had made her parents a solemn promise to educate her carefully and after she was grown take her to her grandfather.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER X "Why, my dear," Brent said to Helen, "I've told you what I mean by that. It was only my crazy idea that I could control you through force of habit. I thought if you were used to giving in to me you would more readily consent to marry me."

His voice was thick with emotion, as though he made his confession by force of a tremendous force of habit. He acted as though he were used to giving in to me you would more readily consent to marry me."

But Brent's silence pressed her closer to him. "Leonard," she whispered, "it is the most natural thing in the world for me to do this."

Her inference was under studied. Brent, but his plans were too well laid to permit him to follow up the promise in her words. There must be, he conceived, a reluctance to accept her pledge. For it might possibly occur to her that his proposal had come upon the eve of her interview with her grandfather. If that interview should lead to a fortune for her Brent wanted to be above the suspicion of having shown an eagerness to share it with her.

"Don't say that," he said rather sharply. "You make me feel like a blackguard. I was planning to take advantage of your youth and inexperience, Helen."

Helen sat away from him. She was startled. "I had no right to dominate you. I had no right to dominate you. I had no right to dominate you. I had no right to dominate you."

"Good morning, Mr. Cunningham," he said, "bring a chair close to me. I believe you said he finished, addressing himself to Leonard."

Brent smiled until Helen's head and waited until Helen was seated before speaking again. Mr. Cunningham was offering apologies for being unable to rise to receive her. Helen answered with a faint smile and left the conversation to the men.

Mr. Cunningham waved the servant aside, dismissing him, as he turned, "bring a chair close to me. I believe you said he finished, addressing himself to Leonard."

"Quite," Brent replied, and without preamble. "It is in regard to your daughter, Mr. Cunningham. As he spoke Brent kept his eyes upon Mr. Cunningham with an intent gaze. He saw his start, saw his hands flutter on a cane head and heard him draw sharp breath.

"My granddaughter!" It was barely a whisper, rather a thought that lived for an instant upon air.

"Yes," Brent said. "Are you interested?" The light that burned suddenly in the eyes that Mr. Cunningham lifted to search his own was sufficient answer for Brent. "You may like, meet her," he said.

Republicans Win In Tariff Fight

Regulars Of Senate Stand Victors After Test Of Strength On Proposed Tariff Amendments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Republican regulars of the senate stood victors today after the first test of strength on amendments to the pending tariff bill.

The issue was drawn on one of the less controversial of the many amendments prepared by members of the finance committee who drafted the bill and have the right of way in proposing changes in its provisions.

Amendment Adopted
The amendment requiring that important articles be marked in a "reasonably conspicuous place" except in the event such marking would cause injury or involve expense which would be economically prohibitive of importation, was adopted by a vote of 40 to 22.

The decision came on a reconsideration of a previous vote rejecting the change 38 to 28, in which eight republicans joined the democrats in opposition. They were Max Baucus of Idaho, Curtis of New Mexico, Howell of Nebraska, LaFollette of Wisconsin, McMaster of South Dakota, Norris of Nebraska, Nye of Nevada, and Reed of Pennsylvania.

Reed brought about the reconsideration and was joined by Howell in voting for the amendment on the second roll call together with five democrats—Trammell and Fletcher of Florida, Ransdell and Broussard of Louisiana, and Pittman of Nevada.

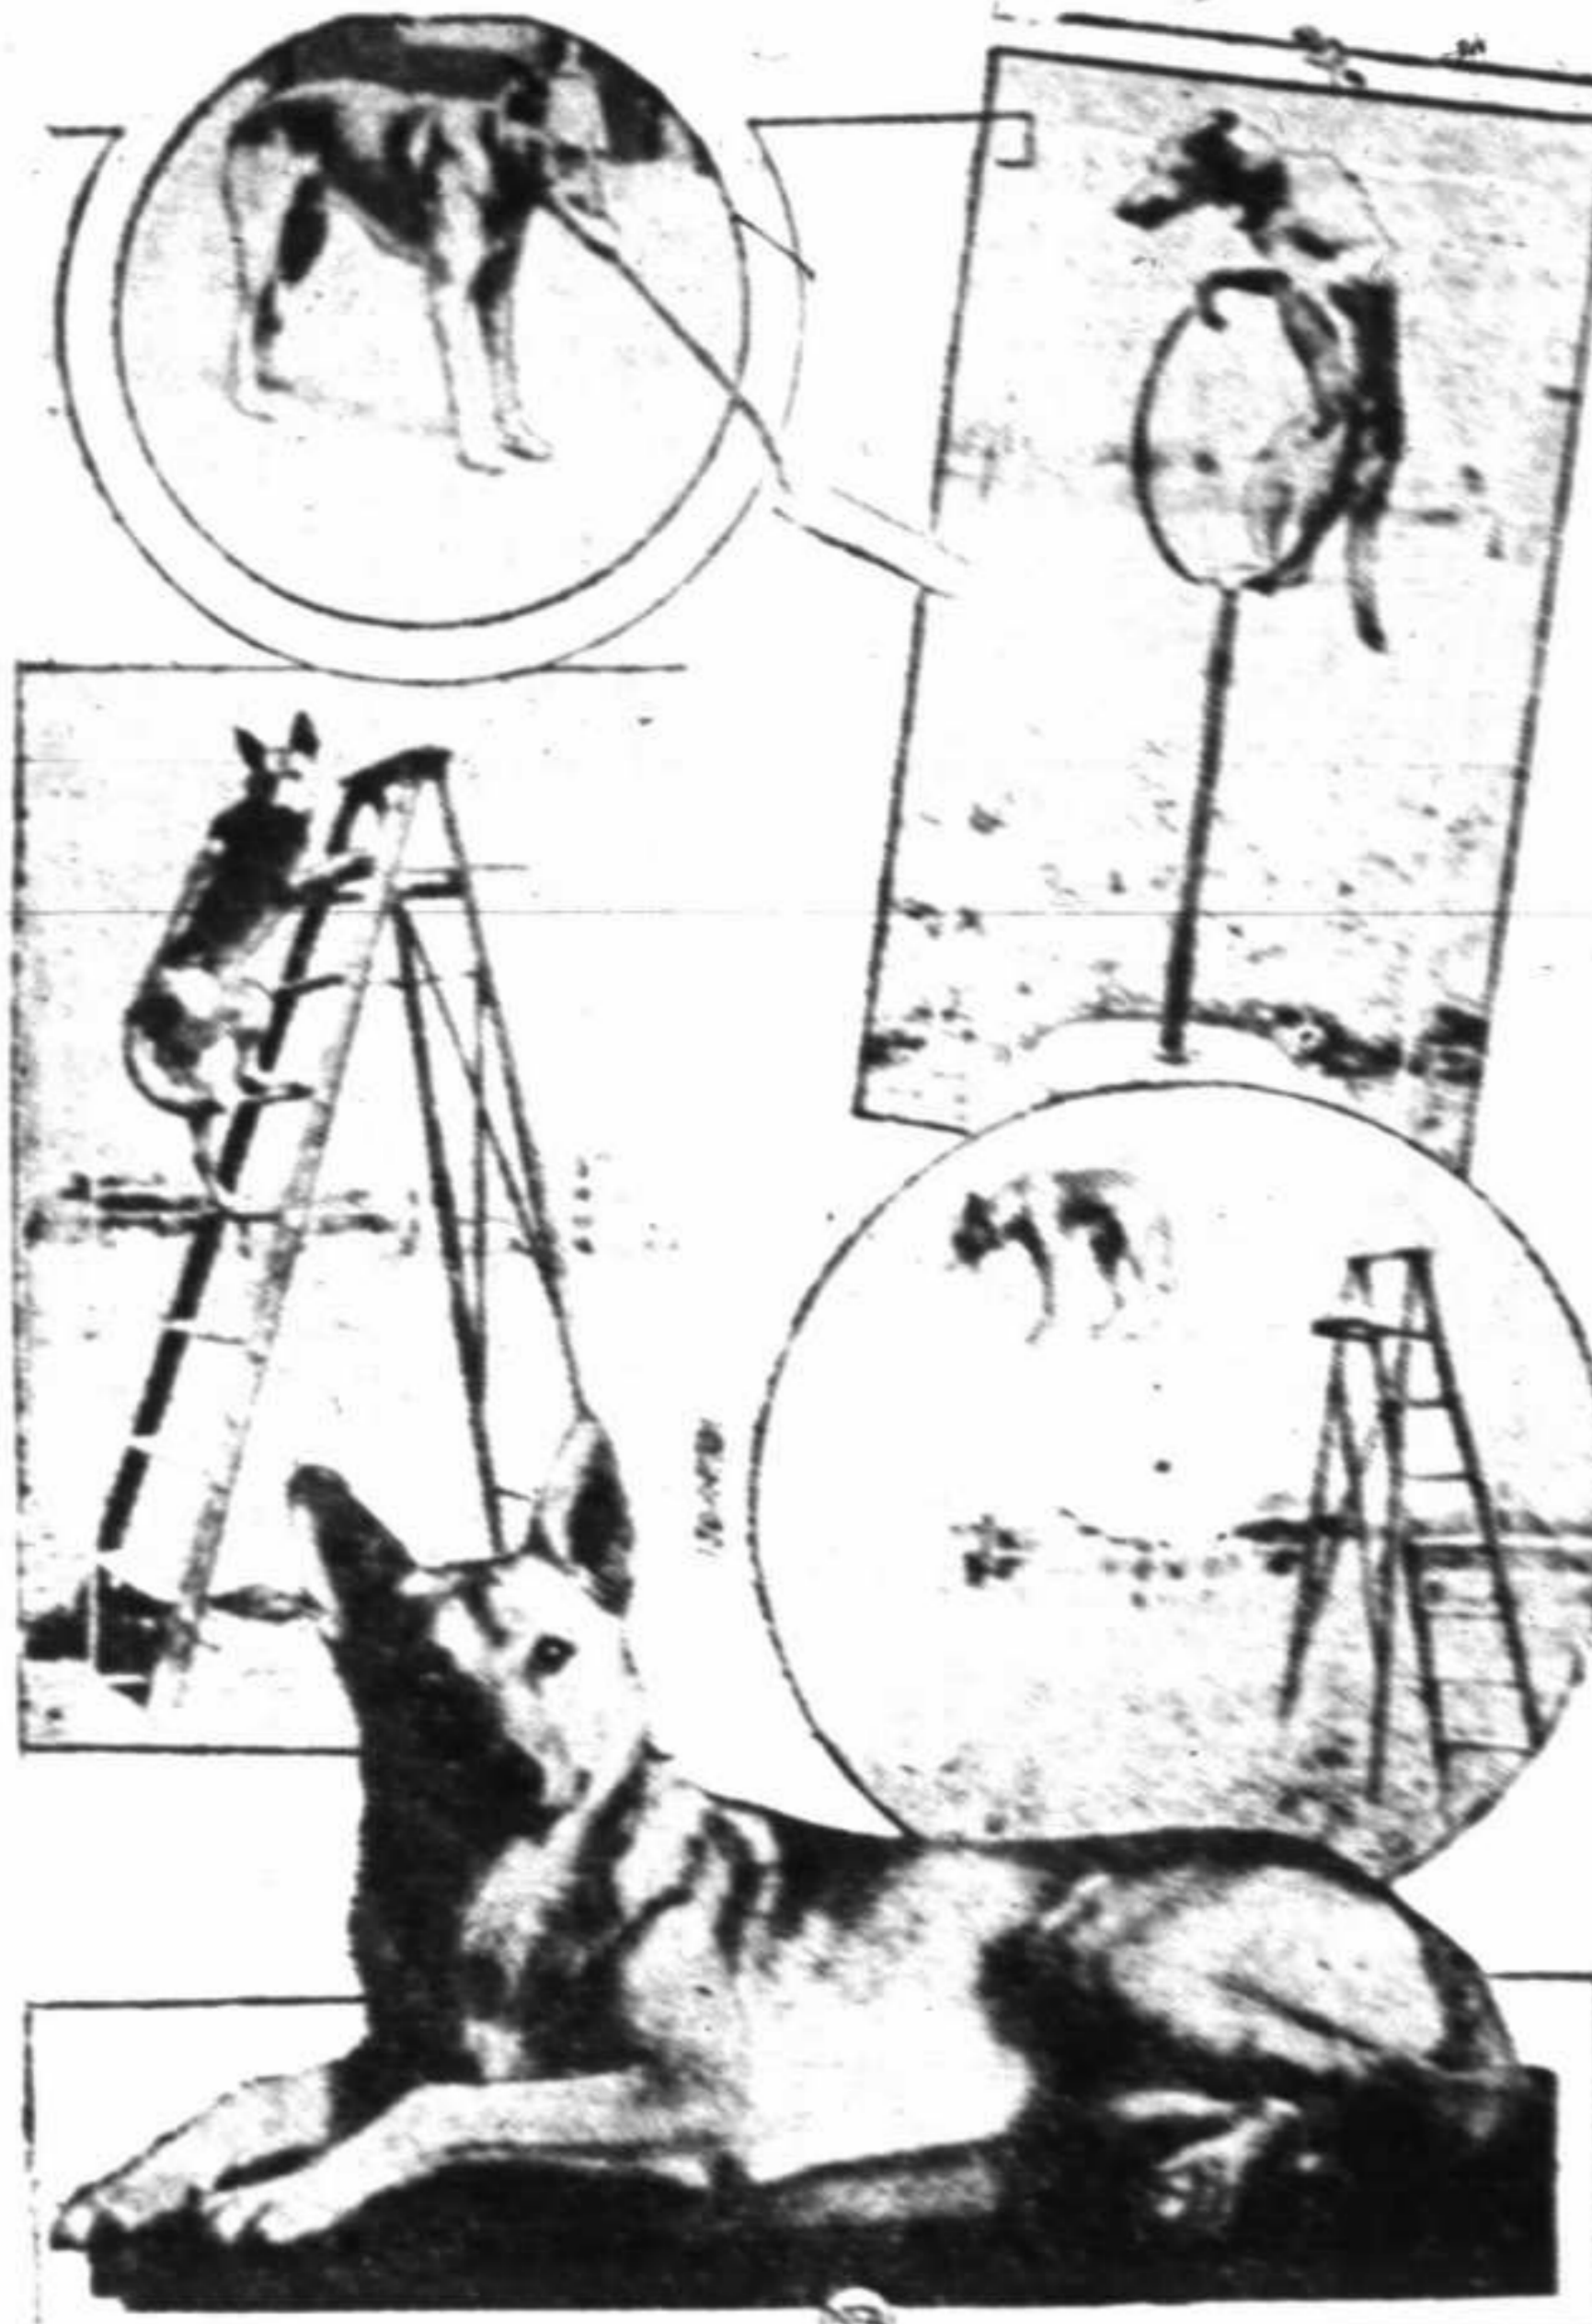

The democrats contended for the marking provision approved by the house, which would give the secretary of the treasury power to waive the requirement at his discretion without making specific exceptions in the measure itself. Republican leaders opposed that on the ground it would delegate too much authority to the secretary. The present law exempts from the marking requirement only goods which might be injured.

Ton Of Fireworks Coming For Fair

Display Promises To Be Most Costly And Elaborate Night Show Ever To Be Shown At Exposition

Nearly a ton of fireworks, now on its way to Lubbock, will be used here in producing the big fireworks display at the Panhandle-South Plains fair, September 30 to October 5, inclusive.

The bombs, rockets, shells, set pieces, scenic effects, electrical firing devices and other technical properties which will be required to stage the nightly headliner at the fair are being shipped here in a special fireproof car. A corps of special technicians will accompany the show here and will have charge of its entire staging and firing. Several days time will be required by these experts to lay out the grounds, install the elaborate system of electrical controls, lay the display ground, erect scaffolding, footings and other basic work needed in staging the huge display. The experts will arrive several days before the fair and will remain until the last display has been fired on the closing evening.

This is the most costly and elaborate night show the fair has ever presented to the public," said Byron C. Dickerson, president of the fair association. We expect to break all attendance records if the weather man is kind to us.

Big Help? Unbreakable Eggs On Display

BUFFALO, Sept. 18.—What good is an egg if you can't break it? Well, the errand-offings can't break them when they trip and fall on the way home from the store, but neither can the cook. Unbreakable eggs were recently displayed at the Erie county fair. A hammer couldn't break the shells.

Performs Daring Stunt Rider Takes High Line Tour

BENLIX, Sept. 18.—Carl Kamelshov, one of a troupe of two stunt riders, recently pulled off one of the gamiest tricks seen in Germany. On a bel he drove his automobile across a span of about 100 yards between two high voltage wire towers. Removing the car in 1928, he hit the car in 1929, started the engine and nonchalantly drove the distance between the towers.

Social Conventions Win Victory As Proposed Wife Trade Not Sanctioned

CHIPPENAW FALLS, Wis., Sept. 18.—Social conventions here were a victim in exacting Judge D. E. Cook refusing to sanction a wife trade which carried the county last November. Judge Cook refused to grant divorce to Edward W. Heideberger and Mrs. Bessie Brown, two of the plaintiffs. The divorce would have cleared the way for legal marriage between the wife trade by which Mrs. Brown and her five children went to the Heideberger home in exchange for Mrs. Heideberger and her six children who returned to the Heideberger home.
