A. — School officials note there is "maintenance" required to stay in the career ladder "level 2," that is it is possible to be dropped.

Education reform bill 'will survive'

AUSTIN (AP) — The 1984 education reform law that has sparked controversy throughout the state apparently will survive the 1985 Legislature unscathed.

Lawmakers came to town in January full of ideas on how to reform the reforms. They'll probably go home after Memorial Day without denting the school package.

"Every day it appears that way more and more," House Speaker Gib Lewis said as the session entered its last week.

Before the final gavel bangs the session to an end on May 27, lawmakers will scramble to complete the 1986-87 budget, wrap up the Blue Law repeal bill and beg, threaten and cajole to push through their pet bills.

House-Senate conferees hope to wrap up the budget early this week. The House probably will vote Tuesday to accept Senate changes in the House-approved Blue Law repeal bill. Repeal backers are confident that Gov. Mark White will sign the measure that clears the way for Sunday shopping.

The closing-week scrambles probably won't include any related to HB72, the public school reform measure approved during the 1984 summer special session.

Lewis said minor changes are needed, but he was hesitant to allow an all-out assault on HB72.

"I've never favored opening it up to let everybody take potshots at what we did in the summer session. If we make some minor changes, that's fine with me. But if it's going to expose the whole education program this late in the game, I'm very hesitant on doing that," he said.

So a Senate-approved education package appears headed for death in the House Public Education Committee.

"I've talked to the Texas Education Agency people and it seems to be OK with them too," Lewis said of the hands-off attitude in the House.

House Public Education Committee Chairman Bill Haley, D-Center, said some changes are needed now — especially in the no-pass, no-play rule and the teacher career ladder.

"The session is not over yet," he said. Action on education "depends on whether we can get the leadership of the House in position to feel like we can handle it without gutting everything."

"But time is drawing nigh," said Haley, co-sponsor of the 1984 reform bill.

The no-pass, no-play rule has drawn the attention of Texans, some of whom have gone to court to challenge the provision that bars failing students from extracurricular activities.

Haley wants a change in the mandatory six-week ineligibility period for students failing any course. He favors ineligibility only for students who fail a state-required course.

"The state's part of it should say we are going to require that you be on track for graduation and be passing all of your subjects as required by the state," he said.

"Whatever you are doing in locally allowed electives or locally required electives, that's up to the local people," he said.

The career ladder for teachers was set up by HB72 to reward good teachers. Some teachers have complained about the way it's being administered. Haley wants to postpone it for a year.

Haley facors a "set of basic state criteria" that would decide which teachers are rewarded.

SHS's Robertson leaves school post

Monday morning, Snyder High School Band Director Sam Robertson announced his intention to resign from that position.

Robertson — who will remain in Snyder to open a fulltime insurance office — said "my time in Snyder has been very good and very successful but I feel that now is the right time to retire from teaching."

SAM ROBERTSON
...to leave SHS...

His insurance business — begun two years ago on a part-time basis — has reached the point, he said, where he cannot devote sufficient time to it and still meet the obligations of the SHS band program.

Robertson noted he has wanted to retire from teaching on a "high" and cited the current pre-enrollment of 190 students as "the right time."

Speaking of the past six years in Snyder, Robertson said the support for the band from the community, the Band Booster organization and the school administration has been "super."

Robertson first came to Snyder in 1975 as band director at Snyder Junior High School. He left that post in 1977 to accept the head band director's position at Forsan High School.

He returned to Snyder as head of the high school program in 1979.

'Ladder' bonuses in mail

Some 71 teachers Monday received notification through the mail of their selection for "level 2" of the Snyder ISD career ladder program.

The selection entailed a bonus check of $1,500 to each of the classroom teachers.

The cutoff of 71 teachers was directed by state mandates, part of the sweeping education reform bill passed last summer by the legislature. The amount Snyder could allocate for such funds was based upon the school's ADA (average daily attendance) enrollment.

Career ladder dollars for Snyder — all of which come from local rather than state funds — totaled $106,500.

Local school officials could have given bonus checks for as much as $2,000, but they opted for the minimum figure of $1,500 so

The change in the prime, the first since mid-January, was initiated Wednesday by Bankers Trust Co. of New York, the eighth largest bank.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Moslem militiamen and Palestinian guerrillas fought fierce street battles in west Beirut today. Police said at least 30 people were killed and more than 80 wounded.

A hospital and a nursing home reportedly were hit by shellfire during the fighting, which took place on the first day of Ramadan, the Moslem holy month of fasting. The Palestinians are overwhelmingly Moslem.

Midwest joins coops in 50th observance

Midwest Electric Cooperative, with offices in Roby and Snyder, is joining with other Texas rural electric cooperatives in observing the 50th year of "rural electrification."

This year marks the 50th year since electric lines began their spread through the rural areas of the state. They note in 1935, fewer than 3 percent of Texas' farms and ranches had electric power.

The local cooperative officially dates to Sept. 23, 1938 — the day Midwest was issued a charter from the state. This makes the local operation almost 47 years old.

Its roots actually go back to June 10, 1930, however, when a small group of rural residents proposed the idea at a meeting of the Hobbs ISD school board.

Two men named Cleveland Littlepage and Joe Fender are credited with carrying the idea through to the charter application stage.

The original firm had 132 families served by 43 miles of line. Today, Midwest provides

Nude romp ends in jail

A "streaking" episode Sunday evening resulted in the arrest of eight local residents — four men and four women — on charges of disorderly conduct shortly after 10 p.m.

Police received a report at 9:58 p.m. that several nude people had left the Piggly Wiggly parking lot on south College Ave. in a blue Thunderbird and were headed for the Sonic Drive-In across the street.

They were reported to have gotten out of their car and run

Commissioners buy some existing phones

Commissioners Monday voted to buy the existing phone equipment from AT&T which now serves several county facilities outside the courthouse.

AT&T representative Tony Haisliv of Midland quoted a price of $3,657 for this equipment. It includes phones now serving the coliseum, library, county welfare office and extension agents offices in the Senior Center, all four county barns, Towle Park swimming pool and the parks department offices.

It was noted that phones had previously been purchased for the county health unit.

Commissioners are also considering buying a new AT&T system for the courthouse. A final decision regarding this is still pending, however.

At a May 13 meeting, Haisliv quoted a $24,000 price tag for a courthouse system.

Commissioner Eldon Perry, Pct. 1, was absent Monday. Court members present were County Judge Preston Wilson and Commissioners Hassie Sneed, C.D. Gray Jr. and Ted Billingsley.

'Gifted' programs attract youngsters

Six Snyder youngsters, grades 5-7, have been selected to attend summer programs offerd at area universities designed for students identified as "gifted and talented."

Five of the six will be attending "Shake Hands with Your Future," a project offered through the Texas Tech Institute for the Gifted in Lubbock.

Two others will be participating in the "Threshold" program at the Irvin School of Education, Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

Those going to the Tech program will be Blair Williams, a sixth grader at Northeast Elementary; Jim Kirk Palmer, a sixth grader at West Elementary; Rachel Wilson, a sixth grader at West Elementary; Gayle Henderson, a sixth grader at Stanfield Elementary; and Stacie McDaniel, a seventh grader at the junior high.

The Abilene project, described as "educational enrichment for gifted and talented youth," will be utilized by Amy Richardson, a fifth grader at Stanfield.

The Lubbock program requires nomination from the student's teacher while the Abilene plan allows parents to nominate their children.

The criteria for nomination into "Threshold" requires the child to show "demonstrated achievement" in such areas as intellectural ability, academic achievement, creativity, leadership or abilities in the visual or performing arts. Children ages 10-16 may be nominated for "Threshold."

The Lubbock program accepts students grades 5 through 12 which meet two of the following criteria: an IQ of 120 to 130 or above; identified as gifted by the school system; accelerated one or more grade levels above the average grade placement; achievement test scores in the 90 percent level or above; unusual "thinking skills;" demonstrated

Prisoners swap confirmed

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — A Syrian-backed Palestinian group has agreed to free three Israeli prisoners today in exchange for the release of 1,100 Palestinian and Lebanese prisoners held by Israel, the International Red Cross said today.

Sources in Syria say among those to be freed by Israel is a man convicted in the 1972 massacre of 26 people at Tel Aviv's Lod airport.

Red Cross spokesman Jean-Jacques Kurz said in Geneva that the three Israelis would be exchanged for about 380 Palestinians at Geneva's Cointrin airport today.

"There will be a simultaneous exchange" in the Middle East of the other prisoners, he told about 20 reporters waiting at the airport. He said the exchange would take about six hours.

It was the first official confirmation of persistent unofficial reports from Middle East capitals that the swap would take place.

The Red Cross official identified the three Israeli prisoners as Sgt. Hezi Shai, Pvt. Nissim Salem and Pvt. Yossi Groff. All three were captured after Israel's June 1982 invasion of Lebanon.

The Israeli prisoners will travel to Tel Aviv after the swap, Kurz said. He said one plane load of Palestinians — about 130 — would be flown to Libya but he did not know the destination of the others.

The exchange was to take place on the airport tarmac in an area off-limits to journalists, he said.

The sources in Syria, who all spoke on condition they were not identified, said Israel will release some prisoners at the airport in Geneva, where they will be transferred to Libya. They said Israel will release others, mostly Palestinians, on its own soil.

Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy is scheduled to meet the freed prisoners in Tripoli, the sources said.

Syrian sources told The Associated Press that one of the prisoners slated for release by the Israelis is Kozo Okamoto, 37, who was given a life sentence by an Israeli court on July 17, 1972. He was one of three Japanese in a Red Army squad that opened fire on a crowd at Lod airport, killing 26 people and wounding 72. Among those slain were 16 Puerto Ricans making a pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

The Syrian sources said another prisoner to be freed by Israel is Ziad Abu Ein, who was extradited from the United States to Israel on bombing charges.

Appoint female leader

DALLAS (AP) — The first woman president of the Dallas Jaycees said she has to prove she is as capable as a man of heading the formerly all-male group.

The Dallas Jaycees are part of a national civic organization that barred women from voting privileges until last August.

"I not only need to do a good job," Ms. Kimbrell said, "but also have to show that I am as equal in the post as a man."

She said the Dallas chapter earlier had passed resolutions in support of admmitting women, but it had been restricted by national rules.

Ms. Kimbrell was the first female associate member in 1982, founder of the Dallas Jaycee Women and the first full-voting member to join last year. She also was named state director of the Dallas chapter last August.

"Now that women are admitted, more men also are joining," Ms. Kimbrell said. "They are following their wives and girlfriends. Its definitely a better way."

Ms. Kimbrell, 34, said she wants to increase public interest in the group, which has dropped its all-male rule. The Dallas Jaycess group is 65 years old and has 100 members.

Stress leads to symptoms

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My father used to get migraine headaches. Five years ago he retired and he quit getting the headaches, but now he's discovered he has an ulcer. Are these both tension-related diseases? I hate to think that he'll be tied to medicine the rest of his life. Are there lifestyle changes he should be trying instead?

DEAR READER — Migraine, a vascular instability of the brain covering, appears to be triggered by stress in some people. Not all headaches are migraines; the majority of headaches are due to tension-related contractions in the scalp and back of the neck. Be that as it may, migraines can be stress-induced. If, after your father retired, he stopped having headaches, I would conclude that certain job-related factors apparently caused his headaches.

Now that he has an ulcer, which may also be brought on by stress, it sounds as though he has had a problem dealing effectively with both the tension at work and the tension of retirement.

Retirement stress is becoming a hot topic. Many career-oriented, aggressive men and women find the supposed serenity of retirement to be an ordeal. For a person accustomed to controlling his world and making decisions, life after 65 can be a sudden and devastating wasteland. Usefulness becomes a distant memory and the excitement of a career changes into numbing frustration. The anger of being "put out to pasture" may be turned inward to cause chronic gastric hyperacidity. Your mother may ruefully be learning that she married your father for better or for worse ... but not for lunch.

He probably needs to regain some balance in his life and, if he is alert and willing, he may provide an extraordinary resource for your community. For example, he could volunteer at your hospital or local school. He could become active in church affairs or men's clubs. He may be able to discover a part-time job that will not jeopardize his Social Security benefits. What he needs is to be busy and useful to someone. With all the jobs that need doing in our world, I think it's a crime that retired persons are not recognized as assets; after retirement, many older people have much to offer our society.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is recent medical thought on birth-control pills? I went back to the pill after several years with an IUD, but now I'm in my late 30s and wonder if I should be worrying. I use a low-estrogen pill, don't smoke and am fairly thin. Frankly, all other methods seem real turnoffs, but am I being foolish?

DEAR READER — The low-dose contraceptive pills are quite safe for non-smoking, sexually active women under 40. I advise you to obtain regular examinations and Pap smears from your gynecologist, and ask him if there is any reason why you cannot continue the pill. This is, of necessity, a personal and private decision in which you can appropriately involve a doctor who is familiar with your health and needs.

Dear Abby

Drivers, Joggers Dispute Each Other's Right-of-Way

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I think it's time people recognized running as a legitimate sport, and accorded joggers and runners the same consideration given to other sportsmen.

I just lost another morning of training when a motorist stopped me on my neighborhood course to ask for directions!

As a competitive runner, I time my runs, and the only way I know how much progress I'm making is to compare today's time against previous times. When somebody stops me, I lose my rhythm, pace and concentration, and all the other elements that a runner builds up to.

You wouldn't drive up to a tennis court, jump out, dash up to the server and ask where Maple Street is, would you?

I hate to be rude, but I am not a traffic cop for dumb clucks who can't remember to bring a map or get directions from their friends before they leave the house. Please print this for motorists.

PALO ALTO RUNNER

DEAR RUNNER: Fair exchange. Here's a message to joggers and runners from a motorist:

DEAR ABBY: This evening I came so close to hitting a jogger, my heart is still pounding. In the first place, this idiot was jogging on a dark street at about 11 p.m. He was wearing a black sweatsuit with a hood, and nowhere did he have any reflectors or luminous tape. You can buy that stuff by the yard in any sporting goods shop and sew (or pin) it on your clothing. There are even reflecting shoelaces that light up in the dark.

People that stupid make me sick. Every day nuts like that are killed by innocent motorists, who then have to carry the unearned guilt around the rest of their lives. Print this!

STILL SHAKING IN VEGAS

DEAR ABBY: "Hurt in Albany, Ore." complained because her husband never remembered her with a gift on special occasions.

Being remembered on special occasions is no big deal; I'm not even sure it's being "remembered"—it could be a knee-jerk reaction to all the hype and advertising the merchants have built into commercializing special days.

Remember Mother on her day! Remember Dad on his day! Do your Christmas shopping early! Take the family out for Thanksgiving! Don't forget your sweetheart on Valentine's Day!

Receiving a spontaneous gift from my husband for no special occasion is much more meaningful than a gift he bought because he felt pressured to buy me "something" for a "special" occasion.

EASY TO PLEASE IN N.C.

DEAR EASY: You took the words right out of my typewriter. For years we've had a favorite saying around our house: "Every day we're together and healthy is Thanksgiving. And every night is New Year's Eve."

Scouts to investigate one fatal ladder stunt

DALLAS (AP) — A 13-year-old boy was killed and seven other boys injured in a freak accident when about 20 to 30 Boy Scouts at a campout attempted to create a "human ladder."

Kenneth Krawczyk of Plano died Saturday night at Camp Wisdom, located south of Dallas, with the collapse of a "human wall," in which the boys stretched across ladders and ropes.

Boy Scout leaders said Sunday they have suspended performance of the stunt pending the outcome of investigations into the accident.

The Boy Scouts were attempting to recreate a 1934 National Boy Scout Jamboree stunt in which boys formed a "wall" across 10 20-foot aluminum ladders, scout officials said.

Pressure on Krawczyk's chest resulted in a lacerated main artery to the heart, according to the Dallas County medical examiner's office.

"We think the boys falling on each other in some way caused the problems (injuries)," said Bill Gamble, executive director of the Circle 10 Council, which governs more than 400 troops in North Central Texas.

Gamble said the scouts had earlier performed the stunt several times successfully and there was no reason to think it would be dangerous. But officials said that as the boys began climbing down, the wall leaned sideways and fell to the ground, crushing Krawczyk.

A 1983 train crash in Mexico killed 60 persons.

and your diamond king — down one. Nice work on the part of the defense, but you overlooked something important. You could tell from the opening lead that you were surely going to be deprived of that diamond ruff in dummy. So you should look for another way of generating tricks to make the contract.

First cash the A-K of clubs. Now, when you lead a diamond to dummy's king, trump the third round of clubs immediately. Because the clubs divide 3-3, that suit is now set up. Now play a second diamond. If the defenders play ace and a spade, the two clubs in dummy will net you an overtrick. If they play the spade ace and then force dummy with a diamond, you will still make eight tricks.

How easy it is to overlook getting the A-K of clubs out of your hand! But how wrong not to give yourself an extra chance to make the contract!

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Finding a better way

Here is a simple and instructive deal that might easily slip away from most of us. Against your uneventful contract of two spades, defender West leads the three of spades. You play low from dummy, East plays the nine, and you win the jack. How do you now proceed?

Perhaps you lead a diamond to the king and continue the suit, hoping for a ruff. Alas, the cruel defenders play ace and a spade, and you are limited to four spade tricks, the A-K of clubs,

Relax after work

A tub bath can help get rid of most of the day's tensions. Start with herbal bath oils in the water or add your own favorite fragrance as you fill the tub.

Use a bathtub pillow (department store bath sections have them) to recline on as you soak. Keep trickle of hot water running to keep water from cooling down.

Haley runs a 44.67 400...

Hogs claim SWC track crown

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - Arkansas' Roddie Haley said he knew he ran a fast race in the finals of the 400-meters at the Southwest Confernce track and field championships, but he had no idea it was the fastest in the world this year.

"It felt fast; it felt like the fastest race I've ever run," Haley said after winning the finals of the 400 Saturday, "but I thought it was more like a 45.1."

Haley ran the fastest 400 by a SWC athlete, 44.67, and the fifth-fastest 400 by a college runner. His run erases the SWC meet record of 44.86 set by Zeke Jefferson of Baylor in 1981.

Arkansas won its fourth straight SWC outdoor title with a scoring barrage led by Haley and Olympic silver medalist Mike Conley. Arkansas piled up 167 points to Texas' 80, Houston's 75, Baylor's 60, Texas A&M's 48, SMU's 44, Rice's 43, Texas Tech's 33 and TCU's 32.

Conley set meet records in the triple jump and long jump, two of 18 new SWC marks established in the competition. He finished second in the 200-meter dash and ran the third leg of Arkansas' winning 400 relay team Saturday.

Texas' Julie Cuthbert helped the Longhorn women to their first track and field title by running a leg on the winning 1,500 and 400 relay teams and setting records in the 100 and 200. Texas took the women's title with 182 points, followed by Houston with 173, Rice 90, Arkansas 55, TCU 34, Texas Tech 14 and Baylor 10. Texas A&M did not score.

Conley leaped 56-3¼ on his first try in the triple jump, beating the meet record of 56-2¾ set by Keith Conner of SMU in 1982. Conley had said Friday he probably couldn't surpass the American triple jump record after running the relay and the 200.

Baptiste's 20.18 in the 200 - short of his SWC meet record of 20.16 set in 1984 - went along with his other victory - a 10.14 in the 100. He breezed in the 100, he said.

"Oh, sure, I won it," Baptiste said. "I pretty much knew I had it all along."

With Conley speeding through the turn on the third leg, Arkansas took the 4x100 in 38.81, a meet record and the fastest 400 relay in the United States in 1985.

Arkansas ran the 4x100 without a true sprinter, lowering the meet record of 39.38 set by Baylor in 1981.

Baylor's Todd Cooper and David Hodge each jumped 18-3 1-2 in the pole vault, a meet record. Cooper won the event on fewer misses.

Arkansas' Paul Donovan said his meet-record 3:40.31 in the 1,500, which broke the record of 3:42.53 set by Todd Harbour of Baylor in 1978, was smooth.

"Everything went about as planned," Donovan said. "I wanted to hang on in good position and then kick when I had the chance. I was never really worried."

Arkansas' Bill Jasinski breezed to a meet record 7-5½ in the high jump, never missing on an attempt until everyone else had been eliminated from the competition and he moved the bar to 7-6¼.

The 7-5½ jump tied Jasinski's personal best and was his best jump ever outdoors.

Winning the shot put at 66-9½ was Arkansas' Marty Kobza.

A meet record of 13:55.16 in the 5,000 was set by Texas A&M's Arturo Barrios, who won the 10,000 Friday.

TCU's Johnny Walker won the 800 in 1:48.2.

Joseph Pugh of Texas Tech took the 400 intermediate hurdles at 50.15.

Monday's sports summary

Preakness winner

BALTIMORE (AP) - Stretch-running Tank's Prospect caught Chief's Crown just before the wire to win the $545,700 Preakness Stakes in record time Saturday.

Ridden by Pat Day and trained by D. Wayne Lukas, Tank's Prospect covered the 1 3-16 miles in 1:53 2-5, clipping one-fifth of a second off the official Pimlico Race Course record. The time also equaled the unofficial mark set by Triple Crown winner Secretariat in 1973, when the track clock malfunctioned and hand-timing was used.

Even-money favorite Chief's Crown outlasted Eternal Prince for second.

Tank's Prospect, the third choice in the field of 11, paid $11.40 in the richest Preakness in history.

Pavin wins Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Corey Pavin completed a week-long scoring assault with a solid, 2-under-par 68 and a record-breaking, four-shot victory Sunday in the Colonial National Invitation Tournament at the old Colonial Country Club.

Razorbacks take SWC 9-man championship

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - The Arkansas Razorbacks, after eight unsuccessful tries, have finally won a Southwest Conference baseball championship.

The perennial runnerup Razorbacks hung on for a 10-6 win over Texas Sunday night before a record 3,480 fans to go undefeated through the double-elimination tournament and claim the title. The Razorbacks also earned the league's automatic berth in the NCAA tournament.

Earlier Sunday, Texas scored in each of the first five innings to eliminate Houston, 14-6, to advance.

Arkansas is the only team to qualify for all nine SWC post-season tournaments, but reached the finals through the winners' bracket for the first time. The Razorbacks never had won two straight to open the tournament, and never had won the championship.

The 11th-ranked Razorbacks raised their record to 45-13, including a 35-5 record at home.

Arkansas banged out 11 hits and had a tournament-record 12 walks off Texas starter Daniel Pena (6-4) and relievers Curt Krippner and Lanny Hengst.

The top-ranked Horns, already assured of a host spot in the Central Regional even before the SWC Tournament began, fell to 56-12 for the year.

Relying on their formula that got them this far, the 11th-ranked Hogs scored runs and held the opponent at bay.

Howard Hilton (6-1), a senior right-hander from Oxnard, Calif., had a 1-0 SWC record with an 11.25 ERA, but he beat ninth-ranked Oral Roberts a week ago. Against Texas, he yielded eight hits and five runs in only his third start of the season but generally kept the Horns at bay.

2-4A baseball teams sweep

District 2-4A baseball representatives swept their respective bi-district baseball series Saturday.

Pecos ripped Lubbock Estacado 7-3 while Andrews edged Canyon 3-2.

Andrews, the 2-4A champion, will now face Fort Worth Brewer in area play, while Pecos takes on Everman.

Todd Carisle slapped an RBI double in the fifth inning to snap a 2-2 tie and lift the Mustangs past Canyon. Shay Morris (14-3) picked up the win. Tate Eldridge (5-3) took the loss.

Canyon fell to 18-10 and out of the playoffs with the loss. Andrews is 18-7.

Pecos romped out to a 6-1 advantage in its game and held on for the victory. Elias Peyan (5-1) was the winner. Tory Gant (9-4) suffered the loss.

Pecos is 19-4; Estacado is 18-8.

'Truth' challenges Holmes tonight

RENO, Nev. (AP) - Larry Holmes will continue his chase of Rocky Maricano's record tonight when he fights Carl "The Truth" Williams.

"It ain't my last fight; I might as well break the record," said Holmes, who had said that his fight against David Bey last March 15, which he won in the 10th round, would be his last.

A victory for the 35-year-old Holmes, who is a 6½-1 favorite, would give him a 48-0 record. Marciano, the only heavyweight champion never to have a lost a fight, was 49-0 when he retired at age 33 in 1956.

"He's looking at me as No. 48," said Williams, the 25-year-old challenger for the International Boxing Federation title. "What about me? I'm 16-0 (with 12 knockouts). I've got a record to protect myself."

The scheduled 15-round bout at the 12,100-seat Lawlor Events Center, which will be televised by NBC at about 8:50 p.m. CDT, will be the first heavyweight title bout in Reno since the legendary Jack Johnson-James J. Jeffries fight July 4, 1910.

Cuba reacts swiftly to U.S. radio station

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radio Marti, the United States government's radio station for communist Cuba, went on the air today, and Cuba promptly retaliated by announcing the cancellation of an immigration accord with Washington.

The Cuban announcement was Radio Marti's lead news story as it went on the air at 5:30 a.m. EDT.

Radio Havana, monitored in Miami, reported the Cuban government is terminating a Dec. 14 agreement with the United States in respose to the startup of Radio Marti.

"The Cuban government has decided to suspend all kinds of the proceedings relating to the execution of immigration," Radio Havana said.

Local's legs broken after fall from auto

Fourteen-year-old Stephanie Huntsman of 412 33rd St. was listed in stable condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital Monday morning after being run over by a car Sunday evening.

According to accident reports, she suffered two broken legs after being run over by a 1980 Ford driven by Thomas Jamaal Wesley of 900 31st St.

She was reportedly riding on the right front fender of the Wesley car and apparently accidently fell off. Both legs were said run over by the right wheels of the vehicle.

The accident occurred in the 200 Block of 33rd St. around 4:05 p.m.

The girl was taken to the local hospital by private vehicle.

Police said Monday no charges are expected to be filed against the driver.

Career ladder selections told

that more teachers could be selected.

Assistant Superintendent Jack Gorman said Monday morning that 130 teachers in the local system applied for career ladder status. This leaves approximately 100 teachers who did not apply.

He noted a large group of these were likely teachers who knew they would not qualify due to a probationary contract status. One of the local criteria established for career ladder was that individuals employed under such a contract would not be considered.

All teachers entering the Snyder system serve under a probationary contract for the first two years of their employment.

Gorman noted also, "On every campus, we had teachers who likely could have qualified for carreer ladder but who did not choose to apply."

Regarding those who did apply, Gorman said a letter was sent to all of these individuals. "As part of this letter, we encourage all our teachers to apply again next year," Gorman said.

The criteria used for selection included evaluations by campus principals, advanced degree requirements, additional work in their respective fields, and tenure with the local system.

The following is a list of teachers selected for career ladder this year:

Billie Adams, George Adams, Francene Allen, Judy Bartowsky, Jerrald Bowen, June Brock, Rita Carter, Bobbie Combest, Wallace Combest, Elizabeth Conger, Faye Cook, Betty Courtney, Linda Cozart, Vernon Cross, Faye Deffebach, Gaylene Dobbs, Eleanor Dryden, Martha Floyd, Mary Jimm Floyd, Clifford Franklin, Diana Gary, Tom Gonzales, Alice Gray, Geral Greene, Sue Gressett, Wayne Griffin, Carolym Hamby, Dale Hamby, Jeanelle Hammack, Burnell Hargrove, Neoma Harlin, Billie Hartsfield, Kay Hensley, Wanda Hudgins, Terry Huestis, Molly Kattes, Dorothy Kayser, Dorothy Lavender, Florence Lewis, James Littlepage, Jo Ann Littlepage, Joy Loyd, Alta Lynch, Jimmie Lynch, Kenneth Lynch, Vestal Maner, Patsy Massey, Irene Masters, Marjorie Mathis, Ed McAnally, Mary McCown, Billy Bob McMullan, ElWanda Nall, Patti Palmer, Ollie Peek, LaNelle Rambin, Carolyn Reon, Betty Richardson, Sara Richter, Sam Robertson, Mary Lou Scott, Troy Scott, J.D. leadership abilities; exceptional skill or potential in the arts.

The local instructor for elementary-age youngsters identified as "gifted and talented" is Carol Haynes, who noted that the local system has many other youngsters who could likely qualify for both programs.

"The problem is many of these students have conflicting schedules during the summer. The tuition fee for the programs is also more than many parents can handle, which is doubly unfortunate," she said.

The "Shake Hand with Your Future" program in Lubbock costs $595 for the registration fee. The Abilene program is less expensive, costing $80 per session.

Elderly rights ignored?

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was intended as a simple comparison test of two drugs already prescribed for the elderly, to determine which might have more effect on people suffering from Alzheimer's disease.

When it ended a year later, at the demand of the Food and Drug Administration, 12 of the 47 elderly nursing home residents who participated were dead. The FDA determined, however, that the deaths were not related to the drugs.

The record of the study was a tangle of misleading or improperly signed consent forms, missing documents and lack of oversight.

And the FDA said the doctor in charge "repeatedly or deliberately violated regulations pertaining to the proper conduct of a clinical study."

The study at the Chester Extended Care Center in Chester, Pa., in 1978-79 was one of eight case studies released last week by the National Council of Senior Citizens as examples of abuse of elderly nursing home residents in drug testing. A House subcommittee chairman already has announced plans for congressional hearings on the council's report.

The cases involved different drugs, different states, different doctors. But, said the council, they all contained a common thread: a lack of respect for the rights of the elderly to be informed of tests and to be given the chance to accept or decline the risks.

Pope calls for war on social injustice

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Pope John Paul II has called for a "noble war" against social injustice and condemned racism, totalitarian regimes and profit-dominated economic systems.

The pontiff made the comments to Christian trade union members in Belgium on Sunday.

Today, the next to the last day of his 11-day tour of the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Belgium, the pope says Mass before a crowd of 500 in a small Brussels church for artists, then meets with government officials and later with officials at the headquarters of the Common Market.

"A noble war should be waged for social justice," he told several thousand workers Sunday. "Let us unceasingly read the Gospel ... To wage an original war against whatever enslaves mankind."

He cited the need for "solidarity" among workers worldwide in the fight against injustice.

"No to the scandal of unemployment which deprives workers of their major right, the right of all to earn their daily bread by work," John Paul went on. "No to all kinds of totalitarian systems, whether imposed by nations, by the power of money or by ideologies. No to racism and xenophobia." Xenophobia is the fear or hatred of foreigners.

In his address to the Christian trade union movement, the largest in this overwhelmingly Roman Catholic nation of 10 million, he also said, "You are aware of the dangers of a national and international economy which is only concerned with profit."

John Paul has frequently called employment a basic human right, and condemned discrimination based on sex, religion, race and national origin as a violation of fundamental rights.

Earlier Sunday, at an outdoor Mass attended by 100,000, the pope reiterated the Roman Catholic church's strict teachings on sex and marriage, saying those positions wouldn't change to suit "contemporary states of mind."

During a stop in Luxembourg last Wednesday, John Paul called on the European Community, also known as the Common Market, to donate more surplus food to famine-plagued areas, including Africa.

The pope has made similar appeals in the past as part of a campaign against the growing wealth gap between the industrialized nations and the Third World.

The EC oversees trade among its 10 member countries: France, Italy, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Great Britian, Denmark, Ireland and Greece.

Apart from its economic union, the Community has expansive development programs and aid treaties with more than five dozen Third World nations.

Group threatened [illegible] neighborhood

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The police raid on MOVE headquarters, called by one congressman the "most violent eviction notice" ever, came after the radical group threatened to burn up the neighborhood and themselves, Mayor W. Wilson Goode says.

The assault and the fire that followed last week left 11 people dead and destroyed or seriously damaged 61 houses. Goode on Sunday released a letter signed by a MOVE leader in which the group threatened to fight police with "smoke, gas, fire and bullets."

Meanwhile, the search of the rubble of the MOVE rowhouse for more bodies and weapons appeared near an end, and demolition of what remained of the 53 destroyed houses was slated to begin today.

The city also planned to begin giving each affected family a $2,500 cash advance today against the eventual settlement of their claim. The fire left 270 people homeless.

The operation that led to the fire was "the most violent eviction notice that's ever been given in history," said U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., chairman of the House Subcommittee on Criminal Justice. Conyers is scheduled to arrive in America's fifth-largest city today to meet the mayor and discuss the police tactics.

"We (the black community) are totally outraged," Conyers said Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation" program with Goode and Los Angeles Police Chief Daryl Gates.

Conyers said his panel would investigate the incident because of what he called constitutional questions.

Stalls over funding

AUSTIN (AP) — In the House-Senate conference committee on appropriations it's a matter of whom you believe: "Rudd's Right" or "Grant's Great." A third choice is "Farabee's Fair."

Conferees, staff and spectators wore their favorites' buttons in a 13-hour session Sunday that stalled over college funding and a state employee pay raise.

Rudd is Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield and chairman of the five House conferees. Grant is Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, chairman of the Senate conferees and Farabee is Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, another negotiator on the two-year state budget.

The 10-member committee quit shortly after 11 p.m. with another session scheduled today in an attempt to get a budget through the Legislature before it adjourns at midnight May 27.

The Senate version of the appropriations bill would spend $36.8 billion from all funds, the House $36.4.

Rudd said, "We definitely will agree. The question is time. How fast? It may be Saturday."

There had been talk that the committee had to finish its work by Tuesday midnight, or perhaps Wednesday, to meet printing and parliamentary deadlines, but Rudd said the House would suspend any rules to vote on an appropriations bill.

Farabee told reporters, "It's no longer a matter of whether there will be a state employee pay raise. It's just how much, or whether it's for just the first year of the biennium."

Farabee said the conference committee had hit a roadblock on college funding, an area in which the Senate was more generous by $70 million in its version of the spending bill. There also are disagreements over methods of college funding.

Gary Hughes, executive director of the Texas Public Employees Association, said House Speaker Gib Lewis and the five House conferees were "absolutely dedicated" to a House proposal to raise state employee salaries by 3 percent each of the next two years. "They're not going to give in," Hughes said.

The Senate has offered no similar proposal but Hughes said he was "very optimistic" because Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said Friday employees would get a pay raise. Hobby said, however, he was not certain where the money would come from.

Hughes said the House is so solidly behind a pay raise that it would reject unanimously any budget that did not include one.

"Even if a special session resulted?" he was asked, and he replied, "Even if a special session resulted."

He estimated the proposed House increase at $260 million over two years, and added that he did not think a special session would be needed. "I think they want to work it out," he said.

"I don't think there's any question that senators have to secure a pay raise for state employees," Hughes said.
