Turkey's Role In War May Be Determined

Parley Is Based On British-Turkish Pact Of 1939

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 7—A conference between President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and President Ismet Inonu of Turkey has been in progress in North Africa, it was learned today, and the results will concern Turkey's future position in relation to the Allies' war against the Axis.

The participation of Inonu in conferences with Roosevelt and Churchill apparently was based on the never-implemented British-Turkish pact of 1939 which pledged Turkey to aid Britain in the event of aggression leading to war in the Mediterranean.

The diplomatic correspondent of the British press association wrote, "Churchill and Roosevelt are in conference with President Ismet Inonu of Turkey and their deliberations may in due course have almost as important an effect upon the course and conduct of the war as the great inter-Allied talks which already have taken place in Cairo and Tehran."

Conference Said Completed

The Berlin radio said that the conference had been completed in Cairo and that Inonu had returned to Ankara, where the Turkish cabinet would meet in special session.

German spokesmen meanwhile told Swedish correspondents that "the Allies are exerting heavy pressure to force Turkey to join the war."

(A Budapest broadcast heard by U. S. government monitors said Bulgarian Premier Dobri Bojilov had conferred with the Turkish minister to Sofia after a meeting of the Bulgarian cabinet last night. It declared that "well-informed political circles in Sofia connect this cabinet meeting with the Turkish - Anglo - Saxon-Soviet conference.")

Von Papen, Premier Talk

Franz von Papen, the German ambassador, talked for nearly an hour yesterday with Turkish Premier Sukru Saracoglu, Reuters reported today in a dispatch from Ankara.

Earlier Cairo dispatches stated that the whereabouts of President Roosevelt had not been disclosed since he attended the three-power parley in Iran, although it was re-

Dr. Duke Dies In Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 7. (Special)—Dr. Thomas B. Duke, 68, a member of the staff of Littlefield hospital, died just before 9 o'clock Monday night at his Littlefield residence after a several months illness.

A veteran of the Spanish-American war, during which he fought in Cuba, Dr. Duke came to Littlefield from Wolfe City in 1929 and had practiced here continuously since, or until August, when he suffered a heart attack. He was treated in a Dallas hospital and at his Littlefield home since.

Dr. Duke had begun practice of medicine in 1900. He was senior staff member of the hospital with which he, the late Dr. Roy E. Hunt, Dr. J. R. Coen and Dr. Wm. N. Orr were associated. Dr. Hunt was murdered Oct. 26, his body having been found bound in bed to the body of Mrs. Hunt. Floyd Coffman, is superintendent of the hospital.

Was Health Officer

Dr. Duke was county health officer of Lamb county several years before resigning this year, and was the physician here for the Santa Fe railroad several years.

Funeral arrangements were not completed this afternoon, but it was announced they would be sometime Wednesday afternoon, probably at the Littlefield Methodist church. A minister of the Church of Christ, of which Dr. Duke was affiliated, probably will officiate, it was said. It was said burial would be in Little-

Reds Closing Trap On Nazis

Last Escape Rail Lines Imperiled

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Dec. 7.—Red armies, closing a trap on hundreds of thousands of Germans in the Dnieper bend, drove through the Ukrainian mud today to within a half-dozen miles of the twin junctions controlling the last escape railroads remaining in Axis hands.

The main German escape and supply line was cut yesterday when the Soviets plunged across the double-trunk Zhitomir-Dnepropetrovsk railway paralleling the Dnieper with the capture of Tsibulevo, 48 miles southwest of Kremenchug, following powerful artillery and air preparation.

Controls Railroads

Tsibulevo lies only seven miles from Khirovka, which with Znamenka, 22 miles away, controls all the remaining German-held railroads in the southern Ukraine east of Odessa. Another Soviet force captured Dikovka, only seven miles east of Znamenka.

Through Khirovka and Znamenka pass railroads from the German-held strongholds of Krivoi Rog and Nikopol in the Dnieper bend and the ports of Kherson and Nikolaev at the mouths of the Dnieper and Bug rivers respectively.

Capture 22 Localities

Southwest of Kremenchug, the Russians also captured 22 other localities.

Other Soviet forces tightened their siege arc around the White Russian bastion of Zhlobin despite stubborn enemy resistance. In one sector, the Red army disorganized the enemy defenses with a flank attack and seized a village in hand-to-hand fighting.

The Germans renewed their counter-attacks in the Chernyakhov area west of the Ukrainian capital of Kiev in a determined effort to throw the Red army back to the Dnieper, but the Soviet lines held firm.

Russians Hail Tehran Meet

BY EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Dec. 7 — The Soviet government through its newspaper Izvestia indicated in the most emphatic terms today its complete satisfaction with the results of the Tehran meeting of Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill.

"For four days over a round-table," said the Izvestia editorial, which before nightfall was available to millions of Russians from the German front to the Pacific ocean, "the most eminent statesmen of our day conferred and reached complete agreement on questions of war and the most important problems of post-war organization of peace."

The editorial was spread over three columns of the front page, together with page-wide photographs of the three leaders.

"He who reads carefully Roosevelt's, Stalin's and Churchill's declaration will understand that the fate of the war has been decided verbally," the editorial declared.

It referred in broad, friendly fashion to the accomplishments of the British and American armies in North Africa, the Mediterranean and southern Italy and gave Russia's allies due honors for their contribution toward winning the war.

"The success of the Red army

Gas Coupons To Be Numbered Serially

The serial numbering is designed to simplify rationing enforcement and prevent diversion of gasoline to the black market.

GEN. ALLEN WITH 104TH

TINY INFANT HOLDS HER OWN—Tiny Mary Ann Macelli, who weighed only 26 ounces when she was born three months too soon, began her ninth day of life today but no one knew whether she had gained any weight. Dr. Michael Distefano, who is caring for the child, in a Brooklyn, N. Y. hospital, said it had not been thought advisable to remove her from the incubator to weigh her but that it would be presumed that she had gained a bit since she was absorbing more food.

Air Transport Command Is Praised
Rest Furloughs Are Given Yanks In African Theater

BY ERNIE PYLE
Journal Roving Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Dec. 7—(By Wireless)—All along the endless American ferry network that stretches in a dozen entwining lines around the globe there is one main worry obsessing our troops. And that is they feel they are not doing enough to help win the war.

At these posts, so far from enemy action, life becomes pleasantly routined and monotonous, and finally a sense of frustration sets in. The men live in usually excellent permanent quarters. They have good food and all the physical comforts — and nothing ever happens. Gradually they get a feeling of backwash.

ERNIE PYLE

They're ashamed of fighting the war so comfortably and so many thousands of miles from danger. They are worrying about facing the home-folks after the war, and saying they served throughout the war in a place where they bathed every day, slept on mattresses and never missed a meal.

There's a saying all along the route of the Air Transport command which expresses their feelings about being where they are.

The saying goes, "Take down your Service Flag, mother, your boy is in the ATC."

They Do A Big Job

In one camp the boys felt this so keenly that the editor of the camp newspaper asked me if I could say something to sort of reassure them that they really were contributing their share. And I could say so honestly. Manning these fields that handle our flow of bombers and fighters on toward the combat zone is just as vital as manning a frontline field. Without it, the planes would never get there.

Soldiers are sent; they aren't asked. It's not these boy's choice or fault they happen to be where they are. And as for what the people at home think, I've found they don't really distinguish much between frontline and some remote area. I've known soldiers stationed for a year in Morocco, nearly 1,000 miles from the fighting, whose parents and friends thought they daily were bleeding and dying.

JUST so long as you're overseas the folks at home give you all the credit. Somebody has to man these remote outposts and it's just the fall of the cards that brought some soldiers there instead of into the front lines. I see nothing shameful about living well as long as you're not depriving somebody else. I see no virtue in suffering unless it helps somebody else.

Now and then you get a grouch-er who complains bitterly about the place he is, how tough life is there and how he'd like to be back home. One officer along the way said when he got a fellow like that, he just assigned him a job unloading hospital planes bringing wounded back from Africa, and the fellow soon was cured.

Other boys themselves usually shut up a groucher pretty quickly for it is their consensus that fighting monotony and sometimes malaria is still better than fighting bullets and bombs. And that although they'd rather be at the front, they're actually mighty lucky to be where they are and should be grateful even though a little ashamed.

The mere fact that this worry and sense of shame is so universal throughout the ferry fields seems to be unarguable proof that

Major Outbreak Of Flu Hits Capitol

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. (U.P.) — Thousands of residents of the Washington area were reported afflicted today in a major outbreak of mild influenza and respiratory ailments but public health officials said there was nothing to indicate the epidemic was nation-wide.

G. S. Perrott of the public health service said that for the week ended Nov. 27 a total of 2,465 influenza cases was reported nationally, "approximately the same" as for the corresponding week last year. The rise from 1,734 for the previous week was purely seasonal, he said.

Eighty per cent of the flu cases for the week of Nov. 27 were reported from six states—Texas, South Carolina, Minnesota, Virginia, Arizona and Missouri.

TEXAS OFFICIALS KEEP WATCH ON INFLUENZA

AUSTIN, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—Texas state health officials are keeping a close watch on influenza but today Dr. J. V. Irons, in charge of data on communicable diseases, said it had scarcely reached an epidemic proportion in the state.

The latest compilation by the state health department showed 807 cases reported, which, Dr. Irons said, is not substantially greater than reported during two weeks in October, though higher than usual at this time of year.

Senator Blocks Move To Delay

Higher-Ups Said Being Shielded

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Sen. Bennett Champ Clark, (D., Mo.), today prevented Senate consideration of a House-approved resolution that would extend formally the time in which proceedings could be started against Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short and Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel for alleged "dereliction of duty" at Pearl Harbor.

Declaring that charges should be filed against the officers today before the normal time limit for beginning court martial proceedings expires, Clark charged that the administration has put off the trials because of fear that the officers' testimony would involve men higher up.

Remove Legal Question

Clark resisted efforts by Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley, Ky., to obtain unanimous consent for immediate consideration of a resolution passed by the House yesterday. This would remove any legal question about the services' ability to institute proceedings any time up to a year after the war ends.

Clark insisted that the resolution go through normal committee study before being taken up on the floor.

Later Clark said he would agree to a 60 or 90 day extension of the statute of limitions, but he still opposed granting the extension until one year after conclusion of peace with Japan.

Desired Effect In Doubt

Sens. John A. Danaher, (R., Conn.), and Robert A. Taft, (R., O.), raised a question as to whether the resolution could obtain the desired end since President Roosevelt could not sign it today anyway.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of Navy Frank Knox have announced that the two officers, now retired, will be brought to trial after the war. They said a trial now would interfere with prosecution of the war. Kimmel and Short have agreed to waive the statute of limitations, but some doubt was

All Rangers Told To Work On Hunt Cases

AUSTIN, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—All state rangers have been notified by Col. Homer Garrison, state police director, to "work" on solving the murder of Dr. Roy E. Hunt and his wife at Littlefield, a month ago.

All captains in whose districts any information is obtained are conferring with other captains, Garrison said. Capt. H. B. Purvis of Houston recently has been at Lubbock in conference with Capt. Manney Gault.

Father Confesses To Death Of Daughter

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 7. (AP) — Solicitor General George Hains said today that Isaac West, 58-year-old textile worker charged with murder in the death of his seven-year-old daughter, Barbara, confessed he threw the child into a lake on Nov. 19.

A coroner's jury had returned a verdict of accidental death soon after the body was recovered but detectives began an investigation after insurance claims were filed. The solicitor said insurance policies, including a double indemnity policy on the child, exceeded $5,000.

Allied Infantry Pushes Nazis Back In Italy

British Tanks Pound Across Moro River

BY WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Dec. 7 — Fifth Army infantry has crashed through Nazi defenses in bitter assaults to capture the most dominating positions in a 25-square-mile area overlooking the road to Rome, it was announced today, while on the east coast of Italy British tanks rammed across the Moro river.

A headquarters officer, describing the battle in the vital Monte Camino and Monte Maggiore area on the western sector, declared "we now hold the most important features in that area roughly five miles long and five miles wide."

Tanks Battle In Fog

On the Adriatic side of the German Tenth Army line, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's tanks and infantry drove across the Moro river, 10 miles above the Sangro, in a tank battle fought in a fog. Four German Mark IV tanks were wrecked.

The new U. S. 15th Air force struck heavily at the Germans' Elevsis and Kalamaki airfields near Athens, with Flying Fortresses and Liberators knocking down 10 Nazi planes in a violent air battle.

American troops wading flooded areas, with water up to their necks at many places, marked the second anniversary of Pearl Harbor with bloody fighting.

Most of the gifts thus far have been of larger size. That is splendid, and they are necessary to the success of the drive. But this fact should not cause those who feel they can give only $5, $2 or $1 to stand back. Those smaller gifts are needed, too. The goal won't be reached without them.

So, if you can give only one or a few dollars, don't stand back. Remember: For each 50 cents you give, some needy child will be given a happy Christmas by the Goodfellows.

Anything from 25 cents up will be welcome. Mail, send or bring your donation to the Avalanche-Journal office, 1211 Texas avenue.

Likewise, don't forget the name on coupon. If you know of any needy child up to and including the age of 14 years living within the city limits of Lubbock, please use the coupon as directed.

Heavy Air Blows Blast Marshalls And New Britain

"We Have Appointments In Tokyo," Says Adm. Halsey; Pearl Harbor Anniversary Finds Heavy Pacific Assaults In Making

(By The Associated Press)

The threat of invasion was poised over two key positions in the sprawling Japanese empire today as the second anniversary of Pearl Harbor showed preparations on the fighting and production fronts for Allied assaults in the Pacific.

Heavy aerial blows suggested possible invasion of the Marshall islands in the Central Pacific and New Britain in the Southwest Pacific, vital anchors of the enemy's bases for the ultimate defense of the Philippines and Japan.

The Navy contributed another cheering note in the announcement that American submarines sank 11 more Japanese cargo vessels, raising to 516 the grand total of all enemy ships sent to the bottom of the Pacific since Dec. 7, 1941.

Words of American leaders carried a tone of confidence for the future operations.

Now Have Springboards

Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of South Pacific Allied forces, reviewing the progress in his sector in the past year, declared we now have the springboards "from which our future offensives can be launched," and added:

"This I can promise: we SHALL have offensives. Taking back what was our originally is just the start. Each of us has an appointment in Tokyo."

As for the Japanese, the Tokyo radio asserted the declaration of Tehran "doesn't in the least affect Japan's determination to crush the United State and Britain."

It also broadcast the fantastic claim that the Japanese army had killed or disabled 193,000 Allied soldiers on the South Pacific and Aleutian fronts from December, 1942, through November, 1943. Japanese losses were given by the imperial headquarters communique as 32,962 killed.

Milk Increase Is Approved

Leaders Hope For Subsidy Action

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 — The Senate agriculture committee today approved a bill banning the $300,000,000 a year milk subsidy, and requiring instead an immediate one cent a quart increase in the retail price of fluid milk.

The action came as the Senate banking committee considered the House bill banning all consumer subsidies after Dec. 31.

Farm block leaders said the milk bill can be used to force the overall subsidy issue to an early decision if a reported move develops to delay action on the House bill until after the Christmas holiday.

Wants Full Senate Vote

Sen. George D. Aiken, (R-Vt.), said he intended to offer the anti-subsidy provisions of the House legislation to the milk bill and force a full Senate vote on subsidies if the banking committee is "too tardy in bringing out its measure."

The bill approved by the agriculture committee was sponsored by Sens. John McLellan, (D-Ark.), and James O. Eastland, (D-Miss.). It would abolish the one-half to one cent a quart subsidy paid to dairymen to help offset higher feed costs. In addition to the immediate one-cent increase in retail prices, the measure also requires an area-by-area survey of milk production costs and establishment of new and flexible ceilings which could be revised at six months intervals.

"Wage Subsidy" Proposed

Meanwhile, before the banking committee, Ezra T. Benson, executive secretary of the national council of farmer co-operatives, proposed an $824,000,000 industrial "wage subsidy" in four strategic industries as a substitute for food subsidies.

With a wage subsidy applied to the workers in the food processing, clothing, petroleum products and

Workers Accused Of Loafing On Job

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. (AP) — Members of a House naval affairs subcommittee were back in Washington today after a visit to the Johnsville, Pa., plant of the Brewster Aeronautical corporation and declared they were disgusted by the loafing they said they found there.

Rep. Hebert (D-La) said he was "disgusted, disturbed and depressed," adding:

"As I walked through the plant and observed the attitude of the people I shuddered to think that at the moment the boys were fighting and dying, waiting for planes which were not rolling off Brewster production lines because employes were indulging in flagrant loafing."

Rep. Maas (R-Minn) declared that "the whole place had the dreamy quality of a slow-motion picture" and that "the workers were acting as if they were afraid to show any sign of speed or interest in their work."

US Santa Claus Role Deplored

FORT WORTH, Dec. 7. (AP)—The United States should "stop playing Santa Claus to Latin American countries," Dean E. J. Kyle of Texas A. and M. college told the opening session of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association here today.

Declaring that "no people or nation respects us for giving them something for nothing," Dean Kyle urged the federal creation of a commission composed by a "majority of practical livestock men and dirt farmers and a few properly trained economists who would regulate our commerce so we will not have to face suicidal competition."

"What this country needs," he said, "is a group of well-trained horse traders on a world basis."

Should Be Fair

The United States should be "fair and just, but it must protect its rights," he said.

He pointed out that Argentina can produce good beef for two and three cents a pound and seed cotton for two cents a pound.

"We do not owe Argentina anything and I found the ruling class very unfriendly toward us and without justification," he said.

He declared that "we should never again" buy silk from Japan or rubber from Southwest Pacific countries while we can get it from Latin American nations.

Smith Addresses Group

Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith, who also addressed the morning session, declared that "we should remember Pearl Harbor with a vengeance, but let us remember to preserve at home the liberties for which men have died and will

Pearl Harbor Anniversary Occasion For Pride On Great Strides Of Growth In Military Power

BY WILLIAM FRYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7—" . . . December 7 two years ago, is a day that is remembered in this country as one of infamy on the part of a treacherous enemy. The day itself requires no reminder."

With those words President Roosevelt vetoed last week a resolution to commemorate this day.

The President has set his face against any celebration of the day, against proclaiming observance of the surprise blow struck by Japanese airmen while their diplomats were talking peace in Washington, against recalling the unreadiness of America's Pacific bastion. They are not the occasion for a holiday, but the day does not lack cause for pride—pride for what has happened since.

Great Military Expansion

The Army has grown from 1,500,000 to five times that size, with 2,300,000 men in the mightiest air force in the world. The Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard have reached a strength of nearly 3,000,000. The fleet is twice the size it was just before Pearl Harbor. In every part of the world, American fighting men have proved the absurdity of Axis claims that the men of the democracies were decadent.

No nation in history ever raised such a military force in so short a time. And to arm and equip its forces the nation's industries, clerks and workers and management, have performed industrial miracles. The stupendous output of arms has not only equipped American forces, but it has supplied vast quantities to the Allied countries around the world.

ANNIVERSARY FINDS PEARL HARBOR REBUILT

PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 7 (AP) — Just two years ago the Japanese left a surprised Pearl Harbor battered and burning, the Pacific fleet badly wounded. Today, with the enemy on the defensive, a rebuilt Pearl Harbor awaited details of the newest phase of the accelerating American offensive.

U. S. Coal Situation Described As Serious But Not Critical

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 — The situation in the nation's coal supply: Interior Secretary Ickes' office says it is serious but not critical.

The thin supply—abbreviated by a series of strikes—is being spread by limiting deliveries according to the stockpiles in the hands of users.

Ickes office says:

If some localities suddenly find themselves out of coal, this will be only a temporary condition. It will be remedied.

10 Per Cent Reduction

Everyone will have to get along, as stated previously, with at least 10 per cent less coal than last year. Dealers are receiving 10 per cent less.

This country has been getting along as well as it has this year only because it was able to dip into stockpiles gathered last year.

The coal strikes cost the nation about 40 billion tons of bituminous coal in 1943 and five million tons of anthracite.

The latter is used almost exclusively for home-heating in the East. Bituminous is the household coal elsewhere and is the nation's industrial fuel.

Production last year was 580 million bituminous tons, 60 million anthracite. Needs in 1943 were figured at 600 million bituminous tons, 65 million anthracite.

Behind 1942 Output

Actually 1943 production is behind 1942 output.

The government's latest figures, Nov. 20, showed bituminous production for this calendar year so far had reached 516,370,000 tons, or 2 per cent under 1942 for the same period.

Anthracite output by Nov. 20 was 53,676,000 tons, or 1.1 per cent under last year at the same time.

No matter how hard the miners dig from now until Dec. 31 no one expects 1943 goals to be achieved.

Bituminous which Ickes' office says is a smokeless variety and can be used in homes, is moving into the East to make up for the slack in anthracite.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains; leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Japs Give Fantastic Losses For Allies

(By The Associated Press)

The Tokyo radio quoted an imperial headquarters communique today as making the fantastic claim that the Japanese army had killed or disabled 193,000 Allied soldiers on the South Pacific and Aleutian fronts from December, 1942, through November of this year.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, asserted, moreover, that 2,728 Allied planes were destroyed on those fronts during the same period and 158 ships were "accounted for." The communique was represented as saying the Allies had a total strength of 400,000 men in those areas.

The Japanese losses for the period were placed at 32,962 killed and 313 planes lost.

The broadcast made even more exaggerated claims of losses inflicted on the Chinese.

Mexico's National Income Has Doubled

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7. (AP)—Mexico, whose government income has doubled in three years, will use her surplus to pay off the foreign debt and prepare for post-war unemployment, President Avila Camacho told the Senate today.

The president also re-stated Mexico's determination to send troops to fight abroad, saying:

"In accordance with our ideology, and on a basis of respect to other countries, if it is necessary Mexican troops will go to those battle-fronts, such as the Philippines, to fight on behalf of a subjugated people. This will be in accordance with our ideas of the respect due to weaker countries."

In a long interview with the entire Senate, which called on him to congratulate him on the end of his third year in office, the president outlined his plans for the country for 1944, and again refused to dissolve rightist political parties.

Medals For German Soldiers Found In Wreckage Of Ship

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. (AP)—Commodore William A. Sullivan, the Navy's salvage expert, likes to remember the hold-full of medals his men recovered from one vessel because they are tokns of Axis failure.

Back in this country from the Mediterranean area for a visit, Sullivan told this story:

When the Allies took Ferryville, on the Tunisian coast, they found among other wreckage in the harbor the Italian ship Ombrina. An Allied air raid had detonated her cargo of TNT, with entirely satisfactory results. But, by some chance, the cargo in the after hold remained intact—thousands of medals and a supply of brandy, with the bottles unbroken by the blast that blew the ship to pieces.

The medals were intended for presentation to Axis soldiers when they completed the conquest of North Africa. Sullivan wasn't sure what the brandy was for.

MILK and MILK PRODUCTS

Food is a weapon of war. Use it properly. Don't waste it. U. S. Government nutrition authorities created the chart above. They say, for wartime fitness, "eat some food from each group every day." Start with a nourishing breakfast—a cereal with cream, fruit juice, toast, an egg or bacon. And eat three good meals each day. Milk and Milk Products form one of the most important of these groups. Milk is Nature's most nearly perfect food—rich in essential vitamins and minerals . . . helps build the physical fitness war workers need.

Malaria A Major Enemy

Actually, in many parts of the world where our troops are stationed, malaria is almost as great an enemy as the Germans or Japs. The wounded will not be the only aftermath of the war. Scores of thousands of our men will return home to be sick for years from disease picked up despite all medical precautions in these steaming, filthy corners of the globe.

On this trip we came into one field in the American tropics at the tail end of a malaria scourge. For some reason it has been much worse this fall than the previous year. Fifty-five percent of the personnel had been down with malaria. Tropical Africa is swarming with medical sanitary specialists sent over from America to see it doesn't happen again next year.

ON the central African coast, soldiers who have been overseas a year are now getting 10-day furloughs. They are flown to rest camps in the north. It isn't so much that they need rest as a change from the monotony. The rest camps are lovely places, but dull.

What the average American soldier wants on leave is female companionship and a little bottled stimulation, both of which are very limited in these parts. I've heard lots of soldiers overseas say they would rather not have a furlough or go to a rest camp if by not going they could get home that much sooner.

Bond Sales At Bean School Set Record

Pupils and teachers of George R. Bean school observed "Pearl Harbor day" with a vengeance this morning when they bought $625 in war bonds and $72.30 in stamps in the weekly sale sponsored by the Bean Parent-Teacher association, according to Mrs. Ernest Mader, association reporter.

The largest bond sold was $100 denomination. Most of the others were $25 bonds. The sales were the largest since the weekly event was inaugurated early in the present school term.

Sales to date at the school were reported as being $2,825 in bonds and $682.25 in stamps. Mrs. Acle Cope, Mrs. Dan Fenley, Mrs. C. H. Burton and Mrs. R. C. Ingram conducted the sale.

While definite reports were lacking this morning from the various other agencies through which bonds and stamps are sold, they were unanimous in saying that many people are buying extra bonds in observance of the day.

Underwood Funeral Plans Are Not Made

Funeral arrangements for R. D. Underwood, 40, of Levelland, who died late Monday night in West Texas hospital of spinal meningitis, had not been made late this morning according to Plains Funeral home of Levelland.

Hospital officials reported that Underwood was admitted to the hospital Sunday afternoon and was put under strict isolation. He was rushed here from Levelland in a Plains Funeral home ambulance.

He was taken sick several days ago and was rushed to Lubbock after his case had been diagnosed as meningitis.

Underwood was employed by the George P. Livermore Oil company of Lubbock and had lived in Levelland for the past six years.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Bob Underwood who is overseas with the United States Army and one daughter Jolene of Levelland.

Holiday Petition At Tech To Be Studied

A meeting of the administrative council of Texas Technological college will be held "within the next day or two" to consider a student petition urging that the Tech Christmas holiday period go beyond the Dec. 21-29 dates now planned, President Clifford B. Jones said this morning.

A similar request made previously was declined on the grounds that the college war program would not permit a longer interruption of work than has been planned. Subsequently, the petition was circulated which was presented to Dr. Jones Monday.

Ex-Serviceman Gets 2-Year Jail Sentence

WEATHERFORD, Dec. 7 (U.P.)—An 18-year-old discharged Coast Guardsman, James T. Smith of Philadelphia, was to be sentenced today after pleading guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob Mrs. Sylvia Reich, 22, of New York.

The young ex-serviceman was sentenced to two years in jail and fined $1,000 yesterday on a charge of aggravated assault on Mrs. Reich and her mother, Mrs. Anna Gluckman, 57.

The two women were slugged and robbed by the Coast Guardsman near Weatherford several days ago as he was traveling with them as a courtesy passenger from New York to California.

Veterans' Pay Action Delayed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (U.P.) — Legislation to provide mustering-out pay for members of the armed forces, some 600,000 of whom already have been honorably discharged from service, appeared today to be badly bogged down in committee despite bi-partisan pleas for quick action.

Chairman Andrew J. May, D., Ky., of the House military affairs committee, which has before it an administration mustering-out pay proposal, said he saw no hope of holding a hearing on that bill "until after the first of the year."

He said his efforts to hold hearings were made complicated by the fact that some military affairs subcommittees were out of the capital while others were busy with other congressional duties.

Martin Urges Action

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts told the House yesterday that "the time to do the right thing by the veterans . . . is now, if we are to give justice at all."

"I hope the committee will report the bill out this week and that we can have it a law before Christmas," he said. "We couldn't do anything better to strengthen the morale of the fighting men and the people of the nation."

Martin pointed out that 600,000 men and women already had been mustered out of the service with honorable discharges and were eligible for the pay.

Swiss Reports Say Many Germans Killed

BERN, Dec. 7 (A.P.)—The Gazette de Laussanne, in a dispatch from Basel on the German border, asserted today that recent Allied bombings of Berlin had resulted in the deaths of 250,000 persons. The number of injured cannot be estimated, it was said.

(Previous unconfirmed reports relayed through Sweden put the Berlin death toll at 25,000. Germany never has given any official figure.)

Fixing 'em on the Fly for Victory

How Santa Fe is Speeding up the Servicing Time of War-Vital Freight Cars

WAR can't wait. The load on a freight car might win a battle, and save the lives of thousands of our fighting men.

There's a battle-winning spirit in the way Santa Fe crews are keeping freight cars rolling these days. They are actually repairing loaded cars without unloading them!

When an inspector reports a flat wheel, a splintered side, or a shifted load on a Santa Fe freight car, the car is cut out of the train . . . fixed "on the fly" on a repair track . . . and then switched back on the same train, or the one immediately following.

Ready to Roll Again

FIGHTING subs on the North Atlantic, Coast Guardsmen often stand watches in sub-zero weather. So they wear a special deck uniform, one-piece from head to foot, and fleece-lined inside. Goggles guard their eyes.

The U. S. Coast Guard designs its uniforms for comfort and wear. Even to the underwear—with correct weights and styles for any waters.

You also can have comfort and good styling in underwear. For, during the past 40 years, the makers of HANES Underwear have developed the art of turning fluffy cotton into fine underwear that fits properly and gives you real wear.

Take HANES Union-Suits, for instance (shown at right). They're fleecy and warm. And they're tailored to your exact chest width and trunk length—won't pinch or pull. Ankle-length legs. Long or short sleeves. You'll find them especially comfortable. P. H. Hanes Knitting Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Myrnavae Barkley Is Bride Of Lt. Haynes Baumgardner

Uniting two Texas families, the marriage of Miss Myrnavae Barkley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Barkley of Matador, and Lt. Haynes Baumgardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Baumgardner of Wellington was solemnized in a candlelight service at 8:30 o'clock in the evening Monday at St. John's Methodist church with the pastor, Rev. Alsie H. Carleton, reading a double ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with gladioli.

Traditional wedding music was played by Miss Rachel Patton, the bride's aunt, who accompanied Miss Bonnie Campbell as she sang "Because."

Father Is Escort

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a deep blue crepe ensemble with a corsage of red roses. Her attendant, Miss Jean Wilkins, wore a gold crepe dress and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Lt. Thurman Pinkerton was best man.

Parents of the young couple and the bride's classmates at Texas Technological college were guests.

The bride is a senior student at Texas Technological college where she is majoring in home economics. She is a member of Las Vivarachas social club and of the Tech Home Economics club. After mid-semester she will go to Fort Worth to join her husband who is reporting to the Army Air field there after receiving his wings and commission from Blackland Army Air field, Waco, Sunday.

Lt. Baumgardner received his degree from Tech college in 1942 where he was active in campus organizations. He was a member of Block and Bridle club, of Los Camaradas social club and was a member of the Student council.

Detroit Couple Marries At Lewis Residence

The marriage of Miss Zelma Heatlie and A/S Dwight DeBell both of Detroit Mich., took place Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the home of the officiating Presbyterian minister, Dr. Jack M. Lewis.

The bride wore an ice blue crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums. For something old she carried an imported lace handkerchief. Miss Genevieve Decker, a Tech student, was maid of honor with Aviation Student Eugene Ballard as best man.

A reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Underwood, 2220½ Broadway, followed. Wedding cake and coffee were served to guests, among whom were the bride's mother and sister.

A/S BeDell was a student at Michigan State university before entering the Army Air forces. He is now stationed with the 309th Training Detachment Group at Texas Technological college and the couple will be at home in Lubbock temporarily.

Friday Designated "USO Day" In City

A proclamation designating next Friday as "USO Day" in Lubbock was issued this morning by Mayor Carl E. Slaton as preparations were continued for the open house and dedication program in the local soldier recreation centers on that occasion.

The mayor joined in the invitation to everyone to inspect the centers at any time between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. on that day. The program of dedication is set for 7:30 o'clock in the white center. Due to the limited size of the building, admission will be by card. These are being mailed to members and wives of local service luncheon clubs because of the active part the organizations played in bringing the recreational program into existence.

The USO center for white soldiers is 1211 Thirteenth street and for negroes at 2101 East Avenue C. A committee of negro residents is arranging their part of the observance.

A special committee headed by Mrs. Evelyn Bradley, member of the city recreation council under which the centers are operated, is arranging for hostesses who will conduct visitors through the centers during the open house period.

The average soldier or sailor eats about 5½ pounds of food daily.

This social will be given Saturday, Dec. 18, in the hotel ballroom, beginning at 8 p. m.

Misses Sara Daviss, Sarabeth Kimmel and Mrs. Orville Shofner were named the committee on arrangements.

The sorority's Christmas tree party will be given Monday, Dec. 20, at the home of Mrs. James L. Ash, 2403 Washington.

Miss Pauline Stafford gave a financial report.

Attending were Misses Helen Brown, Stafford, Beatrice Spivey, Doris Arthur, Marguerite Harris, Lynette Merrill, Lalla D'Spain, Daviss, Ruth Thomas, Odessa Walser, Merle Scoggin, Lois Alexander, Helen Thomas, Mary Jane Kinard, Virginia Miller, Ruby Nell Smith, Mesdames Ash, Christine Keeney, Shofner and Brunette Harper.

Watches Stolen From S&A Sales Company

Police said six or seven watches, each valued at $17.50, were taken when someone broke a plateglass display window of S & A Sales Co., at 607 Broadway, sometime after midnight.

D. L. Anderson, manager, said nothing else apparently had been taken, and the burglars left several necklaces and rings when they reached in for the watches.

Meeting Slated On War Chest

The personnel, numbering more than 125 individuals, will be completed today as the final preliminary to the rally in Hilton hotel Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock which will mark the start of the general solicitations campaign in behalf of the Lubbock and National War Chest, according to report this morning by Walter S. Posey, county chairman.

The county's quota is $65,000 in the national campaign for $125,000,000.

First Reports Due

While primarily a final meeting for the general solicitations division headed by C. H. Hamilton, it also will be an occasion for the first reports from the other campaign divisions which have been at work more than two weeks, the county chairman said.

Chaplain R. T. Miller of Lubbock Army Air field will be the principal speaker and the film, "Last Will and Testament of John Smith," will be shown.

As preparations were completed, reports were received here that 11 of the 19 counties of Lubbock region in which campaigns have been started already have exceeded their quotas.

The reports from counties in the region, showing the subscriptions quota follows:

County—	Sub.	Per Cent
Bailey	$ 2,245	93
Cochran	2,200	107
Cottle	3,656	107
Crosby	4,400	101

23 Jamail Boys Are In Armed Services

HOUSTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — The Jamails may hold a national record for the biggest one-family contribution to the Armed Forces.

A total of 23 Jamail boys are serving in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard at stations scattered from Ellington field to Australia and North Africa.

They include seven brother teams, four of three brothers each and three of two brothers each, and five singles from other branches of the family.

The Jamail family is a Houston institution. Not even the Jamails can keep up with how many Jamails live here. The best available estimate is "more than 300."

To date 17 Jamails have chosen the Army, three the Navy, two the Marine corps and one the Coast Guard.

Texans Are In Groove At Grim Business Of Waging War After Two Years; Record Impressive

By JACK KRUEGER
Associated Press Staff

This is the day Texans cast up the accounts on the longest two years in their lives, two years which began on a quiet Sabbath of 1941 with the news from Pearl Harbor.

The pandemonium, the stammering rage of that Dec. 7 has gone. The turmoil of a people adjusting to and building for war during the first year has quieted.

At the business of waging war Texas is in the groove now. Our men and women are on the battle fronts, our war factories are built and producing, our hundreds of military camps and fields are incubating fighters at near-maximum rates.

Settled To Grim Job

Texans have settled down to a grim job.

The tide of emotion—of grief and pride and relief—alone are not subject to such pat pigeonholing. The casualty lists grow in number, and there are Texans named in virtually all of them. Thus each day everywhere in the state the war hits home to more and more Texans, in the most personal way of all.

It hit home like a bolt when news came of the 36th division's nightmarish fight on the beach of Salerno, for here was an outfit bearing the brand of Texas. For most of its men are, or were, Texans.

But thousands back home could not forget that the 36th was no more than one-twentieth of all the men who have gone forth from this state to the battle against Jap and German. A modern infantry division numbers around 15,000 men. More than a year ago the number of Texans in the armed services admittedly was upwards of 300,000, and obviously the number has grown much since then.

In Many Other Divisions

Therefore to many a Texan left behind, other divicions, anonymous or known, at home or abroad was as close as the 36th ever could be, because kinsmen were scattered throughout these units, some of them "hot" and ready for combat. Texans, in all kinds of outfits—air, ground, supply, marine and naval—are all over this world.

A stranger, and a Republican at that, recently testified to this. Said Wendell Willkie on his visit:

"Again and again on my trip around the world I was met by Texans.

"Wherever I found as many as a dozen American soldiers gathered together at least one of them was a Texan."

State Leads In Volunteers

It is a corollary fact that on Jan. 20 this year the Census bureau disclosed that this state led all others in percentage of volunteers for the services.

There arose, between the last Pearl Harbor anniversary and this one, more heroes than could be counted. Such as Lt. John Whitaker of Fort Worth, a stripling of 18 who with four men of a gun crew shot it out with 13 German tanks in Italy. And, in the words of Associated Press Correspondent Relman Morin, "they probably saved the whole American beachhead from being cut to pieces."

Or such men as Lt. Jack W. Mathis of San Angelo, who posthumously received the rarely-bestowed Congressional Medal of Honor. The citation: "Over Vegesack, Germany, on 18th March 1943 Lt. Mathis, as leading bombardier of his squadron, flying through intense and accurate anti-aircraft fire, was just starting his bomb run, upon which the entire squadron depended for accurate bombing, when he was hit by the enemy anti-aircraft fire.

Right Arm Shattered

"His right arm was shattered above the elbow, a large wound was torn in his side and abdomen, and he was knocked from his bombsight to the rear of the bombardier's compartment.

"Realizing that the success of the mission depended upon him, Lieutenant Mathis, by sheer determination and willpower though mortally wounded, dragged himself back to his sights, released his bombs, then died at his post of duty."

The background for such heroism is all around us here at home in Texas, in the approximately five billion dollars of war work. Industrially it has hoisted itself to the sixth among all the states.

Militarily—in cost and operation of Army and Navy establishments—Texas is second only to California.

These statistics mean Texans are building ships, planes, guns, ammunition and war gear of all kinds, and training thousands of men to use them. The biggest Army command outside Washington, the Army Air Forces' Training Command at Fort Worth, alone is turning out nearly 100,000 pilots annually. Many of these men get their training in Texas.

On the civilian front, a new problem arose to agitate some minds between the second and third Pearl Harbor days—the drafting of fathers. The fathers were going into the services in publicly-secret numbers. A Texas congressman, Paul Kilday of San Antonio, auothored a bill putting them at the bottom of the draft list. All fathers knew, of course, that the bill changed nothing. They are going into the services, and they are going with just as little public lament as the next fellow.

No longer novel was the sight of women in war plants, women in uniform, women driving buses, streetcars and taxis, women in offices doing work that men alone used to do.

Likewise rationing of foods and goods became commonplace, despite the outeries of Texas statesmen bemoaning the lid on tire and gas usage.

It became an ordinary thing to line up for ration books, to be told by salespeople that there was no ice cream, no chocolate bars, no chewing gum, no sirloin steak, no diapers, no safety pins, and, perhaps, no whisky, and little beer.

But there was a plentitude of money, and department stores sold goods at a record rate. Texans bought more than their share of war bonds in the big September drive—nearly half a billion—and restaurants, shows and shops bulged at the seams with customers.

Slayings At Littlefield

For the war-weary there was some diversion in the big news stories—the frightful slayings at Littlefield of a doctor and his wife, of the Beaumont race riot, the Houston hotel fire which took 54 lives and the hurricanes which slashed at the Texas coast in the summer.

Texans not loath to brag of their state gradually were learning, with slow-rising smiles, of a new condition the war poses for them: they're going to have to get along with a lot of Yankees from now on. The theory is that the industrial growth of Texas demands more population; lots of Yankees have trained for war down here and they will be back.

"There's lots of room for them here," philosophized State Highway Engineer De Witt C. Greer. "Let's do all we can to encourage them to come here and stay."

This prospective invasion of Yankees seemed to some a form of retribution. After all, it was

Former SWC Athletes Are Shifted By Navy

DALLAS, Dec. 7 (AP) — Three former Southwest conference athletic stars now in the Navy have been ordered to duty at Houston, New Orleans and Oklahoma City in the aviation cadet recruiting program, it was revealed today.

Ordered to Houston was Lt. J. C. Riley, former Southern Methodist football and basketball star.

Another ex-SMU gridder, Lt. Texan Al Dexter who gave the world "Pistol Packin' Mama."

That, too, was part of the long two years since Pearl Harbor.

Charlie Trigg, was ordered to Oklahoma City, while former Texas Christian star Lt. Noble Atkins was ordered to New Orleans.

HELPS THROUGH HARDSHIPS

MOTHER OF 16 TELLS WHAT VIGOROUS MOUNTAIN GROWN FOLGER'S HAS MEANT TO HER FAMILY

This experience sent in by Mrs. H. R. Hines, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, may be helpful to other busy homemakers.

"WOULD YOU CONSIDER A MOTHER OF SIXTEEN, BUSY WITH SCRAP AND 'SAVE YOUR FAT' AND SCHOOL BOND SALES, A BIG HOUSE AND GARDEN AND CHICKENS TO MANAGE—A WAR WORKER? THAT'S ME! FOLGER'S NEVER ONCE LET ME DOWN DURING RATIONING. FOLGER'S REMAINED GOOD COFFEE WHEN NEIGHBORS COMPLAINED OF COFFEE THEY COULDN'T USE; IT REMAINED INEXPENSIVE BECAUSE IT TOOK SO LITTLE TO MAKE A LOT OF GOOD HOT COFFEE. SO HERE'S MOM'S THANKS TO FOLGER'S FOR THEIR HELP IN MAINTAINING AN AMERICAN HOME IN THE FACE OF WAR AND IT'S ATTENDANT HARDSHIPS."

Why Folger's Coffee Tastes Different

During rationing, new thousands tried mountain grown Folger's Coffee for the first time—were surprised and delighted when they tasted its delicious miracle of flavor.

For Folger's is a special kind of coffee. The Folger people blend precious mountain coffees from the Coffee Growing Paradise of the tropical Americas to produce a wonderfully rich vigorous flavor that's never been equaled by any other coffee in the world.

That Folger flavor is so much richer, many women have written letters saying they use ¼ less than of ordinary weaker flavored brands of coffee. Proof there's a mountain of flavor in every spoonful of Folger's!

Dear Mr. Prouty:

Back in August we placed with you the first of a series of Meadolake Margarine advertisements. At the time these advertisements were scheduled you promised us complete cooperation and merchandising support.

This letter is to congratulate you on the results you have obtained, to thank you wholeheartedly for having carried out your pledge of cooperation, and to tell you that since last August Meadolake sales in the Lubbock territory have enjoyed a phenomenal increase. We attribute this increase in sales first of all to Meadolake's genuine quality which leads housewives to continue to call for it by name once they have served it to their families.

Certainly, however, intelligent salesmanship has entered into the picture and too much credit can not be given you and your associates of the Avalanche-Journal, Mr. Jerry Dye, Manager of J. M. Radford Gro. Co., and his salesmen, and the retail grocers of the Lubbock territory who have recognized Meadolake as a spread for bread on which they can build an ever increasing repeat business.

It is our pleasure to tell you that we shall continue to support J. M. Radford Gro. Co. and the retail grocers of Lubbock by continued Meadolake advertising in the Avalanche-Journal. A new schedule will start early in January, and we predict that the demand for Meadolake in your circulation area will continue to grow.

Cordially yours,

Sunset Looming As Strong Contender

Highland Park Is Next For Bisons

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Schoolboy football usually runs in cycles — that is, one school will be up for a stretch of two or three years, then its material drops and there is a wait sometimes of as long as a decade before it's built back up again.

Sunset's Bisons of Dallas are in one of those cycles but it is running longer than usual. Four straight years the Bisons have marched into the state play-off and this time the team bids fair to go all the way.

They've gotten a little closer each season — bi-districts, semi-finals, finals.

Battle Highland Park

The Bisons battle undefeated, untied Highland Park of Dallas in the quarter-finals this week. They're favored at every turn to win. Reasons:

1. There's one of the finest lines in history performing out at the Oak Cliff school.

2. There is no pressure. The Bisons lost a game in mid-season so they are not worrying about an undefeated, untied streak.

Sunset was not regarded very highly before last week's bi-district round. Then the Bisons walloped North Side of Fort Worth, which had beaten the strong Breckenridge team and had not lost a game in nine starts.

Strength Little Known

The critics really had known little of Sunset's strength. The Bisons hadn't played outside the district to give a basis of sectional comparison. It now appears there were a couple of other teams in the Dallas district that probably would have beaten North Side.

Sunset's offense is built around Art Burch, one of the best passers anywhere. It's line is two deep — that is, Coach Herman Cowley can put in his second string forward wall and it'll be virtually as good as the first. The team is well-grounded in fundamentals; it hits hard and efficiently.

Cowley has been head coach six years and his team has won the district championship five times. Last season the Bisons lost to Austin in the finals. Many observers think this year's eleven is even better.

Favored To Reach Finals

Therefore, Sunset will be favored to reach the finals again.

The opponent for the Bisons, if they get to the finals, looks like Lufkin. Lufkin, one of the four undefeated, untied teams left in the state, plays Waco this week. It appears from this corner that Lufkin faces the hardest row although Waco has been beaten three times and Sunset is playing a team with a perfect record.

In other games Vernon meets San Angelo and Goose Creek engages Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio). San Angelo and Goose Creek are clear-cut favorites.

Death Takes Noted Old Red Sox Hurler

VENTURA, Calif., Dec. 7 (AP)—Death has taken Pitcher Charlie Hall, remembered by veteran baseball fans for the famous mound duel he and Christy Mathewson of the New York Giants had in the 1912 World Series when a game went 11 innings to a 6-6 tie.

Charlie, 58, member of the Boston Red Sox team that won the series that year from the Giants, died at home yesterday after long illness.

The former major leaguer had been retired many years. His favorte baseball story was how he fanned Ty Cobb, Sam Crawford and Jim Delhaney in succession to win a crucial game against the Detroit Tigers. The three batters were known as Detroit's "murderers' row."

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 — Supporters of American league baseball are starting a move to get Clark Griffith voted into baseball's hall of fame on the next poll . . . This dept. (with no vote) heartily supports the idea . . . Griff was one of the game's great pitchers in his younger days, a good manager, one of the main reasons why the American league successfully bucked the National some 40 years ago and the man who made a big success of the Washington club even though he operated on a badly worn shoestring . . . What more could you ask? . . . During the Bill Cox hearing last Saturday, Judge Landis sat directly under an old print of the Liverpool grand national steeplechase without giving a thought to the betting on that event.

STAR PERFORMANCE

During last week's baseball meeting Chattanooga Joe Engel was telling how he made one of his greatest scouting discoveries — a lanky, patched-pants kid named Joe Cronin . . . In great detail related how he had recklessly spent $7,500 of Clark Griffith's money for Cronin and then had to take him along for a couple of weeks' scouting because he was afraid to return to Washington with a .245 hitter . . . Finally, when the expense money ran short, Joe had to show off his purchase and persuaded Griffith to watch the kid work out and Cronin, of course, made good . . . Bucky Harris an appreciative listener, topped off Engel's story . . . "You know what Cronin said?" he demanded. "After he'd handled about six grounders, he turned to me and said: 'what a combination we'll make'!"

SERVICE DEPT.

Lt. Col. Red Friesell, still best known as the "fifth down" referee, is stationed in Washington, D. C., where one of his duties is to buy uniforms for the WACs . . . North Carolina grid fans claim the Greensboro army air base team —unbeaten, untied, unscored on and unnoticed — would have been a contender for the mythical national service football title if it could have lined up a schedule to prove it.

T-Formation Just A Flash, Says Bierman

MEMPHIS, Dec. 7 (AP) — Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman, says that T-formation is a wartime flash-in-the-pan and will be "just another formation" after the war.

"It's good football, but it's no cure-all," the silver-haired former Minnesota coach said today. "I can't see it sweeping the country when conditions return to normal."

Murray May Follow Louis

Connecticut Negro Potential Threat

BY JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—Larry Atkins of Cleveland, America's second ranking prizefight promoter, believes that Lee Q. Murray, big Connecticut negro, is the most dangerous potential threat to Sgt. Joe Louis' heavyweight crown.

"If the war wuz to end tomorrow," says Promoter Atkins, "I'd say the man most likely to lick Louis wuz Lee Q. Murray."

This Atkins' praise of Murray was so entirely unexpected that a startled reporter inquired of the visiting Cleveland entrepreneur last night, "how come you boost Murray, when he almost ruined Jimmy Bivins, your meal ticket, last week?"

Cards Not Meal Tickets

Atkins, a youngish, broad-shouldered, black-haired chap of 41, fixed the reporter with steely eyes, and remonstrated, "in our Cleveland promotions, we have no meal tickets. We have cards. A Cleveland fighter is a card as long as he can lick anybody we bring in. When he loses to an outsider, the outsider becomes the card."

In the case of Murray vs. "Card" Bivins of Cleveland, Promoter Atkins was doubly fortunate. Little Bivins won an unpopular 10-round decision over Murray last Wednesday night, after Murray had the Cleveland negro staggering about the ring and dripping with gore. The fans booed the decision so long and so lustily that a re-match was as necessary as if by royal command. They'll tangle again in late February—after both principals recover from their wounds.

Made Cleveland Fight City

Atkins, who in four short years changed Cleveland from one of the country's worst fight cities into a promoter's paradise, said, "I knew Murray was a good fighter before I matched him with Bivins. But during the first two rounds, I thought Murray would ruin me. He never let loose with a punch. Disgustedly, I left my seat at the ringside and walked to the rear of the arena. But Murray was just mouse-trapping his man. He knew Bivins was a cutie, and he was sucking him in. Bivins left himself open in the third round, and Murray hit him. Bivins rolled with that right-hand punch to the chin; but the force was so terrific that Bivins wasn't the same for the rest of the fight.

"Murray hit him so hard over the left brow in the sixth round that you could have stuck your thumb in the cut; but Bivins is not the duration heavyweight champ for nothing. He managed to out-smart Murray for the distance; and I honestly thought he won the fight; although it didn't matter to me who won—as I had Murray tied up on a contract, too."

Atkins, who drew $360,000 with his Cleveland bouts in 1942, and who has provided bouts that drew $413,000 this year, concluded, "I don't know whether little Bivins, who weighs only about 187 pounds, or Murray, who has 200 on his six-foot two frame, is the better fighter. But Murray is the most dangerous. He's the most terrific puncher I ever saw; he hits as hard as Louis. He's still a little awkward — being a converted southpaw. But being a converted southpaw makes him a switch hitter, who can knock you dead with either hand. And he's only 23."

Will Frosh Ban Be Lifted After War?—

Reaction Varies On Effect Of Freshmen On Big Time Football

BY JACK WARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—Reaction to the influx of 17 and 18-year-olds into the major college football picture this year varied from "agreeable surprise" to the comment that "freshmen are still freshmen" according to a survey of leading coaches, writers and officials conducted by the Associated Press.

As a general rule, the Midwest sector appeared to be most excited about the performance of the yearlings with Lt. Don Faurot of the Iowa Seahawks going so far as to observe, "this experience may change the entire complexion of the post-war game. It may mean that the freshman rule will be set aside permanently."

Hoernschmeyer Standout

Indiana's Bobby Hoernschmeyer, who led the Western conference in passing with 44 completions out of 97, was accepted as a youthful standout along with Eddie Bray, Illinois 17-year-old who tied Bill Daly for ground gaining laurels, Johnny Lujack, Bob Jelly and George Sullivan of Notre Dame and Ohio State's star scorers, Ernie Parks and Dean Sensanbaugher.

Coach Paul Brown of Ohio State said that his two aces, Parks and Sensanbaugher, "could go against anyone, anytime, war or no war" but that was the exceptional comment for exceptional men. Navy authorities said they were not asurprised as they had been doing it for years.

"Freshmen Still Freshmen"

George Munger of Pennsylvania commented "freshmen are still freshmen in college football. I don't believe there were any more real standouts this year than any other. The kids did a fine job, but they still can't stand up against the more experienced boys."

The middle-of-the-road observation was voiced by Andy Kerr of Colgate who pointed out that several frosh stood out, like his Frank Muelheuser, but, generally speaking, that they were not effective unless teamed with older and more experienced players.

It was the first chance that the fans had to check on those fantastic stories that make the rounds each fall about the "second Red Granges" who are hiding on somebody's frosh club.

Top Scorer At 17

Fred Grant of Wake Forest, a 17-year-old, was a top scorer among southern schools where freshmen regulars were not the ordinary thing. Tulane had an excellent guard in 16-year-old Gaston Bourgeois. Joe Mocha, a 17-year-old quarterback, was a "find" at Pitt. So was 18-year-old Bill Abromitis, a fullback, who later was transferred to Penn State.

In the Southwest Arkansas' Harold Cox, 17, was one of the best punters in the conference and Texas' Bobby Coy Lee, 17, was a star until injured in mid-season. Homer Norton, coach of the Texas Aggies, reported that he was surprised at the way the youngsters learned new plays, refused to "blow up" and recovered from injuries.

High school football received a tremendous boost in prestige as a result of the generally surprising performances of the lads in first year.

Giant Pro Gridman Facing Induction

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (U.P.) — Al Blozis, 245-pound tackle for the New York Giants, was scheduled to take his pre-induction physical examination today.

Blozis, regarded as one of the best linemen in the National professional football league, was turned down on a previous examination because of his size. He is six feet six inches tall.

Fifty-Two Out For Cage Team

Westerners Open Basketball Drills

A basketball squad of 52 answered the call Monday afternoon from Coach Dixie White for Lubbock Westerner basketball, and the mentor announced that he thought the prospects for a good season were very bright.

Included in the squad were three lettermen and 14 squadmen from last season.

Coach White also revealed that he would be the only coach for the basketball team following the order to report for induction that was received Monday by Coach Howard "Admiral" Price. Price had planned to assist White with the basketball squad.

White announced that one or two games would be played before the Christmas holidays and that a full schedule of two or three games a week would be arranged following the Christmas season.

White divided the cage squad into two groups with 28 men on the Class A squad and 24 on the Class B squad. A regular schedule for both teams will be played during the season.

The lettermen reporting to Coach White included Jim Strawn, Bill Cope and Burl Gene Moore. The squadmen on the list were R. W. Moyer, Jim Joe Reiger, Billy Joe Walker, Bueron Lindsey, N. W. Elston, George Brewer, Roy Grimes, Marion Manderson, Jerry Crawford, Ted Forsyth, Harold Burdett, Charles Pressley, T. J. Price and Coyce Hallman.

Monday's workout consisted of a long session of shooting, dribbling, passing and footwork with the molding of the team to come later in the week. Coach White said Monday that he expected several other boys to turn out later in the week.

Southwest Basketball Teams Swing Into Action; Two Games Are Slated Tonight

(By The United Press)

Two Southwest conference basketball teams swing into action tonight in the first games of a ten-game card for the week, the University of Texas cagers meeting Kelly field at Austin and Texas Christian university playing Tarrant field at Fort Worth.

It will be the second outing for Texas, which defeated Childress Army Air field last week, 57-31, while it will be the first appearance on the hardwoods of TCU.

Tomorrow night, Baylor, returning to athletic competition after dropping football this fall, meets Waco Army Air field, at Waco.

TCU Plays Tarrant Field

TCU and Tarrant field play a return game at Fort Worth Thursday night, while Arkansas plays host to the Conway independents.

Friday night, Texas plays the San Antonio Aviation Cadet center at San Antonio and moves over to Randolph Field for a Saturday night encounter.

Rice moves into action at San Antonio Friday night against Randolph, then meets Kelly on the following night.

Southern Methodist opens its campaign against Oklahoma in Dallas, Saturday night.

Tom Harmon Notifies Parents He Is Safe

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 7 (AP) —The parents of Army Pilot Tom Harmon, who was rescued by Chinese guerrillas after being shot down by Jap Zeros Oct. 30, received this cablegram last night from the former all-American football star:

"Arrived safe, sound and healthy. Thinking of you. Don't worry. Everything in perfect shape."

The origin of the cablegram was not disclosed.

Pro Grid Loop Sets Attendance Record

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (U.P.) — The National football league reported today that attendance at professional games this year has broken all previous records.

Assuming that a sellout crowd will attend the New York-Washington game Sunday, a total of 1,072,469 fans have flocked to 40 pro games for an average of 26,811 per contest. This is 24 per cent higher than 1941, when an average of 21,611 attended each game, the league announced.

In 55 games last year, a total of 1,079,148 pushed through the turnstiles for an average of 19,620 per game. This year's total was only 6,679 less than 1942 when the schedule contained an additional 15 games. The increase over 1942 was 7,191 per game or 367.7 per cent.

What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say—
The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 500 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

MIDDLE ROAD

Dear Plainsman: In your column a few days ago you discussed the probability of Willkie's candidacy for President and apparent reactions to it hereabouts. You stated that Willkie would not make an ideal opponent for the President because there is not enough difference between the two. I believe that this is the consensus of opinion, but I would like to express my feelings about Mr. Willkie and the forthcoming election.

It seems to me that the easiest way for Mr. Willkie would be to accept strict conservatism and anti- New Dealism. For instance, I think he could have done much better for himself in Texas by slamming the labor unions rather than defending them. Mr. Willkie has always described himself as a Democrat turned Republican because he does not agree with the administration's bureaucratic system of government. He has not been altogether against all of the New Deal reforms, but rather against their method of administering these reforms. He is for a return to a government by the elected representatives of the people with cabinet members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Congress to manage our affairs, rather than bureaus and departments that assume duties and responsibilities not vested in them by anyone but the president himself.

It seems to me that we have always gone from one extreme to the other—from extreme conservatism to extreme liberalism, and from capital favoritism to labor favoritism. Don't you think it is time we take the middle road? After all the average man is the one to suffer when either labor or capital is favored. Wendell Willkie looks like the man to me.

Sincerely,
Corporal Ray Brown,
Lubbock Army Air Field.

22 Texas Cities To Get Soybean Meal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — Rep. Worley (D-Tex) today announced that the Commodity Credit corporation had ordered carload lots of soybean meal shipped between now and January 1 to 22 Texas cities.

Six cities each will receive two cars, he said: Hereford, Perryton, Vega, Stratmord, Spearman and Pampa. Those which will receive one car each are Silverton, Hartley, Booker, Follett, Dumas, Etter, Farwell, Friona, Canyon, Umbarger, Tulia, Claude, Canadian, White Deer, Panhandle and Miami.

The meal will be shipped from various of the 120 converted cottonseed crushing mills throughout the south, including some Texas mills which have been allocated a total of approximately 5,000,000 bushels of soybeans yielding 47 pounds of meal per bushel.

Compensation Delay Hit By Legion Head

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 7 (AP) — Warren H. Atherton, National Commander of the American Legion, in a statement today criticized delays in payment of compensation claims to veterans disabled in World War II.

Atherson said a survey covering 34 states made by Legion officers showed 1,537 cases where the delay in settling claims of men discharged for physical disability "ranged from three to eight months."

That Girl on Broadway says when a woman asks a man a lot of questions she isn't seeking information — she's trying to catch him in a lie.

From Bill Hooten's "Everyday Events" column in the El Paso Times:

"There's only one thing to be said about a man who stays out late at night, but wifey knows 2,000 ways to say it!"

LIKE nearly everybody else, The Plainsman's pulse quickens to the tempo of the dear, old Yule season—and all that sort of thing.

Truth of the matter is, along about each December 20, he becomes completely enveloped and submerged in an aura of sentimentality, peace on earth, goodwill to men, etc., etc., and a jolly, old etc.

But between Thanksgiving and December 20, during which time the Little Woman is bustling around and about on the planning and shopping, the subject of Christmas is a pain in The Plainsman's neck. The reason is, he never has more than five consecutive minutes of peace around the house.

Just about the time the detective in our latest mystery book starts to put the handcuffs on the suave professor who murdered nine babies and his grandmother, our train of thought is disturbed by a barrage of questions.

"What do you think we should get for Aunt Hepsibah?" the Little Woman will ask, looking up from her amazingly long list of kinfolks.

"Dunno," we mumble, trying not to lose the thread of our story and dully recalling we haven't thought of Aunt Hepsibah since last Christmas.

"Well," persists the Little Woman, "what about Willie Glotz He's in the Army this year and it's hard to figure out what to give a soldier — especially one like Willie whose fond parents have deluged him with everything for the past 18 years."

"Dunno. Haven't thought about it," we return.

"Don't you have ANY ideas," prods our skirted warden, "ANY ideas?"

We sigh, put aside the mystery book at the precise moment the professor takes off in his helicopter with the police in hot pursuit. Then it occurs to us we can mediate—keep the Little Woman in something approaching a good humor and still get back to our reading.

"Tell you what. Tomorrow I'll call By Goulding, Bill Murphy, Tom Potter, Klee Grumbine and some of the other Air corps admirals and ask them what a kid in OCS can use."

That holds the Little Woman for another five minutes.

THEN the prodding starts all over again, covering everybody from grandmaw to the newest infant. At other seasons of the year it never occurs to The Plainsman how many kinfolks we've got, (the Little Woman has the most but we've got a few) or what they might like in the way of mittens, scarfs, handkerchiefs, magazines or fruit baskets, not to mention pogo sticks, baseball gloves, footballs, roller skates and teething rings.

But comes the pre-Christmas season — the planning and shopping era, as it were — and we're in the soup.

When The Plainsman gets rich and there are again available a few upper berths and hotel rooms, he's going to make an annual visit to Shangri-La, Ark., between each Thanksgiving and the following December 20.

How about it, harrased husbands? Shall we make it a general pilgrimage?

MEMBERS of the City Planning commission were discussing various aims at making Lubbock a better city in which to live and all the matters being talked about did not have to do with mechanics of city planning, such as zoning, widening streets, parks and additions to the corporate limits.

For instance, City Attorney Durwood Bradley, present as a legal advisor to the commission, said Lubbock is badly in need of a new and modernized charter and should have one as soon after victory as possible.

Mr. Bradley, of course, is as right as rain. Our charter, like those of many another American city, is outgrown, outmoded and, in some instances, a hodge-podge.

We should have a new one, tailored to fit modern conditions.

Mr. Bradley made another suggestion, too — a suggestion covering a subject which long has been espoused by The Plainsman.

The city attorney pointed out that there is not in Texas a private corporation doing anywhere near the amount of business done by the City of Lubbock which does not maintain its own, fulltime legal department. He said Lubbock certainly needs just that and the immediate postwar era should see the department's installation.

SINCE Mr. Bradley has been city attorney for a half dozen years, or so, he speaks with authority. Furthermore, he is not looking for a job in connection with his idea.

"I have told every member of the commission," he said, "that I don't want any full time job. As a matter of fact, as soon as possible I want to get into private practice, exclusively. If the present commission continues to want me to serve, I shall 'stay put' until the war is won. Then, as soon as possible I am going to resign. But we need a full time legal department and I hope the city will have one just as soon as the emergency ends."

The Plainsman's past expressions along this line were merely observations of a layman, but Mr. Bradley's opinion carries with it the weight of personal experience and therefore is worthy of attention.

We don't operate the fire or police departments, the tax office, or the utilities plant with part-time help. Why operate the important city legal department that way?

Goebbels says he has no fear for the future—probably because in Germany things can't possibly get any worse!

SEVERAL of us were chuckling the other day over the oldie about the Iowa soldier, stationed in California. You know, the one who wrote his folks that "California is the screwiest place. They spell 'La Hoy-yah' as if it were 'La Jolla,' and pronounce it 'San Louis Obispo.' "

Kennedy Clapp, who was in the group, chuckled longer than anybody, then finally explained.

"On a business trip in California a number of years ago, I had an appointment with a man in a town called 'La Hoy-yah.' Believe it or not, I drove through the place twice before a native set me right. I couldn't see any connections between a town called 'La Hoy-yah,' and the signs I saw reading 'La Jolla!' "

THE CHASE BEGINS

CHAPTER XXIII

So you understand, now, my reasons.

You understand the one thing that dominated every moment of my life from that time on.

Something of childish imagination must have fixed itself into the pattern of my obsession from the very beginning, because two things were settled forever in my mind from that beginning: I must kill Norman Tinker publicly, not secretly. And I must run no risk whatever of paying any penalty. That would only unbalance the acounts again.

From a very early time, too, it was established in my mind that this enterprise must be my own private undertaking. The rebuff which my story had received from the people at the Settlement planted the seeds of that conviction. And later, when I did at last find a man to listen to me, and even to believe me, he made the conviction a certainty.

He was a leather-faced Italian in the California wine country, and we sat together at the edge of a bridge over a dry riverbed, and he listened. He nodded his head, and touched me gently on the arm once or twice as I talked.

At the last, he said, "There would be no evidence against that man. They would not arrest him, no matter how you talk. You go out and attend to that thing yourself, like the men have always done in my old country, far back there across the other ocean."

Thus was I launched upon my career.

Let me confess, in behalf of complete honesty, that the idea of rescuing my infant sister played scant part in my unceasing dreams. I did not know, and shall never know, why he spared her at all, unless it was the same lash of conscience which led him, afterwards, to take her from the convent and bring her into his own life.

Her plight was altogether overshadowed by the drowning cries of my father, the look upon my mother's face as she paddled desperately away downstream—and the mask of evil which was my memory of Norman Tinker.

How I survived those earliest years, along the dock fronts of San Francisco and San Pedro, in the hot little vilages of the San Bernardino Valley and the slum streets of Los Angeles, is of no great moment here. People were kind to me. That is enough to say. And I learned the meaning of work. I learned the value of money.

As the years moved on, I learned not only the value of money, but how to make it, and I made a considerable amount of it. How, and where, are likewise of no great moment. It is enough to say, again, that I found my fortunes as honestly as most fortunes are found. And while doing it I drove myself with grim patience into the acquisition of an education. I read and read, everything that came into my hands, and I listened.

When I grew old enough to pay my own way for food and lodgings and even for transportation, I went back to the Settlement. It had changed vastly, for there was a great working mine upstream now—our mine—and I saw no familiar faces.

When I asked, in the office which was built in that far valley, who owned the mine and where that owner might be found, I was told that the owner was a great corporation—that a man named Tinker, or something like that, had sold the fabulous thing years before. And that if I wanted someone in authority I might call upon the president of the company, who had his offices in Seattle.

I did visit that president. He knew nothing of Norman Tinker, and cared nothing. I did not speak of my own special interests in the circumstances, and I went back to Southern California.

At that point I settled upon the method of my hunt for Norman Tinker. I assumed that he would change his name, for he knew that I had been left alive, and yet he could not possibly know what course I might follow to bring him to book—what men in authority might even listen to me, and themselves start in search of him.

Therefore it would be futile to search for Norman Tinker as Norman Tinker—the four syllables of a name. And it would be equally futile to prowl the land—hoping for some glimpse of that unforgettable face on a street corner, or in a cafe or hotel, or on a train or in a shop. Men have wasted their lives and defeated their purposes before now, chasing the wild goose.

I had one assumption, then, to begin with:

Norman Tinker would change his name.

And I had other assumptions, equally convincing to me, at any rate:

Norman Tinker had, for all his life, a passion for mining and the byways of mining. He was rich, now, from the disposal of the lands which my father had found. But he was not the man to take his wealth and either run away or undertake new passions in the business of life. He would, under whatever name he chose for himself, be drawn always to the magnet of rich ores, or wondrous metals hidden in the earth.

So I would search out all the names in the written lore of mining, and watch most particularly for new names. And I would find, by the grace of the destiny of retribution, where each name sprung from.

I ordered, by subscription, every special journal that concerned itself with the mining of metals, the finding and the digging of metals, the promoting of companies which developed the treasures of the earth, and the companies which smelted away the dross to find the virgin element.

I catalogued, laboriously, every name that was printed in those journals. I made my own small dossier of every name, and likewise of the names which appeared in a half dozen daily newspapers which devoted certain of their columns to the business of mining.

The dossiers: I went to "Who's Who in America" and the "Directory of Directors." I went to the metallurgical societies. And when these failed of enlightenment, I wrote discreet letters directly to the name himself.

Sometimes I was inquiring on behalf of "Who's Who" and again on behalf of a trade journal or newspaper—again, as a long lost relative or an attorney at law who needed information as of birthplace, and parentage, and education, in order to settle an estate.

When a name appeared which could not be docketed snugly in my catalogue—when all inquiries failed to satisfy me—I simply paid a visit to that name. Generally in the guise of a newspaper reporter, or a research man for an institute or university.

Many a solid success in the business of mining must have wondered a little at the searching, hungry glances he received from his visitor when I was upon such a mission.

Presently, all of the fixtures of the mining trade were snugly placed in my files. It had been a prodigious labor, because I naturally could not delegate even the simplest duties to even the simplest and most innocent clerk. At last, it became necessary only to seize upon the new names that sprung up from time to time, and quickly run them down.

Today's Journal Editorial

THAT JAP "PRISONER SHORTAGE"

Much has been said at one time or another about the "tough little Japs" who invariably "fight to the death."

It is true that few Japanese prisoners of war have been taken. This may prove they prefer death to capture. If so, it is hardly strange, since they are taught from the cradle that surrender disgraces them and their families and condemns them to the Jap equivalent of hades. On the other hand, they are taught that death in battle insures entry into a "heaven" where the chief attractions are unlimited quantities of liquor and plenty of loose women.

This may explain why so few of them are captured. But there may be another reason. Possibly more of them would become captives if they had any real choice in the matter. But it is clearly apparent that, because of their treachery, Japs may be finding it extremely difficult to surrender. Americans have learned the hard way not to take undue chances in such matters. They act on the assumption that all Japs want to go to their "heaven." So, with no questions asked, they are providing the transportation.

Thus, no one can truthfully say whether most Japs would choose death or surrender if given the chance. By the time that question could be put to most of them, they are too dead to be interested. Therefore, it may be that few are captured because they are so tough. Or it may be because American fighting men are shooting first, and then ask questions of any Japs who still may be interested.

WE just heard about the time Gen. Arnold was inspecting bases in the far away places. At one base he was given a crew of experts—chosen for the honor of piloting him. Somewhere over the Himalayas the ace pilot realized he was lost. He radioed for directions.

When they arrived he studied them, but remained puzzled. He flashed: "Are you sure? I tell you they don't look right to me!"

To which came this squelch: "Who's lost?"

Herr Goebbels, Herr Goering and Herr Hitler are the three latest refugees from Berlin . . . "Dear Walter," writes B.J.W. all the way from Columbus, O., "Have you any confirmation of the rumor that the statue of John L. Lewis in Berlin was damaged by the RAF?" . . . A legend in Cuba (the home of the famed Bacardi rum) is this. The rum was originally owned by 10 brothers. Only two survive. Every time one of the Bacardi brothers passed on he was buried with a case of the rum—"knowing the brothers in Heaven were waiting for some!"

Sterling North, the Post's book critic, reviews Robert J. Casey's fascinating "Such Interesting People." Mr. North observes: "Both Stanley Walker and Walter Winchell have been given credit for the old bromide, 'It must be fascinating to be a journalist, you meet so many interesting people' . . . 'Yes, and they're all in the newspaper business.'"

We don't recall being credited with it, but mebbeso. The one Mr. North means, we think, is Jimmy Cannon's crack, spotlighted here. Peggy Joyce gushed: "It must be wonderful to be a newspaperman, you meet so many wonderful celebrities!"

"You mean," Cannon cracked, "it must be wonderful to be a celebrity—you meet so many wonderful newspapermen."

OVERHEARD in a Hollywood night spot: "She's Flynnteen!" . . . When Niles Trammel and John Royal (the NBC chieftains) were waiting for a plane in Africa, the men there told them this about Al Jolson. He had arrived on a plane en route here. He had a two-hour wait for the plane going straight to Natal. Some of the lonely soldiers wondered if Jolson would sing some songs. "We don't get much entertainment here — everybody seems to just pass through here!" one said.

Jolson asked an officer when he could get the next plane back if he stayed. "We never can tell," was the answer, "maybe in two days, maybe two weeks." Jolson said: "Okay, get the gang together, I'm staying."

The plane he eventually took was a "bucket ship," where you practically sleep on the floor. That's how he got the virus pneumonia and malaria. And that's why everybody in that lonely African place asked Mr. Trammel and Mr. Royal: "How's Mr. Jolson?"—because they were worried about him.

That reminds us to use Morton Downey's quip —about the young deb who is marrying an old millionaire—on the theory that she isn't giving up her youth—only pawning it.

The People Get A Report, But Let 'Em Try To Figure It Out!

Statistics Given On Strikes Are Confusing

(EDITOR'S NOTE: While Ernie Pyle, The Journal's roving war correspondent, is getting "squared around" at his new overseas post his space will be filled by one of our Washington correspondents. Mr. Pyle's dispatches, to be sent to this country by radio, will be resumed at an early date).

By PETER EDSON

Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. — The Bureau of Labor Statistics' first report in four months on the strike situation may easily be subject to a lot of misinterpretation.

What the report shows on its face is that the strike situation was a lot better in October, when there were only 290 new strikes reported, than it was in June, when there were 425 new strikes reported. Similarly, the number of workers involved in October strikes was only 215,000 as against 975,000 in June; the number of man days lost was only 975,000 in October as against 4,750,000 in June; and the percentage of available working time lost in October was only one-fifth of what it was in June, or 12/100 of 1 per cent in October as against 60/100 of 1 per cent in June.

EDSON

These figures are undoubtedly as correct as any figures on this subject can be, and at face value they make things look pretty dandy. Taking these figures alone, it might be possible to deduce that the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes act, passed last June over the President's veto, was a howling success and had been responsible for vastly reducing the number of strikes.

The trouble is that these figures don't begin to tell the whole story of the present labor situation.

MISSING FIGURES

IN the first place, there are no strike statistics either given or available for the months of July, August and September, so the trend over this four-month period of operation of the Smith-Connally law simply doesn't show. When Congress cut the appropriation for the domestic news service of the Office of War Information, one of the ways in which OWI cut down its expenses so as to live within its budget was by eliminating its newspaper clipping service, which checked on some 500 key papers from all over the country.

To get any conception of what the labor war and peace picture has been during the first four months of operation of the Smith-Connally law, it is necessary to go to the records of Dr. John R. Steelman's Conciliation service. By comparing its figures for the four-month period, July-October, 1943, with the same four months in 1942, you get this picture:

Four Months Total, July-October: Strike situations handled (1943) 817; (1942) 713; strikes settled (1943) 685; (1942) 608; threatened strikes which did not develop, (1943) 570; (1942) 804; Lockouts, (1943) 10; (1942) 11; all other labor controversies requiring Conciliation services, (1943) 3,674; (1942) 1,820.

DISPUTES DOUBLE

HERE you have a slight increase in the number of actual strike situations handled this year over last, but this might readily be accounted for by the comparatively greater number of workers in the labor force. The significant figure, however, is in the number of labor disputes arising—double in 1943 over 1942.

This increase may be explained by the fact that the Stabilization act with its wage stabilization provisions did not take effect until October, 1942. The number of wage adjustment cases has gone up steadily ever since, and is reflected all through 1943.

The number of strikes rose steadily the first six months of 1943, from 195 in January to 425 in June. There was an abrupt falling off after the passage of the Smith-Connally act, for about two months. Labor wasn't sure of its rights under the act or how it would be administered. Then, with the discovery that there were no real penalties in the act, the number of strikes and disputes began to increase. Veteran labor relations men estimate that about half of today's strikes are unauthorized, meaning that they are nonunion or local union strikes, unauthorized by international union headquarters and outside the regularized procedure of the Smith-Connally act.

PAYROLLS WHITTLED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — The joint economy committee disclosed today the federal civilian payroll had been whittled down by 134,395 persons since June—far short of the committee goal of 460,000.

Nazis Pour Troops Into Balkan Breach

LONDON, Dec. 7 (AP)—German troops were pouring into Yugoslavia in force today as Hitler sought with frantic energy to stall off—ahead of the expected full storm of an Allied attack in the south—the small breach in his Balkan flank resolutely being held open by Yugoslavia Guerrillas.

The Partisan army of Gen. Josip Broz (Tito), already engaging perhaps 150,000 or more Nazis, announced that two fresh enemy divisions, rushed down from Austria, had been spotted at a single railway station on the Fiume-Zagreb main line.

The Partisans also said that in Hercegovina and along the Adriatic coast the Nazis were marshalling strong new forces for a climatic assault on all Dalmatian islands and the whole of the liberated territory in Yugoslavia.

What Tito's forces were holding is really a lodgement—a bridgehead in the German view for enormously heavier Allied blows they anticipate in the Mediterranean, Adriatic and Aegean areas.

FDR Has Support Of Texas Demo Leaders

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—President Roosevelt had the personal endorsement of three Texas Democratic leaders for a fourth term today, one of them an opponent of Mr. Roosevelt's third term.

The one-time opponent, Mrs. Clara Driscoll, national committee-woman, voiced her support and predicted the president would win 'hands down' if nominated.

National Committeeman Col. Myron Blalock took a poke at "some of the (Democratic) party leaders in Texas" who "have been so busy criticizing they haven't had time to be constructive," and predicted 85 per cent of Texas voters will ballot as Democrats.

Former State Highway Commissioner Robert Lee Bobbitt said "there is no (other) man in the party who has the ability and experience for this job."

New Invasions Threaten Japs

East Indies can be recaptured from the Japanese.

"I think," he said, "we can beat Japan without landing an expeditionary force on the Japanese mainland.

American bombers struck at the outer defense for the Netherlands and the Philippines in raids which blanketed the 300-mile length of New Britain.

They unloaded 155 tons of bombs on Cape Gloucester, at the southeast coast of New Britain, to bring to 588 the tonnage there and nearby Borgen bay within a week. A 600 ton freighter was set afire at Rabaul. Five loaded barges and a coastal vessel were destroyed at Open bay on the northeast coast.

Australians Advance

On the Huon peninsula of New Guinea, only 70 invasion miles from New Britain, Australians advanced farther north along the coast above Finschhafen.

In a possible forerunner to invasion, strong carrier task forces bombed the Marshall islands Saturday but radio silence dictated by security reasons prevented description of the damage. The Marshalls, northeast of the recently-conquered Gilbert islands, have been raided frequently in recent weeks by land-based planes.

The Solomons airforce made heavy attacks on Japanese air bases on Bougainville and on nearby islands, dropping more than 2,000 bombs. At South Pacific headquarters, Rear Admiral Robert Carney, Adm. Halsey's chief of staff, declared recent American carrier strikes against Rabaul demonstrated it is no longer tenable as a Japanese base, and that the enemy can't hold out on Bougainville against the present naval-air blockade.

Milk Price Increase

machinery industries, Benson said, "a direct rollback of $4,750,000,000 could be made on government and civilian purchases."

"The inflation pressure could be reduced by that much and still retain the same relationship between labor costs and wholesale value which existed in 1939," Benson said.

Want Flexible Control

Farmers do not want subsidies, nor do they necessarily want an increase in retail prices, he said.

"They want flexible control which will not be so rigid as to be eternally breaking up under one new pressure after another," Benson concluded.

Agriculture committee members said they questioned legality of the $300,000,000-a-year milk subsidy program which the Commodity Credit corporation began about two months ago as a substitute for the higher selling prices demanded by dairymen.

Another Earthquake Reported In Turkey

(By The United Press)

A Swiss dispatch from Ankara said today that another earthquake in Turkey had killed at least 550 persons and razed 12 villages, according to the British radio.

The broadcast, heard by the United Press in New York, said the earthquake occured in northeastern Anatolia.

Stock Market

STRONG SPOTS VISIBLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP) — Strong spots still were visible in today's stock market but a number of leaders ran out of climbing fuel.

Individual earnings and dividends again helped scattered favorites.

Dealings dwindled after the first hour and transfers for the full proceedings were around 600,000 shares.

American Distilling hit a new high and Allied Mills was in front most of the time. Hercules Motors pushed up to a new year's top as talk of this company merging with a big automobile maker revived. Intermittent advancers included Chrysler, General Motors, American Locomotive, Bethlehem, Consolidated Edison, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Rubber, Texas Co., and American Telephone.

Backward were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Boeing, International Harvester, American Can, U. S. Gypsum, Owens-Illinois, Anaconda and American Smelting.

Kimmel-Short Trial

expressed in the House yesterday as to their legal ability to do so.

"There is nothing to prevent the War and Navy departments from preferring charges within an hour," Clark told the Senate. "The effect of this resolution is to relieve Knox and Stimson of their disgraceful neglect of duty," in not starting proceedings.

Should Be "Impeached"

If Knox and Stimson do not "perform their duty today," Clark said, "They ought to be impeached."

He charged the resolution was an "attempt to get Congress to take responsibility in the matter."

He said the delay appears to have occurred because of the "fear" of what Kimmel and Short might say.

"All this talk about the United States being unprepared at Pearl Harbor is a lot of hokum," Clark said, adding that the military and naval forces at Pearl Harbor "were ample" to make a successful defense.

In the House, Rep. Hamilton Fish, (R., N. Y.), charged that the administration is seeking "to cover up its own blunders and accountability" for the attack on Pearl Harbor two years ago by deceiving the American people into believing that Congress had some responsibility for the disaster.

SHORT HAS NO COMMENT ON SENATE ACTION

DALLAS, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—Maj. Walter C. Short had no comment to make today—this second anniversary of the surprise Jap attack on his Pearl Harbor command—when apprised of a Senate action blocking consideration of a resolution that would extend the time for filing proceedings against him and Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel.

Short, who has been employed here by the Ford Motor company since his retirement from active duty, appreciated the information on the Senate action but said:

"I have no comment to make."

New Battleship Is Launched

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7. (AP) — The $90,000,000 super battleship Wisconsin, her bow towering higher than a five-story building, was launched into the Delaware river at the Philadelphia Navy yard today, hailed by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph A. Bard as "an answer" to Japan's Pearl Harbor attack on the second anniversary of the aggression.

Mrs. Walter S. Goodland, wife of the governor of Wisconsin, christened the vessel.

The Wisconsin splashed into the water at 10:45 a. m. (Central War time).

Packs Plenty Of Guns

The Navy said the Wisconsin packs into an area less than one-tenth the size of an average city block approximately as many anti-aircraft guns as an entire anti-aircraft regiment.

The area of all her decks and platforms is nine and one-half acres.

Its electrical generators can handle the equivalent of the industrial and domestic load of a city of 20,000. There are aboard 900 motors, 5,300 lighting fixtures, 250 miles of cables and 80 miles of pipe.

Displaces 45,000 Tons

Engineers and designers used 175 tons of blueprint paper in drawing plans for the construction.

The Wisconsin, a sister ship of the New Jersey launched at the same yards a year ago, is listed by unofficial publication "Jane's Fighting Ships" as displacing 45,000 tons without crew and normal equipment. Loaded for sea duty she will displace 52,000 tons.

A ship of the Wisconsin type would normally carry nine 16-inch guns in her main battery, be approximately 880 feet in length and have a top speed of more than 30 knots, the publications states.

Advance On Rome

road to Rome running through Cassino, threw the full weight of his divisions into desperate counterattacks.

Yanks Capture Mountain

But despite these heavy blows, U. S. troops captured a mountain point six miles west of Mignano overlooking the swollen Garigliano river, and farther inland plunged a mile west of Filignano, taking 40 prisoners in a localized assault.

South of the American positions on the ridges of Mount Maggiore, British forces were driven off a ridge by a furious Nazi assault, but in a nearby sector seized a German strongpoint.

The Eighth Army punch across the Moro river met less difficulty than anticipated, but the tank action was one of the few fought in mountainous Italy. It occurred at San Leonardo, two-and-one-half miles northwest of San Vito, and two miles inland.

North of the Moro, the Germans threw in two counterattacks that were beaten off.

The fighting on the Adriatic flank now runs from the mouth of the Moro river to a point four miles northeast of Orsogna, and then south to Casoli.

Rains Hamper Advance

Heavy rains swept the Eighth Army front.

Both the Germans and the Allies are having difficulty bringing up supplies all along the front across Italy.

The Garigiliano river on the western side is swollen more than a mile wide in places. Swamplands and flooded creeks hampered both sides.

Low-lying clouds cloaked some mountain peaks on the Fifth Army front, and attacking British-American troops had to feel their way forward through fog.

Due to weather, aerial activity over Italy was slight, but American invader planes hit the approaches to a bridge at Ceprano southeast of Rome, and Warhawks attacked a bridge southeast of Cassino. Two Allied planes were lost in all operations.

Explosives Hit Airfields

On the Athens raid, waves of Fortresses and Liberators escorted by Lightnings poured fragmentation bombs and explosives on the airfields, hitting parked planes and hangars.

The Nazi fighters put up their most vigorous defense in weeks, but the Americans sent down 10 and damaged at least seven more out of 33 attackers.

Brig.-Gen. J. H. Atkinson of Dalhart, Tex., commanding a fortress wing, sent his crews out yesterday with the admonition to do a particularly good bombing job because "there are only 19 more bombing days before Christmas."

Girl Bitten By Mad Dog Warned By Radio

AUSTIN, Dec. 7 (U.P.) — Texas radio stations today were broadcasting a warning state police hope will reach the ears of an unidentified blonde girl, about 18.

If it doesn't, she may die, state police said.

The girl was bitten by a mad dog on Nov. 24, police said, while watching her companions repair an automobile near the Colorado river bridge at Bastrop, Tex. The companions were identified only as "four men in uniform," and no description of the car was available.

The little dog which the girl played with and was bitten by has since found to have been mad.

Ration Stamps Stolen From Storage Vault

KEOKUK, Ia., Dec. 7 (AP) — Ration coupons for 1,318,176 gallons of gasoline, 1,550 shoe stamps and 1,082 copies of ration book No. 4 were stolen from a storage vault here in what E. P. Edwards, field operations officer for the Office of Price administration described as "the biggest haul of that kind in the Middle West."

Edwards said there was no question but that the robber was connected with a "black market" and that the safe was "cracked by a professional."

Mother Superior Of St. Joseph's Dies

DALLAS, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—Mother Mary Grace Mooney, a native of Ireland who came to Texas in 1907 to devote her life to education and care of orphans, died yesterday after a short illness.

She was mother superior of St. Joseph's home for girls, a post she had held for 15 months. Previously she had served in Pampa, Amarillo and El Paso.

Syrian E. Marbut, county attorney, has been invited to attend when his cousin Eldon S. Dummit of Lexington, Ky., is sworn in Jan. 3 as attorney general of Kentucky. Dummit, a Republican, who was a roommate of Sen. "Happy" Chandler in University of Kentucky days, won his election by a scant 600 votes. He visited Lubbock in March of 1942, when he was president of Optimist International. His Lubbock cousin, now Optimist district governor, then was presiding officer of the Lubbock Optimist club.

The showing of motion pictures in cooperation with the Community Chest campaign featured entertainment at the Optimist Club luncheon today noon in Lubbock hotel. Reverends W. H. Foster and W. E. Peterson sponsored the program. During the brief business session Syrian Marbut and O. W. McGuire reported on the Seventh district meeting of Optimist clubs in Dallas Saturday. Guests from other cities included Robert C. Jones of Fort Worth. December 17th has been date set for the charter dinner of the Optimist club.

The 72nd district court was inactive this morning. Judge Daniel A. Blair, Mrs. Blair and John Edmisson, court reporter, were reported ill of influenza at their residences. Judge and Mrs. Blair live at 2915 Twenty-first street, Edmisson at 2310 Seventeenth street.

Cecil Robert Schwalbe, 19-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil O. Schwalbe of 2710 Twenty-fifth street, is in critical condition at West Texas hospital where he is a medical patient. The baby was given blood transfusion this afternoon, attending physicians reported. Mr. Schwalbe is branch manager of Southwestern Life Insurance company.

"Bear your own burden and bear it like a man," was the wartime advice offered by Rev. George Davis of Chickasha, Okla., in a talk today before the Lions club in Hilton hotel. Rev. Davis, a guest speaker this week at the First Christian church here, said Americans must learn to "take it." "I'm telling you, gentlemen, it's going to require 'guts' to stand up against the further privations that this war is going to bring." Rev. Davis, who is pastor of a church at Chickasha and a member of the Oklahoma College for Women faculty, expressed fear that America will suffer as a result of the thousands of youngsters quitting school to take high-paid war jobs. Referring to Hitler, he stated, "you can't solve the cause of war by pointing to any one man and saying 'he did it.'" The responsibility for the present war is not limited to any individual or single nation, he said.

Deputy Sheriff Cap Moore this morning left for Houston to accept custody of a juvenile boy who is charged with theft of a pair of boots.

Fire destroyed Flores barber shop, at 223 Avenue K, early Monday night. Fire originated in a hot water heater, firemen said. An adjoining cafe was heavily damaged.

Condition of Mrs. Sylva Wheelock, 1218 Broadway, who contracted pneumonia last Friday after having been ill several months of a heart ailment, was described by attending physicians today as serious.

Joe W. Bowman, Texas-New Mexico & Oklahoma coaches president and manager, and Union Bus terminal manager, who has been critically ill in West Texas hospital, is "slightly improved" today, hospital authorities reported. Bowman, who has been in the hospital about ten days, underwent surgery Sunday.

Pearl Harbor Day

the great force of aircraft carriers and escorting warships he had sent out to bombard the Japanese in the Mid-Pacific Marshalls.

From his bombproof headquarters, built since the Pearl Harbor raid, he had seen most, if not all, of those ships pass within his view in recent months. Most of them were built since Pearl Harbor.

Probably all of them had participated in the recent series of raids on Marcus, Mauru, Wake and in the assault which resulted in capture of the Gilberts.

Carrying Out Declaration

They are carrying out his Armistice day declaration: "Our time has come to attack . . . The Jap has dug himself in. We must land and dig him out."

The admiral could look out upon evidences of the Navy's growing strength. What many of these evidences are cannot, of course, be reported. Among them are repair and construction facilities, mushrooming workshops and barracks.

Two years ago, anyone looking over the harbor could see only the wreckage of battleships, destroyers and other craft. Huge clouds of black smoke from oil fires rose from the harbor. At nearby Hickam field and John Rogers airport wrecked planes were strewn on the runways. Hangars and barracks were bomb-damaged.

Installations over Oahu island bore evidences of attack. The wounded overflowed the hospitals. There were emergency wards in the armory and other buildings.

Today the picture looked bright with the United States on the offensive. Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, commander of the Army's Hawaiian department, recently warned that another sneak attack was possible. Confidence prevails, however, that it would be repulsed without too great damage if it should come.

Worley Attacks Bill Opponents

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (U.P.) — Rep. Eugene Worley, (D., Tex.), today denounced as "merely a smokescreen" charges that proposals for federally conducted absentee voting machinery for servicemen were unconstitutional and violations of state's rights.

Worley, who is chairman of the House elections committee, said the states could not expedite a soldier vote and that it "thereby becomes incumbent on the federal government to handle the mechanics."

Introduces New Bill

He has introduced a bill similar in most respects to the Green-Lucas bill which was rejected by the Senate when it voted a substitute calling upon the states to conduct the soldier vote.

Worley said his measure, the Senate-enacted bill, and legislation introduced by Rep. John Rankin, (D., Miss.), which also calls upon the states to conduct the vote, would not come up for public hearing until late this week, or early next.

Practical Method Needed

Worley declared that what was needed was a bill that was "more than a gesture—a practical method whereby these men in the armed forces can vote." He said his own bill was a "state's rights" measure in that it gave the state the judgment on the validity of ballots.

He said any soldier vote machinery operated solely by the states would break down because of the great length of time that would be required for transportation to and from distant fronts.

APPLICATIONS FOR SOLDIER BALLOTS ARE RECEIVED

AUSTIN, Dec. 7 (AP)—Texans in the armed forces apparently cherish the voting privilege.

Despite the fact there were no statewide elections this year Secretary of State Sidney Latham said more than 3,000 applications for soldier ballots have been received since January.

They are being held on file as potential applicatioss for 1944 ballots, pending classification of soldier voting rights by Congress.

Turkey's Position

vealed that Churchill had attended combined British-American military parleys in Cairo subsequent to the Tehran meeting.

Nazis Moving Troops

Reports reaching Budapest from Sofia, however, indicated that the Nazis, preparing to meet any change in Turkey's status, were moving troops through Bulgaria in the direction of the Turkish border. Three motorized German divisions were said to have passed through the Bulgarian capital in recent days.

Such troop movements in Bulgaria—the first of the satellites to fall from the kaiser's orbit in World War one—might be incidental, however, to reports of mounting tension within that country.

Taking a Turkish-British-American conference for granted, George Schroeder, political correspondent of the German overseas news agency, a Nazi propaganda organ, asserted that the "Wilhelmstrasse does not think it fit to consider this Turkish-Allied meeting as just a routine trip of the Turkish president."

Balkan Campaign Hinted

"Anglo-American sources," he declared, "hint at the possibility that the Balkans campaign was discussed in Tehran and if that was the case it would be imperative to know what Turkey's attitude would be."

In London there was little speculation on a Turkish change of status. Wilson Broadbent, Daily Mail correspondent, wrote, however, that "now that the climax seems to have arrived and the Germans are beginning to bluster and show their hand, I believe the Turkish government will not hesitate. They will declare themselves for the Allies and assume all the responsibility which that entails."

Important Role

If Turkey should cast her lot with the Allies, she could play an important role in the offensive which Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill plotted at Tehran to crush Germany from the east, west and south. Allied armies in Italy already are moving toward Germany from the south, but Turkish participation would open the way for a full-scale assault on the Balkans, also from the "south."

Turkey's entry would provide the Allies with a shorter water transportation route to Russia and would also give Britain and the United States an opportunity of joining the Red army on a common front in Bulgaria or Rumania.

Granting of Turkish air bases to the Allies would pave the way for recapture of the Dodecanese islands and would furnish air cover for any invasion of the Balkans.

Russians Satisfied

and the success of the Allies quickened the pace of the war and gave even greater strength to cooperation between the Allied countries in the war," Izvestia went on.

COMBINED ALLIED FORCES CLEARLY OUTCLASS NAZIS

LONDON, Dec. 7 — The Tehran promise of Allied drives from the east, west and south confronted Germany today with the problem of disposing her numerically inferior forces in an effort to avoid destruction by the mightiest military array the world has ever known.

Against the combined strength of the United States, Britain and Russia Adolf Hitler now finds his once proud military forces completely outclassed by land, sea and air.

Soldiers Outnumbered

His soldiers are outnumbered by at least three to two, his air force is at an over-all disadvantage of at least three to one and the seas all around his continental fortress are dominated by Allied navies. Moreover the Allied power on land, sea and air daily is growing.

Germany at the very outside now is believed able to muster 320 divisions which with non-divisional combat troops, would mean a fighting force of around 5,500,000 plus 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 in the supply service and administrative jobs.

Almost certainly Russia alone can more than match this. While figures of Soviet strength are ultra-secret, military observers here would be surprised if the Red army numbered less than 350 divisions with a combat complement of more than 6,000,000.

SURPLUS OF WOOL IS PROBLEM FOR GROWERS

FORT WORTH, Dec. 7. (U.P.)—Members of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association gathered today for their annual convention hoping to solve the problem of "so much wool we don't know what to do with it."

G. Norman Winder of Craig, Colo., president of the National Wool Growers association here for the meeting, said he had come to Texas to find out what Texans were doing with all their surplus feed, only to learn there is a shortage here, too.

"Our business is pretty much upset," Winder said. "We have so much wool we don't know what to do with it."

Higher price ceilings on domestic wools than foreign wools has offset lifting of restrictions on civilian wool consumption, he pointed out.

Speed Is Essential For Land Invasion

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The first Allied move, now that the Tehran conference is out of the way, naturally will be to implement the announced agreement for concerted action against Hitler from east, west and south.

What is the most expeditious way of administering the coup de grace to the Nazi fuehrer? We can't get at him the way the Hitlerites reportedly have done in the case of Count Ciano, Mussolini's turn-coat son-in-law, who is said to have been shot in the back by a firing squad.

There probably are numerous ways he could be defeated — if we are prepared to drag the war out. For one thing, it likely could be done by air, provided the Red land forces could keep the German armies engaged in fierce and bloody combat.

Land Invasion Essential

The experts generally are agreed that there's only one quick way to do the job with certainty, and that's the opening of a second land front in France, across the English channel. Since Stalin is essentially a man of tremendous action, and since he apparently is satisfied with the outcome of the Tehran parley, we may take it for granted that his persistent demand for the early opening of a second front in France has been satisifed.

Therefore, one would expect to see the western Allies achieve this with the greatest possible speed. And speed is essential if we are to save lives and conserve our national resources.

It's essential for another thing, too, and that is to get this European upheaval over so that we can tackle the Japs. Every moment of respite we allow the little men of Nippon gives them just so much more chance to dig-in and get established in conquered territories. Every moment of delay increases the risk of China being knocked out — a very real threat, despite their amazing bravery in the face of adversity which would have beaten many nations long ago.

Quick Kill Necessary

As remarked in previous columns, the signs are that the western Allies now are going full speed ahead in preparing for an early invasion of the continent. For a quick kill it must be achieved before spring because the spring rains and mud are almost sure to bog the Red armies down for a considerable period, and all-out Russian pressure is needed on the eastern front when the invasion of the west is undertaken.

The time is right for action. Hitler's once supreme military machine is deteriorating fast. The Allies now have a great numerical superiority in troops.

So the main target we're shooting at is invasion of western France. Meantime the bombing of western Europe and Germany will go on with increasing intensity. That's an essential preliminary to invasion, and of course it might crack that war-weary German morale.

County's Crop Goals Are Set

A 1944 cotton goal of 183,000 acres for Lubbock county, compared with 176,224 acres actually planted this year, has been set by the state AAA office, according to announcement here Monday.

Officials here said that county war boards may revise the goals and that a boost of 15,000 acres for Lubbock county is being considered.

Other goals were announced as being: wheat, 25,000; soybeans, 2,000; Irish potatoes, 600; sweet potatoes, 100; dry edible beans, 500; feed crops, such as corn, oats, barley, rye and grain sorghums, 246,000.

About Same As 1943

With exception of wheat, the goals were said to be about the same as for 1943. Only 11,616 acres were planted in wheat. AAA officials said this was due to "dry weather."

Walter Y. Wells, local AAA officials, reminded that farmers are being expected to produce record crops next year and said that farm machinery quotas have been increased. Dealers have been advised, however, that although farm machinery quotas were increased, bureaucratic regulations have made it impossible for many manufacturers to obtain raw materials. Consequently, there is serious doubt as to whether the machinery will be available to fill the "paper" quotas.

Charles Whitacre and J. G. Wadsworth were introduced as new members. The third degree was conferred an C. L. Brock. Thomas S. Jones of Bemidji lodge no. 119, Bemidji, Minn., was a guest.

Stalin Returns To Moscow From Parley

MOSCOW, Dec. 7 (AP)—Premier Stalin was safely back in Moscow from the Tehran three-power conference today after a hazardous round trip of 1,700 miles during which his plane braved snow and zero temperatures.

The agreement on concerted action was viewed here as the most important result of the historic parley, since, from the Soviet viewpoint, it settled the biggest question of the war—the "second front," or invasion of Europe from the west.

Atlanta Capable Of Handling Problems

ATLANTA, Dec. 7 (AP) — Atlanta's city council, asserting "the race situation can best be handled by local people," is seeking removal from Atlanta of a southeastern regional office of the president's committee on fair employment.

A resolution adopted by the council last night declared, "we call upon our representatives in the national Congress to insist upon the removal of the said office from the city of Atlanta."

Burial will be in Spur cemetery with Bryan MacDonald & Son Funeral home of Lubbock directing.

Suspenders Bloc Wins Argument On Buttons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — War Production board officials in charge of trousers stabilization gave in today to irresistible pressure from a suspenders bloc.

Suspender buttons were barred from men's work pants on August 14, 1942, to conserve buttons. There have been bitter protests from lumberjacks, shipyard workers and fishermen that enforced stabilization of their breeches by belt constituted an unwarranted rollback of their waist lines and contributed to national insecurity.

So today orders were given to restore suspender buttons to work pants.

Robinson Testifies In Federal Court

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 7 (AP)—Thomas H. Robinson, jr., 36, testified in federal court today that he had had intimate relations with Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, Louisville society woman, before he kidnaped her in 1934 and he had given her half of the $50,000 ransom paid for her release.

The defendant claimed that when he went to her home to kidnap her husband, Mrs. Stoll offered to go with him herself if he would give her half of the money.

He said that before he left Mrs. Stoll in Indianapolis he gave her approximately $25,000.

Robinson was arrested in 1936, after evading officers for two years, and pleaded guilty to the kidnaping charge. After serving six and one-half years of a life term at Alcatraz, he was granted a jury trial. He alleged he was coerced into pleading guilty and was not represented properly by counsel.

Mexicans Being Hired At North American

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (AP) — The President's committee on Fair Employment Practice reported today that the North American Aviation company of Dallas had revised its labor employment policy regarding Mexican aliens.

The FEPC chairman, Malcolm Ross, said that Mexicans now were being hired at the plant, which employs 27,000 workers.

The plant security division of the U. S. Army air corps has assured the FEPC that applications of Mexicans for work in the plane plant will be speedily cleared.

The revision in the plant labor policy is in line with President Roosevelt's order of July 11, 1942, which required the employment of aliens in war work where there is no question of the alien's loyalty to the United States.
