There Is Enough Red Hair In Her Family

Elsie Oakes

By NEA Service
NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 13.—The queen of the red heads says that no men need apply except those with coal black hair.

Which may not be surprising to those who like to quote proverbs, such as those about the attraction of opposites and the fickleness of woman, but it does sound a bit ungrateful, seeing as red hair won for the queen prize and much flattery and movie here and attention galore.

The queen is Miss Elsie Oakes, a New Orleans stenographer who has just been acclaimed the most beautiful red-haired girl in the Gulf metropolis.

"Red-headed men are my pet destination," she tells one.

Like Athletic Men
The right man has not come along yet. But when he does, says Miss Oakes:

"He will have that black hair—but he will not be a sleek-haired shikie and gray eyes. He will smile readily and have a sense of humor. I like a man who just sits. I want repartee and sparkle in conversation. And he must be an athlete. I want him able to use his fists, and he must swim and ride horseback. Dancing is not essential, although desirable. About petting: The queen is discreet."

"It would be queer if a girl had not been kissed by the time she was 21," she says.

She Can Cook
The lured-looking lady is a devout believer in the success and advantages of marriage. Since she captured the aut prize—in addition to some thousands of ardent admirers which he threw in the waste basket—she has ad several theatrical offers. These she sent into the waste basket, for she says a kitchen beats a queer by time.

She can cook, too. And she makes or own dresses. Athletics have a big place in her life, although she makes no claim to a balanced program. She eats what she likes, goes to bed when she likes, and doesn't wear "too many" clothes. She swims, rides horseback and is a student of aesthetic dancing. During the day, as a stenographer, she industriously pounds a typewriter.

REPORT MADE ON ARMY BILL

Statute Calls For Force Of 118,750 Men; Rejects Cut In Number

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Providing for an army of an average strength of 118,750 men and flatly rejecting the budget bureau recommendations for a force of only 115,000, the army appropriation bill carrying $30,901,118 for the next fiscal year was reported to the house today by its appropriations committee.

Of the total, which is $11,555,000 above current funds, out $726,024 below the budget estimates, $297,112,000 only is for military activities.

In its report the committee declared "congress has rather definitely indicated its approval of a force of not less than 118,750 men, which will need to be added to from time to time by reason of the air corps act."

By starting the fiscal year with 115,000 men or under, "to arrive at an average figure for the year of 118,750, recruiting can be so administered as to close the year with 119,999 men should the men actually be required," the committee said.

Momentous Debate On Government's Stand In Central American Trouble Expected To Follow Kellogg Speech

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Momentous debate on the administration's policy regarding the Nicaragua-Mexico situation was in the offing as congress turned today to pursue more carefully Secretary Kellogg's testimony detailing the reasons which led the state department to become concerned with the spectre of a Mexican-fostered Bolshevik hegemony intervening between the United and the Panama canal.

Mr. Kellogg revealed these reasons in a lengthy statement yesterday before the senate foreign relations committee and efforts were expected to be made today to have him appear before the house foreign affairs committee.

While such a move was lacking yesterday, Representative Moore, democratic Virginia, was expected to move today that the secretary also give his views to the house committee.

Quoting from extensive communist declarations and resolutions, Secretary Kellogg told the senate committee, which had been called to meet today, that all of these had named Mexico in particular and Latin-America in general as basis for attacks on the "imperialistic" United States. It was these documents, together with information showing that arms and munitions were being shipped to Mexico from the Sacoza Liberals in Nicaragua, which led state department officials to regard the recent developments in Nicaragua as affecting not only American interests in that country but in all Central America.

To show specifically the relations between Mexico and Mexico Mr. Kellogg quoted from a declaration by Tetcher, the Bolshevik foreign minister, who said on the establishment of diplomatic relations between Mexico and the Soviet states "Mexican government is based on the right trade unions and the radical social bourgeoisie. Mexico gives us thus a very convenient political base in America for the development of our further ties."

Little comment was forthcoming on the statement yesterday. Senator Borah, who is opposed to the administration's stand, said there was nothing in it which he did not already know. Senator Shipstead, former labor, Minnesota, said he did not believe it justified the government's course. Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, said few members of the committee were not impressed by it and Senator Gillett, republican, Massachusetts, said it confirmed his opinion that the government was acting wisely and consistently in the Nicaraguan matter.

Borah Raps Coolidge
WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President Coolidge's Nicaraguan policy was attacked in the senate today by Senator Borah.

Dissatisfied with the explanation given congress by the president in his special message Monday, and unconvinced by the supplemental evidence submitted yesterday to the foreign relations committee by Secretary Kellogg, Mr. Borah expressed to his

CHINESE SEEK FOREIGN RIGHT

(By Associated Press)
SHANGHAI, Jan. 13.—A report received here today said representatives of the Peking government called on certain legations at Tientsin yesterday and "suggested" that the foreign concessions there be handed over to the Chinese.

Tientsin is the principal sea outlet and commercial capital of North China.

Move Not Surprising
This move is not considered surprising as the recent case at Hankow, where the Southern government took over the British concession after an uprising among the coolies had caused evacuation of American and British residents, is considered a precedent which certain Chinese leaders intend to follow elsewhere.

Admiral Clarence S. Williams, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, arrived here today aboard his flagship Pittsburgh, from Manila. Beyond the statement that he had been given orders to "protect American lives and interests in China," he gave no information regarding the details of his mission.

Rats Swarm In Old London Art District
LONDON, Jan. 13.—There are fewer artists' models in Chelsea, London's Greenwich Village, but more rats. It has been brought out in the reports dealing with this wealthy borough.

The models are not so numerous as formerly, a good many artists having moved their studios to other parts of the city. The rats have come in because of the housing conditions. Heavily swarmed with rats, and general conditions are deplorable, says a city surveyor's report.

"The tenant showed me three rats which she had caught the night before, and said that they run over the beds. She also said they caught 'some' every night."

MAIL-ORDER WIFE
HIAWATHA, Kas.—Edward Hearley answered an advertisement and was married. The couple asked for a divorce in district court but the judge refused. "You have a mail-order wife and you can't cancel your order," the judge told Hearley.

These wives of ours!

WE TOOK them from the shelter of their families, gave them two or three rooms and a share of our salary—then left them sitting there among the wedding presents, a bit bewildered.

BUT they knew how—these wives of ours. They knew how to make rooms into homes, and how to get more merchandise out of a dollar bill than we ever could. We're lucky to have wives. How do they do it?

LOOK through this paper, day after day. You will find advertisements covering almost every human need. They are filled with hints for the household, hints for health, hints for clothing, hints for keeping young.

They are virtually little essays on life. No wonder these wives of ours follow them so carefully. As one wise wife said: "It isn't much that I know housekeeping so well. I know where to learn it!"

Most advertising is prepared especially for women. Read it. It forms an authoritative textbook on good housekeeping.

Landis Would Prescribe Rules For Ball Players

BASEBALL CZAR TO SUBMIT HIS PLANS TO HEADS

HE FIGURES OUT METHOD OF PUNISHING STARS WHO GAMBLE

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Four additions to baseball's written code, three dealing with betting, and another establishing a rule of limitation covering all baseball offenses have been suggested by Commissioner K. M. Landis incident to his exonerating of twenty baseball players accused of crookedness in games played ten years ago.

The commissioner, in offering them, expressed hope they would be adopted by representatives of major and minor leagues who meet next Monday at Frenchick Springs, Indiana.

Punishment Provided
Three of the proposed rules would provide specific punishment for wagering on games or contributing to or accepting a bribe or reward in connection with any league game. It was the collection of an $850 pool by members of the White Sox team of 1917 and its payment to Detroit players that brought about the inquiry which was closed yesterday by the Landis pronouncement.

One of the rules suggested would provide a years ineligibility for any player or club management "offering or giving any gift or reward to the players or management of another club for services rendered, or supposed to have been rendered in defeating a competing club."

A year's ineligibility also would be the penalty under another rule for betting on any game in which the better had no part.

Permanent ineligibility is the penalty the commissioner has in mind for betting on any game in which the better is a player, or in any way connected.

Would Outlaw Offenses
The fourth suggestion would write into baseball rules a regulation similar to the statute of limitations familiar in law. Under this rule, alleged offenses in baseball would be outlawed after a prescribed term of years.

Such a regulation would have made impossible the investigation just closed, which dealt almost entirely with games played ten years ago, and which Ban Johnson, president American League, said previously had been investigated and disposed of by Landis.

Swede's Back
Swede Risberg, back with his cows on the dairy farm he operates near Rochester, Minn., vouchsafed the information last night that insofar as the precipitation of any more baseball scandals is concerned, he is "through."

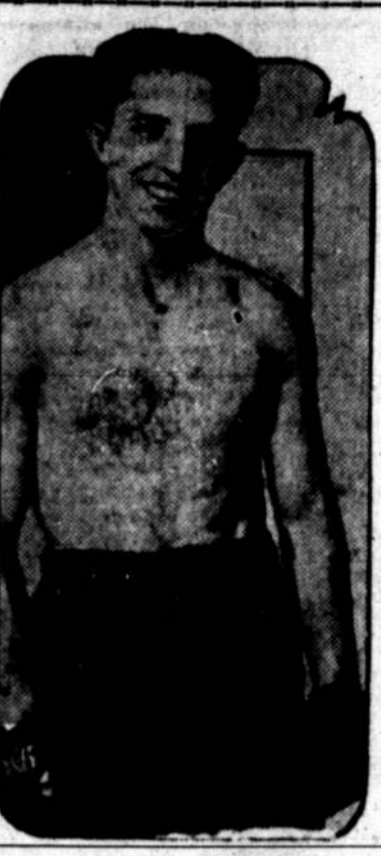

"Never again," said Risberg "it wouldn't do any good."

Bristling Battles of Bare Fist Days
MY LIFE STORY by Jack McAuliffe

Iron pipes welded from back of a wing, a black jack smashed against a man's skull when he was backed up against a curtain—these are some of the tricks in Madden and myself had to use to get out of tight places when we were touring the country agreeing to score a knockout over any corner or fighter $50.

Many a time I had to resort to the "back-heel" punch in order to get my man down and save the $50. I used to step in fast and stick out my foot behind my opponent's leg. Immediately I'd slip over a lightning bolt or right. It never failed to flop a man and many times he stayed down from the force of the fall.

Date Broken?

BUSHY GRAHAM

Notice the patient smile on Mr. Bushy Graham here. He is waiting for Charlie (Phil) Rosenberg, alleged bantam champion, to make up his mind. They are supposed to fight Jan. 14 unless Rosenberg goes into his old familiar motion of reverse.

Billy Evans Says:

Strong On Control
A Personal of the National League pitching averages will offer convincing proof of Grover Cleveland Alexander's greatness.

The answer in one word is control. In 39 games, 15 of them being complete contests, Alexander walked only 31 men. It was the fourth straight year he has topped the National in the matter of control.

During the world series, while I was chatting with Alexander, one of the Cardinal players mentioned the fact that bases on balls always seemed to prove costly. The player had in mind the game of the previous day when Reinhardt's bases on balls beat St. Louis.

"I'm against all passes, intentional or otherwise," chirped Alexander, "I believe in making the boys earn their way on."

He religiously adheres to that policy and it is the answer of his success.

Umpires Might Help
I regard Max Carey as one of the greatest basemen I have ever seen in action. As a matter of fact, Ty Cobb is the only player I could really point to as a better one.

One day while I was discussing the decline of baserunning with Carey, he smilingly remarked: "Don't think I am getting personal, but the umpires in the two major leagues could do much to revive baserunning."

At first I was taken by surprise at the suggestion—and then it sank in. "I suppose you are referring to a stricter enforcement of the balk rule," I replied.

Last season about a dozen balks were called in each major league. It would be hard to convince the ambitious baserunners that no more were made.

WESTERNERS TO INVADE SLATON COURT TONIGHT

BOTH FIRST AND SECOND TEAMS WILL BATTLE TO FINISH

Tonight at the Slaton High School gymnasium the first and second teams of the Western and Tiger forces will engage in a two game contest. The games are being played for practice only and the result of the games will not effect the percentage of either team.

In a recent two game tilt the Westerners and Tigers drew with the first team of the Westerners winning and the second team losing. These games were played before much time had been given the lads in training; and both clubs showed but little style and training.

Van Tunghel Ready
Coach L. J. Van Tunghel states that has quieted in getting in shape very slowly and much time will have to be spent with it yet; however, he states that "he is very pleased for more than likely the five will be in its winning stride when they hit the county and district meets. Coach Van Tunghel works his bunch long hours and at the present time is dealing mostly with fundamentals.

At Slaton, Gus Miller, who for the past few years has guided the athletics of that school, is working diligently with the members of the Tiger five. Coach Miller has an experienced club and will give the Westerners a good scrap.

The games will start at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

COMIC OPERA WILL COME HERE

With the coming of the musical gem of comic opera "The Chimes of Normandy" at the Palace Theatre Saturday Matinee and Night, January 22nd, an unusual opportunity to hear worthwhile music will be offered lovers of the best stage affords.

This all-American organization is under the personal direction of May Valentine, America's only woman impresario, who will also conduct the augmented orchestra during the engagement. Miss Valentine received her musical education in the East and is the only woman to be honored by the late Reginald DeKoven to the position of assistant director during three years of his operatic activities.

Artists Outstanding
"The Chimes of Normandy" will reveal a cast of unusual American artists, fresh in voice, striking in personality and singing in English. While opera in foreign language continues to flourish in America as a borrowed art for which the public pays dearly, there is a growing demand on the part of thinking people for opera in our own tongue, and by our own American-born singers, is the belief of May Valentine. This interest in American singing is becoming more gratifying every year.

Her cast is selected from scores of America's best operatic stars and each has been carefully chosen for tone color. The cast includes Marguerite Hibbard, lyric soprano; Elizabeth Bicket, contralto; an actress of unusual dramatic ability; Henry Thompson, America's best light opera tenor; Frederick Wheeler, baritone; George Shields, famous American basso; Thomas Curtin, tenor; Richard Haupt, bass and many others of fame and distinction as operatic favorites.

Actual portrayal of the book is one of the fundamentals of this delightful and picturesque light opera. It is staged in the ultra modern, and striking and colorful costumes, electrical effects, and chorus of unusually beautiful girls whose trained voices are a treat to lovers of good music, will prove a revelation to the theatre goer.

Marland To Operate Gasoline Business
The Marland Oil company, one of the largest operators in fields of the Southwest, has purchased property here pursuant to opening a wholesale and retail distribution system, it is learned today.

Four sites have been purchased by the firm, records disclose, one of which is in the wholesale district, and the other three on Broadway, where it is presumed retail stations will be opened. One of the sites is at the corner of Broadway and Avenue Q, where the home of Ed Green is located. Another is toward the east end of Broadway, and the other on the west end. The wholesale site is in the vicinity of the Gulf Refining company distribution plant.

Good as Ever

FRANKIE FRISCH

Frankie Frisch, captain and second baseman of the New York Giants, who quit the team in the fall because of illness is wintering in the Adirondacks at Lake Placid, N. Y. He says he is as well as ever and looks for a big year. Rumor has it he may figure in a trade during the winter. Frisch last favor with John McGraw when he suddenly left the club without setting permission.

Hitting Sports Highspots With James R. Dow

Kenesaw Mountain Landis exonerated the implicated baseball stars and erased the charges made by "Swede" Risberg and "Chick" Gandill. It was expected.

Coach Grady Higginbotham has a job on his hands—he is dealing work-outs to two quints daily; an afternoon and evening squad. In this way the coach is of the opinion that he may get quicker and better results in the final training.

Tonight the Westerner forces will clash with the Tigers of Slaton, in a two game contest. Both the first and second teams will engage in a floor performance. Neither game will count on the percentage standing of the clubs as the games are being played for practice.

The guarantee signers of the recent underwriting campaign for the Texas Tech-Texas A. & M. game will be given choice seats for the game according to E. W. Provence, manager of the college. This is some encouragement within itself for the guarantors.

J. M. Sullivan, manager of Texas A. & M. acknowledges the contract for the Aggie-Matador clash. Mr. Sullivan states that he is pleased to know that the Aggies are the first conference team to invade the vast region of the plains.

Connie Mack has signed Zack Wheat for the Americans of Philadelphia and states he is very well satisfied with his team now.

MISS JERRY TAYLOR, UNTIL recently employed with the district clerk here, has accepted a position with the business office at the Tech college.

ROAD CONTRACT LETTINGS SET

Only One Bid Received Here Yesterday Refused New Date Is February 17

The Commissioners' Court of Lubbock county will receive bids on grade and drainage construction on State Highway No. 53, from Lubbock to the county line toward Brownfield on February 17. It was ordered by the court in rejecting bids submitted on the project Wednesday.

The one bid submitted by R. E. Stroup, of Albany, at the Wednesday meeting of the court was rejected by the court, for two reasons, one of which was that it was considered high, and the other, that no other bids were offered. The reason assigned by officials for non-submission of bids by contractors was the present unsettled financial conditions of the state highway department, which is to match the county's expenditure dollar for dollar on the project.

Many Are Interested
At least a half dozen contractors had been shown over the route and had inspected plans and specifications on bids were anticipated from them but it was explained that several of these contractors now have funds tied up in construction work for which they cannot be reimbursed by the state. All awards are subject to state approval.

Efforts also will be made by the court here to have the state advertise for bids and award contracts on highway No. 7, Lubbock to Shallowater, the project on which bids were asked by the state on December 20, but which award was held up by the injunction proceedings of Attorney General Dan Moody.

Plans and specifications are ready and approved by the state department on two other projects in the county, one the east extension of highway No. 7, and the other from Slaton to the county line south. Grade and drainage construction is now being finished on No. 7 between Lubbock and Slaton under directions of Fred Holt, contractor, who has experienced considerable difficulty with the project due to inclement weather. He says today, however, that he expects to finish the project in the near future.

China's Labor Still Depends On Manpower

PEKING, Jan. 13. (AP)—Labor saving devices are scarce in China, where manpower is abundant and wages low. Two men working with a large, two-handed saw will spend a day cutting one plank from a rough 15-foot timber. A mechanical saw which would do the job in a matter of minutes is looked upon with disfavor by the Chinese employer.

Peking's streets are sprinkled the year round by men with tubs and shallow bamboo baskets on the end of a pole. They have been sprinkled in that manner for generations from wells at intervals along the streets. Thousands of men would be thrown out of work if modern methods were substituted for the old practice.

The Jimricksha pullers' guild and the wheelbarrow-pushing water peddlers have been the encroachments of street cars and waterworks upon their business.

Forester's Overcoat Must Last Ten Years

PARIS, Jan. 13. (AP)—Premier Poincare's economies have balanced the 1927 budget but many small functionaries have raised a great cry about their own budgets which are badly out of balance.

The forest guards' worst complaint was what they called the government's "parimony" in clothing them. The guards get a new overcoat every ten years, a coat every five years, and a cap every three years, while a pair of trousers is officially admitted to be worn through in two years.

Dig Out Red Woollens IT'S GONNA BE COLD For Use Here Tonight

Dig out your red woollens, ear muffs and pulse warmers! It's gonna be plenty cold here tonight. That is the warning broadcast by weather profits of long years standing on the plains and their opinion was forcefully backed up by the report of the weather man who estimated over the Associated Press wires this morning that the mercury tonight and early Friday would hover between 24 and 28 degrees.

The cold wave which struck Lubbock last night is general over the Southwest but is not expected to be of long duration.

SIR AUSTIN FAST WITH MONOCLE

GENEVA, Jan. 13. (AP)—The adroitness with which Sir Austin Chamberlain swaps his monocle for his horn-rimmed reading glasses is always a source of amusement to members of the Council of the League of Nations. Sitting around the big table, they frankly admit their inability to keep their eyes from taking in the magnificence of his spectacles.

Addressing the assemblage, the British foreign secretary's gold-rimmed monocle at the end of a black ribbon slung around his neck, is securely in place. The moment he is obliged to read from a document, he raises his right eyebrow, leans back a bit, and the monocle falls into his lap. But while it is falling, the heavy reading glasses have already walled his eyes.

The operation takes a fraction of a second. So fast it is that there appears danger that he might scoop up the descending monocle with the glasses, but he never does. In pinches he alternates the spectacles several times a minute without batting an eye and with never a hitch in his speech.

BRITONS APPEAR IN MID-VICTORIAN DRESS

LONDON, Jan. 13.—British men seem to be going back to the mid-Victorian fashions in their dress. J. C. Squire, editor of the London Mercury, is appearing these days in a dark gray-jacket cut away over his waistcoat and buttoning closely up under a large wing collar.

Thomas Hardy sometimes wears coats like those of Squire. So does Clough William Ellis, the architect. Wears Jacket of '60s

Probably the most sartorially daring man in London is Stephen Gaskell, the librarian of the Foreign Office who wears leather waistcoats-topped by jackets cut after the fashions of the 'sixties.

Gaskell has always been noted for being extraordinary. He had kangaroo steaks served at his twenty-first birthday dinner at Cambridge and the clothes he was seen wearing at the university were even more surprising than those in which he appears at Whitehall.

He is a believer in ancient rites and ceremonies and is credited with reviving the custom at Cambridge of drinking from loving cups filled with "copas." Copas is an extraordinary unpalatable brew made of spices, old ale and sherry, all mullied together and served with pieces of burned toast floating on the top.

Wales' Yellow Shirt
Members of the House of Commons who have adopted the style of appearing with orchids in buttonholes are increasing. Sir Henry Brittain has been indulging himself in pink orchids of late but the most regular wearer is Sir Vansittart Bowater. He probably wears a greater variety of flowers during the year than any other member.

The Prince of Wales has revived the yellow hunting shirts worn by his ancestors in the sixteenth century. The yellow shirt ranks among the skin fitting garments and those who follow the fashions set by His Royal Highness accompany it with a yellow chamois waistcoat.

GERMANY SENDS MUSICIANS HERE

Foreign Stars Leaving Homes To Appear Before Yank Audiences
NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP)—Germany is sending pianists, a prima donna and an orchestra conductor to America this year.

The prima donna is coming to the Metropolitan Opera company. She is Frau Grete Stueckgold of the Berlin Civic Opera, who has signed a contract to appear in twenty performances in New York during 1927-28 season.

Bruno Walter at Cleveland
Bruno Walter, director general of the Berlin Civic Opera, has accepted an invitation to conduct five or six orchestra concerts during the Cleveland musical festival next June. Professor Walter has a busy season in Europe. Each year he goes to London for about six weeks to direct opera performances at Covent Garden and for the past two years has conducted subscription concerts of the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra. He is a regular guest conductor of the Salzburg festival plays and formerly director general of the Munich opera.

At least three pianists are among the musical visitors. They are Leonid Kreutzer, a German-Russian, Elly Ney and Walter Gieseking, the latter two being well known in this country.

Kreutzer comes to fill a ten weeks engagement in New York, Boston, Detroit, Cincinnati, Toronto, Philadelphia and several other cities, playing first with the New York Philharmonic orchestra under the direction of William Mengelberg. He is head of the piano department of the Prussian state college of music.

Miss Ney is the wife of Van Hoogstraten, conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, who in April will conduct the Berlin Philharmonic with his wife as soloist. She will make a three months concert tour through the United States early this year.

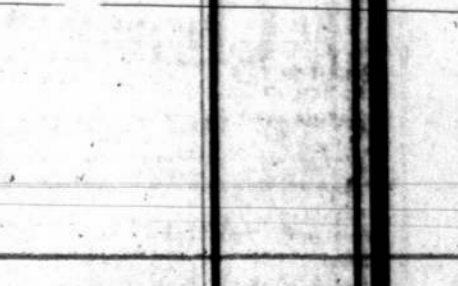

Scientist Discovers Gas-Eating Germs

BERLIN, Jan. 13. (AP)—Motor traffic has brought in a new microbe, Prof. Carl Neuberg of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute declares. It is a gas-eater, he says, which lives in and thrives upon the drops of gasoline that fall upon the highways or collect in the garages.

It is quite probable, Professor Neuberg thinks, that the motor-traffic microbe is new only in the sense of its just becoming known to science. He is endeavoring to find out where the little gas-eater lived and by what means he subsisted before the automobile came into existence.

ANTI-U. S. FEELING SWEEPS MEXICO

PEOPLE ARE UP IN ARMS ABOUT UNITED STATES

PAPERS DENOUNCE STAND OF COOLIDGE; REVOLT IS CONTINUED

(By Associated Press.)
MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—Anti-American sentiment in Mexico is being displayed as the general public becomes cognizant of the gravity of the international situation augmented by the concern of the American department of state over the specter of Bolshevism here.

A manifestation against the American consulate at Guadalajara was averted only by military intervention, the national congress voted yesterday to support the attitude of President Coolidge in the international crisis, denouncing at the same time the "northern colossus," while the newspapers, particularly El Universal, are charging domination of Mexico upon the part of the United States at the best of "technicians who have invested money in Mexico."

Government Is Busy
Meanwhile the government, which is beset by sporadic outbreaks in various parts of the republic, today announced further measures to crush the insurrections which already are known to have cost the lives of at least 25 rebels and 24 federal soldiers.

Rumors reaching Mexico City that 140 rebels were being hanging from trees on a highway near Otuamba were without confirmation and are felt to be untrue since such a wholesale hanging would imply a serious defeat of the revolutionists which the war department have announced.

The Mexican Catholic Episcopate today issued a statement denouncing the charges coming from the office of President Coolidge yesterday that the episcopate had incited the recent disorders.

Bishop Still Missing
Bishop Diaz, secretary of the Mexican Episcopate, who has dropped out of sight ever since Monday when he was visited by federal officials, was still missing today despite efforts to locate him. Dispatches from Vera Cruz, where it was thought he might have been taken, say that he has not appeared there.

The department of the interior has denied rumors that he was being deported and today said that he called on the department on Monday and asked permission to leave the country; the application being granted it is now thought that he may reappear on the Guatemalan border.

Reports of further fighting in various states continue to come into Mexico City today.

RESTRAIN CLARK BY WRIT OF LAW

That Is Plan Of A. C. Becken Company In Suit With Lubbock Jeweler

A writ of mandamus restraining W. S. Clark, justice of the peace, from setting aside a judgment recently in connection with injunction proceedings of the plaintiff company against the Woods Jewelry and Optical company of this city and declaring the action of the justice null and void, is sought in a suit filed in district court here today by Howard and Burkes, representing the A. C. Becken company.

The petition sets out that a judgment was granted the plaintiff firm December 21 against the Woods Jewelry and Optical company, that the judgment was later set aside by the justice upon application, but that more than ten days, stipulated time of filing, intervened between the judgment and the order setting same aside.

The petition alleges that the justice was without lawful authority to act upon the order, and seeks to have it declared null and void. A little over $24 is involved in the proceedings.

Election Bets May Be Banned By Law

AUSTIN, Jan. 12 (AP)—Bet on public elections should be declared a felony punishable by a penitentiary term of from one to ten years by a bill to be introduced in the house today by Representatives Barnett and Holder of Hunt and Dallas counties, respectively.

Holder pointed to testimony regarding bets brought out in the sheriff's election suit in Dallas county a few months ago, and declared the bill is designed to remedy and penalize such

NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—Cotton continued steady at the opening today. First prices were six to 11 points higher, all positions making new highs for the current movement on further trade buying, covering and commission house demand.

March sold up to 12.42, while October touched the 14 cent level, but these prices attracted a little more "south" selling as well as considerable realizing. Reactions of several points followed but the market was holding fairly steady at the end of the first hour, buyers being encouraged by reports of rains in the southwest and the report of the census bureau showing domestic consumption of 605,217 bales.

Realizing continued later in the morning while the demand seemed to taper off somewhat after the first half hour, and prices worked back to about yesterday's closing quotations. The market at mid-day was comparatively quiet with March selling around 12.30 and October 12.91.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12 (AP)—Cotton opened steady at the opening today as Liverpool was lower than here but the bullish character of the domestic consumption report caused later months to show initial gains of 3 to 5 points. Prices continued to gain for a time after the start until March traded up to 12.09 and July to 12.76, or 13 to 14 points above yesterday's close. The market then reacted 3 to 5 points on some profit taking.

The market reacted late in the morning from the early buyer. There was considerable realizing by recent buyers. Prices made new lows with March at 12.27, May at 12.45 and July at 12.62. Around noon the market was quiet with prices ruling at or near the low.

International Telephone fell back a point and heaviness crept out in a number of other standard industrial.

Accumulation of the oil shares, apparently based on expectations of unusually favorable 1926 earnings statements and special dividend action on several issues, turned the general course of prices upward. Standard Oil and American corporation climbed to their highest level in a year or longer, while early gains of about 1 1/2 points were registered by Houston and General Asphalt. A quick jump of five points in Commercial Solvents B to a new record high above $75 a share attracted attention. SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN COPYRIGHT 1926 NEA

Reporters were awaiting them on the porch of the little Myrtle Street house, when they returned in a taxicab, and Faith conquered her weariness to answer their questions courteously and smilingly.

"We must keep a brave front before the world," she pleaded to her father and Junior, who were sullen and angry after the reporters had left.

"I'm going over to see Pop," Junior told her explosively. "I won't stand this. If it keeps up, I'm going to beat it out of town. Aw, sis, I didn't mean it! I'll stand by," he gave in abruptly at the sight of her fresh tears.

Faith sent her father to bed, cajoling him into a semblance of cheerfulness. She sat alone, then, until Bob Hathaway should come to her from his conference with Stephen Churchill. But every attempt she made to marshal her thoughts to think of ways to help Cherry, was defeated by the almost constant ringing of the telephone. Reporters from all over the state were pouring into the city to "cover" the most sensational murder story that had broken for years.

When Bob arrived at last she was a quivering wreck of helplessness, calm self, but in his arms she grew quiet, hopeful.

"I couldn't possibly live through this without you," she told him brokenly, her brown eyes drinking love and hope from his brilliant blue ones.

Drawing the shades against curious eyes, she sat beside him on the couch, his arms holding her so tightly that to breathe was a delicious pain. She told him of her visit with Cherry, of the girl's remarkable spirits, of the warden's and the master's kindness.

"Now tell me what Stephen Churchill says," she braced herself to hear the worst.

"I suppose Cherry told you that he talked with her," Bob began hesitatingly. "Did she tell you that she urged her to let him work up a case on self defense?"

"No!" Faith cried out sharply. "How dare he say a thing like that to Cherry? She's innocent. Can't he see that, feel it, believe it? A fine lawyer he is!"

"Don't, honey," Bob soothed her. "I'm afraid he believes Cherry did it. No, wait! We've got to face facts, darling. Things look very, very bad for Cherry. Churchill believes he can get her off scot free if she will plead self defense. And he doesn't think she has a ghost of a show if she sticks to her story knowing absolutely nothing of the murder. He contends that it was either Cherry or Wiley, and Cherry's own testimony before the coroner's jury clears Wiley."

Faith sprang to her feet, her whole body quivering with anger. "Bob Hathaway, tell me one thing, and tell me the absolute truth—do you believe that Cherry is entirely innocent, or do you believe she killed your uncle in self defense? Tell me!" Her eyes were shining with anger and something like scorn for the man she loved with all her heart.

U. S. Develops Effective Treatment for Leprosy

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In the midst of the oyster season it is interesting to know the exact food value of shellfish.

Such information is supplied by Dr. D. H. Jones of the United States Bureau of Chemistry, who supplies the estimate that one pound of oysters, equivalent to a pint per day, will furnish approximately 35 per cent of calcium, 52 per cent of the phosphorus, and 136 per cent of the iron required in the food of an average person per day.

Furthermore, oysters are rich, as are all seafoods, in iodine, which is markedly deficient in the diet of persons living in the Great Lakes region.

There is no doubt that the oyster is a rich source of vitamins A and B, as determined through investigations made by observers in various parts of the world.

Investigations made by Dr. Jones indicate that oysters, clams, and shrimp contain enough proteins to be valuable as foods, the proteins being in easily assimilable form. The protein of the shrimp and of the clam seems to be superior to that of the oyster for nutritive purposes.

The percentage of fat in different species of fish varies. There is relatively little of this in the ordinary oyster, but more occurs in the salmon, the shad, herring, butter fish and mackerel.

SALM SETTLEMENT

1925 to find that his wife was in Palm Beach with his son. He followed her there, but failing to effect a reconciliation, started suit for separation. Colonel Rogers, the American agent, at one time offered the count $10,000 a year if he would remain away from America and his wife, but he refused, largely on account of his son.

TRIPLE SLAYER

them was the chief of police and through him Johnson sent out the declaration that he would not be allowed. His wife, quartered in a bungalow 300 yards distant, pleaded with officers as they prepared for the attack.

wrecked and through the roof officers climbed. Lights soon flooded the place, but Johnson was not to be found. Sheriff Walter Anderson led his men to the cellar and from the darkness they were greeted by revolver fire. One answering burst—and the battle was ended. The man had two wounds, in the right eye and leg.

Many rumors as to the cause of Johnson's difference with the women he killed were heard today, but few persons knew more than that the man and younger woman had been acquainted before their marriage.

Mrs. Johnson, the mother of five children, would not throw any light on her husband's action.

NORRIS TRIAL

here today. Within ten minutes four veniremen had been excused because they had positive opinions concerning the case in which Dr. J. Frank Norris is being tried for the slaying of D. E. Chipps, Fort Worth lumberman.

Mrs. D. E. Chipps, divorced wife of the slain man, sat beside her 14-year-old son as court opened. She had been absent since Monday morning. Her dress today had been changed from one of complete mourning to a lavender hat with purple ribbon band and a black dress with white lace collar. She had a bouquet of violets on her coat.

Hesitates On Klan
John H. McCoy, the 7th venireman, who reluctant to tell whether he was a member of any secret society.

"A man doesn't have to tell that," does he? McCoy asked his question. District Attorney Jesse Martin of Tarrant county, Martin assured McCoy he was not trying to embarrass him, but that he desired an answer in order to get at the venireman's mental attitude.

"Well, I belonged to the Ku Klux Klan two years ago," McCoy said. "I was a member one year and voluntarily dropped out."

Prosecution attorneys then went in to the huddle system for signals, conferring with their heads together. They then turned McCoy over to the defense.

He Was Klansman
McCoy was the third out of more than 20 veniremen examined to state that he had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan. The other two former klansmen were not taken as jurors.

Attorney Dayton Moses, defense attorney, told the venireman that if this defendant is guilty of murder he ought to be convicted and the state is entitled to a conviction, but if we can show self-defense we are entitled to acquittal.

"Do you understand that to be the law?"

"Yes," answered McCoy, "but I am somewhat opposed to the death penalty."

The state accepted him, but defense promptly exercised a peremptory challenge to dismiss him.

The next three veniremen were dismissed for having opinions.

Farmer Is Called
T. J. Cunningham, a farmer was called and said on December 24 he received a copy of the Searchlight, Norris' church paper, and read therein a mention of the Chipps killing.

He received his summons for jury service December 23.

Attorney Sam Sayers, for the state, asked whether he had seen any strangers about his place "on the pretext of hunting," who had attempted to discuss the case with him.

Cunningham said he had not talked to anyone about the case.

Cunningham was accepted as the ninth juror.

He is 41 and has been married three times, his first two wives having died.

W. M. Hudson, who said he was over sixty, claimed exemption from service because he had a cold and the judge excused him.

Conductor Questioned
W. L. Morris, street car conductor, said he had picked up a Searchlight in his yard and read it. He is a member of the Baptist church. When asked by Attorney Sam Sayers whether he was a member of a secret society, Morris turned to the judge and asked:

"Must I answer all these questions, judge?"

Judge Hamilton nodded in the affirmative, and Morris said he was a Mason, but denied Ku Klux Klan membership.

After the venireman and the attorney had argued back and forth over the death penalty, with the venireman giving some apparently sharp answers, Morris was removed on a peremptory challenge by the state.

T. H. Tume, an Austin city employe, said he had resigned from the Ku Klux Klan ten days ago, after being a member several years. He could give no definite reason for quitting.

Moses Makes Objection
When District Attorney J. D. Moore of Travis county pursued questions as to Tume's Klan membership, Attorney Moses for Norris arose and said:

"The defense objects to the question because the defendant is not now and never has been a member of the Klan. We also object because we may not be able to complete the jury out of this panel, and the questions going out in the press may influence future veniremen."

Moses said the Klan issue had been so heated in this locality that it was not fair to bring it into the trial and he requested the state not to ask questions concerning the Klan any more in the case.

Attorney Martin objected to the statement that Norris was never a member of the Klan, "because Attorney Moses was under oath."

"We have information that Norris was a member of the Klan," said Martin.

"If there is a witness who will swear to that, I'll withdraw my objection," said Moses.

Deadly Snake Lured From Woman's Ankle

THINCOMALL, Ceylon, Jan. 12 (P).—Strategy of the hostess saved a party of dinner guests here from a dangerous snake.

A British dockyard official was giving the dinner to a few friends. Halfway through the meal a large snake was horrified to hear the official's wife order a servant to place a bowl of milk on the floor near her feet. Instinctively everyone knew that a snake was in the room.

No one moved. All peered apprehensively about. Presently a large cobra was seen to glide from under the table and go to the bowl of milk, an irresistible bait. The woman shrieked. The cobra, deadliest snake in the world, had been coaxed about her ankle.

AUSTIN, Jan. 12.—Erection of a $500,000 state museum at Texas university is sought in one of the 14 bills introduced in the senate today. Senator T. J. Holtbrook of Galveston submitted the measure providing for the erection of the museum as a memorial to Texas heroes.

CITY TAKES UP SUBWAY PLANS

Seek Underpasses On Edway And Ave. H; Anton Here Representing Santa Fe

Methods and means by which the city of Lubbock, with the co-operation of the Santa Fe railroad, might build or cause to be built subways under the railroad tracks on the east end of Avenue H, were under discussion this afternoon by the City Commission and groups of citizens.

J. F. Anton, division superintendent of the Santa Fe, Station division, representing the Santa Fe railroad, and said his company is ready and willing to give earnest consideration to any definite proposition regarding the proposal.

It apparently is the sense of the commission that one subway cannot be built without the other, but no definite decision had been made in this connection early this afternoon.

Tom Garrard, local attorney, explained the needs of the subway at the east end of Broadway on behalf of citizens interested in this project, while M. G. Abernathy represented the group on Avenue H. The Santa Fe, according to Mr. Anton is not willing to proceed with any or either of the projects without a definite proposal from the city, and pending such action on the part of the city, cannot promise action.

KELLOGG'S STAND IS SCORED

(By the Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—The declaration that Secretary of State Kellogg, and not the Liberal regime in Nicaragua, would be responsible for any demonstrations there in which Nicaraguan or American lives might be lost, was made today by Pedro Zepeda, representative of the Liberal interests here.

Zepeda said that he had been authorized by Dr. Juan Sacasa head of the Liberal government set up Puerto Cabezas in opposition to the regime of President Diaz which has been recognized by the United States, to announce to the press that the property of American marines were withdrawn from Nicaragua.

"Otherwise," he added, "we will not be responsible for any manifestation of popular indignation owing to outrage by the occupying forces against the Liberals, placing the responsibility on Secretary Kellogg for an uprising in which Nicaraguan or American lives may be lost."

Soviet Minister Talks

(By the Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12 (P).—Commenting on Secretary Kellogg's charge that Mexico is used as a base for Communist activities against the United States, M. M. Alexandria, Soviet minister to Mexico, said "it is absurd to think that Mr. Kellogg has information about something which does not exist."

LITTLE THEATRES ON SCREEN NEXT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 12 (P).—The Little Theater movement is credited by Director Clarence Brown with having made possible the so-called highbrow screen drama. It has prepared an audience, he says, for motion pictures based upon the drama of Sudermann and other classicists of the stage.

"The Little Theater," says Brown, "with its many not exactly have popularized its dramas, has so placed them before the public that they have aroused interest sufficient to justify their being placed on the screen. When they are screened, with proper direction and modern technique, they make the greatest of film drama, and more than that, create a demand for a better type of picture and a more lasting type of drama."

"They therefore are doing a great work in raising the art of the screen to a parallel of that of the stage. Formerly the public seemed to accept on the stage works that would not be accepted in the films, which, because of wide distribution had to have things more popular in scope."

The public, through the Little Theater, came to have a growing acquaintance with the new drama and a more intimate knowledge of it. Thus the Little Theater has done a great good, even though it has reaped a meager reward for it."

Endangers Life To Save Queen's Statue

(By Associated Press)

BUCHAREST, Jan. 12 (P).—The statue of Queen Elizabeth of Romania, first Queen of the Kingdom of Romania, was one of the sentimental treasures lost in the mid-night burning of the royal palace. An old soldier's attempt to rescue it was a dramatic scene of the fire.

When the flames swept through the roof and down the walls of the throne room, a bearded old sergeant-major rushed to the statue of her who was his queen in his youth and tried to drag it out. It was far too heavy. He struggled vainly until the flames burned off his beard and ignited his uniform. Gasping he brought his heels together, saluted and staggered to the statue, the statue plunged into a pit of flames.

Says Hasty Decision Aids Leadership Today

(By Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12 (P).—Ability to decide quickly is the most important element in leadership, declares Prof. Warner Brown of the University of California School of Business Administration.

"The real leader, whether he be good or bad in his decision, is he who first commits himself to definite action," Professor Brown believes. "The best formula is when in doubt, do something. It is indeed true that 'he who hesitates is lost.'"

The figures above do not include the great revenue derived from the cattle, sheep, swine and poultry industries for which Texas is famous. Nor does it include such important items as truck, citrus fruits, nuts, wool and such like, which industries bring millions of dollars more annually. The 1926 output of the above important items far exceeds that of last year.

CROPS DIVERSIFIED

Texas crop values, according to government estimates, are more than a HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS GREATER for 1926 than for 1925. The cotton crop which is about twice the normal yield will have about the same money value, and because of the growth of diversified farming, other crops have a far greater value this year than ever before.

And in spite of the low price on cotton more money will be left in the South this year from this crop than ever before; for though the producer has not made the usual profits, twice the normal amount of money is being paid to pickers, twice the normal amount to ginners, to compressors, to warehousemen; and there is twice the normal cotton tonnage for Texas railways.

But even greater than the advance made by Texas' agricultural interests has been the progress made by Texas' industries. Textile mills are being erected at many points. Hundreds of manufacturers of products from pins and pills to motor cars have recently opened factories in Texas or are seeking locations. New railroads are being built. New oil fields are being developed. The giant is awakening. As great a state as Texas is agriculturally, it will soon be an even greater state industrially.

INDUSTRIAL DENISON

Twelfth in size and one of the liveliest industrial cities of the state is Denison—the Gate City. Located in the Red River valley in North Central Texas, Denison is a great railway center and terminal. The M-K-T operates at this point the largest railway switching yards in the entire Southwest. Other large locomotive and machine shops are here. Six railways and an inter-urban line connect Denison with all sections in all directions.

The largest cotton mill west of the Mississippi River is here, spinning and weaving seven thousand bales of cotton per annum; seventeen wholesale houses; overall factory; peanut and pecan mill; wood and cabinet work mills; flour mill; ice cream factories; candy factories, etc.

DENISON'S ANNUAL PAY-ROLL $4,200,000.00

The fact that Denison, a city of 25,000, has an annual pay-roll of more than four million dollars—not including the salaries of clerks, store managers, teachers, etc., attests the prosperous condition of its industrial enterprises.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING and down BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A head of lettuce, grown by a Texas farmer, goes to make many a wallet fatter in this busy market place.

Perhaps as your train whizzed you through some maze of switching yards you wondered how all this tangle of freight ever finally got straightened out and reached the consumer. Here is how:

The Texas farmer loads his lettuce, a couple of hundred crates. It heads for the jungle of rails and box cars on the Jersey side of Greater New York.

In the night an engine pushes the car onto a great barge with about a score of its fellows. A tug drags it, pushes the cars to the Manhattan side.

A broker of car lots gets the lettuce, unless it has been sold by telegraph order previously. The broker breaks up the car and sells it on the pier to jobbers. Pay a jobber takes 20 crates. He in turn divides this lot among retailers who take a crate, or even part of a crate.

The retailer sells to some restaurant or perhaps in the night club belt. The lettuce that lay hidden that morning in the tangled skein of freight was over in Jersey is laid upon a table, covered with dressing, and toyed with by the lady who is wondering as she eats, if the tall, bronzed gentleman at the adjacent table really is a Texas cowboy, or just an actor.

So much for the junker of a head of lettuce.

Brains count.

The other night in the subway a business girl slipped through the doors of a rush hour express. Stout makes out with that faraway look in their eyes that betokens peace.

She stood before three of them, and in a pleasant voice addressed them in turn.

"Where do you get off, please?"

"Then she took her stand in front of the rider who named the nearest stop. That is technique.

The gentleman with chin whiskers, who annually when the circus came to Superdunk, fell for the wiles of the three-shell artist, has reappeared in a different setting. He now inhabits the ultra-sophisticated Roaring Forties.

In the shadow of an unfinished skyscraper I saw an all-wise one with the three walnut shells and the pea. Gathered about him were those Magi of the night streets, the Weisenheimers who are supposed to be "in the know" on all matters of doubtful state.

It was a rearing response that the Roaring Forties gave the slikerster. One by one they tried to pick the shell that hid the little sphere. One by one the wise guy pocketed their nickels.

WASHINGTON LETTER

AND WHAT'S THE HOUSE GOING TO DO ABOUT "LAME DUCK" ISM? NOTHING, AS USUAL

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The sprawling House of Representatives has an opportunity to perform one death-bed act for which it conceivably might gain some admiration. But it is not likely to seize this chance.

As usual, the end of this Congress finds the Norris amendment to the Constitution abolishing "lame duck" sessions still before the House. Three times this amendment has passed the Senate and just as often the House machine has kept it from a vote on the floor.

A great many arguments have been advanced in favor of this amendment, which would bring representatives and senators elected in November into office and into session the following January.

The object is not merely to "put the lame ducks" out of their misery. It is rather to get them out from underfoot, where they are accused of cluttering up the path of such progress as one may be able to credit to Congress.

This "lame duck" situation is especially poignant in the final short session of the sixty-ninth Congress.

A "lame duck" is a senator or representative voted out of office in primaries or November elections who, nevertheless, has been elected to a term running until March 4 and including a session of Congress meeting after his defeat.

The fellow elected in his place, whose election sometimes constitutes a rousing repudiation of the incumbent and all his works, cannot take office until the new Congress goes to work 12 months later.

Thus, ten "lame ducks" resumed their seats in the Senate on Dec. 6. There are more than 30 in the House. Those in the Senate are Cameron, Ernst, Harrell, Lenroot, Means, Pepper, Stanfield, Wadsworth and Weller. The late Senator McKinley was another.

The loudest howl against "lame duckism," of course, comes from the party which has the fewest victims. The Senate's ten—all are Republicans and all conservatives.

Hence the Democrats and even more the Progressive Republicans are in a position to charge that most of the "ducks" are looking for government berths in this country or abroad and that they will furnish a solid block of votes to the administration whenever it wants them.

The progressives will tell you that under the present system, a congressman-elect, finally taking his seat, very frequently can't for the life of him recollect the principles on which he was elected a year previously.

The Norris amendment, incidentally provides that the new Congress shall elect the president in case of an electoral college deadlock.

The Senate passed it in 1923, 1924 and 1926. There were never more than six votes against it. The Republican House machine never has seen fit to let it out for a vote.

The most famous incident in the measure's career in the House was in 1922, when the rules committee adopted a rule fixing a date for a vote and its chairman, Phil Campbell of Kansas, "pocketed" the rule and refused to report it. Campbell was defeated in the next election.

The American Bar Association originally sponsored the amendment. It has received the support of many national organizations.

Spacious cribs attached to the wall at one end of parlor cars in service on a southern railroad have proved of great aid to mothers caring for babies while traveling.

ROADS FOR THE MASSES

According to reports, Germany plans a six-year program of road building, to comprise about 5,000 miles of auto roads to attract tourists. At $40,000 a mile, this would cost $200,000,000, a good investment if Germany's laws were made to invite outsiders.

The United States spends about twice as much every year for highways to connect every city, town and hamlet set for which a conceivably might gain some admiration. But it is not likely to seize this chance.

Almost every person in this nation can be reached by telephone, and, if necessary, we could move practically every person by automobile at the same time.

We are rapidly learning that a proper road grade and a proper foundation, or base, are the primary requirements for a good road. Then comes the problem of protecting the road base with a suitable wearing surface which will save the road from water which makes mud, and from wind which blows away the precious, fine material.

Oil and its by-product, asphalt, have been utilized by our engineers to surface our highways at a minimum expense, to meet varying traffic requirements. From the thin coat of road oil to the heaviest asphaltic concrete, and sheet asphalt to waterproof and cushion cement concrete road base, and to still better brick on concrete base, the United States is building roads second to none in the world.

It would have been impossible to build such roads as we now enjoy, without the aid of giant tractors and modern road equipment which moves dirt and rock more rapidly than thousands of men could have done a few years ago.

Rome may have built a few roads for the emperors; we build for the masses—Plainview Herald.

Although No Criminal Cases Will Be Up For Trial In City Court Wednesday

While the criminal portion of the 12nd district court here will not be subject to the movement launched throughout the state to stay the hand of the law temporarily so far as sentences are concerned, due to the fact that no criminal cases are set for trial until next week, Judge Clark M. Mullican, presiding officer, said today that his court would follow the precedent of other courts if such were necessary.

The advisability of such action was brought even more forcibly to the court here with the pardoning Wednesday of Lonnie Lawrence, recently convicted on a bigamy charge and sentenced to five years, Judge Mullican said. Lawrence was convicted at the October term of court here, and as far as can be learned, he has not served a day in the penitentiary.

Pardons Rapped

Such pardon activities on the part of a Governor are wholly out of keeping with constituted authority, leading business men of Lubbock said today, in pointing to the fact that a total of 3,205 clemency proclamations, at least a third of them full pardons, have been granted by Governor Ferguson during her two years in the office.

Such a total would be average during the two year period of more than five per day, exclusive of Sundays, and in the opinion of Mayor Frank L. Tarrish, the investigation of such a number of cases in this time would be a physical impossibility, not only for one man or woman, but for a half dozen persons.

SLATON HOST FOR SHORT COURSE

Slaton today is host to the third of a series of agricultural short courses sponsored by the county agent of this county following a meeting yesterday at Lubbock attended by between 75 and 80 farmers and their wives, and tonight motion picture reels depicting farm scenes will be shown at the Canyon school house about eight miles east of here.

The program at Slaton Wednesday was similar in every respect to the one offered Tuesday at Abilene, various speakers stressing the need to be derived from diversification on the farm. Speakers included W. L. Stengel, head of the annual husbandry department of the Tech college, and Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent.

Friday a similar motion picture will be held at Shallowater in the northwest part of the county, and farmers of this vicinity are urged to attend the session.

PRINCE CLAIMS MYSTERY CELLO

Prussian Noble Who Directs Musical Organization, Is Superstitious

BERLIN, Jan. 12. (AP)—Prince Joachim Albrecht of Prussia, second cousin to former Emperor William II, who will soon go to the United States to direct a series of symphony concerts, is not only a composer but a virtuoso as well. His instrument is the cello, and he has frequently assisted at charity affairs and court functions in the role of cello soloist.

"My cello," he told the Associated Press, "was built in Berlin by the brother of my teacher. But all experts whom I have consulted agree that it is the equal of the best of the old Italian instruments."

"There is something mysterious about my instrument. One day an old instrument maker came to the master who built my cello and told him he would 'blow something into the instrument' by which they would acquire the properties of the old Italian masterpieces. Whatever that 'blowing' something in process may have been, it did the trick."

To Interpret Own Works "Just before his death a few years ago this old fellow revealed the secret to the man who built my instrument, but the latter declared he will take the secret down into his grave. All my attempts to persuade him to leave the formula to posterity have failed."

Prince Joachim Albrecht expects to direct concerts in about a dozen leading cities of the United States. He will confine himself to directing and interpreting his own works, which are chiefly in the nature of rhapsodies, chamber ballet music. Besides orchestral compositions, he has composed songs for baritone voice, programmatic music for the piano, and melodies for the cello. His latest orchestral work is entitled "Fantasia amorosa."

Since the war, the prince has conducted concerts in Baden-Baden, Vienna, Budapest, Zurich, Breslau, Linz, and Bad Gastein.

The prince does not think much of jazz and other modern music. Automobile driving is his favorite diversion.

DOHANEY FACES ENEMY SOLONS

Ohio's Governor Takes Post Again With C. O. P.'s in Legislative Control

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 12. (AP)—Vic Donahey, only Ohio governor to be elected for three successive terms, begins his fifth year as chief executive in the same situation as during his two preceding terms.

He will be the single representative of the Democratic party holding a major state elective office. He also will have a state legislature which is preponderantly republican.

Donahey's political success so far as his own personal campaigns are concerned has been marked. He has overcome republican majorities repeatedly. But he has never carried his party ticket along with him.

Disagreed Over Legislation Open disagreement between the chief executive and legislative leaders and refusal of the state senate to confirm the Donahey appointments, during the past two sessions of the general assembly resulted in the establishment of what is thought to be an "all-time" veto record. During the legislative session of four years ago Donahey disapproved 75 bills. Last session he vetoed 71.

Donahey's friends think there is much that is Rooseveltian in his make-up. He is professedly against the "vested interests," finds "the rights of the people" and "honesty in government" among his most ready phrases when discussing affairs of state, and has an unusual ability to seize the trend of public thought. Then too, he is the father of ten children.

Started As Printer Born in July, 1874, he became a printer soon after leaving the public schools. His first public office was auditor of Tuscarawas, his home county. His first taste of state politics came when he was sent as a delegate to the state constitutional convention in 1912. He was elected state auditor the same year, serving two terms, and in 1920 made his first bid for the governorship. He failed to surmount the Harding landslide of that year, but was successful in 1922, '24 and '26.

His vote getting ability had brought him mention for the democratic presidential nomination in 1928. But he is emphatic in his disavowal of any such aspirations and insists that he cannot be drawn into the race.

French Churchmen Ask Teaching Right

LYONS, France, Jan. 11. (AP)—Cardinal Maurin of Lyons, whose title is "primate of the Gauls," will lead an offensive against the present French laws, which decree that monks and nuns of the so-called "teaching orders" shall not be allowed to set up schools of their own.

Members of the "teaching orders" were exiled from France before the war. At the mobilization, the great majority of the monks came back to join the colors, while the nuns remained in and in nunneries. After the war it was thought that the so-called "laical laws" of the Republic would be abrogated or at least allowed to become dead letters. However, with the advent to power of the Left parties in May, 1924, the laws against teaching by the friars and the sisters were noticeably reinforced.

Parochial schools, "free schools" they are called, are tolerated by French law, provided the instructors are laymen.

Eighty-five girls of the University of Kentucky are candidates for the women's rifle team, a new record for girls seeking honors in marksmanship.

SPRING STYLES FOR MEN BOLD

Important Changes, However, Are Being Held Behind Locked Doors

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP)—Behind lock and key spring styles for men are being guarded for fear style ideas might be stolen. But some general observations are easily available.

The cut of the lapel appears as important as the placing of a flower on a woman's shoulder. The white handkerchief has followed the white shirt into oblivion, and in colors even the suits incline to horizon blue, pearl gray and bois de rose.

Dressing gowns that would do credit to a rajah, mufflers of magnificent silk, and ties of "bright but not bold" design, have contributed a note of lavishness that has almost hypnotized some of the wholesalers themselves.

White New York is usually taken as the last word in the statement of style, it is predicted many of the costumes seen on Fifth Avenue will advance further west, borne there as the gospel of style for men gains wider recognition.

London, dealers say, still remains the men's style capital, and French advocates of low-necked shirts for the masculine chest are finding practically no American followers.

Hollywood vies with New York in nattiness, it is pointed out and even Jack Dempsey has been photographed in a "very smart single-breasted notched-lapel jacket suit."

Each little member of the league has her chance to "mother" one of the dolls to dress it in the most comfortable of clothes and learn what practical care is necessary to make "babies" grow.

More than 22,000 girls enrolled in the Little Mothers league the first half of this year. Many have been graduated, receiving merit badges and diplomas, with the privilege of continuing their work as long as they care to, through correspondence.

Girls from 16 to 16 years old, compose the majority of league members. At the end of each course, usually containing twelve lessons, they are required to pass examinations and those who are successful are graduated. At this time each group holds exhibitions inviting the mothers to attend.

By teaching girls to help train younger children, in the home and through their efforts, educate the parents, the state department believes it can decrease infant mortality and raise Michigan's health standards.

Four nurses are employed full time teaching these classes in the schools of Michigan. Where there is competent nursing service, the nurses employed locally have frequently taken over this work themselves, although the state department, in an effort to keep the training consistent, furnishes the materials.

Romance Of Big Business To Be Viewed Soon GOVERNMENT TO COLLECT BACK FORD STOCK TAX Court Hearing To Come Up On Next Tuesday

(By the Associated Press) DETROIT, Jan. 13.—The story of one of the romances of modern industry—the growth of the Ford Motor company—will be written into official records in the hearing here of the government's suit to collect approximately $35,000,000 in additional taxes from former minority stockholders of the company.

The hearing will seek to determine what was the correct valuation of 7,680 shares of stock purchased in 1918 by Henry Ford from minority holders. In arriving at this valuation, the entire history of the Ford company probably will be reviewed.

Debate Value of 1913 Share When Senator James Couzens, John F. and Horace E. Dodge, and seven other original investors in the Ford Motor company sold their holdings to Henry Ford, the valuation of the stock was fixed at $4,400 a share, as of March 1, 1913. The government contends that the stock in 1913 was worth $3,600 a share, and it is on the difference between these two amounts, alleged to be additional profit on the same, that the government seeks to collect additional tax. The valuation as of 1913 is fixed by law for calculation of values upon which profits later might be computed.

Two questions are involved in the cases, according to Alexander W. Gregg, general counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau. These, Mr. Gregg says, are:

Whether the Bureau of Internal Revenue had the right to reopen the cases which were closed, as it did in each instance, when taxes had been assessed; and, what was the value of the stock on March 1, 1913.

Defendants in the suit, besides the defendants in the action, are the late John F. and Horace E. Dodge, are Horace R. Rackham.

Soviets Issue 36 Hour Working Week

MOSCOW, Jan. 13. (AP)—The Soviet government has instituted a 36-hour working week for office and mental workers and for those who work underground. For junior workers over 14 years of age, the new labor law establishes a four-hour working day.

Children under 14 are not allowed to work. Women employees who are about to become mothers receive two months' leave of absence with pay before the birth of the child as well as two months after confinement. Women nursing their children are also allowed time off during working hours without reduction in pay and are insured against employment in harmful or particularly arduous work.

The new laws also provide that all workers shall receive a month's vacation every year.

Here's A Few Lines Of Railroad Rhymes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—The retirement of Frederick D. Underwood from the presidency of the Erie railroad after more than a quarter of a century of service, recalls to old-time railroaders the story of the days when Underwood was a division superintendent on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.

A waggish locomotive engineer telegraphed from out on the line as follows: "F. D. U. Engine two seven two has just a flue. What shall I do, Donohue."

Back came the reply: "Donohue. Plug the flue in the two seven two and fetch her through, F. D. U."

To Remove Slur From The South

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—In the files of the war department is an old, unsigned document listing some of the proudest names of the South as deserters from the Confederate army and because their relatives and friends believe they have been wrongfully accused, a movement has been initiated to clear them.

But the way to vindication may be difficult because it lies through the uncertain channels of legislative action by Congress, which usually turns its ear to more urgent things.

Listed as "Deserters"

When hostilities ceased between the North and South in 1865, the war department received a list of the Confederate soldiers then incarcerated in the United States Military (Libby) Prison at Richmond, Va. It bore no signature nor identifying mark but it went into the files of the war department—there to seal in dishonor several hundred Southern soldiers because after their names was written: "Deserter."

One day a Southern patriot chanced to run across the document, and discerning that some of the names were those of men believed to have been captured and imprisoned, and not deserters, took the word back home to find ready acknowledgement that the honor of the South had been assailed and retribution was due.

Bill Would Correct Wrong

But while the war department was eager to right a wrong, it demanded proof; and proof in this case, it ap-
