Tech Student First Texan To Gain Award

Garza County Youth Wins Top 4-H Honor

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

ALVIN G. Davis, 21-year-old Texas Tech student and son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Davis of the Graham community, about nine miles southwest of Post, has been named national boy winner of the 4-H Club Leadership program, the highest honor that can be won by a 4-H Club youth.

Announcement of the award was made Tuesday in an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago and by Garza county 4-H Club officials.

Davis is now attending the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, being held in conjunction with the International Livestock show in the Windy City.

To qualify for the honor, Davis had to first win honors as outstanding 4-H Club boy in Garza county, in the district, in the state, and in one of the four regions of the United States into which 4-H Club work is divided.

First Texan To Win

The Garza county youth, long a contestant and winner in numerous livestock shows from county events to the State Fair of Texas, is the first Texan to gain the award, the 20th such in the entire history of 4-H Club work.

Davis, who has been in 4-H Club work for about eight years, will retire from club competition this year, since he has reached the 21 year age limit and no longer will be eligible to participate.

Davis shares the national 4-H Club limelight with Miss Alice Gilliaum, 20, of Newport, Ark., a blonde co-ed at University of Arkansas, who has been in 4-H Club work for 10 years.

Each won a $200 scholarship to the college or university of his choice; an all-expense trip to the 27th National 4-H Club Congress here this week, and a silver trophy. The prizes were donated by Edward Foss Wilson, president of Wilson & company meat-packing firm.

HST Okays Plan For New Agency

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Former President Hoover said today President Truman has approved a proposal to group 60 government administrative agencies in one "housekeeping" unit.

Hoover announced this to reporters after a 45-minute conference with Mr. Truman at the White House.

The former President heads a commission which Congress set up to study reorganization of the executive branch of the government. The commission's report to Congress is due in January.

To Urge Salary Hikes

Hoover also told newsmen that the commission will recommend federal salary increases, especially for top level officials.

He said, too, that one aim of the commission is to telescope about 70 government agencies into 10 cabinet posts and six new important administrative departments.

At present there are nine cabinet posts. Hoover noted that there has been talk of creating a department of welfare as a tenth.

In outlining the plan to bring 60 agencies under one administrative service agency, Hoover noted that all of those agencies now report to the president.

Hoover said agencies the commission has in mind include procurement, now under the Treasury department, as well as various agencies accountable for statistics, publications and for public buildings.

Hoover said that under the best circumstances the changes to be recommended by the commission could save the government about $3,000,000,000 a year. He added that that could result from increased efficiency alone and not from any radical change in policy.

New Defense Line Drawn For Nanking

By PETER LIU
INS Staff Correspondent

NANKING, Nov. 30.—A quarter of a million Chinese Nationalist troops were reported punching their way out of a Communist pincer move tonight in order to form a new defense line to protect the capital city of Nanking.

The Nationalists were reported marching south to engage the Reds near Pengpu—100 miles northwest of Nanking. Only a token force was being left in the Suchow area north of Pengpu.

The threat to Nanking and all of central China was such that a mass air evacuation of dependents of American diplomatic personnel was ordered to begin Thursday.

Reds Bottle Up Troops

Other United States citizens are leaving Shanghai by boat.

The big Communist offensive toward Pengpu has already bottled up 100,000 government troops and threatens to trap 100,000 more.

Three Nationalist army groups—comprising more than 300,000 men—were massed south of the Kwei river near Kuchen in an attempt to blunt the western claw of the Red pincer.

This western drive has deeply outflanked Suchow and reached close to the Yangtze river.

Government sources said "major hostilities" were raging in the Kuchen sector, 70 miles south of Suchow. Participating in the battle were the forces commanded by Generals Li Yen-Nien, Liu Ja-Ming and Huang Wei.

Ultimatum Broadcast

Gen. Wei's twelfth army group was reported completely encircled by Communist forces under the command of one-eyed Gen. Liu Po-Cheng.

The Communist radio said that a "second demand" had been sent to Wei's trapped army to "surrender or perish." The broadcast said the Nationalist supply lines have been completely cut and that the men are living on sweet potatoes and potato leaves.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was unofficially reported to have ordered field commanders to give up well-stocked, strongly-fortified positions in the Suchow area to move south to relieve trapped Nationalist forces.

Only the government's 74th

U. S. Welcomes Madame Chiang

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30. (AP)—A tight-lipped Madame Chiang Kai-Shek arrived in the United States today to essay what may be the most important diplomatic role of her glamorous career. She seeks American aid for her husband's hard pressed government.

The petite wife of China's generalissimo landed at Moffett field naval air station a few minutes before noon for an eight-hour stopover on her hurried aerial flight from Nanking to Washington.

She took off at 8:08 p. m. (California daylight time) on a nonstop overnight flight to Washington in Secretary of State Marshall's personal plane, the one time presidential "Sacred Cow." She is scheduled to arrive in Washington at 9 a. m. tomorrow, CST.

Given Welcome

She was accorded a diplomatic U. S. welcome by Raymond D. Muir. The assistant chief of protocol for the State department greeted her as the distinguished wife of the head of a friendly power.

She refused to entertain any questions from the large corps of reporters, but posed graciously for newsreel and still camera photographers.

Whether Madame Chiang will see President Truman while in this country was not known.

Prisoner, Facing Death In Gas Chamber, Appeals To Truman

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30 (AP) Miram Thompson made a last-minute try to escape the gas chamber today. He telegraphed his attorney to appeal to President Truman for clemency.

Thompson and Sam Shockley are scheduled to die at San Quentin on Friday for the killing of guard William A. Miller during a 1946 riot at Alcatraz.

Melvin Belli, Thompson's attorney, said he would telegraph his client's plea to the White House, but expressed little hope of reprieve.

Shockley, apparently resigned to the gas chamber, made no final appeal.

Thompson, 32, is serving 99 years for the murder of an Amarillo, Tex., policeman. Shockley, 38, is serving life for kidnaping and bank robbery at Muskogee, Okla.

More Than $600,000 In Damages Caused In Four Fires In State

(By The Associated Press)

TEXAS property valued at more that $600,000 went up in smoke in four big fires Tuesday.

The blazes were at Lufkin, Pecos, Odessa and San Antonio.

At Lufkin a $500,000 blaze swept two downtown buildings used as headquarters for a large Texas variety store chain, Perry Brothers stores. One building had two stories, the other three. Origin of the early-morning fire, the worst in Lufkin's history, was not determined, but it was believed to have started on the top floor of the two-story building.

Eighteen elderly and infirm patients were forced out into sub-freezing temperatures at San Antonio when a fire before dawn gutted the second floor of a convalescent home. Mrs. R. J. Schliesing, 76, suffered a broken leg and Mrs. L. Goodman, 75, sustained minor burns but the majority of the patients were carried and led to safety.

The Midland-Odessa airport theater was completely destroyed Tuesday afternoon by a $50,000 fire of undetermined origin. Fire departments from Midland, Odessa, and the airport fought the Chained to his general position by Hitler's orders as well as by the paralyzing action of our air forces, he immediately moved westward all available armor and reserves from the Caen area to counterattack against the narrow strip through which American forces were pouring deep into his rear. His attack, if successful, would cut in behind our breakout troops and place them in a serious position.

Bradley and I, aware that the German counterattack was under preparation, carefully surveyed the situation. We had sufficient strength in the immediate area so that if we chose merely to stand on the defensive against the German attack he could not possibly gain an inch. However, to make absolutely certain of our defenses at Mortain, we would have to diminish the number of divisions we could hurl into the enemy's rear and so sacrifice our opportunity to achieve the complete destruction for which we hoped.

More Supplies Sent In

Moreover, by this time the weather had taken a very definite turn for the better and we had in our possession an Air Transport Service that could deliver, if called upon, up to 2,000 tons of supplies per day in fields designated by any of our forces that might be temporarily cut off.

When I assured Bradley that even under a temporary German success he would have this kind of supply support, he unhesitatingly determined to retain only minimum forces at Mortain, and to rush the others on south and east to begin an envelopment of the German spearheads. I was in his headquarters when he called Montgomery on the telephone to explain his plan, and although the latter expressed a degree of concern about the Mortain position, he agreed that the prospective

Three Are Killed, 50 Hurt In Britain As Dense Fog Holds

By JAMES E. BROWN
INS Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 30 — Three Britons were killed and 50 injured tonight in a train collision attributed to the heaviest fog in a decade and one that now has lasted for 99 hours.

The fog extending into Germany virtually halted the Berlin air lift, crippled British and continental commercial air lines, and further delayed the sailing of a hundred British ships, including the Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mary and Acquitania.

Rescue Work Hampered

The British train collision occurred on a viaduct outside Edgely station at Stockport, Cheshire, and near zero visibility hampered rescue workers.

Some of the injured were reported in a serious condition. A number of emergency operations were performed at Stockport hospital.

The fog blanketed thousands of square miles in southern England in what observers said was an all-time duration record. Weather experts predicted little change in the next two days.

Visibility was reduced to two yards for home-bound London workers, creating chaotic conditions in bus, street car, and rail operations.

Five British overseas airways planes left Hurn airport during one twenty-minute break in the fog but other airports could not operate.

Better weather at Paris permitted airport operations at Orly and Le Bourget fields, but fog closed down on the Wiesbaden, Frankfurt, and Berlin terminals for the air lift.

American planes in a 24-hour period flew only 10 flights carrying 80 tons of supplies to Berlin, believed to be the lowest amount yet. RAF planes flew only seven flights from northern German fields.

Marshall Leaves Desk For Series Of Hospital Tests

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall left his desk today for hospital "tests and examinations" that will take several days.

The announcement immediately revived speculation whether the veteran soldier-statesman will continue much longer in President Truman's No. 1 cabinet post.

Since his return from the United Nations conference in Paris eight days ago, Marshall, 68, has declined to give any indication of his future plans. Mr. Truman has expressed the hope, however, that he would remain as secretary of state.

British Bring Policy On Holy Land In Line With U.S. Stand

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Nov. 30 — Britain dropped the Bernadotte proposal for taking the Negev desert away from Israel and agreed with the United States today on the broad principles of a compromise Palestine plan.

A new British resolution accepted the U. S. view that the Jews and Arabs should bargain on any territorial changes in the Holy Land.

An earlier British proposal had supported the recommendation of Count Folke Bernadotte, slain UN mediator, that Israel should give the Negev to the Arabs in return for western Galilee.

These developments took place as Jewish and Arab military commanders, negotiating directly, signed a pact in Jerusalem for a "complete and sincere cease-fire" in the Holy City.

The Security Council, meanwhile, scheduled a meeting for Thursday to take up Israel's application for United Nations membership.

German Reds Create Berlin Government

By RICHARD S. WEIL
INS Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Nov. 30 — German Communists backed by Russian guns created a revolutionary government in Berlin tonight and chased the last legal German officials into the western sectors.

An estimated 300,000 Communists—many imported by special buses and trains from the Soviet occupation zone—cheered this further Moscow-sponsored split of the Soviet-blockaded city.

The Communists moved swiftly ahead of any possible United Nations compromise on the Berlin dispute and in advance of next Sunday's municipal elections which they have boycotted, and banned in their Soviet sector.

Acting Mayor Searched

Soviet-controlled police swept into the Berlin city hall in the Soviet sector and confiscated files.

Ferdinand Friedensburg, acting mayor of the legal regime, was searched before he left the hall. Other officials one step ahead of the Soviet-appointed police hurried into the sanctuary of the American, British and French zones.

Settlement Chances Dimmed

German non-Communist and western military government leaders branded the expected Communist move an illegal one carried out because the Communists feared the impact of next Sunday's legal elections permitted in the western sectors.

Friedrich (Fritz) Ebert, "renegade son" of the late Friedrich Ebert, German president under the Weimer republic, was named mayor of the Soviet sector puppet regime.

Observers believed the chances of an East-West settlement of the Berlin siege dispute were dimmed.

American military governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay commented sharply in Frankfurt:

Reds Set Stage

"It is an amazing thing for the new 'government' to create itself to replace the elected government when the people have an opportunity to vote Dec. 5."

Soviet Military Governor Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, despite United Nations mediation moves in Paris, set the stage for today's meeting with his letter to the western military governors last night.

Sokolovsky said that Russia supported "a democratic" govern-

Army Draft Call Is Cut In Half

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Army slashed its 20,000-man January draft call in half today and warned that the proposed budget for next year isn't big enough to build the 900,000-man Army authorized by Congress.

The armed forces asked for $23,000,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1. President Truman sc' a $15,000,000,000 ceiling on defense spending.

Of this total, $600,000,000 must be spent on stock-piling strategic raw materials. The balance of $14,400,000,000 will be split among the armed forces. The Army is expected to get around $5,000,000,000.

Draft Calls Cut

It was learned today that the Army figures it will have to limit its strength to 677,000 officers and men if it stays within the five billion budget. This is 223,000 (24.8 per cent) less than the 900,000 authorized by Congress last summer.

The Army has launched its draft program in November with a call for 10,000 men. The December call was for 15,000 and the original January call was for 20,000. Later, it was planned to make the monthly calls around 30,000.

But the Army today cut the Cold Front Due To Halt Mercury Rise

The weatherman forecasts fair skies and slightly warmer temperatures for Lubbock and the South Plains today, but warns that a "little" cold front moving down from the Rockies may cut through overcoats sometime tonight. Thursday will be partly cloudy and colder.

He said today's maximum temperatures probably will take a slight rise over Tuesday's high of 57, with an expected 63 degrees today. This morning's low probably will be about the same as yesterday's 24 degree minimum.

An Associated Press dispatch said Tuesday night freezing weather swept southward over the state Tuesday and took a heavy toll of crops in the Rio Grande valley. The freeze apparently wiped out tomato, pepper, and bean pea crops in the McAllen area.

Elsewhere, according to Association Press reports, surging floodwaters moved toward central and southern parts of Georgia and South Carolina today and residents prepared to battle new river crests.

Contract Is Let For Road Project In Andrews County

The contract was let Tuesday for work to be done on farm highway 781 in Andrews county, from the New Mexico line east to farm highway 703, The Associated Press announced from Austin last night.

Ernest Loyd, Fort Worth, was given the contract for $190,459, which includes grading, drainage structures, base and surfacing of the 13.81 miles.

The bid came as one of the low bids on 19 Texas highway construction and maintenance projects, amounting to $3,771,805. Eighteen other projects are scheduled for bids today.

Bandits Take $80, Liquor

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Nov. 30.—Two bandits, one of them armed with a sawed-off, double-barreled shotgun, held up and robbed the One-O-One liquor store of $80 here tonight, and fled after tying Jess Willmering, the manager, and a customer in a back room.

The bandits took wallets from each of them. Willmering said his wallet contained no money. They extracted $20 from the customer's wallet and threw it back on the floor beside him. Also taken, besides $60 from two cash registers, was one fifth of whiskey.

The robbery was one of a series of recent armed holdups at Big Spring, Lubbock and Amarillo in the past few days, the second here within a week. The biggest loot thus far taken was $20,000 last Thrusday night from a carnival office at Big Spring.

Sharp Drop In Meat Prices Is Reported

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 (INS) — Sharp nationwide drops in wholesale and retail prices for all cuts of meat were reported today.

The American Meat Institute said general wholesale prices had declined 16 per cent since the middle of September when prices were at the summer peak.

An International News Service survey showed retail prices had plunged as much as 32 per cent in some places.

The Institute said the declines could be blamed on the seasonal increase in supplies—the increased number of animals going to market, particularly the quantity of hogs. Consumer resistance was credited, with other factors, for the retail drop.

UNION DEMANDS 'FULL FACTS'

Thorough Probe Of Lobbying In Congress Gets HST's Approval

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—President Truman gave his blessing today to a proposed "thorough investigation" on lobbying in Congress.

He said it would "have a very salutary effect." He complimented the International Association of Machinists for suggesting it.

The union, an independent, charged in a resolution that "high-powered lobbying activities" had confused the 80th Congress and that an assault is being prepared on Mr. Truman's legislative program in the 81st.

Mr. Truman himself has struck out repeatedly in statements against "special interest lobbies." During the election campaign, he referred to the 80th Congress as "the puppet of big business, the puppet of special lobbies—the real estate lobby, the power lobby, the grain speculators' lobby, and others."

"Congress delivered for the interests that had their lobbyists swarming all over the capital," he said in a campaign speech.

J. McClellan Mishap Victim East Of City

By CHARLES STONE
Avalanche Staff Writer

THE canyon portion of the highway on East Broadway near the entrance to Mackenzie State park added another victim last night to an already long list of fatalities and near fatalities on that dangerous stretch of road.

Jesse McClellan, 44, who lived with a widowed sister, Mrs. Ellaphine Lamb, at 3420 Ave. Q, was killed almost instantly about 6:45 o'clock last night when struck by a car a few yards east of the park entrance. A former barber, he had lived here about four years.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's hospital where he was taken by Bryan McDonald & Son Funeral home ambulance. He had suffered a severe injury to the back of the head and a broken left leg.

Returning From Farm

McClellan, acording to information given newsmen by his sister, was believed to have been returning to Lubbock from a farm about a mile and one-half out on the Idalou highway where he had been employed during the past week. He had mentioned leaving his suitcase and a small amount of clothing there when he returned home on Saturday, she said. He left the house about 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, she indicated.

He was walking toward town on the left shoulder of the highway, and apparently ran diagonally across the road into the path of a car which was also coming into town.

Billy Roy Springer, 22, of 502 Ave. N, driver of the 1938 Ford coupe which struck McClellan, said that he was driving with his headlights dimmed and saw the man just as he dashed across the highway. Springer, according to his statement to investigating highway patrolmen, swerved to the left in an attempt to avoid hitting the man, but struck him with the right front fender.

Body Thrown Off Road

McClellan's body, investigation revealed, had been carried about 25 yards west by the impact and was found off the highway on the asphalt road which enters the park. Parts of the suitcase and clothing which he had been carrying were scattered along the entire distance, and splotches of

Former Lubbock Man Is Killed

Lee C. Harrison, 52, former Lubbock resident who moved to Dallas two or three years ago to supervise his extensive oil operations, was killed in the collision of a taxicab and an automobile at a downtown Austin street intersection Tuesday morning.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Harrison residence in Dallas. The body was taken to George A. Brewer funeral home of Dallas Tuesday afternoon.

Lubbock friends indicated Tuesday night that burial possibly will be at Jayton, Harrison's former home, where his father still lives.

A widely known independent oil operator who had amassed holdings in nearly all parts of the state, Harrison and his attorney, Ross Bohannon, also of Dallas, had left Dallas by plane a short time earlier on a business trip to the state capital.

With Harrison and Bohannon in the cab, en route from the airport into the city, was Harry Logan, 41, Fort Worth attorney. The cab and an automobile driven by O. S. Blevins, University of Texas student from Dublin, were in collision at a busy intersection, throwing Harrison from the cab. His head struck the curb, causing his death, according to a press dispatch which quoted Austin police.

AMERICANS REMAIN WELL FED

U.S. Exports Record Amount Of Food To Hungry Nations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The United States shared a record amount of its food with other countries during the past crop year and still fed itself better than before the war.

So reported the Agriculture department today in a review of this country's efforts to help feed the hungry world.

Exports during the crop year ended last July 1 totaled 19,347,000 long tons. This is the largest quantity of food ever shipped by any country in a single year. It topped American exports of the previous crop year by 187,000 tons.

Even after sharing this record supply, Americans had 14 per cent more to eat than in the 1935-39 period.

Grains, including rice, made up about 81 per cent of the export tonnage. Wheat and wheat products represented about 67 per cent of the grain shipments.

On a quantity basis, Americans took 84.7 per cent of the country's food supply. For some commodities, U. S. civilians consumed practically all of the supplies. Meat was an outstanding example. Exports of meat were about 1.1 per cent of the supply.

Most of the exported food went to countries receiving aid under the European recovery program. They got 65 per cent, other European countries 1.4 per cent, far eastern countries 16.4, Latin America 9.5, Canada 4.1 and other areas 3.6.

The British-American zones of Germany received more American food than any other country.

Australia has asked Britain to put three more immigrant trips on the Australia run.

U.S. Jury Returns Instructed Verdict For Insurance Firms

A jury in U. S. District court Tuesday afternoon returned an instructed verdict for two insurance companies, the Maryland Casualty company and the Service Mutual Insurance company in a cross action suit for workmen's compensation brought by Jessie Lee Sneed et al.

Maryland Casualty company, compensation carrier for the Texas company, and Service Mutual Insurance company, carrier for W. B. Price, local Texas company agent, had brought suit to set aside an award of the Industrial Accident Board of Texas as the result of the burning to death of Wesley Sneed, a negro employe of W. F. STATE OWNERSHIP OF TIDELANDS IS URGED

42 State Attorneys General Adopt Resolutions Scoring Federal Control Growth At Conference

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Nov. 30.—Forty-two state attorneys general today adopted resolutions 'criticizing growth of federal control and approving expansion of interstate cooperative activities.

The annual conference of the National Association of Attorneys General called upon Congress to recognize state ownership of submerged lands and approve interstate compacts initiated without federal financial assistance supervision and control.

A proposal for establishment of a Washington legal office to study and interpret legislation and court decisions facilitating federal encroachment upon states rights was referred to the association executive committee for action.

State Ownership Urged

The submerged lands resolution also expressed vigorous opposition to "agreements between private oil interests and the Department of Justice and Interior under which these interests would be relieved of accounting for past oil runs and have present state leases converted to federal leases."

Legislation recognizes state ownership, the resolution read, should be subject only to the paramount rights of the federal government in a national emergency, in commerce and in national defense.

It recognized the "right of the federal government to take any of such property necessary for national defense by priority purchase or due process of law."

Attorney General J. E. Taylor of Missouri registered the only opposition vote to the submerged lands action.

Minnesotan Named Head

Robert F. Smylie, new Idaho attorney general, asked to be listed as present but not voting, explaining that "I have an open mind on the subject in keeping with my state's position on the matter."

Hall Hammond, attorney general of Maryland, was named chairman of a seven member committee to handle the association's fight for state ownership.

J. A. A. Burnquist, attorney general and former governor of Minnesota, was named association president, succeeding J. Tom Watson of Florida.

John Daniel, chief legal officer of South Carolina since 1926, was unanimously elected president emeritus, his term to continue as long as he remains a member of the association.

New directors at large include Attorneys General Harry McMullan of North Carolina, Fred Howser of California, Ralph W. Farris of Maine and Roy H. Beeler of Tennessee.

Serving with Hammond on the submerged lands committee will be Price Daniel of Texas, vice chairman, Howser, Bolivar Kemp of Louisiana, Edward F. Arn of Kansas, George Neuner of Oregon and A. E. Funk of Kentucky.

Other resolutions adopted called for continuance of cooperation with the council of state governments on efforts to eliminate conflicts in state and federal statutes relating to labor unions and their activities.

The states of Georgia, Nevada, Texas and North Carolina, only states not now participating, were urged to adopt enabling legislation and ratify the interstate parole and probation compact.

Group Is Named To Study Election Laws

AUSTIN, Nov. 30. (AP) — Gov. Beauford H. Jester today named an 11-member committee to collect and compile data on needed changes in Texas' election laws.

Simultaneously, he called the committee to meet here Dec. 8 to organize and plan its work.

Named to the committee were Lieut. Gov. Allan Shivers, Attorney General Price Daniel, Speaker of the House W. O. Reed, Secretary of State Paul Brown, J. M. Patterson Sr. of Austin, John Ben Shepperd of Gladewater, Judge E. C. Grindstaff of Ballinger, H. Grady Chandler of Austin, Vann M. Kennedy of Corpus Christi, Mrs. William Y. Penn of Midland and W. A. (Bill) Smith of Houston.

The committee will be asked to report to the governor, who will pass on to the legislature a digest of its findings.

Earlier today Gov. Jester said he was still studying the question of a special session of the legislature.

Lea County Hereford Group Set Price Record At Sale

LOVINGTON, N.M., Nov. 30. (AP)—A new high price of $4,500 was set yesterday in the ninth annual sale of the Lea county Hereford Breeders association.

Homer Glover of Roswell paid that amount for Compact Conqueror, junior sire owned by Royce and Joel Burns of Lovington.

Steel Concerns Face U.S. Suit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (U.P.)—The government today charged the Republic Steel Corp., 19 other steel manufacturers and a trade association with trying to restrain competition in the manufacture and sale of sheet metal and sewer pipe.

The Justice department made the charge in a civil anti-trust suit filed in federal court at Cleveland, O. The action was announced by the department here.

The government's complaint charged that the 20 pipe manufacturers divided up the country among themselves and that each specifically had defined geographical areas for selling the pipe.

Held Exclusive Rights

It said Republic had the exclusive right to sell in Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia and in all foreign countries.

The government said the Toncan Culvert Manufacturers association enforced these "exclusive sale" agreements.

The complaint asked the court to dissolve the association and to force the 20 manufacturers to abandon these agreements.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark said government agencies and municipalities are the chief purchasers of this sewer pipe. He said it is the policy of the government to aid all these agencies by eliminating any trade restraints on items which they purchase in large quantities.

Assistant attorney general Herbert A. Bergson, head of the anti-trust division, said "our municipalities and other purchasers have a right to the advantages of a free competitive market."

Besides the association and Republic, other defendants included: The Bordman Co., Oklahoma City, Okla.; Central Culvert Corp., Alexandria, La.; the Eaton Metal Products Corp., Omaha, Neb.; the M. & M. Hiway Materials Co., Columbia, Mo.; and the Wyatt Metal & Boiler Works, Dallas, Tex.

World-Wide Demand For Texas Cotton Forecast By Trotter

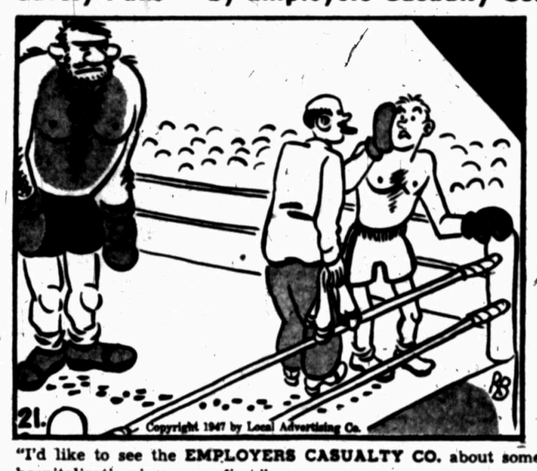

HOUSTON, Nov. 30. (U.P.)—World-wide demand for Texas cotton was predicted by Dr. Ide P. Trotter, one of the nation's leading authorities on cotton.

Dr. Trotter, director of the extension service at Texas A. & M. college, said new textile mills the world over would soon reinstate the demand for the Texas crops, which he added was suffering presently from the lack of normalcy in Japanese and Chinese consumer markets.

Largely influential on Far East markets, said Dr. Trotter, was the spiritual war between the Hindus and the Moslems.

"Cotton formerly was grown in the area now Pakistan, and the mills that processed it largely were in Hindu India," he said. "But the Hindus prefer to buy their cotton from us rather than from their neighbors, the Moslems of Pakistan."

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

YOU should have been in Lamesa Tuesday for the colorful style show staged under supervision of the '48 Delphian club and with fashions modeled by twelve attractive young women, who set the styles off to good advantage, having the figures and faces to do so.

As Mrs. G. B. Wadzyck, club president, pointed out to us, an affair such as that is a lot of work and most of the committees go unrewarded because they do their work before the company arrives and continue when everyone else has gone. But the presentation went off without a bobble and the women who crowded the Delphian club house seemed so pleased, we have an idea the club will sponsor other style shows.

WITH a perfect Harvest day outside, one had a strange feeling at first on seeing the Christmas decorations, but after the styles had been modeled, with suggestions by Mrs. J. H. Harp that they would fit perfectly into ones plans for the holiday season, we got the Christmas spirit.

The four-piece orchestra furnished a Christmas background, with Richard Crawley's beautiful trumpet tones casting their spell.

If you haven't a poinsettia plant, perhaps you'd like to fake one, similar to two "plants" we noticed on the mantel. Take magnolia leaves, dye several red, arrange them with the green and presto there is your plant and only the closest scrutiny will reveal that it is not the genuine flower.

ON our drive home we thought of how hospitable Lamesa women are and we were struck with the idea that it would be nice if we could have inter-city projects and Lubbock and Lamesa women would become better acquainted.

The Lamesa women have done one thing we haven't accomplished. They have proof that a clubhouse can become a reality.

Please don't misunderstand us. We have no criticism to make of Lubbock women who have tried for so many years to make our clubhouse dream a reality. They are our friends; we have served on the board of directors and know first hand of the disappointments that have met every attempt to build a clubhouse here.

We are just saying that if enough women have the courage to take the plunge and get a building started, some how, some way, it seems to materialize.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Margaret Turner:

Here is something very interesting to me and I thought perhaps there are readers of your column who would be interested and would take my hobby as theirs.

Having been born and reared in Lubbock, I'd never seen even the commonest birds casually mentioned in things I'd read, except sparrows, of course. Then a few years ago I'd get an occasional glimpse of a robin or blue jay. About four years ago I put a bird bath in my back yard to attract them. Nothing happened at first, but during migration in the spring and fall I was surprised at the different visitors.

Right now there are twelve robins, two flickers, four juncos, two blue jays and a mocking bird who wait around every morning until I break the ice and fill the bath. They even bathe in the chunks of ice. It was a surprise to learn birds bathe more in winter than in summer.

Yes, like Mr. Wimple, I have a bird book or I'd never have known what they are.

A Reader.

The orchestra stand was decorated to resemble a large sleigh, drawn by life size toy reindeer.

Participating firms were Vogue Dress shop, Baldwins Department store, Garland-Campbell Dress shop and Collins Dry goods.

Flowers were through courtesy of the Lamesa Floral company and Roberts flowers. A suggested table arrangement for the holiday season was arranged by Barfoot jewelry.

Today's Town Talk

IN answer to the questions about "what's doing in Chicago," this columnist, Oleta Stewart, who has just returned from a week in the windy city, has recorded a reportorial precis of entertainment and fashion notes.

Current tops at Chicago theaters include: "High Button Shoes" starring Eddie Foy, jr., classified as "a thumping hit" which is setting audiences howling for the 29th week. In its 13th week run, "Mister Roberts" with Richard Carlson in the lead is still a smashing success telling about life aboard a naval vessel in the South Pacific and the diversions sought by its crew.

Tennessee William's Pulitzer Prize and Critic's Circle Award winning play, "A Streetcar Named Desire," featuring Uta Hagen, Anthony Quinn and Mary Welch, is in its 11th week of city-wide acclaim and has as its theme decadence and tragedy in New Orleans.

"Brigadoon," plugged by the stagebills as "a colorful Scottish-flavored musical direct from two years on Broadway," is running for the ninth week in Chicago. It is a critic's prize musical with David Brooks, Priscilla Gillette and Pamela Britton playing the leads.

Basil Rathbone, Beatrice Straight and Patricia Collinge star in "The Heiress," a dramatization of Henry James's novel, "Washington Square," which tells about a jilted heiress. The hit has chalked up its sixth week for Chicago showings. "Command Decision," a hard-hitting drama about Army red tape and an officer's responsibility, is running for the third week with an all-male cast headed by Paul Kelly.

Opening in the smoky city last week was "Medea," Robinson Jeffers' adaptation of Euripides's tragedy, billed as "played to the hilt by Judith Anderson."

Christmas comes early in Chicago, for the day after Thanksgiving carols started ringing out from church steeples and from penthouse broadcasting points. Shoppers already have the holiday spirit which is heightened by the effect of silver reindeer harnessed by gold foil strands racing the length of State street.

Holly and mistletoe have already put in an appearance in the florist shops, and giant mobile Santa Clauses in the store windows seem alive with jollity and good will in spite of their papier mache, cotton and paint composition. Colored spotlights playing on church steeples lend an impressive and mystical beauty to them, and songs about the birth of Christ can be heard softly drifting out onto traffic filled streets from downtown missions.

Brightly wrapped packages stretch the capacity of already full "l's" and subway trains, and "early celebraters" call a happy early "Merry Christmas" to Salvation Army Santas and drop into his cup the coins they had intended to use for further refreshment.

There is a noticeable absence of extreme "new look" lengths in daytime street clothes seen in Chicago, but when the 3:30 p. m. darkness drops over the city, skirt hems follow suit and descend also to an average of 10 or 11 inches from the floor. Dipping hems and draped lines are nightclub dancing favorites, and for theater wear and the cocktail hour hats ornamented with feather fronds and plumes of every variety are unparalleled in popularity.

What the well-dressed office is wearing this season is typified by the private domain of George W. Colburn, head of the Colburn movie studios in Chicago.

The executive drew up all of the plans for the recently finished office himself, and it seems unusual that the designer of technical mechanical apparatuses connected with the film industry could also dream up a room which is both handsomely masculine and pleasing to a feminine lover of frivolity.

Deep-piled carpeting is the foundation for the light oak furnishings. The office's most imposing piece of furniture is a modernly curved desk which is elongated at its right extremity to form a dual-purpose conference and seminar table, which is surrounded by gracefully shaped oak chairs. Before Mr. Colburn's chair is a hidden drawing board (in matching oak) which lifts immediately to receive the sketches of another mechanical brain child which may revolutionize the movie making industry.

Running the width of the room behind his desk is a closed bookcase and cabinet with a built in radio set easily within his reach. Above is a projection screen for Mr. Colburn's private showings of movies produced by his company, and this can be viewed in comfort from the other end of the room, where a cinnamon brown upholstered lounge curves gracefully around a low oaken coffee table.

Green and brown-tone patterned drapes can be drawn back from a wall of transluscent glass, which lets in a glow of daylight but shuts out a view of the darkly commercial river which flows beyond. Crisp emerald green ivy growing in a window box several yards long adds a touch of the out-of-doors to the indoor industry.

This is one of the few places in Chicago where the smoke and grime of big city life have not penetrated, and the office has a combined atmosphere of California's modern design, Texas' light and roominess, and Florida's holiday freedom.

Area Men To Attend Road Patrol School

A number of men from Lubbock and surrounding area will participate in the fourth recruit training school of the Texas Highway Patrol, which is to start in Austin today, according to an announcement by Col. Homer Garrison, jr., director of the Department of Public Safety.

Students in attendance include James H. Grissom, Lubbock; Chris Haskins, jr., Lamesa; Clyde R. Payne, Lubbock; and Clarence Williams, Dimmitt.

Col. Garrison also announced that one more recruit school will be held for approximately 20 or more men, beginning about April 1, and examinations for these positions will be given in February at district Highway patrol offices at Austin, Abilene, Uvalde, Tyler, and Fort Worth. Patrolmen for this final school will be chosen at the above places and later will be sent to Austin for training.

Qualifications for these recruit patrolmen positions are: age, between 21 and 35 years; height, a minimum of 5' 8", without shoes; weight, not less than two pounds per inch of height nor more than three and one-half. Applicants must be of excellent moral character; must be physically able to pass the rigid examination; must have a high school education or the equivalent; and must have been a resident of the state of Texas for one year or longer.

Accused Colorado Slayer Is Granted Extension By Court

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 30. (INS)—Joe Sam Walker, 39, was granted a three-week extension today when arraigned in Boulder district court for the rape-slaying of Theresa Catherine Foster, 18-year-old Colorado university co-ed.

Walker asked Judge Claud C. Coffin for the time in order to hire a lawyer and get his affairs straightened out before entering a plea. Judge Coffin delayed the arraignment until Dec. 27.

The defendant trembled as he stood up to hear the charge read.

Ruidoso Lions And Jaycee Leader On Club Program Here

A brief period of entertainment by members of the Ruidoso Lions club, and a talk on proposed Texas prison reforms, by L. D. Whiteley, Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce member who is vice president of the state Jaycee organization, featured the luncheon session of the Lions club Tuesday at the Hilton hotel.

Whiteley, who with others of the Jaycee organization has made personal investigation of what he called pitiful conditions in the state's prison system, made an appeal for general public support of the Ellis plan of reform when the matter comes up for legislative attention in January.

He said the program, which will provide a measure of segregation of prisoners, would cost approximately $4,500,000, but would go far toward relieving a revolting situation.

He charged that the system now is a breeder of criminals, that "if a person is not a criminal when he enters, he will be one when he comes out."

Among the Ruidoso visitors were Lloyd P. Bloodworth, a candidate for governor of New Mexico at the last election, and Carmen Phillips, president of the chamber of commerce. They presented a "hick" skit "Toby Comes to Town."

Others from there included N. K. Robb, L. L. Butler, W. A. Hart, Dr. Horton, and Albert Vaughn.

Representatives of the Business and Professional Women's clubs announced the club's carnival to be held at the Cotton club Dec. 7, urging large attendance.

John Hudspeth was program chairman. Club President Wayne Henly was in the chair, with invocation by Dr. J. Ralph Grant.

Henly announced that the club's Jubilee Minstrels will be presented at Ruidoso the night of April 23, and that a second New Mexico engagement may be arranged at Roswell the previous night.

Turkey expects to gather 25,000 pounds of sponges in its seas this year.

Iowa, Indiana Win Top Honors At International Stock Show

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—Iowa and Indiana today won agriculture's most glittering crowns, when their entries were named grand champion steer and grand champion barrow at the 49th International Livestock exposition.

A black Angus owned by C. E. Yoder and Sons of Muscatine, Iowa, won the coveted title of cattledom: "Grand champion steer."

A sleek, pinkskinned, Chester White from the Tip Top farms of Flora, Ind., was selected as grand champion barrow.

The 1,200-pound animal, "Old Gold," owned by C. E. Yoder and Sons, Muscatine, Ia., was proclaimed the finest of more than 400 beeves in competition. A. D. Weber, of Kansas State college, Manhatten, was the judge.

Texas Hereford High

The reserve grand champion, a Hereford named "Texo," was shown by the Pecos county 4-H club of Fort Stockton, Tex.

"Old Gold" was selected for the top title as the best of four animals which reached the finals. These included two Angus and two Herefords. The shorthorn breed, from which last year's grand champion was chosen, failed to reach the finals.

Robert Schmidt, the 18-year-old Delmar, Ia., boy who won the junior grand championship, advanced steadily toward the finals today, but finally lost his chance at the top title when his Angus steer, "Black Boy," was defeated in his age class.

Schmidt suffered a disappointment when a misunderstanding occurred between Weber, the chief steer judge, and Col. E. M. Wentworth, exposition ring master, during the semi-final judging.

Weber selected the champion of the Angus breed and indicated his choice to Wentworth. The latter handed the purple ribbon, indicative of breed champion, to young Schmidt as the crowd cheered widely for the happy youngster.

Schmidt' exuberance was dashed, however, a moment later, as Weber detected the mistake and ordered Wentworth to give the championship ribbon to Yoder. Schmidt was awarded the reserve championship, but his loss prevented him from reaching the finals.

Glenn Mommsen, the 20-year-old 4-H club member from Miles, Ia., whose Angus steer won the reserve junior grand championship, by-passed Schmidt and reached the final when his animal was adjudged champion senior calf.

Other major cattle awards today included:

Champion summer yearling steer: Pecos county 4-H club, Fort Stockton, Tex., on the reserve grand champion. Roy R. Largent and sons, Merkel, Tex., won the reserve championship with a Hereford.

Body Of Lubbock Veteran Is Reported On Way Home

Mrs. Nellie G. Bray, of 805 Avenue S, has been advised by the Department of the Army that the remains of her son, Sgt. Bruce Bray, who died in a prisoner of war camp in Burma in September of 1943, currently are en route to the United States for reburial.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed. Services probably will be held in about four weeks.

Sgt. Bray, a member of the National Guard "Lost Battalion," was captured by the Japanese in Java on March 9, 1942, less than four months after his departure from the United States. He died in a prison camp in the jungles of Burma, where his body was buried. Later his remains were reinterred in an American cemetery in Barrackspore, India, from where they were recently sent to the United States.

Sgt. Bray, born in Sweetwater, attended Lubbock public schools, and was graduated from Lubbock High school in 1936. He attended Texas Technological college in 1936 and 1937 as an engineering student.

Experimental Crop Insurance Again Is Scheduled In County

Lubbock county has again been selected as the West Texas county in which the experimental cotton crop insurance program will be offered in 1949, it was announced Tuesday by Walter Y. Wells, secretary of the county Agricultural Conservation association (ACA).

Chosen as the only county in the area, and one of the few in the state for the experimental program, farmers in the county will have an opportunity to participate in a beltwide effort to arrive at a plan for solution of the cotton production insurance problem.

Under the program, the Federal Crop Insurance corporation, a government agency, guarantees a cotton producer to at least make expenses of a cotton crop. The insurance takes effect at the time cotton is planted, and expires when the lint cotton is moved from the field.

Coverage Stated

Wells said the insurance covers all unavoidable causes of loss, such as drouth, flood, hail, wind, frost, winter kill, tornado, lightning, fire, excessive rain, snow, wild life, hurricane, insect infestation, and plant diseases.

It is available to any cotton producer in this county, on the 1949 crop. It may be paid for in cash at the time of application, which allows a five per cent discount, or by signing a note for the premium. The note may be paid any time before Dec. 31, 1949, without interest. The insurance contract may be used as loan collateral or for purchase of equipment, Wells said.

There has been developed a chemically-treated cloth that is said to eliminate fogging of automobile windshields as well as steaming of bathroom mirrors and kitchen windows.

Election Of Soil Committeeman Set

Community committeemen who will assist for next year in administering the soil practices program of the Agricultural Conservation committee (ACA) in Lubbock county, are to be elected at various polling places throughout the county on Dec. 11, it was announced Tuesday by R. C. Pace, chairman of the county committee.

All farmers and their wives are eligible to vote, the only restriction being that they must vote in the community in which their farm is located. Pace said ballots have been mailed to all farmers in each community, and on each ballot two farmers have been nominated for each of the five posts to be voted on.

The posts are chairman, vice chairman, regular member, first alternate and second alternate. Also to be elected are the delegate and alternate delegate to the county convention.

Votes may be cast by mailing the marked ballots to the county office here, by calling at the county office any time before Dec. 11, or by going to polling places on Dec. 11 and voting there.

Voting boxes will be in Hardy, Monroe (New Deal), Becton, Roosevelt, Wolfforth and Cooper school houses; at Shallowater club house, Lubbock courthouse, Idalou city hall, Hurlwood gin, and Slaton city hall.

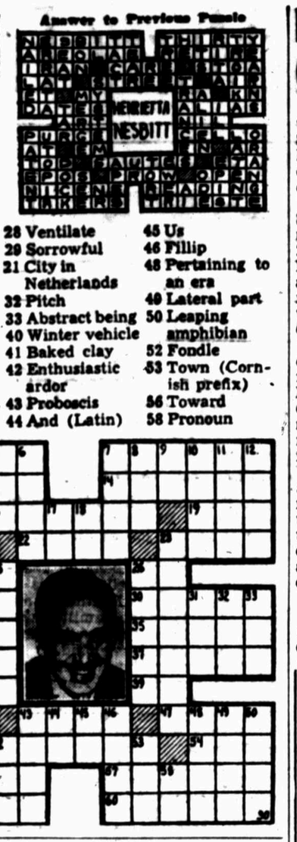

The community committeemen, all of whom serve without pay, as do members of the recently selected county committee, help administer the ACA program, recommend new practices to be carried out, explain the crop insurance program, and generally facilitate workings of the program designed to conserve soil and increase soil fertility and crop production.

New Spudnut Shop Is Opened In Lubbock

Opening of a Lubbock unit of the rapidly growing system of Spudnut Shops at 107B North College avenue was announced Tuesday by Harold A. Bodley, owner-operator.

It is the first Lubbock Spudnut Shop in the coast-to-coast system now in 30 states and in more than 200 cities throughout the U. S. Each shop is individually owned and operated under an exclusive franchise arrangement with Pelton's Spudnuts, Inc., of Salt Lake City, Utah.

"An outstanding feature of our opening day will be the serving of free Spudnuts from 4 to 7 p.m.," Bodley said. "We would like everyone in Lubbock to try Spudnuts, for we know they're due for a new and exciting taste thrill for every member of the family."

Bodley explained that Spudnuts are made of a special blend of finest wheat flour, dehydrated potatoes; from which the name is taken; milk solids, whole fresh eggs and other vital ingredients—all mixed and blended to the secret Pelton process.

Australia has a shortage of soft drink bottles causing many drinkers to go thirsty.

Engineers Complain Gadgets On Engines Give Them Colds

MARSHALL, Nov. 30. (AP)—Better no colds than a slick appearance, say engineers of Texas & Pacific's trains operating in Louisiana.

The story of how it became necessary to remove part of the ornamentation from some of the T&P's locomotives came out today.

In order to dress up the engines "sideboards" had been attached on each side, with idea of giving a "streamlined" appearance. The name of the train, the Eagle, was written on each side.

Engineers had no objections to the gee-gaws, but they didn't like the way the sideboards scooped air into the cabs. Gave 'em colds, they complained.

Plans to add the sideboards to other locomotives were scrapped, and those already installed are being removed.

Legion Post At Brownfield Is Ranked Eighth In Texas

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 30. (Spl)—With 360 active members, Howard-Henson Post No. 269 of the American Legion ranks eighth in membership among the ten largest posts in Texas, according to C. L. Lincoln of Brownfield, Fifth Division membership chairman.

The local Legion post is surpassed in membership only by posts at Houston, Tyler, San Antonio, Lubbock, Port Arthur, Texarkana and Dallas.

The post's 1949 membership quota is 689 and a campaign is under way to attain that goal. "Each member get a member" has been adopted as a slogan by leaders of the drive.

Texas Tech Cagers Swamp McMurry Five, 63-39

Barton And Gibson Pace Raiders To Easy Win In Opening Tussle

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Writer

Texas Tech's basketball team made its 1948-1949 debut last night in the Tech gym, turning in an easy 63-39 victory over a McMurry College quintet that couldn't match the Red Raiders in speed or finesse.

It wasn't an impressive victory and the Raiders appeared sluggish a good part of the time. Their passing wasn't bad, but their timing was off and Coach Polk Robison has a lot of work remaining to do.

On the whole, for the first game of the year, the Raiders showed flashes of promise. They carried the fight to the Indians and set such a fast pace that the Abilene visitors could not keep up. Tech was passing the ball more rapidly and confusing the visitors with the speed of the attack, which shook players into the open for layups or short set shots.

Stocky Ardis Barton, playing his guard post with the same ability he showed last year, gained scoring honors for the night with 15 points on seven field goals and a charity toss. Forward Gene Gibson, the Raiders' ballhawk, racked up 13 points on six field buckets and a free toss, while Forward Dick Richey of Lebanon, Ind., had 11 points to lead the Indians.

Barton and Gibson were the two outstanding men for Tech last night, not because of their shooting prowess, but also because of the way they handled themselves on the court. They played good defensive ball, hawked the ball and passed repeatedly to set up scores.

Center Don Grove, not in his accustomed sharp eye, still turned in a consistent floor game and received able help from Guard Wimpy Hill.

Grove Tallies First

Tech opened slowly last night, with Richey posting the first two points of the game on free throws made at Gibson's expense. Center Don Loyd followed with a layup to run the score to 4-0 and Richey counted again to shoot the Indians in to a 6-0 advantage.

Grove chalked up Tech's first point with a free throw after almost three minutes of play and Barton followed with a set shot that dropped the count to 6-3. Barton caged another one-hand set and dropped a charity throw through the hoop to tie the score with four and a half minutes gone.

Wayne Bowles sank a set shot to send the Raiders into an 8-6 lead 04:45, but Duane Hendley tied it up at five minutes. Bowles again swung the mesh with a set shot to send the Raiders into a 10-8 lead and the score never was tied after that.

Tech gradually drew away from the Indians after that and shot into a 35-19 lead at the half. After the intermission, the Raiders had a 52-24 margin at one point. Coach Robison pulled most of his regulars and had reserves playing for the remaining portion of the last half.

Top Job Offered To Navy Captain

Hamilton May Direct Pitt Athletic Setup

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 30. (INS)—Husky Tom Hamilton, one of the U. S. Naval Academy's all-time gridiron greats, seems headed today toward "operation football" at the University of Pittsburgh.

Capt. Hamilton, now athletic director at Annapolis, said he will fly to the smoky city this week to confer with Panther officials on their offer of a job as director of athletics at Pitt.

The Pitt people, bent on rehabilitating the football fortunes of the once mighty Panthers, announced earlier that Hamilton was the No. 1 choice for the job and would receive a formal bid.

Before going into conference with his superiors at Annapolis, Hamilton said he would fly to Pittsburgh Thursday or Friday to talk turkey with the victory-hungry Pittmen.

The rugged naval captain saw his first season as academy athletic director wind up spectacularly at Philadelphia last Saturday when the Middies, woeful and winless underdogs, outplayed and tied mighty, undefeated Army, 21-21.

Hamilton, who had coached Navy football teams in 1934, 1935, and 1936, scoring two victories over Army during that tour of duty, returned to the Academy as head coach in 1946.

Hamilton bowed out as coach the following year, but became athletic director and was instrumental in effecting the change of policy which installed George Sauer of Kansas as a civilian coach.

Job Open Since July

Navy's inspiring play last Saturday gave Hamilton, by his own testimony, one of the happiest days of his life.

Oddly, the score was the same as in Hamilton's last game as a player, the 1926 Army-Navy thriller at Chicago. Star halfback and dropkicker on the '26 team, Hamilton kicked the three points which enabled the Navy to hold a great West Point outfit even.

The Pittsburgh job became available last July 1 when James (Whitey) Hagan resigned under pressure, with his monthly paychecks continuing for a year to the end of his contract.

New Schedule In 4-A Is Planned

LEVELLAND, Nov. 30. (Special)—Football competition in District 4-A in 1949 will be conducted on a "single unit" schedule, instead of the north and south brackets set up this season, according to plans made here tonight at a meeting of the District 4-A executive committee.

The representatives of the 11 loop schools decided that each school will play a full schedule of 10 conference games next seasor., but the exact game slate will not be drawn up until a meeting which will be held in January.

Schools Voted In

Teams which are slated to compete in 4-A next season include Slaton, O'Donnell, Post, Tahoka, Seagraves, Littlefield, Sundown, Sudan, Muleshoe, Levelland and Morton. Seagraves, Sundown and Sudan do not have the minimum enrollment to compete in Class A, but the three schools were voted in—at their request—by the other district members.

Representatives from all of the schools except Tahoka and Muleshoe attended the meeting at Levelland High school.

Texas Quail Season Opens This Morning

The Texas quail hunting season will open a half hour before sunrise this morning and will continue daily until a half hour after sunset each night through Jan. 16.

The open season in both zones is during this period, but in the local zone Borden and Terry counties will be closed. The daily bag is 12 a day, or 36 birds a week.

For further information on quail, hunters should inquire at any sporting goods store or ask any game warden.

Anton Basketball Teams Score Three Triumphs Over Olton

ANTON, Nov. 30. (Special) — Anton High school basketball teams turned in three victories over Olton here tonight. The boys won 36-16, the B squad won 16-10 and the girls won 47-9.

In the varsity game, Billy Ray Glascock was high point man with 15 tallies, with Forward Franks four for the losers. In the B squad game, Richard Motl paced Anton with seven points, while Forward White had three for Olton. Brown had 13 points for the Anton girls, while Scott and Bradley each had 12. And Sides scored three to lead the losers.

Anton's next game is Friday night at Smyer.

WEDDING IS SLATED

DALLAS, Nov. 30. (U.P.) — Dick McKissack, Southern Methodist fullback, and Barbara Jean Hirschfield of Dallas will be married Saturday at Highland Park Methodist church, just off the SMU campus, with teammate John Basham reading the wedding ritual.

Pro Golfers To Open Meet Today

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 — The pro golfers have been swinging along in close harmony the last few months, but whether this "Sweet Adeline" front hides any feudin' and fussin' will become known in the next couple of days.

Their association opens its annual meeting at Dunedin, Fla., tomorrow, with election of officers on the docket.

Last year expected fireworks over the presidency were doused before the meeting even started because of a poison-pen postcard campaign rapping prexy Ed Dudley and his administration. Dudley was returned to office without a whisper of opposition, the expected drive of Horton Smith supporters failing to materialize. Smith had nothing to do with the unsavory postcards.

Opposition Is Seen

Dudley has been president of the P.G.A. for seven years, but opposition to another term appeared certain this time as the Michigan section has instructed its delegates to back Smith, and it is reported other sections have done likewise.

In 1936 Dudley succeeded Smith as tournament chairman. Last year Smith said only that he would serve as president if elected. This year he is reported to be definitely running for the office.

The tournament bureau is due to come in for discussion, inasmuch as this division is the showwindow of the organization, and has reached the point where it is big business.

It was organized in the early 1930's, with the late Hal Sharkey the first paid manager. Bob Harlow, and maybe one of two short-term managers, followed Sharkey until 1936, when Fred Corcoran took over and arranged the tours until 1947. The prize money in 1936 was around $100,000, and it grew to more than $500,000 in the next 10 years. This year it will reach a peak.

After Corcoran was relieved of his duties and appointed promotional director, the tour was under the direction of George Schneiter, who appointed as an assisting committee a half-dozen playing pros, including Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Ellsworth Vines, Jimmy Thomson, Lloyd Mangrum and Sam Snead.

Last February in a big blowup at Harlingen, Tex., the committee resigned and Dudley authorized Schneiter to continue as chairman, working with Joe Novak, currently secretary of the association, and Bill Wotherspoon, with Schneiter receiving $15,000 a year for his expenses in making the tour.

Shallowater Cagers Beat Wellman Twice

SHALLOWATER, Nov. 30. (Special)—Boys and girls basketball teams from Shallowater High school turned in victories over Wellman here tonight, the girls winning 29-13 and the boys by 42-28.

Clydene Whittaker paced the Shallowater girls with nine points, but was forced to share honors with Louise McBeth of Wellman, who had the same number.

Capt. Derrell Murphy caged 21 points in leading his Mustang courtmen to victory, while playing a fine game at center. Jack Hyman led the visitors with eight points.

Shallowater will have both teams on the court Thursday night, when they play host to teams from Frenship.

Miami Officials To Rule Today On Bid To Odessa's Basin Bowl

OXFORD, O., Nov. 30. (AP)—A decision as to whether Miami university's football team will play in the Basin bowl at Odessa, Tex., was delayed again today for another 24 hours.

The players took a vote on whether they even want to play but Coach George Blackburn declined to disclose the result, saying it still is the responsibility of the university on acceptance or rejection of a bid to meet Hardin-Simmons in the Basin bowl.

He said the vote of the squad members will be transmitted tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Blackburn said, officials of the Basin bowl have agreed to keep the bid open. He said he had told them an answer will be forthcoming tomorrow.

Oregon University Gridders May Hold Workouts At Mineral Wells

MINERAL WELLS, Nov. 30. (AP)—Negotiations are under way for the University of Oregon football team to train in Mineral Wells the final ten days before its appearance in the Cotton Bowl against Southern Methodist, it was learned today.

Mineral Wells, a resort center in rolling hill country, is about 80 miles west of Dallas, site of the New Year's day classic.

It has an excellent football field and ample hotel accommodations and would afford the Oregon team a chance to work out in climate comparable to that in Dallas.

Girls' Football Game Scheduled Thursday Night At Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 30. (Special)—And now the powder puff football circuit has extended to this South Plains city.

The "Gravel Gerties" and the "Cub-ettes," both members of the Brownfield High school pep squad, will clash in Cub Stadium Thursday night in the first girls' gridiron contest in the city's history. Proceeds will help to defray expenses of the annual football banquet.

'Secret' Grid Draft Is Held

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—From various sources the Associated Press today learned that both the All-America conference and the National Football league have held secret draft meetings in hopes of out-smarting each other in the race for the top players of 1948.

The All-America conference meeting was held in Chicago in mid-summer while the National league meeting was in Pittsburgh three weeks ago, with selection of playoff sites as the announced purpose of the meeting.

So thoroughly did the conference scouts have the collegiate talent throughout the country nailed down that only Stan Heath of Nevada, who came from nowhere to be one of the country's best passers, was overlooked. Since then the New York Yankees have taken it upon themselves to sign Heath. He was drafted by Green Bay in the secret National league session.

Eagles Draw Bednarik

The Philadelphia Eagles drew the draft rights to Charles Bednarik of Pennsylvania, in a bonus draft of the National league. He was picked by Brooklyn in the conference.

Carl Voyles, coach and general manager of the Dodgers, said today he had approached Bednarik and would see him again next week but added that the 1947 all-America center had not been signed.

It is the high bidding between the rival leagues for the drafted players that has brought much woe to both circuits.

Ted Collins, owner of the Boston Yanks of the NFL, recently said he had lost $720,000 in four years, partly due to the high salaries and bonuses that must be paid to lure players.

Lex Thompson of the Philadelphia Eagles toyed with the idea of a peace meeting recently in which a common draft would be instituted.

Meetings Are Scheduled

Each circuit has a formal draft meeting scheduled for later this month, coinciding with their title games.

Some of the top stars reportedly drafted by the all-America clubs are: Lou Kusserow, Columbia, by the Dodgers; Frank Tripuca, Notre Dame quarterback, and Abe Gibson of Purdue, by Buffalo; Alex Sarkisian, Northwestern center by Cleveland; John Rauch, star passer at Georgia, and Pete Elliott of Michigan, by the Yankees; and Guard Bill Fischer and Halfback Terry Brennan of Notre Dame by the Chicago Rockets.

From other sources it was intimated that the Detroit Lions of the National picked Rauch and that Doak Walker of Southern Methodist, who has another year of college eligibility, was chosen by Boston's Yanks. Walker was in the Army during the war and is draft bait under the pro football rule that a player is draftable when his class graduates.

Sugar Bowl, New Orleans, La.—Oklahoma vs. North Carolina.

Orange Bowl, Miami—Texas vs. Georgia.

Cotton Bowl, Dallas, Tex.—Southern Methodist vs. Oregon.

'Gator Bowl, Jacksonville, Fla.—Missouri vs. Clemson.

Dixie Bowl, Birmingham, Ala.—Baylor vs. Wake Forest.

Delta Bowl, Memphis, Tenn.—Oklahoma A. & M. vs. William and Mary.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (INS)—The Thoroughbred Racing Protective bureau, "FBI of the turf," today announced that henceforth it will have direct supervision over track police at Santa Anita and Hollywood park.

Orange Bowl 'Double Header' Is Urged By Irate Miami Grid Fans

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30. (AP)—Possibility of a football "double header" here on New Years was reported in the making today.

A local group—irate over the selection of thrice-beaten Texas to oppose Georgia in the Orange bowl classic—was reported attempting to bring Santa Clara and either Penn State or Tulane here for a game under the lights, a few hours after the Texas-Georgia contest.

The Miami Daily News said that Col. W. A. Scott, a representative of Santa Clara college, contacted the California school from Miami and Athletic Director Dennis A. Heenan acknowledged he had been approached on the subject by a Miamian, but no commitment had been made.

It was not known whether Tulane or Penn State had been similarly approached.

(Trustees of Ladd Memorial stadium at Mobile said that Tulane had rejected an invitation to meet Vanderbilt in a post-season game there Dec. 30.)

A. A. Ungar, in charge of Orange Bowl rental, said he had not been contacted for leasing the stadium New Year's night, but "if I am contacted, I will be very glad to rent it to them," he said.

Meanwhile, reaction to Texas' selection for the 15th annual classic ranged from bitter to "so what."

The concensus, however, seemed to be that the Orange Bowl committee had slipped somewhere along the line and in desperation, had signed Texas. Others saw the match as potentially full of exciting football and still others frankly admitted they didn't care what teams played—they go to see the half-time pageantry.

But to the dyed-in-the-wool fans, there was an aura of disappointment in Texas' selection.

"It is disheartening that with $150,000 to spend for two teams that we have to reach in the bottom of the barrel and take a third-rate eleven as an opponent for Georgia," said Miami Herald Sports Editor Jimmy Burns.

"I'm not too impressed with the selection of Texas," Guy Butler, Daily News sports editor said, "however, it might be a football game with high scoring — and Georgia winning easily."

R. D. Freeman, Orange Bowl chairman, defended the selection:

"Money talks to those big colleges," Freeman said, "that's why the Sugar Bowl was able to grab off North Carolina and Oklahoma.

"I believe that in matching Texas and Georgia, we will have a wide-open, exciting game with lots of scoring."

LEADS LONGHORNS—Billy Pyle, elusive Texas university halfback, will be one of the top scoring threats when the Longhorns tangle with Georgia in the Orange Bowl New Year's day. Pyle was a stellar schoolboy performer with the Wichita Falls Coyotes.

New Deal Girls Top Post In Two Games

NEW DEAL, Nov. 30. (Special)—New Deal High school girls team won a pair of basketball victories last night from Post, the B squad winning 18-17 and the varsity taking a 46-33 win.

Madee Wirth, who took scoring honors with nine points, also pitched in the winning basket in the opening game. Floy Teeter had six points and Patsy Hood had three for the winners.

In the varsity game, Marie Wales racked up 33 points for scoring honors, while Jeanette Stewart had 18 points for the losers. Bobbie Young and LaRuth Faubion scored New Deal's other points and Janie Fluitt and Alice Carr scored the remainder of Fost's points.

Friday night the New Deal teams will play at Hale Center, followed on Dec. 7 by games at Abernathy. The next home games will be against Abernathy on Dec. 10.

Bob Clodfelter paced Sanders with eight points, while Chick Wolfe tallied nine for Brown-Layco. Rigney was led by Jim Smith's 10 points and Carl Johnson scored 14 for Hilton hotel.

WEBFOOTS TO GET $105,000

Oregon's Cotton Bowl Bid Pays More Than Rose Bowl

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30. (U.P.)—Oregon will net approximately $30,000 more from its Cotton Bowl appearance than California's share of Rose Bowl receipts, conference Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt said today.

The Webfoots, passed up for the Rose Bowl, can keep all its 42½ per cent share of the Cotton Bowl gate, but under conference rules California divides its share of the Rose Bowl proceeds with the other nine PCC teams, including Oregon.

Oregon was not asked to share its Cotton Bowl money, Schmidt told the Southern California Football Writers association yesterday.

The question was never raised. The conference felt a special ruling was justified because both California and Oregon were undefeated in conference play and only one could appear in the Rose Bowl.

Based on past figures, Oregon will receive approximately $105,000 from the Cotton Bowl and about $5,000 from the Rose Bowl.

The PCC and Big Nine split evenly the Rose Bowl net proceeds, about $300,000. California will receive half the conference share or about $75,000. The commissioner's office gets $25,000 and the balance is split among the 10 member schools, including California and Oregon.

Northwestern, Big Nine representative, will receive far less than California. That conference divides its pie into 11 shares. The conference commissioner takes one share and the team appearing in the game gets two shares.

This year Northwestern will receive approximately $26,000, raised by additional radio income from Michigan's cut last year of $22,000.

The Tournament of Roses associations pays team transportation, living expenses and rental for the stadium from gross receipts.

Leahy Denies He Plans To Resign

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 (INS)—Frank Leahy tonight denied a report that he was contemplating resigning his job as Notre Dame football coach "in a couple of years."

"I hope to coach football at Notre Dame as long as they'll have me," he said.

His contract still has seven years to run.

Leahy, reached by telephone at his Long Beach, Ind., home, said he had heard of the report which appeared in a Cleveland newspaper and was understood to say he will quit as athletic director at Notre Dame at the end of next season and as football coach "in a couple of years."

The Notre Dame coach said his resignation as athletic director is something he has been contemplating for some time, "because of the tremendous press of duties I now carry in the dual role of athletic director and football coach."

However, the Irish grid pilot, whose teams now have won 21 straight games and gone undefeated in 26, both new Notre Dame records, left no doubt as to his coaching intentions.

Ill health, mentioned in the Cleveland report as the motivating factor behind Leahy's plans, was understood to be no factor at all.

"Frank is always fatigued at the end of a football season," said Edward Krause, assistant athletic director at Notre Dame. "That's all there is to that. He's tired. Any coach would be."

Leahy himself said he was "fatigued" when he talked to a reporter recently and told him, "I don't see how I can last more than a couple of more seasons."

The Irish coach said tonight: "Apparently those words of mine were construed into a statement."

Leahy's personality, often mentioned as the reason some coaches will not play Notre Dame in football, has never worried higher-ups at Notre Dame. They are content to string with him, and are convinced that Notre Dame's schedule troubles are economic rather than personal—when major teams no longer can make money with minor games, they'll come a-running to Notre Dame once more.

SMU's Mustangs Edge Wesleyan Five, 68-65

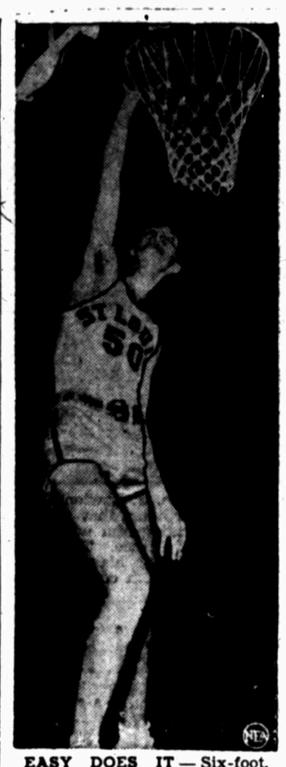

DALLAS, Nov. 30. (AP) — The Southern Methodist university basketeers opened the season at Perkins gym tonight with a thrilling 68 to 65 victory over the Texas Wesleyan college Rams of Fort Worth.

The see-saw, whirlwind battle was tied seven times in the first half and twice in the second. At about the three-quarter mark, the Mustangs rolled up the longest lead either team amassed at any stage, 48 to 42. They lost it and saw the Rams come back to stretch out their longest lead, 59 to 55. Then, as the finish drew near, Doc Hayes' team rallied to close the gap and moved five points ahead, 66 to 61 before goals by Jim Strout and Richard Cozad put the visitors within a point of a tie again. Bob Prewitt, veteran Pony forward, then salted it away with a side court shot just before the gun popped.

Johnny Zatopek, SMU center, carried off scoring honors with nine field goals and two from the foul line for 20 points. Tied for second were his teammate, Prewitt, with five and seven and the Rams' Doug Higgins, with eight and one for 17 points each.

Inability to connect at the foul line beat the Rams, who missed 22 free tosses in 25 chances. The Mustangs sank 16 and missed a dozen.

Although he accounted for only nine points, a pint-sized blond with a burr haircut and the build of a football guard practically stole the show. He was freshman

Investigation Of Car Sales Continued By House Group

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Congressmen investigating automobile sales practices heard today of a flexible waiting list where a prospective customer worked up to 25th, then dropped to 35th place.

They also were told that the same Chevrolet dealer, Kenyon-Beck, Inc., of nearby Arlington, Va., favored car buyers who had old cars to trade in. Lawrence Kenyon, vice president and treasurer, said that until last August about half the new cars the company received were set aside as "demonstrators" and sold to old customers who didn't want to wait.

Mrs. Sarah Eigen told a House subcommittee investigating automobile sales in this area about her troubles in getting a car.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

There's an excellent chance that the new District 3-AA in 1949 will include six teams for athletic competition. The original Interscholastic league redistricting plan only placed five teams—Lubbock, Odessa, Midland, Brownfield and Lamesa—in the new loop, but Big Spring officials have asked that their school be included in the 3-AA circuit. Big Spring is much closer to Lubbock and Odessa than it is to Brownwood, and Big Spring officials apparently believe that the financial conditions in the 3-AA loop would be more favorable for Big Spring.

As we understand the situation, the Interscholastic league will approve the transfer if no member of either of the two districts involved objects. On the surface, there appears to be little reason for any objections. The addition of a sixth team would provide a better balanced schedule for teams in the new 3-AA circuit, with five conference games and five non-conference settos, and there have been some reports that teams in the new 5-AA district would not object to such a shift on a financial basis. Attendance at Big Spring games this season reportedly was low, and some of their district foes made little more than expenses in travelling to Big Spring.

It is our personal opinion that the addition of Big Spring to the district would be worthwhile. The Steers have been "down" in athletic competition for a season or two, but there is every reason to believe that they will climb back to the top of the ladder before many years pass. The Steers have fielded many fine teams in the past, including a 1946 eleven that gave the Lubbock Westerners all they could handle. The addition of Big Spring would also give every school in the new 3-AA district a Thanksgiving day game.

A good bi-district football game will be unreeled at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Lobo stadium in Levelland, when the Pettit Eagles tangle with the Darrouzette Longhorns in a six-man encounter. The Eagles have scored 225 points this season, against 66 for all opponents, and the Longhorns reportedly have a smooth-working grid team.

Still on the subject of the new 3-AA district and grid warfare in general, we'd like to pass along a portion of a recent column by a Midland sports writer, Tanner Laine. We think fans will enjoy his "dire threats." Says Mr. Laine:

"Lubbock is coming into District 3-AA on a high-horse. And that's bad for Lubbock. The loudest wail about the redistricting done by the Interscholastic league has come from Lubbock, the 'Hub of the Plains and the Home of Texas Tech.'

"Lubbock is afraid District 3-AA won't offer top-notch competition. We fear Lubbock is in for some busy nights it doesn't expect.

"What this corner wants Lubbock to understand from the onset is that we aren't exactly rural out here in the Permian Basin. It is our belief that Midland doesn't have to take a back seat to Lubbock—in anything.

"Lubbock has had about two ball clubs that were worth a hoot in its history. The 1939 'Cinderella boys' were great . . . Other than that year, Lubbock has always been a good workout for Amarillo."

"The Westerners," Laine says, "will dwell long on the tie this season with Odessa. We ask Lubbock, who was lucky in that one? If the two teams should meet today, Odessa would run rampant over the Westerners.

". . . Midland will be around, Lubbock, despite your concept of us as a village. And when you visit Midland, don't get lost in the shadow of our tall office buildings, of which we know there is a scarcity in your 'city.' The best buildings in Lubbock are state property out at Texas Tech.

"Where is Lubbock anyhow?"

Negro Baseball Loop Disbands

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (INS)—The Negro National Baseball league, formed in 1932, disbanded today after three of its six teams had folded.

The other three National league clubs were accepted into membership by the Negro American league, which also accepted membership application from a new team that will operate out of Houston, Tex., thereby bringing the number of American league teams to ten.

As the joint meeting of the two leagues ended its two-day session in Chicago, Dr. J. B. Martin, owner of the Chicago American Giants of the Negro American league, was re-elected president, secretary and treasurer of the circuit for 1949.

The teams which yesterday dropped out of organized participation in negro ball were the Newark Eagles, the New York Black Yankees, and the Pittsburgh Homestead Greys, who played their home games in Washington.

Dr. W. H. Young of Memphis and Hugh Cherry of Blytheville, Ark., are the owners of the new Houston team which was accepted to American league membership. Other American league clubs, in addition to the Chicago American Giants, are the Cleveland Buckeyes, Kansas City Monarchs, Memphis Red Sox, Indianapolis Clowns and Birmingham Barons.

Getz Battles Trout Tonight

A rousing card of three separate matches will feature the weekly neck twisting tonight at Sled Alen's wrestling arena, with Gideon grappling Olan Boynton in the main event.

The supporting card promises plenty of action all the way, with Dork Funk meeting Bennie Trudell in the semi-final and Eddie Gideon grapling Olan Boynton in the preliminary.

Getz Seeks Revenge

The main event definitely is a grudge battle, with Getz eager to get his hands on Trout—and vica versa. In last week's main event, Getz had the upperhand on Funk, when Trout reached inside the ring and tripped the Dutchman.

Because of the trip, Funk was able to pin Getz in a highly disputed fall and take the decision and the match. Getz vowed he'd get even with Trout and tonight's match is for blood.

The Trudell-Funk match should be a fine one, with Funk's speed opposing Trudell's weight and aggressiveness. Trudell is a mean wrestler, but Funk also can become wicked when aroused.

Boynton is an improving wrestler who caused Trout all sorts of trouble before losing falls last week. He returns tonight to face a pretty agile, able grappler in Gideon, who is one of the better boys on the borscht boulevard.

Advanced ticket sales will be at Wylie's Drug store from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m., with the first match set for 8 p. m.

Ken Keltner of the Cleveland Indians hit more home runs this season than ever before in his career.

National AAU Track Meet May Be Staged In San Francisco

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (INS)—The 1949 National AAU track and field championships may be held in a Pacific coast city—notably San Francisco—for the first time since 1940.

The AAU announced tonight that both Fresno and San Francisco have filed bids for the title meet. An AAU spokesman said that the A A U championships "are about due in the west."

He pointed out that since 1941 five national meets have been held in the east, two in the mid-west, and one in the southwest.

San Francisco is said to have the inside track. The city has made a bid to stage all major AAU-sponsored title events and the national convention to highlight San Francisco's 100th anniversary of the discovery of gold in California.

Final disposition of all bids will be made at the AAU's 60th annual convention in New York, Dec. 2-5.

No other cities have made overall bids. Most of the bids already received by the AAU are applications to stage individual title meets.

Masonic Leaders Assume Offices

WACO, Nov. 30. (AP) — C. S. Woodward of Arlington was installed Grand High Priest of the Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Texas, and Fritz Werner of Laredo became Grand Master of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters as the two Masonic bodies closed their annual meetings today.

The 113th communication of the Grand Lodge of Texas, the ruling body of all Texas Masonic lodges, will open at 10 a. m., tomorrow with Grand Master Horace K. Jackson of Gatesville presiding.

New in the chapter line-up which usually leads to Grand High Priest is C. A. Young of Abbott, elected Grand Scribe. Kurtz E. Gaugler of Houston was elevated from Grand Scribe to Grand King and Herbert Wheeler of Commerce was elevated to Deputy Grand High Priest. Samuel Rizzotto and Frank Oldham, both of Waco, were elected treasurer and secretary, respectively.

cab in which the three men were riding was traveling east on West 15th at the time of the accident, and the automobile driven by Blevins was traveling north on Lavaca. Neither vehicles overturned, but both were badly damaged, the press dispatch reported.

Harrison was pronounced dead on arrival at Brackenridge hospital, the press dispatch said.

Logan, the Fort Worth attorney, also thrown from the cab, suffered cuts on the left knee and possible skull fracture. Bohannon was reported shaken up, but not otherwise injured. Blevins, driver of the automobile, was reported hospitalized for possible back injuries.

Bohannon told investigators that he and Harrison had come to Austin to appear before state Banking Commissioner J. M. Falkner in connection with Harrison's plans to open a bank at Jayton, Kent county.

First reports were that the two had flown to Austin to appear before a railroad commission hearing in connection with the commission's flare-gas shutdown orders.

The accident victim, identified in press dispatches as president of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, had been credited as an independent operator with contributing a great deal to the discovery and development of several oil fields in different parts of Texas.

Completed Nairn Well

He contracted, and brought to completion, in 1941, the Nairn well, a producer a short distance northeast of this city, and had operated extensively in other parts of the state, including the Slaughter field in Hockley and adjoining counties.

Earlier, he had had a leading role in developing the Howard-Glasscock pool in 1926, and the East Howard-Iatan field near Big Spring in 1931. It was his No. 1 Addis, four miles west of Odessa that revived exploration in what is now a tremendous oil area.

He had made oil explorations near Burkburnett, in Eastland and Young counties, and in East Texas, reportedly making and losing several fortunes in the process.

Sold Some Holdings

Friends here Tuesday said that since he moved from here to Dallas two or three years ago, he had spent much time with his holdings in the vicinity of Breckenridge, and in the Nueces county area.

Prior to his moving to Dallas, Harrison sold much of his holdings in the Plains area to the Stanolind Oil and Gas company.

Harrison's residence address at Dallas was 1425 Buckner Blvd. While living here, he and his family resided for a time at 3101 Nineteenth, and he later bought the Dr. M. C. Overton home in the 1800 block of Broadway.

He and Mrs. Harrison had been here last Saturday for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Buddy Hughes, of the Rickas apartments. Mrs. Hughes, the former Dana Lou Harrison, a graduate of Lubbock High school, married last September.

Besides the widow, and the daughter here, other survivors include a son, Clifton, of Sacramento, Calif., and a daughter, Mrs. Dale Webb of Dallas.

The son was reported en route by plane Tuesday from Sacramento.

Harrison was born Sept. 12, 1895, in Comanche county. He had been in the oil business since 1919, but didn't get his first big strike until 1933 when some of his properties near Big Spring began paying off.

Associates reported that Harrison had a philanthropic bent and said one of his favorite projects was financing intelligent youths in college.

One of his acquaintances estimated that currently at least 17 young Texas collegians were receiving financial assistance from Harrison.

E. B. Reinhart, Midland-Odessa air terminal fireman, said the blaze started with an explosion. He said he was across the street from the theater and that when the explosion occurred, flames shot out of the theater windows. The walls crumbled almost immediately, he said.

Fire which followed an explosion when a young man started to light a gasoline stove consumed three large warehouses at the old Pecos Army Air base. Houston Ensey, employe of the trans-Pecos Builders supply company, was knocked to the floor by the explosion when he tried to light the stove.

Flames spread quickly. The warehouses were owned by Pecos merchants — the Leader grocery, Bell garage and the Trans-Pecos Builders supply. Other firms also had supplies stored in the warehouses.

prize was great and left the entire responsibility for the matter in Bradley's hands.

BRADLEY'S judgment as to his ability to hold the Mortain hinge was amply demonstrated by events but the whole situation is yet another example of the type of delicate decision that a field commander is frequently called upon to make in war. Had the German tanks and infantry succeeded in breaking through at Mortain, the predicament of all troops beyond that point would have been serious, in spite of our ability partially to supply them by airplane.

The enveloping movement from the south had as its first objective the destruction or capture of the German forces in the Mortain-Falaise region, while at the same time there remained the opportunity for sweeping up remaining portions of the German First and Seventh Armies by directing an even wider employment toward the crossings of the Seine River.

The Germans were still fighting desperately just south of Caen, where by this time they had established the strongest defenses encountered throughout the entire campaign. The Canadians threw in fierce and sustained attacks but it was not until August 16 that Falaise was finally captured. Caen, by then a heap of rubble, had been captured on July 9.

Needed To Avoid Clash

With the great bulk of all the Allied forces attacking from the perimeter of a great half-circle toward a common center, the determination of the exact points on which each element should halt, in order not to become involved against friendly units coming from the opposite direction, was a tricky problem.

I was in Bradley's headquarters when messages began to arrive from commanders of the advancing American columns, complaining that the limits placed upon them by their orders were allowing Germans to escape. I completely supported Bradley in his decision that it was necessary to obey the orders, prescribing the boundary between the army groups, exactly as written; otherwise a calamitous battle between friends could have resulted.

In the face of complete disaster the enemy fought desperately to hold open the mouth of the closing pocket so as to save as much as he could from the debacle. German commanders concentrated particularly on saving armored elements, and while a disappointing portion of their Panzer divisions did get back across the Seine, they did so at the cost of a great proportion of their equipment. Eight infantry divisions and two Panzer divisions were captured almost in their entirety.

THE battlefield at Falaise was unquestionably one of the greatest "killing grounds" of any of the war areas. Roads, highways, and fields were so choked with destroyed equipment and with dead men and animals that passage through the area was extremely difficult.

Forty-eight hours after the closing of the gap I was conducted through it on foot, to encounter scenes that could be described only by Dante. It was literally possible to walk for hundreds of yards at a time, stepping on nothing but dead and decaying flesh.

In the wider sweep directed against the crossings of the Seine behind the German Army, the rapidly advancing Americans were also forced to halt to avoid overrunning their objectives and firing into friendly troops. The German again seized the opportunity to escape with a greater portion of his strength than would have been the case if the exact situation could have been completely foreseen.

Took Port Areas

While the bulk of Bradley's forces was engaged in these great battles and overrunning France toward Paris, General Middleton's VIII Corps turned back to the westward to overrun the Brittany Peninsula and to capture the ports in that area. We were still of the belief that some use would have to be made of Quiberon Bay and possibly of Brest. Middleton was directed to capture these places as quickly as possible.

Brest fell on September 19. The harbor and its facilities had been so completely wrecked by our bombing and by German demolitions that we never made any attempt to use it.

When the Allied armies finally completed their envelopment of the German forces west of the Seine the eventual defeat of the German in western Europe was a certainty. The question of time alone remained.

Our new situation brought up one of the longest-sustained arguments that I had with Prime Minister Churchill throughout the period of the war. This argument, beginning almost coincidentally with the break-through in late July, lasted throughout the first ten days of August. One session lasted several hours. The discussions involved the wisdom of going ahead with Anvil, by then renamed Dragoon, the code name for the operation that was to bring in General Devers' forces through the South of France.

ONE of the early reasons for planning this attack was to achieve an additional port of entry through which the reinforcing divisions already prepared in America could pour rapidly into the European invasion. The Prime Minister held that we were now assured of early use of the Brittany ports and that the troops then in the Mediterranean could be brought in via Brittany, or even might better be used in the prosecution of the Italian campaign with the eventual purpose of invading the Balkans via the head of the Adriatic.

To any such change I was opposed, and since the United States Chiefs of Staff, following their usual practice, declined to interfere with the conclusions of the commander in the field, I instantly became the individual against whom the Prime Minister directed all his argument.

Although I never heard him say so, I felt that the Prime Minister's real concern was possibly of a political rather than a military nature. He may have thought that a postwar situation which would see the Western Allies posted in great strength in the Balkans would be far more effective in producing a stable post-hostilities world than if the Russian armies should be the ones to occupy that region. I told him that if this were his reason for advocating the campaign into the Balkans he should go instantly to the President and lay the facts, as well as his own conclusions, on the table. But I did insist that as long as he argued the matter on military grounds alone I could not concede validity to his arguments.

Churchill Backed Plan

As usual the Prime Minister pursued the argument up to the very moment of execution. As usual, also, the second that he saw he could not gain his own way, he threw everything he had into support of the operation. He flew to the Mediterranean to witness the attack and I heard that he was actually on a destroyer to observe the supporting bombardment when the attack went in.

In this long and serious argument the Prime Minister was supported by certain members of his staff. On the other hand, British officers assigned to my own headquarters stood firmly by me throughout.

Although in the planning days of early 1944, Montgomery had advocated the complete abandonment of the southern operation in order to secure more landing craft for Overlord, he now, in early August, agreed with me that the attack should go in as planned.

COINCIDENTALLY with this drawnout discussion, Montgomery suddenly proposed to me that he should retain tactical coordinating control of all ground forces throughout the campaign. This, I told him was impossible, particularly in view of the fact that he wanted to retain at the same time direct command of his own army group. To my mind and to that of my staff the proposition was fantastic.

The reason for having an army group commander is to assure direct, day-by-day battlefield direction in a specific portion of the front, to a degree impossible to a supreme commander. It is certain that no one man could perform this function with respect to his own portion of the line and at the same time exercise logical and intelligent supervision over any other portion.

The only effect of such a scheme would have been to place Montgomery in a position to draw at will, in support of his own ideas, upon the strength of the entire command.

Description Is Given

Field Marshal Montgomery, like General Patton, conformed to no type. He deliberately pursued certain eccentricities of behavior, one of which was to separate himself habitually from his staff. He lived in a trailer. This created difficulties in the staff work that must be performed in timely and effective fashion if any battle is to result in victory. He consistently refused to deal with a staff officer from any headquarters other than his own, and, in argument, was persistent up to the point of decision.

He is best described by himself in a letter he wrote to me shortly after the victory was won in Europe. He said:

Dear Ike:

Now that we have all signed in Berlin I suppose we shall soon begin to run our own affairs. I would like, before this happens, to say what a privilege and an honor it has been to serve under you. I owe much to your wise guidance and kindly forbearance. I know my own faults very well and I do not suppose I am an easy subordinate; I like to go my own way.

But you have kept me on the rails in difficult and stormy times, and have taught me much.

For all this I am very grateful. And I thank you for all you have done for me.

Your very devoted friend,
Monty.

In my reply I said, with complete truth:

Your own high place among military leaders of your country is firmly fixed, and it has never been easy for me to disagree with what I knew to be your real convictions. But it will always be a great privilege to bear evidence to the fact that whenever decision was made, regardless of your personal opinion, your loyalty and efficiency in execution were to be counted upon with certainty.

ANOTHER interesting, if less pressing, discussion took place with Secretary Morgenthau. In a visit to our headquarters in early August, 1944, he said that the rate of monetary exchange, to be eventually established in Germany, should be such as to avoid giving that country any advantage. I candidly told him that I had been far too busy to be specifically concerned with the future economy of Germany but that I had an able staff section working on the problem. This brought about a general conversation on the subject of Germany's future and I expressed myself roughly as follows:

"These things are for some one else to decide, but my personal opinion is that, following upon the conclusion of hostilities, there must be no reason for doubt as to who won the war. Germany must be occupied. More than this, the German people must not be allowed to escape a sense of guilt, of complicity in the tragedy that has engulfed the world.

Controls Were Planned

"Prominent Nazis, along with certain industrialists, must be tried and punished. Membership in the Gestapo and in the S. S. should be taken as prima facie evidence of guilt. The General Staff must be broken up, all its archives confiscated, and members suspected of complicity in starting the war or in any war crime should be tried. The German nation should be responsible for reparations to such countries as Belgium, Holland, France, Luxembourg, Norway and Russia. The war-making power of the country should be eliminated.

"Possibly this could be done by strict controls on industries using heavy fabricating machinery or by the mere expedient of preventing any manufacture of airplanes. The Germans should be permitted and required to make their own living, and should not be supported by America. Therefore choking off natural resources would be folly."

I emphatically repudiated one suggestion I had heard that the Ruhr mines should be flooded. This seemed silly and criminal to me. Finally, I said that the military government of Germany should pass from military to civil hands as quickly as this could be accomplished.

These views were presented to everyone who queried me on the subject, both then and later. They were eventually placed before the President and the Secretary of State when they came to Potsdam in July, 1945.

(With thirty-six divisions in action in Europe, logistics became the central problem for General Eisenhower even while the Allied armies were pouring across northern France in pursuit of the Nazis. One division consumed from 600 to 700 tons of supplies every day. To bring in these supplies, without ports, over destroyed railroads and roads, was one of the major assignments of World War II.

General Eisenhower outlines this problem and the steps which were taken to meet it in the next installment of "Crusade in Europe," which will be published here tomorrow).

Lubbock Man Is Killed Near City

blood were found on the highway at intervals from the point of impact to where the body came to rest.

W. J. Hodges, operator of Canyon Fruit stand, was the only other eye witness to the mishap. According to his own statement to highway patrolmen, he did not see many of the details of the collision.

Account Is Given

He had been standing near a window of his establishment, he said, when he saw McClellan running across the highway. He then stepped to the door, just in time to see the car strike the man and throw his body into the air. A broken right headlight on the car, a damaged fender and smashed right portion of the windshield indicated that McClellan was thrown onto the hood of the car.

Hodges called officers and an ambulance from a garage some yards east of his fruit stand. Persons at the garage told him, he said, that they had seen McClellan walk past there carrying a suitcase.

No reason for his sudden attempt to cross the highway had been discovered last night.

Funeral services last night were pending arrival of relatives. The body was at McDonald Funeral home.

Surviving relatives, in addition to Mrs. Lamb, include a daughter, Jessie Mary, 11, who resides with her maternal grandparents at Brownfield; two other sisters, Mrs. Ewing King of Post, and Mrs. Jack Case, Pattonville; and five brothers, Noah of Sargent, Bryant of Talco, Walter of Dumas, and Morris and Ray, both of Post.

Draft Call Is Cut

Neither the Navy nor Air Force has turned to selective service to boost manpower. Volunteers to date have been adequate.

The 18-year-old volunteer program has not come up to expectations, the Army said. Only 1,633 teen-agers volunteered for one year of Army training in October. The quota was 10,000. Boys of 18 who volunteer for one year of training are exempt from the 21-month draft when they reach 19. The draft span is 19 through 25.

20-30 Club's Safety Slogan Contest Extended To Dec. 9

The Safety Slogan contest sponsored by the Lubbock 20-30 club for students in the public schools here has been extended to Dec. 9, to coincide more nearly with the Christmas holidays, club officials announced Tuesday night.

All entries received will be held and judged with entries received over the extended period, it was announced.

Originally, today was set as the deadline for the contest, but distribution of safety campaign buttons, posters, and stamps has been delayed until Dec. 6, and the extension of the time limit was necessary.

The stamps to be distributed bear sample slogans for use of teachers and businessmen.

Entries may be mailed to the 20-30 club or given to school principals.

New Thefts Are Reported Here

Several more theft reports were added Tuesday to the lengthy list already reported over the weekend and Monday, law enforcement authorities said.

J. W. Stallings of 609 Ave. F told police investigators that $750 had been taken from under the seat of his car parked in 900-block Broadway Saturday night. He and his son had gone to a movie, Stallings said.

Stalling told city detectives investigating the case that he was a used car salesman and had made a sale Saturday for which he received a $775 check. After cashing the check and taking his commission, he placed the remainder of the money under the seat of the car, he said, to be returned to the Furr Auto exchange for whom he had sold the car. The loss was reported to the police Tuesday.

Other Thefts Reported

Three blankets, valued at $38.85, were taken from the car of L. M. Chappell of box 1074 Lubbock while the vehicle was parked in 300-block Ave. K.

A Sulphur Springs man, R. A. Flewhart, told the sheriff's department that $178, a $70 ring and a $125 watch had disappeared from his cabin at a tourist camp.

A sanding machine was reported taken from H. T. Laughter of Lubbock route 7.

Hub Caps Removed

Two hub caps were removed from the car of Burns Temple of 2703 Thirtieth, fender skirts valued at $28 from the car of Jack W. Miller of 2421 Twenty-sixth.

At 3:20 a. m., Paul Hemanes, a Lubbock negro, was taken to a hospital for treatment of several knife slashes officials later were informed had been inflicted by a negro woman with whom he had become involved in an argument at a dance.

C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, fined Billy Doyle Huffaker, 18, a student, $50 and court costs for exposure of his person in a public place.

J. A. West, 28, of West Palm Beach, Fla., pleaded guilty of a drunk driving charge filed Nov. 20 and was fined $50 and county court costs.

and district 4-H Club president and junior and senior leader. In the last year he traveled nearly 12,000 miles at his own expense attending shows, meetings and visiting individuals in the interest of 4-H Club work.

Miss Gilliaum was an international farm youth exchange student and spent three months in England and France studying farm methods abroad. In canning she won top honors at the 4-H Congress in 1947.

Both top winners competed with contestants from the 48 states, and from Hawaii and Puerto Rico for the Leadership awards.

Served In Army

The Garza county youth is studying vocational agriculture at Texas Tech. He is a sophomore student. After graduation from high school at Post during the war years, he attended Texas A&M college one year on a scholarship which he had won.

He was called into the Army after his first year at A&M, and was discharged after two years' service. He then returned to Garza county, where he assisted County Agent Robert H. Gibson in the organization of 4-H work there. He served as president of the county and district 4-H Club organizations last year.

Davis enrolled in the Agriculture division of Texas Tech this year.

Davis exhibited the grand champion fat steer at the 4-H livestock show at this year's Garza county fair, held at Post in mid-September. It was he who conceived and directed the Southwestern Championship Junior rodeo at the Garza county fair this year to raise funds for the construction of a new building to house the annual Garza county 4-H Club livestock show.

Rodeo Is Success

The event, the first all-boy rodeo in the United States, was a success from both financial and performance standpoints. Several hundred dollars was added to the building fund from proceeds from the rodeo, which was staged in the Post rodeo arena.

The Garza county youth won this trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for having won recognition as most outstanding boy in the regional leadership.

He won the Santa Fe award last year after being named one of the outstanding leaders in the state. He also has won other 4-H Club trips, including one to Mexico and another to Kansas City, and this summer attended the two-week Danforth Foundation camp in Michigan, a camp conducted for oustanding 4-H boys.

He was elected first year vice president of the Danforth Foundation award winners, a national office which he still holds. He is also vice president of the 4-H Club at Texas Tech.

Davis has a trunkfull of ribbons which he has won at fairs over the country, where his specialty has been livestock. With the exception of his two-year stay in the Army, Davis has exhibited for the past eight years at the Panhandle-South Plains fair here, at the San Angelo fair, and at the State Fair in Dallas.

He also has shown feed and other farm products from his own plot of ground on his father's farm.

Davis has two brothers, a younger brother who still is in grade school, and an older brother who is an established farmer.

The Tech student has been much in the limelight in Chicago. He was master of ceremonies at the 4-H Club boys' banquet, and has appeared on several radio programs. On one such program, he was awarded a watch.

LANDS PROSPECT WITH GADGET

British Salesman Uses Unusual Methods To Put Over Product

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Side-glances at celebrities:

As one who has tossed many a night long, wondering what the Marquis of Milford Haven was doing in this country while Princess Margaret Rose pined at Buckingham Palace, it is comforting to know now that the young knight is out on a breadwinning mission.

The best-man at the wedding of Philip and Elizabeth is selling British radiators. In a rare interview with the "London Dispatch's" New Work man, the Marquis has explained some of his sales tactics.

They bear passing on to American salesmen, who perhaps will be wondering how the Marquis, hailing from a chronically unheated land, is getting along with the task of selling heat to a chronically over-heated land. His task is an interesting switch on the sale of refrigerators to the eskimos.

"One dodge which he uses to publicize his product is to slip through the buttonhole of anyone to whom he is talking a metal tag with a loop of copper wire attached to it," the Dispatch stated.

"His practiced fingers do this so deftly that it is in place in a second but getting it off is quite a puzzle to anyone who does not know the trick.

"Until the Marquis shows how it is done the wearer finds himself irremovably attached to a three inch strip of metal with the letters 'Hursael' (name of his radiator company) stamped deeply into it.

"This fascinates gadget-loving Americans."

As one who counts that day lost when the low-descending sun finds not a single gossip column item on whom the Marquis has won, let me urge the young man to keep away from Toots Shor's, Tim Costello's and other joints beyond the Stork, '21' and El Morocco. He might find himself flatfened by some blount soul who, since childhood, has hated having anyone clamp three inch strips of metal on his lapel.

We wouldn't want anything like that to happen to our handsome visitor. England might get mad, take back Ronald Colman and refuse to accept further Marshall Plan Aid. Then we'd be stuck with all that dough, and Jack Benny, deprived of a guest, would have to shorten his program to 15 minutes.

New Book Praised

Some of the country's most familiar names of recent and not very aromatic memory appear vividly in "The Tax Dodgers" (Greenberg, $3), the recently released memoirs of the late Elmer Irey. Irey was the treasury man who put them in jail for income tax ducking etc., when other agencies of the state and government could not nail them.

The brilliant book, written by Bill Slocum, traces the Treasury's action against the likes of Capone, Pendergast, Hauptmann, Torrio, Long and a dozen others who stumbled over the placid-looking Irey after sidestepping other nets reaching for them.

Good anecdotes season this one. Capone's arrested accountants, who steadfastly refused to talk, suddenly told all when Irey threatened to release them from jail! As a reward, they were permitted to remain in jail until Capone was safely clinked.

Frank Nitti, Capone's enforcement officer, grew a mustache to escape detection. But more people than ever turned to look at him on the streets. Seems that the mustache made him look like Hitler.

Willie Bioff, hauled in also by Westbrook Pegler, turned state's evidence with this classic explanation: "Pearl Harbor done something for me."

Johnny Torrio invented the hoodlum tactic of becoming the manager of a fighter, to increase and conceal his tax-free betting. Irey caught Nick Johnson's participation in the Atlantic City bawdy-house business by a remarkable method, which must be read in the book.

The book reveals that Jafsie Condon liked to shout Psalms at the top of his lungs while flying with Lindberg during their searches for the tragic baby, and that Dr. Carl Weiss, riddled by Huey Long's guards as an assassin, carried a .22.

One bullet of that calibre was found imbedded in the ceiling above the crime. The only bullet in Long was a .45 . . . of the type used by his guards.

Accused Man Faces $50,000 Peace Bond

DALLAS, Nov. 30. (U.P.)—Justice of the Peace W. E. Richburg today set a $50,000 peace bond for an accused burglar who already was held on $40,000 bonds in two burglary cases.

Richburg's peace bond action was unprecedented. The usual procedure in burglary cases is a bond ranging from $500 to $1,500.

John William Campbell, 28, was released Sunday on $1,500 bond in connection with smashing windows of a jewelry store. Today, he was re-arrested on a similar charge.

Justice of the Peace Lew Sterrett set the new bonds of $20,000 each on the two burglary charges, then at a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus filed by counsel for Campbell, Richburg set the $50,000 peace bond.

The peace bond was requested by Harold Fox, owner of the Mission jewelry store, whose store windows have been smashed and robbed three times this month.

Richburg said peace bond for accused burglars appeared to him as "the way to get rid of burglars and knob knockers in Dallas county. I think it is cheaper to feed them in Dallas county jail than it is to release them on a small burglary bond and then have to go to the expense and trouble of looking for them after they have done other jobs."

Courts Block Shutdowns In Eight Fields

Board Fight On Gas Flaring Hit

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Nov. 30 — Temporary restraining orders to prevent the railroad commission's shutdown orders from going into effect tomorrow morning in eight oil fields were granted today by judges of the 98th and 53rd District courts.

It appeared likely that additional restraining orders would be granted in time to prevent the immediate enforcement of the shutdown order in seven other fields.

Judge Charles O. Bl[illegible] 98th district court said he would grant restraining orders to companies requesting them to maintain the status quo in all fields until hearings can be held on each of them.

Deadline Slated Today

The shutdowns, aimed at preventing alleged wasteful flarings of gas, were to become effective at 7 a.m. tomorrow morning. They would lop an estimated 400,000 barrels of crude oil off the December daily allowable of 2,674,539 barrels.

The railroad commission notified its deputy-supervisors in the oil districts involved that if one operator in a field has a temporary restraining order to prevent shutdown, then all oil produced in the field is to be cleared, subject to final court action.

The restraining orders were issued throughout the day as the first of 17 hearings got underway in Judge Betts' court.

The state charged that oil producers in 16 fields are wastefully flaring millions of cubic feet of gas each day.

To stop this alleged waste, the state asked that the railroad commission be allowed to enforce its shutdown orders until such time as the gas is put to beneficial use.

Arguments Heard

Attorneys for oil companies seeking a temporary injunction against enforcement of the order in the Heyser field, Calhoun and Victoria counties, argued that a shutdown would deny the public "huge amounts" of needed oil.

They described the shutdown order as "illegal, unjust, and discriminatory," and said it would cause the oil operators "irreparable loss." In view of anticipated completion of gas compressor projects and construction of a Tennessee Gas and Transmission company pipeline into the Heyser field by April of next year, the operators viewed the commission order as unreasonable.

CONSTRUCTION KEPT ON BALL IN CITY

Building Inspector Has Busy Schedule

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

Building has been "big news" in Lubbock for more than 10 years as the city's construction volume has climbed year after year, and the job of inspecting building projects for compliance with the city code is one to keep a man busy.

Bennett L. Cogdill is the man on whose shoulders falls the task of making these inspections. While Lloyd Ross, the building inspector, is kept busy with administrative duties and the issuing of permits in the city hall, Cogdill, as assistant building inspector, goes into the field to make the three city inspections normally required on every construction project, large or small.

Recommendations Are Followed

A slender, genial man of middle age, he is known affectionately by Lubbock builders as "Uncle Josh", a nickname that goes back to his childhood when he played that part in a school play.

During the course of an afternoon's inspections, he is likely to take some "joshing," too. But usually, when "Uncle Josh" says a foundation has to be reinforced or a valley braced, Lubbock contractors cheerfully comply, because they know that "Uncle Josh" knows whereof he speaks.

For though Cogdill's career since boyhood has included at various times such jobs as streetcar motorman in Fort Worth and the distinction of serving as first mayor of Littlefield, he has been in the building field nearly all his life. His father was a contractor "of the old school," as he explains proudly, and Cogdill himself is an expert woodworker. As a hobby, he still likes to turn out pieces of cabinet work in his off-duty hours.

Pioneers On Plains

He and Mrs. Cogdill are not newcomers to the South Plains. They lived in Littlefield from 1923 until they moved to Lubbock in 1941.

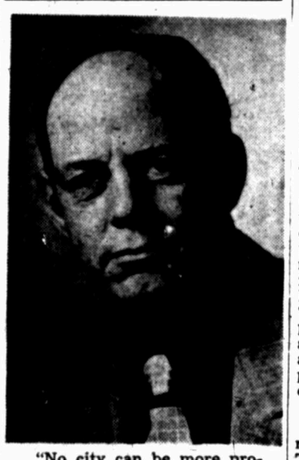

Cogdill was elected Littlefield's first mayor after he had contributed materially to the work of incorporating the town in 1925. He is extremely reticent about his tenure of office as mayor, but at Littlefield, oldtimers recall that he was a good one.

Nowadays Cogdill may make 25 to 30 inspections a day during the peak of the building season in the spring and summer, travelling some 700 miles a month, all within the city limits.

When bad weather comes, building slows and the number of

"I'm For The School Bonds, Because . . .

"No city can be more progressive than its public schools. I feel, and I am sure the majority of the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce agree, that Lubbock needs more school buildings. We all know the only way to get them is to pay for them. So, on Saturday, Dec. 4, I'm going to vote for the bonds, for a school system in step with Lubbock's growth and, also for the best interests of the children of our community." — Horace W. Gearhart, president, Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Tech Stock Judgers Are Tenth At Chicago

The livestock judging team from Texas Technological college placed tenth among 31 teams who competed Saturday in the International Livestock Judging contest at Chicago, Ray C. Mowery, team coach and assistant head of animal husbandry, said in a letter Tuesday.

Teams placing ahead of Tech were, respectively: Oklahoma A. & M., Purdue, Iowa State, Missouri university, Illinois State, Kansas State, Wisconsin State, Ohio State, and Wyoming university. Texas A. & M. was the eleventh place team.

The Texas Tech team placed fifth in judging hogs, and tenth in sheep. Robert D. Cox, of Lubbock, was ranked as tenth high individual of the contest, winning sixth in hog judging and ninth in cattle. Members of the Tech team were Cox; W. D. Hancock, of Jayton. Clinton Ritter, of Lawn; Glenn Quattlebaum, of Amarillo; Robert Mims, of San Angelo; and Edd C. McLeroy, of Brownfield.

MENCKEN SUFFERS STROKE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30. (AP)—H. L. Mencken, author, newspaperman and critic, has suffered a small "stroke," and is a patient in Johns Hopkins hospital. A hospital announcement tonight said the condition of the 68-year-old "sage of Baltimore" is serious "inly insofar as the underlying process has serious connotations."

Hong Kong, China, has shipped 1,450 pounds of yak hair to America in seven months.

INSPECTING LUBBOCK'S BUILDINGS—A typical afternoon with B. L. Cogdill, assistant building inspector, is portrayed in the pictures above. At upper left, "Uncle Josh," as he is affectionately known by Lubbock builders, receives a request for inspection from Mrs. J. D. Threadgill, receptionist and telephone operator at the city hall. At upper right a foundation inspection takes place at the building site of F. H. Childress' new $28,000 home, at Thirty-first street and Avenue T, as Childress, left, O. A. Terry, his business partner, Cogdill and P. M. Porter, right, the general contractor, gather on the scene. At lower left Cogdill is pictured on a typical second inspection. Note the framing of the house behind him. At lower right Cogdill, left, chats with E. R. Little, Lubbock contractor, before the home of Byron Abel, being finished at a cost of $27,500 at 3302 Twenty-fourth street. Final inspections are made at such a stage of construction as this. CROP Campaign In County Opens Today

The Lubbock county drive of the Christian Rural Overseas program, will officially get underway today, and will continue through next Tuesday, local CROP officials have reminded the public.

CROP, a program of relief to send food and clothing to devastated countries in Europe and Asia, is asking especially for donations of canned milk, cotton, grain and cash. Canned milk will collected in churches over the county. Grain and cotton donations may be taken to co-operating gins and elevators throughout the county for storage until shipment. Cash donations may be mailed or taken to Mrs. John Redwine of Shallowater, secretary-treasurer of the county CROP steering committee.

Other commodities also are acceptable, including peanuts, dried fruits, wool, and foodstuffs that are put up in cans.

New Producing Area Indicated In Tests On Andrews Wildcat

J. C. Barnes No. 1 Munger-Nix, Central-West Andrews county wildcat, about 12 miles west of the town of Andrews, two miles south of the Fullerton field, and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 21, block A-47, psl survey, appears to have discovered a new producing area for the Clear Fork section of the lower Permian.

Completion tests will be started in a few days.

This development is bottomed at 7,440 feet in the lower Clear Fork. It has a string of 5½-inch casing cemented at 7,384 feet. The section left uncased has shown for production of some quantity. No drillstem tests were run on that zone but the shows were sufficient to cause the operator to run the casing.

Drillstem Test Made

The section at 6,993-7,027 feet, in the upper Clear Folk, had a recovery of 120 feet of oil and gas cut mud, 180 feet of mud cut oil and 180 feet of free oil during a two hour drillstem test.

Operator is preparing to squeeze cement below 7,040 feet to eliminate the water in the upper Clear Fork, and will then perforate and test at 7,000-35 feet, to try to develop commercial production from the upper pay section.

After that horizon has been tested the open hole at 7,384-7,4440 feet will be investigated.

Drilled To 8,015 Feet

H. L. Hunt No. 1 Clayton and Johnson, South-Central Borden county wildcat, about nine miles south of Gail, and 660 feet from south and west lines of the north half of section 24, block 31, TP survey, T-4-N, drilled to a total depth of 8,015 feet, in a dry, unidentified lime.

It took a Schlumberger survey, and then set a string of 5½-inch casing at 6,598 feet, with 200 sacks of cement.

That indicates that operator will make an effort to make an oil well from the section at 6,493-6,523 feet, in the lower Permian, where it developed 1,620 feet of clean oil, 90 feet of mud cut oil and 90 feet of oil and gas cut mud, during a two-hour drillstem test. Some gas showed during that investigation.

The project did not show any indications of possible production below 6,598 feet, according to informed observers.

Former Jap Premier Protected From Bribery Charges Arrest

TOKYO, Nov. 30. (INS)—Tokyo's procurator tonight was denied permission to arrest former Premier Hitoshi Ashida on bribery charges.

The steering committee of the Japanese house of representatives adopted a Socialist member's resolution to withhold a decision on the prosecutor's request.

Ashida has been implicated in the multi-million yen Showa Denko fertilizer company bribery scandal which caused the fall of his cabinet a month ago. He has admitted accepting 1,000,000 yen from a group of contractors but termed this a "political contribution."

Ashida can not be arrested without permission of the house of representatives of the Japanese diet (parliament) since he is a member of that body.

Meanwhile the upper house of councillors adopted a national public service bill requested by Gen. Douglas MasArthur. It would outlaw strikes and collective bargaining by government employes.

Newsman Says Polls Cost GOP Election

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (U.P.)—Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star and a lifelong Republican, says "poll-itis" killed the GOP's election chances.

"I think the whole election turned on the polls," Roberts said in a copyrighted interview with U. S. News & World Report, an independent weekly news magazine published here.

"If the Republicans hadn't believed them, they would have made a different type of campaign and they certainly would have carried enough close states to have won," he said.

HST Got Sympathy

Roberts said the "sheer, smug confidence of the Dewey campaign drove a lot of people to Truman out of sympathy."

The nation's press and radio, he said, were fair and objective throughout the campaign. But because of carelessness, he added, they were as inaccurate as the public opinion polls in forecasting the outcome.

However, he doubted that their failure to "call the turn" will cost them any loss of confidence among the reading public.

"In the long run," he said, "I think it will do the newspapers more good than it will do harm . . . by and large, the newspapers do a whale of a good job day by day, and that is what counts."

Tourist Curious About Lubbock, Texas

Briton Peter Lubbock Plans To Visit South Plains City

Lubbock may expect a visit shortly from Peter Lubbock.

The Englishman, who lures tourists to England for his country and for Peter Lubbock Travel, Ltd., has announced in Denver, Colo., that he's planning a little tourist jaunt of his own while in this country.

He's passing up Grand Canyon and Yellowstone, however, to see Lubbock, Texas, which he understands was named for a member of his family.

'I don't expect any bugles to blow when I arrive," he told a Denver Post newspaper reporter. "I'm just going there for the hell of it."

Lubbock was in Denver conferring with officials of the Whitley Steamship company, which he represents in London.

"I'm in this country to get invisible exports, which is our name for tourists," he explained.

Everything will be much easier for tourists in England next summer, he said, since they won't have to compete with Olympics contenders for accommodations.

"They will be taken care of very well," he said. The hotels are in very good order, and transportation is excellent Food in hotels is plentiful and more varied than the fare an Englishman gets in his home.

"Tourists are allowed extra gas, and they can buy anything made for export without coupons or a purchase tax."

It doesn't make Englishmen angry, Lubbock said, to see tourists getting advantages they do not have. They welcome the American dollars the tourists represent.

Lubbock did not announce when he expects to arrive in Lubbock, Texas. Miss Elvina Beran, a dietitian at St. Luke's hospital, in Denver, saw the item in a recent issue of the Denver Post and forwarded it to her father, John Beran of 2110 Broadway here.

One out of every seven bales of cotton produced in this country is lost because of insect damage.

MacARTHUR DELAYS EXECUTIONS

Seven Japanese Warlords Are Given Short Stay From Death

By RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Nov. 30.—Hideki Tojo and six other Japanese warlords got possibly a week's stay today in their scheduled walk to the gallows.

The U. S. Army said all seven were included in General MacArthur's statement that executions will "certainly not" be carried out while the appeals of two are before the U. S. Supreme court.

The Supreme court is not scheduled to meet until next Monday, which would indicate the seven have at least until next Tuesday to live even should the court decline to act.

Court Expected To Decline

It was conceded in legal circles, however, that any individual justice could take some action on the appeals before hand. One justice at least could decide the court had no jurisdiction.

The general opinion here is the Supreme court will decline to review the case. That was the court's answer to the appeals of convicted German war leaders.

Tojo, described as resigned to death, was not one of the two who appealed.

Two Make Appeals

The two are Gen. Kenji Doihara, master plotter in the conquest of Manchuria, and former premier Koki Hirota, who helped draft Japan's plan for war and conquest.

The Allied and Japanese press tightened their death watch about Sugamo prison. The gallows already are set up and military police stand at the gates.

The public information office also maintained its around-the-clock watch, ready to issue the news of the hangings to the press, which is excluded from the executions.

Japanese newspapers issued extras on MacArthur's statement. The newspaper Mainichi flatly said the executions were postponed until Monday.

Negro Orphanage Operator Is Sentenced On Fraud Charges

HOUSTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Mathes H. Coleman, negro orphanage operator, today received a five year suspended sentence in federal district court on a charge of use of the mails to defraud.

A similar indictment against Coleman's wife, Mrs. Ruth Coleman, was dismissed by Judge Allen B. Hannay on motion of Asst. U. S. District Attorney William Eckhardt.

Seven counts of the indictment against Coleman also were dismissed.

Coleman and his wife were found guilty by a federal jury in Brownsville in June last year but the fifth circuit court of appeals at New Orleans found errors in the judge's charge and in the admission of evidence and reversed the verdict last May.

The Colemans had been charged on nine counts each with use of mails to defraud while conducting a nationwide campaign to raise funds for operation of the Santa Rosa negro orphanage in the Rio Grande valley.

Former governor James V. Allred, Coleman's attorney, made a plea for leniency, pointing out that Coleman has quit-claimed a reversionery fight to the 480-acre tract of land at the orphanage.

C. M. Fitzpatrick of Edinburg, Tex., has one of the world's largest cactus gardens, often shipping as many as 5,000 plants a day.

Texas 4-H Club Girl Food Contest Winner

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—If the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, most of the girls at the 27th national 4-H club congress are excellent candidates for romance.

For instance, there is Dona Hendry, 16, of Blackwell, Texas. During eight years as a 4-H member, she has served 4,889 meals and 2,217 separate dishes. She has canned 2,345 quarts of food.

And, for relaxation, she has raised 1,330 chickens, and 57 assorted hogs, calves and sheep. Not only that, but she has held every office in her club, has been president of the county 4-H organization and is now assistant leader.

Other Winners Named

Dona is one of six national winners of the 4-H food preparation contest. The others are Mae Meinen, 18, Ruleton, Kans.; Ruth Ifert, 16, Middleton, Mid.; Nadine Blair, 18, Hamilton, Mo.; Doris June Black, 15, Crossroads, N. Mex., and Marilynn Nelson, 17, of Coteau, N. Dak.

The food preparation winners each will receive a $200 scholarship tonight at a dinner.

Another list of $200 scholarship winners announced at the congress today is that of ten national poultry achievement champs—boys and girls.

They include Raymond Phipps, 17, Fayetteville, Ark.; Alice Roberts, 15, Lecompete, La.

Dr. Goodwin Slated To Speak At Joint Meeting On Campus

Dr. Goodwin, who is also professor and head of the chemistry department, will address the group on "Possibilities of Development of the Chemical Industry In This Part of the Country."

MacARTHUR FAVORED AS FAR EAST LEADER

U.S. Army Officers Group Offers Own Proposal To Congress For Saving China From Communists

By H. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 — A group of U. S. Army officers, veterans of the China campaign of World War II, have drafted and presented to Congress a plan for saving China from Communism.

Involving a combination of force and dollars, the proposals for "operation rescue" are in the hands of Senate and House foreign policy leaders, and are being given serious study.

The plan includes the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as deputy army chief of staff for the Far East and as U. S. ambassador to China, and for a meeting in the Pacific between President Truman and Chinese president Chiang Kai-Shek.

Urges Proclamation

International News Service, given access to the confidential recommendations of the Army officers group, was informed that the plan is being put forward without prior consultation with MacArthur or with the general staff in Washington.

"Operation rescue" suggests that President Truman, concurrently with the designation of MacArthur as ambassador to China, should meet Chiang Kai-Shek in Hawaii or Guam, and there broadcast to the world that the United States has determined:

"1. That fighting in China endangers world peace and the pursuits of Democratic government.

"2. That the United Nations as an organization is yet too young and inexperienced to be expected to cope with so serious an emergency.

"3. That the United States will assist the recognized government of China to take such measures as may be necessary to maintain itself and bring about peace, upon which an enduring government may be built by the Chinese.

"4. That the United States will not interfere with the interior politics of the recognized Chinese government, and will not remain in China beyond the date required to accomplish this basic mission.

"5. That this aid to China is being furnished without expectation of repayment.

China, on the other hand, the Army officers declared, should agree to a united front and an "all-out" effort to bring an end to the civil war, and to put the entire territory under nationalist conrol on a war footing.

Chennault Would Aid

In urging that Gen. MacArthur be brought into the Chinese situation immediately, the officers said that MacArthur has "more faith" in China than any other American, and that this is an essential factor in dealing with China.

It was also proposed that Gen. Clarie Chennault, famous leader of the "Flying Tigers" and now a civilian airline operator in China, be brought back into U. S. Army service as MacArthur's deputy for air operations.

As MacArthur's deputy for general operations, the name of Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, also a China expert and now a member of the Army general staff, was suggested.

Summarizing the current Chinese problem, "operation rescue" said:

"The situation is beyond the point where we can buy Chinese stability with dollars and merely diplomacy.

"We have got to use more force mixed in with dollars and supplies. The more force we use the fewer dollars it will eventually cost us. The use of force does not necessarily mean U. S. doughboys shooting directly at Chinese Communists, but it does mean a broad coordinating and construction program and supply program for the Chinese army.

"We did a great job with about eight Chinese divisions during the war, and if we had not cut off ammunition and supplies, those divisions would not have been lost in Manchuria."

The Army officers had no enthusiasm for John Leighton Stuart, "the fine scholarly and much beloved professor" who is the U. S. ambassador in China or for the Chinese set-up of the economic cooperation administration.

They declared that the U. S. government must make a decision—whether to withdraw all help from China, or "to assist China to the extent necessary to maintain a non-Communist regime." They added:

"Obviously, we cannot support the Communists, for Chinese Communism is Russian Communism. If China goes Communist, Korea will immediately follow, Southeast Asia soon thereafter, and India inevitably.

"Then two-thirds of the world's population will be Communist, and the west cannot withstand that pressure. The United States might not stay free 20 years if all Asia goes Communist."

Young Tobacco-Textile Heiress Marries Childhood Sweetheart

BENNETTSVILLE, S. C., Nov. 30. (INS)—A teen-age tobacco-textile heiress once known as the world's "richest baby" and her childhood sweetheart were enroute tonight to a Florida honeymoon following a secret, surprise wedding.

Anne Cannon Reynolds, whose fortune includes part of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions and part of the Cannon textile empire, was married in Bennettsville yesterday to 22-year-old Lloyd Patrick Tate, a Navy veteran and son of the man who taught Anne to ride horseback when she was a child.

The 18-year-old bride is the daughter of Z. Smith Reynolds, who was mysteriously shot to death in his Winston-Salem home in 1932. She inherited nine million dollars when he died.

Building Inspector

inspections drops. But there are still a goodly number every day.

Three inspections of building projects normally include one when the foundation excavation is done, prior to the pouring of concrete; a second "framing inspection" to assure that the framing of the building is properly strengthened; and a third or final inspection as the building nears completion.

One afternoon recently Cogdill inspected a job where several houses are being built. The contractor greeted him cordially.

"By the way," Cogdill remarked, "did you take care of those dimensions all right?" He was referring to a slight discrepancy where a 42-foot front had been planned for a 50-foot lot, a situation not allowed by the building code.

"Yep. Used a lot-stretcher," the builder replied. Then, in more serious vein, he explained that the dimensions of the house had been shortened to fit the lot.

A new builder will occasionally "try him out" to see whether he can put something over on Uncle Josh. He usually finds quite early that Cogdill knows the ins and outs of building from the basement floor to the weather-cock.

Enforces Building Code

And though he will laugh good-naturedly when a builder wants to use a "sky-hook" or the like to reinforce a building, Cogdill sees to it that a building is built to stay, for that's what the building code is for.

He has remarkably little difficulty in obtaining cooperation in compliance with building regulations. A builder has been acquainted with the requirements when Ross issued the permits, and most builders are conscientious about following them to the letter.

"The trouble comes mostly with foundations," Cogdill said in reply to a question. "That's because a lot of fellows build their own homes and are not familiar with foundation requirements."

Only once in a while does he find that a threat of a complaint is necessary.

Cogdill uses his own car for his tours about the city. Covering an area efficiently and in the shortest possible time is nothing new to him.

Before the war he was work supervisor for the National Youth administration for a 72-county area in West Texas. That took a lot of traveling.

But though he finds excellent co-operation, Cogdill's job requires a lot of patience and diplomacy, and the warm greetings he receives on his inspection tour attest that he employs them successfully.

Former Professional Baseball Player Named 'Family Doctor Of Year' By Medical Group

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 30. —(INS)—A former professional baseball player who switched to a career of medicine was chosen today as "family doctor of the year" by the American Medical association.

He is Dr. William Lowry Pressly of Due West, S. C., who was first baseman for Roanoke, Va., from 1908 to 1913.

The A.M.A.'s general practitioner award will be presented to Dr. Pressly Thursday night by the association's house of delegates, now meeting in St. Louis.

Thursday also is the physician's 61st birthday.

Dr. Pressly was chosen for the honor for his public health work. He is known in his community as the "father of public health," and has served on the executive committee of the South Carolina state board of health since 1939.

The award winner was drawing $5,000 a year with the Roanoke club as both player and manager when he gave up the job. He began practicing medicine in his hometown of Due West, which has a population of 2,800.

Dr. Pressly recalled his start in medicine, and said:

"My income the first year was $750. I began wondering how I had made such a big mistake, leaving a baseball job that paid good money."

"I turned down an offer to play with the Pittsburgh Pirates to practice medicine, and now I'm mighty happy that I did."

Dr. Pressly still follows baseball closely. He said he now attends the World Series each year while two assistants aid him in his medical practice.

Dr. Pressly won recognition when he sponsored an early campaign against typhoid fever and organized baby clinics. He estimates that he has officiated at 4,200 births, including 16 sets of twins, in his 33 years of practice.

'LITTLE TAFT-HARTLEY ACTS' HIT

Administration Calls For Sharp Revision Of State Labor Laws

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The administration today called for sharp revision of state labor laws to accompany repeal of the federal Taft-Hartley act.

The appeal was made by Secretary of Labor Tobin at the 13th annual conference of state labor commissioners.

President Truman, in a message to the delegates from almost every state and territory, expressed his "best wishes for the development and enactment of sound labor laws in all our states."

Many State Laws Rapped

Secretary Tobin went further, recommending repeal of "little Taft-Hartley laws" recently enacted in many states and replacing them with legislation "fair to labor and management alike."

Tobin said many state laws are "worse than Taft-Hartley," the federal labor law which the administration is pledged to repeal.

The delegates, representing state labor departments and state AFL, CIO and independent union organizations, responded immediately. One after another they rose to recite plans to seek repeal of state laws which they consider restrictive of labor unions.

Changes in the political complexions of state administrations and state legislatures were cited by many as heightening hopes for "a better deal for labor."

Several southern delegates, including State Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huiet of Georgia and George C. Burton of Kentucky, said their states have been "fortunate" to have no laws which could be considered "anti-labor."

However, Robert Eckhardt of Dallas, legislative director in Texas for the Independent Communications Workers of America, said he thought southern states and farm states outside the south had passed more "anti-labor" laws than the industrial states.

WAA Finishes Sales Of Personal Property

DALLAS, Nov. 30. (AP)—The War Assets administration hung out the "out of business" sign today so far as personal property is concerned after sales totaling $862,000,000.

Col. Karl E. Wallace, regional director of the WAA, said the sales represented a return to the government of 34 per cent. The sales were made during a two and one-half year period.

The agency has some one-half billion dollars in real property and surplus war plants to dispose of between now and Feb. 28 before going out of existence.

The WAA has given some $20,000,000 in personal property or sold it at a big discount to the local governmental agencies of the five-state region.

In addition to the gifts to the states, counties, cities and their sub-divisions the agency contributed a large amount in critically needed articles to disaster-ridden communities. On the monetary side, war assets figures show approximately $1,000,000 was donated to disaster areas.

Evidence Completed In Damage Case; Arguments Set Today

Evidence was completed late Tuesday in a $100,000 damages action in 72nd district court, a case growing out of a Jan. 15, 1947, truck-pickup collision.

Judge Dan Blair announced that a charge would be ready to read to a jury at 10 a. m. today, after which arguments of counsel would commence.

Three cases are consolidated in the action, court officials said: Manuel Eduardo Gomez, sr., next friend of Manuel Eduardo Gomez, jr., a minor, against R. D. Harris and Benjamin L. B. Whisenant; Gabino Martinez and wife against Benjamin Whisenant and others, and Manuel Eduardo Gomez, sr., and wife against Benjamin Whisenant and others.

A jury was selected Monday.

The remainder of Judge Blair's jury panel will present itself at 1:30 p. m. for trial of another civil action.

A special venire of 175 men will report at 10 a. m. to Judge G. V. Pardue of the 99th district for selection of a jury to hear evidence in the murder trial of Walter Echols, former deputy constable at Slaton. Echols is charged with slaying an itinerant in the railroad yards there. Two mistrials already have resulted in the case, when juries failed to arrive at verdicts.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

LONDON, Nov. 30. (INS)—Britain's wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill was cheered by friends and political foes in the House of Commons today—his 74th birthday. The Conservative party leader had a small family dinner party tonight and Mrs. Churchill uncovered the annual birthday cake with candles. His secretary said "We are absolutely snowed under with congratulatory telegrams from overseas."

FOR JESSE JONES:

Not Too Late, Yet

WHILE opinions may disagree as to the stature of the statesmanship of Jesse Jones, of Houston, as Secretary of Commerce and head of the RFC, even his critics will approve his recent statement that he did not keep a diary in Washington because he did not intend to write a book.

Mr. Jones declaration was refreshing, because it differs so much from the attitude of so many others who held high positions during the Franklin Roosevelt administrations. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau kept a "diary" so voluminous that it had to be hauled away by the truckload when he made a reluctant exit from official life. Former Interior Secretary Ickes has written voluminously—and quite profitably—on subjects pertaining to his official position. "Madam" Perkins, former Secretary of Labor, gushed a bookful, and former Postmaster General James A. Farley turned out a critical best-seller.

In fact, some were so busy with diary-keeping as to raise a question as to how they found time for proper attention to their official duties. Some—and Ickes in particular—withheld official information to which the nation was entitled until they revealed it at high prices in magazine articles. They exploited to the fullest the opportunity to profit from highly salable information which was theirs solely because of the public positions of honor and trust they occupied.

Mr. Jones unquestionably could write a most interesting book. Few men had closer insight into official Washington during one of the most critical periods of history. He was acknowledged to be one of the ablest men in the government. He became something of a controversial figure chiefly because he refused to be a Charlie McCarthy to any man.

Mr. Jones is due applause for having devoted his time to his vital official duties rather than the accumulation of material for future books and/or magazine articles. But, since the subject has been raised, it might throw important light upon historical events if he would take time now to record his experiences and observations. It might add further to his already great service to the nation if he gave thought now to the book, or books, he did not think about while he was helping to win a war.

Two-Edged Sword

THE Texas Public Employes association is carrying on a full-scale campaign seeking to build up public support for an attempt to get legislative approval of salary raises for more than 20,000 state employes.

The plea deserves consideration. If the state employes are underpaid for what they do, increases will be proper.

But the Legislature also should inquire into whether such an army of workers is necessary for the efficient conduct of the state government. Those who have had opportunity to observe the workings of official Austin won't recall many state employes who appeared near collapse from overwork.

On the contrary, the authoritative opinion is prevalent that the application of ordinary common sense business methods and requirements would result in a very substantial trimming of personnel—more than enough, probably, to finance raises for those who actually earn their pay.

The spark of ambition burns within many a man. The trouble is that some one is always coming along with a fire extinguisher.

Simile: As alluring as a travel booklet.

Old Dobbin had his faults but he never tried to knock a train off the track at a grade crossing.

Waltz Into Darkness

THE STORY

Time, 1890 Place, New Orleans (Well-to-do Louis Durand carries on a correspondence courtship with a Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. When she finally comes from St. Louis to marry him, he is amazed to find her young and ravishly beautiful—entirely different from what he had been led to expect. Certain behavior of hers puzzles him from the first but not until a letter arrives from her supposed sister—Miss Russell's sister—does he realize the woman he married is an imposter. Before he can face her with it, she disappears. Durand, frantic, recalls she has access to his entire bank account. He rushes to the home of his banker, finds him at dinner.)

XV

THE banker, wrenched off his napkin, cast it from him, in sign his meal was ended for that evening at least. "My chief teller," he said in quick-formed decision. "My chief teller would know. That would be quicker than going to the bank; we'd have to open up and go over the day's transactions—"

"Where can I find him?" Durand was already on his way toward the door and out again.

"No, no, I'll go with you. Wait for me just a second—" Simms hurriedly snatched at his hat and a silken throat muffler. "What is it, what has happened, Mr. Durand?"

"I'm afraid to say, until I find out," Durand said desolately. "I'm afraid even to think—"

Simms had to stop first and secure his teller's home address; then they hurriedly left, climbed back into the same carriage that had brought Durand, and were driven to a frugal little squeezed-in house on Dumaine street.

Simms got out, deterred Durand with a kindly intended gesture of his hand, evidently hoping to spare him as much as possible. "Suppose you wait here. I'll go in and talk to him."

He went inside to be gone perhaps ten minutes at the most. To Durand it seemed he had been left ou. there the whole night.

At last the door opened and Simms had reappeared. Durand leaped, as though a spring had been released, to meet him, trying to read his face for the tidings as he went toward him. It looked none too saguine.

"What is it? For heaven's sake, tell me!"

"Steady, Mr. Durand, steady." Simms put a supporting arm about him just below the turn of the shoulders. "You had thirty thousand, fifty one dollars, forty cents in your check-cashing account and twenty thousand and ten in your savings account this morning when we opened for business—"

"I know that! I know that already! That isn't what I want to know—"

The teller had followed Simms out. The manager gestured to him surreptitiously, handing over to him the unwelcome responsibility of answering the question.

"Your wife appeared at five minutes of three to make a last-minute withdrawal," the teller said.

"Your balance at closing-time was fifty-one dollars, forty cents in the one account, ten dollars in the other. To have closed them both out entirely, your own signature would have been necessary."

THE office of the Commisisoner of Police, in the Police Headquarters building, was not particularly prepossessing, but since it was not for social usage but strictly for work, this doubtless was of no great moment.

The visitor sat down in a large black leather chair, lumpy with broken spring coils.

"Now, sir," prodded the commissioner.

"My name is Louis Durand," the visitor said. "I was married on May the twentieth, last, to a woman who came from St. Louis and called herself Julia Russell. I had never seen her before. I have the certificate of marriage here with me. Yesterday, the fifteenth of June, she withdrew fifty thousand dollars from her bank account and disappeared. I have not seen her since. I want a warrant issued for the arrest of this woman. I want her apprehended, brought to trial, and the money returned to me."

The commissioner said nothing for some time. It was obvious that this was not inattention or disinterest, but on the contrary a sudden excessive amount of both. It was equally obvious that he was rephrasing the story, to himself, in his own mind; familiarizing himself with it.

"May I see the certificate?" he said at last.

Durand tendered it to him.

He read it carefully, but said nothing further in respect to it. In fact, he asked two questions more.

One was: "You said you had never seen her before; how was that?"

Durand explained the nature of the courtship, and added, moreover, that he believed her not to be the woman he had proposed to, but an imposter. He gave the reasons for that belief, but admitted he had no proof.

The commissioner's second and final question, spoken through steeple-joined fingers, was:

"Did she forge your name in order to withdraw the funds?"

Durand shook his head. "She signed her own. I had given her authorization with the bank to do so."

The commissioner addressed Durand with leisurely deliberation. "I would like to talk this matter over with by associates first," he admitted, "before I take any sort of action. If you'll allow me to keep this marriage certificate for the time being, I'll see that it's returned to you. Suppose you come back tomorrow at this same time, Dr. Durand."

"Thank you, Mr. Commissioner," Durand said, rising.

"Don't thank me for anything yet. Let us wait and see first."

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

THIS is not a free advertisement for New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel, one of the world's great caravansaries.

In the first place you could probably not get a room there if you tried. In the second place you'd have to pay at least fifteen dollars for a small double room if you could get one. In the third place a dinner there would cost you no less than five dollars a person and the parking of your car no less than three dollars a day. In the fourth place I don't advertise anything.

BRANDIES,

But I do want you to read part of an essay which a 12-year-old boy wrote in his classroom when he was asked to set down his impressions of the Waldorf after his class had visited the hotel.

"We saw the great building inside and were greatly impressed," he wrote.

"But there was something far greater than the steel and the marble and wood that impressed us. The materials used in this building flowed from the factories, quarries, and foundries of a great and free country. Behind the machines and tools of this industry are the representatives of almost every race and religion on earth.

"Why do they work here? Because they know it is here they can live and work in peace, never fearing Communistic oppressors. So from their machines come not only the materials for this building, but an understanding born of those working for a common cause."

I am writing the boy's next paragraph in capital letters and I hope that every newspaper that prints this column will publish it that way:

"NOW RISING, SHINING IN THE SKY, IS NOT ONLY THIS BUILDING BUT A SYMBOL OF A FAR GREATER ONE. ONE OF TOLERANCE, UNITY AND UNDERSTANDING. A MONUMENT TO FREE PEOPLES EVERYWHERE. TRULY A GREAT BUILDING!"

This essay was written by a 12-year-old boy. I am not quoting it for style or beauty of language.

I am quoting it for its sincerity and truth.

NO, this is not a free advertisement for the Waldorf Astoria. It is a free advertisement for the free American of which the Waldorf Astoria is a symbol.

And of which your home is a symbol, and my home.

That home of yours and that home of mine, just like the Waldorf, was built with materials coming out of factories and foundries and quarries of a great and free country.

That home of yours and that home of mine are the result of the labors of "representatives of almost every race and religion on earth" who work here because, as the boy said, they can live in peace and without fear of oppressors.

SOLID FRONT SOUGHT

Labor Guards Gains

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The major labor organizations of the nation are not so sure of their future political status and strength as their post-election claims of having been responsible for President Truman's election indicate.

A detailed White House study of the returns convinces several Truman aides that their boss would have lost without the unexpected support of the agricultural population.

TUCKER

Labor worked hard and did a good job of getting out the urban vote for the President, but he had that block of ballots in his pocket, anyway, because of his veto of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Even with the majorities which the unions rolled up for him in the cities, Mr. Truman would have lost if Governor Dewey had polled a decent vote in the normally rural, Republican areas.

INTEREST: Factory and farm interests will collide in the next Congress on many issues. Although the C.I.O.'s economic program calls for a high income for the producers of food, labor spokesman favor the more flexible measure providing for lower parity prices after 1949.

Almost every house member friendly to labor voted for repeal of federal taxes on oleomargarine at the last session. And most reelected M. C.'s from agrarian areas clamor for retention of the Taft-Hartley Act.

There never has been and there is not now a community of political and economic interest between labor and agriculture on Capitol Hill. When they vote alike, as they did on behalf of President Truman, it is for entirely different reasons.

RACE: Labor's anti-agricultural race for President Truman's ear and favor explains the peculiar behaviour of William Green and Philip Murray since November 2. They don't want the man in the White House to get any false notions that he owes his triumph to any element except the unions. They suspect that he regrets his first, rash utterance of thankfulness to the effect that "Labor did it!"

In their private talks with CIO President Murray and with John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, Mr. Green's A. F. of L. emissaries have emphasized the argument that, if they want to capitalize to the full on November 2, they must unite their now quibbling organizations.

To put it bluntly, they want to mobilize their combined 15,000,000 membership, counting independent unions, so that they can "gang up" against the White House and Congress.

REUNION: Labor claims to have defeated 88 men who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act, but there are still enough Republicans and conservative Democrats to override a bill for outright repeal of the law.

Only by presenting a united "labor front," Mr. Greer maintains, can enough members be frightened so stiff that they will vote for scrapping the measure.

These bread-and-butter considerations seem to provide practical reasons for a consolidation of the three separate units. There was never greater need or a better opportunity, in A. F. of L. opinion, for a labor reunion. Negotiations on detailed and jurisdictional problems will take months, but they present no mountainous difficulty.

BLESSING: John L. might not bend his Shakespearean knee enough to ally formally with his old buddies, whom he despises for their sixteen-year obeisance to Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman. But he will probably give a gruff blessing to a loose alliance for the reasons listed above.

If these 15,000,000 reunite, they should be able to control the votes of at least 30,000,000 people, including relatives and firends. That is more than fifty per cent of the number of citizens who voted in 1940, 1944 and 1948.

KANGAROO: Republicans will probably argue for another four years, as they have been debating for four weeks, on whether their 1948 presidential presentation was a "kangaroo ticket," meaning that it was heavier at the bottom than at the top. Meaning, too, as many GOP leaders have contended all along, that Governor Earl Warren of California should have been the presidential offering, and the once defeated Dewey vice-presidential nominee.

Another political apple of discord concerns Dewey-Warren campaign tactics. The question among returning House and Senate members of the opposition is whether the G.O.P. entries would not have won more votes if they had slugged it out with President Truman instead of indulging in pipe dreams of victory from the very day they were nominated.

SPECULATE: It may be impossible to answer these questions categorically, but a batch of letters from editors and political correspondents, together with a checkup of the returns in erstwhile Republican areas, provides a basis for speculative conclusions.

The first is that, despite his charm and his attractive personality, Governor Warren added no strength to the ticket. He was expected to enable the G.O.P. to sweep the West. That was his sole political claim to the secondary nomination.

He lost his own state of California. Even more significant as a sidelight on his drawing power, the Republicans carried only two states west of the Mississippi river. They were Kansas and Oregon, which are almost as rock-ribbed for the G.O.P. as Maine and Vermont.

As a sidelight on Dewey-Warren campaign tactics, it appears that they lost thousands of votes by their mild and milky approach. Governor Warren did not show his expected strength because he was regarded by western Republicans as "too liberal" on account of his views on labor, socialized medicine, public power etc.

So, present evidence suggests that Governor Warren did not help the ticket, and that a more vigorous anti-Truman offensive might have brought out many more two-fisted Republicans.

The know-all type of man is the one that doesn't know the things his friends should tell him.

ACTION ON CHANGES IS URGED

Congressional Reforms Studied

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Analyze the November 2 election as you will—and the analysis still is going on—it is generally recognized that one factor in the Truman victory was the ready-made issue and target that Republicans handed the President in the 80th Congress that they controlled and managed.

As a result, Congress itself has come under close analysis since the election, not just the 80th Congress, but Congress as an institution and why it fails so often to be responsive to and reflect the public will.

This is now, and for the immediate future, a problem for the Democrats. Some of them already are giving thought to reforms in the procedures of Congress, for if the administration's program falls down in the next two years, then Democrats may face the same trouble Republicans did this year. Republicans, too, are taking a close look, for this is a long-range problem. They are conscious how much a part their record in the 80th Congress played in their defeat.

STOKES

Solution Is Sought

During the campaign President Truman dramatized one road-block that thwarts the public will when he pointed out how the seniority system, under which committee chairmen are selected purely and automatically on the basis of longevity of service, had brought to the top in Republican management of Congress men whom he called "mossbacks." They reflected, he said, a bygone era and blocked progressive legislation needed today. His indictment was accurate.

It may take some time to find a solution to the seniority problem, as explained here recently, though it surely should be made a part of the administration's program for the next Congress.

But there is another road-block that could very well negate the Truman election victory, or considerably minimize it, about which something can be done immediately. A movement already is underway, as a matter of fact.

This road-block is the House Rules committee. Though ostensibly a procedural committee, it has arrogated to itself the power to legislate on occasion pigeonholing bills presented to it in a routine way for a "rule" for consideration by the House, as to date, time for debate, and so on. All such bills presented for a "rule" have already been thoroughly considered and approved by the proper legislative committee of the House. This committee is invariably composed of veteran members, a majority of them very conservative.

It was the Rules committee that pigeonholed the Taft-Ellender-Wagner long-range housing bill in the last Congress and refused to let the House vote on it, though the Senate had passed the measure and the House Banking and Currency committee, the appropriate legislative committee, had approved it. This high-handed, arbitrary action certainly was an influence in the Democratic election victory. It must have affected the votes of many veterans.

Solons Back Plan

A move now underway to remove this veto power of the Rules committee is promising because it has bi-partisan sponsorship in Reps. Christian A. Herter (R-Mass), himself a member of the Rules committee, and Herman P. Eberharter (D-Pa). Co-operating is Rep. Mike Monroney (D-Okla), who was co-chairman of the joint committee that drafted what became the Congressional reorganization act of 1946 that achieved some reforms in congressional machinery and procedures to make them more efficient and more Democratic.

The proposal is to require the Rules committee to consider within a reasonable time, a week or two weeks, requests from legislative committees for House consideration of bills they had approved, and vote "yes" or "no." This decision then would go to the House for a vote to sustain or reject the Rules committee. Thus the Rules committee would be prevented from sidetracking or burying bills.

The plan is to try to eliminate the Rules committee "veto" at the opening of Congress when the House rules are presented formally for approval, as they are every year.

Another proposal is that a two-thirds vote of the House be required to impose a "gag rule" in consideration of bills, instead of a simple majority as now. Such "gag rules," which shut out amendments from the floor, occassionally are proposed by the Rules committee acting for the House leadership, and are always bitterly opposed by a minority, though both parties resort to this practice when in power.

MARKET CONTINUES SLUMP

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—The stock market gradually worked its way downward today and reached a new low since mid-March.

Declines ranged from fractions to 2 points or more, with most a point or less. A good handful of issues managed to take on small gains.

Prices were responsive to only small orders.

Today's decline was the latest in a series which got under way in earnest immediately after the presidential elections. Tax selling was named the main source of supply for stocks.

Brokers reported a good underlying reservior of orders at or slightly below current levels but they admitted that any significant selling could wipe out such supports.

Many issues established new lows for the year or longer although some extreme declines were trimmed. Offerings became a little more insistent during the last hour or so.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .3 of one point to 62.6, the lowest since 62.2 was hit on March 19. This compared with the 1948 low made in February, of 60.3.

Volume expanded to 1,200,000 shares from 1,010,000 Monday.

Airline stocks showed independent firmness, possibly the result of talk of a higher air mail rate.

Eire racehorse owners will start a horse air transport service.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP) — Cotton futures were firm today on new export demand and the influence of the heavy movement of cotton into the government loan. Mill and commission house buying carried some deliveries into new high ground for the current move.

Futures extended their gains to $1.50 a bale before reacting slightly on profit taking. New crop months lagged in the face of uncertainty of the farm program next year and the decline in the mid-November cotton parity.

Cotton futures rallied into new high ground for the day in late trading on more active mill buying and short covering.

Futures closed 30 cents to $1.70 a bale higher than the previous close.

Shutdowns Blocked

company, told the court on behalf of Sterling Oil and Refining company, Humble, and other operators involved in the Heyser field hearing.

Jones and other attorneys argued that it is physically impossible to stop the flaring or venting of casinghead gas until compressor plants are installed and pipelines built to carry the gas from the fields. Such projects are being completed as rapidly as building materials can be secured, they said.

Forsee Law Suits

The physical loss of oil caused by the shutdown order would far exceed the value of gas now being flared, they declared. They anticipated law suits on the part of property owners whose leases are on a basis of continued production.

They predicted many wells could not be restored to production if they were once shut down, and said the fields would suffer salt water damage if forced to remain idle.

It appeared likely the oil companies were laying groundwork for an ultimate appeal to the United States supreme court if necessary. Their attorneys repeatedly said the commission order would deny them property rights "without due process of law' as guaranteed by the 14th amendment to the U. S. constitution.

Assistant attorney general Elton Hyder, jr., representing the railroad commission, denied the validity of the plaintiffs' arguments.

Rail Board Hearings Cited

He called attention to the fact that the railroad commission had held several hearings between 1946 and the present time to determine the extent of gas flaring and to eliminate such waste

The Heyser field operators were warned by these hearings that they could expect to be shutdown if they did not make beneficial use of the gas taken out of the ground incidental to the production of oil, Hyder said.

He said more than 20 million cubic feet of gas is being flared daily in the Heyser field, "enough to take care of the needs of a city like Austin for one and a half days."

The 16 fields to which the commission order would apply are flaring three billion cubic feet of gas every 10 days, enough to supply Austin for six months, he added.

The Heyser hearing is the first of 17 challenging the commission's authority to halt alleged wasteful flaring of gas by means of shutdown orders. Three of the 17 hearings will be in Judge J. Harris Gardner's 53rd district court, the remainder in Judge Betts' court.

New Child Training Program Of Presbyterian Church Described

CINCINNATI, Nov. 30 (INS) — A "new curriculum" program by the Presbyterian church for the training of children in Christianity was described today by a religious educator as a "peaceful revolution in the church."

Dr. Raymond V. Kearns of the Presbyterian board of Christian education in Philadelphia told of the program in a speech before a meeting of the national conference on church and home in Cincinnati. He said:

"The revolution started officially on the first Sunday in October when a new program of Christian education was launched in over 6,000 of our churches."

Dr. Kearns said the program, which he termed a "new curriculum," is directed to the family as the most important teaching medium of the church.

The "revolutionary" aspect of the program, he asserted, is giving parents the concrete job of training their children at home in Christian principles.

Dr. Kearns said books have been issued for home reading which are "written in attractive story form and packed with abundant, colorful and accurate illustrations."

Jester Expects To Decide Soon Whether To Call Special Session

AUSTIN, Nov. 30. (U.P.)—Gov. Beauford Jester expects to decide "within the next day or two" whether he will call a special session of the legislature to consider recommendations of the Gilmer-Aiken committee on education, a spokesman for the state's chief executive said today.

"The governor," the spokesman said, "is considering the Gilmer-Aiken committee's request for a special session of the legislature today, and expects to reach a decision within the next day or two."

Favors Report In General

Jester returned overnight to Austin from Houston where he addressed the National Association of Attorneys General.

He was devoting today to "attempting to catch up with his correspondence, clemency recommendaions and other important matters."

Among the latter, was the Gilmer-Aikin committee recommendations.

The governor is known to favor the report in general terms.

However, thus far, he has given no indication that he favors calling of a special term.

He has rejected similar requests for special session on previous occasions.

It was also revealed that over the weekend the governor shot a 13-pound wild turkey and killed an eight-point buck. The deer was taken with the first shot ever fired by the governor from a new rifle.

The buck was killed on the Woody ranch near Kerrville.

While in that area, the governor also inspected the Kerrville sanatorium.

Earlier today, he participated in ceremonies involving the first group of selective service inductees at the local selective service office.

Nine men, none of them from Austin, joined the Army.

Underground Church Reported In Russia

DUESSELDORF, Germany, Nov. 30. (AP)—A Jesuit priest said yesterday he had made a secret mission to Russia and discovered there a "cave church" with millions of followers.

Rev. Kurz Szekalla declared in an interview his visit to the Soviet Union in disguise revealed that a vast underground Christian movement existed but that its leaders were vigorously persecuted by Soviet authorities.

The priest's story was vouched for by the office of Josef Cardinal Frings, archbishop of Cologne. Church officials said his visit to Russia to contact Christians there was made under Roman Catholic church orders.

Grocery Store-Service Station Is Destroyed By Fire At Acuff

ACUFF, Nov. 30. (Special)—A fire which started at about 11:30 o'clock Monday night completely destroyed the Elmer Rush Grocery store here.

Cause of the fire, which burned the 1,500-square-foot building to the ground, was not known.

Four Lubbock city firemen were called to the blaze, and succeeded in preventing spread of the fire to a nearby house.

The building, a combination service station-grocery, stood on the south side of the highway through Acuff.
