DRY LAW SEEN AS ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

ANTI - SALOON LEAGUE GIRDS FOR FIGHT ON PROHIBITION

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9—The Anti-Saloon league, in annual convention here, today girded itself for another battle on behalf of prohibition in the presidential campaign of 1932 after hearing F. Scott McBride, its general superintendent, predict the dry law would be a leading issue then.

Denouncing the recently advanced plan of John J. Raskob, national chairman of the Democratic party, for state control of liquor, McBride charged last night that the proposal was backed by "the multi-millionaires of the east."

"They come forward now and tell the southern states what they should do and offer states' rights," he said.

"To repeal prohibition is mercy to encourage those fellows who are enemies of the things we love. This is no time for us to haul down the Stars and Stripes to blanch anarchy and lawlessness."

President Hoover," Dr. McBride stated, "said more in the ten minutes following his oath of office and has stood by it more closely than any of the presidents who preceded him. It is now up to the law abiding people of the United States to stand behind President Hoover and the constitution to block any movement for making the prohibition question one of state option."

Abilene Woman Slays Husband

WIFE OF SALESMAN SAYS MATE RETURNED HOME DRUNK, THREATENED HER WITH DEATH; TO REASSEMBLE GRAND JURY FOR PROBE

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, March 9 — The grand jury of 104th district court, dismissed last week, was summoned for reassembling next Monday to consider a charge of murder filed here late yesterday against Mrs. Virginia Pigg.

The woman's husband, M. I. Pigg, 33, traveling fire salesman of Abilene, was shot and killed early Sunday afternoon at his home here. One bullet fired from a 38-calibre revolver in the hands of his young wife, pierced his heart and he fell dead at her feet—the tragic culmination of a stormy ten minutes following his return after an absence of more than 24 hours.

Mrs. Pigg's defense is that her husband, under the influence of drink, attacked and threatened her with death. It was his life or hers, she contended.

The 18-months-old child of the couple, Patricia Lee, was the only other person in the house. When neighbors, summoned by the weeping wife, hastened to the Pigg home, they found the child sitting in her high chair in the bedroom in which the shooting had occurred, looking down innocently at the body of her father. Pigg, fully dressed and with coat open, was lying on his back, a widening stain of red on his breast.

The room was in disarray, suggestive of a struggle. A bathroom door was badly splintered around the knob.

"I didn't mean to shoot him, I only fired to frighten him, but it was his life or mine," cried Mrs. Pigg, sobbing out her story to neighbors. It was, that her husband had been away since early Saturday. She had sought him vainly, she said. When he returned Sunday afternoon and she protested at his absence, he attacked her,

ARGUMENTS IN TRIAL TODAY

EVIDENCE GIVES WAY TO ORATORY IN DRAVES CASE

(Special To The Journal)

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 9. — Evidence gave way to oratory today as rival counsel began to sum up testimony which the state of Indiana relies upon to send Virgil Kirkland to the Michigan City prison electric chair for the death of Arlene Draves, his 18-year-old sweetheart.

For twelve days the seven men making the final arguments have parried and thrust at each others' contentions regarding happenings at a Gary, Ind., drinking party last November 29 which tragically ended in the death of the girl. Kirkland and four others were charged with her attack and murder.

Through two weeks of testimony, interrupted one day while the body was exhumed at Reynolds, Ind., and a second autopsy, sought by the defense, was performed, avid crowds of spectators stormed the old Porter county court house to listen to the lurid narrations.

TEXAS SCHOOLS CONSIDERED

SENATORS CONCUR IN HOUSE MEASURE TO COMPLETE TERMS

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 9.—The senate worked for 100,000 school children of Texas this morning.

It concurred with the house in amendments tacked onto a bill which asked that school districts be allowed to issue interest bearing warrants to their teachers as pay in order that the schools might complete the regular term of work.

Both houses passed the bill last week.

The emergency legislation was drawn solely for 1931. Warrants would bear six per cent per annum. They would be issued to fall due on December 31.

The senate before it sent the bill back to the house added two amendments drawn by Sen. Parrish of Lubbock. One Parrish amendment stated that when the holder of emergency warrants was notified in writing that the school district had sufficient funds to pay the indebtedness the interest on the warrant would automatically stop. The other Parrish amendment said that no warrant which had been issued and sold prior to the passage of bill would bear interest.

DEATH TOLL IN MIDDLEWEST SIXTEEN

FARMERS REJOICING AT HEAVY SNOW IN CORN BELT

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 9. — Silver linings appeared today in the storm clouds that brought a two-day blizzard to the corn belt states of the middlewest and left a trail of deaths estimated at 16.

Farmers throughout the area, which has suffered from lack of moisture this winter, were rejoicing at the heavy blanket of snow, while thousands of unemployed had money in their pockets which otherwise would not have been there if the storm had not struck. In Chicago alone 35,000 men were put to work clearing away the drifts.

Benefits Heavy

While no definite figures were available as to the benefits to agriculture, agriculturists believed the benefits would far outweigh the damage to property.

Thirteen of the 16 deaths reported occurred in Chicago. Among the victims was an 18-year-old boy, electrocuted when he touched a high tension wire while sweeping snow from the top of a street car—the first job he had been able to find in months. For a time it was feared that four more deaths would be added to the list through the loss of four fishermen on Lake Michigan on the tug Palmer, after being missing for more than 40 hours. The tug which came out of Kenosha, Wis., made port here last night.

Whipped by high winds the snow piled into drifts that reached a height of 20 feet in some localities, but normal conditions were gradually restored for the most part yesterday as the storm moved eastward. Motorists were hard hit.

RAYMOND KOENINGER IS FOUND DEAD EARLY SUNDAY IN HIS ROOM; LEAVES SIX NOTES

SENIOR STUDENT OF PLAINVIEW DIES RESULT OF POISONING; "I'VE SMILED AS LONG AS I CAN", YOUTH SAYS IN FAREWELL NOTE

Leaving penciled messages to his family and college mates in which he said "I've smiled as long as I can" and still wearing the tuxedo he had worn to the Junior Prom, Frederick Raymond Koeninger, 22-year-old Texas Technological college senior, died of poison at about 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

A verdict of suicide was returned Sunday afternoon by Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter, who conducted an investigation of the death earlier in the day. Analysis of contents of a glass found in Koeninger's room where he took the posion showed it to be strychnine according to Dr. B. J. Roberts. The student's gasps awoke his roommate, who discovered his condition and with other students took Koeninger to Lubbock sanitarium. He died as he was placed on a couch in an emergency room within 10 minutes after being found.

Funeral services were to be held today at the First Baptist church at Plainview, Hour of the rites had not been learned. Burial was to be at Plainview. Several Technological college students expected to attend the services.

Six notes were clutched in one of Koeninger's hands and a good-luck charm and a wrist watch in the other when his condition was discovered as he lay prone across a bed in his room. The notes were to his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Koeninger of near Plainview; his brother, Rupert Koeninger, a 1929 graduate of Technological college and now a teacher at Columbia Falls, Mont., his three sisters, Miss Christine Koeninger, 20, a teacher of near Plainview, and Mary Elizabeth, 11, and Ouida, 8; his roommate, Arland "Pete" Smith of Colorado City, and a woman student at the college. THIRD VICTIM IN COLLAPSE

BROTHER OF STRANGLED VIVIAN GORDON IS NEAR MADNESS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Mar. 9. —The third victim of a trilogy of murder, suicide and near madness, Pierre M. Franklin, brother of strangled Vivian Gordon, tossed fitfully in a hospital today under heavy guard.

Yesterday—the eleventh day since his racketeer sister's body was found in a park thicket and the sixth since the lifeless form of his 16-year-old niece was found in a gas-filled kitchen—Franklin suffered a mental collapse and forcibly was taken to the psychopathic ward of Bellvue, strapped to a strecher.

Finally Subdued

Early in the morning he dashed half-clad into the hall from his room in a hotel — shuting and a ing. Five house detectives and a nurse labored with him for three hours before they could subdue him. When police arrived, they found him lying on the bathroom floor, gibbering.

His room was littered with newspaper clippings revealing the sordid underworld life that led Vivian Gordon to her death and shamed her daughter, Benita Bischoff, into an untimely grave. Photographs of his sister, a striking auburn haired woman, in a variety of poses and of his niece in her first dancing costume lined the walls.

QUAKE CLAIMS FROM 80 TO 150 LIVES

JUGOSLAVIA, BULGARIA ARE ROCKED; THINK 500 ARE INJURED

(By The Associated Press)

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Mar. 9. —Between 80 and 150 dead were counted today in eastern Jugoslavia and adjacent Bulgaria, rocked before dawn Saturday and yesterday by severe earthquakes. More than 900 buildings and other structures in eastern Jugoslavia were demolished, and 500 persons are estimated to have been injured.

Shaken from their beds, and panic stricken after Saturday morning's quakes, residents of the borderline country were afraid to go back to their homes until late Saturday. At four a. m. Sunday morning they were routed into the open again in their bed clothes, screaming and making for woods which afforded some shelter from the bitter weather without the danger of falling masonry.

The quakes, both Saturday and yesterday, extended from eastern Jugo-Slavia across Bulgaria to the shores of the Black sea. The epicenter was near Drama, Bulgaria. The quakes were felt in Greece, where 70 houses were destroyed in the village of Kavallion, and in eastern Thrace and Adrianople. The more severe shocks knocked the seismograph needles from the dials at the observatories here. Chimneys fell over the entire area.

King Alexander and Premier General Zivkovitch left here during the day for southern Serbia to superintend relief operations, which were already under way.

FUNERAL NOT SET FOR CHARLES LYNE

Funeral services for Charles J. Lyne, 62-year-old South Plains pioneer and former rancher, have not been completed. The body is at Bynum-Morgan funeral home, attaches of which said arrangement of the rites had been deferred pending arrival of relatives.

A former cattleman, Mr. Lyne had operated a ranch in Gaines county before coming to Lubbock county, where he acquired other lands. Ill health last December forced him to quit his work for Fred Snyder, Lubbock cattleman. He was one of the cowboys attached to the Surratt's headquarters in Cochran county, a portion of the Snyder cattle holdings.

Death was attributed to heart disease. Mr. Lyne is survived by two small sons, a brother and a sister.

PRACTICE OF SELF DENIAL IS GOOD FOR ALL OF US

I have just returned from a walk. (A few of us still have legs. In the year 2930 legitis may be just as prevalent as appendicitis). I passed by a grocery store on whose window was "Suggestions for Lent." And here I go:

In my particular training I never was exposed to the self-denying practices of Lent. Neither was my wife; so our children have not been. But I think we have missed something. Those who faithfully deny themselves some cherished food or pleasure during this period are exercising will power. Such self-discipline is good for character. The one great thing in all leading religions is self-sacrifice.

No matter what particular religion to which anyone belongs, we are duty bound, if we are large of soul and have ideals, to admire him who lives up to his convictions and is loyal to the cause he has espoused; and the more self-sacrific he makes in doing so, the greater, as a rule, should be our admiration.

Our religion sometimes makes us mean and narrow, makes us feel sometimes that we are superior to our fellows of different faiths. But when it does it is a pretty poor religion with a shade of immorality in it. Furthermore, it is hard to think of a Heavenly Father loving us the more as we love anyone else, or any group of fellows less. It does not matter so much about us as about our children. They have longer to live, to be happy or unhappy, longer to make others happy or unhappy.

I believe that we who do not make some self-denials during Lent, or do not go without meat on Fridays, or abstain from pork at any time, or at any price, miss something in our spiritual growth and personality if we do not learn to respect and even to admire those who out of loyalty to their faiths, exercise self-sacrifices of this sort.

What must our children miss if they learn from us to belittle or to speak slightingly of others who for conscience sake pursue such religious practices. Surely it were easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for us and our children to enter the kingdom of heaven or abide in the kingdom of love, if we and they fail to learn some self-denial and to admire those who exercise it faithfully.

Most of us do not give up enough. Surely our children don't. They, too often have their wishes gratified. It is hard for us to say "No", even when we are sure we ought. We fool ourselves that we are generous when, as a rule, we never were more selfish. We dread to see our children disappointed; we loathe to see them even look displeased. We gratify our own appetites by giving them too much. If we had more will power, had more character, we would more often prove self-sacrificing by denying more to them that we know they should not have.

No matter what our religious training may have been, no matter what the name of our sect may be, Lent ought to have a wholesome meaning for us.

Blessed is the child who has parents with convictions and with character enough to be loyal to them.

Scarf Necklines Are Important In The Silhouette

Left, three-quarter jacket costume of navy blue cloth, center, beltless three-quarter coat of brown tweed with cowl neckline; right, coat of nubbed tweed with detachable caracul collar.

By LUCY CLAIRE
(Fashion Writer for Central Press)

Now that the silhouette has been settled and is being universally accepted, there is nothing but the details to worry about for the next few years. But the details come aplenty. Necklines at the moment are most important. The cowl neckline has marked a trend toward the closed to the throat neck. The Peter Pan comes to the fore in the newer frocks, especially in Palm Beach styles, but most important of all is the scarf. No coat is complete without its scarf. It may be separate or attached, matching or contrasting, worn inside the coat collar or itself forming the collar.

While at the beginning of the winter season every coat had its belt, many of the newer models are now beltless. In the three-quarter jacket costumes the belt is not considered important. One of the three quarter costumes is shown at the left of the sketch. This is the flare from the shoulder type generally favored by the youthful figure for afternoon wear. It is fashioned of navy blue cloth, has the new flared sleeve, a self-scarf which forms the suspicion of a collar in the back and ties at the front, and is worn with blue kid shoes slightly darker than the coat, and a blue felt hat.

Another example of the beltless coat is shown at the center. Here the cowl neckline is introduced in the button over to side treatment extending to the hemline. The coat is of brown tweed, and is worn with brown kid shoes slightly darker in tone, and a brown hat. Incrustations at the sides define the waistline, and add grace to the silhouette.

According to prediction much fur will be worn way into the spring. Nearly all the more dressy coats for Palm Beach are fur trimmed. But as fur is apt to be too warm under tropic suns, or on a summery spring day, the coats are so fashioned that the fur collar can be detached, leaving a finished neckline that can be worn with or without the inevitable scarf. The coat at the right features this trick. The material is nubbed tweed. The deep revers are of caracul. The cuffs are of self fabric, fitted and slightly flared. Where we find the removable fur collar we do not find fur on the cuffs of coats, the idea being a two-in-one fashion, whereby the possessor may have a fur trimmed or all fabric coat as the fancy strikes her.

WHEN you buy soap, the only way you can tell how much you're getting for your money is by the weight of the package. Size means nothing. A large carton full of soap flakes or bubbles can contain actually less soap than a carton of White King Granulated Soap half its size!

That's because White King Granulated Soap is condensed. It packs closely in the carton, like sugar. And it's absolutely pure and safe . . . for blankets, dishes or lingerie. It's made from fine vegetable and nut oils.

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK means to Camel Smokers*

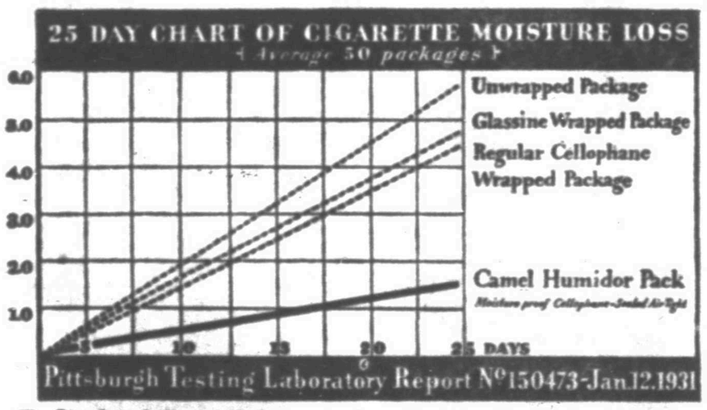

COMPARE a package of Camels with any other cigarette and note the difference in the technique of packing.

Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point.

We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment.

It means, for instance, that evaporation is checkmated and that Salt Lake City can now have as good Camels as Winston-Salem.

The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

While Camels are made of a blend of the choicest Turkish and mellowest domestic tobaccos, it is highly important, if you are to get full benefit of this quality, that these cigarettes come to you with their natural moisture content still intact.

The Humidor Pack insures that. It prevents the fine tobaccos of Camels from drying out and losing any of their delightful flavor.

Aside from cheap tobacco, two factors in a cigarette can mar the smoker's pleasure:

Fine particles of peppery dust if left in the tobacco by inefficient cleaning methods sting and irritate delicate throat membrane.

Dry tobacco, robbed of its natural moisture by scorching or by evaporation gives off a hot smoke that burns the throat with every inhalation.

We take every precaution against these factors here at Winston-Salem.

A special vacuum cleaning apparatus removes dust and now the new Humidor Pack prevents dryness.

Check the difference yourself

It is a very simple matter to check the difference between Humidor Packed Camels and other ordinary dry cigarettes.

First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco.

If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference.

The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker.

As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended.

But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat.

If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means.

But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store.

Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

Thought For Today

For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me.—Psalm 51:3.

Self-condemnation is God's absolution; and pleading guilt, acquittal at his bar.—Bartol.

Realism

The world may pretend that it is cynical, doubting, hard-boiled. But underneath it is still hoping that the stories which begin with "Once upon a time" have a better chance of letting the prince and princess live happily everafter than the divorce courts seem to suggest.

When Edna Best, the English actress, gave up an important role in a Hollywood play not long ago, merely because she was homesick for her husband and wanted to be with him, she really did more for that screen than if she had stayed and thing conquered her loneliness. She personified that there is something to spect moonlight-and-roses theme of out of which sparkles on the silver cre[en]. She brought the make-be[lie]ve world and the everyday reality that all of us know a little closer together. Most people are more or less touched with cynicism because they have donned it as an armor. There is nothing that they like better than to find proof that perhaps some of it is an unnecessary protection.

A Fine Spectacle

Somehow, for no good reason at all, we are glad to hear that David S. Ingalls, assitant secretary of the navy for air, has reported that the war games carried on by the U. S. fleet in Caribean waters have definitely proved the necessity for big dirigibles like the Los Angeles.

We say this, not because we are convinced that the giant dirigible is particularly effective as a naval auxiliary—we know nothing about it—but because a large dirigible is one of the most inspiring sights modern life affords. Commerce does not yet seem quite sure that it can use these giant ships, and they are too big and expensive for private use. It is up to the navy to keep them alive; and simply because they are fine things to look at, we are glad that the navy feels them to be essential components of its fleet.

Nearing Spring

Signs of spring are many and varied, and most of them date back to prehistoric ages, when primitive man scanned the hillside and the forest to see omens of the death of winter. But the best sign we know of is strictly modern and strictly American—the departure of the professional baseball players for the spring training camps.

Here is a harbinger that cannot be denied or overlooked. When those stories from the training camps begin appearing in the newspapers, sent off with photographs of the athletes toiling under the hot sun, we know that spring is at hand. We may never see a game of professional baseball in our lives. But it does not matter. When the ball clubs go south, spring is at hand—or, if not at hand, just around the corner.

Prince's Pajamas

During his stay at the presidential summer palace in Chile, so the story goes, the Prince of Wales arose daily at noon, sauntered into the open garden attired only in a pair of vivid blue pajamas and, oblivious to staring eyes, nonchalantly went through his daily dozen.

Somehow this news, shocking as it may appear to some, is refreshing. It is refreshing in the same way the news is that the king of Belgium dunks his toast in coffee at breakfast. Stories like these help dispel the illusion that world figures move about in an atmosphere of stiff dignity and statliness. They show, rather, that they are human.

It is not difficult to understand why the finger of scorn has often been pointed at figures in public life for manners unbecoming to their station. The demands made upon them are most exacting. Few realize the strain required to show at all times in public the proper poise, attention, decorum. It must be indeed a great relief when the tension is relieved.

THF PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says until engagement rings are made non-transferable young men will go on trying to kill two girls with one stone.

ALTHOUGH he has no axe to grind one way or another, it has occurred to The Plainsman that the railroads might resort to other methods besides legislation to compete with the bus lines. Owning neither bus nor rail stock, the writer is as neutral as anybody in town on the rail-bus rookus but if the railroads in this section, at least, looked a little closer to equipment perhaps they wouldn't be in such a stew over where the passenger business is going, and why.

The other day The Plainsman went to Amarillo to attend the Fat Stock show. He caught the 4:15 p. m. Santa Fe out of Lubbock and asked for a Pullman. There is no Pullman on that train for a very good reason—the demand on the part of the public is not enough to make running a Pullman a profitable venture.

However, instead of equiping the train with a chair car or two—with linen covers to protect clothing from the dust of travel, the train boasted nothing but antiquated day coaches—as dusty as every day coach you ever saw in your life. The same situation held coming back on the train which left Amarillo at 8:30 a. m. and arrived in Lubbock at 11:40. There was no Pullman service—which possibly cannot be expected—and there was no chair car. The old fashioned day coach, with its plush seats reeking with dust, was all there was to ride in.

A couple of weeks ago, when the roads were too heavy for an automobile, The Plainsman went to Post to the Old Timers celebration, riding the noon train to the Garza county city. Laying over in Post all night, he caught the early morning Santa Fe from Post, leaving about 5:56 a. m. and arriving in Lubbock shortly after 7 o'clock. Five minutes before the train was due to leave Post The Plainsman went to the ticket window to buy a pasteboard at the regular rate. The ticket agent was busy loading express and didn't have time to sell tickets. There was nothing left to do but board the train without the pasteboard.

The conductor came along and The Plainsman tendered cash. Because the ticket agent was busy with his express and was not there to sell tickets, it cost the traveler something like 20 cents over the rate to ride from Post to Lubbock—although it was no fault of his that he had no ticket. The conductor explained by saying, "The ticket agent has to handle the baggage and express stuff and he hasn't time to stay in the office after the train comes in. You should have been there earlier."

Now that's all right about the conductor and the ticket agent. They can't help the rules of the road, doubtless are doing the best they can to please the public and the railroad, too. But that kind of thing may be one reason why the bus people are catching thunder from the railroad folks through legislation when another way to meet competition is to render better service.

TAKE a look at the Pullman angle, too while you're at it, and remember that the Pullman company is a separate organization and that no railroad company is responsible for Pullman charges.

But if you're going to Slaton and prefer a Pullman it costs you a cool six-bits—for that is the cheapest haul price the Pullman company offers.

You can ride to Post for six-bits and probably as far or further than Sweetwater for the same price to the Pullman company. But if you want to ride a Pullman for a distance of a mile you lay six-bits on the line and like it—or else use some other method of transportation.

IT doesn't make a particle of difference to The Plainsman whether people ride trains or busses. As a matter of fact, he'd like to see both systems prospering because when people are making money there's more money spent and more business for everybody. But if the railroads would pay a little more attention to their equipment and service in this neck of the woods, perhaps they wouldn't have to worry about so much legislation.

This part of the country hasn't many people in it. There isn't as much rail traffic out here as there is in older, more settled territories. We can't expect the finest of equipment and the fastest of service for the reason that the business is not here in a sufficient quantity to make the best of service profitable to the railroads.

But the equipment used on the lines generally speaking, has been nothing to write home about—either from the standpoint of Pullman cars or passenger coaches. Certainly an improvement over the battered tourist Pullman and the dusty, uncomfortable day coach wouldn't break the railroads—and it might engender some of the business that the rail lines seek to hold or entice by the passage of laws at Austin.

That Man on Avenue Q says the meek may inherit the earth but the go-getters will still hold the mortgages on it.

American Representative Of India's National Congress Says Latest Peace Negotiations Presages Trouble Era

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—Failure of the latest peace negotiations in India presages a period of violent revolt and bloodshed, predicts Sailendra Nath Ghose, offical American representative of India's National Congress and her independence movement.

Ghose believes that more vigorous measures of repression will be taken by the British as Mahatma Gandhi's vast campaign of civil disobedience continues and that the section of the nationalist movement which believes in the use of force will gain control now that Gandhi's demands have been refused.

The congress, an unofficial body, will meet in defiance of the government on Mar. 29 at Karachi and the chances are that the "violent party" will be found in a majority. Gandhi has promised not to oppose a majority and Ghose says that it now appears there will be civil warfare by the middle of May.

Millions Ready to Die

"The younger generation in India has no patience with the non-violence program," Ghose says. "Millions are ready to die for their country. When 60,000 are willing to go to jail—as they have, when thousands will stand passively and endure atrocious police brutality and when a nation goes without necessities of life to maintain the boycott on British goods, it is necessary to conclude that even repressive measures to the limit, which England is almost sure to adopt, cannot possibly succeed.

"Gandhi, who has refused to accept Premier MacDonald's empty compromise, has the upper hand. Without firing a shot, he has done more harm to England than anyone ever did before. Her economic troubles have been greatly accentuated by the Indian nationalists. Whereas in 1929 India bought $435,000,000 worth of British goods, in 1930 her purchases were only $62,000,000."

Natives Poorly Armed

To keep control in India, Ghose says, England has 725,000 soldiers and about 200,000 police. The potential revolutionists are poorly armed in the fact of airplanes, machine guns and trained troops, he admits, but wars for freedom have been won against odds at least as great.

The Indian rejection of the compromise offered by MacDonald at the Round Table conference in London was based on the fact that it created a "divided states of India," instead of the "United States of India," described by MacDonald, according to Ghose.

After years of slavery, India, under Gandhi's leadership, came to think of itself as a nation. The constitution proposed by MacDonald granted provincial autonomies, but would create provincial psychology. Provincial legislatures, instead of the people, were to elect delegates to the national legislature. A third of the national congress would be chosen by native princes and 20 per cent would be reserved for Moslems.

Gandhi doesn't want the national legislature split into two religious groups, constantly fighting each other, knowing that the system would keep India divided against herself. Anyway, the proposed national legislature would have no jurisdiction over finances, foreign affairs, national defense and the army—which eat up 85 per cent of the federal revenue.

Would Be Improvement

The proposed system would be an improvement, Ghose admits, over the present system which leaves India under the absolute power of the British viceroy and native rulers. But it is nowhere near enough of an advance for Gandhi and his party. He believes an attempt has been made to cozen Gandhi into abandoning the civil disobedience campaign, which would be very difficult to revive.

Gandhi has adhered rigidly to his demands—which include those for prohibition of liquor and opium, an investigation of police atrocities by an international commission and adequate punishment, fiscal and tax reforms, reduction of military expenditures by one-half, freedom for political prisoners, the right for citizens to bear arms, abolition of the British shipping monopoly and a tariff on textiles.

Ghose admits that punishment of the Indian police for extreme repressive measures would break the morale of the whole police force. This demand of Gandhi's is reported to have been one of the principal stumbling blocks in the recent conversations between the mahatma and Lord Irwin.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Four pamphlets and six articles by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each pamphlet and 2 cents in coin for each article, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Logan Clendening in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1439 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Reducing and Gaining," "Hygiene of Women," "Infant Feeding" and "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes." The articles are "Normal Diet," "List of Foods for Mothers," "Bed Wetting," "Diet of the Expectant Mother," "Ear Troubles" and "Tuberculosis."

FEAR APT TO BE CREATED BY HEALTH DISCUSSIONS, SAYS DR. CLENDENING

One of the dangers of any kind of health talk is the creation of fear. I agree with the Christian Scientists, at least to this extent, that fear is an actual cause of disease — mental and spiritual, if not bodily.

Dr. Clendening

It is very easy for health writers to fall into his habit. They feel the necessity of emphasizing their point, and there is no better way to do it than to call on the emotions and imagination of their audience. And no emotion is more potent than fear, and no emotion more powerful in arousing imagination.

Particularly dangerous is this practice if there is nothing to be done about the situation after the fear has been aroused. That is why this column says very little about cancer and gives very little support to the propaganda of the Society for the Prevention of Cancer.

An illustration of all this is the commonly heard remark that "A cold is not a minor ailment."

Now this is a silly pronouncement If there is any disease on the face of the earth that is a minor ailment the common cold is the best example of it. I am aware that it causes a considerable amount of economic loss by keeping many people from work. But that is because it is common, not because it is dangerous. I know that it leads the list of diseases which cause disability and absence from work in an industrial community. But that does not make it a source of real danger.

The often repeated statement that a cold leads to graver disease is always utterly without foundation. As is the warning that a neglected cold is fraught with hideous possibilities. Pneumonia is never a sequel of a cold. If pneumonia occurs, it is pneumonia from the beginning. And far from preparing the ground for pneumonia, the immunity reaction given to the body by an attack of cold actually tends to prevent a person from catching pneumonia.

That colds lead to tuberculosis is an equally fallacious piece of reasoning. Tuberculosis may indeed appear to begin by having for its earliest symptoms a tendency to catch numerous colds. But these colds were actually indications of active tuberculosis from the beginning.

The only sequal to a cold that occurs as a possibility is the infection of the nasal sinuses. And in most instances of this kind the sinuses were already infected and the cold simply lighted up the infection. The consequent possibility of middle ear infection must also be admitted, but is certainly rare, considering the enormous number of colds that occur universally.

The argument need not be labored too much. It is a matter of the most common daily observation that colds run their course; and in the vast majority of cases leave no permanent damage behind them.

The last word in women's fashions invariably puts married men under its spell.

Scattered fragments from the notebook of a Barbary wanderer:

I wonder if modern chemists with all their didoes and scientific knowledge, will ever be able to recapture any of the "lost" colors such as I have come upon out here? Such, for instance, as the exquisite Persian blue, found in the upper tilings of the Kutubia tower at Marrakech. They tell me it has never been duplicated in all the passing centuries. And it is the loveliest shade I ever have beheld.

Tombs of kings crumble, but romance remains ever fresh.

Thus, I have just come from wandering through all the remains of the impressively exquisite ruins which for centuries, have held the tombs of the Saadian kings. These were hidden from the eyes of all outsiders until the French stumbled upon them a few years ago.

In the massive Moorish carvings overhead may be found clues to all the cathedral architecture I have observed. The vari-colored tiling glistens dully in the half-light. There is a damp and clammy sense of antiquity; a sense, too, of intrusion. A souvenir hunter in the party slips a bit of broken tiling into his pocket. I shudder.

The guide points to two particularly prominent slabs of stone, triangular in shape and close to the flooring. "There," he remarks casually, "lies the white queen and her black husband."

For the moment, time is wiped away. The Arabian Nights seem to be brushing past—There comes a tale of a dark-skinned ruler who wanted a white queen. Along the pirate coast the word was passed that when ships were seized or scuttled, search should be made for a beautiful white woman. And so in time, they dragged a white-skinned woman into his royal presence.

Who was she? Where had she sailed from? Did she languish into death or did the exotic orientalism of her new life enchant her? None can answer. In the gloomy crypt you trip over the stone that holds forever the answers.

The Flo Ziegfeld of North Africa is one Sherif Mahomet Mamouni. He is one of the superior showmen of the world.

Down in the souks of Fez he has a shop of leather goods and hammered silver and other trinkets for the eye of the tourist. Around the corner another of those slimy, smelly highways leads to an ordinary door of Moorish design. It seems to be part and parcel of the local picture that the filthier the exterior, the more beautiful the interior.

So it is with the Sherif. The guides "steer" the spending visitors to his menage. The Sherif turns out to be a jolly and jotund gent, who might pass for a Broadway comedian in an exotic music show. He keeps guest books and has thousands of American signatures. He knows his ballyhoo and his salesmanship.

Seating his guests on the most luxurious silken pillows, he claps his jeweled hands a couple of times and out come a couple of lovely handmaidens bearing huge silver incense burners from which pour the fumes of sandalwood.

A couple of more signals and more attendants appear with steaming silver urns where mint tea—the national drink here—is being brewed. There are sweetmeats and cakes and dancing girls, and by the time that "atmosphere" has been well established, a smart "come on" gent suggests a visit to the Sherif's shop. Of course, one does not have to buy. Just look around. The tourists leave, with sandalwood still intoxicating their nostrils, and arms loaded with souvenirs.

A nice racket, if you asked me.

I was so confused by it all that I started leaving by the wrong door. Just as I was swinging it open a dozen voices screeched at me. I had almost entered the part of the house where the women dwell—about as serious an offense as one can imagine, in these parts.

Now that twin liners have been named after Coolidge and Hoover, it will be interesting to observe which will make the longest run.

A French court has decided that a man has the right to open his wife's letters. It will be safer for most men, however, to ask for permission first.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The rain clouds drifted out of view and so the old rain man was through with brandishing his trusty spear. He slowly walked away. The Travel Man said, "You can see that [illegible] as happy as can be. He thinks [illegible] halted lightning, and to him [illegible]'s work, not play."

"How funny they are over here," said Clowny. "Seems to me they fear a lot of things that we don't mind. I'm glad this isn't home. Of wondrous things we get our fill and every time it brings a thrill. I 'spose twill always be, that way, wherever we may roam."

The Travel Man then said, "Well say, I think we'd best be on our way. The Zululanders have a lot of things you haven't seen. We'll walk all through the village, where we'll view fine sights and get fresh air. Try not to miss a single thing. Just keep your eyesight keen."

"Don't worry," Scouty then replied. "I'm thrilled at everything that's spied. I never will forget this place. The natives treat us great. Most everywhere we chance to go, the people always seem to know that we are friendly visitors." And then he added, "Wait!

"A woman's coming down the road and, gee, she has a funny load. Look on her back. A youngster's there, and holding on real tight, I'll bet a ride like that is fun, but my, I wonder how it's done?" They all agreed with Clowny that it was a funny sight.

The Travel Man then said, "Well son, that stunt is very easily done. That's how the mothers over here tote babies 'round about. The baby's safe as it can be, and both the mother's arms are free. You'll note that youngster isn't scared. He knows he won't fall out."

REACH PEAK IN RELIEF WORK

TWO MILLION PERSONS IN U. S. ARE AIDED BY RED CROSS

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The full disaster measure of last summer's drouth was calculated today by the Red Cross.

Approximately 2,000,000 persons in 850 counties of 22 states were being fed or otherwise aided by the Red Cross on the last day of February—a month-end summary believed by officials to represent "peak load."

Though the demand did not lessen as swiftly as had been anticipated with the arrival of March 1, Red Cross disaster relief experts did not expect it to mount further.

By states, aid was given as follows: Alabama 22,752 families; Arkansas 161,114 families; Georgia 1,122 families; Illinois 4,785 families; Indiana 2,356 families; Kansas 26 families; Kentucky 40,903; Louisiana 51,281; Maryland 567; Mississippi 31,389; Missouri 22,636; Montana 569; North Carolina 2,120; North Dakota 280; Ohio 8,045; Oklahoma 52,816; Pennsylvania 549; Tennessee 16,467; Texas 26,519; Virginia 9,175; West Virginia 5,009. New Mexico was continued on the list though its transient problem was practically cleared up.

Contributions to the $10,000,000 drouth relief fund totaled $9,704,654.

Wheat Importation In Mexico Is Banned

MEXICO CITY, March 9 (AP)—A bulletin of the department of agriculture published today placed an absolute quarantine on importations of wheat.

The decree stated the measure was designed to prevent introduction of grain diseases into Mexico but in view of recent protests against importations of Russian and other grain the action was regarded as primarily intended to aid Mexican industry.

OIL NEWS NOTES

[illegible] (AP)—Interest of oil men was centered today on three new wells brought in last week and several others reported as coring in oil-saturated sands.

The Pilot Oil company's No. 1 Mrs. A. P. Finney, drilled by Cranfill in yesterday for an initial production of 240 barrels an hour. Sand was topped at 3,609 feet and the well had a total depth of 3,600 feet. It is one mile north of the Foster-Deep Rock well and half a mile west of the George Anderson No. 1 Frederick. It is located on the Finney tract of the Juan Ximines survey.

The Federated Oil Company's No. 1-A Ben Laird, in the Rusk county Batsman pool, was brought in flowing 208 barrels during the first hour through a three-quarter inch choke. It was estimated as good for 5,000 barrels a day. Located in the Isaac Ruddle survey, the well is a northward offset of the Humble Laird No. 1 and half a mile north of the Bateman-Crim discovery well.

The Sinclair-Holland No. 1 also was completed in the Joinerville area, flowing 700 barrels of oil in 20 hours. Sand was found between 3,637 and 3,649 feet.

Reports reaching Longview last night said the Hammond-Hamby No. 1 well, wildcat northeast of town, had cored 10 feet of loose oil sand, partly saturated, but was drilled to a greater depth because operators expected Woodbine sand would be tapped within ten feet of the present depth. Mrs. Mamie Hammond would not discuss progress of operations other than to give the depth of the well as 3,542 feet and to admit that oil had been seen in the slush pit.

The Roeser-Pendleton East Texas Refining company's Frank Foster No. 1 B. Rodden, located 300 yards south of the Lathrop discovery well in the Gregg county pool, cored four feet of rich oil sand which was penetrated at 3,574 feet. Casing was set and cemented. This well was the first to spud in after the Lathrop well opened the field but eleven rigs are now running in close proximity to the Lathrop well.

FARM STUDY IS BEING MADE

3-YEAR PROGRAM IS UNDER WAY IN SOUTH PLAINS COUNTIES

A three year program of study of farm management of cotton and grain sorghum production on the South Plains, is being made in five counties in this section by farmers and county agents working under the direction of C. A. Bonnen, a farm management specialist of Texas A. and M., College Station.

A. C. Magee, former county agent of Castro county, is the field representative in this area and is in charge of the work directly, under the supervision of Mr. Bonnen.

To Visit Farms

"Mr. Magee will visit each farm where we are working, at stated intervals, to keep in touch with the work," Mr. Bonnen explained.

"The five counties we expect to work in are Lubbock, Lamb, Hockley, Lynn and Dawson. We may make some studies in Hale county on irrigation work and in Terry county on corn.

"Our plan is to secure the cooperation of about 150 farmers, or about 30 in each county. Each farmer participating will take an inventory of his property, beginnnig as of March 1.

"He will keep a record of his receipts and expenditures, in a simple cash book. The bookkeeping system will not be an elaborate one."

Planting, cultivation and harvesting methods are to be studied. This will enable those in charge of the work to determine the more profitable type of farming for this section and the best methods of cultivation and harvesting of the crops.

To Seek Details

Another objective is the securing of details of the production of each crop and of livestock on the farm.

"At the end of each year every farmer will be provided with a survey and analysis of his own crop records," said Mr. Bonnen. "He also will have available the information about other farms in his group."

The securing of information on the 'cost of production is incidental" to the whole scheme, which is to enable farmers to work out basic methods and results.

The assembling or studying of any large amount of basic data or facts will be useful to individual farmers in their work, according to Mr. Bonnen.

"By the time the project is completed, each man will be quite familiar with the rather simple but effective method of record keeping," Mr. Bonnen added.

There are a number of side issues expected to be developed in the study, which will cover a period of years. One is the relation of a livestock program to a grain sorghum program; another is which in the best type of farm power for this area, horse, mule or tractor power. A ration of half cotton and half feed, or one fourth feed and three fourths cotton, is to be studied.

Mrs. W. B. Cox, of Cades, S. C., received a labor income of $8.91 per bird from a flock of 90 hens in 1930.

EPIDEMIC OF PENNANT FEVER IN SENATE CAMP

TECH INTRAMURAL SHOW WILL OPEN TODAY

OFFICIALS AND ATHLETES ARE OPTIMISTIC

NATIONALS BELIEVE IT IS THEIR YEAR TO COP PENNANT

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

BILOXI, Miss., March 9 (AP)—An epidemic of pennant fever in its most virulent form has descended upon the camp of the Washington Senators here. Apparently no one in any way connected with the establishment is immune. It's in the very air that wafts in off the placid bay.

From President Clark Griffith down to Frankie Baxter, the assistant trainer, who has been with the club man and boy for 16 years, the nationals believe it is their year. Although not quite so outspoken, Manager Walt Johnson is hit as hard as any of them. Johnson just says he can't figure out any club in the American league good enough to outrun his boys.

Athletes Fired Up

The athletes, themselves, are fired up. They sense a flag, and there are no holdouts. The veteran batterymen, like Fred Marberry who normally do not reach their best form until a month after the campaign begins, started preliminary conditioning weeks ago and are further advanced than they have been at this stage in years.

There is little for the big train to do except get his men in shape. He hasn't a position to worry about. His mound staff, which includes five veterans who won 15 or more games last season and ranked first in earned runs allowed, is intact. His infield is set, with plenty of reserve strength; the same with the outfield.

It is the same outfit that was five games in front last Decoration day, only to slump when Henry Manush was injured. Club officials record it. Withal, as the greatest team Washington has had, not excepting those of '24 and '25.

Rookie Looks Good

About the only thing Johnson feels he could use right now is a little better hitting behind the plate, and it looks like he has found that in Cliff Bolton, a chunky receiver who hit .377 for Chattanooga last season. The coaches are putting in overtime with Bolton, trying to improve his field. Roy Spencer and Bill Hargrave are the veterans of the staff.

Alvin Crowder, Sam Jones, Fred Marberry, Lloyd Brown and Irving Hadley comprise the "big five" of the pitching corps. All were winners last year, turning in 79 victories. Burke, who showed promise last year, completes the veteran staff. Lynn Griffith, who won 21 for Joplin in the Western association, looks like the outstanding prospect among five rookies in camp.

The inner works is strongly fortified, with Joe Judge at first, Charley Myer at second, Joe Cronin at short and Ossie Bluege on third. Bluege alone of the quatret hit under .300 last season. In reserve at first, the Senators have Joe Kuhel, a brilliant understudy for the aging Judge, and in Jack Hayes a youngster expected to make Myer hustle for the keystone assignment. Wally Dashiell from Chattanooga will get a utility role.

AROUND THE TRAINING CAMP CIRCUIT

HAYES GETS ULTIMATUM

BILOXI, Miss., March 9 (AP)—Infielder Jack Hayes has been advised that unless he accepts today the new contract offered him by the Washington Senators he will be considered a holdout.

Owner Griffith offered Hayes an increase in salary over last year, but not enough to satisfy the infielder.

AFTER CATCHER'S BERTH

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Charlie Berry is going after that Red Sox catcher's berth with a vengeance. He's been whacking them hard for a week now and the story's going around the camp that Charlie started doing some heavy thinking when he heard Muddy Ruel had been purchased. His experiments with his hitting style netted him his two home runs Saturday.

DREESEN ON SECOND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Charlie Dreesen was due to start working second base for the Braves today. Charlie is no slouch on the second sack and he's a hard hitter in the bargain. He fills in for Freddie MaGuire, who is laid up with lumbago. Freddie will be out for several days.

CUB PITCHERS PROMISING

AVALON, Calif., March 9 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs think they are going to be extremely glad they acquired Pitcher Bob Smith from the Boston Braves, and they are happy over what promises to be a good year for Charlie Root.

Smith pitched five innings of a 12 to 1 victory over Los Angeles yesterday, and he gave up two hits. Root finished the game and permitted three well spaced singles and fanned five batsmen.

SOX SPLIT PAIR

SAN ANTONIO, March 9 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox were back in San Antonio today to resume practice after splitting a pair of games with Houston Saturday and Sunday.

The Sox were not so hot Saturday, but bounced back yesterday aided by some good pitching by Pat Caraway, Jim Moore and Johnny Intlekofer, and won, 13 to 3.

SWITCHED TO FIRST

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Buzz Arlett, the big Oakland outfielder who has come to the Phillies after 13 years in the coast league, has been switched to first base for this week's practice series with Brooklyn. The change was necessary because Hurst, regular first sacker, has been called to Cincinnati by the death of a relative. Arlett played the bag for Oakland a part of the 1929 and 1930 seasons.

HOLD OUT SECRET BARED

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 9 (AP)—At last the secret of why baseball players hold out at this time of year is disclosed.

Babe Herman and Dazzy Vance, who have yet to sign contracts with the Brooklyn Robins, possibly are unrelenting because they think escape from exhibition games. Under the rules, unsigned players are not eligible for play in exhibition games.

GIANT CATCHER ARRIVES

SAN ANTONIO, March 9 (AP)—J Francis Hogan, the large catcher, has arrived in the New York Giants' training camp and left "Memphis Bill" Terry as the sole remaining absentee.

SHAWKEY TAKES LOOK

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Bob Shawkey, once great right hander of the New York Yankees, is looking over the situation at Joe McCarthy's camp but not with any eye toward landing a pitcher's job.

Bob the gob is coach for Jersey City now and is casting a calculating eye over the flock of rookies assembled at the Yankees' camp. He may pick up a bargain or two.

EVANS LOOKS AHEAD

NEW ORLEANS, March 9, (AP)—While everybody else is concerned with the coming campaign, General Manager Billy Evans already has laid plans to take the Cleveland Indians to the west coast next spring. He took option on sites at Pasadena and San Diego, Calif., and booked 25 exhibition games. The one fault he found with New Orleans was the difficulty ni arranging games with big league opponents.

START STIFF WORKOUT

TAMPA, Fla., March 9 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds started a stiff two day workout today to polish off the raggedness shown yesterday when they dropped a twelve inning tilt to the Brooklyn Dodgers 10 to 7. The batting was only ordinary and the pitching was anything but outstanding. Jim Morton a free agent, pitching his first inning of big league baseball, also probably pitched his last. The Robins nicked him precisely for the winning tallies.

TO PLAY THIRD

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 9 (AP)—Joe Dugan, veteran third baseman who is practicing with the Detroit Tigers without a contract, is slated to play at the hot corner in the first exhibition series against the San Francisco Seals starting Friday. Marty McManus apparently has not yet rounded into physical condition following an operation on his knee.

KILLEFER SATISFIED

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Manager Bill Killefer, of the St. Louis Browns' today expressed satisfaction over the performance of his "pony" infield in yesterday's triumph over the House of David team. Killefer started Burns, Storti, Levey, and Kress and all of them performed well, Levey's fielding being especially brilliant.

GABBY IS HAPPY

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Gabby Street, who has been counting on his veteran hurlers to carry the Cardinals to another national league pennant, wore a broad smile today—because of a rookie. Paul Derringer, up from the International league, did so well against the Athletics at Miami yesterday that Gabby was convinced all the first-rate Cardinal pitching this year won't come from aged arms. Not an Athletic reached first base against Derringer in three innings.

SLUGGING LOOKS GOOD

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 9 (AP)—With only one practice session scheduled for today, the Pittsburgh Pirates had an opportunity to "take stock" of their first two exhibition games—the regular-yannigan fray on Saturday and the contest against San Francisco yesterday. There was gratification over the Pirate slugging and the pitching of Spencer and Bednar.

Annual expenditures for rural highway construction and maintenance in the United States amount to about $1,500,000,000. Another $500,000,000 is spent by cities for street repairs and construction.

Swimming Champ And Dancer Wed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Mar. 9 (AP)—Johnny Weissmuller, swimming star, and Bobby Arnst, star of the stage, were on their honeymoon today. Their marriage took place last Saturday after a speedy courtship. The couple themselves announced their wedding, which had been kept secret. Both gave their age as 26.

Miss Arnst is a popular Broadway dancer. She has appeared in "Simple Simon," "Rosalie," and "Scram."

Alexander the Great had conquered all the known world at the age of 33.

CHEERS RING FOR BELLE LIVINGSTON WHEN TERM ENDS

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Freedom rang out in cheers from 500 well-wishers as Belle Livingston, New York's swanky hostess, left Harlem women's prison after serving 30 days for contempt of court.

Police reserves had to restrain the crowd from congratulating her personally. Photographers, sound reel men and reporters met her at the door.

"Do you think your morals have been impaired by contact with the other prisoners?" she was asked.

"No, they have been improved," she replied.

She was met by her secretary in a limousine in which was also a man who described himself only as an "artist." Miss Livingston was dressed in black and wore a string of pearls. She left immediately for her club where a "coming out" party was held for her by friends.

PRELIMINARIES IN WRESTLING ARE TODAY

EACH COLLEGE SCHOOL WILL COMPETE IN SPRING EVENTS

The first act in an extensive spring intramural athletic show planned by Texas Tech begins this afternoon at 5 o'clock when the "rassle men" of the school undertake the preliminaries of a full-fledged wrestling season. Matches will be made this afternoon by Del Morgan, supervisor of intramural sports, and the first rounds will be held for wrestlers in one of the four schools today.

Each of the schools, liberal arts, military, engineering and agriculture, will submit teams in the competition. Seven weight divisions, varying from the 125-pound to the 175-pound classes will be included in the matches.

All of the wrestling events down to the final or championship rounds will be run off before boxing is introduced. The latter is due to begin about Thursday. In wrestling, the participants will fight ten minutes, the winner being determined by the number of times one wrestler is on the offensive.

Half a hundred boxers and wrestlers have reported for boxing and wrestling training, though hardly that many had reported to Morgan for matches this morning. It is thought that about 40 men will participate in the first round matches.

It is possible that intramural basketball will be postponed until the beginning of the spring term of school. Coach "Crip" Golightly will return from a trip down state some time this week and will confer with Morgan and Pete Cawthon, head coach, in regard to a possible starting time for the campus cage teams.

Indiana University Dean Is Elected

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 9 (AP)—William A. Rawles, dean of the college of commerce of Indiana university has been elected president of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business.

W. E. Hotchkiss, of Leland university, was elected vice president and J. Anderson Fitzgerald, of the University of Texas, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The association closed its annual session today.

ROVING THE SPORTS WORLD

WITH COLLIER PARRIS
JOURNAL SPORTS EDITOR

Out to the Fair Park field the other day to see the Westerners work out, but back to the office with the conviction that the least said about the Westerners the better.

Coach Henry Frnka, as is generally known, spends quite a lot of time with the Lubbock High school outfit. That's his business. The genial gent likes to appear pessimistic at all times when his team and prospects are discussed. He is criticized for it and many of his friends do not hesitate to call him a liar when he makes certain statements.

But the Westerner skipper is a lot smarter than lots of people are willing to admit. Last summer and last fall, for instance, you could not get a word out of Frnka relative to the Westerners' right and ability to win. When everybody, nearly everybody said the Westerners would start with Pampa and take the rest of the District 1 teams in a row to a cleaning Henry sweated about the practice field and when he did talk, which was seldom and with reservations, he was quite morose. Strangely enough, as coach, he knew more about his club's winning potentialities than anyone else. The season's results proved his point. Pampa defeated Lubbock in the first game. Amarillo drew a tie, and Pampa, Amarillo and Lubbock were the only teams that counted last season.

The 1931 Westerners have been working out daily when weather permitted since early in February. Forty-five candidates for the team have been faithful to training and practice. About thirty of these will stick through spring training and report, together with about 40 additionals, for the early training camp next autumn. Four Westerner gridsters who are expected to respond to treatment are not engaged with track. They will get in for the last few weeks of spring training. Two of them, Bill Ed Watson and Bob Crawford, are regulars and sure to hold their positions of end and center respectfully next fall. The others, Chester McCarty and Dalton Blagg, are counted on to help in the line.

According to his rosters, Frnka has divided the squad in two divisions, the "Jellies" and the "Toughs." A series of three regular games are to be played and the boys who look best will be retained for further training. The others will hang on at their own risk. The first game will be played next Friday afternoon.

A review of the Westerner shock troops in a light scrimmage the other day revealed nothing to get excited about. They plugged along, apparently in earnest, and they went through their seven or eight plays with pep and vim. But there was a great difference between that club and the one of last fall. The taking away of nine letter men by graduation did not help the team's prospects for 1931 one iota. Those men will be missed more than a little. Most of them remain in Lubbock and should be beneficial to the Texas Tech grid hopes, but that doesn't help the high school.

From last year's squad there are Cotton Welch, a husky guard who should go places this year, though he will not supplant the great McGehee; Louis Spears, a reserve tackle who will be counted on to fill as much of Chile McCasland's shoes as possible; Bert Williams, another tackle of potentialities who was out a great part of last season with a busted knee, and who looms as Archie Brawley's successor this year; Melvin Griggs, a neat guard and one of the hardest fighting men on the team last year who has been shifted to the backfield for a try out; Rosser Abbot, a guard whose reserve power is not to be sniffed at; and Mack Scoggin, a half back who spent considerable time in the regular lineup last fall. Watson and Crawford, already mentioned, were full time regulars last year.

But that 1930 backfield th would surely have gone places a a heavier and steadier line ma way last year is gone. Moody Smi twice all-district halfback; D Lawson, all-district quarterba last year; Mina Watkins, w would have been all-district had gone to any other school; and O Teal, a heavy, charging back w added no little yardage last yea they are gone from the high sch ranks. Those husky linemen, C roll McCasland, one of the hard fighting tackles in the busine Big Mellon McGehee, all-st guard and full worthy of the hon Malcolm Martin, ingenious whose work last year against A arillo will not soon be forgott Archie Brawley, named by ma for all-state tackle honors; and tle Allen Johnson, whose specta lar runs last year equalled those Moody Smith, also gone.

Cops Stopped Sleigh Riding; Sheppard Champion Writes

ON SENATOR SHEPPARD

Dear Plainsman: I noticed in yesterday's Journal where you had criticised Senator Morris Sheppard very adversely for not taking action on questions other than the prohibition question.

I for one think if Senator Sheppard attended the sessions of Congress and never uttered speech on any other question he would still be well worth his seat in the Senate. I would like to refer you to Mr. Sheppard's oration that was given before the Senate on the last anniversary of the Eighteenth Amendment.

If you question his ability to speak and act on other questions other than the prohibition question, I refer you to the Congressional Records which give a detailed account of the actions of every senator in the senate.

It is true that Senator Sheppard is an authority on the prohibition question and his name is connected with this question quite often in the dailies through out the United States, but this is not the only cause that Mr. Sheppard represents, or frequently (as is shown by the Congressional records) he is before the Senate on other measures that are usually for the good and betterment of his country and of his fellowmen.

(No Signature.)

(Dear Unsigned: Everyone to his own opinion. Perhaps I should be punished for a great many misdeeds but don't you think reading the Congressional Record is too stiff a punishment for anything short of murder? —The Plainsman.)

ON SLEIGH-RIDING

Dear Plainsman: Comparing the West Texas hospitality of days of 64 and days of '31, you newcomers will find the hospitality of 31 much weaker.

For instance, during the big snow several young people, including a guess from the Sunflower state, were enjoying life, sleigh riding when the police department drove up and ordered them to get off the sleigh.

We felt like liars then because we had been bragging to the out-of-town guest about the hospitality of West Texas and especially Lubbock. They may call it modernism but when there was no harm in a little sleigh ride, I call it plain egotism and certainly not hospitality.

Mrs. H. D. Waller.

(Dear Madam: Had The Plainsman been arrested for every time he has gone sled-riding he would still be in the penitentiary. I agree with you that as long as your car was breaking no traffic laws it was none of the Cops' business— The Plainsman.)

The writer of the letter claimed his father was under sentence of death and the $1,000 was needed to save him from the electric chair. Sheriff Wright said several statements in the letter afforded clues.

DAILY MARKETS

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT
NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—A broad demand for motor, motor accessory and merchandising shares gave the stock market an upward turn today, although movements in many of the pivotal issues were narrow.
Chrysler made a new high and General Motors duplicated its previous 1931 top, both on gains of a point. Other automobile stocks up 1 to 2 included Studebaker, Nash and Mack, while among the accessories there were similar advances in Borg Warner, Stewart Warner, Briggs, Eaton Axle and Timken. Mullins manufacturing, Case and Industrial Rayon rallied 2. Auburn soared 7 and Electric Auto Lite 6.
Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Macy, International Silver, Eastman Kodak, Safeway Stores, Kroger and Worthington Pump gained 1 to more than 2 points. U. S. Steel was sluggish.
Call money, renewed at 1 1-2 per cent.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT
NEW YORK, March 9. (AP)—Cotton opened steady, generally 1 to 3 points higher on covering and trade buying which seemed to be promoted by a bullish view of the standard cloth statistics for February.
Liverpool cables did not meet the local advance of Saturday, but offerings here were comparatively light and the market held steady during the first half hour with the active months showing net advances of about 3 to 5 points. May sold up to 11.20 and October to 11.71. The cloth statistics showed sales for February 54 per cent in excess of the month's production, with a decrease of 10.2 per cent in stocks on hand and an increase of 24.7 per cent in unfilled orders at the end of last month.
Trading was comparatively quiet later in the morning, but contracts were relatively scarce after the early selling had been absorbed and prices worked up to 11.22 for May and 11.72 for October, or about 6 to 8 points net higher on covering and trade buying. The bulges met some realizing and were not fully maintained, but the mid-day market was steady with the active months ruling about 2 to 4 points above Saturday's closing quotations.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 9, —(AP)—Cotton opened irregular in sympathy with slightly lower cables. First trades showed 4 points decline to 2 points gain. After the start the market rallied slightly owing to very bullish textile statistics issued at the opening. May trading up to 11.18, and October to 11.52, or 4 to 6 points up from the opening figures. Near the end of the first hour the market was steady and near the highs with the undertone a trifle better.
The market was only moderately active during the morning. Prices after advancing to levels 6 to 8 points above the opening, mainly on bullish textile statistics, turned easier near noon on a renewal of liquidation and selling by ring traders. March declined to 11.14 and October to 11.64 or 7 to 10 points under the highs and unchanged to 2 points down compared with Saturday's close.

Police Check Story Of Kidnaping Plot

LOS ANGELES, March 9. —(AP)—Police today were checking the story of Luis Acino, 10, that he had been kidnaped from his home in Spadra, Calif., and taken to a house in El Paso, Tex., where nearly a dozen boys and girls were held.
The children told him before his escape, Luis said, that every few days some of them were spirited across the border into Mexico.

FRATERNITY WAR BEGUN IN COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY; HOSTILITIES EXPECTED

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Columbia University has a fraternity war on its hands. Mr. Grundy did it,-unknowingly.
Mr. Grundy, former senator of Pennsylvania, told western senators from states not so thickly populated they "ought to talk darn small."
The idea got to Columbia and the daily student paper translated it into college language for the edification of fraternities whose equipment consisted of a name, by-laws and maybe a couple of chairs in a dormitory.

Previously Content
Until then the oldest and strongest fraternities were more or less content with the inter-fraternity council which enforced an agreement to regulate rushing and other such campus business.
Not unlike the western senators, the smaller fraternities talked as they pleased—and the war began.
Fifteen of the largest societies withdrew from the council Wednesday and drew up a new agreement which provides among other things that weaker fraternities can talk only as much as their size and stability are worth.
For further complication Beta Pi washed its hands of the whole affair and announced independence of any and all groups. Thirteen fraternities remain in the council.

"Sandbagging" Seen
Actual hostility is not looked for before the next rushing season, when, under the present arrangement, "rushing" will turn into "sandbagging."
"Sandbagging," students explained, is a process whereby upper classmen, spotting an eligible freshman, attempt to get him into their fraternity "by fair means or foul." It is a process not conductive to peace of mind on the part of unsophisticated frosh.

FARMERS SEEK CROP LOANS

FEWER THAN 200 MEN IN HALE COUNTY FILE APPLICATIONS

By Staff Correspondent
PLAINVIEW, March 9.—Fewer than 200 farmers of Hale county have applied so far for the federal production loans under the recently enacted federal legislation, F. M. Daugherty, in charge of the work of making out application blanks, announces.
"There have been about 75 applications from all over this part of the county," Mr. Daugherty said. "We have not forwarded that many applications to St. Louis, but we expect to soon.
"From reports from Petersburg, Hale Center and Abernathy, I do not expect there will be 200 applications. So far these three places have not made more than half as many in each place as Plainview. I had thought we were about through here, but we are getting a few more from day to day."
The average application will not exceed $150 to $175 according to Mr. Daugherty. They range from as low as $55 to $350.
One farmer asked for $600, the limit allowed by the government. By the time Mr. Daugherty had discussed the plan with him, the farmer had agreed to reductions until the amount asked was slightly under $350.

RAYMOND KOENINGER, TECH STUDENT, DRINKS POISON TO TAKE OWN LIFE

in chemistry, Koeninger was popular on the campus. Schoolmates and faculty members said he was industrious, a good student, and never had appeared to them to be morose or unhappy. He was on the college honor roll last term. Koeninger played in the line of the liberal arts foosball team, intra-mural champion, and had participated in track activities.
For the last four summers, he had worked at Yellowstone National park, and recently had applied for a job as temporary park ranger there. Friends said that, in addition to medicine, he had indicated a desire to enter aviation.

Once Lived In Ranger
Young Koeninger completed junior college work at Wayland college at Plainview in the spring of 1928. He had attended high school at Ranger, where a grandmother and several other relatives lived. He was said to have had sufficient hour-credits to be graduated from Technological college last spring, except for hours in his major. Koeninger was to receive his degree bachelor's at commencement in June. He was 22 years old September 4.
After attending the Junior Prom at the college gymnasium and a theater preview with the young woman to whom a subsequent note was written, Koeninger returned to his room at Brannen hall, 1507 College, at about 3:30 o'clock.

Claimed Hunger
He told a roommate, "Pete" Smith, that he was hungry and expected to find a drug store open and buy something to eat.
"Have you any money?" he asked.
"There's 45 cents on the dresser —use that,' was Smith's sleepy response, after he had failed to persuade Koeninger to remain.
Koeninger took the money and left. In the note to Smith, Koeninger thanked his roommate for the money and said it had helped him.

Fell Across Bed
Investigation indicated that Koeninger had returned to his room shortly before 4 a. m., had written the notes in a study adjoining the bedroom, took strychnine as he stood in the study, and then stumbled into the bedroom where he fell dying across his bed. Neither the bedroom nor study was lighted when the two other occupants of the room Smith and John Freese of Sweetwater, were aroused by Koeninger's gasps.
Believing he was snoring they jokingly asked loudly how he expected them to sleep. Smith felt across to Koeninger's bed, felt Koeninger's shoes, and realizing that he had remained dressed, pulled a light cord. Discovering his condition, one telephoned the hospital while the other ran down the hall, summoning to other students, Marshall Formby and Lloyd McLaughlin.
Fearing that a wait for an ambulance would be prolonged, the four students carried the unconscious Koeninger to his father's small coupe. Koeninger had gone to his home near Plainview, Friday, and had been permitted to drive the car here for use on a "Prom date."
McLaughlin and Formby carried him into the hospital and he died as they placed him on a couch. Doctor Roberts said that the body was warm but that heart action had stopped before he reached it.

Paper similar to that on which Koeninger had written the six farewell notes was found on the table of the study room, and the bottle which had contained the strychnine, also was in the study room.
Koeninger bought the strychnine early Sunday morning at a Lubbock drug store, where he registered for the poison in his own name. The strychnine was in a 1-8 ounce bottle.
The young man's parents were notified of his death by telephone between 4:30 and 5 o'clock Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Koeninger came to Lubbock immediately. The mother returned to the home soon afterward, while Mr. Koeninger remained with the body at Bynum-Morgan funeral home.
Tragic death of the young student was mentioned and condolences were extended from the pulpit of a Lubbock church shortly before services ended Sunday morning, when the congregation was asked to pray for the young man and his parents.

Holds To Charm
A young woman whom Koeninger met at a program at a lake lodge in Yellowstone park late in the summer of 1929 gave him the good-luck charm which he held in his hand as he drank poison in the dark of his room. She had told him that he would not experience bad fortune while he wore the charm.
Harold Gunn, longtime friend, of Plainview, said that Koeninger purchased a silver chain on which he placed the charm to wear around his neck. Gunn spent several summers at Yellowstone park with Koeninger.
Campus friends here said Koeninger had remarked to them that as long as he wore the charm no ill luck would befall him. He took off the charm and subsequently suffered head injuries in the 1930 Technological college student rodeo. Later, he again discarded the good-luck piece and was injured in intramural football. Several stitches were taken to close wounds about his mouth.
Once a maddened jaguar had leaped at Koeninger, he stumbled over a root and fell backwards, the cat going over him in its spring. He was wearing the charm—he was not scratched. Slipping off a roof on which he was working, Koeninger once fell 20 feet and landed in a heap of sawdust unhurt. The good-luck piece hung from his neck.
Soon after Koeninger started wearing the charm, he and his friend Gunn "hopped" freights through the Pacific northwest and subsequently to Plainview. Neither was injured.

Believed In Charm
The student's evident belief in the powers of the charm, given to him by a girl with whom he had discussed religion as they rowed on a northern lake, probably emerged from those and other incidents, his friends pointed out.
Early Sunday morning, the young student asked the freshman woman student whom he had taken to the prom to give the charm to his mother. When she refused, telling him to give it to his mother, Koeninger indicated that he might do something desperate. His companion did not regard his intimations seriously at the time.

Film Coincidence
The story depicted on the screen at the preview which Koeninger and the young woman attended early Sunday was a source of rare coincidence. The plot was built upon a young man's resolve to live in luxury until he had no money and then to "end it all." His woman companion in the strange pact, decided to end her life when he did, although he insisted that she continue to live.
Numerous persons who had viewed the photoplay expressed an opinion that Koeninger's troubles could have been sufficiently aggravated by the film story to cause him to resolve to die as he did. In the notes, Koeninger said he was not "mad, angry, or doing this for spite."
The older brother of the young student was aiding him in financing his education, close acquaintances said. Young Koeninger, however, had started negotiations for a small loan from a service club here to enable him to finish the school-year.
The body was taken to Plainview, Sunday afternoon.

PRESIDENT IS ATTACKED

REPRESENTATIVE BYRNS ASSAILS HOOVER FOR EXPENDITURES

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—President Hoover was charged with responsibility for "a riot of extravagance" in federal expenditures "never heretofore heard of in time of peace," by Representative Byrns, of Tennessee.
"The myth of Coolidge economy disappeared with his regime and the 71st congress at the request of President Hoover has appropriated the enormous and staggering total of $10,249,819,000, said Byrns in a statement in the Congressional Record. He is the ranking Democrat on the appropriations committee and chairman of his party's congressional campaign committee.
Commitments already made, said the Tennesseean, "will make it difficult, if not impossible, to reduce federal expenditures for some time to come."
Appropriations for the first two years under Hoover exceeded by nearly $1,000,000,000 the last two years under President Coolidge, "which up to that time was the high peak of appropriations for peace time activities of the government," Byrns said.
"Republican apologists are attempting to leave the impression that drouth relief and measures for relief of unemployment result in this startling total," he said.

she said.
"He ran around the room, making threats on my life," she cried. "As I retreated to the dresser I saw the pistol and snatched it up. I only intended to frighten him. I don't know what happened next, but, I saw him fall at my feet. I called to him and when he did not speak to me I ran out and summoned neighbors."
The wife said it was her habit to keep the loaded gun on the dresser, as her husband was away most of the time.
Officers who took charge of Pigg's effects found among them two keys to a local hotel room. Gray Browne, county attorney, said he had learned that Pigg and several associates from other points had attended a tire men's conference here over the week end, the visitors occupying a suite of three rooms. Browne said an inspection of the rooms revealed a large number of empty beer bottles, an empty wine jar, and a nearly empty alcohol jar.

14 KNOWN DEAD ON ATLANTIC SEABOARD

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Lashing the Atlantic seaboard from the Carolinas to the tip of Maine, a snow-laden gale left in its wake today death, injuries and property damage.
Starting Saturday night and continuing unabated through most of Sunday, snow and rain centered their fury on New York state and on New England. Seven were killed in New York City in automobile accidents attributable to the storm. Four were killed in an automobile accident at West Haven, Conn., and three at Glens Falls, N. Y. Many were hurt by falling signs, trees and telephone poles. Long stretches of waterfront were gnawed away on Long Island and summer homes were swept out to sea.
The snow in New York City melted as fast as it came. The roof of a Bronx church was torn off, endangering the lives of 200 children. Lighting systems were wrenched out of order. Radios were stilled.

street as a house-dance broke up there shortly after midnight, January 11. Another man, a woman and a child, 8-year-old daughter of Smith, received minor wounds. Smith's wife was among the guests.

Arrested at Post
Graves, who Mrs. Chadwick said had appeared at the party without invitation, fled after a pistol had been emptied. He was arrested several hours later at Post after talking by telephone to Lubbock police headquarters. In the telephone conversation, Graves said he would come to Lubbock and surrender the next day, according to officers.

Three Men Killed In Automobile Mishap

NO DEPRESSION AT MULESHOE

BUSINESS, RESIDENTIAL LOCATIONS ARE AT A PREMIUM

(By Staff Correspondent)

MULESHOE, Mar. 9. — The depression that has been discussed so much and cussed a great deal more, apparently has not been felt in Muleshoe, at least as far as retarding the growth of the town is concerned.

Both business locations and residences are now at a premium. There is not a single storeroom in town that is vacant. There has not been a vacant place for months.

Located Needed

"In fact," says R. L. Brown, "we could use three or four more store locations if we had them. I have at least three applications from firms that would like to locate here."

During the past six months there has been at least 25 or 30 new residences completed. Every one was occupied as soon as the building was ready and there are still persons looking for places.

Five or six residences are being built. A number more are reported as ready to be started soon.

"Houses are so scarce here that people are living in tourist camps," declared Dr. H. W. Duke, formerly of Amarillo. "There are three tourist camps here and every one is full.

"I know one lawyer who has not been able to get a house and he and his family live in a tourist camp. There are several business men who live in camps. It is very hard for new people to get houses here."

In some of the larger houses there are two families. Quite a few business men are living in quarters in the rear of their stores. Other people have built temporary buildings in which to live.

Business Growing

New people are coming into the county all the time. There is a steady growth of business in all lines.

It is estimated the actual increase in population since the census was taken last April, is around 200, or a 25 per cent increase over the 800 inhabitants then.

LAMB COUNTY MAN SETS HOG RECORD

(By Staff Correspondent)

AMHERST, March 9.—One of the best records on hog feeding made in Lamb county this season, is announced by D. A. Adam, county agent, as made by E. W. Parmer who sold his pedigreed hogs the latter part of February.

Mr. Parmer began feeding 23 shoats, about seven or eight weeks old, on December 10. The animals, 13 Duroc-Jerseys and 10 Spotted Poland China hogs, were fed 79 days and then sold.

We found the average weight of the shoats when they went on the feeding program was 54 pounds," Mr. Adam said. "Mr. Parmer used a self-feeder. He fed threshed milo maize, cottonseed cake and tankage.

"When the animals were sold they averaged 194 pounds. The gain cost Mr. Parmer $4.09 a hundred pounds. He got six and a half cents."

The ration consisted of 10,020 pounds of threshed milo, costing 90 cents a hundred pounds; 1,080 pounds of cottonseed cake, costing $1.70 and 575 pounds of tankage costing $3.40. Entire cost of the feed was $132.60.

Average gain per day was 1.78 pounds per animal for the 79 days. The total gain was 3,243 pounds. Ten of the Durocs gained 550 pounds more than the 10 Poland China hogs.

"Mr. Parmer made $69.96 off his hogs," said the county agent. "When he sold them, they were 11 days less than five months old."

When G. Urquhart Watt was asked to resign as organist, the entire choir of Elgin High Church, at Elgin, Scotland, struck in a body, and at last reports were still out while 20 volunteers filled their places.

YOUNG INVENTOR OF ROCKET PLANE EXPECTS TO BUILD CRAFT FOR THREE-HOUR CROSSING OF ATLANTIC OCEAN

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK—The next time Fritz von Opel comes to the United States from his native Germany, he may swoop out of the upper atmosphere with all the speed and pyrotechnic effect of a meteor, to glide to a landing within three hours after his take-off from Berlin.

That wild-sounding conjecture pre-supposes only that the young scientist and inventor who has pioneered in the rocket principle of motive power is successful in further liquid explosives which serve as ther lowering the weight of the engines for his fearsome looking vehicles of flight. For, given such a fuel to send a plane far into the upper air, he says there is no scientist today who can deny the feasibility of long-distance flights at tremendous speeds.

Von Opel is on his way back to Germany now, content for the present with the comparative snail's pace of a liner. Part owner and executive of the Opel Motor Works, largest automobile factory in Germany he spent ten months in the United States studying our manufacturing methods.

Wants To Perfect Fuel

But once back in Reusselheim, near Frankfort, he will resume experiments with the rockets which already have made his name a byword in aeronautical science. He wants to get to work on the new liquid fuel, build an instrument-carrying rocket to explore the outermost limits of our air, and to fly the English channel in a rocket-powered plane.

By that time, he hopes to be able to calculate definitely the chances of passenger flights at a 30-mile altitude and at a speed of at least 1000 miles an hour.

Looking at Von Opel, it is easy to understand how leading engineers of Germany scoffed at his early ideas to harness the terrific power of black powder and nitroglycerin to the delicate requirements of aviation. He is 31, and looks like a collegiate undergraduate. Speed has been his hobby since boyhood, but he had almost no technical knowledge of explosives before he started his experiments four years ago.

Though he knew something of aerodynamics, Von Opel didn't know how to fly when he built his first rocket plane. But no doubt of his sincerity remained when, instead of seeking a professional daredevil to try out his invention, he took flying lessons and announced his intention of piloting it himself. The scoffers' amazement was all the more pronounced when the plane actually flew.

Now, a compact, healthy bundle of youthful enthusiasm, his blue eyes radiate confidence from behind his horn-rimmed spectacles. "What we must do," he said, "is reduce the weight of our rockets. We have gone a long way already. The fuel is much lighter, but not light enough to let us reach a height of 20,000 to 30,000 feet. Once there, though, only a few impulses of normal rocket power would be enough to send a plane clear around the earth."

He spoke calmly in the most staggering figures. In the absence of air resistence, which retards the speed of ordinary airplanes, he pointed out that the speed of rocket transportation would be almost unlimited. A rocket plane, he explained, would be the only vehicle the efficiency of which would be increased as its altitude increased.

"A thousand miles an hour probably will be the minimum," he said, "and 5000 miles an hour would be more satisfactory. That would be the most efficient speed for that is the rate at which the explosive gases leave the rockets."

Such a plane, it is generally agreed, would have an engine and propeller for auxiliary power, to be used in taking off and landing. It would of course, be hermetically sealed, with oxygen tanks supplying air for the passengers.

Hopes To Explore Space

As he talked, Frau Von Opel hurried about the hotel suite, packing for the return voyage to Germany. A tall, graceful blonde, even younger than her husband, she looks on with what she says is a fatalistic toleration of Fritz's "big ideas." She is glad, though, that it was not until 1926 that he met Prof. Friederich Sanders, pyrotechnic expert, and became his co-worker. Maybe Fritz knows enough now so that he won't get himself killed.

"There are plenty of mysteries of the outer air which we must explore," continued her husband. "Just before I came to America, I was asked to build a rocket to carry instruments out toward space. The recording instruments we had then were too delicate to withstand the shocks of such speed, but I am told now that three have been perfected.

"So pretty soon we hope to know the truth about the great layer of hydrogen that is supposed to surround the earth at a distance of 35 to 40 miles, and whether there would be any danger to life in the cosmic rays before they are filtered through our atmosphere.

"I want to build a plane to fly the English Channel to. First the engineers said I could not fly, and I flew. Now they say that only short flights are possible, and that the speed cannot be controlled.

Can Control Speed

"I want to prove them wrong again. Our fuel is much improved, and we have figured a way to regulate the force of the explosions.

"My father who used to laugh at my experiments, wrote me the other day that a special airport for rocket planes is being built near Berlin. I shall not do any more work with rocket-propelled automobiles, which people in Berlin will be glad to know. I remember the time when, with 3½ pounds of explosives in my car, I forgot all about the officials behind me and blew them off their benches. No, they were not hurt much."

Built Racing Cars

Von Opel, scion of the family that founded the famous machine works in 1862, is a graduate of the Darmstadt Technical Intstitute. During the war, he served two years with an engineer corps, and later became general manager of the Opel factory. From early boyhood, he built racing bicycles, then motorcycles and finally high-powered cars. Realizing the limitations of gasoline power, he turned finally to rockets as the ultimate in potential speed.

"But I am afraid it is not a good example," he said. "After my trials in Germany I head of boys who were killed trying to make rockets. And just the other day I had a letter from an American boy, saying he was going to build a man-carrying rocket and would I please send him instructions.

"I sent the instructions to his father. They were to take the boy upstairs and spank him good and hard."

Fritz von Opel, 31-year-old scientist and motor car manufacturer, here is pictured with his wife and their pet chow, Gin Wan, which accompanied them on their American tour. Below you see the start of a trial run in which Von Opel drove a car propelled by rockets. It is this principle that he hopes to employ on airplanes driven at great speeds through the outer limits of the earth's asmosphere.

OIL MEETING IS HELD TODAY

DELEGATES FROM SEVEN STATES SEEKING TO AID INDUSTRY

TEXARKANA, Ark., Mar. 9. (AP)—Seeking some plan to bring the oil industry out of demoralized market conditions, delegates from seven states were here today to attend a meeting called by Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma.

Cicero Murray, cousin of Governor Murray and representing Oklahoma; Robert R. Penn of Dallas, chairman of the Texas central proration committee; and William H. Cooley of Bakersfield, Calif., representing Governor James Rolph, Jr., talked things over" last night for three hours but without reaching a tangible under-standing of what should be done to help the serious economic situation prevailing in the oil industry.

Representatives of other states expected to participate in the conference today were: T. H. Barton, Eldorado, Ark.; W. Scott Heywood, Jennings, La.; Mark D. Mitchell, Independence, Kan.; and Carl N. Cox, Cheyenne, Wyo. Ohio was asked to participate but decided to remain aloof. Governor Arthur Seligman of New Mexico sent a message of sympathy for the movement but did not have a representiative present. Governor Ross S. Sterling of Texas, in a telehone conversation with Penn last night, pledged his support of any constructive program evolved.

Philip Snowden Ill; Confined To Home

LONDON, March 9.—(AP)—While some anxiety was caused by announcement that Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, probably would be confined to his home by illness several weeks, the heartening news came that Mrs. Snowden had recovered from an attack of influenza and was as usual, taking care of the frail little man who is one of the outstanding personalities of the labor government.

Mrs. Snowden, who is her husband's political aid as well as his nurse, was authority for the statement that there was no danger his illness would interfere with the budget day proceedings in parliament, scheduled for April 14.

TO MAKE OIL ESTIMATES

COMMITTEE IS NAMED BY SECRETARY WILBUR TO COMPILE DATA

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Estimates of how much oil Americra will need during the six months starting April 1, where it will get it and its disposition, will be prepared for the industry and the government by a special committee named Saturday by Secretary Wilbur, chairman of the federal oil conservation board.

The committee's information will be laid before the American Petroleum Institute at its sessions in St. Louis April 15 and 16, along with a similar report to be prepared by a special group of the institute, which will compare and combine them to help the industry meet its problems.

The petroleum institute, Secretary Wilbur said today, requested the committee.

Data compiled, he said would serve as a guide to the industry and permit the formulation of plans for more orderly production and elimination of waste.

The committee will be headed by E. B. Swanson, of the bureau of mines.

HOOVER OPPOSES WAGNER MEASURE

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—President Hoover has announced he would not sign the Wagner unemployment bill because it "unfortunately abolishes the whole of the present well developed federal employment service.

Mr. Hoover, in a formal statement, said he had given earnest study to the bill in an effort to find a method to make it of use in the present employment situation.

"I find upon study, however, that if I would prevent a serious blow to labor during the crisis, I should not approve the bill."

The bill, passed near the close of the session, would provide for setting up employment agencies under state control with the federal government paying half the cost.

OHIO PROFESSOR SEEKS TO ELIMINATE "SKY SICKNESS" IN HIGH BUILDINGS

COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 9 (AP)—If Professor Clyde R. Morris, of Ohio State university successfully concludes the experiments he now is working on, stenographers in the tallest building in the world, the Empire state skyscraper, in New York City, will not suffer from "sky sickness."

Professor Morris is considered one of the few experts in the country on the subject of swaying skyscrapers. When these huge giants of modern metropolitan architecture are caught in stiff winds, strange things happen. The lights seem to move more than the structures themselves, and occasionally occupants of offices far above the streets become ill with a malady akin to sea sickness. The Ohio state educator has been called into consultation with the architects and engineers of the Empire state building.

Measures Movements

He has assisted in designing and installing the apparatus in the 1250 foot building to measure the structure's movement in the wind, and to measure the movement to objects within the building itself.

"It seems that it is not the actual movement of the building in the wind that makes people in the offices frightened and seasick, but it is the swaying of objects within the building. A hanging light, for instance, will swing several feet when the building itself is moving only a fraction of an inch.

"Sky sickness, is a matter of sight, not motion," concludes Professor Morris.

When a Burman dies, his soul is supposed to be so disappointed at leaving this life that it becomes a demon, lives in a tree and must constantly be given presents of food and drink if it is to be prevented from wreaking its evil will upon the people of the neighborhood.
