CULBERSON AGAINST FREE RAW MATERIAL

GIVES OUT STATEMENT AT DAL-LAS CLEARLY DEFINING HIS POSITION.

ENDORSES 1896 PLATFORM

Not For Free Raw Material Where Manufactured Article is Given Protection.

Special to The Times.
Dallas, Tex., Oct. 14.—The followers of Bailey are jubilant today over a letter given out by Senator Chas. A.
Culberson last night, opposing free raw material and endorsing the Texas platform of 1896. This is substantially the position taken by the junior senator.

Culberson does not oppose free raw material in all cases, but only in those instances where the finished product is protected. He cites his vote for free iron ore as an evidence of his attitude on this feature of the question.
Culberson is of the opinion that John H. Reagan was the author of the free raw material plank of 1896, as Reagan was chairman of the committee.

The statement does not mention Bailey's name, nor does it refer to him in any way.

The senator reiterates some former expressions about the binding force of party platforms and said he was still thoroughly committed to that policy.
For that reason, he said, he voted for free lumber and for free paper when the Payne bill was up last spring.

John H. Kirby Receives No Answer to Pointed Letter.

Texas News Service Special.
Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 14.—The Texas News Service today received a message from John H. Kirby, the millionaire Texas lumberman, now in Chicago, which said that he had not received any reply from William Jennings Bryan to a pointed letter Kirby wrote him two weeks ago.

Bryan declared Kirby sought a tariff
on lumber.

Kirby wrote the Nebraskan denying this and asking a correction. Bryan received Kirby's letter two weeks ago.

ARGUMENTS CONTINUE.

CHINESE MINISTER IS SPIRITUALISM FADDIST

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—Wu Ting Fang, a learned Chinaman, who was at a spiritualistic seance last Sunday, still further pursued his investigation of the mysteries of spiritualism last night. The medium brought his messages purporting to come from the late President McKinley, and also from the minister's mother. The latter was apparently delivered in the Chinese language. The medium also foresaw terrible trouble for the Chinese empire.

SEEKING BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

PROPERTY OWNERS MEET AND FORM ASSOCIATION TO SAFE-GUARD INTERESTS.

PLAN VIGOROUS ACTION

Offer Large Reward for Conviction of Any Incendiary—Officers Are Elected.

At a meeting of a number of representative property-owners at the city hall this morning, a fire protective association was organized. The purpose of the new organization is to prevent,
as far as possible, all conflagrations of any kind, to secure cheaper insurance rates, and to see that incendiarism is punished to the extent of the law. The organization was perfected by the election of Butler Moore as president and J. L. Jackson a secretary-treasurer. An executive committee consisting of the president, Job Barnett, J. C. Ward, T. R. Noble, C.
W. Bean and Bert Bean was appointed.
The executive committee was authorized to offer a reward of five hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of any incendiary. The city council will be asked to enact ordinances more strictly regulating the disposition of trash and steps will be taken to enforce such ordinances rigidly.

The association will employ an attorney to represent it in running down incendiaries and it will take vigorous action in all such cases. A committee was appointed to solicit membership and a fund is also to be raised for carrying on the association's work. Those present at the meeting were: Butler
Moore, R. E. Huff, J. L. Jackson, C.
W. Bean, J. C. Ward, J. A. Kemp, G.
D. Anderson, Henry Patterson, W. W.
Jackson, N. Henderson, Vic Stampfl,

VICTORY GOES TO AMERICAN LEAGUE

TODAY'S GAME PLAYED IN CHIL-LY WEATHER AND FOUGHT OUT TO FINISH.

BOTH SIDES DESPERATE

Pittsburg Took Lead at Start, But Lost It as the Game Progressed Further.

By Associated Press.
Detroit, Oct. 14.—Chilly weather prevailed here for the sixth game of the world's championship series between Detroit and Pittsburg and the effect of the cold was noticeable throughout the game.

Realizing that in a victory today lay her only chance for the championship, Detroit played desperately and fought the game to the last ditch, each man seeming to realize the necessity for careful work.

Donovan opened for Detroit. After warming up Maddox, Camnitz and Willis, Manager Clarke of Pittsburg, decided upon Maddox, who opened for the Pirates.

Pittsburg sent chill into the hearts of the Detroit rooters by landing for three runs in the first half of the first inning and the disheartened crowd was only partially enthused when Detroit made one run in her half, cutting the Pirates' lead down to two runs.

There was no scoring in the second inning on either side.

The third inning also passed without either side getting a man across the plate.

In the fourth, after the Pittsburgers had been retired in order, Detroit scored twice, making the score three and three at the beginning of the fifth.

The Tigers forged ahead with one score in the fifth inning, and at the beginning of the sixth inning the score stood four to three in favor of Detroit.

Detroit increased her lead with another run in the sixth inning, making the score, Detroit 5, Pittsburg 3, at the beginning of the seventh inning.

There was no more scoring until Pittsburg's half of the ninth, when she got one man across the plate.
Final score: Detroit 5, Pittsburg 3.

INDIGNATION MEETING.

Policeman Killed and Large Number Wounded.

Rome, Oct. 14.—Indignation meetings are being held throughout Italy today in consequence of the execution of Ferrer at Barcelona yesterday.

In this city the protests brought business to a standstill.

The Danish and Austrian embassies and the Vatican are closely guarded by troops and it is thought the authorities will prevent any serious outbreak.

Paris, Oct. 14.—One policeman was killed and seventy persons wounded during last night's rioting. Among those arrested were five notorious anarchists.

The press, with the exception of the Royalist and Clerical, continues to express indignation over the execution of Ferrer at Barcelona.

KEY WEST IN NEED OF ASSISTANCE RIGHT AWAY

By Associated Press.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 14.—Immediate assistance from the outside world is necessary to carry on the work of cleaning up the city and caring for the victims of the hurricane, which left more than half of Key West in total ruins last Monday. This statement was made by Mayor Fogarty today.

Hundreds are on the point of starvation, it is declared.

The sewers are so badly clogged
that it is feared there will be an epidemic of sickness.

ROBBER SUICIDES.

First Robs Savings Bank—Ends Life
When Arrested.

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Oct. 14.—A fashionably dressed bandit, who early this afternoon robbed the savings bank of D. M.
Erskine & Co., in Highland Park, Ill., a village north of Chicago, committed suicide by shooting himself in the mouth when driven to bay by an officer and a posse of citizens.

A companion of the robber, who had driven him to the bank in an automobile, was captured immediately following the robbery, which forced the principal actor of the crime to flee on foot.
He then engaged in a running duel with Marshal Tom Sheehan, and failing to drive back his pursuers, ran into a shed.

When he saw Sheehan enter the shed
with his revolver leveled at his head, the fugitive put the muzzle of his own revolver in his mouth and fired, death ensuing almost instantly.

The man arrested refused to disclose his or his companion's identity.

The robbery was conducted in a deliberate and spectacular manner, the bandit securing about $500 in gold coin and bills after he had forced John C.
Duffy, cashier of the bank, Miss Nellie Fitzgerald, the bookkeeper, and Joseph F. Richards, the receiving teller, into the cashier's cage just after the closing of the business day.

In the morning the automobile bearing the bandit and the chauffeur drove up to the bank, but went away. About 2 o'clock this afternoon they returned, and Cashier Duffy, fearing something was wrong, hurriedly took a large amount of the money and locked it in the vault. Several hundred dollars still remained in the cage. As he entered the cage, Duffy was confronted by the robber, who covered him with a revolver.

"Call every one into that cage," said the bandit, "or I'll blow your head off. Hurry up!"

Duffy, unarmed, complied with the demand. Miss Fitzgerald and Richards came forward while the intruder helped himself to all the money in sight.

A Narrow Escape.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Himpleman boarded the north bound Denver passenger train this afternoon for a trip to the state of Washington, but before the train started, Mr. Himpleman found it necessary to return to the ticket office to attend to some business, and while doing this the train upon which was his wife, started off. Before he could reach the train it was going at a good speed, but he managed to catch hold of one of the railings by which passengers pull themselves upon the steps on entering the train, but he

VALLEY MAY OBTAIN MORGAN JONES ROAD

Also Rumored Management Plan to Extend to San Antonio After Purchasing.

The recent publication in a St. Louis paper of a dispatch from Austin that the Abilene and Southern is soon to be taken over as part of the Wichita Valley and become part of the Fort Worth and Denver system, has created considerable interest among local railroad men. At the Wichita Valley offices this morning, all knowledge or intimation of the proposed change was denied.

The Abilene and Southern was built by Morgan Jones and extends from Abilene southward to Ballinger. If Mr. Jones carries out his present plans, the lines will be extended from there to San Angelo. According to the St.
Louis paper, the line will be built south to San Antonio after being taken over by the Valley. Mr. Jones has already been very reticent about his plans, but it is known that he has intended to retain the line and operate it himself. There is little doubt, however, that he would sell out if he could get his price.

could not manage to swing himself on, and with only one hand holding on to the iron bar he was dragged for more a hundred yards before his perilous position was discovered by the conductor and the train stopped.

He was taken aboard and the train proceeded on its way. As to whether his injuries were serious or not, it has not yet been learned.

A lot of people tire themselves out looking for havens of rest and easy jobs.

TAFT BACKS KNOX UP; RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—Secretary Carpenter today received a telegram from President Taft, which reads as follows:
"Convey to Mr. Crane the following communication:"

"I concur in the letter under date of October 12th, which the Secretary of State addressed you, and greatly regret the circumstances found by him make it necessary for me to accept your resignation."

Crane had been named minister-designate to China.

This is the map by Robert E. Peary to the Peary Arctic Club with his statement by which he seeks to prove that Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who is now being acclaimed as the discoverer of the North Pole, never ventured upon the open polar sea. The map purports to have been traced out by aid of the two Eskimos who were with Dr. Cook and is based upon what Commander Peary declares they told him concerning their journey with Cook. The black lines in both the large map and the small one in the upper left hand corner give Cook's route, according to Peary. The dotted lines in the small map show the route that Dr. Cook declares he followed to and from the pole after leaving Cape Thomas Hubbard. The irregular line in the large map running northeast from Isachsen Land is the edge of the land ice, according to Peary, the farthest north that Cook and his party penetrated.

GAUSEWITZ AND MAER ON TRIP FOR INSPECTION

Superintendent H. M. Gausewitz and Division Superintendent Maer of the Fort Worth and Denver, arrived here this morning in special car No. 99 and left this afternoon for a trip over the Wichita Valley. They will go over the Valley's new line out of Stamford and will make an inspection of that property.

The Stamford and Northwestern is reported to be doing a business fully up to all that was expected of it. The extension from Jayton to Spur is being rapidly pushed and the line will be in operation to the latter point at an early date.

HAS BEEN RE-CALLED.

Rev. J. P. Boone May Not Accept
Wichita Falls Pastorate.

Rev. J. P. Boone of Fort Worth, who has been called to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of this city, and who resigned his Fort Worth pulpit to accept, has been re-called by his congregation there. His resignation was accepted by the church there, but when the time came to elect a successor, his name was put up and he was elected.

The earnestness of the Fort Worth congregation in asking him to remain there has led him to reconsider the matter and he will make a final decision next Saturday.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MENACED

Opponents of Mrs. Eddy are Now Gaining in Strength.

New York, Oct. 14.—That Christian Science is facing a situation fraught with menace to its existence, was very clearly realized in the happenings of yesterday in the city. At the morning service in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, the last doubt that the authority of the Mother Church in Boston, and Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, will be ignored, was swept away.

Heretofore an edict of the Mother Church directed against any Christian Scientist has been sufficient to crush the offender. No branch church, however rich and powerful, has ever ventured to harbor man or woman who was objectionable to the Supreme Council of the cult at Boston. But yesterday, in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Mrs. August Stetson, brilliantly gowned and superbly jeweled, occupied her accustomed place and received the homage of a congregation which packed the great temple to its doors. Her 16 practitioners—shareholders in the sentence imposed by the mother church in the name of Mrs. Eddy—were also present, not as intruders, but obviously as honored members.

There was no attempt at concealment of sympathy by the congregation. Every face was smiling and no casual observer would have credited the fact that the woman who dominated the service had been judged guilty of practices akin to the Black Art. Although the spoken service was devoid of the slightest reference to the Boston edict, the temper of the church was clearly revealed. It was as if this pulpit announcement had been made: "We deny the findings of the tribunal at Boston that Mrs. Stetson has practiced and taught the diabolism of malicious animal magnetism. She is our leader and we will have no other."

Yesterday, as from the beginning of the trouble, the officials of Mrs. Stetson's church refused to make any statement. But there was a clear intimation of a very emphatic statement soon to come in the words of Chairman Hatfield, of the board of trustees:

"We shall make no official declaration—yet."

Judging by the surface indications, supplemented by confidences from the members of the church, it seems a foregone conclusion that Mrs. Stetson and her practitioners will be sustained. If this happens the First Church of Christian Scientist will become either an outlaw organization or an openly avowed rival of the Mother Church, independent and recognizing no authority but its own. Close students of the Christian Science situation now doubt that the cult can survive such a split.

Another happening of yesterday calculated to increase alarm at Boston, was the launching of the New Christian Science Church by Della M. Gilbert at the Hotel Gotham. Mrs. Gilbert takes the stand that Mrs. Eddy is a helpless puppet in the hands of a ring; that she knows nothing of the many edicts issued in her name, and that the future of Christian Science depends upon a united effort by honest believers to purge the cult of fraud and trickery.

Not more than a hundred persons made up the audience, which listened to Mrs. Gilbert's declarations of faith and purpose; but it was a conspicuously well-dressed assemblage, obviously in sympathy with the white-robed woman in the pulpit. The service was that of the Christian Science Church, and the only books used were the bible and Mrs. Eddy's "Science and Health."

Conrad Milliken, a young lawyer with a fine face, a wealth of wavy hair and a voice that would arouse the envy of a tragedian, filled the post of the learned reader most effectively. Music played an important part in the service. It was good music, too. And as it flowed through the big hotel, guests of the house, who knew nothing of Christian Science, crowded the ball room galleries. Mme. de Rigaud, a contralto, sang Alletson's "The Lord Is My Light." Letz, a violinist, played Massenet's "Meditation" from the opera Thais. There was also piano music by Max Leebing and singing by the congregation.

When Fame Comes.

From the Chicago Evening Post. To the great explorer comes a radiant goddess bearing in her arms propositions that he go into vaudeville, that he write feature articles on love and marriage for the Sunday papers, that he allow his picture to be used to advertise everything from corn cure to hair tonic, that he be judge in a beauty contest, that he marry any one of the five thousand fool females, that he contribute to the support of ten thousand professional beggars—and a hundred more propositions of the same order.

"And this is fame!" he sighs. "No," answers the goddess. "I am Notoriety. Fame won't be here for a century."

A WEST POINT. HAZING

It Knocked All the Egotism Out of the New Cadet.

SINGING HIS OWN PRAISES.

He Was Kept at It to His Own Mortification and the Delight of the Upper Class Men—A Clipping From His Home Paper Started the Trouble.

Hazing at the United States Military academy, West Point, has in the past ten years been so frequently followed by punishment and otherwise discounted that it has practically become a thing of the past. A third of a century ago the modes of hazing were varied and many of them unique. A certain graduate who hailed from south of Mason and Dixon's line and from west of the Allegheny mountains told this story of his own experience:

He was a tall, rawboned fellow when he entered the academy as a "plebe" and had been assigned to a room with a bright little chap, with whom he soon became very friendly and confidential. Several weeks after he had entered the academy he received a letter from his good mother, in which she had inclosed a clipping from their county newspaper.

The article mentioned the fact that young Mr. — had received an appointment to West Point and had left for that place several days before; that, whereas they extended congratulations to the young man, the United States government was to be much more greatly congratulated upon obtaining as one of its embryo soldiers a man from their community, the son of such a noble sire, whose sire and great-sires had been equally noble, a young man above reproach, of great intellect and bound to make his mark in any calling he might elect, etc.

This article inspired its recipient with pride and pleasure. He found it impossible to refrain from showing it to his roommate and an hour after having done so was accosted while going downstairs by an upper class man who had been drilling him and had been very severe. At this meeting the upper class man, who was about half his size, looked at him solemnly, removed his cap and said: "Mr. —, I humbly beg your pardon for having been so stern with you. I did not know until a few moments ago what a distinguished and intellectual young man you were. You honor us by becoming one of us."

The pleased "plebe," never for a moment scenting mischief, grinningly replied: "That's all right, Mr. —. I forgive you."

That evening while the "plebe" and his roommate were engaged in study there was a knock at their door, and there entered the upper class man who had accosted and apologized to the "plebe" on the stairs, he being accompanied by a dozen other upper class men. He thus addressed the "plebe": "Mr. —, here are a number of your brother cadets who are desirous of knowing what a particularly distinguished man they have among them. You will therefore kindly read what your newspaper says of you."

The "plebe" was inclined to demur, but the determined manner and steely eye of the little upper class man compelled obedience. Embarrassed, he stumbingly read the whole article, at the conclusion of which the little upper class man stated that the reader had mumbled in parts, had failed to enunciate distinctly and required the poor "plebe" to read it again. This having been done, all shook hands with him in an apparently most deferential manner, after which the little upper class man stated that they would call the next evening augmented by other cadets and that in the meantime the "plebe" would commit the article to memory and be in readiness to repeat it when they called.

His manner brooked no disobedience. The call was made the next evening, the number of cadets being nearly double that of the previous evening, and he repeated the article, being prompted by the little upper class man. Before the departure of his visitors he was informed that he would be visited the next evening by a still greater number of cadets, and he was ordered to be prepared to declaim the article depicting his virtues.

The visit was made and the declamation rendered. He was then informed that he would be again visited the following evening and would prepare himself so as to be able to render the article in song. This visit was made, the room being fairly packed with cadets, and the poor "plebe" was required to stand on a table and bowl the article from start to finish, for he had not the faintest understanding of how to sing or turn a tune. In after years he said that if he had ever had any egotism in his composition it was completely knocked out of him by having to handle that article as he had to handle it.—J. W. Duncan in Lippincott's.

In renewing for the Times for another year, one of our readers who is now making his home in an Oklahoma town, much larger in point of population than Wichita Falls, writes a few encouraging words as follows: "I feel like giving you a few words of praise for your paper is clean and newsy—far ahead of—papers, although I daresay I ought not to say that out loud. Best wishes for your paper and town."—Wichita Times.

The Times is surely a fine paper and is doing splendid service for its town, its section and for Texas, and merits the bouquet thrown to it by its former townsman. Come to think of it, how much happier the world would be if all men would strew flowers upon the pathway of the living, instead of reserving the flowers for the graves of the dead, as too many do. A newspaper is not infallible, but it works for all, and words of approval, accompanied by something to keep the pot boiling, stimulates the editor to work all the harder for his neighbors and for his country.—Star-Telegram.

Ruth Bryant Leavitt has already given up her idea of running for congress. And it may be remarked in this connection that Ruth Bryant Leavitt's father changes his mind pretty often, too.—Austin Tribune.

Mrs. Leavitt, according to a statement given out under her own signature, has never had any such intentions. The story was started to cast a reflection upon her father, and every sheet in the country, it seems, that has been waiting for an opportunity to say something that would have a tendency to detract popularity from the great democratic leader, has made use of silly paragraphs similar to the above, when they knew that the story as it first appeared, was denied promptly and emphatically by the one most interested.

Whatever may be said against Gov. Campbell's administration, it cannot be charged that, in filling the various appointive offices, he is not showing good judgment by picking out the very best material obtainable. One of his latest appointments is that of W. A. Johnson of the Memphis Herald, a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Finley of Dallas.

The seventh inning in yesterday's game to the contrary notwithstanding, we still believe that the Detroit team will prove worthy of the confidence placed in it by the 251,000 Democratic majority of Texas.

The Times wishes to assure the bustling citizenship of Olney that those of us who are not with her in person today, are present in spirit and are rejoicing with her in her festivities.

The worst kind of a "knocker" is the fellow who is constantly predicting disaster for the town for which he professes friendship, in the event things do not go to his liking.

We aren't sure, but we are willing to wager almost any reasonable sum that Judge Anderson who dismissed the "libel" cases against the Indianapolis News, is a democrat.

Fort Worth is bragging because 12 hours have passed in that city without a single arrest. It isn't often that the police force goes to sleep there with so much unanimity.

If there is a court in Texas where Peary's indictment of Cook would stand long enough to give the judge time to throw it out, we would like to learn its location.

The present president and the next president are to be in Texas at the same time, Taft in South Texas and Harmon in North Texas. At any rate, here's hoping.

A family in California is living on a diet of sulphur. Most of us, however, are too much afraid of the enforced sulphur diet that is coming to us in the next world.

RICHEST WOMAN IN WORLD.

Mrs. Mary Harriman Is Now Worth Three Hundred Millions.

New York, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Mary Harriman, widow of Edward H. Harriman, is the richest woman in the world. The estate left by the railroad magnate who died a few weeks ago, according to a statement by a close friend and business associate, is valued at $300,000,000.

Although out of this Mr. Harriman the day before he died gave each of his children $6,000,000 and other relatives $3,000,000 more, the remainder, $267,000,000, which goes to the widow places her in possession of a fortune beside which the wealth of Mrs. Hetty Green and Mrs. Russell Sage seems small, indeed.

Not only is Mrs. Harriman the richest woman in the world, but among the great nations of finance, but in this country and in Europe, hers is right at the top of the list among five or six richest individuals. With the exceptions of the Rockefellers, the Rothschilds, the Duke of Westminster and perhaps one of the Gould fortunes, Mrs. Harriman's wealth is greater than any other person's.

A friend of E. H. Harriman, who gave a statement of the railroad king's riches, said that Mr. Harriman himself a day or two before he died, said he was worth $300,000,000.

"Mr. Harriman called his wife and his children to him and told them of the vast estate he would leave," said this friend of the financier today, "and he told them that he would leave the bulk of it to his wife. The bulk meant all but $33,000,000, which he planned to divide among his children, a few other relatives and old servants."

"It was the handsome dowry, you know, which his wife brought to him that made it possible for Harriman when a young Wall Street broker, to branch out and engage in operations which placed him at the head of the railroad world."

"To each of his five children he gave $6,000,000, in bonds and other securities. This apportionment was but 10 per cent of the fortune, and other gifts to members of the immediate family, servants, old retainers and loyal clerks, who had stuck faithfully to him throughout his fight for the control of vast railroad interests now known as the Harriman lines, totaled another $3,000,000."

"What will she do with it? Why, just what her husband would have done. No man and wife were ever closer than Mr. and Mrs. Harriman. She was his only confidant. He never made a move or laid a plan for one of his groups unless she had gone over the ground in minute detail with his wife."

"The death of Mr. Harriman will cause no shrinkage in the millions he left, for Mrs. Harriman is one of the best equipped women in the world to plunge successfully into the intricacies of finance."

"Now I don't mean to insinuate that Mrs. Harriman is to become a second Hetty Green. Mrs. Harriman is an entirely different type. She has other responsibilities and other plans just as near her heart as money making is to Mrs. Green."

"In the first place, work at Tower Hill is going on just as it had been planned by its master. Already the finest estate in America, Tower Hill, when completed will be the most magnificent country home in the world. Mr. Ford, Mr. Harriman's superintendent, is still in charge of the work, the only difference being that he now consults Mrs. Harriman alone, instead of Mr. and Mrs. Harriman, as he used to do."

"She has every detail of the work at her fingers' ends, and she is never at a loss for a reply when Ford comes to her with the request that she pass final judgment on some step he contemplates."

"Mrs. Harriman, you must recollect, is a mother in every essential. There never was a family more united than this. The most beautiful devotion is lavished upon this very exceptional woman by her sons and daughters."

"They have deferred to her wishes since their infancy, and they will continue to do so. That their destinies are safe in her hands, goes without saying."

"Mr. Harriman in his will placed no restrictions upon his wife. In disposing of his colossal fortune in the shortest will on record, he gave her everything unconditionally. They, Mr. and Mrs. Harriman, understood each other thoroughly in all things."

"These children have all that their great father desired them to have or thought would be good for them at their present age. There is no doubt that when the proper time arrives they will be further enriched."

"Has Mrs. Harriman any special plans as to charity?"

"Well, really, you must ask her that question."

A Hole Through the Earth

The inhabitants of the earth are still very far from a full knowledge of the planet on which they dwell. They have explored its surface until they have almost exhausted the regions of sea or land which have yet to be discovered. Astronomically they have determined its size and weight. But as to its interior constitution they are still profoundly ignorant. It is only by chance and indirectly, that they have penetrated a little way into its interior. The railway tunnels which pierce the mountain sides have done no more than traverse the inequalities of the crust of the earth. The deepest shaft which penetrates the earth was constructed between 1893 and 1902 at Paryschwit, near Rybnik, and is about a mile and a quarter in depth—scarcely more than an insignificant scratch upon the surface of our globe.

I have had the idea in mind for some time past of sinking a shaft into the earth for the express purpose of scientific exploration, descending as far below the surface as the utmost resources of modern science would permit. This idea has just been forcibly recalled to my attention in consequence of the recent earthquakes and the extremely contradictory opinions of the geologists upon the interior state of the globe. I this globe liquid or solid? From the most ancient times scientific men have considered the problem under all its bearings, without having succeeded in lighting upon any satisfactory solution.

The first result would be to obtain an inexhaustible source of heat, which might be distributed and applied to industrial purposes. According to the most authentic estimate, the boiling point will be found at a depth of about two miles.

Without doubt we should also discover springs of hot water, like those which were found during the construction of the Simplon Tunnel in 1903, with a temperature of 48 to 53 degrees centigrade. We should also come upon subterranean rivers and cascades which might be employed as a motive power.

The second result would be the exploration of this unknown world itself. Who knows what curiosities of geology and paleontology might be revealed by this investigation into these dark abysses of the earth? What mines of iron, of copper, or precious metals, such as gold, platinum, silver, radium, and of elements hitherto unknown and unsuspected?—Camille Flammarion in the Strand Magazine.

"There's a Reason"

Benjamin Clothes
Alfred Benjamin & Co. Tailors

You'd be surprised if we'd tell you the number of men in this city who come to us, quite worried because of the fear that they can not obtain a suit of exceptional attractiveness, and one not having that flippant "air" which characterizes so many makes of clothes. We quiet their fears in a moment and do it very easily, too. In our long experience we have found that freakishness is not style, nor are the clamorous patterns. Acting upon our real knowledge of a gentleman's needs we are always prepared to exhibit rare styles and fascinating patterns; BUT NOT boisterous clothes. The Seabright Sack, made by Alfred Benjamin & Co., in New York, is a remarkable style, which is so "up-to-the-minute" that it fairly sparkles. The fabrics are soft and rich; the tailoring is of the kind which only expert workers can give. It is a clean, good, "Made in New York" style which men of taste desire.

AMUSEMENTS

Georgia Minstrels.

"One swallow does not make a summer," neither does one comedian make a minstrel show.

Managers of the old school used to contend that one real actor and fifteen or sixteen "sticks" and a band of ten pieces (it was often eight, was sufficient for a minstrel show, and that the public would accept them. History loves the truth of their contention, for the public did accept such organizations; whether or not the public was satisfied is a question open to argument.

But there have been vast changes in the last few years. The day of the one-man show is over. The public demand a company of uniform excellence.

Mistakes are to the wise man but stepping stones to success. The management of Richards and Pringle's famous Georgia Minstrels were the first to realize that if minstrelsy was to thrive and flourish radical and important changes were necessary. Such changes called for the outlay of a considerable fortune, but time and results have testified to the truth of their conviction. This company stands today the acknowledged leaders in this branch of amusement business, and no well-informed student of the stage will challenge this statement. They travel in their own palace cars and number forty people. Twelve comedians of real reputation vie with each other in the fun making. There are twenty trained singers, a double sextette of nimble dancers, seven big vaudeville acts and a band of twenty-five pieces, that is the best ever.

The date of this company's appearance at the Wichita Theatre is Friday, Oct. 15th.

Big street parade at 1:30.

"The Girl From Rector's."

Theatre-goers are anticipating with a remarkable show of interest the forthcoming production in this city of "The Girl From Rector's," which comes direct from an entire season's run at Weber's Music Hall, New York. All box-office records were broken during the engagement and the run might have continued until today were it not for the necessity of filling out-of-town contracts that had been previously made.

"The Girl From Rector's" is declared by the metropolitan critics to be one of the funniest of high-class productions made there in many years. The plot deals with the actions of a young society woman of Battle Creek, Mich., who is charitably inclined. She spends most of her time in her own circle at home, but her husband a judge at the court of Shanghai, is far away for such long periods she decides to go to New York, for recreation and rest. She is attracted by the glaring lights at Rector's and there she makes her headquarters. In the course of time she earns the sobriquet of "The Girl from Rector's" and on her next visit to Battle Creek she meets at the home of a society friend many of those of the Rector Circle. She had been posing as the daughter of a Buffalo man and while "The Girl" is away, is endeavoring to explain her dual identity complications arise which reveals a series of situations that keep the audience in a roar to the final curtain.

The engagement of "The Girl" in this city is limited to one night only at the Wichita Theatre, Tuesday, October 19th. Seats on sale Saturday.

Big Values in New Dress Goods

Everything in our dress goods department is now ready for what we believe is going to be the biggest winter's business we ever did.

We have two reasons for thinking so:

1st. Money is easy and people are already buying very freely.

2nd. We never before had such wonderful values to offer as we have this year.

Our prices are not much, if any, lower than other stores, but the value we give for those prices will surprise you—we couldn't do it if it were not for our exceptional buying facilities.

Our buyer is a wizard at dry goods, buying and has gathered together some of the biggest values that ever came to the city.

Our Poplins and Soisettes in all colors, at 50c to 35c per yard, are just two hints of the immense lines we can and want to show you.

AMUSEMENTS

Georgia Minstrels.
"One swallow does not make a summer," neither does one comedian make a minstrel show.

Managers of the old school used to contend that one real actor and fifteen or sixteen "sticks" and a band of ten pieces (it was often eight, was sufficient for a minstrel show, and that the public would accept them. History loves the truth of their contention, for the public did accept such organizations; whether or not the public was satisfied is a question open to argument.

But there have been vast changes in the last few years. The day of the one-man show is over. The public demand a company of uniform excellence.

Mistakes are to the wise man but stepping stones to success. The management of Richards and Pringle's famous Georgia Minstrels were the first to realize that if minstrelsy was to thrive and flourish radical and important changes were necessary. Such changes called for the outlay of a considerable fortune, but time and results have testified to the truth of their conviction. This company stands today the acknowledged leaders in this branch of amusement business, and no well-informed student of the stage will challenge this statement. They travel in their own palace cars and number forty people. Twelve comedians of real reputation vie with each other in the fun-making. There are twenty trained singers, a double sextette of nimble dancers, seven big vaudeville acts and a band of twenty-five pieces, that is the best ever.

The date of this company's appearance at the Wichita Theatre is Friday, Oct. 15th.

Big street parade at 1:30.

"The Girl From Rector's."

Theatre-goers are anticipating with a remarkable show of interest the forthcoming production in this city of "The Girl From Rector's," which comes direct from an entire season's run at Weber's Music Hall, New York. All box-office records were broken during the engagement and the run might have continued until today were it not for the necessity of filling out-of-town contracts that had been previously made.

"The Girl From Rector's" is declared by the metropolitan critics to be one of the funniest of high-class productions made there in many years. The plot deals with the actions of a young society woman of Battle Creek, Mich., who is charitably inclined. She spends most of her time in her own circle at home, but her husband a judge at the court of Shanghai, is far away for such long periods she decides to go to New York, for recreation and rest. She is attracted by the glaring lights at Rector's and there she makes her headquarters. In the course of time she earns the sobriquet of "The Girl from Rector's" and on her next visit to Battle Creek she meets at the home of a society friend many of those of the Rector Circle. She had been posing as the daughter of a Buffalo man and while "The Girl" is away, is endeavoring to explain her dual identity complications arise which reveals a series of situations that keep the audience in a roar to the final curtain.

The engagement of "The Girl" in this city is limited to one night only at the Wichita Theatre, Tuesday, October 19th. Seats on sale Saturday.

Big Values in New Dress Goods

Everything in our dress goods department is now ready for what we believe is going to be the biggest winter's business we ever did.

We have two reasons for thinking so:

1st. Money is easy and people are already buying very freely.

2nd. We never before had such wonderful values to offer as we have this year.

Our prices are not much, if any, lower than other stores, but the value we give for those prices will surprise you—we couldn't do it if it were not for our exceptional buying facilities.

Our buyer is a wizard at dry goods buying and has gathered together some of the biggest values that ever came to the city.

Our Poplins and Soisettes in all colors, at 50c to 35c per yard, are just two hints of the immense lines we can and want to show you.

Two Ways of Looking At It.

After buying that bill of lumber you are going to need, and using it, you may be either glad or mad. It depends on whether you buy good, dry lumber from us, or carelessly accept lumber that's only half seasoned, from somebody who's not so particular about the quality of their stock as we are.

There are no two ways about it: You can buy any kind of lumber or building material to better advantage right here than you can anywhere else in this part of the country. Let us make you an estimate on what you want.

Two Ways of Looking At It.

After buying that bill of lumber you are going to need, and using it, you may be either glad or mad. It depends on whether you buy good, dry lumber from us, or carelessly accept lumber that's only half seasoned, from somebody who's not so particular about the quality of their stock as we are.

There are no two ways about it: You can buy any kind of lumber or building material to better advantage right here than you can anywhere else in this part of the country. Let us make you an estimate on what you want.

MARINERS' COMPASS.

Little Known of the Real Origin of the Instrument.

ITS USE BY THE CHINESE.

This Wonderful People Knew of the Magnetic Needle Long Before the Christian Era—The Claims of Giola, the Pilot, and the Credit Due Him.

Much interest must forever attach to the discovery of that valuable instrument—the mariner's compass, and yet there are few subjects concerning which less is known. For a period the honor of the invention was ascribed to Giola, a pilot, born at Pasitano, a small village situated near Amalfi, about the end of the thirteenth century. His claims, however, have been disputed.

Much learning and labor have been bestowed upon the subject of the discovery. It has been maintained by one class that even the Phoenicians were the inventors, by another that the Greeks and Romans had a knowledge of it. Such notions, however, have been completely refuted.

One passage, nevertheless, of a remarkable character occurs in the works of Cardinal de Vitry, bishop of Ptolemais, in Syria. He went to Palestine during the fourth crusade, about the year 1204. He returned afterward to Europe and subsequently back to the Holy Land, where he wrote his work entitled "Historia Orientalis," as nearly as can be determined, between the years 1215 and 1220. In chapter 91 of that work he has this singular passage:

"The iron needle, after contact with the loadstone, constantly turns to the north star, which, at the axis of the firmament, remains immovable while the others revolve, and hence it is essentially necessary to those navigating on the ocean."

These words are as explicit as they are extraordinary. They state a fact and announce a use. The thing, therefore, which essentially constitutes the compass must have been known long before the birth of Giola. In addition to this fact, there is another equally fatal to his claim as the original discoverer.

It is now settled beyond a doubt that the Chinese were acquainted with the compass long before the Europeans. It is certain that there are allusions to the magnetic needle in the traditional period of Chinese history, about 2000 years before Christ, and a still more credible account of it is found in the reign of Chingwang of the Chow dynasty, before Christ 1114.

All this, however, may be granted without in the least impairing the just claims of Giola to the gratitude of mankind. The truth appears to be that the position of Giola in relation to the compass was precisely that of Watt in relation to the steam engine—the element existed; he augmented its utility.

The compass used by the mariners in the Mediterranean during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries was a very uncertain and unsatisfactory apparatus. It consisted only of a magnetic needle floating in a vase or basin by means of two straws on a bit of cork supporting it on the surface of the water.

The compass used by the Arabians in the thirteenth century was an instrument of exactly the same description. Now, the inconvenience and inefficiency of such an apparatus are obvious. The agitation of the ocean and the tossing of the vessel might render it useless in a moment.

But Giola placed the magnetized needle on a pivot, which permits it to turn to all sides with facility. Afterward it was attached to a card divided into thirty-two points, called rose de vents, and then the box containing it was suspended in such a manner that, however the vessel might be tossed, it would always remain horizontal.—Electrical Engineer.

Stung.

The old gentleman went into the parlor the other night at the witching hour of 10:30 and found the lights out and his daughter and a dear friend enjoying a tete-a-tete in a corner by the window.

"Evangeline," said the old man sternly, "this is scandalous!"

"Yes, papa," she answered sweetly. "It is candleless because times are hard. Lights cost so much Ferdinand and I said we would get along with the starlight."

And papa turned about in speechless amazement and tried to walk out of the room through a panel in the wall paper.—Exchange.

The Difference.

"Father," said little Bello, "what is the difference between farming and agriculture?"

"Well, my son, for farming you need a plow and a harrow and a lot of other implements, and for agriculture all you need is a pencil and a piece of paper."—Washington Star.

The Mess in the Oven.

"How came such a greasy mess in the oven?" said a fidgety old spinster to her maid of all work.

"Why," replied the girl, "the candles fell into the water, and I put them into the oven to dry."—London Tatler.

Mildew.

An easy method of removing mildew is to place the article in a warm oven for a few moments and then brush it.

When you forget there are others you are nearing a burned bridge.

HUNTING ROCK HARES.

A Fleet Little Animal Found Among the Sand Hills of Arabia.

How long the Arab has inhabited the deserts of the near east is a much discussed question. How long he has indulged in the old time sport of falconry it is equally difficult to say. Sure it is that this keen blooded race has not lived all these centuries in those sun scorched wastes without some sort of recreation, and his delights today are probably much the same as those of his ancestors a couple of thousand years ago.

Curious to see what natural sport these barren regions could afford, the writer accepted an invitation to join a party of Syrian Arabs for a week's hunting. Our quarry was the rock hare, an animal about the size of an English rabbit, but with very fine developed ears, which frequents these deserts in small numbers, living on what scanty herbage it can find.

We started straight away in search of it by forming a chain about a quarter of a mile long and drawing like-ly tracts of desert in long semicircular sweeps. The herbage was very scant indeed. These sand hills, being scorched by a tropical sun and having a yearly rainfall of only some three inches, support but few plants of any kind. I noticed a few insectivorous birds pursuing their prey with keen voracity, as though they found it hard to make a living, but saw no trace of wild animals.

On we marched in silent order, merely following the lead of our falcon bearer, whose face seemed invariably, his manner unmoved. Hours passed by. It was now 11 o'clock. The sun was hot above us, drying up our parched lips. I began to think that rock hares must be a myth when suddenly the bound leaped forward with a great bound, our horses instinctively following at full gallop. But we had not far to go. It was only a "garbour." The bound was soon up to it, and I thought it was all over; but, no—the little creature leaped, as it were, right out of his mouth.

One spring brought the greyhound alongside again, but again this agile quadruped had slipped out of the grasp of his sharp teeth. The speed of the tiny thing was so great and its actions so sudden that it was as much as the eye could do to follow it at all. Again its great pursuer sprang upon it; again this nimble animal slipped from his very jaws. But it was no good. It was outclassed in size. These great leaps shook the very life breath from its frail body.

At last it fell an easy prey to its relentless enemy, and one crunch put an end to its miseries. It was an interesting little beast, its body about the size of a rat. It carried a fine long coat, was gray on the back, with white under the belly, having a long bushy tail with a pretty tuft at the end. But its hind legs were its great feature. They were very long, being, like those of the kangaroo, specially adapted for jumping. I noted, too, that each hind foot was provided with only three toes, whereas on those of the fore legs, which were very short, there were the normal five. Altogether it was a most interesting and sporting specimen.—"Near East."

Descendants of David.

The history of the Sassoons is one of the most dramatic in the very dramatic story of the Hebrew race. The original Sassoon was a Bombay merchant, but the family is descended from a group known as Ibn Shoshan, who at one time held the position of nasal of Toledo. The name Shoshan, which signifies "lily" in Hebrew, was gradually transformed into Sassoon, signifying "gladness." The family claim Davidic descent, and Abraham Sassoon, who flourished in the seventeenth century, stated that he was a direct descendant of Shephatiah, the fifth son of David. Not only are there many references to the name in Hebrew medieval literature, but mention of it is made in the Talmud.—London M. A. P.

Three Tightwads.

Speaking of tightwads, a Texas paper says: It is reported that three of the stingiest men in the state were in town yesterday. One of them will not drink as much water as he wants unless it is from another man's well. The second forbids any of his family from writing anything but a small hand, as it is a waste of ink to make large letters. The third stops his clock at night in order to save wear and tear on the machinery. All of them decline to take their county paper on the ground that it is a terrible strain on their spectacles to read newspapers even in the daytime.

Food Scarc.

"This circular describing the Mount-Ingue says you can sit at the dinner table and see the beautiful mountain peaks," said the man who contemplated going.

"That is true," replied the one who had been, "and that's just about all you can see."—Yonkers Statesman.

THE CENTURY PLANT A MYTH.

Florist Shatters Delusion That Cactus Blooms Once in One Hundred Years.

Seattle Times.

The delusion of many women in Seattle who believe they possess a century cactus has been shaken by the rude florist, who pronounces the plant to be just ordinary cactus.

"The regular century plant," said Robert Shank, who was born among flowers and has made floriculture a business for twenty years, "is not a cactus. It belongs to a family of itself. It has a large, broad leaf, sometimes two or three feet long and several inches thick, where they branch from the center. There are two varieties, one the variegated and the other green. The only difference is that the variegated has a white strip along the outer edge of the leaf. They bloom every twenty-five to forty years. A stock perhaps eight or ten inches in diameter shoots up from the center to a height of fifteen or twenty feet and around this cluster small blossoms. They are neither pretty nor fragrant. They were formerly supposed to bloom once in 100 years."

The nearest thing to a century plant is the night-blooming cactus. It is a cactus and blooms once in about every twenty-five years or so. The flower is large, very beautiful and has a delightful odor. One plant may have several blossoms, but each flower lasts only one night.

"There is no such plant as a century cactus. This cactus that may have mistaken for a century cactus will bloom in four or five years. If kept under glass or about seven years if not in a hot house. Because they are so long in blooming I suppose they have been called a century plant and the name has been handed down until it is considered the proper term for them. They bloom yearly after the first blossoms appear. They are just an ordinary cactus, but they have a pretty, fragrant flower."

Passing of Wood Engraving.

In my young days, writes Harry Fed in Palette and Bench, I was connected with an illustrated newspaper. Should there occur a railway accident, a shipwreck or fire, if it was of sufficient importance it was depicted in black and white water-color, upon a two-page boxwood block made up of a number of small pieces bolted together.

The engravings is to go to press in the early morning; the drawing is laid on its face and with a hammer and cold chisel the big block is knocked into twenty pieces. Twenty men go to work on it and work the night through. Imagine the result.

Today the design may be in oil or water color and as big as the side of a house; the camera will reduce it to the required size, and the half-tone process will reproduce it.

When I first came in touch with the craft an illustrator needed to be an expert. He had to know how to prepare the smooth hard surface of the boxwood block so that it would have sufficient tooth to take the pencil marks clearly.

This was usually done by gently rubbing a fine piece of pumice stone with plenty of water upon the block then a preparation of finely pulverized bath brick and Chinese or flake white in a proportion of about one of bath brick to ten of white was rubbed over the surface, then wiped off with the palm of the hand and allowed to dry. Then a delicate drawing of India ink or lamp black was made upon the prepared surface, the forms accented when dry with lead pencil and Chinese white to accent the high lights, etc.

One of my earliest experiences will give an idea of the great change in methods. Take for example, the first edition of Whittier's "Snow Bound." All the drawings were made in water-color on boxwood blocks, many of them not more than two inches square containing a dozen figures, all doing their various stunts with their left hands, so that they should come right when reversed in printing and before they could go to press the slow process of wood engraving was the only means of reproduction.

He Named the Winner.

The innate shrewdness of the farmer man is too lightly appreciated by urban dwellers. The farmer of the stage, the farcical yokel, is fast disappearing. The man from the hay field who buys gold brick and the green goods no longer makes cop for city dailies. The other day a Long Island agriculturist had a goodly crop of potatoes to dig. He wrote letters to the agents of two rival digging machines and cheerfully offered them his potato patch as proving ground. They accepted and appeared on the premises with their diggers at the appointed hour. The shrewd farmer gave the word that started the digging, and several scores of neighboring farmers and hired men sat on the fences and watched the fun go on. The competition was keen and exciting. One machine not only dug the potatoes, but also picked them up and dropped them into bags. The other digger contented itself with thrusting its automatic fingers in to the soil and dragging out the potatoes, and it kept right on doing this with feverish energy. Each digger covered a full acre and the result was 400 bushels of unearthed potatoes. When the task was completed the rival exhibitors asked the potato owner to name the winner. The farmer glanced at the harvest, bagged and piled, and smiled with satisfaction. "I win," he said. "I had two acres of 'taters dug free!'"

Nor can this incident be characterized as an exhibition of sharp practice. The Long Island farmer shrewdly improved an opportunity. The agents had the chance to exhibit the merits of their diggers in actual competition. The neighboring farmers were entertained. Everybody seems to have been satisfied. But isn't it possible that cleverness of this character deserves a wider field than a Long Island potato farm?

NEW FIRE APPARATUS.

Frederick City Council Buys Engine. City Hall Bids Refused.

Special to The Times. Frederick, Okla., Oct. 14.—Yesterday the city council made some timely additions to the fire department here. An up-to-date chemical engine and 200 feet of chemical hose were added. For the last several years the city has been greatly endangered for want of fire-fighting apparatus, and the recent addition to the department is considered a very wise act on the part of the council.

On the grounds that they were too high, the city council has rejected all bids for the erection of the new city hall. The city does not want to pay more than $15,000 for the hall and the plans and specifications have been changed and bids will be received till October 21.

What the Other Fellow Said---

A salesman for the largest (and best) cocoa manufacturer in the United States was trying to sell us a bill of cocoa. We asked him how his goods compared with Van Houten's. His answer was: "We have a right good piece of goods, of course it is not as good as Van Houten's, if it was we would get as much money for it as he does."

For his honesty we bought a bill. It was good cocoa, but not in the Van Houten class. If you wish to know how good Van Houten's cocoa is, go to W. B. McClurkin's dry goods store any time during the next three days, and you will be served with a cup free of charge. If you like it give the lady in charge an order or 'phone the order to our store, and we will deliver the goods. Lots of people think they don't like cocoa. It is because they used the wrong kind.

What the Other Fellow Said---

For his honesty we bought a bill. It was good cocoa, but not in the Van Houten class.

If you wish to know how good Van Houten's cocoa is, go to W. B. McClurken's dry goods store any time during the next three days, and you will be served with a cup free of charge. If you like it give the lady in charge an order or 'phone the order to our store, and we will deliver the goods. Lots of people think they don't like cocoa. It is because they used the wrong kind.
