Weighing In Is Today

Hereford Show Is To Start Monday

The Top o' Texas Hereford Breeders Association's annual stock show and sale will get underway today at 12 p.m. with the completion of weighing in of junior livestock and the lifting of steers and pigs.

The actual events themselves start tomorrow, however, with the judging of swine and calves. Judge for this event will be Stanley Anderson of the animal husbandry department of Texas Tech. The day will be terminated with a banquet scheduled for 7 p.m. sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

On Tuesday, the FFA livestock and the Hereford breeding cattle will be judged. The judge for this event will be Bob Brandenburg of Amarillo. This affair will be terminated with a Hereford Breeder's Banquet to be held at the First Methodist Church starting at 7:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, the auctions will begin of junior livestock and Herefords. Auctioneer for the event will be Colonel Walter Britten of College Station.

Officers and directors of the Top o' Texas Hereford Breeders Association are: Jake Hess, president; Clyde Carruth, vice president; E. O. Wedgeworth, secretary; and Frank M. Carter, treasurer.

Directors of the association are: B. Caruth, Wayne Maddox, Ted Coffey, J. F. Callahan, George Coffey, Tommie Potts, C. E. Vincent, LeRoy Born, Gordon Whitten, Ralph Thomas, Dr. M. C. Overton Jr. and Paul Daurer.

Field representatives for the event are: Frank Reeves of Ft. Worth; Mason King of Amarillo; Henry Elder, Texas Hereford Association; George W. Kleier, The Cattleman; and Bert Reyes, The Texas Hereford. R. F. Brandenburg, manager of the Coldwater Cattle Company of Amarillo will place the cattle for auction.

Livestock from the entire Panhandle area will be presented at this affair and officials have stated the following rules will be observed:

All animals will be Banged and T. B. tested and guaranteed by the consignor. The Hereford Breeders Association will act as agent only.

'Beneficial' Hotel Tour Is Reported

The group of ten directors of the Pampa Community Hotel Company returned Friday evening from their trip to four cities in which hotels have recently been constructed.

The ten, Hugh Burdette, Ivey Duncan, R. G. Hughes, Frank Culbertson, C. P. Buckler, Dick Pugh, Crawford Atkinson, E. Roy Smith, B. R. Cantrell and E. O. Wedgeworth, made only four of the scheduled five stops as a result of being hemmed in by a fog at Nacogdoches. The stop left out as a result of the fog was Jennings, La.

The men left first for Lawton, Okla., where they were met by business men, all of whom were active in the community hotel of Lawton. They had breakfast in the main dining room of the hotel and were shown throughout the rooms for the next two hours during which time they asked questions concerning the various problems which were confronted by that group in the building of their hotel. Lawton Hotel, chamber manager E. O. Wedgeworth stated yesterday morning, is a commercial type hotel. It has 150 rooms and was built at a cost of $1,600,000. The rooms are 81 singles, 51 doubles and 9 suites with the location right in the heart of the business district.

From Lawton the group flew to Fort Worth where they had lunch at the Western Hills Hotel with the manager, Tony Carvajal.

This hotel was primarily a resort type two story affair including swimming pool, cabanas, dining room, banquet rooms, club room and other rooms customary to hotels of this type. The hotel is located five miles west of the city on highway 80. It has 125 units.

with space for over 200 cars. Reports were that they were running at capacity now and have been ever since first opening a few years ago.

The next visit took the group to the Fredonia Hotel in Nacogdoches where they had dinner and spent the night. They spent the hours from 7:30 to 11 p.m. asking questions and touring the properties of the hotel with the manager Herbert Wilson, and president Jack McKinney.

The Fredonia was built at a cost of $1,000,000 and the funds were raised in a campaign similar to the one undertaken recently here in Pampa. There are 84 guest rooms, 70 of which are in the tower type structure and 14 of them surrounding the swimming pool. The dining room itself faces the swimming pool. It also has a banquet hall.

PHS Senior Play To Open On Monday

The senior class of Pampa High School will present its class play "The Trip To Bountiful" Monday and Tuesday evenings at 8 o'clock in the High School auditorium.

Starring in the play will be Miss Cynthia Duncan as Mrs. Carrie Watts, with Edgar Ethridge as Ludie Watts and Miss Lu Koch as Jessie Mae Watts in the supporting roles.

Others in the cast are: Jeannine Leith as Thelma; Ned Moyer as the sheriff; Buzzy Hoover as the Houston ticket agent; Tommy Alston, second Houston ticket man; Luther Norman as the Harrison ticket man; and David Smith, Sandra Walsh, Dorothy Ann Ayres and Vicki Osborne as travelers.

Understudies are Rose Smith, Mrs. Watts; Kay Stevens, Jessie Mae; Tommy Strawn, Ludie; Sandra Walsh, Thelma; Buzzy Hoover, sheriff; and David Smith and Tommy Alston, ticket men.

Members of the technical staff are Miss Helen Schaefer, director; Tommy Strawn, assistant director; Bill Atkinson, stage manager; Danie Fitzgerald, sound effects; Virginia Irwin and Jan Dyer, hand props; David Smith, stage props; Kenneth McWaters and Tony Dates under the direction of Bob Hamilton, stage construction; Virginia Irwin, newspaper advertising; Ann Price, posters; and Rose Smith, make-up.

The play, written by Horton Foote, is a modern drama with its back-drop in Houston. It was presented originally on Broadway by the Theatre Guild, starring Lillian Gish, Gene Lyons, Jo Van Fleet and Eva Marie Saint.

Tickets may be obtained from any senior of Pampa High School or at door before performances.

Arson Is Suspected

Arson was suspected yesterday afternoon following the second fire alarm in three hours to the vacant building located at 2200 Alcock, which was formerly occupied by the Belvedere Club.

The first alarm was received at 11:45 a.m. yesterday when a fire, which was reported to have been of unknown origin, was discovered in the southeast corner of the building.

The blaze gutted the interior of one room, located in the southeast corner, and resulted in damage to other rooms in the building.

After investigating the fire, Ernest Winborne, fire chief, reported that the fire was apparently started by small children playing in the building.

At 2:40 p.m. another alarm was received with the same building given as the location of the blaze. Upon arrival the firemen discovered that another fire was burning in the northeast corner of the building. The second fire was located in a part of the building that had not been involved in the previous fire, the firemen stated.

Following the extinguishing of the second blaze, the firemen discovered a partly filled can containing what they described as alcohol. The can was located between two holes that had been burned in the floor.

Winborne reported that he believed that the alcohol was the item used to start the second fire but the person who set it was not known.

The owner of the building, E. J. Hornbuck of Canadian, who formerly operated the Belvedere Club, was contacted yesterday by Winborne and told of the fires. He immediately came to Pampa and checked the building.

Hornbuck reported that the building was not insured. The possibility of the fires being the result of arson was being checked last night by the police and fire departments in an effort to learn the exact cause of the fire and the identity of the person that set the fires if it is determined that they were set.

Another fire was reported at 3:57 p.m. yesterday when a tar pot caught fire in the 500 block of S. Ballard. No damage resulted from the fire, according to firemen that made the run.

Man Jailed After Random Shots

Residents in the area of the 500 block of S. Gray were alarmed at about 11:30 last night when a man stopped in a car in the middle of the block and took random shots about the neighborhood.

Officers who rushed to the scene reported that the man was apparently intoxicated and had been firing a .357 Magnum revolver, which was loaded with steel-jacketed bullets.

The man was placed in the city jail and the officers were checking the incident as to what charges would be filed tomorrow morning against the man for the incident.

Two Seek City Posts

Two more Pampa residents announced yesterday that they were candidates for election to the City Commission. Both men are seeking the office of commissioner of Ward 4.

The two men filed their candidacy with the city secretary yesterday morning. They are H. C. Hull and M. V. "Red" Watkins.

Watkins has been a resident of Pampa since 1923 and owns a furniture store at 516 S. Cuyler. He lives at 1208 S. Clark and has raised his family here.

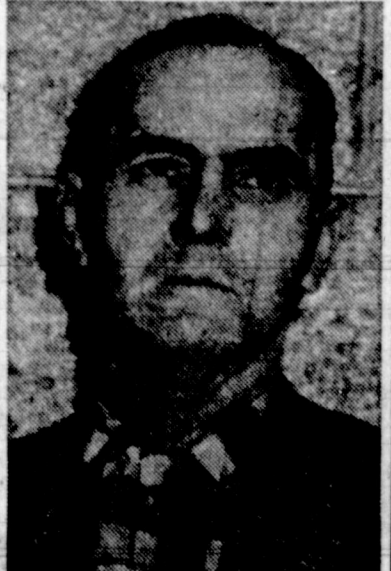

In announcing that he was seeking the office of commissioner in Ward 4, Watkins stated, "I will give the people the best I have. I will do the best job I can and would like to work to keep Pampa growing."

Hull, who lives at 634 Somerville, is also seeking the office of commissioner of Ward 4. Hull has been a resident of Pampa for the past seven years and is owner and operator of the Alamo Hotel, 405 S. Cuyler.

In making the announcement, Hull reported that he was seeking the office of commissioner of the ward in which his residence is located.

He did not make any statements to The News about his reason for seeking office or of the platform on which he is seeking office. Indications were that there would be more filing in the near future.

Concert Is Set Here Tomorrow

A new quartet of spirited young men, The Revelers, will be presented by the Pampa Community Concert Association in a concert tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Junior High School Auditorium.

The quartet is composed of Robert Simpson, tenor; Edward Anara, bass; Laurence Bogue, baritone; and Thomas Edwards, tenor. They are accompanied at the piano by David Kamien.

The Revelers merge their special talents to obtain striking effects in a program that runs the gamut from Schubert to Rogers and Hammerstein.

Simpson was a tenor lead with the San Francisco Light Opera Company and has starred in "Kiss Me Kate" and "Brigadoon." He has also appeared in leading roles in "The Mikado" and "The Gondoliers" at the Pasadena Playhouse.

The professional engagements of Edwards include extensive oratorical work.

Disaster Meet Set

A Red Cross disaster meeting will be held in the local chapter's office in City Hall Monday.

James Patterson, field representative, will be in charge of the conference and Red Cross committee chairmen have been urged to get in contact with the office to make arrangements for discussion periods.

The committee chairmen are survey, James Hart; public information, Joel R. Combs; communications, George Newberry; shelter, James McCune; rescue and first aid, Frank Stallings; transportation, John Bradley with C. M. Jeffries Trucking Company; food, Mrs. Harry Hoyle; clothing, Ed Myatt; family service, Mrs. C. E. Jeffries; central purchasing, G. F. Branson; miscellaneous, Yorel Harris and Jane Kadingo; service, Mr. H. O. Darby.

A medical meeting will be held later with Dr. J. Foster Elder.

Hospital Open House Scheduled Tuesday

Members of the Gray County Commissioners Court met yesterday afternoon with contractors and the architect, for the purpose of inspecting and accepting the recently constructed addition to Highland General Hospital.

The recently completed modern structure, which was referred to by Hospital Superintendent, Chel Lander as being "as good as anything you'll find from Dallas to California," was accepted in every respect with the exception of minor discrepancies and some work on the doors which was expected to be taken care of prior to the opening and open house Tuesday at 2 p.m.

The new addition has 40 rooms, some with baths and all with wash rooms as well as intercommunication systems to keep patients in touch with the main desk on each hall.

Each floor has a doctors' consultation room as well as a treatment room, and it was noted that several additional treatment rooms might be added if the need arose.

An Apparent Return To Stalinist Methods Seen

By K. C. THALER
LONDON, Feb. 16 (UP) — Russia opened a new divide-the-west campaign Saturday in an apparent return to the Stalinist line. Simultaneously, the Kremlin took the unusual step of informing the Russian people themselves that there was nothing wrong with the work done by Shepilov during his brief term as foreign minister.

Observers here took this to mean that Shepilov, supplanted Friday by old-line career diplomat Andrei Gromyko, had been under fire at home.

Evidence of the return to hard Stalinist thinking in foreign affairs was the revival Saturday of the old Soviet effort to split the western allies.

Radio Moscow for the first time in months stopped denouncing Britain and told Britons theirs is the "most important country of Europe." It invited close Anglo-Russian friendship.

"The cooperation of our countries for peace is now more important than it was a year ago," the radio said.

The official Soviet news agency Tass set the tone of Russia's abrupt switch of diplomatic policy in mid-crisis with a statement broadcast at dictation speed home consumption on the "rectness of comrade Shepilov's report" to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) last Tuesday.

The two-hour report, Shepilov's last, emphasized a six-point "hands off the Middle East" program for the major powers denounced the Eisenhower administration.

Some Russian affairs experts took the statement to mean the replacement of Shepilov, Gromyko's signified no change in Soviet policy. In Jerusalem, Israeli observers regarded the denunciation of Shepilov as a slap to the Arab state cause. It was he who arranged Communist arms shipment to Arabs and Soviet policy of friendship towards the Arab world were carried out under him.

The singling out of British union was seen as a reflection of Russia's years-old attempts to isolate the United States from allies.

On Bill Is Side-Stepped

By LLOYD LARRABEE
AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (UP) — Gov. Price Daniel Saturday sidestepped a direct answer on whether he would veto a bill to eliminate the April 2 special U. S. Senate election.

However, Daniel made it plain that he was holding to his "long-standing position that the people should select their senator for the remainder of the present term at the ballot box."

Daniel's statement came as a show-down was expected Monday in the state Senate on a House-approved bill by Rep. Joe Pool of Dallas providing a run-off following the April 2 election if no candidate receives a majority of the votes.

Would Eliminate Election
A separate bill by Sen. Charles Herring of Austin would eliminate the April 2 election altogether and continue Sen. William A. Blakley, the interim appointee, in office until January, 1959.

Daniel said in a prepared statement: "I shall continue to uphold and support the right of the people to make their own choice at the election on April 2 and at any run-off election which the legislature may provide to insure a choice by the majority rather than by a minority of the voters."

However, Daniel added that he felt "Sen. William A. Blakley is as capable as any person who will be elected to fill out the remainder of the term, and I am sure (See ANSWER, Page 2)

Canadian River Dam Discussed In Meeting Here

The Canadian River Dam was the main topic of discussion at the meeting yesterday afternoon in the Palm Room of city officials from towns throughout the Panhandle and North Plains.

Officials of 13 towns attended the meeting which was described as some of the largest attendance at any meeting since they started about two years ago.

Towns represented at the meeting were: Amarillo, Borger, Hereford, Groom, Dumas, Lefors, Stinnett, Clarendon, Tulla, Plainview, Shamrock, Delhart and Pampa.

Mayor Lynn Boyd of Pampa was in charge of the meeting and brought up the subject of the dam to be erected on the Canadian River.

He informed the representatives of what had been decided by Amarillo, Plainview and Pampa after these three cities had been invited to join the authority.

Mayor Boyd reported that the cities were requesting the state to change the law stipulating common water prices to all towns and that they recommended that the cities could reach an agreement on water prices among themselves.

The three towns also requested that all cities within close distances of the proposed dam consider the advantages and disadvantages of the proposed dam as a source of water and if any towns were interested to let the authority know. Dumas reported that they had already contacted the authority in reference to information about joining the authority.

In discussing the dam, Mayor Art Jordan of Amarillo stated that the construction of the dam was a complex problem and should be studied with care. He also reported that Amarillo had wanted a new beginning on the preparations for the proposed dam for over two years and that now the authority had decided that a new start was needed and that federal financing was also needed.

Other topics discussed by those present as to means used by various cities to solve the problems were: controlling the locations of liquor stores and retail beer establishments; difficulties in obtaining right-of-way; the use of radar to control speeding traffic; the sale of water for transport on trucks; the price paid for utilities supplied to users outside of city limits; agreements between cities and counties on the use of fire equipment outside the city limits; and a discussion of who is to pay for utilities and paving in new additions to a town.

In speaking about cities not paying for the construction of utilities and street paving in new additions, O. B. Hunt who is a commissioner in Borger, stated the reason for not paying the cost should be compared with someone purchasing stock in a corporation.

The city should be compared to a corporation, he stated, and the person joining the corporation should pay for the privilege of using the facilities already paid for by those already in the corporation. In other words, he told the group, the new property owner should pay something for being entitled to use services already paid for by older tax-payers.

An outline of the Urban Renewal Program of the government was presented to those present by R. C. Robinson, regional director of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

He told those attending the meeting yesterday that the government would help the city in removing sub-standard housing before it develops into slums.

He informed the city officials that the city would have to pay for one-third of the cost and that if the project is approved, the government will issue a grant for two-thirds of the cost.

The cost referred to represents only the cost of the public works part of the project and does not apply to the building of new buildings or residence. The individuals would have to supply the new buildings but two special loans are available, with government guaranties for this purpose.

TWO FIRES, ONE BUILDING—Two fires were reported yesterday in the vacant building, formerly occupied by the Belvedere Club, located at 2200 Alameda. Above is the scene of the second fire which was believed, by the fire department, to have been incendiary. Two holes in the floor, one in the upper left and one in the lower right corner, were burned through the floor. (News photo).

The Canadian Curtain Club will give the second performance of "Gaslight" in the Canadian High School Auditorium Monday night.

Proceeds from the play, which starts at 7:30 p.m., are to be used to pay for a sound system which the club has given to the school for use in the auditorium. Friday night's performance was the first public performance using the system.

The group polled the audience following the Friday night performance and a club member reported that the poll received 100 per cent approval of the system.

Seven microphones are in use over the stage and 12 speakers are sprinkled through the auditorium.

The club member also reported that authentic gas lights are being used in the performance.

quarantine and a club room. The hotel is now in its second year.

The hotel directors reported that in its first year the hotel showed an occupancy of 93 per cent. With its second year not yet completed, the men expected the results to show an occupancy of better than 95 per cent.

The next morning, with the weather rather foggy, the take off was delayed, and the group did not leave Nacogdoches until 10 a.m. They went to Orange where they visited the Jack Tarr Orange House. This hotel had just opened last month and contained 135 units. The swimming pool here was surrounded by double deck cabanas, and the rest of the hotel consisted of a lower five stories tall. It was built at a total cost of $1,800,000.

The Pampa delegation left Orange and returned to Pampa arriving at 6 p.m.

All those who made the trip seemed to agree that the trip was very beneficial.

The group saw many things and got many ideas which, Wedgeworth said, would probably be incorporated into plans for Pampa's hotel. No statements will be made, however, he added, until the reports have been made by those making the trip to their committees, and those reports read at the next directors' meeting.

Rites Set For J. B. Rainwater

Urban Renewal Conference Held

At a meeting with builders, general contractors, real estate men and other interested Pampa citizens, R. C. Robinson, regional director of Urban Renewal of the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Fort Worth discussed what he termed "a new approach to the eliminating of blight areas, which is, in a few words, to catch them before they start."

"Slums are no accident," Robinson pointed out. "They have grown and spread because of local inaction and neglect. Most cities have worried about diseased areas of the community only after they were already dying." If any serious attempt is going to be made to prevent these blight areas from becoming a problem, one of the first steps would be to put an end to any sort of community neglect and mismanagement he said.

Robinson added that it is a community's own blueprint for local action that eliminates slums, prevents blight, and protects sound neighborhoods.

A workable program as outlined by the organization of which Robinson is regional director would include the following basic elements:

1.) The sound arranging of local housing and health codes.

2.) A general master plan for the community's development, an end to haphazard thoughtless planning and growth, a road map for the city's future.

3.) Basic analysis of neighborhoods and the kind of treatment needed, an inventory of blighted and threatened areas to develop a plan of treatment to stop blight in its tracks.

4.) An effective administrative organization to run the program, coordination activity toward a common purpose by all offices and arms of the local government.

5.) Financial capacity to carry out the program using community revenues and resources to build a better city for the future instead of continuing to pay heavily for past mistakes.

6.) Relhousing of displaced families, expanding the supply of good housing for all income groups, through new construction and rehabilitation, so that families paying premium prices for slums can be rehoused.

Watson's bill would boost resident tuition fees from the present $50 a year to $100. Tuition fees for non-residents and medical students also would be boosted. The house opened debate on the bill Thursday but action was cut short by week-end adjournment.

Neither should this statement be interpreted, impliedly or otherwise, as a decision that I would veto the Herring bill if the legislature should disagree with my position.

"I think it unwise for a governor to make and announce any such decision while a bill is being considered by the legislature. This is a question to be answered if and when the legislature makes its decision and submits it to the governor," Daniel said.

Senate sponsors of the Pool bill claimed sufficient support to pass the measure with the 21 votes needed to put the proposal into immediate effect so that it will apply to the April election.

The House approved the bill Feb. 5 by a vote of 103-46, a margin of three votes over the 100 necessary in the lower chamber for the bill to have immediate effect.

Look at this BUY FROM BUICK

ONLY a few dollars more than the price of a smaller car—for a big and brawny Buick! But that's just part of the news.

Do you know this spanking Buick is new from the rubber up?

That it has an all-new body—and a windshield with over 200 square inches of new visibility?

Do you know its roof line is inches lower—yet there's full headroom, legroom, footroom for all six passengers?

All this took some great engineering. But where the engineers went all out was in making this the dream car of the year to drive.

New engine—new Dynaflo* response—new steering—new ride—more than 150 other chassis changes that make this, in fact, the most completely new Buick in years—offered at a price level that makes it literally true: if you can afford any new car you can afford a Buick.

And what a buy you'll get for your money! See your Buick dealer, take the wheel—and find out.

DISCUSS DEMOLAY PLANS—Discussing plans for the Top o' Texas Chapter of the Order of DeMolay are (left) Jim Gardner, scribe, and Bill Galt, master counselor. DeMolay Chapter Here Organized In 1951

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

One group in Pampa that is composed of boys who are interested in developing character and creating leaders is the Order of DeMolay.

The Top o' Texas Chapter Order of DeMolay was organized in 1951 and the first class of candidates took their work on July 16, 1951. The chapter is sponsored by the Top o' Texas Scottish Rite Association.

The first class of candidates was composed of 37 local youths and Bill McPherson was the first master counselor. Others chosen to be officers were: Tommy Sells, senior counselor; and DeWay Cudney, junior counselor.

Until December, 1953, the chapter operated under "letters temporary." The charter was granted in that month and the local chapter was recognized as one of the over 2,000 chapters in the United States and 11 foreign countries.

DeMolay is an international fellowship of young men between the ages of 14 and 21. There are very few towns in North America where a DeMolay chapter has not been organized.

The purpose of DeMolay is the teaching of clean upright living by inculcating and practicing the virtues of reverence, love of parents, patriotism, courtesy, cleanliness and fidelity.

Special emphasis is placed on love of God, love of home and love of country. According to the by-laws of the organization, it does not attempt to take the place of the home or the church, but rather to supplement them.

The entire international organization of the order is unified and governed by a group of Masons, known as the International Supreme Council of the Order of DeMolay.

At the present time there are 35 local youths that are members of the Pampa chapter. These are: James Henry Ayres, Don Lynn Babcock, Russell Dwayne Barnard, Richard Preston Barrett, Keith Leon Bonny, Jerry Ray Boston, Dave Courtney Cambern, George Frederick Collett, Robert Lee Collett, Henry K. Coombes, Earl Page Cooper, Larry Gen Cox, Gary Wayne Eaton, James Andrew Epps, Terry Norman Forrester, James Hays Gardner.

William Perry Galt, Robert C. Grider III, Philo Daniel Grommon IV, James Ray Goodnight, Glen Ray Howell, H. D. Ladymann, Albert S. King, Henry Lee Ledrick, Theo Allan Mastin, Craig Fleisher Meyers, Frank Edmond Outhier, Michael Traylor Price, Melvin Monroe Romine, Frank Duggan Smith Jr., Kirk Ray Smith, Benjamin Lee Sturgeon, Dan Graham Teed, Kenneth Lee VanSickle, and William F. Walsh.

Faut is master counselor; Robert Collett, senior counselor; Meyers, junior counselor; and Gardner, scribe.

Nine new members will be installed Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The Dumas Chapter of the Order

Good And Bad Of The Week's News

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

Soviet Russia launched a big diplomatic campaign against the Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East and United States defense policies in general.

The White House announced that President Eisenhower will hold separate conferences with French Premier Guy Mollet and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

British Defense Minister Duncan Sandys announced plans for drastic revision of defense plans.

RUSSIA

Russia opened its attack on American foreign policies in Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Britain and France and in a request for a United Nations debate on the "question of aggressive acts by the United States constituting a threat to peace and security."

In the notes, Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov proposed a six-point agreement on the Middle East. He called, among other things, for the abandonment of American military bases in that area and for an arms embargo to middle eastern countries.

The Soviet proposal was simply a calculated attack on allied defense policies in the Middle East and especially against the Eisenhower Doctrine, under which American forces would be used if necessary to fight armed Communist aggression in the Middle East.

the United States would agree to the U.N. debate.

TALKS

It was announced that French Premier Mollet will visit President Eisenhower in Washington on Feb. 26. British Prime Minister Macmillan and the President will meet in Bermuda March 21.

These will be the first talks by the Allied "Big Three" leaders since the British-French attack on the Suez Canal Zone, which strained relations seriously.

DEFENSE

Outlining defense plans in the House of Commons, Defense Minister Sandys said that the new Macmillan government intends to end conscription as soon as possible. British defense plan revision is due primarily to the urgent need to reduce government spending. But Sandys attributed it also to the development of nuclear warfare. He intimated that Britain will concentrate on guided missiles and other nuclear weapons.

Network TV People Deep In Heart Of Next Season

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (UP)—Here it isn't even spring yet, but the network TV people are deep in the heart of next season.

The American Broadcasting company got together some advertising, financial, industrial and business representatives this week to demonstrate that things were certainly looking upward and onward for that network and to sketch in the programming outlook come fall.

There seemed to be one slight new trend so far as ABC is concerned; it may or may not be visible on the other networks next fall. There appears to be a renewal of emphasis on singing personalities, and male singers at that.

Three of the Biggest Signs

This was indicated in the announcement that ABC has Frank Sinatra, Pat Boone and Guy Mitchell—merely three of the biggest—signed to star on their own shows.

It is true that Sinatra, according to advance reports, is not going to rely solely on his vocalizing. His shows are to be filmed in Hollywood and are expected to be designed so as to display his variety format, the next he might play in a dramatic work, etc.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

PRAYING WITH EXPECTATION

Mark 11:24. "Therefore I say unto you, what things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them."

So spake Christ Jesus to his disciples. Paul advised the Thessalonians (1 Thes. 5:17) "Pray without ceasing." In Hebrews we find (Heb. 11:1) "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

Several years ago, a popular magazine quoted Charles F. Kettering as saying that he "imagined" himself into new positions and lines of endeavor — that he imagined working in the new position, living in the new location, and acquiring new associates. As he held to this mental picture, he found himself moving into this pictured situation.

Could it not well be that his "imagining" with confidence and expectation, embraced the three above mentioned scriptures? Apparently his desires and confidence were further strengthened by a well founded determination to be of great benefit to his fellow men. As he moved up to and through top positions in The National Cash Register Company, various engineering and electrical companies and General Motors Corporation, he left behind a trail of useful inventions and progressive companies. His accomplishments have truly been a good example of the Master's measurement "Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them." (Matt. 7:20).

It might seem reasonable to believe that noble desire to be more useful to society at large could be the unceasing prayer that brings the fruits of faith.

What Brought About Curfew On Teenagers

By BOB PEREZ
Pampa News Staff Writer

Several months ago a group of youngsters from a neighboring community came into Pampa to attend a show. When they left the movie, they encountered several local youths. Words were exchanged and a fight ensued resulting in injuries to several boys.

A little later, a group of Air Force boys from near-by Amarillo Air Force Base came into Pampa and another fight followed. Another time the servicemen were followed in cars all the way back to Amarillo and upon approaching town a wrench was thrown into their car.

In December a group of cars, four abreast raced down Kingsmill and were stopped by local police. On all occasions the incidents occurred some time after 1 a.m. Last week at approximately 3:30 a.m. the city police broke up a street fight of local youths.

From the preceding paragraphs it would seem to the outsider that the question of juvenile delinquency in Pampa is a huge one and that most young people have to be watched with a discerning eye as to determine guilt or innocence.

A recent "curfew" has been announced by County Judge Bruce L. Parker, making it legal for city police to question any teenager they find on the street after midnight, and upon being given a doubtful answer or a weak story as to the reason for their being out that late, taking them into custody until all the facts are brought to light.

Prior to this "blanket authority," local youths found out after a certain hour roaming about the streets were usually asked to go home. In many cases the request was ignored. The main reason being that teenagers, there being "sea lawyers" among every group of individuals, adults included, would immediately feel that there was nothing that police officers could do to them much more than try to "scare" them. Technically, according to most authorities, they were right, and police warnings went unheeded.

This week five boys and two girls, one of whom is 14, were stopped by local authorities and told to go home. The time was 1 a.m. Later that same morning at 4 o'clock city police stopped the same car and told the youngsters in no uncertain terms to go straight home. This time a few went home, but one of the girls and several of the boys stayed out later still just riding around and parking occasionally.

The group was later brought into juvenile court and a hearing held. It was then found out through the mother of the 14 year old girl that this was not a first occurrence, and that the mother had tried many times to keep her daughter home and away from these boys to no avail.

Reports were given of many instances in which the young girl had been out all night riding around with other boys, and in many instances, men, home on leave from the armed services.

The girl was sent to a school of correction for girls and similar actions taken against some of the boys.

This, Judge Parker felt, was the last straw. He immediately ordered a curfew of midnight on all Gray County teenagers.

Anyone caught driving around town after that time, he said, was to be brought in for questioning at the local police station and their parents notified. In effect, a phone call to the judge's home was no longer necessary. It was merely a blanket authority to police officers to use their own discretion.

How would this affect the bulk of Pampa's younger set? In most cases, the judge pointed out, "It would affect none but the constant violators." There would be, he said, a question of degree as to just how this would be enforced. Certainly, he said, "young people coming home from a dance or a party, would not be bothered providing they were going straight home."

What the judge was attempting to do, he said, was to curb the long unsupervised hours which a few youngsters had used for no good purpose but to exploit trouble.

To those who had never been in trouble before, there was little danger that this would affect them in any serious or harmful way and to those who had been past violators, it was just a reminder of what was in store for them should they cross the line again.

How has the city of Pampa responded to this "curfew"? The reactions were rather mixed, but for the most part they were favorable.

One mother of a teenager pointed out that "there should be some kind of restrictions." The restrictions, she pointed out, should be imposed by the parents, but since "some of them haven't, it's just as well that proper authorities do."

of those who were very near the brink of a life which they might never be able to pull out of, changed to a considerable degree.

"It was also encouraging," Parker concluded, "to see the number of parents who have called in and favored the decision. It shows why the number of juvenile violators is so low in Gray County."

Easier To Rent Now Than Before

By HARRY VANDERNOOT
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (UP)—

A government housing official reported Saturday that it is much easier to rent an apartment now than it was four years ago.

The market has eased to such an extent, he said, that some landlords redecorate for new tenants and are sending up a little more heat on cold days.

That doesn't mean the problems facing apartment hunters have disappeared. There still is a shortage of medium-priced apartments in many large cities. But long waiting lists are a thing of the past. The demand for luxury apartments has dropped.

Plats Disappearing
Cold water flats also are disappearing — slowly but gradually — as a result of ambitious slum clearance projects in many cities.

In some areas apartment owners have discovered that many people do have children and are beginning to accept them in their buildings.

That — with variations from area to area — is the present picture as outlined by the government housing expert. He said it is a far cry from the war days when many families found it almost impossible to get a decent apartment.

Decided Spurt
He said there has been a decided spurt in new multi-family dwellings since World War II but a decrease in the number of older apartments available for rent. The result has been twofold — higher beginning to accept them in their standards for rental units and higher rents.

There was a big rush to build new multi-family dwellings after the war. It reached its peak in 1950 when 243,000 units were started. Since then there has been a steady decline. Only 123,000 were built in 1956.

The government estimates there are now 21 million apartments and homes available for rent. This is slightly less than half the nation's dwelling units.

Difficulties still are encountered in finding suitable rental housing, however. This is particularly true of families with children and pets — still taboo in many places.

The government official said families with this problem are solving it by buying their own homes. In recent years credit has been eased to the point where virtually any medium-income family can buy a home and pay about what would be the equivalent of rent each month.

Stock Market

By ELMER C. WALZER
NEW YORK (UP)—The stock market plunged to new lows since 1955 during the past week on a series of adverse factors and rallied practically all the way back when these fears were deflated.

There were three outstanding sessions. On Monday, industrials broke 8.85 points, most since Dec. 10, 1955 and rails fell 4.82 points, most since Sept. 26, 1955.

On Wednesday, the 7.32 point industrial average recovery was the widest since Dec. 3, 1956. Industrials spurted another 6.51 points on Friday.

Other averages followed a similar trend but didn't keep pace with industrials. Rails finished the week at 143.09 off 1.01 points and utilities 69.89 off 1.27 points. The general average lost only 0.53 point.

The Tuesday lows were the lowest since Oct. 19, 1955 for industrials, since Jan. 18, 1955 for rails and since Jan. 21, 1957 for utilities.

Trading for the week was the most active since the short week of Jan. 4 on a daily average basis.

The daily average was 2,388,490 shares, against 2,653,546 for the Jan. 4 week.

At the Tuesday close, the industrial average showed a loss of 44.65 points since the Dec. 31 close. Rails were down 14 points and utilities up 0.85 point.

NEW YORK (UP)—This week in Manhattan:

The beauty treatment joined the bedside manner in hundreds of hospitals. Hairdressers in 900 cities in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii joined in a program of "prettying up" women hospitalized, in homes for the aged, in orphanages and institutional schools.

The plan, part of the celebration of national beauty salon week, was set up seven years ago by members of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. The beauticians donate their services and equipment for styling, permanent waves, manicures, facials, shampoos and such.

Philip Parker, association president, said that in seven years more than a million beauty treatments had been donated.

African Ideas
"This is almost as good for our morale as for the patients," said Parker. "Especially when we see the pleasure the women in the homes for the aged get from our visits."

in the jungles of Manhattan's garment district, gets his ideas from the jungles of Africa. When he is finished with a woman's coat collection, he heads for big game hunting and already has trophies of lion, leopard, rhinoceros, and buffalo.

"I tried for jaguar in Mexico a few months ago," said La Vigna. "But no luck." He plans another safari in November, either to Africa where "I'd like to chase a couple of man-eating lions," or to India, for tiger.

La Vigna, whose father also hunted big game, is a partner with his brother, Fred, in a six-year-old firm specializing in cashmere and vicuña coats. The designer also is an expert sailor, skier and skin-diver.

Brackish Water Can Be Fresh Through Use Of Electric Currents

By LOUIS KOENIG, PhD
(Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of articles by a noted research scientist on water problems of the Southwest.)

Rain, when it falls, is a quite pure water containing very little other substances. But as soon as it hits the ground it starts to dissolve solid earthy materials in the form of salts.

Indeed, if it did not dissolve a little, our drinking water would be quite flat in taste.

When the dissolved solids — mainly salts — reach 300 parts per million of water, some people can detect them in drinking water.

When they reach 700 parts per million no one can fail to detect them. Some sensitive people will reject water for drinking at 500 parts per million while others will drink water containing as much as 1,400 parts per million.

For stock watering and irrigation the permissible limits are higher than these as will be discussed in succeeding articles of this series.

Many of our waters are brackish and unpalatable or unusable. In one of the northern states, a survey showed that 93 per cent of the surface water supplies were brackish.

Engineers and scientists are working to develop methods of desalting brackish waters and this article describes one of the methods — using electricity.

The electric membrane process removes salts and minerals from brackish water by an electric current which transfers the particles (ions) through two selective membranes about 1-25 of an inch thick and 1-25 of an inch apart. The membranes, enclosing a compartment allow particles (ions) to pass out of the compartment but not into it. Thus the water flowing through it is purified. The salts pass into adjacent compartments where they are carried out by a second stream of water which issues at a higher concentration than the brackish water.

The same electricity can move the same number of particles in adjoining compartments so in practice about 300 such compartments are stacked up in a Dagwood sandwich called a "stack".

The standard stack is about two feet square and three feet high, and constitutes the basic unit in a water conversion plant. One pass through it will remove 40 per cent of the salts from 25 gallons per minute of brackish water and yield 20 gallons per minute of fresh water.

There are now in operation in this country eight water conversion plants, four on an experimental basis, four as a regular commercial operation. They have so far produced 15 million gallons of fresh water at a rate sufficient to supply 1000 people for one hundred days. They have averaged 100 days in operation and one of them has operated 800 days so far. Two of them are producing fresh water from sea water.

Sea water contains about 32,000 parts of salts per million of water compared to about 350 parts per million in many city water supplies. The cost of the electrical membrane process depends on the amount of salt removed, so for sea water it is very expensive. But for brackish water of 1,000-4,000 parts per million, it is reaching the range of economic feasibility. Indeed, for brackish waters, it is the cheapest process.

The installed cost of a plant to produce 1 million gallons per day of fresh water (which is enough for a town of 6,700 people) from brackish waters containing 1000 parts per million is $430,000 or about $65 per person. If the brackish water contains 5,000 parts per million the plant will cost $1,000,000 or $150 per person.

The cost of fresh water to the municipality including repaying the indebtedness with interest will be 35 cents per thousand gallons from 1000 parts per million source and 50 cents per thousand gallons from the 5000 parts per million source. That's more than most cities pay now for fresh water (normally 15 cents - 25 cents per thousand gallons). It's also more than the average water bill of the United States consumer (21 cents per thousand gallons) which includes the cost of distributing and billing.

But, to water-parched communities having only brackish water that's a lot less than the $3.00 per thousand gallons that some of them have paid to have water trucked in. And it's a lot less than the $300-$400 per thousand gallons that drinking water is selling for in the retail stores in southwestern cities right now — cash and carry.

Even at present prices a resident of a community having a brackish source of 1000 parts per million could have fresh water from the tap for an additional 4 cents per day per person over what he is now paying. The community short of water having an unusable brackish source, (5000 parts per million) could put fresh water in its storage tanks for an additional 13 cents per day per person.

Furthermore the membrane process removes not only the common salt, sodium chloride, but also most other salts in the same ratio, including the calcium salts responsible for hardness in water. Thus, the membrane process can replace the water softening plants which some cities or homes now find necessary, and can greatly decrease the high soap consumption caused by hardness in such communities. Also the process will remove high fluoride which, in excessive amounts in some waters, causes mottled teeth.

Despite the eight years of work on it this process is in commercial infancy. It is ready for use now.

Some Plane Crashes Can't Be Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: Government air accident sleuths never give up in trying to discover what causes airliner crashes such as the recent Northwest Airlines disaster in New York. But some continue to defy solution—as the following dispatch reveals.

By ROBERT J. SERLING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (UP)—The date was Jan. 16, 1951. Northwest Airlines Flight 115, a Martin 202 twin-engine airliner, crashed peacefully through the skies above Reardan, Wash., bound for Wenatchee.

Flight 115 was at 6,000 feet. At 2:12 p.m. est, it asked Spokane Air Traffic control for permission to bypass Wenatchee because of weather and land at Yakima.

While Spokane was obtaining clearance, Flight 115 broadcast another message. The time was 2:13 p.m. The message was terse: "It had to be. Flight 115 was 53 seconds away from destruction."

"Spokane, we are in trouble."

A momentary pause, enough for one heartbeat.

"We've gone nuts."

Finally, "Right engine haywire."

That was all. That was all Spokane or anyone else heard from Flight 115.

At 2:14 p.m., the airliner crashed on a farm three miles west of Reardan. The pilot, copilot, stewardess and all seven passengers were killed. Estimated speed at impact: 340 miles an hour.

What happened to Flight 115 and Northwest aircraft N-93084 is still Possible fire-in-flight was investigated but discarded. No evidence of structural failure, explosion or malfunctioning of electrical and hydraulic systems was found. After months of investigation, the final CAB report on the fate of Flight 115 simply read: "Probable cause of this accident was a sudden loss of control for reasons unknown, resulting in rapid descent to the ground."

This crash is regarded by veteran CAB accident investigators as one of the most mysterious in commercial aviation history. Usually, when the CAB was unable to determine what caused a crash, the aircraft involved had disappeared completely. A few ocean crashes have had to be written off as unsolved because the wreckage was never found. In such cases prevailing weather at the time of the accident is the only real clue.

Here are some of the unsolved crashes in recent years involving airliners whose wreckage was actually found:

March 20, 1953: A Transocean Airlines DC-4 crashed in a field near Alvarado, Calif., killing all 35 occupants. The crew gave no warning of difficulty but had apparently lost control of the plane at 3,500 feet. One clue: a large chunk of ice bearing rivet marks was found near the wreckage. Official verdict: "Reasons unknown." Suspected killer: wing icing.

Television Channel Swim

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — The channel swim...

ABC-TV is offering its network as a "neutral" meeting ground for a battle between Charles Van Doren of NBC-TV's "Twenty One" and Teddy Nadler of CBS-TV's "the $64,000 challenge." Nadler has invited Van Doren to a battle of brains.

"Playhouse 90" is trying to land Jackie Gleason as star of "Bay at the Moon," a script turned out by Milo Frank, CBS casting director.

Sheldon Leonard, producer of "Make Room for Daddy," is scouting Manhattan for a girl who can play "Danny Thomas' wife in future TV episodes. Thus far, Leonard has auditioned Kaye Ballard, Pat Marshall and Beverly Garland.

Talk has it that the "Price Is Right," NBC-TV daytime, will replace "Hiram Holliday" on Orson Welles' first novel, "Mr. Arkadin," will be published by Crowell in May.

How's that again? Maurice Gosfield, who plays "Pvt. Doberman" on the Phil Silvers Show, will make his Carnegie Hall debut Feb. 24 as guest soloist with the West Point Glee Club.

ABC-TV and Liberate couldn't see wallet-to-wallet on plans for a planned daytime variety show... Twentieth Century Fox is pitching a long-term contract at Tony Randall, the former "Harvey West" of the old "Mr. Peepers" Show.

Hardly a Surprise
"Lysistrata," cootched as a spectacular by NBC-TV this season after Marilyn Monroe pulled out, is in the works again for next semester — John Huston will direct... "You Are There" returns for a new 20 week run after May 5 on CBS-TV.

A recent "This Is Your Life" guest should receive some kind of acting award for the way she registered "surprise" — she has been badgering associates for a year to land her on the show.

Doug Edwards of CBS-TV has had four newborns named after him this past week — in Chicago, Philadelphia, Plainview, Tex., and St. Clair, Mo. — ABC-TV is looking for a gal who can play the head of a music publishing firm. Sammy Kaye: "Middle age is for their next season's 'Tin Pan Sally'."

SOMETHING TO BLEAT ABOUT—Maybe it's Mother Nature's idea of just kidding around, but Daisy, a nanny goat owned by Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Adams, of Midland, Tex., thinks she has been dirty-tricked. Nature provided her with only a two-faucet "milk bar" and then gave her quadruplet kids. So every mealtime, there's a traffic jam like that pictured above. Cream of the jest is that this is Daisy's second quadruplet litter—considered a very rare occurrence in goatdom.

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

By JACK DOUGLAS
Work Unit Conservationist

How would you in the Gray Soil Conservation District like to increase the value of your farmstead? A farmstead is the home and farm buildings.

Real estate people tell us that when you have something that protects buildings you increase their value for real estate and insurance purposes. Farmstead windbreaks protect and prolong the life of farm homes and farm buildings. They do this by reducing the amount of sand that hits the buildings, particularly in sandy land.

How often during the summer has your home been hot as a furnace? A farmstead windbreak will break up the hot, parched summer winds. This will make the house a little cooler.

Someone might say that they will take up too much room. Since the farmstead is used only for buildings in the farmstead area, a strip of trees on the west and south sides of the buildings would take up very little land. The south strip would break up the hot summer winds as would the west one. The west windbreak would be most useful in reducing the amount of sand that blows across the farmstead.

In 'Fundamental Revisions' Farm Policies In Poland

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (UP) — The recent Polish political upheaval has helped bring about some "fundamental revisions" in Polish farm policies which may "revitalize private farming" in the Iron Curtain country.

Ernest Koenig, European analyst with the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service, reports that the changes were "initiated" by the country's new leadership.

But he said the changes were partially "imposed" on the leaders by the peasants who slowed down compulsory deliveries, delayed tax payments, and streamed off collective farms in great numbers.

What the new policies reportedly will include, according to Koenig's study of official utterances and pronouncements, will be a gradual reduction of compulsory delivery quotas; price increases on farm products; lower land taxes; increased credit facilities; and "more equitable" distribution of fertilizer and machinery.

Time Can Tell

"Only time can tell whether the principles enunciated... will actually be followed," Koenig notes.

The new policies are of particular interest since some of the new Polish farm officials have been invited to come to the United States in the near future to discuss negotiations for Polish purchases of some American farm surpluses.

Koenig explained that in Poland, socialization was not as "relentlessly pushed" as in most other Communist countries. For example, collectivization at the beginning of 1956 included less than 10 per cent of the agricultural area of Poland.

However, he said that the collectives were founded against the will of the peasant, "under all kinds of pressure" and were a continuous threat, along with the state farms, to private farming. The new policy emphasizes the "free development of individual farms" with property rights to be "clearly defined and observed in practice."

Uncultivated land held by the state is to be leased to individual producers for no less than eight years. All restrictions are to new farm program represents is

JOEL R. COMBS, managing editor

During the last few week days you have been reading quite a lot about the curfew on teenagers in Pampa County announced by County Judge Bruce Parker.

You probably will be reading more about it along. We will do stories on how the curfew is being enforced, how it is working, what the teenagers think about it, and what the managers themselves think about it.

We have heard quite a bit of comment on it here at The News, from local persons and others. We have been called from as far away as Fort Worth and Dallas on the story and several persons have dropped in the office to give us their personal views.

One of most heartening things about it all is how the majority of youngsters are going along with it. They know that the actions of "tightening down" on the rest but it will help the situation. Let's be frank about it... having a curfew is bad enough in itself, it obstructs the rights of those who are not delinquent, but if all are ready to go along with it, it probably will work. And we haven't heard a dissenting word yet. If we do, we'll let you know about that, too.

Mrs. Roger McConnell of Pampa read a story headed, "Not Everybody Will Do This," in The News last week and sat down to write that she received a package of "precious antiques" through the mail recently which her husband had accidentally left on a table in the post office. Some one had given it to the mail clerk and she received it safely. She points out that, in this case also, "not everybody will do this." She adds, "Isn't this typical of our people here?" Well yes M'am, it is. And we don't want the "other kind" getting a foothold here either, do we?

"Thursday is the beginning of Sunday." This is what Doris Wilson, women's editor, said. And for her, it really is. That's when the flood of weddings and engagements are supposed to be turned back to the back shop to be set in type for Sunday's paper. And it's one of her hardest days. Each Thursday we look up and remind her that "this is the beginning of Sunday" and she is usually already elbow-deep in wedding stories.

FRED M. PARKER, staff writer

The series of safe burglaries in Pampa since the first of the year has resulted in one good thing. The owners and managers of businesses in Pampa have started leaving lights on the safes in their businesses.

Some of the businesses had always left their safes well illuminated at night, but others had the safes hid and did not leave lights on.

The few businesses have caused the police department to try to check the buildings at night. The policemen on the night patrols try to check all of the buildings but it is impossible to see clearly into the building when no lights are burning.

The only thing lacking now is for the remaining firms that do not burn lights near the safes to do so. The policemen appreciate the efforts of the businessmen of Pampa in making the task of checking the buildings easier and are doing everything possible to keep additional safe burglaries from occurring.

They would also appreciate it if any person driving in Pampa at night who notices anything unusual around a business would notify the police station. They will gladly check on the business as soon as possible.

DORIS WILSON, women's editor

What sets your teeth on edge? Here's a list of mine: chewing ice... cracking knuckles... giggling, whispering movie patrons in video trouble in the midst of an engrossing TV program... tripping faucets... "big" people with "little" grudges... people who phone and say, "Who is this?"... gritting teeth... scraping chalk across a blackboard... biting down on cotton... a mere photograph of a snake... mice... people who "out-talk" at a bridge table. Pardon me, I need an aspirin.

long time. Turned out they weren't related, but, who knows, sometime the column might serve such a good purpose. Hope so.

Liked what Dorothy Killgallen, Broadway columnist and television panelist, wrote recently about newspaper work. As you know, she is gainfully employed in both radio and television, but as she said, "You can't clip out a television or radio program and paste it in your scrapbook."

Grocery-shopping this week, I came across some gourmet (guy) delicacies on the shelves. Just to be "different" sometime why not serve some plain-boiled quail eggs, or smoked frog legs, or Diamond-back Rattlesnake with Supreme Sauce, or fried grasshoppers, or alligator soup, and taper off with some salted cherries. What do some of these items do to your imagination?

Omen of the Spring To Come... on one of the bright, spring-like days, we've been enjoying recently, I returned to the office to find the male staff members engaged in "spring house-cleaning." Desks were rearranged in a more organized manner, telephones transferred, a desk lamp and potted plant added, so the editorial department is now ready for Spring. Some of the astute weather prognosticators are warning, however, that winter will probably take one last swing before it loosens its grasp.

Every year, weeds cost the South Dakota farmer enough to run the entire state for two years.

HEAD START—Although the area is still in the frigid grip of winter, this monarch butterfly brings a pre-season touch of spring to Betty Mason. The early "bird" flew into her seventh grade classroom in St. Joseph's parochial school, Yakima, Wash., and perched on her nose.

'KING AND FOUR QUEENS'

BOB PEREZ, staff writer

Men are forever pointing out what they want in a woman. Eight out of ten are honest enough to admit that looks do enter into it. The remaining two are dead, and don't know it.

But now what about the distaff view? Isn't it reasonable to expect that since the males oftentimes look for chineness in a femme that the poor old gal might secretly yearn for a little of the same from her partner?

I say "secretly," for it is definitely an intolerable statement of painful truths to even suggest that a woman has the right to expect such a thing in a male, or to even admit that this just might be one of her pet "peevish."

However, the fact does stand out that very few men ever worry about their "expanding economy" until they reach the age of 45 at which time they are threatened with cardiac restrictions and more for the rest of life than for any other reason they embark upon a tortuous line of dieting which usually results in the aging of an additional 15 years before it is all over.

In one brief look over the Pampa community, it will have to be admitted that most women of 30 look a lot younger and trimmer than their partner at the same age. The reason is that they have undertaken at an earlier age, to make themselves presentable to their spouse while for the earthly truth of vanity have endeavored to keep themselves attractive to others at the same time.

A clever cover-up for this weakness on the part of the male, and it is definitely a weakness, is to laugh it off; to slap this excessive community of corpulence and to admit that he is "really putting on the beef." Others will seek to drown their own conscience and at the same time deceive the little lady into thinking this is some sort of a feat and an open account of her good cooking.

The plain facts loom out, however, that men are just cowards when it comes to the art of dieting, or better yet, depriving themselves of the things which might not only make them more attractive and an object of pride to their wives and sweethearts, but will also make them feel much better.

If I seem to be taking an unfair-swing, I do not mean to do so. I point this out because it has been only recently that I began to notice myself developing what might be called a turn-of-shape and flaunting all the rules of proper indulgence.

It has therefore become necessary to change my ideas about food and, before embarking upon the "gourmet's diet," start upon a more arduous and discipline demanding "chemical" one. I have delved in eggs of every shape and complexion until I cannot bear to look one in the face again. I have never particularly cared for spinach, and yet, I have forced myself to down it almost daily with an acquiescence which almost alarms me.

I feel, however, that it is time now, not tomorrow, to start matching up to the guts with which the "bottle of the bulge" has been tackled by the women not just of this era, but for centuries past, and to say that if they can do this for my sake, certainly I can deprive myself of some things for the sake of making it reciprocal.

DICK COLLINS, sports editor

Are you one of those sportsmen who shudders every time the talk of abolishing the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority is discussed? I, for one, am.

A dam on the Canadian River would be one of the greatest things that ever happened to the Panhandle and its thousands of sportsmen.

In this land of dry, rolling hills and drought-stricken plains, where you have to drive for hours without seeing running rivers and streams, nothing would be a greater boon than a gigantic lake stretching across the Top o' Texas.

Picture yourself on a warm summer day lounging on a lake shore or drifting along leisurely in a boat on a lake so big that you have to strain your eyes to catch its dimensions.

That picture may be developed into real life in a few years unless the CRMWA group drops the ball somewhere along the line. The plans have been discussed for years. They lay idle for months at a time and then discussed again. City officials fuss with each other, shake hands and then start their planning all over again. This may go on for several more years unless something drastic is done.

As it now stands, fishermen must travel a day or more to get to good fishing country and when they get there the week end is just about gone. Lakes Texoma and Possum Kingdom are the closest spots in Texas for decent fishing, there's a lake near Altus in Oklahoma, Comchas Reservoir and Eagle Nest in New Mexico and Monument Lake is the nearest location in Colorado.

The Canadian River Dam would be located on the upper Canadian River approximately 12 miles west of Borger and near Fritch. It would be backed up almost to the Amarillo-Dumas highway and in a few years the lake would be the pleasure spot of the Panhandle. Boating, water skiing, fishing, swimming would be just the minor importance of its use. Water from the huge reservoir would be used to irrigate farmlands and furnish water for cities as far as the South Plains and the Permian Basin.

The Panhandle has everything else, why not water?

IT COMES THAT TIME AGAIN When Pampa and Borger must once again meet to decide another basketball championship. It's been going on this way for years and Pampa always seems to come out on top.

Will it be that way this year? Many of the coaches of the seven-team District 3-AAAA race seem to think so. The situation is the same as it was in 1956 when the two teams split games during the regular season and went into a playoff at West Texas State Fieldhouse in Canyon with Pampa winning.

Coach Bob Clindaniel, coach of the Plainview Bulldogs that lost to both teams twice this season, picks Pampa to beat Borger in the playoff game. Other coaches have voiced that same opinion.

Clindaniel stated, "I'd have to pick Pampa because the Harvesters have a much better defensive and rebounding team. Borger has a better shooting team and both are just about equal in their hustle."

Plainview played the same type of game against Borger and Pampa, that of stalling to keep the score down. Clindaniel used the stall against the Bulldogs at Borger and twice against Pampa. His team pulled out all stops last week when it met Borger at Plainview and they put up a good fight against Borger.

"We could have beat Pampa at Plainview, it was a close game. But tonight (the week speaking following his team's loss to the Harvesters Thursday night) we didn't have a chance after Pampa started hitting in the second half. Things will be different next year. We have Bill Tagel, Lee Richards, Joe Laird, Jesse McGuire and Bobby Grace back," he commented.

A sellout isn't likely at West Texas State Fieldhouse Tuesday but officials of the Canyon school will probably see the biggest crowd of the season there. The Bulldogs have not been drawing very well this year, not even against long-time rivals Texas Tech and H. H. Simons.

Polytechnical of Fort Worth will be the bi-district opponent of the Pampa-Borger winner, that is if the officials of Districts 1-AAAA, 2-AAAA, 3-AAAA and 4-AAAA agree to that method of play instead of a four-team regional tournament.

The Poly Parrots went through District 4-AAAA without a loss. But that does not change the fact that the Fort Worth school has an outstanding team this season. Dick Moore, Fort Worth Star-Telegram sports writer, says that 4-AAAA is the weakest in years and either of the 3-AAAA teams should get past them. Borger has already defeated them once this year.

Abilene's Eagles are the 2-AAAA champions and Thomas Jefferson of El Paso won the 1-AAAA crown. The El Paso schools have never been able to do much outside of encores in the Fort Worth playoffs. The El Paso team Tuesday night, a likely neutral playoff site for the Harvesters-Poly game would be Vernon. A flip of the coin might decide the home site for the sudden-death game. Vernon is equidistant between the two points. All of this is mere speculation.

Wilhelm Edged In State Gloves Finals

State Finalist

FORT WORTH — Veteran Jake Martinez of El Paso won his third straight lightweight title of the Texas Golden Gloves Tournament here Saturday night by gaining a booted, split-decision over Pampa's Gary Wilhelm, the young newcomer to the state meet.

Wilhelm, making his first entrance in state competition this week, was acclaimed the toast of the town with his fine showings during the meet. He won three fights before finally bowing to the 23-year-old Martinez, the only returning champion of the 23rd annual event in Fort Worth's Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum.

Gary won a decision over Larry Nunez of Beaumont to gain the finals Friday night. Martinez won by a technical knockout over Corpus Christi's Johnny Cloud when the latter suffered a cut cheek. Wilhelm trailed in the fight until the final round. The crowd, which was for Wilhelm all the way, saw the usual amount of flurries on both fighters' parts. Wilhelm used a left hook well and came through with occasional jabs. Martinez jabbed and crossed to gain the first two rounds on the judges' cards. Then the Pampa youngster charged out in the third round and staggered Martinez with about 30 seconds left in the fight. Martinez fell to the canvas and took a mandatory eight-count. He got up with a stunned expression and Wilhelm charged in trying for a knockdown but the El Paso fighter clinched and lasted out the round.

Fans booed the split decision through the next fight. All three officials gave the third round to Wilhelm.

Wilhelm was one of three Amarillo representatives who failed to gain the titles. Walter Bill McFarland was unable to enter the finals after suffering a fractured nose against Alton Allen of Houston Friday night. Allen was reinstated and the Houston boy decided Jerry Turner of San Antonio for the title.

Merrell Johnson of Amarillo lost a unanimous decision to Harold (Bud) Watson of Dallas for the middleweight crown. Johnson gained the finals by scoring a TKO over Donald Cook of Greenville in Friday's action.

state title Saturday night as he decided Pablo Avila, Odessa, for the flyweight crown in the 21st annual state Golden Gloves tournament.

Butler used a flashing right to win the contest. He hit Avila, an alternate on the Odessa team, frequently and furiously in all three rounds. Both boys weighed 113.

The bantamweight championship went to Fort Worth's Ray Fleming who won a second-round TKO over Rudy Martinez, Galveston. Fleming inflicted a cut over Martinez' right eye after 1:17 in the second chapter.

Martinez had the fight going his way before it was stopped. He used a looping left hand to stagger Fleming in the second round before the blood began to flow.

Victor Gaffio, Beaumont, outlasted a late rally by Gaspar Sanchez of El Paso to win the featherweight championship in one of the best bouts of the evening. Gaffio got caught three times with a right cross in the third round, but built up enough points in the first two chapters to ice the 125-pound belt.

Another Dallas boy, J. A. Hamilton, annexed the Light-Heavyweight crown when he won a third-round TKO verdict over Arthur Sears of Greenville.

Sears was cut under the right eye and the fight was stopped after 1:50 in the third round. It was anybody's fight until the TKO. That victory, incidentally, earned the team trophy for the Dallas entry. Its fighters earned 10 points during the five-day festival and picked up the silverware as runner-up to the host Fort Worth team, which does not figure in the team standings. Fort Worth had 13 points.

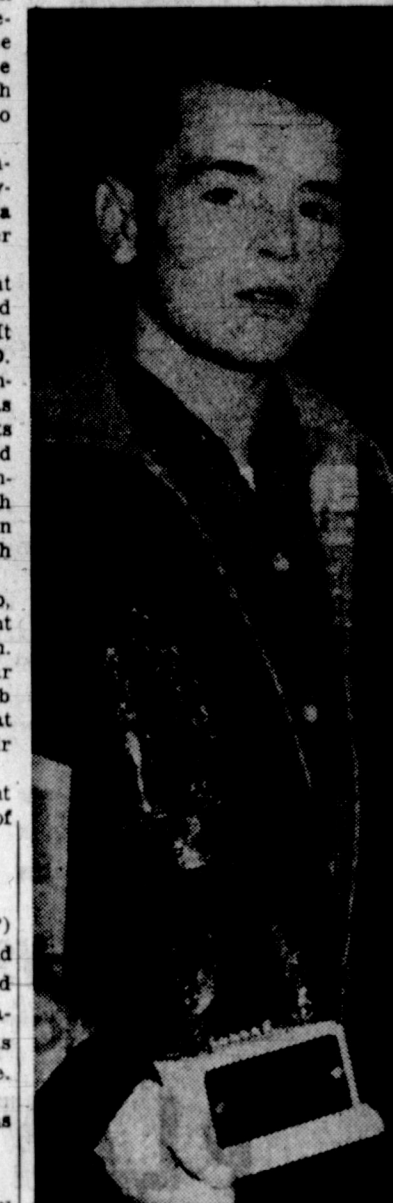

Heavy-handed Gene Babb, Greenville, won the Heavyweight diadem over Merl Priest, Houston. It was a rather lackluster war but every once in awhile Babb would throw a right hand that sent Priest's eyes back in their sockets.

The champions will represent Texas in Chicago's Tournament of Champions beginning Feb. 25.

Michigan State Tackle Signs PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16 (UP) — Husky Tom Saldock, 240-pound tackle from Michigan State, signed a 1957 contract with the Philadelphia Eagles Saturday. He was the Eagles seventh draft choice.

Midwestern Schools Plan New Circuit

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 16 (UP)—Ideas were exchanged here Saturday by five independent schools and one conference member on the possibility of forming a new basketball conference.

The group will continue discussions Sunday and will try to come up with a concrete outline if arrangements can be worked out. Ed Nall, Oklahoma City University athletic business manager and promoter of the meeting, said.

Representatives from DePaul of Chicago, Regis of Denver, Creighton, Detroit and Marquette joined OCU for the kickoff session.

Dr. Forrest (Phog) Allen, retired Kansas University basketball coach, told the school officials and guests that a successful conference is "one controlled by the faculty."

Allen also said a conference is built on a sound academic background.

During his remarks the veteran college mentor said the National Collegiate Athletic Association "does the best job of curbing recruitment without much authority."

"The big boys run the NCAA," he said. "Before a problem reaches the NCAA, for instance, on the Pacific Coast, that group goes over the issue first."

Most Expressed Interest

Most of the school representatives expressed interest in formation of a new conference.

School officials from Memphis State were expected to join the discussions Sunday when Reeves Peters, Big Seven commissioner, talks to the group.

Les Metheny, OCU faculty representative, said "if anything can come out of the discussions, it will probably come Sunday after we've had a chance to exchange ideas, both pro and con."

Area Basketball Roundup

White Deer, Wheeler Win District Crowns

Playoff games dot the area basketball action this week as the regional and state tournaments close in. White Deer, Bucks and the Wheeler Mustangs stand out as the top district titlists in this area.

Coach Sam Christy's White Deer team had to go right down to the final game to decide the championship of District 1-A. The Bucks Sea Island, Ga., waged a down-to-the-wire battle Saturday to move into a tie in the fourth round with $5,000 St. Petersburg Women's Open with 210's.

Miss Jameson, who has not won a major tournament since 1955, lost a chance to move into undisputed lead when she bogeyed on the 18th hole for a one-under men's par 70, while Miss Suggs birdied the 18th for a 69.

Miss Jameson had trouble on her approach shots on the final hole and missed a 12-foot putt to bogey. Meanwhile, her Georgia rival, hit brilliantly on her second shot, dropping it within eight feet of the pin. She stroked it in to earn the deadlock.

The 54-hole total of the two veteran professionals was only two strokes over the LPGA course record.

Mary Lena Faulk, who shot a record-breaking 67 Friday to move into the lead, slipped to third place with a 73, one stroke off the pace.

The Thomasville, Ga., lass, who said she seems "to perk up on the back nine," played it like she owned it Saturday, coming through with a 32 after carding a 41 on the front nine.

Miss Faulk now has shot a 32, 31 and 32 on the back nines during the three rounds, while balling on the front half. "I just can't seem to get my confidence on the front nine," she said.

Betty Kerby, St. Petersburg, Fla., shot a 75 for a 228 total to retain the lead among the amateurs. Greta Leone of Chicago was second high amateur with a 230.

Deer over Gruver's girls. A. J. Alford, out of action for over a week because of the mumps, got back into service again at Gruver for a short while and scored five points.

Jim Porter dumped in 21 points for the Wheeler Mustangs against Mobettie. Jay Godwin had 17 for Mobettie. Phyllis Richardson made 26 points for the Wheeler girls and Marcella Patterson canned 28 for the losers.

In their game against Kelton, the Mustangs were paced by Porter with 23 points. Harold Pickett had 23 for Kelton. Coach J. D. Atwell's Mustangs led the last three quarters although Kelton took a 15-14 first-quarter lead. It was 35-29 with Wheeler out front at half and 54-43 after three quarters.

Sydney Slack netted 21 points to pace the Perryton Rangers over the Shamrock Lassies in the first of the sudden-death games. Neely and Finkler had 18 for the Shamrock girls. Perryton plays Wellington at Lefors Tuesday night at 8 to determine the district champion.

School officials from White Deer and Clarendon were to meet late last night to determine the site, and date of the bi-district playoff. Clarendon's Broncos won the 2-A crown. The White Deer and Stinet girls open their two-of-three series at Stinet Tuesday night at 7:30. The second game is set for White Deer Friday night at 7:30 and the third, if necessary, will be played Wednesday, Feb. 27, at White Deer.

Admission will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students. The winner will meet the McLean girls, 2-A winner, for the bi-district laurels. White Deer and Stinet have played seven times in the past two years and the widest margin of any of the contests have been three points.

Other bi-district meetings have not been set up as yet but school officials will get together this week for conferences. Wheeler will meet the District 1-B winner, either San-norwood or Groom.

Elks Lodge Takes Bowling Meet Lead

The Elks Lodge team rolled a high series of 2,717 to win first place in the opening round of the Pampa Bowling Association's City Tournament at the Pampa Bowl last night.

The tournament continues through next Sunday when the singles and doubles competition will be held. The City League bowls Saturday night.

Elks Lodge currently leads the Industrial League in season standings with 66½ games won and 29½ lost. E. W. Totty had the highest individual series of the Elks five-some with a 543. D. R. Allison finished with 493. E. E. Phillips had 471. Don Rochelle had a 419 and the team's handicap was 338 for a total of 2,717.

Finishing second was Gate Valve Shop with 2,689 followed by Cabot Tin Shop with 2,650. Hoover Oil with 2,639, Northern Natural Gas 2,422, Panhandle Packing 2,434 and Celanese 2,587. Moose Lodge 2,512, Cities Service 2,510; Schlumberger 2,422, Panhandle Packing 2,434 and Northern Natural Pipeline 2,284.

Stanley Brake, bowling for Hoover Oil, had the highest series and individual game of the night. He bowled a series of 243-201-160-604.

Bob Turley Signs with Yanks

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (UP) — Bob Turley, the New York Yankees' flame-throwing right-hander who pitched one of his greatest games in a losing cause in last year's World Series, has signed his 1957 contract, it was announced Saturday.

There are probably less than 130 copies of the first printed collection of Shakespeare's works extant in the world.

Harvesters Set Drills This Week

Coach Jack Lockett and his staff expect around 60 boys to show up when spring football practice opens at Pampa High School Monday afternoon.

The Harvesters will work out for 21 consecutive days and the drills will be climaxed by a game with the Pampa exes on March 2.

Among those expected to show up are many of last year's Shockers and Reapers. Thirteen Harvesters will graduate from high school this year but 11 more undergraduates are ready for drills.

Workouts will begin approximately at 3:30 each day. Some of the players are engaged in other sports activities.

Jameson And Suggs Tied In Golf Meet

ST PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 16 (UP)—Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., and Louise Suggs, Sea Island, Ga., waged a down-to-the-wire battle Saturday to move into a tie in the fourth round with $5,000 St. Petersburg Women's Open with 210's.

Miss Jameson, who has not won a major tournament since 1955, lost a chance to move into undisputed lead when she bogeyed on the 18th hole for a one-under men's par 70, while Miss Suggs birdied the 18th for a 69.

Miss Jameson had trouble on her approach shots on the final hole and missed a 12-foot putt to bogey. Meanwhile, her Georgia rival, hit brilliantly on her second shot, dropping it within eight feet of the pin. She stroked it in to earn the deadlock.

The 54-hole total of the two veteran professionals was only two strokes over the LPGA course record.

Mary Lena Faulk, who shot a record-breaking 67 Friday to move into the lead, slipped to third place with a 73, one stroke off the pace.

The Thomasville, Ga., lass, who said she seems "to perk up on the back nine," played it like she owned it Saturday, coming through with a 32 after carding a 41 on the front nine.

Miss Faulk now has shot a 32, 31 and 32 on the back nines during the three rounds, while balling on the front half. "I just can't seem to get my confidence on the front nine," she said.

Betty Kerby, St. Petersburg, Fla., shot a 75 for a 228 total to retain the lead among the amateurs. Greta Leone of Chicago was second high amateur with a 230.

Jimmy Demaret In Texas Open Lead

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 16 (UP) — Veteran Jimmy Demaret called upon some of his earliest golf lessons Saturday as he battled tricky winds to take a two-stroke lead at the 54-hole mark in the $50,000 Texas Open golf tournament.

A four-under par 67 gave Demaret a 202 total on a day that saw the veteran campaigners take control of the top spots. Jay Hebert and Ed Furgol were a 63 and two strokes back and Julius Boros was at 205.

Demaret learned to play wind shots in the early 1930s as a pro at Galveston Seaside course, and the experience paid off handsomely as a northern lowered temperatures to the mid-50s and winds of 13 to 30 miles per hour sailed shots off line.

Everything Went Right

Everything went right with the veteran Texan who has been a runner-up in three previous Texas Opens. He managed to play a shot out of a muddy creek bed, salvage a par on the 16th hole, and get down two long birdie putts, his first long ones of the tournament.

Demaret now has 66-69-67 — 202. Never before has Demaret gone into the final day here with a lead. Once he was tied with Sammy Snead and shot a closing 65, only to see Snead fire a 63 and keep Demaret in a bridesmaid's role.

But never before has his opportunity been as great to capture this home state tournament. Demaret calls wind "the greatest hazard in golf," and the weatherman is forecasting additional breezes Sunday.

Won't Be Simple

The job won't be simple for Jaunty Jim as Hebert, Sanford, Fla., and Furgol, St. Andrews, Ill., are deadlocked at 204 and Boros, from Mid-Pines, N.C., has 205.

Hebert shot a 67 Saturday to go with earlier rounds of 68 and 69. Furgol's tally reads 65-71-68.

A couple of youngsters took up the fifth position at 206. They were Bud Holscher of Apple Valley, Calif., with a 69 today, and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who held together for a 70.

The midway leader, Henry Williams Jr. of Reading, Pa., couldn't get a birdie putt down Saturday and skidded to a 73, two over par. That gave Williams a 207 total along with Doug Ford of Mahopac, N.Y., who managed a 69.

It was a good day for soaring scores. The outstanding blowups par, a tribute to the added 300 being Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, yards built into the course this week, and Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., who had been tied for subpar golfers cut at the halfway point.

Also in the 212 group was Joe Black, the Abilene, Tex., fledgling pro, who shot a second straight 74 after his opening day 64 that led the tourney.

The best individual effort was a 68, five-under par, by youthful Don Addington, former Southern Methodist University links ace who now registers from Tecumseh, Mich. Two eagles on the par five holes offset the two bogies which Addington took with three-putt greens.

It took a 217 to qualify for Sunday's final round on the par 35-71 Brackenridge Park layout as the field was trimmed to the 60 low pros and 10 amateurs.

The cutoff figure was four over par, a tribute to the added 300 being Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, yards built into the course this week, and Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., who had been tied for subpar golfers cut at the halfway point.

Fort Wayne Team Moves To Detroit

DETROIT, (UP) Fred Zollner, a Hoosier with faith in Detroit's reputation of being the "best sport town in the country," recently affirmed that his Ft. Wayne Pistons of the National Basketball Association will switch to Detroit.

The move requires only the formal approval by the NBA's board of governors. Zollner has already had contacted the board members and they unanimously approved. The vote will be taken during the April meeting.

"We have been averaging 3,500 to 3,800 fans per game in a 10,000 seat arena," Zollner said. "That's great for a city with little more than 100,000 persons."

But Zollner plainly wants more to attend the NBA's Western Division leader's games. The Pistons, operating under a six-year contract with Olympia Stadium President Bruce Norrik, will play a "minimum" of 22 dates in Detroit. Five to seven of them will be doubleheaders.

Seven games will be played at Ft. Wayne next season, one with each NBA club.

Basilio Sure He Will Keep Title

By BILL LOFTUS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 16 (UP)—Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio, despite a "tender right hand," is confident he will retain his crown in the rubber match of his series with Johnny Saxton at the Cleveland Arena next Friday night.

"The hand is tender, and I'm using sponges in the glove during sparring and bag workouts," Basilio said. "But, I'll be okay for Saxton."

A swelling and soreness across the knuckles of the champion's hand forced a postponement of the 15-round title bout originally scheduled for Jan. 18.

Clean Bill of Health

Even though Basilio continued to complain about his right hand, Cleveland Boxing Commission physician Dr. M. H. Lambright,

Jr. gave him a clean bill of health.

"There is no evidence that Basilio has any pain, swelling or injury of either hand and he is in excellent condition," Dr. Lambright reported.

Saxton and Basilio began their 147-pound championship series at Chicago last March 14.

Saxton won the crown in that first meeting by turning on the speed and moving in and out of Basilio before the champion could get across his power.

Then came Basilio's day at Syracuse, Sept. 12. The New York battler pleased his hometown crowd with a bloody victory that ended in a ninth round knockout of Saxton, and gave him back his title.

Use Everything He's Got

What will he use against the challenger in Friday's fight? "Everything I've got," he said. "I plan to wear Saxton down and I'm ready for any type of fight he wants."

"He can hit and run, like the Chicago fight, but it won't do him any good. I'll catch him, and if Saxton wants to mix it up the same way he did in Syracuse I'll be only too happy."

"I know every move he'll make, and I'm not bragging about it," Saxton of New York city, spent the five-week postponement in Cleveland training and making public appearances at local fight shows. He was silent about his tactics. He was disappointed at the January postponement but his trainer, Benny Stampler, said he is in perfect condition.

Aussie Ken Rosewall Makes Pro Debut In States Today

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (UP)—Ken Rosewall of Australia will make his professional tennis debut in the United States Sunday afternoon when he and Pancho Gonzalez renew their international singles duel in a five-set match at Madison Square Garden.

Gonzalez, the Los Angeles star who has dominated promoter Jack Kramer's pro tour the past three years, holds a 7-4 lead over Rosewall in the 100-match 1957 series. The tour began in Australia.

The next 55 or 60 matches will be played in the United States and the remaining contests in the series probably will be played in Europe. Kramer's barnstormers will play in Dallas, Tex., Monday night and San Francisco Tuesday night.

The first matches in the tour were played on grass courts. Rosewall, the five-foot, six-inch Aussie who is Kramer's newest attraction, will face Gonzalez on canvas for the first time Sunday.

It won't be surprising if both get cold feet. The canvas will be stretched over ice because the New York Rangers will entertain the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League game at the Garden Sunday night.

Rosewall defeated Gonzalez in their last three matches but considers the six-foot, three-inch Californian the best player he has ever met.

"But I'm looking forward to playing Pancho on canvas," Rosewall said. "The ball comes at you with a true bounce on canvas and it gives me a little more time to swing."

Rosewall turned pro after helping Australia defeat the United States in the Davis Cup challenge round last December. He is guaranteed $65,000 for the 1957 tour plus 25 per cent of the gross receipts above $325,000. But the little Aussie, like all the other youngsters who have signed with Kramer, literally is playing for his tennis future.

William Kyne, Bay Meadows Boss, Dies At Race Track

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16 (UP)

William P. (Bill) Kyne, founder and general manager of Bay Meadows, died Saturday as he belatedly raced track was making final preparations for the opening of the spring meeting next week.

The veteran promoter, 69, had been in a coma since last Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital where he was confined with a liver ailment. His brothers—Tom and Jack Kyne—and his wife, Dorothy, were at the bedside when he succumbed.

Kyne's death signalled the end of an era in West Coast sports which started in 1904 when the Irishman went to work at the old Emeryville, Calif., track as a racing clerk.

Bobby Layne Is Official Pro Scorer

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16 (UP)

Bobby Layne of the Detroit Lions, who runs for touchdowns, kicks field goals and extra points—and throws touchdown passes if necessary—won the scoring championship of the National Football League with 99 points, official figures showed Saturday.

Layne ran for five touchdowns, kicked 33 conversions without a miss, and booted 12 field goals in 15 attempts in replacing former teammate Dock Walker as the scoring champ. The Lions' quarterback added to his one-of-the-best-in-the-business category by throwing nine touchdown passes.

Rick Casares of the Chicago Bears, the league's ball carrying champion, scored 14 touchdowns for 84 points to finish second to Layne, while George Blanda of the Bears with 81 was third and Fred Cone and Billy Howton, both of Green Bay, tied for fourth with 72.

All Blanda's points came from his toe, the result of 45 extra points—he missed two—and 12 field goals.

The extra point, regarded as automatic in the league, was scored 95 per cent of the time. There were 18 misses among the 364 conversions attempted. The fall of shame fell on Sam Baker of the Redskins who missed three.

The Bears won the team scoring championship with 363 points, and led in total touchdowns with 47, touchdown passes with 19, and conversions with 45.

Detroit was second with 300 points and Los Angeles third with 291.

During the next 53 years, Kyne not only promoted racing from Tijuana to Portland, Ore., but also put on boxing bouts, opened the first dog track in California, revived the San Francisco City Open Golf tournament after the war and staged a flower show last year.

But racing was Kyne's first love and he is generally regarded as the driving force behind the legislation of pari-mutuel betting in California.

Kyne built his first racing plant in 1915 with "Sunny Jim" Cofforth, another local promoter, at Tijuana. The plant was wiped out by a flash flood two years later but Kyne then built tracks at Reno, Nev., and Phoenix, Ariz. in 1923.

This was followed by a track at Salt Lake City. Kyne's next venture was a track at Juarez in Mexico which had one historic feature—a hole in the roof left there by cannon fire from the forces of Pancho Villa.

Tulsa, Okla., next caught Kyne's eye and he inaugurated racing in that state in 1927.

Carmen's Sore Hand Does Not Affect Fight's Odds

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:
The scuffle along the boxing boulevards is that Carmen Basilio still is nursing a sore hand but it hasn't affected the odds for his welterweight title defense against Johnny Saxton at Cleveland next Friday night.

Basilio, the erstwhile onion farmer from Chittennango, N.Y., is 2 to 1 to chop Saxton down again, just as he did in September when he regained the crown. And the price should be better than that this time.

Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, claims that his Roy McMillan is the best shortstop in baseball.
"When I was in the other league, I had to rate Phil Rizuto as the best," Birdie says. "But McMillan is better. Phil was the greatest coming in on a slow ball but McMillan has greater range and a better arm." Which will take a lot of selling in the American League.

Seattle, first team to accept a bid to the NIT basketball tournament, is beating the All-American guns for 6-foot, 6-inch, 225-pound Elgin (Rabbit) Baylor. There's support from Al Lightner, veteran Pacific Coast referee, too, because without a blush he calls Baylor "the best player I've ever seen."

Proving to some that, as suspected, all referees are blind.
Frankie Frisch scorns spring training as a "plush country club" but it is a practice which started long before he was born. Before the birth of the major leagues, the Chicago White Stockings of the National Association went to New Orleans for training in 1870. They were in such advanced shape when the season opened that the 2,500 fans were urging other association teams adopted the practice.

Oklahoma A&M attracted Adnan Kaisiy, 20-year-old 225-pound Iraqi from Baghdad, as a student because of the fame of its wrestling teams. He received a stormy letter from his father, a Moslem preacher, when he cut off his flowing locks and shaved his moustache. Kaisiy is studying air conditioning, which he figures will be in big demand in Iraq. But if not, he can always grow back the long hair and moustache and be a pro rassler.

Spider Webb In Win Over Rivers

NEW YORK (UP)—"Three more

fighths and then a shot at the title," was today's schedule for Spider Webb, Chicago's spring-steel middleweight contender who Friday night gave Neal Rivers a bloody, lopsided licking for his 18th straight victory.

Increasingly confident after his impressive Madison Square Garden debut, the lanky Spider said, "My next bout will be at Chicago Stadium, March 3, probably against Joey Giardello. And after that we want Tiger Jones, then Charley Humez of France—to clinch the title shot."

Fourth-ranked Webb, weighing 158 pounds to 157 for Rivers of Las Vegas, Nev., had the game Far-Westerner bleeding from both brows and from the mouth and nose. And eighth-ranked Rivers was so groggy and exhausted in the final round that he fell down, without being hit, for a count of nine. Referee Harry Kessler ruled it a "knockdown," apparently to give Rivers a respite—instead of stopping the bout, as many of the 2,500 fans were urging.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN

The smell of gunsmoke and the ringing of shotguns filled the air in the Gene Howe Wildlife Management area the last two Sundays in January and the first Sunday in February. Probably the first planned and supervised cottontail rabbit hunt in the Texas Panhandle was taking place. This was an advertised hunt in which the outdoor public was allowed to participate by the first - come, first - served method.

A. S. Jackson, the senior wildlife biologist for the Panhandle, was the instigator of the hunt. Jackson received telephone calls from those interested and placed their names on the list which permitted 150 pairs of hunters to hunt on the respective days allotted.

Usually rabbit hunting is not looked upon as being tops in outdoor shooting but there was no group of shooters in the country that thoroughly enjoyed a day's hunt anywhere than these fellows. One of the reasons being that almost as soon as the hunter stepped from the automobile with his gun the shooting began. The walking was short and the shooting long for the time the hunters were in the field.

One of the interesting facts about the hunt was the fact that the hunters dressed and prepared the rabbits for the skillet or deep freeze. The luck was so great that many of the shooters gave surplus bunnies to friends - those that the hunter didn't wish to keep for himself.

Other interesting facts pertaining to the hunt were the firing of 1,814 shells which added up to 1,692 pounds or rabbit for three hunters. On the last hunt, 21 hunters showed up. After checking the total miles, these fellows drove 2,345 miles in order to enjoy a day's hunt. Many of the hunters drove over from Amarillo, Borger and Pampa were also represented at the event as well as Panhandle, White Deer and Canadian.

Two typical hunters were Glenn Peckham, band director for Canadian High School, and his hunting companion, Jack Sutton, school principal at Canadian. These two men hunted 3 1/2 hours with a Beagle and killed 21 cottontails and fired 34 times.

Since the Texas Game and Fish Commission purchased the Game Management Area in Hemphill County, the area has furnished a maximum of pleasure to the hunters. Also a vast amount of research has been performed at the area pertaining to game of the Panhandle. This last fall there were 60 quail hunters allowed to hunt on the refuge, thereby giving these men a chance to bag 600 quail. The Panhandle Bird Dog Association stages two field trials at the area yearly. The next trial will be conducted March 8-10.

It Happened This Way
A warden in South Texas recently became curious about a car traveling on a country road with its lights off and started following it. Suddenly the car stopped for a minute and the warden thought he heard a shot. However, the car quickly went on.

The curious warden overtook the car and stopped it to question the driver, who, of course, denied any wrong doing. The warden told the driver to get into the back seat of the car and lie down so that he could not be seen, and then he drove back to the site where he believed the car had previously stopped. He blinked the lights a couple of times and imagine his surprise when a man suddenly jerked the car door open and literally leaped into the warden's lap.

The suspected game law offender did not have his gun with him. However, after questioning he took the warden to the place where it was hidden under a pile of brush and leaves. The two men were charged with headlighting deer and shooting from a public road. Although the warden was unable to find evidence of a kill that night, further search the next morning disclosed the deer that had been killed illegally.

Recently, a hill country warden received a call to come out to a man's ranch to pick up a deer that had run into a post and broken its neck. When the warden arrived at the house an hour or so later, the man's wife told him that the rancher had "packed the deer right over there and covered it up with a blanket."

As the warden walked over to the blanket-covered deer, he noticed that it seemed to move a little. And when he reached the deer, it suddenly jumped up and ran into the brush. Aside from a possible headache, the deer appeared perfectly all right. (The last two paragraphs were taken from the February issue of The Texas Game and Fish Magazine.)

PRINCE MAIAVA

Tag Team Title At Stake Here Monday

Dory Funk and Rip Rogers put their Southwest States tag team championship trophy on the line against Leo Newman and the Great Bolo Monday night at the Top of Texas Sportman Club.

The tag team battle is the main event on the Pampa Shrine Club's weekly mat attraction. The match is scheduled for 90 minutes and the best-of-three falls.

The tag title is the only championship left for the once-titled Funk. Dory has lost both his Southwest States junior heavy weight crown and the North American championship to the Great Bolo in recent weeks.

Funk and Bob Geigel originally won the tag championship. But Geigel has left the Southwest and gone back to Iowa to wrestle and he has given Rogers authority to team up with Dory.

The four main event participants engaged in a pie-throwing fiasco last week. Funk was wrestling Bolo in the main event when Rogers stepped into the ring with a pie. Rogers held Bolo while Funk smashed the pie in the masked wrestler's face. Then Newman entered the ring and a free-for-all occurred.

Prince Maiava takes on Doug (Iron Jaw) Donovan in the semifinal bout slated for 45 minutes and the best-of-three falls. Both are newcomers to the Pampa ring.

Rogers goes against Newman in the opening match, a one-fall event with a 20-minute time limit. Tommy Phelps will act as the referee.

Tickets for the bouts are on sale at Modern Pharmacy. Admission is $1.50 for ringside, $1.25 for reserved seats, 90 cents for general admission and 50 cents for children.

Can you find the "guarantee" in this picture?

You buy a refrigerator only two or three times in your lifetime.

Yet you don't hesitate to buy one without getting so much as a look at the intricate "works" that makes it run.

How do you dare make such an important purchase without having an expert check it over for you? What makes you so sure you're getting your money's worth when you say, "I'll take that one?"

The answer's obvious. You look for the brand name on the refrigerator—your "guarantee." You've learned to follow this first rule of safe and sound buying:

A good brand is your best guarantee No matter what kind of product you want to buy, you know a good brand won't let you down. You know the maker stands back of it—guarantees it. And so, when you buy a good brand you know you're right.

Read this newspaper to find out which are the good brands (and the stores that sell them.) The more good brands you know, the surer you are about all your shopping.

'Mad Market' For Business Executives In New York

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — Executives, awake! Get those feet down of that desk. Take some benzedrine or something. A clarion is calling loud and clear.

You, too, can better yourself. Dig this headline: "Good men hard to find for top-brass jobs." The story says that in today's expanding industry there's a "mad market" in executives.

Demand Grows
Story in hand, we loped over to the firm of handy associates and into the carefully upholstered, deskless office of John L. Handy himself. Handy has been man-hunting for 15 years — for executives. His is a firm of executive recruiters, a sort of rich boss-man's employment agency.

The story was, indeed, correct, Handy said. The demand is "infinitely greater" than in pre-World War II days. Handy has placed about 1,300 executives in the last 15 years. Last year he filled three presidencies, one with a salary-plus-bonus of $90,000.

A second exception is against a trump contract when you open a trump to cut down enemy ruffing power. A third exception is when you have a lead of your own that is so good it becomes obvious.

Today's hand illustrates a fourth case. West did not have much of a spade suit but North and South had contracted for the no-trump game in a way that indicated that maybe each one thought his partner held a spade stopper. Surely they were ready for a heart lead.

NORTH		1
♥ 7 5	♦ 9 3 2
♣ 10 8 6 4	♠ A Q 8
WEST		EAST (D)
♥ K J 9 8 2	♦ A 10 8 3
♣ 8 7	♠ K Q J 10 5 4
♦ J 7 5 3	♣ Q 9
♠ 10 4	♦ 2
SOUTH
♥ Q 4	♦ A 6
♣ A 2	♠ K J 9 7 6 5 3
East and West vulnerable
East ♠ South ♠ West ♠ North ♠
1 ♥ 2 ♦ 3 ♣ 4 ♠ 5 ♠ 6 ♠ 7 ♠ 8 ♠ 9 ♠ 10 ♠ 11 ♠ 12 ♠
Pass 3 N.T. Pass 3 Pass
Opening lead—♦ 5

and it was curtains for declarer. East and West gathered in five tricks before South could get the lead.

It will be noted that South could have made five clubs by ruffing out diamonds until he set up dummy's fifth card in that suit.

It also should be noted that South should have wound up at that contract. South had a better bid than three no-trump after his partner raised his clubs. South should have bid three hearts.

This bid would not be a slam try, only a suggestion to North to show a spade stopper. With nothing in spades North would have gone to four clubs whereupon South either would have passed or bid the game. Either way he would have showed a profit instead of a loss.

GOING? COMING?—Hard to tell which, but it looks like a giant-headed man watching where he's just come from. Actually the big head is a papier mache creation for the annual carnival at Viareggio, Italy, being carried on a stick on a workman's shoulder.

The Handy office keeps a weird, almost secret — police, tab — on American industry, from soup to nuts. Electronic machines quiver and spit facts. Some 75,000 candidates and contacts among businessmen are catalogued and IBM carded.

He Presses Button
To illustrate, a girl picked up a whopping stack of cards from the "marketing executives" file, each card with 25 factors of selection built in. She placed them into

At the press of a button, executives came tumbling down like leaves of brown — in card form — info slots marked $10,000-$12,000 $12,000-$15,000; and so on up to "over $75,000."

Handy said one of the reasons for the increased demand was "the coming of age of small business — in years past they always felt they couldn't afford executives of the big — business caliber, but now they're plowing back some profits in incentive plans to give these fellows greater benefits."

He said that in many cases he has advised young men to shift jobs every two years to get a broad executive background — "three companies by age 40 is a good rule, in general, I think."

'Conflict Of Interest' Is Term Used In Investigations

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Conflict of interest is the term used by congressional investigators to challenge government officials who maintain substantial links with private business.

The latest instance of an alleged conflict of interest case has led to the resignation of Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Tripp Ross. Ross, although denying any violation of conflict of interest laws, gave up his post in the midst of a Senate inquiry into his relations with a Ross family firm which holds several millions of dollars worth of defense contracts. Ross said he was resigning because it would be "unfair" to the Defense Department to stay on in view of what he called "derogatory implications."

When a government official maintains an outside business connection which could be favored or hurt by his official actions, the basis for a congressional conflict of interest investigation is present.

It does not necessarily follow that the official would or would not shape his official acts to favor his private business.

How About Congressmen?
These congressional investigations come along often. It is a matter of astonishment that some bedevilled official in the witness chair has not long since sought to turn the conflict of interest searchlight on his congressional investigators.

Consider the lawyers, for example. Lawyers far outnumber members of other professions in Congress.

How much conflict of interest would there be in the situation of a senator or congressman whose law firm had substantial corporate patronage and who had to cast his vote on a question which directly would affect the profits of one or more corporate clients? That is a fair question but not one likely to be asked soon or often. It last was asked some 20 or 25 years ago when the late Sen. Huey Pierce (The Kingfish) Long was rampaging through the tag end of a purple career to be ended by an assassin's bullet. Long was undisputed boss of Louisiana with an overlay of influence in adjoining states, notably Mississippi and Arkansas.

Fell Out With Leaders
It was characteristic of Long that he soon fell out with the Democratic leadership — from FDR down — when he came to the Senate. Senate Democratic Leader Joe T. Robinson was Long's whipping boy for the entire New Deal administration. The Kingfish shocked the Senate and jolted Robinson one day by reading into the record the name of Robinson's Arkansas law firm and list of its big clients.

Long could not accuse Robinson of misdeeds or of putting private interest above the public interest, but the Kingfish belittled the temptation was there. And he could quote the Bible by the yard on the hazards of temptation.

Conflict of interest was what Long was talking about. It is your correspondent's recollection that Robinson immediately resigned his law firm connection, not as an acknowledgement of wrong-doing or, even, of a conflict of interest, but simply to get the Kingfish off his back.

Only five planets are visible to the naked eye: Jupiter, Mars, Mercury, Saturn and Venus.

Peg O' Pampa

SURE WOULD BE NICE if we could believe this weather... this false forecast of spring... Peg sure has been having a wonderful case of spring fever... running around rather hopefully for things to start turning green... peering enviously into store windows at the lovely spring styles... so light and feminine... one good thing the weather has brought about is thoughts of an Easter ensemble... maybe Peg will get at it earlier this year, instead of waiting until the last minute as usual... have you noticed the gorgeous spring colors predominant in the new-season fashions?... violet, in all shades... violet and more violet... that ultra, ultra, ultra violet in equally ultra styles... and the marvelously bright and attention-getting reds... solid reds and red and white prints... and yellow... pale and bright... and, of course, Peg's favorite shade... pink in all its different and graduating shades... we really have a lot of variety to choose from this year... maybe we can avoid all looking like carbon copies of each other... the same fashions, the same colors and the same shape of hats... Peg's not at all sure spring isn't really here... after seeing some adorable little birds taking baths in the sprinklers on the City Hall lawn... my, my, in public too!... Of course, by the time you get to read this, we'll probably have six inches of snow, or something like that... it could happen, you know... well, we can dream can't we?

Every man is useful to his kind by the very fact of his existence. (Thomas Carlyle)

HERE AND THERE... Peg spied the cutest scene this week... a bushy little dog... holding an ice cream carton between his paws in human fashion... diligently licking the carton clean... It won't be long before the long-anticipated Beta Sigma Phi table-setting contest will be held... sometime early in March, Peg believes... certainly one of the high points in Pampa activities during the year, which has received national recognition several times... understand the proceeds this year will go toward furnishing a room in the hospital... spied lovely, blond Frances Cree downtown the other day... Frances always looks so chic... Peg has heard myrmurs of a project Parent Education Club is planning in May... a tour of five Pampa homes, with the proceeds to go for equipment for handicapped children... it should prove to be an unusual... and very worthwhile project... with widespread appeal... Our Pampa women are always thinking up such clever things!... Katherine Steele has been busy planning for her new home... believe she and Dudley are moving in next week... Peg has heard the Steeles' new residence is simply gorgeous... Peg can't wait to see it... Turning her thoughts back to Easter ensembles reminds Peg that she heard Vera Andis and Mrs. John Pitts took a trip to Dallas recently... wonder if they weren't perhaps shopping and sight-seeing with Easter in mind?... A rather strange scene graced the basement of the Presbyterian Church last week... it looked like a hobo convention... a stranger viewing it might have become quite alarmed... it was only the couples' class hobo party, however... and nearly everyone managed to look quite "authentic"... friends of Dub Morgan's were overheard asking their neighbors who "that hobo" was... he was very convincing... and very well-disguised... understand some of the "beards" were authentic... Max Hukill, Ray Barret, Nick Kadingo and Al Bell were spied sprouting "the real thing" in stubbles... everyone had a wonderful time!... A tour of Pampa coffee shops lately revealed some ardent fans of the brew... including O. K. Gaylor, Joe Tooley, Charlie Thut, Fred Brook and Jeff Bearden, to name a few.

No one is useless in this world who lightens the burden of it for any one else. (Charles Dickens)

HEARTS AND FLOWERS... February is a wonderful month... in addition to all the birthdays of famous people, it has Valentine Day, too... and Mr. Peg thrilled Peg to death by remembering her!... and it's so much fun, planning something nice... a real surprise for those you love... speaking of hearts and flowers... understand Bob and Wilma Gordon are celebrating their 18th wedding anniversary today... congratulations to a fine couple!... there sure have been a lot of nice Valentine socials, too... the big BSP sweetheart dance which Peg mentioned last week... as an aside... Peg just loves the way pretty Sue Keller is wearing her hair... so soft and natural looking... several of the church Sunday School classes held sweetheart parties or banquets... did you notice those gorgeous decorations Katherine Snell made for her SS class sweetheart banquet?... the cutest, prettiest and cleverest Peg has seen in a long time... While Peg is still on the subject of hearts and flowers, she can't keep from commenting briefly on the article, which Peg will re-title "The Justification of Bachelorhood" last week by Bob Perez... a handsome bachelor in his own right... Peg firmly believes if a bachelor is perfectly content with his state, it's fine... But... when coming home to a rented room each day... to hurry out to a "not home-cooked" meal... to rush off to an evening with "the boys" which somehow doesn't seem as much fun as it was last year... when he begins to dream of a state where there is someone who really cares how his day went... who will fuss over him a little... when all the "joys of bachelorhood" seem to have gone a little stale... then, he'd better watch out... for then he'll really be an "eligible" bachelor, which is the "beginning of the end"... then he'll begin to discard his vision of the "perfect" woman and settle on a real-life, imperfect gal, and will find he really likes it!

THIS WEEK WILL BE MARKED by the birthday of our first president... George Washington... here is a little poem Peg dug up to commemorate the event... "George Washington was truly great... And we give thanks today... That he began the country that... Is now the U. S. A... He led the way to Valley Forge... And all throughout the war... That we might live in liberty... And peace for evermore... And ever since he raised the flag... To guide his valiant force... Our nation has endeavored to... Pursue his prudent course... He was a mighty statesman and... An able president... The symbol of democracy... And equal government... We give our praise to Washington... And thank Almighty God... That one so great belonged to us... And walked upon this sod..." by James J. Metcalfe

THAT'S ALL... there just "ain't no more"... for this week, anyway... but Peg, like the proverbial penny, keeps turning up... so she'll close for this time... to come back again next week.
Lovingly yours,
Peg

Organ - Keenan Wedding Vows Repeated In Saint Rose Of Lima Church Rites

Miss Sandra Organ, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Organ, 1300 Duncan, repeated marriage vows with Kenneth T. Keenan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Keenan, Seward, Kan., in a double-ring ceremony performed by Rev. Thomas McGready in the Saint Rose of Lima Church on Jan. 19 in Great Bend, Kan. The vows were exchanged before an altar banked with baskets of gladioli of pastel shades.

Background wedding music was provided by Sister Kathleen and her Children's Choir.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Stan, chose a dress of Chantilly lace over nylon net and taffeta. The bouffant, waist-length skirt was sprinkled with silver sequins, topped with a bolero jacket of matching lace with a Peter Pan collar and rows of tiny matching buttons on the sleeves, which came to bridal points at the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of French Illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls. The bride's only jewelry was a string of cultured pearls with matching earrings, a gift of the bridegroom. The bridal bouquet was of white Sweetheart roses with a white orchid center.

Mrs. Kent Baldwin, matron of honor, wore a ballerina-length gown of Nile green and carried a colonial bouquet of white and pink feathered carnations.

Maurice J. Keenan, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Seating the wedding guests were John Keenan and Glen LeRoy.

The bride's mother chose a beige tulle suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Keenan, wore a navy dress with navy and white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the VFW Club rooms immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth over yellow centered with a three-tiered cake decorated with wedding bells and a miniature bride and bridegroom. White candles with yellow baby-breath and a punch bowl were also featured on the table.

Mrs. George Nuss presided at the punch bowl, Miss Vera Juergensen served cake and Miss Virginia Belcher registered the guests; others assisting were Misses Karen LeMay, JoAnn Stanley, Jack Cook, Marifyn Juergensen, and Maxine Baldwin.

Later in the evening a wedding dance was held in the Knights of Columbus club rooms in Ellinwood, Kan., given by the bridegroom's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bryant.

Following the dance, Mr. and Mrs. Keenan left for a wedding trip to San Jose, Calif., where they visited with the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pounder.

For travelling, the bride chose a beige imported French Flannel with beige and white blouse and matching accessories. Her corsage

Upon their return they are residing at 410 N. Oliver, Wichita, Kan., where they will be enrolled at Wichita University.

The bride was graduated from Great Bend High School. Mr. Keenan just recently returned from Kingston, Jamaica, B.W.I.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Leonard Frelsen and Barbara, Meade, Kan.; Owen S. Gibson and Kenneth, Wichita, Kan.; Melvin Thompson and family, Larned, Kan.; Jerry Tully, Topeka; and Mrs. Clyde Organ of Pampa.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Since baby brother was born four months ago, John's devotion to his mother has pursued her like a bloodhound.

If he eats, she must hold the hand he's not using. If she sits, he must sit on her. She holds conversation with a neighbor clutched by the entwining arms of clinging John.

Through his attention once flattered her, it's begun to make her a little uneasy.

So it should. It is concealed resentment. Unfortunately she'll ignore it. She'll keep her uneasiness at John's affection, coated resentment vague and unrealized just under the surface of consciousness. Otherwise, she'd have to do something about his ugly feeling. She can't.

Unusual to detecting and treating the same feeling in herself, she just doesn't know what to do about John's. So she'll pretend that his hostility toward her doesn't exist because she's been trained to pretend she never feels it toward her own nearest and dearest.

She'll ignore it in John just as she ignored what she felt yesterday when her mother boasted of the salary raise just given a younger daughter's husband — and said, "You better tell Jack to get a move on."

So resistant to the truth of what she feels, we can hardly expect her to want the truth of what John feels.

This is the weakness of the child guidance advice that tells us to "get the child's bad feelings out." Unless we're old hands at dredging up our own, we just scare John by diving after him.

What helps him discharge his hate into words is not second-hand sympathy, but a state of development that has outgrown fear of hate because it knows it to be simply despair of love.

A small child does not always understand why we go to the hospital for another child. To him, mother is the creature who's been created for his sole convenience and comfort.

When she walks off defiantly to acquire another baby, he may begin to hate her for allowing him to commit the mysterious offense that has rendered him unsatisfactory to her. But he will hide his feeling carefully from her lest she be offended again — and rush off to have still another baby.

Mexican Dinner To Be Held At School
MOBETTE (Special) — Mrs. J. R. Patterson, PTA president, and Mrs. Murel J. Trout, chairman, announce that a Mexican dinner will be held in the home-making room of the high school, Feb. 18, with serving to begin at 5:30 p.m.

Price per plate will be 50 cents and 75 cents. Proceeds will go toward paying the indebtedness on the new piano recently purchased by the school.

The general meeting of the PTA will convene at 7:30 with high school students presenting the program.

MRS. WILLIAM L. BROWN (Photo, Koen Studio)

Miss Moore Bride Of William Brown

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Moore, 502 N. Carr, announce the marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to William L. Brown, son of Mrs. B. A. Brown, Dumas, and the late B. A. Brown.

The wedding vows were exchanged in Clayton, N.M., Feb. 8. The couple was accompanied by the bridegroom's mother.

The bride was attired in a tulle Salina dress and carried a bouquet of red roses. She is a senior in Pampa High School, where she is head cheerleader, a member of the National Honor Society and Kilt Kat Klub. Mrs. Brown is employed by Pampa Phillips Plant.

Miss Betty Williams Wed In Church Rite

Miss Betty Jean Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Williams, White Deer, became the bride of Dale McLaughlin, Dumas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. McLaughlin, Pampa, in a single-ring ceremony read in the Methodist Church of Raton, N.M., by Rev. Ira Moore on Feb. 9.

Mr. and Mrs. David Crossman of Amarillo were the couple's only attendants.

The bride was graduated from White Deer High School and West Texas State College, Canyon. She is a faculty member of the Dumas city schools.

Mr. McLaughlin was graduated from Pampa High School; attended West Texas State College, and served in the U.S. Army. He is associated with the McLaughlin Motor Co. of Dumas.

After a brief trip to Colorado Springs, the couple are now at home at 113 Maddox in Dumas.

Dallas Lecturer To Appear In Pampa

Miss Helen Poe, Dallas lecturer, will appear in Pampa again in the near future under the sponsorship of Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority. The subject of her lecture, "Yugoslavia, Showcase of Communism" is timely and will have appeal for men as well as women.

Miss Poe has first-hand information on this subject as she visited Yugoslavia and other countries behind the iron curtain on a recent trip abroad.

The lecture will be given in the Pampa High School auditorium, March 5 at 8 p.m. Tickets will be 50 cents per person. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the sorority's scholarship fund.

During the social hour, refreshments of valentine cake and coffee were served from a beautifully appointed valentine table.

Founder's Day Tea At Woodrow Wilson

The Woodrow Wilson PTA met in the school auditorium Thursday afternoon with Mrs. T. C. Owen, president, presiding. Members voted to present the school with a new piano for the auditorium.

During the business meeting, a nominating committee was elected to nominate officers for next year. Those elected to serve were Mmes. L. L. Milliren, John Brewer, E. E. Shultz and Mr. H. A. Yoder.

Mrs. Owen asked that all members interested in a mental health study course to notify Mrs. Jay Lickie, study course chairman. She also requested that all members write their congressman and representative concerning the proposed bill for teacher's pay raise.

Mrs. Sam Goodlett, vice president, introduced Miss Minnie Allen, teacher, who gave the devotional.

Mrs. Libby Shotwell, Red Cross director, was the afternoon's speaker. She told the members of several events leading to the founding of the PTA and related amusing experiences she had had as an early president of the Woodrow Wilson PTA.

Mrs. Gail Heaton's second grade room won first-place room count; Mrs. Allene Coker's second grade room was second; Mrs. Heaton also won a table centerpiece as the door prize.

Following the meeting, a Founder's Day Tea was served by the hospitality committee, Mmes. John Clark, Glen Maxey, C. A. Scott Jr., and John Zuerker.

Opti Mrs. Club Gives Husbands' Party

The OptiMrs Club entertained their husbands with a Valentine Party in the Palm Room of the City Hall. Games were played and prizes were awarded for each winner. A Valentine Cake, guest prize, was won by Mrs. K. R. Dodd.

Guests were Messrs. and Mmes. John Schofield, Henry Stephens, James Lewis, Lester Mason, Sharon Haralson, Bill Stephens, Ben White, W. A. Gipsen, Bill Dodd, and Mrs. Cliff Dunham.

FOUNDERS DAY — Members of the Baker School PTA Founders' Day program Thursday were, right to left, Mmes. James Lewis, afternoon's speaker, R. A. Mack, program chairman, Glenn Dearborn, Roy Jones, hospitality chairman.

B. M. Baker PTA Honors Founders With Candlelighting Service And Tea

The B. M. Baker School PTA executive board met at 1 p.m. Thursday in the office of the principal, John Evans, with Mrs. J. K. Trotter, president, presiding. Mr. Evans reported that film strips had arrived that will be added to the film library at the school. Thanks were expressed to the PTA for the poinsettia plant that was sent to the teacher's lounge during Christmas as a remembrance from the PTA.

Members present for the executive board meeting were Mmes. Carlos Griesom, George Smith Jr., Glen Dearborn, J. H. Trotter, R. A. Mack, Evans Jones, Elmer Darnell, Ed Johnson, Roy Jones, D. L. Martindale, Warren Jackson, and Jack Robertson.

Following the executive board meeting, the general meeting for the PTA was held in the auditorium with Mrs. Trotter presiding. Mrs. Trotter introduced Mrs. Mack, program chairman, who conducted the Founders' Day candlelighting ceremony. A white candle was lit in memory of Mrs. Claude Lard, one of the founders of the Baker PTA.

Mrs. James Lewis spoke during the candlelighting service and stated that "celebrating Founders' Day gives us an opportunity to show how the fundamental principles of Americanism; regard for the home as a basic institution; regard for the school as an instrument for democracy; respect for human rights and the preservation of human dignity has been translated into action by the PTA through a continuing program of service for all children in all communities of our nation and throughout the world."

During the business meeting, a nominating committee was elected. To serve on this committee are Mmes. Glenn Dearborn, Evans Jones and Mr. Evans. Mrs. D. L. Farker and Miss Edna Daughette's rooms won the room count. During the tea hour, following the meeting, Mmes. Roy Jones and Glenn Dearborn served cake and tea.

Pampa Garden Club Discusses Lawns

The Pampa Garden Club Workshop met in the home of the president, Mrs. V. E. Wagner, 804 N. Price, with Mrs. Sam Taylor giving the workshop on Lawns and Their Care.

The executive board met immediately following the discussion. Red Bud Trees were sold to the members and to those who had ordered them. It was announced that anyone interested in buying a Red Bud tree for $1.50 per tree, may do so by contacting Garden Club members. The trees are stored at Mrs. Nash's and Mrs. Wagner's homes.

Members attending the workshop were Mmes. S. W. Brandt, D. A. Caldwell, A. F. Johnston, Joe Shelton, H. H. Boynton, Bill Henton, J. L. Burba, A. J. Mitchell, W. R. Campbell, Tom W. Price, James Barrett, Henry Gruben, W. E. Melton, Floyd Yeager, B. R. Nash, K. L. Elshelmer, H. H. Stull, Fred Hart, and Mrs. Taylor.

The general meeting of the Pampa Garden Club will be held Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the City Club Room with Mmes. H. H. Boynton and I. R. Row presenting the program. Hostesses will be Mmes. M. R. Brown and D. A. Caldwell.

In spite of the constant change in current hair styles, certain basic rules should be followed: never part the hair in the middle if the face is full or the jaw square. When the forehead is low, bangs should never be worn and when it is narrow, the hair should be brushed straight back from the temples.

HOW TO CHOOSE A CHAIR

Chairs as we know them today are a far cry from their crude beginnings. The first chairs contrived by man were rough logs suspended by rocks. Gradually backs, in the form of added logs, were devised. As the demand for comfort increased, and man's ingenuity developed, chairs with seats, backs, arms, legs, and ultimately with cushions came to be common articles of dwelling equipment.

Today we take for granted the very fine workmanship that is put into most of our luxuriously comfortable upholstered pieces. We've come to demand and expect hardwood frames, good substantial jointing and sagless construction—plus beauty of line and design.

Our only chair problem, if we can rightly call it a problem, is one of selectivity. To be completely satisfactory a chair must "fit" all the comfort requirements of its occupants. This means the height and depth of the seat must be right, and the tilt of the back. There is only one way to be sure of getting complete sitting comfort—that is to sit in the chair before you buy it. Get the feel of it. Be sure it fits.

Note the comfort inviting atmosphere of the lounging group sketched above. Resilient foam-rubber cushioning on chairs and ottoman assures deep-seated comfort. New, low, stream-lined floor lamp goes nicely with the group.

When you buy upholstered pieces from us, we want you to take plenty of time and care selecting them. We want you to know the inside story. AND we want you to get complete comfort, lasting beauty and satisfaction, and good value with every piece. Do pay us a call soon.

Mrs. Hallon Feted With Stork Shower

Mrs. Barbara Hallon was honored with a pink and blue shower in the home of Mrs. Lawton Branscum, 221 Miami. Cohostesses were Mmes. Darrell Marsh and Monrow Finney.

The honoree was presented with a corsage of pink and blue socks over pink ribbons. The table was covered with a white lace cloth over pink with a centerpiece of three storks, punch bowl, and a baby-bed shaped cake.

Mrs. Marsh presided at the punch bowl. Cake was served by Mrs. Branscum. Mrs. Finney was guest registrar. The honoree received gifts sent from Oklahoma, California, and Austin.

Guests present were Mmes. I. U. Bryant, Harold Harrington, Arma Finney, Lee Jackson, W. J. Finney, Syble Finney, David Bless, Preston Wallace, Marvin Thompson, Rhoades Bennett, Landon Codell, Ben Riley, Elmer Wilson, Floyd Butcher, Sam Goodwin, Fred Jamerson, Earl Sawers; Misses Jerline Herndon and Carolyn Finney.

Mrs. Covalt Feted With Stork Shower

Mrs. Roy Covalt was honored with a stork shower in the home of Mrs. A. B. Clark, 1121 Neel Rd. Thursday evening.

Cohostesses were Mmes. J. M. Hahn, Bob Cllett, C. W. Conley. A stork carrying a baby was used as the focal point on the serving table. A sheet cake decorated in pastel colors of pink, blue, yellow and green, inscribed with "Baby Covalt" was served with coffee.

Guests were Mmes. Carl Barnes, Geneva Covalt, W. M. Hahn, J. B. Fife, Don Hendricks, Burl Brister, and H. R. Green.

Father and Daughter Feted On Birthdays

MOBEETIE (Special)—Miss Jeanette Morgan and her father, Billy Morgan, were honored with a birthday dinner by Mrs. Morgan, Sunday.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ritchie of Pampa, and Douglas and Ila Faye Grayson of Borger.

RUTH MILLET

When a husband and wife look ahead to retirement, they often have different ideas in mind.

Here is a letter from a wife whose husband has recently retired and now wants to sell their home, buy a trailer and spend the rest of their lives moving in it from place to place.

That isn't exactly her idea of taking life easy—in fact she can't think of anything much less appealing in the way of living quarters than a home on wheels.

She wants to know what to do.

That's not so easy. She might be able to put her foot down. But then she might have an unhappy husband who would never let her forget he retired with just one dream in mind and she never let it come true.

She could say, "Anything you want is all right with me, dear." That way she'd end up by being miserable, and probably by making him miserable with, "If we had only kept our home" remarks.

If she is enough of a gambler she might try suggesting that they rent a trailer and spend a few months finding out how they like a roving life.

If her husband is as basically home-loving as most men he'll probably be just as glad to get back to his familiar home as she will.

Of course, she can better her odds by not using all her home-making skill to shield her husband from the realities of trailer life.

If she lets her husband put up with the standard inconveniences instead of figuring out ways to overcome them, she'll have a better chance of curing him of his taste for trailer life.

Actually, there are two possible happy endings to this trial plan. The trip could convince her husband that there's no place like home. Or it might possibly—but that's a long shot—convince her that trailer life beats staying put.

Make Friends Manners

If you are telephoning to invite a person to a party or a meeting, it isn't wise to leave the message with another member of the household. Better ask to have the person call back or telephone again, yourself, than to take the chance that the message will be forgotten and not delivered.

Besides, it will sound more cordial if you give the invitation yourself.

Recipes For Future Club Meets Given

SKELLYTOWN (Special)—The Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Guy McKenney with Mrs. W. S. Berry, club president, in charge of the meeting. The Home Demonstration club creed was repeated in unison by the members. Roll Call was answered by each member with their favorite Bible verse.

Mrs. Cecil Shipley was in charge of the program on "Party Refreshments That Are Not Fattening." She gave recipes that could be used for future club meetings.

Mrs. Shipley was elected as the Skellytown representative for the district meeting of the Home Demonstration Club, which will meet in Amarillo next month. The State Convention will meet in Houston this year.

The Council report was given by Mrs. Clarence Hoskins. She also reported that the new district agent was Miss Lois Wilson.

Literature from the Federal Civil Defense Administration was given to those present. Everyone was urged by the president to participate in all civil defense operations within Carson County.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Hugh Wall. Mrs. Fletcher, Carson County Home Demonstration Agent, will give a demonstration on "How To Plan Home Grounds."

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served to Mmes. Junior Ellis, Paul Mathews, Cecil Shipley, Howard Wedge, Fred Wall, Clifford Coleman, Clarence Hoskins, Clifton Hanna, R. C. Heaton, Garret Huckins, B. T. Ross, Fred Genett, R. S. Marlar, W. S. Berry, Everett Crawford, R. L. Randolph and Leon Atkins.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
In her book, "The Happy Child," psychoanalyst Irene M. Josselyn tells an inspiring story about a 14-year-old named Peggy.

One day, when Peggy was complaining to friends about the maternal rule which required her to leave parties before they broke up, her mother overheard her. This happened several times. Finally, Peggy's mother decided she'd been too strict. She told Peggy that thereafter she could be the judge of the right time to leave parties.

But instead of welcoming this freedom, Peggy hastily rejected it. She confessed that she felt she hadn't lived long enough to be able to gauge the right moment to leave parties. Moreover, they sometimes got boring. Having a parent who told you to leave them was a great convenience. You could blame her for the departure you wanted to take yourself — and leave with your friends' sympathy instead of their resentment.

This story is a good illustration of adolescent conflict. On the one hand, the child is pulled by his need to defy our standards as too restrictive. On the other, since he hasn't had enough experience to make standards for himself, much less test their safety, he's pulled the need to hang on to ours. It is his see-sawing indecisiveness between these two pulls that confuses us so.

But it was not Peggy's indecisiveness that makes her particular story inspiring.

It was her ability to confess it to her mother.

Though all adolescents sometimes want us to tell them what to do, they don't all say so. Most make a point of hiding this truth from themselves as well as from us.

They put on acts. They pretend to always know exactly what they want to do about everything. We interpret their indecisiveness as weakness — and begin to exploit it by ordering them around for the rest of their lives.

Peggy did. She entrusted her mother with the truth because her mother had so obviously struggled to trust Peggy.

When parents and adolescents can conquer fear to the point where they can admit the mutual struggle to trust each other, the truth between them carries them on to progressive understanding.

This may be a column to hand to your teen-ager and say, "Do you think these things are true about you?"

Manners
Make Friends

If you are entertaining a crowd at a buffet meal, remember that it is better to have plenty of a few kinds of food than a little of a number of kinds. Large serving dishes, well-filled, give an air of abundance.

Basket weave wool, favored for robes and peignoirs, should be a loose weave but not so loose that you can see daylight through it. It looks fragile but actually is fairly sturdy.

If you're planning to wear a certain dress in your wardrobe to a dinner or party, try it on well in advance. Strange things seem to happen to clothes as they hang in closets and you may find yourself, on the evening of the affair, in a dress that fits only here and there.

Creating such an atmosphere is one way of showing hospitality.

Why You Get Fat And How To Avoid It

Future Articles Will Reveal Reasons

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — Take your clothes off, stand in front of a full-length mirror, take a hard, uncompromising look at yourself. Embarrassed by those bulges? Shocked to find that slowly, unnoticed before, five to 10 pounds have snuck up on you?

Rapidly, the United States is becoming a nation of the overweight. Scientists who have specialized in this problem as it affects health and longevity warn us that we are paying a high price in health hazards by eating more food than we need. And we are exerting ourselves too little physically to burn up those extra calories. Every calorie beyond those we use goes to fat.

Why are so many of us today heavier and bulkier than we should be? Dr. Charlotte M. Young, professor of Medical Nutrition at Cornell University and one of the most distinguished scientists in the field of weight reduction, says many factors in modern living contribute to this alarming intake of calories far in excess of our energy needs.

"We live in a highly competitive society and one of food surpluses. Every effort is made to induce us to buy and use more food," she comments. "Our hospitality is tied up with food. Few meetings of any kind are completed without refreshments."

Dr. Young said further: "Our spectator-type recreation often is accompanied by the double penalty of refreshments. We live in anxious times without much physical outlet for our anxieties. For many, food becomes a solace. Also, these are times of too much un-planned leisure, sometimes resulting in great boredom which in turn often leads to excessive eating and drinking."

"We need a reconsideration of our food habits and meal patterns in line with our diminished physical activities," she adds.

Dr. James H. Hundley of the National Institute of Health at Bethesda, Md., one of the country's outstanding men in this increasing problem, estimates that about one-fifth of all adults over 30 are overweight.

"Due to increase in our total population and the increased proportion of older people, the magnitude of the obesity problem will undoubtedly increase," he said.

Agreeing with him, Dr. Pearl Swanson of Iowa State College, another distinguished researcher in this field, estimates that of the 650,000 women in Iowa alone, about 275,000 who are over 30 are hauling around more than six million pounds (3,000 tons) of body weight they would be much better off without.

Today, more and more of us are living to an age when diabetes, cardiovascular and other diseases associated with overweight exact a heavy toll. Therefore, if we as a nation are to improve the health and stamina of our people, we face the puffy fact that overweight and its associated diseases is a major problem that must be solved.

Are we facing it? Yes. In the last 10 years there has been a tremendous upsurge of activity in weight control — surveys, public health programs, new methods of weight control, educational techniques, new weight reduction aids. But the overall warning of every scientific researcher polled by NEA for these articles is this:

Don't allow yourself to put on extra weight in the first place. But if you have put on weight and are determined to lose it either because of vanity or health, remember that no safe and permanent way is easy. No "magical" quick way is easy.

Are we making progress in the battle against obesity? "From the practical aspect — in some individuals, yes, but in the majority of those afflicted, not much," Dr. Hundley wrote recently in a scientific report.

"Often a surprisingly high percentage succeed in losing weight, but only a few maintain it. While temporary reductions in weight may convey some health benefit, and even unsuccessful attempts may aid by preventing further increase in excess weight, this picture leaves much to be desired."

Rapid progress will come neither easily nor quickly. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, he added, stating that it is a general experience that overweight is usually more easily managed in its early stages than when well established.

To bring its readers the best practical advice on how to lose bulges and increase their chances for a longer life, NEA Service has interviewed five of the most distinguished researchers and physicians in the weight reduction field.

They include Dr. Frederick J. Stare of Harvard University; Dr. Norman Jolliffe, director of nutrition of New York City's Department of Health; Dr. Ruth Leverson of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College; Dr. the Nutrition Foundation and professor of chemistry, Columbia University, and Dr. Herman Pollack, chairman of the nutrition committee of the American Heart Association.

In the exclusive interviews to follow in this newspaper, these generalists in the battle against obesity will give you sound, safe, human, encouraging and practical advice on how to look and feel like the man or woman you were intended to be.

Next: Don't cut out, cut down!

Wesleyan Service Starts New Study

MIAMI (Special) — Wesleyan Service Guild met in Fellowship Hall of the Methodist Church with Mrs. Ford Cowan as hostess.

Mrs. Joe Cunningham, vice-president, conducted the business session.

The devotional was given by Mrs. W. R. Holland. Mrs. Troy Hopkins, study leader, gave the first part of a new study, "Paul's Letters to Local Churches." She gave the history of Paul's early life and told of his three Missionary Journeys.

The meeting was closed with the guild hymn.

Refreshments were served to one visitor, Mrs. Jackie Donaldson, and members; Mmes. W. H. Carr, Troy Hopkins, Paul Traywick, R. J. Bean, J. V. Patterson, W. R. Holland, Harvey Landrum, Orval Christopher, S. S. Jackson, Maurita Taylor, James Selts, Ramon Cowan, Charles Clark, Bill Wiley, Joe Cunningham, and Ford Cowan.

Bethany Class Has Valentine Breakfast

The Bethany Class of the First Baptist Church met in the dining room of the White Way Restaurant for a Valentine Breakfast Thursday morning. Mrs. D. R. Henry gave the invocation. Mrs. Lida Ramsey conducted the business meeting and made introductions. Mrs. Myrtle McDaniel gave the devotional. Nine members were present.

Mrs. Arnold Hostess To Friendly Needle

CANADIAN (Special) — The Friendly Needle Club met with Mrs. S. E. Arnold Friday.

Mrs. Arnold served refreshments of nut bread, fruit salad, cheese crackers and coffee. The ladies spent the afternoon doing needlework.

Mrs. P. D. Moseley was welcomed into the club as a new member. Other members present were Mmes. J. L. Cleveland, L. P. Ward, George Tubb, W. R. Hines, Will Crow, C. L. Fry, Jess Lankley, Rock Cowan, and Charles Teas.

Of course, one of the outstanding virtues of wool jersey — in suit form or any other form — is its wrinkleproofness. The ease with which it withstands the rigors of packing and being worn for long stretches makes it an ideal traveler.
