Ask Us

Q. — What's the procedure to have an old, unsafe building torn down?

A. — Citizens can report such structures to the city building inspector. The city will condemn such buildings if they meet specific and strict guidelines. In general, it must be shown that the building is an imminent danger to "health and well being" of the general public.

Farabee to address H.B. 72 concerns

Questions regarding House Bill 72 — which mandated a sweeping change in public education in Texas — will be directed toward State Sen. Ray Farabee (D-Wichita Falls) here Tuesday.

Farabee represents the 30th District, a 30-county area which includes Scurry and the adjoining counties of Mitchell, Kent and Fisher.

He has been invited locally by the Snyder ISD chapter of the Texas State Teacher's Association (TSTA). Representatives from this group indicated Friday that teachers in other nearby counties will be invited Tuesday also.

Farabee's appearance will be at 4 p.m. in Worsham Auditorium at Snyder High School. The public is encouraged to attend.

Following the format of the program, Farabee will be asked to make a 10-minute presentation regarding H.B. 72. He is considered knowledgable on the subject since he sponsored legislation which passed the state senate that was the forerunner for the house bill.

Following his presentation, prepared questions will be directed to him by representatives of each Snyder school campus. Carol Miller, local president for TSTA, will serve as moderator Tuesday.

Earlier in the day, Farabee is scheduled to speak to the Western Texas College Faculty Association also. This appearance will be on campus at 2:30 p.m.

The 51-year-old legislator has been a member of the Texas Senate since 1975. He now serves as chairman of both the State Affairs Committee and the Jurisprudence Committee and is a member of the State Finance Committee.

He has been recognized by Texas Monthly three times as one of that publication's "Ten Best" legislators in the state. He has also been named to the "Great Honors" list by Texas Business, which called him "the most effective member of the Texas Senate."

Local TSTA representatives have prepared a list of "concerns" regarding the new legislation which Farabee is expected to address. A partial

In Brief

Three dead

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A tour bus collided head-on with a pickup truck early Saturday, killing at least three people and sending 46 others to a hospital, authorities said.

The accident occurred at about 5 a.m. on U.S. Highway 59, about 40 miles east of Laredo in the rural southwestern part of the state, according to state troopers.

Tutoring program enrolls some 220

An estimated 220 students in the Snyder school system are now receiving "extra" help with their school work — a new addition this school year implemented through House Bill 72.

As the first six-weeks of school ended, the parents of students who scored below 70 in any subject were notified of their child's failing grade.

Along with this, the parents were asked to give permission to enroll the student in the new tutoring program. Parental consent was required since the session must be conducted after regular school hours.

Regarding this, transportation for the students from school to home has to be arranged by the parents.

The tutoring sessions are conducted each Tuesday and Thursday and are underway at every Snyder campus.

Some 21 local teachers who have elected to do so are in charge of the 45-minute sessions. Under the law, only certified teachers may instruct these.

For this work, they are paid an extra $14 per session.

Salaries comprise most of the extra expense to the district. Dr. Tom Scannicchio, assistant superintendent for curriculum and the administrator charged with overseeing the program, estimated an "extra" cost outlay for the entire school year of some $15,000.

He estimated that approximately 41 students were involved in the program at Snyder Junior High; and another 44 at the high school.

At the high school level, tutoring is offered in the four major instruction areas only, math, English, social studies and science.

At the elementary level, it is estimated some 100 students are being tutored in grades 4 through 6 and some 40 in grades K-2.

The students remain in the program only for the six-weeks following the report of their failing grade.

The following schedule is being observed for these meetings: In each case, they begin either before or immediately after the regular school day.

—Grades K-2 — 2:45 until 3:30 p.m.

—Grades 4-6 — 3:45 until 4:30 p.m.

—Grades 7-12 — 7:30 until 8:15 a.m.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A gentleman's agreement is usually something neither wants to put in writing."

The 1985 World Series got cut short by a couple of games. Keeping a close eye on the action, as usual, was former SHS baseball coach Speedy Moffett.

Moffett was especially interested in the opening night ceremonies. Pat Olsen, 83, threw out the opening pitch and that event brought back a lot of memories for Speedy and his wife, Pat.

It was in 1977 that Moffett retired after a distinguished career as a high school baseball coach. At a special dinner for Moffett in Waco that year, Pat Olsen approached Moffett and asked for his home telephone number.

A few months later, Moffett received a call from Olsen who lives at Bryan-College Station where the Aggie baseball complex is named after him.

Olsen told Speedy that he wanted the Moffetts to be his guest at the 1977 World Series. Olsen made air and hotel reservations for Speedy and Pat, and the Snyder couple enjoyed some of the best seats in the stadium.

Their hotel was adjacent to Central Park and when the series moved to the West Coast, similar accomodations for the Moffetts were made by Olsen. The series was tight and moved back to New York, and Olsen again saw to it that the Moffetts were in the best seats.

Olsen called Moffett the other night after watching Detroit win in five games. Olsen himself has compiled quite a record--having attended 241 consecutive World Series games.

Congressman Phil Gramm was in Snyder Wednesday campaigning for a U.S. Senate seat. Gramm said his opponent has attempted to label him as being anti-education.

Gramm asked how he could be against education when he has spent most of his life teaching economics to Aggies at Texas A&M and the last four years teaching economics to members of congress.

"I can assure you," Gramm mused, "Teaching economics to Aggies is a piece of cake compared to congress."

CofC banquet questionnaire in this issue

A questionnaire included in this issue of the SDN asks local citizens what topic and what type speaker they would like to hear at the annual Snyder Chamber of Commerce Banquet due this spring.

Readers are asked to fill out the brief survey and to return it to the chamber. The address is Drawer CC; Snyder, Tx., 79549.

The questionnaire uses the same format as one mailed earlier to chamber members.

Under "Theme," it lists sports, humor, inspiration-motivation, current events and an "other" category.

150 give to center auction

Some 150 donors have been secured to contribute items to be auction here Nov. 3 — a Saturday — for the first-ever fund raiser to benefit the Snyder Teen Center.

The list includes both individuals and local businesses with all funds going toward the operation of the center, located at 2207 College Ave.

The facility is open to all Snyder teenagers and boasts an atmosphere free of both alcohol and drugs. Adult sponsors supervise the activities, but the center itself is operated by volunteer teen help.

The auction of donated items will begin at 11 a.m. Nov. 3. These will be on view at the center beginning at 9 a.m. that day.

Auctioneers will be Ronnie Hartman and Tommy Marricle. It is expected to last through the noon hour and barbecue sandwiches will be offered.

A baked goods auction is expected to open the bidding.

In addition, individuals who have items they would like auctioned may bring these or have them picked up by teen center volunteers.

The auctioneers have donated their consignment portion of the auction, so the center will still benefit from such sales.

For a pickup of items to be auctioned or for more information, persons should call 573-6731 or 573-2366.

Businesses and individuals donating items to the Teen Center auction include:

Christian Women's Fellowship, E.B. and Pat Dennis, Four Seasons, McKinley Plumbing Co., Bed and Bath Etc., Carlos' Imports, Bar-H-Bar Western Wear, Friendly Flower Shop, Bollinger Inc. and Permian Communications.

Also, Clark Lumber, Production Logging, Whataburger, Art Style Beauty Shop, Stephens Office Supply, Central Tire Service, Gray's Style Shop, Glover's, K-Mart Stores and Kid's Duds.

Others include Perkins Gift Shop, Purple Sage Motel, Triple-S-Discount, Tot-3-Teen, Merritt Trucking, Buddy's Auto Supply, Drydens Shoes, Landes Home Furniture, Snyder Lumber Co. and Scurry C.B. Sales.

Also, M&M Electronics, Keaton Kolor, Home Town Motors, Higginbotham Bartlett Co., Hall Drug Store, D&D Auto Supply, Eddie Peterson Pharmacy, Cox Jewelry, Bills Auto Salvage and Anthony's.

Snyder Book Store, Stinson Drug, Choice Antiques, Eckerd Drug, Express It, Nix's Auto, Wards Butane, Whites Auto Stores, Whites Testers and Anchor Service and Lota Burger are also contributing.

Also, La Casa de Blanco, Mildreds, Bennett Office Supply, Margaret's, Safeway Stores, Pool Well Service, C.A. White, Patterson Drilling,

Reagan vetoes proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's veto of amendments to the Indian Health Care Improvement Act is being criticized by an advocacy group that says the move will further erode the health of native Americans.

But Reagan contends his veto, one of four he issued Friday, will not affect the continued delivery of health care services to Indians because he recently signed a bill providing $855 million for the Indian Health Service.

Reagan said he vetoed the amendments because they contained serious duplications and flaws that would "unnecessarily and wastefully change the organization of Indian Health Service."

Suzan Harjo, executive director of the National Congress of American Indians, called the veto "an outrage."

She said Indian infant mortality is 11 percent above the national average and that tuberculosis among Indians and Alaska natives is six times higher than the national average.

Paper reports three cadets are suspended

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Three members of Texas A&M University's Corps of Cadets have been suspended for a year and a former member disciplined in the hazing death of a student cadet, the Bryan-College Station Eagle said in today's editions.

Bill Kibler, assistant director of student affairs and A&M's disciplinary hearings officer, on Friday notified the three juniors — Anthony D'Alessandro and Jason Miles, both of Houston, and Louis Fancher III of San Antonio — that they had been suspended from the university until the 1985 fall semester, according to unnamed sources quoted by the paper.

A fourth student, Gabriel Cuadra, a senior from Houston, was also disciplined, sources said, but the nature and extent of the action could not be determined, the paper said. He could have been suspended or expelled from the university.

The four students were disciplined in connection with the Aug. 30 death of 20-year-old Bruce Goodrich of Webster, N.Y. According to police reports, the three juniors rousted Goodrich and another transfer student from their beds early that day and forced them to run and do "motivational exercises."

Goodrich collapsed after about an hour, and died later that day of heatstroke. The other transfer student, police said, suffered no ill effects from the exercise.

All four students were indicted Sept. 28 on a charge of hazing, a misdemeanor under the Texas Education Code.

The three juniors were also indicted on a misdemeanor charge of criminally negligent homicide. The charge alleges they forced Goodrich to run and exercise after he showed signs of difficulty.

Court denies appeal

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A federal appeals court has rejected the latest appeal of Death Row inmate Thomas Andy Barefoot, who faces an Oct. 30 execution date for killing a Central Texas policeman.

In rejecting the former oilfield roughneck's appeal, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans said Friday that Barefoot failed to show he was denied a "federal right."

Testimony: infant improved before Jones took over care

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Month-old Rolando Santos was hungry, breathing without assistance and appeared on his way to recovery from pneumonia just hours before he started bleeding heavily and suffered a seizure, a pediatric nurse says.

Kathy McKinney, testifying Friday in the injury to a child trial of Genene Jones, said she attended Santos on many day shifts before Ms. Jones cared for him on evening shifts.

Her testimony came on the fourth day of Ms. Jones' trial on charges that the former vocational nurse injected the Santos child with an overdose of heparin. The drug, a blood-thinner, can cause excessive bleeding.

The alleged incident occurred Jan. 9, 1982, in the pediatric intensive care unit at Medical Center Hospital in San Antonio.

Ms. McKinney testified that just three hours before the infant started bleeding profusely, he was breathing and eating well.

"Would it appear this child is well on his way to getting well?" prosecutor Nick Rothe asked.

"Yes," the nurse responded.

But the infant started bleeding from a puncture point on his heel during her shift, Ms. McKinney said.

The bleeding worsened during Ms. Jones' shift, which began at 3 p.m. About three hours later, the baby's blood pressure dropped and he suffered a seizure.

The doctor on the case ordered a dosage of protamine sulfate, an antidote for heparin, Ms. McKinney said.

Under cross examination, Ms. McKinney said Ms. Jones came to work at 2:30 p.m. on the days she attended the Santos child.

"She would come in and look at him and ask me how he was doing and then go on," Ms. McKinney said.

"Did you see Genene Jones inject anything into Rolando Santos at 2:30?" defense attorney Royal Griffin asked.

"No, sir," she answered.

Ms. McKinney also testified the baby was stable on her shift both Dec. 29 and Jan. 6, two days the baby suffered life-threatening seizures while Ms. Jones was caring for him.

Ira PTA planning annual carnival

Plans are already in the works for Ira Schools' annual Halloween Carnival slated for October 27 in the old gym. Ira PTA met recently to finalize plans for the event.

A supper between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. will kick off the carnival on that Saturday night. Various booths will be in operation in the old gym from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. and the coronation (in the old gym) will take place at 9:15 p.m.

The supper menu features barbecue and all the trimmings plus hot dogs, sandwiches and desserts.

Grades kindergarten through high school will each operate a booth and the PTA will sponsor a cake walk. Most of the classes will have guessing jars for prizes to be announced during the coronation.

A costume parade will be held during the coronation for all childres ages 3 through 6th grade.

All junior high and high school boys may enter a Tootsie Contest. Prize money will be awarded to the first three winners. Each class will utilize its share of the proceeds for future projects.

Purple Sage Staff maintains high standards

To be listed in the AAA Guidebook and the Mobile Travel Guide is an honor that must be earned. The Purple Sage Motel has maintained its place in these guide gooks through the contributions of Christina Rodriquez and Lupe Torres. Christina and Lupe both work in the housekeeping department at the Purple Sage Motel.

The major portion of their job involves cleaning the guests' rooms. Some motels allocate a certain amount of time for each room to be cleaned. Art and Helen Feinsod, owners of the Purple Sage do not limit their housekeepers time. Each room will have different guests, and each room will have different cleaning requirements. The Feinsods feel that they are making an investment in guest satisfaction with the extra time Christina and Lupe take in cleaning the rooms. Christina and Lupe are professionals that take their jobs seriously. The position of housekeeper carries with it a good deal of responsibility and both these young women accept this responsibility each work day.

In the three years that Christina has been with the Purple Sage, she has dealt directly and indirectly with the guests, just as Lupe has for the past 14 months. The housekeepers are often the ones to attend to the special needs of the guests. They supply the guests with extra linens, coffee, etc. when needs arise. They make sure that each room is ready for the next guest.

Not only does each room get a daily cleaning but periodically receives a deep cleaning. Where the daily cleaning has a checklist of 31 specific areas, the deep cleaning has a checklist of 75 items. When Lupe and Christina complete these and other tasks within their jobs, they help keep up the top quality standards of the motel. All of this creates the atmosphere at the Purple Sage that has led to its reputation as a quality motel.

U. S. layoffs reach 13,000

DETROIT (AP) — They have a new contract, but more than 13,000 General Motors Corp. employees in the United States are out of work because of parts shortages induced by a strike against GM in Canada. Another 2,000 workers could be laid off soon.

No progress was reported in talks Friday to end the three-day-old walkout by 36,000 United Auto Workers members in Canada who are seeking a contract with different provisions than the one negotiated for U.S. members. Negotiators in Toronto described the situation as "extremely serious."

The layoffs were announced Friday, the same day GM Chairman Roger Smith and UAW President Owen Bieber signed a three-year contract covering 350,000 GM workers in the United States.

In Canada, talks were to continue today, but both sides were pessimistic about chances of a settlement.

Robert White, the UAW's Canadian director, met with General Motors Canada Ltd. chief negotiator Rod Andrew at the main bargaining table for two hours Friday, the first such meeting since the strike began Wednesday.

White called the session "probably the toughest negotiating meeting I've been in in 20 years. There was a real sharp exchange of where everybody is. The route that's being traveled will make a settlement absolutely impossible."

Earlier in the day, Andrew said he considered the situation "very serious, extremely serious" because the union was insisting on retaining the old system of annual wage increases, which the U.S. contract doesn't contain. He declined to comment after the meeting.

The strike forced closings or slowdowns at four locations, including three in Michigan, and workers were asked not to report on Monday "due to a shortage of parts made in Canada," GM spokesman John Mueller said Friday.

Laid off were 5,500 employees at GM's Orion Township assembly plant, 4,000 at a Cadillac plant in Detroit, 1,900 at the Willow Run assembly plant in Ypsilanti and 1,500 at a light-truck assembly plant in Moraine, Ohio, GM officials said.

Lack of enzyme causes problems

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it possible for peopleto develop an allergy to milk if they have never had an allergic reaction to it before? I am 21 and have drunk milk since I was a baby. Recently I've been getting gas and diarrhea whenever I drink milk. Also, my doctor has found sugar in my urine, but told me not to worry about it since no one in my family has diabetes. Does sugar in the urine mean one has diabetes?

DEAR READER — I suspect that you are not allergic to milk, but have lactase deficiency. A milk allergy is most often seen in children and is a response to milk protein. It can occur in adults, too, but it is far less common.

But at an early age — and sometimes not until the teenage years, or even adulthood — lactase, the enzyme in the small intestine that digests milk sugar, begins to decrease. As that condition progresses, a person's tolerance to milk decreases. Since the milk sugar (lactose) cannot be digested, it acts like a chemical laxative. It draws water into the intestine, which promotes diarrhea. And the undigested lactose is fermented by bacteria in the colon, producing gas. The result is gas with distention, diarrhea and often associated painful cramping.

As a woman, you need milk as a good source of calcium. If you cannot tolerate milk or milk products, you will need to take calcium. I have discussed this, along with ways to treat milk to avoid milk intolerance, in a new issue of The Health Letter, Special Report 25, The Milk Question, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

No, sugar in the urine does not always mean diabetes. It could mean that you simply absorbed sugar rapidly. The high level of blood glucose may spill into your urine. The only way to be sure what it means is by having blood-glucose tests done to know how high your blood-glucose level gets and how long it stays high after you have consumed glucose. You do not have to have a family history of diabetes to develop it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For many years, as soon as it turns cold, I have gotten really cold. I have to wear many clothes night and day and put many wool blankets on the bed, yet I still feel cold. If I don't do this, I become very chilled.

The doctors cannot find anything wrong with me and don't seem to know what is causing this. What would help?

DEAR READER — Feeling cold and being cold are not the same thing. The sensation of feeling cold or hot depends upon blood flow through the skin. That is where the nerve endings are that sense cold or heat. If there is a limited amount of blood flow through the skin, you will feel cold even if your body temperature is normal.

A good example is the effect of alcohol. A person feels warm after drinking alcohol because it dilates the blood vessels in the skin. He may actually lose body heat and get colder because too much heat is being lost through the skin. This is why consuming alcohol is dangerous in Arctic survival.

Repeated small amounts of exercise will raise your body thermostat and may increase the blood flow through your skin. Cigarette smoke decreases the bloodflow through the skin. Hot drinks and a hot bath will increase flow. To ease the chill problem, medicines that specifically dilate blood vessels in the skin may be prescribed. One example is Dibenzyline, and Nicobid and Roniacol may be tried.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 74 and have been told that I have a dowager's hump and lack calcium in my bones. I have pain at the back of my neck and the base of my head from ear to ear and down my upper arms. Is there any help for me? Please explain dowager's hump.

DEAR READER — Some older women have a dowager's hump — a hump in the upper spine, between the shoulders. It is also called a "buffalo hump" and is caused by degeneration of the vertebrae. The body of a vertebra is round, like a spool. It loses bone at the front part, which causes it to become wedge-shaped. Having several of these wedge-shaped vertebrae in the upper spine will curve the spine forward, producing the dowager's hump. This also results in a loss of height.

Pain may occur when degeneration of bone, and bone spurs caused from attempted repair, impinge upon nerve roots. This can cause pain along the pathway supplied by that nerve.

The bone degenerates from osteoporosis, a common problem in small women after the menopause. It is a serious disease. Many fractures — including hip fractures — are caused by weak bones from osteoporosis. Many people with a hip fracture die within six months after the fracture, and estimates of the rate are as high as 34 percent. Of course, many of these people already have a variety of serious medical problems.

The two main causes of osteoporosis are a decrease in estrogen associated with the end of the childbearing years and a lack of calcium. I have discussed these problems in a new issue of The Health Letter, Special Report 24, Osteoporosis: Porous Bones, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Your loss of bone may be able to be stopped even now if you take enough calcium, as in a quart of fortified skim milk a day, and you may even benefit from some estrogen. A proper exercise program that helps you maintain function and flexibility may also help.

DEAR DR. LAMB — If I don't sleep with my head elevated, after several hours my nose closes up and my head aches. Is this sinus-related or is it caused by little blood vessels in the nose filling up? I get along fine at home with a wedge and an extra pillow. Is there a medication I can use when away from home?

DEAR READER — Whenever the pressure inside the blood vessels increases, it increases the flow of fluids out of the circulation into the tissues and slows the normal return of fluids from the tissues to the circulation. The net result is swelling.

Pressure increases in relation to body position and the heart. If you are upright, the pressure increases at all points below the heart and decreases at all points above the heart. So during the day, the pressure in the head is decreased. But at night, when you lie down, it increases to the level of pressure near the heart. That increase does lead to swelling. You may notice this as swelling of the lining in the nasal passages, resulting in nose blockage. Your present solution of elevating your head is one of the best remedies.

For trips, your doctor may recommend a nasal inhalant that constricts the blood vessels. You could use this only in the morning to rapidly clear your nasal passages. Or you might find an inflatable pillow that you could take with you.

School uncertain whether students' suicides related

HOUSTON (AP) — Officials at a north Houston school district say they're uncertain whether two student suicides within seven days are related to six suicides among teen-agers in an affluent suburb south of the city.

"We really don't know if there is any connection," said Jerry Smith, executive director of board and community services for the Spring School District. "The concern we have is that the additional publicity may have planted the seed in some young person's mind."

Smith said Friday that district officials have begun a series of staff-training seminars following the two student deaths.

Senate race hinges on debate

AUSTIN (A) — While Democratic Senate candidate Lloyd Doggett tries to distance himself from presidential politics, opponent Phil Gramm believes his campaign in Texas will help President Reagan win state votes.

Political analysts, meanwhile, say Sunday's presidential debate between Reagan and Democratic challenger Walter Mondale could swing the pendulum for the Senate hopefuls.

Gramm has said his election will help assure the successful implementation of the president's economic program. He also has repeatedly tried to link Doggett to Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale.

Doggett, however, has tried to separate presidential politics from the Senate race.

"This contest for the United States Senate is not a battle between Walter Mondale and (House Speaker) Tip O'Neill and Ronald Reagan, as Phil would prefer," Doggett said during Thursday's debate against Gramm in Dallas.

But Gramm believes Reagan will benefit from his candidacy.

"I believe my campaign in rural West Texas and East Texas will help the president," Gramm said. "My record is intertwined with the president."

Austin political consultant George Christian said he believes Mondale must pull to within eight points in Texas for Doggett to win.

"I believe this is a year where the issues in the presidential race become issues in the Senate race and neither Senate candidate can separate themselves," he said.

Pollster Lou Harris this week said that polling after the first Reagan-Mondale debate showed Democratic recovery in the South that "could affect the Senate races in North Carolina and Texas."

He said Doggett "has all the earmarks of a survivor," but declined to predict that he would defeat Gramm.

State Democratic chairman Bob Slagle said he believes Doggett benefitted from Mondale's performance in the first presidential debate.

George Shipley, another Austin political consultant, said if Mondale makes another good showing Sunday night, Doggett also will benefit.

Recent polls show Reagan leading from 15 to 30 points. Gramm's margin is between 6 and 12 points, polls indicate.

Also Friday, several black ministers said they are suspicious of the Texas Republican Party's poll-watching plans for Nov. 6.

"It appears to be designed to restrict the freedom of franchise for minorities and all other working people in this state," the Rev. F.N. William, president of the Houston Baptist Fellowship, told a Capitol news conference..

"We will see that they stay within the limits of the law," said the Rev. James E. Obey Sr., Austin, corresponding secretary of the Missionary Baptist General Convention of Texas. His wife, Helen, is a member of the National Democratic Executive Committee from Texas.

"The purpose of our ballot security program is to insure the integrity of every Texan's vote," state GOP chairman George Strake said in reply. "We will not discourage or intimidate anyone from voting but we will insist that the voting be legal."

The black ministers, who appeared under the sponsorship of the state Mondale-Ferraro campaign, announced that Oct. 28 would be "Black Absentee Ballot Day" throughout the state.

CIA...

Mondale seeks ouster of boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Sunday's critical foreign policy debate with President Reagan drawing near, Walter F. Mondale is calling for the dismissal of CIA Director William Casey for permitting circulation of a psychological warfare manual among U.S.-backed Nicaraguan rebels.

"This has been a profound embarrassment to our country," Mondale said Friday.

Today, Mondale and Reagan planned to complete preparation for Sunday's 90-minute, nationally-televised matchup in Kansas City — the sequel to an Oct. 7 presidential debate widely perceived as a boon to Mondale's campaign.

A sparkling performance by Mondale could help him narrow Reagan's lead in the polls, but the president's camp asserted on Friday that the debate will have no impact on the outcome of the election.

"Walter Mondale has already lost," said Reagan's campaign spokesman James Lake. "The debates aren't what will make up people's minds."

"What really motivates people is the policies of the president versus the policies of Walter Mondale," who he said, is trying to "sell" the public a "bill of goods" in economic and foreign policy proposals that the voters will reject.

Lake pointed to recent polls done earlier this week for NBC and USA Today indicating that Reagan's lead is 20 points or more nationwide, virtually the same as before the first campaign debate, held in Louisville.

On Friday, a CBS-New York Times poll indicated, however, that a 26-point lead Reagan held over Mondale earlier this month had been cut in half to 13 points.

Meanwhile, a Gallup Poll completed Wednesday and released today gave Reagan a 20-point lead over Mondale.

Vice President George Bush, campaigning in Iowa, said of Reagan, "I know he will perform better" than he did in the first debate.

After waiting for five days, Mondale decided to make an issue of the CIA-financed and produced document that suggests the "selective use of violence" for the "neutralization" of local Sandinista government officials and the recruitment of criminals for "selective jobs."

At a news conference outside his Washington home, Mondale said Casey should be fired as CIA director before the Sunday debate as a step toward "restoring the strength and the credibility of that crucial agency."

The former vice president called on Reagan to personally explain whether he knew of the CIA manual, and if not, how it could put into use if top U.S. government officials were unaware of its use.

Mondale conceded that he did not know if actual terrorist actions were ordered or carried out as a result of the manual's circulation.

Mondale restated his opposition to U.S. support of the rebel effort against the left-wing Sandinistas.

"The forces in the Sandinista government are stronger than they were by far four years ago. If his (Reagan's) objective is to overthrow that government, the only way it can be done is through the introduction of U.S. combat troops."

Reagan should explain, Mondale said, "whether this administration plans to introduce U.S. combat troops ..."

Parents jailed for valid reason

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors have a valid reason for keeping a couple jailed for refusing to testify before the grand jury that indicted their teen-age son on a murder charge, a federal judge says.

U.S. District Judge Norman Black refused for a second time Friday to order the release of Bernard and Odette Port, who have been jailed since Sept. 12.

"They are being jailed for refusing to testify. That's the purpose of civil contempt," Black said during the 15-minute hearing. "I think that's what it's designed to do."

Turkey Walk set in Snyder Nov. 3

A Turkey Walk, to benefit the American Heart Association, is scheduled Nov. 3 in Snyder.

Heart Association workers are seeking participants for the 10-mile walk with all proceeds from the event going to the chairity.

Persons wishing to walk in the event are asked to get their entry forms and begin seeking pledges for each mile walked. The entry form has a section for listing pledge sponsors. The pledge forms are available at West Texas State Bank or at Snyder National Bank.

To pre-register call Bobby Beard at 573-5441 or Mickey Nunley at 573-2681. To be eligible for prizes, all pledge money must be turned in by Nov. 14. Prizes will be awarded Nov. 20.

First prize is a bicycle and second prize is a portable stereo. A walkman portable radio is third prize and a Cabbage Patch Pet is fourth prize. Other prizes include Turkey t-shirts for all elementary, junior high and high school participants with pledges of $50 or more. Also offered are food certificates and sports equipment.

All prizes are based on the amount of pldeges turned in. Top winner in the Snyder competition will compete for a state prize of a 4-day, 3-night vacation for two to Puerta Vallarta, Mexico.

The Turkey Walk begins at 9 a.m. at Snyder Junior High and will follow a route that will end at the junior high. Participants under 18 years of age must have permission from parent or guardian.

Health Views

A COMPANY'S MOST VALUABLE ASSETS ARE HEALTHY WORKERS

A full 20 percent of all compensable industrial injuries are back injuries, so it makes sense to seek to reduce costs by reducing time off. One of the ways is to make certain that a person suffering a back problem gets chiropractic treatment as soon as possible to avoid allowing the health problem to become more serious. The other is prevention. Since most back injuries are the result of negligence, here are some safety guidelines:

In industry:

- Make certain that proper lifting equipment is available and is used correctly.
- Always lift with the big muscles of the legs, arms and shoulders, NEVER with the back.
- Keep work areas clear of hazards.
- Discourage horseplay.
- Don't ever overestimate your lifting ability; strength has no bearing on safety.

In the office:

- Keep the floors clear of items that might cause someone to trip.
- Avoid stacking boxes too high.
- Seek help when moving heavy objects from desk to desk..

In any situation, whether at home, work or at play, at the first sign of back pain, see a doctor of chiropractic.

More and more union officials, such as Mr. Peter Bommarito, International President of the United Rubber Worker's Union, are negotiating contracts which include chiropractic benefits for their workers. Says Mr. Bommarito, "The purpose of the trade union movement is to help people. That is why I, as URW International President, felt an obligation to provide economic relief to our members when they seek the services of doctors of chiropractic."

CIA workers die in crash

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A plane carrying four American CIA employees on a surveillance mission in rebel territory 20 miles north of the capital crashed into a volcano during a heavy rain storm. All four Americans died.

One intelligence source in Washington said the plane, equipped with sophisticated night photography equipment, was tailing another aircraft suspected of carrying arms to leftist Salvadoran guerrillas when it crashed early Friday.

A Salvadoran military spokesman said about 1,000 government soldiers started an anti-guerrilla sweep on the northern slopes of Guazapa Volcano earlier in the week. The military has tried unsuccessfully many times during the five-year-old civil war to permanently dislodge rebels from the volcano.

The bodies of the Americans were taken to a San Salvador funeral home, but officials had not released their identities. Jim Williams, a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in San Salvador, said Salvadoran officials were investigating the crash.

Similar surveillance missions had been under way for about two months, officials said.

"The airplane was operating under a program which had been fully authorized in accordance with applicable procedures including notification to the responsible committees of the Congress," said U.S. State Department spokesman Brian Carlson.

Carlson said the plane carried four U.S. citizens who were civilian employees of the CIA.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the purpose of the mission was to "assist the government of El Salvador by warning of insurgent offensives and identification of shipments of arms and ammunition by the government of Nicaragua to the guerrillas in El Salvador."

Sexual abuse allegations...

State probes day care center

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Human Resources says it is investigating allegations that children at an Arlington day-care center may have been sexually abused by staff members at the facility, authorities said.

Ten agency staff members and an Arlington police officer arrived at the La Petite Academy at about 5 p.m. Friday to study enrollment records and talk to parents picking up their children at the year-old day-care center.

No arrests were made and state officials said there were no immediate plans to close the center, which has about 130 children enrolled.

Nancy DeWees, program director for the state's child protective service branch, told the Dallas Times Herald that five children enrolled at the school have made videotaped statements to department investigators.

She would not discuss the specific nature of the allegations but said they were serious enough to warrant telling all parents about the investigation.

"We considered the allegations serious enough to tell the parents as quickly as we could," she said.

An Arlington mother with two children at the center, who asked not to be identififed, told the Times Herald her son told her he had been regularly forced to fondle female staff members as well as other children.

"When I questioned him, he started telling me stories ... They used to wash his mouth with soap and make him swallow it. They had to take their clothes off and dance in circles ... He said all the boys and girls had to touch each others private parts," she said. "He said they had to touch their teacher's private parts."

The woman said that before she learned of the investigation, she had only one vague cause for concern — that her son would cry when he arrived at the academy each morning.

"I just thought he was making me feel guilty about going to work," she said.

State officials said the school in the Dallas suburb was not being closed nor was its license being revoked.

Ms. DeWees and other state staff members distributed business cards with 24-hour telephone numbers and asked parents to talk to their children to see if the allegations could be confirmed.

Parents, however, were split in their reaction to the news of the probe.

One father who lives across the center said his 4-year-old son has had no complaints.

"He's always been happy here. From what he's told us, everything seemed OK," he said.

On Monday morning, state investigators will begin conducting interviews with staff and former staff members at the facility and with children whose parents wish them to be interviewed.

Kaye Conway, director of the center, refused comment to reporters but said the center will be open for business.

"Yes, this place will be open. Legally we don't know where we stand. They have told me nothing. I've been fighting this for a week," she said, without elaborating.

The day-care center is part of the second largest day-care chain the country, with 385 centers nationwide, said Sally Schriner, assistant to the vice president for operations, in a telephone interview from the facility's corporate offices in Kansas City, Mo.

Veterans may obtain advice

Veterans who have been unable to meet their mortgage obligations due to layoffs or reduced employment and who need time to reinstate delinquent home mortgages may obtain valuable advise on the situation from the Veterans Administration, E. H. (Dan) Dever, Jr. Scurry County Veterans Service Officer, said.

He noted that VA representatives are participating in efforts to develop and implement plans to prevent unnecessary home loan foreclosures. This includes working with lenders to encourage forbearance and help mortgage holders become aware of the various options they have for assisting homeowners under VA regulations.

Veterans who would like more information about this subject or veterans benefits are invited to contact Dever's office in the administration building at Western Texas College. The office is open Monday through Friday and can be reached by telephone at 573-8511.

Two arrested in 'coke' seizure

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal narcotics agents say they have made the largest cocaine seizure in Texas history and arrested two men described as kingpins in an international smuggling ring.

Marion Hambrick, special agent in charge of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration's Houston office, said 1,000 pounds of cocaine and 1,200 pounds of marijuana were taken from three Houston warehouses.

Don Perry, another DEA special agent, said the cocaine has an estimated street value of $500 million, while the marijuana has an estimated value of $8 million.

STATE AND FEDERAL PRISONERS

(Source: U.S. Justice Department) NEA GRAPHIC

The jails of America are bulging. The total of federal and state prisoners has nearly doubled in a decade — to more than 450,000. Today about one of each 520 Americans is in a federal or state prison.

Callers tell of cholera signs

HOUSTON (AP) — Most of the oysters shipped to Houston-area restaurants from Louisiana have been returned after one confirmed and two suspected cases of cholera were discovered, health officials say.

Meanwhile, news of the cases has left the Houston Health Department flooded with calls from people complaining of symptoms associated with cholera, deaprtment spokeswoman Shirley Bridgewater said Friday.

Officials on Wednesday confirmed that a diner at a Houston restaurant had developed cholera, the symptoms of which include fever, vomiting, cramps and diarrhea.

Also on Wednesday, officials reported two suspected cases of cholera. The victims were hospitalized for three days and then released, said Health Department Director James Haughton said. But officials said they will not know until the middle of next week whether those cases are cholera.

City health officials barred 34 Houston restaurants from selling or serving more than 31,000 pounds of oysters, Ms. Bridgewater said. But she said health officials believe they have located all the Houston area restaurants that serve oysters harvested from American Bay.

Most of the "red-tagged" oysters have been returned to their distributors, Ms. Bridgewater said.

Two distributors — The Dutchman's Seafoods and Louisiana Foods, Inc. — received the contaminated oysters from the American Bay in the Mississippi Delta area, south of New Orleans, Ms. Bridgewater said.

The city confiscated the shellfish for testing, and samples were sent to Louisiana health officials and to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Ms. Bridgewater said tests still were not completed on samples of the shellfish banned from restaurants since the outbreak.

Meanwhile, the Health Department has been besieged by calls since the first case of the infection was reported, Ms. Bridgewater said.

On Thursday, 63 people telephoned the department reporting "classic symptoms" associated with the illness, said Director James Haughton.

The Health Department received 83 calls between Thursday and Friday afternoon from people complaining of cholera symptoms, but Ms. Bridgewater said only 11 of those had seen their doctors.

"It appears that what we've got here is a rather large outbreak of what appears to be cholera," Haughton said

Haughton said those who reported the symptoms said they had eaten oysters believed to have come from American Bay within the past five days.

Haughton said some of the oysters already tested were found to contain cholera bacteria, but officials still had not determined whether they were contaminated in the bay or during handling.

Richard Thompson, director of the shellfish sanitation control division of the Texas Department of Health at Austin, said his office was trying to trace the oyster from American Bay to Houston to determine how they became contaminated.

"It is possible that they were contaminated in the restaurants or at some other point in their handling and not in the bay at all," Thompson said.

Cholera is an acute infection of the intestinal tract that usually is caused by ingestion of water or food contaminated by human wastes. If untreated, the disease is fatal about half the time. Modern treatment limits mortality to only about one percent.

In 1777, Congress was forced to flee in the face of advancing British forces and moved to York, Pa.

Mozart's opera, "The Magic Flute," premiered in Vienna in 1791.

School trustees planning boycott

HOUSTON (AP) — Two black trustees in Houston's public schools have threatened to boycott ceremonies in Washington honoring their school board as one of the nation's best.

Trustees Herbert Melton and Elizabeth Spates on Friday said they would not attend the ceremonies because the Houston Independent School District board voted 6-3 against adopting a drug-abuse program recommended by Spates.

"Why should we go up there and be a part of the farce?" Spates said. "I'm not going to go to D.C. and pretend we're such a great board. They didn't vote the program down on me; they voted it down on the kids."

Spates said the vote was racially motivated. Other trustees said they voted against it because participation would require sending teachers and principals to a week-long seminar that begins Monday.

Other trustees said they felt they were rushing into the program.

"I'm damned if I do, and damned if I don't," said trustee Bobby Ann Peiffer. "I want all the facts."

Earlier Friday, a Houston police officer urged the board to adopt the program, saying that nearly every student in HISD, including those in kindergarten and first graders are totally uninhibited, and they really tell it like it is. And they tell of parents, uncles, aunts and baby sitters smoking marijuana and snorting cocaine in their presence. They're very aware of what drugs are," Cartwright said.

The Alcohol and Drug Abuse Education Program was designed for 15 schools, but only two would have been able to participate in the seminars Monday.

Police question trio in rich man's death

SEABROOK, Texas (AP) — Authorities have questioned three men in connection with the slaying of a millionaire businessman whose daughter was the victim of a pickax killing last year.

Investigators on Friday talked with a 16-year-old boy and two men — one 19 and the other 22 — about the death of William List, said Police Chief Bill Kerber, adding that charges were expected to be filed.

List, 57, was found dead at about 2 p.m. Thursday in his posh waterfront home in Seabrook, south of Houston, police said.

Authorities said he died apparently from a shotgun wound to his head. No weapon was found, and List's car, checkbook and credit cards were missing.

List operated a Houston trailer-truck business and was the father of 32-year-old Debra Thornton, one of two victims found slain with a pickax in a northwest Houston apartment last year.

Karla Faye Tucker, 24, was sentenced to death in the pickax killing of Jerry Lynn Dean, a 26-year-old man who was found dead with Ms. Thornton. Ms. Tucker's co-defendant, Daniel R. Garrett, 39, is charged in Ms. Thornton's death and is on trial in Houston this week.

Police picked up the three males Thursday afternoon after they tried to cash one of List's checks at a Houston convenience store, Kerber said.

Kerber said a Harris County sheriff's deputy who works as a security guard at the store became suspicious when the trio tried to cash the check.

"They also had his (List's) credit cards and his car," Kerber said.

Kerber said the two older men lived with List and police believe the killing came after an argument in which List ordered the two to leave.

Police went to List's home after his employees reported he was late for work. Officers searching the home found the beds slit open, drawers removed from the dresser and contents of the refrigerator thrown against the kitchen wall.

"The house was a mess," Kerber said.

Clayton, band to sing at center

Hoss Clayton and his western band will be entertaining in the Senior Citizens Center Tuesday morning. Their program will begin at 11 a.m. in the center's dining room.

Miniature golfers from the center will conclude their season with a tournament starting at 8:30 a.m. Thursday at Westerner Golfland. Prizes will be awarded the winners. This will be the final game of the season unless warm weather continues.

The Sunshine Choir will be singing at Snyder Oaks at 2 p.m. Friday. Everyone at the center at 11:30 a.m. Friday is invited to join in a Sing-Along in the dining room.

Thursday night the center will be open for games and an evening meal featuring chili and cornbread. Serving begins at 6 p.m. and games follow.

The center is taking orders for fresh shelled pecans from Georgetown. Halves are $4.50 per pound and jumbo pieces are $4.25 per pound. Fresh or roasted halves in decoratives tins are also available. Orders for Thanksgiving baking must be placed by Nov. 7, with delivery guaranteed by Nov. 19. Orders can be placed by calling the office at 573-4035.

Do-it-yourselfers who are putting in extra insulation to save energy, risk exposing themselves to synthetic fibers that may cause cancer. Like asbestos, modern insulation contains fibers small enough to penetrate and remain in the lungs for decades. If you plan on working with insulation, wear a protective mask to filter out these particles. You may also ask your local Department of Environmental Health about the safety of the insulation you are using.

Classic Designs

by Jeana Duke, Assoc. ASID

In the home or office design one of the common problems is creative window treatments. Many versatile fabrics and products are available today but one of the newest ideas is pleated shades. Pleated or "soft shades" are made of permanently pleated, lightweight polyester fabric. They can be used alone for a clean, contemporary look or with overdrapes for a more traditional treatment. Depending upon tastes and function, light-filtering sheer, semi-sheer, or opaque shades can be chosen in either solid colors or patterns. Pleated shades combine beauty with energy-saving insulation. When backed with a thin layer of aluminum, the fabric reflects up to 60% of the sun's rays and cuts heat loss through a single pane window by almost 50%. Pleated shades are a new and innovative solution to window design.

Take advantage of the new design ideas available at CLASSIC DESIGNS, 2502 Avenue Q. We have the latest ideas in window treatments, fabrics and furnishings. We have Levolor and Verasol pleated shades, as well as other exciting window ideas. Our business hours are Monday through Friday, 9:30 to 5:30.

To: The Voters of the 132nd Judicial District
Scurry and Borden Counties of Texas

Dear Friends:

In a few days, it will be time for the voters of the 132nd Judicial District to become involved in the democratic process and elect a new District Judge. I feel that the experience that I have had in the district court, in both civil and criminal cases, qualifies me for this position.

Upon my discharge from the U.S. Army in 1971, at the age of twenty-five, I was appointed as District Attorney of the 132nd Judicial District. I was elected in 1972 and have served in that position since that time.

I invite each of you to talk to anyone who has been involved with the judicial system, whether they are peace officers, court personnel or lawyers who practice in this district, and ask their opinion which candidate should be elected.

My family has lived and worked in Scurry County for over three generations. You should want a conservative District Judge that knows the law and can relate to all the people.

I pledge to be fair and impartial; and I will continue to maintain professional competence in the law.

For those of you that I have not personally been able to contact and ask for your vote, I would like to take this opportunity to do so. Your vote and support at the polls on November 6, 1984, will be appreciated.

Sincerely,

Pete Greene

THE PRICE OF HOME OWNERSHIP

It depends on where you live

(Source: National Association of Realtors) NEA GRAPHIC

Throughout America, the cost of living in a house varies widely. But the median price of a single-family U.S. home is now $73,300 — more than double what it was just 10 years ago.

Report says Gramm received more special interest money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Congressman Phil Gramm has gotten more "special interest money" over the last four years than any of the 435 members of the U.S. House, a self-styled public interest group says.

Another Texas congressman, Republican Tom Loeffler, votes against consumers more than any other member of Congress, Public Citizen-Texas and Congress Watch reported Friday.

Congress Watch was founded by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

The groups' report is purportedly the first to analyze the voting records of both U.S. senators from Texas and Texas members of the U.S. House during the four years of the Reagan administration.

It said Gramm, a candidate for the U.S. Senate, has received $733,000 from political action committees in the past four years. The contributions included more money from toxic and nuclear industries than any other House member last year, according to a statement accompanying the report.

And a congressional index rating on 40 "key votes" on consumer protection, taxpayer-financed subsidies, energy, environment and tax reform showed Loeffler "voted with consumers" only once out of 40 times for a 3 percent score, the report said.

Director Michael Twombley of Public Citizen-Texas said of Loeffler's 3 percent rating, "(he) has not only voted against the individual citizen, he has also voted to transfer power from the average citizen to the biggest, richest corporations.

"He has not only voted against consumer protection measures, he has also voted for the kinds of regulations that raise prices and injure consumers."

Loeffler, in a statement issued through his press secretary, Betsy Tyson, said he was proud of the low rating.

"If I am Ralph Nader's least favorite congressman, then I feel certain that I am doing a good job of representing the people of the 21st district of Texas," said Loeffler, of Hunt. "I would rather be on the bottom with (Arizona Sen.) Barry Goldwater than at the top with (Massachusetts Sen.) Ted Kennedy."

Twombly said Loeffler and Gramm had "voted to take benefits away from the poor, old and disabled people, but to spend taxpayer's money to subsidize the nuclear industry and multinational corporations."

Gramm's press secretary, Larry Neal, said, "It comes as no special surprise that this group would attack Phil Gramm in an election year in which its founder is supporting the other side."

Democratic Rep. Solomon Ortiz's 92 percent rating was the highest consumer rating for any member of Congress from Texas or the South since 1980, the report said.

Texas Reps. John Bryant and Mickey Leland each scored 75 on consumer votes, Ron Coleman had 67 and Henry Gonzalez 63. All are Democrats.

In the Senate, Democrat Lloyd Bentsen of Texas scored 20 percent on consumer issues, the report said, and Republican John Tower 18 percent. Bentsen, who was re-elected in 1982, received $800,000 in PAC contributions, compared with $269,000 for Tower, the report said.

listing of these includes:

—Implementation of the teacher career ladder concept to include its apparent exclusion of other professionals like librarians and counselors.

—Competency testing for already certified teachers.

—The redistribution of state aid, favoring counties "unable to raise (their own) tax revenues."

—The change from an elected to an appointed State Board of Education.

—The "no fail" requirement for participation in UIL activities.

—The limit on unexcused absenses (10 per school year).

—Staffing requirements to adequately implement H.B. 72.

—The lack of salary schedules for paraprofessionals and staffers in non-teaching positions.

—The cost of implementing the tutorial program requirements.

—The impact of mandating class sizes no larger than 22 in the early elementary grades.

—The cost of implementing the pre-kindergarten program in 1985-86.

—The impact of the variance in the appraised value of school district property on the distribution of state aid.

—The inadequate state funding for such teaching areas as vocational education, special education, compensatory and bilingual education.

Zoo exhibit shows Urban man naturally

MIAMI (AP) — There's a new exhibit at Miami's Metrozoo, but the beast is of the two-legged, neck-tied variety. He is Urban Man, on display for all to see, along with the giant tortoises that share his compound.

As with any zoo animal pleasing the crowd, Urban Man, also known as Spanish actor Albert Vidal, reacts to his enviroment.

"I listen to the comments and change the act according to what they say," he said. "They say, 'Go to bed, Urban Man,' so I go to bed. 'Turn on your TV, Urban Man,' so I do that."

Vidal is getting $10,000 for spending the weekend in public view in his paddock. He's making his first North American appearance after touring Europe for a year, said Lucy Pinkus, Vidal's artistic director.

"It's amazing how interested people are wherever we go to see a display of daily life, which really is what it is, nothing more, nothing less," Ms. Pinkus said Friday. "It's a kind of reality and vision."

Ms. Pinkus said zookeepers created a comfortable environment for Urban Man: an office complete with telephone and answering machine and a home with platform bed, video entertainment center and a gym.

"The Urban Man has no special nationality," said Vidal, who began his three-day stint on Friday. "It's a businessman as we can find in Tokyo, Madrid, Bombay or Miami."

His first appearance as Urban Man was at the Sixteen International Theater Festival in Spain about a year ago. Since then, Urban Man has performed in city squares and museums across the continent.

Different audiences have different expectations.

"In Spain, they are more interested in the bravery, the bravado. They are temperamental. In Switzerland, they didn't ask me to do much, they concentrated on the little gestures, and the little meanings. Being an indoor culture, they observe the different intimacies and relationships to objects."

Motorcycle rider flees after mishap

Scurry County sheriff's officers arrested two Snyder men on misdemeanor charges following a car-motorcycle accident north of Snyder at the intersection of Ave. O and Hargrove Ave. shortly before 3 p.m. Friday.

According to Department of Public Safety accident reports, Robert Escobedo of 609 ½ 30th St. sustained minor injuries when the 1978 Suzuki motorcycle he was riding was in collision with a 1973 Chevrolet driven by Rachael Bailey of Rt. 3, Snyder.

Escobedo reportedly ran from the scene of the mishap into a nearby mobile home. Sheriff's officers were called to the scene and arrested him inside the residence.

Escobedo was charged with driving while intoxicated, driving without a valid motorcycle license and driving with no liability insurance.

The owner of the residence was also arrested and charged with one misdemeanor count of harboring a fugitive.

Houston ends probe into promotion area

HOUSTON (AP) — The city's Civil Service Commission hasn't decided yet whether it will take disciplinary action against fire officials who admitted paying higher-ranking officers to retire in an attempt to ensure their own promotions.

But some of those officials told the three-member panel they didn't see anything wrong with the pay-for-promotion system.

"I felt it was the right thing to do," District Chief Anthony Calagna testified Thursday, the last day of the commission's investigaton into the payment scheme.

Calagna told the commission he paid a former Fire Department district chief $5,000 as incentive to retire in February 1981.

"I'm just a benevolent sort of person," Calagna said. "I give to the United Way and all that."

By the time the commission ended its investigation Thursday, 10 Fire Department officials had admitted to paying higher-ranking officers to retire or withdraw from a department promotion list to ensure their own promotions.

Seven officials testified Thursday to participating in the pay-for-promotion scheme.

City Attorney Jerry Smith has said he found no laws forbidding city employees to pay others to retire or withdraw their names from promotion eligibility lists.

David worried operation would be harmful to sister

HOUSTON (AP) — A 12-year-old boy born with no immunity to disease worried about his sister when he learned she would donate bone marrow for an operation intended to let him lead a normal life, his mother says.

The woman, identified only as Carol Ann, told ABC-TV's Good Morning America Thursday her son David had to be reassured that 16-year-old Katherine would not be harmed. The interview is to be aired Monday.

David, who lived in a sterile bubble almost all his life, died Feb. 22 at Texas Children's Hospital following complications that developed after he received the marrow.

His mother says David worried about his sister's safety, but "we assured him and he felt comfortable after he knew she was in no danger."

Carol Ann said immediate family members all prayed to donate the marrow, intended to jolt David's dormant immune system into action.

Three and a half months after the operation, a kind of white blood cells multiplied dangerously in the boy's system. Doctors had to remove him from his bubble, and his heart stopped 15 days later.

The boy's last name has never been released at the family's request.

"Actually, we all wanted to be the donor," Carol Ann told the news show. "We were all praying that each of us would be the donor. So when it was announced that Katherine would be the donor, she in fact did win."

David was born into a sterile environment and grew up in a series of bubbles at his home and in the hospital.

Carol Ann contradicted the hospital's report that the boy kissed his mother when he emerged for the first time from the bubble.

"Actually, I didn't touch him until right before he died," she said. She said she touched him with surgical gloves.

"I did feel the volume of his hair and I did fell the softness of his skin and that was overwhelming to me," she said. "In fact, he had called me down on it. He said I was touching him too much."

Carol Ann said she treated the boy in as normal a fashion as she could manage.

"I spent a lot of time just watching him and made sure that the things that went into the bubble were not dangerous to David," she said. "And I became tuned to every sound in the bubble. It was just watching him all the time.

"I could reach him in the bubble if he had fallen and injured himself," she said. "I couldn't run and pick him up so he had to come to me so I could hold him and wipe away the hair from his eyes and kiss the ailment through the plastic."

She added that she would spank him through the bubble "if the occasion needed a reprimand. We had to follow through with it. We knew the kind of child we wanted David to be."

She said her son's courage bolstered her own.

Commissioner makes public 5-point pesticide safety plan

AUSTIN (AP) — State regulations that could lead to the posting of "skull and crossbones" warning flags on fields sprayed with pesticides have been made public throughout Texas.

State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said Friday that Texans can no longer ignore evidence that pesticides are poisoning people, and he announced a "common sense" approach to state regulation.

After speaking at a Capitol news conference, Hightower went with deputy commissioner Ron White to carry their message to San Juan, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Lubbock, Amarillo and Wichita Falls.

But John Fisher, a spokesman for agricultural chemicals and aviation associations, said if the proposed regulations stand "someone has to" file a lawsuit challenging them.

Asked if he considered the proposed regulations a compromise, Fisher replied, "God, I would hope not."

Fisher, representing the Texas Agricultural Chemicals Association and Texas Agricultural Aviation Association, said, "I think they're on the wrong track — regulations looking for a problem."

Hightower said the basis of much of the safety plan would be "common courtesy" that many farmers already practice.

The commissioner said some Waco staffers of the Texas Farm Bureau had tried to "spread fear and hatred" about the proposed regulations but elected bureau officials such as president S.M. True Jr., a Plainview farmer, would be "in the fold."

True, however, said, "Farmers and ranchers across Texas feel the regulations are unnecessary, unreasonable and unworkable."

He said 27 other organizations, including leading commodity groups, had allied with the bureau, which has 313,568 members, in opposition to the plan.

Hightower said Texas is the second-leading user of pesticides, applying up to 450 million pounds of chemicals each year to agricultural crops.

He added that "the prudent use of chemicals is necessary to produce the massive abundance of food and fiber that we all enjoy ... But, while we hail the overall good intent and record of this vital industry, we can no longer avert our eyes from obvious evidence that people are being poisoned, too."

The safety regulations would require farmers to notify immediate neighbors before spraying fields from the air.

"You could bring in the cats, close the windows or do whatever you have to do," Hightower said.

The regulations also would set up methods for warning workers and others that a field has been sprayed. Time intervals would be established before workers could re-enter a field.

The prior-notification standards would affect only 9 million acres, or 7 percent of Texas' 138 million agricultural acres, Hightower said.

The agriculture department's overall plan calls for increased enforcement of safety regulations; better reports on how much, and what kind, of pesticides are used in Texas; and creation of a pesticide task force to make people aware of the dangers of pesticides.

The department also has appointed a special committee to deal with the problem of pesticides drifting and causing "economic or bodily harm elsewhere."

Hightower said one complaint had been that such notifications would be expensive, but he said it would cost as little as nothing — if the telephone were used — or as much as $4.16 per year if a farmer mailed post cards to four neighbors eight times a year.

He said the re-entry and warning provisions designed to go into effect on Dec. 1 would apply only to "labor-intensive" crops produced by less than 8 percent of Texas farmers.

Specifically exempted would be livestock and such crops as cotton, wheat, rice, corn, hay, peanuts, rye, safflower, sesame, sugarcane, sorghum, barley, soybeans, sugar beets, oats, sunflowers, alfalfa and guar.

The posting of warning flags to mark fields that had been treated would not cost more than $31 a year, Hightower said. Posting would be required only if workers are sent into the fields before the "re-entry," or safety, interval expires.

Farmers also would have to provide protective clothing for workers sent into a field before the safety limit had expired.

In 1986, automatic posting of warning signs would be required for fields where particularly dangerous chemicals are used. The agriculture commissioner would establish a symbol, "such as the skull and crossbones symbol, which shall be clearly visible," according to the regulations.

"We can live without them (the state regulations)," True said in a telephone interview. "We already have good federal regulations and ample protection. There's no reason for another set of regulations."

The English-speaking American settlers in Texas declared their independence in 1835, defying the Spanish government of Mexico.

Mistakes crush SHS Tigers as Lamesa powers 20-8 win

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

A handful of mistakes were all that separated Snyder and Lamesa here Friday night but unfortunately for the Ragin' Tigers, they made most of them. The result was a disappointing 20-8 loss to the Golden Tornadoes that dropped the Tigers to 1-5 for the season, 0-3 in District 2-4A ball.

The Tigers will try to regroup this week and get ready for next Friday's contest in Pecos. Lamesa, meanwhile, takes a 5-1, 2-1 record into its game with winless San Angelo Lake View.

"What we have got to do now as a football team is stay together," said a misty-eyed Coach Dennis Tomlin. "We're going to talk about the things that hurt us - the penalties and the big plays. It's not one person. It's not the offense or the defense, it's a team thing and we've got to pull through it as a team.

"Our kids want to do well, there's no question about that. We have to give them the right kind of guidance in a positive way and reinforce the things they do good. We'll go down to Pecos and play as hard as we can play," said the coach.

The turning point in Friday's game - if there was one - came early in the second half with Snyder trailing 7-0. The hosts had opened the third quarter with a good defensive stand, forcing Lamesa to punt. Momentum swung back to the visitors, however, when on the first Tiger play, Snyder fumbled and Jade Froman recovered for the Tornadoes.

The miscue turned into tragedy for the Tigers when Lamesa rebounded to drive 56 yards and score. With 7:15 left in the period, quarterback Doug Warren found Keith Bryant open in the end zone on a five-yard TD pass. Danny Gonzales gave the Tornadoes a 14-0 lead with his PAT kick.

The seven-play drive was engineered by a 19-yard run from Warren and a 16-yard run from tailback Kenneth Williams.

Snyder got a good runback from James Powell on the ensuing kickoff but Justin Webb was held to 1 yard on first down and a 10-yard penalty moments later caused the Tigers to punt. Lamesa used the change of possession to strike back quickly, and Snyder was to never recover.

After taking Jimmy Hunter's 37-yard boot at their own 30, the Tors used the running of Williams to gain a first down at the 42. Fullback Gregg Hogg broke for seven yards on the next play. Then, on a second down and three play, Warren connected up with a streaking Thad Treadwell for a 51-yard touchdown strike. Gonzales' kick-after was blocked by Juan Benitez, but with 4:13 to go in the quarter Lamesa led 20-0.

"We just had too many mistakes all at the wrong time," said Coach Tomlin. "Offensively and defensively we played a good game except for the big play and the big mistakes. We moved the ball well, but things kept happening to us. Give some credit to Lamesa. They made the big plays when they had to have them."

After a Lamesa-dominated third quarter, Snyder took over and controlled much of the fourth. But the Tigers were turned away on an apparent touchdown drive early in the period, and when they finally did score, too little time remained in the game for it to be a serious threat.

Early in the fourth period, Snyder took the ball at its own 35 and marched to the Lamesa 9-yard line before Bryant picked off a Jimmy Cain pass in the end zone and ran it all the way back. The touchdown was negated by a 15-yard penalty, but Bryant's interception effectively stopped the Tiger drive as Lamesa took over possession.

The visitors were unable to advance the ball and punted it away, setting up Snyder's only

KNOCKED BACK -- James Powell and an unidentified Ragin' Tiger teammate slam into Lamesa's Kenneth Williams in a good defensive effort. Jay Mayo, far left, comes in to add the finishing blow. Williams, who came into the game as the district's leading rusher, ran for 145 yards on 29 carries in the game. Though the 178-pound junior ran well, it was big plays and penalties that made the difference in the game as Lamesa took a 20-8 victory. Snyder, now 1-2 in district play, will travel to Pecos next Friday. See related article above. (SDN Staff Photo by Noble Young)

2-4A grid roundup

Headed for a collision course, Monahans and Sweetwater rolled through opponents Friday night while upstart Lamesa won again and Lake View lost for the sixth time this year as District 2-4A action moved past its third week.

Monahans tagged Pecos 20-7 and Sweetwater ripped Andrews 33-7 to remain the only undefeated teams in conference play. Bragging rights to No. 1 in the district come to a head next Friday, however, when the two Mustang teams clash in Sweetwater.

Meanwhile, Lamesa, 2-8 a year ago, insured itself of a .500 season by topping Snyder 20-8 in Snyder.

The Tornadoes are 5-1 already in 1984, 2-1 in district play. Undoubtedly, they'll be favored to grab their sixth victory next week when they entertain winless San Angelo Lake View.

Lake View was a 14-7 victim of Fort Stockton. The Panthers also improved to 5-1 on the season and 2-1 in conference play with the win.

In addition to the Mustang-Mustang and Lake View at Lamesa games, Snyder searches for its first district win next week at Pecos while Fort Stockton entertains Andrews.

GAIL -- Ira's Bulldogs did what they had to do here Friday night, beat Borden County to stay alive in the playoff hunt of District 4-1A South Zone ball.

"We had to win the game and that's how we approached it. We were tickled to death with the effort," said Ira Coach Mitch Lee, whose Bulldogs put up 24-fourth quarter points to stop the previously unbeaten Coyotes 38-12.

Borden County had come from behind to take a 12-8 lead into halftime, but most of the second half belonged to the Bulldogs.

"We made a few adjustments in the second half and were able to run our sweeps. When we did that it opened up the middle and then we were able to throw the ball and kind of hit them from several different angles," said Coach Lee. "Borden County has a good, physical ball team but I think our depth wore them down a little late in the ballgame."

Ira overcame the halftime deficit when Bruce Strickland scored on a 1-yard run with 5:56 to go in the third quarter. The kick-after failed, but Ira was ahead 14-12.

Three fourth-quarter scores put the game away. Strickland tallied again with 9:38 to play on a 38 yard run. His kick-after made it 22-12. Then, with 7:51 left, Brent Bearden snared a 31-yard TD pass from Jay Clark. Strickland again tacked up the points-after.

The game's final touchdown came on a 24-yard run by Darren Hughes. Strickland kicked the conversion again.

"I felt like a key to the second half came when Borden County was driving the ball on us in the third quarter and they fumbled," noted Lee. "We were able to take the ball and march back for a score."

Ira got 293 yards rushing and another 100 passing. Strickland led the ground game with 19 carries for 141 yards. Hughes complimented with 133 yards on 18 carries. Steve Denson added 19 yards on three tries.

Borden County had scored first on a 1-yard dive by Chris Cooley in the opening quarter. The kick-after try was no good.

Ira came back to take the lead on a 1-yard run by Strickland, who also added the two-point conversion kick.

Momentum swung back to the Coyotes, however, when Cooley took the ensuing kickoff back 75 yards to score. The kick-after failed.

Defensively for Ira, Strickland had 16 tackles and one interception. Reyez Juarez made nine tackles, Lloyd Goswick eight and Barry Ezra six.

The win puts the Bulldogs at 4-1-1 on the season, 1-1 in zone play with two games left. Ira entertains Grady next Friday.

For Borden, 5-1-1 and 1-1, the loss puts them in a must-win situation when they host Highland next Friday. A win could throw the district into a three-way tie for first, but a loss would all but eliminate the Coyotes from a chance at the playoffs.

4-1A grid roundup

Ira's Bulldogs made the District 4-1A South Zone a little more interesting Friday night. The question is, can Borden County do the same next week?

In a do-or-die situation, Ira came through to tag rival Borden County 38-12 Friday night and stay afloat in the South Zone race. However, whatever pressure the Bulldogs took off themselves was placed directly on the shoulders of Borden County, which now faces a similar "must-win" situation. To keep alive in the playoff hunt, the Coyotes must defeat two-time defending state champion Highland next Friday. If Coach Duke Frisbie's bunch could pull off the upset, it would throw the zone race into a three-way tie, presuming Ira wins its ballgame also, of course.

In the only other zone game played Friday, Grady stung McCaulley, 42-26. The Wildcats, who were idle last week, are 1-0 in zone play, but have yet to face Ira, Highland or Borden County. McCaulley slipped to 0-2 with the loss.

In addition to the Highland-Borden game on Oct. 26, Grady visits Ira. McCaulley is open.

Coyote Coach...

Frisbie praises grid effort

GAIL -- Coach Duke Frisbie was making no excuses about Borden County's 38-12 loss to Ira here Friday.

"We got beat by a better ballclub," said the coach, whose Coyotes are now 1-1 in zone play and must host two-time defending state champion Highland next Friday. "We're not unhappy, but disappointed. We played good football. No one got injured."

Frisbie pointed to three "bad mistakes" that made a difference in the game.

"They intercepted the ball on our end of the field to set up their first touchdown," he said. "We fumbled on their 6-yard line once, and we downed a kickoff deep in our territory."

Ira also scored after the fumble recovery - a fact which Ira Coach Mitch Lee had said seemed to turn the game around for the Bulldogs in the third quarter. Ira went on to score three fourth-period touchdowns.

"I was very pleased with the effort. We didn't always follow our assignments, but it was mainly because the kids were trying so hard in an all-out attempt to win. We have a good group of young men that gave a good effort," said Frisbie. "We didn't give up."

The loss was the Coyotes' first of the season and brings their record to 5-1-1 overall.

Tigers

score of the game. In gear at their own 41, the Tigers marched 59 yards in eight plays to score. Powell took Cain's pitch-right and went over from six yards out with 2:46 left to play in the game. Thompson carried in the two-point conversion on a pitch to the left side.

The drive was helped along on catches of 9 and 16 yards by tight end Kyle Freeman from quarterbacks Mike McWilliams and Cain. Webb carried for 10 yards on the march while Thompson ran for 11 and Powell for 7.

Snyder had opened the game with a show of strength which faded at the Lamesa 4-yard line. The Tigers marched 65 yards with Webb picking up 36 of the steps. Runs of 9, 8 and 7 by Powell and a 9-yard pass from Cain to Willie Greathouse provided the rest as Snyder advanced to the 4. Lamesa's defense got tough at that point. Cain and Powell were both stopped for no gain on first and second down, and Danny Gonzales broke up a Cain pass on third.

Forced with fourth and goal, Snyder lined up Thompson for a 22-yard field goal effort. The try was thwarted when Gonzales broke through to block it.

Except for Lamesa's touchdown, the rest of the half was highlighted by big plays which went for naught. After Snyder's unsuccessful opening drive, Lamesa went to work. The fired-up Ragin' Tiger defense stopped Williams for no gain on his first and second carries, but a personal foul penalty gave the visitors a first down at the 27. Williams followed by breaking up the middle for 41 yards on the next play. Safety Greathouse made a diving effort to trip up the runner at the Snyder 32 and save a would-be touchdown. The senior ballplayer then came up with another stellar defensive effort as he intercepted Warren on the next play to stop Lamesa's drive.

Lamesa was able to score on its next try, however. It appeared at first as if the Tors were going nowhere when Trey Tippens pulled down Williams in the backfield for a 1-yard loss at the Snyder 44. But Warren came out throwing on the next play and hit Gonzales on a 19-yard strike to the 25. A five-yard gain by Williams, plus another personal foul penalty, put the ball on the Tiger 5. Williams carried to the 1-yard line on the next play, then scored from there as time ran out in the quarter. Gonzales tacked on the PAT kick.

The big plays continued in the second quarter. Snyder muffed the kickoff and Lamesa's Artie Aguilar recovered at the Tiger 34. Snyder rose above the mistake this time when Jay Mayo intercepted a Warren pass at the 2-yard line.

A roughing the kicker penalty helped Snyder get out from near the end line and runs of 10 and 8 yards by Webb put Snyder at the 32. Powell picked up 8 yards on the next play but once again the Tigers were flagged for a major penalty and the drive died.

In one other key series of note late in the half, Snyder overcame a controversial interference penalty to stop Lamesa on a fourth down and one situation at the Tigers 12-yard line. Freeman made the stopper, pulling Williams down for a two-yard loss.

The Tigers responded by driving all the way to the Lamesa 19-yard line before Gonzales oskied a Cain pass at the 17. The futile drive had gone for 67 yards and was highlighted by a 37-yard Cain-to-Powell pass.

The loss overshadowed an otherwise fine night for Snyder runners. Webb picked up 107 yards on 28 carries while Powell had 50 yards on 10 tries and Thompson had 25 on four.

Lamesa's Williams came into the game as the district's leading rusher and exited in equal form as he ran for 145 on 29 totes.

Tony Dorsett of the Dallas Cowboys set an NCAA major college football record by scoring 356 points during his four years at the University of Pittsburgh. From 1973 to 1976, Dorsett made 59 touchdowns and added two extra points.

Hogeboom, Todd to start game but may not finish

IRVING, Texas (AP) - When New Orleans plays in Texas Stadium Sunday night against Dallas, the quarterbacks will be Richard Todd for the Saints and Gary Hogeboom for the Cowboys - at least to start with.

New Orleans coach Bum Phillips said he won't be so quick this week to replace Todd with Kenny Stabler if the Saints start poorly, but Dallas coach Tom Landry said Danny White might get a call to bale out Hogeboom sooner than in the last two games.

Phillips said it was a terrible decision on his part to alternate Todd and Stabler last week, when the Saints started off well but floundered in a 28-10 loss to the Los Angeles Rams.

Todd will start against the Cowboys and be given a chance to get something going, Phillips said. But he added, "I would not hesitate to make a change if the situation called for it."

The same goes for Landry.

He said Hogeboom, who was given the starting job at the end of pre-season training, could be given the hook for the more experienced White.

"I might go to Danny a lot quicker in this game than I have in the past," Landry said.

Both teams have struggling offenses and have suffered back-to-back losses. They meet Sunday night in a National Football League game that will be nationally televised after the presidential debate.

The kickoff is set for 8:45 p.m. CST to accommodate ABC. That's 45 minutes later than originally scheduled.

The 4-3 Cowboys were six-point favorites over the 3-4 Saints, who are 1-10 against Dallas and 0-4 in

Cowboys

Texas Stadium.

New Orleans hasn't defeated Dallas since 1971 - ironically, the year the Cowboys marched to their first Super Bowl championship.

After White failed to get the Cowboys into the Super Bowl for three straight seasons, Landry opened the season with the strong-armed Hogeboom. But the Cowboys have had offensive growing pains thus far.

Dallas running back Tony Dorsett hasn't rushed for 100 yards in his last 10 games dating back to the 1983 season.

New Orleans has also had running problems.

The Saints obtained runningback Earl Campbell from the Houston Oilers earlier this month, and he joined the team for the Los Angeles game but gained only 19 yards on five carries. George Rogers, like Campbell a former Heisman Trophy winner, had 11 yards on five carries.

Campbell owns the second highest single game rushing performance ever against the Cowboys, a 195-yard effort in 1979.

Miami looks for 8th win; 49ers regrouping

by The Associated Press

After losing their first game of the National Football League season last week, the San Francisco 49ers hope to get back on the track Sunday. The Miami Dolphins and Washington Redskins, meanwhile, will try to keep rolling.

The 49ers, beaten 20-17 by Pittsburgh last Sunday after six straight victories, would seem to have the easiest task of the three NFL powerhouses in facing the winless Houston Oilers, 0-7.

It's the 7-0 Dolphins and the 5-2 Redskins, who have won five straight games, who will have their work cut out for them. The Dolphins play the New England Patriots and the Redskins the St. Louis Cardinals, both on the road.

A victory for the Cardinals, tied for second place in the National Football Conference East at 4-3 with Dallas and the New York Giants, would put them even with the Redskins atop the division. A victory for the Patriots, 5-2, would move them within a game of the Dolphins in the American Football Conference East.

In other NFL games Sunday, Chicago is at Tampa Bay, Cleveland is at Cincinnati, Denver is at Buffalo, Detroit is at Minnesota, the Giants are at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh is at Indianapolis, Seattle plays Green Bay at Milwaukee, Kansas City is at the New York Jets, the Los Angeles Raiders are at San Diego and New Orleans is at Dallas in a night game. The Los Angeles Rams play at Atlanta Monday night.

San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh said he's wary of Houston, a 28-10 loser at Miami last week. The Oilers have allowed the most yardage and the most points in the NFL and have gained the least yardage and scored the fewest points, but "they've been improving and improving and seem right on the verge of breaking through."

The Dolphins, who beat the Patriots 28-7 at Miami this season, lead the AFC East by two games over New England and the Jets. But as successful as they've been against the Patriots at Miami - 17 straight victories dating back to 1966 - they've been as bad at Foxboro, losing seven of their last eight there.

"I don't need to be reminded that we haven't done too well up there lately," Dolphins Coach Don Shula said.

Cardinals Coach Jim Hanifan said he wasn't "concerned about the emotional aspect" of the game with the Redskins. "The big thing is to know what you're supposed to do and then go out and do it."

The Cards gave up 83 points in two losses to the Redskins last season.

The Bears, 4-3, are coming off a 38-21 drubbing by the Cards. The Bucs, 3-4, lost their shot at tying the Bears for first place in the NFC Central when they lost a 13-7 overtime decision to Detroit.

"If we don't play any better than we did Sunday, we will get waxed badly," Bucs Coach John McKay said.

The Raiders-Chargers game is a rematch of a Monday night game three weeks ago that the Raiders won 33-30, coming from 10 points down in the last seven minutes on two drives engineered by quarterback Jim Plunkett. Plunkett is on injured reserve now, and Marc Wilson will take his place for the Raiders, 6-1.

Philadelphia, 3-4, is seeking its first three-game winning streak since 1981, in its game against the Giants. "This game means a lot to us," Eagles Coach Marion Campbell said. "It's a division rival and we can pull our record to 4-4."

The Giants, 4-3 and still in contention for the NFC East title, are "kind of like a roller coaster," Coach Bill Parcells said. "Some games we're consistent; some games we're not."

The Jets and Kansas City are facing each other for the second time in three weeks. But this time the Chiefs will have veteran quarterback Bill Kenney, who will be making his first start of the season after recovering from a broken right thumb.

Hagler pounds out third-round victory

NEW YORK (AP) - Marvin Hagler came to the Big Apple for the first time and found it delicious.

The undisputed middleweight champion destroyed Mustafa Hamsho Friday night, knocking him down twice in the third round before the challenger's trainer jumped into the ring to end the fight. Hamsho lasted two rounds and 2:31 of the third in his second try at Hagler's title - the Syrian left-hander was stopped by cuts in the 11th round on Oct. 3, 1981.

For Hagler, it was a dynamic debut in New York.

"It's the highlight of my career, right here at Madison Square Garden," said Hagler, 30, who now can turn his attention to a big-money bout with World Boxing Council super welterweight champ Thomas Hearns. "All right. It's great to conquer the Big Apple.

"All the greats - LaMotta, Sugar Ray Robinson, my idol Floyd Patterson, Ali, Frazier, Emile Griffith, Jersey Joe Walcott - fought here. For me to be in the same place where it all started ... I'm glad I defended mine here."

Hagler was just too good for Hamsho, who disturbed Hagler in the first round by attempting to butt the champion. From then on, Hagler pressured Hamsho before catching him with a left-right near the ropes that drove Hamsho back and to the canvas. Hamsho got up but Hagler methodically continued his assault and, after a warning from referee Arthur Mercante about pushing Hamsho, he finished off the top-ranked contender with a monstrous right to the jaw.

Al Certo, Hamsho's trainer, leaped into the ring to stop the fight before Mercante could begin a count.

"Hagler is a great champion, a great fighter," admitted Hamsho, now 38-3-2.

Hagler, now at 60-2-2 with 50 knockouts.

Prior to Hagler's sensational performance, Mike McCallum was devastating as he picked apart Sean Mannion for a unanimous 15-round decision for the vacant World Boxing Association junior middleweight crown. The 26-year-old McCallum, 153¾, won at least 13 rounds on the cards of all three judges. The native of Jamaica, now living in New York, is 22-0 with 19 knockouts and succeeds Roberto Duran as champion.

Mannion, from Ireland but now living in Dorcester, Mass., is 29-6-1. He was ranked No. 2.

Steve McCrory, the Olympic gold medalist at 112 pounds, stopped Jeff Hannah of Indianapolis 33 seconds into the fourth round in his pro debut. McCrory, of Detroit, was in complete command throughout the bout.

Sutcliffe files for free agency Friday

NEW YORK (AP) - Saying it was just a procedural step, Rick Sutcliffe, the ace of the Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, filed for free agency Friday.

Sutcliffe, who was 16-1 with the National League East champions, joins Andre Thornton of the Cleeveland Indians as an available Type A player, according to the Major League Baseball Player Relations Committee.

Teams losing a Type A free agent are entitled to a pick in the June amateur draft as well as a selection from the compensation pool made up of players left unprotected on major league rosters.

Besides Sutcliffe, other players filing for free agency Friday were utilityman Danny Meyer of Oakland, and outfielders Champ Summers of San Diego, Ruppert Jones of Detroit and Jim Wohlford of Montreal.

Other Type A players, based on a combination of criteria, who are eligible to become free agents, are Bruce Sutter of St. Louis, Fred Lynn of California, Dan Driessen of Montreal, Jim Gantner of Milwaukee and Cliff Johnson of Toronto. Steve Henderson of Seattle was ranked Type B.

Sutcliffe "intends to continue negotiations with the Cubs, if necessary, until and following the re-entry draft should his rights be retained by the Cubs," said the player's agent, Barry Axelrod, in a prepared statement.

The men's rodeo team currently has three athletes who could finish well while the women's team has one. However, a number of WTC performers were still in action Saturday.

Donnie Yorks is placing third in the steer wrestling with a time of 5.3.

In other results, Bliss Mayhan is in fourth in the bareback with a 62 and Van Hale is in fourth in the saddle bronc with a 58.

Niki Moist is currently fifth in the barrel race with a time of 18.2.

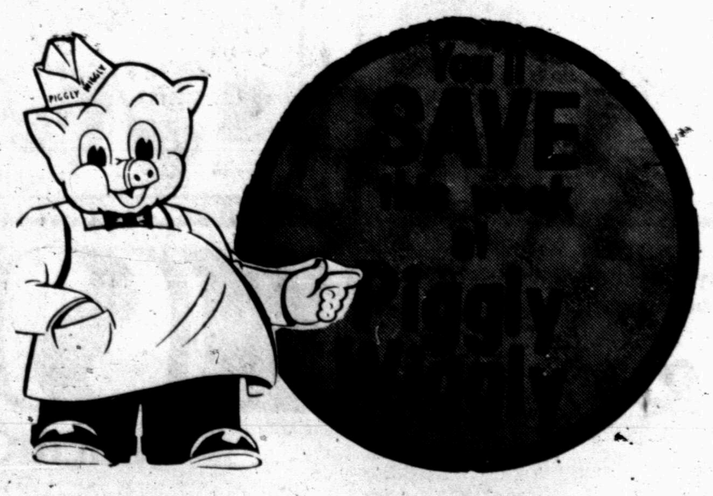

"It rained about an inch and a half last night (Friday) so Niki's time in the barrels will probably hold up," said Coach Bob Doty. "It won't bother the stock events as much."

Other WTC team members still to go Saturday included Yorks in calf roping, Tony Hecksher in bareback, Gary Rowe in calf roping and steer wrestling, Canita Cass in the barrels and breakaway roping and Judy Cox in the barrels, goat tying and breakaway roping.

Others WTC students competing, but not on the designated six-member men's team, are Jason Phillips in the bull riding and Ben Reynolds in calf roping.

"The stock is pretty weak all the way around and we got the weak end of it," said Doty. "We have a chance to do pretty well, but we'd have to do everything just right."

Scurry County Folks...

By Vicki Brown SDN Society Editor

"I don't really know why I started. I don't even have any daughters, but I find this hobby fascinating and intriguing."

Ruth Shaw began collecting dolls about three years ago for no reason other than she wanted to do something different.

She doesn't collect just any doll, but tends to take those which need a little tender loving care — those that need restoration. "When I restore a doll, I am able to use the other skills I love — sewing, painting, crocheting and knitting," she said.

Shaw estimates that she has restored between 400 and 500 dolls, not only for herself, but also for antique dealers and private individuals who seek her assistance.

She could be described as a "doll surgeon," carefully replacing a broken arm or leg, rebuilding a missing nose or repairing cracks in tiny faces. She even reconstructed a doll around a small head about the size of a large marble that Enid Turner found and gave to her.

Always careful to redo the dolls according to the period in which they were made, Shaw creates the clothing herself. "I usually don't use a pattern," she explained. "I get ideas from books and make my own designs."

Shaw likes to set up doll displays for her visitors and customers. One of her most interesting is a doll string band composed of six dolls "playing" stringed instuments that actually do play. A 1930 Madame Alexander "Pussycat" doll is seated at a child's piano that Shaw purchased from a department store and that Willard Ervin overhauled to resemble an antique upright. Ed Shrum of Big Spring made two miniature fiddles and a bass held by three other dolls. Her Madame Alexander "Puddin" doll plays a small tin fiddle. A wooden music stand, made by Ervin, complete with sheet music enhances the effect.

"As soon as Mr. Ervin is finished making it, I'll add a harp to the ensemble," Shaw explained. "Reuben Whitfill made the chairs the dolls are sitting in for me."

Currently, she is working on an "Old Woman Who Lived in the Shoe" display. "I enjoy setting up displays so that those who come by can see what I do," Shaw said.

She likes to point out some of the foreign dolls in her collection including a 150-year-old German Heinrich Handwerck doll with a leather body, a French Jumeau doll, a German Bue and a Bonnie Prince Charles doll.

Shaw also owns a German "Poutie" made in the 1950's. Only 1000 of these were made. When she purchased it, only the head, hands and feet were available.

Several dolls actually belong to her granddaughters who, she said "have become interested in other things besides dolls. Someday they will want them returned and I'll have them ready."

Of course, she also collects American dolls. Several Tony and Chattie Cathy dolls, a Shirley Temple doll and one of the second types of Barbie dolls made take places of honor among her collection. One small doll was purchased by her daughter-in-law's grandmother for 25 cents from the Colgate-Palmolive Company through an offer on a box of Fab detergent.

She also owns an original Xavier Roberts Cabbage Patch doll signed on its foot and bottom.

Born in Henrietta, Shaw has one son, Hal Snider of Senora. Her husband, Bud, was born and raised in Scurry County.

A MUSICAL DISPLAY — Ruth Shaw (on the left) likes to display some of her dolls for her customers to see. The members of her musical group include (left to right) a Madame Alexander "Puddin" doll made in the 1940's, an American Character doll from the late 1920's, two Vogue dolls that date in the 1930's, a Madame Alexander "Pussycat" doll from the 1930's and another Vogue doll. VFW ladies plan supper

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 8231 will have an old-fashioned box supper auction on Friday, Oct. 26 at 7 p.m. in the Post Home. Each woman will prepare a box supper to be auctioned with the proceeds to benefit the auxiliary cancer aid and research program.

V.L. Buchanan, commander, and Kenneth Minyard, vice commander, will serve as auctioneers.

Double ring ceremony unites Hessler, Dickey

Shirley Elizabeth Hessler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Hessler of Snyder, became the bride of Jerry Glenn Dickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dickey, also of Snyder, on Aug. 25 in First United Methodist Church. Rev. C.L. Minton officiated the evening double ring ceremony.

The couple chose the music played by organist Lional Rickie and sung by Sharon Applin.

Scott Dickey, cousin of the groom, lit the candles; Albert Cannon and Kenny Woods served as ushers; Troy Hall was in charge of the lighting; and Perry Westmoreland served as photographer.

During the ceremony, the pastor read a prayer poem given to the couple by Keith and Rayne Davis. Applin sang "Stuck on You" as though the groom was singing it to the bride. The bride sang "Hello" to the groom. Applin sang "The Wedding Song" while the couple lit the memory candle.

Given in marriage by Baron Land, the bride wore a white taffeta gown with a fitted bodice that featured Venice lace appliques accented with pearls and sequins. The Victorian sleeves, which can be wore on- or off-the-shoulder, were also adorned with matching Venice lace appliques. The full skirt fell into a cathedral train and was trimmed with Venice lace. The veil was attached to a fitted cap adorned with lace and pearls.

The bride borrowed her mother's heart-shaped diamond necklace and her dress served as something new.

Isbell Allen was the matron of honor with Rhonda Gordon, Diana Martin, D'Ann Hollis and Janice Dickey, the groom's sister, as bridesmaids. They wore long, baby blue silk dresses with lace at the neckline and on the sleeves. Baby's breath graced their hair.

Flower girl Beth Murray wore a baby blue, long satin dress designed like those of the bridesmaids. Wearing baby's breath and streamers in her hair, she carried a basket of baby blue petals.

Dressed in baby blue tuxedos and lace shirts, Tommy Guynes served as best man and Kyle Cox, Bobby Hataway, Bradly Newman, the groom's nephew, and Ronnie Clawson were groomsmen. The groom was attired in a white tuxedo and a lace shirt.

Ring bearer Dru Murray wore a light blue suit and carried the rings on a heart-shaped satin pillow.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Newmon, sister and brother-in-law of the groom.

A large arrangement of baby blue and white flowers centered the table. The cake made by Bonnie Carrol was mounted on a waterfall. Nuts, punch and mints were also served.

Millie Costillo registered guests in the bride's book at an antique table borrowed from Geradine Hollis and an antique chair borrowed from the bride's mother. Out-of-town guests registered from Austin, Irving, Sweetwater and Eastland.

For their honeymoon to Colorado Springs, Col., the bride wore a lilac and white dress and the groom was attired in dress slacks and a shirt.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner in their home on Aug. 23.

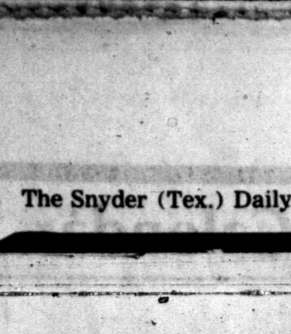

Currently attending paramedic school, the bride is employed by Aid Ambulance Service.

Employed part-time by Aid Ambulance Service, the groom works for the Snyder Fire Department and is also attending paramedic school.

Bride from Roscoe...

Bollinger, Lund wed in San Angelo

SAN ANGELO — Judy Bollinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorwin Bollinger of Roscoe, and Neil Lund exchanged wedding vows at 7 p.m. on Oct. 5 in Lake View Christian Church.

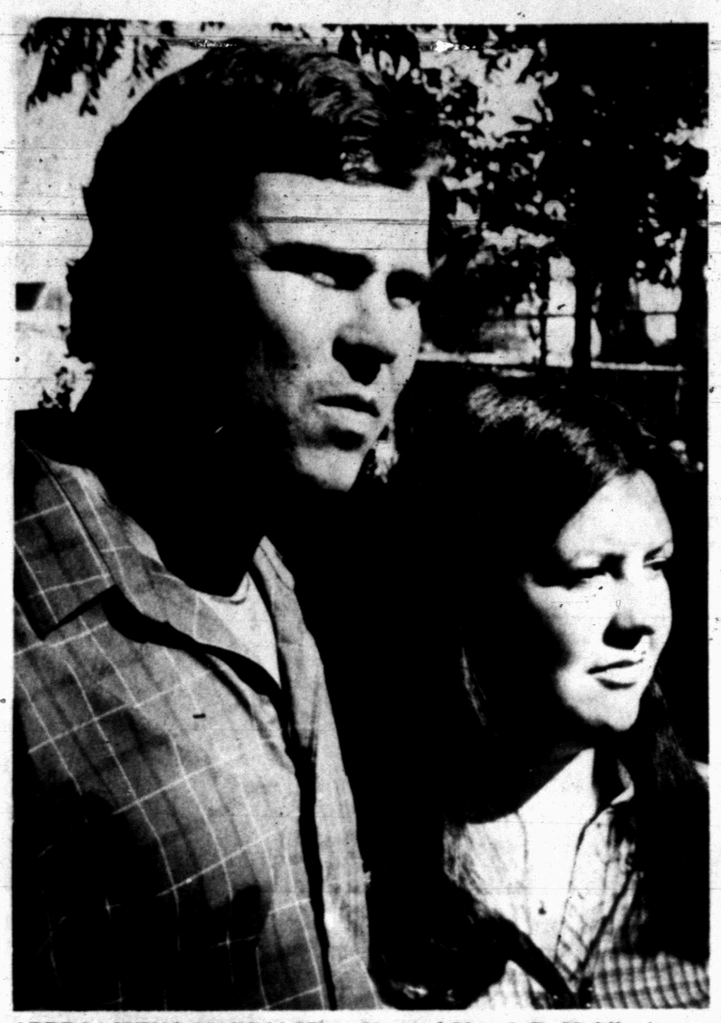

A gold arch and a bouquet of pink and white roses with ferns and candles decorated the altar.

The bride, in an organza over satin, white, street-length dress, entered with her father to the "Wedding March." Ellen McDonald sang "We've Only Just Begun."

Alan Peterson served as best man with Sharon Peterson as matron of honor. Teresa Lund, the groom's daughter, was ring bearer.

The bride's parents hosted a reception in the church's fellowship hall. Decorated with the altar bouquet and candles, the bride's table held the cake and punch. The groom's table held the bridal bouquet, candles, chocolate cake and coffee. Linda Killian, Sue Smith and Amy Bollinger, the bride's sisters, and Teresa Lund served.

A graduate of Hermleigh High School and Angelo State University, the bride is employed by the state. The groom also works for the state.

APPROACHING MARRIAGE — Mr. and Mrs. L.R. Muhlinghause of Azle announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Tina Kae, to Joe Earl Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Turner of Fluvanna. The ceremony will take place on Dec. 1 in Casa Linda United Methodist Church in Dallas. (Family Photo)

Cookbooks
I reported in a recent column that our "Calf Fries to Caviar" cookbooks were in - SORRY - the bill was, the books weren't! But now the books are here, so come on in and get a copy - makes a great gift for the cookbook collector or the serious cook.

Hoops
Straight from Betsy's Bobbins, fabric art that lends itself to that country look that has been sweeping the nation these past few years. Friends, welcome, apple pie, geese, etc. all appliqued on pretty print fabric. A lovely gift for a country friend.

Quotes and Questions
Questions and comments are always welcome concerning our business or services. Just give us a call or drop us a card. I will try to answer important questions in this column as space permits.

James Avery
Christmas is upon us, especially if we need to special order merchandise. At this point we can still get most James Avery items by Christmas, but don't wait long, time is running out.

Congratulations

Paving the way

It was the bicycle that gave pavements to the autos. Henry Ford was still a machinist's apprentice in Detroit when the powerful League of American Wheelmen, one of the nation's first bicycling organizations, began to ask Congress for paved roads.

TOMATO SAUCE

¼ cup olive oil
1 small (2 ounces) onion, finely chopped (¼ cup)
35-ounce can peeled plum tomatoes with basil, undrained
6-ounce can tomato paste
2 cloves garlic, minced
Several large sprigs parsley, minced
½ teaspoon dried crushed basil
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

In a 5-quart saucepot in the hot oil gently cook onion, stirring often, until golden. Stir in tomatoes, tomato paste, garlic, parsley, basil, salt and pepper; bring to a boil; simmer, covered, until fairly thick — about 1 hour. Serve over spaghetti or other pasta; pass grated Parmesan cheese. Makes about 1 quart.

MAORI ART FROM NEW ZEALAND

NEW YORK (AP) — An Exhibition of 174 works of traditional art created by the Maori people of New Zealand is on view at the Metropolitan Museum of Art through Jan. 6, 1985.

The exhibition, "Te Maori: Maori Art From New Zealand Collections," marks the first time the Maori people have allowed their treasures to journey abroad. Although a great deal of Maori art is in the care of the New Zealand museums, it remains the property of the Maori tribes, who venerate thesobjects as the spiritual dwelling place of ancestral powers.

WHAT DO THE MAJOR POLITICAL PARTIES OF OUR NATION BELIEVE?

Democratic Party: | Issue: | Republican Party

Hiring Quotas
Democratic Party: The Democratic Party supports Federal laws requiring "Hiring Quotas" and "Promotion Quotas" in business, industry, and government, believing that it is the way to eliminate discrimination in employment.
Issue: The Federal government has enacted laws which control the hiring and promoting of employees by business, industry, and government based on gender, race, religion, national origin and age. These laws are referred to as "Hiring Quotas" and "Promotion Quotas" and it is another attempt by the Federal government to eliminate discrimination in employment.
Republican Party: The Republican Party believes that one of the great attributes of the United States is the freedom of its people to aspire and to achieve based on INDIVIDUAL ABILITY. Whereas, discrimination on the basis of race, gender, religion, national origin, or age is correctly forbidden by law in the United States, therefore, the Republican Party opposes any system of quotas alloting employment and/or promotion on any basis other than personal competence, qualification and performance.

Welfare
Democratic Party: The Democratic Party opposes the proposed "WORKFARE" idea as part of our governments welfare program.
Issue: In an attempt to reform our nations welfare program, should "WORKFARE" ... a program providing able bodied welfare recipients a means to WORK for their government assistance ... become part of our nations welfare program?
Republican Party: The Republican Party supports the WORKFARE" idea providing the able bodied recipient a means of earning his or her government assistance as an alternative to the current governmental "give away" programs that encourage laziness, promote dependency, and foster generations of non-workers.

Abortion
Democratic Party: The Democratic Party supports the 1973 Supreme Court decision which legalized abortion on demand. The Democratic Party supports the funding of abortions with taxpayers dollars. The Democratic party opposes a constitutional amendment which would protect the "Right To Life" of unborn children on the basis that this amendment would violate a woman's "Right-to-Choice."
Issue: Abortion is the induced termination of a pregnancy resulting in the death of the premature developing child. The Supreme Court decision of 1973 not only legalized "abortion on demand" but also has resulted in the use of taxpayers dollars to fund thousands of abortions each year.
Republican Party: The Republican Party supports the passage of a constitutional amendment that would restore protection of the "Right-to-Life" for an unborn child. The Republican Party opposes the use of tax payer dollars to fund abortions.

Homosexuals
Democratic Party: The Democratic Party supports Homosexuals, Gays and Lesbians in their effort to attain the legal status of "minority group."
Issue: Should homosexuals be granted minority status - should homosexuals receive special legal entitlements and privileges based upon their sexual orientation?
Republican Party: The Republican Party believes that Homosexuality is a perversion of the natural law and opposes the granting of special legal entitlements or privileges based upon their sexual deviancy.

Prayer
Democratic Party: The Democratic Party believes the first amendment to the constitution called "Separation of Church and State" thus the Democratic Party supports the 1963 Supreme Court decision which outlawed voluntary silent prayer in our public schools.
Issue: Should voluntary, silent prayer be allowed in our public schools?
Republican Party: The Republican Party believes the purpose of the first amendment to the Constitution is to prevent an official state religion and to guarantee all Americans the freedom to worship God without government interference or restraint thus the Republican Party supports the passage of a consitutional amendment which would allow voluntary silent prayer in public schools.

Bushmen in Africa are reduced to thousands

DECEPTION PAN, Botswana (AP) — Xakadio the Bushman dressed carefully for work. First, a wool baseball jersey, and a black tuxedo over that. Then the piece de resistance: huge round sunglasses of the sort favored by aging movie queens.

Xakadio is one of the 1,000 or so Bushmen left in the harsh, dry reaches of the Central Kalahari Desert. They are the last of the nomadic hunters and gatherers who were catapulted from the Stone Age to the Jet Age with no stops in between, and whose way of life is threatened with extinction.

Altogether, fewer than 60,000 Bushmen survive in pockets of southern Africa. Once numbering in the hundreds of thousands and occupying a third of the huge continent, they are but a shadow of populations dating back perhaps 23,000 years.

For 200 years after the Dutch settlers landed in South Africa in 1652, the dimunitive Bushmen were systematically decimated. Today, politics, ecological disaster and social change threaten the Bushmen's two last reserves — in Botswana and South-West Africa, or Namibia.

Strapped into a Cessna aircraft one recent morning, Xakadio performed the duties of "gyro-Bushie," navigating by sight as Bruce Williamson, his ecologist boss, flew over the trackless Kalahari.

Every few minutes, Xakadio giggled excitedly and identified in sign language the game below: an undulating fist for ostrich; two fingers curved backward for eland; contorted digits, dipping rhythmically, for giraffe.

"I am happy in the bush, I know it well, and I am not afraid," Xakadio said through an interpreter. But, asked if he would do without the trappings of encroaching modern civilization, he was equally emphatic: "No."

Generally short with yellowish skin, beardless faces that wrinkle quickly, and tightly kinked hair, Bushmen are routinely scorned and mistreated by other Africans. Some tribes call them subhuman. But they are matchless hunters, using arrows tipped with a homemade poison.

Bushmen, known for their rollicking humor, mimmick each other, and strangers, and chat endlessly in a clicking, multi-toned language. But they take their plight seriously. In the Kalahari they call themselves, "the people of the short blanket."

Xakadio, now in his 40s or 50s — "I was born before the war of Hitler" is the best he can do when asked his age — is dependent on a job, not easy to find. Otherwise, the options are few.

The huge Central Kalahari Game Reserve was established in 1961, not so much for the animals as for the 5,000 Bushmen who lived by hunting them with bows, arrows and stealth.

During long dry months, Bushmen can live for months sucking up water from beneath the dried-up streambeds through straws and storing it in ostrich egg shells. They trap spring hare and chase down antelope. They can tell an animal's age by its tracks.

But, pushed by drought and lured by an easier life, most Kalahari Bushmen have gravitated to "cattle posts," watering points outside the reserve where they tend herds for token pay and survival rations.

Those left in the reserve settle in villages where the government provides schools, clinics, wells and erratic food rations.

"We will go back to the bush when the rains come, and we can find game and water," declared Tuelo Skalabui, chief of Xade, a village of 500 Bushmen where pastimes range from drinking homemade beer to lounging.

But outsiders who study the Bushmen are not so sure.

Professor Phillip Tobias of Johannesburg's Witwatersrand University has estimated that no Bushmen hunter-gatherers will be left in the next century

UPPER COLORADO SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION DISTRICT 1984 ANNUAL REPORT

Sam Buchanan, District Conservationist and Burl Belew, District Director are shown with local rancher, Jeff Martin. Jeff received the district's Conservation Rancher award for the conservaion work and accomplishments he has completed. The concrete water storage facility shown allows Jeff to pipe water to pastures which aids his grazing plan and adds flexibility to his operation. The district applauds the work Jeff has done to further the goals of soil and water conservation.

Report Sponsored by the Directors of the Upper Colorado SWCD

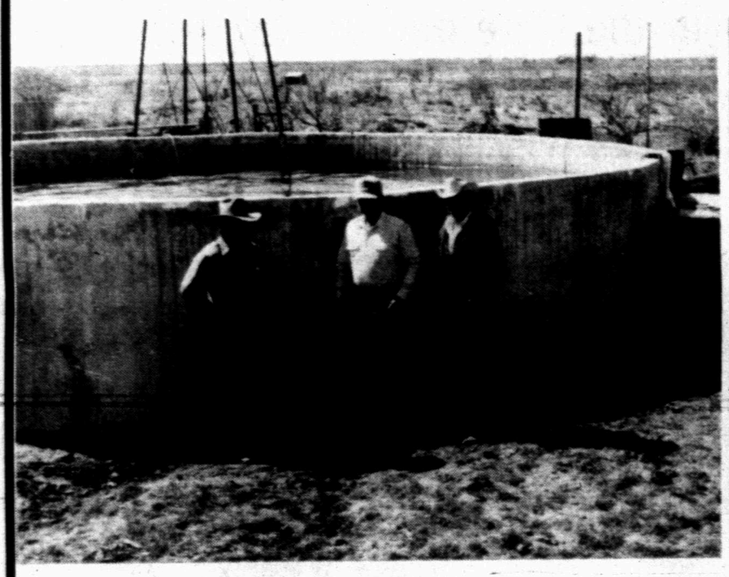

Regular monthly meetings are held on the third Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Soil Conservation Service office at 3423 Ave. T. Phone: 573-0171.

J.L. "Loyce" Adams examines growth of Silver Bluestem, Vine Mesquite and Tobosa grass following a prescribed burn in February. Picture taken May 16th shows response grass has made with only .2 tenths inches of rain. Mr. Adams objective was to control prickly pear. Crude protein of Tobosa was 9.9% and 8.3% for Silver Bluestem. Mr. Adams has done an outstanding job of managing his rangeland.

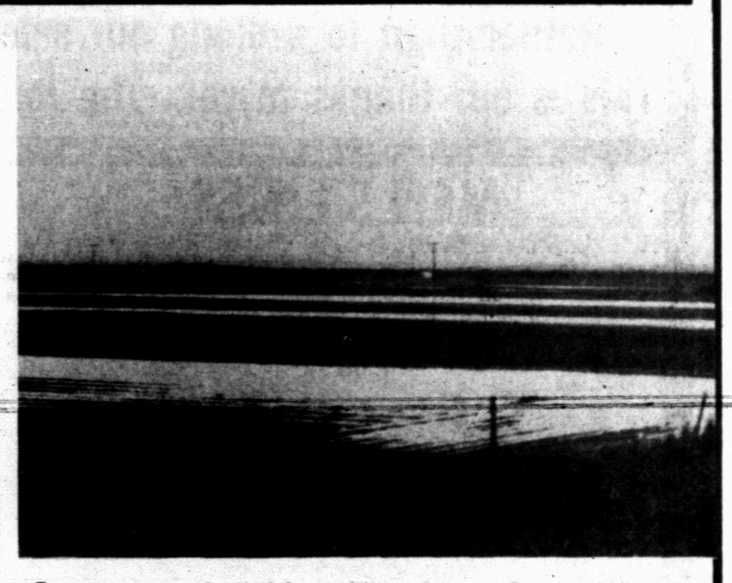

Third Grade [1983-84] Students from Northeast Elementary show the conservation posters they entered in the District's Annual Poster Contest. The district provides resource material for teachers to use in teaching soil and water conservation and promoting the wise use of our natural resources.

Sam Buchanan District Conservationist is shown with Harold and Virginia Wade who were chosen as Conservation Farmers of the Year. Harold and Virginia do an excellent job of rotating cotton with Milo, Forage Sorghum and Wheat to aid in controlling erosion and building up the organic matter on their cropland. The Wades have constructed terraces on all their cropland to prevent erosion and to hold water on the land for better crop production. Harold and Virginia are excellent managers which is one of the key ingredients in surviving in farming today.

Surviving the drought was the topic of the Borden County Range Tour held in September. 75 participants heard range and livestock specialists offer suggestions and management tips to ranchers forced to operate under drought conditions. The tour was sponsored by the district and coordinated by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Borden County and the Soil Conservation Service.

Terraces are constructed for multi-purpose use. Terraces hold water on the land helping control water erosion. Increased crop production is a major benefit for farmers who install terraces. Persons constructing terraces this year include: Fred Overman, Ricky Evans, F.E. Tutt, Margie Toombs, W.C. Hart, M.L. Duke, Larry Swartz, Leland McCarty, Jimmy Williams, Voss Farms, Max von Roeder, Leroy Key, Weldon Key, G.L. Wall, and Tommy Pate.

A fish stocking program started this year has supplied 29 pond owners with 6,150 channel catfish, largemouth bass, and bluegill. This program will be held annually with delivery of the fish in early spring. Assistance in planning a pond management program can be obtained from the district. Persons participating in the fish stocking program were: B.H. Williams, Mrs. C.A. Ramsey, Max von Roeder, Wade Davis, Billy Roach, H.M. Kruse, Wild Horse Ranch, Mrs. Katherine Stephens, John Derouen, Mrs. L.B. Thompson, Kenneth Williams, Burl Belew, R.L. Drum, Ralph Hines, L.C. Drum, Charlie Henderson, Ila Ruth Newton, Lee Roy Miller, W.L. Wilson, Jr., Robert Cox, Devin Donelson, Carl Dillaha, Don Brock, Joe Haley, Bobby Nobles, Billy Sewell, Ricky Bates, Francis Winn and Walter Stirl.

Charles Vaughn is shown in a rotational cropping system composed of skip row cotton planted 2 rows of cotton with two rows of peas. The peas add nitrogen back into the soil, the pea residue builds organic matter into the soil, and aids in controlling wind erosion. This field is located southeast of the Mesquite community in the caprock area of Borden County.

A pond constructed for better distribution of livestock grazing allows ranchers to utilize rangeland pastures for maximum sustained production. Livestock have a tendency to concentrate around water sources causing overuse of plants in the vicinity and underuse in the remainder of the pasture. Strategically located water sources help distribute animals to equally graze all sites in a pasture. Ponds also offer recreational and esthetic values to the landowner and increase the value of the property. Ponds were constructed by the following persons: Jack Wolf, Joe Don Zant, Thompson Land & Cattle Co., Fuller Ranch, Carl Burleson, Leo Beaver, and J.D. Patterson.

physical symptoms they experienced. Likewise we Americans with our obsession for pleasure (craving for sensual gratification), material posessions (greedy longings of the mind) and human deification (assurance in one's own resources, education, technology, etc.) know not what is happening to us.

Richard John Neuhaus wrote: "In the media, in the courts and centers of higher learning it is more or less taken for granted that ours is a secular society. Whatever our political persuasion, if we care about a democratic future, we have a deep stake in reconstructing a politics that was not begun by and cannot be sustained by the myth of secular America."

John Adams (second president of the USA) said, "Our constitution was made only for a moral and a religious people. It is wholly inadequate for the government of any other."

(Editor's note: The following letter refers to an Associated Press wire story.)
To the editor,

A portion of an article which apeared in your paper is enclosed. It is blatantly editorial and not "news". Perhaps you need a refresher course in the difference in "editorial" articles and "news" stories. I feel sure you should be able to find such a course at any one of a number of journalism schools.

In case you are unaware of such schools, allow me to give you a brief refresher.

An editorial is an article in which the writer expresses an opinion, not necessarily based on fact.

The enclosed portion of your article is opinion and obviously not based on fact.

A news article, on the other hand, is facts without embellishment or opinion.

Allow me to enlighten you on a few facts. I challenge you to print them as facts.

In 1983 real farm income is only half what it was in 1979.

Farm interest expense in 1983 was 21 billion dollars. Farm income in 1983 was 22 billion dollars.

Commodity Credit Corporation loans in 1980 were six billion dollars. In 1983 they were 25 billion dollars.

In Texas, the number of farms behind on their FmHA loans has doubled since 1980.

Since 1980 the total public debt has increased 50 percent. The national debt stands at 1.5 trillion dollars.

Deficit spending since 1980 is greater than all deficits from 1783 to 1980 added together.

Government spending as a percentage of gross national product is up from 22.4 percent to 24.8 percent.

Congress has refused to spend as much money as the president's budgets requested. Actual appropriations have been five percent to eight percent less than the budget requests made by the president.

Sincerely,
S.F. Terrell

Architects build higher buildings

NEW YORK (AP) — Imagine life atop a building twice as high as the Empire State Building, with more office space than the Sears Tower, more hotel rooms than the Waldorf-Astoria and more apartments than a Park Avenue co-op.

Such a 210-story building stands today in downtown Chicago — in the form of a model in the office of architect Harry Weese.

"I wouldn't live in a building like that; 17 stories is my limit," he says. "But sooner or later somebody's going to build one, and I'd love to do it."

Although 27 of the world's 100 tallest buildings have been constructed since 1980, and 49 in the last 10 years, it has been a decade since the 1,454-foot, 110-story Sears Tower in Chicago replaced New York's World Trade Center as the world's tallest building.

But now Weese's proposal is one of several for the next assault on the American skyline — the "supertall" building.

Structural engineer Vincent DeSimone is preparing plans for a 150-story office, condominium, and hotel tower in lower Manhattan. New York's Metropolitan Transportation Authority ordered a study for a 130-story building near the southwest corner of Central Park.

Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, architect of the Sears Tower, has blueprints for several buildings over 100 stories. And the architectural firm of Emery Roth & Sons, moved by "the spirit of experimentation and adventure," drew up plans for a 500-story tower in Houston.

Although builders have no doubt that such behemoths could be constructed, many question whether they should be.

"Technically, you can do anything. You can go to the moon," says Eugene Kohn, a New York architect. "But do you want to?"

To answer that question, a developer must assess risks ranging from interest rates to building costs to the future market for space.

Bruce Graham, who designed the Sears Tower, estimates that during the five to six years needed to erect a 160-story building, interest costs might top $1 billion. And during that time the market for office, hotel or apartment space could collapse.

Even if the market stays strong, the skyscraper might create a space glut of its own. It took six years to rent the World Trade Center's 10 million square feet.

Although a supertall building may not make economic sense, a dozen architects and engineers questioned said that sooner or later a confluence of technology and ego would produce one.

The building's basic structure would be determined by its need to stand up to wind forces, which could create vibrations that would destroy a tall building. A supertall building must have a superwide base, because the cost of making the tower stiff enough to resist wind drift becomes prohibitive as the ratio of height to base goes over 7-to-1.

Supertall buildings would probably be tapered, twisted or circular to disperse wind forces. Some, like several Skidmore, Owings designs, would have holes for wind to pass through.

Your Birthday

Oct. 21, 1984

Your good deeds will be coming home to roost this coming year. Several persons you did favors for in the past will be repaying you with greater measure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are fortunate today where old friendships are concerned. Someone who has known you for a long time is quietly working behind the scenes on your behalf. Major changes are in store for Libras in the coming year. Send for your year-ahead predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It will prove enjoyable today if you can spend time with friends you haven't seen for a while. The reunion will be welcomed by all concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Objectives will be more easily achieved now if you keep your intentions under wraps. The less people know about them, the better.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others will try your ideas and suggestions today and prove you right, while you may doubt their merits and fail to use them yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Unless you are confronted by challenge today your tenacity and determination might not come into play, but when the chips are down it's another story.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It may be necessary for you to make an important decision today. You already have the answer if you'll let your past experience guide you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Show a willingness to be of service today toward persons you feel obligated to. Don't miss your opportunity to reciprocate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your actions will earn you the respect of friends today because, even though you may be inconvienced, you'll still honor your commitments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although you're usually instrumental in generating fun activities, today you're not apt to feel gratified unless you're involved in something constructive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your custodial instincts will seek expression today and you'll automatically step in and manage involvements with others in an inoffensive manner.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep on the best of terms with relatives and in-laws today because they could put you on the track to something materially beneficial.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're a good problem-solver today and solutions which may escape others will be evident to you. If you have the answers, speak up.

Oct. 22, 1984

Things you've been anxious to accumulate for yourself and others have good chances of coming through in the year ahead. However, you must not be wasteful or complacent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Normally you're rather astute regarding the value of merchandise, but today there's a possibility you might spend more for items than they're actually worth. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility with all signs, as well as showing you to which signs you are best suited romantically. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Unfortunately, this is not a day when you can take the promises of others at face value, especially those who have let you down in the past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be optimistic in your commercial dealings today, but don't expect a big windfall from a harebrained scheme. Only the worthwhile will pay off.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be modest and humble today regarding your accomplishments, even when talking with people you know are grossly exaggerating theirs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) People usually receptive to your suggestions will be turned off today if you come on like a know-it-all. Leave them room for thought.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Strive to be realistic today regarding your financial projections. Don't pin your hopes on longshots that have slim chances of succeeding.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you have to negotiate an important agreement today, don't be hesitant to back off if you feel the terms are questionable. Better to withdraw now than later.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You could get yourself in a bind today if you count too heavily on others to do things for you that you should be doing for yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Business and pleasure do not mix well today. It's best to forego trying to promote commercial matters in a social setting.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Although you may think you're doing something for everyone's general good today, your mate may resent the way you go about it. Clarify your intentions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today make it a point to take your work as seriously as your boss does or he may voice a few choice comments regarding your value to the organization.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not treat your budget today as a scrap of paper that can be ignored. Later you might have regrets about the funds you wasted.

Catholics, while retaining thousands of British troops in Ulster to prevent a full scale civil war. Each side agrees this arrangement did not provide a solution.

Protestants see power sharing as the first step toward unification with the Republic of Ireland. They resist this totally because in Ulster they outnumber Catholics two to one. But in a united Ireland, there would be 35 million Catholics to 1.2 million Protestants.

The struggle continues.

According to tradition, fall is the final season — the time of year when we glide earthward like so many autumn leaves to the final chill of a winter quiet.

What a bunch of hooey.

We're talking literary here, of course. The old, trite symbol of winter as death and spring as the rebirth.

Following this, if you're to be defunct by wintertime, it stands to reason that fall is the melancholy warmup for that one-last pitch.

Well, it ties up into a pretty neat package in books, but real life just doesn't bear it out.

It always seems to us that fall is the beginning and those last hot days of summer are the end.

Summer ends with vacant lots choked with dry and overgrown careless weeds. Baked and withered stalks beside front yards gone to hell in a handbasket.

But here comes fall and we start to feel the blood pumping again — just about the time that first puff of norther comes blowing in from the Panhandle.

The durn summer heat thins out the blood and constricts the blood vessels — making the body pump a winnowed down version in a desperate attempt to cool itself. It must look like eyewash being poured through a crimped soda straw.

The cooler weather returns us to full strength, like good stew broth simmering into a richer, full-bodied base. Suddenly the brain cells blink open and we're reminded that the earth has smells and tastes.

This country even starts to come alive again, substituting the pests of summer for new examples of life.

We lose the gnats, mosquitoes, red ants and wasps. In their place, doves come flying down from Kansas like gray ballistic missiles.

Then the ragged flaps of ducks on the wing begin showing up, followed by the more graceful V-lines of crane and geese, riding the chilly winds down from Canada.

The harvest also pumps the lifeblood of work back into the system. As a race, we become busy in the autumn — back to school, back to field and back to planning.

Winter will mark a slowing down, but it seems the brain is just resting, waiting for spring again and a busting out.

If it turns out life really does follow the seasons, we'll happily take the autumn of our years.

When things suddenly seem possible again after a long stretch of fuzzy-headed heat.

Nothing cheers us up more than the word — October.

Great Britain's tough woman, Margaret Thatcher, had a close call last week. An explosion missed killing her by about two minutes. Others weren't so lucky. The outlawed Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the destruction, maiming and loss of four lives.

With her typical iron clad composure, Ms. Thatcher said that terrorism would not deter democracy. The IRA responded that she was just lucky this time. It reminded her that she has to be lucky every time, while they have to be lucky only once. I don't envy that woman's job.

A couple of years ago the IRA "got lucky" and killed war hero Earl Mountbatten, along with 18 British soldiers. The charming Mountbatten was a favorite among the English. Other than that, I don't know what the IRA hoped to accomplish by murdering the old man. Whatever it was, it obviously didn't work.

What is this dispute in Northern Ireland all about anyway? Why does the IRA seem bent on taking it to the living rooms of Great Britain and everbody else in the world that watches the 6 o'clock news? Why won't it just go away. It is not as if there aren't enough trouble spots in the world. This thing is quiet for a couple of months, and when you have almost forgot about it — BOOM!

Other crises run their course eventually ... Korea ...Vietnam ...even the Ayatolla is not agitating the West while he has his Holy war with a neighbor to entertain him,

Who are the IRA and what's their beef? Can Catholics and Protestants really hate each other that much? At least in American we don't discriminate when we kill.

According to an Associated Press document, the dispute goes way back ...way back ...try four centuries. Back in the days of the British Empire, Presbyterian planters settled in Catholic Ireland. The colonists took the best land, dispossessing the Irish. Catholics, in effect, became second class citizens. They ended up with the worst housing, and few of the decent jobs. They had little chance of bettering themselves through the Protestant political machine. Understandably, the natives got their "Irish up" and the emnity swelled through the centuries.

At the beginning of this century the IRA was founded to stage an uprising. The uprising was put down, but it started a rebellion that resulted in independence for the Irish Republic in 1921 ...but without the six Ulster counties, which Britain retained as a Protestant homeland.

The "outlawed Irish Republican Army." Has sort of a romantic ring to it, I think. What began as a rag-tag street army of trigger happy gunmen has evolved into a tightly knit underground organization with heavy artillery, mortars and radio controlled bombs. In my opinion, it is still trigger happy.

Britain tried to quell the bloodshed by taking the provincial government away from the Protestants and giving it to the

SUNDAY
October 14

Funeral services were conducted Sunday for 14-year-old Antonio Ruiz of Rt. 3, Snyder.

He was killed Friday in a motorcycyle-pickup collision at the intersection of Texas Street and Ave. O just north of the city. The fatal accident occurred around 7:12 p.m.

MONDAY
October 15

Weekend rainfall which mainly fell Saturday has upped Snyder's official rain total to an even 12 inches — but Lake J.B. Thomas continues to receive little benefit from the fall showers, it was reported Monday.

The lake level is still estimated at some 2,216 ft. of elevation, some 42 ft. below its potential volume.

The City of Snyder received a heavy rain Saturday afternoon and an earlier shower just before dawn the same day. These two combined for some 1.2 inches.

Twenty four members of the Snyder High School choir qualified as All-District choir members in South Zone, Region II competition at Abilene Cooper High School in Abilene, it was reported Monday.

The event was sponsored by the Texas Music Educator's Association and all schools, regardless of size, competed according to district. Some 35 Snyder choir students competed.

TUESDAY
October 16

A reworking of some base layer areas at the new Tiger track will delay completion of the project for a few more weeks, it was reported Tuesday.

With recent rains here, school officials noticed pooling of water on the track in a few areas.

What type of chamber of commerce banquet speaker city and county residents would prefer is expected to be addressed in a survey to be published by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce in the Snyder Daily News.

The idea for such a survey was voiced Tuesday during the October meeting of chamber directors.

WEDNESDAY
October 17

Legislation to "fine tune" House Bill 72 was predicted here Wednesday morning by State Rep. Steven Carriker of Roby.

He was the leadoff speaker for the District 18 Parent-Teacher Association workshop conducted in the Scurry County Museum on the campus of Western Texas College.

Jewel Harris of Abilene, this area's former representative on the state education board, was originally slated to talk on H.B. 72. She had to cancel due to illness.

As Scurry County's United Way campaign reached the 73 percent complete level, workers were urged Wednesday to pick up all campaign packets no later than next week.

In actual dollars, this year's drive effort — in the third week of the campaign — stands at $55,629. The total goal is $75,830.

Absentee voting began Wednesday for the Nov. 6 General Election — a ballot which will decide both the U.S. Presidency and a hotly contested U.S. Senate race for Texas.

On the local level, residents of Scurry and Borden Counties — which comprise the 132nd Judicial District — will name a new district judge; and voters from Scurry's Pct. 3 will decide the race for county commissioner.

U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm labeled his opponent Lloyd Doggett as a "candidate for special interest groups" Wednesday during a fly-in campaign appearance at Winston Field.

"Lloyd Doggett opposes the traditional values of our state," Gramm charged, and proceeded to list "fundamental differences" between the two to a crowd of some 83 individuals.

THURSDAY
October 18

Snyder Texas Employment Commission staffers are reporting a flood of applicants for positions to be available with the anticipated opening this fall of the new Willow Park Inn east of Snyder.

It was reported Thursday the TEC is processing some 150 applications for employment at the new motel-convention center facility.

FRIDAY
October 19

The Snyder chapter of American Field Service revealed Friday plans to affiliate itself with the local Rotary Club and its link to the international Rotary Youth Exchange program.

The change will be effective this summer.

A new Department of Public Safety trooper officially began his tour here Friday — John Land, 23, a graduate of Dumas High School.

Local performers featured in the Western Texas College Theatre Department's production of "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" which opened last night — Oct. 16 — included Glenn Polk, Emmaline Sleeper and Paula Baldwin.

Jack Cummins, general chairman of the Scurry County United Way fund drive for 1974, presented the campaign's first "Fair Share" plaque to the employees of Southwestern Bell Telephone today — Oct. 21. To earn the plaque over 75 percent of the employees of the business had to pledge a "fair share" equal to one hour's pay per month.

20 YEARS AGO

Beeman Fisher, president of Texas Electric Service Co., Dr. John Chinn, mayor of Colorado City, and Mitchell County Judge Elmer J. Martin were among dignitaries participating in ground breaking ceremonies Thursday — Oct. 15 — for TESCO's $30 millon Morgan Creek Generating Plant.

Letters to the editor

To the editor,

In less than three weeks we will be voting for a new Texas senator to send to Washington. John Tower served Texans well. We must think carefully about his replacement.

Here are a few of the reasons I think Phil Gramm is the best choice for this job.

Texans need Gramm's expertise on the budget and economic issues. We need Phil Gramm's brain and experience in Washington. He believes in less government spending and control. We need his vigilant protection against more government encroachment.

Electing a Republican senator is in the best interest of Texans. We have liberal Democratic Senator Bentsen. We need the balance of conservative Republican Senator Gramm.

We can depend on Phil Gramm to vote the Texas viewpoint. He will support President Reagan's economic recovery program.

Lloyd Doggett, Jim Mattox, Jim Hightower, Mark White and Ann Richards are the Democrats in Austin. I do not believe their liberal policies really reflect our thinking in Scurry County. How a candidate votes speaks louder than his campaign rhetoric. Examine Mr. Doggett's liberal voting record before you vote. When a politician promises you a bouquet, he will usually pick it in your back yard.

Finally, I appreciate Phil Gramm's interest in Scurry County. He has made three visits to our town to give you an opportunity to meet him and discuss the issues.

SNYDER, TEXAS 3500 COLLEGE AVE. SNYDER, TEXAS

Centennial Corner

By Charles Anderson

As a young man, Claud Gillum lived with Pete and Nellie Snyder and worked on their ranch near Dunn, Texas.

Pete Snyder related many early experiences to Claud and his sister, Mrs. J. E. (Lucy) Whitefield. Mrs. Whitefield recorded many of these experiences in her letters which are on file at the Scurry County Library.

Mrs. Whitefield states the following in her letters...

"Claud helped Uncle Pete with the ranch work. He also kept some cows of his own. They were pastured free of charge. Claud stayed at the ranch and helped the Snyders until they moved back to Colorado City. Then he and his brother, Willie, leased the place and had cows of their own. They stayed there until 1921.

"When Uncle Pete became very ill, they sent for Claud and he stayed with them in Colorado City the last year that he lived. They gave Claud all the furniture at the ranch which he later moved to a ranch of his own in New Mexico. He left for a few years and when he went back to get the furniture, someone had moved it away. It was all antique. There was a lovely old bedroom suite with marble top dresser and washstand."

Claud Gillum knew the Pete Snyder family as well as anyone...Probably better. When he died, much of the history of the early days of Scurry County went with him.

Volunteers in Coma Corps are trying to revive toddler

OCEAN TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Once every hour from morning to evening, two volunteers walk into a bright bedroom of the Fagan home where a diapered 3-year-old boy lies on a bed, a mobile twirling over his head.

The volunteers slip into hospital gowns and begin putting little Terrance Fagan through a 45-minute routine. They force him to breathe into a plastic bag, put tabasco sauce on his tongue, move his arms and legs and clap wooden blocks beside his ears.

Terrance was found underwater in his grandmother's swimming pool in July 1983. Authorities estimated he had been under water 10 minutes.

The toddler has been comatose ever since. His family, along with scores of volunteers, are trying to revive him.

"I believe he's going to get well," says the boy's mother, Janice. "No matter what we have to do, it's worth it."

Janice and Dennis Fagan, an electronics engineer, now have the services of about 100 volunteers to put Terrance through the routine designed by the International Coma Recovery Institute in Garden City, N.Y.

Twelve times a day, on the hour, two volunteers arrive at the two-story home located on a half acre in a middle-class neighborhood. If Terrance gags, grimaces, cries out or curls his lips in a smile during the routine, their day has been a success.

The program is based on the principle that the brain cells that survive an accident such as a near-drowning can be trained to take over for damaged cells. Pam Stefano, executive secretary of the institute founded by Dr. Mihai D. Dimancescu, says the therapy has prompted full recovery in about 35 percent of the institute's more than 200 patients in the past seven years.

"You're actually bombarding the patient to help arouse them — you're bombarding every sense," she says.

Mrs. Fagan says the progress Terrance has made after six weeks of therapy would not have been possible without the volunteers.

Dear Abby

Marriage Encounter Is a Way To Scratch the 7-Year Itch

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I know you must get tons of mail from people who say, "I just need to tell someone." Well, here's another one.

I'm a happily married woman, but I've come across a man I feel I've got to have. (Not to keep—just to have.) When we met about a year and a half ago, I knew instantly the feeling between us was mutual. Although neither of us has ever come right out and said, "Let's get together," we drop hints and kid about it. I don't see him often, but when I do, I melt like a schoolgirl.

I don't know if one good romp in the sack would satisfy me or not, but I keep wondering what it would be like.

Abby, I'm 28 and have children. He is also a family man. I'd never risk losing my husband. He had a brief office affair a few years ago. I was bitter at first, but I got over it, so I don't think I'm considering having an affair to even the score. I need help in handling my feelings.

MIXED UP
DOWN SOUTH

DEAR MIXED UP: You are very wise to ask for help. You need it. Forget the "one good romp in the sack"—it's habit-forming and could be hazardous to your marriage.

Have you ever heard of Marriage Encounter? It's a weekend counseling course for couples who have grown apart, lost the spark and want to reaffirm their commitment to each other. It's a spiritual and romantic shot in the arm.

Over the years I've had glowing reports about Marriage Encounter. There are Catholic, Protestant and Jewish groups, but one need not belong to any church to participate. Ask any clergyman.

Age doesn't matter. Couples married 40 years and longer have benefited from it. In the words of a lovely old song, "You'll find your happiness lies right under your eyes, back in your own back yard."

DEAR ABBY: I have read with great interest the controversy surrounding white weddings in your column and applaud the encouragement you have given women who see their weddings as a celebration of their faith in the future, not an apology for the past (even if they have been living with their fiances).

White has been a color of joy since Roman times. Traditionally, ceremonial robes have often been richly colored, whether they were peasant costumes or gold-embroidered kimonos.

During the Middle Ages red was the favored color, and it still is the color chosen by Hindu, Islamic and Chinese brides.

The white wedding dress is a fairly recent tradition. Victorian brides from privileged backgrounds wore white to indicate that they were rich enough to wear a dress for one day only—but still the majority at that time wore their best finery.

We who now live well into our 80s (as opposed to our 50s in 1900) must also develop a more tolerant view of the needs of people who, like half of all U.S. citizens, will probably divorce and remarry in their lifetime. Their sincere efforts to begin again should be supported by the community they seek to join. In unity there is harmony, and color should not bar the way.

EDITOR IN CHIEF,
