Lone Woman Homesteader Tarred And Feathered By Men In Old Range Feud

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Jan. 2. (AP)—Mrs. Anna Wood, a homesteader in the San Jacinto mountain foothills, was in a serious condition today from being tarred and feathered New Year's day by two masked men.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Rayburn, who went to her ranch 40 miles east of here, reported the tarring apparently followed Mrs. Wood's defiance of cattlemen's orders to move out.

She was found in a hysterical and semi-conscious condition at her isolated ranch last night by friends. They reported to the sheriff, who said arrests were imminent.

Rayburn said the woman had accused neighboring cattlemen of demanding for years she quit her homestead and mining claims, located on valuable grazing lands.

"They told me to move out or I would wish I had," she told the deputy.

A commotion in the barn among her goats, Mrs. Wood said, drew her to the building. A masked man grabbed her, removed her clothing, and a second masked man helped in applying the tar and feathers.

Mrs. Wood told Rayburn she was unconscious on the barn floor for several hours. After her attackers left, she crawled into her house where she was found by visiting friends.

Rayburn reported the evidence convinced him the woman's story was true, and two suspected men would be questioned before night.

YOUNG WOMAN NAMES QUINN AS ATTACKER

Teachers' Slaying Suspect Accused of Another Revolting Crime

PONCA CITY, Okla., Jan. 2. (AP)—Another revolting crime, not unlinked with the highway slayings near Tonkawa Sunday of Jessie and Zexia Griffith, was charged to Earl Quinn, ex-convict, today by officers seeking him for the murders.

From Muskogee, Okla., Sheriff Joe Cooper informed his office today that a young married woman had identified a photograph of Quinn as that of a man she said attacked her almost at the same place the Blackwell school teacher sisters were shot to death.

Same Car Number

Officers said the license number of Quinn's motor car was the same as that on the vehicle used by the alleged attacker.

Quinn, former Missouri convict sought throughout the Middle West for the Griffith deaths, was known to have paraded U. S. highway No. 77 near Tonkawa, beside which the sisters' bodies were found, early on the morning the Griffiths left their home in Blackwell to return to their respective schools. Officers say he was armed and crazed with drink.

The younger sister, Jessie, 24, was attacked.

Quinn's Wife Held

Kay county officers today confined Mrs. Quinn, who has been under surveillance, in the Newkirk jail as a material witness.

Sheriff Cooper said before going to Muskogee with Sam Tulk, state operative, that his newest informant had written a belated letter to the Tonkawa chief of police, detailing the attack.

Her assailant, she said, crowded her motor car from the highway about daybreak Thanksgiving; smashed through locked doors and forcing her to enter his own machine, drove to a side road where the attack took place.

The woman said she withheld information because she feared publicity. Her name was not disclosed.

The request was received by cable at the Panama legation late today. Doctor Alfaro said he had not determined on the course he would follow.

The request followed press reports that the determination of steps to be taken to return Panama to constitutional government following today's revolt would be left to the supreme court.

At the legation it was said Doctor Alfaro's name headed the list of candidates because he presumably was the most acceptable public figure under the country's constitution.

It was recalled that he was elected first presidential designate or first vice president in 1928, for a period of two years ending Oct. 1, 1930.

He fell in the street and in the excitement there was no one to give him prompt attention and it was some time later before he was taken to the hospital. There was an immediate operation.

Eastern Railways Reach Agreement On Vast Consolidation Scheme

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Eastern rail executives tonight reached agreement on the major details of their plan for consolidating their railroads into four systems and transmitted them to the Interstate Commerce commission at Washington by telephone.

The allocations agreed on were:

To the New York Central—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, and a direct connection with the Virginia railway at Deep Water, including joint rates and routes over the railway.

To the Pennsylvania—The Wabash, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, and the Norfolk and Western.

To the Baltimore and Ohio—The Ann Arbor railroad, the Reading and Central railroad of New Jersey, and Western Maryland, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, the Buffalo and Susquehanna, the Lehigh and Hudson river, and the Chicago and Alton.

To the Chesapeake and Ohio—Nickel Plate system—and the Hocking Valley will be added the Erie railroad, the Bessemer and Lake Erie, the Pere Marquette, the Wheeling and Lake Erie, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and the Lehigh Valley, with certain rights to the Pennsylvania on the Lehigh Valley.

The Grand Trunk Western lines are to continue with the Canadian National railways.

The executives sat all day in conference. They told the commission in their memoranda that "the agreement is independent and could not have been reached upon any different basis of allocation."

"Probably no single one of the groups herein proposed is exactly what those interested in such groups would wish it to be," said the memorandum. "In order to reach a common understanding it has been repeatedly necessary for all of the interests involved to make concessions. It is believed, however, that each of the systems resulting from the groupings we suggest will be able to operate efficiently, maintain its credit, and serve the public better than the same amount of mileage operated in a less coordinated manner as at present."

Elliott, 46, of Jacksboro, whose death at the Wichita Falls State hospital Friday was attributed by a coroner's verdict to "suicide by hanging," had not been completed Friday night pending the arrival here of a brother from Oklahoma. The body is at the Hines mortuary.

Elliott's body was found suspended from a window in his room by a blanket by hospital authorities early Friday. A number of previous attempts to end his life by hanging had been made by the man, hospital attendants said. He was committed to the institution in May, 1930.

His widow resides at Jacksboro.

PLEA WIRED TO CONGRESS FOR QUICK RELIEF

North Texas Oil and Gas Association Outlines Emergency Action

PERIL EMPHASIZED

Propose Tariff Would Be Enacted Later Under New Plans

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

At a meeting of the North Texas Oil and Gas association at the Wichita club Friday afternoon, attended by about 160 producers, refiners and representatives of pipe lines, a resolution was read and adopted petitioning the United States congress to enact an embargo on all foreign importation of crude oil and refined products for a period covering the next three years.

Emergency Measure

The adoption of the embargo petition was made as an emergency measure in lieu of the tariff bill which will probably not be taken up to any extent in the short congressional session, but the tariff question will be pushed vigorously at an early date.

The workman's compensation law was thoroughly discussed. A proposal was made to appoint a committee to be at Austin during the next session of the legislature to present a bill before that body requesting a decrease in the rates of this insurance.

Several talks were made by the members. T. F. Hunter, chairman of the tariff committee, made a report on the progress of his committee and later presented the embargo petition.

Addresses were also made by Orville Bullington and Roy B. Jones.

Text of Petition

Below is the petition which was wired Friday night to Washington:

"Whereas, the independent oil men and their employes are now engaged in a desperate struggle for existence, caused by the destructive effect of the importation of crude oil and its refined products into the United States, largely from Russia and South America, and

"Whereas, the continuation of these imports into our country free of all duty, will result in the bankruptcy and the total elimination of the independent oil man as a factor in the oil industry in the United States of America, and

"Whereas, the situation can not be remedied as long as these importations continue, and the only relief possible is to completely bar the importation of crude oil and its refined products from our country by an embargo act;

"Now, Therefore, the North Texas Oil and Gas Association, in special session convened in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, does hereby petition the congress of the United States to immediately enact into law an embargo prohibiting and preventing the importation of crude oil or any of its products into the United States for a period of at least three years from the date of the enactment of said embargo law."

Suit Finds Escobar's Address

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 2. (AP)—Mystery concerning the residence of Gen. Jose Gonzales Escobar, who led an unsuccessful revolution in Mexico in 1929, was removed today when attorneys of Mrs. Escobar, in announcing they had filed suit for annulment of her marriage, said the revolutionist was living in Montreal, Canada.

Escobar's whereabouts had not been generally known since he abandoned his army in Mexico in 1922. Attorneys for Mrs. Escobar, who said the annulment action had been filed in Quebec courts, stated Escobar was known in Montreal as J. Deras and that he was living with Elsia Valles, his first wife. The annulment petition claims Escobar never was divorced from his first wife.

The annulment petition seeks to impound in four national banks approximately $1,000,000 which Escobar is alleged to have commandeered from banks and other institutions in Mexico. Mrs. Escobar also asked a division of their prop-

Simpson-Legge Scrap 'Won't Benefit Farmers'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (INS)—A further exchange of personalities between John A. Simpson, president of the Farmers' union, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Alexander H. Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, will not result in any good to the farmers, Legge advised Simpson today.

Simpson had accused Legge of trying to depress wheat prices and attributed certain statements to him during a hearing before a senate committee. Legge said the statements Simpson had been using as having been made by him at this hearing were "absolutely untrue."

DEMOS MOVE TO CONTROL HOUSE

But Some Members Want Clear Majority

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (UP)—Considerable jockeying is going on behind the scenes at the capitol these days looking to organization and control of the almost evenly divided house of representatives, which comes into being, officially, March 4.

The activity has been intensified in the last few days by the possibility of an extra session, which would bring the new congress to work after March 4, and by the death of another member, Representative David J. O'Connell, Democrat, New York. Two members have died since congress convened early in December, both New York Democrats, the other being Representative John F. Quayle.

G. O. P. Has Majority

Since both of these are from strong Democratic districts, the party standing is not affected. But these two deaths in so short a period have directed attention to a possible change in the lineup by deaths in doubtful districts before the new house takes office. An average of about 10 members die a year. The complexion of the new house now is 218 Republicans, 214 Democrats, two vacancies and one Farmer-Labor.

Some Democrats are urging that the party attempt to organize the house by a coalition with a few insurgent Republicans, if possible, even though Republicans might have a paper majority of one or two or three.

Those who urge this course include some who are ambitious for important places in the organization and for committee chairmanships. There is some under-surface activity already in behalf of those who aspire to the important position of floor leader. The elevation of the present Democratic floor leader, John N. Garner, of Texas, to the speakership in the event of Democratic control is unquestioned.

Wary of Responsibility

But despite the view of this group, it can be said, authoritatively, that some responsible Democratic leaders are opposed to Democrats attempting to organize the house unless there is a clear majority.

Control means responsibility and some do not want to exercise control under conditions which they feel would not give them a certainty of power. They would be handicapped by a slight majority that might crumble on occasion.

There is also the argument that opposition to Republican administration aims, however sincere it might be, would open them to the charge of obstruction, especially with an organization that might be ineffective and out of hand on occasion because of its coalition nature.

Whatever happens in the house is bound to have an effect on the 1932 presidential campaign, and it resolves itself into a choice of whether Democrats would be better off by taking responsibility or letting Republicans remain in control.

Electra Welcomes 264 Brand New Citizens, 135 Boys, During 1930

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 2.—Two hundred and sixty-four new citizens made their initial appearance in Electra during 1930. The boys edged the girls out by a count of six for first honors, there being 135 boys and 129 girls born during the year. Twenty-seven of these infants died within a few days or hours following their birth; at least all of the 27 were under one month when they died. In other words, a fraction more than one-seventh of the babies born in Electra in 1930 died before they were 1 month old. Six other deaths of babies ranging in ages from 1 month to 3 years brought the total to 39. Two boys, each 15, and another age 10, made the children's death total 42.

Sixty-four adults, 37 men and 28 women, all over 20, set the death rate for the year at 106—the nearest average being nine deaths per month. Among the adults the greatest number to die were in the sixties. The number of deaths according to the ages were as follows: Nine in the twenties; 4 in the thirties; 12 in the forties; 8 in the fifties; 14 in the sixties; 12 in the seventies; 6 in the eighties, and only 1 in the nineties. Mrs. Catherine Cooper, 94, was the oldest citizen to die during the year.

Combining all the deaths, more occurred in December when 17 were registered. January and May came next with 13 each. April, July and November numbered nine each with February eight; March and October seven each; June and August, five each, and September the lowest with only four. In May for the first time in the history of the city the deaths exceeded the births.

Several lives were lost in accidents. Robert A. Hoffman, 21, was killed in March when he fell from a truck near Harrold. Mrs. B. B. McClure, 42, and her 11-month-old grandson, Billy Wayne Gary, were drowned when her car plunged over the Wichita river bridge south of Electra. J. K. Darter, 30, Fort Worth, was killed in an automobile crash near Oklaunion, Sept. 6.

The last accident victims of the year were J. W. Kenworthy, 30; Jimmie Snyder, 22, and J. B. Russell, 43, who were blown to bits in a dynamite explosion at the U. S. Torpedo plant four miles north of Electra, Dec. 30.

At least seven deaths were caused by heart failure; old age was responsible for others, and only a small per cent were from operations.

And don't forget the three pairs of twins that arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cope, boys; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Andrews, girls; and a boy and a girl at the J. M. Ashley home. All these figures were taken from the monthly reports of Col. Ed C. Wilson, registrar of births and deaths in Electra.

It is said that women own 40 per cent of the wealth of the United States.

ALTUS INVITES LEGION MEET

2,300 Asked to Inspect Street-Sweeping

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Jan. 2.—American legionnaires from 37 posts in Southwestern Oklahoma representing a membership of approximately 2,300 persons have been invited to Altus next Monday afternoon to enjoy the street sweeping to be done by legionnaires from Frederick.

These invitations have been extended to all posts in this section and perhaps more legionnaires than ever before assembled in Altus will be here for that day.

Street sweeping will be featured immediately after the Frederick men are met at the south edge of the city and escorted to the main part of town.

The feed will be followed by a program in the city auditorium when the principal speakers will be the Rev. NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—A plan of the magazine World's Work to publish in newspapers throughout the nation an open letter praising President Hoover's administration has been abandoned because of "unfavorable and untimely publicity," the editors announced today.

Detroit Unemployed Make Plea to Mayor

DETROIT, Jan. 2. (AP)—Led by Communist speakers 700 unemployed and about 1,300 spectators marched from Grand Circus park to the city hall today where leaders presented Mayor Frank Murphy with 14 demands for unemployment insurance and relief.

There was no police interference. Arriving at the city hall the unemployed delegated a committee of five men and two women to meet with the mayor.

The committee presented demands for an unemployment insurance bill providing for the payment of $20 a week for every unemployed worker and $5 more for every dependent; free street car fare for all unemployed; free meals, clothes and carfare for all children; free medical and dental service; suspension of evictions for non-payment of rent by unemployed families; abolition of all vagrancy laws, free gas, light and heat for unemployed workers and their families and other privileges.

Perfume Brought in From Cuba Seized

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Customs officers seized 28 bottles of perfume today from passengers arriving from Havana on the liner Moro Castle.

The seizures were in conformity with the recent instructions from Washington to enforce a tariff ruling forbidding importation of foreign merchandise bearing trademarks owned in this country.

Customs men took twice as long as usual to pass the baggage of the 248 passengers, and several Americans ignorant of the ruling held long but fruitless arguments.

Many passengers had read that one bottle each would be permitted them, and presented the single containers of perfume, but even in these cases the customs men destroyed the labels. Some passengers distributed bottles to comrades who had no perfume, giving one to each.

Apple Vendors to Be Classed as Employed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—Census supervisors of 20 cities where a special unemployment census starts Jan. 15 will be instructed to enumerate persons selling "unemployed apples" as employed.

Several thousand persons are expected to be affected by this decision. In the April census, orders were issued to make the test question of employment "does the person have a job of any kind?" If the answer was yes, that person was not included in the unemployment census.

At a conference of experts on employment today, the consensus was that a man who sells apples was employed.

Two thousand years before Christ, Hammurabi made severe laws against rapacious money-lenders and made the protection of widows and orphans and of the weak against the strong the cardinal principles of laws and morals.

RECIPES

Spanish Omelet, Chili Sauce

Four eggs
Four tablespoonfuls milk
Two tablespoonfuls butter
One-half teaspoonful salt
One-eighth teaspoonful pepper
One cup chili sauce.

Beat eggs, add salt, pepper and milk. Melt the butter in a frying pan and pour in the egg mixture. As the omelet cooks allow the soft part on top to run under the more solid part by lifting the sides with a spatula. Heat the chili sauce and pour half of it over the omelet. Fold the omelet, place on heated platter and pour the remaining sauce over the top of omelet. Garnish with parsley.

Fluffy Omelet, Spanish Sauce

(a)—Fluffy omelet.

Six eggs, separated
Six tablespoonfuls milk or water
Three-fourths teaspoonful salt
One-eighth teaspoonful pepper
One and one-half tablespoonfuls fat.

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, add the liquid, salt and pepper. Beat egg whites in another bowl until stiff and dry and fold into the yolk mixture. Melt the fat in an omelet pan or frying pan and tip it slightly to grease sides and bottom. Pour in the omelet mixture and spread evenly on the surface. If a regulation omelet pan is used grease both sides and pour half the mixture in each side. Cook over low heat until the omelet is golden brown on the underside. Place it in a slow oven of 350 degrees for five minutes to dry off top. Loosen with a spatula, fold and turn on to a hot platter. Serve at once. Serves six.

(b)—Fluffy omelet with Spanish sauce.

One tablespoonful fat
One tablespoonful chopped pepper, green
One-fourth teaspoonful celery salt
Three mushrooms, chopped
One teaspoonful chopped onion
One-half tablespoonful flour
Speck of pepper
One-fourth teaspoonful salt
One cupful tomatoes.

Melt fat, add green pepper, onion and mushrooms. Cook slowly for three minutes; add flour and seasonings. Mix well. Add tomato and simmer gently until thick. Serves six.

Plantation Chicken Shortcake

Cover bottom of a shallow baking dish with triangular pieces of white corn cake. Then put in a layer of cold, sliced boiled ham and cover with a thick layer of sliced cooked chicken. Pour over supreme sauce and bake in a very hot oven until boiling hot. Serve in the baking dish.

White Corn Cake

One-fourth cupful butter
One-fourth cupful sugar.
One-third cupful milk
One and one-fourth cupfuls white corn meal
One and one-fourth cupfuls flour
Four teaspoonfuls baking powder
One teaspoonful salt
Three egg whites.

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually; add milk, alternating with dry ingredients, mixed and sifted. Beat thoroughly; add egg whites beaten stiff. Bake in two greased shallow pans 30 minutes. Serve hot for breakfast or lunch after reserving what is needed for the shortcake.

Sauce Supreme

Melt two tablespoonfuls butter, add two tablespoonfuls flour and one cupful of highly season chicken stock. Cook slowly 15 minutes. Add three-fourths cupful heavy cream and season with salt and pepper, then add 12 mushroom caps and cook for five minutes.

Carrots Julienne

Wash and scrape carrots; cut in thin slices lengthwise and then in shreds. Cook 15 minutes or until tender in one cup of boiling water with one teaspoonful salt. The water should be almost entirely boiled away. Add two tablespoonfuls butter and serve hot. Carrots may be cooked in a casserole in the oven.

Apple-Cranberry Sauce

One quart of cranberries.
Two cupfuls boiling water.
One quart apples.
Two and one-half cupfuls sugar.

Cook cranberries in water until skins are soft, then press through a seive. Add sugar and apples which have been pared, cored and quartered. Cook very slowly until apples soften. They should retain their shape and be red in color.

Austrian Potatoes

Two pounds potatoes.
One-third cupful melted butter.
One tablespoonful lemon juice.
Three-fourths teaspoonful salt.
One-eighth teaspoonful paprika.
Sprinkle pepper.

Wash, pare and cut potatoes in one-eighth inch slices. Parboil two minutes in salted water. Drain, put in dripping pan to depth of about one inch. Bake until potatoes are soft, basting with butter which has been mixed with seasonings.

One package lemon Jell-O.
One pint canned tomatoes, strained.
One and one-half teaspoonful lemon juice.
Dash of salt.
One teaspoonful Worcestershire.
One-half cupful celery.
One-half cupful sweet pickles or chopped cucumber pickles.

Dissolve Jell-O in boiling tomato juice. Add lemon juice, salt, and Worchestershire sauce. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in celery and pickles. Turn into molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves eight.

Coconut Icebox Pie

Four egg yolks
One cupful sugar.
Juice of two lemons.
Grated rind of one-half lemon.
One-half cupful shredded coconut.
One-half tablespoonful gelatine.
One-fourth cupful cold water.
Four egg whites.
One-fourth pint double cream.
One large baked pastry shell or 10 tart shells.

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored; add one-half cupful sugar, lemon juice and rind (one-third cupful of orange juice may be substituted for the lemon juice); cook in the top of a double boiler until thick, like custard. Soak the gelatine in the cold water and add to the hot custard; stir over the hot water until dissolved. Beat the egg whites until stiff and dry and add the other half cup of sugar to them. Fold the egg whites into the gelatine mixture when cool, but before it is cold. Fold into the stiffly beaten cream. Pour into a baked pie shell or into tart shells and place in the refrigerator for at least one hour. Serve with a garnish of whipped cream. The cocoanut may be omitted.

Molded Fish

One pound halibut.
Two egg whites.
One and one-fourth cupfuls heavy cream.
Salt.
Pepper.
Cayenne.

Remove skin and bones from halibut, finely chop fish and force through a sieve (there should be one and one-third cups). Pound in mortar, adding gradually egg whites unbeaten. Add cream, and season to taste. Turn into a greased fish mold garnished with truffles, cover with greased paper, set in pan of hot water and bake until fish is firm. Turn on serving dish, decorate with truffle, and surround with Plaza sauce.

Plaza Sauce

Fish skin and bones.
Three slices carrot.
One slice onion.
Sprig of parsley.
Bit of bay leaf.
One-fourth teaspoonful peppercorns.
One and one-half cupfuls cold water.
Two tablespoonfuls butter.
Two and one-half tablespoonfuls flour.
One-fourth cupful cream.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
One-eighth teaspoonful pepper.
Few grains cayenne.
One tablespoonful lemon juice.

Cook skin and bones of halibut 30 minutes with carrot, onion, parsley, bay leaf, peppercorns and cold water. Melt butter, add flour and fish stock, which has been strained; stir until sauce boils and keep hot over hot water. Add cream, seasonings, lemon juice, and liquid from fish platter, and divide in two portions. To one portion add tomato catsup to make a delicate pink. To remaining sauce add green color paste or concentrated spinach juice to give a delicate pink.

Stuffed Orange-Pear Salad

Cut grenadine stuffed orange in sections. Quarter Melba creme de menthe pears. Arrange crisp leaves of lettuce or endive on plate and place the slices of orange and pears alternately with salad plant, using two sections of each for each individual service. Serve with mayonnaise.

Twelfth-Night

Twelfth-night is a chance for fun which is often overlooked. This festivity makes a family ceremony out of what might have been a cleaning-up process after Christmas. The eve of the festival of the Epiphany, (Jan. 6), which occurs exactly 12 days after Christmas, is twelfth-night. This date marks the close of the Christmas season and is celebrated in many sections with merrymaking of various kinds.

The English have bequeathed to us a twelfth-night cake, made according to the accompanying recipe, with which to start the ceremonies at the table. A bean should be put in the cake and the person that gets the bean should be crowned king of the festival. Then when all adjourn to the living room the Christmas decorations should be removed and carefully stored away for future use and the holly, mistletoe and pine be burned. The burning of this part of the decorations gives off a pleasant odor and it is interesting to watch the crackling pine and holly leap into red and yellow flames or hiss into a blue flare.

Recipe for Twelfth-Night Cake

One cupful sugar.
Five eggs.
Three tablespoonfuls fruit juice.
One-fourth cupful chopped citron.
One-fourth cupful chopped lemon rind.
One-fourth cupful chopped orange peel.
One-fourth cupful Almonds, cut in strips.
One pound currants.
Two cupfuls pastry flour.
One-half teaspoonful ginger.
One-half teaspoonful cinnamon.
One-half teaspoonful allspice.
One-half teaspoonful nutmeg.

Cream butter. Add sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Add unbeaten eggs one at a time, beating until light and fluffy after each addition. Add fruit juice with chopped fruits and nuts. Mix and sift flour with spices and fold into first mixture. Bake in a slow oven —250 degrees F.—for two hours or until firm to the touch, in a paper-lined loaf pan.

ALLEN ALLEGES

By JACK (RED) ALLEN

"The hard luck team," is what they're calling the Texas university Longhorns. In every game this season the Steers have had difficulties. Several times the Longhorn cagers were apparently "in" with their victory but an enemy rally ate up the lead and let the Orange and White basketeers down with another defeat. Coach Fred Walker is reputed to have one of the best teams in the Southwest conference but unless he disposes of the jinx idea among the players, the Longhorns will go right on losing them by one or two points.

This season may mark the end of the Arkansas university reign over the basket ball crown. For the past four seasons the Razorbacks have conquered everything in sight and captured four conference championships. The Hogs have another good machine this year, but it will never equal the marks set by the fives of previous national fame. The Porkers have a wonderful player in Pickren, three-year vet on the Hog squad. He captains this year's squad and never fails to get at least six or eight points in a game and sometimes goes hog wild and gets 15 or 20. There is not a shadow of a doubt but that he is the greatest basket baller in the conference. But despite this valuable member of the Porker team, they are scheduled to place anywhere from the cellar up to second place in the Southwest conference standings.

Judging from the type of basket ball now being played in and around Wichita Falls this season, some future stars should some day boast of "The City That Faith Built" as their former home. From the junior highs to the church teams the game is a popular sport and hundreds find enjoyment and exercise on the grand ol' hardwood. Around the county and enclosed in the district boundries we find first class cage teams that are entering into the sport with lots of enthusiasm.

I've just learned something interesting; listen to this. The longest word in the English language is antidisestablishmentarianistically. Now somebody be kind enough to use it in a sentence.

A colorful figure has retired from the tennis world. Big Bill Tilden, outstanding tennis player of the United States for a number of years, has decided to quit the old net game and take up acting for a liying. He will be sorely missed when the Davis cup competition rolls around, but his opponents heave a sigh of relief when they know that the "Big Bill" won't be competing in the tourney.

Several years ago the Coyotes won the district championship in football and advanced to the bi-district round along with seven other district winners. At the football game were two officials who today hold a prominent place in the sports of the local high school. Barry Holton, present mentor of the Coyotes, was the umpire of the game which Ranger won 21-0, largely through the efforts of Buster Mills, hero of the East-West battle. In the band of rooters that rode the special rattler to Wichita Falls for the game was Leo Underwood, director of the Ranger High school band. Today Musician Underwood is the director of the local high school band and has built a real band to pep the Coyotes up in their games.

1932 Dixie Classic Will Be Different

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP)—Officials of the Dixie classic football game for charity New Year's day, in which the Southwest team defeated the mid-West team, 18 to 0, indicated today that next year the "gate will be thrown open" and players will be asked to participate from all sections of the country. The United States would be divided into sections, the North and South, each of which would supply one of the competing squads.

This expansion almost was made necessary by the action of the Southwest conference faculty athletic committee in barring from further participation in winter and spring sports all athletes who take part in post-season football games, even though they are not paid and do nothing to impair their amateur standing.

Subsidization of Athletes Banned by Student Group

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 2. (AP)—A resolution deploring the subsidizing of athletes in American colleges was passed here today by the sixth annual congress of the National Students federation.

Another resolution, dealing indirectly with the same subject and favoring the awarding of scholarships on an academic basis "regardless of extracurricular activities," also was passed.

CHERRY'S TEAM SUBDUES PACK

Faulkner, Fort Worth Center, Is Real Sensation

By JACK ALLEN

Succumbing to a versatile attack, the Wichita Falls High school Coyotes dropped a practice game to the North Side cagers on the Coyote courts yesterday afternoon by the count of 43 to 19. Although they started in the lead, the Pack failed to do anything after the first few minutes and were outclassed all the way.

Howell, lanky red and black clad forward, started the ball rolling with a two pointer and Orion Janeway followed with a sink from the free throw line to give the Coyotes a momentary three-point lead. The Steers of Coach J. E. Cherry rallied and gathered seven points ere the first quarter ended.

Coyotes Weaken

The Coyotes began to weaken late in the second quarter when North Side raised their total to 16 while holding the fighting Pack to only eight points. Thoroughly tired by the third stanza, the proteges of Coach Barry Holton saw only the fleeing heels of the boys from Cowtown. Faulkner, sensational center for the visitors, hit the basket nearly every time he tossed the ball and ran wild to chalk up 14 points. The last quarter found the Pack battling hard but unable to cope with the Steers. The victors left no doubt as to their superiority and were never in danger after the first few minutes.

Faulkner, besides grabbing off high point honors, was the greatest individual performer of the day. His total of 14 points was one reason the Pack didn't have a chance. Richie and Connelly played an important part in the defensive program of the winners. Green also turned in a great game from the forward position. Howell and Allen led the way for the losers with six points each. Janeway had a great day at the guard position and was his team's mainstay on the defense and contributed four points to his team's total.

The victory was the first road game played by the Fort Worth cagers. They are on their way to play the best teams in each section of the Panhandle. Only one defeat has been administered to the fast Steers, Texas Christian Frosh turning the trick. But on the other side of the ledger the North Side schoolboy quintet has won eight practice games. It was the second defeat in a row for the hard-fighting Coyotes, Waurika ekeing out an 18 to 16 victory.

Fully 750 fans crowded the auditorium to witness the Bovine-Pack battle. A high school band rent the air with pep songs and marches. Everyone agreed that it was one of the largest crowds ever seen at a local game, and that undoubtedly the Pack met one of the strongest teams in the state.

Little Rock to Have New Baseball Field

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 2. (AP)—Out of a three-month depression came Little Rock's baseball future today.

While details were veiled in secrecy, an arrangement has been made for financing and constructing a new baseball park for the homeless Travelers according to an announcement by H. Grady Manning, leader of the group seeking to retain the Southern association franchise here.

In conjunction with this announcement, Manning reported business men were completing plans for formation of a company to take over the club holdings from R. G. Allen, owner.

Today's word came as the first favorable sign toward retention of the franchise and is the result of work on the past of local interests to untangle the muddle precipitated last September when the Little Rock school board refused to renew the lease on Kavanaugh field, former Traveler park.

International Polo Tourney Is Planned

REYNOSA, Mexico, Jan. 2. (AP)—Preparations are being made for an international polo tournament here Jan. 11 to 16 between six strong teams from Mexico and Texas.

Teams entered include the General J. Jaime Quinones club of Mexico City, the Monterrey Officers club, the Reynosa Civilians, Fort Brown Officers club and Civilian Fours from Corpus Christi and Dallas.

The Quinones team recently won an international tournament at Mexico City in which teams from San Angelo and the eighth corps area competed.

Wildcats Wail When Wichita Warriors Capture Crazy Cage Contest 28 to 0

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Jan. 2.—An unorthodox score was the result of the Reagan Junior High of Wichita Falls and the Archer City second team basket ball game tonight when the Redbirds triumphed over the home team 28 to 0. Although it resembles a football score more than it does a basket ball score, the result is a fact and not a typographical error.

Such a score must be deserved. The tight defense displayed by the Reagan five was absolutely impenetrable and the Kittens got exactly as many points as there are hairs on a billiard ball. The scoreless first quarter meant little or nothing to the members of both teams and very few had visions of a shutout when the home quintet had still registered nothing at the half. At the end of the third quarter the losers realized with a distinct shock that they had failed to create any movement on their side of the scorebook. During the final stanza, the Archer county passers filled the air with leather in hope of changing that goose egg on the scoreboard to some numbers. The red and white guards fought back the Cat charge and their goal was still uncrossed at the end of the game. A shutout in football is not uncommon, a love set in tennis is rare as is a shutout in baseball, but when a team blanks another in basket ball—well something in Denmark is not very fresh.

Stengel led the way to the unusual victory with 10 points, Phillips being close behind with 8 points. West registered six and Fletcher checked in with four tallies to complete the scoring for the Resganites. The high scorer for the losers was nowhere to be found.

Fort Worth Manager Has Hopes For Second Consecutive Championship

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP)—Fort Worth's chances of repeating in the 1931 Texas baseball league race depends on the experienced members of the club coming through Manager Art Pehlan said today.

"If the class men come through as good as they have been futured, we will have a great ball club," declared Phelan. "Of course, our chances also depend upon the strength of the other clubs," Phelan continued.

"Hopes of Fort Worth winning can be placed directly upon the pitchers and Eddie Brown, Chester Fowler and Larry Cox. Should they come through everything will be all right."

Several seasoned performers of the 1930 championship team probably will not be returned this season, Phelan said. One is Joe Bonowitz, veteran left fielder. There has been no disposition made of Bonowitz. Red Roberts and Hugh Buchanan, right-handed pitchers, are in the group with Bonowitz.

Parker "Well Rope" Perry, purchased from Shreveport at the close of the 1930 season, is a contender for Bonowitz' left field position.

Present plans of Phelan call for seven pitchers, five class men and two non-class players. At present the roster shows only four class men who are likely to be retained, Leon Chagnon, bought from Pittsburgh; Dick McCabe, holdover, and Earl "Hap" Collard and Roy F. "Lefty" Hansen, both obtained from the Philadelphia Phillies.

Grand Old Man of Football Rests After Strenuous Season

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The Scandinavian master of the Irish—Knute Kenneth Rockne—planted his ailing dogs on the cushion of a soft chair in his hotel suite and gave up a vain effort to remain hidden in New York.

"Let's talk about anything," he said, "anything but football. I'm an invalid."

Whereupon the coach of the finest football team in the country produced this fall launched into a lecture on physiology, all about the ganglion of the sympathetic nerve system, which seems to have something to do with the swelling of his legs and the clotting of blood in his veins. He quoted extensively from books he has been reading on the subject and seemed a trifle embarrassed that with all these things wrong with him, he still looked ruddy and hearty, anything but ill.

Rest Necessary

"I'm fine now," he concluded as he wound long rubber bandages about the calves of his legs. . . . I can do anything I want to, just as I always have, but I must rest two days during a week during the next football season to get back the energy I use up."

With that matter all straightened out, the Notre Dame mentor promptly switched the subject to football. He arrived in town today for a week's visit, but his hospital stay at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., forced him to miss the annual coaches meetings here last week.

"Football is all right just as it is," he insisted. "If I had been at the meetings there was nothing I could have suggested. I'm in favor of letting the game alone for a while. Why even the coaches are beginning to find out what it's all about.

"If anything, football is suffering from two false American credos.

"First, if it interests and entertains people—here must be something wrong with it.

"Second, if its successful—there must be something wrong with it."

Rockne doesn't like to rate one of his teams above another, but he thinks his 1930 squad was about the best he ever sent out onto a field.

Rockne was asked if he were going into the sports writing business on the side as a part-time member of a Chicago newspaper staff at a reported wage of $25,000 a year.

"How much?" gasped Rockne.

"$25,000," he was told. "The story was printed today."

"Let me read about it, anyway," Knute grinned. "Can you imagine that?"

CRITICS FLOG OVER EMPHASIS

1930 Season Causes Panic In Football World

(NOTE: This is the first of a series of stories based on an Associated Press survey of current college athletic conditions, trends and problems, dealing particularly with intercollegiate football).

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—College athletics in general and football in particular, still suffering somewhat from the growing pains of supersalesmanship and ballyhoo, have been abruptly brought face to face with somewhat critical conditions for 1931.

This conclusion, drawn from a comprehensive survey of the national situation by The Associated Press, is emphasized by the crossfire of criticism leveled at intercollegiate football during the final week of the old year by orators from many sections of the country.

What many close observers regard as the severest crisis in the past decade is due, not to any one set of clearly defined causes, however, but to an accumulation of complexities, chief among them are the combined ills of over-emphasis and the effects of considerable depression in the region of the box offices.

So long as college football was on the crest of a popular wave, buoyed by general prosperity, the indoor critics usually were tossed for a loss by the outdoor performers. Reformers were forgotten after the first kickoff. Now, however, voices of the undenilable and potent authority have been raised in the widespread attack upon objectionable features of the gridiron game.

A combination of factors, ripened since the publication of the famous Carnegie foundation report, has spurred coaches and executives to seek reduction of such over-emphasized features as training camps and spring practice; to wipe out the evils of subsidizing and recruiting; to curb the dangers of too much commercialism in schedule making.

Effective measures, already have been taken to abolish spring practice altogether as a means of deflecting mounting criticism against high pressure football methods. These measures follow the steps already taken by such conference groups as in the Big Ten and on the Pacific coast, designed to keep football from dominating too much.

Depressed business conditions have not hit all of the major colleges by any means, notably in such sections as the Pacific Northwest, Rocky mountain and Southwest areas where football "booms" were enjoyed last fall, but The Associated Press survey reveals that four out of every five institutions have been forced either to economize sharply on athletic expenses or curtail activities.

Olney Cubs Crush Electra Cage Crew

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 2.—Coach Albert Acker's Olney Cubs resumed their winning ways today when they trampled the fighting Electra Tigers here in a practice skirmish, 33 to 14. The winners flashed a powerful offensive attack that engulfed the inexperienced Tigers and piled up the points in a decisive manner.

With Wright, scintillating center, sinking the two-pointers from every section of the floor the red-jersied Cubs galloped to victory over the stubborn Tiger five. West also was hot with a total of 10 points from the floor. An airtight Cub defense coupled with the inability to get their eye on the hoop kept the Tiger scores down to almost nothing. Curfman, Tiger center, being the only one who could solve the intricacies of the Cub defense. Cloninger turned in a heroic game from the guard position, breaking up Cub plays that seemed certain to add to the already overwhelming Cub lead.

Oil Town Team Goes Into First Place Tie

Getting away to a great start, Coach Jesse Johnson's Burkburnett's High Bulldog dribblers went into a tie for first place in the county standings by defeating the Fairview Wildcats, 23 to 9, in the opening conference games for both teams. The winner of the county tournament will be determined by the result of the round robin schedule now in progress.

The winners fell on the Fairview five and crushed them before the first half was ended, the score at the half resting at 11 to 3. Marley consistently got the tip off to his mates that usually ended in a goal in spite of the frenzied efforts of the losers to stop the charge. Ragsdale also had a great day, getting eight points, only one less than Marley, and playing a jam-up defensive game. Bunstein and Lamb were the bright spots in the defeat of the Cats, the former gathering two-thirds of his team's total score.

CLARA QUINTET DEFEATS HAWKS

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 2.—Flashing a powerful offensive, the Clara High cagers downed the Iowa Park Hawks here last night when the home team played its first conference game and lost by the decisive score of 40 to 13. It was the second game for the Clara boys, Cashion having taken the number of the Greyhounds in a previous battle.

As in previous games, the visitors got away to a great start and piled up the lead until it grew monotonous. The tally at halftime stood at 21 to 5. The second half was a duplicate of the first as the winners scored at will and resisted every effort of the home team to start a rally. Walkup was right and collected 15 points to gain the position of high scorer. Stone also supped the wine of victory with a great defensive game and a sum of seven points that wasn't needed. Walker led the way for the losers. He and G. Cowart gathered 11 of the 13 points allowed the Hawks, and they both were powers on the defense. The victory throws the Greyhounds into a tie for second place with Cashion.

Crowds Hear Trial Of Colquitt Davis

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 2. (AP)—Hundreds of spectators packed district courtroom today while attorneys vainly attempted to select a jury for the murder trial of Colquitt Davis, accused slayer of Con Keirsey, widely known peace officer.

Veniremen with fixed opinions and others opposed to the extreme penalty the state will demand, delayed the start of the trial. A regular venire of 50 was exhausted in the first few hours and tonight only a handful were left of a special panel of 100.

The 20-year-old youth, alleged to have fatally wounded Deputy Sheriff Keirsey at a Wirt, Okla., rooming house was captured on the Texas Panhandle recently after his brother, D. L. Davis, had been slain by Wichita, Kan., officers who tried to arrest the pair for the Wirt affray.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 2. (AP)—Arrangements were being made today by Dr. J. G. Binkley, federal physician, for transfer to a hospital of W. O. Gordon, former investigator for the attorney general, from the Oklahoma county jail.

The ex-investigator was accused of accepting $2,300 from alleged members of a Pottawatomie county liquor ring during their prosecution in federal court here last February.

Better Business Committee Votes To Continue Employment Bureau

Leaders to Work for Record Attendance at C.-C. Annual Meeting at Auditorium Jan. 9

At a meeting of the Better Business campaign committee Friday afternoon it was voted to continue the employment office which was established several weeks ago. The office has been moved from the chamber of commerce rooms to the office formerly occupied by the Bennett company in the Waggoner building, Scott street side.

The publicity committee made its recommendations to the general committee. It was voted to continue the publicity through January and February to attract more business to Wichita Falls and endeavor to keep up retail sales.

The committee appointed to look after some civic improvement that would give employment, reported that a plan for a cheap dam across the Wichita river had been passed on as feasible but that other matters pertaining to the formation of a lake in the river would require additional time to determine whether it can be done without legal entanglements.

The committee pledged its support to bring out a record attendance at the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce, which will be held in Memorial auditorium Friday evening, Jan. 9. Every effort will be made to fill the auditorium to capacity.

John W. Thomas was appointed chairman of the general committee on attendance at the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce. Burton Stayton and Jack Barnard were named assistants.

Those attending the meeting were J. C. Mytinger, general chairman; Lester Jones, vice chairman; John Boswell, secretary; Burton Stayton, Harry Gray Jr., Jack Barnard, John W. Thomas, J. H. Allison, Albert E. Kelly, Walter S. Curlee, and Roscoe Staton.

Government Of Panama Beaten

SWIFT REVOLT ENDS REGIME

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 2. (AP)—A swift, vigorous revolution today brought the government of the Republic of Panama crashing down on the head of President Florencio Harmodio Arosemena. He resigned and appointed Dr. Marmodio Arias, one of the leaders of the revolt, to form a new government.

Ten persons were killed in sharp fighting that started near the presidential palace. Among the injured was Hartwell F. Ayers, American newspaper correspondent. Of the dead, eight were police officers and two civilians. Fifteen were wounded.

Tonight the city was outwardly calm. Except for hurrying groups of armed civilians and red-shirted firemen directing traffic and a complete halting of business, there was nothing to remind of the crash of firearms that resounded in the streets early in the day.

The rebellion was sponsored by the "Accion Communal," a patriotic organization which has violently criticized what it termed the "corruption" of the government under both President Chiari and President Arosemena.

Suddenly, without warning, a group of about 100 men this morning stormed the headquarters of the national police, who also served as Panama's only standing army. There were a few outbursts of firing and the station fell into the hands of the rebels.

Simultaneously other attackers swarmed on the palace, where after a brief resistance, the defenders gave way and the rebels swept in. President Arosemena was confined to his quarters with several other government officials including Archibaldo Boyd, governor of the province of Panama, and Ricardo Arango, head of the police.

After a consultation for several hours with the revolutionary leaders, President Arosemena appointed Dr. Harmodio Arias premier of Panama, then resigned as president, leaving Arias at liberty to form a new cabinet.

With the police headquarters and the palace in their hands, civilians associated with the revolutionists patrolled the city under the direction of Gen. Manuel Quintero. Shops remained closed, there was no bus service and automobiles dashed through the city, carrying armed men who were posted as guards on police duty.

Dallas Capitalist Claimed by Death

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (UP)—Cecil A. Keating, 80, Dallas capitalist whose first business here was transacted in a tent, died today after a week's illness. Keating's holdings at his death were valued at more than $10,000,000.

In 1875 he established an implement business in Dallas. By 1905 he was able to retire, although he continued to be a prominent figure in civic affairs. Since 1891 he has been president of the Trinity River Navigation company, organized to secure government aid to convert the Trinity river into a 500-mile canal. He aided in the organization of the state fair of Texas, and for a short time served as president of the exposition.

MRS. ESCOBAR FILES SUIT

General's Whereabouts Is Made Known

erty and custody of their son, Jose Jr., age 4.

Attorneys and investigators for the plaintiff said Escobar, after abandoning his army went to Mazatlan, on the Pacific coast, and then to Seattle and into Canada. Elsia Valles, the attorneys said, joined him in Montreal, coming across from Juarez into El Paso.

Investigators said that for some time Escobar's correspondence with friends in El Paso was conducted through a man in Chicago known here as Crawford. By tracing correspondence and conversing with creditors who gave Escobar money for provisions for his rebel army investigators said they were able to trace the general to Montreal.

Several of Escobar's aides live in El Paso. Numerous accounts against him for provisions and money commandeered by him for troops, have been placed in the hands of El Paso attorneys for collection. Some of the accounts are for recovery of more than $50,000.

In her petition Mrs. Escobar said she was married to the general in July, 1924, and that she learned recently Escobar's first marriage to Elsia Valles had not been dissolved.

The petitioner also has asked permission to continue her residence in El Paso, pending settlement of the action. The Canadian laws require litigants to be residents unless otherwise authorized.

General Escobar headed the revolution which was launched in March, 1929, following a manifesto known as the "plan of hermosillo" under which the revolutionists sought to establish a new government in the place of that headed by Portes Gil.

Military headquarters were established at Torreon, and Juarez was seized by the rebels. Following defeats of the rebels in the Vera Cruz area the government forces drove the revolutionists from Torreon, Chihuahua City and Juarez. After some further fighting along the border in Sonora the rebels disbanded and General Escobar disappeared.

POLICE SEEK BOY'S KIDNAPER

Busch Family Refuses To Prosecute Negro

young Orthwein, who was restored to his parents after 20 hours captivity in a small frame house in Webster Groves, a suburb, where Charles Abernathy and his family had been living in destitute circumstances.

The police questioned the senior Abernathy throughout the day, but held him incommunicado and would give no details, other than he admitted his son was the kidnaper.

Shortly before Percy J. Orthwein and Harry Troll, his attorney, discovered "Buppie" Orthwein, the kidnaped boy, standing on a country road near the Orthwein estate, senior Abernathy had telephoned Orthwein the boy was safe and then conferred with Orthwein, Troll and August A. Busch Jr.

"Father to Father"

"As father to father," Troll said the senior Abernathy told Orthwein, "I want to give you back your boy. You are worried about your son and I am worried about mine."

The Orthwein and Busch families refused to divulge details and stood by their promise to tell nothing if the boy was returned to them unharmed. They did not desire to prosecute the abductor and Troll said if it was found the kidnaper was driven to his crime by extreme want, it was possible the Busch family would find employment for him.

No ransom money was demanded or paid, they said.

Prosecutor Harry Castlen of St. Louis county, where the Orthwein estate is located in an exclusive district, said, however, the negro kidnaper would be vigorously prosecuted by the state, if he is captured and the police succeed in getting evidence on which to proceed.

Journey's End For 'Papa' Joffre An Inventor's Suicide What Is Success?

By EMILE GAUVREAU

"Papa" Joffre, hero of the Marne, is dying in Paris, a stone's throw from the tomb of Napoleon, greatest soldier of them all.

The great war produced, perhaps, no figure more universally admired and beloved than Marshal Joffre. When he came to America in 1917 he was received everywhere with demonstrations accorded generally only to American heroes. Even our own Pershing was not more popular.

Some men, placed in position of grave responsibility, are instinctive in their vision. Joffre was such a man. He was not the tactician that made Foch a generalissimo. He believed in God and himself and thought the two could work things out together. While Paris was in panic and alarm, he telephoned nightly from the battle front: "Don't worry. If we can hold on 15 more days I shall answer for everything and the situation will be fine." Calm in the face of danger was his greatest asset. History produces such men when history is to be made.

Some historians will say Joffre was a genius, but they will be wrong. A genius in his situation on the eve of the battle of the Marne might have lost. The Germans were on the offensive. To stop them would be but a compromise. To take the offensive against them would save Paris. Joffre combined his left wing with the British army, "a mass capable of retaking the offensive," as he put it. It worked out, but it was calm and confidence, implanted in the hearts of his soldiers, that did the job.

The passing of Joffre will be mourned as a personal bereavement by all those who knew him, or knew of him. The mausoleum of Napoleon is visited with curiosity, wonder and respect. That of Joffre will be massed with flowers of love.

Inventors, when they commit suicide, and this hapens often, do so as a rule when their efforts are unsuccessful, or fail to win recognition. Professor Gardner Yerkes, 68 years old, of Brooklyn, reverses the usual. He kills himself when his researches of 10 years in blood pressure cure are crowned with success. He was just beginning to receive royalties on his invention.

Why was it that at this exact moment Yerkes decided that life was no longer worth living? Do not envy the successful man of modern life who has accepted any sort of self-denial to attain what he foolishly thought was the summit. Success, to many, is the worst disillusionment. Celebrated actors, authors, scientists, philosophers, find world applause bitter as rind and ashes in the mouth. To be great, they discover, is to be lonelier than ever. Lloyd George described it well when he was riding the top wave of international fame: "It is very cold on the heights."

The happy man on the street might find a moral in this and decide that to go along unglorified is not such a bad thing after all. Somebody said that it is success that colors all th life; success makes fools admired, makes villains honest. One secret is to know how to deny yourself and other people, but there is a price to be paid for this.

Because a professor declared Santa Claus a myth, a wealthy Parisian, Marcel Dauprey, has started a suit against the savant for causing "moral harm" to his son, who was a pupil of the professor.

Truth is not facts. The professor, who thought he was imparting truth to Dauprey's son, was only imparting a fact. But truth need not square with fact. If it had to, then all the beauty in the world, treasured up in poetry, mythology, music legends, literature, the fine arts, would have to be thrown out as rubbish.

Schoolboys in a Missouri town were found playing marbles with gold nuggets, says a news item. There's a wealth of enjoyment in a game like that.

The Boston police department has equipped itself with paraphernalia for detecting fake antiques. It takes a copper to know his brass.

A Concern of Society

THERE is a little boy who hasn't any place to go.

He can't go home, for he has killed a man. He can't go to the penitentiary yet; he is too young. And the boys' industrial school of Ohio, situated at Lancaster, which is supposed to care for him until he reaches the grown-up age of 21, can't take him, either, for the rules of the school prohibit acceptance of a person who is in for a long sentence, according to its superintendent.

So John Woods is as homeless as the man without a country.

But he is no more concerned about himself than is a society which is confronted with a problem that it doesn't know how to solve. Vast fortunes have been spent in an effort to provide the proper institutions, schools and courses of training for those who have erred. John Woods is a different type of problem. He will never be permitted to go back into the world. He killed a man, during a hold-up. And he is only 14.

One wonders what the reaction of the other boys in an industrial school would be to John Woods. Would they stand off, a little shyly, and whisper to each other that he is the boy who killed a man . . . who staged a hold-up . . . did the things that grown men do? And would there be a little fear in their voices, a little aloofness in their manner? Or would there be a touch of admiration because his crime was a dramatic one?

We don't know about such things, for each of these institutions is a world apart. But the problem which centers around John Woods opens the door into the great brick buildings where all the other wanderers from the right path are centered. Their attitude toward others who commit misdemeanors . . . who shoot men . . . confronts society.

We are our brothers' keepers. We can't escape that truth. And those who are older and wiser must direct these lads, teach them to distinguish the gold from the dross; show them that those things which are not real will soon become tarnished as last year's Christmas tinsel.

There will always be some, of course, who cannot be taught. There are many who can.

And meantime it is never too late to "come back." Even when all one's life must be shut away from the trails where high winds blow.

This decision as to where John Woods shall go should concern society as much as it does the 14-year-old boy himself.

A Child and the Truth

ONE OF the most illuminating stories of recent weeks, it seems to us, is the one telling how a rich Parisian has sued the tutor of his son for telling the boy that there is no Santa Claus.

This story came over The United Press wires, and told how Marcel Dauprey hired a professor to coach his 7-year-old son in order that the boy might not acquire a worldly knowledge at too early an age. The professor did his best, but he did break the news about Santa; and now M. Dauprey has sued him, charging that this bit of information caused the son "moral harm."

This misadventure is somehow characteristic. What parent, undertaking to bring up a child in the way he should go, has not bumped into just such a disappointment? All of us resolve that our own children shall be disillusioned about the world just a little more gently than we ourselves were disillusioned. We take especial pains to let their trailing clouds of glory hang about their shoulders as long as may be; and then, one day, we wake up to discover that they know a great deal more than we had either supposed or desired.

All of this is perfectly natural; and unless one raises his son on a desert island, it is inevitable. For while children are given, by their parents, rose-colored spectacles to look at the world, they have a way of taking them off whenever they can and finding things out for themselves. We older ones, knowing how cruel the world can be, are sentimentalists; the children, knowing nothing whatever about it and expecting the best, are little realists.

Indeed, they do not always expect the best. Who has not surprised his son or daughter suspecting that all is not quite for the best in an imperfect world? We want to shield them, and we try to, staving off unpleasant knowledge as long as we can; but they get around us, collecting unpleasant data about the cosmos as eagerly as so many writers for the American Mercury.

And it is probable that this is a good thing. For the longer we postpone disillusionment, the more painful and crippling it is apt to be when it arrives. The youngster who is used to it from an early age stands a much better chance than the one who has been too carefully protected.

Perhaps that is why such an enormous proportion of great men begin their lives amid poverty. The children of the poor soon learn to see the world just as it is. Their illusions, of necessity, die early. Is that one reason why the log cabin has sent so many more men to the White House than has the mansion of the rich man?

Who Started the War?

AN OFFICIAL committee of the German reichstag, having studied the causes of the world war, finds that most of the blame for starting the trouble goes to Russia, with Serbia and Austria-Hungary sharing in the guilt.

Being a German committee, it naturally views Germany's part in the negotiations that led to the war a little more favorably than, say, a French committee would.

However, there is this to remember: all of this talk about who started the war is senseless unless it is realized that the war was chiefly a product of the European system of handling international relations. It grew out of that system inevitably. If the murder of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand had not started it, some other minor incident would have. It is futile to try to indict any one nation for it. In a real sense, all of the nations were equally guilty.

LITTLE MISS NOBODY

By VIDA HURST

SYNOPSIS

Dolores Graham, 36 years old and unusually attractive to men, and Dr. Fenton are found in each other's arms, shot to death, in the latter's office. Celeste, 19 and equally beautiful, is the daughter of Dolores. Because of the scandal attached to her mother's death, Celeste is ostracised from her "crowd" and becomes a Miss Nobody instead of a respected girl.

Celeste is forced to take a new job at the Elite Department store and she meets and falls in love with Dale Hamilton Jr., son of the owner of the store. At the store Celeste meets Blondie McManus, a sophisticated girl of Celeste's age with a heart of gold.

Russell Graham, Celeste's father, deserts her and goes to northern California in search of work because of the scandal. Blondie moves into Celeste's apartment and they share expenses on a 50-50 basis.

Through Dale Hamilton, Celeste gets a job in Randolph Clayton's offices as private secretary. Dale and Celeste are admittedly in love with each other, even though Dale knows all about the scandal which made her a "Little Miss Nobody."

One day Dale fails to keep a date with Celeste and, although he comes into the office on several occasions, he fails to speak to her. Wondering what can be the matter, Celeste accepts a dinner engagement with her employer, Mr. Clayton.

At dinner they meet Dale Hamilton. It is 10 o'clock before Celeste reaches her apartment, to find Dale sitting in his roadster waiting for her.

They go for a ride and have a reconciliation. Dale makes Celeste promise never to go anywhere with Clayton again.

Time passes. Christmas rolls around and Clayton calls Celeste into his office to give her a miniature of his mother as a Christmas present.

Celeste is informed that her father has been killed in an automobile accident. She spends her first Christmas day without either her father or mother. Dale gives her an engagement ring for her present. Pat, Dale's sister, calls him on the phone.

Some time later Patricia Hamilton calls on Celeste to talk her out of her "affair" with Dale. She tries to persuade her that the best way of showing her love for Dale is to give him up.

Celeste decides to give Dale up and refuses to talk to him on the telephone or to see him. Her heart skips a beat when he stops at her desk to demand an explanation.

Celeste refuses to either explain or see him again. A week, which seems like years, passes. Celeste begins to wonder if, after all, Dale loves her enough to give up allowance and family connections for her. She determines to find out.

That night at Celeste's apartment Dale calls and they make up. They decide, however, that it will be better to wait until Dale's family is reconciled to Celeste before getting married.

The weeks roll by and Dale proves to be the ideal lover for Celeste. Blondie is going to marry Billy and Dale suggests that he rent an apartment for Celeste when the lease expires. She refuses and they quarrel about it. Celeste returns her engagement ring. Blondie comes home.

"All right . . . that settles it. Will you marry me? Now . . . tonight?"

CHAPTER XXXIV

In vain Dale argued, cajoled and threatened.

"But, Celeste, I explained to you once. It isn't my place to deny an engagement which was supposedly announced by Cynthia's parents."

"I don't care whose place it is. I simply won't go on seeing you if the world thinks you're engaged."

She suspected now that he was spending the evenings he did not come to see her with Cynthia. When she accused him of it he said, "Supposing I do? Is there anything wrong about that? You must remember Cynthia and I have been friends all our lives."

The matter had reached a deadlock on the evening she had promised to move. The more Dale pleaded the more Celeste was convinced that he was deceiving her. All the stories she had ever heard about wealthy young men and poor little Cinderellas returned to torture her. But if he thought her love could be bought by pearl rings, expensive evening gowns and gorgeously furnished apartments he might as well know it couldn't.

"There's no use," she said, stubbornly. But tears were shining in her eyes.

"The rent is paid for a month whether you live there or not," he reminded her.

"I can't help that."

"Then you don't love me."

"Dale, I do! How would you feel if the situation were reversed? Supposing my engagement had been announced? Would you be willing to believe my explanation that I had had nothing to do with it? That it was just a joke?"

Dale flushed to the roots of his fair hair.

"It sounds unreasonable, of course. But if you trusted me"—

"Would you trust me?" she retorted.

In the end they parted coldly. The situation was getting on their nerves. Each felt one more break would be final. They dreaded it and wished desperately to avoid it, but fate seemed to be pushing them apart.

"If we quit again it will be the end," Celeste admitted, miserably.

She knew Dale loved her. It was his courage rather than his love she doubted. But a deeply rooted suspicion she could not overcome convinced her that he was lying about his engagement to Cynthia.

She renewed her search for a furnished room. After the apartment Dale had chosen, she found them dirty and unattractive. It was heartbreaking to think of that adorable apartment remaining tenantless for an entire month.

But there were, Celeste realized, drearily, some things she would never be able to do. It was bad enough to let the young man you intended to marry pay your rent. It was impossible to accept such a favor from one who belonged to another girl.

Eventually she rented a room in Glendale, sold the antiquated furniture to a second hand man and prepared to move with only her personal belongings and Dolores' trunk.

The night before she was to do so Dale came. When he saw her packed suit cases in the almost vacant apartment he demanded, "Where are you going?"

"To a room in Glencate. A perfectly respectable furnished room."

"If you do, it means that I shall not see you again."

Her heart was suffocating her, but her curt tone matched his.

"That's for you to say, of course."

He was at her side then, holding her hands, pleading. "Darling, how can you be so stubborn? Don't you realize what this means?"

"It means the end, I suppose. But I didn't make the conditions."

"You are referring to my engagement again?"

She nodded, swallowing her tears like a hurt child.

"It's been two weeks since your engagement was announced."

"It isn't my fault."

His words infuriated her. She faced him with her blue eyes blazing in a white, angry face.

"Whose fault is it, then? Do you expect me to go on believing in promises which you never keep? I

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Arms Get Numb

Question—M. H. writes: "Please tell me what causes the arms to go to sleep and get numb at night. Is this because of high blood pressure?"

Answer—If you know you have high blood pressure you have doubtless answered your own question, as this does cause the arms to become numb. Valvular leakage of the heart is also sometimes responsible for poor circulation and numbness of the arms.

Sauce for Vegetables

Question—G. F. asks: "How can one prepare a palatable sauce for green peas without making a 'wrong' combination?"

Answer—A palatable sauce can be made by adding cream and butter, and thickening with a little dextrinized, or browned, flour. The juice that is not used should be saved for soup, which may be made very appetizing by the use of milk or cream and any finely chopped non-starchy vegetable you may wish.

Diet for Bow-Legged Baby

Question—Mrs. A. V. asks: "Do you think that my baby, 16 months old, should have treatments for bow-legs? Don't you think he will outgrow it? One doctor said he would have to have treatments twice a week—that he would not outgrow it. Will you give me your opinion?"

Answer—I do not know of any special treatments which would be effective in the correction of bow-legs except through putting the baby on a correct diet. It would be best to have your baby take nothing but milk and orange juice for a few months. This diet will supply plenty of bone-building minerals. If you wish to have any article on infant feeding, send your request with a large self-addressed stamped envelope and the article will be forwarded to you without charge.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—An early decline in cotton seemed to bring in an increased demand today and trading later was more active with prices decidedly firmer on trade buying and covering. March contracts, after selling off to 9.89 early, advanced to 10.25 or 29 points net higher but lost part of it under realising, with market closing barely steady at net gains of 13-23 points.

The federal farm board statement regarding the cotton outlook appeared to receive a rather bearish interpretation in some quarters during the early trading, but by others was regarded as chiefly emphasizing the importance of acreage and trade development, but except for scattering liquidation there was very little selling in evidence according to local brokers. Later, contracts were comparatively scarce and the market advanced readily on the increased demand which seemed to come partly from Wall street and commission house circles.

Liverpool cables said Manchester and continental selling had been absorbed by Bombay buying in that market but reported a small turnover in cotton cloths and yarns. Exports today 19,489 making 4,019,683 so far this season. Port receipts 16,204. U. S. port stocks 4,156,078.

Futures closed steady, 14 to 23 higher; spot steady, middling 10.15.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2. (AP)—After starting the new year quietly and declining 11 to 12 points during the morning owing mainly to the predictions from Washington that lower prices for cotton would be realized during the present year, the cotton market staged a good rally. This upturn, accompanied by more activity, was attributed to more favorable weekly statistics. The market again bulged in the late trading and made fresh highs 33 to 36 points above the lows. The close was 4 to 5 points under the best, the general market closing steady at net gains for the day of 14 to 18 points.

Liverpool came in 4 to 11 penny points better than due and private cables said Manchester and the continent sold while Bombay bought. First trades here showed a gain of 4 points on January, 2 points on March and a loss of one point on May. March eventually dropped to 9.88 and May to 10.12 down 11 to 12 points from the previous close.

During the early afternoon prices rallied sharply in active trading on more favorable weekly statistics and a firmer stock market and March traded up to 10.10 and May to 10.39 up 22 to 27 points from the lows of the morning.

The market continued to advance in the late trading on reports from New York that large operators there were covering shorts. Active months made further new highs with March at 10.21 and May at 10.48 or 33 to 36 points above the lows. Prices eased off 4 to 5 points on a little realizing and March closed at 10.17 and May at 10.43 or 18 points net higher for the day on those active months.

Port receipts 15,103, for week 133,495, for season 7,021,229. Last season 6,981,924; exports 16,521, for week 162,684, for season 3,895,720, last season 4,186,148. Port stocks 4,267,880, last year 2,713,931. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 141,903, last year 132,005. Spot sales at southern markets 12,506, last year 16,725.

Futures closed steady at net advance of 14 to 18 points:

Cheerful Atmosphere Prevails In Stock Market With Prices Gaining

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (US)—It was a happy new year in the financial markets today, 1931 getting under way with a cheerful start in the stock and bond markets, in grains and in cotton.

The stock market witnessed early irregularity which turned into a rather impressive recovery which persisted to the close, resulting in substantial gains throughout the list. Explanation for the strong performance of stocks hardly could be placed on any particular cause. Short covering undoubtedly contributed a good deal to the day's strength, since many bears had awaited until the last few days of 1930 and the commencement of the new year to receive whatever benefits might accrue from the tax-selling and other year-end adjustments popularly supposed to have depressing influence on prices at such periods.

The sudden advance in corn and wheat, quotations for which were up over three cents a bushel, contributed substantially to an improvement in sentiment, while the firmness of the bond market was also accepted as of extreme significance. Actually, nothing obvious developed over the one-day suspension of trading to cause any sudden spurt in optimism. Trading was on a 2,000,000-share scale, but prices moved upward with apparent ease.

The market was influenced in the morning by the weakness of the very group of stocks which at Wednesday's close had enjoyed such spectacular mark-ups, including American Water Works, American Power & Light and others whose after-the-market spurt was a subject of severe criticism. Water Works and Power & Light each lost five points before the general market turned upward and permitted them to retrace part of their decline. These stocks were among the few to finish the day lower than Wednesday's close.

However, the remainder of the list witnessed large-scale covering, which was particularly evident during the morning setback. The covering was for the account of interests who have been particularly correct in their analysis of the market trend. The volume of trading, however, indicated that only a portion of the short accounts were covered.

The railroad consolidation news furnished again the chief basis for the revived optimism, which now has prevailed for three successive days, judging by the popular averages. Most of the railroads stock showed additional gains, particularly those in the eastern territory. Pennsylvania for the first time in several days participated vigorously in the price appreciation, gaining over two points on well-founded reports that the road's investment in the Lehigh valley and the Wabash, secured at materially higher prices, will be protected under the merger agreement.

Virtually all of the leading stocks enjoyed a recovery, including Steel common, which closed up 2⅞ points at its high for the day of 142. American Can, which had been under pressure early in the day, rebounded over five points from the low. The recovery from the day's lows throughout the market was very substantial. Allied Chemical, however, proved a weak spot, declining to a new low for the year but later recovering with the list. Weakness in the stock, which has been heavily pounded by a strong bear crowd, was attributed to severe price-slashing in the chemical field, its weakness extending to Mathieson Alkali, which likewise went to a new low, and to Dupont. The latter recovered with Allied Chemical.

The most pleasing development of the day, however, was the upturn in the low-priced stocks, especially the motor and oil shares. The strength in the auto stocks of course is quite normal accompaniment to the annual auto show, but as recently disclosed here, very strong financial interests have been accumulating the stronger motor stocks in their belief that at their lowest prices these shares have been discounting even worse conditions than actually exist.

In any event, the motors, oil and other low-priced stocks are widely held by the so-called "public" and strength in this section of the market is calculated to instill greater confidence over the nation than strength among the "blue chips." Some buying of the oils followed advances in gasoline prices in various localities.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP)—Unsettled conditions prevailed Friday on the Fort Worth cash grain market with prices largely a matter of individual opinion and no sales posted after the full advance in contract values on the big markets. Dealers reported very dull demand for wheat, barley and oats; but corn and sorghums were fairly well taken. Number 1 hard wheat of any protein was probably worth 79 to 81c delivered Texas common points. Estimated receipts: Wheat, 12 cars; corn, 8; oats, 1; barley, 1, and sorghums, 2.

Nominal quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Oats—No. 2 red 44@45c.
Barley—No. 2, 58@59c.
Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.23@1.25; No. 2 kaffir $1.21@1.23.

Dealers also quoted, basis delivered Texas group one points, as follows:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 74½@75½c; No. 2 white 77½@78½c; No. 2 yellow 76½@77½c, to which add 3c for delivery group three. No. 3 white oats 43@44c to which add one cent for delivery group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 2. (AP)—Prices of all grains soared late today, with corn showing nearly a 4 cent jump, the leader. The main reason was active purchasing by corn speculators who believed the market had become oversold and switched from the selling side. Renewal of industrial demand for corn to be used at once was a factor giving impetus to buying of future deliveries.

Corn closed buoyant at the day's top figures, 3⅛@3⅜ cents higher, wheat a shade to 3¼ cents up, oats 1⅛@2 cents advanced, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents down.

Activity of grain buyers and boosting of values came chiefly in the final hour. Earlier, corn in particular had run into selling on price bulges, and had averaged lower, even when wheat showed a tendency to advance.

Wheat, rye, and oats moved up owing mainly to corn strength, with corn trade volume much exceeding that of wheat. Need of moisture over domestic winter wheat territory was noted, and there were reports that low prices for wheat were not reflected by lower costs of bream.

Provisions were easier because of scattered selling which found support only fair.

Closing indemnities—Wheat May 81c, 81⅛c; July 64⅝@⅛c, 67⅝@⅛c. Corn: March, offers, 71⅛c; May 70⅛@⅜c, 73½c; July 71¼c, 74⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 2. (US)—Although the bulge in July wheat today was attributed principally to an oversold condition, with short covering induced by the strength in corn, the trade began to interest itself in reports of unfavorable conditions in the winter wheat belt.

Scattered complaints of dryness have been drifting in and have been increasing in number. There is a lack of snow cover in many sections and we are at the season when subnormal temperatures may be expected at any time.

Reprints from a complete analysis of the stripe rust occurrence in Argentine this year are being distributed by Lamson Bros. & Co. The article was prepared by Harry B. Humphrey of the department of agriculture and R. O. Cromwell, crop expert for Lamson Bros. & Co.

According to the figures of the state department of agriculture, Nebraska is expected to feed around 20 per cent of its estimated 70,000,000 bushel wheat crop. Up to date 5,000,000 bushels has been used, it is figured, and 9,000,000 more are to be used. Inasmuch as shipments so far have been nearly 60,000,000 bushels, the feeding would cut well into the carryover from last year and leave but little on hand at the end of the current season.

RUSK COUNTY LAND LEASED

Wichitans Join Activity in East Texas

Special to The Record News.

HENDERSON, Texas, Jan. 2.—Trading in leases and royalty reached a new high level in Rusk county the past week since the Ed W. Bateman No. 1 Lou Della Crim, 14 miles northwest of Henderson blew in the first of the week as a possible 22,500 barrel producer. The Crim well is nine miles north of the Joiner pool. The new producer flowed 920 barrels in the first hour from the sand encountered at 3529-3541 feet.

The Joiner pool, only six miles west of Henderson, continues as the leading section for drilling activity with several new derricks erected during the past week. Derricks in the Joiner field to date number 29.

The territory southwest of Henderson is also undergoing some development and operators are watching with interest the developments of two tests in that vicinity—the Smith Oil company No. 1 Jessie L. Cochran, nine miles southwest and the Bourgoyne No. 1 Alexander, two and one-half miles southwest.

Five producing wells are now flowing oil from the Joiner field opened up two months ago with Joiner No. 3 discovery well. The Crim gusher brings the total producers for the county to six.

Seven new derricks are rigging up in the immediate vicinity of the Foster-Deep Rock No. 1 Claude Ashby, which came in two weeks ago as a 10,000-barrel producer and extending the Joiner pool one mile west.

Tex Lloyd No. 1 Camp, 600 feet northwest of the discovery, drilled the plug out this week and is expected to be brought in within the next few days.

Several Wichita Falls operators are actively interested in Rusk county's new oil pool. The Rusco Oil company, of which Roy I. Carter is vice president and general manager, is rigging up on the Bradford tract, 32-acre lease, southwest of the discovery well. B. J. Shaw, Bill Knight and J. F. O'Donohoe recently purchased a 21-acre tract lying between the discovery well and the Foster-Deep Rock No. 1 Claude Ashby, 10,000-barrel producer.

COTTON MEET HERE JAN. 8

Co-Op Members of Five Counties Called

Members of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association and their friends representing Wichita, Clay, Wise, Young and Montague counties will hold their semi-annual conference at the courthouse here Thursday night, Jan. 8, at 7:30 o'clock according to information given Friday by John C. Mackey, branch manager, who makes his headquarters at 913 Eighth street.

Discussion of operations of the association up to the present time, and of attacks thus far made upon the federal farm board and cooperatives, Mr. Mackey said, will be the principal theme of the conference. Other matters vitally connected with the handling of cotton by the association will come before the gathering, it was indicated.

Receiving agents working out of this branch in the four other counties comprising the district are expecting to have large groups representative of their territories present Thursday night, Mr. Mackey stated.

George Angell To Address C.-C. At Iowa Park

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 2.—George Angell, prominent business and civic leader of Dallas, has accepted an invitation of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce, to be the principal speaker at the annual meeting and banquet of that organization, which will be held Thursday evening, Jan. 8.

Leaders of the Iowa Park organization are planning for a record attendance. During the past year much good work was done by the chamber for Iowa Park and the surrounding rural communities. The program of work for the coming year is of greater importance to the people than that performed last year.

One of the major activities of the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce was the organization of the Wichita County fair, which will be held annually in Iowa Park. In this movement Iowa Park has received valuable help and cooperation from the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, as well as the citizenship of Wichita Falls.

Back-to-Farm Move Creates Girl Problem

CHICAGO, Jan. 2. (AP)—A back-to-the-farm movement among young girls because of the economic depression presented a serious problem to Y. W. C. A. workers, Miss Irene Riley of Columbus, Ohio, told the national rural communities staff today.

"This return is because the economic depression has thrown the girls out of work," she said. "The farms don't need them because there are already too many of them. What's more, after having had a taste of city life with all its luxuries, conveniences, and bright lights, these girls are going to be dissatisfied, and therein lies another problem for us."

MAJESTIC: John Mack Brown in "Billy the Kid." Short subjects and sound news.

STATE: Jackie Coogan, Junior Durkin and Mitzi Green in "Tom Sawyer." Short subjects and sound news.

STRAND: "Hell's Angels" with James Hall, Ben Lyon and Jean Harlow. Short subjects and sound news.

GEM: Ken Maynard in "Fighting Through." Chapter 4 of "Spell of the Circus" and comedy.

For 15 or 20 minutes, "Hell's Angels" surpasses any war or aviation picture in its horror, gorgeous photography and excitement. The scene includes the death of practically everybody in the cast except the two leading men (who must escape, of course, for the benefit of the leading lady), and is supposed to portray the London air raid.

Beginning with the captain's order to cut loose the cable with which Karl has been let down, including the squad of men who jump to their death for "der Vaterland" and climaxed by the nose-dive of the English plane through the German Zeppelin, that sequence of events is one of the most thrilling yet pictured, and, incidentally, the one which cost Howard Hughes the most of his $2,000,000 (movie money).

Jean Harlow is the Joan Bennett type, except that she goes in for negligees and cocktails instead of demure Peter Pan collars and wide-eyed innocence. Her part of the story is not unusual. Only those rigid, goose-stepping Germans manage to bring real drama into the picture, and then only with the aid of a Zeppelin.

The beauty of the air photography lies largely in the fact that the Zeppelin and planes are usually just coming out of the clouds or just vanishing into them. White clouds plus dark sky, plus Zeppelin would make beautiful pictures any time.

Hospital Treatment Fund Left by C. A. Culberson Helps Many Needy

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP)—Although Charles A. Culberson is dead, his interest in the welfare of Texans goes marching on.

Following the death of the former United States senator from Texas, in 1925, a trust fund of $25,000 was created from his estate, and the interest from it was assigned to give hospital treatment to those who otherwise could not afford it.

Nineteen persons of many races and creeds, washerwomen, children, seamstresses and truck drivers, were among those treated at Baylor hospital here during the last six months as a result of the fund. Between 35 and 50 persons have been treated annually since 1925.

When a 17-year-old wife was seriously burned in an explosion of a stove at her Collin county home, she was brought to the hospital. Her husband made small payments on her expenses, but lost his job, and the fund assumed the charges. Finally she recovered.

Others benefited included a 15-year-old girl, member of a family of five at Quitman, whose parents were unable to pay for a necessary operation; a 52-year-old negro, who worked for two dollars a day for a house moving concern; a hotel bell boy, in need of an operation, and an 11-year-old daughter of a dairy worker who was seriously injured by a fall on a picket fence.

"The fund was created in perpetuity," said Bryce Twitty, Baylor business manager, today, "and as long as our government stands humanity will reap the benefits of Charley Culberson's life."

Little Miss Nobody

may be nobody in the eyes of your family, but I am just as proud as Cynthia Atwood, and you're going to have to choose between us, because I will not go on with things as they are."

He groaned and dropped his face between his hands.

"What do you want me to do?"

"See that your engagement is denied, if it really is a joke. If it isn't, you have no right to continue seeing me."

He seized her hands and began to kiss them passionately.

"I love you, Celeste. You don't realize how much I love you."

"But, darling, if you do, why is the situation so impossible to explain?"

For the first time since she had met him she felt a flash of contempt. Was this the lover she had idealized? Wringing his hands; admitting his utter inability to cope with his own love affairs.

"I'm tired," she said, coldly. "I can't discuss it with you any more. We aren't getting anywhere."

Her coldness seemed to frighten him.

"So you are going to move? You can do that, knowing what it means to both of us?"

"It doesn't mean as much to me as it did."

His face turned white. The hands which held hers were cold. But his voice rang with the determination she had hoped for, but never before heard.

"All right, that settles it. Will you marry me, Celeste? Now—tonight? We can fly to Yuma."

She stared at him, unable to believe the evidence of her own ears.

"Do you mean it, Dale? What about Cynthia? What about your family?"

"To the devil with them all!" Dale cried. "I've been roped into this engagement through no fault of my own. But I'll show them I can't be dictated to"—

Now he was talking like the hero she adored!

"Will you be willing to give up your allowance and live on what we can make?"

"If necessary—yes! But at least we won't wait any longer. I can't give you up, Celeste. We will be married and live in the new apartment."

Celeste wondered if any other girl in the world had ever been so happy. She was so ashamed of her previous doubts and misgivings that she had her face against his breast.

"I'm sorry I doubted you"—

"You thought I wasn't telling you the truth"—

"Oh, darling, I did. I couldn't understand."

"But you do now? You believe now that I love you more than anything in the world?"

For answer she closed her eyes and tightened her arms about his neck.

"I'll have to get some clothes and call about an airplane," Dale said, practically.

"You won't have any trouble getting out again, will you?"

"What do you think I am—a child? I'll tell the mater I'm going to San Francisco on business and will be gone for several days. That will keep them from worrying until we get back."

"It doesn't seem fair not to tell them beforehand."

"Well, if we do, it means we won't be married for months. They would make us promise to wait for at least a year"—

His answer satisfied her.

"We can't do that. But hurry won't you, Dale?"

"I will," he promised, joyously.

Why did the image of her dreamboat sail into her mind the moment he had gone?

GRAND JURY MEETS MONDAY

Two District Courts To Open New Terms

Opening of investigations by the January grand jury, and inauguration of new terms in the 30th and 89th district courts are scheduled for next Monday, Jan. 8, according to George Anderson, assistant district attorney.

There are now 33 cases awaiting investigation by the grand jury to be impaneled by Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district court, Mr. Anderson said. One of these will be that of Barney Riley, against whom a charge of murder was filed recently in connection with the death of Tom Hardin about Oct. 1, 1930. At the time when a skeleton identified as that of Hardin was found near the Red river bridge in Cotton county, early in December, Riley was a prisoner in the Wichita county jail, serving a federal liquor sentence.

All persons indicted by the grand jury in the coming term, and placed under arrest, will probably be scheduled for trial in the 30th district court before Judge Montgomery during the week of Jan. 19, it was said.
