Redistricting Delayed For One More Election

Jan. 11 Is Deadline

HOUSTON (AP) — The three-judge federal court ruled today that Texas can hold its 1964 congressional elections under procedures already under way.

The court postponed the effective date of an Oct. 19 order to Jan. 11, 1965.

The October order had held the current Texas statute on congressional districting unconstitutional. It ordered Texas to redistrict immediately or elect all of its congressmen on an at-large basis.

Despite postponing the effective date of its ruling until Jan. 11, the court said today it will keep the case on its docket and take further action unless Texas adopts a valid statute by Aug. 1, 1965.

The court's October ruling said the Texas statute on congressional redistricting is unconstitutional. The court in a 2-1 decision said no more elections could be held under the statute. It suggested immediate redistricting by the legislature for the election of all 23 congressmen on an at-large basis.

That order was upheld March 2 by the Supreme Court but stayed its execution until today to permit Texas officials time to seek relief in that Feb. 3 was the deadline for filing for the 1964 primaries.

The judges finished hearing arguments Tuesday on a motion by the state which asked the redistricting be delayed. The hearing began Friday and originally expected by the judges to last but one day.

The court spent all day yesterday listening to arguments of seven attorneys on why or why not the state should be granted its motion for delay.

State Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr ended final arguments asking the judges not to disrupt the 1964 election procedures already under way in the state.

Attorneys for 27 Republicans and two Democrats earlier had outlined eight ways they said Texas could be redistricted on a more equitable basis either through a special session of the Legislature or by special actions by the state executive committees of the two major political parties.

"If you require a special session at this time you are really going to shake this state to its foundation," Carr said.

"We believe Texas can meet the problem but the question cannot be met in the time we have."

William Cassin, chief attorney for the Republicans who brought the redistricting suit, had contended a special session of the state legislature could redistrict the state within 24 days. Carr disagreed.

Carr said throwing all 23 districts on an at-large basis would work an extreme hardship on congressmen from rural districts where he said their campaigns had cost from $10,000 or more.

"Under the at-large plan, you would be asking him to shoulder no less than $500,000. Gubernatorial campaigns in recent years have exceeded $1 million."

"Not a single congressman in this state is well-known throughout the state," Carr said.

Judge Brown repeatedly asked the last two days: "Which is more important, giving every one an equal vote, or running the risk of losing a ranking congressman?"

At one point during the arguments, he said he was disappointed the state had offered nothing during the hearings but "it can't be done."

His statement came after Carr, answering a question from the bench, said the political parties had no way to finance primaries if they were delayed.

Both Brown and Carr agreed it is fairly easy to figure out 23 congressional districts with about 416,000 residents each, but that complications arise when part or all of an adjacent rural county must be added to part of a metropolitan county to form a new district.

The other attorneys who presented their cases were Thad Hutcheson, along with Cassin, for the plaintiffs, Charlie Mitchell for the defendants who have aligned themselves with the plaintiffs, Bob Looney and Tom Higgins, intervenors for the plaintiffs and Billy Goldberg.

Senate May Delay Bill Until Fall

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield raised the possibility today that the Senate may not act before fall on the civil rights bill.

The Montana senator told reporters he fears a southern filibuster may tie up the Senate through the presidential nominating conventions this summer. Republicans meet in San Francisco in July and Democrats in Atlantic City, N.J., in August.

"I wouldn't be surprised if we go through both conventions on this bill," Mansfield said. He added "that if this happens the Senate probably will recess briefly for the party meetings."

"I always anticipate the worst and hope for the best," Mansfield said.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., who joined Mansfield at that point, said he hopes the Senate won't be tied up that long.

Humphrey, floor manager for the House-passed civil rights bill, said it is conceivable that the filibuster cannot be broken for months.

BROTHER REPLACES SAUDI ARABIA KING— Saudi Arabia's Premier, Crown Prince Faisal, 58, right, issued a royal decree delegating himself regent and stripping his brother, King Saud, 61, left, of all powers. The ailing King Saud, who was reduced to a figurehead by the decree, is expected to leave the country soon for "reasons of health" and sources close to the royal family said it is unlikely he would ever return to Saudi Arabia. BRAZILIAN REVOLT

Troops Rushed To Smash Rebel Force

By FRANK BRUTTO

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Embattled President Joao Goulart's government said it had dispatched troops to rebel points north and southwest of Rio de Janeiro today in an effort to smash a spreading revolt against his left - leaning regime.

As Goulart sought to rally forces loyal to him, Gen. Humberto Castello Branco, chief of the army general staff, and two other high commanders declared they had swung to the rebel cause.

Justice Minister Abelardo Jurema announced that units of the still-loyal 3rd Army had been sent from Rio Grande do Sul to attack the rebellious 2nd Army's base in the industrial center of Sao Paulo, 220 miles southwest of Rio.

Goulart also ordered troops to move against Juiz de Fora, in Minas Gerais State 80 miles north of Rio where the revolt erupted Tuesday, and against Belo Horizonte, the capital of Minas Gerais. A rebel radio proclaimed Juiz de Fora the "revolutionary capital."

Rebel broadcasts said the vanguard of the 2nd Army commanded by Gen. Amaury Kruel and a force of 30,000 led by Gen. Olimpio Mourao, commander of the 4th Military Region at Belo Horizonte, were converging on Rio de Janeiro to try to depose Goulart.

A proclamation announcing their switch to the rebel cause was signed by the chief of staff and Gens. Arthur da Costa y Silva and Decio Palmeiro Escobar.

It charged that Goulart had "placed himself in open illegality through successive attempts against the just practice of the democratic regime."

Downtown Rio was virtually deserted this morning as a general strike, called by the Communist-dominated general confederation of workers in support of Goulart, paralyzed transport.

Government trains operating out of Rio were stopped and interstate buses were halted.

The chief of the Commercial Aviators Union went on the government network to urge pilots, navigators and other commercial aviation employes to stay off the job today.

International wireless companies continued operating.

The Merchant Marine Union, dock workers and other maritime workers joined the strike in Rio. A spokesman for the union said all merchant ships had been placed at Goulart's disposal.

The newspaper Correio de Manha said War Minister Jair Dantas de Ribeiro, convalescing from a kidney operation, suffered a hemorrhage during the night and was in serious condition. Earlier he had issued a bedside communique saying he was resuming his post in support of Goulart.

Gov. Ademhar de Barros of Sao Paulo State, long-time foe of Goulart, broadcast claims that six states had joined in the revolt and were sending troops against Rio.

Thirty tanks circled the War Ministry in Rio and additional troops reinforced the city's garrison.

Goulart's government announced a three-day nationwide school holiday.

Burleson Says Caution Needed

The Hon. Omar Burleson, Representative from the 17th Congressional District of which Scurry County is a part, told the Snyder Lions Club at their noon luncheon Tuesday that the time-honored constitutional processes of government were under attack and were in danger.

Burleson said that the present congress was under attack as a "do-nothing congress," but, said the Representative, his feeling was that this caution and careful study of pending legislation, was one of the most important functions of the congress.

He noted that in many areas of legislation there were groups who injected a "sense of urgency" into their pressures, and that this "urgency" had become even more marked since the assassination of President Kennedy.

Those pressing for various legislation all condemn the congress as moving too slowly, Burleson said, and recommend that more power be given the central government. Ill - advised and quickly - passed legislation is, the Representative said, a factor in the concentration of power in the central government.

As an example he quoted the presently pending so - called "Civil Rights" bill, which is, he said, like an iceberg, with only a small part showing in comparison to the bulk of which is hidden below the surface. Even those who must, because of their constituents, vote for the bill, have given encouragement to those who will fight against it.

"We've thought several times that we had this trend toward central government slowed down," Burleson said. But he added that there would always be something to come up where the advocates of central government could start their pressure campaigns again.

Present methods may be slow in such areas as world trade or even policy decisions, Burleson said, but he added that over the years the present methods had brought the country to the present condition where it is envied by the rest of the world.

The congress must maintain its power, the speaker said, since it alone stands against the erosion of constitutional processes and the increasing trend toward government by fiat — by commissions, bureaus, and agencies.

Advocates of centralized government say they speak for the minorities. Burleson contended that the only way for a minority to be heard is to maintain the representative form of government, so that the minority voice will have a place in which to be heard.

Burleson was introduced at the Lions Club meeting by Frank Taylor, program chairman of the club.

India Will Free Kashmir Prisoners

NEW DELHI (AP) — In a major reversal of policy, the Indian government announced today it will free Kashmiri nationalists it imprisoned because of their militant fight to separate the disputed Himalayan state from India.

Among those to be released is Sheik Mohammed Abdullah, the Moslem "Lion of Kashmir" whom Prime Minister Nehru's government ousted from the premiership of the state 11 years ago and jailed.

Lal Bahadur Shastri, minister without portfolio and Nehru's right-hand man, told Parliament Abdullah and his followers would be released in an effort to "stabilize" the tense political situation in Kashmir. He didn't say how many would be freed.

S. Viet Troops Gain Concessions

By PETER ARNETT,

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam has reached an understanding with the leader of right-wing forces in Laos that will enable Vietnamese troops to strike inside Laos against Communist Viet Cong bases and supply routes, informed sources reported today.

This development was said to have resulted from a recent meeting in Dalat, the South Vietnamese hill station, between the rightist Laotian vice premier, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, and South Viet Nam's strongman premier, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh.

Khanh reportedly won Phoumi's approval to a plan under which Vietnamese raiding parties can strike into Laos against predesignated Communist targets.

Elements of Phoumi's 50,000-man rightist army operate along the Vietnamese border. His 33rd Infantry Battalion is at an outpost a stone's throw from the Vietnamese outpost of Lao Bao.

Informed sources said Khanh argued that his plan to root the Viet Cong out of South Viet Nam can succeed only if Communist bases and supply routes in Laos are put out of action.

These include the Ho Chi Minh trail, an ill-defined maze of jungle trails which has long been a supply route from North Viet Nam to the Communist guerrillas.

Phoumi reportedly gave his consent to Khanh's proposals only if the raiding parties were limited in size, were in hot pursuit of Communist Vietnamese, and if the targets were designated in advance.

Phoumi also reportedly insisted that he wanted no part of a military alliance with Viet Nam, a move that could bring down the Laotion coalition government. For that reason, informed sources said, Laotian troops will not participate in any actions with the Vietnamese.

There also is no likelihood that the U.S. government will let American military advisers enter Laos with the Vietnamese raiders.

The South Vietnamese government has long wanted some kind of border agreement with both Laos and neighboring Cambodia to stop Communist infiltration.

Snyder Kin Hear From Alaskans

The first messages began arriving today from the shattered cities of Alaska from friends and relatives of Snyder citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dunlap, who live southwest of Snyder, received a card this morning from their son Frank who lives in Soldatana, about 50 miles from Anchorage.

Frank, the brother of former Snyder city manager Roy Dunlap, said in his card that their area had not been as seriously damaged as had other sections of Alaska, and that they were all well. He also said that he had received a Ham radio message which had been sent by Roy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Confella also received word today that their son Tommy had not been injured. In a letter to his parents, Tommy, who is serving with the US Army, said that they had been working with relief activities almost without stopping since the quake. The Army, he said, was operating field kitchens to provide food for both the military and civilian victims of the disaster.

Tommy added that one could not imagine the extent of the destruction in Anchorage unless he could see it. He added that "everyone should pray for the people of Alaska."

H. H. Cumbie, a sergeant on the Anchorage police force, is a brother of Mrs. T. E. Shoemake and Mrs. R. L. Tuggle of Snyder. Word has been received from Sgt. Cumbie that he and his family are well, and that Sgt. Cumbie is on duty with the police force.

Sgt. Cumbie's wife's parents operate an airport near Anchorage, and hangers at the airport have been pressed into service to house those whose

2 Launchings Fail For Soviet Union

NEW YORK (AP) — The Soviet Union failed twice in the last month to send payloads to Venus, presumably because of a recurring problem with an upper-stage rocket, the New York Times said today.

The failures are not being made public by either the Soviet Union or the United States, a Washington dispatch added.

The story said, however, that the launchings were detected by a U.S. electronic network which monitors Soviet space activities.

MRS. PEABODY

Governor's Mom In Florida Jail

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)— An attack on segregation in this tourist city landed Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, 72-year-old mother of the Massachusetts governor, in jail for refusing to leave a motel dining room.

Tall, white-haired and calm, Mrs. Peabody spent the night in the county jail on charges of trespassing and violating a state law on undesirable guests. She was arrested after more than 100 Negroes were jailed in a mass demonstration aimed at a hotel.

Mrs. Peabody said she would leave jail today. Her bond was set at $300.

She was arrested Tuesday while sitting with five St. Augustine Negro women and Mrs. Donald Campbell of Cambridge, Mass., wife of an Episcopal bishop, and J. Lawrence Burkholder, a Harvard theology professor.

In Boston, Gov. Endicott Peabody told a news conference his mother was arrested while attempting to obtain equal rights for all American citizens."

He said he had spoken by telephone with Gov. Farris Bryant of Florida and had been assured Mrs. Peabody was safe and well. The governor said his brother, the Rev. George L. Peabody of New York, was flying to Florida.

The jailing of the governor's mother came shortly after policemen brought out dogs to chase Negro youths from the dining room of the plush old Ponce de Leon Hotel in the downtown area. This brought to nearly 200 the number of arrests since a desegregation campaign started Easter weekend.

A planned demonstration Tuesday night was not staged, but Hosea Williams, integration leader from Savannah, Ga., said marches were set for today and tonight. He listed Negro demands for halting the demonstrations.

The demands, unanimously agreed to by about 350 persons at a church meeting Tuesday night, include the dropping of charges against students, desegregation of public accommodations and tax-supported facilities, equal employment and creation of a biracial committee.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Will you please give a couple of poor saps some information? I believe there must be hundreds of people in our shoes. We have been living together since 1941. We do not belong to a church because we do not feel we are worthy of going to church. Yes, we do have children. Abby, we want to get married and live right and, after all these years, we don't know where to turn except to you. Is there a state that doesn't require a three-day waiting period? We couldn't be married too near here as we are very well-known. God bless you, Abby, if you can help us.

SINNERS

DEAR SINNERS: The very fact that you are troubled by the way you have been living proves that you are worthy of going to church. A church is not a museum for saints — it's a hospital for sinners. Go to a clergyman whether you belong to a church now or not, and let him chart your course. You will be amazed at how easily you can legalize your union quietly, without publicity. Good luck.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My parents are very old fashioned. I am 12 years old and I have a paper route. I earn my own money and think I should be able to do what I want with it. I want a motor scooter but my parents are against it. I could buy one for $90 and I already have most of the money saved, but they won't let me buy one because I am not old enough to get a license yet. Don't you think I should be able to buy one just to ride around the dirt roads? I need someone to stick up for me.

WANTS A MOTOR SCOOTER

DEAR WANTS: It doesn't matter if you can afford a Cadillac. Your parents' permission is more important than the money. Listen to them, son, and you'll never regret it.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: When our son got off the chartered bus from Fort Leonard Wood to start his first leave since enlisting in the Army, I smelled spirits on his breath for the first time. While home, he casually remarked, "The new recruits go over to the PX at night, have a few beers and get kicked out of shape."

Is it just big talk, or is this what Uncle Sam offers our 17-year-old sons whom we have given permission to join the service? Had we known this could happen, we would not have signed for him. What is the truth about this situation, Miss Abby?

ONE BOY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I am advised that malt beverages above 3.2 per cent alcohol are NOT sold on the military reservation and that 3.2 beer is NOT sold to anyone under 18½ years of age. In doubtful cases I. D. cards are required. Twenty - one is the minimum legal drinking age in most states, uniform or no uniform. It takes two to violate the system — the seller AND the buyer.

Parcel Post Rate Hike In Effect

A new domestic parcel post rate increase went into effect today, Postmaster, H. D. Moreland reminded.

The parcel post rate increase, approved recently by the Interstate Commerce Commission and averaging about 13.1 per cent, is expected to yield about $75.4 million annually.

Catalog rates will be increased approximately 13 per cent and will produce added revenue of about $2.4 million if 1962 volume is maintained.

The higher rates do not affect air parcel post or international parcel post.

Moreland said he had been advised by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski that the decision of the ICC will assist the Post Office Department in carrying out its objective of reducing the drain on the Federal treasury by $100 million.

The last parcel post increase was on Feb. 1, 1960.

To illustrate the effect of the new rates here, Moreland noted that a six-pound parcel (the average weight) for local area delivery will cost 37 cents instead of 32 cents.

Eades Rites Set Friday

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the First Methodist Church for Mr. James Cris Eades, 87.

Mr. Eades died at 5 a.m. today at Snyder Hospital.

Born Oct. 31, 1876 in Kentucky, he and Mrs. Eades moved from Rains County to Scurry County in 1962 to make their home with a daughter, Mrs. Neal Henly who lives on the Arah Route. Mrs. Eades died in February, 1963.

The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Harry Vanderpool, pastor of the First Methodist Church. Burial will be in Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bell - Seale Funeral Home. Nephews of Mr. Eades will serve as pallbearers.

In addition to Mrs. Henly, Mr. Eades is survived by one son, Jimmy of Orange, Tex. and one brother, Cortez, of Athens.

Child Support Verdict Reversed

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reversed today a Scurry County man's failure to pay child support conviction because, it said, the evidence failed to show he was able to pay.

The court ordered a new trial for Earl Montgomery, who was sentenced to 18 months in jail on the charge.

The trial record did not show what employment Montgomery had, how much his pay was or what child support he had paid in the past, the court said.

Judge K. K. Woodley dissented, saying that Montgomery had stated he would never pay child support.

Mrs. Leman Vandiver, who lives on the Roby Highway, has a sister, Mrs. William J. Maness, who lives at Mountain View Station near Anchorage. Mrs. Maness, the former Miss Minnie Frances Bruton of Snyder, has lived in Alaska only about three months. No word has yet been received regarding Mr. or Mrs. Maness or their two children this morning.

No word had been received this morning either by Mrs. Carl Couch whose neice, Mrs. Earl Radke lives in Anchorage. Mr. Radke operates sawmills in the "back country" and flies between Anchorage and the timber country. The Radkes were planning on moving into a new oceanside apartment building, and Mrs. Couch did not know if they had moved yet or not. The apartment building into which they were moving was reported to have been severely damaged.

Word was received by Mrs. Leonard Keller that her brother, Calvin Eades was not injured. In his letter, Eades said that the quake was not too severe in their area, and that they were staying with their landlord. He reported that they were using kerosene for both light and fuel. He said the damage where his family was located was not as severe as had been earlier reported.

Mrs. M. M. O'Rear, who has a cousin in the Army at Anchorage, had not received any word this morning, and although the O'Rears felt they would have heard of any casualties, they are afraid that the cousin's trailer home may have been destroyed since it was near the center of the destroyed area of Anchorage.

Mrs. "Sis" Jones, Red Cross representative here, said this morning that she handled requests for information from two families of military personnel and nine civilian families here.

Mrs. Jones said that the waiting time to get a call to Washington to check on the military personnel was about five hours, and that when she talked to Washington, some 20,000 requests had already poured in there.

Civilian information was handled through Seattle, and the waiting time on calls there was six or seven hours, and that "many thousands" of requests for information had been received.

The Red Cross, Mrs. Jones said, is urging everyone in Alaska to write at least a post card to their friends and relatives, as the mail is going through. Other forms of communication are still not available. Mrs. Jones said that it would be the end of the week before she would expect that any reply could be received from the requests for information which she had sent.

Miffed Johnson Breaks Communications With GOP

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has cut off direct communications with Republican congressional leaders in possible miffed reaction to their criticisms of his foreign policy course.

Not since he asked them to the White House Jan. 29 to participate with Democratic colleagues in a discussion of the Panama crisis has the President talked to either Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois or House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

This provides sharp contrast with Johnson's demonstrated desire in the first critical weeks of his presidency to court Republican support for his actions.

In that period, the President often called Dirksen on the phone a half dozen times a day, summoned him to the White House frequently and talked over with him many of the legislative and other problems that were arising.

When an anonymous White House source criticized Halleck in December for blocking speedy House action on the foreign aid bill, Johnson met Halleck in for lunch. He apologized for the attack.

Now, however, the phones have gone silent and the White House invitations, informal and otherwise, have ceased.

Dirksen and Halleck are inclined to attribute the two months' hiatus in communications to the fact that it is a presidential election year. Their attitude is that they can get along very well without being consulted by a Democratic chief executive.

Highly placed Democrats are convinced that developments at and since the Jan. 29 meeting have convinced Johnson that the Republicans intend to try to make political capital out of his troubles in Panama and elsewhere.

The meeting was described by participants as disappointing, so far as it concerned development of any unity of opinion on the Panama situation.

Mrs. Pierce Speaks To Altrurians

Sixteen members of the Altrurian Club met Friday at Martha Ann Woman's Club. Mrs. H. P. Brown was hostess. Her two invited guests were Mrs. W. H. Cauble and Mrs. J. P. Morgan.

During reports from committee chairmen, Mrs. J. C. Dorward showed a brochure from the Chamber of Commerce. It contains information at length on Snyder's prospects, real and possible, for attracting institutions and industry. It was reviewed briefly by Mrs. Dorward.

Miscellaneous responses to roll call was a usual enjoyable part of the meeting.

Mrs. A. C. Alexander was program director and introduced Mrs. Robert B. Pierce, guest speaker, and her mother Mrs. Fowler Magee.

Mrs. Pierce's subject was "Mental Health." Its purpose was to warn us to be aware of symptoms, in ourselves and others. Very often, however, a patient needing help does not realize the fact, then it is for others to see that he or she is treated with understanding.

Early treatment by psychiatry was recommended, when disturbance becomes evident. Some businesses have found a psychiatrist important to the welfare of their personnel and a business asset. Schools also are adopting this method of dealing with disturbed children, and some children are helped to cope with their problems more effectively.

Mrs. Pierce emphasized the place of lay people is not to act as a psychiatrist, nor to assume that all troubled people can be boosted out of the state by advice to use will power.

Mrs. Pierce is a registered nurse and has had experience in psychiatric work.

At a club meeting earlier in the month Mrs. Dave Harlin was program director, and Mrs. Florence Leftwich was hostess to the 22 members present.

Part of the program was roll call with each member giving an Easter thought, poem or prayer. All together the effect was impressive, creating a jeweled sermon. Empress Bowers gave a delightful poem, "Good Friday" by Margaret E. Sangster. Mrs. Harlin ended the program with a poem "Remember Me" by Malcolm Forsberg.

Marshmallow Lemon Frosting

2 large egg whites
1½ cups sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cold water
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 cup small marshmallows
1½ teaspoons vanilla

In the top of a double boiler mix together well the egg whites, sugar, salt, water and lemon juice. Cook over hot water beating with an electric beater until frosting thickens and stands in peaks — about 7 minutes. Remove from heat; add marshmallows and vanilla. Continue beating until frosting stands in very stiff peaks. (A few drops of red food coloring may be added.) Use for filling and frosting for two 9-inch square layer cakes.

You can dip onion rings in slightly beaten egg and then in bread crumbs before frying. The bread crumbs make a pleasant change from the flour usually used for the coating.

J. Carnes Family Has Reunion

The Ira community center was the gathering place Saturday and Sunday for the late Jack Carnes family. Henry Carnes was the only one of the nine children not present. He is in a hospital in Mesa, Ariz. recuperating from a heart attack.

The two day affair was attended by: Kate Risinger, Sulpher Springs; Bess Phenix, Mineola; Marie Kruse, Ira; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Carnes, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Carnes and Patsy of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Gideon, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carnes, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Buzz Trotter, Terry and Mike of Waukesha, Wisconsin;

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsett Risinger, Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Estes Hargrove, Sulphur Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly; Debbie and Susie of Amarillo; Billie Evans, San Diego, Calif.; Billy Jack Carnes, Mesquite; Jack A. CHEVY II by Chevrolet
How to get away from it all including the high cost of travel!

If you're looking for a way to get the whole family there and back on a small vacation budget, this is the station wagon that can do it.

You see, a Chevy II is one of the most inexpensive wagons you can own. It goes so many miles between gas stops you'll think we built in a spare tank. Garage stops, too, are far, far apart.

And you get 76 cu. ft. of cargo space for less money than you'd expect to pay for most sedans. Big enough to handle fat rowboats and tall fishing poles. Powerful enough to tote fully loaded trailers.

And all Chevy II's come with Chevrolet's money-saving, easy-care features. Like Body by Fisher, rust-resisting flush-and-dry rocker panels, battery-saving Delcotron generator and self-adjusting brakes.

CHEVROLET
TRADE 'N' TRAVEL TIME
FOR THE GREAT HIGHWAY PERFORMERS

Besides wagons, of course, there are Chevy II sedans and coupes. The Super Sport Coupe comes with a wide range of engines, bucket seats, door-to-door carpeting and either an extra-cost floor-mounted Powerglide or 4-speed transmission. So although Chevy II's are economical to buy and own, they certainly don't look it.

And now that it's Trade 'N' Travel Time at your Chevrolet dealer's, you'll never find a better time to look into Chevy II. Look under its hood. Slam its solid doors. Bounce on its thickly padded foam-cushioned seats. But above all else—try it on the highway. It'll give you a good run for your money.

2 Seamen Killed In 'Impossible' Blast

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — At least two crewmen died Tuesday as an explosion the captain said couldn't happen shattered a seismograph boat. Two other men are missing and presumed dead.

The 91-foot craft went down almost at once in the Gulf of Mexico. It was the Terry Walker from Pascagoula, Miss., a fishing boat chartered for offshore oil exploration.

Donald Martin, 37, of New Orleans died in the blast. The body was recovered.

Coast Guard divers working in 40 feet of water found a second body this morning. It was identified at a Port Arthur Mortuary as that of Irwin Ott, 32, of Biloxi, Miss.

Missing and believed dead also were Tyrone Swack, 21, of Bossier City, La., and Paul Metcalf, 40 of Morgan City, La.

Capt. O. F. Moore of Pascagoula and four others in his crew, one injured, were rescued soon after the explosion. It occurred 3½ miles south of the East Sabine Pass jetty near the Texas-Louisiana line.

Paul Martin of Abbeville, La., the injured man, was brought to a Port Arthur hospital for treatment of severe shock.

Moore said the blast took place as the lost crewmen and Paul Martin were lowering a 200-pound charge of nitramon into the water. Nitramon is an explosive used like dynamite in seismograph work.

"That stuff just can't be detonated by jarring it around," the captain said. "It has to have caps and a booster. It will burn, but we didn't have any fire even after the explosion. I just don't know what could have happened."

Moore said his vessel merely laid the charge and it then was set off by crewmen of a companion boat, the Black Hawk —but this could be done only after a switch was thrown on the Terry Walker. He said this switch was never used until crewmen signalled the charge was in place.

The captain was forward at the wheel, he said, as the charge was lowered at the stern.

"Glass started flying everywhere," Moore related. "When I turned to see what had happened, I saw the stern of the ship was blown off.

"My first thought then was to tell the men who were still alive to get lifejackets and get off. After everyone was off, I dove into the water where the Lillian Walker picked me up."

Moore's boat was one of three in the vicinity owned by F. D. Walker & Son of Pascagoula.

Two Coast Guard vessels and helicopters searched the area for bodies until nightfall. They were ordered back for further search today.

Claim Bill Will Win Vote Rights

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate backers of the civil rights bill argue today that its voting rights section is a modest step toward winning the ballot for more Negroes in the South.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., gave this description of the section in a prepared speech, explaining that he personally "would prefer a more direct and positive approach to the problem."

"I would prefer, in fact, that postmasters or other local federal officials be made registrars whenever it is found that state or local election machinery is supporting voting discrimination."

But he conceded that "at the moment, it appears that a majority of the Congress is not prepared to take this step."

Hart was to be joined by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., in a bipartisan presentation of the voting rights section, Title I of the House-passed bill.

Tuesday, Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., delivered the only major speech on the bill, centering his attack on the voting rights section. He held the floor 6 hours and 25 minutes, longest stint in the 18 days of debate so far.

Thurmond assailed the provision which would make a sixth-grade education the basis for a presumption of literacy, denouncing this as an unconstitutional invasion of the rights of the states.

Thurmond said more than 100,000 Negroes are registered to vote in his state and that he knew of no discrimination.

"It's a lot of hullabaloo over nothing," he said.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., indicated he expected more weeks of debate before any floor action develops on the bill.

He discussed at a luncheon of GOP senators the dozen amendments he is advocating to the fair employment practices section of the measure, but said more such sessions would be needed over the next two weks before he is ready to introduce them.

He said he was not seeking to "emasculate or water down" the section, only to assure it was not made unduly harassing to businessmen.

Ike Speaks To Forum

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says he never would have allowed the Communists to build the Berlin wall.

Eisenhower also told the first Republican party-to-people forum Tuesday:

—Any Russians who flew over United States or Allied territory and refused orders to land should "pay the penalty"—presumably meaning they should be shot down.

—There never was a missile gap, as the Democrats had charged.

—The United States has considerably less prestige than when he left office.

—The United States is in trouble with its alliances, especially because we offend friends like French President Charles de Gaulle when we don't consult them.

Eisenhower headed a panel of top Republicans who are trying to find an American consensus on what is needed "for the peace and security of the United States." The consensus is to be put in the Republican platform.

Fag Stamp Sales Up

AUSTIN (AP) — State cigarette tax revenues, which dipped sharply in February after the government report linking smoking and cancer, made a strong comeback in March.

State Treasurer Jesse James reports gross cigarette stamp sales for March totaled $7,038,801. February revenues were $5,651,381 — well below January's $7,301,882.

Cigarette tax payments in March, 1963, were $6,941,689.

"I think people will probably start back smoking," James said Tuesday.

He recalled that similar smoking scares in the past caused cigarette stamp sales to dip only temporarily.

In January, shortly after the special committee stdying the relationship between smoking and cancer made its report to the U. S. Surgeon general, the state comptroller's office predicted the report would have no permanent effect on revenues.

James reported March liquor and wine tax revenues also exceeded February's.

Alaska Crab Center Has Little Damage

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Gov. William A. Egan said today that Port Wakefield—center of one of the world's largest crab packing industries—came through Alaska's earthquake and seismic waves with little or no damage.

Port Wakefield is on the north side of an island between Afognak and Kodiak islands, in the heart of the earthquake zone. The king crab catch provided more than $5 million in wages and commissions in Alaska in 1962.

President's Youngest Daughter Concerned Over Public Image

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci Baines Johnson, 16-year-old daughter of President and Mrs. Johnson, thinks the "bad points" of living in the White House may outnumber the good points."

"Maybe I just don't appreciate the good points to the extent that I may some day," Luci told reporters at an informal news conference following the White House musicale at which she and her 20-year-old sister Lynda Bird presided Tuesday.

"I don't really realize I am a President's daughter and that I represent American youth," she said. "If I did, I would go out of my mind trying to represent the best of American youth."

She said it's best to "be yourself even if you sometimes make mistakes as I may be doing right now talking to you."

Luci said she doesn't always like what she reads about herself in newspapers —especially reports that her great love for dogs is reflected in the stuffed animals she has in her room.

"That just isn't me," she said. "I like dogs but just the same as everyone else likes dogs."

She said also that sometimes when she thinks she is talking privately she finds her remarks in the papers.

Another bad point, Luci said, is that "I am not politically oriented as my father, mother and sister are."

As the President's daughter, Luci said she wants to present "a good image to the public". She said her grades are good in science but not in math. But but she doesn't want it to be "so sweet and goody-goody, it isn't me."

Asked about her scholastic and career interests, she said: "I am basically interested in science. I'd like to be a laboratory technician, but you know there are the haves and the have nots. I'm among the have nots scholastically."

When a reporter suggested she get a tutor in math, she replied: "Oh, I'm not that bad."

Nationalists Can't Run

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government has cancelled the registration of the Nationalist Party of Mexico, dooming it out of participation in the July 5 general election.

The party, split into three rival groups, had been unable to prove it met requirements for maintaining registration, first granted in 1951.

A major requirement is a membership of at least 75,000.

The Nationalist Party has never wielded much influence on the Mexican political scene, firmly dominated by the government's Institutional Revolutionary Party. It has no representation in the present congress.

Other legally registered parties are the National Action Party, the Popular Socialist Party and the Authentic Party of the Mexican Revolution.

Burleson's Record Hit By Carriker

ABILENE — Speaking to a cheering crowd of 500 supporters gathered at a Carriker-for-Congress dinner in his honor last night, Max Carriker, candidate for congress from the 17th district, challenged his opponent to explain why he has voted six out of seven times against the administration since Lyndon Johnson became President, and why he has consistently voted 80 per cent of the time over the years with Republican Bruce Alger of Dallas.

Carriker asserted that his opponent's record is one of "calculated indifference to the needs and wishes of the people of this district."

"The people of the 17th District want a congressman who is for something, not against everything. They want a congressman whose voting record will help the growth of the district, not one whose voting record has hurt the growth of the district," he said.

Carriker boosters were gathered from all parts of the district to take part in his first televised appearance in his congressional campaign.

Carriker is opposing Omar Burleson in the May 2 Democratic primary. Carriker is serving his third term in the State Legislature from the 80th District. Burleson has represented the 17th District since 1946.

Quake's Terror Told In Figures

By WARD SIMS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The terror of earthquake and tidal wave was reflected today in casualty figures and pledges of help for stricken south-central Alaska.

The toll of dead and presumed dead changed almost hourly. The Alaska Emergency Health Office took over coordination of figures but its lists—like those of other state agencies which earlier counted independently—did not include a number of unofficial reports of deaths.

It might be weeks before an accurate total is obtained.

The health office tally showed 24 dead and 79 presumed dead, plus 55 injured. The known and presumed dead figures were up seven from a state civil defense total Tuesday night.

Omitted from the count was a Coast Guard-reported death at its Cape Elias station on Kayak Island. No effort was made to check deaths in the Turnagain suburb of Anchorage, where much of the residential area tumbled into the bay. There was word of at least one death in Turnagain.

Additionally, unofficial reports listed 31 persons missing who did not show on the health office list, including 23 at Chenega, 5 at Port Ashton and 3 at Port Nellie Juan.

In Anchorage, the state's largest city, a bright spring sun warmed crews removing wreckage from the Friday evening quake.

By this morning, most debris had been cleared. Workmen were preparing to remove what items of value they could from condemned buildings and start the mammoth job of reconstruction.

In Washington, federal agencies charged with meeting the emergencies of natural disaster were under orders from President Johnson to hurry relief. Supplies were being rushed to the ravaged south central section of the state in a giant airlift by military and commercial planes.

The Air Force, Navy and Military Air Transport Service flew to both Anchorage and Kodiak. Four commercial airlines—Northwest, Alaska, Pacific Northern and Pan American—carried tons of food, hardware and clothing.

Edward A. McDermott, the President's director of emergency planning, was attempting to determine how much federal relief could be made available under existing programs and what new legislation would be required to restore the state stricken by the temblor and sea waves.

The Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency announced plans to open an emergency office in Anchorage to speed programs of the Community Facilities Administration, the Federal Housing Administration and the Urban Renewal Administration.

Alaska Gov. William A. Egan said it may be necessary to call a special session of the state legislature next fall to meet problems of reduced tax income and increased state spending resulting from the tragedy.

The state's most famous industry — fishing — was more than 50 per cent destroyed.

Some 4,000 Alaskans in the earthquake area were engaged fulltime in the fishing industry last year. Another 12,000 derived some income from it.

The awesome power of two 80-foot tidal waves which swept away the entire village of Chenega — with the sole exception of the school — was described by Christine Madson, a schoolteacher.

She said 23 of the villagers, including 10 children, were swept away.

"Babies were carried right out of their mothers' arms," the Long Beach, Calif., woman said.

"The waters swept in and went back out, carrying away the houses and buildings. Not even debris remained."

Phone Co. Rate Raise Resisted

ELKHART, Tex. (AP)—A rural telephone rate squabble has become a question of who will remove the equipment of the Texas Telephone & Telegraph Co. from homes and businesses that want them taken out.

The Methodist minister leading a protest over rate boosts, the Rev. Colin Furr of Elkhart, said Tuesday he will assume responsibility for customers of TT&T who want to disconnect their own phones if the company refuses to do so.

A company spokesman in Houston said willful destruction of its facilities would result in prosecution under federal and state laws.

The telephone controversy has been going on since Feb. 1, when the company raised rural rates from $4.50 to $6 a month. It serves 13,508 subscribers in 22 East and Central Texas counties.

Spokesmen said the company was forced to raise rates for maintenance and to meet payments on a $10 million Rural Electrification Administration loan.

The Rev. Mr. Furr and members of the Telephone Subscribers Association maintain a 33 1-3 per cent increase is too much and assert they would rather do without phones than pay it.

The minister said 2,600 subscribers have signed termination slips to have their phones removed.

"If the company wants to punish anyone, I will take full responsibility, since I issued the directive as head of the association," he said. "They can sue me or send me to prison if they want."

Francis Winters of Houston, executive vice president of TT&T, said the company will not remove any phones until requested to do so individually by customers.

He said 85 per cent of the subscribers are satisfied and the company will stand firm on its rate increase.

An active separatist movement has persisted in the Welsh penninsula ever since Henry III welded it to England in 1536.

Ask LBJ To Ease Up On Throttle

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—Memo from the White House press corps to the man in the White House: Please ease up on the throttle; it's a tough job trailing a president and an impossible one at 75 miles an hour.

Besides, with the traffic casualty figures what they are, we'd all breathe a little easier if you'd confine your hard-driving to your White House desk.

Not that anyone can exactly prove Lyndon B. Johnson is a bit heavy footed when he gets behind the wheel of his big, luxury car. But newsmen found over the Easter holiday that when they trailed him at 60 to 65 miles an hour they were only doing exactly that—trailing.

If this weren't cause enough for dismay, a reporter who tried to trail Mrs. Johnson from the LBJ Ranch to the hairdresser one day estimated her driver was zipping along at 75 to 80.

In New York, the World-Telegram and the Sun, in a story from Johnson City, quoted an unidentified veteran White House photographer as saying his own speedometer read 90 as he "was keeping up" with Johnson's car after church Sunday.

The newspaper also said that on a drive Saturday the President was reported to have covered his speedometer with his broad-brimmed hat when a passenger remarked that the needle was pointing to 85.

The matter was brought up to White House press secretary George Reedy. He said he was unaware of it if the President was hitting the reported 80 or 85.

In any event, all this is old hat to the White House press corps.

They used to hit 100 at times trying to stay up with President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Recovery Slow For Old Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's condition has in general "deteriorated in the past 24 hours," Walter Reed Army Hospital announced today. But it said the general passed a "peaceful night."

A medical bulletin at 10:15 a.m. added that there has been a "slight drop in the blood pressure and a moderate rise in the pulse rate" of the general and that his kidney function — a complicating factor in his present condition — has "diminished progressively over the past 24 hours."

The bulletin said pressure in the tube inserted in the general's esophagus and stomach "will be released this morning."

This tube is used to control intermittent bleeding from the esophagus.

The bulletin did not say specifically that the bleeding has been stopped entirely, but the fact that pressure applied through the tube, by means of inflated balloons, to the walls of the esophagus and of the stomach would appear to indicate the bleeding has stopped at least temporarily.

As late as Tuesday night the doctors were paying tribute to the "strength and fiber" of the 84-year-old patient and reporting he was holding his own.

They said his heart beat and other vital signs were steady, though his condition was still critical.

The condition of the five-star general of the Army has never risen above critical since his first emergency operation March 23, brought on by severe bleeding in his esophagus.

The prime problems now are the decreased functions of his kidneys and a sporadic recurrence of the bleeding.

In their last report Tuesday, doctors said "he is holding his own."

When the impaired kidney function was first noted more than 24 hours ago, doctors called it a matter of grave concern. The kidneys are important regulators of blood factors, and depots for the removal of waste products which otherwise poison the body.

Since then, there has been slight improvement in kidney function.

The bleeding is still controlled by a small balloon attached to tubes that extend through the throat and into the stomach.

The balloon exerts pressure against the ruptured varicose veins, believed to be the source of bleeding.

Doctors have also suspected the possibility of a stress ulcer in the stomach brought on by the five medical problems of the past month, three of them major surgical operations, and the latter two of those under emergency conditions. The general continues to receive life-supporting treatment—with solutions of sugar-water, salt water, medications and blood transfusions fed into his veins.

The doctors said they have not found any malignant tissues so far in the course of their operations. They also said that the general's advanced age was not a major problem.

The general came to Walter Reed Army Medical Center March 2, suffering from severe jaundice. An operation was performed March 6 removing the gall bladder and gall stones, to correct the obstructive flow of bile causing the jaundice.

Lady Pilot Due In Cairo

CAIRO (AP) — Flying housewife Geraldine Mock of Columbus, Ohio, was expected in Cairo late today on her solo flight around the world.

Airport authorities said Mrs. Mock, 38, would be arriving from Tripoli, Libya, where she landed her single-engine plane Tuesday night after a flight from Algiers.

Another American woman trying to fly around the world alone, Joan Merriam, 27, of Long Beach, Calif., was reported to have landed her twin-engine plane at Belem, Brazil.

When she took off Monday from Paramaribo, Surinam, she planned to fly on to Natal, Brazil, 950 miles farther south than Belem. It was not known whether she would head for Dakar, Senegal, her next stop, directly from Belem or put down at Natal before crossing the Atlantic.

Kills Wife, And Self

MIDLAND (AP)—An Andrews grocer shot and killed his ex-wife and then took his own life in a car parked at a drive-in restaurant Thursday night.

The two were Onis Hilliard, 58, a former Corpus Christi resident, and Mrs. Beatrice Osburn Boyce, 58, who had worked as dietitian at a Midland hospital.

Justice of the Peace D. M. Ellis ruled it was a case of murder and suicide. Ellis said Hilliard shot Mrs. Boyce twice in the right shoulder, sending at least one bullet into her heart, and then put a bullet in his brain.

Detective Ray Robbins said Hilliard hid in the back seat of his car until Mrs. Boyce stopped it at the eating place.

Robbins said a note in Hilliard's wallet, dated Tuesday, told of troubles between the two.

Presidential Newsmen Make Plane Switch

WASHINGTON (AP)—A substitute White House press plane brought 71 passengers — including newsmen and presidential aides—back to the capital early today.

American Airlines flew the special plane into Dallas from Tulsa, Okla., Tuesday night after the regular press plane was forced to make an emergency landing at Dallas' Love Field when a broken turbine blade knocked out one of its engines.

The malfunction was discovered shortly after the four-engine turboprop Electra took off from Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin, Tex. The newsmen had been covering President Johnson's Easter vacation at his Johnson City ranch.

Sec. McNamara Clarifys U.S. Position In Viet Nam

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has done the best job ever attempted by a government official to explain why the United States is so deeply involved in helping South Viet Nam.

But when you get through reading what he says—it takes up a whole newspaper page—it still boils down to a few simple reasons that have always been obvious.

The one thing he can't answer is about the South Viet Nam government itself: how thoroughly and sincerely, through reforms, will it give the people a reason for not being indifferent to a Communist take-over?

McNamara, who made several trips to South Viet Nam in President John F. Kennedy's time, recently returned from another one, undertaken for President Johnson.

The purpose has always been the same: To see how the fight against the North Vietnamese Communists was going and what was needed to make it a success. Instead of getting better, the war has been getting worse.

After President Ngo Dinh Diem's assassination in a military coup last November, the junta which took over was in turn thrown out in a second coup which made Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh the strongman. He is still there.

By this time, with the South Vietnamese government looking anemic and bewildered and with Communist military successes piling up, a long-asked question in this country became more intense.

Can South Viet Nam really win or survive? If not, why should American military "advisers" continue to give their lives there? And why continue American help, military and economic, which has now reached about $5 billion? This was asked when McNamara made his trip along with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor.

Upon their return the White House made a statement that Khanh "had a sound central plan" for prosecuting the war and "recognizes to a far greater extent than before the crucial role of economic and social as well as military action."

It was after this that McNamara made his talk which, although made to an industrial association and not to Congress, was the Johnson administration's explanation for its policy in Southeast Asia for the foreseeable future.

It went like this:

Red China wants that whole area, which happens to be important to this country's outer defenses. Since, therefore, the South Vietnamese are trying to stay free, the United States, for its sake and theirs, should help. And it will.

Communism, for the time being at least, has ruled out world war, and local wars which might become worldwide, as too dangerous. But it advocates so-called wars of liberations, like the guerrilla war in Viet Nam.

So this war is a test of Red strategy. In saying all this, McNamara expressed high confidence in Khanh's ability to make the fight.

He said the general is not only building up his military and administrative forces but will put in broad programs of land reform, loans to tenant farmers, health and welfare services economic development.

Since such programs are what give an impoverished and backward people a reason for not accepting communism, McNamara said there can be no military success without them.

It took this country a long time to learn something as elementary and fundamental as that.

If the United States under Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Kennedy had insisted long ago upon such reforms, as a condition of American help, President Ngo Dinh Diem might have still been alive for there would have been no discontent.

Junior Editors Quiz on BOWLING

QUESTION: Who thought up bowling?

ANSWER: In the grave of an Egyptian child who had died in 5200 B. C., or 7164 years ago, a British Egyptologist, Sir Flinders Petrie, found implements for playing a game which turned out to be very much like bowling as played today. Various forms of bowling became popular in European countries during the Middle Ages. The English bowled in the 1100's, and the sport became popular in Germany about 1300. In the 15[illegible] Martin Luther set the number of pins in the game at nine. The Dutch, who called the game skittles, brought it with them to New Amsterdam (New York City) in the 1600's. It spread to New England in the 1800's and there was much gambling on the game, bringing charges of dishonesty. The Connecticut legislature banned "bowling at nine pins." To get around this law, bowlers added a tenth pin and started the 10-pin game known today.

Our illustration shows the approved position of the ball during the four steps most bowlers take before they start the ball across the "foul line" on its way toward the pins. A right handed bowler aims for the "pocket" or space between the first and third pins on the right side, while a lefthander goes for the space between pins 1 and 2. Marge has knocked down all ten pins in the bottom picture, making a "strike."

FOR YOU TO DO: We forgot to explain what a "turkey" is, so you tell your friends. You don't know? A turkey is a strike repeated for three consecutive times.

Bobcats Nip Tigers, 2-0

San Angelo's Bobcats erupted for both of their runs in the third inning to back up the three-hit pitching of Ronnie Henson and James Thomas, to decision the Snyder Tigers, 2-0, here Tuesday afternoon.

Except for the third frame, the game was an air-tight pitchers' battle, with the Bengals' J. N. Wall limiting the Bobcats to seven safeties.

Centerfielder Dave Stricklin led off the San Angelo third with a booming three-bagger to left center. Stricklin then trotted across the plate on Marshall White's single, and White then advanced on a ground out and an error to cross the plate and wind up the scoring.

The Tigers got their first hit of the game in the bottom of the third when a looping fly ball off the bat of Jay Williamson dropped into no-man's land in right field for a double. However, Henson, the classy San Angelo lefty, struck out a pair and got Mack Galyean on a fly to third to erase the threat.

Snyder got a pair on base in the sixth. Pitcher J. N. Wall smacked a two-bagger to left center, and after two men were retired Rob Hall drew a base on balls. James Thomas, who had relieved Henson in the fourth, fanned Leslie Brown to keep the Tigers at bay.

Jim Marcum led off the Tiger seventh with a single to left, but was left stranded when Thomas retired the next three men, catching Williamson looking at a third strike for the final out of the ball game.

Wall was never in serious trouble after the third inning as he went the distance on the mound for the Tigers.

White, the San Angelo third sacker, was the only man in the game to get more than one hit. He collected three singles in four trips to the plate.

The Tigers will entertain the Abilene High Eagles in a doubleheader here Saturday afternoon in their last action before district play begins. The first game of the twin bill will begin at 1 p.m.

Sweetwater will come here next Tuesday to open the District 3-AAA conference slate.

Mets Plan Colorful Scoreboard

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If the Beatles are a sort of shrieking yellow, what color are the New York Mets?

Tune in the new Shea Stadium scoreboard, and find out.

The scoreboard, largest in the world, is being built for the new stadium in which the Mets will open against the Pittsburgh Pirates on April 17. The board has 28,000 lights, shows movies, plays music in color — and even keeps score.

A model was unveilled Tuesday at a Manhattan hotel, and the press was duly impressed.

First, the inventor, Bob Roston, played some music on a tape recorder. Each musical note produced a different color on the white shell in back of the scoreboard. The shell is 175 feet long, which will give you an idea of the size of this new board.

"High notes come out in yellow, and so on down through the darker colors for the low notes," Roston said. "It's the first time this has ever been tried on a scoreboard."

Roston's firm designed the exploding scoreboard for the Chicago White Sox. He said this one will be much larger, but it will not explode.

Roston didn't say, but the reason probably is that gunpowder could go stale waiting for the 10th-place Mets to hit a homer.

Instead the board will play music, flash the colors, display the words for songs, and show color slides of each player as he comes to bat on a screen that works like the ones in the drive-in movies.

The board can also show movies, or even television programs, if a game is held up by rain.

This brought suggestions that the board be used to bring in the broadcasts of other games, on those frequent occasions when the Mets are behind 13-1 in the third inning.

Roston played some more music, this time "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," and the colors flashed on and off on the white shell like the background for an old Esther Williams movie.

Fem Golfers To Midland

MIDLAND (AP) — A women's golf tournament with $9,000 in prize money will be held at Midland Country Club Nov. 6-8.

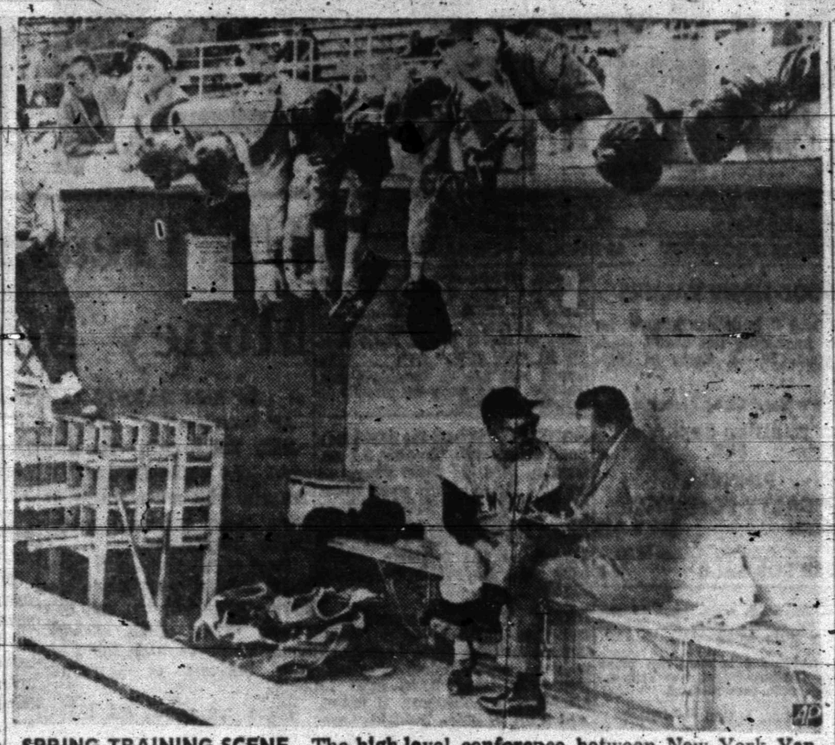

It was announced today that the Ladies Professional Golfers Association has sanctioned the tournament, known as the Tall City Open Invitation.

The event, drawing 34 of the touring professionals, will go 54 holes and will be preceded by a pro-amateur Nov. 5, with $1,000 in prize money.

It is being held the week between similar events at Phoenix, Ariz., and San Antonio.

The Midland Country Club course measures 6,652 yards, with a par 72. Last year it was one of the sites for the 18th international Jaycee golf tournament.

Ron Perranoski of the Dodgers appeared in 69 National League games last season. In 50 of the games he gave no runs.

Dodgers' 'Untouchables' Encounter Heavy Barrage

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

No immediate call for reinforcements is being considered, but cause for concern may be building at Los Angeles Dodgers headquarters over another shelling administered to the Untouchables.

For two straight days, the weak sisters of the National League Mob have fired a fusillade of hits and further shredded the Untouchable label attached to the Dodgers' four key pitchers — Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, Johnny Podres and Ron Perranoski.

It was Podres' turn Tuesday as the Houston Colts ricocheted 11 hits around their Cocoa, Fla., base, came up with six runs in five innings and went on to a 6-3 exhibition baseball victory.

The day before, Drysdale had been subjected to a similar attack by the New York Mets, who belted the right-handed ace of the Los Angeles staff for eight hits and four earned runs in six innings.

In all, the Big Four—credited with 74 of the Dodgers' 99 victories en route to the National League pennant last season—has been tagged for 64 hits in 59 innings.

Even Koufax has not been safe. The brilliant left-handed strikeout artist who posted a 25-5 record, pitched 11 shutouts and had a 1.88 earned run average last year has given up 21 hits in 22 innings this spring and has a 3.27 ERA.

The hitting stars for the day were shortstops—Ron Hansen of the Chicago White Sox, Washington's Ed Brinkman and Philadelphia's Bobby Wine.

Hansen, who hit .226 last year, slammed two homers and drove in six runs as the White Sox edged St. Louis 7-6. Brinkman, a .228 batter, stroked two doubles and three singles in the Senators' 11-5 walloping of Baltimore.

Wine, a .215 hitter, had been hitless in 18 previous trips to the plate when he came up in the 11th inning with the bases loaded and slashed a single that gave the Phillies a 4-3 decision over Cincinnati.

Ron Santo hit a homer and two singles in the Chicago Cubs' 6-2 triumph over Cleveland. Willie Stargell banged a two-run homer as Pittsburgh belted the New York Mets 8-4 and Milwaukee's Hank Aaron homered for Milwaukee in a 6-3 victory over Detroit.

In other games, San Francisco walloped Boston 9-1, Kansas City edged the New York Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings, Minnesota shut out the Philadelphia B team 6-0 and the Los Angeles Angels defeated Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League 8-5.

Kentucky May Sign Negro Cage Star

ATLANTA (AP)—The signing of high school players to basketball grants-in-aid begins today in the Southeastern Conference, with a slim possibility that Kentucky might come up with a Negro player.

There have been reports that Coach Adolph Rupp had hopes of landing Wesley Unsell of Louisville's Seneca High Unsell, a 6-foot-8, 235-pounder, is a top prospect. His school won the state championship two years in a row.

There are no Negroes playing in the Southeastern Conference at present in any sport, although Steve Matthews, a transfer student from Detroit, is trying to make Kentucky's football team.

Kuharich Is Determined To Give Eagles New Faces

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach Joe Kuharich apparently has decided on one thing: if his Philadelphia Eagles are destined to finish last in the National Football League's Eastern Division in 1964, it won't be with the same old faces.

Kuharich, who recently took over the Eagles' coaching job under a four-year contract, unloaded another old face Tuesday, trading quarterback Sonny Jurgensen to the Washington Redskins for quarterback Norm Snead.

In addition, the Eagles sent defensive back Jimmy Carr to the Redskins for his counterpart, Claude Crabb.

The four-player deal was the second major move by the Eagles in less than two weeks. On March 20, Kuharich swapped pass-receiver Tommy McDonald to Dallas for two young linemen and a place kicker.

The only reason Kuharich offered for the Jurgensen deal was that he had obtained youth in the 24-year-old Snead.

Jurgensen, a seven-year NFL veteran with one of the finest passing arms in pro football, is 29.

The Carr - Crabb swap also gave the Eagles an age advantage. Carr is 31; Crabb 24.

Kuharich said the deal was "best in regard to our plans for the next four years or more . . . I know that Snead's record over the three years is impressive enough to indicate a very bright future for him."

On the other hand, Washington Coach Bill McPeak said he swapped youth for experience.

"Winning in 1964," said McPeak, "is imperative. Jurgensen, at this stage of his career, is more advanced than Snead, and I think, with the right supporting cast, he can take you all the way."

McPeak said he had not changed his prediction of future greatness for Snead, the Redskins' No. 1 draft choice in 1960.

Snead has been Washington's No. 1 quarterback since coming into the league from Wake Forest College in 1961. In three seasons the 6-foot-4, 215-pounder has completed 581 passes for 8,306 yards and 46 touchdowns.

Jurgensen, fourth draft choice of the Eagles in 1957, tossed 32 touchdown passes in 1962 when the Eagles finished second in the East, but the one-time Duke great has been beset by injuries ever since. Last year he missed half the season because of arm trouble.

Record-Breakers On Relay List

AUSTIN (AP) — Two names involved in the 37th Texas Relays this weekend raise memories of hurdles record setters of the late 1930s.

The University of Texas track coach, host to the meet, is Jack Patterson, who won two national hurdles titles while at Rice.

And one of the star attractions at the relays Friday and Saturday will be Billy Hardin of Texas. He's the son of former Louisiana State hurdler Glenn Hardin, who set world marks while in college.

The younger Hardin holds the best times among those entered here for both the 120-yard high hurdles and the 440-yard intermediate hurdles. He has been clocked at 13.9 for the highs and 52.7 in the intermediates.

That 13.9 time matches a 25-year-old mark set in 1939 by Fred Wolcott.

Preliminaries in the highs will be held Friday at 1 p.m. and the finals Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

Those entered with Hardin and their best times include Ed Renfrow of Arkansas, 13.9; Bobby May of Rice, 14.3; Steve Sansom and James Cooper of Texas, 14.3, and Ronnie Biffle of Texas Tech, 14.3.

Among fine athletes from out of state who haven't competed outdoors this season are Gale Sayers of Kansas, Herman Gary of Southern Illinois, Gary Woods of Oklahoma City, Rocky Bilbo of Oklahoma State, Jack Hooker of Kansas State and David Bonds of McMurry.

Top billed with Hardin in the 440-yard intermediate field are Udel Cason of Drake, 53.5; James Cooper of Texas, 54; May of Rice, 54.5; David Bonds of McMurry, 55.1; Gary Collins of Rice, 54.6; Bill Tittle of Sul Ross, 55.2, and John Collins of Texas A&M, 56.3.

The 440-intermediate hurdles is a new event. The record for the 400-meter intermediate hurdles is 50.8, set in 1961 by Eddie Southern of Texas.

In addition to the regular relays and special events, two open events will be held. They are the 440-yard dash and the open pole vault. Both have attracted several college stars.

Entered in the quarter mile are Earl Young, Abilene Christian graduate; Ray Saddler, former Texas Southern great; Doug Thompson of Abilene Christian, Ted Nelson of Texas A&M, Mickey Miller of Oklahoma State and Don Stryton, Northeast Louisiana graduate.

Former college pole vaulters due to compete are Dexter Elkins, SMU; Fred Hansen, relays record holder formerly at Rice; Gerald Pratt, Texas Southern, and Baylus Bennett, Texas.

Final Round In District Golf Slated

The third and final round of the District 3-AAA golf tournament will be played on the Snyder Country Club course Saturday. Play will begin at 9 a.m.

Teams competing for the district golf title already have played 36 holes, and the first two rounds put two Sweetwater teams well out in front.

The two top teams, along with the medalist and runnerup to the medalist, will qualify to advance to the Regional Tournament.

C. E. Boyd of Sweetwater is leading for medalist honors with 149 for 36 holes, while Mike Malone of Sweetwater is running second with 156. Tied for third are Jimmy Featherston of Snyder and Jay White of Lamesa with 158.

Team standings at the end of the first two rounds have Sweetwater's first team in the lead at 627, Sweetwater's second team following at 648, Lamesa's first team in third place at 661, Snyder's first team fourth at 696, Lamesa's second team fifth at 703, Colorado City's first team sixth at 739, Snyder's second team seventh at 743, Lake View's first team eighth at 779, and Colorado City's second team ninth at 780.

Manager Ed Lopat has retained the three coaches he had with the Kansas City Athletics last season. They are Jimmie Dykes, Mel McGaha and Gus Zarhos.

US Treasury Bills Foretell Money Market Conditions

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—You may never have owned one but U.S. Treasury bills are rated as today's most important money market instruments.

They often serve as a barometer for what your future borrowing costs will be, and how readily you'll find lendable funds when you want them for your business or consumer needs.

There are about $52 billion worth of these Treasury bills outstanding now, compared with around $17 billion at the end of the war. The yields they bring at the Treasury's weekly auctions often foretell the course of interest rates in general and of the current supply and demand conditions in the money market.

The ups and downs of such auctions over a period of time also often reveal in which direction the money managers want interest rates and the supply of credit to go.

Return on Treasury bills has been strong for months. Part of this was because Washington monetary authorities wanted to discourage any outflow of idle dollars to foreign markets where yields are higher. Another reason for keeping rates high could be a desire by the authorities to head off speculative fever in the stock markets or in business and consumer borrowing.

This week the yields have turned down. One week doesn't make a trend. But dealers in government securities say the Federal Reserve System has been buying up bills fairly heavily of late, thus increasing the demand and pushing prices up—and yields down. The reasons for this activity weren't announced.

The yields work this way:

A Treasury bill is a government obligation to pay the bearer a fixed sum on a specific date within a year of issue. They are sold at a discount through competitive bidding. The return is the difference between the face value of the bill and the amount you pay for it.

This week's auction saw the average discount rate on 91-day bills fall to 3.525 per cent from 3.550 per cent the previous week. On 182-day bills the rate fell to 3.710 per cent from 3.740 per cent. Another Treasury bill with a one-year maturity, was not auctioned this week.

The drop in rates seems small to the average person. To government security dealers, to commercial banks, corporation treasurers and some individual investors who regularly bid for them, the drop is being watched closely to see if a trend develops and credit policies are changing.

Even at 3.525 per cent the discount rate on the bills is above the 3.5 per cent at which the Federal Reserve lends money to member banks—a discount rate often governing charges by bankers and other lenders to the borrowing public.

The advantages of the auction system of handling this form of Treasury debt are listed by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond in this order of economic significance:

In these Treasury auctions money market conditions set the price. The very fact that the bill market at $52 billion—is so enormous keeps the weekly fluctuations within workable bounds. It is one of the least painful ways for the Treasury to raise the cash it neds. It can add to or subtract from its weekly offerings if its needs rise or decline.

For the Federal Reserve buying or selling these bills is a prime method for increasing or decreasing the reserves of commercial banks—and hence the supply of credit.

For others, the bills offer excellent temporary investment at an attractive rate and little risk of trading loss.

It's the trend in the yields of these bills that the economists watch when guessing which way credit and interest costs may be heading.

Official Time-Piece Turned Back Today

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The nation's official clock was set back 1-10 of a second today.

The National Bureau of Standards took the action because the earth is slowing down. Drag of the tides, the moon and other braking factors were listed as reasons.

A spokesman said earthquakes and volcanic eruptions also account for deceleration and, "Don't forget the kick every satellite gives the earth when boosted off and when it breaks out of the atmosphere."

The last time U.S. time was changed officially was Nov. 1, 1963.

THE "Write" WAY

By RUTH FOWLER BROWN

DEAR RUTH:

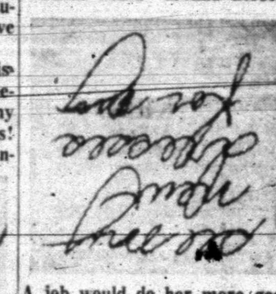

You analyzed my wife's writing and described her to a "T". She was very pleased and even admitted that the faults you had checked on her analysis were correct. These are the same faults I've been pointing out to her for years! Will you please tell my why she admits the faults you ascribe to her — but when I point them out she gets furious and denies them?

Puzzled Husband

DEAR PUZZLED:

It's not what you say, it's the way that you say it! Too often faults are pointed out in anger or as unkind censure. The candid truth spoken by one we love can hurt so deeply that we instinctively deny what we know is true. But faults pointed out dispassionately by an analyst are accepted — often with humility — as true constructive criticism.

The recognition and admission of a fault can be the beginning of a cure — but many people are proud of their faults! Take your handwriting, for instance. You're analytical, hypercritical, and something of a perfectionist. Sarcasm is a trait which you may consider "witty" — and others consider a fault. Reminds me of an old saying: "Do not look for the flaws as you go thru life, but even when you find them, it's wise and kind to be somewhat blind and look for the virtue behind them"!

DEAR RUTH:

The girl across the street and I were more or less thrown into friendship, just by the fact that we are neighbors and went to the same school. She's married now, but living at home since her husband is in the service overseas. I try to be nice to her because she doesn't have a lot of friends, but honestly Ruth, the way she lies and exaggerates really makes me sick! You'd think she's Mrs. Astorbilt the way she talks. But she's overweight, doesn't know how to dress (even if she had all the clothes she talks about), and really doesn't know how to act in company. This is a note she wrote a couple of weeks ago. Do you think it would do any good if I tried to straighten her out a bit?

Barbara

DEAR BARBARA:

It would probably do more harm than good! Your friend is somewhat insecure, depressed, and lonely. She exaggerates and dramatizes in order to build "dream world" around herself.

A job would do her more good than anything I can think of. She needs to feel accepted and wanted. The help of a professional person, a minister, or a sympathetic and understanding older person is needed here.

DEAR RUTH:

I think my brother is a crook! Take a look at his fancy figuring of what I owe him in repaying the money he loaned me three years ago. I think it's downright robbery, and he's a blood relative!

Swindled

DEAR SWINDLED:

He's not a crook, just a good mathematician. Those are normal bank rates. Perhaps he's merely attempting to straighten out a lackadaisical borrowing brother? ?

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — This morning, friends, we have before us a letter from a Massachusetts lady who is provoked because witches have been mentioned in this column. And she asks in stern, upright script, "Do you actually believe in such things?"

Madam, I most certainly do not. For that reason I retain a competent witch who DOES believe in hexes and spells so she can keep me informed which spirits are on my trail.

Only the other day I was consulting my witch on the possibilities of a sure lottery number and she asked casually, "They don't have witches or things like magic in the United States do they?"

And I said, "No ma'am, the people set fire to all the witches in Salem, Mass., a number of years back and since then witches have been extremely scarce. Or at least cautious."

So my witch said, "Well, they probably ain't any around because nobody believe in 'em. How's a witch going to eek out a living if people are disbelievers?"

A very good point. It would be like a lawyer trying to sue somebody in a town where there was no law of any kind.

Of course my witch refuses to deal in underhanded things like black magic or conjuring evil eyes against people I get mad at. Actually she is more like a Seer.

She looks at her crystal ball and spots wickedness being directed against me and works out a treatment we must undergo to prevent these forces from having effect.

Now in our age of science you will not find educated ex-wrestlers like myself thinking of Medieval superstitions or even pausing a moment to look around at ghosts and spirits that come floating through my room at night.

This is her work and it is why I pay her six dollars a month. She has to take care of spirits and the spells other people believe in and cast at me. And it is up to her to get the powdered dragons teeth and other ingredients that will keep me protected.

Some time back her broom broke down and she was afoot or had to take taxis while the broom was in the shop. And she is saving now to buy a good vacuum cleaner because this would be like traveling by jet.

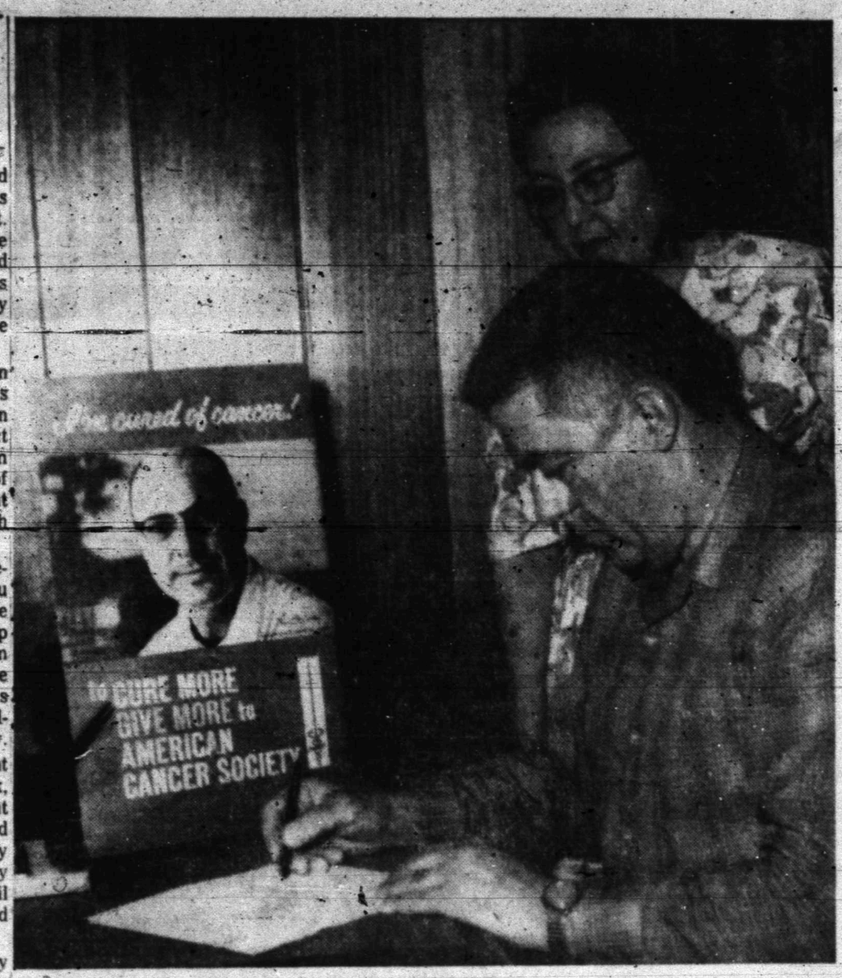

Besides, she says brooms are unreliable and old fashioned and the ones they turn out in mass production these days are pretty shoddy and won't last more than a few weeks.

In places where civilization hasn't ruined magic, she says the witches make their own brooms. They carefully select sturdy saplings and season them well so they gather plenty of horsepower. A broom like that is a regular Stutz Bearcat which will last a lifetime.

As I see it, witchcraft is something like the income tax. You don't believe in the tax nor care to pay out anything but a group of fellows who have made an intensive study of this science and DO believe in it are always checking to see that things balance. On their end, generally.

So payday for the government dawns and you say, "Look, things are hard enough without you guys panhandling around and besides you don't have any right. . . " Which is when they cart you off and hold you until you deliver the ransome and become a confirmed believer.

There is no reason to pay any attention to witches because everybody knows this business is just a lot of foolishness. However, never come out and say that to a witch. Otherwise she may conjure up an awful spell that will keep you in the roughs for years and years.

FPC Reveals Gas Act Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission has announced a number of revisions in its Natural Gas Act regulations, effective May 1.

One change is designed to provide information in annual reports which will enable the commission to make a continuing review of natural gas reserves of interstate pipeline companies and assure continuity of service to customers at the lowest possible price.

Others are designed to speed processing of contested natural gas pipeline certificate cases and provide small distributors a simplified form to use in seeking authority to serve a single community.

N-Powered De-Salt Plants Predicted For US Coasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — By 1975, large combined nuclear power-desalination plants could be pumping out low-cost water along the U.S. coasts, a government task force said today.

Oceanographer Roger Revelle told a news conference that waste heat from the plants could be used to make unpleasantly cold ocean water comfortable for swimming.

Revelle was chairman of the task group, established by the president's Office of Science and Technology to evaluate proposals from the Oak Ridge (Tenn.) National Laboratory that very large nuclear-electric power plants might be combined with water desalting plants to convert fresh water from sea water at relatively low cost.

Revelle said the technology now exists to produce fresh water from sea water in such huge plants at an estimated cost of 20 to 25 cents per 1,000 gallons. The cost of sea water conversion now is $1 to $1.50 per thousand gallons.

Khrushchev Sends Quake Condolences

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has sent a condolence message to President Johnson over the earthquake "in neighboring Alaska," close to Siberia.

The message, made public here today asked Johnson "to accept our profound sympathy and to convey the Soviet people's sincere condolences to the population of the affected state."

April Is Cancer Month

The month of April has been officially proclaimed as Cancer Control Month in Snyder by the Hon. John Hamblen, mayor of Snyder.

The advance gift division of the Crusade is presently completing its drive. Business solicitation will begin Apr. 7, and the drive will conclude with the residential and rural drives which will start Apr. 28.

The text of the mayor's proclamation follows:

WHEREAS, cancer strikes two out of three homes; and

WHEREAS, many new and remarkable treatments for cancer have recently been made; and

WHEREAS, money is urgently needed to press forward in the research field to find the ultimate cure for all cancer; and

WHEREAS, an adequate program of research and education is paramount to the prevention and cure of all forms of cancer;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, John H. Hamblen, Mayor of the City of Snyder, Texas, do hereby proclaim the month of April as Cancer Control Month for Scurry County and the City of Snyder, Texas.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Snyder to be affixed this the 1st day of April, 1964.

Connally Has High Praise For Retiring Sen. Moffett

QUANAH (AP) — State Sen. George Moffett, retiring at the age of 69 after long service, heard Gov. John Connally applaud him Tuesday night as one of the chief framers of Texas farm legislation.

About 1,200 persons attended a dinner honoring the Chillicothe lawmaker, who was credited by Connally for spending more years in the House and Senate than any other man.

Moffett received the Progressive Farmer Award sponsored by the agriculture magazine. It was presented by V. E. Hafner, a former Chillicothe classmate.

In addition, it was announced that Moffett is winner of the Farmer of the Year award to be presented at an October meeting of the Texas County Agents Association.

"I have been governor only one year of his 34 years in the legislature, but our relationship goes back a long time and I will miss him," Connally told the crowd. "His successor will have big shoes to fill. . . .

He has been our most effective leader in the development of expanded uses through research for cotton and cottonseed products.

"He put his name on the Texas livestock feed law, the Texas branding law, the law to cure title flaws in ranchland purchased by Texas stockmen, numerous animal disease control laws and a great volume of research programs in many phases of farming and ranching."

Former Gov. Coke Stevenson was among those at the dinner.
