STAGE SET FOR $117-MILLION PROJECT

SACROC Flow Hike Granted

Boost Seen In Recovery

It is indeed a Happy New Year for the SACROC oil production unit operated in Scurry County by Standard Oil Company of Texas.

The Texas Railroad Commission announced that the proposal of Standard to increase SACROC's allowable production has been approved.

An increase in production for the unit had been proposed in connection with plans to initiate a carbon dioxide injection project for the unit. A hearing was held last October on Standard's proposal.

SACROC requested that its allowable be increased from 174 270 barrels of oil per day to 209, 121 barrels per day (both subject to proration) effective with the commencement of construction on the pipeline or compression facilities required to transport carbon dioxide from South Texas. Another increase to 243, 978 barrels per day (subject to proration) would be effective with the commencement of the carbon dioxide injection project.

The ultimate result will be a $117-million project to introduce carbon dioxide to SACROC's repressuring system.

SACROC has been conducting a waterflood in the huge Canyon Reef pool of the Kelly-Snyder field since 1956. The Kelly-Snyder field is one of the giant oil reservoirs in the nation and the SACROC unit is one of the largest waterflood projects in the world.

The proposal to inject carbon dioxide solution present in conjunction with the waterflood required an increase in allowable to compensate for the anticipated huge expenditure. The additional oil recovery expected as a result of the carbon dioxide injection will more than justify the increase in allowable from the standpoint of conservation as well as economics, SACROC said.

It is estimated that the carbon dioxide project will increase the ultimate oil recovery of the field by 156 million barrels with no significant change in the life of the field.

The project will involve the construction and operation of a pipeline and compressor facilities to transport large volumes of carbon dioxide about 200 miles from certain gas fields in Val Verde County, where it is now being vented to the atmosphere. The carbon dioxide will be injected in the oil band ahead of the advancing water to further improve the ultimate oil recovery.

The SDN Column

The sixties were eventful years in Snyder and Scurry County, but 1969 undoubtedly was the most eventful of the decade. Coming at the last of the 10-year span, the year 1969 provided some momentum which, if we are fortunate, will carry over into the seventies.

The decade of the sixties saw a lot of changes here, and possibly it is the most significant decade of Snyder's history. A trend of the recessionary type, which had come on in the fifties following the oil boom, was reversed emphatically.

And it seemed only right that the decade should reach its true climax in its last year, 1969. The year just closed was the year of Snyder's All-America City award, and it was the year that we got our junior college. The effects of these two events should be felt throughout the seventies and into the more distant future.

The Du Pont Co. has announced that some townspeople of Plains, Tex., will be featured on a commercial during tonight's Orange Bowl football game in Miami, Fla. Du Pont built a new water treatment plant using "Permasep" permeators to remove brackish materials from well water, and that will be the subject of the commercial to be shown nation-wide on the NBC network.

The commercial was filmed in Plains, using local citizens. No professional actors were used and no special sets were constructed. The whole thing was shot in a local cafe at Plains.

This day launches a political year, with county and state offices going on the line at the polls, as well as congressional seats, including one U.S. Senate post.

State-wide reports are that one thing you can expect is for Ross Perot, the Dallas billionaire, to become actively involved in politics. The stage has been set.

World Celebrates New Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A bevy of youngsters one of them naked, danced in the frigid fountains of London's Trafalgar Square on New Year's Eve while thousands of miles away in warm Rio De Janeiro, thousands gathered on Copacabana Beach and made offerings to Iemania, the sea goddess.

In New York, a huge red and white striped balloon was lofted over Central Park as 3,000 gathered for a city-sponsored New Year's Eve party that featured fireworks, rock music and dancing.

At Times Square, a crowd estimated at over 100,000 pirouted over slippery sidewalks in 24-degree cold to watch the famous illuminated ball make its descent from atop the Allied Chemical Tower.

And Guy Lombardo, who for 40 years has conducted his Royal Canadians at New Year's Eve fetes in the city, received telephoned good wishes from President Nixon in San Clemente, Calif.

Lombardo, performing at the Waldorf Astoria, played the traditional "Auld Lang Syne," as well as "Mrs. Robinson" and "Aquarius" to a mainly middle-aged crowd that paid $60-50 a head for the festivities, not including drinks.

The celebrations in Rio were led by white-robed voodoo-like priests, many of them smoking cigars. They built hundreds of sand altars and, to the beat of drums, chanted, danced and cast offerings of trinkets and flowers into the sea for the goddess, who although divine, is still considered first and foremost a woman.

The annual event is celebrated by the Afro-Brazilian Macumba cult and lasts until dawn.

In Tokyo, solemn midnight bells tolled and Japanese the world over ushered in the year of the dog, a period said to produce people honest, loyal, sociable and good-natured.

Drawings and pictures of dogs adorned New Year cards in the Japanese capital, giant papier mache dogs floated over shopping centers and the shelves of department and toy stores were filled with animated recreations of man's best friend.

At the Trafalgar Square frolic, police arrested 11 persons on charges ranging from drunk to ress to carrying offensive weapons. Fifteen others were treated at a nearby hospital: some for exposure after frisking in the fountains, others for injuries sustained in scuffles.

Elsewhere, Romans "killed" the old year and made way for the new by smashing crockery, exploding fireworks and firing off rounds from pistols and rifles. Several injuries were reported before midnight.

As the banging and blazing merrymaking was under way, Pope Paul VI said a prayer of thanks in his private chapel overlooking St. Peter's Square.

2 Suspended In Gunboat Incident

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — With the five French-built gunboats berthed now in the Israeli port of Haifa today, the French government suspended two generals and ordered the Israeli official who arranged the boats' departure expelled.

The Israeli official is Adm. Mordechai Limon, who heads his country's arms purchasing mission in Europe. Limon was commander of the ship Exodus, which carried settlers to Israel when the nation was established.

The two generals, suspended provisionally, are Louis Bonte, 61, France's chief arms salesman, and Bernard Cazelles, 59, the defense ministry's secretary-general.

The French Cabinet took the action after a four-hour meeting Wednesday. During the meeting the boats reached Haifa.

In an effort to assure the Arab nations it has been courting during the last year, the spokesman quoted President Georges Pompidou as saying that the gunboat incident does not mean there is any modification in the embargo of arms shipments to Israel.

Hamon said the government considered the incident closed and has no intention of issuing any more statements on this at this time.

Israel was not asked to apologize for breaking the French arms embargo or explain how the boats managed to slip out of Cherbourg harbor dawn Christmas Day.

Some sources said Pompidou, who is scheduled to visit the United States next month, limited French reaction because he wants to make the trip a success and believes the Jewish influence in the United States is considerable.

It appeared to be up to the French armed forces to explain whether they had violated official French policy and cooperated because of old ties built up with Israel. An immediate investigation was ordered.

The two suspended officers passed on the papers that allowed the boats to leave as property of a dummy Norwegian company. Cazelles, highest staff officer in the defense ministry, signed the contracts.

In Haifa, Israelis seemed intent on making it known the boats would not be put to military use. When the unarmed boats arrived the Israeli crewmen were conspicuously wearing civilian clothing, such as bright red sweaters and checked sports jackets.

Netivei Neft, an Israeli government-owned oil company, said it leased the boats from Starboat Weill, the dummy company incorporated in Panama with a representative in Oslo. The vessels will definitely not be used for military purposes, but will service oil ships in a few projects we are planning, said Mordechai Friedman, the firm's manager.

Haddam declined to comment on the diplomatic aspects of the incident saying, "This is not a political outfit."

Mrs. Holmes Of Dunn Dies

Mrs. Mark Holmes, 57, of Dunn, died at 6:20 p.m. Wednesday in Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene.

Mrs. Holmes, a native of Rockwall County, had lived in Scurry County for the past 40 years.

She was married on Nov. 27, 1937, in Snyder to Mark Holmes, and he survives.

Also surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Donna Shelly of Fort Stockton, and Mrs. Lavada Cates of Wichita Falls; a sister, Mrs. Ibe Heath of Richmond, Calif.; six brothers, J. I. Crawley of Cross Plains, Roy Crawley of Los Angeles, Calif., Hugh Crawley of Albuquerque, N.M., Ted Crawley of Weatherford, Harold and Jack Crawley, both of Snyder, and two grandchildren.

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Friday at the Bell-Seale Chapel, with Mike Ezell and Bill Mauck officiating. Burial will be in the Dunn Cemetery under direction of Bell-Seale.

Agnew Visits With Thieu In Saigon

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called on South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu today and presented him with a gift of four tiny moon rocks. Then he left Thieu's palace by helicopter, presumably to visit U.S. troops in the field.

Agnew said his gift to Thieu "is symbolic of the desire of the United states to find peace on behalf of all people."

The vice president, who is making a 10-nation tour of Asia, flew here from the Philippines. It was his first visit to Vietnam, but the fifth by a U.S. vice president since 1953. There was no word on how long he planned to stay, but he is due Friday in Taipei, the Nationalist Chinese capital, on Formosa.

As Agnew and Thieu met inside the palace, U.S. and South Vietnamese troops cordoned off streets around the palace. Troops stood guard on nearby rooftops.

The vice president also held a separate 25-minute conversation with South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky. Thieu then was host to the official party of 40 for lunch.

No details on Agnew's discussions with the two leaders were made available, but sources said he gave Thieu the same kind of assurances he gave Wednesday to President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines that the Nixon Doctrine does not in any way imply to abandonment of U.S. commitments in Asia.

Air Force Two carrying the vice presidential party landed at Tan Son Nhut airport outside Saigon just before noon after a two-hour flight from the Philippines. Agnew made no airport speech but boarded a helicopter for the 10-minute trip to the palace.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. William B. Rosson, the deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam, greeted Agnew. Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the top U.S. commander in Vietnam, presented South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam welcomed him and a Vietnamese girl presented him with a bouquet of flowers.

The probability of a New Year's Day visit to Saigon was indicated when plans for a three-day stay in Manila were extended to four, with a light schedule announced for today, the fourth day.

Mrs. Agnew remained behind in the Philippines to complete the vice president's announced schedule.

Action Due To End Hunger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Jean Mayer, the President's consultant on nutrition, predicts "a great deal of action is going to take place" in the nation's effort to end hunger in the United States.

Mayer released Wednesday the 625-page final report of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health held in early December. He had given the recommendations to President Nixon the day before Christmas.

Mayer said the nation has the capability of eliminating hunger in the United States in three years.

Holiday Traffic Toll At 50

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Accidents on the nation's streets and highways took 79 lives by 11 a.m. (EST) of the New Year's holiday weekend.

Light snow fell in many northern states, and rain dampened roadways in parts of the Southeast.

The count of traffic deaths began at 6 p.m., local time, Wednesday and will end at midnight Sunday.

New Press In Operation

The beginning of the New Year meant a new look for The Snyder Daily News as the local newspaper produced its first issue on the new offset press installed several days ago. This is it.

The new press is the first point of several changes in the Daily News plant, all of which will not be completed for several more weeks.

However, the new press will be used henceforth and its product is expected to be further enhanced by other alterations and as the staff familiarizes itself with procedures required by the new printing process.

Fighting Resumes As Truce Ends

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces resumed combat operations in Vietnam today after a 24-hour cease fire for New Year's. The deaths of five Americans during this period pushed U.S. war dead in the nation's history in Vietnam over the 40,000 mark.

Earlier, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew arrived in Saigon on his first trip to Vietnam for a meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu and a visit with U.S. troops in the field.

An official casualty summary for Dec. 21-27 reported 86 Americans killed, 20 more than during the Dec. 14-20 reporting period.

This raised the number of American dead since Jan. 1, 1961 to 39,979, but sources said deaths reported in the first four days of this week had pushed the figure over 40,000 mark.

The allied cease-fire ended at 6 p.m. Saigon time—5 a.m. EST—but the 72-hour Viet Cong cease fire continued. With reports still incomplete, the U.S. Command said that during the first 18 hours of the allied cease fire there were 65 enemy initiated incidents, 37 of which were considered significant because they resulted in casualties.

Headquarters said 72 enemy troops and five Americans were killed, and 10 Americans wounded. South Vietnamese casualties were 14 soldiers and seven civilians killed and 53 soldiers and four civilians wounded.

The most damaging enemy attack was a 20-round mortar barrage and a 20-minute volley of rifle and machine gunfire that killed five American infantrymen and wounded three.

The infantrymen, from the Americal Division's 196th Brigade, were in night defensive positions 33 miles southeast of Da Nang when the attack came three hours before dawn. Three enemy soldiers were killed when the U.S. troops returned fire.

Two Americans were wounded in another enemy attack against troops of the U.S. 5th Mechanized Infantry Division in night bivouac five miles south of the demilitarized zone. Headquarters said none of the North Vietnamese soldiers broke through the perimeter. Two enemy were reported killd.

Rare Records Are Donated

NEW YORK (AP) — A collection of 9,000 operatic and concert recordings—featuring almost every vocal artist of importance in this century—has been presented to the Research Library of the Performing Arts at Lincoln Center.

Among the more notable rarities are three 1902 Pathe sides recorded by Enrico Caruso in Milan, a 1902 Chaliapin recording of the "Calf of Gold" aria from "Faust" done in St. Petersburg for the Gramophone & Typewriter Co. and an equally scarce 1903 G & T disk of Fella Litvinne in Brunnhilde's "Ho-Jo-To-Ho" from "Die Walkure" with Alfred Cortot at the piano.

The gift is from Lauder Greenway, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera Assn.

Decade Population Estimate Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States entered the new decade today with a population estimated at 204,334,344.

According to the Census Bureau estimate, this was about 25 million more than the U.S. population at the opening of the 1960s.

The figures include overseas members of the U.S. armed forces.

During the past year the population rose about two million as a result of about 3,608,000 births, 1,946,000 deaths and 405,000 immigrations.

The 1969 gain of only slightly more than 1 per cent compares with a yearly average of more than 1.6 per cent from 1947 to 1961.

Official census figures will come out later this year after the nation takes its formal headcount—made once every 10 years—as of April 1.

Two Mishaps Are Logged In City

Two traffic mishaps were logged by city police Wednesday, one of which caused considerable damage to the two vehicles involved.

At 6:20 a.m. a 1961 Ford driven by Heryl David Coy, 1908 Coleman, and a 1965 Chevrolet driven by Thelma Thorpe Deere, 123 Twentieth Place, were involved in a mishap at the intersection of Avenue E and Twenty - sixth Street. Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $500 and to the Ford at $250.

At 2:50 p.m. Wednesday, officers reported that a 1964 pickup truck driven by Michael Lee Stipe, Arah Route, sustained damage estimated at $15 and a 1966 Oldsmobile driven by Saundra Sue Sneed of Gail had damage estimated at $35 in a mishap in the parking lot near Gibson's Discount Center.

Students To Visit In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans are under way, reports an official of the South Vietnamese embassy, to send 100 American college students on a visit to Vietnam—at the Saigon government's expense—to investigate the war situation.

"I hope it (the trip) will be very soon," Hoan Nguyen, counselor for political affairs at the embassy, said Wednesday after National Student Association President Charles Palmer had charged that Saigon was not following through on an invitation issued in October.

Rep. George E. Brown Jr., D-Calif., appearing at the news conference with Palmer, said he has cabled Thieu asking that U.S. congressmen be invited as well. Brown said he would be glad to coordinate such an investigating team of congressmen.

Palmer accused Nixon and Thieu of being partners in a massive farce on the world public in claiming that the U.S. presence in Vietnam is to preserve democracy.

Suicidal Tendencies

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Subconscious suicidal tendencies in drivers are to blame for many car accidents, believes Prof. Johan Garbers, Dean of Education at Port Elizabeth University. Garbers said many people would never consciously commit suicide. Driving makes it possible for them to do so without thinking, however, and such drivers are involved in twice as many accidents as any other type. Garbers suggested psychiatric treatment for drivers frequently involved in accidents.

Texas Has Most On Low Incomes

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

Texas started off the year with a statistical record no one wants to brag about.

According to U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) figures, Texas had more low-income citizens than any other state in 1968 and continued to hold that ranking for 1969.

Yet the state ranks third in the amount of federal money received under the Economic Opportunity Act.

A recent report by the Texas OEO, which is operated as a branch of the governor's office, shows Texas is just beginning to realize the enormous poverty problem it has.

"Population studies made by the Texas OEO show that 26.03 per cent of the 3,532,568 families in Texas are presently receiving incomes below the poverty level as defined by the office of economic opportunity," said Gov. Preston Smith in commenting on the report. "This compares unfavorably with the national average of 19.8 per cent.

"We find manifestations of poverty in unemployment, adult illiteracy, inadequate housing, hunger and malnutrition, lack of sufficient medical and dental care and a host of other conditions that combine to deny more than one-fourth of our citizens the standard of living they should have," Smith said.

Smith noted that in those countries taking part in the OEO funded community action programs there was a decrease in poverty greater than the national average. The story in the non-cooperating counties swung the balance the other way.

The difficulty of getting and keeping the support of local officials was brought out several times in the bulky report.

"The changes have not been made without occasional friction and conflict between local government and the private, non-profit agencies that have been designated to plan and operate community programs," said B. G. Allen, director of the Texas OEO.

"Nevertheless the assumption of greater responsibility by county and city officials for anti-poverty programs within their jurisdiction has had, and will continue to have, a salutary effect of the war on poverty in Texas."

According to the report more than $95.4 million in federal funds was allocated for Texas anti-poverty programs in 1969. This includes $18 million for the Job Corps centers at San Marcos, McKinney and New Waverly. And $20 million more in federal money was received for youth and adult work and training programs. The remaining grants went to the 53 Community Action Agencies and the six limited purpose agencies.

Almost all CAA programs took advantage of Head Start grants to give disadvantaged children preparation for their first formal schooling.

However, only four Community Action agencies funded medical care programs and only three saw fit to provide dental care. The Tom Green County CAA (San Angelo) got $8,721 for prevention and control of alcoholism while 24 CAA programs got federal money for family planning and birth control.

Court Urged To Set Fall Deadline For Desegregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has urged the Supreme Court to set a uniform fall deadline for desegregating the last remaining dual school districts in the Deep South and has promised strong action to enforce such a ruling.

In a memorandum to the court Wednesday, Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard opposed an appeal by civil rights lawyers and groups of Negro families who are asking the court to set an immediate deadline for desegregation in 11 districts in Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida.

The appeal concerns a Dec. 1 decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans giving the 14 districts and two others until fall to desegregate their students.

Griswold and Leonard contended the high court not only should uphold the appeals court ruling on the fall deadline, but should apply it to more than 300 districts in the five states and Texas which are not now committed to desegregate before fall.

"If the court now endorses the schedule fashioned by the Fifth Circuit (appeals court) as uniformly applicable to all dual school systems, the United States will focus its resources and its efforts toward making that deadline a reality," the memorandum said.

Pledging the government will take all necessary steps to ensure compliance with the court's school desegregation decrees, Griswold and Leonard suggested they might desegregate this month.

In arguing for a regionwide deadline for the remaining units, the memorandum said, such a deadline puts all school boards on notice that there will be no justification for further delay.

The Supreme Court on Oct. 29 ruled that school districts must end segregation "at once." This decision threw out the previous standard of desegregation with "all deliberate speed."

Moon Flights To Continue

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Moon-landing flights by U.S. astronauts will continue after a space station program planned for 1972 is implemented, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday.

Officially denying published and broadcast reports that some moon flights were being canceled, NASA said in a statement that at least seven more Apollo flights are planned.

"Some of these will be carried out before the planned Apollo Applications flights in 1972 and the remainder after Apollo applications," NASA said.

The Apollo applications program is scheduled to convert the upper stage of a Saturn 5 rocket into a two-story, earth-orbiting laboratory. Three space crews, made up of three-man teams of astronauts, would visit the laboratory for up to two months at a time.

America's third moon-landing flight, Apollo 13, is scheduled to blast off from Cape Kennedy March 12.

NASA said the interval between future flights will be increased from the current four months to six months to allow more time for scientists to study information gained from the flights.

BECKET REMEMBERED

CANTERBURY, England (AP) — Next year will be 800th anniversary of the martyrdom of Thomas Becket, who was slain by four armed knights in Canterbury Cathedral in 1170. The occasion will be celebrated from July to October with ecumenical services in the cathedral, where T. S. Eliot's play, Murder in the Cathedral, will also be revived. In addition, there will be music, arts and drama festival.

Chill Lingers In Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The dawn of a new year brought no sign of letup today in the wintry chill reaching into nearly every corner of Texas.

A new cold front started moving through the western and northern sections of the state, reinforcing the frigid effects left by freezing rain, snow and sleet earlier this week.

Early morning temperatures again plumbed the lower levels, skidding to 6 degrees above zero at Marfa in far West Texas and 9 at Amarillo and Plainview in the Panhandle-Plains sector.

Skies were generally clear except for cloud overhanging the southern tip of the state. Increasing cloudiness was in prospect for West and North Texas as the new front proceeded southward.

Ice and snow which made death traps of many highways for several days had about disappeared. All routes were reported dry by late Wednesday.

Thermometers at other points near dawn today recorded 11 degrees at Perryton, 12 at Dalhart, 13 at Lubbock, 17 at Wink, 20 at Alpine and Wichita Falls, 22 at Childress, Lufkin and Midland, 23 at Big Spring, 24 at Mineral Wells and San Angelo, 25 at El Paso, Fort Worth and Tyler, 26 at College Station and Longview, 27 at Abilene and San Antonio, 28 at Texarkana, 29 at Austin, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Waco, 30 at Corpus Christi and Del Rio, and 31 at Alice, Dallas and Victoria.

At the same hour Brownsville's 49 was one of the few marks above the 30s.

Mamie Heads List Of American Women

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower heads the 1969 list of women Americans admire most, according to the latest Gallup Poll.

Mrs. Eisenhower received 125 votes, followed by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, 112 votes; Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, 110; Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel 103; and Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, 100.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy received 90 votes; Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, 84; Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, 81; Queen Elizabeth II, 71; and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, 65.

The pollsters asked 1,511 men and women: "What woman that you have heard or read about living today in any part of the world do you admire the most?"

Modern Day Tinker Could Solve Small Job Woes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In the 1970s a capable handyman reviving the arts of the tinker suggests a homemaker.

She'll wager that everyone has a little thing in disrepair that an itinerant mender of small articles might fix in a jiffy.

An experienced do-it-yourselfer will run into some repairs that might stymie him: the repair of a pane of glass or door lock because he doesn't have the proper tools to do the job, and he cannot find anyone who will do a small job.

Time was when the tinker pulled his truck up to homes where he parked while he sharpened knives, repaired utensils, made new door keys. Today, he might add to the repertoire. In addition, he might patch a roof or a gauged wall and install a few shelves. Many people would welcome someone who would hang pictures for them.

A traveling repairman would eliminate store overhead and he would save transportation costs, time and energy for his customers, who must deliver and pick up certain items that need repair.

Small repairs can cause large family feuds. One woman appeared at a glazier's with a storm door that had a broken glass. She explained that her trip was the culmination of two years of family arguments. She finally had it removed the door and had driven the 15 miles to have a new pane of glass installed. Her husband always had been too busy.

Other women in the shop nodded sympathetically. They carried picture frames, bedroom mirrors and window pane measurements. It took the glazier five minutes to cut glass for two picture frames, but it had taken the woman six months to get them to his store. She had been carrying the frames in her car trunk, but she did got have the time to do anything about them.

Ditto carpenters, who point out they are too busy to put up a shelf or repair a door. They must charge too much to do such "small" jobs. In addition to travel time, they must keep a helper busy. They must earn more in a bigger way. "I'll take a small order when things are slow, but if something big comes along, I'll have to disappoint the customer," one carpenter explained. Architects keep track of good carpenters and try to keep them busy so they are always available for important jobs. This may compound the problem.

In many areas, in recent years, the slip cover and upholstery business has been conducted by telephone to the satisfaction of homemakers. Stores send representatives to city apartment dwellers and suburban home owners after canvassing by telephone. They arrive with fabric swatches, tape measure, shears. They measure the furniture, cut a pattern on the spot, and return with the slipcover within a short time. If furniture is to be upholstered, they take it to their shop.

The alternative for many women has been to deliver a chair to the local upholsterer for an estimate or the work. The biggest concession some upholsterers will make is that "if you want to bring it in, I'll do it when I can get to it."

That time lapse could be a year. One woman picked up a chair at an upholsterer's after waiting 10 months, but he had warned her. A telephone canvassar had persuaded her to give them the job, and the busy upholsterer was happy to see the chair go. He needed the space.

Local upholsterers often do not have time to do one chair because they are doing entire rooms or entire houses. They don't want to risk losing a big job for a small one.

The plain truth is that there aren't enough trained upholsterers for the amount of work available, one upholsterer said. Stores that canvas homes for work, round up upholsterers who want neither to operate a business of their own nor to work full time for anyone. There are enough of these part-timers for stores to be able to promise quick delivery.

If a modern-day tinker would follow the pattern of the old-time traveling expert, he could pull his truck into a neighborhood each day and spend the entire day putting the homes in repair. He might be hailed by small flags in colors to indicate what is needed.

In his truck, he might carry an estimated quantity of glass, plaster, lumber and so on.

The itinerant worker will not dismay local workers who are too busy to do small things, even in their shops. As one plumber put it, "I must get $6 for a service call even though installing a washer may be a few minutes work. I feel embarrassed taking the money, but a special call for a little thing may take me away from a bigger job."

History Of Hannibal

HANNIBAL: Challenging Rome's Supremacy. By Sir Gavin de Beer. Viking. $8.95.

This is as completely a "scientific" history as we are likely to get. De Beer, who began his career as a zoologist and embryologist, now has established himself as one of our most fascinating historians.

Several years ago he won a reputation as an unusual chronicler who brought modern science to check and serve historiography in his "Alps and Elephants." It brought the results of modern scientific techniques to bear on the centuries-old question of how Hannibal brought an army of 90,000 plus horses and more than a score of elephants through the Alpine peaks into Italy in 218 B.C. The present book, a logical development of the first, is the most satisfying and convincing biography to date of one of the greatest military and administrative minds in history.

Sir Gavin has studied thoroughly and frequently corrects the oldest surviving texts of the classical historians Polybius and Livy. He has brought the resources of ancient monuments, coins and even random poetical references, plus the modern sciences of radioactive elements, glaciology and pollen studies to support him.

He has transmitted this material through simple but moving prose into an epic story, and in addition shows a most acute understanding of tactics and even strategy. How much more could we ask of a historian?

The character and career of Hannibal as portrayed by Sir Gavin sustains and even magnifies the sympathetic but slightly misty accounts of other ancient and modern historians. For 17 years the great Carthaginian not only survived, virtually unsupported from home, in the hostile country of his Roman enemies, he constituted a continuing threat to the expanding Roman imperium. Finally recalled to Africa with only the dregs of an army to defend Carthage, he retained the lasting respect of his conqueror, the able Scipio Africanus. Then, preferring death to humiliation, he died by his own hand, through poison, in an obscure kingdom near the eastern Mediterranean.

Sir Gavin's book is typographically a work of art, appropriate as a gift. It was printed in Western Germany, where some of our finest books are produced. Two small criticisms, advantageous or not for our computered typesetters, paragraphs that are not indented are disconcerting, and some of the maps would help us more if they showed the important rivers in detail.

Collected Works Of B. Rogers

THE COLLECTED WORKS OF BUCK ROGERS IN THE 25th CENTURY. Edited by Robert C. Dille. Chelsea House. $12.50.

Some of the things of the past are better remembered than revived. Comic strip heroes, for example. Glimpsed fondly through the mists of memory, they forever retain the magic that endeared them to small boys. But torn out of context and placed again before the hero ... now grown to man ... the sweet nostalgia vanishes. The eyes that look at the dimly remembered drawings are the same eyes, but they're 35 years older, and a delighted boy makes the man move uneasily in his chair.

Buck Rogers doesn't belong in a heavy, oversized book that's hard to handle and must be read lying flat on a desk or table if the pages are to be turned easily. He belongs in a newspaper, and the best way to read him is lying on your stomach on the floor — the way a child reads the funnies. And the best way to remember him is to recall the boy who sent away for a Buck Rogers gun, and then got up at dawn, for what seemed like months, to wait for hours for the mailman. But those days are gone forever, and this book can't bring them back.

As Ray Bradbury observes in his introduction to this book: The most beautiful sound in any life dearly recollected, fully remembered, was the sound of a folded newspaper kiteing through the summer air and landing on my front porch.

Every late afternoon from the time I was 9 until I was 14, that sound and the thump it made hitting the side of the house or the screen door, or a window, but never the porch planks themselves, that sound had an immediate effect upon one person inside the house.

"The door burst wide. A boy myself, leapt out, eyes blazing, mouth gasping for breath, hands seizing at the paper to grapple it wide so that the hungry soul of one of Waukegan, Illinois' finest small intellects could feed upon.

CHEESE SANDWICHES

8 slices buttered rye bread
Sliced sharp cheddar cheese
Sliced commercial sweet roasted red peppers, the crisp kind that come in jars 4 scallions (green onions), cut into thin strips with several inches of green part left on Cover four of the bread slices with the cheese. Cover cheese, as much as you can, with red pepper. Distribute the scallions over the pepper. Top with remaining bread. Cut in half.

PHYLL'S TOMATO SAUCE WITH SPAGHETTI

2 tablespoons olive oil
1 cup chopped frozen onion
½ cup finely chopped green pepper
1 pound ground beef, chuck or rolled
1 can (1 pound 12 ounces) tomato puree
2 large cloves garlic, crushed
1½ teaspoons dried oregano
½ teaspoon dried basil
½ teaspoon vegetable bouquet sauce
1½ to 1¾ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 pound spaghetti, cooked
Grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

In a four- or five-quart sauce pot heat the oil, add onion, green pepper and beef. With a long handle, two-tine fork mash beef until it loses its red color. Add puree, garlic, oregano, basil, bouquet sauce, salt and pepper. Cook, gently stirring often, for 20 to 30 minutes. Makes about 1½ quarts. Top spaghetti with sauce; pass cheese. Makes 6 servings. If you want a fat-free sauce, refrigerate sauce overnight; remove fat that has hardened on top; heat sauce.

Life As A Grossinger Has Not Been Easy

AP Newsfeatures Writer
By NAOMI ROCK

NEW YORK (AP) — The lady is down to earth and kind of kooky for someone of the over-30 set.

She digs her long-haired teenage sons and they dig her.

She's equally at home in her elegant Hotel Plaza suite wearing slim Jims, cowboy boots and corduroy hat squashed firmly over her pixyish hairdo, or in her own home, in evening gown and hairpiece fall, entertaining the rich and famous.

With an irreverent sense of humor — easily turned upon herself — she's made her way in this "often wretched world," and has spent her 22 years of married life striving to be herself — someone other than just Mrs. Paul Grossinger, daughter-in-law of the indomitable Jenny.

Being a Grossinger has not been easy.

"One feels a special responsibility as a Grossinger," the former Bunny Persky mused, the deepening worry lines around her mouth showing that she just might be the age she readily admits to — 45.

"You can't be a Grossinger without wanting to get your hands in the hotel pie. Sometimes it's a pain in the neck. But sometimes it's just groovy.

"It's like the business of keeping kosher," she continued, crossing one long slim leg over the other and pushing her hat down closer to the dark, almost impish eyes.

"I come from a rather well integrated Jewish background. As a fourth generation American, Jewish traditions were alien to me until I married Paul. At first I thought that Grossingers should be more in keeping with the times — less Jewish. But over the years I've changed."

The young Mrs. Grossinger whose own home, on the 1,000 acre hotel grounds is not a kosher one, says that with age has come an understanding of Jewish traditions.

"It's like years ago when I first met Danny and Sylvia Kaye at the hotel. They sat around and kibbitzed in Yiddish with my in-laws. It's a certain feeling which I've seen over and over again ... a feeling that they were refurbishing something in the marrow of their bones."

But even so, Bunny maintained, Grossingers is not strictly a Jewish hotel.

With an amused glint in her eyes, she recalled the time she was startled by a large black funeral hearse pulling up before the hotel. She rushed to the desk to learn what had happened, only to find that the hotel was hosting a funeral directors' convention, and that the hearse was bearing the luggage.

In its 55 years of existence Grossingers' has hosted an endless stream of rich and famous actors, artists, businessmen, writer, politicians, diplomat and others.

For Bunny Grossinger and for her children, being a Grossinger, living on the hotel grounds, has meant a deep-seated loneliness, and a life of working "just a little bit harder" to be accepted for themselves.

"The hotel has changed my life," she said. "Sometimes I've hated it because I think we were robbed of something. Our family didn't have the security of neighbors and close friends. We lived among constantly changing strangers, something I think of as the American dream was never ours."

But life at the hotel was often great fun, she continued, recalling the first time she met her screen idol Van Johnson, but was horrified because he walked in unexpectedly and found her in curlers.

Other times, life was not easy.

"Being a Grossinger has given us a built-in acceptance," she continued. "You get admitted to and invited to, but that's not the best of all possible ways to live."

Particularly for her sons, Michael, now a college sophomore, and James, a high school senior, who were brought up at the hotel, learning to be something aside from a Grossinger was taken some doing.

"They had a swimming pool and skating rink, so they made friends easily," she recalled. "They had to work at being themselves, at being accepted for themselves. They've turned out just fine," she said, a hint of a proud smile creasing her college girl complexion.

Her children are grown now, they're leaving the nest. Like many American women who've devoted 20 or more years to rearing and caring for a family, Bunny Grossinger is looking for another way to find fulfillment. She's been lucky.

"I'm a greedy lady," Bunny joked. "I can't settle for tillers. I could take up mah jong now, only I'm a lousy card player."

"You have to have something to love and live for — and you're enormously lucky if you find something. Three years ago I went to Israel and fell in love with the country.

"Somehow, I'm not sure exactly how yet, I felt cemented to my people. I'm going to work for Israel from this country. It will become my work, as my mother-in-law's hotel was her work."

ON THE HOUSE

AP Newsfeatures

It was one of the ironies of our times that the more affluent we become, and the more we can afford to pay for help around the house, the less able we are to find it.

Everybody wants an education and, following it, a white collar job. Comparatively few persons want to work with their hands. Each year, it becomes increasingly difficult to hire anyone to handle a small repair task. If there is a major remodeling project to be done, contractors beat a path to your door. But try to get someone to tackle something that requires only a few hour's work and you discover (1) that there's nobody available or (2) that if there is, he's so busy he can't get around to your house for several weeks or months, and (3) that, because he's in such demand, his rates are sky-high.

The shortage of manual workers is not confined to repairmen. It has hit the construction industry to such a degree that, along with more publicized things like high interest rates, tight mortgage money, spiraling labor costs and a scarcity of land, it is an important factor in home building, or the lack of it.

As older construction workers retire, replacements are not easy to find. Fewer and fewer apprentices are entering the building trades. Little progress has been made in the campaign of the National Association of Home Builders to establish a manpower training program in conjunction with the federal government.

The Manpower Committee of the Long Island Builders Institute recently reported a number of cases where it was almost impossible to get enough mechanics to finish houses so they could be delivered to purchasers. Anyone who has had a house built knows well how difficult it is to get a builder to complete the job on the scheduled date.

Where is all this leading us? Nobody is sure. But there's no doubt that the public is depending more and more on living quarters which are built for the most part in factories, where assembly line techniques replace individual all-around craftsmanship. Housing experts predict that more than 90 per cent of all single-family structures under $15,000 are mobile homes, a remarkable statistic when it is remembered that many cities still restrict or prohibit the use of such dwellings.

The day may come, however, when homes at all price levels may be turned out in factories in component parts and then assembled at the selected locations. How much of an advantage this will be to the home owner in terms of costs and quality is difficult to predict. Meanwhile, it is hoped that unions, builders' groups and government officials will cooperate more actively in the development of apprentice recruitment and manpower training programs if they don't, the situation will get a lot worse before it gets better, if at all.

Stars Not In Joe's Favor

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The stars foretell trouble for Joe Kapp and the Minnesota Vikings in Sunday's National Football League championship game against the Cleveland Browns at Metropolitan Stadium.

If you are a believer of astrology, the colorful Minnesota quarterback might just have a bad day.

A monthly astrology publication predicts this for Kapp, a Pisces born March 19, 1938.

"Jupiter and Saturn in your sign like a good proposition to consider making a certain investment. It more likely may turn out to be a losing one."

But Kapp is a believer of himself and the Vikings, not the stars.

He came to the Vikings three seasons ago from the Canadian Football League and won the starting quarterback job midway through his first season.

The Minnesota crowds booed him freely during bad days in 1967 and 1968. But they fell in love with him in 1969 when he passed for 1,726 yards and 19 touchdowns as the Vikings ran up the best record in the NFL, 12-2. He threw for seven touchdown passes in one game to tie a record.

Kapp's most stirring performance, however, came last Saturday.

With the Los Angeles Rams leading 17-7 at the half, Kapp scrambled and passed to set up one touchdown and ran two yards in the fourth period for the winning touchdown as the Vikings won the Western Conference title 23-20.

The 6-foot-3, 215 pounder from California recklessly racked up 42 yards rushing, all in the second half to lead Minnesota ball carriers.

Asked why he risked injury with his abandoned runs, the 31-year-old Kapp said:

"This is 11 years in pro football for me so I'm not worrying about next year. I'm going to do everything possible for us to win this year."

But if you believe in astrology, heres the predictions for Cleveland quarterback Bill Nelsen, an Aquarian:

"Agreeableness. The whole world should be fairly hopeful and a pleasant one. Serenity can be disturbed later in the evening by sudden events."

If Minnesota Coach Bud Grant is taking all this to heart, he can start Gary Cuozzo, who was superb in relief of Kapp this season.

But what the stars foresee for Cuozzo: a Taurus.

"Although the things that are going on in the world are enough to upset angels, one must learn to live with them. There's no alternative."

So, it's sudden death this Sunday with no alternative but to win or lose to determine who goes to the Super Bowl.

Davidson's Moustache No Bother

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Jim Tyrer, the veteran Kansas City tackle who will go head-to-head with Otis Taylor's Chiefs opposite Oakland's Ben Davidson, is not especially more concerned about tangling with the actualities of his long arms than the psychological effects of his long absence.

I don't pay any attention to the fact he has a moustache," Tyrer said today while the Chiefs continued their preparations for Sunday's American Football League championship game at Oakland. "I'm only concerned about his long arms and the leverage that gives him."

The struggle between the two undoubtedly will be one of the more physical battles that will be seen Sunday on the floor of the Oakland Coliseum matching he if does Tyrer's 6-foot-6 height and 275 pounds against the 6-foot-8, 280-pound statistics of the Raider defensive end.

The two have met head-to-head for years but Tyrer never has taken the opportunity to tweek the guy they call "Big Bad Ben" about the handlebar moustache that creates a picture of unusual physical strength.

"I don't have conversations with the guy I play against," Tyrer said. "I try to avoid any talking our offense is complex enough to think about without that. He (Davidson) does some talking but that's like almost all defensive people. It's mostly smoke."

While shying away from any verbal confrontation with Davidson, Tyrer is fully ready to step in and tangle with his long arms.

"The greatest asset Davidson has is his pass rush because of his size," Tyrer explained. "He's taller than most defensive ends and he uses his long arms to keep the offensive man away from his body.

"It'll just be a matter Sunday of both of us having a good physical contest. our own little war going on."

Cook Named By Writers

DALLAS (AP) — Dan Cook executive sports editor of the San Antonio Express and Evening News is the new president of the Texas Sports Writers Association.

The 100-member organization elected officers Wednesday on the eve of the annual Cotton Bowl football classic.

Cook succeeds Burle Pettit, sports editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Elected vice president was Tommy Hart, sports editor of the Big Spring Herald. Dick Moore of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram was renamed secretary-treasurer.

The organization voted to send a portion of its membership fees to Freddy Steinmark, University of Texas player whose leg was amputated because of cancer.

San Diego State's football team led the nation in total offense during 1969 with 61 touchdowns and a 531.1 yard average per game.

Tigers Face Dunbar Five

Snyder High School's basketball team will hit the road Friday for Lubbock where it will participate beginning the tourney of some two weeks. The Tigers opened their season Tuesday night with Dunbar Panthers, who Wednesday night took the second place trophy in the large school division of the Caprock Tournament at Lubbock. The Panthers were dudged out in the finals by cross-town rival Monterey, one of the Class 4A powers.

Earlier the Panthers had outlasted another cross-town rival, Estacado, to capture the championship trophy in Snyder's Canyon Reef Tournament.

The Fort Stockton Tournament two weekends ago was the last action for Coach Ned Underwood's Tigers. They took a week off from practice, but resumed full scale workouts this week and Underwood said the team was making some progress as it prepares to launch conference play Jan. 13.

Probable starters tomorrow night at Dunbar are Ronald Ward, Wesley Bishop, Jim Pat Tick, Joe McNair and Bruce Almond. Underwood said that several combinations likely would operate against the Panthers during the course of the game.

Coach Bill Bundy is expected to start Kent Horsley, Dub Preston, David Thompson, Ronnie Morse and Jackie Murray in the junior varsity game which will precede the varsity encounter.

The JV game is booked for a 6:15 p.m. tipoff, while the varsity teams will tangle at 8 p.m.

Johnsons Due For Cotton Bowl Game

DALLAS (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson and members of his family were expected here today for the Texas-Notre Dame football game in the Cotton Bowl.

Nittany Lions Will Try Harder For No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Penn State is only No. 2 so the Nittany Lions will be trying harder tonight in the Orange Bowl.

And they may be given more incentive to win, depending on the outcome of the Cotton Bowl game between top-ranked Texas and Notre Dame.

If Notre Dame turns the tables on Texas and Penn State bowls over Missouri, the Nittany Lions could very well become the nation's No. 1 college football team.

Penn State also has another thing going for undefeated string of 19 games. Included in this streak is last year's one-point thriller over Kansas in the Orange Bowl.

While national attention will be focused on the two games, two other fine pairings will be on display in the Rose Bowl and Sugar Bowl.

Southern California, pride of the West, takes on Michigan, conqueror of Ohio St. in the Rose Bowl and Arkansas' razorback Hogs battle Mississippi and sensational Archie Manning in the Sugar.

In activity Wednesday night, Houston blasted Auburn 36-7 in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Penn State threw its rock sturdy defense, which allowed less than nine points a game during the regular season, against Missouri's volatile offense. The Tigers averaged 36 points a contest in one of the tougher schedules in the nation.

Coach Joe Paterno of Penn State rates Missouri as the best balanced and most potent offensive team he's faced in 20 years at State. He adds however, that his Nittany Lions "are" as well prepared as we've been for any game this season.

"If we lose, we'll have no excuses. It'll be because Missouri has a better football team," Paterno said.

Houston's Jim Strong ran over through end around Auburn's stingy defense for 184 yards Wednesday night. Included in his rampage were touchdown bursts of one and 12 yards.

The issue was never in doubt from the outset as the Cougars scored two touchdowns and a field goal the first three times they had the ball. The combined drives covered 183 yards with Strong piling for 124 of them.

Houston Humbles Auburn

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Cougars have concentrated on offensive power for four seasons, but it was a sparkling defensive performance that gave them a surprisingly easy victory over Auburn in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Jim Strong, a power speedster from San Antonio, led the way for a quick 16-0 lead as the Cougars defeated the Tigers 36-7 Wednesday night before a overflow Astrodome crowd of 55,203.

Auburn was a slight favorite because it was No. 2 in the nation on defense. But it was the Cougar defense that smashed an Auburn attack that held a season average of 224 yards per game on the ground. The Tigers moved into the final period with a rushing total of minus three yards and ended the game with only one net yard.

"Everyone talked about two real good offenses but they forgot about the Houston defense," said Ralph (Shug) Jordan, the Auburn coach. "Houston was the best team we faced all year."

Bill Yeoman, the Houston coach, seemed a bit dazed when talking about his defensive unit.

"Our defense was completely outstanding, just outstanding," Yeoman said.

His surprise was understandable in that his Cougars had ranked No. 2 in total offense this season after having held the No. 1 ranking three straight years while on NCAA probation for recruiting violations.

While Gary (Moon) Mullins, a 5-foot-10 quarterback was cooly executing five consecutive third down and crucial yarage plays, Strong was rolling up 124 yards in 11 carries as Houston jumped to the 16-0 lead Auburn never seriously challenged.

Strong finished with a Bluebonnet record of 184 yards for 32 carries to earn the game's most valuable back award. Jerry Drones, a Cougar end, won the award on defense.

GOO Members Seeking Meeting With President

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Members of a committee called GOO are seeking a meeting with President Nixon to try to persuade him to stop installation of another drilling platform off the coast which have been twice blackened by oil.

Union Oil Co., which is drilling of the Santa Barbara coast said Wednesday it will install its third platform soon.

"We're trying to get Sen. George Murphy and Rep. Charles M. Teague to arrange a meeting for a few of us with Nixon while he's at the Western White House," said Lois Siden berg, president of a citizens committee to Get Oil Out (GOO).

There was no immediate comment from the White House.

Nixon is spending the New Year's holiday at his Western vacation home in San Clemente, 150 miles south of resort beaches that were gummed with crude oil that spilled from a well blowout under drilling platform off Santa Barbara last January.

Union Oil spent hundreds of man-hours and hundreds of thousands of dollars cleaning up the sand and dispersing an 800-square-mile oil slick in the Santa Barbara channel. Then one of the offshore pipelines sprang a leak two weeks ago.

Production was stopped to fix the pipe and flow increased from seepages in the ocean floor left from the January blowout. The oil spotted miles of coastline in Ventura and Santa Barbara counties.

Union Oil began cleaning up again. The U.S. Geological Survey announced Wednesday that the pipeline had been fixed and the oil cleared from the water and the sand.

Within hours Union announced it would erect its third drilling platform on offshore land it leases from the Department of Interior. It would be the 14th platform in the channel.

Union president Fred Hartley said the increase in seepage from the ocean floor while the pepeline was being fixed showed "the only solution is to remove the oil from underground as rapidly as possible.

"In order to deplete more rapidly the large pool and conserves it is necessary to install a total of three platforms as originally approved by federal agencies. We are preparing to do this as soon as possible," Hartley said.

He also proposed that all oil leases next to offshore oil leases get a quarter of the revenue which the leases bring to state and the federal governments.

Shrubs Disappear

LONDON (AP) — Blackberries, wild roses, dogwood and spindle trees are among shrubs which are beginning to disappear from parts of the British countryside.

According to research scientists, farmers needing extra land to increase their output have ploughed up 8,000 miles of hedgerows in which the shrubs flourish.

The scientists foresee some 50 species of flowers and shrubs that might become extinct in 40 or 50 years time.

Women Do The Work In Greece

By JOE WING
Associated Press Writer

Greece is a wonderful place I keep telling my wife. Because women seem to do the lion's share of the work.

In the country, the field workers of both drivers I noticed most frequently were black haired, dark faced, premature gray and wrinkled. And where were the men? At the taverns, likely as not, having a cup of Turkish coffee and talking about the women.

On the streets of Athens, older women in long black dresses and stockings may still be seen amidst petite, attractive, demure girls in miniskirts.

Women, it seems, tend to business, while many men sit in sidewalk cafes during the day and watch the world go by. By evening, little bands of youths and young men go laughing down the streets. They may stay out until 3 or 4 a.m. nevertheless, when morning comes they show up for work on time. An afternoon siesta enables them to make up some of that lost sleep.

Of course such talk isn't really fair to the sturdy looking males who have built up Athens since the war, to where it now rivals Istanbul as the region's major metropolis; to the men who tend the stores, herd the sheep, run the trucks and tractors, make up the enormous merchant marine and chauffer the nation's taxis and buses.

But the taxi and bus drivers are a story in themselves.

Threading through traffic that would do New York proud, they act as if their licenses would be lifted if they missed an oncoming car by more than six inches.

On the long succession of hairpin turns that take you half way up Mount Parnassus and on to sacred Delphi, our driver acted as if he had discovered a new law of physics holding him to the outside curves. It was a long way down to those olive groves in the valley below. He rarely blew his horn at a blind turn, and he carried on a running conversation with the tour guide at his side. It took a long seat clutching while before I learned to trust the driver's gradual virtubsity and was able to concentrate on the scenery.

The scenery, a fellow traveler kept insisting, was "just like California"—A California of barren, boulder strewn slopes, fertile little valleys or "plains," and mountains rising from the sea and marching off into the hazy distance.

Parabeling our old pilgrim road over heights where Zeus once threw his thunderbolts now stride steel towers supporting high tension wires, wires that carry electricity from hydro electric plants up north to the homes and neon signs and industries of Athens.

On the 8,000 foot peak of Parnassus, a taller version of the hills we had been climbing, life must have been bleak for the gods. Today, Greeks treasure the mountain more for its bauxite than its mysteries. The diggings are a red gash across its slope.

At Delphi I sought the haunt of the ancient oracle in the gaping basement of the temple to Apollo. It looked much like an abandoned basement. If the oracle still haunts it, she hadn't a word to say.

Analysts Say 1969 Just Another Bear Market Year

By DON BATTLE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, haunted by monetary restrictions and the Vietnam war, was scared into one long retreat in 1969.

"Most investors are not unhappy to see 1969 fade into history," commented the Alexander Hamilton Institute Inc., an investment advisory group.

The investor, however, was not alone in his financial misery, for 1969's bearish claws also ripped into end-of-the-year bonuses for many brokerage employes. Bonuses, running as high as the equivalency of six months' pay in a good year, were either drastically cut or nonexistent this year, as houses wrestled with the realities of rising costs, a poor market and increasing paperwork.

Trading was off, as an estimated 4.08 billion shares changed hands the past year on both the New York and the American Stock Exchanges, compared with 4.33 billion shares in 1968. Even with the dip, 1969 proved the second busiest year ever—next to 1968—for both exchanges.

On Dec. 31, 1968, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues, a blue chip barometer, closed at 943.75. A year later, it hovered about the 790 mark, representing a net loss of 15 per cent over the year.

Measuring the Dow Jones high in December 1968 with the 1969 low of 769.93 last Dec. 17, the decline in the average was 22 per cent.

The Associated Press 60-stock average lost nearly 100 points over the 12 months.

"The market was forced to digest such unpalatable economic news as three boosts in the prime rate—the fee banks charge their most creditworthy customers—to a record 8½ per cent, as the government sought to dampen inflation. The tight money conditions led to a leveling off of many companies' profits, also a market depressant.

Besides tight money, the Vietnam war fueled investor uncertainty, with the market spurting up on days that peace hopes brightened and down when those hopes didn't materialize.

The Dow Jones average hit its yearly high on May 14 968.85—the day President Nixon delivered one of his major addresses on the Vietnam war. Analysts attributed the preceding rise to investor hopes that the President would announce a major breakthrough in the war.

That night the President urged a mutual withdrawal of troops by both sides, but the Viet Cong rejected the offer, and the market ebbed.

Monetary restrictions, uncertainty over the Vietnam war and an unusually severe rash of tax selling helped pushed the market to its yearly low points in December. Tax selling proved particularly heavy in the past year due to investor belief that a greater number of net tax losses could be taken in 1969 than under the tax reform bill effective in 1970.

Bleak as 1969 was, analysts saw it as just another bear market year.

"Actually, the drop of 1969 was a phenomenon totally within the context of the postwar experience," commented Anthony W. Tabell of Walston & Co., an investment house, "and has been, within the standards of such experience, on the relatively mild side."

Indeed, 1969 was exceeded in severity by the declines of 1946, 1947, 1949, 1957, 1962, and 1966, he added.

Judging from the years that immediately followed post-World War II bear markets, 1970 should turn out to be a good year for the stock market.

The Standard & Poor's 500 stock index in mid-December ran 19 per cent behind its high for the year. Similar percentage drops also were recorded in 1946, 1948, 1957, 1962, and 1966. In four of these five cases where there were 19 per cent drops, the year that followed the bear market was substantially higher, ranging from 40 per cent in 1949-1950 to 24 per cent in 1966-1967. Only one instance—1946-1947—was the average unchanged.

Ethel Visits On "Sesame Street"

NEW YORK (AP) — In a rare public appearance, Ethel Kennedy visited and taped an appearance on "Sesame Street," the educational TV series for preschool youngsters produced by Children's Television Workshop.

In a segment running five or six minutes, Mrs. Kennedy read a book entitled "Sam," which is about a misunderstood Negro boy, to a group of youngsters in the studio. The segment probably will be presented on the program in February.

Junior Editors Quiz On PLANTS

QUESTION: If animal life started with tiny one-celled animals long ago, what did plant life start with?

• • •

ANSWER: Scientists divide matter into two kinds (upper picture). Inorganic means without life, like a rock. Organic is something with life, a plant or animal. Plants generally make their own food, because they have green chlorophyll and sunlight to work with; consequently, they stay rooted in one spot. Except for the tiny protozoans, animals lack chrolophyll to make food, consequently they must eat plants or other animals, which means moving around. As our questioner suggests, scientists think the first animals were tiny and one-celled, similar to the ameba still living today. The first plants, scientists think, were also tiny and one-celled, similar to the present day algae. According to some experts, it is possible that the earliest living things were both plant and animal — tiny creatures who had food-making chlorophyll and could also move around. But their bodies were too delicate to leave fossil traces. The first fossils are of sea plants about 2 billion years old. Scientists think life originated in connection with the sea, but they can't give us exact details. The Bible tells a very interesting story of the origin of plants. See Genesis, chapter 1, verse 11.

Tell hubby to stop his 'progress' reports

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a problem that is positively driving me up a wall. Jim and I have been happily married for 22 years and have 3 children.

Recently, a good-looking 21-year-old girl came to work as a secretary in the same firm where my husband works. Jim said that this brazen girl let him know very soon that she was "fond of him" — and asked if he could get her transferred to his department. He told her no, he couldn't.

Now Jim tells me that every day she finds excuses to run into his office, and she leaves him little "love notes." Jim said that he explained to her that he was a happily married man, and she should quit bothering him.

Well, she hasn't quit, and now I am angry with Jim for not taking more drastic measures to get her out of his hair. Should I butt in? And if so, how? JIM'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You ARE "in." Your husband has seen to that. You are being "driven up the wall" by Jim's daily reports—not his "problem." It seems to me that a grown man could find some way of discouraging a brazen girl from pursuing him so hotly. [Could it be that Jim is enjoying it?]

Tell your aging Lochinvar to tell the little office flirt to get lost. And tell him, too, to please discontinue the "progress reports."

DEAR ABBY: I was particularly amused at your answer to the newlywed who said that her husband wanted a night out with the boys, and wondered if that could be dangerous. Your reply: "It's not dangerous, as long as the boys are boys."

When I was a bride, I, too, faced that problem, and I said, "Fine, you have your night out with the boys. Enjoy yourself, but be fair, and give me equal time for a night out with the girls, and no questions asked on either side. All right?"

I guess this idea didn't appeal to him because I never heard another word about it.

That was a long time ago. My carrot colored curls have turned to gray, and next year we will celebrate our golden wedding anniversary. We are happily married, and he still calls me "Darling." EVE IN CLIFTON, N. J.

DEAR EVE: Congratulations. I think it's going to last.

DEAR ABBY: A mother wrote to say that when somebody asked her where her son was, she wished to God that she could say, he's living in a hippie colony in San Francisco, because then at least there would be some hope that he might straighten himself out and come home, but, instead he lies dead—killed in Viet Nam.

Please tell her for me that she is better off than I am. I would be proud to say that my son gave his life fighting for his country in Viet Nam. Instead he threw it away.

He was expelled from high school two weeks before graduation. He came home a few months ago looking so sick and dirty. He's only 19 and living hand to mouth. He said he's tried all the drugs but he didn't think he was "hooked" yet. Then he disappeared again not even knowing where he was going. And he tells us not to worry.

We don't sleep nights, expecting to hear any minute that he's in jail, has gone mad, has been murdered, or committed suicide. We hold little hope that he will come home safe and sane. In the meantime, when someone asks us where our son is, what do we say? A MOTHER, TOO (L. A., CAL.)

DEAR ABBY: Apropos your recent letter from "FOOLISH IN COLUMBUS," the widow who "loaned" her money to her children and never saw a dime of it again. I am reminded of a widow I knew years ago. After her husband's death the widow was left with $4,000 and four grown children. The children got together and decided to make mama an offer. If she would give them each $1,000, she could come to live with each one for three months every year. She said, "No, I ain't a'goin to do it. Why—Because a widow woman with $4,000 is always more welcome anywhere than a widow woman who ain't got nuthin'." R. K., SAN DIEGO

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Restrictions May Tighten On Tomatoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may tighten restrictions on tomatoes from Mexico to help Florida growers who face the possibility of a [illegible] crop.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday it is considering a proposal to increase the minimum size of tomatoes covered by a federal marketing order. [illegible]

Since the federal order's [illegible] are now applied to imported tomatoes, the proposal—in the officials published on Jan. 2—would have the effect of tightening specifications on Mexican shipments, the main source of tomato imports.

Officials said poor weather has delayed maturity of the Florida crop normally harvested in December.

The delayed production added to harvest from later plantings, could mean a much larger tomato supply in January and result "in depressed prices to producers," the department said.

The proposal specifies that if these conditions materialize the minimum diameters for mature green tomatoes covered by the marketing order would be increased to 2 and 9-32 inches and to 2 and 17-32 inches for all others.

The present minimum is 2 and 4-32 inches for tomatoes of all types.

New crop Mexican tomatoes usually begin arriving in the United States in November and continue through early June with the peak coming during the first three months of the year.

Similar restrictions were implemented last winter, causing considerable objections from Mexican officials.

However, officials here have said Mexican tomato imports increased last season despite the tighter restrictions. Nearly 421 million pounds were shipped into the United States during the November-May period last season, compared with about 346 million a year earlier.

Cooling Off

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — When Eugene Goss was appointed highway commissioner and carried out a surprise inspection of one division, he noticed six men playing horseshoes outside the building during working hours.

Aides assured him that didn't happen often.

"Maybe," Goss said. "But I'm worried about the one who's really a good player. He must have had plenty of practice."

Interest Rate Increase Is Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders and the nation's top labor official have attacked the Nixon administration for raising the maximum interest rate for FHA and VA home loans to 8½ per cent.

"I consider the rise in interest rates gross violence to the economy and to the citizenry," declared former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the 1968 Democratic presidential candidate. "The administration proposes violence on the streets. I protest not only violence in the streets, but I also condemn it in the market place."

Humphrey told newsmen Wednesday that Nixon should have used the prestige of his office to try to keep down the prime interest rates charged by banks.

An investigation of rising interest rates was pledged by Democratic Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, chairman of the House Banking Committee. And Democratic Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin said his Senate banking subcommittee will start hearings Jan. 14 on bills to increase the amount of low cost credit in poverty areas.

"Instead of moving against the real inflationary threat," Proxmire said, "the effect of the administration's actions is to take it out on the homebuyer."

Patman called the interest ceiling increase "the height of irresponsibility" and he said he would push proposals to open up more mortgage money.

George Meaney, president of the AFL-CIO, said the rising interest rates will force a continued decline in building and could spur unemployment.

Secretary of Housing George Romney announced the boost Tuesday in the maximum interest rates allowed on loans guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration. He said his action in raising the ceiling by a full per cent was necessary to keep home mortgage money from further drying up. The new limits are effective next Monday.

House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma called the ceiling increase the latest example of the ruinous policies of the Nixon administration.

MASSIVE MOVE

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state has received federal approval of a $22 million package to relocate a river, highway and railroad around Pikeville at the eastern tip of Kentucky. The Model City project is designed to unlock the town from its horseshoe bend and involves a massive cut through a mountain.

Civic Leader Dies In Kermit

KERMIT, Tex. (AP) — The field manager for Carter Foundation Production Co. and half brother of the late Amon Carter, a prominent Fort Worth man, died early Wednesday in Memorial Hospital.

Roy E. Carter, 71, died after a lengthy illness. His half brother was publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and a Texas civic leader.

Carter, who was a native of Bowie, was a resident of Kermit at the time of his death.

He was a member of Lions International, the Community Church of Kermit and was a past director of the Permian Basin Oil Show.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Jerry E. Hines of Lubbock, two brothers, Grady Carter of San Antonio and Ralph Carter of Houston, and one grandson.

Big Eurodollar Loan Negotiated

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — An Eurodollar loan of 22 million negotiated with Western American Bank Ltd. of London, was announced Wednesday by Ling-Temco-Vought, Inc., Dallas-based conglomerate.

[illegible] and the loan which matures on Jan. 15, 1976 was floated through its wholly owned Netherland Antilles subsidiary, LTV International, N.V. The company said proceeds from the loan will be used to pay off $22.3 million outstanding of its 6¾ per cent debentures

Opera Repertoire Is Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — Repertoire of the New York City Opera's spring season, Feb. 19 to April 19, has been announced.

Opening night will be "Lucia di Lammermoor" with Beverly Sills in the title role. There will be a new production of Debussy's "Pelleas and Melisande" staged by Frank Corsaro. It was last done by the company in 1948.

Five revivals also will be in the season. Britten's "The Turn of the Screw," last done in 1962. Shostakovich's "Katerina Ismailova," done last in 1966. Stravinsky's "Oedipus Rex" with Orff's "Carmina Burana," last seen in 1968. Rossinis's "La Cenerentola," done last in 1953, and Mozart's "The Magic Flute," seen last spring.

Also in the season will be "Mefistofele," "Manon," "La Boehme," "Rigoletto," "Faust," "La Traviato," "The Abduction from the Seraglio" and "Madama Butterfly."

BECAUSE OF FREEDOM

Czech Happy In America

SUN VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Jiri Vokrouhlik says America is no different than he expected when he sneaked off a Czechoslovakian freighter one Sunday last October. "Beautiful!"

"I have found life here as I imagined," he said today.

"It is a beautiful country, mostly because of freedom."

A chunky, bespectacled 26-year-old, Vokrouhlik has a university degree in mechanical engineering. He works in a welder's shop for $3.50 an hour.

What does he hope for this new decade?

"I want to get American citizenship and work equal to my qualifications," he said in an interview. He is staying with a Czech family in this San Fernando Valley community, but he hopes to move soon into his own apartment.

Using the name George—the English equivalent of Jiri—the former merchant seaman speaks English with much more command than the frightened, intense young man who had sought political asylum Oct. 18 by saying, "I learn how not to be free is."

He had joined young colleagues in Prague in August 168 to throw stones at Russian tanks. "I come to America so my hands can work with machines and not to fight the tanks," he said.

His mechanical training served as his ticket to this country. He earned a job as a motor machinist on the Czech merchant vessel Vitkovice last summer. En route from Japan to Peru, the ship's captain decided to refuel in California.

Vokrouhlik sneaked off the ship in the Port of Wilmington, outside Los Angeles, leaving his belongings behind. He phoned an immigration official to ask for asylum and his first hours of freedom were spent in a Long Beach jail awaiting the result of a board review on his plea.

Nationwide publicity over his escape brought Jiri letters from families as far away as New York and Ohio, inviting him to visit. Some sent money.

"First I must get a car. This is a big country."

He spent his first Christmas in the United States with the family of Carl Kegley of San Clemente, the city attorney. Jiri intently studied with pretty brunette Dawn Kegley, an English dictionary given him as a present from the family.

Does he want to go home to see again his parents and young brother in Prague?

"Maybe in 10 years, when I am already an American citizen. I think there might be a little freedom in Czechoslovakia — but I shall be scared."

Japanese Orchestra Invited To Okinawa

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — U.S. authorities in Okinawa have invited the Japan Philharmonic under Chinese-American conductor, Ling Tung, to give a series of concerts there. This is the first appearance by a major Japanese symphony orchestra in Okinawa.

After the Okinawa concerts, the orchestra will go to Hong Kong as resident orchestra of the first Hong Kong International Music Festival.

This tour is Ling Tung's fourth with the Japan Philharmonic.

In this country he is music director of the Philharmonic Orchestra of Pennsylvania and of the Grand Teton Music Festival in Jackson Hole, Wyo.

Movie Camera Is Essential On Trip

By JOE WING
Associated Press Writer

Movies That Never Were

Taking too seriously the admonitions we received to travel light, we left at home one thing too many—the movie camera.

We did lug along a still camera, and that was fine, but there were vignettes which only movies could have captured. With a movie camera I might have gotten shots like these:

A long line of flop-eared mules zig-zagging up the almost vertical cliff to the island village of Santorini, each bearing a saddle-clutching, apprehensive tourist.

Big vanes on old-time stone windmills whirling in the strong wind against a background of Rhodes.

Ragged shoeshine boys importuning idlers in the outdoor coffee shop before the splendid Archeological Museum at Athens.

A glowing red sun diving into purple haze that obscured the mountain range seen from the old temple on Cape Sunian.

Strapping, white-skirted evzone soldiers doing a pavement-stomping routine while guarding the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Blue-smocked girls in the school yard at Nauplia playing ring-around-the rosey, while an ostracized schoolmate vainly tried to break into the charmed circle.

Bell-tinkling pack mules, each laden with two big baskets of grapes plus perhaps a farmer, single-filing along a mountain road.

A tall, robed Orthodox priest, snowy hair knotted beneath his black hat, moving sedately along a crowded sidewalk.

The circle dance at a country wedding, the white-gowned bride serious and intent, the men gay and lively.

Autos moving, against all logic, through the crowd in one of the narrow, winding streets in Athens' Plaka district, colorful with handicrafts on display in the open stalls.

Shepherds in the hills minding their flocks.

Jammed harbor traffic in the tiny but major port of Piraeus.

A pair of smocked, two-year old twins, as chubby and healthy looking as most Greek children.

Industrial Fragrance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The magic worked by a modern alchemist called the industrial perfumer keeps American products smelling and selling better than hot dogs at the World Series.

Besides enlivening soap and detergents, fragrances add whiffs of pleasure to floor waxes, diapers, and lighter fluids. The perfumes and aromatics used in commercial goods far exceed the quantity applied at vanity tables, the National Geographic Society says.

Department stores enclose scented inserts with the monthly bill to dull the pain and inspire new purchases. Textile mills regularly scent-treat new fabrics; one formula suggests "the pleasant ozone smell of a hayfield after a thunderstorm."

Yugoslavia Ruins Make An Ideal War Movie Location

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

UMAG, Yugoslavia (AP) — Picture, if you will, a black Ponderosa cowboy hat perched on a head of long hair reaching over the back collar of a black T-shirt. Picture, too, black slacks.

This is the "uniform" of Brian G. Hutton, New York-born, successful movie director.

Here he sat by a sturdy old farmhouse near Umag, on the Adriatic coast, his cameras under a tree on a hillside, facing a movie-doctored haystack. Hutton was directing Clint Eastwood, Don Rickles, Telly Savalas, Donald Sutherland and assorted Bill Mauldin cartoon-like characters in a setting reminiscent of wartime eastern France.

"This is the only place in the world it would work," he said, explaining why MGM decided to film here for "The Warriors," a war comedy.

"Oh, sure, it's not easy to live or work here. But if the picture is about snow, you go somewhere near the Poles; if the picture is about wartime Europe, you come here.

"Nothing has changed here. Nothing has been built," he said, his hand sweeping across an area of hillside vineyards and small farms devoid of post-war progress. "The Italians abandoned the the area after the war and it's just been left this way."

There are other advantages to the remote filming site, Hutton continued.

Equipment was a major one. Who else still has World War II-vintage tanks, halftracks and armored cars? And where else could one "rent" national soldiers as extras?

Politically, Hutton noted, despite the Communist regime, the Yugoslavian government did not interfere. On the contrary, they were most cooperative, he said. (One big reason: MGM will leave between $1.5 million and $2 million in the country during 18 weeks of shooting in various parts of Yugoslavia.)

So, despite the language barrier and the social barriers and Hutton's personal desire to film it in northern California—Rickles said if it were up to him, they would have done it in his backyard—Yugoslavia turned Hollywood capitalist for a time.

Hutton, originally an actor, added to his directing credit "The Pad (and How to Use It)" and "Sol Madrid" before his "big one"—"Where Eagles Dare," a war adventure with co-stars Eastwood and Richard Burton. Not now Hutton said. The war riots" would be his last big film.

"Now it's back to the roots, something easier, smaller. Closer to home (the stage). I've enjoyed this, but I think it's my last."

He returned to the farm set and his "troops" in time to get in on another session of jibing jokes among Rickles, the popular "insult" comedian, Savalas and Eastwood—with Eastwood usually the butt.

"I'll never work with these three together again," he swore, not meaning one word of it.

He obviously was having a good time, as were they all, listening to Rickles' good-natured taunts.

Rickles, primarily a night club comic, had small parts in movies before, mostly things he'd prefer to forget.

He considered this one, in which he plays a wheeling, dealing, but lovable mercenary soldier—"me in real life"—his biggest, most important role. Besides, living in Yugoslavia has given him a wealth of material for his night club routines.

He'll return to night clubs in New York and Las Vegas and do a television special with Danny Thomas. But Rickles, after the Yugoslavian experience, declared his future plans this way.

"I'm gonna look in each room and make sure no one brings me back here."

Other Ricklesisms, loosely translated from the Serbo-Croatian:

"What do I do here? I sit around my hotel room and watch the moths die."

"Language barrier? I get malnutrition at the dining table."

"Savalas? He sits around watching old movies, hoping he's in one of them."

"Eastwood? He sits around all day and plays with his ducks. I'm the star here."

Dallas Police Chief Dies Of Cancer

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Police chief Charles Batchelor, 63, died Wednesday of cancer. Death came less than a month after he left office.

Batchelor retained the title of chief after stepping down about four months after he became ill. An assistant chief, M.W. Stevenson, was named acting chief and was succeeded quickly by Frank Dyson, 42, who was given the title of chief of police designate.

Batchelor became Dallas' police chief in 1966, succeeding Jesse Curry who retired and became a security officer for one of the city's new skyscraper office buildings.

The veteran officer had served in all ranks of the police force and became an assistant chief in 1960.

Dyson, a native of Rotan, Tex. joined the force 19 years ago.

Batchelor assumed command of the department while it still was struggling to recover from censure after the assassination of President Kennedy and particularly the killing of Lee Harvey Oswald while in police custody.

Shortly thereafter, he implemented an upgrading of the department in line with recommendations of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. The plan met resistance by some of the older officers and Batchelor demoted at least one to maintain discipline.

Survivors include his widow; two sons, Thomas and Richard of Dallas; a daughter, Mrs. Sue Ann Beaty of San Antonio; a brother; five sisters and seven grandchildren.

The capital of Connecticut is Hartford.

Land Purchased For Federal Building

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Rep. George Mahon said today that the General Services Administration has approved the purchase of a tract of land in Midland's eastern downtown area for a $4.5 million Federal Building.

The three-block triangular shaped tract was among more than 10 offered the GSA in recent site investigations, Mahon said.

Price of the 242,000 square foot tract was not disclosed. Mahon's office said the several owners of the tract would receive official notification of the decision Friday and that the site purchase probably would be completed within a matter of days.

Congress and President Nixon last month approved a $767,000 appropriation for purchase of the site of the building.

Detailed building design and site clearance and preparation would require a separate congressional appropriation, which Mahon said he probably would seek in the next session of Congress.

Language Changes At A Fast Pace

NEW YORK (AP) — Pick up any new book or go to a movie and you'll know it instantly. We don't speak the same language our parents did.

"Our language is changing fast," says Dr. H. Bosley Woolf, an authority on words who can even predict what's in store for the '70s.

Woolf, managing editor of the Merriam-Webster dictionaries, says words once considered too informal or colloquial for print [illegible] label in today's dictionaries because they now are part of standard English vocabulary.

"For example, Woolf notes, the word "goof" has no label. There is no label for "shindig" or for the term "to level" meaning to be frank.

And some new dictionaries contain many new words which clearly smack of today's generation: words such as hippie, acidhead, put-on, nitty-gritty, and trip.

Woolf points out that the context in which a word is used can be the most important factor, so a good rule of thumb might be: If the word communicates without calling attention to itself, if people use the word, then it works. And the fact that it does its job makes it a good word.

"What we're really saying," Woolf explains, "is that informal English is standard English, so why not put it into the dictionary?"

"I think language is a reflection of ideas," says Woolf. "Social mores are easing and informality is increasing all the way down the line. Language is no exception."

What's in store for tomorrow?

"It's going to keep changing," Woolf says.

Medieval laws in France, Italy and the British Isles endorsed Leap Year privileges for unmarried girls, even to the point of fining single men who declined an offer of marriage.

FCA Denies Two Radio Applications

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Communications Commission examiner has recommended denial of two applications for an FM radio station in San Antonio, Tex.

The decision by Examiner Forest L. McClenning was announced Wednesday.

Bexar Broadcasting Co., licensee of standard station KAPE, San Antonio, sought authority to operate an FM station on 107.5 megacycles.

Turner Broadcasting Corp., operator of standard station KBUC, San Antonio, and KBUC-FM Terrell Hills, Tex., proposed to move KBUC-FM from Terrell Hills to San Antonio and to switch its frequency from 106.3 megacycles to 107.5.

The examiner ruled that neither applicant had established that it was aware of the needs and interests of the area it intended to serve.

Bexar proposed Negro-oriented programing. Turner proposed general programing.

The examiner's decision will become final in 50 days unless there is an appeal or the commission initiates a review.

RESOLVE TO SUCCEED

One of my favorite stories concerns a businessman and Thomas A. Edison. The friends met one day in London, and the businessman by disclosing that he sometimes worked 24-hour days! The businessman thought for awhile, and then commented that success always means hard work.

Edison smiled and nodded across the street to a wreck of an old man, staggering under the weight of a giant advertising sandwich-board, and replied:

"Yes, success means hard work. But failure means harder."

That's a good enough reason for me to go like 60 in the '70's. How about you?
