Fire Menaces 1,000 Lives

Fight For Life Staged At Sea

German Liner Deutschland In Dire Peril For Two Hours But Crew Controls Flames

(Copyright, 1938, By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—Fire sweeping below decks of the German liner Deutschland imperilled the lives of 1,000 persons tonight in a North Atlantic storm off Newfoundland before it was controlled.

After a frightening two hours of fire-fighting, the captain radioed the Associated Press this laconic message:

"Fire under control!"

Others Raced To Aid

Other ships were racing through the dark gale-whipped waters 200 miles southeast of Cape Race to her assistance, answering calls frantically seeking help in the ship's dire need.

Aboard the big ship were 591 passengers and about 400 crew members. Included among the passengers were 350 Americans.

Five passenger liners swung swiftly from their courses to go to the burning ship's aid. United States coastguard cutters from as far distant as Boston, 700 miles away, and New London, Conn., put out to sea.

Heavy Seas Buffet Ships

Heavy seas and rains buffeted both the beleaguered liner and the ships offering succor.

Off Newfoundland—the Deutschland reported her position as 200 miles southeast of Cape Race—a southeaster was raging. High, choppy waves were battering the ship as she fought for her life in the night.

Capt. Karl Steincke, the Deutschland's veteran master, sent out his first alarm at 6:22 p. m. (EST).

There had been an explosion in a compartment of number 2 hold.

Flames and smoke swept upward in a sudden blast. The ship's fire squads rushed into the battle.

Above, the passengers were in the cocktail lounges, at dinner, dancing. The crew's first attack on the

Littlefield Gin Razed By Fire

(Special to The Avalanche)

LITTLEFIELD, Oct. 25.—A fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Farmers Cooperative gin here this afternoon. Tom Brown, manager, reported a "total loss" with only the cotton on the yard being saved.

Starting in the cleaning machinery about 5 o'clock, the blaze quickly spread over the structure, halting employes' and spectators' attempts to fight the fire. Cotton seed and bagging in the gin were partially destroyed also. The fire department here was called but the blaze was past control.

Bought Gin A Year Ago

The Farmers Cooperative bought the gin a year ago from Herring and Thompson. The business had been operated by various concerns since its construction five years ago.

No announcement was made as to whether another gin would be built this season.

AIRMAN REPORTS BLAZE

The fire was reported in Lubbock by Emmett Morris, flier who was returning with Bill Dodson, filling station operator of Avenue G and Main street, from Muleshoe.

Morris saw smoke and changed his course to fly over the fire. He said a large crowd had gathered and that at least one fire truck was there.

Floyd County Project Given Approval In New Listing

The various county projects in the state will involve expenditures of $633,045 in federal funds. A total of $287,608 will be supplied by local governmental agencies.

Connally Faces Busy Day Upon Visit To City

A typical western welcome will greet Sen. Tom Connally Thursday when he visits Lubbock.

From the moment he steps off the 8:30 o'clock morning Santa Fe train from Fort Worth until he is ready for bed either in Lubbock or Amarillo, he will be feted.

To Drive Through City

He will be met at the train and taken on a drive through residential and industrial sections, to the college and possibly to the Ropesville resettlement project in Hockley county. "That is if he is not tired," said spokesmen.

At noon he will address a joint luncheon of Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and ABC clubs. Since Thursday is its regular luncheon date, the Kiwanis club will be host.

The Rotary club will meet today, however, said W. P. Clement, president, "since we learned of the senator's coming too late to infrom our entire membership. We will attend the joint luncheon, as well," he said.

Membership Of About 450

The four clubs have a combined membership of at least 450 persons.

At a meeting of deans, presided over by Dean James G. Allen, at Technological college late Tuesday afternoon, further plans were laid.

The senator will address an 11 o'clock convocation of students in the gymnasium. Almost 1,800 students can be accommodated there. Senator Connally will be introduced by C. C. Crenshaw, Lubbock attorney who had been telegraphed by the senator in announcing his proposed visit here. The two have been friends more than 20 years, their acquaintanceship dating to the time Gren-

Judge Denies That Movies Are Cause For Juvenile Crime

ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 25. (AP)—Judge Henry S. Waldman of the Union county juvenile and domestic relations court said tonight that despite "the general impression," motion pictures were "emphatically" not a cause for juvenile crime and delinquency.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Better Films council of Elizabeth, Judge Waldman said that not one of 4,000 children who appeared in his court in the past seven and a half years started upon a delinquent career as a result of "movie-going."

"The outstanding causes of juvenile delinquency are the home and poor neighborhood environment," he said.

Possible Issue In Election Is Seen Tuesday

Amendment To Eliminate Old Anti-Dueling Clause Crops Up For Official Debate

By WILLIAM E. KEYS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Oct. 25—There might be an issue in the November election after all.

There are no controversies normally for the general election, but the first harbinger of a possible controversy in the approaching balloting cropped out today.

Opposes Clause Repeal

T. C. Andrews, member of the board of pardons and paroles, became the first public spokesman against eliminating from the constitutional oath of office the antique anti-dueling clause.

Edward Clark, secretary of state, urged elimination on grounds it served no good purpose.

The officials were discussing a constitutional amendment, the only one on the Nov. 8 ballot, which if adopted would eliminate the necessity of state officials swearing upon induction they had never fought a duel with deadly weapons or acted as a second.

Has Saved Many Lives

"It went into the constitution even before the horse and buggy days," said Clark.

Andrews asserted "it has saved the lives of many useful citizens," and urged "all people who believe in Christianity and morality" to vote against eliminating the clause.

The oath was incorporated in the present state constitution adopted in 1876 but was used even before that. It has sometimes caused snickers at modern inaugurals.

A Lasting Landmark

Notwithstanding, Andrews declared "many people think the oath is foolish and obsolete but when Sam Houston and his compatriots adopted it they thought it would be a lasting landmark for civilization."

"It was all right in rough and ready pioneer days but it takes up too much space and time and serves no good purpose," Clark said.

Andrews expressed the opinion state laws might not prevent dueling if the clause was repealed.

Lyle Talbot Has Real Life Role As Hero But Career In Films May Be Ended

(By The Associated Press)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 25.—Lyle Talbot played a real life hero's role today as he dragged his house guest to safety in a fire that destroyed his $50,000 residence, but the movie actor's bravery probably ended his career before the cameras.

Talbot was burned about the hands, face and head, and his hair was burned from his scalp.

Trapped By Flames

Trapped by flames on the second floor of his house with his guest, Franklin D. Parker, an actor, Talbot, although groggy from smoke and fumes, dragged the unconscious Parker from a bedroom to a narrow ledge, from which firemen later rescued him. Talbot leaped 20 feet to the ground after flames cut off his escape from the second floor.

Witnesses said Talbot's pajamas were in flames as he leaped from a window of the nine-room house. Parker, suffocating in his bed from smoke, was unconscious as Talbot ripped away his pajama coat and dragged him from the bedroom. The beds of both men were burned to the floor.

Condition Critical

Parker suffered severe burns on his back. Both men were taken to a receiving hospital and later removed to the Cedars of Lebanon hospital, where doctors said their condition was critical.

Police said they learned a party had been in progress at Talbot's home until early this morning and that the fire started after all the guests had departed except Parker, who was asked to spend the night as Talbot's guest. The flames started on the first floor, probably from a cigaret.

Former Brain Trusters For New Deal Are At Odds On Question Of Third Term

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—Two former members of the New Deal "brain trust" met today in public discussion of the question: "Shall we break with tradition in a third term for president?"

They are Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, chairman of the New York City planning commission, who said a third term was a good idea, and Dr. Raymond Moley, professor of law at Columbia university, who said it wasn't.

Both Close Advisers

The opponents, both close advisers to President Roosevelt in his first term, met on the platform at the New York Herald Tribune forum on current problems.

Dr. Tugwell said he believed the "moral" opposition to a third term "comes almost wholly from those who think government, and especially its executive branch, ought to be kept weak."

Dr. Moley asserted that a "mere disclaimer" of a desire for more power was not sufficient, declaring: "The only disclaimer that deserves credence is renunciation."

Raised Only As Bogey

Dr. Tugwell asserted that talk of dictatorship was raised only as "a bogey" and added that there was a dominance of a small group of "willful men" in the senate of which little ever was heard.

Said Dr. Moley: "The two-term custom is no moss-covered fetish. It is still what pedants call 'the sense' of the people. It can defeat those who might challenge it, just as it defeated those who dared to challenge it in the past."

Both speakers insisted that any similarity between what they said and actual persons or events, wholly or in part, was purely a coincidence.

O'Neal Defends AAA Program

(By The Associated Press)

WACO, Oct. 25 — President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau federation today defended the AAA program as "the best hope of the American farmer to secure parity prices and parity incomes."

Speaking before several hundred farmers here at the annual convention of the Texas Agricultural association, O'Neal struck at price fixing and at the domestic allotment plan.

South Is Helpless

O'Neal declared the south was helpless to solve its cotton problem by itself—that it must have help of farmers everywhere in a national approach to the entire farm problem. He advised Texas agriculturists to stick to the present farm program "even though it is far from perfect."

Added defense of the AAA program was expected to be given tomorrow in an address by Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, member of senate agricultural committee and strong supporter of AAA.

Surplus Biggest Problem

Commodity surpluses constitute agriculture's biggest problem, O'Neal stated.

He questioned the practicability of the domestic allotment plan, challenging its sponsors to explain "just how, in the face of anti-dumping laws and other restric-

Bloody Street Fighting Seen In Jap Drive

Explosions Rock Three Cities And Flames Stab Sky As Fires Spread A Trail Of Ruin

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Oct. 26 (Wednesday) The Japanese vanguard today marched into burning Wuchang, one of the tri-cities, Japanese dispatches from the front said, and met sanguinary resistance from Chinese detachments who engaged in street fighting.

The occupation of Wuchang began after another advance guard from the north had entered the outskirts of Hankow, across the river. The main body of Japanese still was about 10 miles from Wuchang.

Slowly Mopping Up

The advance guard entered through the Paoyang gate and began a slow mopping up process, with the fighting gradually spreading throughout the walled city.

Chinese stragglers were withdrawing westward by boat as the Japanese entered.

Explosions rocked the three Wuhan cities—Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang — China's rich industrial center, and flames stabbed the sky as unchecked fires spread a trail of ruin and ashes for the invaders to seize.

Ready For Occupation

Along a semi-circle from north to south the Japanese were arrayed for occupation of the great inland port and commercial center — a principal goal in the undeclared war.

The city was threatened by spreading flames, apparently the result of the Chinese "scorched earth" policy applied in the face of Japanese conquest.

Kai-Sheks Leave By Plane

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his American-educated wife were said to have left Hankow by plane Monday night, after a mass exodus of other members of the government and civilians.

Masayuk. Tani, Japanese minister-at-large, in Shanghai conveyed a reiterated warning from the naval command to foreign diplomatic representatives.

He urged neutral authorities to see that vessels bearing their flags proceed from Hankow to safer zones in the Yangtze river.

Cops Keep Busy Tuesday Night

Traffic violations and accidents Tuesday kept Lubbock law enforcement officials busy.

A 39-year-old man who lives about six miles west of Lubbock was arrested in the 900-block Texas avenue Tuesday night by B. P. Millsap, city recorder, for investigation into driving when intoxicated.

Found With Liquor

The man was found with a bottle of liquor.

Si Anderson and Ralph Goldwater of the traffic detail of the police department arrested a 20-year-old Seagraves man and he was held pending investigations into complaints he was driving recklessly.

Officers sought the hit-and-run driver of an automobile which crashed into another automobile at Fourteenth street and Avenue L at 6:50 o'clock Tuesday night. Anderson, first officer to the scene of the accident, said driver of the machine which did not stop was going west on Fourteenth street. Melvin Alvey and O. E. Rush in the police patrol car, assisted in the investigations. None was injured seriously.

Both Machines Gone

Both machines involved in an accident at Broadway and Avenue J had gone when officers arrived to investigate.

Officers here were informed by the sheriff's department at Tulia that a 1937 (Chevrolet) pickup had been stolen there early Tuesday night. License number was 168-533. Descriptions of two men believed to be in the machine were given to police here and broadcast over KGZW, police radio station. No report of the missing machine had been received here early today.

Two bicycles were reported stolen and one was recovered.

Boys Throwing Rocks

A complaint reached police headquarters that boys were throwing rocks at a 1914 Avenue J residence. Radiator caps were reported stolen from automobiles at a used car lot at 812 Main Street.

Officers sought the owner of a

Pushes Health Plan

DR. THOMAS PARRAN

Health In U. S. Said 100 Years Behind Times

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 25.—The health condition of the average American citizens is 100 years behind what it should be, Dr. Abel Wolman of Baltimore, Md., new president of the American Public Health association, said today.

Despite the fact the death rate for the first half of the year in the United States was lower than at any time in history, it was still far too high compared with what can be done by the widespread use of existing medical and health knowledge in a national health program, the president declared.

Presented To Congress

At the same time, Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the U. S. public health service, declared in another address at the association's annual convention that a health program to extend such knowledge will be presented at the next session of congress, in January.

In an attack on leaders of the American Medical association Dr. Parran said "the majority of medical opinion in the country" as seen in the meeting of its house of delegates in Chicago last month "is more liberal in its view of national health problems than some of their spokesmen had indicated."

Financed By Government

At that meeting delegates asserted care of the medically indigent population must be financed with government funds, that indemnity insurance against sickness is a sound procedure and that an expanded health program under control of medical men is necessary.

Dr. Wolman said similar principles were laid down in England a century ago, but their application to health needs of the country were never carried out.

He called on public health physicians, engineers, nurses and hygienists to help in drafting a health program so "the American people may taste more completely of the fruits of science in the promotion and maintenance of positive health."

Dies Committee Is Condemned

President Claims Group Has Made No Effort To Get At Truth In Recent Charges

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—President Roosevelt came to the defense of Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan tonight against charges of "treason" levelled at the governor by witnesses before the house committee on un-American activities.

And in doing so, Mr. Roosevelt took occasion to give the committee a severe dressing down, which included an accusation that it had let itself be "used in a flagrantly unfair attempt to influence an election," and had "made no effort to get at the truth."

Refers To Testimony

"Most fair-minded Americans," said the president, "hope that the committee will abandon the practice of merely providing a forum to those for political purposes or otherwise, seek headlines which they could not otherwise obtain."

Mr. Roosevelt referred specifically to testimony of last Friday by Judge Paul V. Gadola of a Michigan circuit court and John Barringer, former city manager of Flint, Mich., that Murphy had prevented the execution of a writ for the ejection of automobile sit-down strikers and had failed to give the city needed assistance. Barringer called the governor's actions "treasonable."

Brought About Settlement

On the contrary, the president said in a formal statement, Murphy by "painstaking and statesmanlike efforts," brought about a settlement of the strike without bloodshed or the use of force, which "elicited the commendation of all the important manufacturers involved."

The chief executive's statement was issued at the close of a day which saw the committee receive testimony accusing Secretary Perkins of the labor department of "dereliction of duty" for not pursuing a more vigorous course in the deportation of communist aliens, and a suggestion that impeachment proceedings were in order. The witnesses were Harper Knowles and Ray E. Nimmon, of the radical research committee of the American Legion in California.

Working In Schools

They also told the committee communists had organized agricultural and cannery workers of California for the purpose of tying up food supplies at a time of general strike or revolution, and that communists were working in the schools and among the professional groups in California.

The president was asked at his press conference whether he was concerned about the testimony giv-

Jam Sessions And Jitter-Bug Orgies Are Wooing Young People Along Primrose Path To Hell, Churchman Says

(By The Associated Press)

BILOXI, Miss., Oct. 25.—Jam sessions and jitter-bug "orgies" are wooing young people "along the primrose path to hell" the most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman, archbishop of Dubuque, tonight told the National Council of Catholic Women.

Bishop Beckman, speaking on "Art for Youth and the Church," said "evil forces" were fostering a type of art "embodying evil and malicious propaganda, and that the church must act.

"Today," he said, "while the church pursues as zealously as ever she has in the past her policy of motivating, conserving and drawing to herself the best of modern art, evil forces are hard at work endeavoring to undermine its Christian status, debauch its high purpose and harness it to serve individual diabolical ends."

"Under the captions of 'surrealism,' 'neo-paganism,' etc., we find whole groups and organizations fostering within our very borders a type of art embodying evil and malicious propaganda as its central core," Archbishop Beckman said.

"A degenerated and demoralizing 'musical' system is given a disgusting christening as 'swing' and turned loose to gnaw away the moral fibre of young people.

"We permit, if not freely indorse by our criminal indifference, 'jam sessions,' 'jitter-bugs' and cannibalistic rhythmic orgies to occupy a place in our social scheme of things, wooing our youth along the primrose path to hell!"

Archbishop Beckman advised the church should accord the youth every advantage of pursuing their cultural aptitudes by establishing a new and vigorous educational program calculated to reconstruct and redefine the Christian conception of art.

Club And College Women To Be Hostesses In Honor Of Senator Connally

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

HALLOWE'EN, with its ancient atmosphere and its modern tradition of merrymaking, is a natural occasion for a party. Oldsters as well as youngsters like a party on the ghostly October day with scary costumes.

Progressive parties (they're becoming popular again, anyway) lend themselves admirably to modern, streamlined Hallowe'en celebrations.

In the first place, the idea itself is ice-breaking. Not even the shyest guest can be stand-offish for longer than it takes to finish one course at the first house. By the time he arrives at the doorstep of his second hostess, he'll feel at ease with at least half a dozen other guests—namely those with whom he was jammed into a car or taxi on the trip over.

Secondly, the progressive party doesn't put any great amount of responsibility or extra work on any one hostess. After she has solved the decoration problem, she has only one course to plan and worry about.

DIVIDE DECORATION JOB

BY calling one meeting of the four or five hostesses, the decoration schemes can be figured out fairly simply. Hostess number one might do her house in witches only, leaving jack-o'-lanterns, apples, pumpkins, ghosts for the others. She could dress as a witch herself, substitute witches' peaked hats for all her lampshades, put witches of every size and type on the mantel, the draperies and the staircase, and use large witch cut-outs for the table.

Hostess number two (she draws the main course — poor woman) could take jack-o'-lanterns unto herself, using funny-faced pumpkins, real and artificial, throughout the house. A casserole dish can be served in a jack-o'-lantern which has been sawn in two so that the lower half holds the dish and the upper section forms a cover.

Stuffed peppers look Hallowe'enish if eyes, nose and mouth are cut into the side of each pepper before baking. Carrots, squash, yellow turnips, sweet potatoes, corn and yellow tomatoes are naturals, of course. Jack-o'-lantern faces can be carved on the olives or the baked potatoes.

The hostess who draws the salad course might carry out some kind of apple motif, serving cider and Waldorf salad of unpeeled, red apples, celery and nuts, and decorating her house with huge bowls and longs strings of apples. Also giving the inevitable bobbing-for-apples tub a prominent place in the room for games.

A halved jack-o'-lantern holding a casserole brings the Hallowe'en spirit right to the table.

The black cat course (dessert and coffee) ought to afford imaginative hostess number four plenty of chances to decorate her house attractively and serve a really interesting dessert. She, however, must plan the games. Having run from house to house, eating a course here and another there, the guests will want to spend the rest of the evening in the house where the last course is served.

Games? Games?——??? Well, let's see.

Variety Noted In Seven Programs

A reception honoring Senator Tom Connally, to be held at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the Texas Technological college women's dormitory lounge, was announced at women's federated club meetings Tuesday afternoon. Two representatives from each group were asked to assist college women in the house party. Mrs. Mary W. Doak, Miss Margaret W. Weeks and a committee of other women are in charge of arrangements.

Six federated clubs and another study group met in regular session yesterday for a variety of programs.

The Twentieth and Junior Twentieth Century clubs had programs on the Atlantic Monthly magazine with Miss Ruth Horn as principal speaker, first at the Junior club meeting in the Tech library and then at the senior club meeting at Hotel Lubbock.

Miss Horn discussed the founding of the magazine, described the literary men who through the years have made the magazine possible and reviewed features of the current issue. Twenty-five members attended the Junior club meeting.

Mesdames P. W. Horn and George W. Dupree also appeared on the senior club program, discussing the current article on religion, "More Dogma Please." Mrs. H. F. Godeke reported a recent County Federation meeting at the New Deal school at Monroe. About 20 members attended the meeting yesterday.

Nineteen Attend

Nineteen Athenaeum club members met at Hotel Lubbock for a program led by Mrs. K. M. Renner on "Economic Conditions and Possibilities of Latin America." The leader discussed geographic features of Latin America, and Mrs. O. B. Howell told of Latin American plants and trees and their value. Roll call was answered by naming a Latin American city.

Souvenirs Displayed

Mrs. F. A. Kleinschmidt presented a travelogue and showed souvenirs she brought from Europe last summer at a meeting of the Lubbock Woman's Forum at her home, 2324 Broadway. Mesdames R. S. Underwood, Clem Boverie and Gradie W. Bownds were hostesses. Mrs. Underwood was leader for the program which also included violin selections played by Donald Kleinschmidt.

Coffee, pumpkin pie and nuts were served to 28 members.

In Wheatley Home

Mesdames Guy L. Wheatley and Clarence Whiteside were hostesses for a Clement-Sorosis club meeting in the Wheatley home, 1211-A Fourteenth street. Mrs. J. D. Sanders discussed "Growth of Texas Art" and Mrs. B. H. Jenkins discussed "Art in the Home."

Mrs. Fred Fairly's resignation from the club was accepted and Mrs. Powell McWhirter was elected vice-president to fill a vacancy left by Mrs. Fairly. It was announced that the committee has selected books which the club will present to the Guadalupe school library and that the books have been ordered.

Others attending were Mesdames Hubert Wiley of Slaton, J. D. Hinson, George M. Garrett, Bob Gee, E. J. Ohnemus, McWhirter, C. H. Hamilton, Cliff Widener, Robert Cooper and Dale Ackers.

Musical chairs minus the chairs—with the guests scrambling for marked places on the floor—might be an idea. The strings which always have led from the front door to the cellar where cold gusts of wind shot down your neck from far corners, clammy hands clutched at your arms and ghastly ghosts feered from squeaking windows might lead instead—to the attic—well lighted, with the floor waxed for dancing.

You can't very well reverse the bobbing-for-apples ordeal, unless you want to put the host in the tub of water and throw the apples at him. But you can pin the donkey on the tail instead of pinning the tail on the donkey. Or ask the guests to come dressed as an idea rather than in typical, by now hackneyed, Hallowe'en costumes. Any guests told to come as the "soup is hot" or "Four Power Conference" or "lower utility rates" or "life is what you make it" ought to have a pretty fair amount of fun before he ever gets to the party.

Sales Prospect Of Lubbock Airman Is Shot Down

Emmett Morris, Lubbock airman, had flown all sorts of trips—or so he believed up to Friday.

Just as he was about to take off from Ballinger, he heard the noise of shots or of a muffler, and saw a man he had visited to demonstrate a plane slump.

He Did Not Stop

Since he was on his way to Paint Rock, 16 miles south of Ballinger, he did not stop.

On his return he asked where Dan Liverman was. A crowd was gathered. The sheriff informed Morris; Liverman, 28-year-old oil company wholesaler, had been shot.

Morris did not sell the plane. Liverman died Sunday morning.

Two Men Make Bond

Inspectors Bill Strickland of San Angelo and Robert H. Gambell of Abilene executed $2,500 bond each upon arraignment on charges of murder, said the Associated Press from San Angelo, and were bound over to await action of a Ballinger grand jury Nov. 14.

No statement had been made by the officers, other than that Liverman had resisted arrest. They held a warrant for his arrest on a speeding charge, other sources said.

Standing 100 Yards Away

Morris was standing approximately 100 yards away at the time of the shooting, he estimated. He said he did not ask questions about the cause of the firing, "since I barely had enough daylight time to get back to the Lubbock port."

Also Morris explained "I didn't say anything about it (the shooting) because I didn't want to get tangled as a witness in court procedure."

His association with the case had not been established until late Tuesday, when a flier at Sweetwater told a newspaperman he had talked with Morris and had learned of his presence at Ballinger.

THE MISERY OF HIS COLD BEGINS TO GO
When you just do this:
Massage VapoRub on the throat, chest, and back. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. (No dosing, no stomach upsets.)

VapoRub's poultice-and-vapor action goes right to work—direct through the skin like a poultice, while its medicated vapors released by the body warmth are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.
This two-way action (inhalation and stimulation) loosens phlegm—clears the air-passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion—and he soon feels comfortable again.
Long after he relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working. And often by morning the worst of his cold is over. No wonder 3 out of 5 mothers put faith in VapoRub whenever anyone in the family has a cold!
ONLY VAPORUB GIVES YOU THIS DOUBLE PROOF:

C. A. Lawrence Named Project Superintendent For Lyntegar Electric Group

Roberts Chosen For Engineer

(Special To The Avalanche)

TAHOKA, Oct. 25—C. A. Lawrence, assistant county agent here for several years, has been selected as project superintendent of the Lyntegar Rural Electric cooperative, Inc., and Harry N. Roberts of Lubbock was officially named as engineer, at a meeting of the board of directors here Monday night.

Meeting was called when President John Heck was advised that REA had formally approved a $304,000 allotment for construction of 329 miles of high line in Lynn, Terry, Garza and Hockley counties. The proposed line has a potential 988 customers and members, according to the Washington report.

Date Will Be Set

Directors are hopeful that within the next two weeks a date for opening of bids for construction of the line will be set.

Roberts, who has been employed for the project for some time, without formal appointment, has prepared plans and specifications for the four-county project. It is the largest so far on the South Plains, in both mileage and in number of customers, as well as federal allotment.

Tom Garrard is attorney for the cooperative. He has made trips to Austin to confer with REA and others on the project.

Directors hope that actual construction will begin before the end of the year.

Tahoka Is Headquarters

Tahoka is expected to be headquarters of the concern. In the event Lawrence's appointment as project superintendent is approved, and it is believed it will be done shortly in Washington, he will open an office here. Work will be directed from the headquarters.

The line is expected to serve the following territory:

From the Ropesville community project, in Hockley county, the high line will extend west to Meadow, with a branch line from there west and south to Gomez, west of Brownfield.

From Meadow east, the main line will cross the Lynn county line near Lakeview, serving Petty, New Home and Wayside. From a point between Wayside and Wilson a 3-mile loop north is planned. From Wilson the line touches Morgan, Gordon, Garlynn and drops back to New Lynn, going south to highway 24 and west to within two miles of Tahoka, with a branch to the Edith community. Another branch will extend through Central Church, Grassland, Redwine and Draw, west to north of O'Donnell, on the south county line and then west to Wells.

The Garza county main line will enter that county near Garlynn, touching Pleasant Valley, Hackberry, Graham and other points. Most of Garza county on top of the caprock will be served, including lines to within a mile or two of Southland.

In Again And Out Again Is Routine For This Fellow; "Old Head" At City Jail

There are persons whose fortunes lift them up then cast them down—

Then there are persons who, at best, are in again and out again.

It is to the latter category that one "jailbird" here belongs, records at the police station show.

Tuesday morning's blotter termed the arrest of the 33-year-old fellow thus:

"Old Reliable—in jail again."

"It means he's about worn the jail out," said Aubrey Fawver, identifications officer.

Recorder B. P. Millsap's records were checked. The man, released Monday morning after "laying out" a $100 fine at the credit rating of $3 a day, was picked up at 8 o'clock that night on the same offense, said authorities.

"Fact is, there's no news in his being in here," said Millsap, thumbing records. "See if you can find more than a few days since June 5 when he wasn't in jail for drunkenness."

The man was "jugged" June 5 and again June 23. Released July 2, he was back in the next day. Released July 12 he was in again that afternoon. Released Aug. 15, he was back next day. Released Sept. 15, he was back next day.

And, as recited, released Monday of this week, he was back that night.

"One of two things is certain," said Millsap. "He likes his liquor or he likes being in jail—or both."

Bridge Classes Will Be Given

W. F. (Rufus) Steele, internationally famous bridge authority whose numerous books on bridge antedate those on the Culbertson system which he now teaches, will be in Lubbock next week to conduct classes, two a day, from Monday afternoon through Friday night.

Winner of the International Cup in a recent world tournament in London, Steele will be presented at 2 and 8 p. m. daily in the American Legion home under auspices of Allen Bros. Legion post and The Avalanche-Journal.

Fee Of $2 Charged

A fee of $2 for the 24 lessons will be charged each person enrolling. Students will have the privilege of attending one or both lessons each day. The night class will be a repetition of the the afternoon class.

No reservations are to be made in advance, the policy of the school being "first come, first served" and it will not be necessary that students come in foursomes.

Classes For Beginners

"The classes are for the beginner as well as the accomplished player," Steele said when visiting here Tuesday. "I will present 34 lessons on the Culbertson system and all the newest conventions of the game. Men and women experienced in contract will enjoy brushing up on the newest bids and people who do not know one card from another will have every opportunity of correctly learning the game."

On Monday and Tuesday, Steele will make all bids for the students, then lecture as to why the top bids were not made. Wednesday and Thursday the students will make all bids, then be corrected for errors by Steele. All phases of the Culbertson Gold Book will be explained and emphasized in detail. The lectures will be followed by practice games.

Proceeds Go To Legion

Steele is employed by the Bridge Congress which owns the Culbertson system. The schools are promoted not for profit but for stimulation of interest in bridge and to cut down arguments as to correct forms. Twenty per cent of the proceeds from the American Legion-Avalanche-Journal school will be used toward defraying expenses, and the remainder will go to the Legion for its charity fund.

This winter, Steele and Ely Culbertson are conducting classes regularly in Dallas free of charge, each appearing alternately in large department stores. The stores pay all expenses, making it possible to avoid fees.

Men Are Invited

Men as well as women are invited to attend the Lubbock school, bringing pencils and pads for taking notes. All playing cards, tables and other accessories will be furnished by the sponsors. Hostesses will be on hand at each session to assist the students in finding tables and making themselves comfortable.

Steele, who has just finished a school in Plainview and is planning a second school in Amarillo, said the Bridge Congress ha. received more than 400 letters from bridge players of Lubbock county asking questions about rules, bids and other phases of the Culbertson system. Hence it is believed the school will have a capacity attendance.

Hale Center's Crop On Move

HALE CENTER, Oct. 25 — Hale Center's cotton crop is moving to the gins this month. Better than 2,000 bales had been ginned by Monday, ginners reported. Yield for this area is averaging about a third of a bale to the acre. Estimated bales to be ginned this year is 2,500, farmers and ginners say.

Two new cotton warehouses have been constructed here to store government loan cotton this fall. Both were completed in the same week recently, one for the Hale Center and Cotton Center Co-op gins, and one for an independent Plainview firm. The Co-op warehouse has a capacity of about 1,500 bales, while the independent storehouse can hold 500.

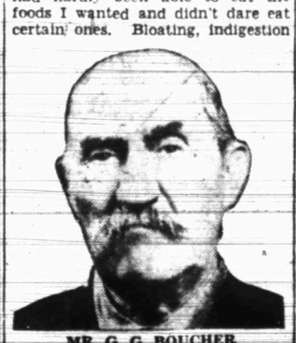

Almost all cotton produced here is going in the government loan, and is grading sufficient to earn loans averaging about 8.30, warehouse men say.

The average lifetime of a sardine is approximately 14 years.

Sorry He Didn't Try Gly-Cas Sooner

Able To Enjoy His Meals First Time in 15 years; Bloating, Soreness In His Stomach Entirely Eliminated

"If I had known of Gly-Cas Years before there would not have been the need of all my suffering," said Mr. G. G. Boucher, 324 E. Elm St., Tyler, Texas. "For fifteen years I had hardly been able to eat the foods I wanted and didn't dare eat certain ones. Bloating, indigestion and heartburn were frequent occurrences after each meal and my stomach would become so sore. Gas crowded my heart until I could hardly stoop over without becoming dizzy. Constipation was continually bothering me too, my system seemed to fill with poisons and try as I did I was unable to get anything more than temporary relief. Upon hearing so much praise for Gly-Cas on everyside I put it to a real test on my case and found it accomplished even more than I expected.

MR. G. G. BOUCHER

"For the first time in years I am able to eat foods I had not dared touch before," he continued. "Gas, bloating and indigestion have been relieved and heartburn has been conquered. Even my bowels have been regulated and I can truthfully state I am enjoying the best health I have had in years. Parking Meter Costs Slashed

Lubbock has paid approximately two-thirds of the cost of its parking meters in 13 months, according to information given at the city hall.

A check for $1,423.72 was mailed to Dual Parking Meter company of Oklahoma City Tuesday.

The payment represented the company's 75 per cent of receipts from the meters during September. The remaining $474.57 was retained by the city as its share of the revenue.

Apply 75 Per Cent

Terms of the payment provide that 75 per cent of the collections are to be applied on the cost of the devices until the total amount of approximately $34,800 is paid. All revenues after total payment is made then will go to the city.

Total revenue to Oct. 1 from the meters was $27,921.95, of which $21,619.34 has been paid to the company. The aggregate of total payment is in excess of 75 per cent, officials explained, because for several months after they were installed, the company received 85 per cent. The contract then was revised.

Meanwhile, city officials continue to wait with keen interest the announcement by the court of criminal appeals of its decision in a case which will determine the fate of meters. The case has been held under consideration by the court since last summer and officials are expecting a ruling at any time, possibly tomorrow, which is the weekly "opinion day" of the judicial body.

Public Hearing Will Be Staged

F. W. Pulliam of Crystal City, chairman of a legislative committee appointed last summer, has announced ground water problems will be discussed at a public hearing in Lubbock Nov. 7.

The area to be represented here, according to the letter, will be the entire Texas Panhandle, the South Plains, the counties north of the Texas and Pacific railroad and the region eastward to include Baylor, Wilbarger and Throckmorton counties.

One Of Several In State

The conference here will be the only one to be held by the committee in this territory, and will be one of several in various districts of the state. Another of the district meetings is scheduled in El Paso Nov. 5.

Members of the ground water committee, additional to Pulliam, are W. B. Tuttle of San Antonio; E. V. Spence, city manager of Big Spring; R. L. Holmes of Dallas; R. L. Puerifoy of Kingsville; George F. Findlay of Houston and W. H. Rodgers, Lubbock city manager.

Among others who may attend are Major E. A. Wood, director of the Texas Planning board, and Ireland Hampton, Fort Worth attorney who is assisting in preparation of legislation planned for submission to the January session of the legislature.

Invitations are to be extended by the chamber of commerce and by the planning board to officials and others throughout the territory to be present at the session here, it was announced.

"To Learn More Clearly"

Specific purposes of the conferences, according to the letter here, are to learn "more clearly the local situation and to acquaint the public generally with the terms of proposed legislation."

The general objective of contemplated legislation, members of the state committee announced, is to conserve ground water resources which, in many parts of the state, have been depleted alarmingly in recent years. However, it was explained, no one rule can be made for the state as a whole because problems vary with different sections. For that reason, the district conferences have been scheduled, each to study the problem peculiar to each particular section.

Second Arbor Day Program At Texas Tech Being Planned

O. B. Howell, director of campus beautification, said Tuesday that plans are being laid for a second Arbor day program at Texas Technological college in 1939.

The tree and shrub planting program, in which students and faculty will participate, probably will be conducted Feb. 22, but the date will depend on weather conditions, said Howell.

The program will not approach the magnitude of that last March, when approximately 20,000 trees and shrubs were planted. Plans for landscaping around the new library building, for planting in vicinity of the neon Double-T sign given to the college by the June graduating class, for planting in the parkway between the drives from the Broadway entrance, and for replacements already are being considered, however. Howell estimated that not more more than 300 of the trees and shrubs planted last spring have died.

Children under 2 years of age now can ride the airlines free of charge, while children between the ages of 2 and 12 can fly for half fare.

Strong Crew Of Plainview Bulldogs Comes Here For Contest Friday Night

Visitors Bring Record Of Five Wins, One Loss

A big team that has amassed a good record in six games to date will represent Plainview High against the Westerners Friday night at Texas Tech field.

The Hilliardmen have not allowed more than one touchdown to any opponent this year and have run up a total of 149 points against strong competition. Only one Bulldog adversary, Clovis, could be ranked in the weak class.

Two District 1 elevens have met defeat against Plainview so far and at its present pace others may fall before the curtain drops Thanksgiving. In their third game of the season Sept. 23 the Bulldogs beat Lamesa, youngest member of the circuit, 26 to 6.

Bulldogs Have Lost One

Oct. 7 Borger was victim, 24 to 7. The Borgans are only crew met both by Plainview and Lubbock.

In non-conference games Plainviews has won tnree contests and lost one, the latter to Hollis, Okla., 7-6. Tivy High of Kerrville was dropped, 7 to 6, in the season's opening game Sept. 9, and Bowie High of El Paso was beaten, 26-0, two weeks later.

The Bulldogs stomped Clovis, 60 to 0, two weeks ago and were idle last week.

Lubbock's offensive and defensive records do not compare favorably with Plainview's. The Westerners have relinquished 33 points against five opponents and have scored 108. Twice Lubbock has allowed two touchdowns in one game.

Westerners Work Hard

Coach Vernon Hilliard took over the reins of Bulldog football last season after taking the Kerrville Tivy High Antlers to the state finals the year before. He is recognized as one of the best coaches in Texas schoolboy circles.

Not since 1935 has Plainview recorded a victory over the Westerners. Last year Lubbock won, 21 to 0, on the Bulldog grid.

Out at Westerner practice field, Coaches Weldon Chapman and Goober Keyes sent their charges through a heavy drill Tuesday afternoon. Defense was stressed in a long session. The regulars scrimmaged against the second string.

Another hard workout is slated for today, with a light exercise under the lights Thursday night.

Sen Trade Rumors Loudly Buzzing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—Trade rumors are buzzing so loud around Griffith stadium these days that you can hardly hear President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators say—Cecil Travis.

The talk is:

That the Detroit Tigers are frantically trying to get Travis, the gangling Georgia shortstop, from the Senators either outright or by a player trade.

Griffith won't divulge anything—just shakes his gray head, looks out the window at the gray sky and chews on his cigar.

It has been unearthed here by steady digging that Griffith, baseball's Old Fox, might trade his youthful shortstop, who has managed to hit well above .300 ever since he got into the league.

What does Griffith want for Travis?

Pitcher Tommy Bridges, Outfielder Cullenbine, Rudy York and probably four or five of Hank Greenberg's bats and the Tiger home plate.

Dairy Products Judging Team Returns To City Tuesday

K. M. Renner, head professor of dairy manufactures of Texas Technological college, and a four-man dairy products judging team returned to Lubbock Tuesday night after participating in national judging contests in Cleveland, O., last week. The group also visited several manufacturing concerns and two colleges in the North.

Besides tours of Iowa State college of agriculture and mechanical arts, Ames, O., and Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan, the team and its coach visited the research laboratories of the Kraft-Phoenix Corp. in Chicago, a gelatin manufacturing concern in Grays Lake, Ill., dairy equipment manufacturing company in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and the Borden company in Oklahoma City.

Team members included Arch Lamb, Fort Worth; Charles Gillham, Hughes Springs; Claburne Harrell, Spur; and Van Scheid, Whitesboro.

Tech Gridmen Look Over New Plays To Use In Game With Loyola Team

Their next public performance is still eleven days away, but the Texas Tech varsity gridders were indulging in rather serious work yesterday as rehearsals were resumed on a fulltime basis following last Saturday's conquest of Texas Mines.

There was not a great deal of pushing around, although for half an hour or so the Reserves and the Shock Troops thumped each other in a bit of a scrimmage. The regulars, still stiff in the joints, returned to the field after a holiday Monday and spurted sporadically in offensive drill.

Guzick At Center

Coaches Cawthon and Smith reviewed, and had the boys demonstrate, the mistakes made in the Mines game, but devoted most of the afternoon to instructions regarding a few plays designed to score against the Loyola Wolves of New Orleans here on Nov. 5. The regular lineup ran through these plays in dummy scrimmage, dividing time with the other two teams.

Running with the regulars for a time yesterday was the big captain, Frank Guzick, who has been hors de combat since the first quarter of the first game of the season. But Guzick was snapping the ball from center instead of receiving snapbacks at quarter. Coach Smith "rumored" a few days ago that Guzick might do a little center play before the season ended. From other sources comes advice that Guzick's injured knees will preclude any more backfield business, although the Sherman youth had been groomed all spring, summer and early fall to lead the Red Raider offense from the signal-chanting slot.

Big Bill Davis, regular left tackle who hasn't played since the Duquesne game, figures he'll be ready to go against the Wolves. He was working out rather strenuously yesterday, taking his turn at the blocking machines, and scampering around like a firehorse waiting for a fire to break out. Line Coach Smith also figures that Davis will be ready to go "if he can beat Leonard Latch out of the old position." Latch took over Davis' duties at Buffalo, and has been turning in a fair job of tackle play since then.

White On Sidelines

Out of the lineup and out of uniform, with his left wing in a sling, Dixie "Whizzer" White, the redoubtable right guard, looked on from the sidelines. He is favoring an injured elbow, a strange football injury, and probably will not practice this week. The elbow—it was an elbow instead of a shoulder injury—is not broken, bent nor cracked, but considerably swollen as result of a blow sustained in the Mines game Saturday.

Phil Harmon and Primo McCurry were working at the right guard position with the regulars. E. J. McKnight was doubling for Prince Scott at left end, Scott having been "wore down to a nub" in the Mines game, his assignment being to "get Heinemen." He did a swell job of it, as the score and statistics testify.

Bounding Bobby Holmes was back at left halfback after resting through the last game, with Ray Flusche at quarter, Tarbox at right half, Bull Rankin and Charley Calhoun alternating at fullback.

The Raiders will work on the new plays through Friday, take a holiday and be guests of Lubbock business men at the Baylor-TCU game in Fort Worth Saturday, and start serious doings in preparation for the Loyola invasion next week.

Line Coach Smith leaves today for New Orleans where he'll scout Loyola against Southwestern (Tenn.) and Coach Cawthon will be orr soon for Milwaukee to give the Marquette university gridders, Tech's Thanksgiving visitors, a once over as they tangle with Iowa State.

Cooper-Frenship Go May Be Postponed

A "family feud" probably will cause cancellation of the scheduled game Thursday night at the Huber baseball field between Cooper and Frenship.

Brothers Fred Rich of Cooper and Bob Rich of Frenship have been unable to come to terms on proper distribution of gate receipts at any site, both said last night.

It is likely that the game will not be played this week.

Buffs Prepare For Tough Kansas Foe

CANYON, Oct. 25. (Special)—Back in the win column after their 13-7 victory in the terrific battle with Oklahoma City university Friday night, the Buffaloes of West Texas State Teachers college must prepare for another intersectional engagement.

Kansas State college of Pittsburg will come here next Saturday as the opposition on Prexy Day. "Win for Prexy" will be a slogan on the campus all week because Dr. J. A. Hill will be 61 Saturday. Senator Tom Connally will be the main speaker of the day by invitation of local business men and the Epsilon Betas, who sponsor the occasion.

Game time will be 8:30 p. m. All indications point to another close game. Kansas State college dropped a hot contest to the powerful Emporia State eleven by a pair of touchdowns and the team is gaining momentum as the season proceeds.

The old dog who doesn't need any new tricks, Sailor Tex Watkins will try his "neck and crotch" piledriver on wily old Joe Kopecky tonight in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at the Auditorium.

In years and experience the South Texan is close behind Watkins and during his ring career has learned quite a few tricks of his own.

It'll Be Plenty Rough

That it will be a rough and tumble affair is the only justifiable prediction. The ex-cowboy from Post likes it rough and Kopecky won't play any other way.

Kopecky stalks his prey with the agility of an eagle and dishes out plenty of punishment, but manages to hang a rope when trouble comes his way. Watkins may keep him out of the ropes.

Absent-minded John Nemanic ploughs into the Boston strongie, Walter Stratton, in the semifinal.

Not long ago Nemanic was refereeing matches here and was a stickler for rules. However, he leaves the rules in his pants pockets when he steps into shorts.

Stratton is even-tempered and rarely gets irked. But when he gets irked, he uses superior strength to

Pitt Again Leads National Poll; Horned Frogs Third

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—The second weekly Associated Press ranking poll, made up from the ballots of 100 sports writers, leaves no doubt that the outstanding college football game this Saturday will be the meeting at Pittsburgh of Jock Sutherland's all-conquering Panthers and Fordham's unbeaten Rams.

Pitt, for the second week, leads in the voting with 90 of the 100 nominations for first place and 989 points out of a possible 1,000. Fordham, on the strength of its impressive route of Oregon, drew one of the ten remaining first-place ballots and enough additional support to supplant Duke as No. 9 in national ranking with 370 points.

Frogs Advance Fast

Barring accidents and a Fordham victory, it looks like the Panthers against the field for the rest of the season.

The biggest gain was made by Texas Christian, which kept its slate clean in shutting out Marquette and thereby advanced from seventh to fourth.

Fordham is the only team in the group that is not all-winning. The Rams were tied by Purdue.

The standing (first-place votes in brackets, scoring on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis).

TEAM	POINTS
Pittsburgh (90)	989
Minnesota (1)	681
California (3)	620
Texas Christian (3)	572
Santa Clara (1)	571
Dartmouth	443
Notre Dame (1)	437
Tennessee	413
Fordham (1)	370
Oklahoma	116

Second ten: Duke 114, Northwestern 55, Michigan 36, Holy Cross 15, Villanova 14, Carnegie Tech 13, Cornell 12, Alabama 11, Southern California 10, Ohio State 7.

Behind the Pitt-Fordham game in importance according to the rankings comes Saturday's battle between Minnesota and Northwestern, unbeaten but once tied. None of the other leaders meet teams that figured prominently in the voting, but neither does any one figure to have a snap assignment.

How To See Football

THE BLOCKING BACK
By JERRY BRONDFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

Few were the cheers for men like Earl Britton, Ernie Pinckert, and Marty Brill. They were the blocking backs—the boys who seldom lug the ball themselves but who in one respect may be considered the most valuable man in any team's backfield.

This is the day of guards and tackles pulling out of the line to lead interference, but because of his greater speed the blocking back is the one who forms the closest protection in convoying a ball carrier around end or downfield.

Although the formation varies, the blocking back usually will be the one closest to the line of scrimmage, exclusive of the wingback, when the backs take their shift.

Once past the line of scrimmage the blocking back is much more effective than the running guard or tackle because he takes the ball-carrier goal-ward at full speed. Until he is past all potential tacklers the ball carrier must stay behind his interference as closely as possible, and most linemen would slow up his progress.

Many good blocking backs also are very efficient on line bucks from close up, or on weak side reverses, which adds to their effectiveness. And most coaches feel it is easier to make a ball-carrier out of a good blocker, than a blocker out of a star ball-carrier.

Junior High Eleven To Play At Post

Coach Gordon Thompson takes his Lubbock Junior High school "Calf Ropers" to Post this afternoon for a return game with the corresponding team of sixth and seventh graders of the Garza capital.

The game is to start at 3:45 o'clock.

Coach Thompson named 22 boys to make the trip. They are: Ends, Frazier, Taylor, Pharr and Humphreys; tackles, Lawson, Walker, Wright and Thomas; guards, Glaze, Yandell, Brock and Ellis; centers, Howard and Burleson; backs, Thompson, Pipes, Norcross, Allison, Wallace, Pollard, Brock and Davis.

In their game here, the Lubbock juniors defeated Post, 26 to 6.

Organization of Lubbock's first Mexican Boy Scout troop will be completed Friday night under the direction of the American Business club Boy Scout committee when 16 boys are expected to take the oath at the Mexican school.

Byron Chappell was named scoutmaster for the troop, to be known as troop No. 17. Members of the supervisory committee include Tom Atkinson, chairman, Dr. U. S. Marshall, J. W. Broome, jr., and Ed Bergman.

O'Brien Draws Patterson For Duel Saturday

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, Oct. 25—Davey O'Brien, the 150 pound Irish oaken knot who has forward passed nigh on to half a mile in five games, draws Bullet Bill Patterson, no sandlot slinger himself, in Saturday's classic of the airways.

Unbeaten Texas Christian tags along behind O'Brien; undefeated but tied Baylor lines up behind Patterson.

Little Davey, whose tiny feet have comfortably bulged the brogans of his illustrious predecessor, Slingin' Sam Baugh, has the same passing average of Columbia's Sid Luckman—but has gained exactly 275 more yards.

Side-by-side statistical survey of O'Brien, Luckman and Patterson:

	G	Att	Com	Yds	Avg	Pct.
O'Brien	5	86	44	782	1325	.512
Luckman	4	82	42	807	12.19	.512
Patterson	5	74	34	503	14.8	.459

Ten of the Christians' 17 touchdowns in walkover triumphs against Centenary, Arkansas, Temple, Texas A. & M. and Marquette, have come directly from O'Brien's passing arm, while five more have been set up at the goal line for the plunge over as a result of his throws.

But the little fellow operates under considerably more pleasant conditions than most passers, for, up there in front holding out rushers and giving him ample time to brush up on next Monday's calculus lessons on the side, is a 212-pound average line.

Only Two Passes Intercepted

One of the best in Southwest conference history is that line, a fine band of offensive blockers led by Center Ki 'Aldrich and Tackle I. B. Hale. It has opened holes for its back to wedge through for 677 yards on the ground, which chills the rumor that Texas Christian is entirely razzle-dazzle.

The tipoff on O'Brien and his passing magic comes deep in the statistics — when he misses, its close. Only two of his 86 passes have been intercepted.

Incidentally, O'Brien has missed but one try-for-point after touchdown in 14 attempts. To date, T. C. U. hasn't needed O'Brien in that department, however.

Patterson Tops Punters

Patterson is to Baylor what salt is to pepper. His throwing arm is their touchdown hope, as witness a 25-yard scoring pass Saturday last that gave them a 6-6 tie with a Texas Aggie team that shoved them all over the rainswept field. His kicking toe is tops in the Southwest. His average is better than 40 yards and he is uncanny at steering them out of bounds. Only his kicking kept the Aggies' Dick Todd throttled.

Battered by the Aggies, who twice reached the one-foot line but failed to burrow through Baylor's line for the winning score, the Baylors have been shunted to the short end of the odds against Texas Christian, which used reserves aplenty to crush Marquette.

Some 30,000 are expected to overflow T. C. U.'s stadium for the O'Brien-Patterson feud, in its third and final year.

Quarterback Club Is Aid To Schmidt

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—The world is getting better, advised James Looey Renick of Ohio State university, one of the great press agents of big time college football teams, as he laid his brief case on the Old Professor's desk. James L. is positive of his statement because Columbus, O., once the seething spot of football hot heads, now is peaceful and calm.

"It's almost wonderful," Jim said. "Sure, the boys are still hot to win every game but education, plus an official, well regulated quarterback club, have wised 'em up. Why, do you know it now is possible for the Ohio State coach to have a published telephone number?"

Quarterback Club Helps

Jim's statement is news to all those who haven't been to Columbus for a game for three or four years. Football coaches, unless their teams won every game, were condemned men. Downtown quarterbacks bellowed louder than a gang of old cow hands on a pay day spree. When their scarlet scourgers won—and they never expected anything else—the town was football mad; when they lost the irate boys did everything but tar and feather the coach.

Chief victim was Sam Willaman, a fine coach whose record at Ohio State was every bit as good as his successor, Francis Albert Schmidt. In 1933, seriously ill even then Sam's team dropped only one game to hated Michigan and Willaman was fired. Stricken with a fatal malady, Sam died two years later and many a tear of remorse fell from the eyes of his heartless batters.

Schmidt's Record No Better

Schmidt's record is no better. Since taking over at Ohio State, his teams have lost six games in five seasons. Yet, as Renick says, the fans have calmed down, mellowed.

"There are many reasons," explained Mr. Renick. "The fans are getting more sensible as they read of upsets all around the country week after week. Then, Schmidt gives the fans that razzle dazzle game he brought up from Texas Christian. Win, lose or draw, the Bucks always put on a great show. But the most important cause for the change for the better is the downtown quarterback club."

Quarterback club members meet every Wednesday before a home game and Coach Schmidt takes the witness chair. Confidences are held, Schmidt explains every play, answers all criticism.

P. S. Ohio State plans to beat New York university, 27-0, here Saturday.

Resignation Of Nevada Coach Staff Sought

RENO, Nev., Oct. 25. (AP)—Eight University of Nevada football players, who said they represented the entire squad of 44, and David Goldwater, president of the student body, today demanded the resignation or dismissal of Doug Dashiell, head football coach; his assistant, Duane Keller, and J. E. Martiek, director of athletics, head basketball coach and long-time head of the university's physical education department.

The entire group, who said they were selected as a committee at a meeting of the football squad last night, presented their grievances to Dr. L. W. Hartman, acting president of the university.

Claim Equipment Inadequate

The football men complained that athletic equipment at the university is inadequate and that the coaching staff "should be handling high school teams, not a university squad."

Dr. Hartman said he would call a meeting of the executive committee of the board of regents to hear the students' charges. He pointed out that the coaches, as members of the faculty, could not be dismissed except "for cause" and that even then six months notice must be given.

The Nevada players said they were sorely disappointed in their recent 27 to 13 loss to Greeley State Teachers at Greeley, Colo., and their 27 to 0 defeat at the hands of Fresno State Teachers at Nevada's homecoming last Saturday.

Dashiell Is Former Texan

They told Dr. Hartman they felt they could make a favorable showing for the remainder of the season if the coaching job was turned over to Chet Scranton, former Nevada star and now an assistant coach, and Jim Coleman, freshman coach.

The acting university president declined to take a definite stand in the controversy but invited the entire football squad's committee to present their case to the regents' executive committee.

Dashiell, who spent his undergraduate days at Southwestern university at Georgetown, Tex., came to the University of Nevada from Las Vagas High school, where his teams won four consecutive state championships.

Building Permits Take Jump Of $14,835 Here Tuesday

Beyond the quarter-million dollar mark went the building permit total for October with issuance Tuesday of eight permits authorizing expenditures of $14,835.

The October figure climbed to $258,880.08 and the total for the year shot to $2,705,384.76. The two-day old week's aggregate stood at $34,335, according to figures from the office of the building inspector.

Permits for more than $1,000 went to: E. B. Kelly, owner, and G. H. Hughett, contractor, to construct a one-story frame brick veneer residence at 2508 Twenty-first street, $7,000; Mrs. Essie Brooks, owner, and S. E. Continuation Of Two-Day-A-Week Closings Of Texas Oil Fields Announced

November Order Made Public

AUSTIN, Oct. 25. (AP)—Continuation of two-day-a-week closings of Texas oil fields for another month was decreed by the railroad commission today in its statewide proration order for November.

The commission set the basic daily allowable next month at 1,279,653 barrels, 4,531 above that for October and 91,347 under the recommendation of the United States bureau of mines.

Signed Under Agreement

Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith said he signed the order under an agreement the two-day shutdowns would be reduced to one in December and be lifted altogether in January. Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson said, however, the proration policy for December and January could not be formulated until later.

Simultaneously with issuance of the order, Thompson issued a statement urging gasoline refiners to curtail their activity by 15 per cent.

"While crude oil stocks in storage above ground are at 278,000,000 barrels," Thompson said, "and this figure is the low for 16 years and five months, still we must keep in mind the fact gasoline stocks control crude demand largely.

Stocks At High Peak

"Gasoline and fuel oil stocks are high, the latter at their all-time peak. . . . .

"A little showing of business statesmanship at this time among the refiners would be most heartening."

Basic allowables by districts for October and November respectively, not counting the holidays, follow:

East Texas, 517,816 and 519,985; panhandle, including Moore county and Osborne area, 83,292 and 83,900; North Texas, including Foard county, K.M.A. and Gant, 89,926 and 85,149; West Central, 80,691 and 81,700; West Texas, 236,484 and 244,866; East Central, 112,993 and 113,198; Southwest Texas, 301,607 and 305,164; Gulf Coast, 264,810 and 275,310.

Texas wells will flow both Saturday and Sunday this week end for the first time since January 15. The commission decided only eight days of closing were needed this month and therefore exempted the fifth Saturday and Sunday of the month.

City Officials Are To Gather

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 25. (AP)—"These Cities of Ours," a talk by Earl D. Mallery, manager of the Washington office of the American Municipal association, will be one of several discussions at the Texas League of Municipalities convention at Port Arthur Oct. 26-28, the program committee announces.

Attended by city department heads, executives, councilmen and commissioners from over the state, the meeting is expected to result in several recommendations for new or amended legislation affecting cities, especially the relief problem and paving of highways through cities.

The finance officer's section will meet Wednesday morning and Nolan C. Phillips of Waco will discuss "Audit Procedure for Cities." C. E. Armstrong, city comptroller of Birmingham, Ala., will speak on "Federal Taxation of Other Governments," and Dr. Stuart A. McConkie, director of the University of Texas bureau of business research, will preside at a luncheon session on "Suggested Assessment Reforms."

First session of the league proper will open Thursday morning with a report on "The Business of Your League," by President R. G. Williams of Bryan. Needed legislation will be outlined Thursday afternoon in committee reports by H. P. Kucera, Dallas city attorney, Mayor Fonville of Houston and others.

City managers will meet at noon Thursday and utilities section of the league and Texas City Attorney's association Friday morning.

Discussions Friday will include "Aims and Policies of the Lower Colorado River Authority," by Max Starcke, manager; "Legislative Matters," by Mayor Tom Miller of Austin; "The Proposed Electrical Code for Texas," by Lawson Wimberly, secretary of the state association of electrical workers, and "Does Texas Need a Public Utilities Commission?," by Bryan Bradbury, legislative representative from Abilene.

Tea In Afternoon

At 4:30 o'clock that afternoon, college and club women will pour tea for the senator in the women's lounge of the college.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock at the boys dormitory, special guests including W. T. Gaston, business manager of the college, Dean James M. Gordon of the arts and science division, and Dr. Harry L. Kent, director of administrative research.

After the dinner will be a smoker, an informal reception for men faculty members and boys of the dormitory.

Informal Reception Set

In addition, there has been arranged an informal public reception at Lubbock hotel, from 2:30 until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, it earlier had been announced.

Senator Connally, chairman of the powerful public building committee of the senate, had intended coming to Lubbock several months ago but was prevented through press of duties.

He will go from Lubbock to Amarillo and to Canyon, where he will make an address.

Winners In First Annual Exhibit Staged By South Plains Camera Club Revealed

Winners in the first annual exhibit of photographs sponsored by the South Plains Camera club were announced Tuesday.

Winners were:

Professional division — pictorial: first prize, Winston Reeves, "Erosion"; second prize, Rollin Herald, "Teton Chapel."

Professional division — portrait: first prize, Orvil D. Wainscott, "Innocence"; second prize, Wainscott, "100th Birthday."

Amateur Division

Amateur division — black and white: first, and grand prize, W. G. McMillan, "Faithful Servants"; second prize, Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, "Spanish Staircase"; third prize, Dr. Jesse Q. Sealey, "Kitty Fluff"; fourth prize, G. G. McMurry, "Progress."

Honorable mention was given prints submitted by Richard Flowers, James H. Roberts, James W. Turnbow, and Charles N. Wood.

The Most Unusual

Roberts' "Summer Snow," depicting a winter snow in midsummer, was the most unusual photograph on exhibit. Roberts explained that grass and shrubbery took on the appearance of snow because of the use of infra-red film which caused green to show as white in the finished picture.

An unusual and beautiful blue tone effect was achieved by Dr. Sealey in his "Sand Rhythm."

Dick Browning, camera club member, was impressed by the fact that the owners of pictures on exhibit could be identified by comparing their several entries. One prize winner, a professor at Texas Technological college, was easily identified by subject: Natural objects with soft and subdued background. Another, a Lubbock businessman, had several prints of outdoor life, with large subjects predominating. A local contractor who submitted several prints was identified by his dynamic and colorful natural subjects.

Yaqui Pictures Shown

Dr. J. C. Anderson presented the first motion pictures ever taken of the Yaqui Indians Tuesday night. At 8 o'clock tonight Chal Moser will show a news-reel of the American Legion convention in Los Angeles and of the World Series baseball games between New York and Chicago.

"The reception given our first exhibit has been surprisingly good," said Reeves, president. "Judges were impressed with the talent submitted, and it seems certain that our exhibits in the future will be well supported."

The exhibit will remain on display in the junior ballroom of Lubbock hotel, and may be seen by the public any afternoon and night through Thursday between the hours of 1:30 and 10 o'clock.

Judges were: Robert I. Lockard, professor in architecture and allied arts at Tech; Austin Foster, Pampa; and Jack Edwards, Amarillo.

Contributions Being Probed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) asked the senate campaign expenditures committee today to decide whether recipients of federal old age pensions can contribute legally to senatorial campaigns.

Sheppard said an investigation had been made of a complaint that old age pensioners in California had given funds to candidates favoring increased pensions. The complaint, Sheppard said, named Sheridan Downey, Democratic senatorial nominee, as one of these candidates.

Has Advocated State System

Downey has advocated a "$30-ever-Thursday" state pension system.

The senate committee has contended it is illegal for any person receiving compensation from the federal treasury to contribute to the campaign fund of a congressional candidate.

Sheppard said the California investigation was based on this contention, despite a ruling by the comptroller general that old age pension funds cease to be federal money as soon as they are apportioned among the states.

Besides hearing its California investigators at today's session, the committee called for reports on campaigns in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Georgia, Ohio and other states.

A copy of the publication was received at the college this week.

Subject of Dr. Studhalter's paper was "Independence of Sporophyte in Riella and Sphaerocarpus". The Riella is the American ruffle plant. All papers were written by invitation. Countries represented by contributors were France, Bulgaria, Hungary, Finland, Switzerland, Germany, England, Sweden, Austria, and the United States.

Lubbock Street Cleaner Takes Pride In His Job And Works For Cleaner City

M. M. Stewart, street cleaner, is proud of his job!

He doesn't wear a starched collar, but no professional man in Lubbock takes more pride in his work.

Stewart is the one you see pushing a "go-cart" made from a steel barrel and mounted on coaster wheels. His philosophy increases as the wheels become worn and have to be replaced. And he has worn out "several pair, too."

Figured It Out Himself

That go-cart arrangement Stewart likes to discuss. "I figured it out myself," he said, "and had the fire boys braze it together."

He'd like to see the idea patented.

All-steel, the cart has a swan neck handle of piping. The contraption is light, but sturdy. Several years more, however, and he will have to revisit the fire station.

He "covers" a wide section of the downtown district, 21 blocks on Thirteenth, Broadway and Main streets, as well as traversing streets running north and south between Thirteenth and Main.

Proud Of Cleanliness

And some of this beat he is over more than once!

Despite the "carelessness" of the public in tossing away cigaret packs, chewing gum wrappers and other odds and ends, Stewart is proud of the town's cleanliness.

He referred to Lubbock's having been awarded eight consecutive trophies for being the cleanest city in the state.

Does he find valuables on the streets?

"When I first started, I could find nickels and dimes, but not now," he answered.

Stewart came here in 1925 from Bryan county, Okla., and has been a member of the garbage department eight years. He and Mrs. Stewart live at the rear of 1919 Texas avenue.

Seriousness Of Boil In Nose Shown In Child's Illness

The seriousness of a boil in the nose has been illustrated forcefully to 11-year-old Patsy Clubb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clubb of Petersburg.

The girl, suffering osteomyelitis of the skull, again underwent surgery Monday at Plains hospital for removal of necrotic bone in the skull. She has undergone surgery several times in the last few months.

A clot in a blood sinus at the base of the brain had formed after the girl suffered a boil in the nose and she entered Plains hospital for treatment the first time on July 17. She was suffering cavernous sinus thrombosis. The osteomyelitis of the skull later developed.

Condition of the girl was good considering seriousness of the ailment, it was said at the hospital Tuesday. She "feels well", but it cannot be predicted what further complications might develop.

Dies Committee Is Condemned

en regarding Governor Murphy. His reply was:

"I was very much disturbed. I was disturbed not because of the absurdly false charges made by a coterie of disgruntled Republican office-holders against a profoundly religious, able and law-abiding governor; but because a congressional committee charged with the responsibility of investigating un-American activities should have permitted itself to be used in a flagrantly unfair and un-American attempt to influence an election.

Effort To Get Truth

"At this hearing the Dies committee (Rep. Dies, Texas Democrat, is chairman of the committee) made no effort to get at the truth, either by calling for facts to support mere personal opinion or by allowing facts and personal opinion on the other side.

"On the threshold of a vitally important gubernatorial election, they permitted a disgruntled Republican judge, a discharged Republican city manager and a couple of officious police officers to make lurid charges against Governor Frank Murphy, without attempting to elicit from them facts as to their undeniable bias and their charges and without attempting to obtain from the governor or, for that matter, from any responsible motor manufacturer, their version of the events."

Activities Are Praised

Going on to praise Murphy's activities in connection with the strike, the president said every move the governor made was in the open, was communicated to motor manufacturers and union officials, and to himself.

Murphy, Mr. Roosevelt continued, "concerned not only with the letter but with the spirit of the law" and obtained "a settlement not by force but by reason—a settlement which would satisfy not merely the letter of the law, but the community's sense of right and justice."

Each Eyeball Of Human System Is Said To Be Independent Battery; Discovery Told

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 25.—Human eyes are powerful electric batteries.

This discovery, showing that each eyeball is an independent battery, was announced to the National Academy of Sciences here today by Dr. Walter R. Miles, Yale university psychologist.

Each eye produces a current averaging a thousandth of a volt, an electrical energy equal to that of the heart beats which make the recordings of electro cardiographs. Numerous eyes, Dr. Miles found, average one four-hundredth of a volt; one gave two-hundredths of a volt.

The Yale experiments show that the electric potential of an eye varies with at least some diseases, but Dr. Miles said it was not yet possible to say whether the electrical variations would be useful for eye troubles.

Known Since 1860

The fact that eyes produce electricity has been known to science since 1860, when it was discovered in frogs, but the source of this electric power, its variations and especially its high power in human beings, are new.

Scientists for a time thought that the movement of eye muscles was the source of this current, but Dr. Miles showed the academy today that a person with a glass eye, although able to move the eye with regular ocular muscles, gave off no current from his artificial optic.

The eyeball, like any ordinary battery, has two poles. The front of the eye, at the pupil, is positive; the back of the eyeball is negative. This Dr. Miles demonstrated by pasting fine electrodes on the flesh beside the eyes and having his experimentors roll their eyes from side to side, or up and down.

The polarity changed, that is, the pickup wires swung toward either positive or negative according to which area of the eye rolled past the pasted electrodes.

He found that the eye current was steady, switching lights on and off caused only slight jumps in current.

One eye usually produced a smaller current than the other, but the difference was small.

Sleep does not change the eye current. The blind have it equally with those who can see. What makes the current Dr. Miles said was not known.

"It is," he said, "the same kind of puzzle as what makes the 'vital energy'."

Traffic Report Is Announced

Of the 1,173 traffic accidents in Texas in September, 146 were caused by failure of drivers to observe right-of-way regulations which permit vehicles approaching intersections from the right to pass first, according to information received Tuesday by Capt. W. W. Legge, commanding officer of the Lubbock district of the Texas Highway patrol.

The traffic death toll for last month was 126, Capt. Legge said state patrol statisticians revealed.

Drinkers Are Blamed

The drinking driver was held responsible for 129 accidents and 122 other accidents were caused by vehicles traveling too close to centers of highways and streets, it was pointed out by Capt. Legge. Seventy-seven were caused by fast driving and 50 resulted from improper passing of other vehicles.

Police found, Capt. Legge was informed, a partial answer to solving terrific carnage problem on Texas highways by a strict enforcement against violations that are responsible for most crashes. Results of the enforcement program were favorable as there had been an 18 per cent reduction in Texas traffic deaths this year as compared with 1937. The September death list contained 63 less names than the previous September. Six of the 126 dead had been injured in August smash-ups, reports to Capt. Legge revealed.

Schools Bring Problem

While traffic officers campaigned against excess speeds through the year, there were 18 deaths last month attributed to vehicles speeding out of control and into fixed objects. Opening of schools injected another enforcement and educational problem to safety workers. In the first month of the school term there were six youngsters killed when riding bicycles.

Capt. Legge warned drivers and pedestrians again of the usual rise in traffic deaths in the fall of each year when inclement weather and heavier traffic are conducive to crashes.

Tech Team Entered In Rifle Matches

The Texas Technological college engineering unit of the Reserve Officers Training corps has accepted challenges to enter telegraphic rifle matches with Colorado School of Mines and Rose Polytechnic institute rifle teams, Sgt. William B. Richards said Tuesday afternoon.

Dates for the matches have not been set but likely will be during Christmas holidays at the college or later. The matches this year will be the first entered by a Tech team. In the telegraphic matches, officers supervise the firing and certify results, then the scores are telegraphed.

Approximately 20 Tech ROTC students are practicing. Rules in the telegraphic matches are agreed upon by the two competing teams. A team may be comprised of either five, ten, or 15 men. Firing is done from sitting, kneeling, standing, and prone positions.

This year, 205 students are enrolled in the Tech ROTC unit. Of that number, 27 are first year advanced (juniors), 58 are sophomores, and 121 are freshmen. At the opening of last fall semester, 157 were enrolled.

Quick Work Is Reported In District Court At Morton

MORTON, Oct. 25. (Special)—The 72nd district court of Judge Daniel A. Blair this afternoon made quick work of the forgery and passing charge against Jack Cody, 42, recently returned here from Oregon by the sheriff's department.

Cody this afternoon was indicted on the charge by a grand jury, according to Burton S. Burks, district attorney. Soon afterward he waived a jury and entered his plea of guilty before Judge Blair and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

Cody had been returned here to face an old indictment of forgery and passing voted in April of last year. Although the indictment charged the defendant as Gene Raymond, Cody admitted he was the person who had forged and passed the check and pleaded guilty of that charge, also.

He was given three years on the old charge, with the sentences to run concurrently.

Burks who, with Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney, is working with the grand jury, said the grand jury would return Wednesday to resume its investigations. The jury was charged Monday by Judge Blair at the opening of a two-weeks term of his court in Cochran county.

Juvenile Officer In County Is Planned

A juvenile officer for Lubbock county will likely be named before long, although proposal has been blocked for the moment. City and county officials expressed their opinion Tuesday that the matter was far from "dead."

The proposal already has received the study of both the city and county commissions, and was discussed by them jointly Monday.

The county commission, however, tabled the proposition at least temporarily because of question as to how the salary of a juvenile officer would be paid. Legal uncertainties were cited to one suggestion that the cost be borne jointly by the city and the county.

Advocacy of the appointment of such an officer, it was disclosed has come from numerous sources. W. B. Irvin, city school superintendent, expressed the opinion there is need for such an officer in a letter to both official bodies. A petition signed by more than 30 ministers and numerous other prominent citizens stated the same opinion, which was to the effect that an officer constantly on the job might reduce juvennile delinquency.

Among those most prominently mentioned for the place, should it be created, is T. E. May, former police chief, it was disclosed.

Reorganization For Railway Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—An interstate commerce commission examiner recommended today reorganization of the Missouri Pacific railroad system with a sharp reduction in its fixed interest debt.

The examiner, R. H. Jewell, said holdings of all stockholders should be wiped out.

Jewell proposed the new company have a total fixed interest debt of $188,729,500 compared with $505,033,721 for the present system. Total capitalization would be $553,898,000 compared with $671,205,664.

Total Annual Charges

Total annual charges under Jewell's proposal would be $20,468,013 compared with $29,108,010 as now.

Fixed interests would be $7,414,265 compared with $24,770,052 under the present system. Total charges prior to dividends on stock would be $15,019,113 compared with $25,598,514.

The examiner recommended consolidation of owned properties which now are being operated as the Missouri Pacific system, with the exception of the Missouri-Illinois railroad, which would not be included.

Jewell said that as of January 1, 1938, the aggregate debtedness of the Missouri Pacific system was about $618,487,780.

Scouting Plans Drafted Here

Plans for a leaders' training course for scoutmasters and reports on various district scout activities were discussed at the regular meeting of the Lubbock district scouting committee Tuesday night.

Announcement was made that O. H. Benson, national director of rural scouting and original organizer of the 4-H club movement, will speak at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Hilton hotel. Decision to open the training course for scout leaders Nov. 10 was made and an outline of plans for the study was given by Dr. J. O. Ellsworth.

Reports Are Given

Marion Sanford reported on the financial drive here and George Langford, director of the committee on conditions of troops in the city, also reported.

A survey to determine the need for scout and cub work here will be started "in the next week or two," said Earl McClure, executive of the South Plains council. A report on the campaign was made by Earl Pollard, chairman of the underprivileged boys' committee, and plans were started for the drive.

The district committee appointed Dr. Ellsworth to head a nominating committee to nominate district officers for 1939 and make a report at the Lubbock district meeting early in December. Serving on the committee will be Pollard and Robert W. Wright.

Cub scout activities of the district were outlined by Dr. C. C. Schmidt, cubbing commissioner.

The Big Job's Still Ahead

REPORTED capture of Canton and Hankow indicates the Japanese have attained the purely military aims of the campaign begun in China nearly a year and one-half ago.

But the task which now confronts the invader, that of consolidating and securing the military successes, is so immensely more difficult than that which has been accomplished that comparison is impossible.

All that can be said of the present state of affairs is that China has been defeated. Certainly she has not been conquered. In accomplishing defeat, Japan has taken five times as long as she expected when the invasion started. If a proportionate time is required for conquest, future generations will see the end.

Enormity of the task remaining becomes apparent from a study of what Japan has accomplished. Her troops hold a few key cities which admittedly are widely separated over an area approximately half as large as the United States. She holds railroad lines and strategic points along a narrow lane between those cities. Outside the lanes and the cities Japan still is virtually without control. She exercises direct mastery over relatively a few millions of people in a land where the population numbers in the hundreds of millions.

In most nations, control of key cities would be sufficient to insure complete conquest. That isn't true in China where the people for hundreds of years have lived scantily off products of the soil. In most of China, anything that comes out of a factory is a luxury.

Japan, too, faces the subjugation of a spirit of Chinese nationalism which did not exist before the invasion. Before then, anyone from another village was likely to be considered a foreigner. There can be little doubt that millions upon millions of natives whose interests once did not extend beyond their own horizon since have been awakened to a realization that all are Chinese; that Japan is the enemy of all. It is the kind of spirit which foments rebellion; the kind of spirit which is almost impossible of destruction.

The Japs, of course, may carry out their aims. They may be able to maintain in China a sufficient force to prevent or subdue revolt. She may eventually receive such returns as to make her investment of men and money a good one. But the task is not inviting.

Insurance For Our Farmers

PRACTICALLY every item of the agricultural program which has been advocated since the Roosevelt Administration began six years ago has been under fire at one time or another. A casual memory recalls none which has not been subject to severe criticism by competent critics who spoke with conviction of unquestioned sincerity.

But one proposal which is ideal in purpose and which should be subject to a minimum of attack, so far as its purpose is concerned, is that crop insurance be made available to the nation's 2,500,000 cotton farmers. The plan is that insurance legislation be submitted to the next Congress.

The logic of insurance cannot be questioned unless we question also such protections as fire and life insurance. It should be entirely practicable that the cotton farmer could be put in the position where crop failure would not mean economic disaster.

Such protection probably would do as much to stabilize the nation's economic life as anything possible, because as long as the farmer retains at least a measure of his buying power, there would be no complete paralysis of business.

The One-Minute Sermon

Be not as the horse, or as the mule, which have no understanding; whose mouth must be held in with bit and bridle, lest they come near unto thee.

Many sorrows shall be to the wicked: but he that trusteth in the Lord, mercy shall compass him about.

Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye righteous: and shout for joy, all ye that are upright.—Psalms 32; 9 through 11.

THE CHARACTERS

Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.

Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.

Rene Geiss, cartoonist, master mind behind a murder plot.

Yesterday: Venner, the second of Geiss's confederates, lives at the Chateau. I accompany him to the beach, and two men attack me in the water.

DISSENSION

I had exactly one second, before the grip on my throat tightened, to fill my lungs with the clear, sweet air. Then down, down I went into solid green depths of water. I hadn't realized ever before in my life—I who had always been a crack underwater swimmer—how hard it would be to hold one's breath with a suffocating pressure on one's windpipe. It had all passed in a flash, and I was almost at the bottom before I realized what had happened. It was another minute before I could think what to do.

There were two men holding me, one by the throat and one by the ankles. Both were swimming with their legs only, for their arms were otherwise engaged. I kicked out desperately to free my anxkles, but found them caught in an iron grip.

It was no time for ethics or clean fighting. My head was bursting and my chest cracked with the terrible strain. I brought up my arms, fumbled for the second face which I could not see, and drove my thumbs into the eye-sockets, digging at the eyeballs.

I felt the man writhe, and a sudden wave of blind, crimson fury swept over me. If it was his eyes or my life, his eyes must go. I dug deeper and suddenly the grip on my throat slackened and dropped away. I saw a dim, black and white shape swerve suddenly upward. Then I doubled up sharply and caught at the neck of the merchant who held my legs. If the trick had answered so well with me, it would do equally well for him.

But he was no fighter when the odds were even. Almost before my fingers fastened on his wet throat, he loosed my ankles, wriggling to get away, and I let him go, slanting upwards like a rising trout. Then I drifted thankfully to the surface myself.

It was a queer sight that met my eyes as I looked towards the beach. The four other fellows were standing knee-deep in the water, but as I looked two of them ran farther out to give a hand to the first of my late opponents. The man I had just parted from was meanwhile swimming for his life to shore, while the remaining two had made a dash for the car, and even as I watched, I heard the roar of the starting engine. And all the time, half standing in his wheeled chair, old Mr. Venner was shrieking helpless objurgations, while Amedee hovered anxiously about him.

For an instant I wondered if he was upbraiding his employees for failing in their job, but all that mattered to me was that they had failed, and I took my way back to shore at a leisurely pace.

"Well," I said, "that was an exciting five minutes while it lasted."

The old man started up at me. His face was gray. "What happened?" he demanded.

"Nothing," I answered, "except that these gentlemen, for some reason, had a fancy for drowning me. One of them faked an attack of cramp, and when I went to help him, he got me by the throat, while another gripped my ankles. If I hadn't been used to swimming under water, I'd be passing the time of day with my forefathers by now. But at least," I added with satisfaction, "I gave him a couple of sore eyes to remember me by."

'I Won't Have It!'

"It's an outrage!" he said, very low, his old voice shaking. Unthinkable—unspeakable! I won't have it—I won't have it!"

He caught suddenly at his side, and the gray tinge in his cheeks deepened. "Amedee," he said abruptly, "take me back to the house at once. I am ill. And you, sir—you must come with me. It is not safe for you to remain here alone."

It was a queer thought that I should be safer in the company of Venner the banker, but queerer still was the fact that I believed him, and without a word I fell into step beside the wheel-chair.

The sight of the housekeeper, standing rigidly under the pillared portico, watching our advance across the terrace, brought me back to grim reality with a jerk.

Whether or not she was surprised to see me returning safe and whole I couldn't tell, for her round pink face was as blank as a stone image's; but she came forward swiftly and laid a hand on the old man's shoulder.

"You are not well, Mr. Venner," she said quickly. "Amedee, take the patron straight to his room; I will come at once." Then she turned to me. "I hope you enjoyed your bathe?"

"I have never had one like it," I answered simply, and was for making tracks for my room when she stopped me with a gesture. "One moment, Mr. Lumsden. I am sorry to trouble you, but the key—"

"Of course!" I said. "The key—why, yes, certainly! I'll bring it down to you on my way out."

I made my way up the stairs, but just on the bend I halted, checked by the sound of angry voices.

"Henrietta!" came the old man's shrill falsetto. "It was an outrage, a dastardly outrage! I won't be argued with. You will telephone at once—tell him I must seem him this morning or there will be trouble . . ."

I went on my way, convinced that, however odd it seemed, the prospect of my sudden demise was not pleasing to Mr. Venner, and wondering not a little who it was that he was summoning so urgently to see him.

My bed was made and my room tidied for the day, but as I opened the bag to get out a clean shirt, I observed with interest that other hands than minde had been examining the contents.

For in instant I was at a loss to know what they had been looking for; then suddenly I remembered the key and chuckled to myself, reflecting that the housekeeper was taking no chances of my doing any unauthorized night rambling. I opened my door cautiously. The passage was deserted; there was no sound from the rooms below, and in a couple of seconds I had raised the tile, satisfied myself that the cause of all the trouble was securely in its hiding-place, and replaced the covering; then I strolled downstairs again.

'The Conscience'

There was a small door to the left of the counter, and as I passed it, I heard a female voice raised high in irritation. I paused for a moment, and the voice of Miss Henrietta Adams sounded clearly in my ears.

"Is that the Cap d'Antibes?" she was saying. "I've been trying to get you for five minutes. I must speak at once to Baron Stahl."

I rapped on the door and opened it without waiting for permission, inserting my head through the opening to see a small, bare room and the housekeeper sitting at a littered desk, her hand on the telephone.

"Mr. Lumsden!" she said sharply. "Do you want something?"

"Only my key," I retorted mildly. "Its nowhere in my room, and I thought perhaps the servants might have come across it when they were tidying up."

She glared at me. "It is not likely, but I will ask them," she said acidly.

"And anyway," I added comfortingly, "if it's lost, it'll probably turn up somewhere when you least expect it." With that I left her.

Stahl was coming, urgently summoned by Venner, and that summons had its origin in the recent attempt on my life. It was vitally necessary that I should hear what passed at the interview.

I went up to my room, closed the shutters, and sat down, my elbows on the window-ledge, to watch the front gate. Finally, a big gray sports car pulled up in the lane outside, and a small fat figure in canary-colored trousers strutted importantly towards the house.

So far I had had no opportunity to explore the upper story of the house, but I had a pretty good idea of how the land lay, and now, as stealthily as a mousing cat, I crept along the wide passage and halted outside the door that I knew must be Venner's. There was never a sound. I took hold of the handle, and felt the door swing gently open.

I could hear now a faint murmur of voices coming from the door on my left, but when I tiptoed past him and set my ear to the crack, the words were still indistinguishable.

I stared around me, completely at a loss. Before me stretched the corridor, cool, empty, and singularly unhelpful, but at the end, facing me, I saw another door. It stood half open, and when I peered round it I found that I was at the head of a back stairway, with another door on my right, opening into a service pantry.

There was a window here, and when I cautiously thrust my head through it I could have whooped for joy. Clear and brittle on the sparkling air came the voice of Baron Stahl, not two yards away from me.

"You will not have this young man killed?" he demanded, on a rising note of indignation. "Now, that is very nice! And it was to tell me this that you bring me hastening from Antibes, on this morning of all others, when the old man and the girl have packed up and gone to Cannes, for no reason that I know, and in consequence of our plans, all our arrangements, must be remade? To tell me that you like the young man, that you have a bad heart, and that you do not wish him killed before your eyes! How many people, I ask you — crowned heads, statesmen, financiers—have died without a protest from you? And yet, for this one big Englishman, a nobody, a nothing, you endanger our plans, you develop the conscience!"

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON

By Ray Tucker

WAR'S necessities may produce the seemingly impossible—a lasting and constructive peace between the White House and the private utilities. In private pow-wows with Louis Johnson, assistant War secretary, over mobilization of power for national defense, the administration's "bad boys" have behaved like angels. Mr. Roosevelt has shown himself appreciative and in a reciprocal mood.

It has been a by-product rather than a deliberate or anticipated result of almost weekly "town meetings" at the War department, where Washington "radicals" and the industry's "economic royalists" have been exchanging ideas for more than a month. After treble checking of their studies, army engineers reported to the utilities that by 1940 their capacity for even peacetime production would lag behind. Shortages were found to be especially acute in Philadelphia, Chicago and Detroit areas. Other centers vital to national defense needs in the survey are Boston, Bridgeport, Buffalo, Schenectady, New York, Niagara Falls, Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland, Birmingham, St. Louis, Cincinnati.

The industry's topnotchers—Messrs. Zimmerman, Floyd Carlisle, Fogarty and Philip H. Gadsden—admitted that the engineers had not exaggerated the situation. They promised to cooperate in construction of new units, with the implied admission that they had overplayed their hand through five long years of feudism with Washington.

ARMISTICE: Although current agreements are highly confidential and tentative, the private utilities will probably spend about $950,000,000 to bring their production capacity up to peacetime par. If they cannot finance the expansion from their own funds, the R. F. C. will lend them the money at a reasonable rate. Only a few technical difficulties prevent prompt announcement of this surprising rapprochement.

The private boys won a few victories of their own, however. With the possible exception of completion of a dam in Georgia to relieve the load on T. V. A., this new supply of power will be developed by steam rather than water—an inside blow at F. D. R.'s pet theory. Except for T. V. A., which figures only minutely in the national defense setup, the government has promoted no large scale rival for the private industry in the affected area lying entirely east of the Mississippi. In the national defense power map, which is scaled to show a region's wartime importance, Connecticut shows up larger than Tennessee and Alabama—T. V. A.'s home grounds.

Though too early to venture on rosy predictions, the outlook for an armistice is hopeful, meaning that this key industry may put money and men to work within a few months. You may look for several sweet loans from the R. F. C. soon, as well as private flotation of utility issues.

TIPOFF: President Roosevelt's and Secretary Hull's No. 1 man on their black list is Herr Hitler. America's statesmen are privately bitter over the Czechoslovakian sellout and Der Fuehrer's strong-armed methods, though they haven't the heart to blame Great Britain and France. The informed opinion here is that the agreement was preferable to 10,000,000 dead.

But Washington is making scant effort to conceal its dislike of the German strong boy. Mr. Hull has never summoned a meeting of the Arms and Munitions Control board to review the decision on selling helium to Berlin, although the item has hung on the docket for months. You can bet that he won't, for stubborn Harold Ickes has been completely vindicated in dynamiting the transaction. Likewise Mr. Hull simply snorts when Berlin, through its newspaper propagandists, suggests negotiation of a tariff agreement. In their efforts on behalf of beleaguered Jews, Messrs. Roosevelt and Hull are administering a racial snob to the dictators.

But the real tipoff is the staging of the New York spy trial within a few days of the Munich conference. Had that affair promised world peace—or a move toward disarmament—the exposure of Germany's espionage system would undoubtedly have been delayed for fear of muddying the waters. But the D. of J. offered no objection to immediate prosecution, and F. D. R. made it the occasion for demanding more funds for counterespionage.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

THE upstage agricultural vote is likely to be a decisive factor in the New York election. Backstage elements enter this picture that the average citizen—and many city politicians—know nothing about.

The key to the situation is that leaders of New York state farm groups work together on agricultural issues, year in and year out, with remarkable harmony and solidarity. The seven leading farm bodies (New York State grange, Farm Bureau federation, Horticultural society, Vegetable Growers association, Federation of Home bureaus, Dairymen's league and Grange League Federation exchange) maintain a joint New York State Conference board of Farm Organizations. Every year when state party conventions are scheduled, the board drafts an agricultural program for submission to both the Republican and Democratic platform committees with the full weight of all seven groups behind it.

The agricultural planks in this year's state Democratic platforms are a strikingly accurate paraphrase of the policies outlined in a statement by the Conference board dated September 26 (just before the conventions). The Republicans did not follow it nearly as closely.

ASSET: Another point: Governor Lehman has established himself firmly as "the farmer's friend." Ever since he took office he has been careful to consult the heads of these organizations on all agricultural questions and has followed their advice practically 100 per cent. Naturally they rate him a swell governor and let their followers know it.

Milk prices to producers (not to consumers) rose by more than 30 per cent from August to September of this year. The happy dairy farmers give all credit to the Rogers-Allan milk marketing law. This bill was passed because the Governor brought personal pressure to bear on his party leaders in the state legislature after they had originally turned it down. The farm organizations know that too. So G. O. P. attacks on Lehman's agricultural policies as "derived from Moscow" fall on unresponsive ears.

Normally the upstate farm vote is Republican. But the situation outlined above is a tremendous political asset to Herbert H. Lehman and a corresponding handicap to Thomas E. Dewey.

REVERSAL: The steel industry doesn't seem to know its own mind. Two weeks ago a cut in sheet steel prices was announced. Last week the cut was rescinded and the original price schedule restored. Sheet steel is taken principally by automobile manufacturers.

Inside reports are that the official price had been seriously undermined by widespread "chiseling" before the reduction. Auto makers had staged an informal buyers' strike for several months, precisely in the hope of forcing prices down. Finally, in their hunger for orders, steel companies here and there began making sub rosa concessions. The practice spread rapidly—it's by no means a novelty in the industry's history—because of fierce competitive conditions. Steel leaders decided they had better regularize the situation in the interests of stability, so the cut was officially confirmed.

No sooner had that happened than it became apparent that a boom was developing in the motor industry. Auto officials made optimistic statements. Workers were rehired. Production schedules were stepped up. The steel people decided they might as well cash in on this prosperity—hence the prompt resoration of the former price for steel. They figure the auto companies will have to buy from them at the higher quotation now.

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Oct. 25. (AP)—Texas will have a new lieutenant-governor in January before it has a new governor.

Coke Stevenson will take the oath as lieutenant-governor a few minutes before W. Lee O'Daniel is sworn in as governor Jan. 17.

The interval between the administration of these oaths will be approximately the length of the lieutenant-governor's address. After his induction he will make a few remarks, then the governor will take the oath.

Appropriation Made

The appropriation to pay expense of publication and holding the election in November on the constitutional amendment to abolish the duelling section of the official oath was $5,000, considerably less than appropriations for several other recent constitution alterations.

For the amendment authorizing a discount system of paying taxes, adopted last year, the appropriation was $8,000, and that for the amendment permitting aid to needy blind was $9,000. Five thousand dollars was appropriated to put the amendment authorizing assistance to dependent children before the people.

The varying amounts are due to the expense of publishing and the length of the amendments. Under the law proposed changes in the constitution must be published in each of Texas' 254 counties four consecutive weeks. Publishing costs depend on the number of words.

* * *

WHILE the writer was prowling through the state archives in the basement of the capitol recently, Miss Harriet Smither, archivist, pointed to an interesting fact about Texas republic law.

Under the constitution of the republic, she said, a minister of the gospel could not serve as a member of the congress.

Nevertheless, a leading Baptist of East Texas was elected to the congress. His seat was contested and he was not accepted. In the argument one member made this statement:

"He is a Baptist minister. He admits it."

Roll Calls Received

A sign of the coming general session of the legislature:

Bob Barker, veteran secretary of the Senate, has received from the penitentiary printing plant the first batch of forms for roll calls in the upper legislative branch.

Barker will use a lot of the forms for he will call the roll many, many times. In fact, he will sound out the list of 31 senators approximately 5,000 times.

He will begin with "Aiken" and go on down the list until he reaches "Winfield," Sen. A. M. Akin, jr., of Paris and Sen. H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton lead off and end the call as they did in the previous legislature.

THERE will be two "Stones" in the Senate this year so Barker will have to call "Stone of Washington" and "Stone of Galveston," meaning Sen. Albert Stone of Brenham and Sen. William E. Stone of Galveston. The last replaces a noted veteran, T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, Senate dean.

In calling the roll 5,000 times, if Barker makes an error it probably will be the first time. He has a reputation for unfailing accuracy—and calling the Senate roll during a tight parlimentary situation involving important legislation is no simple matter.

Substitutes for Barker occasionally have become confused while calling the roll, or, in any event, errors in their report have been detected and promptly challenged. But not Barker. His report invariably sticks. In fact, it is seldom questioned.

The secretary must be elected by each new Senate but as far as the first forms for the roll call are concerned the election is over. Barker's name appears at the top as secretary, along with that of Coke R. Stevenson as lieutenant-governor.

Girls May Be Pages

Maybe the female of the species will make another advance with convening of the 46th legislature.

It has been suggested that girls have a chance at jobs as pages in the House of Representatives. The suggestion was by District Judge J. D. Moore of Travis county.

The pages are a lively, rolleking bunch of boys who run errands for members of the legislature. They range in age from about 9 to 14.

During the first six months of 1938, 11 per cent of all vehicles involved in accidents reported on state highways were mechanically defective.

THE FARM PROGRAM

Editor, The Avalanche: Mr. Farmer let's don't be deceived by the tricking phrase, "Domestic Allotment Plan." It does not mean a thing to the farmer's income, but on the other hand it means thousands of dollars to the handlers and processors of cotton and cotton goods. They were the ones that thrived back in 1929 until 1931.

There is not a man in the United States, but what has been benefitted by the present farm program. It has lifted our feet from the mirey clay and put our banks on the rock to stay and gives our merchants busy days again.

Is there anyone against the present farm program who is drawing on a public or government job? Or a Congressman who was put in by farmers that were thinking their interest would be protected? In this case they are fighting the hand that feeds them.

There never were so many wolves in sheep clothing as there are today and the man or set of men that goes around misrepresenting things for gain or prestige is a traitor to his country and should be branded as such.

Yours truly,
Mrs. A. V. Williams,
Route 2, Levelland.

Supplies Of Cockleburrs Are Being Sought At College

Calvin Hazlewood is seeking bountiful supplies of cockleburrs, to prepare "golden porcupine sage" for souvenirs at the annual homecoming celebration at Texas Technological college.

They will be dipped in gold paint and given to homecoming visitors Nov. 11 to be stuck on lapels or dress fronts.

Hazlewood, secretary of the Alumni and Ex-Students association, said Tuesday that if anyone in this vicinity would like cockleburrs picked from his property free of charge, he is invited to call the alumni office at the college. Hazlewood procured the burrs that were prepared for souvenirs last year in Floydada.

ROAD BONDS SLASHED

MULESHOE — Bailey county's road bonds, which were $30,000 when district No. 1 bonds were taken over by the state for payment, have been cut to $15,000, says M. G. Miller, county judge. The state began payment in 1938, using one cent out of the 4-cent gasoline tax.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 63 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Jeff Biggers summoned every ounce of his energy to reach the rifle that lay on the floor of the cave. His purpose was to wound Tarzan, then to keep him prisoner until his own recovery permitted him to deliver the ape-man to Kagundo in return for the ten emeralds.

Jeff was extremely weak from loss of blood. His hand trembled toward the gun. He could not reach it. Then by a supreme effort he pushed his body forward. His fingers closed on the rifle. But by now Tarzan had disappeared far down the mountain side.

The man's lips twisted into a silent curse. Tarzan, he believed, was bound for the Zambeh village to aid Bob and Dr. Brooks. "He'll very likely fall into the hands of Kagundo and his savages," Jeff muttered to himself; "and I'll be cheated out of my reward."

Jeff's surmise was not amiss. Tarzan was bound for the Zambeh village, and he was in a mood for bold action. He was ready for a desparate gamble. To win meant life for his two friends. To lose meant death for them—and himself—in the Tree-God's maw!

19—Livestock For Sale

THE LUBBOCK LIVESTOCK COMMISSION CO.
At 1510 Ave. B
HORSE AND MULE AUCTION SALE EACH
THURSDAY
CATTLE SALE EVERY WEDNESDAY!
Our market is really opening up here—sales the past two weeks have been very encouraging. Apparently they are also opening up further east as many new buyers are now showing up. This is very encouraging to the consignors of this territory, as most of the stock for the eastern trade is bought here.
This coming Thursday's sale, especially, looks like a mighty good bet for your horses and mules. We are advertising the sale to right at 500 buyers and stressing the fact that, included in the stock to be offered, will be one full carload of young mares and colts which WILL POSITIVELY BE SOLD, HALTERS OFF! This will bring a lot of buyers and get the sale off to a good, hot, start—and should raise the general price level on all stock offered.
For the cattle sale Wednesday, we are expecting a heavy demand, with plenty of buyer competition—especially on stockers, light calves, and light bulls.

ANNOUNCING
A SPECIAL CLINIC THIS WEEK

Any individual suffering from the following disorders:

Asthma, Hay Fever, Arthritis, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Appendicitis, Skin Trouble, Rectal Diseases, Female Disorders, Prostatic Trouble, Ulcers of the Stomach, Angina Pectoris, Heart Envolvements

should investigate the new system of diagnosis that I am installing this week. This system of diagnosis specifically determines by aid of the X-ray the functional cause of the disorder, thereby enabling me to treat the cause and not the effect.

Most eminent authorities contend that more than 90 per cent of all chronic diseases are directly traceable to the improper function of the colon. It is invariably a functional disorder that causes constipation.

Some of the manifestations that may indicate a sluggish bowel are dizziness, headaches, continued fatigue, lassitude, nervousness, general debility, high blood pressure, body odors, fermentation, bad breath, excess gas with bloating and distress after meals.

If you are suffering at this time with any of the above mentioned ailments you should avail yourself of the services of my health clinic this week, while I have Dr. Daly here to assist me in conducting the examination and diagnosis, so that I may be able to give you the greatest possible assistance one may secure.

In the event that you may need X-ray service to assist in the diagnosis, I will be pleased to render this service at a very nominal fee.

The Clinic Closes Saturday Afternoon, Oct. 29th.

NEW HIGHS REACHED

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Leading stocks successfully turned a profit taking tide today and finished with gains running to 2 or more points, many at new highs for the past year.

While best marks were chiseled down in the majority of cases at the close, favored aircrafts, utilities, rubbers and specialties were well supported throughout. A few steels and motors did better after lagging in the forenoon, while oils, rails, mail orders and farm implements lacked rising vigor.

Brokers seemed encouraged by the fact that, after the lengthy market upturn, offerings were so well absorbed. The continued buoying influence of business optimism, it was thought, provided the main cushion for the selling thrusts.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .1 of a point at 83.4, another new top since Oct. 7, last year. Transfers, despite a fast brief interval at the opening in which the ticker tape was behind, dwindled to 1,487,900 shares against 1,678,350 yesterday.

The U. S. Steel Corp. directors provided the principal news of the day after the close when they confirmed previous Wall street forecasts by voting the regular $1.75 preferred dividend. Those who had hoped for a somewhat better earnings showing in the third quarter, though, were a bit disappointed when the corporation disclosed a net deficit of some $800,000 more than was suffered in the second quarter when the loss per common share was around $1.30. The junior stock ended up ⅛ of a point at 65⅝ on the day. The preferred gained ¾ at 119¾. Bethlehem, on the other hand, was up 1 at 67⅞.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25 (AP)—Differences between near months and distant positions widened again in the cotton markets here today under domestic and foreign trade buying of nearbys against hedging and liquidation in new crop options. The market closed steady, net 5 points higher to 5 lower.

Several active positions closed nominally higher with Dec. at 8.58-bid, Jan. at 8.49-bid, March at 8.47@8.48, May at 8.36, July at 8.23, Oct. at 8.01-bid, and Dec. (new) at 8.01.

Spot cotton finished steady with middling 7 points higher at 8.68. Sales totaled 4,862 bales.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — Irregular fluctuations continued to characterize cotton today. Near months firm and distants easier. December sold up from 8.41 to close at a high of 8.48 with final quotations 7 points net higher to 1 lower.

Mill buying of raw cotton was reported to be restricted, however, by quietness of the cotton goods markets. Late months were subjected to hedging pressure while foreign buying was less insistent than recently.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25 (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8 points higher at 8.69 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 8.37 cents a pound.

GIVEN 25 YEARS

LOCKHART, Oct. 25. (AP)—James O. Lynch was given a 25 year sentence in the state penitentiary today on his plea of guilty in the slaying of W. S. Clark here in September.

Funds Have Been Provided For Completion Of Lynn Road

TAHOKA, Oct. 25—Funds have been provided by the state highway department for completion of U. S. highway 380, or state No. 84, from Tahoka to the Garza county line, Julian Montgomery, state highway engineer, has advised County Judge W. P. Goad. Either as a WPA job, or under contract, the work can be finished, Montgomery said.

Surfacing of the road is thus assured, Goad said. The Garza county end of the road is already provided for, it was said.

State Senator G. H. Nelson of Lubbock was credited by Montgomery with being responsible in a large measure for the securing of necessary funds.

If a day's supply of fruits and vegetables sufficient for New York City were on one train, the train would be more than 60 miles long.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP)—Notwithstanding 2⅜ cents a bushel tumble of Liverpool quotations, Chicago wheat values today maintained relative poise, and at the last more than overcame fractional downturns.

The principal cause assigned for the Liverpool drop-acceptance of delivery of United States yellow hard wheat on contracts at Liverpool—was construed in various quarters here as a stimulus for holders of Chicago wheat futures. Much of the wheat available in the region adjacent to Chicago is of the yellow hard variety.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures taken as a whole were unchanged to ½ cent higher compared with yesterday's finish. Dec. 65⅝@65¾, May 67⅞@68, corn ¼ cent off to ⅛ up, Dec. 46⅝@46¾, May 49⅝@50, oats unchanged to ⅛ advance, rye showing ⅝ to ½ climb, and provisions unchanged to a bulge of 5 cents.

Mother Of Tech Student Is Death Victim In Amarillo

Mrs. A. C. Conover, mother of Mildred Conover, freshman student in the home economics division at Texas Technological college, died early Tuesday at a hospital in Amarillo, according to word received here. Miss Conover was called to her home late Monday.

Mrs. Conover became ill suddenly Monday and was taken to a hospital and there given a blood transfusion, which failed to revive her.

Iris German and Maggie Henson, classmates of Mildred Conover, are in Amarillo with her to attend funeral services.

Meat To Be More Plentiful Next Year Than In 1938

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. (AP) — Meat probably will be more plentiful next year than in 1938, the Institute of American Meat Packers was told at its convention today.

The qualified prediction was made by Preston Richards, senior agricultural economist of the bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture.

Most of the increase in meat production, he said, would be in pork.

School Teachers Agree To Sell Tickets To Games But They Won't Argue With Public

SAUGUS, Mass., Oct. 25. (AP)—Seventeen men teachers at Saugus high school, who refused yesterday to serve as ticket-takers at home football games, withdrew their objections today after the school committee announced they could either agree or resign.

"We'll carry out our assignments and take tickets," said a spokesman, "but we'll have no more arguments with those righteous taxpayers. If they insist they have a right to enter the stadium as taxpayers, they're welcome to do so. They can walk right in, as far as we're concerned."

The 17 told the committee, in their petition for permission to withdraw, that spectators walked past them without paying the 25-cent general admission. The teachers also claimed the right to a Saturday off.

The school committee countered by explaining only six men were needed each week, so each teacher would have to serve only every fourth week.

Fourth Of All Persons Acquiring Syphilis Develop Natural Resistance For Disease

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 25—Approximately one-fourth of all persons who acquire syphilis develop a natural resistance to the disease and overcome it, Dr. Robert A. Vonderlehr of the U. S. public health service said today.

This acquired immunity to the disease does not make it any less of a national health problem, since infected persons can still transmit it for several years, the assistant surgeon general of the service declared in an interview at the opening meeting of the American Public Health association here.

Can Not Ignore It

"Neither does it mean that a person with the disease can ignore it," Dr. Vonderlehr, who is in charge of the service's venereal disease control work, declared.

"It also does not mean that individual physicians, public health authorities, or the state and national governments can relax their vigilance in the present nation-wide drive to control syphilis," he added, since every infected person is the source of a potential epidemic.

Discovery of this acquired immunity, in which the system builds up antibodies to resist the spirochete germ, resulted from the suspicions of a physician in Sweden, the country which has done a thorough job of controlling syphilis, the assistant surgeon general said.

Clinic Is Demonstrated

An anti-syphilis circuit rider from the deep south demonstrated his streamlined clinic to members of the association today.

Dr. L. E. Burney, assistant surgeon of the public health service, showed with pride the huge automobile trailer which he has driven thousands of miles over rural Georgia roads to carry syphilis treatment regularly to approximately 4,000 sufferers.

More than 500 victims of the disease are treated each week in the traveling doctor's office.

Inauguration of additional traveling clinics is contemplated by the public health service, Dr. Vonderlehr declared, with the hope the various states and counties throughout the country will adopt the plan as one essential method in syphilis control.

LAMESA, Oct. 25 — Permanent organization of a Mutual Aid association for Lamesa and Dawson county is to be perfected at a meeting Wednesday of business men and other interested parties, in the district court room, Matt A. McCall, president of the chamber of commerce, called the meeting.

Merchants have reported many calls for relief. They have insisted a permanent relief program be set up, McCall said.

Annual Banquet Set For Today

(Special To The Avalanche)

HALE CENTER, Oct. 25.—Congressman George Mahon of Colorado has accepted the invitation of Vic Lamb, secretary of the Hale Center Merchants association, and of others here, to speak briefly Wednesday noon at the ninth annual octogenarian banquet in the Presbyterian church. He returned to his Lubbock office Tuesday afternoon and immediately accepted the invitation to speak.

Local business men who sponsor the affair annually, expect a large crowd Wednesday. Mahon is expected to arrive about noon.

The idea of Dr. S. J. Underwood who has practiced here for a quarter of a century, the first one was held in the fall of 1930. Each succeeding year a banquet has been held. As far as can be learned here this is the only one of its kind in the United States.

Usually, from a dozen to 25 persons are honored guests, all of them past the four score year mark. Dr. Underwood expects at least 1 guests this year.

Owing to the rebuilding of the Methodist church, the affair is being held in the Presbyterian church.

Before the banquet a reception for the guests will be given.

R. W. (Uncle Bob) Lemond, for nearly half a century a resident of Hale county and a pioneer organizer of Masonic groups, will give the invocation. After the serving he will preside as toastmaster.

Rev. W. R. Burnett, Methodist pastor, is to talk briefly. The high school choral club will sing several songs, directed by Webb Jenkins, music instructor.

Old timers will relate their experiences. Both men and women attend and tell of the early days.

The meeting will close with a brief memorial for those of the group who have died during the past nine years. "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again," is the closing hymn.

President Studies Federal Spending Of Future

Little Prospect For Economies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP) — President Roosevelt, beginning an analysis of the federal budget, was confronted tonight by this question:

In view of official forecasts that relief needs will decline and the virtual certainty that armaments expenses will increase, will the net result be a decrease or increase in federal spending?

To Offer Conclusions

The president's conclusions on this point will be given to congress January 3 when he will make his revised estimates of government costs this fiscal year and outline what he believes the expenditures will be in the next year, beginning July 1, 1939.

The chief executive already has disclosed that national defense is the big question mark in next year's budget.

Recommendation for an increase next year over the $1,050,000,000 to be spent on defense this fiscal year is a foregone conclusion, since the president has said an extra $150,000,000 will be needed to pay for new warships already authorized by congress.

To Reduce Payroll

Federal expenditures this fiscal year are expected to reach the post-war record total of $9,000,000,000, of which $2,000,000,000 is for WPA. Business is improving and the WPA indicates it will reduce its payroll of 3,100,000 persons.

Treasury experts forsee little prospect for substantial economies in other lines.

Along with expenditures, the president is discussing with Secretary Morgenthau a new tax program. Better business may increase the yield of existing levies, but the treasury is studying numerous proposals for revision, or increase, of taxes.

Visit To Levelland Fair This Week Planned By Citizens

"Routine" matters that occupied chamber of commerce attention Tuesday were a visit to Levelland, a welcome for several hundred Plainview visitors and a trip to Amarillo.

The Levelland visit, it was announced, will be the occasion of the annual Hockley county fair Friday and Saturday. Several automobile loads of Lubbock citizens will attend as official Lubbock representatives. Expectation is that many others from here also will attend the fair.

Greeting for the Plainview visitors will be arranged as soon as advices are received as to how they will arrive here for the Plainview-Westerner football game Friday night. The visitors have been invited to parade in the business district.

The Amarillo trip will be to attend an aviation conference Saturday seeking to further the application of Continental airlines to establish a line from Denver to El Paso serving Pueblo, Dalhart, Amarillo, Carlsbad, Hobbs and Roswell. Heading the Lubbock delegation will be C. E. Maedgen, chairman of the chamber's aviation committee.

Education Branded Large Scale Housing Venture By Chicago University Prexy

DR. ROBERT M. HUTCHINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP)—Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, today criticized the modern educational system as "a large scale housing venture" which fails to develop freedom of thought.

To this lack of freedom he ascribed the major ills of the modern world.

Dr. Hutchins' address, "The Free Mind," was delivered to the first session of the New York Herald Tribune 1938 forum on current problems.

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks

The opening address was delivered by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who spoke to the forum by radio from Cincinnati on "Youth's Contribution in Keeping the Mind of the Nation Young."

Mrs. Roosevelt, in her address, said: "If we are going to keep ourselves ready to face the world of tomorrow, we must listen to young people. We will not always agree with them and they will not always be right, but the majority among them will help us to approach new ideas with an inquiring mind."

The whippet is said to be the fastest thing on legs. This dog can travel 200 yards in from 10 to 12 seconds.

Davis Talks At Lions Session

Facts and figures on Lubbock and the South Plains and its place in the economic set-up of the Southwest, were given Lions yesterday by A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, in a talk on "My Home Town." Davis was a pinch hitter, taking the place of Dr. J. M. Lewis, who had been scheduled to speak but who had to cancel his engagement. Meeting was in the Hilton hotel.

President Robert H. Bean announced Senator Tom Connally would speak Thursday noon at the Kiwanis club in the Lubbock hotel. Lions were urged to attend. Clyde Fortune will be program chairman during November. Bean read a letter from Miss Carla Prosser, operator of a news stand in the post-office lobby, thanking the club for assisting her in getting started in business.

Instruction Given

Walker Nichols and Horace Emery, new members, were given instruction in Lionism by Joseph R. Griggs. He also presented a key to Raymond Buford for having secured two new members.

V. H. Moore, secretary and chairman for the day, introduced Davis, who quoted extensively from a pamphlet prepared by his group on Lubbock and the territory.

Davis pointed out that Lubbock has 78 manufacturing plants. Within a radius of 75 to 100 miles, more than 200,000 people reside.

Figures Are Given

Lubbock has 348 retail places of business, 124 wholesalers and jobbers, 142 service businesses and 224 miscellaneous places, employing a total of 4,076 persons, with a payroll in 1937 of $3,578,190.39. The retail business of Lubbock last year was $17,476,850, and of the 15 counties on the South Plains, $56,530,000, a 27.5 per cent increase, largest in Texas ofer the previous year. Per capita retail spending here was $516.02 annually, compared to a $270, national average.

Wholesale business here last year was $23,500,000; for the territory, $36,718,000. There are 3,500,000 acres in cultivation on the area and 4,500,000 more acres suitable to cultivation. Texas Technological college is a "great asset," Davis said, reporting 859 persons were employed at the local school, receiving $714,951.14 for their services.

President Studies Federal Spending Of Future

Little Prospect For Economies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP) — President Roosevelt, beginning an analysis of the federal budget, was confronted tonight by this question:

In view of official forecasts that relief needs will decline and the virtual certainty that armaments expenses will increase, will the net result be a decrease or increase in federal spending?

To Offer Conclusions

The president's conclusions on this point will be given to congress January 3 when he will make his revised estimates of government costs this fiscal year and outline what he believes the expenditures will be in the next year, beginning July 1, 1939.

The chief executive already has disclosed that national defense is the big question mark in next year's budget.

Recommendation for an increase next year over the $1,050,000,000 to be spent on defense this fiscal year is a foregone conclusion, since the president has said an extra $150,000,000 will be needed to pay for new warships already authorized by congress.

To Reduce Payroll

Federal expenditures this fiscal year are expected to reach the post-war record total of $9,000,000,000, of which $2,000,000,000 is for WPA. Business is improving and the WPA indicates it will reduce its payroll of 3,100,000 persons.

Treasury experts forsee little prospect for substantial economies in other lines.

Along with expenditures, the president is discussing with Secretary Morgenthau a new tax program. Better business may increase the yield of existing levies, but the treasury is studying numerous proposals for revision, or increase, of taxes.

Visit To Levelland Fair This Week Planned By Citizens

"Routine" matters that occupied chamber of commerce attention Tuesday were a visit to Levelland, a welcome for several hundred Plainview visitors and a trip to Amarillo.

The Levelland visit, it was announced, will be the occasion of the annual Hockley county fair Friday and Saturday. Several automobile loads of Lubbock citizens will attend as official Lubbock representatives. Expectation is that many others from here also will attend the fair.

Greeting for the Plainview visitors will be arranged as soon as advices are received as to how they will arrive here for the Plainview-Westerner football game Friday night. The visitors have been invited to parade in the business district.

The Amarillo trip will be to attend an aviation conference Saturday seeking to further the application of Continental airlines to establish a line from Denver to El Paso serving Pueblo, Dalhart, Amarillo, Carlsbad, Hobbs and Roswell. Heading the Lubbock delegation will be C. E. Maedgen, chairman of the chamber's aviation committee.

MULESHOE WAREHOUSE

MULESHOE—The Union Compress Co., has located space on the Santa Fe tracks for erection of a warehouse here. It will contain 10,000 square feet and is expected to accommodate 2,000 bales. George and Ed Johnson, cotton buyers and operators, estimate.

Education Branded Large Scale Housing Venture By Chicago University Prexy

DR. ROBERT M. HUTCHINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP)—Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, today criticized the modern educational system as "a large scale housing venture" which fails to develop freedom of thought.

To this lack of freedom he ascribed the major ills of the modern world.

Dr. Hutchins' address, "The Free Mind," was delivered to the first session of the New York Herald Tribune 1938 forum on current problems.

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks

The opening address was delivered by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who spoke to the forum by radio from Cincinnati on "Youth's Contribution in Keeping the Mind of the Nation Young."

Mrs. Roosevelt, in her address, said: "If we are going to keep ourselves ready to face the world of tomorrow, we must listen to young people. We will not always agree with them and they will not always be right, but the majority among them will help us to approach new ideas with an inquiring mind."

Davis Talks At Lions Session

Facts and figures on Lubbock and the South Plains and its place in the economic set-up of the Southwest, were given Lions yesterday by A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, in a talk on "My Home Town." Davis was a pinch hitter, taking the place of Dr. J. M. Lewis, who had been scheduled to speak but who had to cancel his engagement. Meeting was in the Hilton hotel.

President Robert H. Bean announced Senator Tom Connally would speak Thursday noon at the Kiwanis club in the Lubbock hotel. Lions were urged to attend. Clyde Fortune will be program chairman during November. Bean read a letter from Miss Carla Prosser, operator of a news stand in the post-office lobby, thanking the club for assisting her in getting started in business.

Instruction Given

Walker Nichols and Horace Emery, new members, were given instruction in Lionism by Joseph R. Griggs. He also presented a key to Raymond Buford for having secured two new members.

V. H. Moore, secretary and chairman for the day, introduced Davis, who quoted extensively from a pamphlet prepared by his group on Lubbock and the territory.

Davis pointed out that Lubbock has 78 manufacturing plants. Within a radius of 75 to 100 miles, more than 200,000 people reside.

Figures Are Given

Lubbock has 348 retail places of business, 124 wholesalers and jobbers, 142 service businesses and 224 miscellaneous places, employing a total of 4,076 persons, with a payroll in 1937 of $3,578,190.39. The retail business of Lubbock last year was $17,476,850, and of the 15 counties on the South Plains, $56,530,000, a 27.5 per cent increase, largest in Texas over the previous year. Per capita retail spending here was $516.02 annually, compared to a $270, national average.

Wholesale business here last year was $23,500,000; for the territory, $36,718,000. There are 3,500,000 acres in cultivation on the area and 4,500,000 more acres suitable to cultivation. Texas Technological college is a "great asset," Davis said, reporting 859 persons were employed at the local school, receiving $714,951.14 for their services.

Commissioner McDonald Is To Be Hale Center Speaker

HALE CENTER, Oct. 25—Texas State Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald is to speak here Tuesday evening, Nov. 1, it was announced this week by Vic Lamb, secretary of the local merchants club, arranging for McDonald's visit. The club is not sponsoring McDonald, merely providing a place for the talk, and giving the event publicity, said Lamb.

Subject of McDonald's talk, which will be delivered at the Ward school auditorium, was not announced. In light of recent criticism by McDonald of the federal farm program, local farmers predicted he would speak along this line here, since the south votes Dec. 12 on the question of continuing the program.
