State Capital News

By Vern Sanford

Capitol is bursting with the eve of the most significant political and governmental event -- the June 1 runoff election -- the June 4 beginning of a session of the Legislature and the June 11 conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties.

There are 15 runoff legislative races to be decided Saturday, the main bout, of which is between Lt. Gov. Don Yarborough and Attorney General Martin.

Probably no more than a millipede will decide whether the conservative Smith or the liberal Yarborough will be the Democratic nominee for governor.

Reaching for the other's potential, Smith boasts of 10 years' governmental experience; Yarborough, without governmental experience, urges a "fresh approach" and "active programs," including auto insurance rates and consumer protection.

Smith's name identification -- considered the wellspring of his success -- won't be the deciding factor between these two men. Both have been in the race nearly a decade. Both are well-known names on the ballot.

Smith, the winner may surprisingly oppose Yarborough in November from the Republican ticket. Paul Eggers of Falls.

Whether Smith, Yarborough -- or Eggers -- is at governor, the battle will be legislative. Yarborough is a legislative president in the Senate and Speaker in the House, will be powerful. Smith is a legislator and Mutscher is a legislator.

Smith is the "favorite son," both Democratic party conventions will be "governor's conventions." If Connally is chosen as "favorite son," the first vote of the Texas delegation at the national convention in Chicago will go to Connally, the second national convention in Chicago to whomever he likes of the major candidates -- probably Hubert Humphrey.

Republicans, who will hold their convention in Corpus Christi on June 11, doubtless will pick US Sen. John Tower as their "favorite son." State GOP Chairman Peter O'Donnell of Dallas and other southern GOP chairmen, met in New Orleans with hopeful Gov. Ronald Reagan and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. But O'Donnell is not expected to talk about a second-ballot alternative to Senator Tower until he has conferred with Richard Nixon, and considered results of talks with all three.

Pornography War Mapped
Atty. Gen. Martin has mapped a drive against "lewd" movies and pornographic literature. His office has received frequent complaints about circulation of obscenity, so he will ask the Legislature to tighten its control laws.

Specifically, Martin said he will ask for repeal of a portion of the penal code which exempts from control foreign films and movies that are in interstate commerce. Many of the complaints he receives concern pornography originating in Mexico and other foreign countries.

Martin also will seek legislation to include the attorney general among those granted authority to enforce the law by civil injunction. He criticized US Supreme Court decisions as having "torn down virtually all standards in judging pornographic materials."

Sales Tax
Board members of the Texas Municipal League will meet at El Paso on June 6. They are expected to discuss Gov. Connally's plan to abolish the city sales tax.

Connally's plan would raise the state sales tax from two to three per cent and funnel part of this money back to incorporated cities.

Summer Vacations Increase Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 15 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of April, according to Sergeant J. L. Dalrymple, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in eight persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $7,855.00. The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first four months of 1968 shows a total of 55 accidents resulting in one person killed, 24 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $27,790.00.

The final bell closing the present school year will soon ring. This will be the signal for the beginning of summer vacations. Residential neighborhoods which were quiet between 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. will be alive with children popping out in all directions. Tis' said we hurt the ones we love,

By the cruel things we say, And by the very careless way We act from day to day.

We often take for granted those Who mean our very life. A husband can so easily Offend a loving wife.

Oh e're blinded by the forest And the trees we do not see. We watch out for the mountains tall And let the rough spot be.

A little courtesy at home Can make a happy place. A Thank You or a smile returned Will brighten any face.

Spurgeon put it into the following beautiful words: "Husbands should try to make home happy and holy. It is an ill bird that fouls his own nest, a bad man who makes his own home wretched. Our house ought to be a little church with 'Holiness To The Lord' over the door; but it ought never to be a prison, where there is plenty of rule and order, but little love and no pleasure. Married life is not all sugar, but grace in the heart will keep away most of the sour. Godliness and love can make a man, like a bird in the hedge, sing among thorns and briars, and set others singing too. It should be the husband's pleasure to please his wife, and the wife's care to care for her husband. He is kind to himself who is kind to his wife."

When a husband and wife are first married and begin to build a house into what is to be their home there are many problems, joys and heartaches. And it is all so much a part of life. Things seem so important as they happen and later other and more lasting joys come along to take their place. There are children to grace the home and how wonderful. And then there comes weddings and more into the family and then grandchildren. We begin thinking more seriously of security and safety and companionship and togetherness. The real values become more important as we find home a place to rest and talk and think. The path of life can be so wonderful thinking of it in terms of our precious home.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Dear Sir:
For the last several weeks I have not been receiving the News. Having spent all of my life until graduation from High School in McLean I miss getting the news very much. No doubt my subscription has run out but if you will advise me the amount I will get a check in the mail by return mail for two years so I won't take the chance of missing the news again.

About a month ago you were advised that I had been transferred to Oklahoma City as Division Engineering manager for the Humble Oil and Refining Company. I asked the company to send the release to you as I thought the many friends I have there would be interested in the move. If you were able to include the press release in the paper I would appreciate your sending me an extra copy of that paper when you send my next issue of the news. I am looking forward to seeing our McLean friends much more often in the future.

We will not be moving to Oklahoma City until about the middle of June so keep the news coming to my present address until further advised.

Upholstering workshops will be conducted in Gray County during June by Jimmie Lou Wainscott, home demonstration agent. In order to find out how many people are interested, Miss Wainscott will conduct two preworkshop meetings on Friday, May 31. The first one will be at 9:30 a.m. in the City Council Room in McLean and at 2:00 p.m. in the auditorium of the Agricultural Office Building in Pampa, East on Highway 60.

The purpose of these two meetings is to find out who is interested, plan meeting places, find out what material and equipment each person will need to upholster a chair. Anyone who is interested in learning to upholster is invited to attend.

Gray County CONSERVATION

By LYNN McDANIEL

A laborer, 40 acres, and a mule composed a farming unit a half-century ago. A generation ago the farmer got a small tractor and farmed two or three times as much land. Now he has a mammoth tractor, precision equipment, and can till hundreds of acres.

That is, if he can run the large farming equipment on large fields that are relatively free of obstruction.

A farmer can't make a living today with 40 acres and a mule.
He has been forced to mechanize because of labor shortages, high wages, and the narrowing gap between the cost of production and the price he gets for his product.

And thereby hangs a tale about the revolution in conservation farming in America. Practices installed through local soil and water conservation districts have revolutionized farming but now the requirements for large scale farming with big machinery are revolutionizing conservation planing at farm layout.

"Terraces snaking across the hillside could be farmed well enough with small equipment," H. N. Smith, State Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service points out. The crooked, irregular rows were worrisome but posted no serious problem.
But times have changed.

"Today the farmer still wants to farm in a conservation pattern, but he wants that pattern to be as modern as his equipment.
This calls for a high degree of perception on the part of the conservationists and other technicians who help the farmer," he added.

"The conservationist must be able to see — with the help of soil and engineering surveys — an entirely new layout for plains, bottomland, or sloping plains farms," Smith explained. He must visualize the land with the old ditches filled, old farm roads gone, and even some buildings removed. In its place he must plan fields of even width, as long as they can possibly be made.

"In Texas, parallel terraces are replacing old terraces. In the interval between the ridges, in most cases, there is a predetermined number of rows with no land left over for point row.
The irregular areas that formerly existed between every pair of terraces are now found in just a few intervals. There they may be farmed in point rows or planted to a sown crop. This innovation has reduced the temptation to plant or plow over the terraces, and destroy them," Smith said.

The design for other farms is undergoing a transition, too.

There will be a new drainage ditches to conform to the new field arrangement. Open irrigation ditches may give way to the underground pipelines to save space and remove obstructions. Even the surfaces of the land may be given a major treatment of leveling.

"Field arrangement is just as important to the modern farmer on sloping uplands as it is to flatland farmers," Smith added. "Good, deep soil is just as important, too. All of this adds up to a better conservation program. The farmer plants thin soil and odd areas to grass or trees, benefiting wildlife. And the beauty of the country-side is enhanced by this new aspect of conservation farming — brought on largely by big machinery."

A MOTHER'S SECRETS

Mothers have secrets that they keep for their children... like the present Rick plans to give Dad on his birthday.

But mothers also have secrets of their own... dreams of what they hope their children will become.

And woven into the fabric of every mother's dream are threads of character, morality, courage, faith. The threads are there, but unseen—simply part of the finished design; a son or daughter to be proud of.

But in such dreams we should study the threads and realize the loom on which they must be woven. The qualities that give strength and beauty to a life come from thorough religious training!

So a mother's dream should not remain a secret. It must be her husband's dream, too. For together, with the guidance and help of the Church, they can provide the Christian home so necessary to the fulfillment of their hopes.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake.
(2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

ELECT DON YARBOROUGH GOVERNOR

Vote Saturday, June 1

Paid For By Yarbrough for Governor Committee, Charles Grace Chairman

LOOKIN' BACK

by Vera Featherston Back

The "letters" are having wonderful results. The trouble is we do not have them all mailed out yet, but we are receiving very encouraging responses.

Thought you might like to read this one:

Dear Mrs. Back,

It was nice to hear from you, for although I haven't been around the old home town much, I still have not forgotten the ones I knew there.

For your historical facts, I am going to refer you to my sister Lettie (Mrs. S. L. Reed of Romeo, Colorado). She has made quite a study of the family tree and I am quite sure she can furnish facts and dates far better than I can.

I would like to submit a sketch of memories, but since a crippled leg has forced me to retire from work, I do not have access to a typewriter, so will have to do the best I can in my rough handwriting.

I remember that about 1906 my father and mother called in all the kids, loaded them in a covered wagon and, driving their stock before them, moved to McLean and into a new house that my father had built and where they lived until their death at a ripe old age.

The only industries around McLean at that time were ranching and farming. All roads were just sandy lanes, and the main street of McLean was dust or mud, according to the weather.

PRESTON SMITH for GOVERNOR

VOTE
SATURDAY
JUNE 1

TO: The Citizens and Voters of Texas
FROM: Preston Smith, Candidate for Governor

The purpose of this message is to ask for your support and vote in the Second Democratic Primary Saturday, June 1.

As your Lieutenant Governor for the last six years, I believe I have qualified myself to seek the high office of Governor. You know I finished second among 10 candidates in the First Primary, about 29,000 votes behind the leader with 1,750,000 votes cast.

With your help we can win this runoff against an opponent who has no public record of any kind... one who is aligned with groups that want to reject the progressive, constructive programs built by John Connally and his predecessors and replace them with so-called "liberal" ideas of their own.

I want to continue and improve on the start we have made in education, pollution control, law enforcement, highways, water conservation, promotion of industry and tourism, and many other vital areas.

I am proud to have been a part of Texas government for 18 years. Opponents may harp about what is wrong in Texas; I happen to think there are a lot of things RIGHT in Texas. I am proud of my state and its people.

Things can be even better, and I want to work with you in that direction. It's more or less in the political tradition to lambast your opponent and say a lot of ugly and cutting things about him. I don't want to engage in personalities; my opponent has no public record to criticize. Therefore I am running for Governor on my own merits.

It may be pretty ambitious for a farm-born, farm-raised Texas boy, who worked his way through Texas Tech and spent his adult years in business activities in Lubbock, to aspire to be Governor. You will be the judges as to whether my experience and proven qualifications entitle me to be elected. I will accept your judgment with real gratitude for your past support and friendship.

Please remember that if I am elected, my door will always be open to any Texan who has any problem whatever that the Governor can help with. I will always be interested in good government. I will always be interested in you.

Preston Smith

Legislation affects you. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has published detailed regulations for the labeling of consumer goods under the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act. The FTC has set January 1, 1969, as the effective date for applying the new regulations. These regulations are very similar to those of the Food and Drug Administration.
