Reagan announces four Cabinet choices today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Ronald Reagan on Monday named four more nominees to Cabinet-level jobs in his new administration, including black attorney Samuel R. Pierce Jr. for housing secretary and a woman professor, Jeanne J. Kirkpatrick, for ambassador to the United Nations.

Reagan also named former South Carolina Gov. James B. Edwards as his choice for energy secretary and conservative Colorado attorney James G. Watt as his nominee for interior secretary.

The announcements Monday brought to 14 the number of Cabinet-level jobs Reagan has filled. Still to be disclosed are his choices for agriculture secretary, education secretary and special trade representative, a post that may be given Cabinet-level status. Additional Cabinet announcements are to be made Tuesday, Reagan's press office said.

In choosing Pierce and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Reagan fulfilled a promise that minorities and women would be represented in his Cabinet. His other 12 nominees are all white men.

The U.S. ambassador to the U.N. has not always held Cabinet rank, but it has under President Carter. Reagan press spokesman James Brady said the post will carry Cabinet rank in the new administration as well.

In an unexpected development this morning, Reagan's transition team decided to hold up announcement of a fifth Cabinet-level appointment, Illinois Agriculture Director John R. Block, as agriculture secretary.

Over the weekend, Reagan's top advisers told Senate Republicans that Block would be among the choices announced today, but the decision was made this morning to postpone the announcement.

Several sources said Block still appeared to be in line for the job, but they could not explain the reason for the delay.

One source speculated that Reagan wanted to save the announcement for Tuesday when the transition may disclose its choice for education secretary, the last department head to be chosen. Reagan has had trouble finding candidates for this job because of his pledge to eliminate the Department of Education.

Reagan press spokesman James Brady said additional Cabinet announcements would be made Tuesday but would not elaborate.

Reagan already has announced his first 10 Cabinet-level nominations.

In Los Angeles, where he is staying, Reagan would say only that he hoped to complete his Cabinet selections by Christmas.

Block, director of the Illinois agriculture department and the owner of a 3,000-acre farm, flew to Washington Sunday, one Senate source said.

Reagan apparently settled on Block following a meeting with him last Thursday. Block visited Reagan at the president-elect's Pacific Palisades home along with the other top contender for the post, Richard Lyng, former president of the American Meat Institute.

Block was actively promoted by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan.

Pierce also met with Reagan last Thursday but declined to say what was discussed. However, several Senate Republicans said they were told Pierce would be chosen to head HUD.

Reagan had settled on Watt for the interior job more than a week ago but an announcement was held up partly because of strong opposition, according to transition officials.

Watt heads a legal defense foundation in Colorado that has contested federal environmental regulations.

He also was reported to be flying to Washington.

Transition sources said several women had been under consideration for education secretary, but at least two top prospects fell through.

COUNTRY CLUB DISTURBANCE — President-elect Ronald Reagan, center, his wife, Nancy, and sports commentator Vin Scully, right, look on as a man in the audience faints at the Riviera Country Club in Los Angeles Sunday. When the man fainted, a well-dressed woman shouted "Get out of here Ronald!" and then she was escorted out by Secret Service agents.

State Department fears several hostages may be in prisons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department today registered "deep concern" about several of the American hostages in Iran and said a number of them may be in prison.

Spokesman John H. Trattner said the Americans are not receiving adequate medical attention and many of the 52 have not been heard from recently.

"We would welcome any improvement in the circumstances in which they are being held," Trattner said. "Contrary to Iranian reports in recent days that they hostages are now housed in luxury hotels, we have reports that a number of them may, in fact, be in prison."

The U.S. spokesman reiterated that the government of Iran will be held accountable for the well-being of all of the hostages. He said Iran had not respected even minimal standards of treatment expected of the world community.

Trattner said he did not know how many Americans may be in prison or on what grounds. Another U.S. official said the information came in letters from hostages.

The State Department took this hardened line after Iran's latest terms were denounced as unreasonable by Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie. Hopes for a Christmas homecoming appear to have evaporated.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has declared, meanwhile, that the United States would not pay ransom to Iran to end the hostages' 415-day captivity.

The two Cabinet officers, giving bleak assessments in separate televised interviews Sunday, indicated there is little chance of a settlement during the month left to the Carter administration.

Muskie, on NBC's "Meet the Press," said it would be very difficult to agree to terms by Jan. 20, and "It certainly is not going to happen by Christmas."

Brown, on CBS' "Face the Nation," declared that the United States could not accede to paying "ransom money that was never in this country" to gain release of the hostages.

St. Louis bank cuts prime rate

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Southwest Bank of St. Louis, a relatively small bank, today cut its prime lending rate to 20 percent, leaving it substantially below the 21.5 percent rate charged by nearly all major banks.

Southwest Bank, which has gained a reputation for such cuts, dropped its rate from 21 percent. Most banks on Friday raised their rates from that level to 21.5 percent.

"We think that the high interest rates are one of the primary causes of inflation," said I.A. Long, Southwest's chairman. "... High interest rates ... are jeopardizing the small businesses, particularly in the housing industry."

The move comes at a time when there is hope that interest rates have peaked. Rates in money markets declined sharply last week, even as the prime rate charged by banks was rising.

Southwest Bank, with about $120 million in assets, is the nation's 999th largest bank.

The prime rate is the rate charged by banks on loans to their most credit-worthy corporate customers, with other commercial and industrial borrowers normally paying higher rates.

Colombian jetliner crashes; all passengers, crew killed

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Hours before a Colombian jetliner took off, an anonymous caller warned it would not "arrive at its destination." It didn't. The jet crashed in a northern Colombian desert, killing all 68 passengers and crew moments after its pilot reported an explosion aboard, airline officials said.

Investigators headed for the crash site today in the remote Guajira Desert, about 500 miles north of Bogota, in an effort to determine the cause of Sunday's crash.

Some officials of the domestic airline are blaming it on sabotage, citing the anonymous threat and the pilot's report of an explosion.

One airline official, who declined to be identified, said it was believed a bomb exploded aboard the twin-engine, French-built Caravelle jet.

"It was apparent sabotage," said Alicia Fonseca, a spokeswoman for the airline, Aerovias del Cesar.

She said the company's office in Valledupar received a telephone warning Sunday morning from a caller who said: "It would be better to detain the plane because it will not arrive at its destination."

She gave no indication of a motive for the threat.

The plane took off from Valledupar and flew without incident to the Caribbean port city of Riohacha.

At 2:45 p.m. EST, just 10 minutes after it left Riohacha for the northwestern Colombian city of Medellin, the pilot radioed there had been an explosion aboard, said an airline spokesman, who asked not to be named because he said he feared company reprisals.

The pilot radioed the Riohacha airport control tower that he would try to make an emergency landing in the desert, the spokesman said. It was his last message, the official added.

The plane had been checked thoroughly by mechanics only four days earlier and was found to be in perfect condition, the spokesman said.

Airline officials declined to say whether it was searched for a bomb after the threat was received.

A private pilot who flew over the crash site said wreckage from the jetliner was scattered over a wide patch of desert. In an interview broadcast by a Bogota radio station Sunday night, the pilot said he flew low over the area and saw bodies "that appear to be torn all apart" spread throughout the burned remains of the jet.

An Indian living in the remote area told rescuers he saw the plane explode in the air, the airline spokesman said.

There were no foreigners aboard the plane, which carried 62 passengers and six crew members, said the airline's manager, Alfonso Sanchez, in a statement that made no mention of an explosion.

Sanchez said one of the victims was his 17-year-old daughter, Maria del Pilar Sanchez.

Riohacha is a rough-and-tumble town widely known as a center for smuggling drugs into the United States. Pilots are said to ferry loads of marijuana almost nightly to the United States from the desert airstrips around Riohacha.

No paper on December 25

As per custom, The Herald will not publish a paper Christmas Day in order that employees can spend the holiday with their families.

Several advertising schedules will be observed during the week.

Monday is the deadlines for display ads which will appear in Wednesday's paper. For the ads scheduled to run Friday, a Tuesday deadline will be observed. Ads appearing in next Sunday's paper must be cleared by Wednesday.

Classified ads for Friday's paper must be cleared no later than 9 a.m. Wednesday unless they are for the "Too Late to Classify" section. Those in that section must clear an hour later.

Iran's Parliament speaker threatens hostage trials

By The Associated Press

The speaker of the Iranian Parliament today renewed Iran's threat to put the 52 American hostages on trial if the United States does not accept the $24-billion demand for their release.

The Parliament leader, Hashemi Rafsanjani, declared that Iran will not "back down from our demands."

The new threat of hostage trials came a day after U.S. officials effectively rejected the latest Iranian terms for ending the confrontation — that the U.S. government deposit about $24 billion in cash and gold in the Algerian central bank as a guarantee that Iran's financial demands on the United States be met.

The British newspaper Daily Telegraph reported, meanwhile, that Algeria will mediate new "detailed negotiations" between Iran and the United States in London this week. But a State Department spokesman said, "We're not aware of any meeting in which the United States is participating in London this week."

"I doubt it very much," another high-level U.S. official said of the report. The Daily Telegraph gave no source for the brief story.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: More Texas power

Q. The Census Bureau says that Texas may have as many as 14 million people, which means it could qualify for as many as three additional congressional districts. My question is, what would be the population factor for each district compared to 1970?

A. That would mean 518,000 people for each congressional district, 451,000 for state senate districts and 93,000 for state house districts. In the 1970s, congressional districts started out with about 475,000, senate districts with 366,000 and house districts with 75,000.

Tops on TV: 'See No Evil'

The best thing going on TV tonight likely is an 8 o'clock movie, "See No Evil," a suspense film made in 1971. Featuring Mia Farrow and Robin Bailey, it is about a helpless blind woman who is terrorized by a killer in cowboy boots. It can be seen on Channel 11. Or how about the "Lou Grant" episode over CBS starting at 9 o'clock? Lou puts the Trib staff on the trail of a long-unsolved murder involving names from Hollywood's golden years. Many of tonight's programs are reruns but the CBS offering at 7 p.m., "Flo," is a new one. It has the Texas Tornado maroons with Earl and Les in an ice storm.

Outside: Warmer

The forecast calls for fair weather today, becoming slightly warmer on Tuesday. High today should be in the mid 50s, dropping to a low near 30 tonight. High Tuesday should be in the low 60s. Winds are from the southwest at 15 to 20 miles per hour, dropping to five to 10 miles per hour tonight.

Weather

Fair skies, warmer temperatures today

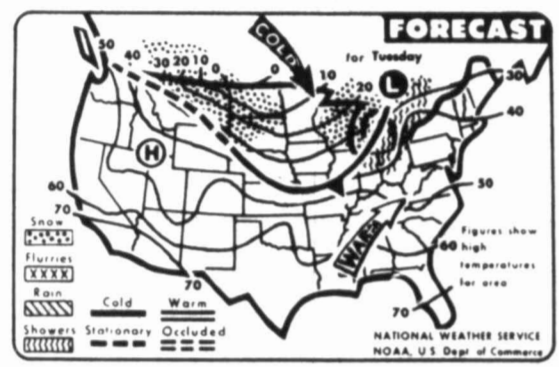

A blanket of clouds covered most of Texas early today, while a light drizzle fell along the lower coast. Clear skies were reported only in West Texas.

Southerly winds prevailed over interior sections of the state early today while winds along the coast were northerly.

Early morning temperatures varied from the low 20s to the mid 40s across the state. Readings at 4 a.m. ranged from 21 at Dalhart to 44 at Brownsville.

The National Weather Service indicated fair skies for today in West Texas, with warmer temperature and fair skies. For the rest of the state, mostly cloudy skies with warm temperatures were expected.

Occasional light rain or drizzle was expected in extreme south portions of the state. Highs were expected to range from the mid 40s in North Texas to the low 60s in the Big Bend. With most maximum temperatures in the 50s.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts snow in parts of Montana, the Dakotas, Michigan and Wisconsin. Showers are expected in parts of Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana.

Owners vow to rebuild

Trapp Family Lodge burns

STOWE, Vt. (AP) — Johannes von Trapp surveyed the smoking rubble of what had been home for 40 years to the family that inspired "The Sound of Music."

"It's a mess," he said, his face haggard. "But we will rebuild."

Fire sparked by a faulty oil burner swept through the Trapp Family Lodge early Sunday, killing an Illinois man and forcing 46 guests out into sub-zero temperatures. As smoke clogged the hallways, many people leaped from windows into snowbanks.

Another 55 guests at a motel annex across the street were evacuated as a precaution. "We were lucky there was no wind," said von Trapp. "Otherwise we would have lost all."

His mother, Baroness Maria Augusta von Trapp, 75, the heroine of "The Sound of Music," fled the lodge in her nightgown. She watched as the flames burned the inn to the ground, consuming all the mementos of her family's life in America.

Among them were a portrait of her late husband, Baron George Von Trapp, a collection of candles, honoraria, awards and keys to cities.

Six people were injured, some in leaps from windows, others from frostbite. Two people remained hospitalized, including the wife of the man who died.

The body of Ron Becker, of Salem, Ill., was discovered in the rubble. His wife, Judy, suffered a fractured spine when she jumped from their third-floor window. Both she and Gino Fanicella, 39, of Salem, were listed in good condition.

A faulty oil burner was being blamed for the fire, which broke out shortly before 1 a.m.

A night watchman alerted many of the guests and helped them escape. "If it weren't for the night watchman, I don't know what would have happened," said Sally von Trapp, wife of one of Mrs. von Trapp's grandsons.

"There was no way we could get near our door," said Tim Ramsey, who jumped out of a second-floor window with his wife, Robyn. Firefighting was hampered by the cold — the temperature hovered at 20 below — and lack of water at the remote mountain lodge. At dawn, only four chimneys were left standing.

The building was valued at $600,000. But von Trapp said much of what was lost was "irreplaceable."

The von Trapps settled in the lodge, originally a farmhouse, several years after their flight from Nazi-occupied Austria in 1938. The mountainside location reminded them of the Austrian Tyrol.

The couple and their 10 children first made their living by giving concerts throughout the United States. Later, the farmhouse, called "Cor Unum," meaning "one heart," served as a music camp that attracted hundreds of children each year.

The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "The Sound of Music," which romanticized the von Trapps' flight from Austria, was first staged on Broadway in 1959, starring Mary Martin as Maria. Julie Andrews starred in the movie version.

BC boycotts Canadian gas tax

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — British Columbia is withholding federal natural gas excise taxes as part of the western provinces' running battle with Ottawa over who should control Canada's mineral wealth.

"We're taking this step in the national interests," the province's energy minister, Robert H. McClelland, said in announcing the decision Saturday. "Our energy future is seriously threatened."

Officials in Ottawa refused to comment on British Columbia's decision. A spokesman in Ottawa said the government would reply to Vancouver "once we've reviewed the entire text of the B.C. government's position."

The government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau imposed a federal excise tax on Nov. 1 of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet on all natural gas used in Canada as well as on propane, butane and other liquids derived from natural gas. British Columbia officials say their province's tax assessment amounts to $158 million over three years.

McClelland said he had ordered two local natural gas companies not to pay the tax on domestic sales, which is aimed at increasing Ottawa's share of oil and gas revenues. He said the province's government also is considering withholding an excise tax to be applied beginning Feb. 1 on gas exports to the United States.

He claimed Canada's national energy program already has brought about a reduction in petroleum exploration in British Columbia and said a further slowdown in activity is expected.

Dallas oilman considered as ambassador

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas oilman Jack Crichton, once a Republican candidate for governor of Texas, says he is under consideration as Ronald Reagan's ambassador to Saudi Arabia.

Crichton said he received a letter from the Reagan-Bush transition team in Washington saying he was under consideration for a "position of trust" within the Reagan administration, but that a source within the Reagan camp had told him a few days earlier that he might be offered the Saudi ambassadorship.

"The letter said I would hear from them later on," he said Sunday.

Crichton has considerable experience in the Middle East, having spent 25 years looking for oil and gas there, which is the main reason he is under consideration for the embassy post, he said.

Currently, Crichton is chief executive officer of Arab Shield Development Co., a firm that searches for oil and gas in partnership with the Saudi government. The job takes him to the Middle East several times a year, he said, adding that he would place his mineral holdings in trust if picked for the ambassadorship.

Books as gifts recommended

How's your Christmas shopping coming along? Are you still to a dilemma as to what to get your aunt, or someone else on your list who "has everything"? Let the Howard County Library help you with some suggestions.

If you have a nephew who is a real sports fan, he might enjoy a subscription to one of these magazines: "Sports Illustrated," "Texas Sports," "Off Road" or "Outside." In this way he will have a gift each time he receives the magazine. The library staff can give you the information you need to send for one of these subscriptions.

Maybe someone you know is a mystery fan, and would appreciate one of the new mysteries that have just come out. Ngaio Marsh is a favorite of many people and her new book is called "Photo Finish." Some of the other newer titles are "Frog in the Throat" by Morna Davis Brown, "One of Us Must Die" by Anna Clarke, "Something of the Night" by Mary McMullen, and "The Old Die Young" by Richard Lockridge.

The film buff might enjoy reading a biography about their favorite entertainer.

There's "My Story" by Ingrid Bergman, "Shooting Straight" by Robert Stack, "Swanson on Swanson" by Gloria Swanson and "Life With Chico" written by his daughter Maxine Marx. Ann Buchwald wrote a biography about her columnist husband, Art, titled "Seems Like Yesterday."

Some people have favorite authors and you might get them a special boxed set of their works. Another idea is to buy two or three paperback books or one or two hardback books.

For the youngsters there are many old favorites they might enjoy. What about Beatrix Potter's beautifully illustrated "Peter Rabbit" series? There are many fairy tales from which to choose, such as "Sleeping Beauty," "The Dancing Princesses," "Beauty and the Beast," or a collection of "Grimms' Fairy Tales."

There are also many new books out that might interest them. Some of them are, "A Job for Joey" by Louise Munro Foley, "Mom's New Job," by Paul Sawyer, "Horrible Hannah" by Barbara Bottner, or "Gloomy Louie" by Phyllis Green, or old favorites by such authors as Laura Ingalls Wilder, Beverly Cleary, the "Encyclopedia" Brown books by Donald Sobol. Older children like books by Judy Blume, Paul Zindel and Paula Danziger.

I hope some of these suggestions have been helpful to you. Now I have to go out and finish my Christmas shopping.

Settlement reached in oil drilling case

BOSTON (AP) — Opponents of oil drilling in the Georges Bank, an ecologically rich fishing area off the New England coast, today asked a federal judge to approve a settlement of their lawsuit against the drilling project.

The Conservation Law Foundation of Boston and the Massachusetts attorney general's office said they had reached an agreement with the U.S. Commerce and Interior departments. They declined to discuss the terms until the pact is formally accepted by Judge John McNaught of U.S. District Court.

The conservation group and the state of Massachusetts originally went to court three years ago to block Lease Sale 42, an auction of oil and gas-drilling rights along the Georges Bank.

The legal battle delayed the sale but it eventually was held after Congress approved new environmental safeguards for the project.

Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti and the foundation kept their suit alive, expressing doubts about how the safeguards would be implemented. Bellotti complained the Interior Department had been slow to issue regulations spelling out the meaning of "best available and safest technologies" — the standard Congress set for the drillers.

Full-scale exploration along the bank is expected to start next year. A sale of additional drilling rights in the Georges Bank area is tentatively scheduled for 1982.

Not all tears shed for Lennon genuine

The depth of man's anguish over the recent death of musician John Lennon was predictable.

Many of the tears that were shed were genuine. The people who grew up with him and who share his hatred for war and appreciated his tolerance of all people felt they had lost a friend and an eloquent spokesman.

Not a little of the compassion expressed, however, came from the hustlers who are forever looking for a score, who saw in the murder of the Beatle a chance to turn a buck.

THE INK on the newspapers that told the sordid story of the Lennon's slaying had hardly dried before the promoters were inundating the marketplace with T-shirts, buttons, records, posters, medals, books and other memorabilia.

Such a thing is an example of free enterprise at its worst. Genuine grief is one thing but when it comes to capitalizing on someone else's tragedies that is something else again.

When John F. Kennedy was dispatched while riding in that Dallas motorcade in 1963, it set off pleasant shock waves among the entrepreneurs who saw the material gains that could be gained if a beloved public figure were cut down. Even to this day, there are still people who are cashing in on the Kennedy assassination.

Of course, the promoters hit the jackpot when Elvis Presley exited through the Gates of Valhalla. A succession of pilgrimages to the very street where he lived were organized by the fast buck artists. The manufacturers could hardly keep up with the avalanche of orders they received for his records, his type of clothes, his picture albums and his biographies.

Now we are reminded annually of the "anniversary of Elvis' death" just as we are of Kennedy's passing.

THOSE FANS who invest every penny they can in mementoes of their heroes justify their actions by saying they "need something to hold onto, something tangible, something they can treasure." And some of those are the same people who laugh at Linus and his blanket.

The hucksters rejoice, reassured by the fact that P.T. Barnum was right when he sized up the typical American as a natural-born patsy and proceeded to exploit him to the very end.

The public, of course, should resist being taken in by the promoters but they let grief and emotion rule their reason. As long as there are people who regard a memory as something material and not mental, there will be the promoter who is fully ready to take advantage of them.

Last week, the world, as usual, was facing one crisis after another. We all know about OPEC, Russia, Afghanistan, the Reagan cabinet. So what made world headlines? The great debate as to whether Nancy Reagan REALLY asked the Carters to move from the White House early so she could redecorate.

When asked about it, Rosalyn Carter gave the press an icy stare, her husband fielded the question and the Reagans denied it. Carter officials wouldn't really answer but they made it clear they weren't too happy about the whole thing.

BUT THE CARTER people are really on the ball. Knowing how I always like to get to the truth, they sent me an official White House transcript of what really happened that day. Of course, the Carter staff refused to tell me how they happened to acquire an official White House transcript but they made it clear they did not use a tape recorder???

NANCY: Rosalyn, how are you?
ROSALYN: Just fine, Nancy. How are you?

N: Looking forward to my husband's administration.
R: You should be. You both lied enough to have an administration. Smile for the cameras Nancy.

N: I always smile for the cameras. That's why you won't have an administration anymore.

R: Let's go inside. Over here, we have the Red Room. Would you like some coffee?

N: Yes, please.
R: Here you go.
N: Eeek! You just spilled it all over by Oscar De La Renta suit.

R: Oh, my my SUCH a shame!
N: You little blankety blank. You did that on purpose.

R: Ah-ah-ah. You're letting your guard down. First Ladies don't do that. I never did.

N: You little blankety blank. I'm glad you're getting out of here. We were right to run against you. You're an embarrassment to the country.

R: Ah-ah-ah! Look at your Red Room. Do you like it?

N: I hate red!

R: Well, there isn't much you can do about it. It's a state room.

N: I'm changing it to pink.

R: It's your husband's administration. I don't care. You'll have to take the criticism. Not me.

N: Where's the Green Room?

N: It's got too much green.

R: It's a Green Room! What in the world do you expect?

N: I don't like it. I'll have to redecorate it.

R: That's your problem. Wait until you see what the government appropriation is for you to redecorate the state rooms.

N: I'll get around it.

R: I don't doubt that.

N: Why are you so darn sarcastic to me?

R: Because I hate your guts.

N: I can't wait for you to leave this place so I can start redecorating.

R: That'll be Jan. 20.

N: But the country would be a lot better off if you'd leave earlier.

R: That's not my problem. We're here until Jan. 20.

N: What a shame.

R: NANCY, it's been nice having you. Let's walk outside.

N: Yea, let's.

R: Smile for the cameras Nancy.

N: I'm smiling. See?

R: Uh huh?

N: Rosalyn?

R: Uh huh?

N: Oh, never mind. I don't curse.

R: Have a good day Nancy. And be careful. You lose your cool too easily.

N: You would too if coffee spilled all over your Oscar De La Renta suit.

R: Yes, I know, we all have our problems.

N: Yea, don't we?

German anguish

Joseph Kraft

BONN — Anybody who doubts the awful strains working on the Atlantic Alliance should come here to Bonn and talk to the top West German leadership about Poland. For there is a huge gap in perception between Bonn and Washington, and when it comes to considering action the two capitals live in different worlds.

The official reasoning here begins with a view of Leonid Brezhnev. "Some old men are crotchety," I was told, "but not Brezhnev. He is one of those old men who don't want to make trouble. He is always trying to patch up differences. His attitude is 'Why don't you children stop squabbling.' He doesn't want to take risks that involve people getting killed. He wants to go down in history as a man associated with peace."

IT IS, OF COURSE, acknowledged here that the Russians have stakes in Poland which they must protect at all costs. There is the danger of unrest spreading to Rumania, and East Germany and Czechoslovakia and elsewhere. It is also understood that Soviet security interests would be directly affected if strikes in Poland tied up the railroads or other lines of communication binding the Warsaw Pact countries together.

It is doubted that the Polish authorities can secure these vital Soviet interests by themselves. "I think the chances are 51 percent that the Russians would have to intervene," I was told.

But envisaging forms of Soviet intervention, the West German leadership tends to believe in a myriad of benign possibilities. One is that the Polish leaders invite the Russians to come in. A second possibility foreseen by the German leadership is that the Soviet and Polish forces act together. Such action might take the form of joint military maneuvers in Poland.

In any case, the West would not be faced with either naked invasion or clear intervention. "The Russians," it is said, "might well be able to quell the resistance without violating any national agreements, not even the Helsinki Accord, or the United Nations Charter."

As to reaction, it is readily conceded here that unless the West did something, the Soviet appetite for expansion would grow. It is also admitted that there is broad sympathy for Poland throughout the world. "A Soviet crackdown," I was told, "would stir high emotions in Scandinavia, in France, in Britain, in Germany, in the U.S. and even in many developing countries in Africa and Latin America. Poland is much closer than Afghanistan."

NBODY HERE DOUBTS, accordingly, that a Soviet move against Poland would have a strong impact on East-West relations. "The whole world would be transformed," is the usual consensus.

In those conditions, some specific moves to build up Western strength are favored here. The enactment of a draft by the U.S. is a notable example. "Such a measure," I was told, "would impress the Russians more than anything anybody else could do."

But most other potential moves are dismissed. Meeting NATO targets for a 3 percent annual increase in defense spending is laughed off as "playing games with paper money." Bigger increases in defense spending are "useless."

As to personal and commercial exchanges between West Germany and eastern Europe, especially East Germany, that is held sacrosanct. Before dismantling any of the arrangements, the West Germans insist that the U.S. first frame a comprehensive strategy.

"Oh, great! They finally delivered my new, small, fuel-efficient car...and I can't even reach it."

Check cause of nighttime urination

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have to get up to urinate every two hours after going to bed. It is not just a trickle, but a good stream. I do not think fluids after 6 p.m. I do not have to urinate frequently during the day. What could cause this nighttime problem? — Mrs. E.M.B.

It is not normal to have to urinate at night if you urinate normally during the day. Under ordinary circumstances the bladder easily holds the amount of urine produced at night. If it cannot, it means too much of it is being produced, and that can be a sign of many problems.

Some kidney diseases limit that organ's ability to concentrate urine, and large amounts of more dilute urine result. This effect may be more prominent during the night, because when we lie down fluids that have leaked out into the tissues during the day's activity return to the bloodstream. More blood is filtered through the kidneys so more urine is produced. Other factors contributing to the excess urination might be heart disease, diabetes or a shrinkage of the bladder because of an infection. Alcohol and coffee are diuretics not often recognized as such. Are you using either?

The factors I mentioned above apply equally to men. Males, of course, have the additional problem related to their prostate gland. An enlargement of this gland can place pressure on the bladder and cause excessive urination. Frequent small urinations are more common, along with difficulty in producing a stream.

The rule: Frequent urination at night is not normal and should always be reported.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am crazy with rectal itching. I have tried just about everything available, including cornstarch baths three times a day. I don't know what more I can do. I have got to have help soon. — L.A.

Rectal itching (pruritis) can result from mechanical problems like hemorrhoids or rectal fissures, so you must find out if those problems are present. Skin diseases, like psoriasis, can be a cause as can fungal infections. Some have suggested that certain foods aggravate rectal itch — hot peppers, spices, cola drinks, beer, tea, coffee, chocolate, tomato juice. I do not know the reason for the food association, but some doctors have reported favorable results when such foods have been eliminated on a trial basis.

Treatment otherwise depends on the cause. Generally, persons with rectal itch do well to keep the area as dry as possible which avoiding unnecessary irritants. Cotton ball wipes with a softening lotion, like Balmol, seem to help. Others have been helped by promoting normal bowel movements through increased bulk in their diets.

You must stop scratching — easy to say, difficult to do. Realizing that this further inflames the already irritated area may help motivate you toward resisting the urge to scratch. If your cornstarch baths help, continue them while you search for a cause.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a diabetic and have to take insulin. My skin has been getting red and swollen where I inject. I also have had hives for two days. Is there something wrong with my insulin? — H.H.

If this is an allergy, a change from ordinary insulin to the pure pork kind might stop the problem. Pure pork insulin is more like human insulin, and often allergic symptoms disappear with its use. If that doesn't work, you can be desensitized to insulin, very much the way one gets desensitized to pollens.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Six months ago I got a staph infection in my eyelids. The lids are scratchy, watery, and very uncomfortable. I was given drops but developed a reaction to them, so now I apply hot compresses for relief. Do you know of an effective treatment? — B.J.G.

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I believe you are wrong when you say that Jesus was divine. I don't believe Jesus ever claimed to be God. — J.A.H.

DEAR J.A.H.: This is a very important matter, and I hope you will take the time to examine the Gospels very carefully. I ask you to do so with an open mind and heart, and I would even challenge you to pray and ask God to help you accept what the Bible teaches, and to act on it.

The New Testament consistently — from one end to the other — presents Jesus as God. In fact, one of the central truths of the Bible's message is that God himself has come down on this earth in the person of his Son, Jesus Christ. The birth of Jesus was seen as a fulfillment of an Old Testament prophecy: "The virgin will be with child and will give birth to a son, and they will call him Immanuel" — which means "God with us" (Matthew 1:23). The writer of the Gospel of John declares, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was most difficult to treat. You are getting the standard treatment, and the drops you named are usually effective. I am sorry that you could not use them. Perhaps another eye preparation would be worth a try, especially in view of your reaction to the previous drops. The antibiotic, gentamicin, is effective against staph. This is available in drop form or as an ointment for the eyes. It is worth a try. The compresses are OK to relieve discomfort.

Dear Editor:

I was shocked that the people of Big Spring did not realize the fact that the so-called "Animal Shelter" was the true meaning of cruelty to animals. We have all seen what goes on there. I have driven on Moss Creek Road and seen up to seven dogs at one time shot and left on the road at the entrance to the dump ground. The fact that they are shot alone is enough to get anyone's blood boiling, but to dump them afterwards is totally unexcusable.

I was always led to believe that stray or unwanted animals were to be destroyed in a humane way and disposed of properly.

One or two voices or letters in this paper are not going to get anything done. I'm pleading to the citizens to help me get something done.

If you had time to think about this sickening subject you have time to help. Please contact me.

Strange approach

WASHINGTON — The story can now be told of what happened inside a federal grand jury that caused its incorruptible foreman, Ralph Ulmer, to accuse the Justice Department of covering up the Robert Vesco case.

He complained to a federal judge that the prosecutors seemed more concerned about protecting the Carter administration than investigating Vesco's influence-buying schemes. Later, Ulmer was summoned behind closed doors of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee to explain what he meant.

At three secret sessions, he told how the prosecutors had obstructed the investigation by trying to keep key witnesses off the stand and then belittling their testimonies when the grand jury insisted on hearing them.

THE PROSECUTORS were also rotated repeatedly in an apparent shopping effort to find one who could convince the grand jury not to indict any of President Carter's associates. The last prosecutor, assistant U.S. attorney Harry Benner, argued that the case should be treated as a minor, if "slimy," exercise in influence peddling.

The jurors reportedly wanted to extend the term of the grand jury beyond 18 months so they could complete some indictments. One source confided to my associate Indy Badhwar: "Benner told us flat out that it wouldn't make any difference if we went ahead and indicted, because the Justice Department's prosecutors would refuse to sign the indictments."

Apparently, this was the reason the grand jury returned no indictments. But there's more to the story. The prosecutor also asked the grand jury to sign a "Bill of Ignoramus" — a document that would exonerate individuals who had been targets of the investigation.

The jurors were handed a blank form and were asked to list as many individuals as they would let off the hook. But they refused to exonerate anyone — not even President Carter, who had asked his attorney general to see one of the conspirators in the bribery plot.

ULMER TOLD THE senators that the president had been one of the most recalcitrant witnesses, refusing either to testify before the grand jury or to let jurors come to the White House to question him. In the end, he answered a few innocuous questions from the prosecutors on videotape.

The jurors were so distrustful of the Justice Department that they refused to submit a blank "Bill of Ignoramus" for fear the prosecutors would tamper with it, my associate Lucette Lagnado has learned. Ulmer started to sign the blank document, but another juror cautioned against returning it. So Ulmer scratched a large red "X" across the blank sheet to prevent any alteration.

When law enforcement becomes entangled with White House politics, then justice becomes vulnerable to the political fix. But there is always someone somewhere who will object. Such a person is the stubbornly honest Ralph Ulmer. And such, too, are Sens. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, who are taking Ulmer's testimony in quite defiance of political pressure.

Footnote: My office tried to reach Benner for his comments. Even though he didn't know the purpose of the calls, he telephoned back this message: "Don't bother to call me, because I have nothing to say to you."

WIMIX, SCHMIMIX! The brasshats in the Pentagon have a knack for making any criticism of their expenditures on military equipment sound downright un-American. But I'll offer this example of colossal waste anyhow:

The Pentagon profligates spent a billion dollars on a system they call "wimix" — a worldwide command and control network that is supposed to provide instantaneous information on the whereabouts of American military forces anywhere in the world. A great idea. Unfortunately, wimix flunked a big test a year ago.

Last December, when the Russians invaded Afghanistan, President Carter wanted to know how many helicopters were in position to fly into Kabul and evacuate Americans there. It was something wimix was designed for, so the request was relayed to the wimix operator in the Pentagon.

After searching through the wimix query book — a tome that's bigger than the Manhattan telephone book — the Pentagon operator located the proper code and got the information for the White House. Two hours after the request for information, the president was told there were 14 helicopters available.

In the meantime, however, an Air Force colonel had telephoned an American airfield in Turkey — by commercial telephone — and he got the correct answer: There were only four helicopters available. And he got that information in 15 minutes.

WHOA, THERE!! The love affair with Red China initiated by Richard Nixon hasn't blinded the suspicious types in the Pentagon. "The PRC (People's Republic of China) remains a source of concern for the United States, chiefly because of its regional predominance," a secret military report warns. It goes on to explain: "With sizable conventional military forces, China can initiate, exacerbate or support conflicts in regions around its periphery, although its priorities seem at present to be directed more toward accelerating internal development and to the perceived threat from the Soviet Union."

Emphasizes family treatment

Eastern Maine Medical Center fights alcoholism

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — Fighting back tears, 10-year-old Robin told of a stark Christmas past, a time when her father sprawled across the couch in a drunken stupor while her mother nursed bruises and black eyes.

"It wasn't a happy Christmas," Robin told her father, seated directly across from her, close enough to touch.

More than 100 people sat in a circle around them, straining to hear a child's tiny voice reveal grown-up memories.

Robin's mother, seated next to her, recalled how every Christmas holiday seemed to wind up the same way — in pain, fear and violence.

Looking directly at her father, Robin told of her biggest disappointment: "You've never told me to my face that you love me."

Trembling, her father said he was sorry, then whispered, "I do love you... but when I'm drinking I don't love anybody."

Robin — not her real name — was taking part in one of the weekly family encounter sessions conducted at Eastern Maine Medical Center's Alcohol Institute, one of the nation's most comprehensive community-based treatment programs for alcoholics.

Family treatment is one of the cornerstones of the program's philosophy, based on the concept that alcoholism affects the entire family and each member must become involved in the recovery process.

In the family encounter sessions, children and spouses confront patients with bitter memories, sharing hostilities, lies and infidelities that have often been repressed for years.

The technique remains controversial, even among the hospital staff, because of the potential for embarrassment and psychological pain. But advocates say the sessions help break down the barriers that usually separate alcoholics from family members.

Dr. Stanley Evans,

founder and director of the Alcohol Institute, likens the process to "lancing a wound."

"Take the risk. Share those feelings," he said. "We say, try this. It's going to embarrass you or make you cry. But it can't be any worse than the living hell you have now. And our experience has been that people get better."

The 36-bed institute, founded in 1974, claims a 75 percent success rate. Patients come from all socioeconomic levels, but the program is geared toward those in the early stages of alcoholism, rather than the "skid row" types.

"These are younger people — the average age is 35 — people with families, people with jobs, people who have not gone through the losses," Evans said.

Patient treatment begins with three to 10 days of detoxification, followed by intensive rehabilitation. Three weeks of in-patient treatment are followed by two years of aftercare, in which patients take part in community self-help groups and Alcoholics Anonymous.

Saturday is a special day at the institute, the day when family members play their part in recovery.

Spouses and older children attend lectures on how to cope with alcoholism in the family, but the most poignant sessions involve the younger children, many of whom have been thrust into premature adulthood by the family burden. When a family arrives at the hospital for screening, Evans pays special attention to the children, looking for that "9-year-old kid who's acting like a 20-year-old."

Robin and 20 other children ranging in age from 4 to 12 gathered in a small room in the hospital basement, where psychologists combine individual and group counseling with art work and games like the Magic Store. Here children are asked to give up something they dislike about their family for something they would like in return.

When it was Robin's turn to visit the Magic Store, she gave away "a sackful of yelling and fighting." In return, she took "a whole roomful of love."

The other youngsters dropped off bundles of confusion, anger and discouragement and came away with generous helpings of confidence, courage and understanding.

Later, they grabbed markers and pens and collaborated on a huge mural of words and pictures to express feelings about family problems. It was a collage of confused, often violent, images which illustrate their anxieties.

Self-disclosure is the aim of much of the activity — at last the children can share the nightmare they've been living for much of their young lives.

Most of all, the children talk about change, the possibility that life may be improving now that the sick parent is getting treatment. They discuss the little changes in their families and wonder — not without apprehension — about the future.

"Maybe," Robin said, "things will be different this Christmas."

Wounded man given no antibiotics because of Trauma Project study

DALLAS (AP) — A 22-year-old man hospitalized in serious condition almost two months after he was mistakenly shot by police during a drug raid did not receive antibiotics before surgery for his gunshot wound because he was part of an experimental study, according to published reports.

However, officials at Parkland Memorial Hospital say Doy Vanderburg signed a release agreeing to participate in the study.

And Vanderburg's mother is bitter, saying her son has been victimized by both law enforcement officials and the hospital.

Vanderburg was wounded Oct. 29 during a shoot-out with city and county police who mistook him for a suspect in a drug roundup.

The Dallas Times Herald said Vanderburg has had nine operations since that incident, that gangrene set in after his first surgery, that his kidneys have failed, he cannot breathe by himself and that fluid collects around his heart.

He did not get antibiotics before his first operation because he was included in a study known as the Trauma Project, the newspaper said.

"It's like he was shot twice, once by the police and once by Parkland," Betty Vanderburg, the patient's mother, told the Times Herald.

Dr. Edwin Thal, one of the doctors in charge of the study, told The Associated Press that Vanderburg's current medical problems do not result from the study, in his opinion.

"All I can say is there is a clinical study going on. There is no evidence that any study that I'm aware of has contributed to anyone's illness. It is all reviewed by many people," Thal said.

However, Vanderburg's mother doubts her son knowingly consented to take part in the study.

"He told me he had signed a permit to operate, but that was it. He knows he needs antibiotics — for anything — because he had rheumatic fever," Mrs. Vanderburg told the newspaper.

"I know for a fact there is a consent form signed by him (Vanderburg)," Thal told the newspaper, although he added, "Some patients don't understand all the facts (of an experiment) as well as others."

Thal and Dr. Ron Jones, leaders of the study on antibiotics, said the experiment began last spring and has involved between 100 and 150 patients so far. All emergency room patients with abdominal wounds are asked if they would be willing to take part, except those with specific medical problems.

Doctors at the University of Texas Health Science Center, who work at Parkland, told the newspaper a thorough study of the use of antibiotics in abdominal wounds has never been done.

"It's wrong to think because this has always been done that it's right," Thal told the paper. "From time to time, things change."

Practical joker isn't funny

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 18 and my boyfriend is 16 and very immature for his age. Whenever we are on a date he makes me feel like a complete fool. He does impersonations of "Yoda" on "Star Wars" and people look at him like he is a little boy. He constantly plays practical jokes on people. He wears hand buzzers, wears Groucho Marx glasses and puts "whoopie cushions" under seats.

How do I get him to stop acting like a child? I've tried everything but nothing has worked. — Jody, Beatrice, Neb.

Jody: Many practical jokers never outgrow their [fun and games]. Don't gamble that he will mature in time. Let him make a choice now — you or the buzzers, cushions, and glasses.

Dr. Wallace: This letter is in regard to the girl who had the opportunity to visit Mexico City, during the school year and would miss two weeks of school, and you told her to go.

As the daughter of a teacher, I have heard my mother say that kids who go on vacations during the school year will be behind and struggle the rest of the way.

As a young person I would think twice before going. If I did go, I'd take my school books along. — Melissa, Elizabethtown, Ky.

Melissa: I think a combination of my advice and one of your suggestions would be the best answer. Take your studies with you, but go! A trip to a foreign country is a great learning experience.

Dr. Wallace: I'm an 18-year-old guy and I'm gay. I am living in this small town with my mother but I was living in the San Francisco Bay area with my father until three months ago. I'm trying to make it here but the pressure of someone finding out that I'm gay is tremendous (My parents both know). My question is this. Should I rough it out here or return to the city?

Presently, I am depressed most of the time and need someone to understand my point of view. — Lonely, So. Lake Tahoe, Calif.

Lonely: You didn't say why you left your father's place to live with your mother but if it would cause no family conflict, I'd move back to the city. Life is too short to spend it under pressure and depressed.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

Dear Abby

Waiters' Recompense Rarely Dollars, Mostly Cents

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for telling NEEDS TIPS ON TIPPING that waitresses need tips to survive. But let me give you a little tip, Abby. Waitresses and waiters are not paid the minimum wage of $3.10. I've been a waiter in Louisiana for 21 years, and most of those years I earned 36 cents an hour — now it's 85 cents an hour — so if it weren't for my tips, I'd be in the poorhouse. Also, if a dish is broken or a customer walks out without paying, it comes out of my pay.

GEORGE IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR ABBY: Correction, please. Here's one waitress whose hourly pay has varied from 50 cents an hour to $1.50 depending on where I've worked. Our employers assume that we will make $3.10 with our tips. Sometimes we do and sometimes we don't. Very few people realize this. Pass the word.

HELEN IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

DEAR ABBY: I'm 53, have been a waitress for 35 years, and I love my work. In Brunswick, Ga., the tops is $1.90 an hour, and tips make up the rest. How would you like to serve four adults and five children a full-course dinner for a $1 tip? It happens.

BLONDY

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired minister, and nowhere does the Bible say that anyone is exempt from tithing, which means giving 10 percent of your income to the church. So since I give God 10 percent, no way will I put the waitress who delivers the best-caliber service on the same level with God. Therefore, I tip waitresses between 7 and 8 percent, and I am not ashamed of it.

FROM IOWA

DEAR ABBY: No complaints from California. I've got a couple of college degrees but they don't pay the rent. I dig being a waiter. I like the work, I enjoy the people I meet, and the hours suit me. A first-class waiter can make a good living anywhere in the world.

VINNIE IN LA.

DEAR ABBY: Please let the public know the truth about how much most restaurants pay their help. Where I work, the tops is $1.86 an hour. There is no sick pay, no benefits, no health plan and no retirement. We buy our own uniforms, tip the bartenders and busboys out of our pockets, and we're charged for our own meals whether we eat here or not. Add to that the cost of buying foot-socks, corn plasters and comfortable shoes, and you'll realize how important tips are.

FOOTSORE IN BALTIMORE

DEAR ABBY: In Memphis, if we get a 10 percent tip we're lucky. And while we're on the subject, let a waiter tell you about tippers. Teen-agers are the worst tippers and leave the biggest mess. Church groups rarely tip at all. Women as a rule tip better than men. Most blacks are good tippers and extremely easy to please. Most doctors are cheapskates, and teachers and nurses don't know what a tip is. Most senior citizens are close with a buck and are apt to leave a bunch of pennies. Policemen tip well, and so do other waitresses because they know how hard we work. But the biggest tippers are show people!

Ideas that work for you

Use these guidelines from the current Family Circle magazine when tipping service people you deal with year-round: Give the mailman in an apartment house $3; in a private home, $5; garbage collectors for a private home get $3 to $5. One week's salary is appropriate for a cleaning woman or regular baby sitter. And don't forget to give the newspaper boy or girl $3 to $5.

Cream pie fillings. These become watery and lumpy.

If you've got circles under your eyes, don't put blusher on the center of your cheeks where it will only emphasize the circles, advises Family Circle magazine's beauty editor, Barbara Winkler.

Instead, suggests Barbara in the current Family Circle, start the color high on cheekbones and bring it up and out toward the temples. Also use a light hand with eye makeup — the subtler the colors, the less noticeable the circles.

To free baking dishes for other uses while storing frozen food, line dish with foil, leaving enough extra to wrap over top of food, suggests a current Family Circle how-to article on freezing foods. When frozen solid, lift the contents from the dish, wrap, label with the date and contents and return to the freezer. To reheat, peel off foil, return to baking dish and bake.

To make your old pearl buttons shine like new again, take a tip from the current Family Circle magazine's "Reader's Idea Exchange" column. Apply a coating of clear nail polish.

For less of a mess when you spray paint small items, put each hand in a clear plastic bag, suggests a tip in the current Family Circle magazine's "Reader's Idea Exchange" column, and throw the bags away when the job is done.

To keep scissors safely closed while they are being stored, take a tip from the current Family Circle magazine and slip the points into a piece of cork.

No need to grope-around in a dark closet or basement for the elusive string that turns on the light. A tip in the current Family Circle magazine suggests painting empty spools from your sewing basket in bright colors and using them as easy-to-find light pulls. To make a spool even more visible, apply some fluorescent tape around it, or fasten two small bells at either end.

Do you want your kids to believe in Santa?

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A child's discovery that there is no Santa Claus appears to be a gradual process, says writer Barry Tarshis, in the December issue of Seventeen.

For most children, doubts begin to crystallize around the age of seven. Even so, many children try to ignore the inconsistencies in the Santa story and continue to believe in it, with reservations, for another year or so.

There is the possibility, notes Tarshis, that some children have already stopped believing in Santa Claus by the time their parents own up to the truth!

Chances are whether you encourage the Santa myth or not, the child will survive, with no sign of any psychological scars. Here's what some celebrities think about kids and Santa:

Reggie Jackson, New York Yankees: "Kids should be encouraged to believe in Santa as long as they understand that the true spirit of Christmas is the spirit of giving."

Pam Dawber, Mindy of TV's "Mork & Mindy": "Growing up, I believed in Santa Claus, the Easter bunny, Peter Pan — and I have only happy memories of these magical thoughts."

Slim & Elegant

Olivia Robertson has her perfect holiday figure.

If you feel left out of all the festivities this season, burdened by the extra pounds that make you miserably self-conscious about your appearance, it's time to bring your figure problems to Pat Walker's.

Olivia Robertson couldn't lose weight on diets, but she's wearing a size 8 again, thanks to Pat Walker's program. She writes:

"I had always weighed 113 pounds, but after three children I began to put on weight. I had tried many diets, but none worked and I knew I wouldn't exercise it off on my own. I wouldn't take the time."

"The day I weighed 140 pounds, I said something had to give. Then Pat Walker came to town. I thought maybe this would be the answer, at least I'd give it a try. At first I was unsure. I hadn't gotten this way overnight, so a month at Pat Walker's was just not enough. Then I began to see the results."

"The passive exercise not only made me feel great but helped my circulation. I lost 21 pounds and 24 1/2 inches, and the compliments I receive are really worth the effort. I couldn't have done it without Pat Walker."

Start shaping up today. At our beautifully decorated salons you can shed unwanted pounds privately and in a dignified manner. PATRIOTS ATTACK — Spraying Loyalists with deadly fire from their long rifles, Patriots stormed Kings Mountain in South Carolina 200 years ago. Maj. Patrick Ferguson on horseback, commander of the Loyalist force, was the only British soldier in the battle, which many feel was a crucial turning point in the Revolutionary War.

Battle turned tide

American vs. American

By DONALD J. FREDERICK
National Geographic News Service
WASHINGTON — Kings Mountain, a 60-foot ridge rising from the gentle farmlands of South Carolina, loomed especially large this year.

On Oct. 7 thousands of people converged at the landmark in Kings Mountain National Military Park to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the crucial battle that took place there during the American Revolutionary War.

Speeches, an outdoor drama, reenactments, even a rocking chair marathon were all part of the week-long festivities commemorating the event.

The battle was a bitter struggle waged entirely by Americans — Patriot against Loyalist, neighbor vs. neighbor. The only professional soldier involved on either side was Maj. Patrick Ferguson, who commanded the Loyalists, points out James Anderson, the park historian.

Appointed to lead all the Loyalist militia he could muster in the Carolinas, Ferguson had things pretty much in control after the newly formed Patriot army of the South suffered its disastrous defeat at the Battle of Camden, S.C., in August 1780.

But the "Bulldog," as Ferguson was known, made a serious mistake in late September, when he challenged the "overmountain" men in the wild, rugged country west of the Appalachians.

His message to them was unequivocal. If they did not stop their guerrilla forays against British and Loyalist forces, Ferguson promised to "march his army over the mountains, hang their leaders, and lay their country waste with fire and sword."

The blunt threat backfired by unifying the bands of fiercely independent overmountain men. Determined to take the offensive before Ferguson could strike, they gathered on the broad, open spaces by the swift-flowing Watauga River near present-day Elizabethton, Tenn. Sympathizers from other regions joined them.

This makeshift army of men in rude hunting shirts lugging long, heavy rifles, has been described as "composed of patriot riflemen of the farmer, hunter, and Indian-fighting class from the frontiers of the two Carolinas and Virginia."

But even though less than half of the 1,800-man army was made up of overmountain men, it was their leaders who kindled the spirit, laid the plans, and raised the money for the long march against Ferguson.

Unforeseen Snags

The dogged backcountry force caught up with the Bulldog on Oct. 7. He had chosen to make a stand on top of Kings Mountain and had written his commander, Gen. Charles Cornwallis, that it was "a post where I do not think I can be forced by a stronger enemy than that against us."

The mountain's heavily forested slopes were to shade Ferguson's optimistic prediction.

The trees and boulders on the mountainsides gave excellent cover to the assault force. Moreover, the Loyalist defenders on the open crest above were exposed to cross fire from the deadly accurate long rifles below.

The battle began about 3 p.m. when Ferguson's advance guard discovered Patriot forces trying to encircle the mountain. A deadly barrage of fire interspersed with fierce bayonet charges disrupted the attack.

To one hard-pressed frontiersman, "the mountain appeared volcanic; there flashed along its summit and around its base, and up its sides, one long sulphurous blaze."

Fighting from tree to tree, the Patriots pushed their way to the top. Before he was aware of it, 16-year-old Thomas Young found himself between his own regiment and the enemy, "as

Applicants are jailed

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — Four men who applied to work as jailers here landed instead behind bars when they failed to clear routine background checks, authorities said.

"If you're running from the law, what better place is there to hide than at a law enforcement agency?" said Sgt. Johnnie Deel, head of personnel and training at the Baytown jail.

Arrested were Karl McFarland, 23, of McNair, and Johnny Mata, 24, of San Antonio, Deel said Saturday.

McFarland was charged with raping a 19-year-old woman, and Mata was disqualified when a computer check revealed pending arrest warrants for drunk driving and burglary, said Deel.

Two others also were arrested for outstanding traffic fines totaling up to $100, he said.

"I'm making more arrests sitting behind a desk than I ever did when I was out on the street," said Deel. "We ought to hire jailers more often. It's a great way to get crooks off the street."

Deel noted that at least half of the 150 applicants for the five $1,145-per month jobs had been released from the Texas Department of Corrections.

"They many not have just committed a crime, but they have just finished paying for one," he said. "I guess they feel they have had a lot of experience with jails."

Jim Adams urging caution Make it a safe holiday

AUSTIN — The director of the Department of Public Safety has called on all holiday drivers to substantially improve their driving safety consciousness; otherwise, the Christmas and New Year's holiday periods may claim as many as 95 lives.

Colonel Jim Adams said "we realize the added dangers of traveling by motor vehicle during these holiday periods and we want to help avoid the tragedy and suffering which could mar this otherwise happy season."

Adams believes that "we don't have to continue suffering the spiraling traffic deaths if drivers use extreme caution in traveling on the streets and highways in Texas."

During the first 10 months of 1980 there were 356,896 motor vehicle accidents in Texas in which 153,099 persons suffered personal injuries. Adams said that in the comparable 1979 period, there were 372,448 accidents in Texas during which 153,884 persons were hurt. The total motor vehicle accidents are down 4.2 percent when compared to the same period last year.

Adams said that statewide traffic deaths are presently running about three percent ahead of the record pace of a year ago, in which 4,229 persons were killed in motor vehicle crashes.

When comparing the first 10 months of this year against 1979 figures, Adams indicated that during the January-October period, the state had counted 3,109 fatal accidents in which 3,562 persons were killed. In the first 10 months of 1979, there had been 2,968 fatal accidents, resulting in 3,415 deaths. This reflects a 4.3 percent increase over the comparable time frame.

During the first 11 months of this year, there have been 3,855 motor vehicle deaths, of which 2,044 have been recorded in cities and towns with the remaining 1,811 occurring in rural areas.

Adams estimated that 58 persons would be killed in motor vehicle accidents during Christmas holiday weekend and another 37 persons would be killed during the New Year holiday weekend. Both holiday periods are 102 hours long.

He said the Christmas count starts at 6 p.m. Wednesday, December 24 and continues until midnight, Sunday, December 28. The New Year holiday count starts at 6 p.m. Wednesday, December 31 and ends at midnight, Sunday, January 4, 1981.

Adams said that during the Christmas holiday period last year, 72 persons were killed in traffic and 43 were killed during the New Year holiday period.

All available DPS Troopers will be on duty throughout both holidays.

Schools will get bonanza

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock last week said collection of delinquent state ad valorem taxes will mean an extra $7.3 million this year to 17 Texas colleges and universities.

Bullock said the money comes from collections received by his office in the last couple months from delinquent taxes for 1979 and prior years.

He said the funds distributed to the schools will virtually cease because the state no longer collects the 10 cents per $100 ad valorem tax as the result of a property tax reform law passed during the last session of the legislature.

"The money being sent to the schools this month is more or less a windfall," Bullock said, "because initially it was uncertain these delinquent taxes would ever be paid."

The state's ad valorem tax has been used to support school building and construction.

Edell Sansbury reflects back, and looks forward to a better Christmas

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Last year, Edell Sansbury's Christmas was fraught with worry because her husband, Raymond, had been arrested for scavenging old clothes from the dump as gifts for their seven children.

This holiday season, the family is enjoying a four-bedroom home and the prospect of seeing their happy-ending story on a movie screen next year.

"People were really caring about somebody that needed help," says Sansbury, 34. "It made me believe more in people."

This time last year, Sansbury was working as a garbage collector and earning $112 a week. His wife worked at a fast-food restaurant, and the family lived in a $15-a-month wood shack without running water.

They came to national attention when Sansbury rummaged through the dump and salvaged seven pairs of shoes, two pairs of boots, a handbag and 40 pieces of clothing.

He was spotted by the operator of the landfill, and authorities later traced his license number and arrested him for trespassing. He faced a maximum penalty of a $100 fine and 30 days in jail since it is illegal under state law for citizens to take things from dumps.

The story of his troubles soon reached newspapers, radio and television, and thousands of people responded with Christmas cards, letters, gifts and cash.

The money eventually amounted to $30,000, which the family used to buy a house and a second-hand car. The last of the money was spent this week. "I didn't want to waste it up," said Sansbury.

After the public outcry over the case against Sansbury, county officials dropped the charges.

REFLECTING BACK — Edell and Raymond Sansbury of Darlington, S.C., reflect back on the problems they had last December and how things have changed for them.

A shy, quiet man, Sansbury was a bit unnerved by all the attention. Four months ago, he and his boss agreed his nerves were so bad that he should quit his job.

Now he spends his time working on his pale green, wood-sided house, painting the bedrooms and tending the yard. His wife babysits part-time and takes care of their children, who range in age from 5 to 13.

The movie is expected to go into production in February. Drew Cummings Productions of Tarzana, Calif., purchased the rights to the Sansbury story, and the $1.7 million motion picture is to be filmed in the Myrtle Beach, S.C., area.

The Sansburys are hoping that their take from the movie — which has not been determined — will be enough to keep them off the welfare rolls.

For Mrs. Sansbury, 29, the changes have been a dream come true.

Before last Christmas, Mrs. Sansbury said she had a recurring dream of a "clear spot with trees around it."

"I had this same dream three times and it scared me because I thought the Lord was showing me my grave," she said.

"After the last time I dreamed it things started happening. Now I know it was just the Lord letting me know he had a place for me."

Commissioners say 'sex in cells' charges require investigations

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Two Smith County commissioners say they will ask their colleagues today to join their demands for a formal investigation into a female inmate's allegations that jail officials demanded sexual favours in return for special treatment. The woman claims five Smith County jailers have promised preferential treatment to female inmates who accept the officers' sexual advances.

Commissioners Jerry Shamburger and Merlon Ammons told the Tyler Morning Telegraph they think an outside agency should investigate the allegations.

"The sheriff probably already has begun an internal investigation," Shamburger said. "But because a county facility is involved and any lawsuit that may be filed would involve the county, I feel that a thorough probe should be conducted."

Sheriff J.B. Smith said if the female prisoner will take a polygraph test, he will give one to his jailers. But the sheriff said the woman's attorney, Dwight Cook, refused.

"If they (the jailers) fail on the lie box, I'll be the first to press charges against them," Smith said.

Cook said he had asked that the woman be moved to another cellblock because she has been "abused by other prisoners and by jailers making sexual advances," but Smith refused.

"We have talked with a former inmate who is a very reliable person and she reported such incidents as jailers sleeping with female prisoners for special considerations at the jail commissary," Cook said, adding that two other witnesses confirmed those reports.

Smith denied the lawyer's charges.

District Attorney Hunter Brush said he has seen "no concrete evidence of wrongdoing" in the case and has not been asked — by Smith or Cook — to conduct a formal investigation.

Puerto Rican terrorists claim Penn Station bomb

NEW YORK (AP) — A Puerto Rican terrorist group has claimed responsibility for two pipe bomb explosions in Pennsylvania Station that drove travelers into a freezing night and suspended train service for two hours.

There were no injuries. An anonymous telephone caller told a news agency the Puerto Rican Armed Resistance was behind the two Sunday night blasts.

The explosions, 10 minutes apart, tore up an unoccupied locker room near the station's main-level waiting area.

About 1,000 holiday travelers were evacuated from the station, which lies below street level in an area running from 31st to 33rd streets and from Seventh to Eighth avenues. No injuries were reported.

Incoming Amtrak, Conrail and Long Island Rail Road trains were halted miles away as police accompanied by dogs searched for more bombs.

Police said the blasts erupted without warning at 5:55 and 6:05 p.m. at opposite ends of a bank of lockers, several feet from a waiting area. Each bomb had a timing device and each was as strong as a stick of dynamite, said Police Chief of Operations Patrick Murphy.

Card not junk mail

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — It was December 1942, and Jessie Lee Coon was living in Boise, Idaho, a long way from her Shreveport, La., home and friends.

She picked out a Christmas card with a rhyming verse to the effect that the card could be returned to the sender.

Mrs. Coon mailed it to Mary Louise Solomon, and the card, now tattered and mended, has been bouncing back and forth ever since.

"We've been exchanging it all these years," said Mrs. Solomon, now of Vicksburg. The card that cost 3 cents to mail in 1942 "cost me $1.97 this year. I sent it certified mail."

The tradition came to an abrupt halt in the early 1970s when Mrs. Solomon misplaced the relic in a batch of wedding cards received by her daughter. But it surfaced three years later, and the tradition resumed.

Mrs. Coon, who lives in Arcadia, La., said the greeting card is being patched with tape as it disintegrates from 38 years in the mail.

"We put the dates every year on the back and the inside, along with a little Christmas note," said Mrs. Coon, who lives in Arcadia, La. "It's just about to fall apart now. It's very fragile — it's taped in three places. Even the Scotch tape is getting old."

How long can such a correspondence last?
"As long as we live," said Mrs. Solomon, "and we plan on living for a long time."

Penny for his thoughts

AUBUDON, Iowa (AP) — A dispute over four cents' worth of gasoline is going to cost an Audubon man $168.82.

John W. Lyons, 69, was fined $100 and assessed $68.82 in court costs after being found guilty of assaulting a clerk in a self-service gas station.

The clerk, Darlene Hansen, 49, said Lyons had put $5.04 worth of gasoline in his car but paid her only $5, explaining that he had "run over."

Ms. Hansen told an Audubon County Magistrate Court jury last week that when she asked Lyons for the money he hit her and knocked her eyeglasses off.

Lyons testified that Ms. Hansen hit him and denied striking her.

The jury deliberated about 20 minutes before returning the verdict against Lyons.

Guthrie under pressure?

DALLAS (AP) — Deputy U.S. Attorney General Irving Nathan says allegations that he put pressure on a federal prosecutor to move a drug case to another jurisdiction are "preposterous allegations," according to published reports.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Daniel Guthrie Jr. said in his resignation last week that he was pressured by superiors in Washington to transfer the case from Dallas to Baltimore, a conclusion he said he "adamantly opposed."

Nathan told The Dallas Morning News that he did call Guthrie and tell him that the defendant's father — an Israeli official — wanted his son's cocaine smuggling case moved to Baltimore, the newspaper said.

Nathan specializes in narcotics and organized crime prosecution.

Justice Department officials also confirmed that Ann Hoffman, executive assistant to Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, had contacted Guthrie about moving the case, the newspaper said in a copyright story on Sunday.

The News said Nathan told them Saturday that Fred Weisgal, a member of the Israeli Ministry of Justice, had asked that his son's trial be moved closer to the Weisgal family home near Baltimore.

"It was last November when I contacted him (Guthrie)," Nathan told the newspaper, "and told him I had been contacted by the father of the defendant. All I did was relate to him the defendant's desires to have the case transferred to Baltimore."

"I think this is a preposterous allegation that anyone has applied pressure."

Guthrie, however, said Nathan told him, "I can't order you to do it but I strongly suggest you do it (move the case)," the newspaper said.

Army recruiter in Canyon

SSG Diego Olague, formerly an administrative specialist in Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., is the new Army recruiter at the Canyon Recruiting Station.

Olague will work in Hereford, Farwell, Dimmitt, Nazareth, Hart, Friona, Bovina and Lazbuddie, Tex.

A native of Big Spring, Olague will be working within 200 miles of his hometown and parents.

Olague graduated from Big Spring High School in 1968 and has approximately 76 college credits from the City Colleges of Chicago, University of Maryland, Central Texas College, Howard College and El Paso Community College.

His main subject of concentration was computer science.

Olague enlisted in the Army in 1969 as a clerk typist but worked in computer science in Germany for three years.

He has also worked in Hawaii and Ft. Lewis, Wa.

His awards include an Army Commendation Medal, a Good Conduct Medal (3rd award) and a National Defense Medal.

Olague is married and has three children. His wife, Norma, is a native of Texas.

Two die in home fire

HOCKLEY, Texas (AP) — Two youngsters died and a third was injured in an early Sunday home fire. Investigators say may have been started by a television set. Four children escaped injury.

The dead were Felecia McDade, 1, and Christopher McDade, 3 months, children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDade. Eddie McDade, 9, was reported in satisfactory condition in Waller County Hospital in Hempstead.

Shelton Lawson, a Harris County arson investigator, said the four-room frame house was destroyed.

CLIP AND SAVE

Pan: Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, spread on bottom of 9"x5"x3" loaf pan. Sprinkle with 1/4 cup Imperial Brown Sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Toast 1 cup pecan halves in oven, spread over mixture. Combine 2 tablespoons honey with 2 tablespoons water and drizzle over pecans. Set aside.

Streusel: Mix 1/2 cup chopped pecans, 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1/2 cup flour, 1/2 cup Imperial Brown Sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Mixture will be very crumbly. Set aside.

Loaf: 1 package dry yeast 2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 cup warm water 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 1/4 cups sifted flour 1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons Imperial 1/2 cup milk, scalded,
Granulated Sugar cooled
1 1/4 teaspoons cinnamon 1 egg

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Set aside. Sift flour, Imperial Granulated Sugar, cinnamon, baking powder, salt together into mixing bowl; cut in butter or margarine until mixture resembles fine crumbs. Combine yeast with milk, beaten egg and stir into bowl and beat well. Knead about 5 minutes on floured surface until dough is no longer sticky. Roll out to 15 x 10-inch rectangle. Sprinkle with streusel mixture, and roll up from short side (like a jelly roll). Cut into three equal pieces and place in loaf pan, (cut sides up), press lightly. Cover with oiled plastic wrap and let rise in warm place 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until even with top of pan. Bake in preheated 350° F. oven on middle rack about 30 minutes. Remove from pan onto rack to cool. Serves 8-10.

Judge wants to know why housing code violations dropped

CHICAGO (AP) — The number of Chicago buildings cited for housing code violations dropped from 11,500 last year to 400 this year, and a judge wants to know why.

"I am very concerned about the lack of cases and I plan to meet with Fire Department officials to discuss the (court) call and see what their problems are," Judge Richard H. Jorzak, presiding judge of the Cook County Housing Court, said Sunday.

The number of buildings cited for problems with plumbing, wiring and structure dropped 96 percent, city officials said.

The decline in city action against building owners apparently began last Jan. 1, after a shakeup in which Mayor Jane M. Byrne dissolved the city's scandal-plagued Building Department.

Before the reorganization, the Building Department had performed annual inspections for building code violations, with the Fire Department inspecting the same buildings for fire code violations.

Such routine inspections are no longer conducted by the newly created Department of Inspectional Services. In a move aimed at avoiding duplication, Mayor Byrne ordered the Fire Prevention Bureau to take on the annual building code checks as well.

"The records show that we have very few filings initiated by the Fire Department on its annual inspections," said Jorzak. "The majority of afternoons we have no cases at all in the courtrooms that hear those inspection cases."

"Anytime the money market gets tight, the cases increase because owners have no capital to invest in improvements," said John McCaffrey, a city corporation counsel who handles housing cases.

"Homes that normally would be rehabilitated are not being renovated because of high interest rates," added Jorzak. He said this is why his personal court call of cases seeking building demolitions has increased.

Each year, the city inspects approximately 28,000 buildings for structural, plumbing, electrical, elevator, boiler, ventilation, fire code and other violations.

Aging Polar Bears may be condemned by water

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three geriatric polar bears at the Baltimore zoo may be condemned to death because federal officials say the city's water is unfit for them to play in.

A federal directive has ordered the zoo to provide the bears purer water or close the exhibit. If the exhibit is closed, the bears probably would have to be put to death.

"It's kind of a sad thing," said zoo director Stefan H. Graham. "No zoo in the United States is going to take 25-year-old polar bears — nobody would want to be taking on geriatric polar bears."

Graham said the bears have lived two to three times what their natural lifespan in the wild would have been.

He said zoo and city budget officials have to choose whether to spend $125,000 on a new filtration system for the polar bears' pool or close the exhibit.

"Standards for ... polar bears are stricter than for people," said Walter Koterwas, who oversees the city's drinking water.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says polar bears must have a pool in which the bacteria coliform count is below 1,000 MPN (most probable number) per 100 milliliters of water.

Most of the year, the Baltimore Zoo has no problem meeting this requirement, Graham said. But he added that in the summer, the bacteria count in the water, which is regular city water, sometimes soars to the 4,000-MPN range.

Reagan plans to wear 'morning attire'

WASHINGTON (AP) — If all members of Congress invited to Ronald Reagan's inauguration take his advice and wear striped trousers, he will be getting off to a better start than John F. Kennedy did.

Reagan, who plans to wear morning attire when he takes the oath Jan. 20, suggested through the Congressional Joint Committee on Inaugural Ceremonies last week that members attending follow suit.

In the 1960 inauguration, Kennedy passed the word that the traditional high silk hat would be the proper headgear, although President Dwight D. Eisenhower abandoned it in favor of a homburg.

On inauguration day, both Kennedy and the departing Eisenhower wore silk topers, but congressional homburgs were spotted in the stands.

A contemporary account of George Washington's first inaugural, in 1789 in New York, said he wore "a complete suit of homespun cloth; the cloth was of a fine fabric, and as handsomely finished as any European superfine cloth."

Top hat was the correct wear from 1853, when Franklin Pierce was inaugurated, until Eisenhower broke the tradition 100 years later. Kennedy wore his only briefly, doffing it before he spoke.

Lyndon B. Johnson opted for a tuxedo and Richard M. Nixon for a cutaway. Jimmy Carter strode down Pennsylvania Avenue in a blue business suit with a vest. Reagan plans to go hatless.

As for parades, although Reagan inaugural planners flirted briefly with the idea of having no weapons, martial displays have been part of inaugural day from the beginning.

A troop of cavalry escorted Washington. Thomas Jefferson was accompanied by a company of Maryland artillery. Full-scale military parades began with the Madison inaugural in 1809. James Monroe had an escort of Marines and Georgia riflemen. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant had eight full divisions. More than 700 airplanes, led by five B-36's, flew over when Harry S. Truman was inaugurated. And Eisenhower's first inaugural parade featured a 280-millimeter atomic cannon.

Reagan planners have pledged to hold the parade to one hour. When Grover Cleveland was inaugurated in 1893, it took six hours.

In "Facts About the Presidents," Joseph Nathan Kane says 36 of the 48 inaugurations have been held on the East front of the Capitol. Others were in the Senate or House chamber, or in New York or Philadelphia, or at the White House.

This year, the congressional joint committee decided to hold the inauguration on the West front, facing the Washington Monument.

Father of son shot by Iranian interviewed

IRANIAN STUDENT ACQUITTED — Afshin Shariati hugs his wife Toni after a Denver District Court jury found him innocent Saturday in the shooting death of a Denver teen-ager and the wounding of two others. Shariati, a 21-year-old Iranian student, admitted shooting the youths after they smashed his apartment window during a wave of anti-Iranian sentiment following the seizure of the American embassy in Tehran. Shariati said he shot in defense of his home.

DENVER (AP) — The father of a teen-ager who was fatally shot by an Iranian student says Afshin Shariati will have to "live with" the incident despite his acquittal on second-degree murder charges.

Donald Moritzky said his son's death was a tragedy that has traumatized his family.

"My wife, my sons — our lives will never be the same," he said after the verdict. "He will live with it."

Shariati was freed Saturday after a Denver District Court jury acquitted him of charges stemming from the Nov. 11, 1979 incident.

He admitted shooting the .30-caliber rifle that killed 15-year-old Moritzky and wounded two of Moritzky's companions. But Shariati said he did so because he thought a bomb had been thrown into his apartment. Shariati's defense lawyer, Walter Gerash, contended Shariati did not take aim at the boys as they fled.

Witnesses testifying in the case said the three boys, armed with baseball bats, had set out to "hassle" Iranians and smashed a window in Shariati's apartment. The incident occurred one week after Americans were taken hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Iran.

Jeep Corp. reacts to '60 Minutes'

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Jeep Corp. says its Jeep CJ5 has characteristics different from some vehicles, but that it is a safe vehicle "when driven intelligently."

The company said Sunday it was reviewing a "60 Minutes" program which reported that tests by the Insurance Institute of Highway Safety found the Jeep subject to roll-overs in certain turning maneuvers. The four wheel-drive CJ5 is the civilian offspring of the military general-purpose vehicle first used during World War II and nicknamed "jeep" by GIs.

The CBS-TV broadcast said tests showed the vehicle would roll over during a maneuver described as a "J" turn, a sweeping turn following a straight-on path.

The Jeep also rolled when making a quick "evasive maneuver" such as a sudden turn to avoid an object in its path, the report said. According to "60 Minutes," the company said it performed the same tests and the Jeep did not roll. Correspondent Morley Safer said Jeep representatives declined to be interviewed.

Al Goldberg, a spokesman for the Toledo-based corporation, said Jeep's parent company, American Motors Corp., was reviewing the program.

Playwright Marc Connelly dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Playwright Marc Connelly, an Algonquin Round Table regular who won a Pulitzer Prize for his drama "The Green Pastures," is dead at age 90.

Connelly, a master of light comedy and well-known for his collaborations with George S. Kaufman, died of pneumonia Sunday at St. Luke's Hospital.

"The theater is a compulsion," Connelly said recently. "It fills a great human need. It is the best social instrument of communication that mankind has devised."

The son of an actor, Connelly turned to the theater — as actor, writer and director — after several years as a journalist. He also wrote novels, short stories, screenplays and taught at the Yale Drama School.

One of the Connelly-Kaufman works, "Dulcy," had a brief revival here last month.

Others include "To the Ladies," "Helen of Troy, N.Y.," "Be Yourself" and "Beggars on Horseback."

Among his other works are the play "The Wisdom Tooth," the novel "A Souvenir from Qam," his memoirs titled, "Voices Offstage," and the comedy "Young Men in Flight."

One of New York's literary wits of the 1920s, the bald, jocular playwright met almost daily at the Algonquin Hotel with Round Table cohorts Harold Ross, founder and editor of The New Yorker; critic Alexander Woolcott; humorists Dorothy Parker and James Thurber; and newsman Heywood Brown, among others.

He wrote and directed "The Green Pastures" in 1930 and directed it again on Broadway in 1951. It also appeared on television's Hallmark Hall of Fame in 1957.

Connelly at first was unable to find a producer for the play, which featured an all-black cast and depicted how Southern plantation blacks viewed God, the Old Testament and heaven.

TAKES FOR ELEVEN — Minnesota Vikings' wide receiver Ahmad Rashad (28) takes a 11-yard pass from his quarterback Tommy Kramer as Houston Oilers' J.C. Wilson (33) tries to break up the fourth quarter play in the NFL game at Houston Sunday.

For Pittsburgh Steelers

One last hurrah

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Steelers are out of the playoffs, their dream for an unprecedented third consecutive Super Bowl title at an end. But the Steelers will have a say in deciding which team, San Diego or New England, fills the National Football League's 10-team playoff field.

Buffalo and Cleveland won division titles and Houston and Oakland assured themselves of postseason berths by winning their games Sunday. Those decisions wiped out Pittsburgh's playoff chances.

But the San Diego Chargers must beat the Steelers tonight to make the playoffs, and they know that won't be easy.

"This is our Super Bowl," said Hank Bauer, San Diego's special teams star. "Their pride is hurt. They want to show the country they are the champions they are. Anybody who thinks they won't be motivated is crazy."

Steelers wide receiver Lynn Swann agreed. "Revenge is always a great motivator," he noted.

If the Chargers win, they will be the American Conference's West Division titlists. But if they lose, the AFC West title goes to Oakland, a 33-17 winner over the New York Giants Sunday, and the New England Patriots would go into the AFC wild-card game with Houston.

New England stayed alive by beating the New Orleans Saints 38-27, but failed to overtake Buffalo for the AFC East title as the Bills defeated the San Francisco 49ers 18-13. The AFC Central championship went to Cleveland, which edged Cincinnati 27-24, while the Houston Oilers won a wild-card berth by trimming the Minnesota Vikings 20-16.

The only other division that had not been decided was the National Conference's East, and the Philadelphia Eagles won that even though they lost to the Dallas Cowboys 35-27. The clubs finished in a tie with 12-4 records, but Philadelphia earned its first division title in 20 years on the basis of net points in division games.

However, Dallas' triumph gave the Cowboys the home field advantage in next Sunday's NFC wild-card game against the Los Angeles Rams.

In other NFL games, the Rams edged the Atlanta Falcons 20-17 in overtime, the Kansas City Chiefs outscored the Baltimore Colts 38-28, the Detroit Lions beat the Green Bay Packers 24-3, the Washington Redskins defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 31-7 and the Denver Broncos topped the Seattle Seahawks 25-17.

On Saturday, the New York Jets beat the Miami Dolphins 24-17 and the Chicago Bears edged the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 14-13.

Bills 18, 49ers 13

Buffalo won the AFC East for the first time since 1966 as Nick Mike-Mayer's third-quarter field goal from 25 yards out snapped a 13-13 tie. The Bills added a safety when 49ers punter Jim Miller was tackled in the end zone after a bad snap from center.

Patriots 38, Saints 27

The Patriots fell behind 13-3 but rallied behind Matt Cavanaugh, who threw three touchdown passes. New England's victory kept its playoff hopes alive and killed those of the Steelers — and ironically, it was engineered by a former University of Pittsburgh quarterback.

Browns 27, Bengals 24

Brian Sipe fired three touchdown passes for Cleveland, but it was a 22-yard field goal by Don Cockroft with 1:25 to play that provided the margin of victory and put the Browns into the playoffs for the first time in eight years.

Sipe completed 24 of 44 passes for 308 yards to raise his season total to 4,132 yards and join Joe Namath and Dan Fouts as the only NFL passers to reach the 4,000-yard plateau.

Oilers 20, Vikings 16

Earl Campbell gained 203 yards on 29 carries to win his third consecutive NFL rushing title with 1,934 yards for the Oilers, who have made the playoffs all three years Campbell has been with them.

Campbell, who set an NFL record with his fourth 200-yard game of the season, scored the winning TD on a 3-yard run with 1:58 left.

Raiders 33, Giants 17

The Raiders assured themselves of a playoff spot as Jim Plunkett, their resurrected passer, threw touchdown passes of 31 yards to Cliff Branch and 37 yards to Raymond Chester.

Cowboys 35, Eagles 27

Danny White threw four touchdown passes — tying Roger Staubach's club record of 28 for a season — and ran for a fifth score as Dallas built a 35-10 lead. That put the Cowboys 25 points in front, just the number they needed to beat Philadelphia by in order to gain the NFC East title. But the Eagles rallied for 17 points in the final seven minutes to secure the division crown.

Rams 20, Falcons 17, OT

Los Angeles beat Atlanta on Frank Corral's 23-yard field goal midway through the 15-minute overtime period.

Chiefs 38, Colts 28

Second-year quarterback Bill Kenney, making his third straight start after not playing a down for his first 29 pro games, threw three touchdown passes to lead the Chiefs over the Colts.

Lions 24, Packers 3

Detroit, 2-14 last season, finished this year at 9-7, its first winning record since 1972. Gary Danielson completed 17 of 26 passes for 219 yards and one touchdown for Detroit.

Seattle is 0-8 in Kingdome

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Seahawks had their two highest totals of no shows in the club's final two home games this season.

The Seahawks had their 28th straight sellout — regular season and exhibition — Sunday.

There were 12,906 no shows in the Kingdome as the Seahawks completed their fifth National Football League season with a 25-17 loss to the Denver Broncos.

The Seahawks suffered their ninth straight loss and wound up at 4-12. They were 0-8 in the Kingdome this season.

Phillips had no doubts

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston played out the same old script in Sunday's 20-16 victory over Minnesota that advanced the Oilers to the National Football League playoffs for the third straight year.

But it took players like Earl Campbell, Ken Stabler and Dave Casper to make it a happy ending once more for the Oilers, whose love of cliff-hanging endings makes them a favorite of heart pacemaker manufacturers.

Campbell, who set an NFL record with his fourth 200-yard performance of the season, scored the winning touchdown with 1:58 to play, finishing with 203 for the game on 29 carries and his third straight NFL rushing title with 1,934 total yards.

Then, rather than waste the final moments of the game, the Oilers allowed the Vikings to drive the length of the field and have quarterback Tommy Kramer pass into the end zone on the final play of the game — incomplete of course.

The Oilers wouldn't have it any other way. They've done it all season in compiling an 11-5 record and they'll probably continue their mad-dash finishes in the playoffs.

"We've always been a second half team," Oiler Coach Bum Phillips said. "There was never any doubt in my mind that we would come back. We're a much stronger running team this year and I'm not so sure we're not a better clutch team than we have been."

The victory gives the Oilers a wild card spot in the playoffs for the third straight year, this time as the runner-up to American Football Conference Central Division champion Cleveland. Houston went to the AFC finals the past two seasons before losing to Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh.

Minnesota will take a 9-7 record into the playoffs as the NFC Central Division champion.

The Oilers set the stage for their comeback in the first half when they fell behind 3-0 on a pair of three-yard touchdown passes from Kramer to tight end Joe Senser.

Chicago (AP) — The secret to the Chicago Bulls' success this season, according to coach Jerry Sloan, "will depend on how well our second unit responds."

If the second unit plays as well as it did Saturday night in helping to trounce the Houston Rockets 133-109, Sloan says, the Bulls' goal to reach the playoffs "may be achieved."

That unit, led by Ricky Sobers, Scott May, Dwight Jones and Bobby Wilkerson, accounted for 66 of the Bulls' points. Sobers chipped in with 20 and May added 19, enabling the Bulls to win their 15th game against 20 losses.

May, a former top draft choice for Chicago who has fallen on bad times because of recurring knee injuries, explained "that my role now, although relegated to coming in off the bench, keeps me constantly prepared to play a good game."

Sloan said although May, who collected 13 points in the second quarter, was taken out of the lineup because I wanted to get my first team in so they wouldn't lose their rhythm.

May countered by saying "I certainly don't get tired but I believe that this second unit is not only the guts to our team but because of the way that they move the ball creates the kind of offense that is good for me."

The play of Sobers and Wilkerson, Sloan said, "gives us a new dimension because they are so quick and keeps everyone involved and thereby makes the opponent commit a lot of turnovers and forces them into a lot of bad situations."

The Bulls were led by Reggie Theus who scored 24 points, followed by Larry Kenon who had 23.

Aggies win own meet

By The Associated Press

The Texas Aggies and the Houston Cougars have brand new shiny trophies on display in their athletic departments today.

The next time you hear from them they'll be out West where snow shoes wouldn't be a bad idea for after game wear.

A&M overcame some atrocious free throw shooting to beat Virginia Tech in the finals of its own tournament, 55-52 at Blacksburg, Va.

The Houston Cougars downed Wyoming 70-61 in the finals of the first annual Kettle Classic tournament in Houston.

The No. 13 ranked and 7-0 Aggies take a week off before playing Monday, Dec. 29th in the KOA Classic in Billings, Montana against first round opponent California-Ervine.

Houston, which is 7-1, plays Tuesday night at Nevada-Reno then travels to a place colder than Billings — Alaska — for two games against Anchorage.

For A&M, it was their second trophy in two weeks. The Aggies took the First Union Invitational two weeks ago in Charlotte, N.C.

The victory over Virginia Tech was a big one, said Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf.

"They've only lost 29 games in 20 years here and we played hard," said Metcalf. "You would have thought we were playing for the national championship."

"We overcame a lot of adversity," said Metcalf. "We played smart in the second half. It was our most important win of the year."

In other games Saturday night involving SWC teams, Houston won the first annual Kettle Classic with a 70-61 victory over Wyoming behind guard Rob Williams' 17 points; 19th ranked Arkansas downed Eastern Kentucky 80-74; Texas mashed North Texas State as Henry Johnson scored 36 points; Oklahoma City bumped Baylor 89-61, and Texas-Arlington routed Southern Methodist 78-56.

Houston improved its record to 7-1 while Arkansas is 7-2.

Coach of Bruins undergoes knife

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Gerry Cheevers of the Boston Bruins is reported resting comfortably at Massachusetts General Hospital after undergoing an emergency appendectomy.

Cheevers, who turned 40 on Dec. 7, was operated on Sunday morning by Dr. Ashby Moncure, team physician for the National Hockey League club, who reported that "everything went fine with the operation."

Nate Greenberg, club spokesman, said the earliest Cheevers would rejoin the team would be Dec. 31 in Chicago. The club is idle until next Saturday, when it opens a six-game road trip in Toronto.

Harry Sinden, the team's general manager, said he would discuss the absence of Cheevers Monday morning with assistant coach Gary Doak. However, Sinden said Doak will probably coach the team until Cheevers returns.

Wilkins: 'Mojo is not hex'

By The Associated Press

The air of superstition surrounds two of the state's schoolboy football champions. While Coach John Wilkins of Odessa Permian doesn't put much stock in it, the head mentor at Pittsburg admits to having come across a "good-luck charm."

Wilkins, whose West Texas squad captured the 5A crown with a 28-19 comeback win Saturday over Port Arthur Jefferson, said "hard work" was responsible for the win — not Mojo, the "hex" Permian fans use on unsuspecting opponents.

But Mojo believers may want to take at least part of the credit for the Texas Stadium turnaround.

Dale Carr dashed six yards and Kent Sager scooted another 40 for touchdowns late in the fourth quarter as Permian wiped out a 19-7 halftime deficit.

"Mojo takes away from what the kids have accomplished," Wilkins said. "I don't resent it, but to say it's mystical, that we win with a mystique, is not giving credit where it is due. This is a product of hard work."

But Pittsburg Coach James Rust, who guided the Pirates to a 13-2 win in the 3A championship game against Van Vleck Friday night, said his team's mostly black uniforms are a good luck charm.

"We wore black starting three years ago and we've been a winning team since then. We were uncared for wearing black (until Friday)," Rust said. "We wore gold in the playoffs last year and we lost to Van, 7-6."

In the 5A clash, Jefferson had built a 12-point advantage after the offensive duo of Todd Dodge and wide receiver Brent Duhon linked up for touchdown passes of 21 and 15 yards.

But Permian closed the gap to 19-14 when quarterback Jimmy Hix hit tight end Jimmy Morris on a 37-yard scoring pass with 38 seconds left in the third quarter.

Then Permian recovered a fumbled Jefferson punt reception at Port Arthur's 44-yard-line and Carr put the West Texans ahead with 4:13 left. After a fourth-down pass by Dodge fell short near midfield, Sager scored with only 73 seconds left.

"They (Permian) are winners," Jefferson Coach Ron Thompson said. "They didn't roll over and die when they were down. That's the sign of a good team. And they are a very good team."

Van Vleck's lone safety was the only score by a 3A team off the Pittsburg defense this season. The Pirates had tallied a streak of 42 consecutive scoreless quarters until the second-quarter safety — a state record.

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — It might have been the mariachi musicians in the airport lobby or the young women in red, yellow, blue and green dresses stomping and spinning Latin dances. Or maybe it was the "Sun Carnival Queen," Cheryl Ward, and her "ladies in waiting" greeting the arriving Nebraska football players with warm smiles and occasional kisses.

Probably not bed-check them right close," said Osborne, who had to raise his voice at times to be heard over the sounds of guitars, trumpets and violins of the strolling mariachis. He told sportswriters that the Sun Bowl game will be "the most important game of the year for us" because of the final national rankings. At present Nebraska is No. 8 and Mississippi State is ranked 17th, and a loss could knock Nebraska out of the top 10 where it has been nine out of the past 10 seasons.

Bowl teams are 9-2, but Nebraska, is a two-touchdown favorite. Because of mechanical difficulties before takeoff, the 115-man squad arrived nearly two and a half hours late, and Osborne whisked his players on waiting buses after only one routine by the "Hermanitas" dancers. A spokesman said four routines had been planned. The Mississippi State squad arrives Tuesday afternoon.

McMahon marshalled the incredible rally, passing for 250 yards in the final quarter alone. For the game, he was 32 of 49 for 446 yards with one interception. His 41-yard desperation heave was hauled in by tight end Clay Brown for the game-winning touchdown with no time remaining. Kicker Kurt Gunther added the winning extra point to ice the highest-scoring bowl game in history.

That made him only the fifth player in league history to surpass the 25,000-point mark and, incidentally, helped the Lakers to a 135-122 victory over the San Antonio Spurs. In other NBA action Sunday night, Milwaukee whipped Houston 123-91; San Diego beat Detroit 117-97, and Phoenix stopped Portland 111-100.

Agriculture Department publishes new farm income figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Agriculture Department publication about the nuts and bolts of how the government keeps track of farm income probably will never be on anyone's best-seller list.

But it is chock full of figures, some of them a bit shocking, you might say.

The 114-page document is titled, "Economic Indicators of the Farm Sector: Income and Balance Sheet Statistics, 1979." It is the first that uses a "new set of financial measures," regarding farmers' sales, expenses, income and other financial data.

Last summer, department officials disclosed that economists were using a new accounting system, one that would discount some of the traditional "expenses" of farmers, make allowances for some new ones and, as a result, would measure the cash flow of farmers more precisely than the old "net income" figures allowed.

For example, the older method showed farmers' net income in 1979 was about $31 billion, an increase of 19 percent from 26.1 billion in 1978.

Under the new accounting, farmers' net income in 1979 was less on a dollar basis — $25.7 billion — but it showed the same comparative 19 percent increase from $21.6 billion in 1978.

One of the new sets of figures is what the economists call "cash income from farming," which purports to measure farmers' cash flow during the year.

It was $38 billion in 1979, but that was an increase of only 9 percent from 1978's cash income from farming of $34.8 billion.

On the face of it, a decision by the Agriculture Department to change its accounting methods may be important with the latest news about screwworms infesting Tibetan sheep.

But when Congress cranks up for work on a new farm bill in 1981, and the incoming Reagan administration unfolds its blueprint for agricultural policy, blizzards of economic statistics — including farm income figures — will threaten to bury the land.

As the new publication explains it, farm income and finance methods of accounting in use today originated in the 1940s, when there were about twice as many farmers as now. Most of those were small, family operations that depended almost entirely on farming as their source of income.

"However, the fundamental character and structure of agriculture have grown increasingly diverse," the report said.

"As a result, the existing economic accounts and data series are increasingly ineffective in providing insight into the true financial well-being of the various groups that make up today's changing farm sector."

Anyone wanting a free single copy of the report, "Economic Indicators of the Farm Sector: Income and Balance Sheet Statistics, 1979," Statistical Bulletin No. 650, can contact: Economics and Statistics Service Publications, USDA, Room 0054-S, Washington, D.C. 20250.

WASHINGTON (AP) — World cotton production is up slightly from prospects a month ago but the demand situation is relatively shaky because of the general economic outlook.

The Agriculture Department's latest figures show world cotton production in 1980-81 at about 64 million bales, down from 65.6 million last year. Much of the decline results from this year's poor U.S. harvest, estimated at 10.9 million bales against 14.6 million in 1979.

Officials said the latest global cotton estimate is up by about 300,000 bales from the forecast in November because of improved prospects in the Soviet Union and China.

The Soviet Union is having a bumper cotton harvest of about 14.2 million bales, compared to 13.1 million last year. And China's harvest of 11 million bales is up from 10.1 million in 1979, according to the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

"World exports of cotton are presently estimated at 20 million bales, approximately 300,000 below the November estimate and 2.8 million below 1979-80," the report said.

"Higher world prices for cotton, combined with depressed demand for textiles in major consuming countries, account for the lower expected export levels.

"All major West European nations as well as most major Asian markets are expected to import less cotton during 1980-81 than in the previous marketing year."

Officials have said in other reports, however, that much will depend on how the U.S. economy shapes up in the next few months and on 1981 crop prospects in the United States and overseas.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public has until Jan. 30 to submit comments on what the Agriculture Department should do about shaping its peanut program for 1981.

Gathered as part of the regular rule-making process, the comments will be used to help make decisions on the level of government price supports for 1981-crop peanuts, including "quota" and "additional" peanuts.

Addison results force new look

TOCCOA, Ga. (AP) — The acquittal of former Tax Commissioner Donald Addison in the death of his political rival forces a new look at charges against two other men, says the prosecutor in the case.

After deliberating 14½ hours over two days, a Superior Court jury Sunday found Addison innocent of murder in the execution-style shooting of Stephens County Tax Commissioner Elizabeth Williams.

Addison, who was to face Mrs. Williams in the Aug. 5 primary, had been accused of arranging her July 31 death for his political gain. She had ousted him from the post in 1977.

After the verdict was announced, District Attorney V.D. Stockton said he would have to re-examine the cases against John Michael Jones, 29, of Greenville, S.C., and Raymond MacJunkin, 35, of Franklin County, Ga.

Prosecutors had contended that James Everett Castell, 35, of Greenville, fired the shots in exchange for $1,500 from Addison, that Jones drove Castell to Mrs. Williams' home and that MacJunkin arranged a meeting between Addison and Castell.

Jones and MacJunkin have been charged with murder. In an earlier trial, Castell was convicted of murder and sentenced to death.

"It's just two juries and two different opinions," Stockton said after Addison was acquitted. "If he's not guilty, of course MacJunkin couldn't have gotten Castell for him."

Addison, held without bond since his arrest in August, returned home Sunday for the first time in four months. He testified in his own defense Friday, saying he had nothing to do with Mrs. Williams' death.

He declined comment on the verdict.

Savings Bonds: What do you know about them?

By The Associated Press

If you're one of the millions of Americans who own U.S. Savings Bonds, it might pay to review your investment to make sure you know exactly what you have.

Are you taking full advantage of the tax breaks available with bonds, for example? Do you have old bonds that should be cashed in? What should you do about the accumulated interest?

Sales of savings bonds have been sagging as buyers turned to investments that offered higher interest of their face value. Series EE bonds sold before Nov. 1, 1980 reach maturity in 11 years; those sold after Nov. 1 reach maturity in 9 years. Interest is paid when you cash in the bonds. The interest rate on bonds held to maturity was recently increased from 7 percent to 8 percent.

Series HH bonds are available in denominations from $500 to $10,000. They are sold at face value and have a maturity of 10 years. Interest is paid semi-annually. The rate was recently increased from 6 1/2 percent to 7 1/2 percent. Bondholders must report the interest annually on their tax returns.

Interest on Series EE bonds — and on the older E bonds — is exempt from state and local income taxes, however. And you do not have to pay federal income tax on the interest until you cash in the bonds.

As a general rule, it is worthwhile to defer the federal tax until you are in a lower tax bracket — after retirement, for example. But there are some exceptions. If you buy the bonds in the name of your child — who has no other major source of income — it usually pays to report the interest annually. Simply file a 1040 tax return for the youngster during the first year of ownership; if the child's unearned income is less than $1,000, no tax is due. You do not have to file further returns in later years; the single return is enough to establish your intent.

Owners of older Series E bonds, meanwhile, face some key decisions starting next year.

The government traditionally has extended the maturity for Series E bonds so that holders did not have to cash them in if they didn't want to; the bonds simply kept earning interest. Now, however, the government has announced there will be no further extensions for the oldest outstanding Series E bonds — the ones sold between May 1941 and April 1952. Those bonds will reach maturity exactly 40 years from the date of issue; they will not earn interest after that date.

Holders of bonds can cash them in and pay federal income taxes on the accumulated interest, or they can cash in the bonds and reinvest the proceeds in Series HH bonds. Interest paid on HH bonds is subject to taxes, but the lump sum earned on the E bonds remains sheltered.

Teenager dies in car chase

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas teen-ager was killed when his car went out of control during a chase with suburban police officers that sometimes reached speeds of 90 mph official said.

Montgomery Lee Green, 18, died early Sunday, the fourth person to die during a police chase in Dallas in the past week.

King kids remain together

HESSTON, Kan. (AP) — Orphaned a decade ago when their parents died in a plane crash, the seven King kids made a rare and difficult decision: they would stay together, in the family home.

The youngest child was 4, the eldest only 18, but, "I hope, and I truly believe, that if they could be with us now, they would be proud of the way we turned out," said Lynne, now 28, as the family prepares for its 1980 holiday reunion.

The tragedy struck Oct. 2, 1970, after state Rep. Ray King, 47, and his wife Yvonne, 41, said cheery good-byes and headed for Logan, Utah, to see old friends and a college football game.

They never made it. The Kings, along with 29 other people — including most of the Wichita State University football team — perished when their chartered plane crashed near Silver Plume, Colo.

There were 11 survivors, and for more than a day, the King children prayed their parents were among the lucky ones.

Terri, then 13, recalled praying to God to "let Mom and Dad be okay. Please ... you're the only one I can turn to now and I need you. We all do. Either way, I know you're going to take care of us."

After the funeral, attended by more than 2,000 people, relatives held a family council on the fate of the orphans.

The decision was unanimous: stay together, with a local couple living in as temporary "house-parents."

"Finally, after everybody had left, we were all there alone," recalled Lynne, then 18 and a college freshman. "I looked at the dinner table, the scene of some of our happiest times as a family. The silverware was set wrong. The meat was not at the right end of the table, the place where Daddy had always sat and served. Suddenly I knew that no matter how, we were going to do it, we would go on as normal in an abnormal situation."

Lynne, Gary, then 16, and Terri cared for their younger sisters, Lori, 11, Lisa, 7, Julie, 6, and Dina, 4, with a married couple overseeing life in the rambling brick home in this town of 1,200.

King, co-owner of a bridge building firm, left enough money in trust to support the children. And legal settlements from the accident provided educational scholarships for each child.

Over the years, the kids voted to remodel the house, reupholster the furniture and enclose an atrium to bring birds, a brook and 100 plants right into the living room. They boosted their weekly allowance to keep pace with inflation, and extended their curfews.

Lori, now 21 and a senior at Asbury College in Kentucky, says: "I'm sure each of us at some time or another asked ourselves why it had to happen. We never felt angry. But holidays and special occasions such as graduation were hard."

Man killed in blast

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — David Jackson, 28, of Atlanta, Tex., was killed Sunday in an explosion at American Petrofina's Day's Creek Gas Testing Plant near here, authorities said.

Miller County Coroner Harold West said Jackson was dead when an ambulance arrived at the accident site.

The explosion occurred six miles south of Texarkana. It caused several small fires, and released hydrogen sulfide into the air, authorities said.

Sheriff's deputies were dispatched to homes in the immediate area to warn that an evacuation might be necessary if further explosions occurred.

"The plant was shut down and what sulfide was escaping was blown away," said Sheriff Kenneth Sinyard. No evacuation was ordered.

The force of the explosion damaged an office building about 50 yards from the pumping station.

Another worker at the plant escaped injury.

An investigation into the cause of the explosion was under way.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 23, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening for whatever last-minute Christmas shopping you need to do. Your mind is brilliant now and you can gain benefits in a logical manner. Plan for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day for advancement, but take no risks with your work. Listening to suggestions of co-workers is wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 21) Get busy with financial and property affairs and you can make rapid progress. Don't force any issues at this time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put those ideas to work that will bring you advancement in the business world. Rest on your laurels tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you know what you have committed yourself to and discharge your duties well. Use care in travel.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Seeing good friends is fine but don't get involved in any financial deals. Take no risks with your money at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle civic affairs well and gain added prestige. Meet expectations of family members and have more harmony at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have new ideas that should be put in operation without delay. Sidestep one who is jealous of you and could cause trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use new methods that will help you advance in your line of endeavor. Take no risks with your health at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Figure out the best way to operate with associates and make the future brighter. Handle business affairs wisely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget about going on a fun spree and get busy with all that work ahead of you. Enjoy pleasure in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are bored and want recreation, so seek the right kind and you feel much better. Relax at home tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't permit an outsider to take advantage of you and thus avoid trouble this person could bring. Use care in motion.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be most clever at reaching right decisions and should have the finest kind of academic education you can afford. A good salesperson in this chart and one who can easily put ideas across to others.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

BEDROOM LAMP BRINGS $672,900—Man holds a 14th century Chinese bottle as the auctioneer's hammer is about to fall on a bid of $672,900 Wednesday at Sotheby's in London. The red and white pear-shaped bottle was used as a bedside lamp by an elderly couple who had no idea of its value. A private collector, T.Y. Chao of Hong Kong, bought the piece in just 90 seconds of bidding.

Second opinions often lead to more surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — A Blue Cross and Blue Shield program that encourages patients to seek a second doctor's opinion on elective surgery has increased both the number of operations and hospital costs, according to the health insurance company.
 The program — the largest in the nation — had been designed to reduce surgery and costs by Blue Cross of Greater New York.
 But in many cases, Blue Cross's survey found, second opinions made patients more rather than less likely to have surgery, because the first physician's opinion was reinforced by the second.
 The survey covered the first 1,500 patients to receive second opinions in the four-year-old program, and showed 70 percent of second opinions urged patients to go ahead with surgery recommended by the first surgeon. Of the remaining 30 percent, more than half urged patients to have their surgery after undergoing more medical procedures, such as diagnostic tests.
 Blue Cross's report, released last month at an unpublishing medical conference in Manhattan, contradicts the assumption on which the company was operating when it decided to encourage subscribers to get second opinions before undergoing surgery.
 "The findings of the Blue Cross program are, of course, a surprise to us," William Toby, regional administrator of the Federal Health Care Financial Administration, said Sunday. "Obviously they will cause us to re-examine our second-opinion programs."
 But a Blue Cross vice president said the company was not "distressed" by the findings, "even though they came as something of a surprise."
 "If our second surgical opinion program has the consequence of encouraging some hesitant patients to get care which is right for them, we are pleased — just as we are pleased when it has the consequence of deterring care which would have been inappropriate or unnecessary," said Steven Sieverts on Sunday.
 Under Blue Cross's second opinion program, the insurance company agrees to pay a company-approved doctor $50 for a second medical opinion for one of its subscribers.

Names in the news Self-conscious stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Though he wears his hard-won laurels proudly, Bill Rodgers would really rather have a pompadour as his crowning glory. "Like Sha Na Na," he says. "I never could get my hair to do that."
 When asked what if anything he doesn't like about himself, Rodgers told People magazine he'd "lop a half-inch off my nose" if he could. Who would he like to look like? "Robert Redford," the marathon man said. "I'd swap with him."
 Audrey Hepburn's fans may think she's perfect, but she answered People's question by saying, "you can have 3 million fans and still be insecure. I was always full of complexes about my feet being too big and about being too tall and skinny."
 Howard Baker's problem is just the reverse. The Tennessee senator admitted to a complex about being too skinny. "I don't envy anyone else's body — I just intensely dislike skinny people," he said.

Dali mugs for cameras

MONACO, Monte Carlo (AP) — Draped in a leopard-skin coat, surrealist painter Salvador Dali mugged for the camera before leaving this Mediterranean principality for Geneva.
 The Spanish artist posed by the statue of the Little Horse, which reputedly brings good luck to gamblers at Monte Carlo's ornate casino. Dali, 76, also planted a kiss on the cheek of his 84-year-old wife, Gala.
 Dali said he had completed three paintings since recovering from an illness at his Spanish villa in Port Lligat, in Catalonia.
 Dali arrived here from Spain on Thursday, and was expected to visit Paris after the Geneva trip.

Blanche Baker in 'Lolita'

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Blanche Baker has been standing on a corner watching all the girls go by — so she can create the best Lolita when the stage version of the Vladimir Nabokov novel opens on Broadway in February.
 "So far I'm acting more like Humbert Humbert — I'm going around looking for Lolitas everywhere," she said in today's New York Times.
 "I've been hanging out on the East Side in the 70s, sitting on the curb, watching the girls from a private school when it lets out. Young girls' unconscious behavior is so wonderful — just the way they eat a pastry for instance."
 The character Miss Baker, 24, will play ages from 11 to 17 in the course of the story.

Presidential politics was dominant in Austin in 1980

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — As 1980 draws to a close in Texas politics there is just one label that fits the past 12 months.
 It was "presidential politics" all the way.
 The shifting of the Texas gubernatorial election to odd-numbered years allowed Texas politicians and voters to concentrate almost entirely on the presidential struggle.
 It all started officially Feb. 4, the filing deadline for political candidates, and officially ended Dec. 15 when the 26 electors cast Texas' vote for President-elect Ronald Reagan.
 The February filings indicated that Reagan, John Connally, George Bush and Sen. Howard Baker would be candidates for the GOP nomination in Texas at the May 3 primary. The results would directly affect selection of delegates to the national convention.
 Texas Democrats decided to select national convention delegates at their state convention in June. At first they said there would not even be an unofficial presidential poll at the primary but later changed plans and decided on a May 3 "beauty contest" that would not affect selection of national convention delegates.
 By May 3, Connally and Baker were off the GOP ballot but Reagan and Bush made a determined bid for votes in Texas. Reagan won 52 percent of the popular vote to 47 percent for Bush. Actually Reagan ended up with 61 of Texas' national convention delegates and Bush got 19.
 Bush dropped out of the presidential race in June and his 19 delegates voted for Reagan at Detroit.
 In the Democratic "beauty contest" Carter won 56 percent of the straw vote, Kennedy 23 and more than 18 percent were uncommitted. At the June state convention, Carter won 104 of Texas' delegates to the New York national convention while Kennedy got 38 and 10 were uncommitted. A total of 108 finally voted for Carter when the Texas vote gave Carter enough for the nomination. Kennedy kept his 38 delegates.
 After the national conventions, Texas became a crossroads for presidential candidates and their stand-ins wanting the state's valuable 26 electoral votes.
 Reagan and Carter each made five campaign trips to Texas, concentrating generally on the Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and South Texas areas.
 Bush made at least nine Texas trips.
 Vice President Walter Mondale and members of Carter's family made several trips.
 At the Nov. 4 general election, 4.54 million Texas voters, out of the 6.63 million registered, turned out to vote, about 500,000 more than ever voted in a presidential race.
 Reagan swept the state.
 The only sizeable counties where Carter held most of his support from 1976 was in Travis (Austin) and Jefferson (Beaumont and Port Arthur).
 The official canvass showed Reagan and Bush with 2,510,705 to 1,881,147 for Carter and Mondale. Independent candidate John Anderson got 111,613 and Libertarian candidate Ed Clark 37,643.

Price changes are announced

DALLAS — Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., a wholly-owned subsidiary of American Petrofina, Inc., today announced new selling prices for styrene monomer, all grades of polystyrene, and propylene, effective Jan. 1. List prices for the three products remain unchanged, with temporary voluntary allowances which are subject to withdrawal at any time being reduced at the beginning of the year.
 The new selling prices for styrene monomer, including a three-cent per pound TVA, will be 37 cents per pound, f.o.b. producing point, and 38 cents per pound, f.o.b. East and Midwest terminals, and 39-1/2 cents per pound f.o.b. West Coast terminals.
 For the five grades of polystyrene resin, the new January 1, 1981, selling prices in hopper car quantities will be 43 cents per pound for general purpose; 44 cents per pound for general purpose, high-heat; 45 cents per pound for medium impact and high impact; and 46 cents per pound for high-heat, high-impact. The f.o.b. terminal prices will be one cent per pound additional on the East Coast and in the Midwest, and an additional two cents per pound at West Coast terminals. Bulk prices in truckload quantities are one cent per pound higher on all grades of polystyrene.
 The list price for chemical grade propylene will be 21 cents per pound with a one and one-half cent per pound TVA.

Ghost of Bob Wills lives in Rosie's fiddle strings

MERIT, Texas (AP) — Close your eyes when Rosie Jackson puts his fiddle in gear with "Faded Love," and you'd swear Bob Wills lives.
 Rosie plays on a fiddle that is, by the best calculations, 300 years old. It sings a special tune for him and an amplifier does the rest.
 You'll find Rosie and his band, the Highway Melody Boys, at the McKinney VFW every Saturday night these days. It's been that way for years.
 Rosie with his eyes half-closed, singing in a lilting Bob Wills style while dancers kick up the dust at some VFW or American Legion halls.
 "When I get on a roll and start out on 'Orange Blossom Special,' I can make this fiddle do everything but smoke," he said with a light in his eyes and a flush in his cheeks that earned him his nickname some 43 years ago.
 Rosie is 62, but his spirit and energy defy his age. Since an accident at a McKinney candy factory last year, he must sit in a chair to play long stretches. But that doesn't stop him from drawing bow across catgut.
 Born in Climax, a tiny farm community nestled in Collin County, Jackson has spent his life rolling around the blacklands of North Texas.
 In his youth, folks had to scratch for the essentials and there was little time and certainly no money for frivolities. But one side of his family was thick with guitar players and on the other side, fiddlers reigned, so Jackson's love of music and his talent just trickled down the genetic line.
 He never learned to read music.
 But when he was seven, he watched Gene Autry playing the guitar. Rosie saw the movement on the hands, the flicker of the fingers.
 He remembered and when he went home, he repeated the chords on his own guitar.
 Jackson kept pluckin' and strummin' and when he wasn't working the farm, he hit the road, singing with one band or another.
 One Friday night some 30-odd years ago, Jackson was playing at a little place in Denison, close to the Oklahoma border. Wills and his Texas Playboys were slated for Saturday night, so Jackson said he just decided to stick around and play with the King of Texas Swing.
 Rosie was still a guitar player in those days, but he loves to recall his first encounters with a fiddle.
 During their gig, Jackson said, Wills told him, "Rosie, why don't you take up the fiddle?"
 So Rosie gave it a try and it worked out fine.
 He says he hardly ever plays a guitar anymore.
 It's really his fiddle that makes Rosie's music magic, but there's even a little mystery about it.
 Not long after he started fiddlin', he heard about an elderly couple selling two fiddles. One was new and went for $25, the older one was going for $175.
 Rosie says he'd just as soon have the newer, less expensive fiddle, but the couple took him back to their attic to look over the older instrument.
 They told him, "just take it, and if we die before you buy it, it's yours."
 He bought it.
 Later, an antique dealer outside McKinney told him the instrument was worth at least $40,000, Jackson said.
 The dealer estimated the fiddle was about 300 years old and Rosie says all he knows is that it was made in Italy.
 But when Rosie and that fiddle are smokin' the "Orange Blossom Special" or moaning "San Antonio Rose," folks don't hear a valuable antique instrument.
 They hear the echoes of Bob Wills.

INPO extends fellowship to Parchman

Jerry Lewis Parchman, a Big Spring, Texas resident, is the recipient of a fellowship administered by the Institute of Nuclear Power Operations (INPO). Funds for the fellowship program are provided by electric utilities that sponsor INPO.
 Parchman received a B.S. in Nuclear Engineering from Texas A&M University in 1980. He is currently seeking a master's degree in Nuclear Engineering.
 This is one of 62 fellowships awarded to advanced engineering students in 26 institutions across the nation. The recipients were chosen based on factors which included grade point average and an interest in a career in nuclear power reactor operations. The utilities hope that sponsoring the additional year of study will interest these engineering students in career opportunities in the nuclear industry.
 The fellowships will aid the recipients in pursuing a master's degree in nuclear engineering or a nuclear related fifth-year degree. Each recipient receives a stipend of $5,500 for the academic year. An additional $2,500 is given to the institutions for each fellowship to help defray the costs of tuition, fees, etc.
 INPO is a nonprofit, independent corporation formed late in 1979 by the electric utilities which operate nuclear power plants.

Some orders 'floor' her Police Beat

By CAROL HART

Two light bulbs, a kitchen sink and a building to house them in were all Marilee Kemery had when she began her cake shop here in 1978.

Marilee's Specialty Shop is the completion of a dream for Mrs. Kemery, who envisioned a shop where she could stock cake decorating supplies. Many requests for cakes made her decide to expand upon the original idea, and now the shop specializes in making and decorating cakes and cookies, as well as supplying cake decorations and utensils.

Mrs. Kemery started baking professionally 26 years ago in a restaurant in her hometown of Seymour, Conn. The owner of the restaurant asked her to bake a birthday cake, something which she had never done.

"The next thing I knew, I was making all kinds of cakes."

Following a move to Big Spring in 1970, Mrs. Kemery was called upon by Dr. Charles Hays at Howard College to teach a cake decorating class. She taught the class for two years, then was sidelined because of illness.

"They thought I'd had a heart attack," Mrs. Kemery recalled. "It turned out to be cracked ribs."

Mrs. Kemery was employed at Webb AFB for six years, both as a waitress at the NCO Club, and as a cashier at the commissary. During this time, she was nurturing the dream to open her own cake decorating supply shop.

When news came that Webb was closing, Mrs. Kemery saw her opportunity. "This was the time to jump in," she said. She leased the building she is in now at 808 Scurry from the St. Paul Lutheran Church, and while still employed at Webb began remodeling the building.

Mrs. Kemery credits her husband, Harold, with helping her get her dreams out of the planning stages. Kemery built the shelves and display cases for his wife's shop, and now helps her with bookwork.

Although Mrs. Kemery had originally planned to supply cake decorating items, she soon decided to purchase an oven to "occasionally bake a cake." Now, cake baking is "one of our best businesses."

The store is equipped with two homestyle ovens, and in the past year, Mrs. Kemery added cookies, breads, streusel cakes and brownies to items that she sells. Marilee's Specialty Shop also has a large selection of cake pans and cake decorations "people can purchase."

Some aspects of running her own business proved to be a shock for Mrs. Kemery.

"I had never been in business," she said. "I raised my kids working as a waitress." She said one surprise when she began ordering cake decorating supplies for her shop was the fact that the supplies did not come neatly bagged up and ready to sell.

She explained that cake toppers come in boxes and had to be bagged, sealed and priced before they could be displayed for sale.

Running a business hasn't always been smooth, she recalled. During the heavy rains this fall, Mrs. Kemery said that she spent almost a whole night polishing the floor in the back of her shop.

The next morning she opened the shop, eager to show her employees how shiny the floor was, and discovered that a retaining wall had given way due to the heavy rains, and had flooded the back of the shop with mud and debris. This entailed a major cleaning up effort on the part of Mrs. Kemery and her staff.

Mrs. Kemery is assisted by four employees — Peggy Griffin, Pam Willis, Shirley Day and Loretta Langford. Cakes are baked with an assembly-line process, which sees one woman baking, one making icing, and one wrapping boards and getting boxes ready.

Business is "much better than I ever dreamed it would be," Mrs. Kemery said, although the business puts a demand on her time. She said she works from nine to 20 hours a day, and that Christmas has been a rush season for the store. She recalled she once worked 47 hours without quitting, due to a large demand. "I don't ever want to do that again," she added.

Each cake requires 30 to 50 minutes to bake, Mrs. Kemery said. It then cools about 20 minutes, and takes one to four hours to decorate, depending on the design on the cake. The shop can make cakes featuring characters from television shows, or pictures from napkins or other sources. A selection of 400-500 pictures is available for people to choose from, or Mrs. Kemery said the shop will freehand a design on the cake.

The shop has been producing between 15-20 cakes a day lately, she said. The cakes have provided several humorous experiences.

She recalls being floored by a seven and one-half foot wedding cake. "It almost blew my mind," she said, recalling the order.

Recently, Mrs. Kemery was called upon to make a cake for a party staged by Oilfield Industrial Lines. For the event, O.I.L. wanted a 5x7 foot sheet cake decorated with an oil derrick and a dog house.

Mrs. Kemery said that it would be impossible to get a 5x7 foot cake out her front door. The O.I.L. staff then changed their order to a 4x5 cake.

"There was still no way to get it out the door," Mrs. Kemery said. To remedy the problem, she called Western Glass and Mirror, and they came and took out her front window glass. The cake was taken out of the shop, and the window was replaced.

Mrs. Kemery said she and her staff enjoy making "unusual cakes, but we draw the line at obscene cakes." She added that she received several requests for such cakes, but turned down the sales.

Mrs. Kemery's husband retired from the Air Force after 26 years in the service, and is now a maintenance man for Ventura Construction, and attends Howard College. Her daughter, Wendy Myers, attends Big Spring High School.

She also has two sons, Steve Shugrue, an RN at Malone-Hogan Hospital, and Tim Shugrue, a computer engineer in Panama. Both sons are married, and Mrs. Kemery has three grandchildren.

Although her business monopolizes most of her time, Mrs. Kemery is actively involved in the St. Paul Lutheran Church, and bowls for two leagues in the city. She also attends arts and crafts classes with her daughter, "so I can see her once in awhile," she said.

Juvenile fires on city pickup

The front windshield of a pickup owned by the City of Big Spring was shot with a B-B gun by a boy in the 3700 block of Dixon Friday afternoon.

Gilbert Puga, a city employee, reported to police that a boy shot the windshield of the pickup, which was being driven by another city employee. Damage to the pickup was estimated at $200.

A woman reported a case of indecent exposure to Big Spring police Friday afternoon. She said that while she and her children were at a laundrymat at 1703 Gregg, an unknown male exposed himself to the group.

A rear screen on a home belonging to Mrs. Jane Jensen, 4102 Parkway, was damaged when someone tried to enter the home. Damage was listed at $25. No entry was reportedly gained.

A 28-year-old California man was arrested Friday afternoon by Big Spring police on Interstate 20 at the 176 milemarker. He was charged with public intoxication.

Lucy Gressett, a resident at the Canterbury Apartments, reported to police Friday that two hubcaps were stolen off her car, a 1970 Pontiac, while it was parked at the complex. The hubcaps were valued at $50.

Manuel Barboza, 1513A Wood, reported that a 19" black and white television, valued at $150, and a black picture frame, valued at $35, were taken from his home. He reported that the window pane in his back door was also broken out.

A dispute between a woman and her ex-husband resulted in the woman being treated for a sprained ankle at a local hospital.

The dispute reportedly occurred at about 7 p.m. Friday. A woman reported that her ex-husband threw her off his porch, resulting in a sprained ankle.

A car belonging to Pam Carey, 1811 State, was damaged in a case of criminal mischief while it was parked on the McDonald's parking lot. A window on the driver's side passenger door was reportedly damaged.

Two juveniles were arrested Friday night at 700 and Westover on charges of minors in possession of alcohol.

One minor was also charged with driving while intoxicated.

Bob Middleton, a 7-11 Store employee, reported that a young man between the ages of 18-20 took a 12-pack of Coors from a 7-11 store at 4th and Franklin early Saturday morning. The young man took the cans, ran outside and reportedly got in a new model Ford Thunderbird, described as having two doors and being gray in color.

A 50-year-old man was arrested early Saturday morning at 200 Gregg on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

George McBride, Midland, advised police early Saturday that his 1980 Chrysler had been damaged by unknown persons while parked on a service station parking lot on West Highway 80. The right rear vent window, valued at $30, and the right rear passenger window, valued at $100, were both broken.

Richard E. Puga, 202 Lockhart, reported Saturday that a man's watch valued at $100 was stolen from his home Friday.

Robert Scott, 631 NW 4th, reported to police that a $20 bill which he gave a person known to him to go get change was never returned.

One Black and Decker router, valued at $60, and a 50-foot extension cord, valued at $15, were reported missing Saturday by Robert Thomas from a utility room in a building at 1602 Cole Lane.

A number of accidents plagued area residents and their vehicles during the past two days.

All kids can call Santa

All parents have been invited to take their children to the special phone booth at 2204 Cecilia Street today through Tuesday, where the tots can make special calls up to three minutes to Santa Claus.

The idea of the special booth was conceived by the Alpha Phi Delta chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority. No charge is made for the calls but those who would like to make donations to the Christmas Cheer Fund can leave money in a Salvation Army bucket located conveniently close.

The hours will be from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., each day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. What is the ^{New Improved} PAY BY MAIL PROGRAM?

A. This is a program offered to readers of the Herald, whereby those people who prefer to pay for their newspapers through the office may do so.

Q. How does the PAY BY MAIL PROGRAM work?

A. The reader may pay for his subscription for three, six or twelve months in advance.

Q. Can the reader pay through the office by the month?

A. No. We are not able to offer this service.

Q. How much does it cost?

A. There is no charge for this service. It is offered as a convenience for you and your carrier.

Q. What happens to my payment?

A. Your carrier is given credit for your payment each month after it is earned.

Q. Is there any advantage to my carrier if I pay by mail?

A. Yes. You are registered as a PAY BY MAIL customer and this eliminates the necessity of his making a collection each month.

Q. What happens if I stop for a vacation?

A. The copies missed during the vacation period will be saved in a vacation pack and delivered upon your return.

Q. If I stop my paper for any reason, do I lose my money?

A. No. A full refund will be made if you must discontinue your paper for any reason.

Q. Will I be billed when my payment is due?

A. Yes. You will be billed by the Big Spring Herald on the first of the month prior to the expiration date.

Q. On what day does my subscription expire?

A. All PAY BY MAIL payments commence with the first day of any month. Therefore, your subscription would expire on the last day of the month of the period for which you have paid.

Q. What happens if my payment is past due?

A. If your payment has not been received by the expiration date, your carrier will be notified and collection will be made at the home.

'I couldn't afford one'

By CAROL HART
Jon Hillman of Big Spring has made a name for himself in the saddle-making field, if popularity of his saddles is any proof of that fact. During the recent National Finals Rodeo competition in Oklahoma, several participants were atop saddles made by Hillman.

Hillman said he got into the saddle-making business because "I couldn't afford to buy one." He added that "I kept tearing them up," during the period when he actively participated in rodeos, and decided to try his hand at making his own.

"I've always been interested in leatherwork. I've tinkered with making leather products since I was 13," he said. He also worked in other saddle shops before trying to make his own.

Hillman, a native of Bellevue, Alberta, Canada, came to the United States to attend school at Sul Ross University in Alpine. After his schooling, he returned to Canada for eight months, long enough to get his immigration papers, and then moved to Abilene. He became associated with Furr's Supermarkets, he said, and they transferred him to Big Spring in 1973. He opened Hillman's Saddlery here in 1975. The store recently relocated to the southeast corner of the intersection of Interstate 20 and E. FM 700.

During his last five years in operation, Hillman said he has made saddles that were shipped to Canada, Spain and almost every state in the United States.

He explained that one of his saddles were shipped to Spain because an artist who lived there had relatives living in Post, and was visiting them when he saw a sample of Hillman's work. He then ordered one for himself, and requested that it be sent to Spain.

Other people who requested Hillman's saddles were Reg, Marilyn and Jerold Camarillo. Marilyn Camarillo has qualified six times for the Nationals Finals Rodeo in the barrel

KIM, JON HILLMAN
... relocate store

... racing division. Her husband, Reg, and Jerold, his cousin, "dominated the team roping event since the mid-1960s," at the National Finals, Hillman said.

One of Hillman's best-selling saddles is "one I designed for Sharon Youngblood." Mrs. Youngblood, Lamesa, was the 1980 National Finals winner in the barrel racing division. Her husband, Kent, was a former RCA rookie of the year, and also owns saddles made by Hillman.

Hillman explained that the National Finals Rodeo involves "the top 15 participants in the world in each event." Other National Final qualifiers who use Hillman's saddles include Butch Bode, Willard Moody, Junior Garrison and Steve Bland. Big Spring residents Steve and Christi Fryar, who just returned from the 1980 National Finals, were "riding saddles that I made," Hillman added.

Hillman said in the 1979 Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion, some of his equipment was used by everyone who placed during the event.

"A lot of work goes into making a saddle," Hillman said. "We used to make our own saddle trees (frames) but got so far behind in production that we had to go back to buying them."

Hillman said customers tell him what they want in a saddle, and he then sets about to make that saddle. Customers can choose from "any size or type of horn, any length of seat, various styles of tree and any finish," Hillman said. The tooling pattern design and stamping of the saddles is done in his workshop as well.

"Custom saddles are all we make," he added, stressing that few saddles will turn out alike.

Saddles take a minimum of 40 working hours to make, he said. Length of time depends on "how fancy they get, and how much tooling they want."

Steve Rone, who hails from Oregon, has been working with Hillman since August. Both do the handwork on the saddles, as well as handwork on other leather items offered by the store.

Hillman's wife, the former

Kim Parks, also does the tooling on the saddles. "We're both married to the business," Hillman said.

Saddles aren't the only item Hillman and his associates make. They also work with belts, holsters, saddlebags and chaps, and repair saddles and boots.

Hillman himself was a saddle bronc rider for 10 years. "Bronc riding is something you have to stay with," he said. "It's not something you do for a month and then come back to six months to a year later."

For that reason, Hillman quit the rodeo circuit when demands of his business took over. He hopes to return soon to the team roping event. "I intend to get started this year," he added.

Hillman has big plans for the future. The relocation of his store was the first stage in a series of changes.

Hillman said the move from a downtown location was sparked by a need for more parking space, and that the old store left no room for expansion. Hillman's Saddlery is now located in an 8500 square foot building finished in rough cut pine, and is located on 12 acres belonging to Hillman.

In the near future, Hillman plans to build a horse motel, which operates on the same basis as a motel for people. The motel will be equipped with stalls and pens to accommodate horses being hauled across the state by rodeo hands and horse show people.

Some day, Hillman hopes to put in a roping and rough stock arena, he said. "We'd like to put roping and riding schools some day. That's all in the future."

Also working at Hillman's, in addition to his wife and Rone, is Mrs. Hillman's sister, Sherrie Stanley. Mrs. Stanley assists customers with selections in the store.

ACCEPTS DONATION — Elma Rosas Martinez, coordinator of volunteer services at the Big Spring State Hospital, and W.A. (Dub) Moore Jr., chairman of the Volunteer Services Council at the state hospital, accept one of 207 pairs of men's and women's shoes donated by William (Bill) Hembree, owner of J&K Shoes in the Highland Shopping Mall. The three J&K Shoe stores, located in Big Spring, San Angelo and Midland, accumulated the shoes in excess of inventory, so Hembree decided to donate the shoes to patients at the state hospital. The shoe's retail value is more than $7,000. Robert Kirschner, J&K employee, contacted the state hospital and made arrangements for the donation through the volunteer office.

Chamber now debt-free

By CAROL HART
The board of directors of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce noted that the Chamber is now debt-free during Wednesday's monthly meeting.

Jimmy Taylor, outgoing president of the Chamber, was lauded for curbing the chamber's debts. Taylor thanks the Ambassadors, the community, and chamber executive director LeRoy Tillery.

"These are the people who got the chamber in the black," Taylor said. Mark Sheedy was introduced to the board as a new member of the chamber staff. Sheedy will serve as assistant manager.

Skipper Driver, Joe Pickle and Johnnie Lou Avery were recognized as three members leaving the board. Taylor thanked them for their contributions.

A centennial celebration, which will mark the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the railroad in Big Spring, has been tentatively set for May 19-28, 1981, said John Taylor, chairman of the centennial committee.

Taylor said that $58,000 has been allotted for financing the celebration. A finance committee is studying ways to raise the money, led by John Currie.

Organizing the celebration will be the John B. Rogers Producing Company, headquartered in Pittsburgh, Penn. The Rogers company also organized a celebration in Howard County during the 1940s. Taylor said "The Rogers company claims they have never failed to make enough money to make a profit" on such events.

A change in the policy of auditing the chamber every year was approved by Board members. Sid Clark, chamber treasurer, said "I see no need for a yearly audit," and added that accounts for the Chamber of Commerce would be studied as required by the board of directors.

Eddie Nicholson, the "rockin' chair philosopher" from Lubbock, will speak during the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, it was announced. Tickets will sell for $10. The banquet is set for Feb. 7.

Terry Hanson was announced as president of the Ambassadors Club during the meeting. Other officers will be Louis Tallant, vice president, and Mel Prather, treasurer. The Ambassadors serve as the official greeters for the chamber.

The 1981 budget was presented by Sid Clark. A breakdown of the budget showed that operations for 1981 will be allowed expenditures of $18,500. This compares to $24,150 budgeted for last year.

Administration will operate with $50,880, Clark said. This includes an 11 percent salary increase for chamber employees. Last year, administration was allotted $47,420.

Under programs, $2,900 was allotted, comparing to $2,450 last year. The tourist and convention branch of the chamber will operate with $30,000, as will the industrial development branch. This totals out to $132,280. Anticipated receipts for the chamber are targeted at $135,125, said Clark. This money will come from membership drives, the industrial foundation, the city and the county.

George Weeks, director of the economic development council, told chamber directors that a drive is on seeking approval from the railroad commission to let United Parcel Service make deliveries from Dallas to Big Spring. The Railroad Commission does not allow this at this time, he noted.

Dr. John Key, director of the public affairs council, urged board members to write their congressmen concerning legislation which would disqualify deductions concerning lobbyists. He noted a letter which said the Internal Revenue Service published a notice of proposed rule making concerning deductibility of expenditures for attempts to influence legislation.

The letter, from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, added that "if adopted, these regulations will adversely affect chambers of commerce, trade associations and corporations." Chamber directors were urged to voice their opinion on the legislation.

CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION — Children and sponsors involved with the West Side Center took time out Friday afternoon for a Christmas party. Santa Claus made a special guest appearance. Jane Thomas, lower center, who serves on the West Side Center board, said the event was sponsored by the board and members of the ABC Club. Viola Salgado, who manages the center, helped coordinate the party.

City's sales tax rebate reaches $1,082,197

The city's sales tax allocation for the previous month dropped sharply compared to the same month last year.

The check totaled only $65,618.31, compared to $152,775.27 during November of 1979. Nonetheless, the city's total for 1980 came to $1,082,197.76, well above the $887,709.55 total for the same period last year.

Big Spring was not alone. All other area cities also experienced a drop in allocation payments.

Coahoma's check diminished from $3,025.99 for the month last year to $1,122.31 for the same month this year. Colorado City fell from $21,711.94 to $7,989.76; Lamesa from $52,764.65 to $18,080.95; and Stanton from $5,256.69 to $1,029.94.

Although the area monthly totals may look rather bleak, the totals for the year statewide showed a marked increase.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said the month's city sales tax payments to Texas cities will bring 1980 totals to more than $960 million.

Bullock said his office is sending $33.5 million in payments to cities who levy the one-percent optional city sales tax this month.

The rebates to Texas cities is $83.5 million more than was distributed among Texas cities during 1979, an average increase of more than 20 percent.

Houston's final check this year will be for $7.8 million, bringing that city's total this year to $116.1 million, a 19 percent increase over 1979.

Dallas will get $4 million, boosting that city's 1980 total to $65.1 million, a $10 million increase over the previous year.

Fort Worth will receive $1.1 million this month, for a 1980 total of $21.6 million, up 16 percent over 1979.

San Antonio will get a $1.8 million check this month, bringing that city's yearly total to $31.1 million, a $5.2 million increase over last year.

City sales taxes are collected along with the state's four percent sales tax by merchants and businesses and rebated monthly by the Comptroller to the cities where the tax is levied.

Ensemble performs at AAUW meeting

The December meeting of the American Association of University Women was held in the home of Mrs. Del Shirey Monday evening, with Mrs. Walter Wheat as co-hostess. The home was decorated with a Christmas tree, candles, and other Christmas decorations.

Class of 1971 reorganizing

There will be a reorganizational meeting of the BSHS Class of 1971 on Friday.

The meeting will be held at the Bonanza Restaurant and will begin at 6:30 p.m. Plans will be made concerning the ten-year class reunion. For more information or suggestions call Cheri Turner Sparks at 263-8527 or Martha Fierro at 263-0720.

After a salad supper, the Ladies Ensemble of the First Baptist Church presented a program of Christmas cards and other music appropriate to the season. Members participated.

In the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Wheat, the chapter voted to deliver flowers on Valentine's Day and Mother's Day. The money from this project will be used for scholarships for high school girl graduates.

The next meeting will be Jan. 19, in the Quail Run Apartment's party room.

Readers disagree

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: Not long ago you told a 15-year-old girl that her 25-year-old boyfriend does not tell his friends how old she is. That wasn't nice to say. You probably offended her.

Girls our age (I'm 14) really dig older men (my guy is 26). We get along great. He has never forced anything on me. We have sexual intercourse regularly, smoke pot and drink wine occasionally and I am the happiest girl in the world.

I love my guy and I'm sure this girl loves her man, so don't go around telling everybody that older guys are not proud of their young girlfriends. My guy's last girlfriend was 12 and he loved her almost as much as he loves me and I ought to know. The girl is my half-sister and she lives with me. — Cora, Hagerstown, Md.

Cora: Please believe me when I tell you that this man is using you. Men his age who date 13- and 14-year-old girls do have emotional hang-ups and need professional assistance.

I know that dating an older guy is an ego builder but many an ego builder has turned out to be a "life wrecker."

I still don't think your "guy" is mentioning to his friends that he is dating a 14-year-old girl, regardless of what he is telling you!

Dr. Wallace: Last February I married a beautiful 19-year-old girl. Five weeks after our wedding both of us were caught during a burglary. I made a deal to keep my wife out of it and to plead guilty and take whatever the judge gave me. Well, I was sentenced to six years. Now here is my problem.

For the first few months that I was in jail, my wife visited me regularly and wrote to me every day. But now she hasn't written to me or visited me for the past two months.

I keep writing to her but I get no reply. I'm still very much in love with her but I don't know how to deal with the problem. — Steve, Plainfield, Ind.

Steve: Contact a close relative or friend and ask them to find out if your wife is still in the area and if she is, have that person ask her to visit you.

Dear Abby

Look Not Long Enough Before Widow's Leap

DEAR ABBY: I am an elderly widow who met an elderly widower from another state. After he told me he loved me, he suggested I move to his state, so I sold my home for about half of what it was worth to go with him.

We lived together happily for three years. He gave me a wedding ring, but we kept putting off marriage.

Recently he drove me to my home state and left me with a friend. He said he'd come and get me in two weeks. When he didn't come, I called him and he kept putting me off until we had been apart for a month. I called him again, and this time a woman answered the phone and said she was his wife! She said they had been married for three weeks.

Abby, for three years I paid all my own expenses and one-half the household expenses. Now I have no home, I am utterly ruined financially, my health is poor, and I am all alone. What can I do? It seems that this man owes me something.

NEEDING HELP

DEAR NEEDING: You need legal advice. If you can't afford a lawyer, call your local Legal Aid Society. And for moral support, look into the senior citizens organizations and women's groups in your area.

I wish you luck and hope that your sad and costly experience will be a warning to other women.

DEAR ABBY: I was at my boyfriend's place around midnight last night. We were in bed and he was telling me how much he loved me when the telephone rang. He answered it and said, "I'm busy right now and can't talk to you." Then he said, "I love you, too, sweetheart."

He told me it was his mother, Abby, if I had to bet one way or the other, I would bet it wasn't his mother. What are my chances for being right?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: About 50-50.

...

DEAR ABBY: Why don't you write a book of clever answers to rude questions?

I have run out of things to say when people ask me questions of a personal nature that are none of their business. For example: "How much did you pay for that?" "What happened between your sister and her husband?" "How come you don't have any children? Don't you want any, or can't you have any?"

I'm sure you get the idea. How about it, Abby?

STUCK FOR AN ANSWER

DEAR STUCK: One of the most commonly believed misconceptions is that a question must be answered simply because it's asked. The right to privacy is still available to those who demand it. So I recommend two appropriate responses to rude questions: "Why do you ask?" and "It's none of your business."

Miss Davis becomes Mrs. Jeff Moorhead

Cindy Davis became the bride of Jeff Moorhead in a candlelight ceremony performed Friday evening in the Evangeli Temple Assembly of God Church. The Rev. D. Terry Wilson, pastor, read the 7 p.m. rite before a 15-branch candleabrum. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis, Coahoma. Laverne Moorhead, Big Spring, is the mother of the groom. Traditional wedding music was provided by Karen Robinson, Odessa, aunt of the bride. When presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an A-line silhouette gown of silk organza Chantilly and peau d'ange laces.

The fitted empire bodice was overlaid with lace, forming a deep sheer yoke of Brussels embroidery below a contoured lace neckline. The split bishop sleeves were enhanced with a slim sleeve underneath with lace and pearl detail gathered to a deep lace cuff. The A-line skirt was highlighted with a deep lace flounce edged with peau d'ange lace outlining the border along the hemline. Her face was framed with Chantilly lace edging the upper tier of the double-tiered veil of silk French illusion which fell from a matching lace and pearl Camelot. As an accent to her ensemble, she carried a bouquet of pink, burgundy and white silk flowers. Serving as maid of honor was Debbie Sloan. Bridesmaids were Janice Moorhead, sister of the groom; Rita Gonzales, San Angelo; and Lisette. Jack Broughton, the groom's best man. Groomsman included Jim Moorhead, brother of the groom; James Harmon and Kenny Sominke. The groom's sister, Charla Moorhead, served as flower girl. Following the ceremony, the newlyweds were honored with a reception in the church fellowship hall. Guests were registered by Elva Pineda. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with doves and wedding rings, was served by Shay Rawls and Ursula Sominke. Out-of-town guests attended from Lubbock, Midland, Odessa, Garden City and New Mexico. The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School and is presently employed at Gibsons. The Moorheads are making their home in Big Spring.

MRS. JEFF MOORHEAD

Turkey, music, gifts highlight program

A Christmas dinner of turkey, dressing and all the trimmings highlighted the December program of the Altrusa Club of Big Spring. The occasion was called to order by Doris Guy, president, who welcomed members and guests. Mamie Roberts lead the invocation. Introductions were given by Mary Lynn Welch. Entertainment for the evening was provided by Roy and Jean Koonce and Thadd and Linda Koonce. They presented a musical program including such numbers as "Here We Come A Caroling," "White Christmas," "O, Christmas Tree", and others. The four performers are the sons and daughters-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. M.L. Koonce of Stanton. They attended Graceland College in Lamoni, Iowa. They are now residents of Stanton. Currently, Roy farms in Martin and Glasscock counties; Thadd manages the Exxon Service Station on I-20; Linda is studying to be a nurse; and Jean is a church organist where her husband serves as music director. Both families are musically inclined, including their children. A gift exchange followed the program. The evening closed with the benediction, led by the club president. Helen Dawson Cobean served as chairman of the event.

Detecting trouble from the heavens

A 3-D plan helps meteorologists

WASHINGTON — Using red and green glasses which portray three-dimensional images, government scientists are developing a sophisticated technique to gather data from satellites that will likely enhance hurricane detection and forecasting.

The process, being conducted by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, depends on the use of pictures taken almost simultaneously by two orbiting satellites already stationed about 22,000 miles above the Equator. The pictures are then analyzed by computers back on earth and enhanced for television screens, which, with the help of the glasses, tell forecasters the thickness, intensity and wind velocity of developing storms.

It's the same principal as theatrical 3-D movies, where two loops of film are spliced together.

"I think in the severe weather business, to be able to see these storms in three dimensions is a fabulous tool," said Don Miller, chief of the systems planning group for the National Earth Satellite Service, an arm of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Like other on-going satellite studies, the stereo-imaging method must not only prove workable but also marketable to the dozens of government and private groups — such as the National Hurricane Center — which purchase satellite data.

Normally, once NASA has completed its work and deems a project to be commercially applicable, the Earth Satellite Service takes over, offering the service to its customers.

Miller said his office hopes to push for the experimental process over the next 10 years. However, at an estimated start-up cost of about $13 million — perhaps more with inflation — stereo-imaging might not be applied on a grand scale — unless demand is significant.

Among meteorologists and satellite experts, the six-year-old NASA system is considered a significant addition to hurricane and thunderstorm forecasting.

According to Dr. Arthur "Fritz" Hasler, one of the NASA scientists working on the project, technology has existed for some time to create the 3-D detection. "Most people just thought it was too much trouble. We just decided to crack the nut, to put the whole process together," said Hasler, who is working with three other NASA researchers on the project.

The team has used cloud cover satellite photos taken during 1979's powerful Hurricane Frederic, as well as during a weaker storm last month. Stereo images can be developed for both on-going storms and previous

1,500 expected for meeting

Jehovah's Witness of Big Spring will be convening with members of some 20 other congregations in the West Texas area at the Chaparral Center in Midland, Jan. 10-11.

Lloyd D. Rodgers, spokesman for the group here, said over 1,500 persons are expected to attend the two-day session of Bible related instruction and fellowship. "The assembly theme," he said, is "Set Apart From the World." The programs are designed to help Christians to live with the day-to-day pressures affecting modern society.

The principal address of the assembly will be delivered by Angelo C. Manera, Jr., District Overseer working out of the world headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses in Brooklyn, N.Y. His subject will be "Our Refuge Amid Increasing Dangers."

Martin stock show booked

STANTON — The Martin County Junior Livestock Show is scheduled here Jan. 15-16-17.

County Extension Agent Rick Vestal has announced that lambs and swine will be judged Jan. 16 and cattle on the 17th.

Vestal has also revealed that a pruning clinic is scheduled here, starting at 2 p.m., Jan. 20.

ones recorded by the two satellites.

Since hurricanes develop over large bodies of water, where accurate detection is more difficult, the stereo-imaging concept becomes especially effective. The idea is to detect how extensive the cloud build-up is; when looking at the data with the 3-D glasses, the tallest, most severe clouds "appear to extend out of the television screen," according to Hasler.

From that point, the forecasters can gauge wind velocity. The whole process only takes several hours, a considerable improvement over the old practice of analyzing clouds from aircraft photos, which dragged on for months.

"We're using present operational satellites ... and we're applying it to some interesting storm phenomena," said Hasler. "We're taking it the next step where it can be used as a practical method."

Stereo-imaging does have some drawbacks. Among them:

— Readings can't be taken at night. The NASA team is working on infra-red satellite pictures, but so far, the results are relatively crude. More work is needed to determine if night-time measuring is practical.

— The NASA system requires alter cover, meaning that the measuring of non-severe weather "may be spotty," according to Hasler.

— The technique requires large amounts of satellite time to be used at the expense of other functions. This could be avoided by launching separate satellites for stereo-imaging, not likely to occur for many years.

— Meteorologists currently use infra-red temperature measurements from satellites to determine the extent of cloud build-up, as well as wind velocity.

IN CHRISTMAS PLAY — Reagan McCann, left, and Christy Webb, right, were angels, and Cathy Warrington, center, was a shepherd in a Christmas play staged for parents and guests Friday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. Children enrolled in St. Mary's school were participants in the play which retold the story of the birth of Christ through skits and music. Margaret Baum wrote the dialogue and music for the play.

PRELIMINARY WORK UNDER WAY — Graders are already on the scene at the extension of a shopping center in southeast Big Spring. Anchored by the K-Mart Store, the center will house 35 new stores in all and will be built between Birdwell Lane and Miami Avenue just off FM 700. The Houston firm of Aimbinder and Bramalea drew up plans for the center.

Utility firms offer advice

Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Major gas and electric utilities soon will be offering to help Texas homeowners reduce their utility bills. While that may sound like an offer ratepayers can't refuse, most will.

For $15, company representatives will make house calls — braving cobwebs, crawling in dark spaces and examining dusty ducts to diagnose homes suffering from energy inefficiency. An auditor is likely to prescribe do-it-yourself remedies. If more complicated treatment is required, however, the auditor will recommend businesses to do the work and, if necessary, lenders to finance it.

The home-energy audit is the centerpiece of the Texas Residential Conservation Services program, which is the state's answer to the 1978 National Energy Conservation Policy Act. Announcements of the audit offers will go out from 15 electric companies and six natural gas companies as soon as the program receives the long-delayed blessing of the U.S. Department of Energy.

Dan Quigley of DOE's conservation division in Washington, D.C., predicts approval by mid-January. Failure to meet a September target date was due to understaffing at DOE, he says, and not to any recalcitrance by Texas utilities. In fact, Quigley has cautious praise for Texas companies. "In the early days, they thought it was a tremendous waste of money and a useless federal burden," he says. "Now, they are still sort of grumbling about some of the federal requirements, but they view it as an opportunity and they want to get going."

The companies' immediate opportunity, most spokesmen say, is for good customer relations. But the long-range benefit — and the one intended by lawmakers — is an energy-savings so great that future power plant construction can be avoided, thus more than offsetting the program's cost.

"We have got to educate the public that this is not another gimmick of either the government or the utility company," Joe Spears of Central Power and Light Co. in Corpus Christi says.

"It's a very, very positive program for both the customer and the utilities because we've got to do something to cut our energy use and make these homes more energy-efficient," he says.

Spears describes himself as "one of the first persons in Corpus Christi to install ceiling fans for more than decoration." Apparently, however, few homeowners are as conscious as he is of the money to be saved by spending a little on conservation measures.

In states where the home-audit plan already has been implemented, the number of ratepayers participating is as low as one-tenth of a percent. DOE set 7 percent as its national goal.

Texas utilities will meet or exceed 7 percent, predicts Tom Wright of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Council, or TENRAC, the state agency that is coordinating the program.

That goal is "totally unrealistic," Jo Ann Smith of Gulf States Utilities Co. in Beaumont says.

GSU has had a program similar to the proposed state plan and its response rate is just over 1 percent. And that, Ms. Smith stresses, is for a free program.

Still, she says GSU hopes to double participation to 2 percent under the new program despite the $15 charge.

DOE's Quigley blames the poor response rate in other states on utilities that are reluctant to promote the federally mandated offer.

Once Texas's plan is approved, companies will mail announcements offering general information on improving home energy efficiency, the $15 on-site inspection and a list of local contractors, material suppliers and lenders with the aid of the U.S. Labor Department.

Most of the conservation measures in Texas's plan are described as no-cost (adjusting thermostats on heating, cooling and water temperature units) or low-cost (caulking and weatherstripping). The auditor will estimate costs of any work suggested and the savings likely to result.

The customer also will be informed of a side-benefit: 15 percent of the cost of improvements, or a maximum of $300, can be subtracted from federal income tax payments.

For those who need a loan to cover more-costly improvements, such as blowing insulation into walls, charges can be included on utility bills over a period of at least 3 years. However, the utility first deducts what it is owed before subtracting the lender's share, and it is not liable for defaults.

Other services that Texas utilities will provide are arbitration of disputes between customers and businesses or lenders, and inspection — optional, and for a small customer charge — of any completed work.

Whether Texas companies will be any more enthusiastic about promoting conservation than other states' utilities have been is to be seen.

Over the past year, the Texas Public Utility Commission has handled several rate cases in which electric companies have asked for a price elasticity adjustment in their rates. That allows them to charge in advance for revenues they expect to lose when customers cut back. It is, consumer groups complain, a penalty on conservation.

Also, most Texas electric companies have in excess capacity far in power of what is needed to meet peak demand.
