Annual Co-Op Gin Meeting Saturday

Annual meeting of the stockholders of Olton Co-op Gin, featuring a barbecue and a report of the past year's operations, is scheduled Saturday evening at the company warehouse.

The event will get under way at 7:30 p. m. with the barbecue. A large crowd is expected for the annual get-together.

Patronage dividend checks will be handed out at the meeting, according to Lloyd Graham, manager.

Two new members of the gin's board of directors will be elected.

Retiring members are Jack Snider and Forrest Latimer. Names submitted by a nominating committee and appearing on the ballot for the two posts include: J. L. Snider, Norris Sampler, Larry Witten, and Leon Griffin.

Nominations also will be accepted from the floor at the meeting.

Present officers and directors are Willie Gene Green, President; Joe Ed Carson, vice-president; W. B. Dickenson, secretary; and Royce Collins, Glenn Phillips, Forrest Latimer and Jack Snider, directors.

Home Purchase Averages Told

With the prime home-buying season at hand and with many Lamb County families in the market, the question arises: How much can they afford to spend?

The kind of home a family can afford to buy depends upon various factors, but especially upon income. That's what sets the limit on the purchase price and on the monthly carrying costs.

How much may the average Lamb County family, with average local earnings, safely spend for a house?

The experts say the cost should not be much more than twice annual income, before taxes, for those in the middle brackets. The ratio varies somewhat for those in the lower brackets as well as for families with high incomes.

As for the monthly expenses for taxes, mortgage and insurance, they should not add up to more than one week's wages, after taxes.

The recommendations come from the American Bankers Association and the Federal Housing Administration.

Using their scale, the average-income family locally can afford a house costing about $13,900. The controlling factor is its gross income of $6,880, which includes, frequently, the earnings of two or more members of the household.

This is a bigger investment than families in many other parts of the country could consider, under the guidelines, because their incomes are lower.

Lamb County families with above-average incomes available to them usually spend considerably more for their homes but require smaller proportions of their income for the purpose.

Those in the $15,000-a-year bracket, before taxes, may go as high as $30,500 for a home, under the formula, and those earning $5,500, as high as $11,150.

FHA officials point out that there are great differences, even within a particular income bracket, in how much a family can afford to spend for a home.

A couple with no dependents, for example, can spend more money than one with several children to educate and an elderly parent to support.

As to current housing costs, prospective home buyers are finding that prices are somewhat higher than a year ago. Inflation has had its effect, apparently, on the housing market.

Oltonites' Kin Awarded Honors At Arizona School

Twyla Stockham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Stockham Jr., of Tucson, Ariz. and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Elkins of Olton was honored with the two top awards from Townsend Junior High School in Tucson.

Miss Stockham is an eighth grader at the school. The awards were Citizenship and Friendship Award presented by Fraternal Order of Police, City of Tucson Police Dept., as most valuable citizen in the eighth grade of Townsend; and the scholastic award which was for the highest average for a two year period. Twyla's average of 98.96 was the highest average in the history of the school.

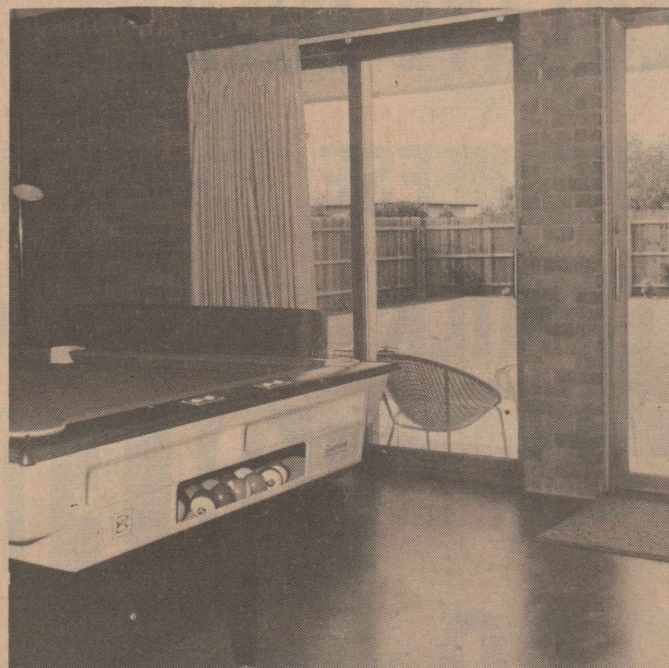

Townsend Junior High has an enrollment of approximately 800 students.

Lions Schedule Annual Carnival

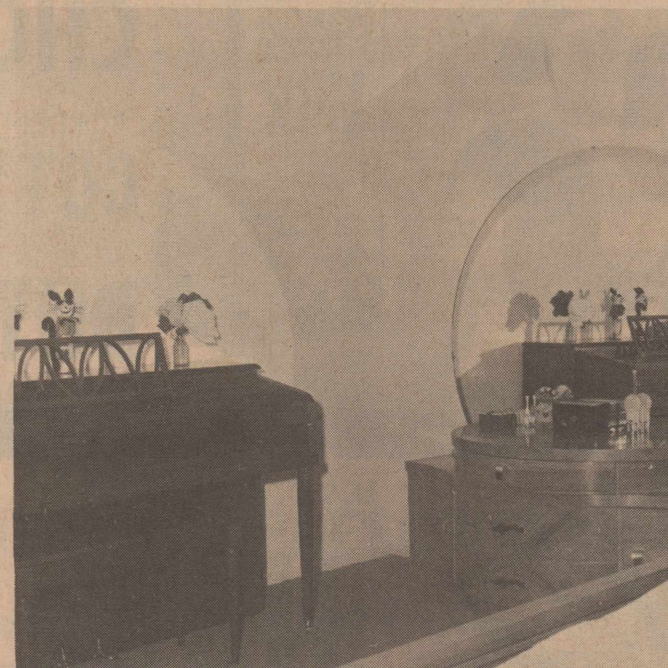

Lions Club carnival is set here July 6-9.

Carnival will be held on the south side of the square, as in the past.

B. S. Rhodes Carnival again has been contracted for the games and rides.

THE PATIO or "play room" in the Lynn Fite home is pictured above with a lovely scene of the backyard in the background.

DEBRA FITE's room is strictly "girlish" as shown above with contemporary styled dresser and a place for her piano.

New Home Of Lynn Fite Family Features Comfort, Convenience

BY SUE CANNON

Comfort and convenience are the themes carried out in the new home of Dr. and Mrs. Lynn Fite, on 7th Street.

The Fites moved into their new home Jan. 1, having moved back to Olton about one year before. They had been residents of Olton prior to this time for about 12 years. They have three children, Terry, 13, Debra, 11, and Scot, 9.

The kitchen and dining area are just to the right of the entrance hall and, as one of Mrs. Fite's friends put it, "There's always a good cup of coffee," to which Mrs. Fite readily agreed, saying that the "pot is on 24 hours a day."

The kitchen, done in birch wood, stained walnut, has aqua tile on the counter tops and is furnished with bronze appliances.

There is a snack bar with overhead cabinets, which separates the dining area from the work area. There is a bronze double sink under a north window, which has a very unique idea -- a built-in soap dispenser on one side of the water faucet and a hand lotion dispenser on the other, -- "very convenient," notes Mrs. Fite.

Just off the kitchen is the utility room, done in beige and white, with white appliances. One back entrance is through this room and another is through a door on the east which comes in from the double garage, which incidentally, has an electric door raiser -- another "convenience."

The pantry is across the hall from the utility room and just off the kitchen also, which is very handy, and shows evidence that Mrs. Fite is an old-fashioned home maker who believes in "canning."

The spacious living room is to the south of the kitchen and the two rooms are divided with a bar which holds the telephone and serves as a desk. Beige drapes, which Mrs. Fite made, are hung at the "Anderson" -- 3-panel--windows and matching drapes are hung in the dining room.

The floor is covered in a lovely gold carpet and the furnishings in the room are big "comfortable" chairs with a brown living room suite. A color TV stands in one corner of the room next to a beautiful brick-wall fire-place. North of the fireplace is a built-in bookcase.

To the east of the living area is the patio or "play room." Here a pool table and two record players "invite" you to come in. The room has cement floors painted in a lovely dark green color, the ceiling has beams of stained wood and is well-lighted from the two large sliding doors that open on the south to a large half-moon porch and on out to the back fenced-in yard; in which Mrs. Fite enjoys working.

"I just can't stay out of it," she remarked. She has flowers all along the fence, and the lawns kept beautifully, for here the children play with their favorite pet, Pierre, the Fites' French Poodle.

Down the hallway from the living area, on the south side of the hall are four closets -- one for recreational things, such as bowling balls, card table and chairs, etc., one for out-of-season clothes and a cedar lined closet and a linen closet.

An interesting feature in the hall is a fold-away stair, which pulls down from the ceiling in order to get to the attic which has been sub-floored and lighted so it can be used for additional storage space.

The main bath is just across the hall from the linen closet and is done in gold and white with beige fixtures. The floor covering has touches of gold in it and the tile on the walls is white with a border of gold trim. There are two lavatories set in a dressing table effect.

Debra's room is carpeted in a beautiful deep blue color and was built especially big enough for her piano, so "she can practice all she likes without disturbing anyone." Her bedroom suite is of contemporary style in a blond finish. She has blue stripe drapes with a solid blue valance, which her mother made, and her bed is covered with a white bedspread with a doll in the center, dressing it up.

Scot and Terry's room is carpeted with a lovely beige carpet and has red drapes with matching bedspreads on their twin beds. They have a blond curved bookcase in one corner, and each has their own closet.

The master bedroom is on the south of the hall and features contemporary style furnishings with a "Mr. and Mrs. Swing-Away" bed.

The dressing room is just off the bedroom and is done in white and gold with gold carpeting throughout the bedroom and dressing room.

The bath is to the left of the dressing room and is also done in white and gold with beige fixtures. The tile floor covering is white with flecks of gold and beige. The dressing room has a large walk-in closet to the right of it.

When asked if there was anything in her new home that had an especially sentimental value, Mrs. Fite simply said: "It's all sentimental to me, it's home."

$60,000 Bond Vote Is July 9

The Olton Community can have its new paving program without a tax increase.

That fact was revealed by Olton's city council recently when it called a second paving bond election for Saturday, July 9.

This election will decide the fate of a $60,000 bond issue on about 25 blocks of new paving and a large amount of seal coating and repair to other streets in the city.

About $35,000 would be spent on new paving and $25,000 on seal coating.

Backers of the paving program asked for a new election after the first try failed. Voters turned down that proposal, 139-120, on April 5.

Immediately, there were calls for a new election, and the council agreed to call one if 150 signers could be found for a petition requesting the vote.

Boosters of the paving program said they felt the first election would have passed if the turnout had been better and more facts on the election had been made known.

Just before the last council meeting, a petition bearing 208 names was presented to the council, and the group followed through by calling the second election.

Accompanying the petition when it was signed was a map showing the location of the proposed new paving.

In the first election, voters were told that the bond issue's approval would mean a 14 percent increase.

Voters are being approached this time with the promise that there will not be a tax increase if the paving bond is approved.

This change was brought about after Joe Smith of First Southwest Corp., Lubbock, pointed out the manner in which the city's sinking fund surpluses had been building up.

These surpluses came to something over $42,000, and that money alone would have been enough to pay bond requirements almost three years in advance.

It is because of this surplus that the council can now take on a new paving program without an increase in taxes.

The $60,000 in bonds, if approved, would be paid over the period between now and 1983.

Anticipated cost to property owners on new paving would run between $4.25 and $4.50 per front foot.

New proposed paving includes the following blocks:

Ave. G -- five blocks from 9th St. to 14th St.
Ave. E -- two blocks from 9th St. to 11th St.
10th St. -- one block from Main to Ave. E.
Ave. D -- four blocks from 9th St. to 5th St.
7th St. -- two blocks from Ave. E to Ave. C.
Ave. C -- one block from 5th St. to 6th St.
2nd St. -- one block from Ave. G to Ave. H.
6th St. -- two blocks, one from Ave. E to Ave. D and one from Ave. H to Ave. I.
9th St. -- three blocks from Ave. J to Ave. M.
Ave. L -- two blocks from 7th St. to 9th St.

Contract Let On Farm Roads

A contract for 12.491 miles on F. M. Roads 1072 and 2487 in Lamb and Bailey county has been awarded to a Lubbock firm, it was announced in Austin this week by the State Highway Commission.

Kerr Construction Co. submitted the low bid of $213,573.62 on the project. Grading, structures, base and surfacing is expected to take 180 working days, according to O. L. Crain district highway engineer at Lubbock.

Rhea E. Bradley, resident engineer at Littlefield will be in active charge of the project while it is under construction.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The U. S. Department of Agriculture tells us that the average housewife spends $32.11 a week on food. And it's her favorite sport -- if you can call housekeeping chores sport.

Grocery shopping, American style, "ain't what it used to be." Our great-grandmothers, of course, did their shopping in the field -- picked their own peas, shucked their own corn and raised their own beef in days when the only container in which milk came was the family cow.

Nowadays, a single trip to the supermarket puts the housewife in the center of every food imaginable -- not to mention drug and hardware items.

Aside from the obvious lack of work involved, perhaps the main reason shopping is liked is that today's woman enjoys getting away from household routine -- and into what is usually a bright, cheery store. The problem of where to get food has been transformed into what kind to buy and how much to spend for it. Today's shopper has a good idea of where every food penny goes.

It's not easy. She must choose from hundreds of tempting foods -- the likes of which her great-grandmother or even her grandmother never saw. Agriculture has greatly improved the size and quality of just about every fruit and vegetable. Moreover, scientific breeding has made chickens, turkeys and other livestock meatier -- you can eat white meat forever, if you like.

In line with these advances, industry has come up with methods of preserving food considerably longer through freezing, dehydrating and protective packaging techniques.

Boil-in-the-bag, bake-in-the-bag and freeze-dehydrated foods menued for astronauts are becoming commonplace. Of all food, perhaps meats are the most difficult to work with. To preserve meat in earliest times man had to salt it or dry it into unattractive, unrecognizable and often indigestible forms.

Subject to rigid government inspection, meat quality is now a matter of fact to the housewife. Nevertheless, meat is still prone to rapid spoilage if not vacuum-packaged. Vacuum packaging, where all air is removed to prevent spoilage, is the same method of packaging the housewife associates with the long-used metal coffee cans. With the development of tough, nylon packaging film, the same effect is now possible in transparent, flexible packages. Now, everything from bacon to frankfurters to luncheon meats is available in flexible vacuum packages that retain flavor, improve appearance and more than triple the storage life both at home and in the supermarket display case, under normal refrigeration.

With all this industry working for her, it's a small wonder that the U.S. housewife is esteemed as a model of efficiency.

How To Arrange Flowers

As an art, flower arrangement most closely resembles painting, adhering to the same principles of scale, color rhythm and composition to achieve beauty.

The side triangle, crescent, half-circle, S-curve, full circle, perpendicular, oval and triangle are basic forms.

These compositions, or eight basic plans, are your single guide to turning flower arrangements into living paintings.

Flowers are lovely in any circumstance, but to bring out all their natural beauty they should be arranged in containers which complement their colors and contours.

The container's suitability, not its intrinsic value, is really what matters.

Since experts agree that over-decorated highly colored vases detract from the beauty of the flowers, any container made of clear or light-tinted glass is a good choice.

Many unique and original compositions--formal or informal--can be made with such standard pieces as the vases and bowls in every household.

Tumblers, stemmed or footed goblets, brandy inhalers (miniature or mammoth), cocktail mixers, candy dishes, tall Pilsner glasses, apothecary jars or jars that once held bath salts--these are but a few examples of the household glassware you can borrow to make sparkling flower arrangements.

No matter what piece of glassware you choose, nor which of the eight basic plans is most appropriate to it, you'll start by deciding on the scale of the arrangement.

Scale is the relationship of the flowers to the size and shape of the container. Most visually satisfying is an arrangement whose proportions are at least one and a half times a tall containers height -- or about one and a half times a low containers width.

Color rules are simple. Since dark or heavy flowers tend to give the feeling of weight, they look least heavy when used at the bottom of an arrangement. Buds and lighter, smaller blossoms may be placed at the top and outer sides.

Try to use color in groups--"family" colors like pinks and reds together--to lend coherence and harmony to the over-all effect.

Flowers should be arranged so that the eye is led to a natural center of interest. This is where you call upon graceful foliage to give a feeling of rhythmic motion and direction to the composition.

That long awaited and keenly anticipated trip to the seashore or the mountains can be a complete dud if you get sick.

The American Medical Association offers a few pointers that will help you avoid illness and insure that your vacation is a period of fun and relaxation for all the family. This will help everyone get rejuvenated and ready to face another year.

Depending on where you are going, you may need some vaccination shots. Tetanus, certainly, for anyone who expects to include some out-of-doors activities. Typhoid, if your journey includes areas where the water supply is uncertain. Smallpox, if you're planning to leave the United States to visit a foreign land, and want to re-enter the United States. Ask your doctor about these, and possibly other immunizations.

Use common sense about your vacation diet. Many a family trip has been spoiled by too many roadside hamburgers and soft drinks. A sound rule while driving cross-country is to eat lightly. Be cautious about heavy, rich meals, particularly if you're not accustomed to such fare at home.

Know what sort of climate you will encounter at your vacation spot and dress accordingly. It can get cold in the mountains at night, even in mid-summer. Good walking shoes are important to the travel wardrobe.

If you wear glasses, take along an extra pair. Or at least a copy of your prescription. If you're taking a regular medication, make certain of your supply before you leave.

And, finally, don't overdo it. Almost no one other than a trained athlete is ready for 36 holes of golf or five sets of tennis under a broiling sun. Schedule your vacation to allow daily rest periods. Do most of the driving in the morning hours and stop for the evening in early or mid-afternoon.

Your vacation should be a holiday for rest and relaxation. It should not be a grind that necessitates another vacation to rest up from the vacation.

This Is A Root

...A Johnson Grass Root !

You'll find it in cotton fields throughout the area. It absorbs enormous quantities of water and soil nutrients and produces a plant up to eight feet tall. It may lie dormant for years and suddenly come to life to crowd your young cotton right out of existence. It's the deadliest enemy your cotton crop will ever have. ANSAR 529 applied when the cotton is 3" high to first bloom can give you up to 95% eradication of Johnson Grass. It's safe (less toxic than aspirin), easy to apply, completely harmless to cotton when applied properly and remarkably economical.

Grain Market Year Changed

Grain sorghum marketing year for Commodity Credit Corporation minimum sales pricing purposes has been changed from July 1 through June 30 to Oct 1 through Sept 30. The change will be in effect for 1966-67

This action will put grain sorghum on the same marketing year as corn and will result in a parallel escalation of CCC's minimum sales price for corn and sorghum throughout the entire marketing year. A beginning date of Oct 1 will more closely coincide with the major harvest in the West Texas-Kansas-Nebraska area.

This change results in a transitional period between the end of the current marketing year June 30 and the start of the new year Oct 1. During this three month transitional period and for the first month (October) of the new marketing year, CCC's feed grain minimum sales price will be the 1966 crop loan rate plus an initial markup as usual to reflect the receiving cost.
