MILLION $ BOND ISSUE RAPPED BY B. D. SARTIN

County Judge Says Proposal to Plunge County In Debt is Unnecessary

SUGGESTS WARRANTS

Declares Road-Bridge Fund Could Spare $15,000 Annually 20 Years

County Judge B. Sartin drove a spike of economical disapproval Monday night into the proposal that burst upon the public Monday afternoon that a million dollar bond issue should be floated in Wichita county to appease the community's desire for highway and bridge improvement. Floatation of the huge bond issue was discussed with more or less enthusiasm by the county commissioners court Monday afternoon. While in no way committing themselves to any such scheme, at least two of the commissioners did not look with entire disfavor on a large issue to provide needed funds. The two were Commissioners J. P. Jackson of Wichita Falls and L. L. Kuntz of Iowa Park.

But when Sartin heard of it he gasped at the statement that Wichita county should under no circumstances burden itself with a million dollars indebtedness when, to his mind, ways and means for accomplishing improvements in mind were already available. The source of revenue, he contended, should come from the county's road and bridge fund now amounting to about $80,000 a year, from which $15,000 a year for the next 20 years could be spared easily to retire warrants issued against it, the money derived from the warrants to be used for improvements now contemplated.

Not So Much Needed.

It was in this connection that he took issue with those who declared the contemplated improvements would cost about a million dollars by saying that the new free bridge across the Red river near Burkburnett, one of the improvements contemplated, would cost the county but $40,000; completion of the paved road from the Seymour highway to diversion lake will cost the county but $150,000; and the paving of the new southside park road will cost the county only $125,000—making a total for contemplated improvements of but $315,000. This, Sartin explained, would not be the total cost of the improvements, but

SYMPHONY OF 20 VIOLINS IS CLUB OFFERING

Women's Choral Organization Presents Closing Recital Monday Night

CHOPIN ETUDE BY ARD

Chorus, in White Amid Rambler Rose Setting Lovely to See And Hear

In one of the most brilliant concerts of the spring social and musical season, the Women's Choral club presented its closing recital under the direction of Mrs. Luella B. Thompson Monday evening at the First Baptist church. Mrs. Thompson, gifted contralto, appeared as a soloist, assisting the choral club, as did Rev. Leslie Miller, baritone, and Floyd E. Ard Jr., pianist

The string symphony of 20 violins under the direction of Ethel Allen Nelson, assisted also, and opened the evening's program of seven numbers. The musical offerings displayed an array of talent that would do credit to a city much larger than Wichita Falls. Soloists were recognized by the large audience as performers of no mean ability, and the ensemble groups, the symphony and the choral club showed skilled direction and control in their selections of harmonic beauty. The choral club, which has grown better year by year under the direction of Mrs. Thompson, gave one of the finest performances in its history Monday evening, and collected as assistants one of the most noteworthy groups of performers on one program of recent seasons.

In Peccia's "Gloria."

The chorus appeared first in Peccia's "Gloria" and impressed hearers with the wonder of a group of women's voices working in perfect co-ordination as to tempo, tone quality and expression under an able director's hand. Garbed all in white in a setting of rambler roses which lined the altar rails and the front of the church, the Friml's "Dawn of Love" with a sochoral club was lovely to see and hear. prano obligata by Mrs. Wayne Holmes was beautifully sung, and "Trees" (Hahn) former a pleasing contrast in a serious vein. The closing number by the chorus was Bizet's "Angus Dei," beautifully arranged with Mrs. George Thorburn, soprano, singing the obligato, and four violins accompanying, played by Mesdames T. B. Greenwood, J. M. Bonner, A. M. Miller and Miss Vivian Bailey. The chorus sang the grand old number with majesty and beauty.

The string symphony opened the evening's program with the "First

'Iron Man' M'Ginity at 54, Outpitches a Youth of 18 by 7-3

OTTUMWA, Iowa, May 11. — Age triumphed over youth on the hill in a baseball game in the Mississippi Valley league today when Joe McGinnity, veteran "iron man" of the New York Giants, despite his 54 years, defeated John Welch of Ottumwa, 18-year-old twirler and the youngest man in the league. Despite McGinnity's advanced age, the veteran pitched a heady game and kept 13 hits well scattered when going the entire route, only three runs resulting. Dubuque piloted by McGinnity defeated Ottumwa, 7 to 3, largely because of the loose playing behind Welch who was touched for 10 hits. It was the first game of the season in which McGinnity started and finished, having worked out for four innings a few days ago.

Juror In Damage Suit Was Once Bitten By A Spider---Disqualified

Because he had at one time been bitten by a spider, a juror selected for duty in the 89th district court disqualified himself Monday and was excused from the panel. Another man was selected after the trial, well under way, had been held up a short time by reason of the disqualification.

The case is one for damages in which W. D. McClure is suing Dr. W. S. Tyson, alleging that erroneous diagnosis and treatment of the physician caused the plaintiff undue pain and suffering. The paintiff recites that he had been bitten by a spider and was treated by the defendant for Bright's disease. The juror who left the box after once being accepted informed Judge Martin that he himself had once been bitten by a spider and was afraid he couldnt give impartial consideration to the present case. The court upheld his contention.

Evidence in the trial, most of which is of highly professional nature, will be continued today.

War Lord Enters Berlin To Frenzy Of Monarchism

Enthusiasm of Mobilization Days Exceeded in Wave of Applause and Homage to Germany's First Popularly Elected President and Soldier-Statesman

Editor's Note: In connection with the entrance of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to the chancellor's palace in Berlin yesterday it is interesting to recall that just 10 years ago this week a torpedo was fired by a German submarine tore a hole through the mighty Lusitania. The ship sank in mid-ocean. It had been misdirected by a fraudulent message sent in wireless code. Among the 1,198 persons killed were nationals of this and other nations.

BERLIN, May 11.—Speeding through a 5-mile-straightaway flanked by dense rows of surging, jubilant humanity, Field Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg, president-elect of Germany, late this afternoon reached the chancellor's palace where he will be a guest for a single night, pending his formal induction into office at noon tomorrow.

Echoes of Monarchism Contained In Welcome

An uneventful train ride of four hours carried the presidential party to the edge of Berlin shortly before 6 o'clock this evening and in less than 10 minutes Germany's new soldier-president, who craves seclusion and balks at the adulation of the friendly mob, found himself engulfed in a vortex of frenzied men, women and children. Even the enthusiasm of mobilization days in August, 1914, did not approximate in volume the popular acclaim which today poured into the path of the nation's new executive, and although the proverbial Hohenzollern weather was denied him, numerous manifestations of pre-war sentiments and yearnings greeted him all along the route.

The old colors were there in profusion and the air was redolent of moth balls, for thousands of family chests and wardrobes had yielded up an assortment of gayly bespangled uniforms and other gala apparel which went into seclusion with the revolution of 1918.

Through it all, Field Marshal von Hndenburg sat rigidly beside Chancellor Luther, his face immobile and marked by pallor, while his right hand automatically touched the rim of his top hat as he responded to the vociferous greetings to his and left.

Mighty Shout Goes Up From Multitude

With more than military promptness the presidential train arrived at Heerstrasse station where Dr. Luther's 10-year-old daughter dressed in white stepped forward and as the field marshal alighted spoke a verse of welcome and courtsying low, handed to him a bunch of yellow roses. With a faint smile the field marshal thanked her and then turned the flowers over to his daughter-in-law to whom Chancellor Luther had presented a cluster of lillies of the valley.

Von Hindenburg wore a black overcoat unadorned with medals and carried a yellow cane. He shook hands with the other dignitaries after which he bowed to the assembled reporters. At that moment a mighty shout arose from the top of the embankment where a great crowd had assembled. The shouts and cheers were repeated with increased volume as he left the station to step into an automobile.

Airplane Escort

As the party got under way, a fleet of nine airplanes rose from the field behind the station and acted as an escort along the way to Wilhelmstrasse. They showered flowers on the presidential motor and frequently dipped so low as to frighten the crowds straining their necks to get a glimpse of the field marshal.

The nationalists planned to turn the event into a great manifestation along the route traveled by the automobile carrying their hero from the suburban station where he was due to arrive late in the afternoon, up to broad Heerstrasse, through the Brandenburg gate and thence to the chancellor's palace, where he will rest in preparation for tomorrow's inauguration.

The air was charged with electricity, both literally and figuratively—literally because of a threatened thunder storm and figuratively because of fears that the nationalist demonstration might be met with counter manifestations and lead to trouble.

Police on Guard

The police issued sweeping orders forbidding the monarchist sympathizers from having their bands of welcome play "Fredericus Rex" or any other of the stirring marches reminiscent of the days of the kaiser's power. Also prohibited the communists and their sympathizers from staging the three monster open air demonstrations planned for today.

The police precations against trouble were elaborate and included patroling not only of the streets, but of the air and water. Aerial patrols were instructed to hover constantly over all the important street crossings along the route to keep watch for symptoms of disturbances.

Police tugs were to ply to and fro on the Havel river near the bridge to be crossed by Von Hindenburg's automobile. Forty of the capital's most experienced motorcycle police were detailed as an escort for his car. For the general safeguarding of order the chief of police augmented the 10,000 uniformed schupos (security police) with several hundred officers from

'Die Wacht-Rhein' Sends Friend of The Kaiser Off To Berlin

HANOVER, May 11.—As the people of his home town cheered and sang "Deutchstaad Lied" and "Die Wacht Am Rhein," Field Marshal Von Hindenburg left Hanover this afternoon on a special train for Berlin where tomorrow he will be inaugurated president of Germany.

As the train pulled out of the station, the general holding himself very erect, exclaimed with a vigorous voice, "for the Deutschland, hurrah, hurrah, hurrah."

Just before he left Hanover as he was saying goodbye to Gustav Noske, former executive secretary for military affairs who lives here, Von Hindenburg said:

"The time has come when the German people more than ever must be united. With unity, unity and again unity, I hope to succeed in leading the German people to a bright future."

Refined Markets Stiffen Under Influence of Last Week's Buys

Jobbers Enter Market After A Long Hold-Back

Big Fellows After Gasoline But Willing to Pay Price

MAY CONTINUE

Fuel Oil Strengthened By Smackover Crude Rise

Mid-continent refiners are more and more coming to feel that the past week of stiffened markets and demand for their products among both the big buyers and the jobbers will continue throughout possibly the whole summer. Despite the rain which continues in north Texas and other portions of the country the gasoline season may be said to be here already. On the face this shows up in the last report of the National Petroleum News on the condition of stocks of 118 mid-continent refiners reporting to that paper, which indicates a reduction of same 7,000,000 gallons of gasoline under the peak of about three weeks before .

Jobbers are back in the market after holding back and not buying for quite a while and practically every product has shown a stiffening of some sort within the last week. Carter buying for one of the tSandards took in the neighborhood of 600 cars of 58-60 out of the mid-continent last week at prices ranging from 10 to 10 5-4 cents a gallon, and is in the market for more now, it is understood at the top price mentioned above but with none to be had, anything bringing 11 1-4 to 11 1-2 now or nothing at all.

Atlantic, Carson, and Sinclair have made some inquiry, also, with Gulf trying to get in while the getting in is good.

Group 3 reports a strengthening of the higher gravity gasoline with little to be had, the price ranging around 14 cents. Refiners are in some instances increasing their runs to the stills, but as ever the usual condition exists with most, that is that May always finds plenty of gasoline on hand to take care of May demands.

The price increases at Smackover have strengthened fuel oil about a nickel to a range between 90 and 95 cents. Kerosene is up at about 4 1-8 to 4 3-8 cents, and gas oil is bringing 2 3-4 to 2 7-8 in group 3.

Courts Called Upon To Umpire Wrangle Over Oil Royalties

AUSTIN, May 11.—Without comment on the merits of the university oil royalties row, or attempting to say what official is right and what wrong, it is believed the legislature will take a cue from the situation, wherein six different departments are involved in attempts to enforce or to decide the course of the law, and the courts have to be called on as the seventh agency to umpire the wrangle.

It may occur to the legislature to direct one state official what to do in connection with the law, and at the same time, taking the hands of all others off its enforcement.

First, the land commissioner was called upon to make a decision. He made it. Next the state treasurer had to make a decision. That was decided. Then the comptroller decided another way. The attorney general was asked to rule on the measure before it was signed; but it was signed, and one official chose to follow the new law, the other to follow his decision that it was no good.

Then the state game, fish and oyster department came in on the new law, for the transfer of money collected under the new law, to its fund. The regents of the university of Texas were deeply concerned in upholding a law making available for immediate building purposes over a million dollars a year. So they have employed distinguished counsel to represent them. And now the controversy is to go to the courts for an interpretation whether the 151 men in the Texas legislature passed, and the governor of Texas signed a bill in conflict with the state constitution.

Delano Gets Instructions To Pay up Now

Frederic A. Delano was instructed yesterday by the supreme court of the United States to make preparations for a prompt closing of the receivership, according to dispatches emanating from Washington. The order comes as an addition to instructions directing him to pay the royalty interest from wells 152, 153 and 154, to T. P. Roberts and A. H. Britton, the interest amounting to about $100,000.

The order also instructs the receiver to pay to the several claimants interested in the Texas or "flood plain" wells the balance due them remaining on his hands, reserved thus far to pay possible expenses of the receivership.

The new order of the supreme court may have the effect, many believe, of bringing to a close a regime in the Red river country which lasted over four years ad occasioned much strife and dissention between operators and producers who found the control of the unusually rich Red river bottom taken from their hands.

Money instructed to be refunded will run into several hundred thousand for Wichitans alone.

14 Operations Getting Under Way in Wheeler

Beckham County, Oklahoma, Shows Only Three Tests

The following activity is noted in Wheeler county; 14 oerations show:

J. O. Whittington No. 3 Williams & Laycock, in the northeast corner of the northwest of the northeast of section 9, block 27, is making around 15,000,000 feet of gas at around 2,000 feet, and it is spraying 60 barrels of oil a day from 2,160 feet after showing for a big well at that depth and should reach the 2,190 foot sand, where his No. 2 in the southwest corner of the northeast of the northeast of section 9, produced 1,100 barrels natural the first 24 hours. The No. 4, in the southeast corner of the northwest of section 9, is making 28,000,000 feet of gas from 1,980 feet. It caught on fire and after several days was extinguished.

Whittington and associates are drilling at No. 1 O. T. Nicholson, in the center of the southeast of section 28, block 13, having started at 1,300 feet. This is the test begun by the Union Petroleum and Supply company. Mr. Whittington is starting a test on the G. W. Porter farm, in the southwest corner of section 14, block 27.

Texhoma Oil and Refining company No. 1 Williams and Laycock, in the southeast corner of the northeast of the southeast of section 11, block 27, is drilling below 1,525 feet. Its No. 1, A. S. Martin, in the northeast corner of the northwest of section 18, block A-S, is a rig up and moving in tools.

Edgar, Morten-Tindall

Edgar and associates have made location for No. 1 Morten and Tindall, in the southwest corner of the stouth-east of the northwest of section 19, block A-S.

W. D. Shedden, agent, is running the 10 inch to shut off a cave at 1,230 feet in No. 1 E. Westmorland, in the center of the northwest of section 27, block A-S. His No. 1 C. T. Emler, in the center of the northeast of section 70, block 13, is below 300 feet. It is 40 feet west of the original location which was drilled to 500 feet, and after a long fishing job the rig was skidded and drilling again resumed.

Pendleton & Vaughn are drilling below 1,200 feet in No. 1 P. W. Kay in the center of the northwest of section 4, block A-S, and their oil and gas lease in the south half of the southeast or section 12, block 27, was sold to the Midwest Exploration company for a reported consideration of $64,000.

Pipeline Soon

Noble brothers of Amarillo are moving in tools for No. 1 Williams and Laycock, in the northwest corner of the southeast of the northeast of section 9, block 27, which will be a south offset to J. O. Whittington's No. 2, an oil well.

The Whittington interests are almost through with the construction of a four-inch pipe line from section 9, block 27, south to the Rock Island tracks at Lela, thus providing a new outlet for their oil. The crude teests 37.5 degrees and is very rich in paraffine.

Oklahoma, Beckham County

There are only three active operations under way in Beckham county, of Southwestern Oklahoma, adjoining Wheeler to the east. Some 14 different tests are drilling or preparing to drill.

Grand Opening Jubilee, Saturday, May 16th

What a $1,500,000 Business Means

—This live men's and boys' store has enjoyed a remarkable growth, due mainly to its own personality and ideals.

—But a part of this growth has been responsible to a silent partner about which the good people of Wichita Falls know very little—a partner in the clothes of six other live stores all in the same chain.

—These stores if put one on top of another would make the largest men's and boys' clothing house in south central America — eight floors, (25,625 square feet) devoted exclusively to men and boys, doing an annual business considerably over $1,000,000.

—It means a tremendous outlet of men's and boys' wearing apparel; in a "nut shell," it means the most powerful buying power in south central America!!

—If these things appeal to you—watch! wait!! for our grand opening Jubilee, Saturday, May 16th.

Oil Gossip

Ray and Massie, local oil operators, have purchased the Woodall farm, just north of the American Refining companys plant north of Wichita Falls with 500 acres for $50,000. The deal is intended as a real estate venture, was not closed with the intention of the two oil men turning farmers.

Doctor J. H. Massie was expecting yesterday afternoon to have to start for Los Angeles to answer a subpeona to appear before a California grand jury, reason unknown. Efforts to obtain a release from the summons had all been futile late yesterday afternoon.

Among those returning Sunday from various committee meetings of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association and Western Petroleum Refiners association at Tulsa Friday and Saturday were Roy B. Jones, president of the Panhandle Refining company and member of the board of directors of the refiners group, and W. S. Simms refinery superintendent for the Panhandle and member of the technical committee of the Mid-Continent association.

W. B. Hamilton, president of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company, returned Sunday from a short trip to Tulsa.

Ball games these days are emptying many of the oil offices an hour or so prematurely. Big company and little company are affected alike. Attendance at Lobby Drilling company directors sessions are as yet unperturbed by the distraction, however.

Fort Worth will be the next meeting place of the National Oil Scouts of America, the second annual convention of that organization being scheduled to convene there on June 15 and 16. The last year's meeting was held at Mineral Wells with about 250 in attendance. It is expected that this year's attendance will exceed 450 or 500.

The convention was changed from Ardmore because of the more central location of Fort Worth. B. M. Bell of Wichita Falls is president of the association.

B. J. Shaws family is spending a vacation in Montpellier, Vermont, and other eastern points.

Simms Oil company's location on the Cassidy Southwestern Commission company land north and east of the Major pool south of Archer City, is an effort, according to Paul Steed, in charge of that company's north Texas activities, to make the Major pool look like the Minor pool.

J. H. Massie has adorned his new office on the tenth floor of the Staley building with the hide of an Arctic polar bear, neatly done up to look like a rug. The rug is about ten feet long, and is snow white. The hide is said to be the relic of an Alaskan trip of the doctor's.

Sunday's Oklahoman, leading daily of Oklahoma City, carries a squib about the growing handshake that Fort Worth is extending to oil men and oil companies with requests for them to carry on their operations from that center.

The write-up carries caustic reference to the "Doc Cook" type of operator that in the ast has carried a Fort Worth address.

Smackover Production Breaks World's Record 395,850 Bbls. Saturday

New Oil History is Written When Heavy Oil Pool Reaches New Peak With 33 Wells Dead.

New petroleum history is being written day by day in the Smackoveer oil field of southern Arkansas.

Besides putting forth an erfect flood of oil gravity crude each day, it has eclipsed all previous great oil fields of this country in daily out put with its peak still ahead.

Friday the Smackover field did 334,708 barrels a day from 158 oil wells, of which 28 were dead or sanded up. Saturday the figure was 395,850 from 156 wells and 33 were dead. In addition to some 100 wells drilling, each day sees more tsest started there.

One of the newest wells is the Rexana Petroleum corporation No. 2 Murphy, in 9-16-15, which came in for 4,000 barrels a day at 2,410 to 2,418 feet and Saturday it was increased to 18,000 barrels a day.

Including all of the other Arkansas pools the Bear state is very close to the 500,000 barrel a day mark, and has already supplanted Oklahoma for second place and crowding California for first.

Cushings peak was 300,000 barrels a day; Powell in east central Texas attained 354,893 barrels in November, 1923; Long Beach made 256,000 a day in October, 1923; Santa Fe Springs reached 342,00 in September, 1923; and Huntington Beach did 115,000 a day in August, 1923; Burbank did 121,764 a day in July, 1923; and Tonkawa's first peak of 112,233 was in May, 1923, and its last of 88,607 for the deep sand was in September, 1924.

Ray-Massie Lose Hole on Bond et al

After closing a perfectly good deal with Staley and Wynne for one of the best thirty acre tracts in north Texas on the Bond-Hawkins-Williams fee, section 100, H&TCRRCO survey, block 4, South Vernon, and getting $160,000 for the plat with some wells with several hundred barrels production, with the stipulation that two drilling wells were to be finished in the 2,300-foot sand, Ray and Massie have had the misfortune to lose their No. 9 after fishing unsuccessfully for a variety of lost tools with the bottom of the hole just on the sand.

The rig is being moved off to a location just south of the No. 4, which is in the northwest corner of the north ten acres of the lease for the No. 11, another 2,300-foot test.

1,500 Feet of Oil in Wells Hole 1/2 Miles From Production

LOW GRAVITY FOUND

Record Made On Drilling Well In San Juan County

ALBUQUERQUE, N .M., May —The big news of the week is the striking of pay sand in the test of W. C. Wells, sec. 19-20-30 Eddy county, at a depth of about 1650, extending the preceding area to the Artesia field over 12 miles to the southeast. cording to the last report nearly 1500 feet of oil was standing in the hole ,and every indication points to the fact that it will be a good producer. The oil is of heavier gravity than anything previously encountered which has led many of the operators to believe that this well is either on or in the direction of the mother pool, where heavy production may be expected. Acreage prices in this vicinity are soaring and the leases are being bought by drilling companies.

The Van Welch well, on sec. 10-18-28, has also drilled into the pay sand at a little below 2300, maintaining the record for township 18-28 where there has not been a single failure among the more than 20 completions.

In the other corner of the state a record was made during the week on quick drilling. The Gibson Oil corporation spudded in a well on sec. 21-29-11, San Juan county, and in just three hours less than six days the bit was in pay sand..

A drilling contract has been closed on the Jamez structure in twp 15 N. Rge. 1w, Sandoval county, about 40 miles north of Albuquerque. Information is that the Sinclair company has taken the drilling contract.

Mankins Asks For New W.F.&S. Depot At State Rail Meet

AUSTIN, May 11.—(AP)—Applications for authority to discontinue passenger train service, filed recently by the International and Great Northern Railway company and the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, are scheduled for hearing tomorrow before the Texas railroad commission.

The I. G. N. is asking permission to discontinue motor cars Nos. 6 and 7 between Austin and San Antonio, and passenger trains Nos. 201 and 206 between Troup and Mineola. The Katy is asking permission to discontinue trains Nos. 15 and 16 between Dallas and Big Springs. Both roads allege revenues do not justify continuance of operation.

Mankins, on the Wichita Valley railway will ask for a depot building and stock pens; Bruceville, on the M. K. T. will present its claim for trackage facilities, and Franklin has pending apetition for free express pick-up and delivery service, to be heard tomorrow.

Veteran Engage Rooms At Six Hotels To Be Certain And Get One For Reunion

DALLAS, May 11.—Spry old civil war veterans to the number of 25 have asked for horses to ride in the parade of the United Confederate Veterans here next week. The annual re-union of the veterans, starting Tuesday May 19 will bring a number of former members of Forrest's cavalry, which won fame for daring during the conflict between the states. Cavalry mounts from Fort Worth and Dallas will be supplied.

The comfort of the veterans, none of who is younger than 78, is the greatest concern of the arrangements committee. Plans were made today to erect a tent sixty by 100 feet at union station in which to register the old comrades with dispatch and ease.

The committee in charge is experiencing difficulty in determining how may to prepare for. Letters were sent to each of the 16 active divisions of the organization, requesting a report on the number to be expected, but only three replies were received and two of these failed to answer the question.

General James A. Thomas, of Dublin, Ga., commander-in-chief, announced he expected to arrive May 17.

The committee has had some difficulty with veterans reserving rooms for themselves at several hotels. One or two men wrote to six different hotels reserving a room and bath in each, in order to be certain to have a room. This has caused considerable complication for the committee.

THRILL

hay ride to the Rod and Gun club, and the evening has been designated by the class president as "Individual Night". The class will break into individual bunch parties for the evening, a dance here and there; a moonlight picnic, a party and a spread, or supper or some of the delightful occasions already arranged, and Shumake Baber is giving a private theater party with the class president "among those present" it is said.

Up and At 'Em

Wednesday morning will find the play cast again rehearsing and other senior beauty napping and resting for the remainder of the strenuous week. Wednesday afternoon brings a huge swimming party for the class at Lake Wichita with water stunts planned, and plenty of "eats". That evening, the magnificent Bashara home at 1000 Van Buren will be thrown open when Sam Bashara, class president, entertains the senior class with a dance, one of the most eagerly anticipated of commencement events on the part of the "grads". The revelers, at the close of festivities will hurry home for a few hours sleep before rising again to be entertained by members of the Junior class at a sunrise breakfast beneath the great trees at Havener Park, on Thursday morning. Play practice will be held for the last time Thursday morning, and the finishing touches put on the performance to be presented that evening.

The short breathing spell during the day Thursday will be spent in selling tickets for the senior class play, "In the Spring a Young Man's Fancy", starring Clifton Clay, which will be presented in the auditorium of the college Thursday night. The play will be preceded by a musical program featuring John Warmuth on the marimbaphone and the high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Winifred Alvis, supervisor of high school music.

Rehearse to Graduate

Friday morning finds all the seniors gathered at the college auditorium, rehearsing the ceremonies of the graduation exercises to be held Friday evening at eight o'clock. After that impressive hour, when they sit robed in solemn gray with mortar board and tassel, they will emerge, all in their commencement finery at a gay banquet at the Kemp hotel, the crowning event of their senior lives, a joyous celebration to banish cares of study, work, anxiety, examinations, and the host of other late activities. The banquet, a huge melting pot of revelry, will serve as the class farewell. Many of the students, a few days after, will accept positions, others will visit in far away cities and scatter to attend colleges all over the country. Realizing this, the committee of arrangements has exerted every effort to make the occasion a memorable and pleasurable one.

SYMPHONY

Movement from 'The Military Symphony'" (Haydn), the martial strains swelling on the strings with sweeping grandeur The ensemble, all of strings, portrays the mixture of melody and hammony with a refreshing "difference" from other orchestra music, and the players are to be congratulated for the excellence and the high standard of their musical performance. Two of Mr. Nelson's own compositions, "Aubade" and "Melody, (American Indian Fancies)" were played by the symphony receiving unstinted applause.

Mrs. Thompson Superb.

Mrs. Thompson, in her contralto voice of rich sweetness sang "Invocation to Life" (Spross) and "Before the Crucifie" (La Forge). Her personality of charm and stateliness, coupled with the beauty of her voice quality and the appealing interpretation of her numbers made the gifted director's songs stand out above other offerings of the enoyable evening's program.

Rev. Leslie Miller, baritone, sang 'It Is Enough (Elijah)" (Mendelssohn), number worthy of high praise for the manner in which the singer interpreted it. Noted for his voice of marvelous range and sweetness, Rev Miller pleased his audience beyond expectation with his rendition of the selection.

Floyd E. Ard Jr., noted young pianist, played a Chopin etude, "The Butterfly" with brilliance and technical skill. His tone work in the number was notable for its power and sweetness. With deliberation and ability the young artist played Liszt's celebrated "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 10." The number, difficult to a marked degree, seemed entirely his own, and was played with pleasing artistic interpretation.

Accompanists during the evening were Mrs. O. B Keil, Mrs. F. R. Collard and Mrs. Carrie E. Wilcox. A silver offering taken at the intermission went in part for the benefit of the Day Nursery.

the political and criminal branches. Even the police dogs were mobilized. Police trucks were stationed at strategic points with reserves, ready to move whole platoons to any danger point in the event of necessity.

The policing arrangements called for 12,000 of the security force and several hundred plain clothes men, but they functioned with old time Prussian precision. All traffic had been diverted and the drive from the suburban station to the chancellor's palace was accomplished in less than half an hour. The president-elect, immediately retired to his private apartment and tonight was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the chancellor.

No Red Outbreaks.

It was late in the afternoon when Berlin began to stir and the crowds to congregate along the route over which the field marshal would travel. In the residential section the old monarchial colors again predominated, while in the downtown district they led the republican flag by a slight majority. Many democrats hoisted the Prussian black and white by way of a compromise and all told, it may be set down that the black, red and gold standard of republicanism was in hopeless minority.

Despite predictions that the day would be marked by clashes, the police nowhere were called upon to intervene and the expected communist outbreaks failed to materialize.

Berlin's proletariat absented itself from the reception in keeping with the admonition handed out by the socialists. With the exception of one democratic student fraternity all the delegations which turned out to welcome the president-elect comprised conservative or national ements.

Numerous post-war juvenile organizations and leagues participated, but there were also numerous deputations representing officers' clubs, associations of German nobility and women's patriotic leagues. The nationalistic student fraternities turned out in gala attire and carried their college standards. The German Turners sent a numerous delegation, as did the veterans' corps of all the well known Potsdam regiments.

Whether Von Hindenburg received a correct picture of the attitude of the Berlin populace remains an open question as the route chosen carried him through a section of the fashionable west end, which nominally rolls up conservative majorities. The socialist organs remind the incoming president that he now is living in a city which gave Dr. Marx, his opponent in the recent elections, a majority of 400,000.

The American embassy was among the first to hoist its national colors in honor of the field marshal's arrival and at noon all the foreign missions had followed suit.

President-elect Von Hindenburg will be sworn in before a plenary session of the reichstag at noon tomorrow, the oath being administered by the reichstag president, Herr Loebe. He will then review the guest of honor of Reichwehr and later proceed to the executive mansion, where he will take up his residence.

Sen. Parnell Thinks That Ma Will Seek Re-Election In '26

Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald of the Record News staff; writing from Austin states the following:

Senator J. D. Parnell is a western senator. He is from one of the big oil and livestock districts. Senator Parnell has his own viewpoint. He predicts that the special session of the legislature will begin on the third Monday of the coming month of June. Parnell is an independent senator.

While the regular session was on he voted for many of the Ferguson recommendations, but was not in sympathy wit hthe tax recommendations it will be recalled, provided for a tax of three cents per gallon on gasoline and a tax on manufactured cigars and cigarettes.

Ma to Run for Re-election

Senator Parnell holds to the theory that Mrs. Ferguson will be a candidate for re-election. He holds to the theory that the special session will be called and tax recommendations submitted in order that the new revenue may become effective before the coming of January, 1926. That is, if the tax measures are put over by the lawmakers instead of being strangled, which was their fate when submitted by the governor last winter.

If these measures go over and the revenue pour into the treasury, the senator admits that there will be a surplus instead of a deficit in the second year of the Ferguson administration. If the special session is not held util January, 1926, then the increased revenues would be of small benefit in the second year of the administration in the way of achievements to be pointed to with pride by the governor and her staunch supporters.

The Ferguson Position

Senator Parnell is likewise of the opinion that if the revenue measures are enacted and the surplus is placed in the treasury, then the Fergusons will be in a position to say that they could have recommended a cut in the ad valorem tax if they saw fit, instead of placing this new revenue to the credit of the building fund of institutions of higher education and for education generally.

LAFOLLETTE ON THE ROAD AGAIN.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin is on the road again. In a signed editorial he says that the Coolidge administration has demonstrated that the dominant leadership of the republican party proposes to give the country four years of government in the interest of big business. This is the viewpoint of the Wisconsin senator:

"About 58 per cent of the electorate were induced to cast their ballots for what they believed was symbolized by a modest Vermont farm house, an oil lamp and a well thumbed family Bible."

Senator LaFollette is as pungent with his pen as ever. He is as sarcastic with his tongue as ever. Now he says the country is getting from this administration a governmental policy dictated by the grain gamblers, the bankers, the monopolists and the oil trusts, and he predicts that the latter will be given clear title to lal the Doheny holdings.

Senator LaFollette was overwhelmed last year. He believed that he could sweep the country as a presidential candidate. Calvin Coolidge won by the largest majority ever rolled up for a candidate for that high office. Now the republican organization has kicked the LaFollette followers out of their high places in congress, and the leaders who won the victory for the republican party are going to dictate the governmental policies of that party.

Senator LaFollette is correct in his political diagonisis but to a certain extent only. Big business backed the republican candidate! Big business backed the republican party. Big business won. Isn't it true that the winners shape the policies of government and receives the rich plums when the tree is shaken?

There is another election coming in 1926. Many senators are to be elected. A new congress will be elected. Senator LaFollette is getting ready for planting time. He is 70. He never will be president. His followers may control the senate this winter, but the prize that the senator coveted the most will never fall into his lap.

THE MIND IN YOUTH AND AGE.

It has been observed that in youth it is the outward aspect of things that most engages us; while in age, thought or reflection is the predominating quality of the mind.

Hence, youth is the time for poetry, and age is more inclined to philosophy.

In practical affairs it is the same: a man shapes his resolutions in youth more by the impression that the outward world makes upon him; whereas, when he is old, it is thought that determines his actions.

This is partly to be explained by the fact that it is only when a man is old that the results of outward observation are present in sufficient numbers to allow of their being classified according to the ideas to be more fully understood in all their bearand the exact amount of trust to be placed in them.

In youth, the impressions that things make, that is, the outward aspects of life; are so overpoweringly strong, especially in the case of people of lively and imaginative disposition, that they view the world like a picture; and their chief concern is the figure they cut in it, the appearance they present; but they are unaware of the extent to which this is the case.

Schopenhauer makes the statement that there can be no doubt that the intellectual powers are most capable of enduring great and sustained efforts in youth, up to the age of thirty-five; from which period their strength begins to decline, though very gradually.

"Still, the later years of life, and even old age itself, are not without their intellectual compensation.

"It is only then that a man can be said to be really rich in experience or in learning; he has then had time an dopportunity enough to enable him to see and think over life from all its sides; he has been able to compare one thing with another, and to discover the points of contact and connecting links, so that only then ar. the true relations of things rightly understood."

NOBLEST OF CAREERS.

Governor Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming says presiding over a home remains the noblest and most satisfying career for women. Governor Ross is a democrat. Attorney General John Garribaldi Sargent says the same thing. John Garribaldi is a republican.

Furthermore, Governor Ross says if woman is to be a real factor in public affairs she should try to broaden her interest to embrace all humanity. That is, women should prove the impelling power in the adoption of some plan that will guide the nations of the earth into paths of permanent peace.

Woodrow Wilson gave the same advice. An American senate rejected it. They rejected his league of nations. Some day man will cease to be a savage. Then he will accept and adopt the Wilson plan of world peace.

A VOICE FROM THE TOMB.

William Jennings Bryan has been resurrected away down in the everglades of Florida. A newspaper man found the former seer of democracy. He predicts that the democrats will capture the lower house of congress in 1926. He says the party of Jefferson has been purged of reactionaries and has a future.

It may be true that the party has been purged of reactionaries, but its wild men have not been thrown overboard. Now it is said that the lamented apostle of the dead ages will be a candidate for United States senator next year and do his best to oust Duncan B. Fletcher from a seat in the American house of lords.

Is the American senate to become the last resting place of the politicians of the fossiliferous age?

By Dr. Frank Crane

DARING TO "BEGIN."

"There needs," says Maurice Maeterlinck, "but so little to encourage beauty in our soul; so little to awaken the slumbering angels. There is no soul but is conscious of this. And yet must one of them 'begin.' Why not dare to be the one to 'begin'?"

What Maeterlinck says is true. Behind the mask we are all hungry for soul companionship. Yet we dare not "begin." We are afraid to speak the thoughts of the inner man. We cringe at the possibility of being thought sentimental.

We are queer little people, we who live in this year of our Lord 1925. We are like shell fish ashamed to have it known there is a living, breathing spirit within the shell. We are proud of the shell and ashamed of the life within it.

When the twentieth century puffs itself up to hurl its most crushing anathema it chooses the epithet "sentimental."

Yet sentiment is the oil which keeps this hard, whirring, old earth from grinding itself to pieces.

Sentiment is one of the things that makes a man a man instead of a blind pushing worm. The higher the type of man the more real sentiment he has, despite the intelligentsia speculations to the contrary.

Our sentiments and emotions are the roots of friendship. Cold intellectual discussion never binds two hearts together. Gifts of material things "wax poor when givers prove unkind." Our friendships are rooted only as deep as our mutual emotional experiences have gone.

The grass, with its surface roots, is luxuriant after the shower. But it browns and dies in the drought which leaves the oak tree with its deep-probing roots unchanged.

Friendships that are rooted no deeper than the pleasant "small talk" of idle hours wither as the grass under the first strain.

Friendships which are based on moments when each has opened his heart to the other and showed thoughts which "pass across his soul like great white birds," are rooted deep and like the oak survive.

It takes a brave man to dare to "begin;" to dare to lift a conversation to a high plane.

It is so easy, so safe, to indulge only in "small talk."

Here you will never be misunderstood, for there is nothing to misunderstand. You will never be touched to the quick by the revealed deficiency of one you have admired. You will never see the cold steel of a smile pierce the glowing loveliness of a new-born ideal. You will never hear misunderstanding laughter tearing the soft draperies of the "inner temple."

You will be safe. But you will miss the beautiful adventures which come only to those who dare to "begin."

The next time you are sitting silent with one whom you know well, with whom you have talked but of commonplaces, dare to "begin," dare to speak of those thoughts we all have as we lie awake at night or walk alone, thoughts on the great worthwhile things of life.

To do this is to start pushing deep the roots of friendship.

The Golden Rule ought to be amended. In addition to saying that you should do to others as you would that they should do unto you, it ought to be added "But do it first." Somebody must take the initiative.

Dare to "begin."

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

The High Cost of Revenge.

When Alexandre Dumas desired that the Count of Monte Cristo should be made to devote his life to revenge, he first made him one of the richest men in France.

The novelist knew that revenge is an expensive luxury.

Monte Cristo could not repay the injuries done him in his youth without having unlimited money and unlimited knowledge.

So the author sent him to the Chateau D'If, where a prison mate presented him with both. Then he was in a position to seek revenge.

Revenge is just as expensive today as it was then.

If it does not cost money, it costs time, and more than either time or money—it costs happiness and peace of mind. And it isn't worth it.

One of the blessed things about memory is that it isn't permanent.

We can forget injuries; in fact we will forget them very quickly if we do not nurse them and feed them, and brood over them.

And no injury is ever done us which is worth the trouble it costs to repay it in kind.

I once knew a politician who was deprived by another politician of a nomination for an office to which he aspired.

He made up his mind to get revenge. He pursued the other man for twenty years, and finally got him in his power.

But at the end of those twenty years the revenge seeker was broken in health and in spirits, his business had been neglected while he was working on schemes of vengeance, and he had alieniated some of his best friends in the pursuit.

And when the revenge finally came, it was not sweet but bitter, and after he had ruined the man he hated he became a victim of remorse that made a wreck of his own life.

We are bound to suffer wrongs as we go through the world.

But if we expect ill treatment, and make allowances for it, we shall not need to worry about it.

Those who harm us are not worth bothering about. If they do it deliberately they are to be avoided hereafter, not pursued.

It is easy to understand the impulsive man who returns blow for blow, the instant the blow is received.

That is natural, and often justifiable.

But to seek out the man who struck the first blow fifteen years later, and strike him violently behind his back is the mark of a very mean spirit.

Only the mean spirited in fact nurse grudges or seek revenge.

And instead of getting satisfaction, they get nothing but soured dispositions, and distorted ideas of what life ought to be.

That is the cost of revenge, misery and unhappiness. It is a high cost, for all that we toil for, whether it be money or friends, or children, is in the end happiness.

And to trade that happiness, which is all we have to look forward to or enjoy in the world for the satisfaction—if it is satisfaction—of paying off an old grudge is one of the most monumental follies that man can commit while he abides upon this planet.

If we cannot forgive we can forget. And we will, if we do not nurse grudges.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE

Taurus.

The planetary aspects of today, although not very favorable during the early morning, show a decided improvement at about noon, and, shortly thereafter, become excellent—a condition that is maintained during the remainder of the day, and culminates in extremely stimulating vibrations. Preparatory work should occupy your attention at first, and then, your plans definitely decided upon, full advantage should be taken of an opportunity, so propitious and promising, for the active and forceful prosecution of your endeavors. The afternoon and evening, too, will stir the affections, and, notwithstanding the success that is assured for material work, romance will also be awakened, and reciprocal love engendered. An engagement entered into today, or a marriage solemnized, will be enduring and provocative only of happiness.

Children who make their first appearance in the world today will, so far as physical conditions are concerned, lead fairly normal lives, and the trifling ailments to which they will be subject in their infancy, will readily yield to ordinary treatment. They will have rather nervous temperaments, and show signs of acting on impulse, rather than on reason. Their impulses will not, however, be bad or malicious, and they will always be actuated by the best of intentions: nevertheless, an effort should be made to curb the emotional side of their characters, as, though their actions will not harm others, they might, unfortunately, harm themselves.

If today is your birthday, you are a normal person, with normal tastes and desires: you are moderately ambitious, not so much for the world's goods or position as for steady intellectual advancement. You take rather a serious view of life and are not disposed to consider it a playground, but rather a preparatory school for higher and better things.

You possess a keen intellect, a clear mind, and much reasoning ability: you do not capitalize these assets to their full extent, and are content to acquire learning for the sake of learning.

As a lover, your logical mind deserts you, and you can only see in the object of your affection, not the virtues that he or she actually possess, but those with which you have so prodigally and imaginatively endowed him or her. You are very demonstrative, and, in order to be happy, demand reciprocity in the most absolute form.

POEMS THAT LIVE

A PRAYER, IN THE PROSPECT OF DEATH

O Thou unknown, Almighty Cause
Of all my hope and fear!
In whose dread presence, ere an hour,
Perhaps I must appear!

If I have wander'd in those paths,
Of life I ought to aUn;
As something loudly in my breast,
Remonstrates I have done;

Thou Know'st that Thou form'd me
With passions wild and strong;
And list'ning to their witching voice
Has often led me wrong.

Where with intention I have err'd,
Or frailly stepped aside,
Do Thou, All Good; for such Thou Art,
In shades of darkness hide.

Where with intention I have err'd,
No other plea I have,
But, Thou are good; and goodness still Delighteth to forgive.

—Robert Burns.

APPLICATIONS FOR HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION ARE FILED

AUSTIN, Mai 11—(AP)—Applications for highway construction and maintenance are being filed today by county representatives at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the state highway commission. Other routine business will be disposed of, it is announced.

Irrigation

IRRIGATING BY SPRAYS

Yesterday we mentioned a business man here who was thinking of installing a system of underground pipes to sub-irrigate his land. Another man has a different idea He thinks that he will get splendid results if he can supply his field with water through sprays. He htinks irrigation water is best applied in imitation of rain.

He proposes to run lines of pipes supported on posts high enough so a horse can pass under. These pipes would have spray nozzles at intervals so that when the water was turned on every thing would be drenched as though from a heavy rain. He would install a pump to take water from his lateral and force it through the pipes at considerable pressure.

About the only advantage we can see in such a system is that it would give the crops a nice bath and make them look green and pretty.

It would waste a lot of water. Dividing a stream of water up into a fine spray causes a great waste on account of the high evaporation loss.

The cost of installation would be very large. Too large to make any ordinary crops pay.

Pumping water costs money for the pumping outfit and then there is a constant expense for power and repairs.

Why spend a lot of money to install a system which will simply be a source of constant expense, which will waste water, and which will not give any better results in crops produced than plain furrow irrigation?

HOW IT STARTED

Like "Sam Hill"

The phrase "like Sam Hill," as "He ran like Sam Hill.' "He works like Sam Hill"—always with the connotation of hectic or excessive activity, is commonly used in everyday speech and many people have wondered about its origin and whether there was in fact such a person as "Sam Hill."

There was a descendent—yes, there was. And we have tracked him to his lair! Not only that, but a descendant has been found, living in Westchester County, New York, who has but to turn to the family album to supplement our biography of him!

Colonel Sam Hill (for that is what he was) was born in Guilford, Conn., Feb. 21, 1678, and died in May, 1752. He was elected to the general assembly, and re-elected term after term. He was for a time justice of New Haven, County court. In 1717 he was town clerk and clerk of the proprietors of the common and undivided lands. From 1720 to 1725 he was clerk of the probate court and later judge of probate, which he remained until his death.

In fact, so often and so continuously was Sam Hill elected to public offic we learn, that the moderator at town meetings might have been said to have the habit of remarking: "We are again assembled to nominate Colonel Sam Hill!" And so and about the town of Guilford to this day, people say with reference to an usually successful and surviring candidate for public office, "he runs like Sam Hill." Throughout the country the phrase gained popularity and an expression for unusual activity, which is the sense in which we use it today.

More Truth Than Poetry

SWEET ADELINE

I love to dine with jovial friends
Who sing away dull care,
With harmony that sweetly blends
Upon the evening air.
I love to sing the time-worn songs
Of mothers old and gray,
And maidens, crushed by cruel wrongs
Who went, alas, astray,
These ballads seem to me divine,
Though sometimes slightly flat,
But when I hear "Sweet Adeline"
I get my coat and hat.

"Sweet Adeline! Sweet Adeline!"
Your name they never chord
Until the substitute for wine
That flows around the board,
And which the merry minstrels sip
To quench an active thirst,
And wake the soul of fellowship
Has done its dreadful worst.
When that weird alcoholic lay
Is lilted by the throng,
If one has work to do next day
It's time to move along!

There's some mysterious mental kink
In certain sorts of wine
That suddenly makes diners think
About Sweet Adeline!
And when to chant her praise they start,
Around the board they'll stay,
And loudly roar "Of you dear heart"
Until the break of day.
So when, through their discordant dreams
Until the dawning's glow,
This gentle lady's fair face beams,
I get my hat and go.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

CAN A MAN BE HAPPILY MARRIED TO A WOMAN TEN YEARS OLDER? CAN SHE FIND THE WAY TO HER EMPLOYER'S POCKET AS WELL AS HIS HEART? THE GIRL WITH A BASHFUL BEAU

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young man 21 years old, in love with a girl ten years older than myself. I did not fall in love. I walked in with my eyes wide open and have been in the same state of mind for three years, although I have known her under conditions calculated to kill romance.

Do you think there is a possibility of a happy marriage with this difference in years? Q. E. D.

Answer—There are exceptions to all rules, and although, as a general thing, it is a mistake for a man to marry a woman ten years older than himself, now and then you find a couple who are ideally happy, even though the wife is much her husband's senior.

Age is not always to be measured by the number of one's birthdays. There are persons who are senile at 20, and others who are cake eaters and flappers at 80. It is a matter of temperament, and it may be that you are old for your age and the girl is young for hers. And so you meet on a common plane.

I think, however, that 21 is too young for any man to make a final decision about a wife. Especially in your case, where you are taking something more than the average matrimonial risk. I would urge you to wait until you are at least 25 before you marry a woman ten years older than yourself. If at that age she still looks better to you than the debutantes, go to it.

Before you marry a woman who is ten years older than you are, there are two things to consider, and they appeal just as much to the woman as they do to you.

The first is that the disparity in age increases every year. Ten years' difference isn't much when you are young and good-looking, and both enjoy doing the same gay things. But ten years is a lot of difference when the man is 40 and the woman is 50, and it is an appalling difference when the man is 50 and the woman is 60.

The man of 40 is still a boy. Generally he is better looking than he ever was in his life, and he is keen about amusing himself. The woman of 50 is a little past middle age. She has lost her good looks. She is fat and grizzle-haired, and she would rather spend the evening with a good book than jazzing.

At 60 the man is still young, still good looking, still fond of stepping out; but the woman of 60 is an old woman, and it tires her to death to keep up with a young husband and bores her to tears to try to keep him amused. What she wants is to let out her corset strings and be comfortable and eat what she likes, instead of having to work like a slave, trying to be a vamp and keep as young as her husband.

The second objection to marrying a woman much older than yourself is that she cannot help being eaten up with jealousy. She can never see her young husband with young girls who are a suitable age for him without imagining that he is tired of her and regrets marrying her. And a wife who sees, every other female green-eyed is no soothing life companion.

So there you are, Q. E. D. Think it over DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young woman, secretary to an official of a large firm. This man is married and has an extremely happy home life, but he can't resist making love to every good looking girl he meets.

Now, aside from the fact that a married man's attentions are not welcomed by me, I feel that he might spend a little moeny on me occasionally in the way of a luncheon invitation or a box of candy, but it doesn't seem to occur to him, despite the fact that he will help himself to any candy he sees on my desk.

My problem is this How can I get him to be a little less stingy with me? SECRETARY.

Answer—The way to a man's pocket is even harder to find than the way to a mans' heart. Millions of wives spend their lives trying to find some method that will induce tight-wad husbands to loosen up, but without avail. The man who is stingy is deaf to hints, entreaties, suggestions. The only thing he ever hears is the jingling of the nickels in the purse which has a Yale lock on it.

Since, however, you feel that you are entitled to some material reward for enduring this cheap skate's philandering, why not make out a regular tariff for your favors? Surely a kiss is worth a good dinner, and listening to his love making should entitle you to a couple of pounds of chocolate creams, particularly as you throw in your self-respect and jeopardize your good name when you do so.

My suggestion is that you quit flirting with your married employer and save yourself for some fine young chap who will consider it an honor and a privilege to buy luncheon and candy for you instead of having to be held up for them. A stingy philanderer is certainly the limit. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young girl 24 years old and am keeping company with a nice young man. I love him very much and am sure that he loves me, but he is so bashful that he cannot screw his courage up to ask me to marry him. Several times he has nearly popped the question, but at the last minute he shied off. Please advise me what to do. LONELY ONE

Answer—Always help a lame dog over the stile, my dear. If you are sure that all that the yuong man lacks is the courage to propose, take the initiative and pop the question yourself.

There is nothing but a silly custom, that should be thrown into the discard along with hoop skirts, and fainting, and other obsolete feminine handicaps, that keeps a woman from asking the man she wants to marry her.

Women have lots more sense in matters of the heart ahan men have, and are better judges of men than men are of women, so when the time comes when women pick out their husbands and select the men they want instead of having to take what they can get, there will be many more happy marriages than there are at present.

If you hesitate to ask your young man if he dosen't want to be yours, propose to him by letter. The worst he can do is to say "no"; and, at any rate, it will clear the situation and let you know where you stand and what you can expect.

Uninvited, But Welcome Number, "On the Air" To Join Parker Recital Program Tuesday P. M.

Mrs. Lois Parker, who is presenting a group of her senior pupils in an aria and old ballad program Tuesday evening at the Wichita club, received a note Monday from Miss Katherine Sullivan, an advanced pupils of hers, who is well known here as a wonderful singer, stating that she would broadcast on the same evening at station W. H. B. Kansas City.

Will Tune In.

Mrs. Parker announces that she will tune in on the club radio and use Miss Sullivan's numbers on the program here. Miss Sullivan has been in Kansas City for several weeks and while there she has broadcasted several times and has sung for different clubs and other affairs.

The arias and old ballads that are being presented Tuesday evening are from the most difficult and beautiful of their time. The first number on the program is the "Domani O'Me Felice" (Tomorrow Oh Joy Unspoken). It will be sung by Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, dramatic soprano. The selection is a brilliant concert aria. It is a decided mixture of Spanish and Italian influence in the Romantic school of music. Miss Hamilton sings the number in English. It portrays the love of a Spanish girl for her Italian lover.

Two Bohemian Numbers.

The next two numbers are the Bohemian numbers, the first being sung by Miss Leota Tucker, contralto, and the last by Carlton Bowman, baritone. The number Miss Tucker sings "I Dreampt I Dwelt in Marble Halls" is from one of the most beloved operas of England. The numbers originated in England by an English artist and was sung in English. It became so popular that it was translated into three different languages. It is the story of a girl, Arline, who was stolen from noble parents by gypsies. She has a dream and it is really a reflection of her former life. The aria closes with the girl. She tells the dream to her gypsy sweetheart and tells him that more than all of the royal things that she dreamed about is his love.

The second number from "The Bohemian Girl" is the Count Arline's father, mourning over the loss of his only daughter.

Gypsy Song Duet.

The duet, "Home to Our Mountains," sung by Miss Evelyn Cushman, contralto, and Baldwin Montgomery, tenor, is a story of the old mother, Azucena, and her son, Manrico, who are in prison, mourning for their gypsy mountain home.

Mrs. Francis S. Thrash, soprano, will sing "Oh Night of Love" (From Tales of Hoffman) This is one of the most romantic and beautiful at the time of the composing. It depicts a pair of lovers in a gondola on Venetian water and a night of love.

"Pleasure Mes Yux" (My Eyes Weep) sung by Mrs. Newman Hill, lyric soprano. It is one of the most difficult and dramatic arias ever written. It shows a young girl weeping for the loss of her father who was killed by her lover. She weeps unceasingly. She can find no comfort nor consolation in her life.

Madam Butterfly.

The last number "Un Bel Di Vedremo" (One Fine Day He Will Come) to be sung by Mrs. Virginia Hotchkiss, lyric soprano, is a familiar number to the opera-going public. It is the story of a beautiful Japanese girl, "Butterfly Cho Cho San," telling her maid of her American husband and lover for whom she has a mingled confidence and doubt that he will never return to her from America. He left her and promised to return before the robins made their nests again but he didn't return until after they had nested twice and then he brought with him an American wife. While he was gone to America a baby was born to his Japanese wife At the time of his return to Japan she placed an American flag in the hand of the little one, left him where the father would get him and killed herself

Spudders Win 11-Inning Affair, 4 To 3, From Waco With Five Hits

LEFTY ROY CRUMPLER DROPS TOUGH DUEL TO DICK MORGAN WHEN TANNERMEN GET LUCKY

Freddy Dorman Leads Belated Attack by Poling Pinch Single and Hitting Double in Eleventh

By BLONDY CROSS

Roy Crumpler, high-powered Waco portsider, gave up five safe clouts in ten and two-third innings, but the Spudders nosed out the South Texas club, 4 to 3.

Dame Fortune reversed suddenly and dramatically at the Harvey plant Monday and smiled down on Tanner's crew with frequency and gusto for the better part of nine rounds.

Now that the Spudders have got lucky, too, there shouldn't be anything below major league classification that can hold 'em.

The Waco hurler pitched a sterling game, and it was a tough one to lose. Under the same conditions, had a Spudder slabbist been beaten Wichita Falls fandom would have been weeping until set.

Little Freddy Dorman was the hero of the encounter. The youngster was sent to third and White shifted to second because of Turgeon's sore arm. With the tabulation 3 to 2 against the domestic crowd in the eighth and Distel on second Freddy poked a hair-raiser to right, and George slid in for the tying run. Then in the eleventh, Freddy led away with a double to right. The ball soared high, was headed for right center, but curved back to the mid-section of the star-board pasture and passed clear over Reider's head. Golvin attempted to sacrifice. Laid one down at the box. Crumpler fielded and threw to Foss at third, but Freddy slipped back to the keystone. Both runners were safe. White bunted down third base way. It was a perfect sacrificial effort, and the pair on the paths each moved up a notch. Jonnard followed up with a rocket to Reider in right, and Freddy checked in after the catch.

Dick in There Fighting.

Dick Morgan chunked a great brand of ball. Got in trouble several times, but tightened the string, and battled out again. He was biffed for ten safeties, but three earned runs garnered by the opposition over the span of 11 couplets is no mean pitching feat in this man's league.

Both teams got over for a marker in the second. Single by Morrow and a two-cushioner by Crumpler himself brought home the Waco tally. Visitors donated the Wichcita Falls run. With one away Golvin bobbled one down the first base line. Crumpler took the play, muffed the ball, and then threw poorly to first. White biffed a bounder to short. Golvin slid into second before the play be mad ethere. The throw to first was too low for Galloway to handle. Jonnard passed out at the platter. Morgan cut at four, fouling each, got a couple of balls, and then lifted a Texas leaguer back to second. Golvin galloped home. White went to third, but Crumpler whiffed Callaghan.

Waco tabulated another in the fifth. After two had gone by the way Brown and Wilson singled. Dick passed Galloway purposely, and then walked Stumpf accidentally, forcing in the score. Bondurant aviated to Bodie in left.

Fitz Doesn't Play Fair.

This man Fitzgerald got out of order again in the sixth. Has a habit of breaking loose every now and then. On this occasion, Reider laced a sweet drive to left center. Out of fairness to the quality of the blow he should have been credited with at least a single, but Fitz tore in like he had heard the dinner bell and pocketed the pill on the dead run. The clout was low and heavy.

Dick backed up against the wall in the seventh. After there was one out, Brown pushed a double with bullet-like effect to left. Wilson cracked Morgan on the shin with a malicious swish at the box, and the possibilities of winning the game went glimmering, so it seemed. The big pitcher rested a bit, limped around for a period, then mounted the promontory again, and curved Galloway into hitting into a double play with Brown crossing the pan. White took the roller, flipped to Distel, and the gorgeous one shot her to Golvin for a mighty close erasure of Jeems at first.

Morrow stepped into the first ball pitched to him in the eighth for a drive to the left field home run territory. The runaways were unoccupied when the blow occurred.

Well in Eighth.

Coming up in the last half of the eighth two runs in arrears, the gang got well. Crumpler had pitched seven stanzas and allowed one hit, and it was a flukey wallop at that. But he couldn't keep the plate inviolate in this chukker. Callaghan busted one at the box and beat it out. Distel, a right handed hitter, caught the pellet on the end of his bat for a drive down the first base line. Cal scampered to third. Fitz flied out to left. Distel went to second. Bodie walked, and Dorman followed with a line drive to right for a single. Distel loped to the platter, slid around Morrow, who had received the throw from Reider, and reached back to touch the pan before the catcher could put the ball on him. Rodie drew up at third. On what appeared to be a squeeze play, Ping was cut down at the plate when Golvin omitted to offer at the strike. He struck out.

They couldn't get to Dick the rest of the way. Freddy booted one in the tenth with two out, but Bubber cut the runner down at second on an attempted pilfering foray.

Golvin, as usual, pulled in all kinds of throws around first base, and looked like a million dollars. Distel enjoyed himself immensely at short, and the club on the whole staged a whale of a fielding game. But they couldn't get those base knocks. They won without 'em. Just think what's going to happen when they come out of the slump.

Spudders Trade Victor Pigg For Pirate Southpaw

Pitcher Arnold Stone, southpaw with the Pittsburgh Pirates last season, was obtained Monday by the Wichita Falls Texas league club from the Omaha club of the Western league in exchange for pitcher Victor Pigg, it was announced by Spudder President R. O. Harvey. Stone is a southpaw who won four games and lost two for the Pirates, permitting an earned run average of 2.95 in 64 innings. Pigg is a righthander purchased outright last fall from the Seattle Coast league club.

Vic was hambered the past several weeks by a sore arm, and just couldn't get going. He seemed to have the stuff, but because of a kink in his wing was wild.

Pigg left the city yesterday afternoon to join the Omaha club. If his arm doesn't get better, he said, he intends to doff the diamond spangles for a period and return to his baker's trade.

CHICAGO, May 11.—The veteran Walter Johnson held Chicago to five hits today while Washington bunched its hits and shut out the locals, 9 to 0. It was Johnson's 108th shutout of his major league career of 18 years. By fanning four men he ran his strike out record for his term in the major leagues to 3,232. Johnson pitched a great game, only two Chicagoans getting as far as second base and none beyond that station. The score:

King Nadi And Buttin In Show In Derby Trials

Candidates From Eastern Tracks Arrive At Downs

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 11.—Arrival of Kentucky derby candidates from eastern tracks and increased activity on the part of nominees here for the rich race scheduled for Saturday mark the opening of derby week at Churchill Downs today.

King Nadi showed the best move of the day over a track that was heavy and holding. The Troxler derby possibility breezed five-eights of a mile in 1:02 4-5, going first quarter in 24 2-5 and the half in 49 2-5. Xalapa stable's two derby colts, Sweeping Away and Prince Bourbon, which arrived yesterday, were hustled out today for an airing. They went five-eights of a mile, hard held, in 1:04 3-5.

Buttin In, one of the Idle Hour farm colts, breezed a mile with Beach Talk and Buck, the trio doing the first quarter :27, half in :53, three-quarters in 1:20 and the mile in 1:48. Old Slip dashed through the mud for a half mile in :55. Mission Peak breezed three-quarters in 1:20 4-5; Menefee traveled three-eights in :37 and Russell Cave worked a half in :52 3-5. Broadway Jones did a slow five-eights in 1:11.

E. W. Griffith's Single Foot arrived today from Pimlico. Trainer Harry Rites said the colt shipped well and, barring a little "skinning up" he received in the Preakness, was ready to give a good account of himself.

Almadel, By Himself and Swoope were expected to arrive today from Pimlico.

Kerrville To Get First of Four-State Fish Hatcheries

AUSTIN, MAY 11.—Work on the first of the four new state fish hatcheries, which has just been located 18 miles northwest of Kerrville, will start about June 20, it was announced today by T. E. Hubby, game, fish and oyster commissioner. Cost of construction will be between $20,000 and $25,000, he said.

The site near Kerrville was selected because of accessibility to a territory visited by thousands of sportsmen, which needs replenishing with fish, Mr. Hubby said. The thirty tanks of the hatchery will be filled with fater from a spring about one mile from the site. Gravity system of filling and draining the tanks will save approximately $100 a month, he said. A part of the surplus supply of water will be used for irrigation purposes.

The towns of Junction, Fredericksburg and Kerrville co-operated by purchasing and donating the 36-acre site, Mr. Hubby said.

Cooper Victor Of Confederate Memorial Race

Veteran Shakes Jinx To Run Away With Field

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 11.—(AP)—A veteran of the board tracks, Earl Cooper, today shook his jinx and won the annual Confederate Memorial day 250-mile race here before 40,000 spectators.

Coming from behind after being led by Tommy Milton, winner of the event last year, Cooper during the last 50 miles ran away with the field and crossed the final mark with a lap margin. His time was 2:20-55, or an average of 121.6 miles an hour. Harry Hartz, who drove steadily all the way, finished second and then came Milton.

Cooper was acclaimed by the spectators when he was presented with a wreath of flowers immediately upon alighting from the racer and he received $10,000 of the $25,000 purse. Hartz received $5,000, while Milton's share was $2,750.

The average mileage of Cooper set a new track record for the Charlotte bowl, Tommy Miltons' average last fall having been $118.17 miles an hour.

Regi Johnston furnished the crowd with one of its big thrills of the race near the half-way mark when he careened into the inner railing of the track somersaulted twice and then climbed from his car into an awaiting ambulance. A broken collar bone was found to be his only injury.

Ludlam and Riggs Team to Put Full Strength in Field

When the Ludlam and Riggs nine take the field Thursday against the Wichita Falls Electrics, Len Smith's club, will be putting forth its full strength for the first time since the season opened.

Fat Mathis, regular first sacker who has been sick, is expected to be in the lineup again. Dick Gordon, center fielder, who's been down with an operation, will don the spangles for the first time, and Abe Bashara, former Rice institute regular infielder, will be with the team.

OLD GEORGE BURNS DOING COME BACK WITH PHILADELPHIA

New pastimes often bring back youth to baseball veterans for a time at least.

This year we offer the case of George Burns.

This veteran and popular outfielder was traded to the Cinci Reds in the winter of 1921-22 by the Giants. He had served the New York club faithfully for eleven years. He had become an institution there. His passing drew some criticism on McGraw's head.

George played over 100 games for the Reds in 1922 and 99 in 1923. Last year he played in but 43 games and he Reds asked for waivers on him last winter. The Phillies refused to pass on him and paid the waiver price to the Reds for him.

Burns appeared at the Phils' camp in Bradenton, Fla., early in the spring determined to show the boys a thing or two. He did. Right now he is leading the attack of the Phils and playing the outfield with all the pep and snap of youth.

This after 14 years of chasing the elusive ball around the tall grass.

Second Harris On Washington Team Bolsters Infield

"Moon" Harris is Both Outfielder And a First-baseman

Sight-seeing tours in Washington, D. C., in the future may include, in addition to trips to capitol, White House and Washington monument, a visit to the Washington ball park to see the Moon shine.

And the jolly home folk of the capital are hoping it will be shining there most of the present baseball season.

The "Moon" is Mr. Joseph Harris, affectionately dubbed "Moon" because of his plumb, round face and the reflective, mooning air he carries.

"Moon" was traded to the Senators the other day by the Red Sox for Pitcher Paul Zahnizer and Roy Carlyle, a rookie outfielder.

The trade, todate, looks like a good one all around and without any David Harum angles.

Stan Harris and Clark Griffith were aware of two weaknesses in the Senators' makeup—the absence of right hand hitting outfielders and a capable sub for Joe Judge at first.

Harris gives them that strength in both weak spots. He is a hard hitting right hand batter and though he is primarily an outfielder he can play first base acceptably.

Fohl Acquired Youngsters.

Lee Fohl, in his efforts to build up an entirely new team for the Boston bosses, was glad to exchange the veteran hitter fora young pitcher and a young and coming outfielder. Zahnizer ought to be of more use to Fohl immediately than was Harris. Zahnizer should become a regular on Fohl's mound staff. He showed last season with the Senators that he is a good flinger when given the chance. Fohl's pitching staff is in the formative stage. He can use Zahnizer regularly right now.

Carlyle, a brother ofthe fleet-footed youngster the Detroit Tigers recently farmed to Toronto, showed promise this spring of becoming a great ball hawk.

Harris is now with his third big league club.

In its perennial hunt for first baseman the Cleveland club bought "Moon" from the Chattanooga club in 1916. He played first base in 112 games the following campaign and socked the pill for a .304 average. He fielded well at first. His only weakness was his inability to cover much ground.

Then along came the war. Harris saw considerable service. The German's didn't give him as much to worry about, however, as an ammunition truck did. While at the front Joe got into a spill with the aforementioned truck and for a time it was feared his legs would be permanently injured.

He rejoined the team in mid-season, 1920. In 62 games he collected a .378 batting average. The next winter Harris refused to sign the contract offered. He argued that his showing the previous season warranted a fat raise. The club refused to gamble on his injured legs. So 1920 found Harris playing independent ball and he remained with the outsiders the next season.

Then once more he figured in the Cleveland team's hunt for a first baseman. Boss Speaker decided that he needed Stuffy McInnis. The Red Sox demanded Harris in the deal. His re-instatement was obtained and he joined the Red Sox.

While Harris' average for last year was .301 his hitting was not as timely as it might have been. When hits were needed most Joe couldn't seem to connect. He was more or less of an "average" hitter. Joe got his one out of three but not when they were needed most.

OSBORN FACES GLEASON TODAY

Long Bob Osborn, the former cowboy and ex-golfing luminary of El Paso but now one of the Texas league's most effective slabmen, receives the call for Spudder mound duty this afternoon, announced Skipper Tanner Monday.

Manager Pratt will send Joe Gleason to the hilltop.

'Twill be a battle of right handers. It's the last set-to of the Waco-Wichita Falls series, for tomorrow R. Hunter Coleman's tumultous barbarians from the Alamo City are slated to storm the fortress in the first of three attempts.

Hubby To Discuss Fish Propagation With Wholesalers

AUSTIN, May 11.—(AP)—A program of systematic fish concentration and propagation will be discussed at conference this week by T. E. Hubby, game, fish and oyster commissioner wholesale fish dealers at Galveston and Corpus Christi. Mr. Hubby will leave Austin tonight for a meeting at Galveston tomorrow. He will be in Corpus Christi Wednesday.

The conferences are to be held preliminary to a general conference at Washington next week, which Mr. Hubby will attend, to discuss concentration along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Mr. Hubby will leave for Washington next Saturday. The Washington meeting was called by Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce.

Mr. Hubby expects to spend Thursday in San Antonio, where he will attend a banquet to be given by the Isaac Walton club.

BUT IT DOESN'T MEAN ANYTHING AT ALL, AT ALL

In a recent discussion of the weaknesses of the various teams a scribe points out that the Cinci Reds are playing along with a "lefthanded pitcher at first base." Now Rube Bressler was one a southpaw flinger. And he may not stack up right now as a whiz of a first baseman. But the fact that he was a "lefthanded pitcher" does not classify him as a fizzle at first.

George Sisler was once a left-handed hurler. And he's a fair sort of a first baseman. Name a better one.

GRIDIRON STARS FLASH ON DIAMOND THIS YEAR

Albert Krues, fullback and drop kicker of the University of Pennsylvania grid team last fall, is one of the several grid heroes who are carring on in baseball for that institution. Krues has pitched the Penn team to several victories this season. Rea McGraw, captain of last year's eleven, and Pastor Fields, a halfback, are also members of the team.

The captain of the nine, Eddie Farrell, has already agreed to join the Giants at the close of the college year. He is a brilliant shortstop.

What the Neighbors Are Doing

A week, come Thursday, Dan McNye, came into town so he could buy some lumber for a big new barn he's building on a neighboring farm. Now this McNye is one wise guy, he knows right well the reason why it don't pay him to work all day a sorting lumber every way to try to make a purlin plate. So after shopping round a while he loaded on his truck a pile of Long-Bell boards and took them out to build a barn that's good and stout. A neighbor saw this load go by and hollered out, "Hello, McNye. I see you got some pretty pine—I wonder where you got that kind?" But Dan just shifted into low and hollered back, "Why, don't you know? The trade-mark shows you plainly, pard—I got it at the Long-Bell yard."

While names given are not actual the incident above related is based on experiences at some of our lumber yards.

SAN ANTONIO—Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut left by airplane this afternoon for Houston, after a four-day visit of inspection to army flying fields here. He was accompanied by Major W. G. Kilner, executive officer of the air service, Washington. Senator Bingham declared the third attack group at Kelly Field is the best tactical organization he had ever seen in the air service, in an address today noon at a luncheon of the chamber of commerce at the St. Anthony hotel.

SAN ANTONIO—Four gambling houses were closed by injunction and 14 slot machines reduced to masses of junk today in Bexar county's campaign against gambling. In all cases it was mere routine. No one appeared to contest either the closing of the alleged resorts or the destruction of the machines.

AUSTIN—Stress on civic work and cooperative charities as well as private organizational work along the same lines was the chief motif of the day's discussion on the opening day of the state convention of the Catholic Daughters of America. Following a greeting in the name of the governor, which was delivered in Governor Ferguson's absence by her secretary, Mrs. Lena West Guinn, the state regent, Miss Loretta B. Yeager of Galveston, addressed the delegates.

MILWAUKEE—Girding for their fight against what they call a producers "combine," motion picture theatre men on the eve of the formal opening of their national convention tonight began considering a plan for alignment with independent producers and the selection of some dictator to "out Hays" Will Hays. Plans for the venture began to take form when I. E. Chadwick, head of the independent producers organization that bears his name and president of the independent motion picture producers association arrived from the west coast and went into conference with theatre men.

SEATTLE—Lieut. Walter J. Wood of the United States air service reserve corps was instantly killed and Boyd W. Roberts was badly injured when an army airplane, piloted by Wood, fell 100 feet today near Sand Point aviation field near Lake Washington, south of Seattle. Both men lived in Seattle.

WASHINGTON—Action of the American delegation at Geneva in supporting the British motion to exclude war vessels and aircraft from the control proposals of the conference on traffic in armaments, is believed in official circles here to represent a desire to facilitate the reaching of a definite agreement by the conference rather than any particular attitude of the Washington government on the questions immediately involved.

PHILADELPHIA—Paavo Nurmi, Willie Ritola and three other runns of the Finnish-American Athletic club of New York, who were suspended last week by the resignation committee of the middle-Atlantic Association A. A. U. were reinstated tonight at a meeting of the committee. The other three were Ilmar Prim Gunnar Nilson and Juno Fager.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Resolution dealing with peace, public health and education were adopted today by the international council of women in one of the most quiet sessions since its quinqennial convenion began a week ago.

GENEVA—Supported by the United States, Canada and enough other countries to get a majority, Great Britain today succeeded in carrying through her proposal to have warships and airplanes excluded from the control which it was hoped to establish over the traffic in armaments. This exclusion from control applies to submarines, airships, seaplanes and other war vessels.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Developments during the day with regard to the revival of informal conversations in Washington and Paris as to debt settlement questions, failed to indicate that any concrete plan of settlement had as yet been advanced by either government as a basis for discussion.

MILLION $

could be the total of the county's share hereof.

"We don't need all of the $80,000 of the road and bridge fund for maintenance," declared Sartin, 'since the state has taken over maintenance of designated highways; and since our 75 miles of concrete roads take far less maintenance expense than in years gone passed.' Sixty-five thousand dollars would be plenty for maintenance in Wichita county, leaving $15,000 available annually to retire warrants totalling something like $200,000 in 20 years."

For 5 1-2 Per Cent Par.

He added that he was certain the warrants could be sold at par for 5 1-2 per cent interest now, and perhaps for 5 per cent.

"I do not believe the citizens of Wichita county are going to look friendly upon a bond issue of a million dollars," he concluded. "And if we started out to float a milion dollar issue we'd have to float about $500,000 more than that to clear the county for the indebtedness it contemplated assuming."

Without a penny's increase in taxation, Judge Sartin told Kiwanians Monday noon at the Kemp luncheon that within the year 1925, the paved road through the new municipal park, the new free bridge across Red river, the paving of the Seymour road and a viaduct across the Wichita from the foot of Indiana avenue connecting with the Burkburnett and Electra roads in a "Y" shape across the north side roalroad yards, could all be secured by Wichita Falls citizens if "works" could supersede the "faith" in "The City that Faith Built."

"The combined ideas and plans of our cosmospolitan population with the collective experience of men from many estates who live here will build a great city. We must not permit the non-progressive element to hold us back. We need a large city auditorium. Mineral Wells, Seymour, and towns not one-third as large as Wichita Falls have civic centers. Let's quit talking about it and build one. The free bridge across Red river will probably be started this summer, as the remainder of 'red tape' will require about 60 days to unwind. The bridge, when completed will sound the death knell to toll bridges, these barriers to free transportation and trade."

Urges Its Support.

Speaking of the paved road through the park, Sartin urged the unfailing support of citizens in boosting the project and in urging the county commissioners to take immediate action. Some citizens, he declared, were unfavorable to the plan. Concerning the new viaduct, he pointed out that existing bridges across the Wichita north of the city had been declared unsafe. The new viaduct would replace the bridge, he declared, and eliminate dangerous grade crossings. Telling of activities on the part of Vernon and Electra in planning highways to Kemp lake and the diversion dam the speaker urged Wichitans to request county commissioners to construct a paved road between the paved portion of the Seymour road and Lake Kemp.

"If you but request these things of your commissioners court, they will put them through without additional taxation, and Wichita Falls will develop rapidly into the principal stronghold of the vast area of west Texas," the speaker said in closing.

Formal Cap and Gown Eliminates the White Dress For Graduates

THE formal cap and gown worn by graduates seems to have eliminated locally the choosing of the conventional white graduating dress. All gowns for commencement activities to be worn by the sweet girl graduates of the Wichita Falls Junior college, the high school and the junior high school are filmy fluttering bits of color with a froth of lace and a touch of ribbons and flowers, according to Mrs. Mamie Patterson, head of the ready-to-wear department at Perkins-Timberlake company.

Chiffons in Colors.

Chiffons in lovely color shades of delicate orchid, lemon, pale green and heavenly blue have been chosen for graduation week. They are in solid shades and in prints with dainty designs and are fashioned simply in two leading styles: either the becoming bodice and full skirt that has been popular through all the ages of feminine dress for its charm, or the prevailing mode of the straight line with the flare skirt.

Cream laces trim the prettiest of the frocks, and range from all-over yoke designs to the narrow laces that ruffle in foamy frills about the shoulders and the hem line. Underslips of set silk or pussywillow background the transparent chiffons either in self color or in a contraasting shade with attractive effect. Ribbon is used in profusion for trimming, and corsages of flowers are everywhere. Here and there a single blossom perches on the shoulder.

Scarf Is Necessary.

The chiffon scarf is a beautiful and delightful accessory that adds to the beauty and charm of the wear. It may match or contrast, or perhaps shade into the color scheme with an ombre effect. White kid footwear with white hose or hose to match the frock seems the choice of most of the graduates though many are wearing blonde kid with hose to match the frock. Black satin slippers with the colored hose will be worn by many, Mrs. Patterson says.

Tomorrow: What the boy graduate should wear.

MUSICAL PROGRAM FOR WEDNESDAY STUDY CLUB

The beautiful home of Judge and Mrs. A. H. Britain was opened to members of the Wednesday Study Club, Unity club and special friends Saturday evening when they entertained with a musical program.

The receiving line was composed of the officers of the Wednesday Study club and their husbands which included Messrs. and Mesdames Charles William Wallace, B. L. Fain, Mark Moore, W. W. Cook and Mrs. O. E. Nichols.

The program was one of the most interesting and delightful given by the club this year. The numbers were all poems and dramas given from the Browning and Shakespear plays which the club has studied this year.

The plays were set to music by some of the well known national writ-

Mrs. Chares William Wallace gave an interesting literature setting to each number before it was sung.

Mrs. T. C. Brownell, soprano, sang three songs from Shakespeare, "Oh Mistress Mine" (Coleridge-Taylor) "The Willow Song" (Rossi) and "Over Hill Over Dale"; three number from Browning including "I Sent My Heart Up to Thee' (Beach), "The Year's At the Spring" (Beach) and "Oh to Be in England."

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. —Adv.

Two Bids Already Received For New Sewage Plant Work

Two bids have already been received and others are expected on proposals for making an engineering survey of the new sewage disposal plant the city contemplates building in the near future. All bids will be opened and consideration given them at a special council meeting called for Wednesday.

The work now being bid on merely calls for a technical investigation and survey of what the city will need and the submission of plans, cost estimates and other data for the actual construction work.

City to Buy Gas In Carload Lots At Large Saving

Purchase of carload lots of gasoline and oil to be used by city automobiles and trucks was authorized by the city council Monday night when Street Commissioner Clifford pointed out that a saving of perhaps $1,500 a year could be effected in this way.

The big fleet of municipal machines, which includes trucks used by the street and sanitary departments, road graders, tractors, fire trucks, police cars, inspection machines and others, utilize an enormous amount of gasoline each year. At present the city maintains an underground tank and pump at the city hall, to which the gas is delivered by the refinery holding a contract with the city.

It is now planned to put a much larger tank underground at the city barn and buy in carload lots from whatever refinery is awarded a contract for the next 12 months.

Bids for supplying the gas and oil were called for last night.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Roslyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband, is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother,

Florence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chcose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with

Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

Stevie Van Vorst, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Landis in her selfish way. She is in Paris when she hears of Landis' marriage, and immediately returns to the United States. With her goes

Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to join them for dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together all evening, while she will be with her beloved Landis. Thus happens that Landis is amazed to find her waiting for him in the lobby of Claridge's.

Landis phones to find out why his wife has not joined them, and learns that she left the hotel with Briscoe —leaving word that they will join Lydia and Landis in a few minutes. Left alone with Lydia, Landis finds himself swept off his feet by her beauty.

CHAPTER XXVII.
If He Wanted Her

"I'm dreadfully sorry if I've spoilt your lovely party," said young Mrs. Landis Ridgeway, nervously, stepping into Rupert Briscoe's car at the door of her hotel. "It's nearly half-past eight, and Landis will be furious with me!"

"A bridgroom furious with his bride? Such an anomaly!" came the softly spoken answer. "And particularly with such a bride—"

She colored awkwardly. In her past life utterly unused to compliments they made her feel immeasurably 'gauche.'

"His message said that we were meeting at Claridge's—"

"Not Claridge's—the Clarendon," corrected Briscoe, "he must have heard me wrongly on the telephone."

"Then hadn't wet better go to Claridge's first and get him?" came the immediate suggestion. "He left word that he was going there."

This was awkward, but the man beside her was resourceful.

"Now I do remember setting him right about our meeting place! The second time I spelt the name. He will be there, all right, you'll see, with our other friend whom you haven't met."

Rosilyn showed no interest in the "other friend!" Her thoughts were all upon her husband.

Briscoe's car purred smoothly through the New York traffic. Like everything about him, it spelt luxury.

"Had a good time this afternoon?" The poor child did look tired, and there were circles lurking round her eyes—those deep-fringed eyes that were her one claim to beauty.

"Oh, not so very." She spoke nervously. Back in the old days at her father's inn, she had so often "waited" on this debonair and wealthy man! It was enormously difficult to accustom herself to changed conditions.

"Where did you go?" He strove to put her at her ease.

"To Whitefields." She pronounced the name wrong, and that knowledge made her doubly awkward. "I took some—some relatives of mine—to see the polo. I don't think they enjoyed it much. It was all so new to them —so different—"

He could well believe it, if they sprang from the same class as had this girl.

"But you didn't stay there till eight o'clock?"

"Oh no." The color crept up to her pale skin. "You see, we couldn't get the kind of a meal there that they like, with eggs and ham and things. So we waited till the end of the 'chukker,' or whatever's it called, and then I took them in the Rolls to a place in town they're awfully fond of." She named a popular spot not far from Broadway where "the lower classes"—as Briscoe would have termed them—are wont to gather in their hundreds.

He gave an amused smile, thinking how naive she was, and what an anomaly a Rolls-Royce would be outside an eating place of such a type!

"So that made you late? But I trust the supper hasn't spoilt your appetite?"

"Oh no. I didn't eat a thing. Since I've been married, I dine always in the evenings," she said simply.

He took a good look at her. Her frock was wrong. Her hair was badly done, and she had no make-up on her face. But there was possibilities about the child. She only needed guidance. Already, in this short space of time, she had advanced quite a long way from the days of servitude in her father's hostelry.

And—yes!—she had a definite attraction. He could feel it. A "wild flower" lure that struck his jaded senses pleasurably.

There were many things that he could teach her—

They reached the Clarendon, a Bohemian spot of the better class, quite small, and Briscoe helped her to get out. He ordered his chaffeur to return for them at a certain hour, and together he and Mrs. Ridgeway walked into the tiny lobby.

Rosilyn's face fell when she saw no sign of Landis.

"Just leave your cloak in the ladies' room while I do some telephoning," announced her escort. "We'll soon get in touch with Claridge's. I'll have the whole place paged, and if he isn't there, I'll call up your suite and find out if he's sent a message. Run along!"

She did as she was told. Mr. Briscoe was being extrordinarily kind, and she appreciated kindness. Landis was so often brusque, these days, and inattentive.

But—the thought came home to her like a twist of a knife in a wound—wasn't theirs merely "a marriage of convenience?"

(And she loved him so!)

She tried to fluff her hair out in becoming style.

What was the matter with her frock?

"It looks exactly like a nightgown," she thought, vexedly "With Landis' urgent note upon her dressing table and Mr. Briscoe ringing the suite from below, there had been no proper time for the selection of a gown to wear!

This horrid, nervous feeling.

Would she ever grow accustomed to the jargon of the social set? Would she ever learn smart talk, and "persiflage"? Would she ever be anything but the square peg in the round hole, with "edges" that were crude and jarring?

Nowhere did she "belong." Today's episodes at the polo game had proved it. A friend or two of her husband's had come up to talk to her, but had soon sheered off in boredom, or in amazement at her relatives!

Those relatives had made so many "faux pas." Worse than their mislips—these she could forgive!—they had tried to "live up" to her new, exalted position, by "posing," dreadfully, and acting in a most unnatural, preposterous manner.

It was disheartening too, to learn that, by some queer mental process, those relatives blamed her for her father's lack of legacies—for the fact that he had died without a will!

She had given them generous sums of money—yet the feeling of "having been badly done by" (as they put it) lingered in their minds.

"You'll be so upish now, Rosie, that you'll not be condescneding to the likes of us! But glad enough you were in the old days—" (and etcetera).

It had been hard hearing.

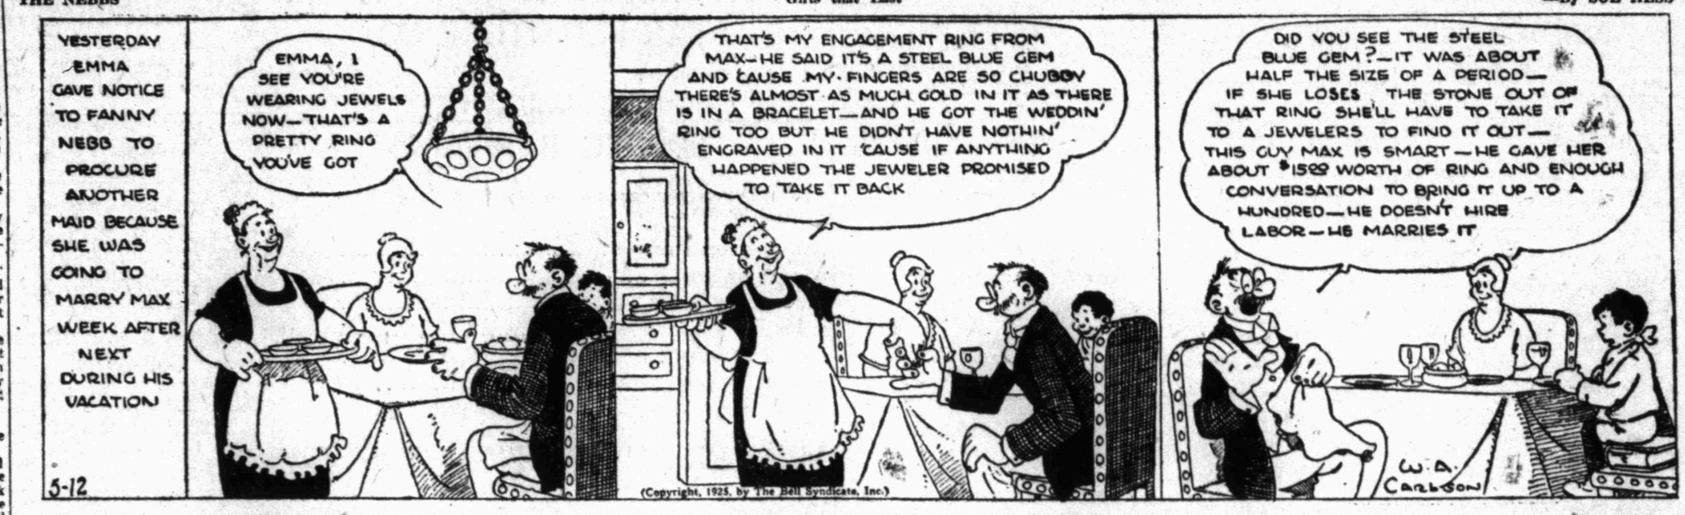

"You know I'd do anything for any of you, at any time," she had stammered, almost weeping.

"We're not wanting charity," a gruff cousin granted. And—

"It's evident some of your fine friends think we're not good enough to associate with," a great aunt snorted.

Rosilyn felt like poor little Madame Butterfly, deserted alkie by sweetheart and by relatives—

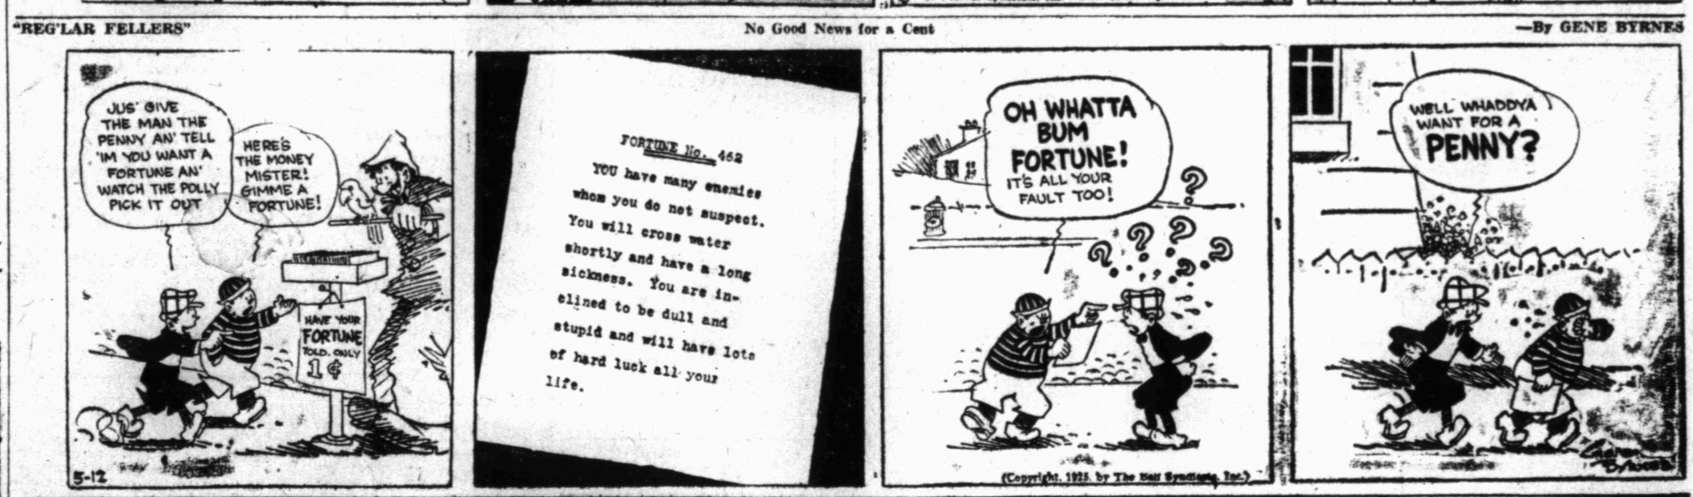

Where was Landis?

"The censored movie," says Observing Olivia, "is like a cheap cigar. It doesn't draw well."

NEW YORK, May 11.—Operations for the rise in today's stock market were confined largely to motors, rubbers and a few industrial specialties. The general list disclosed considerable irregularity with many of the standard rails and industrials losing ground on selling inspired by the speculative belief that the transactional position of the market had been impaired by last week's advance and that a temporary reaction was warranted.
Willys-Overland common was the individual feature, being run up over 3 points to 24¼, the highest price in five years on reports of large profits. Present indications point to earnings of $11,000,000 in the second quarter, according to President Willys. Transactions in this issue approximately 300,000 shares or about one-fifth of the day's total transactions. The preferred stock touched 89½, the highest price since 1917 when it sold at par.
Fierce Arrow common and preferred also bettered their previous top prices in further reflection of a substantial reduction in the bank loans of the company. Studebaker, Nash and Packard preferred also attained new peak prices.
Another sharp advance in crude rubber today stimulated activity in the tire stocks. The common stock of the U. S. Rubber company, whose inventories are reported to have increased $8,000,000 as a result of the recent rise in crude rubbers, touched 48¾, the highest price in two years and Kelly Springfield reached a new maximum at 18¾.
United States Steel common held relatively firm despite the huge decrease in unfilled orders reported at the close of the market on Saturday; reports of large railroad orders for freight cars failed to stimulate a demand for equipment issues. Baldwin, American Locomotive and American Car and Foundry showing net losses of a point or so.
Squeezing of the short interest in American Sumatra Tobacco preferred resulted in a sensational advance of over 20 points in that stock to 69¾ as compared with a low of 29 last Thursday, followed by a break to 52.
Realizing sales brought about recessions of a point or two in some of the low priced rails, particularly the Seaboard Air Line issues. Shares of several of the large eastern railroads lost ground as a result of the difficulty that has cropped out over consolidation plans although Chesapeake and Ohio showed independent strength closing 1¾ higher at 95¾.
Call money held steady at 3½ per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged with business quiet.
The principal foreign exchanges moved with rather narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling ruled unchanged around 4.84½ and French francs were slightly higher at 5.21 cents. The Scandinavian exchanges were heavy. Brazilian exchange showed substantial improvement in sympathy with higher coffee prices.

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—The cotton market was quite active at times today, mainly due to brisk selling on account of the liberal rainfall in the central and eastern belt over Sunday. Before the decline was checked July had dropped to 22.70 and October 21.94, or 45 to 52 points down from the previous close. The market then rallied about 16 points but in the last half hour of trading weakness again developed and July eased off to 22.63 and October to 21.86 or 53 to 59 points net lower. These levels proved the day's lows. The market closed near the lowest at net losses for the day of 45 to 53 points.
Liverpool was much lower than due at the time of the local opening the English market having evidently been forced down by the good Sunday rains. The decline was widened after a weak start owing to the map showing general rains and rising temperature in the belt and a forecast for continued showery weather. The rally around mid-session was due to more or less covering on the belief that the west is receiving entirely too much rain which has stopped field work. It also was claimed that the short interests had become too heavy.
The market had a fresh spell of weakness in the final trading, due it was claimed, to realising and probably also to the belief by many that the rains had not been excessive but were actually helping the crop.
A private authority estimated April domestic consumption at 537,000 bales against 582,674 in March this year and 478,583 in April last year.
Exports today, 9,332 bales.

New Bridge Across Wichita River Is Before Commission

A plea for another bridge to span the Wichita river and afford west-end outlet to the Iowa Park-Electra road was made Monday by J. B. Marlow who appeared before the county commissioners court to present the matter. His suggestions were taken under advisements and indications were that the commissioners looked with more than passing favor on the idea.

Mr. Marlow argued that the general direction of expansion of Wichita Falls was to the west, whereas the nearest bridge giving access to the Electra road was the one at Burnett street, now on the edge of the business district two miles to the east. He said a road running west from the end of Tenth street, crossing the river and branching north to a connection with the Electra road near the Sunshine refinery would be the most direct route to Iowa Park and Electra and would be the means of saving much time.

He suggested further that another branchm of the proposed road could swing to the south and join the new Seymour road somewhere near the Indian Heights addition.

Possible means of financing the project if it should be found feasible may be discussed by the commissioners in a short time.

—to build up Weight!

ANY WOMAN, any man, can now have a well-developed face and form. The whole, simple secret of a well-developed form is in the number of blood-cells in your body. You can now forget all the theoretical talk about diet, exercise, fad treatments, food-fats and fat-foods. Nothing is of any use, after all, except blood-cells!

Thin, run-down men and women, with bony necks, sunken cheeks, bony shoulders—all these are suffering from one thing—too few blood-cells. Science has proved that S.S.S. helps to make the rich red-blood-cells, which you need. Your blood is starving for these new blood-cells! Give your blood the blood-cells it needs—take S.S.S. the great scientific blood-cell maker. S.S.S. has done marvels, too, in making beautiful complexions, clearing the skin, making lips rosy red, the cheeks full and plump—because it rids the blood of impurities which cause pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash and rheumatism, too. As the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. This is why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Start taking S.S.S. today and your great problem, that of your personal appearance, can be solved.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Fireman Says That One Alarm Will Bring Them Same As Three Or Four

The local fire department wants the public to understand it is ready to answer alarms any time but that, once it is on the ground at a fire, additional calls won't help any in subduing a blaze.

This "suggestion" is made in view of the fact that lately a tendency has developed here to keep on pulling fire alarm boxes as long as they can be found within a quarter of a mile of a fire. In at least three instances recently as many as three different alarms have been sent in for one fire, and in one case, firemen report, a boxx was pulled after trucks were actually on the ground and in action.

The Gamewell automatic fire alarm system in use here is so arranged that if two or three or half-a-dozen boxes are pulled at the same time, the controlling apparatus takes them one at a time, records one box number properly at the various stations and then takes up another, continuing thus until all the boxes pulled have been registered.

When three or four boxes with an area of four or five square blocks begin to hit at the same time the general assumption is all are pulled for the same fire. Firemen are wary, though, for two fire might coincidentally break out at the same time with a few blocks of each other and thus complicate matters.

For this reason and also because two or more alarms are needless and useless after the department has once been summoned, it is askd that promiscuous pulling of fire alarm boxes be avoided.
