Two Petitions Filed Against State RR Body

District Judge Denies One Of Two Without Prejudice; Second Has Been Set For Hearing On Monday

Commission Accused Of Interfering With Contract Making It Impossible For Company To Fulfill It

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 8. — J. D. Moore, district judge, late today denied without prejudice one of two petitions seeking to enjoin the railroad commission from enforcing proration and set the other for hearing Monday.

The petitions, filed today, applied only to the properties involved. One was filed by the Lide-Rowe Oil company, et al, and the other by the Central Pipe Line company. Both pertained to property in the Henderson area in the new East Texas district. The Lide-Rowe petition was denied.

Two Are Similar

The petition of the Lide-Rowe company was similar to that in the Danciger case, in which the railroad commission's right to prorate was upheld by C. A. Wheeler, the other district judge here, and which is on appeal. It alleged the commission proration order was unconstitutional because it deprived a person of property without due process of law and that the commission exceeded its authority, which was merely to prevent physical waste.

Other plaintiffs in the Lide-Rowe suit were the Bill and Dave Oil corporation, the Lide-Taylor company, C. M. Joiner, A. V. Lane, George J. Greer and J. Z. Werby.

Giant German Seaplane Takes To Air Friday On Long Delayed Flight; Destination Is South America

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, May 8. — A telegraphen union dispatch tonight reported the giant German flying boat DO-X had left the Bissacogs islands, off Portuguese Guinea this morning on her long delayed flight to South America.

The dispatch said the great seaplane had headed for Fernando Noronha, 200 miles off the Brazilian coast. The distance to this island is some 1,600 miles.

Meanwhile officials of the Dornier works here had received no word of the takeoff from the plane, which is commanded by Commander Friedrich Christiansen.

It is estimated approximately 30 hours would be required for the huge flying boat to make the hop from the west coast to Fernando Noronha.

It is possible the officers of the DO-X might continue on to Natal, Brazil, without making the stop at Fernando Noronha.

Law Moving Swiftly In Young Desperado's Case

"Two-Gun" Crowley And Companion To Face Trial On First Degree Murder

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 8. — The law moved swiftly today to punish Francis Crowley, captured with a girl and man companion in a dramatic gun battle late yesterday, and held for two slayings.

In a matter of minutes Crowley and Rudolph Duringer, were indicted for first degree murder Crowley for the killing of Patrolman Frederick Hirsh, of Long Island, and Duringer for the slaying of Virginia Brannen, a dance hall hostess. Detectives announced both signed confessions.

Trial In Week

Bronx and Nassau county prosecutors said the two defendants would be brought to trial within a week if cases against them could be prepared by that time.

Duringer was locked up in Bronx county jail and Crowley placed in Nassau county hospital for treatment of wounds he received in yesterday's battle with 100 police in west 90th street, Manhattan, rooming house.

Girl Under Guard

The girl companion of Crowley, Helen Walsh, 16, was taken to an unrevealed private home under guard of a police matron as a material witness. Authorities said she had made statements about the patrolman's killing which would help to convict Crowley.

While these developments were in progress Duringer and his compan-

"Do you know the number?" asked the operator, complying with Rule XYZ-117.

"No ma'am," was the answer. "Just tell Marlin the call is for Senator Connally."

A few minutes later the Lubbock operator reported on the call.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but the Marlin operator doesn't know of any Tom Connally there!"

Expelled From School, Young Girl Attempts To End Life By Drowning

(By The Associated Press)

OMAHA, Neb., May 8. — Expelled from Central high school here today, Shirley Mason, 16, Omaha, late today attempted to end her life by leaping into the Missouri river from the railway bridge between Omaha and Council Clubs, Iowa.

The force of the 60-foot fall appeared to stun the girl and she drifted downstream about 100 feet without struggling. Then she began to cry for help and desperately strove to conquer the swift current and reach shore.

Henry Johnson, who was washing bottles on the bank, waded into the river and extended a long stick to the struggling girl. Johnson pulled her ashore.

Central high school officials said the girl was expelled from school for alleged thefts of small sums of money. The girl denied the charges.

BCD Surplus Will Be Passed On To City To Apply On Tax Reductions; Committee Named For Conference

A REDUCTION of $12,000 in the budget of the Lubbock Board of City Development was effected yesterday by the directorate of the organization in listing expenditures for the ensuing year.

The annual budget was set at $29,995, which is $12,005 less than the revenue available to the organization through the two-mill city tax.

Pass On To City

Members of the board of directors indicated the saving would be passed on to the city commission to apply on tax reductions. A committee was appointed to confer with the city commission on this point. The surplus of $12,000 if reverted to the city treasury would enable a reduction of approximately five cents on the $100 valuation, it was pointed out.

Virtually every general item in the board's budget, from administration salaries to minor office expenses was cut. The personnel of the organization has been reduced to fit into the economy program, officials of the board said.

Less Than Allotment

The Board of City Development's expenditures have been less than the amount allotted ever since the people voted to place the organization on a tax supported basis, records show. The surpluses have been used in carrying out projects which ordinarily would come within the province of the city govern-

Melba White and her brother Goldman Marsh, also are under indictment on charges of kidnaping in connection with the case but it is not thought probable they will be brought to trial.

Popularity Of Mickey Mouse Is Threatened

MICKEY MOUSE is threatened with loss of his power over his club in Lubbock.

That was the word sent out from the Palace theater last night after a preview of Jack Oakie's "The Gang Buster" had been shown. Jack is almost certain to run Mickey a tight race for honors in the club program this morning. Jack's picture is said to be one of the big laughs of the season.

Mickey himself will appear in the usual ritual picture of the club but this time he's "The Apache Kid." His cartoon friends are supporting him in his contest with Jack Oakie. An added comedy, "Tony in a Museum" is also on the club's program which gets under way at 9 o'clock sharp.

All club members, children of 14 years or younger, must have their membership card and regular dues. Membership cards may be obtained from merchants sponsoring the club, their identification appearing elsewhere in this paper.

LUBBOCK got its first taste of night baseball last night when the House of David club of Benton Harbor, Mich., barnstorming through the states, erected its high powered portable lighting equipment on the Tech Park and engaged the Lubbock Meteors, a local club of college boys, in an exhibition contest.

Lubbock won the game, 8 to 5, heavy hitting and neat pitching going the work for Coach "Crip" Golightly's aggregation. Blackie Hoyle of Wolfforth went the route for the locals, allowing the bearded ones six hits. He was effective in the pinches and had his mates supported him in one or two instances where they failed, the long whiskered bat and ball men would have been held to a closer score.

City Commission Takes Action At Special Meeting Friday Afternoon; Reduction Made From $1.25 To 95 Cents

Thousands Saved

Based On 1930 Renditions, Officials Estimate Taxpayers Will Save During The Year About $73,072.75

LUBBOCK taxpayers will save $73,000 on their city taxes during 1931 as a result of the action of the city commission yesterday afternoon in reducing the tax rate from $1.25 on the $100 property valuation to 95 cents.

The new rate, the lowest city schedule since 1917, will affect renditions on the 1931 rolls, now being completed by the city tax assessor.

Saving of $73,072.75

Based on 1930 renditions, the 30-cent reduction will mean a saving of exactly $73,072.75 to Lubbock property owners, distributed in proportion to the amount of property owned, city officials pointed out. An example of the saving to the average property owner may be gained from the following, as cited by city officials:

City taxes on a home rendered at $5,000 in 1930 were $62.50.

Taxes on the same home under the new schedule will be $47.50—a net reduction of $15.

Decline To Comment

Officials declined to comment on the new rate, other than to say that ample revenues would be derived for 1931 expenses, however, it is understood that 20 cents of the 30 cent cut is made possible through satisfaction of the sinking fund. Records show that the city's bonded indebtedness was reduced approximately $68,000 last year, which local economists say would reduce the amount necessary for the ensuing year.

The 95-cent rate is the lowest in the last 14 years. In 1917, the levy was 65 cents on the $100 valuation. The following year it was raised to $1.20 and remained more than $1 until the reduction was made yesterday. Three years, in 1925, 1926 and 1927, the rate stood at $1.50.

The Case Of Bishop Cannon

REGARDLESS of whether a high churchman should actively engage in politics, and regardless of whether he is being "persecuted by an antagonistic group" as has been alleged, Bishop Cannon's policy of refusing to account for his expenditures in the last presidential campaign is, in itself, a basis for criticism.

If Bishop Cannon and his co-workers made just expenditures of the fund contributed for use against Governor Alfred E. Smith, why doesn't the Bishop produce the facts?

If his work was as righteous as one would expect to come from a Bishop of one of our greatest denominations, why should it be cloaked with secrecy?

Why—and The Morning Avalanche believes this a most logical question—should an individual of high church honor refuse to present facts of the case to a committee representing the United States Senate, one of the most highly respected governmental bodies of the world?

Bishop Cannon's refusal to present the facts, his defiance of the Senate Campaign Funds committee, doesn't look good to the average citizen. If he hasn't anything to hide, why doesn't the Bishop come out into the open and speak his peace like a man unafraid?

The Morning Avalanche has never subscribed to the apparent beliefs and policies of Bishop Cannon and his group. The old say "The King Can Do No Wrong" has been shot full of holes and substituting the word, "Bishop", for the word "King", doesn't seem to help make it any easier to swallow.

Bishop Cannon, in our opinion, could strengthen respect for himself by speaking out—and such an innovation we believe would also put a stop to some of the criticism which his actions have aroused against churches and churchmen.

As the situation now stands, nobody knows whether Bishop Cannon is being persecuted or whether he deserves the coals of fire which have been heaped upon his head. And if the public is inclined to view the Bishop with suspicion and disdain, he has no one to blame but himself.

ACCIDENTS ARE UNNECESSARY

Progress was attained in railroad and factory accident prevention not by prohibiting the inventions but by minimizing as far as possible their injurious consequences. After years of development, railroad accidents were brought down to very small percentages, and in the factory all manner of devices were designed to protect the laborer, while workmen's compensation and accident insurance reimbursed him if accidents did occur.

It will be the same with the automobile. While the automobile is more than a quarter century old, present-day traffic conditions are comparatively new and it is with them that the nation must deal in accident prevention.

Doubtlessly the time will come when automobile accidents will be proportionately as rare as railroad wrecks. A thousand and one betterments of every kind have been introduced and more are on their way. These include greater care in granting licenses, more drastic penalties for careless driving, and improvements in highways and traffic regulations. It is gratifying that the automobile associations are devoting much attention to the basic principles of safety and responsibility in the operation of motor cars.

After the highways have been made relatively safe the world will have to undertake the task of making the airways equally safe. Rapid transit never has been man's merely for the taking.

GLORY ENOUGH FOR ALL

There seems to be a studied effort in some quarters to exalt Aviator Bernt Balchen at the expense of Admiral Byrd now that their polar flight is history and rapidly becoming ancient history, so fast is the succession of events in the development of aviation.

Partisan comparisons are not originating with either of the two principals, that is sure, for both have manifested heroic qualities and a high degree of stamina and skill, and they have always worked harmoniously together and been unstinting in their praise of each other.

Upon his return from the South Pole, Admiral Byrd conducted himself in the heroic and modest fashion of Admiral Schley after the Battle of Santiago, when he pronounced those immortal words, "There is glory enough for all."

Balchen has always modestly discounted his own contribution to the success of the polar expedition, and, even now, adds his tribute to Byrd.

The whole unpalatable situation demonstrates the danger of pouring cold water over warm admiration for the living great. There are too many contemporaries of the events concerned to step forward to brand the "de-bunking" as bunk.

Practical Health Problems

LEAD POISONING

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Lead continues to be one of the most dangerous of hazards to workers in various trades, particularly painters, notwithstanding the fact that much has been done to educate painters as to the danger of lead and also notwithstanding the fact that manufacturers are doing their best to eliminate the hazard in the process of manufacture.

The subcommittee of dangerous occupations of the American Public Health Association has made available the results of the examination of 682 death certificates from lead poisoning for the period 1925-1929. According to their figures, 349 of the men who died were painters, 25 were workers with metallic lead, 15 were tin and coppersmiths, 14 metal miners, 11 plumbers, 10 carpenters, eight paint mixers, and six storage battery workers.

The figures of the Ohio Department of Health show the following tabulation of reported cases of lead poisoning in 1929: There were 176 men who died from lead poisoning, of whom 35 were painters and 13 men who worked as painters, polishers, sanders and spray painters in the automobile trades. Lead continues to be a serious hazard and one that particularly concerns the painter.

The dramatic suddenness of deaths reported to have occurred from tera-ethyl lead when the manufacture of this product was first undertaken in connection with the development of anti-knock gas focused attention on this hazard. It is now avoided by proper measures both in the manufacture of the product and in its distribution through gas stations.

Control of the hazard is relatively simple under such conditions. On the other hand, control of the lead hazard as it occurs in the painting industry is difficult. For this reason, special precautions must be taken by workers with lead paints.

Sufferings Hidden

(The first of two articles dealing with Cuba appears here.)

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 9.—"President Machado is a great builder."

I have heard this statement made over and over again by defenders of the Cuban chief executive's more or less arbitrary (as is generally admitted) governmental methods in the island republic.

"Like other peoples," says (for example) Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, a personal acquaintance of Dr. Machado, "the Cubans are victims of the world depression, discontent among them is perhaps natural, and it is quite possible that their president has been driven to the adoption of repressive policies which he himself would deprecate in normal times.

Nevertheless, Senator Fletcher gives credit to the Havana administration for doing a great deal toward relieving unemployment by its vast program of public improvements, just nearing completion.

"President Machado is a great builder."

HAVANA'S magnificent new capitol building is especially mentioned by Dr. Machado's friends, among his notable creations. Also Cuba's new 700-mile concrete highway, leading into the island metropolis from the provinces.

President Machado dedicated them only a few weeks ago; the capitol not entirely finished, but nearly so.

Of course the capitol is more showy than the highway.

From all accounts it is a beautiful capitol.

Rather curiously, however, pictures of it (a lot of them have been published) almost invariably appear in connection with some fresh story of smoldering Cuban dissatisfaction. It seems to be hoodoo-ed.

THERE the new capitol is, anyhow, a monument to President Machado—as "a great builder."

That is to say—

According to Senator William H. King of Utah, the best-informed man in Washington concerning Latin American conditions and the recipient of more confidential information than the state department itself from the Caribbean countries:

"Under cover of a program of public works the Cuban treasury has been looted until the nation has been brought to a state of financial exhaustion.

"The dissipation of public revenues on non-essential projects is graphically illustrated by the construction of the new capitol building under a contract calling for a completed structure for $3,500,000, but which to date, although not complete, has cost $20,000,000.

"There was no necessity for a capitol costing $3,500,000, much less $20,000,000, since both houses of congress were adequately housed in splendid quarters and the president was ensconced in the beautiful presidential palace overlooking Havana bay."

"BUILDINGS that fully served executive departments," says Senator King, proceeding with his analysis of Dr. Machado's activities, "have been torn down and new ones purchased at far more than their worth, like the Barraque building, bought from Secretary of Justice Jesus Maria Barraque at a price conservatively estimated as $700,000 in excess of its market value.

"Adequate thoroughfares have been torn up, to be replaced by extravagant, non-utilitarian adornments that have consumed millions with no corresponding enhancement of the beauty of Havana.

"These expenditures have not been made from ordinary revenues, but largely, if not wholly, from the proceeds of foreign loans that necessitated heavy additional taxes."

"PRESIDENT MACHADO'S small but vociferous coterie of boosters—contractors and material and supply merchants, point to these projects," continues the senator, "as accomplishments of his administration, despite the terrific tax burden cast upon a people that has been reduced to abject starvation.

"But neither the glitter of gold on the capitol dome nor the sparkle of the 70-karat diamond placed in its axis will appease the hunger or alleviate the sufferings of the vast army of unemployed who haunt the byways of Havana and the knee-deep mud of Cuba's country roads."

It takes a formidable military establishment to keep a country in subjection in the face of such conditions, Senator King remarks, and the president has one, he adds, "that consumes from 20 to 25 per cent of the national revenue, while at the same time public health and sanitation have been so far neglected that more than 2,000 lepers are at large in Cuba with no provisions for their incarceration and treatment."

IF THE CUBANS themselves had chosen the Machado government, the senator agrees that its administration would be exclusively their affair.

"However," he charges, "through the purchase of practically the entire congress, a subsidized, hand-picked constitutional convention and the division of a part of his swag with certain army chiefs and politicians, the president has created a completely unconstitutional, illegal regime, which he maintains in power solely by military force, against the will of the people.

"Its venality and corruption are known from one end of the world to the other."

And the worst of it is, deplores the Utah senator, that the Cubans "have been led to believe that President Machado enjoys the support and approval of Washington."

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY • by MILES BURTON

CHARPTER 27

Once at Blackfriars, Dick told the driver that he wished to go to Rainham. The man grinned. It was he who had driven the party down to inspect Herridge's body. "Going to have another look at that there ruined cottage, sir?" he ventured.

"I am, and I am going to take you with me," replied Dick cheerfully. "I've got an idea we might find something interesting there."

"I don't know as we can get the car down that lane from the station, sir," said the man. "We'll have a try, though, if you like."

"No, we'll leave the car at the police station like as we did before and walk," replied Dick. "There may be tracks in the lane, and I shouldn't like to obscure them."

The two men walked down the track towards Coldharbour point. For the first mile or two it was hard and dry, and no traces such as Dick hoped to see were visible upon its surface. But after that it degenerated into a mere cart-track across the marshes. It was not very long before ruts became apparent, evidently of quite recent origin.

"It looks as if somebody had been along here lately, sir," observed the car driver.

"It does indeed," agreed Dick. "What do you make of those wheel tracks?"

The man walked slowly along them for some moments without replying. "There's been a lorry along here, sir" he said at last. "Solid tires, single on the front, twin on the back. Looks as if it had been over the ground twice, sir. Probably it went down to the river and came back again."

"Then I think that our journey has not been wasted," remarked Dick in a tone of satisfaction. "Come on, let's see if we can find out where it stopped."

They followed the tracks down to the sea-wall. There, where the road widened out, were signs of the lorry having been turned. But here again the surface was comparatively hard, and there were no traces of footmarks. They examined the ground carefully, then struck off towards the ruined cottage.

Here everything was as Dick so vividly remembered it. The doors and windows stood gaping, the general air of ruin and desolation was not alleviated by the slightest sign of human habitation. They went over the place thoroughly, peering into every corner, but there was no sign that anyone had been near the place since the removal of Herridge's body.

"That's queer," muttered Dick. "You can't play about with a couple of safes, weighing half a ton each, without leaving some sort of traces behind you. Yet, if they opened the safes down here, they must have done it in the cottage. They would never dare use an oxy-actylene flare in the open; the whole countryside would have seen the glare. Yet what would they bring them here for, if not to open them?"

"Let's go and have a look at the wharf," he said abruptly. They retraced their steps, and Dick peered over the wall at the mud beneath. The tide was rising, as he expected. He had looked up the time of high-water when he had borrowed Sir Edric's Whitaker, and found that it would be at seven o'clock. The edge of the mud was still uncovered, but Dick searched its surface vainly for any signs of the vanished safes.

He strolled on towards the broken-down wharf, and then, with an exclamation of surprise, quickened his steps. The edge of one of the timbers showed a long scar, as though something sharp and heavy had been pushed across it. The scar had evidently been made quite recently: torn splinters of wood were scattered round it. And then, suddenly, events of the previous evening became perfectly clear to him. He wondered at his own folly in not guessing it before.

Dick turned to the car-driver. "Come on," he said. "Let's get back to the Yard as quickly as possible. The fellows we are after have got a long start of us, as it is."

The car raced back to Scotland Yard, and Dick pleading urgency, was immediately shown into Sir Edric's room. He glanced at the clock as he entered. It was twenty minutes past five.

"Hullo Dick, back already from your joy-ride?" remarked Sir Edric. "We've had a stroke of luck since you've been out. We've found the lorry."

"Have you?" replied Dick. "I rather thought you might. Where did you find it?"

"Near Long Melford, in Suffolk," said Sir Edric. "A policeman going his rounds found it abandoned by the roadside in a country lane, about four o'clock this morning, with the radiator still warm. He reported it, of course, but it wasn't till that afternoon that the Suffolk police circulated our description, and the significance of the find was realised. They got on the 'phone to us, and Pollard went down there straight away."

Dick strolled over a map of England that hung upon the wall, a ruler in his hand. He laid the ruler on the map, then measured it against the scale. "Fifty miles as the crow flies, say seventy or eighty by road, avoiding the main routes," he murmured. "Taking things very easily, he would have got there about two o'clock this morning. The driver is at this moment having his

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN

WITHOUT minimizing the traditional spirit and purpose of Mother's Day, a practical note is to be introduced into our observance this year, if the efforts of a group of health authorities and welfare organizations are successful. A movement is to be launched tomorrow to save the lives of 10,000 mothers who die unnecessarily in childbirth each year in the United States.

Mrs. John Sloane, president of the Maternity Center association of New York, is asking the mayor of every city, town and village in the United States to set Mother's Day apart as a time to consider steps for better maternity care. She says that "Perhaps one of the chief reasons our death rate is so high is the preoccupation of the average American business man. He may give his wife almost everything, yet the matter of maternity he continues to regard as primarily her responsibility in spite of the opinion of leading obstetricians who say that his wife is in more danger in motherhood than a woman of any other country and that she faces greater danger than a soldier in wartime."

Only the very wealthy and the very poor women receive adequate attention during childbirth, we are told. America's death rate from childbirth is the highest in the civilized world. It is 6.5 for each 1,000 live births. In England it is only 4.1; in Denmark, 3.1; and in the Netherlands, where mothers are given the best protection, it is 2.9. Mrs. Sloane and her co-workers who have studied statistics and are informed on the inadequacies of care given women during childbirth say that 10,000 of the 16,000 deaths of women each year could be avoided and that deaths among babies one month old and less could be reduced proportionately.

To honor our mothers tomorrow without making some tangible effort to save other mothers and to make their lives easier is going to be an empty tribute. Better care for mothers and babies can't be provided in one day but an educational program started tomorrow is going to bring results if it is carried through. People of a nation are making a wanton waste of lives largely through an ignorance of conditions.

DAY DREAMING

IF YOU were not doing the thing at which you are now employed, what would you choose? this week four young women were discussing that question in my presence. Two were school teachers, one was married and rearing a family, the fourth is a stenographer. Of the group, one aspires to have a tea room and is saving pennies in order to start a shop some day. A second has always wanted to be a nurse and thinks she may start yet in spite of the objections of her family, who have given her graduate work in Chicago in an effort to make her forget this desire. Another of the group wants to run a greenhouse, even though she has had no practical experience and the fourth, the married one, wishes she could start over and be an architect.

"See this door opening into the wrong room," she pointed out. No one except a man would have done that. Any woman would have known better. Architecture should be one of the greatest fields for women because no man can plan a house as well as a woman can. She lives in a house; he merely stops there."

This served as a reminder of something an architect had said to me one time about women. He thinks they are unreasonable and entirely too hard to please. They pick out an English roof, a Spanish balcony, an Italian door and bring pictures down to the architect seeking to have the lot incorporated into one house, he complained. "If they would just tell me how much money they have to spend and give some general directions about style and arrangement, we could plan their houses better," according to his story.

As to the yearnings of these women for other occupations, they only show how very human they are. There are few of us who do not spend most of the spring and a part of other seasons believing that "the grass on the other side of the road is greener."

It would be interesting if we could have a few extra lives to experiment with and try out some of these things we have a desire for and never have time to try.

Little Known Mothers Of Few Well Known Folk

Here Are The Women Whom Some Famous Americans Will Honor On Mother's Day Just As The Average Man And Woman Will Do; Sunday They Take Spotlight

Famous sons and daughters occupy the spotlight for 364 days of the year—but Sunday is Mother's Day. And in the pictures above, NEA Service cameramen lift these mothers of noted Americans out of the comparative obscurity in which they live . . . Air minded mother of an air-minded son, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh is shown in aviation togs, upper left, with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh . . . Champion Glenna Collett's smile is well known to golf fans, and in the photo, lower left, taken with her mother, you see that the smile is an inherited one . . . Upper center are Mrs. Charles A. Vallee (at right), whose crooning lullabys in other years may have inspired Rudy Vallee to croon to all the nation; and (at left) the mother of Lou Gehrig, who dished up the first "home plates" the Yankee slugger ever saw . . . Many political dopesters forecast the nomination of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt as the next Democratic presidential candidate, and he has no more ardent supporter than his mother, shown with him in center . . . Helen Wills Moody's return to active tennis competition will be eagerly watched by her mother, pictured with the court queen, lower center. . . . Mrs. E. N. Nichols, seen upper right with Ruth Nichols, is aiding her aviatrix daughter in her plans for a trans-Atlantic solo flight this summer. . . . And when Eleanor Smith, another famed woman flyer, lands after her various record attempts, her mother—seen with her lower right—always is at the field to greet her with a smile.

MILK SHOULD BE ADDED TO WAFFLE BATTER GRADUALLY

This Method Insures a Smooth, Light, Lumpless Batter

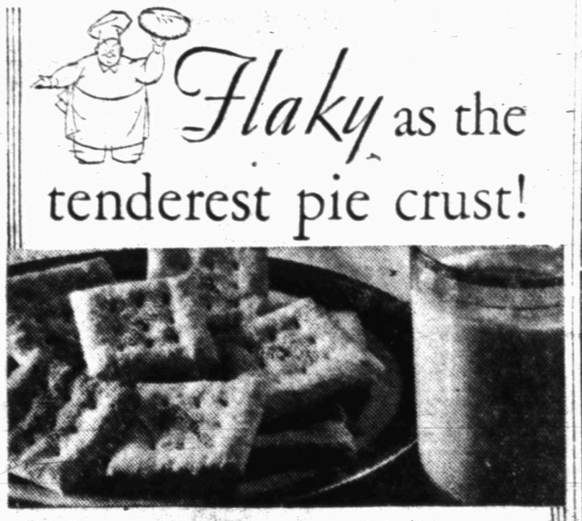

Every cook knows that it is risky to pour all the milk at once into the flour when making waffles. In spite of vigorous stirring the batter will invariably contain lumps.

Coffee roasted in bulk also involves risk. Even the most skilled operator cannot prevent variation in the roast because the quantity is too large to handle. As a result, some of the coffee berries are overdone and some underdone. Such variation in the roast causes variation in flavor.

Realizing this, Hills Bros., in San Francisco, perfected and patented a process that roasts every coffee-berry evenly. By automatic control, only a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters in which heat is also automatically controlled. When the coffee finally leaves the roasters, it is perfectly uniform in color and roast and gives a delicious flavor in the cup that no other coffee can equal.

No matter when or where you buy Hills Bros. Coffee, it is as fresh and complete in its exclusive flavor and aroma as when it came from the roasters. This is because Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum—a process that takes air, which destroys coffee flavor, from the can. The ordinary air-tight can does not keep coffee fresh. Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Business Must Find Own Way

Oklahoma University Economist Speaks Before Gathering Thursday On Ills Of Business Today

SAND SPRINGS, Okla., May 8 (AP)—Business must find its own way out of the present depression with little help from the government, Dr. A. B. Adams, nationally known economist and dean of the college of business administration at the University of Oklahoma, declared yesterday in an address before the Sand Springs Chamber of Commerce.

Modern capitalism, out of its babyhood and now in the stage of adolescence after 200 years of development, faces the unpleasant task of writing off its books a staggering loss as the result of over-inflation and its failure to distribute properly its income to consumers, the economist said.

Not until prices drop still further or wages are increased to the point where the great mass of consumers are able to purchase goods turned out by America's highly efficient system of mass production will the point of industrial stability be reached, Dean Adams said.

Reduction of the working hours of labor without reducing the wage rate per day and adoption of a policy of employing two sets of workers operating in six hour shifts were recommended by Adams as possible aids in the solution of the employment problem.

ASKS $80,000

LAREDO, May 8 (AP)—James F. Haenni, 30, filed suit for $80,000 damages in district court here against Dave Craven, 16, and others, alleging he was injured permanently when struck by an automobile driven by Craven last Christmas eve. The case was set for trial at the July term of court.

Spain has placed a special tax on concessionary companies using motor transportation.

She Gets Our Vote!

After seeing Elaine V. Sheffler, above, you'll have to agree that, just as in love and war, all's fair in politics. Miss Sheffler, daughter of Ohio State Representative George W. MAN GETS BOND

MARFA, May 8 (AP)—J. P. Thomas, Presidio plumber, charged with murder for the slaying of a man partially identified as a Dr. Taylor of Texarkana, whose body was found in an abandoned well between Alpine and Presidio several weeks ago, was allowed $7,500 bond at a preliminary hearing today. He did not make the bond immediately.

Labor Beer Stand Is Said Unsound

WASHINGTON, May 8. (AP)—The Anti-Saloon League declared in a statement today "the position of the American Federation of Labor relative to the return of beer is unsound in three respects."

"The legislation of beer," the statement said, "would instantly result in a sharp decrease in the purchase of other commodities thereby promptly throwing from 3 to 10 times more out of employment than the number to whom employment might be given by beer.

"Beer would not increase the demand for grain and thus help the farmer. Government records show that the amount of grain used by all the distilleries and breweries for all purposes during 1917, the last normal wet year, was 2,500,000,000 pounds less than the increased consumption of grain used as stock feed to produce the 212 pounds extra milk per capita consumed annually under prohibition."

BLEDSOE, (Special). — The Church of Christ of Bledsoe was organized at a meeting in the high school auditorium April 19. Regular services will be held each Sunday with communion from 11 to 11:30 a. m.

Two Producing Wells Bought In Rusk County By Humble

FORT WORTH, May 8. (AP)—Humble Oil and Refining company of Houston has purchased two producing wells and lease on 43 acres in the Kilgore pool of Rusk county, East Texas, from Federated Oil company for $225,000, it was learned today.

Of the purchase price, $175,000 was paid in cash and $50,000 is to be paid out of one-fourth of the first oil produced.

The lease is directly north of the Kilgore pool discovery well. No oil has been produced prior to the time Humble assumed operation of the property recently due to Federated's inability to obtain pipe line connection, or a purchaser for its crude.

WOMAN CHARGED

SANDERSON, May 8 (AP)—Mrs. Bessie Mae Rivers Sharp was in jail today charged with murder for the death Monday of her husband, W. Telefus Sharp. Officers said a chemical analysis of the viscera from his body showed poison. Mrs. Sharp was arrested last night.

Another Producer For Gulf Company

KILGORE, May 8. (AP)—The Gulf Production company No. 3 R. N. Brightwell, in the southwest corner of a 50-acre lease in the Robert E. Winn survey, was completed early today for production estimated at 60,000 barrels daily. The estimate was based on an open flow test. Depth of the well was 3,645 feet, 84 feet in the sand.

The Gulf Coast Oil company also completed its No. 1 R. N. Brightwell on a 94-acre tract west of the Brightwell 50-acre lease, for production estimated at from 40,000 to 60,000 barrels daily. Depth of the well was 3,665.

It was reported here today unofficially that the East Texas Refining company had encountered salt water in its well No. 2 at 3,672 feet and the well was plugged back in an effort to shut out the water. There are now twelve salt water wells in the area.

When it became known recently that a "detector" was being used to find unlicensed radio sets in Leeds, England, there were 1,000 applications for licenses in three days.

TWO GRAINS OF SUGAR

They look alike...

but... most women know better when it comes to brands. There have always been "just-as-goods." And, as always, most women prefer to buy the really, the genuinely best. That's the reason for the overwhelming preference for Imperial Sugar. Some sugars may look alike, but most women have found that it's safer and more satisfactory to insist on Imperial. Use it in this recipe—for certain success!

7 Minutes Icing

1 egg white, 1 cup sugar, ¼ t. cream of tartar, 3 T. cold water, ½ teaspoon vanilla

Put ingredients in top of double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly and cook 7 minutes or until icing will stand in peaks. Remove from fire, flavor and beat until thick enough to spread.

IMPERIAL SUGAR

Used by more food manufacturers and by more housewives than any other brand in Texas.

Tariff Group Is Organized

Will Press Upon Congress The Absolute Need Of Reduction In Tariff Of 1930; Effects Are Being Felt

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—A group of economists, editors and lawyers has notified the International Chamber of Commerce, now meeting in Washington, of the formation of a non-political American organization known as the council for tariff reduction.

It will press upon congress, "the absolute need of prompt action at its approaching session in the reduction of the tariff of 1930, the ill effects of which have been immediately evident both within our borders and in international relations."

"Scandals connected with tariff-making have for the first time in many years awakened public interest in the tariff," adds the letter of notification.

Smart Society Is Going Cotton For Summer Wear; Non-Fading And Chic

BY JANE EADS

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—Cotton transformed by the needs of the season and a modish cut, is demanding attention along the smartest boulevards this summer.

And summer's fickle temperament of weeping skies and brightly smiling suns will not send the fashionably-dressed indoors or under cover during the next few months. For the new wardrobe is non-fading, non-running and washable.

Morning will see ginghams, piques, linens, and broadcloth, in crisply tailored street frocks and suits.

Afternoon will find ensembles of voile, fine linen, smart cotton meshes, and organdie.

Evening will be made the smarter by gowns of eyelet embroidery, point d'esprit, lace, organdie and nets.

Cotton will be equally popular at the beaches and watering places even on the water itself for it is being used as the moment demands for swimming suits and yachting costumes, pajamas, still in vogue for every occasion, will be created of a variety of cotton stuffs, a multitude of colorful patterns.

In shop windows and at fashionable gatherings one may glimpse the following:

A black point d'esprit evening gown worn over the sheerest of pink organdie; a spectator sports costume of green dotted Swiss (the material used wrong-side out) worn with a brief jacket of green; a white chevron pique suit worn with a blouse of black and white plaid voile; organdie dinner pajamas combining yellow and chartreuse green; a bathing suit of navy and white crash-like cotton; a sleekly fitting mauve organdie dance frock and a white linen jumper-frock with a flame-red top worn over a short-sleeved waist of gay red and white striped linen.

Accessories that add a debonair dash to the summer ensemble are also of cotton. Summer shoes with rather large bags to maich are made of coarse cotton mesh. Usually they come in a number of new pastel colors and are smart with short sleeved frocks.

Linen shoes are popular. These come in cut-out sandals, others are oxfords in black, beige, white and soft summery shades.

Even millinery has "gone" cotton. Sports hats are most generally of pique and broadcloth and a number of those pert little turbans which are worn on the back of the head are of a cotton mesh. Bows are flowers of organdy and cotton lace are being used to adorn the more formal headgear also.

CASE MISTRIAL

Michigan Senator Arrives To Investigate Philippines

MANILA, May 8. (AP) — Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan arrived here today on the S. S. President Cleveland to investigate conditions in the Philippines "in the systematic way of a newspaperman."

He said the date of granting independence to the islands is not so important as establishing a definite policy regarding their future because the uncertainty of the present arrangement is blocking their development.

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

NTERNATIONAL SUNDAY HOOL LESSON FOR MAY 10, 1931

And as they heard these gs, he added and spake a par- because he was high to Jeru- n, and because they supposed the kingdom of God was im- ately to appear.

He said therefore, a certain man went into a far country, ceive for himself a kingdom, to return.

And he called ten servants of nd gave them ten pounds, and unto them, trade ye herewith come.

But his citizens hated him, sent an ambassage after him, g, we will not that this man n over us.

And it came to pass, when he come back again, having receiv- he kingdom, that he command- hese servants, unto whom he given the money, to be called im, that he might know what had gained by trading.

And the first came before him, ng, Lord, thy pound hath made pounds more.

And he said unto him, well , thou good servant: because hast found faithful in a very , have thou authority over ten s.

And the second came, saying, pound, Lord hath made five nds.

And he said unto him also, thou also over five cities.

And another came, saying, l, behold, here is thy pound, ch I kept laid up in a napkin:

For I feared thee, because thou an austere man: thou takest up which thou layedst not down, reapest that which thou didst sow.

Then wherefore gavest thou my money into the bank, and I my coming should have required with interest?

And he said unto them that d by, Take away from him the nd, and give it unto him that the ten pounds.

And they said unto him, Lord, hath ten pounds.

INTRODUCTION

ast year, on June 1, we studied parable of the talents (Matt. 4-30), which is paralel to the able we are to study today, sub- uting pounds for the much larg- um of money, talents.

his parable is sometimes con- d with that of the Talents att. 25) to which it has many ilarities. But notice that there servants start with unequal op- tunities and the faithful ones rewarded alike. An important on of this parable of the pounds the reward of faithful service is ater responsibility (cp. Luke 8). It is one of a series of hful stewardship parables scat- d through the Gospels.

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

Trade ye therewith." v. 13. The in thought is of faithfulness to Christian stewardship; in view the inevitabe day of accounting. r Lord expects his people to "do d business with" (that is what ade with" means here, literally) talents, opportunities, posses- s, that are theirs. His assump- is that they are his gifts: God- n.

his parable comes a little closer e to some of us, who feel that are not "talented," than the able of the Talents; for to each hese ten servants a like sum is rusted; and moreover that sum omparatively modest.

Each servant received silver ounting to $17.00, equal in pur- asing power to $200.00 or more in day. "The parable of the tal- s is the story of genius. All the aracters were exceptionally gifted. en the man with one talent stood far above the average. This, on other hand, is a parable of the mmon people—people with small wers and contracted spheres of tion; that is to say, the vast ma- ity of men in every age. It is story of the world."—Rev. J. rgan Gibbon.

THE DAY OF ACCOUNTING V. 15.

"He commanded these servants, to whom he had given the money, be called to him." There is a e of accounting for all. There lesser judgment days scattered ough life, times when we are ished for our faithlessness or arded for our fidelity; and there the great and final judgment day en the Lord will render the eter- l verdict on the deeds done in flesh. Only as we do our best m day to day, with Christ's help, we ready for his judgment ich is sure to come. "That he ght know what they had gained trading." This is the test al- ys, what we have done with what d has given us—not what others ve accomplished with their pos- ly greater gifts and opportuni- s, but what we have accomplish- in the place where God has set and with the gifts he has given

"WELL DONE, THOU GOOD SERVANT." V. 17

"And he said unto him, Well done, u good servant." Just to hear ae words from the lips of the iour will be worth all thrones crowns. "Because thou wast nd faithful in a very little." "Fi- ity in the little duties is the one g needful. To accomplish some work of Christian benevolence greater outlay of mind, heart will than to rule a household ve the body to be burned is no heroic martyrdom than we have in the temptations of siness; and he who has not pre- ed himself by such discipline is fit to be a leader in the king- dom of God."—Rev. E. A. Wash- burn, D. D.

THE CHRISTIAN'S REWARDS

"The subject of rewards is one that always comes to the fore in a consideration of Christian steward- ship. In preaching stewardship we must not make wrong appeals. Let us keep in mind the teachings of these two great parables: There are irrelevant reasons w y the person who tithes, or who contributes con- scientiously to the kingdom's sup- port, or who is very diligent in his other church obligations, may pros- per in business; but that is a dan- gerous incentive to hold out, a risky line of argument. It does pay to be faithful in all these or any other ways; but the kind of stewards that we should endeavor to transform unfaithful church-members into is Christian men and women who want better returns for their money, time and service, than worldly pros- perity; who covet rather the joy of their Lord and the privilege of giv- ing and doing ten times, five times, more than before."

THE SLOTHFUL SERVANT CONDEMNED. V. 24

"And he said unto them that stood by, Take away from him the pound, and give it unto him that hath the ten pounds." In the parable of the talents the unprofitable servant is cast "into the outer darkness"; here he is only deprived of the money left with him.

"I say unto you, that unto every one that hath shall be given." "A law of the kingdom of heaven de- crees that the poor in that kingdom shall become poorer still and the rich become ever richer."—Arch- bishop Trench. If we earn noble re- sults for Christ, Christ will add to us what we have not earned, for we have proved that we can make good use of more. "But from him that hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken away from him." If you have no gain to show from God's gifts to you, those gifts will be taken from you. "If we cease to use a limb, its muscles shrivel and its strength departs. Corn hoarded up in the granary is soon destroyed. Intellect not drawn on soon flags. This taking away is a process. It is steadily going for- ward in this world. It will be com- pleted in the next, where all fur- ther probation and chance for do- ing service will utterly and eternal- ly cease."—Rev. Alfred Nevin, D. D.

WORK WHILE IT IS CALLED TODAY"

"Hast thou forgotten thine entrust- ed pound?
Stunned with the market's hubbub dost thou stand?
"Instead of dreaming, up and pur- chase good;
Buy precious stones, exchange not gold for sand.

"What thou from him receivedst, he will bring
To strick account, and reckoning will demand.
"For a large blessing, or a curse from him
Thy faithfulness or sloth will then command."

Need Of Highway Will Be Pressed

LONGVIEW, May 8. (AP)—A com- mittee representing Longview, Kil- gore and Gladewater has started a campaign to impress on the state highway commission the necessity for improving the highways in the East Texas oil area.

The members are E. G. Whitney of Longview, J. E. Bagwell of Kil- gore and Carl Everett of Glade- water. They were apopinted at a mass meeting here.

It was said that a concrete road between Longview and Kilgore was the most pressing need at this time and its cost was estimated at $350,- 000 with an additional $200,000 for bridges. It was proposed that Gregg county furnish one-third of the cost and the state the remainder.

HAVE YOU THIS IN YOUR HOME?

Black-Draught "Just Splen- did," Says Texas Mother— Gives It To Her Children.

"I have found Black-Draught to be just splendid for my children when they have colds or bilious- ness," writes Mrs. W. A. Butcher, of 825 East Eleventh Street, Dal- las, Texas.

"When they are fretful and feel- ing bad, I give them a few small doses of Black-Draught, and soon they are out, playing and feeling fine.

"I remember that my father gave me Black-Draught when I was a child, and it helped me so much when I had a headache or a bad taste in the mouth."

Mrs. Thomas Peden, R.F.D. 2, Pulaski, Tenn., agrees with the Texas lady quoted above. "When I get bilious," writes Mrs. Peden, "I frequently have dull, sick head- aches. Nothing helps me like Black-Draught. I find that if I take it at night, the next day I am all right again.

"My husband thinks Black- Draught is a fine medicine and he takes it. I can recommend it to mothers, in the home, for I have found it of great benefit to mine."

GALVESTON, May 8.—With Hank Thormahlen twirling fine baseball, the Galveston Buccaneers broke a four game losing streak by taking the final contest from Fort Worth Cats today, 4-0. Thormahlen received excellent support from his mates, particularly Bratcher and Borreani. Hap Collard also hurled brilliantly. Three Galveston tallies in the sixth came after two men had been retired and with the aid of three errors.

SAN ANTONIO, May 8. — After getting off to a shaky start Cyrus Smith settled down and held the Wichita Falls Spudders scoreless the last seven innings but Lester White limited the San Antonio Indians to five hits to win his game 3-1, today.

The Spudders got their start in the opening round on Garms' three bagger and an error by Devivieiros and scored two more runs in the second inning on Red Badgro's triple, Puss' double and White's single.

The Indians did not score until the ninth when Sanguinet singled to center and Stebbins followed with a triple to right.

STEERS LOSE FINAL

BEAUMONT, May 8.—All those base hits the Exporters have been storing came out in the eighth inning today when they made eight runs to defeat the Steers 11-6 in the series final. Most of the rally came after two were out, one run in that inning crossing the plate as Hughes hit into a double play. Then started a collection of base hits that didn't cease until two pinch hitters had delivered, Goldstein's double tying the score. Schumble hit a home run over left field fence to put Beaumont in the lead.

Conference Baseball Race Settled Only At Last Game

DALLAS, May 8. (AP)—The Southwest Conference baseball race will not be settled until the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. game at College Station May 16. This much was assured yesterday when the Texas Longhorns and Texas Aggies defeated Baylor and Rice to prolong the pennant issue.

When the Aggies trimmed Rice 14 to 11, it left them one game to play—that against Texas Longhorns May 16. The Longhorns defeated Baylor 5 to 1 and have Rice and the Aggies to play. Should the Longhorns win both games, they will be conference champions, but if they lose one out of the two, the best they can hope for is a tie. Other conference teams are out of the race and all except Rice have concluded their 1931 schedule.

The Southern Methodist University Mustangs closed their schedule yesterday with a 7 to 4 decision over the Texas Christian Frogs. The Frogs won one game out of ten starts.

Tilden To Meet Richards Today

Big Bill To Open Professional Career Today Against Champ Of Pros; Big Purse Goes To Winner Of Match

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—Vincent Richards and William T. Tilden II, who used to play for silver cups and "expenses" in their amateur tennis days, meet tomorrow in Madison Square Garden in the first of a series of five matches that are expected to bring them around $35,000 each.

Richards is guaranteed $25,000. Tilden is taking a percentage of the gate receipts as co-promoter of the match. In addition a purse of $10,000 has been promised the winner of the series.

Tilden has been playing an average of one match every other day since mid-February when he started a nationwide tour with Karel Kozeluh, former professional champion. Richards has been making up for this by taking on all the amateur stars who would face him in practice.

E. Paul Young, New York golfer, made the "hole-in-one club" for a second time while playing on a Ft. Worth, Texas, course.

Eleven Rice Owls Place For Finals In Track Tourney

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 8. — Final events in the seventeenth annual Southwest Conference track and field meet, will be held here Saturday afternoon with the Texas A. and M. Aggies defending champions. In the preliminaries of five events today, the Rice Institute Owls led in placing men with eleven. Texas A. and M. finished second with eight qualifiers.

Others were: University of Texas 5, Texas Christian University 1, Southwestern Methodist 1, Baylor 4, and Arkansas none.

Preliminaries in the 440-yard run, 100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, 220-yard dash and 220-yard low hurdles, were held today on a fast dry track with the sprint men enjoying the advantage of a strong wind to their backs.

Although not officially a record, the 120-yard high hurdles mark was smashed in both heats today. In the first heat, Harlan, Texas A. and M. leaped the bars in 14.6. In the second heat, Korschel, Rice, finished them in 14.9. Wright, University of Texas, holds the old record of 15 seconds established in 1926.

No field preliminaries were held today.

Kaufman Schoolboy Betters Javelin Record; Few Other Marks Approached

Floydada Miler Goes To Finals In State Meet

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 8.—Unless the finalists gain a little speed, the preliminary track and field meet of the 21st annual meeting of the University of Texas Interscholastic league today did not indicate there would be many state records shattered when the surviving competitors do their stuff tomorrow.

J. C. Petty of Kaufman high school was not satisfied in slinging the discus farther than the 141 feet and nine inches he negotiated last year in setting a state record one time, but he hurled it in excess of that yardage in three successive tries. His record for the preliminaries was 151 feet and two inches.

B. Ashton of San Jacinto High, Houston, needed only one tenth of a second's worth of speed to lower the 9.8 seconds state record set by Russell of Hereford last year in the 100-yard dash. He made it in 9.9 seconds.

H. Green of Abilene negotiated the 220-yard dash in 21.5 seconds to equal the state record hung up by Russell of Hereford last year.

Main Avenue High of San Antonio won the preliminary one mile relay with three minutes and 30.6 seconds.

Floydada Miler Places

Dowell Gamblin of Floydada came through the one mile run in four minutes and 42.5 seconds against the state record of four minutes and 33.8 seconds set by Simpson of Denton in 1926.

E. Wallace of Eagle Lake and Ralph Beck of Pharr-San Juan tied with 16 seconds each for first in the 120-yard high hurdles. The state record is 15 seconds, set by Baldwin of Wichita Falls in 1924.

W. Bubois, of Santa Anna was low man in the 880-yard run, making the course in two minutes and 3.3 seconds. Brothers of San Angelo holds the record of two minutes, 1-2 seconds set in 1929.

E. Wallace of Eagle Lake was out in front in the 220-yard low hurdles with an official time of 24.7 seconds, seven tenths of a second away from the state record of Ablowich of Greenville, made last year.

Johnny Kilbane, former featherweight champion, thinks Tommy Loughran should become the heavyweight king. Tommy should cultivate slugging, he says.

Equipoise Rules Favorite In Old Preakness Today

BALTIMORE, May 8. (AP)—Nine of the east's best thoroughbreds day peered out over a rain-soaked Pimlico track where tomorrow they will answer the bugle call for the fortieth running of the $50,000 Preakness—first of the rich three-year old stakes of the year.

A heavy early morning rain with only an occasional glimpse of the sun augured none too well for the old hilltop feature, but if the skies withhold any additional moisture for another 24 hours, the racing strip should be fast by the time the field parades to the post at about 5 p. m. eastern standard time, tomorrow.

Should the track get another dose of water, C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, leading money winning juvenile of 1930, is almost certain to rule the public choice.

The NUT CRACKER

BY COL. JOE O'GOOFTY
Author Golf and Its Lies

NEW YORK, May 8. —Another man has written a book about golf. It is called "Golf at a Glance," by Bob MacDonald. You just put it into your hip pocket (assuming there is room), go out to the fairway and read a chapter whenever you fell in doubt about how a shot should be made.

The book should be a success if golfers would learn to make their shots instead of taking them.

Thus, for a mashie-niblick shot, you stop, look at the index, turn to the proper page and it tells you that the left hand retains inward pressure against the right, as if trying to turn the palm downward, but merely retaining its original position and appearance when seen by the player. It sounds easy and interesting.

In the volume I am writing on Golf and Its Lies, I am devoting a chapter to club faces (not the strange faces you see around a club, but the faces of the various clubs in a golfer's bag). It is hard to imagine how a club can keep a straight face when you consider the strange usages to which it is subjected, even to the point of being wrapped about trees.

Books are written by men like me, but only a golfer can slug a tree.

Federal Court Judge Hears Carnera And Sharkey Case; Answer Next Week

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—Sometime next week Primo Carnera, the Italian man mountain, and Jack Sharkey Boston's constant contender, will find out whether their preliminary gesture toward a fight at Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, June 10 was just a waste of time.

Federal Judge John Knox, who learned of the fight game through weeks of trial of Jack Kearns' damage suit against Jack Dempsey, listened to the pleas of attorneys for Madison Square Garden of Illinois today, hard Carnera's legal reply, and took under advisement the Garden request for an injunction. He requested briefs be filed not later than Monday.

Judge Knox seemed little impressed by the business of suspensions.

"Doesn't the commission suspend and reinstate almost at will?" he asked. "Some one is always being suspended in the papers."

Although several of the interested parties were in court, Carnera was left at home.

"We did not wish to frighten the court," one of his handlers explained.

Custom Sedan	$928

Easy Handling—The moment you step into a Pontiac you will begin discovering pleasant things. First, how easily Pontiac handles—answering your lightest touch.

60 h. p. Motor—You'll notice the quick getaway . . . the smoothly sustained speed. Pontiac has a 60 h. p. engine so ample in size that it need never be overworked. Hence it stays smooth.

Rubber Cushioned—You'll experience a new riding ease. Deep springs, form-fitting seat cushions. More important, Pontiac's chassis is cushioned with live rubber at 43 points.

Style—You'll be proud as you drive your Pontiac—conscious that other people admire its modish lines, V-radiator, chrome radiator screen, one-piece fenders with fender lamps, wide single-bar bumpers, tailored splash apron.

Insulated Fisher Bodies—Wood-and-steel construction is snugly insulated against cold, heat, and dampness. Cowl and windshield pillars built in one piece—leakproof, rattle-free.

Mohair or Whipcord—Rich long-wearing mohair or whipcord in the closed cars—select leathers in the open models. In all, an atmosphere of fine craftsmanship pleasing to your pride.

Texas Farmer Back In Jail

Harry W. Tucker Will Serve Remainder Of Eight Year Term After Being Free For More Than 16 Years

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 8 (AP) — Harry W. Tucker, 59-year-old farmer, in the state prison at McAlester to serve the rest of an eight year term for cattle theft after being free more than 16 years, C. E. E. Cutler, Oklahoma pardon and parole attorney, said.

Tucker was arrested in Tyler, Tex.

Cutler said Tucker was convicted in Cimarron county and sent to prison June 7, 1912. After serving until Jan. 7, 1915, he was freed on a 90-day leave of absence and subsequently granted a year's temporary parole. Upon his failure to return he was listed as a fugitive.

Tucker had established himself as a Texas farmer during his years at large.

Spain Official Denies Reports

MADRID, May 8. (AP)—The Marques Luca Detenta today denied published reports that former King Alfonso of Spain had asked him to persuade Jose Sanchez Guerra, former premier, to head a monarchist ticket in the coming parliamentary elections.

"The king has not given me any order," he said in a statement. "The king desires only that the monarchists shall not put difficulties before the Republican government and that they collaborate with the government on such patriotic matters as require it."

The Duke of Maura, former minister of labor and a brother of Minister of Interior Miguel Maura, considers it possible that the monarchy will be restored by the vote of the people.

The Republican government has scheduled the election for a constituent cortes in June.

MAN SHOOTS SELF

LAREDO, May 8. (AP)—Isaac Uranga, 28, shot and killed himself this morning as he entered the hallway of his home here after returning from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. A coroner's verdict of suicide was returned. Members of a party which had brought him home in an automobile and members of his family, who were in bed, rushed into the hallway, upon hearing the shot, and found him dead.

CONTINUE BUSINESS

BROWNFIELD, (Special.) Mrs. C. R. Rambo, whose husband operated an abstract office here for many years and who died recently, will continue the work. She and her son Horace Rambo will conduct the work.

Cotton Cotton Strength Given Increase — Livestock Little Feature In Cattle Trade — Grain Price Of Grain Turned Upward

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 8. (AP)—The cotton market after ruling sluggish during the morning had a good recovery in late trading today. The close was steady at the top, the general market showing net gains for the day of 15-16 points.

Liverpool cables came in 3-4 penny points worse than due but rallied some later. Private cables stated that there had been continental liquidation and some hedge selling. Manchester cabled that the home trade in cloths was more encouraging but that India was disappointing.

After fluctuating rather aimlessly most of the morning the market rallied sharply near mid-session buying being stimulated by rather favorable weekly statistics and firmer stocks and bonds coupled with unfavorable crops news from the western belt.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—Reports of a better tone in the stock market were followed by increased activity and strength in cotton today on covering and Wall street buying. July contracts closed at 10.10 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 13-14 points.

There was a little buying on the decline in the local bank rate which was announced after the close of the previous day, but the demand was light and was quite readily supplied by some local and southern selling.

Brokers with Wall street connection were active buyers while there was a scattering demand from trade of commission house.

New Federal Reserve Rediscount Is Cause For Improvement Bond Market

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—The security and commodity markets improved today.

Only in the case of bonds could the gain be traced directly to the new federal reserve rediscount rate, although this factor may have been lurking in the background of the stock market which came forward with a good rally in the last hur. Call money, renewing at 1 1-2 per cent, eventually got down to 1.

Bonds, which have moved ahead in expectation that credit was to be made cheaper, rose further on the actual announcement. United States governments swung up substantially, while railroad and industrial issues reflected a marked increase in buying orders from institutional and private sources.

resolution, but said it would cover "nearly everything on the agenda of the congress," which includes war debts, the tariff, silver, agriculture and scores of less important subjects.

Strawn said reports were untrue the resolutions committee had rejected an American proposal that in any reconsideration of the debt question no allowance be made for military expenditures in reviewing capacities to pay.

No Sensations

"Don't expect any sensations," he said, adding, "there will be no discordant views when the committee is ready to report."

Discussing mass production at a group session late today, Wallace B. Donham, dean of the graduate school of business administration at Harvard university, said Soviet Russia was the only country that has solved the unemployment problem, although he said he had no sympathy for the "major objectives" of her economic system.

Talk Russian Plan

"Soviet Russia," he said, "passes its man power from the production of capital to the production of goods for immediate use or to the production of things needed by the community and does this without any problem of unemployment. The rest of the world must seek the answer to the problems of unemployment in these same three variables, for they are the only ways that men can work.

"The problem should not be beyond the wisdom of our political and our business leadership. If it turns out to be beyond solution in the immediate future we must realize that we are facing in this country the development of some dole system, for we cannot allow millions of our neighbors to starve and the extent of our unemployment problem is already hopelessly beyond the capacity of private charity."

Continue Attacks

Continued attacks on the American tariff dominated today's open session.

Henry Bell, a director of Lloyd's bank in England, who yesterday denounced the American tariff, told a group session on new commercial policies today that levies on imports represented "the intrusion into economic wellbeing of the cannon and the machine gun, the high explosive, the poison gas."

"They appear to be, in addition, a socialistic blunder," he said "Some one is empowered by government action—and such action is by no means always just or sensible—to prevent me buying and selling what I want, whence I want, in such a sort and quantity and price as I need for the conduct of my business and the provisions of my livelihood.

"I know better than any official what I need. I resent his interference—even if I misjudge I am entitled to my misjudgment."

A British delegate, W. H. Coates, at the plenary session contended transfer of goods or services was the only way international debts could be paid. Unless this country takes European products, he said Europe would close its doors to American goods.

Liberalization of "most favored nation" clause treatment was advocated by J. Duchenois, from France. M. A. Plate, Netherlands delegate and a representative of the European customs union, said the present situation of "long lines of high tariff walls divided Europe in a great number of isolated economic centers" hindered the restoration of Business.

More than 100 citizens have been named by Governor Murray on Oklahoma's committee to co-operate in the Washington bicentennial celebration.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, May 8. (AP) — Lamb prices continued on their downward course, prices at most of the markets showing another 25 loss from Thursday's levels. Receipts were fairly liberal, total arrivals aggregating 68,200, compared with 50,819 last Friday.

Light strength at some of the markets for butcher and heavy hogs was a feature in the pork division. Opening sales on lighter weights were generally at lower levels, but activity was the rule later, with most of the losses regained. Total offerings were 73,900, compared with 81,-663 a week ago.

Trading in cattle had little of feature, most points reporting the usual Friday market. Prices were not quotable changed, strength showing at some markets, with slight weakness at others. Combined receipts were 14,100 compared with 12,188 a week ago.

Sam Carlino Shot And Killed And Another Man Wounded As Several Men Walk Into Home At Denver

DENVER, May 8. (AP)—Sam Carlino was shot and killed today by several men who walked into his home in north Denver and fired on him and Jim Colletti. Colletti was seriously wounded, police said, and may die.

Carlino's assassins escaped in automobiles.

The home of Pete Carlino, Sam's brother, was demolished several weeks ago by a blast but nobody was in the house at the time. Police later said they had learned it was an "inside job" planned to collect insurance.

Sam Carlino and Colletti both were among several alleged Denver bootleggers arrested and charged with arson. Their trials were set for this month.

Pete Carlino, police said, had incurred the enmity of Denver bootleggers after he had "muscled in" on the liquor traffic in north Denver.

$12,000 Slash

ment it was pointed out. Marking of streets and the emergency employment service, offered this year by the board, were cited as examples.

A surplus of approximately $7,000 was expended by the board during the past year in relief work, it was said. Of this amount, $6,500 was used in relieving the unemployed by furnishing work through the vacant lot cleanup campaign. Five hundred dollars was donated outright to the United Charities, records show.

Efficiency Unimpaired

Reduction in expenses this year were made as far as possible without impairing the efficiency of the organization. Although business depression has affected the commercial life of the community, the work of the Board of City Development has not been reduced, the directors agreed.

Because of the large number of conventions slated for Lubbock this year, the work of the board perhaps is greater this year than ever before, it was said.

The directorate was high in its praise of the efficient operation and management of the civic organization, in the Friday session.

Burning Attempt Fails And Negro Is Mortally Wounded

DALLAS, May 8. (AP)—Dallas officers today were investigating what they believed was an attempt to burn to death Daniel Smathers, negro, as he slept in a servant house, before he finally was shot to death early today. A negro was sought in connection with the killing.

The first persons who reached the scene after hearing the shot found Smathers mortally wounded, lying in the yard, and inside the servant house his bed was in flames. Apparently he had awakened and found someone setting fire to his bed and was shot when he resisted. He died in a hospital.

FIREMEN MAKE RUN

Smoke arising from a disinfectant at a vacant house in the 2700 block at Twenty-second street, last night was the cause of a run made by the fire department. A passerby saw the smoke coming from the building and thought that the house was on fire, members of the fire department said.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 8. (AP)—Prospects of drouth becoming worse in Canada did much to turn grain prices upward today. Official reports indicated that moisture supplied overnight to spring wheat areas both in Canada and this country was too scant to be of any important help. Wheat was bullishly affected also by purchases to prepare for a possible surprise in the United States government crop summary due after trading had ended.

Trade comment after the report had been issued was that the government report favored bulls as showing a probable harvest of 6,000,000 bushels less wheat than the average of recent private estimates.

Wheat closed firm, unchanged to 3-4 cents higher, corn 3-8 to 3-4 up, oats 1-8 to 3-8 advance, and provisions 3-20 cents down.

Highway Projects Being Inspected

Federal highway projects in division 5 of the Texas Highway department, known as the Lubbock district, have been inspected this week by B. L. Andrews, an engineer for the U. S. bureau of roads at Austin. Mr. Andrews spent Friday here with Joe H. Caldwell, division maintenance engineer.

There are nine federal road projects in this division. Mr. Andrews said. It is a part of his work to inspect these once a month.

Besides No. 9 north of Lubbock, the following projects are being built with federal aid money: two projects on highway 28 in Hale county, a half mile in the the city of Plainview and 22 miles west of town; grading work on highway 18 south of Matador between the town and the Dickens county line, a bridge job on the same highway; grading work on No 62, state 24, in Crosby county from the road district's west line through Crosbyton to the caprock; a bridge east of Turkey in Hall county and two jobs south of Turkey.

Corsicana Man Is Now Finance Head

DALLAS, May 8. (AP)—J. Howard Williams of the First Baptist church, Corsicana, was elected chairman of the finance committee of the state executive board of the Texas Baptist general convention at a meeting of the board here today in the offices of Dr. W. R. White, state executive secretary.

Williams succeeded Rev. C. V. Edwards of Fort Worth who has been made vice president of Baylor college at Belton and director of the endowment campaign. He automatically withdrew from the committee chairmanship.

The committee agreed to transfer dormitory furniture from Burleson college to the Decatur Baptist college and indorsed a move by Baylor college at Belton to refinance an indebtedness of about $35,000.

W. H. McKenzie of Waxahachie presided at the meeting, which concluded before noon.

Final Conquest Of Gusher Will Be Attempted Today

GLADEWATER, May 8. (AP)—Some time tonight the giant 2.50 pound wedge nipple forged at Kilgore was to be moved to the wild Sinclair No. 1 Cole well near here for an attempt at daybreak to choke off the flow of oil.

The derrick constructed while the well was in its eighth-day pyrotechnic display had been skidded directly over the well, and the crew of 25 men stood ready with expensive brass tools for the final conquest of the gusher which has already killed nine men.

Motley County Banker Says Collections Satisfactory

Collections of drouth relief loans in West Texas will be satisfactory, opined John K. Crews, chairman of the Motley county drouth relief committee, in a letter to D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Crews, a director of the First National bank at Matador, pledged support and aid of Motley county's organization in work to regain moneys loaned by the United States government in the drouth seared region.

Services For Carl Spradlin Are To Be Held In Coleman

Funeral services for Carl Spradlin, 29, who died yesterday morning at a local tourist camp, will be held in Coleman. The body was sent there last night by the Bynum-Morgan Funeral home.

The man was en route to California in company with his mother and sister.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Spradlin, and sister, Miss Verdie Spradlin, all of Coleman.

Army Planes Over Dallas As Tests For Black Rust Made

DALLAS, May 8. (AP)—Army planes from Hensley field hovered over Dallas today as H. T. Ukkleberg of the United States department of agriculture exposed chemically treated plates at various altitudes seeking to detect the presence of black rust spores in the atmosphere.

Ukkleberg explained that the purpose of the tests was to determine the extent of black rust, a plague affecting small grain crops in Texas. The plague was believed to extend northward in Texas from the gulf and the republic of Mexico.

Utah's game and fish commission will take a census of the state's big game from an airplane.

Vanity, Superstition And Bravado Revealed In Notes Of Young Couple

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—Vanity, superstition and bravado of Helen Walsh and "two gun" Crowley are revealed in a series of notes police found scattered on the kitchen floor of the apartment where they were captured after a gun fight with police.

Reference to "bulls outside the door" indicated that the notes, penned in ink with a shaky hand, were written during the siege.

One note, signed by Helen said: "I was born on the 13th of October and he was born on the 31st. If I die, wave my hair, make my face up. Do my nails all over. Don't use this kind of polish. I use pale pink."

Crowley was credited with authorship of an unsigned note which said: "I had nothing else to do, that's why I went around bumping off cops. It is a new sensation."

Helen wrote one regretting that she never would see the rest of the world and asking that the note be shown to her sister "so she'll know I died singing."

Most of the notes were "to whom it may concern."

House Of David

well under the flood lights, smashing Tolles, a southpaw, for a dozen hits, two of them home runs by Raymond Marshall and "Big" Galey. Marshall played a sensational game in left field, handling six chances for five putouts. He slammed out a home run at his first visit to the plate but that ended his hitting for the night. Hodges, Waller and Hoyle, each singled twice, and Galey added the longest home run of the evening to a well placed single in the early part of the game to lead the hitting.

Hambright's triple in the third accounted for a run and he was batted in by France, who turned in a neat job at shortstop.

Blieding, House of David catcher led his side's hitting with a pair of doubles as in successive times up. Williams, long bearded second sacker, opened the ball game with a long triple to right field. One run in the first, two in the fifth and two in the sixth summed up the whiskered boys' runs.

Grover Cleveland Alexander failed to appear on the mound last night. He was being saved for the ninth inning but the last half of the ninth was not necessary. The popular "pepper game" by four of the House of David players toward the latter part of the game was added entertainment to the 1,500 or more fans attending.

Law Moving

ions of the night ride on which Virginia Brannen was slain were in a police motor over the route taken March 27 and officers said Duringer pointed out the spot in the Bronx where he shot the dime-a-dance girl to death.

Girl Gives Tip

It was Virginia Brannen of the taxi dance halls, who first set police hunting for the desperadoes when her body, a bullet through the stomach, was found near April 27. A 16-year old girl, Billie Dunne, another dance hall "hostess," tipped Crowley and Duringer into the hands of the law last night.

Officers said that on Wednesday Crowley, phoned the Dunne girl and told her to "get out" of her 90th street apartment to make room for "a regular girl." Angered she talked and word got to police, who set the trap which resulted in the captures late yesterday following the firing of hundreds of shots and the use of axes and tear bombs.

Crowley was moved on a stretcher late today from Bellevue hospital of Mineola, the jurisdiction in which he must stand trial. Still on the stretcher, he was booked.

Duringer, who told police he killed the Brannen girl because she wanted to marry another man, arraigned late today, stood mute. Asked if he wanted a lawyer, he said "no." The pleading was adjourned until Monday.

Three bullets were taken from Crowley's body early today, one from each arm and another from an ankle.

"I want to plead guilty," Crowley told the prosecutor. He seemed disappointed when told the law did not permit a guilty plea in a first degree case. "Why can't I get this over with if I want to?" he demanded.

"I suppose you know conviction means the chair for you" the district attorney queried. "Well, what of it?" he whimpered.

From 1927 to 1930 it was $1.25.

With Lubbock's rendered property valuation at $24,357,566, the amount for 1930, a gross revenue of $231,397 will be raised with the 95-cent levy. Renditions for 1931 are not expected to vary a great deal from those of 1930, city officials said.

Property owners yesterday were urged to see that their renditions are made at once. The 1931 rolls will be closed within a few days, officials said. All property not rendered will be placed on the unrendered rolls and the value set by an equalization board, it was pointed out.

barrels daily but the commission cut the production to 1,935 barrels.

The Central Pipe Line company said it had spent $65,000 building a pipe line from Overton to a lease on which there was one well. The company was given a contract to run 1,360,000 barrels of oil from that well, it claimed. The petition said the well would produce 24,000 barrels daily but the commission had reduced it to 387 barrels.

Such action would make it unprofitable to run the pipe line and the company would be deprived of that property, the company stated.

The railroad commission also was accused of interfering with a contract by making it impossible of fulfilment.

Fred Upchurch, assistant attorney general, representing the railroad commission, argued the contract had been made after the proration order had been entered.

Judge Moore had granted Carl Estes of Tyler a temporary injunction but Estes had suspended its enforcement until July 1.

Division Maintenance Engineer Promises That Roads In Area To Be In Good Shape For Convention

"We will have every road leading into Lubbock in first class shape for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention next week, "Joe H. Caldwell, division maintenance engineer, announced yesterday. "The roads will be in the best shape they have ever been, if we do not get any more rain."

Mr. Caldwell Thursday made a 300 mile inspection trip over the area and said he found highway foremen working their grading crews all day.

Orders have been given to all foremen to work the roads as much as they can between now and the convention date. Within the past several weeks there has been a considerable amount of rain. However, the rains came in such a way that most of the roads were given one dragging before the next rain.

A strip of country lying west of Lubbock and running from Lamesa through Brownfield towards Clovis, had the heaviest rains last week according to Mr. Caldwell.

Every tractor and drag owned by the state in this district has been at work since Monday afternoon, Mr. Caldwell said.

Bernard Shaw Is Student Speaker

LONDON, May 8. (AP)—For ten minutes today Bernard Shaw entertained the British institute of journalists, closing a characteristic speech with the toast: "The profession of journalism—God help it."

"Is it a profession?" he demanded, "or is it the last refuge of any young person who is hopelessly illiterate and hopelessly inaccurate?"

One of journalism's difficult problems, he said, is to eliminate the time lag—the inability to recognize that a thing has happened when it has happened.

"Most people," said he, "take about twenty years to realize that something has happened. The world has not yet realized that the Russian revolution has taken place. The British press has not yet found out that the Soviet union has come to stay. In consequence we have thrown away one of the most magnificent commercial chances we can ever hope to see in our lifetime."

Sitting It Out
Chimney Sitter Has Record Period

TOKYO, May 8. (AP)—A chimney sitter who ascended a smokestack at the Japan dyeing and weaving works here several days ago and announced he would not come down until the employes there had won their hunger strike, is not meeting with the success that a contemporary had.

Kiyoshi Tanabe recently won a strike when his chimney sitting threatened to conflict with a rigid Japanese custom forbidding a subject to take a position higher than that of the emperor. Word spread that the emperor would pass the place where Tanabe was sitting and the company in question conceded to the strikers' demands in order to get Tanabe down before the ruler appeared.

At 7 o'clock tonight the dye works sitter had been up 150 hours which exceeded Tanabe's record, but there was no sign of the strike's end. About 140 strikers remain in a warehouse, eating only bean soup. Sixty of the original 200 hunger strikers have been removed to hospitals. They struck in protest against the discharge of a fellow worker.

Aid Is Offered Building Plans

WASHINGTON, May 8. (AP)—The group of leaders of the building industry called on President Hoover today to offer their assistance to him in furthering the public buildings program inaugurated shortly after the economic depression began.

Those who called were: Louis Labeaume of St. Louis, and Frank C. Baldwin of Washington, representing the American Institute of Architects; A. P. Greenselder, president and Edward J. Harding, executive secretary of the Associated General Contractors of America; L. W. Wallace, executive secretary of the American Engineering counsel, and H. H. Sherman of Boston, president of the building Producer's counsel.
