The SDN Column

Dick Roberts has forwarded a clipping from the Aug. 24 issue of the Springfield, Mo., Sunday News and Leader, that has considerable space devoted to Snyder.

C.W. Johnson, travel editor of the Springfield paper, was on the tour of this area last June 26 when a group of travel writers were hosted by the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

Roberts, a former staff member of the Snyder Daily News and for the past 10 years with the Travel Development Section of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (formerly the Texas Highway Department) where he now serves as an assistant administrator, was on the tour and was instrumental in getting the group to make an unscheduled stop in Snyder.

Anyway, some two months following that tour, items about Texas, including Snyder, were still popping up in the various publications represented on the tour.

"We have found that such stories will appear for a year or two," noted Roberts.

So, you never know how much exposure an area will reap from such an activity. Johnson commented at length on the White Buffalo. It was the white buffalo replica on the courthouse square that attracted the travel writers to Snyder in the first place. They were scheduled to travel from Abilene to Lubbock on a rather tight schedule, but one of the visitors expressed a desire to see the white buffalo statue when he learned that the Abilene-to-Lubbock segment of the tour would take them through Snyder.

Roberts hopped on the opportunity to get the bus to pause here for about 15 or 20 minutes while the travel writers snapped pictures of the white buffalo statue and asked a few dozen questions about Snyder, the buffalo and the Scurry County Courthouse. Roberts said he also had received some clippings from Lynn Ashby of the Houston Post, and he is sure that Texas stories have appeared in other publications as a result of the tour but others were not thoughtful enough to send clippings.

Anyway, The Springfield columnist apparently made the most of the brief stop here, because his column of Aug. 24 has some 200 words about Abilene and around 350 to 400 words about Snyder, with comments ranging from the white buffalo to the Diamond M Museum, the Scurry County Coliseum and the oilfields.

You never know exactly what will impress visitors in these situations, but Johnson got himself a lot of information on Snyder in a quarter of an hour, and he made an accurate report in his column, "Without Reservations."—WACIL McNAIR.

Ford Weighs Proposals To Ease Decontrol Impact

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is considering legislative proposals to ease the impact of suddenly removing oil price controls if a compromise can't be reached with Congress on extending them, Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb said today.

Zarb told reporters the President was close to a decision on three proposals:

—A special program to equalize the cost of crude oil among refiners, perhaps by federal rebates to independent refiners, financed from the windfall profits tax on oil producers.

—Standby authority to allocate propane gas and restrain its price as natural gas shortages increase propane demand this winter.

—A measure to allow independent retail dealers in petroleum products, such as gasoline station owners, to challenge in court any sudden change in marketing arrangements imposed by their suppliers.

Zarb made the disclosure after the House Democratic leader declared that Congress will override Ford's veto of a bill extending oil price controls and take the initiative in drawing up a national energy policy.

Democratic Leader Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr., of Massachusetts said the President wants no compromise on oil price controls.

"If the Senate votes to override, there is no question in my mind that we (the House) will override," O'Neill said. "I believe Congress is going to override the President's veto."

Ford has promised to veto the price-control extension and was expected to do so later in the day. Before leaving Washington for two days of official and political appearances on the West Coast, he met with congressional leaders to discuss energy problems.

Meanwhile, Senate Democrats were expected to decide at a caucus today to defer compromise talks until after they attempt to override the veto.

The National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, which represents 70,000 of the nation's 196,000 service stations, told a Senate hearing that elimination of price controls could result in an increase of up to 17 cents in the price of a gallon of gasoline.

Charles L. Binsted, executive director of the organization, said the estimate was based on the possibility that the bulk of price increases would be dumped onto gasoline, rather than spread evenly among all petroleum products.

Binsted said the estimate — which compares with the three-cent-a-gallon figure offered by the Ford administration — also included the likelihood that the major oil companies would increase costs to dealers.

US, Russia Don't Show

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Israel and Egypt today signed the U.S.-sponsored Sinai accord. The ceremony was marred by a Soviet boycott prompting the United States also not to attend.

On Wednesday the Soviet political weekly New Times criticized the agreement, saying it does not defuse the explosive situation but tends to complicate matters. It said the entire pact favors Israel.

Under the agreement Israel is pulling back is forces in the Sinai desert and surrendering the Abu Rudeis oilfields, and Egypt is commmitting itself to a number of political concessions including a promise not to threaten force or military blockade against Israel. In addition, 200 American civilian technicians are to man early warning radar stations in the Sinai.

Following word of the Soviet boycott of today's signing, a State Department spokesman in Washington said "if the Russians aren't going to show up, we won't show up."

But a U.S. spokesman in Geneva said the signing was in the framework of the military working group set up by the Geneva peace conference and that the presence of representatives from the United States and the Soviet Union, co-chairman of the Geneva conference, was not a formal necessity.

Diplomatic sources said in any event the United States' main aim was to get the pact signed, and not engage in a diplomatic hassle.

The United Nations first said "there is a possibility" it too would cancel plans to have an official witness at the signing of the pact, but later changed its mind. The chief U.N. coordinator of Middle East peacekeeping forces, Lt. Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo, witnessed the signing of the pact, completed at 5:10 p.m. — 12:10 p.m. EDT.

Sources said lack of a U.N. presence at the signing would have reduced the agreement to the level of a bilateral accord although it makes specific reference to the Geneva peace conference that opened under U.N. auspices in December 1973.

At the United Nations in New York, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said he was told of the Soviet boycott in advance by Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik. "The Americans also informed me that they would not be present at the ceremony."

The Israeli Parliament approved the agreement Wednesday night, and representatives of Israel and Egypt were to sign it at 5 p.m. (12 noon EDT) in the council chamber at the Palais des Nations, the United Nations headquarters in Europe.

Kissinger Defends Diplomacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, home from a successful Sinai peace mission, is telling Congress that the United States will play only a very limited but important role in enforcing the accord between Egypt and Israel.

President Ford, greeting Kissinger Wednesday night at Andrews Air Force Base at the end of the 23,400-mile, two-week trip, launched the lobbying campaign, saying the 200 U.S. civilian technicians that would perform surveillance duty in the desert would "make a stabilizing" contribution.

Kissinger, in defending his diplomacy, intends to assure congressional leaders and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that the U.S. commitment amounts to a "watchdog" role and little more. There were several indications Wednesday that congressional objections to the U.S. role in the Sinai are not widespread and both Democrat and Republican leaders were predicting approval.

Lauding Kissinger for completing an "extraordinary mission," Ford said the agreement "provides time that will be needed to work, and we intend to work very, very hard, for concluding a lasting peace settlement in the Middle East."

Carrillo Trial Is Adjourned

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lawyers for District Judge O.P. Carrillo won one, lost one and gained a draw Wednesday in his impeachment trial.

The draw was the decision of Texas' 31 senator-jurors to adjourn the trial until Sept. 29 to avoid a conflict with a federal tax evasion case against Carrillo and his brother, Ramiro, in Corpus Christi Monday.

Carrillo's lawyer, Arthur Mitchell, had sought an indefinite postponement, but he withdrew his motion after the Senate granted the lengthy adjournment and also agreed to extend it day-by-day after Sept. 29, if necessary.

Carrillo, 51, was suspended from office, pending his Senate trial, after the House approved 10 of 11 impeachment articles against him Aug. 4-5.

He was accused of using Duval County money to buy his groceries; of using county workers and equipment at his ranch and store for private gain; of refusing to disqualify himself in legal matters in which he had a personal interest; and of trying to dominate the grand jury and Benavides school board.

Special state counsel Leon Jaworski, the former Watergate prosecutor, had an apparent role in Carrillo's victory, arguing persuasively that the Senate should be required to prove Carrillo's guilt "beyond a reasonable doubt."

At a meeting of the Senate Administration Committee, chief prosecutor Terry Doyle objected that no such standard had ever been applied in any impeachment case in this country.

"It is the heaviest burden in the law," said Doyle a former Port Arthur House member.

"If I were in your position," said Jaworski, "I would want the highest burden—if you really have a case, then there's nothing to worry about."

The committee, and later the full Senate, adopted the language in its impeachment rules.

New Student Seating Plan At Stadium

The addition of a large, organized Pep Club and the ninth grade at Snyder High School has led to some changes in seating arrangements for students at SHS football games.

School officials said the new seating regulations for high school students will be enforced to alleviate a seating problem.

The new rules include:

1. No student will be allowed into the high school section without presenting his, or her, identification card.

2. High school students with dates outside of high school, or without I.D. cards, will be required to sit in Section 6 of the east stands.

3. College students will not be allowed in the high school section, but will sit in Section 6 of the east stands.

Entrance to the east stands will be at the northeast gate only.

Ford To West Coast

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford left Washington today for the West Coast where he planned two days of official and political appearances and was scheduled to make five speeches.

Ford will be testing the political waters in the home territories of two potential rivals for the presidency in 1976, Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and former Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

An 18-hour schedule today includes stops in Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore., with an overnight stay in Sacramento, Calif.

In Sacramento, the President will address a joint session of the California legislature, eat breakfast Friday with community and business leaders and meet with Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown on California energy problems.

Because of several political meetings that Ford will attend, the Republican National Committee is paying for the entire trip.

Ford will address two GOP fund-raising luncheons in Seattle, one at $25 a plate, the second at $500 a plate. Then he'll speak before another in a series of White House regional conferences on domestic and economic problems.

At the regional conference he will answer questions from the audience, a format which presidential aides say Ford likes very much after testing it recently in Peoria, Ill., and Milwaukee, Wis. The aides say it gives the President a feel for the complaints and problems that are bothering people at the grass-roots level.

Early this evening, Ford will fly to Portland for a fund-raising dinner sponsored by the Oregon state Republican organization. He'll follow that with an address at a youth pageant, a Bicentennial event being held in the Memorial Coliseum.

UNTIL BOYCOTT SETTLED

New Red Grain Deals Delayed

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said today there will be no further grain deals with the Soviet Union this year until a union boycott of the grain shipments has been settled.

"I think it will be advantageous on our part and on the part of the Russians to wait until this labor situation is settled," Butz said in testimony before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, D-Okla., replied, "It seems to me we're allowing AFL-CIO President George Meany to set our foreign policy."

Although court orders in Texas and New Orleans are allowing grain already purchased by the Soviets to be loaded on ships, Butz said he expects further impact from the boycott, called by the International Longshoremen's Association and endorsed by Meany and the maritime unions.

"The real test will be when they attempt to load Soviet or American flag bottoms," Butz said.

So far, only ships from third countries have appeared in American ports to pick up the grain shipments for delivery to the Soviet Union, which has purchased 9.8 million metric tons of U.S. grain so far this year plus another half-million remaining from 1974 sales.

Meany has predicted sharp increases in consumer food prices as a result of the grain sales, but Butz repeated his own earlier prediction of a 1.5 per cent increase late this year and in early 1976 as a result of the exports to the Russians.

The Agriculture secretary said negotiations between the Labor Department and the unions are continuing, as well as discussions with the Russians. The United States is seeking to obtain higher shipping rates from the Russians, thereby assuring that more U.S. ships and American seamen will be used in making the grain deliveries.

Until the boycott is ended and the shipping rates are decided, Butz said, a projected new deal involving an estimated 8.5 million metric tons to the Soviets should be delayed.

"It's just too emotional an issue," he said.

Butz said that recent food price increases were unrelated to the latest grain sales to the Soviets. He described the increases as only "coincidental with the reports of grain sales to the U.S.S.R."

Gunman Frees 9, Surrenders

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A tense vigil outside a downtown coffee shop ended after 17 hours early today with the release of nine hostages and the surrender of their armed captor.

Robert Roscoe Jr., 33, of Washington, D.C., was to be arraigned in police court later in the day after being taken into custody about 8 a.m., said Albany Police Chief Edward McArdle.

Two of the hostages were John M. Koutelis, 59, and his wife, Angie, 43, owners of the luncheonette. Asked if the gunman ever threatened them, Koutelis said, "No. I can only say the man was a gentleman. That's all.

Mrs. Koutelis said the gunman did not frighten her. She said, "He was very good." She added, "He said he didn't want anything to happen to us because of the chilren."

Three of the Koutelis children were among the hostages—Nick, 14; Eugenia, 11; and Michael, 7.

The other hostages, who were not identified immediately, were said to have included two waitresses and two other women.

Scores of officers had ringed the area of downtown Albany, a block from the Capitol Building, where the hostages had been held since 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Standard Sandwich Coffee Shop.

The drama began unfolding about 3 p.m. Police said a man held up a savings bank, struck a bank guard on the head and later shot a police officer who had pulled up in a patrol car. The man then fled into the coffee shop.

Chief McArdle said the calm ending to the vigil came after various persons talked with the man by phone overnight.

There were conflicting reports over the number of persons held by the gunman, but at midmorning today authorities agreed there was a total of 10, with one woman being released overnight. She was said to be suffering from a medical problem of an unspecified nature.

A report by an FBI agent that there were seven hostages was later said to have been in error.

VIEWPOINT

Good Site For A Jail

It appears that the mechanics of transferring title to the former Travis Junior High School property from the Snyder Independent School District to Scurry County finally have been mapped to the satisfaction of both agencies.

In their meeting a week ago, members of the County Commissioners Court and the School Board agreed that the transfer would in reality be nothing more than a bookkeeping procedure because, all agreed, "we're talking about tax money and it all is coming from the same pockets."

That observation within itself should simplify the transaction, one would think. But there are little underlying factors that prompted a bit of bargaining. The school people could not quite reconcile themselves to giving away a piece of property without the school district at least receiving a token return. And the county people were concerned about getting the old main building removed from the property because it has no plans in the future they envision for the property.

Generally it is not popular these days to demolish old buildings, but in this case there seems to be little, if anything, that could be said in defense of that old school building. Architecturally it has no historical significance. A few "ball park" estimates in recent years have indicated that it could be put into good shape by spending a quarter of a million to half a million dollars for repairs. Then, you would have a nice building suitable for school and nothing else.

County commissioners have indicated that this property probably will be the site of a new jail. We certainly would not argue against that.

EPA Inviting Attack

Has the EPA—the Environmental Protection Agency—grown a little too big for its breeches? Or is it that its breeches, its regulatory powers were made too extensive in the first place?

It has always, of course, been advisable to take both the claims of the environmentalists and the counter-claims of their antagonists with more than a few grains of salt, although most Americans would probably prefer to err, if err we must, on the side of caution when it comes to their health and well-being.

Lately, however, the EPA has been coming under increasing fire, and it is coming from Capitol Hill as well as the hustings, and from impartial scientists as well as spokesmen for the chemical and other industries that have been most affected by the agency's decisions.

For example, a committee of the prestigious National Academy of Sciences recently concluded that "there is no convincing evidence that chemical pesticides can be replaced in the forseeable future....

"To that extent that regulation of agricultural chemicals is unnecessarily restrictive and sluggish in its administration, new research aimed at safer and more effective pest and diseaese control chemicals will be discouraged; and, over the long haul, the public will the the loser."

Already, it says, one effect of government regulation has been to put all but the larger companies in a situation where research costs are beyond their means.

The House Agricultural Committee has given the EPA three months to shape up its pesticide control program. "They are unreasonable and arbitrary," one member was quoted as saying, "and this is the only way we can apparently bring them to look at what they are doing."

During one session of the committee, Rep. Floyd J. Fithian (D-Ind.), told an EPA official that "I am concerned, as an environmentalist and a conservationist, that in the process of overstripping the balance of the legislation which created your agency you may kill the goose that lays the golden eggs....I am concerend as a conservationist about what you people are doing to the conservation movement in this country."

At the same time, there are reports of unrest in the lower ranks of the agency itself too much politics and too little attention to the inferests of the public.

There have been suggestions that a separate agency be set up to review EPA actions. Whether or not the cause of environmental protection requires yet another layer of government, whatever steps may be necessary should be taken to ensure that the wide authority granted such a vital agency as the EPA not be abused, misused, or possibly in some cases, unused.

Club Gets Report On WTC

Dr. Ben Brock, vice president of Western Texas College, told members of the Noon Kiwanis Club Wednesday that he expects enrollment at the college to reach 1,300 this year.

Last spring, there were 1,055 students. As of Wednesday morning, Dr. Brock noted, 744 had enrolled for courses on campus with 217 more at he extension centers at Sweetwater, Haskell, Post Rotan and Colorado City.

"Western Texas College is primarily a community college," Dr. Brock said, "And we will try to offer several courses that the people of the community are interested in—not necessarily for credit."

He said with good weather the golf course at the college could be completed by next June or July.

Dr. Brock said there are 20 buildings on the campus. The most recent one is the Baptist Student Center.

"We have a good occupational-technical program," said Dr. Brock, adding that well-qualified teachers are on the staff at WTC.

He pointed out the college will need more housing facilities in the future if the college is to grow.

Dr. Brock also expressed his appreciation to the local people who have supported Western Texas College, and he pointed out the school has been the recipient of numerous scholarships and financial aid given by local people.

Dr. Jim Tully, president of he club, presided over the meeting.

Dr. Duane Hood reminded Kiwanis the annual Ladies Night and Installation Banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Oct. 4 at the Western Texas College cafeteria.

Other guests included Rudy Biggs of San Angelo, Dr. Gil Fleer of WTC, Royale D. Lewis, and Don Adams, who has an application for membership in the Noon Club.

Mobile Home Defects Described At Hearing

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Complaints against mobile home dealers have included exploding stoves and toilets that fell through the floor, witnesses called by Atty. Gen. John Hill have testified.

Hill continues today his defense of the new mobile home regulatory law, which several dealers, manufacturers, leasers and private owners have challenged in a lawsuit.

One plaintiff is Majestic Industries, Inc., of Texarkana, Tex. The former director of Hill's consumer protection division, Joe Longley, said Wednesday that eight complaints had been received against Majestic, including one from a man whose mobile home was destroyed when the stove exploded.

The mobile home makers and dealers contend in their suit before State District Court Judge Herman Jones that the key features of the bill—particularly a bond requirement—deprive them of constitutionaly protected property rights.

The bonds are designed to provide cash to honor warranties if a manufacturer or dealer has gone out of business or refuses to make necessary repairs.

Will Ehrle, attorney for the mobile home industry, began his case by calling as witnesses Jackie W. St. Clair, state commissioner of labor and standards, and John Steele, head of his mobile home division.

But Hill quickly turned them into witnesses to develop his rebuttal case.

"What was the prime reason for the legislation?" Hill asked Steele.

"To protect consumers from dealers—some would go out of business overnight, leaving consumers stranded. . . . Consumers would complain to us about a mobile home, and we would have no remedy," Steele replied.

He said there were 167 substantiated claims in 1973 of mobile homes that did not comply with Texas standards and 326 the following year.

Steele said that between Nov. 30, 1973, and Tuesday—effective date of the new law—more than 1,000 dealers went out of business, leaving 436. He said only 23 of those have been rejected in their attempts to find insurance companies that will write their performance bonds.

Ehrle sought through his questions to show that an impossible burden was placed on dealers through a prohibition against sale of used mobile homes that do not meet standards in force at the time of their manufacture.

"How can a dealer know what is the flame spread resistance of the interior wall board?" Ehrle asked.

"Take off a section of paneling and look at the rating. . . If there is no rating on it, we would have to take the position that it is not flame resistant paneling and not covered by the code," Steele said.

"Could you tell us the kinds of defects people have complained about?" Hill asked.

"We had one lady who sat on her commode and it fell through the floor," Steele replied.

Pleas Entered In County Court

Two guilty pleas were entered in county court this morning.

Bentura Bonilla Orosco pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. He received a $100 fine plus court costs and a 3-day jail term. He was arrested Sept. 1 by City Police.

Ralph Chester Hoyle, Jr. pleaded guilty to driving while his license was suspended. He received a $25 fine plus court costs and a 72-hour jail term. He also was arrested Sept. 1 by City Police.

Nixon Sends Elvis Get Well Wishes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Hospitalized entertainer Elvis Presley has received some get-well wishes from former President Richard M. Nixon during a 10-to-15 minute telephone conversation.

"The way it was, Elvis had called Mr. Nixon when he was in the hospital and the former president was repaying the courtesy," Maurice Elliott, vice president of the Baptist Memorial Hospital said Wednesday. "He (Nixon) told the switchboard he was just calling to wish Mr. Presley well." He said the call was made last Saturday.

Presley, 40, was hospitalized Aug. 21 for "exhaustion" and tests.

Drilling Highest In Years

HOUSTON (AP) — Domestic oil and gas drilling operations have reached their highest level of operations in 12 years with Louisiana having the sharpest increase in rig activity in the latest survey.

The industry had 1,684 rotary drilling rigs making hole Tuesday according to a weekly survey compiled by Hughes Tool Co. and released through the International Association of Drilling Contractors Wednesday.

The average is the highest recorded since 1963 and compares with 1,663 a week earlier and 1,609 a month earlier and 1,583 a year earlier.

It also exceeds the previous 1975 peak of 1,672 posted in mid March shortly before Congress practically eliminated oil's 22 per cent depletion tax allowance.

Louisiana with 233 rigs had the sharpest increase. This compared with 225 a week earlier.

700,000 KIDS AFFECTED

Striking Teachers Balk At Offers

By JAMES M. DONNA
Associated Press Writer

More than 700,000 children were out of school today as striking teachers in at least 10 states balked at contract-offers by school districts and stood on the picket line instead of in the classroom.

The disputed issues which kept some 40,000 teachers away from school included wages, class size, rollbacks from previous contracts, job security, cost-of-living increases, textbook policies and fringe benefits.

The states hit the hardest were Illinois where 565,500 pupils were affected and Pennsylvania where 137,800 children were out of school.

Smaller strikes were scattered across the country as school officials and teachers' representives grappled with new contracts.

Public schools in Chicago, the nation's third largest school district, remain closed today despite late-night negotiations between the school board and representatives of some 26,000 striking teachers.

The Chicago School Board was called in late Wednesday to meet with the board's negotiators in an attempt to remove several obstacles blocking the way toward a new contract and reopening of the schools for some 530,000 pupils.

The teachers turned down an offer Wednesday to extend their recently-expired contract.

Schools Supt. Joseph P. Hannon, who does not take over officially until later this month, said school board attorneys may file suit seeking an injunction against the union to stop the strike. Hannon added, though, that the board had not made any final decision on such an injunction.

The first day of classes was canceled Wednesday after teachers voted 21,429 to 2,537 to go on strike.

A spokesman for the Board of Education said that only 764 of its 27,188 teachers turned up for work.

In Pennsylvania about 24 of the state's 505 school districts were stalled by teacher strikes and another 122 districts still have not reached wage agreements.

By today, about 7,800 teachers had walked off the job, affecting 137,800 students. There were strikes in 23 districts and another seven systems decided to close their doors until there was a contract agreement.

The main issues are salary, fringe benefits, teaching hours, class size, charges that school boards wanted to eliminate gains won in previous contracts, and hours required for nonteaching duties.

More than 35,000 New York State pupils in four districts began the new school year Wednesday with substitute teachers and the 2,000 striking teachers were expected off the job today as contract disputes continue.

No progress has been reported in contract negotiations in the New York City public school system, the nation's largest with 60,000 teachers. The teachers have set a deadline for Tuesday when some one million pupils return to classes.

About 4,700 teachers in Boston earlier this week set a Sept. 22 strike date. The 84,000 students in Boston begin school Monday under a federal integration order and 26,000 will be bused.

Slayton Out Of Hospital

HOUSTON (AP) — Astronaut Donald K. Slayton has been released from the hospital, nine days after surgeons removed a small benign tumor from his left lung.

Slayton, 51, walked from the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute on Wednesday and said he felt "in real good shape."

He was a crew member of the recent Soviet-American flight.

Asked if he would be healthy enough for a planned tour of the Soviet Union later this month, Slayton grinned and said: "Oh hell yes."

Otherworldly Couple Hunt Cure-All Serum

HEAVEN AND HELL AND THE MEGAS FACTOR. By Robert Nathan. Delacorte. 116 Pages. $6.95.

In a not very far off future, evil is rapidly replacing good in the hearts of men, a situation neither the forces of Heaven nor of Hell are pleased with since it is throwing the natural order of things into an imbalance. If mankind continues along its violent path it will soon exterminate itself, leaving the otherworldly beings with nothing to occupy themselves.

This is the gist of this touching little parable by Robert Nathan, author of so many delightful novels, but probably best known for his "Portrait of Jennie."

In an effort to put things right, the angel Sophia and the demon Buckthorne are sent to earth. Although the two come separately with no knowledge of each other, they meet quickly enough — in Central Park in New York, at dusk. After Buckthorne saves Sophia from being mugged, it isn't long before the two, against all odds, fall in love, much to the consternation of their respective lords. Helped to hide by a novelist turned hansom cab driver named Michael George, Buckthorne and Sophia soon determine that what is causing men to behave in such a rotten manner is a virus that causes megalomania. The solution: develop a serum that will kill the virus and things will soon be back to normal on earth.

Writing with his usual gentleness, Nathan firmly leads his characters to a most witty ending in which Sophia and Buckthorne marry as the legions of Heaven and Hell put aside their differences to celebrate the union.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

What do you lead from a three-card suit? The old rule was to lead the top unless headed by an honor, in which case you would lead the lowest.

The modern expert practice is to lead the bottom from three small. Today's hand shows the advantage of the modern practice.

West opens the deuce of spades against South's three notrump. East rises with the ace and leads the suit back.

Now put yourself in South's position. If his opponent makes old-fashioned leads, he knows where the queen of spades is. He rises with his king and loses the club finesse, but it doesn't cost him his contract. West's queen blocks the suit. There might even be an unexpected dividend, West might drop his queen to unblock and thereby establish South's jack.

South might make the same play against a modernist, but he would be guessing well — not playing a cinch.

Ask the Jacobys

An Alaska reader wants to know what bridge writers mean when they say that a contract is cold.

The expression means the same at the North Pole and the equator. It is a colloquialism of bridge and means that declarer is sure to make it. Not that all cold contracts come in. Sometimes they are only sure fire if declarer knows how to play them.

(Do you have a question for the Jacobys? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be used in the column and writers will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Baby Mixup Corrected

DEQUEEN, Ark. (AP) — Two couples left the DeQueen General Hospital with their own babies Wednesday, more than a month after the hospital apparently sent the babies home with the wrong sets of parents, according to a spokesman for the hospital board.

The babies were born in July to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Fisk of Lockesburg (Sevier County) and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tabor of Broken Bow, Okla.

Ray Kimball, chairman of the hospital's board of directors, said the Ftsks were the first to suspect that a mistake had been made, when they found a wrist bracelet with the name "Tabor" on it among the baby's effects.

A State Police investigation, which included a comparison of the babies' footprints, confirmed the mixup, Kimball said.

He said the swap was to have taken place last Saturday, but the Tabors wanted their attorney to look into the matter first.

The couples, accompanied by their attorneys, returned to the hospital Wednesday and the swap was made, the board spokesman said.

The Fisks have refused comment on the matter, and the Tabors could not be reached.

On June 28, 1914, Archduke Ferdinand of Austria-Hungary and his wife, Countess Sophie Chotek, Duchess of Hohenberg, were assassinated in Sarajevo, Bosnia. This started World War 1.

Wells Are Logged In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Wildcat activity, already well ahead of last year's pace, soared in Texas over the past two weeks, with 20 oil and 22 gas discoveries.

The railroad commission said 263 oil finds and 354 natural gas discoveries have been logged this year, compared with 186 and 214, respectively, during the comparable period of 1974.

Completions also are racing ahead of the 1974 pace, with 8,656 new oil wells and 1,671 new gas wells. Comparable figures for last year were 6,399 oil and 1,226 gas wells.

Wells plugged are running behind, with a total of 7,865 this year compared with 8,882 a year ago at this time. A total of 309 holes was plugged the past two weeks, including 132 dry holes.

The Houston district led in wildcat successes, with eight oil and 10 gas discoveries. There were two oil and two gas finds in the San Antonio No. 1, two gas discoveries in San Antonio No. 2, one oil and one gas in the Corpus Christi, one gas in Kilgore No. 5, one oil in Kilgore No. 6, one oil in the Abilene, two oil and one gas each in the San Angelo and Midland districts, two oil in the Wichita Falls and one oil and two gas finds in the Pampa district.

When children are learning muscular control, bite size pieces, finger foods and child size utensils will make meal time easier and more pleasant, advises Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I use my automobile for business travel. I would like information on the standard mileage rate for automobile expenses.

A. When determining deductible auto expenses resulting from business use, you have the option of claiming a deduction for the entire cost of the automobile's operation including depreciation, or the standard mileage rate.

The standard mileage rate is 15 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use and ten cents for each succeeding mile of business use each year. Parking fees and tolls incurred during business use are deductible in addition to the standard mileage rate.

To use the standard mileage rate, you must: own the car; not use the car for hire (such as a taxicab); not operate a fleet of cars, using more than one car simultaneously; use only the straight line method of depreciation and not claim additional first year depreciation on the car.

If your alternate vehicles for business purposes, you may claim the standard mileage rate on each car, if all qualify. However, you must first combine the business mileage from the cars and then apply the standard mileage rate to the total business miles driven.

Q. When I took a new out-of-town job I had to break my apartment lease. The landlord kept my security deposit. Can I deduct the loss as a moving expense?

A. If the landlord kept your deposit because the apartment needed cleaning or redecorating, you cannot claim a deduction. However, you can claim a deduction if the deposit is forfeited because certain specific terms of the lease are broken as a result of the move.

Remember, in order to claim moving expense deductions the distance between your new place of employment and former residence must be at least 50 miles farther than the distance between your former job and former residence. You must also work at least 39 weeks full time during the 12 months immediately after you move. You may deduct your allowable moving expenses even if you do not itemize your deductions.

Q. A private company awarded me a fellowship for me while I am working toward a Ph.D. Is this taxable income?

A. Any fellowship you receive while you are a degree candidate that is made primarily to further your education and training may be excluded from your income subject to the following conditions: you are not employed by the firm when you receive the grant; you are not being compensated for past services to the firm; you do not obligate yourself to perform present or future services. However, the amounts paid to you in pursuing your studies are not excludable if your studies or research are primarily for the benefit of the grantor.

Developing China Oil Boom To Benefit US

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An oil boom is developing on mainland China that not only could give the United States an alternate energy source but might provide billions of dollars in trade and jobs for thousands of Americans.

These are among the chief effects of the boom, which might vastly change oil markets and the international power balance over the next decade.

"The Chinese oil boom will not resound suddenly and sharply like a sonic boom," said Harried P. Hoose, an authority on the People's Republic. "It will be more enduring."

"It will rise steadily across Asian and Pacific horizons in the next five years like an advancing thunderstorm," stirring everything it encounters. It could reduce Soviet power in the Far East. Almost certainly it will be felt here.

The U.S. impact is likely to be mainly for the good. Between his ninth and 10th visits to the People's Republic since 1972, Hoose, who is the China representative for a number of U.S. companies, observed:

"If just some of the specific projects now being studied by Chinese and Western representatives are consummated, billions of dollars will pour into the U.S. economy and hundreds of thousands of man-years of domestic employment will be provided for American labor in the next few years."

Bilingual and bicultural, being a native of China and a resident there for 23 years before the People's Republic was formed in 1949 Hoose not only represents U.S. companies but is a voluntary adviser to Washington.

In fact, he helped brief President Richard M. Nixon before his visit to the People's Republic in 1972. An attorney, Hoose is based in Los Angeles, where he is also a consulting professor of international business at the University of Southern California.

"Heavy preparations now are going on inside China as vast reserves increasingly are being confirmed," he said. Proved and probable reserves might even exceed those for the entire Mideast, he believes.

"Equipment and machinery are being assembled; refining, petrochemical and distribution systems are being expanded; and the Chinese are preparing great petroleum and petrochemical programs."

For the United States this means opportunity, he believes. "Two-way trade can be expected to rise steeply in the next four years on a floodtide of oil."

Will China cooperate with the United States? For all nations, says Hoose, cooperation will be only to the degree that China's own national interests are served. But American and Chinese interests may to some degree dovetail.

"Bearing in mind the geopolitical aspects, such as China's claim to large Russian land areas, the hostile border, the China-Soviet rivalry for Communist world leadership, and the economic factors," Hoose said, "most national interests of China and the United States coincide in Asia and in Eastern Europe."

A substantial number of U.S. oil-related companies already have sent representatives to a series of Canton trade fairs and to Peking, where wide ranges of machinery and technology — even entire plants — have been discussed.

"In all discussions and as to all projects," he found, "the Chinese stress their self-reliance and the absolute requirement that China must own and control its own oil."

Hoose stresses "There will be no joint ventures, as such, and we will not be invited to invest in China's oil," but otherwise, he believes, Americans are bound to be heavily involved ...

"... as sellers of technology, knowledge, machinery, equipment, and construction materials, and as consultants, some for quite long periods."

In addition, "the hard currency generated by China in its oil sales, which will amount to several billion dollars annually within a few years, will be used in substantial part to purchase goods from the United States and its Japanese and European industrial friends," Hoose said.

Showers Forecast For Texas

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms dumping rain at rates up to two inches per hour surged ashore from the Coastal Bend and pushed past Texas' midsection today.

The unruly weather broke out in early morning as a weak cool front eased southward through the Texas Panhandle with a promise of additional showers plus a bit lower temperatures for upper reaches of the state.

Winds gusted up to 60 miles per hour and hail pelted parts of Corpus Christi as threatening storms moved inland from that area and up the coast past Palacios. Lighter showers fell around Galveston.

One area of rough weather concentrated on South Texas between Corpus Christi and Beeville. Another covered the countryside northeast of Austin between Lampasas and Junction, extending to near Waco and Stephenville in the central part of the state.

Skies were mostly clear in other sections except for a few clouds west of the Pecos River in West Texas.

Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for Lockheed, multinationals, Russia . . .

Parents, Church Locked In Brainwashing Dispute

By AMY SABRIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Connecticut couple is locked in a legal controversy with the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church over whether the church has brainwashed their 18-year-old daughter.

"Our daughter is not our daughter anymore," Mrs. Elton Helander of Guilford, Conn., told a D.C. Superior Court judge recently.

The Helanders, who have not seen their daughter since she walked out of their house on Feb. 25 and rejoined the church, have sued the church, claiming the church is holding their daughter against her will.

The Helanders' case is based on an affidavit signed by their daughter last January. In the affidavit, Miss Helander gave law enforcement officials the authority to remove her if she joined the church again.

When she signed the affidavit she was undergoing "deprogramming," an intensive psychological effort, often by professionals hired by parents, to rid a person of the church's influence.

In a tape played in court, Miss Helander said she signed the affidavit under duress to get the deprogrammers to release her. "I knew I had to fake it. I had to make believe Ted Patrick (a deprogrammer) was successful. I did not ever want to sign it. Never, ever," she said.

Miss Helander has not appeared in court, despite an Aug. 6 court order directing the church to produce her. The Unification Church claims it has no control over her and therefore cannot make her appear. In the tape, Miss Helander said she was staying away from court because she feared she would be kidnaped and deprogrammed again.

Her lawyer, Philip Hirschkop, told D.C. Superior Court Judge James Belson, "She's done nothing wrong. She's harmed no one. She's committed no crime. To force her to appear in court would be a travesty of First Amendment rights to freedom of religion."

Belson must decide whether the church and two of its American officers are in contempt of court for failing to produce Miss Helander.

The court has heard testimony from former members of the Unification Church claiming they had been subjected to mind-control techniques and from present members describing bizarre escapes from deprogrammers.

All church members and officials who testified denied charges that recruits are brainwashed into joining the church. However, persons who had left the church said they were denied sleep and fed low-protein diets, making them more susceptible to mind control.

Link Is Sought In 3 Deaths

DALLAS (AP) — Investigators say they are looking for possible links in the deaths of three young women abducted here and found shot to death in separate cases since April.

The latest victim was Joni Barnes, 19, who was kidnaped from her job at a Fox Photo booth last week. Her body was found Monday just off a wooden bridge near Cooper, in Delta County.

The body of Betty Nash, 18, was found April 29 beneath a pile of asphalt in a field about six miles south of Rockwall. She had disappeared April 18 while hitchhiking.

The body of Carole Marie Anderson, 14, was found in a ditch north of Melissa, in Collin County, shortly after she was reported missing May 3. She had disappeared while on a middle-of-the night trip to a store.

Police said that all three were shot one time in the back of the head and left near a rural road. Miss Nash and Miss Anderson were shot with the same brand of .22 caliber bullet.

Police have not disclosed the type of gun used to kill Mrs. Barnes.

All three victims were described as being similar in physical build and all had long brown hair.

Dallas homicide Capt. Don Milliken said there were no provable similarities and some important differences between the deaths, but other investigators said they are looking for a possible connection.

Police efforts have concentrated on finding the brown Pontiac Grand Prix apparently used by a man who posed as a company supervisor and lured Mrs. Barnes from her job.

Jobs Sought For Viet Fishermen

HOUSTON (AP) — About 100 Vietnamese fishermen and their families may be settled along the Texas Gulf Coast if jobs can be found for them there, an official of the U.S. Catholic Conference's refugee resettlement office said Wednesday.

The refugees are now being housed at Ft. Chaffee, Ark.

Vitamin claims are overblown

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Could you please help me with a couple of vitamin questions? Is vitamin B-2 the complexion vitamin, and will B-6 really help one keep his weight down as I've been told?

DEAR READER—Vitamin B-2 is riboflavin. Its most important role is in the complex enzyme system that enables you to tear down your food into carbon dioxide and water to release energy. Vitamins are not energy sources, they function to enable the body to release energy from food, specifically carbohydrates, fats and proteins.

When you have enough for its important role, taking additional amounts will do nothing for you at all. It is like having enough matches to light a candle, an extra box won't help once the candle is lit.

Deficiencies of riboflavin are quite rare, because it is so plentiful in our diet. Milk and milk products are a very rich source. Milk exposed to sunlight loses part of its riboflavin. It is also present in meat of all kinds, cereals, including enriched breads, flour, macaroni and spaghetti. It is in broccoli, collards and spinach. It is hard to eat anything like a decent diet without getting enough riboflavin.

If a dificiency does occur it tends to affect the special areas of the skin, around the eyes and the mucous linings as around the lips.

Vitamin B-6, pyridoxine, also affects the skin and complexion. It is involved in enzyme systems used in metabolism. You get it in meats, [illegible] and cereals, and it is almost impossible to have a B-6 deficiency if you eat anything like a balanced diet or these food groups.

There is absolutely no truth in the statement that B-6 causes you to lose weight. The truth is that a deficiency of it might cause weight loss because of interferring with normal metabolism.

Excess amounts of B-6 are not stored in the body. They are rapidly eliminated, so taking large doses of B-6 just wastes your money. I am aware of the current highly advertised fad of using B-6 in weight control regimes. It is pure hokum. All of these schemes work only from an associated diet that restricts calories one way or another, or because they cause you to eliminate body water, not calories, or finally because they make you sick.

For information on weight control write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019, send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents and ask for The Health Letter number 4-7 Weight Losing Diet.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I read your column on split nails, and I could have written an identical letter a few years ago. I tried gelatin treatment and all sorts of things. Then a friend in a cosmetics shop advised me to omit nail polish all together. Within a few weeks after I quit using all forms of polish my nails were in perfect condition, and I have not had a split nail since.

DEAR READER—Thank you for sharing your experience with others. We find that lots of problems are caused by reactions to a vast array of chemicals. And, we are all different in our reactions. It certainly will not cause any harm to stop using nail polish. So, those with split nail problems might as well try it. I'd be interested in the results from readers who try this.

Daughter, When Lonely, Has to Sleep With Dad

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My brother's wife recently died leaving him with a 13-year-old daughter.

When the child feels unhappy, afraid or lonely, or when there are houseguests and a shortage of beds, her father allows her to sleep with him. (This occurs every two weeks.)

He says he doesn't want her to grow up remembering that her father made her stay alone at night when she was blue or upset. He worries about her emotional security as she has demonstrated a fear of losing her parents since she was adopted as an infant.

The recent death of her mother was very traumatic for her.

Could you or your readers offer some experiences that would enlighten this father or me?

SIS

DEAR SIS: Under NO circumstances should a 13-year-old girl be sleeping with her father. In fact, my psychiatric consultants state that beyond the age of four, no child should sleep with a parent of the opposite sex. If your brother tries to justify his actions, he desperately needs professional help.

No doubt he is also lonely, but substituting his daughter for his wife (which he could unconsciously be doing) is sick.

DEAR ABBY: We are the parents of a 1-year-old daughter. We both work and do not plan on having any more children.

How do you feel about raising an only child? I am tired of hearing that it's "unfair" to our daughter to be raised as an only child.

We feel that as long as she gets plenty of love and discipline she will be all right. Have you any statistics to support or oppose raising an only child?

TULSA PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Don't look for statistics. You have the right idea.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I had dinner at an expensive restaurant and the total bill (for eight people) came to $60.

When the waiter handed me the bill he whispered, "A 10 per cent tip is not included in the bill."

Is it proper for a waiter to try to hustle a tip this way? He caught me off guard.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: It was not only "improper" but a good way for the waiter to lose his job. You would have done him a favor had you warned him of the consequences.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

"Victory probably will go to the team with the most desire," declared Maurice (Mo) Hodges, athletic director and head football coach at Snyder High School.

He was assessing the Tigers' chances in the season opener when the Snyder High School varsity hosts Monahans' Loboes at 8 o'clock Friday night in Tiger Stadium.

Coach Hodges further stated: "Monahans is the defending district champion also in 2-AAA. They have tremendous tradition. This is a non-district ball game, but I think a lot involved in the game is the pride factor. Consequently, we expect a real close, tough ball game."

Coach Hodges also said the Loboes have a fine passing attack, but they also have the size to run over their opponents if they get their ground game to clicking.

Hodges said the Tigers have had "real good" workouts this week. All of the boys are off the injury list, including Roy Gill, offensive swingman. The 150-pound senior was cleared by the physician yesterday but Coach Hodges said, "We'll probably keep him out of action for another week."

Monahans again will field a bigger team than the Tigers this season, but the two teams will be more evenly balanced weight-wise than they were last year when the Loboes dropped their first season opener in 10 years.

The Loboes also have more returning lettermen, but they apparently don't have the depth and running strength—at least at this point of the season—they had last year.

Snyder's best asset is desire, according to Coach Hodges, and he admitted the Tigers also have some fine running backs. His main concern is the defense where graduation losses were heaviest.

Potentially, Hodges believes, the Tigers could have a real fine team this season. The test will come Friday night when they step onto the field without the coaches with them. But all of the boys who didn't see varsity action last year were on the JV team which posted an outstanding record.

Only nine lettermen return from '74, including Richard Huddleston, a senior tackle, who had a knee operation and is out indefinitely.

Defensively, the Tigers could have Mike Freeman, 180-pound senior, at left end; Billy Allbritton, 170-pound senior, at right end; Richard Balderrama, 215-pound senior, at left tackle; Hammond or David Kruger, 180-pound senior, at right tackle; Darrell Lester, 190-pound junior, at middle guard; Beard at left linebacker; Doug Morrell, 160-pound junior, at right linebacker; Bobby Thompson, 160-pound senior, at cornenback; Kyle Sikes, 140-pound senior, at rover; Flynn at halfback; and, Kelly Ragland, 155-pound senior, at safety.

There could be a couple of changes made before Friday night. Ragland and Tim Falls, 160-pound junior, both are available for quarterback duties. These two and Green are all good chunkers. The Tigers may have a better passing attack this season than they have in the past. The pass blocking looked excellent in the last scrimmage with Midland High.

Beard and Morrell are available for fullback duty while Bobby Thompson and Rudy Rodriguez, 150-pound senior, can operate at tailback; while Pat Dryden, 145-pound senior, and Wade Sands, 140-pound senior, can go at halfback.

Coach at Monahans is Jerry Larned, who was backfield coach at Sul Ross State when Hodges was head coach for the Loboes.

Snyder again will operate from the Wing-T on offense and use an Oklahoma "5" on defense. The Loboes employ a Slot I and a Wing I on offense and a pro-style defense.

It could be a close and exciting opener.

Fed Judge Throws Out NCAA Grid Size Rule

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — "The big thing is that it will even it up for everybody," Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama said afer a federal judge revised new rules on the size of football teams Wednesday night.

The judge threw out an Aug. 15 ruling adopted at a special convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association that limited travel squads to 48 members and home squads to 60.

This rule, said U.S. District Court Judge Sam C. Pointer, was contrary to the NCAA's by-laws which indicate that all rules "be in line with fair competition."

Pointer changed it to allow each opponent to field 60 players in a game and extended his temporary order to all NCAA members, although the suit had been brought by the University of Alabama.

His ruling is effective immediately.

An attorney for the NCAA said after the four-hour hearing that he was sure everyone will abide by the order and that any further steps would be up to the NCAA after it studied the matter.

Missouri, which meets Alabama in a nationally televised game at Birmingham Monday night and Auburn, Alabama's final opponent of the season, had entered the case as friends of the court.

Bryant said after the ruling that he appreciated Missouri and Auburn coming to his side and added: "Not many want to buy chickens but there'll be a lot of people wanting in on the gravy. A lot of people will be mighty happy."

Alabama had asked that all squad limitations be thrown out, contending that its practice of playing well over 60 in most games had helped in recruiting and had reduced injuries.

The NCAA had adopted the limitation as an economy measure. Pointer said, "The evidence on economy is tenuous," but also ruled out Alabama's contention that the rule would force it to break verbal contracts with the signees.

Bryant said during his 70 minutes on the witness stand that all Crimson Tide signees were told they would have good opportunity to play because of the large numbers his team has used.

The judge denied Alabama's claim that the NCAA violated its own methods of making changes in adopting the 48-60 rule.

But he said: "I conclude that to specify that a football team at a game away from home can play only 48 while the home team can play 60, is totally inconsistent with the basic concept of athletic competition. Home teams have a natural advantage, and if the NCAA was going to make a change, it should have been the reverse."

Pointer said his ruling also applied to other sports — that the NCAA cannot require any school to field fewer people than an opponent.

Bryant, saying the ruling was "the next best thing" to what he wanted, said he would have to make some changes in his plans for Missouri.

Hogs Have Endurance

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Wednesday that many of his Razorbacks have shown good endurance during practice, including defensive tackle Harvey Hampton.

"He has had a problem with endurance and I believe he has finally won the battle," said Broyles. "Yesterday (Tuesday) he was going full speed on the first play as well as the last play."

Broyles also said nose guard Mike Campbell has played every down in recent weeks because his alternate was injured, but he "held up well through the tremendous heat."

He said his second offensive line played without substitution through an entire practice this week and gave the first defense a good look at the wishbone.

Broyles said veteran Teddy Barnes, who was moved to wide receiver this year, has adjusted well, and has dropped 15 to 20 pounds and regained his quickness.

Rebs To Make All-Out Effort

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Coach Ken Cooper's crystal ball goes foggy when he tries to find out how his 1975 Mississippi football team will fare against the powerful Baylor Bears.

But he said that no matter who wins their season opener at Waco, Tex., Saturday night, "We're going over there to play the very best football game we can. We'll make an all-out effort to win it."

Cooper did see an over-all improvement in the Rebels from a 1974 team which finished with a 3-8 record at the bottom of the Southeastern Conference.

"We have better team leadership, more seniors specifically," he reflected. "We are an older football team and we are a little bigger, sturdier and more experienced than at this time last year."

The Baylor game will be the first-ever against the Bears and the earliest season opener in Rebel history.

Baylor, the defending Southwest Conference champion, is expected to shed some light on two dark areas of the Ole Miss team — who's the No. 1 quarterback and how an untested defensive secondary can perform against stiff opposition.

"We are not going to name a quarterback until close to game time," Cooper said.

"George Plasketes, Stanley Bounds and Tim Ellis are good young quarterbacks and have made substantial progress this fall," he said. "We plan to start one and he's going to be the first quarterback. Of course, if we substitute a second offensive team, then we'll probably use a second quarterback."

The Rebels faced similar quarterback problems at the start of last season.

"Defensively we're pretty sturdy up front," Cooper said. "We've got senior Ben Williams at right tackle and he's looking good. Pete Robertson, a junior at left tackle, is back after missing most of last season."

Dibbs In Big Match

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Eddie Dibbs, a feisty little pepper pot from Miami Beach, played the most important match of his career today when he stepped in with the heavyweights at the U. S. Open Tennis Championships.

"I feel I'm playing the best tennis of my life right now," said Dibbs Wednesday night. "I thought that since they changed the surface from grass to clay I would do all right here. Now I think I can win this tournament. I really do."

Dibbs mades his bid for glory in a quarter-final match against 19-year-old Swedish star Bjorn Borg seeded fifth. The match opened today's card on the center court at the West Side Tennis Club. Dibbs has played Borg, one of the tournament's favorites, twice and lost both times, once on clay.

Three of Boston University's four home football games this fall are under lights.

Volleyball Girls Begin Slate Today

The Snyder High School volleyball teams tangle with Big Spring in season openers today in Tiger gym. The freshman Black team plays in the first match at 5:30 p.m., followed by the junior varsity at 6:30 p.m., and the varsity at 7:30 p.m.

Snyder has an inexperienced team this season and the team has only been working out nine days.

Coach Joyce Elrod of the varsity listed probable starters, as follows: Pam Head as set and Mitzi Autry, Susan Walker, Pam Kohl, Paula Falls, Paula White or Della Braziel as spikers. Julie Glass and Pam Kohl will be helping the team at the net while Rhonda Nunley will add strength to the back line defense.

The Tigers will use a 5-1 offense.

Possible starters for the JV will be Donna West or Rachel Coronado as sets and Charlotte Pierce, Sylvia Garcia, Shelly Nutt, Andra Crenshaw and Ann McClain or Connie Pollard as spikers.

Starting for the freshmen will be Dana Elrod as set and Kathy Harrell, Sherry Neves, Cindy Koonsman, Debbie Myers and Sara Fagin as spikers.

Jane Wilson, a new coach, will be in charge of the 9th grade team this year and also assist Coach Elrod with the JV.

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Changes Proposed On Bargaining

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Concerned over inflationary wage settlements, the Ford administration is seeking to overhaul collective bargaining in the strike-prone construction industry and delay threatened walkouts there by 30 days.

Secretary of Labor John T. Dunlop said legislation drafted by the administration is intended to bring some order to the industry's often chaotic bargaining. "The proposed machinery does not constitute wage and price control, nor is it a form of compulsory arbitration," he told reporters Wednesday.

Under the proposal, national union leaders would gain more control over aggressive local unions through a joint labor-management-government committee that would step in to mediate disputes, try to head off strikes and attempt to keep settlements noninflationary.

Unlike other industries such as autos or steel where contracts are negotiated nationwide, national leaders in the building trades have little, if any, say in local union bargaining.

AFL-CIO President George Meany already has given the measure his approval, describing it as an effort "to bring standardization in areas but with no compulsion."

James M. Sprouse, executive vice president of the Associated General Contractors of America, said that while the "bill falls short in several areas," it is "certainly a step in the right direction."

The legislation would create a Construction Industry Bargaining Committee composed of 10 management representatives, 10 labor members and three neutral members all appointed by the President.

Local construction unions would be required to give 60 days advance notice to their national unions before contracts expire or agreements are reopened. If the national committee decides to take jurisdiction over the dispute, a 30-day cooling-off period would be required before any strike could begin.

National union leaders would, in effect, hold veto power over local settlements, since their approval would be needed in any dispute in which the national bargaining committee has stepped in.

Construction unions, whose wage increases averaged about 17 per cent annually in the late 1960s, were the first to be put under wage controls by the Nixon administration in early 1971.

Construction pacts in the past year averaged wage and benefit hikes of 10 per cent, but the administration has expressed concern with some, particularly on the West Coast, that have exceeded 20 per cent.

Frank Woolworth founded his five and 10 cent stores in 1879 at Utica, N.Y.

Oil Theft Ring Probers Seek Oklahoma Link

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Louisiana and Texas investigators into an oil theft ring involving about 12,000 barrels of hot oil are looking into a possible Oklahoma connection, Atty. Gen. John Hill says.

Hill also said some of the stolen oil was of low quality and contaminated a tank containing 75,000 barrels of high grade oil at Sun Pipeline Co.'s refinery at Liberty.

"It's not unusable. It's just worth less money," Hill said.

Officials and investigators from Louisiana and Texas reviewed progress of the case over lunch Wednesday in Hill's conference room.

Eight men have been arrested thus far in connection with the alleged oil theft scheme. Hill said all were associated with one another and "we picked up one new name today."

Asked about reports that an oil operator was the key to the scheme, furnishing documentation for truckers to use in delivering the cargo to refineries, Hill said: "I don't envision at this time that you could pick out one man and say he was the kingpin."

He said investigators also have picked up some unverified information "pointing to more sophisticated thefts of oil"than merely driving tankers up to oil leases and emptying their storage tanks.

The attorney general said investigators will be in touch with Oklahoma authorities.

"Louisiana investigators said they suspected that some people from Oklahoma may be involved with some people under suspicion there (in Louisiana)," Hill said.

One question to be resolved is whether only one stolen oil ring was operating or whether there are more.

"There is a belief, first on the Texas part and also on the part of Louisiana, that there probably are other activities in our state that properly could be categorized as oil theft rings," Hill said. Investigation into this will continue, and officials attending the attorney general's law enforcement conference Thursday through Saturday will be advised to keep alert for that possibility, he said.

Hill said he had reason to believe that stolen Louisiana oil either was transported to Texas or at least "involved the same individuals who were stealing oil in this state."

"I am not prepared to say that Texas oil was shipped to Louisiana," he said.

Hill's figure of about 12,000 barrels was his first indication of the magnitude of the scheme. Previous reports had placed known deliveries at about 4,000 barrels in Liberty and to the Texas City Refining Co.

Executives at both refineries maintain they were unwitting buyers of the stolen crude oil.

Meeting with Hill Wednesday were George Gensler of the Louisiana attorney general's organized crime division; Joseph DeVall of the Louisiana Department of Conservation; Richard Camarata, Louisiana State Police; Texas Railroad Commission member Mack Wallace; Roy Payne, the commission's director of field operations; Texas Rangers Norman Autry, Sid Merchant and Arthur Sikes; Tim James, head of Hill's organized crime division; Jerry Carruth, Hill's chief investigator into the hot oil ring; Dist. Atty. Royal Hart of San Angelo; and Rex King and James Smith of the railroad commission.

City Optimistic About Seven Seas

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — City officials and council members expressed optimism this week that Seven Seas would be reopened next spring, after American Broadcasting Co. and Leisure Marine Corp. announced they would not renew their lease option.

George D. Millary, the park's chief operating officer, said that ABC needs more time to formulate concrete plans and work with the city on a new lease but there is a "definite continuing interest in the park."

Houston Has Budget Surplus

HOUSTON (AP) — While the budgets of many American cities are coming out in the red, Houston's is all green, as in money. The Bayou City is well on its way to another multi-million dollar tax surplus, an official said Wednesday.

Houston City Controller Leonel Castillo said the city has collected $21 million more in taxes for the first seven months of 1975 than for the same period in 1974.

And Houston last year wound up with a $12.7 million cash surplus.

Castillo said if the current trend continues, Houston should finish 1975 with a substantial surplus, perhaps large enough to cut the city taxes by about five cents.

The current tax rate is $1.58 per $100 assessed value, based on a 53 per cent assessment ratio.

Coast To Coast

By Dick Maurice

JULIE and DAVID EISENHOWER are very close to a divorce. They've agreed to separate for a while in an effort to save the marriage.

No one in Las Vegas is willing to confirm or deny the fact that ELVIS PRESLEY is seriously ill. He recently had to cancel his engagement at the Hilton Hotel to fly back to a hospital in Memphis. In addition, he was bestowing expensive gifts on fans, left and right. Your guess is as good as mine.

TELLY SAVALAS waging war on TV violence—and he's starting with his own series "Kojak". Says Telly: "I'm totally against violence on TV. In almost every show we've filmed so far this season I've changed the script, toned down the violence."

CBS had barely announced that "Mannix" and "Gunsmoke" had been axed when irate mail began flowing in. MIKE CONNORS is looking forward to making films. As for JIM ARNESS, he says he's headed for retirement. He's saved his money and made great investments. Probably if the truth were known, he's in the multi-millionaire class like BOB HOPE and BING CROSBY.

Very quietly, JACKIE KENNEDY ONASSIS is already seeing men friends. Just at people's houses and like that. Want to bet she doesn't wait five years to marry this time? For one thing, Jackie likes being Mrs. Somebody. For another, she could use the money a rich man can give her.

In case SALLY STRUTHERS doesn't return to "All in the Family"— and Sally's still swearing she won't—the show's producers have lined up a look-alike replacement. The new 'Gloria" is blonde and short like Sally, but reportedly is much more glamorous. The gal's ID is being kept so hush-hush that not even the other stars of the hit series know who she is. She'll sally onto the show without any fanfare or explanation for Rob Reiner's switch in "wives."

For 10 years INGRID BERGMAN has been helping maintain the Gladys Aylwood Orphanage in Taiwan. She played the role of a missionary in "The Inn of The Sixth Happiness."

A freak accident has sidelined GARY "Radar" BURGHOFF of M-A-S-H. Gary was mowing his lawn when a twig sliver flew into his eye. Now the eye's infected and extremely painful, but docs are delaying surgery in hopes the infection will clear up.

He-man FRANK CONVERSE has taken up needlepoint on the set of his show "Movin' On." And darned if he'll let anyone tease him about it.

Will SHIRLEY MACLAINE marry columnist-writer PETE AHMILL? She thinks not. "Marriage would hamper me from doing all the things still on my list," says Shirley, now working on her third book, a novel. Shirley packs 30 hours of living into a 24-hour day explaining she gets by on four hours of sleep a night by practicing yoga.

Producer NORMAN LEAR is steaming because two of his hit shows, "All in the Family" and "Maude," have been shifted from "family" to "adult" viewing times. Lear fears the switch will cause their ratings to drop. . .

If Joan can do it, so can TED KENNEDY. Ted's no longer playing little-Alice-sit-by-the-fire. Since Joan is still being seen publicly with TIM COLLINS, Ted is being seen more and more publicly with Standard Oil heiress PAGE LEE HUFTY.

FRANK SINATRA had to take a back seat to rock idol MICK JAGGER when they checked into the same Chicago hotel. Ol' Blue Eyes found a mob of screaming people waiting when he arrived—but they completely ignored him. Seems they'd turned out only for Jagger. Further embarrassment awaited Frank when he tried to reserve the best table in the hotel's restaurant. Naturally, it had been given to Jagger.

MEL BROOKS, who has four children (including one by present wife ANNE BANCROFT), thinks the ideal family is twice that big. Why? "It's the right number to carry your coffin when you die from the heart attack which having eight children will certainly give you."

Like the Dickens hero whose name he bandied in the song "Oliver Twist," ROD MC KUEN was an illegitimate child. Now, at the age of 40, McKuen—who's parlayed a lonely youth into multimillions worth of melancholic best-selling poems and albums—has unearthed his birth certificate, as well as a clue to his dad. He apparently was a fridge dealer. "I want to find that man," vows McKuen. "Maybe I can trace everyone who sold refrigerators in Oakland in 1936. He knew my mother was pregnant, and he might have a terribly guilty conscience. I want to tell him that we had some hard times but everything worked out okay."

The COWSILLS were the OSMONDS, or the real-life Partridge Family, of the 1960's. But the latest gig of Bud Cowsill, a retired Navy chief petty officer, his wife and seven kids, has been in bankruptcy court. They reported debts of $445,339 to hotels, airlines, credit-card agencies and lawyers. The Cowsills' cash on hand: $78.

Granny Operates X-Movies

By ROXINNE ERVAST
Associated Press Writer

MILFORD, Iowa (AP) — The manager of a triple X movie house here is a grandmother, a retired truck driver. And she succeeded a 24-year-old Sunday school teacher and Cub Scout den mother.

"People hear where I work and say, 'Aha, you're one of those,'" says 40-year-old Dixie Murray. "But it's a job, it was available, I applied, was hired, and it's above-board."

Except for the Lakeside Drive-In, which is open only summers and features drive-in worship services on Sundays, the Strand theater is the only movie house in this northern Iowa town of 1,668.

Townspeople objected when the Strand started showing porn, and there were some attempts to block the operation.

But Mayor Richard Klingseis says, "They're not violating the law as long as they don't allow anyone under 18 inside. And nobody's trying to drag people inside of it."

Mrs. Murray said she retired from her truck-driving job — she and her husband drove tractor-trailer rigs cross-country together — because "it's a rough job and I'm really pretty much a homebody.

"But I got bored because I don't have any little ones around anymore so I applied for the job."

Of the Strand, she says, "We get all kinds of people. Some of our nicest customers are couples in their 70s who walk out smiling and holding hands. You've really got to have something going for yourself to go to this kind of movie at their age."

The current showings are "Legacy of a Woman" and "More Than Just Friends." Tickets are $4 and the theater opens to a brisk business at 11 a.m.

"I think people are getting more broad-minded," Mrs. Murray said. "Times are changing, even in Iowa. Arnold's Park (a nearby town of 970) has a massage parlor now."

Seminary Has Record Enrollment

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A record enrollment of 2,718 was recorded on the first day of fall classes Tuesday at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

The count, which includes a record 789 new students, tops the previous record count—2,349—set last fall.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extra-attentive to safety procedures while working today. Use proper tools and select them with care.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't make this too much of a party day. Your self-discipline isn't all it should be. Some form of overindulgence is probable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to keep your temper when you meet with domestic frustrations today. A few heated words will make the pot boil over.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You've not completely forgiven someone for an indiscretion. Today you may look for an excuse to rehash the issue.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be protective of possessions today. Otherwise, loss is likely through carelessness. Don't leave the car unlocked at the shopping center.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Though you may be ambitious today, little of value is apt to be achieved. Your goals are far too fuzzy. Get on target.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be too hasty about acting on flashes of inspiration today. Sleep on your bright ideas — they may be burnt-out bulbs.

Flash Fire Is Probed

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — Authorities sought today the cause of a flash fire that killed one man and injured three others in a processing unit of the Exxon Co. USA refinery here.

An Exxon spokesman said the body of an employe of Dan Love, Inc., contractors of Pasadena, Tex., apparently was killed when the fire started Wednesday night.

The body, discovered late in the night, was not identified at once.

The spokesman said firefighters brought the flames under control in about two hours.

Daniel Rouse of Highlands, another contract employe, was admitted to a Baytown hospital with ankle injuries and a fractured heel. Two firefighters were treated and dismissed.

The Exxon spokesman said the contract workers were doing maintenance work in a crude oil processing unit of the refinery when the hydrocarbon flash fire occurred. He said its cause had not been determined.
