Lake Michigan Freighter Sinks With 35 On Board

Witness From Odessa

Chairman John McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Committee talks with Buck "Curley" Owens, right, of Odessa, during the hearing in Washington. Owens, a confessed bomber, related from the witness chair a story of violence in which he had been involved as a hired Teamsters Union goon in Texas. (Story on Page 2).

NO ONE HURT

16 Freight Cars Derailed At C-City

COLORADO CITY — An eastbound Texas & Pacific railway freight train broke in twain a mile east of here Wednesday evening and 16 cars derailed.

T&P officials from Dallas and from the division offices in Big Spring were on the scene today checking the wreckage for probable causes of the mishap. They also were assessing the damage.

There were no injures reported.

Several of the cars piled up were empty tankers along with some general merchandise and building materials cars.

The mishap occurred on a downhill slope at 8:30 p.m. when the train broke at the 38th car back of the locomotive. The cars immediately behind the break piled up. J. H. Parks was conductor and N. F. McCleskey engineer on the train.

Crews quickly built a "shoo-fly" (a temporary passing track) around the wreckage and at 3:30 a.m. today the wrecker passed over, followed immediately by an eastbound train which had been held in Colorado City since midnight.

B. McQuerry, local T&P agent, said that there likely would be no estimate of damage until officials had completed their inspection this afternoon. Meanwhile, wrecker and section crews were busy clearing the wreckage and in restoring nearly a quarter of a mile of damaged track.

Most of the cars piled up parallel to the tracks but some shattered and jack-knifed across the main line.

Bulganin Loses Last Big Post

MOSCOW (AP) — Usually informed sources said today former Premier Nikolai Bulganin has been dropped from the Communist party's Central Committee, his last important post.

The bearded former traveling companion of Nikita Khrushchev also has been dismissed from the minor post to which he had been relegated, head of a regional economic council at Stavropol, sources said.

There have been no public announcements of either move. They have been expected, however, since Premier Khrushchev at a Central Committee meeting a week ago linked Bulganin with the "antiparty group" ousted in July 1957.

The group included former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov. It was widely reported that Bulganin sided with them against Khrushchev, then changed sides when it became apparent Khrushchev would win out.

Bulganin, reportedly in failing health at 63, resigned last March 27 as premier.

Demand For Science Grads Skyrockets

AUSTIN (AP)—A skyrocketing demand for engineering and science graduates was reported today by the University of Texas.

Government defense funds that jumped after the Sputnik alert have "now trickled down to the operating levels," said Dr. B. H. Armistead, placement director, in explaining the increased call for scientists.

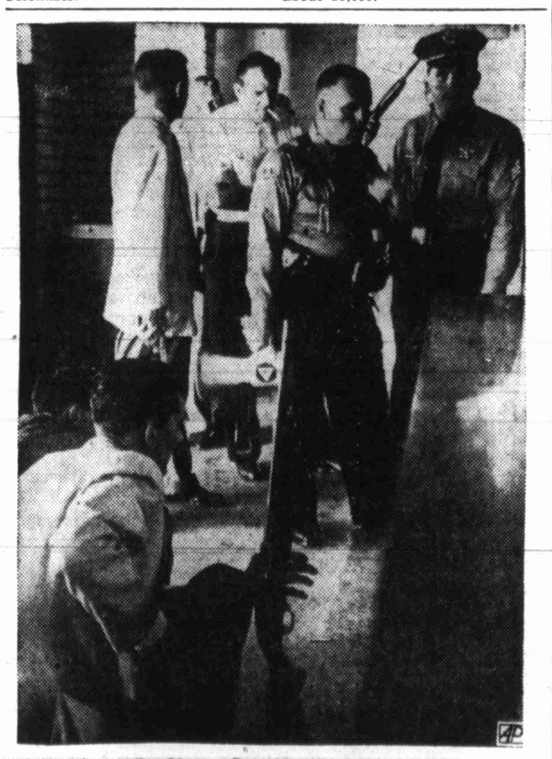

School Closure Called Tragedy

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Norfolk's superintendent of schools testified today "it is very tragic" for the thousands of white pupils locked out of six integration-closed schools "to miss the education to which they are entitled."

These pupils will have difficulty getting into college and their future job opportunities will be greatly affected, John J. Brewbaker told a three-judge federal court.

Brewbaker was the first witness at a hearing of a suit, brought by 15 white parents and 11 children, attacking the constitutionality of Virginia's school closing law. The suit seeks reopening of the six white secondary schools.

The closings, which occurred Sept. 29 upon the enrollment of 17 Negroes in compliance with a federal court desegregation order, has had a "very demoralizing effect on the teachers in the schools," Brewbaker testified. The schools have a total enrollment of about 10,000.

Police Stalk Prisoner

A group of police officers at Homestead, Fla., take up positions in an effort to rout a prisoner, Robert Shaffer, 26, who shot a policeman and held him captive two hours in an escape attempt. A shotgun blast from officers killed Shaffer.

New YMCA Building Bids May Be Asked In January

YMCA directors voted Tuesday evening to proceed with plans for interim financing which will open the way for an early beginning of work on the new YMCA building here.

The First National Bank in Big Spring has agreed to carry the paper on the balance between funds on hand at the time of a contract letting and the total amount required.

Just how much this will be is conjectural, but officials of the Y estimated that around $150,000 or $160,000 might be on hand by mid-January.

The board immediately set in motion the machinery for an amendment to the by-laws which will authorize officials of the association to enter into a loan agreement for the interim financing.

Olen Puckett of Puckett & French, architect-engineer, said that final plans were about one-third complete at this stage but that he anticipated that bids could be advertised somewhere around Jan. 10.

R. H. Weaver, president of the YMCA, expressed appreciation to J. R. Hensley, president of the lending bank, for the offer of the loan and for the institution's expression of faith in the future of the community and the YMCA. Hensley had attended the meeting to explain the mechanics of the loan.

The YMCA building is to be located in central Big Spring just north of the fire drill tower. It is approximately between 8th and 9th streets but in the Birdwell Park area. Included in the over-all plans are meeting and all purpose rooms, gymnasium, swimming pools, kitchenette, chapel, etc.

Horace Garrett reported on the status of the capital funds campaign waged earlier this year as a three-year project. A total of $276,380 had been pledged, of which $107,700 had been paid in. In addition, miscellaneous revenues (memorial gifts, interest, etc.) had brought in $1,136. Expenses to date (including $2,400 paid on planning and engineering costs) have amounted to $6,403, leaving a net available of $98,434.

Many of the second year pledge payments will be made in January, it was indicated.

Truman Jones, reporting for the long range planning committee, said that the group had polled local financial institutions and came up with the offer from the First National.

Board members indicated that the YMCA would do everything possible to expedite the construction of the new Y home.

Garage-Storage Building Burns

A double garage and storeroom burned on the western edge of Big Spring Tuesday with loss estimated at about $2,000.

The local fire department answered the out-of-city call at 100 Elm where the building burned. The firemen weren't able to save the structure but did limit damage to the one building. Strong winds were blowing at the time, and the fire chief estimated that over $20,000 damage could have been done had the fire department not arrived when it did.

The city sent two trucks with a total capacity of 650 gallons of water to fight the blaze, whereas only one truck with a 150-gallon tank is usually dispatched to fight fires outside the city limits.

Firemen worked about 35 minutes in containing the blaze. Owner of the combination garage-storeroom is Dr. Gale Page.

Summations Due In Caril's Trial

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Prosecutors and defense lawyers squared off in final arguments today preparatory to placing in a jury's hands the fate of murder defendant Caril Ann Fugate.

The entire day was set aside for closing pleas.

The 15-year-old brunette schoolgirl is charged with aiding and abetting her ex-boy friend, condemned killer Charles Starkweather, in one of 11 killings attributed to him.

Caril is charged on two counts with first degree murder and murder in the perpetration of a robbery as a result of the death of Robert Jensen, Bennett, Neb., schoolboy. Identical charges brought a death sentence against Starkweather last May.

Cross-examination Tuesday failed to unnerve or upset the youthful defendant. She continued to answer many questions with "I don't remember" or "I'm not sure."

County Atty. Elmer Scheele asked whether Caril, while she and Starkweather were fleeing toward Wyoming, had told her boy friend that she loved him.

"Yes I did," Caril replied. "I was afraid he would kill me."

"Did you kiss him," Scheele asked.

"No, he kissed me."

Final witness for the state was William Dixon, former Converse County attorney at Douglas, now of Aurora, Colo.

He testified Caril was told in Wyoming that her family members had been killed. This contradicted Caril's assertion she didn't know until reaching Nebraska on the return trip to Lincoln that Starkweather had slain her own family members.

Texas Tech Sets Up An Effigy Pit

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Sneaking around the Texas Tech College campus in the dark of night to burn an effigy or two no longer is necessary.

The college now has an official effigy pit.

That's what an official statement from the West Texas college says the pit may be used for.

It even will be formally dedicated — next Friday before the Tech-Arkansas football game.

The structure also is designed for pep rally bonfires.

Circling the effigy pit, officially called the Saddle Tramp Circle, is a masonry patio with the emblems of the eight Southwest Athletic Conference members as a part of the design.

The Circle cost $5,000.

Search Continues For Missing Fliers

HILL AFB, Utah (AP)—Ground parties and Air Force planes searched the frozen wilderness east of here again today for the missing navigator of an ill-fated C119 transport plane.

The plane's eight occupants parachuted into the storm-swept mountains of northeastern Utah last Friday after one of the craft's two engines failed. The plane crashed in eastern Idaho.

Four of the eight were rescued. Three died in the sub-zero cold before rescue parties found them.

Officials held little hope of finding the missing airman alive. He was Capt. Donald Liggett, 40, Indianapolis.

Markham Draws 45 Years In Prison

Fred Markham, 21, California fugitive, may spend the next 45 years of his life in the Huntsville State Penitentiary.

Wednesday morning, the young defendant, who admits he has been involved in difficulty with the law since he was 12, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, two charges of burglary and one of attempted burglary.

Judge Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, accepted the pleas and sentenced the defendant to serve 15 years for the murder attempt, five years for each of the burglaries and four year for the attempted burglary.

The judge stated that the sentences for the burglaries and attempted burglary would run concurrently; the other sentences that Markham has accumulated in trials this week—one for 10 years for robbery by assault, another for 15 years for attempt to commit murder cases in which juries fixed the punishment, as well as the 15-year term imposed Wednesday morning will all run consecutively.

It was pointed out that if it was not that other states, including California where Markham is wanted for escaping from Chino prison, and New Mexico where he is wanted for other crimes, would have hold orders over his head, the defendant could be eligible for parole within 15 years. However, with his situation as it is, a minimum of 32 years in prison stares him in the face.

Markham's appearance in Big Spring was made on the evening of Sept. 27. That night, he engaged in two burglaries, attempted to burglarize a third establishment, participated in a gun battle with city police officers in which two policemen and himself were wounded. On Oct. 23, while in Howard County jail waiting action of the grand jury, Markham and two fellow prisoners made an unsuccessful attempt to break out of jail. It was in this episode that the robbery by assault complaint developed.

Today, Markham admitted his guilt in the shooting and wounding of Marvin Blackwell, city police patrolman. He also pleaded guilty to burglarizing Mort Denton's Pharmacy and the Vernon Liquor Store. It was in this latter establishment he took the .25 calibre pistol which he used in his gun battle with the police. He had been apprehended attempting to break into Newsom Food store at the time.

Tuesday afternoon, Markahm told his counsel he wanted to "plead to the other charges and get this thing settled." He asked that he be granted until this morning to do so, adding, "I didn't get much sleep Monday night and I am tired out."

Formal sentence in each of the six counts will be pronounced sometime this week. Markham waived the 10 days allowed a defendant between pleading his case and sentencing. Miller Harris, sheriff, indicated that the Californian, will be taken to prison as quickly as formal sentence is pronounced.

Rare Trout

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — It was just an average size fish George Baker caught in Beaver Creek, but he still blinked his eyes.

The 45-year-old fisherman took it to the state hatchery near Boonsboro, where it was identified as a very rare albino trout with pink eyes. Baker decided to mount it.

NATO Told ICBM Defense Is Possible

PARIS (AP)—The U. S. Army's missile chief told NATO Parliament members today that a defense against intercontinental nuclear missiles is possible and under accelerated development in the United States.

Maj. Gen. John Medaris added, however, that "no defense is in existence at this time."

Medaris gave a missile briefing to the fourth annual conference of Parliament members from the 15 North Atlantic Alliance countries.

NUTTY THINGS HAPPEN IN SOME COURTS

DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Spurlock and his pet squirrel were back together today—as inseparable pals as ever.

Spurlock appeared in Recorder's Court Tuesday on a bad check charge — and was put on two years probation.

The squirrel wasn't in court. Spurlock had left the animal with a friend until he learned of his future.

The first thing Spurlock did after leaving court was to reclaim the squirrel. The animal now sits once again in Charlie's coat pocket munching nuts.

U. S. Jet Liner Beats British

NEW YORK (AP) — An American jet airliner twice spotted a British jet airliner head starts Tuesday on the London-to - New York route and then arrived here first.

Both pilots insisted the flights were routine — with no race involved. The airlines agreed.

The victor by 16 minutes was an American-built Boeing 707 airliner flown by Pan American Airways.

Its flying time from London was 7 hours, 27 minutes.

That was 53 minutes faster than the time required by the British Overseas Airways Corp.'s Comet IV.

The Comet IV left London at 5:34 a.m. EST. The Pan Am jet, took off 36 minutes later and gained 27 minutes over the Atlantic before both planes landed at Gander, Nfld.

The Comet also preceded the Boeing out of Gander—by 15 minutes—only to be overtaken en route to New York.

However, the Comet arrived 15 minutes ahead of schedule. The Boeing 707 was 34 minutes late.

Ike Hopes For Spending Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower hopes federal spending in the year starting July 1 can be cut below this year's estimated $79,200,000,000, Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass) reported today.

The House GOP leader told newsmen of the President's hopes after a breakfast conference at the White House.

Martin also said he and Eisenhower are convinced that with proper party organization the Republicans can stage a big political comeback in 1960.

As for spending, Martin said Eisenhower is determined to cut expenditures wherever possible.

"He is disturbed about the integrity of the dollar," Martin said.

He predicted the Republicans will be able to work with the new, heavily Democratic Congress.

Search Launched For Survivors

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP) — Two men were found alive today in angry waters of Lake Michigan, which it was feared had claimed the lives of 33 others from the freighter Carl D. Bradley when she went down in the cold, storm-tossed lake late Tuesday.

Unofficial tabulations indicated 18 bodies had been recovered.

Some veteran seamen expressed amazement even two had survived overnight in 50-degree water in howling gale winds that piled up mountainous waves on the Great Lakes. The air temperature was 40.

The 615-foot Bradley, longer than two football fields end-to-end, went down off Gull Island at the top of Lake Michigan in 60-mile winds. Split apart, she apparently exploded when incoming water hit her hot boilers.

The German motorship Christian Sartori, which battled for more than an hour to cover the three miles to the sinking site, found no survivors, no life boats; nothing except a tank that came from deep inside and indicated explosion.

First mate Elmer Fleming, 43, and deckman Frank Mays, 26, both of Rogers City, Mich., were found alive today on a raft off High Island, north and east of where the Bradley went down.

BODIES SPOTTED

A sea plane reported sighting eight bodies on a raft, but was unable to say whether there was life in any.

Verne Cole of the Grand Rapids Herald, keeping tab on ship and aircraft radioes reports at the elbow of a ham operator, said 18 bodies had been recovered.

There was no confirmation of any body recoveries from the Coast Guard.

Rescue craft, with waves still running high in 30-mile winds, were reported having difficulty getting into shallow waters where the bodies were reported sighted.

At 5:20 p.m. Tuesday the Bradley radioed its home port, Rogers City, it estimated it would arrive at 2 a.m. today. A limestone carrier, it was en route home empty, having left its cargo for Gary steel mills at Buffington, Ind.

Then at 5:31—just 11 minutes later — Capt. Roland Bryan, the Bradley's skipper, shouted into his radio: "Mayday, Mayday, Mayday. This is the Carl D. Bradley. Our position is approximately 12 miles southwest of Gull Island. We are in serious trouble."

Next, a voice was heard: "Run, grab life jackets. Get the jackets. Mayday, the ship is breaking up."

(Mayday is the voice version of an ocean-going ship's SOS. Great Lakes vessels use voice radio.)

DELAYED BY WAVES

Capt. P. Mueller of the Christian Sartori heard. He set his course of the scene, only three miles away. But in 68-mile winds and 20-foot waves, which follow each other much more closely on the lakes than on the oceans, it took him more than an hour to get there.

"I believe," he finally reported, "all hands are lost. No lifeboats are visible."

A Coast Guard plane flew out of Traverse City, Mich., taking off over double triangular red flags signifying a gale. It dropped flares, going back and forth over the tragedy scene.

The Coast Guard cutter, Sundew, sped out of Charlevoix, but smaller craft which tried to follow it were driven back. Neither the Sundew nor the plane spotted anything all night.

Then the plane's crew spotted Fleming and Mays shortly after dawn.

The Sundew, which took them aboard, radioed that Fleming said he did not recall any explosion and it was his belief that heavy seas broke the Bradley apart. He was reported suffering from exposure, but in good condition.

CREW FLOWN IN

The Charlevoix Coast Guard station ordered crewmen flown to Beaver Island, largest in a group at the top of Lake Michigan, to man a 40-foot boat there in hopes of getting into shallow waters where bodies were reported spotted.

Lake Michigan at the spot where the ship went down is some 330 feet deep.

The Bradley, built in 1927 and then the largest ship on the Great Lakes, had a cargo capacity of 14,800 tons. Capt. Bryan was from Londonville, N.Y., but 31 of his 35-man crew from the little Lake Huron port of Rogers City.

The Bradley flew the flag of the Bradley Transportation Co., of Rogers City. The firm is a subsidiary of U.S. Steel Corp., and hauls iron-making limestone.

Never before had Bradley lost a ship and it claimed a world record for safety.

The Carl D. Bradley was on its 46th trip of the lakes shipping season in which it had covered 27,000 miles this year. At 31 it was relatively young as lakes freighters go.

Between them, the seamen who manned the ship had 52 children.

Theodore Dhalberg of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., who skippered the Bradley from 1930 to 1940, said "Her rivets probably worked loose. It could happen in a storm like this one. The lake isn't like the ocean. On the lake storms build up waves in quick succession.

The last previous major disaster in the Great Lakes was in 1953. The American freighter Henry Steinbrenner went down in Lake Superior in 72 m.p.h. winds. Seventen of its 31 crewmen died.

The Novadock and the Anna C. Minch went to the bottom in a Lake Michigan storm in November, 1940, with the loss of 57 lievs.

Scientists Give Up On Satellite Lofting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vanguard scientists are giving up for this year any more attempts to send satellites aloft.

In six tries so far, only one satellite was put into orbit by a Navy Vanguard rocket. That 3½-pound sphere was sent up March 17 and may stay in space for 200 years.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said a study now under way aims at increasing reliability of satellite vehicles.

Reds Hint They May Close Air Corridor To W. Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—The Soviet Union intends to give satellite East Germany control over Allied air, highway and rail links to isolated West Berlin, a responsible Soviet source said tonight.

Confirming East German hints, the Communist informant said this was the meaning of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's Nov. 10 speech in Moscow.

Khrushchev told the United States, Britain and France to get out of West Berlin. He said the Soviet Union would hand over its occupation rights in Berlin to the East Germans.

Khrushchev, however, did not spell out whether he would risk a new East - West crisis by transferring supervision of Allied access to West Berlin to the German satellite.

The United States, Britain and France do not recognize, and refuse to have any dealings with, the German satellite regime.

Refusal of the Allies to yield to East German controls might lead to a blockade of their army garrisons in West Berlin.

A strong hint came from the East Berlin newspaper Neue Zeit today that East Germany's Red government expects to get control over the Allied air corridors.

It declared the United States, Britain and France are violating a four-power agreement that the air corridors—stretching between Berlin and Frankfurt, Hamburg and Hannover — would be used only for Allied military purposes.

Pan American, Air France and British European Airways use them for regular passenger flight. These airlines also carry out the thousands of refugees that stream into West Berlin every month from East Germany.

Neue Zeit contended the Western Big Three were using the corridors "for purposes of the cold war" and the time has come for new negotiations on their use.

This article fits another piece into the pattern of the Soviet bloc's campaign—touched off by Premier Nikita Khrushchev last week—to turn over control of supply lines to the East German Communists and force the Allies out of Berlin.

Soviet withdrawal from the four-power occupation of the old German capital is now considered a certainty, although authorities here had no idea how soon it would come.

The Western Big Three were already getting set to cope with the impending transfer of control over surface supply across 110 miles of East German territory. These were cut in the 1948-49 blockade that was broken by airlift.

The Russian action was expected to touch off the most serious Berlin crisis since the 1948-49 blockade.

The United States, Britain and France were reliably reported to have prepared steps to take if the East Germans begin controlling Allied military truck convoys or trains. The East Germans already regulate civilian traffic from West Germany.

Western officials declined to say what Allied soldiers would do if checkpoints now manned by Russians are turned over to representatives of the East German Regime which the Allies refuse to recognize.

But experts here believe the Allies will react with these steps:

1. Formally refuse to accept East German controls.

2. Protest strongly against a one-sided Russian withdrawal from the four-power occupation agreements drawn up after World War II.

3. If left no choice, yield to East German controls while making it clear that this does not constitute recognition of the Communist regime. East Germans manning checkpoints would be regarded simply as agent of the Russians.

An alternative would be for the Allies to attempt an airlift similar to the one that broke the Soviet blockade in 1949.

Then, however, the Allies had to supply the 2,200,000 people of West Berlin. With civilian traffic not involved this time, an airlift would only have to supply the approximately 10,000 Western troops and civilian officials and families in West Berlin.

There is no assurance the Communists would let another Allied airlift proceed without harassment from their fighter planes. But it seemed unlikely they would precipitate a war by seriously interfering. The Russians continued to participate in air safety controls during the 1948-49 blockade.

Gutted School Building

Flame scarred walls are all that remain of the Jefferson, Tex., high school after a pre-dawn fire destroyed the $300,000 building, built in the 1940's. Fire was believed to have started in the chemistry lab. Second floor fell through minutes after firemen arrived and the roof 15 minutes later.

Texas Trucker Tells Probers Of Victory Over 'Hot Cargo'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Desmond A. Barry, a Texas truck operator who licked boycotting Teamsters unionists, tells Senate investigators today about his successful fight against the "hot cargo" practice.

Under this practice, unionized truck lines refused to handle freight to or from any other line involved in a dispute with the Teamsters.

The Senate Rackets Committee currently is studying whether regulations against secondary boycotts, including the hot cargo practice, need tightening.

Barry is president of the Galveston Truck Lines of Houston, Tex.

His troubles with the Teamsters started in 1955 when, he said, the union insisted that he sign a contract accepting it as the collective bargaining agent for his drivers.

He said the drivers wanted no part of the union, and that he wouldn't "let anyone force such a contract down my men's throats."

His refusal, Barry said, brought a hot cargo boycott, which he claimed cut his business in half in six weeks.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, in an action started by Barry, finally ruled such tactics illegal.

OTHER WITNESSES

The Rackets Committee announced it also would call officials of the Coffey Transfer Co., of Alma, Neb., allegedly driven out of business by a hot cargo boycott.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said John Bridge of Chicago, labor consultant to the Motor Carriers Advisory Council, would be questioned about agreements under which some of the firms Bridge represents allegedly participated in boycotts.

In its hearing Tuesday, the committee received testimony that Teamsters terrorists plotted bombings and other violence against truckers who defied them.

The committee placed in evidence a batch of secretly made tape recordings which purported to record the voices of Raymond C. Shafer and some other Teamsters officials in discussions of bombings and other violence. Shafer is business manager of Teamsters local 657 in San Antonio, Tex.

William R. (Buddy) Springer, a confessed former hoodlum, swore he had heard Shafer try to induce another man to shoot down San Antonio truck line operator Roy Gilbert, or throw a hand grenade stolen from the Army into Gilbert's house.

"NO GUTS"

Springer, now a San Antonio garage worker, said he helped out on sabotage for Shafer because "I just didn't have the guts to go against him."

Shafer and several other Teamsters officials invoked the Ffith Amendment in refusing to say whether the tape recordings, made by Texas Rangers, carried their voices or whether they ever dealt in violence.

The recordings were scratchy and full of beeps denoting foul language.

Three Teamster officials who listened refused to say whether they had anything to do with the alleged bombings, arson, brick throwing and acid splashing that were described.

The trio, who took the Fifth Amendment, are:

Shafer, who refused particularly to say whether one of the voices heard on the recordings was his.

R. B. Bunch of Dallas, organizer for the Southern Conference of Teamsters.

E. F. (Foots), Johnson, business manager of Shreveport, La., Local 658.

Texas Rangers said they made the recordings by bugging a room and taking down the conversations on Sept. 15, 1955, with beeps substituted for obscenities and profanity.

ODESSAN NAMED

Zeno Smith, a Ranger, swore that the voices were those of Shafer and Buck (Curley) Owens of Odessa, Tex., who said he used to be a strong arm man for the Teamsters.

Owens has testified that he helped in some bombings and that Shafer wanted him to wreck trucks in labor - management disputes. Owens also said Shafer once tried to get him to shoot from ambush the son of Roy Gilbert, head of Southwestern Motor Transport of San Antonio.

Shafer's face turned red when the committee chairman, Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark) asked him about Owens' story that Shafer ordered the word "Rat" seared in acid on a non-striker's forehead.

Shafer, Johnson and Bunch refused to say whether they had engaged in violence at the orders of W. M. (Dusty) Miller, Dallas, head of the Southern Conference of Teamsters.

The tape recordings dealt with: Talk about setting afire trucks owned by Southwestern Motor Transport, bombings of a building in Austin, the accidental explosion of $5,000 worth of dynamite allegedly shipped by Shafer to Shreveport, the looting of dynamite from a contractor's powder magazine, and hiring Mexicans to do dirty work.

There was also wrangling over the size of fees allegedly paid to Owens for strong arm work.

At Austin, Dist. Atty. Les Proctor said a case "still is pending" there against Shafer.

Proctor said Shafer was indicted in Austin Feb. 28, 1956, and re-indicted Aug. 6, 1957, for possessing a bomb and for arson.

The attorney said Shafer hadn't been brought to trial because of a heavy docket but added that "Shafer's case always has been a live one."

The Teamster leader was freed Sept. 25, 1956, of charges in the attempted bombing of the Alamo Freight Lines in San Antonio Jan. 5, 1955.

Even before the San Antonio jury returned its verdict, Judge Joe Brown ordered the arrest of Buck Owens and W. R. (Buddy) Springer, both of whom testified at Shafer's trial. Both sought to tie Shafer to bombings in the San Antonio and Austin area.

Much of the testimony in Washington and San Antonio was parallel.

Issue Of Refunding Bonds Authorized

Issuance of $400,000 in refunding tax bonds was authorized by school trustees Tuesday afternoon.

The issue cancels and replaces $400,000 in tax bonds authorized earlier. The refunding was authorized as a means of rescheduling maturities for a more favorable interest rate.

Tuesday's action was a mere formality, the refunding bonds having been sold a month ago. The formal authorization clears the way for delivery of the bonds to the purchaser, Rauscher, Pierce & Co. of San Antonio.

The $400,000 issue was authorized as part of an $800,000 in school bonds voted some 18 months ago. Half of the original issue was marketed last year. Proceeds from the current sale will be used to finance an enlargement of high school facilities.

About $350,000 of the money will be invested in short term government securities until it is needed for construction early next year.

At their called meeting Tuesday, trustees also approved payment of preliminary fees to architects engaged for construction of the new Marcy elementary school, a Park Hill elementary addition and a proposed school administration building.

The school board decided to turn down an offer from the Odessa American Legion for purchase of the field lights from the old baseball park. Instead, they said, the lights will be used to replace worn out lighting at the football field at 10th and State.

Another board meeting was scheduled for next Tuesday, when Auditor Merle J. Stewart will report to trustees on his annual audit of school financial records.

Fatally Injured

MISSION (AP) — A Mexican farm worker was fatally injured yesterday when he fell from a truck north of here. He was Hilario Diaz Flores, 35, from the state of San Luis Potosi, Mex.

Beck 'Explains' Use Of Money For An Awning

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Ex-Teamsters Union President Dave Beck Sr. told newsmen Tuesday he took $798 of union funds to construct an awning over his patio because he used the area to entertain union personnel.

Beck's corridor comment came after government attorneys introduced evidence showing that amount taken from a Teamsters' legal fund at the same time the awning was purchased.

The government continued to present testimony concerning Beck's purchases in an effort to prove that his tax returns for 1950-53 did not represent his true income. Beck, 64, is charged specifically with evasion of $240,000 in income taxes.

Beck's grocer, Percy Peters, told the federal court jury the union president's food bill rose from $1,871 in 1950 to $2,238 in 1953.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Jack Obenour then introduced evidence to show some of the bills had been paid by Fred Verschueren Sr., auditor for the Western Conference of Teamsters.

Verschueren has been charged with conspiring with Beck to avoid payment of Beck's income tax. He is to be tried later.

Other witnesses testified about numerous improvements Beck made to his luxurious Sheridan Beach home on Seattle's Lake Washington.

George Strom of the Cyclone Fence Co. said he had installed about $2,000 worth of fencing around the grounds.

The government introduced a note allegedly from Beck to Nathan Shefferman, Chicago labor relations man, asking Shefferman to pay an overdue bill for the fence.

Testimony concerning clothing costs in the Beck family took up a good share of the day's proceedings.

The superintendent of a Seattle women's apparel store told the court Mrs. Beck had charged $496.54 in December 1952.

Government evidence was introduced to show that a check for that amount with withdrawn from Verschueren's account and paid to the store.

She Owns The Moon

GUNTOWN, Miss. (AP)—Every time they launch a missile into space, pretty Charlene Majers worries about her property.

She owns the moon. Yes, sir.

At least, the U.S. Reclamation Bureau recognizes her legal claim.

On Oct. 14, 1950 Mrs. Katie Hopkins Majers filed her daughter's notice at Tupelo, Miss., after the proper legal investigation.

It states Miss Majers' position with admirable clarity:

"I, Charlene Majers, am hereby placing claim on planet moon and shall defend said title against any persons or nations that might attack."

The acquisition fulfilled Charlene's childhood ambition.

She isn't the only planet owner in the family. Her cousin, Mitchell Herring, now serving in the Marine Corps, owns the planet Mars. Whether the corps is cognizant of this is not known.

Charlene is a geology major at Mississippi State University at Starkville and looks forward to the day she may visit her heavenly domain.

However, she has not yet figured exactly how she would defend the moon against attackers or poachers.

No matter. For the legal time being, her claim stands staunch. A fellow in Knoxville, Tenn., who tried to add the moon to his possessions a couple years ago found that Charlene had got there before him.

The Reclamation Bureau turned his application back.

Corruption Drive May Split Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO faces a problem of backing up on its anticoruption drive or possibly losing another of the labor federation's major unions, the Carpenters.

Maurice Hutcheson, the Carpenters Union boss, has dared AFL-CIO President George Meany to stop investigating the carpenters or risk withdrawal of the merged labor organization.

Having already tossed out the 1½ million member Teamsters Union on corruption charges, AFL-CIO leaders may think twice about further depleting federation ranks, now down to about 13½ million members.

At an AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting two weeks ago Walter Reuther, head of the Auto Workers, and James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, moved to oust Hutcheson as a council member and AFL-CIO vice president right then and there.

However, the council decided to give Hutcheson more time to explain his refusal to answer questions by the Senate Rackets Committee and to discuss his indictment in Indiana highway scandals.

While shunning an invitation to attend that council meeting, Hutcheson sent a written denial of wrongdoing or misuse of union funds. Then last week the Carpenters Union convention authorized Hutcheson and fellow union officials to pull the union out of the AFL-CIO if and when they see fit.

The way things stand now, the AFL-CIO council has asked Hutcheson to appear and make his explanation of corruption charges at its next meeting in February at San Juan, Puerto Rico, or at a special session whenever Hutcheson is ready.

Some AFL-CIO leaders say privately they doubt a majority of the council would ever vote to punish Hutcheson and thus almost inevitably lose the big Carpenters Union and its dues payments.

However, the Carpenters Union convention rejected the AFL-CIO ethical practices codes. In the case of the Teamsters, such refusal helped clinch its expulsion.

Once before, in 1953, the Carpenters pulled out of the old AFL in a row over labor union jurisdiction. But the Carpenters rejoined the AFL in about three weeks.

Low-Cost Civilian Copter May Hit Market In 2 Years

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — Within a year and a half you may be able to hop into your own helicopter and whirl off to work.

The president of a helicopter firm today set that target date for marketing a two-place helicopter coupe for civilians. He said the revolutionary craft would sell for about $5,000.

The tiny copter, called the Gyro-Jet will have fold-up rotors and can be driven on the ground from home or office to heliports, Gilbert Magill said in an interview. He is president of Rotor-Craft Corp. of Glendale.

In the air the all-weather, enclosed Gyro-Jet will have a top speed of 100 miles an hour and can cruise for 2½ hours. Highway speed will be 60 m.p.h.

"First prototypes of the craft will be in the air within six months," Magill said. "We have lined up 125 distributors and have orders for 6,500 machines the first year."

The factory has yet to complete its first prototype, however.

Rotor-Craft began developing small helicopters for the Navy eight years ago. The first was the pinwheel, designed to be strapped on a service man's back to lift him aloft for observation. The Gyro-Jet resulted from this research.

"Obtaining a license to fly the Gyro-Jet will be about as simple as getting a driver's license," Magill said. "Anyone who can drive a car can fly and drive the Gyro-Jet."

The cheapest helicopter available now to civilians costs about $40,000.

"A large part of that cost," said Magill, "is due to the great number of gears necessary to transmit power from the engine to the whirling ritors.

"The Gyro-Jet has no gears. The main rotor operates on a jet principle, using liquid hydrogen peroxide as fuel with the exhaust gas providing jet propulsion as it escapes from the tips of the rotor blades."

Crosby Sells Out His Nevada Ranch

ELKO, Nev. (AP) — Crooner Bing Crosby has pulled out of the Nevada ranching business.

Bing sold his 19,000-acre ranch north of here, its 3,700 head of cattle and all equipment for a price exceeding one million dollars, it was announced Tuesday.

The buyers are California ranchers and businessmen Edward Johnson, Earl Presnell and William Johnson. Crosby takes over two of Presnell's small ranches near Modesto, but expects to sell them.

THE ALL-NEW 1958 BEAUTYREST
. . . with more buoyant firmness than ever before

New resilience! New firmness! 12% greater spring support! And this newest and most restful of mattresses actually costs least to own!

New power-packed springs, pocketed under compression, have added 12% more firmness. And it is buoyant firmness . . . best for your back, your comfort, your rest.

In torture tests made by the United States Testing Co., Beautyrest lasted 3 times longer than the next best mattress. This means Beautyrest costs least to own. Order yours at once.

$79.50 Normal Firm or Extra Firm
Box Spring $79.50

Ordinary mattress is made with about 200-300 springs. Wired together, they sag together under your weight. When you push down on one, you push down on all. They're not free to push up and correctly support the shape of your body. This "sagging support" is bad for your back, your comfort, your rest.

Beautyrest mattress is made with over 800 separate springs. Not wired together, they can't sag together. Each is free to push up under you. Together they firmly support the weight and shape of your whole body. In the new Beautyrest springs have been power-packed to give 12% more firmness.

Star Gazing Not For Snowy Nights

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Photographing a star galaxy during a snowstorm turned out badly for Swiss-born scientist Fritz Zwicky, 59.

Dr. Zwicky, professor of astrophysics at the California Institute of Technology, became ill as a result of overexposure to the cold.

He spent 4½ hours in a small cage atop mile-high Mt. Palomar taking spectrograph pictures of the galaxy with the aid of the 200-inch telescope. When he finished at 3 a.m. Monday, he was half numbed. To make matters worse, his pictures were blurred and of no use.

4-H Awards To Be Presented Here Thursday

Jimmy Taylor, County farm agent, said Wednesday that members of Howard County 4-H Clubs who are to receive awards for outstanding work at the annual Achievement Day program on Thursday night have been selected.

Names of those chosen are being kept secret. There will be awards for achievement, three to girls and one boy, for outstanding leadership. The girls will be presented awards for achievement in clothing. Three girls will be honored for dairy food accomplishment; one girl for dress revue and two for gardens. One girl will be cited for her work in beautification of home grounds.

Three boys will be awarded recognition for agricultural work; one youth will be cited for outstanding citizenship; two for field crop accomplishment and two for garden work. One boy is to be singled out for outstanding leadership and four club members are to be commended for their work with swine.

Top award of all will be the Gold Star. One boy and one girl will be designated to receive this award—recognizing his or her accomplishment of the best all round program of 4-H Club work for the year.

The ceremonies will be in the district court room at 7:30 p.m. and the general public is welcome to attend. A short address will precede the presentation of awards with Sam Blackburn, Big Spring reporter, as the speaker.

Cop Killer Hunted Following Holdup

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—All available officers joined today in a hunt for a man who shot and killed a motorcycle policeman a few minutes after a $187 liquor store holdup.

Frank Wall, 34, and a veteran of the Augusta force, died Tuesday night in a hospital several hours after being shot five times.

Police quoted witnesses as saying Wall stopped a car reported stolen earlier in Augusta to question the driver. He was shot down without warning.

Police said the gunman roared away in the car. Officers chased the vehicle at speeds up to 120 miles an hour before losing it. The car later was found about 10 blocks from the scene of the shooting.

Voters In Virginia Down School Opener

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Local voters advised the City Council in an informational referendum Tuesday that they do not want six closed white schools returned to city control for integrated operation.

It was the first time the question had been put to residents in any of the three localities in which schools are closed under Virginia's massive resistance to integration laws.

Unofficial returns from the city's 46 precincts gave 12,340 votes against requesting Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. to return the schools to 8,712 votes for making the request.

The outcome of the balloting is not binding on the council, although at least five of its seven members had indicated they would act on a majority vote.

Three junior high and three senior high schools have been closed since Sept. 29 when the City School Board, complying with a Federal Court desegregation order, enrolled 17 Negroes. State law requires the immediate closing of any public school in which the races are mixed.

The law also provides that the governor may, at his discretion, return any closed school to the locality if the local governing body and school board so ask. But if it is returned and opened on an integrated basis, state funds are cut off.

A footnote on Tuesday's ballot said that if the schools were returned and opened on an integrated basis, it would be necesary to charge parents of school children "substantial" tuition to make up for the loss of state money.

The fact that Norfolk — where some 10,000 children have been denied entrance to public schools for two months — sided with the administration's program will doubtless strengthen the view there has been no appreciable change in voter sentiment on the controversial issue of racially mixed schools since the Nov. 4 general election.

Forgotten Men Of Far East War Live Beside Their Guns

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

MATSU (AP) — They live beside their guns, these nearly forgotten men of the offshore war.

They are the 20,000 Nationalist soldiers on the Matsu Islands, all but ignored while world attention focuses on the Communist shelling of the Quemoys, 150 miles to the south.

But they maintain a 24-hour standby alert, sleeping underground a few feet from their artillery pieces and machine guns.

They live in an intricate system of tunnels, pillboxes and bunkers. Fortress Matsu is a four-square-mile beehive of subterranean fortifications carved largely by hand and chisel out of rock. The four other Nationalist outpost islands of the Matsu group are the same.

They are strung from 3 to 10 miles from the Communist mainland. By Nationalist estimate, 300 Red gun emplacements face them.

Visitors invariably consider Matsu's maze of tunnels incredible.

Heart of the Matsu complex is an underground cluster of concrete bunkers making up the Nationalist operations headquarters. Air, sea and naval reports funnel into the the men at the gun emplacements and exports to Nationalist headquarters on Formosa.

Soldiers spend much of their day either underground at a battle station or outside digging more fortifications and carving more roads.

This work, largely by hand with only light equipment such as picks and shovels, has been going on for nine years.

Lt. Gen. Ho Chun, the jovial, heavy-set Nationalist commander on Matsu, lives in an underground bunker of five rooms. He has no doubt that his men can repulse any invasion attempt by the Communists.

"They will be annihilated," he says of the Reds.

Farmer's In A Fever Over Hot Water From Old Well

MONMOUTH, Ill. (AP)—Farmer Chalmer Lovdahl has a hot well on his farm and he's in a little fever about it.

The 30-foot well, Lovdahl said, had furnished sparkling and cold water for his household for 36 years until last August.

"The water was far colder and better for drinking than water from a nearby well—125 feet deep—that I use for my stock," Lovdahl said.

But the water in the smaller well began warming up last August. It became progressively warmer and recently it leveled off at 101 degrees, where it has remained.

Lovdahl called in experts from the University of Illinois and the State Health Department to explain the phenomenon. No satisfactory explanations were given.

Lovdahl said he's undecided whether to move away on the theory he is living on top of an incipient volcano or to harness the water to his hot water heating system and forget about fuel bills.

Russell Lane, a state water survey chemist who inspected the well, said he'd never seen anything like it. University geologists said the same. A water softener service man from Madison, Wis., came, shook his head, and went away.

Lane had a theory but he was the first to admit it might be all wet. Maybe, he said, a vein of coal beneath the well has caught fire, radiating heat toward the surface.

But he sprayed his own theory with cold water: there has been no change in the temperature of the water from the deep well, 120 feet away.

"No one can tell me anything," Lovdahl lamented.

DEAR ABBY

THINK IT OVER

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I have rocks in my head but I married the same man twice and we were divorced twice because we fought all the time. Everybody in my family (and his) got their mouths into it and talked us into going back together because of our kids. The same thing is happening again. Our divorce became final in October and now he wants me to remarry him again in time for Christmas. He is a heavy drinker and is always mixed up with two or three women. My children would have a nicer Christmas if I tried again. Should I marry him a third time or leave well enough alone?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Don't let the Christmas spirit fog up your thinking. You have to live with him 365 days of the year. Take your time and think it over and over and over.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For my 35th wedding anniversary my husband bought me a plot in a cemetery. Maybe I shouldn't have said the things I did, but how would any wife feel to get this kind of a present when she was expecting a new sewing machine? Was I wrong in feeling hurt?

STILL LIVING

DEAR STILL: Your husband's gift was "down to earth" . . . but I think he should have bought you something for the here and now.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am madly in love with a certain boy. I am in the 9th grade and he's in the 10th. The trouble is this. We don't know each other. He is quite bashful and I'd be too embarrassed to ask anyone to introduce us and we don't live close enough to meet by accident. Don't use my name, but sign me "Dying to meet him" and I don't mind if you put this in the paper because lots of other girls have the same problem and your answer might help them.

DYING TO MEET HIM

DEAR "DYING": The best approach is the DIRECT approach. When you see him, maneuver yourself within "Hi" distance and simply smile and say "Hi!" Once the girl breaks the ice, it's easy for a bashful boy to thaw out.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I had qute an experience with Sunday pests. Pretty soon we did not dare to make any plans of our own because we knew these pests would drop in on us. They stayed so late they kept us from going to bed at our usual bedtime. Finally I could take no more without losing dignity so I sat down and wrote to them. That ended it. They haven't spoken to us since — and they haven't spoiled any more Sundays either. The pen can be mightier than the sword, Abby.

Yours truly,
LIVE AND LEARN

DEAR "LIVE": I'm sure they got the point."

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STEAMFITTER": Anyone who waits ten years to get the last laugh is lucky if he remembers what the joke was. Forget it!

Editor Urges Censor Fight

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Managing Editor Edwin D. Hunter of the San Angelo Standard-Times appealed yesterday for public support of newspaper efforts to unblock sources of government information.

"There are too many public officials in this country who feel that there are some things about the government that people shouldn't know," he declared.

Hunter said newspapers are battling alone against secrecy in federal, state, county and local governments.

"It is also the fight of the people, and they should help the newspapers in their efforts to open the news sources that should be open," he said.

Hunter spoke at the annual conference of the Texas Junior College Press Assn. The conference, drawing 110 student delegates and sponsors from 12 junior colleges, ended today.

Ralph Lowenstein, assistant professor of journalism at Texas Western College and a former El Paso Times reporter, told the students:

"Don't worry about your ability. If you are incompetent, you won't last two weeks on a good newspaper; and if you are a competent reporter, both you and your newspaper will know it soon enough."

Moose Members Launch School Traffic Safety Project

First of a series of signs urging motorists to "protect our children" went up Tuesday at Airport School. Before the work is over, the Moose lodge hopes to erect some 30 or more of the signs, said Sam Burns, governor. Three signs were put up in the vicinity of the Airport School and as many will be put up next in the neighborhood of the new Goliad School. Acknowledging the signs were Jim Wade, school traffic officer for the police department, and S. M. Anderson, assistant superintendent. Representing the lodge were Bill Sawyers, secretary, Oakley Oliver, prelate, Lewis Heflin, junior governor, Sam Burns, governor, Bob Schenider, Charles Diese, Robert Elsberry, members of the Moose Legion, and Dan Dayton.

Many Groups To Help Stage Yule Party At State Hosptal

With the list of organizations volunteering to participate, plans for the annual Christmas party for Big Spring State Hospital patients are beginning to jell.

More than two dozen groups have confirmed that they will contribute to the Christmas fund and assist in providing refreshments, etc.

Big Spring merchants are cooperating in furnishing under clothing at absolute costs, said Mrs. Ira Thurman, co-ordinator of volunteer services. At an average of about $1.50 per patient, each man will receive two pair of shorts and each woman patient a slip and pair of panties.

Volunteers are now being sought to wrap the gifts individually so that each package may have the patient's name on it, said Mrs. Thurman.

Other helpers are needed to sign and address Christmas cards for patients who need help or who are unable to write. The Future Homemakers of America in this area are furnishing the Christmas cards so that every patient may send a card to his or her family.

Mrs. Thurman said that other organizations were invited to join in the Christmas party, and even individuals may have a part if they want to contribute to the fund.

Planning the pageant which will be the program this year on Dec. 22, date of the party, is John Austin, assisted by Mrs. Robert James. Narrator will be Chaplain Marvin Berkeland with Bob Smith the script writer. Sets and costume design will be in charge of John Findlater, while music will be in charge of Mrs. Robert Mason and Mrs. C. A. Boyd.

Organizations already signed for participation include the American Business Club, Lions, Kiwanians, Rotarians, Jaycees, Nurses' Association, Federated Women's Clubs, the Volunteers of Midland, Oasis Garden Club, several women's circles and church groups, the Business & Professional Women's Club, Big Spring Credit Women's Club, the Altrusa Club, American Association of University Women, the Beta Omicron, Exemplar, and Mu Zeta chapters of Beta Sigma Phi, Woman's Forum, Child Study Club, Hyperion Clubs, Lee's Home Demonstration Club and the Cheerio Circle. The latter is composed of blind people who furnish gifts for the blind patients at the hospital. This week they sent out seven sweaters to the seven blind women patients.

Prickly Pear Problem Solved

REFUGIO — Refugio county ranchman, John J. O'Brien, had a prickly pear problem. Some two miles of fence row had become heavily infested with pear which had become an eyesore as well as being a favorite hideout for rattlesnakes and rodents.

County Agent D. F. Bredthauer checked with O'Brien on the chemicals recommended for the purpose and it was decided that a mixture of a half gallon of 2-4D and a like amount of 2-4-5T in 40 gallons of kerosene would do the job.

The solution was sprayed on the prickly pear with special care to make sure that each plant was thoroughly covered with the material. Since the plants varied in height from four to six feet, it was necesary, said Bredthauer, to spray the pear from both sides of the fence.

O'Brien used 160 gallons of kerosene and two gallons each of the chemicals. Bredthauer reported that by mid-September the pear was dead and on the ground. The total cost of carrying out the eradication program was only a fraction of what hand grubbing or other mechanical means would have cost, said Bredthauer.

Ft. Worth Bans Tax Proposals

FORT WORTH (AP) — Fort Worth voters rejected nine of 11 proposed bond issue items yesterday and also turned down two proposed amendments to the city's charter.

The only bond items approved provide $22,875,000 for street improvements and $400,000 for additional fire stations.

The total sought in the 11 bond items was $42,325,000.

The two items receiving the severest drubbing would have provided $8,500,000 for a downtown civic auditorium and $1,250,000 for a Western park and museum on the north side.

Both of these items were designed to attract more visitors to Fort Worth.

One of the charter amendments called for a one per cent income tax to help finance the bond improvement program. The other would have permitted the city to raise its tax rate limit from the present $1.90 to $2.20.

Reward For Capture Of Vandals Offered

Vandals have worked their misdeeds on the Harry Hurt farm property for the second time in less than three months, Hurt said Tuesday.

The latest raid on the farm involved the use of .22 rifles, firecrackers and hatchets. Holes were shot in buildings and structures. A sucker rod on a windmill was chipped in two. Hatchets were used to destroy door facings in a house on the place.

Some weeks ago, vandals with shot guns perforated the water tank and drained out the water.

Hurt has now posted a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of vandals who visit his place and perpetrate their acts.

Participation In Thanksgiving Service Urged

An appeal for Big Springers of all faiths to participate in the community Thanksgiving service next week has been issued by Dr. P. D. O'Brien, president of the Big Spring Pastors Assn.

"We may disagree nn some points of theology, on methods of church management and denominational policies; but surely we are agreed that 'Every good and perfect gift cometh down from the Father,' and that it is good that we look up in gratitude to Him for His unfailing supply of blessings," Dr. O'Brien said.

"This has been an unusually prosperous year for our land. The most abundant harvests our fields have ever produced, no war with its heartbreaks and horrors, no widespread devastating disease epidemic and relatively few disasters to mar our community or national life.

"We pastors believe if we as a people will be thoughtful of His blessings it will lead to our being thankful to Him from Whom all blessings flow. For this reason we set aside this day designated by our government as Thanksgiving Day, to meet in one of our sanctuaries to have grateful fellowship in Him and join in singing His praises, uniting our hearts in prayer and hearing a message from one of our number."

The offering received at the service will be used to support the teaching of Bible classes in the local high school, Dr. O'Brien said. Most of the member churches of the association will take a special offering on the Sunday preceding Thanksgiving. A man from each of the churches will be appointed to bring the offering from his congregation forward to the altar at the community service.

"If God has blessed you and yours this year by giving you success in your endeavors, health for your family and peace for our nation, you can best express your thanks for these blessings by being present in the First Baptist Church next Thursday morning to join your grateful neighbors in this service of worship and praise," Dr. O'Brien stated.

Youths Adjudged For Corpse Theft

HOUSTON (AP)—A referee for the Domestic Relations Court judged as delinquent yesterday three white youths who took part in the theft of the corpse of a Negro funeral director.

Referee Edward Roche said testimony at a hearing showed him the three were guilty of interference with a dead body. He will recommend to Judge J. W. Mills that the boys be committed to the State Training School for Boys at Gatesville unless their parents can arrange to place them with out-of-town relatives.

The body of I. S. Lewis, wealthy Negro funeral director, was stolen from Oak Forest Cemetery Oct. 18. The next day the body was found on the flag pole of Hogg Junior High School. Lewis has been dead 25 years.

Three other juveniles who were arrested in the case were released.

A 'Little' Learning Was A Good Thing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Helen Lazzari put this note on the safe at the fuel company office where she works:

"Attention, safe crackers: only papers are kept in this safe. We keep our money in the bank. Thank you."

When she opened the office Tuesday the safe was open and $1,000 was gone. Beneath her typewritten note, the yeggs had used her own typewriter to add: "Can't read."

PRAYER: O God, remove from our eyes the blinders and from our hearts the barriers that could keep us from receiving Thy love. May our lives overflow with thanksgiving as we sense our relationship to Thee. Help us to enter into the dominion of the Holy Spirit! In Christ's name. Amen.

Life's Little Frustrations

Life is full of little frustrations and minor disappointments, and Max V. Pickel Jr., a fifth-grader at York Pa., relates his most recent experience in this matter in an item published in the school column of the York Dispatch.

Max's harrowing story is a model of succinctness and unadorned English. Telling how he and his father had whiled away their afternoon flying model airplanes, Max gets right down to the point in this brief paragraph:

"When we came home it was time to go evening church. My mother made me take a bath. But when I was done, it was too late to go to church. So I had taken a bath for nothing."

We know exactly what Max meant: there he was, all dressed up and no place to go. He had wasted his time, and presumably he intended his little news item to serve as a warning to his fellow fifth-graders to be careful how they organize their existence.

In the old days, now, taking a bath was no small matter. It was a rite, a ritual, in the average large family of those times. It usually occurred on Saturday night, and it called for a lot of preparation. Vast quantities of water had to be heated on the kitchen stove. A large washtub was brought in and placed in a strategic position. Then a small boy was placed in the tub and the water poured in. Mother stood by to see that the scrubbing was thorough.

The boys took turn about, and if water was scarce—which it sometimes was—the contents of the tub got a little thick and soapy before the last one in was taken care of.

The soap? None of that fancy stuff, but the home-made variety specially cooked for bathing, so light it floated.

Please Buy Christmas Seals

Letters containing a supply of Christmas seals have gone into the mails and will—if they have not already—reach the hands of hundreds of our residents.

We urge immediate and generous response.

Few organizations accomplish so much with the dollars entrusted to them as does the Howard County Tuberculosis Association.

About 85 per cent of the funds raised stay right here to be used in combatting the malady either in preventative or curative measures. What little goes to the state comes back in other aid.

Every parent ought to feel an active interest in what the association is doing, for one of its prime projects has been the administering of tests which will help indicate those with incipient cases of tuberculosis or with pulmonary weaknesses which might indicate a possibility of TB.

Every resident who knows that the general health of the community is his own concern should be interested in the association's program. This group has made the treatment and care of TB cases its business—to help get people in the state sanitorium and to see that they stay there the required time; to undergird recovery with medicines and in many cases basic foods; to help prevent the spread through education of other members of affected families.

Tuberculosis was once regarded as the "white plague." It could be again if someone didn't keep the fight against it going all the time. Your dollars for seals will certainly help.

Power Of The Switch Voters

WASHINGTON—Less than 2 per cent of the eligible voters in the United States decided the congressional election this year—about 1,600,000 out of 100,000,000.

These facts emerge from an examination of the statistics of the voting outside the solid South and the border states, nearly all of whose congressional districts usually vote under the Democratic party label.

Approximately 52 per cent of the voters in the North voted Democratic this time and 48 per cent Republican. This is a spread of four percentage points, and out of the approximately 41,000,000 votes cast in the congressional elections in the West, North and East, this means that about 1,600,000 voters swung the election.

These are the "switch voters." Sometimes they are called "Independents," though this word implies that they carefully weigh the merits of the argument and come to a judicial conclusion. Actually, they are the people who vote "against" the party in power no matter what its name. They don't vote in favor of a particular set of policies or programs—they simply record their disapproval of things as they are.

Dr. George Gallup, the eminent director of public-opinion surveys, discussing this very point in an article last week, said:

"It is important in describing what happened to note that a great deal of the gain in the Democratic vote since 1954 occurred among farmers, business and professional people, and white-collar workers—or the 'forgotten salaried man.' Among manual workers and union members, the division of the vote this year was virtually the same as four years ago."

The economic "recession" affected, on the whole, a relatively small group, since unemployment itself was geographically "spotty." Yet it doesn't take many voters in the so-called "discontented" group to swing an election. By spreading 1,600,000 votes for a relatively few congressional districts, it is possible for a sizable majority of seats to be attained.

Subtracting the 129 Democrats elected—hardly any of them "modernists"—in the districts in the South and Border States which usually go Democratic and where there are rarely any contesting candidates offered by the Republican party, the score in the November election in the North, East and West this year was 154 Democrats to 141 Republicans. This is a margin of 13. Not included in the 141 Republican total are the 11 Republicans elected in the Border States and in the South, nearly every one of whom opposed "integration." Actually, it seems plausible to estimate that far fewer than 1,800,000 votes swung the election. This is because in many districts in the northern cities usually Democratic, the total was simply increased beyond the normal figure.

Why, it may be asked, was it possible for such a small percentage of the total eligible vote to be so influential in the result? One answer is that the "contented" citizens for the most part didn't go to the polls, nor did all the protesting individuals inside the Republican party. Lots of the "indifferent" Republicans did not even register. Many are in the class who, in an economic sense, are contented but fail to vote for a variety of reasons—usually they don't see much difference between the "Modern Republicans" and the New Deal Democrats.

The "discontented" vote for the most part, however, not only registered but cast its ballot. Aside from unemployment, the "discontent" on the Republican side was greatest among farmers and small businesses. "Modern Republicanism" hasn't offered as yet anything to attract them. In many of these districts "Modern Republican" nominees also went down to defeat.

Not all the "discontent" was economic. It should give the new champions of "Modern Republicanism" something to think about. They should take a second look at California, where a private poll made during the recent campaign by a reputable organization showed that "integration" was placed higher on the list of issues by those citizens interviewed than any other single topic of national importance. Resentment over the use of federal troops at Little Rock and over enforced "integration" was given by many a voter as his reason for being at odds with the Republican party. The so-called "appreciation" vote on this issue was negligible, as was to be seen also in the big eastern cities where the Negro wards went almost as heavily Democratic in the congressional elections as before. Will 1960's presidential election by any different? Unfortunately, under the present system, the majority party in control of both houses of Congress will not be held responsible for what happens in the next two years. The vote in 1960 will be "against" the present Republican regime in the White House unless there's a boom in employment and some of the emotional issues are cleared up. It will not matter much who the candidates are in either party—how personable or glamorous the nominee on one side or how unspectacular and inadequate a personality on the other side. If the mood of the voters is negative again, the Democrats will have another victory, and it will not be close either.

The only chance of a close election may come if the South bolts the Democratic party. This could throw the presidential election into the House of Representatives for decision. It might result from use of a "write-in" vote for presidential electors. Such a formula would permit the regular nominees of the Democratic party for the House and Senate to win while giving the electoral votes of each state to independent candidates outside the Democratic party. It could mount up to a block of 131 electoral votes that might prevent either major party candidate from getting a majority in the electoral college.

MOUNT STERLING, Ky. (AP) — Police Chief Bill Frederick knows he'll find slugs and washers along with the money in parking meters. But he says a recent motorist carried things too far.

The motorist mailed back the parking-ticket envelope put on his car. Inside was a big washer instead of the 50-cent fine.

Red Concession Is A Small Step

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians have made a concession towards getting started on a study of using outer space for peaceful purposes. It's a little step, not enough to raise hopes for broad settlements in other fields.

The concession was simply on getting such a study started. That's a long way from any international agreement on how to control outer space. But at least it's something. It was some progress where none had been made before.

The United States and Russia have been dickering on three problems at the same time: on outer space in the United Nations; and, in Geneva, on ending nuclear tests and preventing surprise attacks.

Until Tuesday they had been deadlocked on all three.

The United States had proposed creation of a nine-nation study committee on the use of outer space for peaceful purposes, with the committee to report back to next year's U.N. General Assembly.

The Russians had demanded that international control of outer space be tied in with abandonment by the United States of its overseas bases. Then Tuesday the U.S.S.R. made its concessions.

Instead of this country's proposed nine-nation study committee, the Russians suggested creation of an 11-nation study group to prepare the groundwork for a permanent U.N. committee for cooperation in the study of outer space.

The Soviet Union dropped its demand that abandonment of American overseas bases be linked with a study of outer space. But it emphasized that the concession at the U.N. did not mean concessions at Geneva.

The Soviet Union also proposed — and this was in keeping with the American suggestion — that the study group report back to the General Assembly next year.

Since the gap between the United States and the Soviets — on outer space — has now been narrowed, they have to dicker some more to close it. What seems to separate them now is a matter of detail. That shouldn't be too tough to iron out.

Yet this is only the mildest kind of beginning and in the end may lead to nothing. There's a big difference between what a study group recommends and what the United States and the Soviet Union finally may agree on, perhaps years from now, if ever.

While the United States has not proposed a ban on outer space weapons, the Russians have dropped a demand for such a ban from their U.N. resolution.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the U.N., has said: "Candor compels us to admit that agreement on disarmament aspects of outer space lies in the future."

At Geneva the talks on ending nuclear tests and preventing surprise attacks are snarled in mutual distrust.

The United States insists that any agreement to ban nuclear tests must be accompanied, not followed, by an agreement to police such a ban to prevent cheating.

The Russians have insisted on agreement to end testing before there's any discussion on policing. The West argues this is like asking it to sign a blind contract.

The East-West representatives separately discussing the idea of preventing surprise attacks were just pulling blanks.

Memory Of The First Love

NEW YORK (AP)—Romance is made by the heart behind it.

Love has a focus.

The first focus usually changes, happily sometimes for the better.

Yet there is a saying that first love is best. This may be true. Certainly it is true in a way.

Oh, I'll never forget her though time has—the remorseless fugitive hungering grip that keeps a man a memory—and a girl a regret.

My first love!

She had the most ridiculous name a girl could wear. Her name was Nadine Philpott.

Her age was about 6, and she wafted across the stage with the grace of Pavlova in flower. One watching her (particularly if he were 5) was swept by the mysterious thunder of life. He was immortally in love with a girl up there on the stage—and he would never get over it.

There as Nadine twinkled her uncertain toes I fell in love with her and the stage for all my life.

On the same stage a fellow came up and suspended himself between two supports and let them put a boulder atop his middle, and by invitation men came up and with sledge hammers beat the boulder into rocks.

The performance lacked the delicacy of Nadine, whom I had known in school. She was my lollipop Theda Bara.

Time, that prisoner of dream and the sedulous washer-away of what was, has eroded but cannot destroy the magic of that night.

He with the strong stomach, years and broken boulder later. Where is he now?

Nadine Philpott, where art thou?

So from the clutter of what affected us before, we move toward the embracements of tomorrow, leaving behind some of the rubble of ourselves.

Beyond the rubble we are. Where the ecstasy of first love lies, still always lie we.

But that's for yesterday and later.

Oh, Nadine Philpott, no matter what life did to you, or how time cripples me, you dance in unredeemable gauze from yesterday, through now, into an endless tomorrow, on tiptoe forever.

"I don't care HOW it looks—I didn't wash and polish this car for NOTHING . . .!"

Richard Arlen Thinks Little Of Today's Stars

By BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Arlen, looking scarcely a day older than when he played for the Paramount varsity, has some sharp words to say about today's stars, such as:

They're slobs.

They're pricing the movies out of business.

Okay, so Dick has an affection for the days when he, Clara Bow, Gary Coopor, Jack Oakie and others were making collegiate movies at Paramount.

"In those days, a movie star always looked like a movie star," Dick remarked. "When you're in public life, you should dress accordingly. You wouldn't expect the governor to go to work in a sweat shirt. Nor should movie stars.

"Yet I see these young kids come to the studio in pegged trousers or blue jeans and T shirts. Their hair is uncombed and their faces are dirty. They're a mess.

"At Christmas time, you go to a fine store in Beverly Hills and see stars like Irene Dunne and Joan Crawford shopping in beautiful clothes. But you see some of the younger names wearing ballet shoes, those tight toreador pants and a man's shirt and dragging a mink coat.

"And these 'method' actors out of the New York dramatic schools! You know what they teach them? They are told to stand in the corner for 15 minutes and pretend they're rocks!"

Of the prices that many stars are demanding for their services, Arlen said:

"These figures of $750,000 for a picture are ridiculous," he said. "Many a producer can't hope to make a profit by the time he has paid the stars.

"The stars can ruin the picture business with their demands. When the business is in trouble, they should be cutting their prices, not asking for the moon.

"We did that at Paramount one year. When the studio was in danger of bankruptcy, we worked a whole year for nothing. We managed to live all right; we had been overpaid for a long time. When times got better, we were paid back."

Dick himself doesn't have to worry where his next part is coming from. When he was earning thousands weekly and keeping it, he invested in San Fernando Valley real estate. But he doesn't ever want to give up acting.

"In fact," he grinned, "if I have enough time between pictures to get my face fixed, I'll even do another football movie."

Around The Rim

Ask A Silly Question . . .

I am having difficulty with my left eyeball for the first time in several years. I had forgotten (a) how unpleasant and what a nuisance this can be, and (b) what a flood of quips and questions an eye patch will loose.

For instance, the all-time favorite is: "Ah ha! I guess your wife knows how to take care of you."

Unable to muster even a dry chuckle over this musty one, I mutter something to the effect that "if my hearing were better, I would have less trouble with my eyes."

In a similar vein, others will proclaim that they knew it was going to happen, but just for the record, who did it. In defense, I have drafted a bit of repartee that works like this: if Sam Jones has raised the question, I simply reply that "I got it trying to say a good word for Sam Jones.

Then there is that ubiquitous: "Now what?"

"I have," I have learned to announce, "become the owner of a Hathaway shirt."

Of course, this presupposes that everyone reads the ads. But not everyone is schooled in the subtilities of my delicate wit, and I have frequently to add that I have to have an eye patch to go with the shirt. Whereupon both of us seem sorry the subject came up.

"I knew you'd get one with that snooping around," volunteer a few score friends.

"Ah yes," I reply philosophically, "how did I know what was taking place on the other side of that knot hole."

Then there is the casual approach, to wit: "How's the old eye?"

"Still there at the last report," I respond. "They tell me it's doing better."

Finally, there is the sympathetic approach, namely: "Does it hurt?"

"Not too bad," I reply, stifling an urge to explain somewhat caustically that of course it doesn't; the only reason my other eye waters and turns off on a crazy tangent is out of joy for the opportunity of getting to do all the seeing.

A friend of mine took the wise approach.

"If I ask a silly question about that eye, I suppose I'll get a silly answer," he observed.

"Yep," I said. "Want to hear one?

"Not especially," he said.

"Thank you very much," I said, and I meant it.

You Gotta See It To Believe It

RIO DE JANEIRO—This extraordinary city is strongly reminiscent of the old Joe Miller about the yokel and the giraffe. You really have to see the danged thing to believe it.

When she got to Rio, nature ran wild and tourists have been emulating her ever since. Think of all the adjectives meaning beautiful, marvelous, unique, breath-taking and unbelievable, pressed down and running over, and they're Rio.

This city is a prodigal union of mountains and sea on which 3,300,000 residents have gotten, through the centuries, a toe hold. Obviously, at this point, nature couldn't decide whether to specialize in mountains or in water and so combined the two in a lavish panorama on which even Cecil B. de Mille has never been able to improve.

Here green tropic mountains edge down to the sapphire water of one of world's largest harbors from whose depths rise in spectacular, sheer granite the lofty, fascinating cone-shaped peaks that are such a distinguishing characteristic of this sea and landscape.

This is a city in a dream setting that deserves a Samuel Coleridge to twang the lyre in its honor. Somehow, the carioca, Rio's home-town boy, has built a city to match its background on the narrow strip of land between green mountains and blue water.

In the process, he literally moves mountains. Well, anyway, hills. At the moment, the city fathers are hacking down a formidable hill, that of Sao Antonio, in the middle of town and carting it out to Gloria Beach, one of the most fashionable in Rio.

There the municipality is dumping millions upon millions of square yards of earth into the harbor (so large it contains more than 100 islands and can offer anchorage to all the world's navies simultaneously.)

When Sao Antonio has been leveled and dumped into the harbor at Gloria, the city will have acquired some hundreds of acres of newmade land, which is destined to become still another city park.

From the windows of my room in the Gloria Hotel, I have been enjoying the sidewalk superintendency of the job, at least as far as the fill is concerned. A fleet of powerful trucks works night and day carting the mountain—well, hill — to the water. A covey of bulldozers works the clock around leveling the earth and shoveling it into place.

Already the outline of a tremendous park is in evidence. A carnival has pitched its tents and bright lights in one dusty section several blocks from the hotel. And on the far edge of the fill rises the ultra-modern building of the city's new Museum of Modern Art. (But even in Rio, which pioneered modern architecture together with the Scandinavian countries, the new museum can't hold a patch for sheer avant-garde-ism with New York's new Museum of Non-Objective Art by Frank Lloyd Wright!)

What I first mistook for a thin, red fog in the central part of Rio is a dust haze from the earth-moving job. Merchants in that part of Rio are angrily demanding that the city authorities wash down the streets and the shop fronts daily.

But when the hill has been dumped into the sea, all save that small part on which perches the historic monastery of Sao Antonio, the north and central sections of Rio will finally, after centuries, be united by broad highways.

When I was last in Rio 12 years ago, cariocas were wont to say that their city would be wonderful, once all the holes were filled up. Twelve years later, there are more holes than ever! Rio, like New York, is restless. Old buildings come down and new ones go up over night. But holes and all, Rio is wunderbar.

The Gallup Poll

U.S. Chief Block To Red China

PRINCETON, N. J—The American people are the most opposed to admitting Communist China into the United Nations of all people polled in 14 nations of the world.

This is indicated in a World Gallup Poll in five major nations as well as major cities in nine other neutral and western countries.

In only one nation other than the U. S. — the Netherlands—does a majority of the public vote against seating Red China in the U. N.

In Vienna, capital of neutral Austria, and in Johannesburg, South Africa, sentiment runs against a seat for the Peiping regime but by less than a majority.

In all of the other nations and cities in the international study—including such key NATO allies as France and Great Britain—sentiment supports the idea of granting the Chinese Communists admission into the world government organization.

Greatest support is found in the capital of India, New Delhi, where the vote in favor is an overwhelming 12-to-1.

In the U. S., two out of three voters are opposed.

Throughout Great Britain, France, Finland, Holland and the U. S. and in major cities in India, Norway, West Germany, Canada, Denmark, South Africa, Sweden, Austria and Greece, members of Gallup Poll field staffs asked this question:

"Do you think Communist China should or should not be admitted to the United Nations?"

The consensus of replies from all countries and key opinion centers:

RED CHINA IN U. N.?

	Per Cent
Should Be Admitted	46
Should Not	29
No Opinion	25

Here is how the replies line up in each of the nations and major cities:

RED CHINA IN U. N.?

Rattler Strikes

MOUNTAINAIR, N. M. (AP) — Frank Evans, 22, of Dora pulled on a pair of coveralls near here while working on a range reseeding project.

Evans quickly shucked off the coveralls when something bit him. He figured it was a scorpion. But hours later, he discovered a two-foot rattler in the coveralls. His partner took him on a wild 23-mile ride to Mountainair during which the car tumbled into a ditch. Result: a desperate battle for life and a 10-week stay in the hospital.

The two pickers suffered worst, but all had touches of poison ivy rash.

Trapeze Coat

Here's a coat designed by Helen Lee for home seamstresses to make for the hula hoop set. Chances are the set-in waistband could be a help in the "hoopin'."

Child's Trapeze Coat Inspired By Hoop Fad

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Any little girl would like a new trapeze coat with stitched waistband detail at just the right height to guide a hula hoop.

Of course, the hoop isn't a necessary accessory. After the fad is over, the coat will still be a winter favorite, repeating in miniature the favorite new silhouette for grown-ups.

Helen Lee, noted children's designed, has designed the coat for a widely distributed pattern service. Low patch pockets and stitched belt detail add interest.

Make the coat in bright red wool in a nubby weave. It requires two yards of 54-inch fabric, for a kindergarten age child. Select the child's regular pattern size, since pattern manufacturers allow for ease in children's coats, so that they may be let out and worn a second year. Measure and make pattern alterations before cutting into the fabric.

If you live in a cold climate, select a warm but light-weight interlining, and a gay lining such as a red-and-white polka-dot silk. Remember to test your stitching on a scrap of fabric before starting to sew. Generally a coating-weight wool requires a heavy-duty mercerized thread, a size 16 machine needle and 10 to 12 stitches to the inch.

Remember to press seams as you sew, working on the wrong side and opening seams with the tip of a steam iron. Or you can take the coat to have a professional pressing before stitching in the lining.

WEDDING WOES?

An Authority Answers Universal Questions

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Weddings absorb the conversation at hen parties at this time of the year, but even after these gab fests many problems remain unsolved, so along come the letters from puzzled moderns.

"I am getting married next winter and am inviting my bridesmaids now," writes a Virginia belle. "I have four sisters and three brothers. The sisters are younger than me. One is 14 years old. Should I ask the four to be bridesmaids or can I just pick favorites?"

This is no time for favorites. If you are having a pretty good-sized wedding, you should ask your four sisters to be bridesmaids. If the wedding is small, it is customary to ask the eldest sister to be a bridesmaid.

"I have red hair and have been invited to be a bridesmaid at a wedding, and wear a red dress. I accepted before I found out that the dress would be red, which is unflattering to redheads. Should I turn down the invitation or ask the bride to select another color for me?" writes an Ohioan.

REDHEAD WOES

Fashion experts and designers bemoan the fact that redheaded girls invariably avoid red. They say red should be a redhead's dream color, if she'd give it a chance. They recommend pink too, as a flattering shade. The trick, they say, is learning how to make up to wear these colors. Kelly green, often the choice of redheads is a contrast that can be garish, they stress.

"I am being married at an afternoon church wedding. My family is giving me a small reception, but they say they cannot afford to decorate the house with flowers as well as the church. Even a few flowers for the church would ruin the budget. Do you think the church setting will seem bare if there are no flowers?"

Investigate the possibility that there will be flowers at earlier weddings that day in the church. Ask your minister about the possibility of using those flowers. Many times they are removed because each wedding likes to use their own floral assortment. You have another alternative—decorate the church, and then while congratulations are in progress, someone can whisk the flowers from the church to your home before the reception.

"How much time does a newspaper require in advance for a wedding story? Someone told me that you should send the story in advance of the wedding. Do you go to the paper with it or is it all right to send it by mail?"

WEDDING STORY

It's a good idea to call the newspaper and discuss their requirements for wedding insertions. The Women's Department can answer your question. Send your photograph with the wedding story. Include details such as time and place of the wedding and the reception details, names of the bridesmaids, ushers and names of the parents of the bride and groom.

"Is it customary to tell your parents where you are going on your honeymoon? Someone told me it was bad luck to tell anyone where you plan to spend your honeymoon."

It is entirely your own business whether you reveal your honeymoon plans, and I have never heard of it being bad luck.

AT TJCPA MEETING

Journalism Students Hear Talks By Leading Newsmen

By BOBBY HORTON

COLLEGE STATION — "They changed the number of children in my story from seven to two, so to fit the television screen better, and changed the diaper-washing mama to a guitar-strumming gal," said the dark-skinned Virginian to a group of some 250 future journalists, yearbook editors, sponsors and Texas A&M escorts at the Texas Junior College Press Assn. banquet here Monday night.

The speaker was Ralph Lowenstein, presently assistant in the Texas Western College journalism department and formerly of the El Paso Times, where he gained a share of national attention by exposing a borderline situation and winning Pall Mall's "Big Story" award.

Lowenstein's remarks on how television changed his "Big Story" amused the audience that gathered in the Memorial Student Center for the TJCPA convention Sunday-Monday-Tuesday, and who had heard discussions and advice from such newspaper men as Jack Donahue of the Houston Post, credited with helping break the Parr story in Duval County, Ed Hunter of the San Angelo Standard-Times, and Dan Burchard, journalism head of A&M.

The 28-year-old Lowenstein wrote a series of stories about Mexican families which were separated in El Paso—for example, the father worked in El Paso and the mother and younger children lived in Juarez, Mexico—and won the $500 "Big Story" award. The story, six months later, was released in a television presentation.

At the time his story was released Lowenstein had been at the El Paso Times for two and a half years. He had graduated from Columbia University in New York in 1951, where, during his freshman year, he roomed with a former Big Spring boy, Jim McNallen.

The story attracted so much attention that it was promptly picked up by the Immigration Service and referred to the service commissioner, who ordered an investigation of the situation.

"I came to West Texas," said Lowenstein, "while in the Army and stationed at Fort Bliss. I liked it so much I just stayed."

The Texas Western instructor refuted a suggestion that the field of young reporters graduating from colleges was decreasing. He said that there were many opportunities in newspaper work and the chances for advancement are still improving.

Attending the TJCPA convention and representing Howard County Junior College were Elizabeth Daniel, chairman of the English department, Doug Burrage, Carolyn Sneed, Anita Gardner, and Bobby Horton. The party returned last night.

Fine Levied For Manipulation Of Auto's Controls

Doroteo Garcia, 34, San Antonio, pleaded guilty in Howard County court this morning to manipulation of the levers on a car owned by C. Ray Russell. He was fined $100.

Garcia told the court he did not intend to steal the car and that he did not remember what he was doing in it. He had been drinking, he explained. Russell caught the man in his car and told him to get out. He claims Garcia lunged at him and Russell struck him in the face with the butt of a shotgun. Garcia spent one night in Cowper hospital and then was removed to the county jail.

He told the court he had no money and would have to serve out the fine and costs.

Wayne Burns, county attorney, said that "manipulation of levers of an automobile" without permission of the owner is a special law and the offense is a misdemeanor.

He told the 1,500 persons attending the world study conference of the National Council of Churches that in the United States "we seem unable to articulate a basic philosophy for our times which carries deep conviction and strong appeal."

Carnival, Dance Scheduled For Runnels Pupils

A carnival, dance and party are on tap for Runnels Junior High Friday night as the school holds its annual Harvest program. Crowning of the Harvest Queen will be included in the ceremonies.

The Harvest Queen will be crowned at the dance. Candidates are Jan Anderson, representing the seventh grade; Cynthia Vaughn, eighth grade; and Linda Grant, ninth grade.

The entire program is sponsored by the student council at Runnels.

The Harvest Carnival will be held on the first floor of the school building with the public invited. Time is from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30.

About a dozen booths have been set up by the various classes, and the FHA group will have a food booth.

The student council reported there would be no charge for the carnival and anyone would be welcomed. However, only Runnels students and their dates would be allowed at the party and dance. These two events will be staged simultaneously.

Charges for the dance-party are 50 cents per couple or 75 cents for a single ticket. The dance will be held in the Runnels gym and the party in the school cafeteria. Both will be held from 8:30 p.m. to 11.

Mail Clerk Held In Theft

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A veteran railroad mail clerk accused of rifling three pouches of nearly $100,000 on a Portland-Boston train was arrested as he returned home today.

Robert S. Doucette, 42, father of five, was taken before U.S. Commissioner Herbert H. Sawyer for arraignment.

Doucette entered no plea and waived hearing on a charge he embezzled registered mail. Sawyer found probable cause and held the postal clerk in $5,000 bail.

The warrant said the money came from the First National Bank of Lewiston and Auburn.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Peter Mills said Doucette allegedly opened three pouches while on the Portland-Boston run early today and removed $96,377 in Federal Reserve System transfer funds.

He also took what is called a "test letter" containing about $250, Mills said.

Mills said he understood that Doucette, a transportation clerk since 1941, had been under surveillance for some time.

In Boston, Arthur Lagace, assistant postal inspector in charge, said three registered letters were taken from the train.

Lagace said the letters were found in Doucette's possession.

The rifled pouches were found in an auto parked outside the station.

Doucette's arrest followed investigation of reported losses from mail going out of Portland.

Postmen To Start Livestock Survey

KNOTT—Postmaster Susie Mae Harrell announced today that rural mail carriers will begin distributing Livestock Survey Cards to patrons on their routes Thursday.

This annual livestock survey, which Post Office and Agriculture Departments cooperatively have made since 1924, provides basic information to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin for estimating number of cattle, hogs, sheep and chickens on Texas farms and ranches.

In order that the area be well represented in the survey, Mrs. Harrell requested that each patron receiving a card fill out and return it to his mail box for prompt pick up.

Posts $1,000 Bond

Farrell Hamill, charged with burglary, posted $1,000 bond and has been released from the Howard County jail. He is under a charge of having attempted to burglarize the M. L. Hodnett home on Nov. 11.

Held For Kansas

David P. Sayle, 27, who gives Sweetwater as his home, is being held in Howard County jail pending arrival of officers from Salina, Kans., to take him in custody. Sheriff Miller Harris said the man is wanted in Kansas for check charges.

New Automobile Show Is Cancelled

The downtown new automobile show, set previously for this weekend, has been cancelled.

Inability of some of the dealers to obtain new models for the show was cited as the reason for cancelling the show. The event was to have been held on Main St. between 3rd and 4th.

Regional Arm Of LTM Is Organized

Clifton Bellamy, acting city manager, and Police Chief C. L. Rogers attended a meeting at Odessa Tuesday night to organize Region 4 of the League of Texas Municipalities.

The LTM at its recent state convention adopted a plan for 16 geographical regions, and the Tuesday meeting was to set up the local area. Aim is to coordinate the areas' legislative activities.

State Overruled In Rate Regulation Of Federal Goods

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Supreme Court ruled today that the Texas Railroad Commision cannot regulate freight rates charged for transportation of federal government goods in Texas.

The ruling voided an order of the Railroad Commission and affirmed a judgment by the Austin Court of Civil Appeals.

An opinion written by Associate Justice Joe Greenhill said the State Supreme Court took action after the U. S. Supreme Court recently declared unconstitutional a California statute which required that intrastate rates for shipment of federal goods be approved by a California commission.

"We are compelled to follow that decision," Greenhill said.

The action was brought by the Texas & Pacific Railroad and other railroads asking a declaratory judgment as to the validity of a Railroad Commission order in 1955. The commission had advised common carriers to discontinue assessing and collecting rates prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Comission on such shipments. The railroads and the federal government attacked the state order. Former Texas Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd and various motor carriers supported the state order.

Prospects Good For Space Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The prospects looked good today for unanimous U.N. agreement to get started on an international study of ways to explore outer space for peaceful purposes.

Russia's sudden shift toward the Western position brought demands from several quarters that Western and Soviet delegates meet to iron out their remaining differences and formulate a unified resolution for the U.N. Assembly.

Western delegates were heartened by the new Soviet proposal, which dropped earlier demands for abandonment of U.S. bases overseas and a ban on military space missiles. This appeared to eliminate the chief hurdle to agreement.

In presenting his new plan, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin made plain the Soviet Union would continue to press for abolition of American overseas bases and a ban on sending military missiles into outer space. But he indicated this would be done through the new 81-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission.

Russia's new proposal called for creation of an 11-nation study group to work out the "program and rules" for a permanent U.N. committee for cooperation in the study of outer space for peaceful purposes.

The United States and 19 associated nations have also proposed creation of a temporary committee to study the possibilities of international cooperation in outer space and to recommend the form for a future space agency. The American plan does not specifically authorize a permanent commission.

Zorin also proposed a list of members for the preparatory group which is likely to draw Western opposition. His nominations were the Big Four — the United States, the U.S.S.R., Britain and France—with India, the United Arab Republic and Sweden as neutrals, Argentina for the Latin Americans, and Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia from the Communist bloc.

Since India and the U.A.R. frequently side with the Soviet Union, it appeared unlikely the West would accept a committee on which it probably would be outvoted 6-5.

Zorin proposed three major goals for the permanent committee:

1. To continue on a permanent basis space research being carried out as part of the International Geophysical Year program.

2. To organize mutual exchange and dissemination of information on outer space research.

3. To coordinate national research programs for study of outer space and to give all possible aid toward their realization.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who was shown the proposal by Zorin before it was presented to the U.N. Political Committee, hailed it as "a sign the Soviet Union may be willing to cooperate in some peaceful endeavor in outer space."

Canada and Britain, both cosponsors of the Western plan, also welcomed the Soviet move.

Famous Jurist To Be YMCA Speaker

Judge Philip B. Gilliam, who presides over the famous juvenile court in Denver, Colo., will be the speaker for the annual YMCA banquet.

The speaker and date of the banquet—Jan. 19—were announced Tuesday by Mrs. Curtis Driver, arrangements chairman, at the board of directors meeting.

The court over which Judge Gilliam has presided since 1940 is the same court over which Judge Ben B. Lindsey presided with such distinction for 25 years. Every four years since 1940 voters have returned Judge Gilliam to office by record margins, his totals outstripping those of any presidential candidate.

Through his direction, Denver's Juvenile Hall has become one of the most outstanding institutions of its kind for children in the United States. Judge Gilliam is one of the nation's leading authorities on juvenile behavior patterns. In 1953, the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges conferred its highest honor by naming him its president. In 1955-56, at the request of the U. S. Department of State, he visited 15 countries in various parts of the world as a specialist on juvenile and family problems. He holds membership in and has been honored by numerous organizations such as Boy Scouts, Kiwanis Club, Salvation Army, YMCA, Crippled Children's Society, and many others. He also finds time to lecture on sociology and law at University of Denver.

At the board meeting, members heard an appeal from Don Newton, Dallas, representing the Southwest Areas, for participation in the $6,000,000 "Buildings for Brotherhood." The board noted that the youth groups in the YMCA had decided upon participation and also that it was faced with a building problem locally. Hence, a suggested capita quota of $1,449 was not accepted. The regular World Service activity, whereby Y's help those in other countries help themselves, remains as a regular Y activity.

George Oldham, youth activity director, introduced Buddy Barnes, who will be the West Texas district nominee for governor at the Youth in Government project in Austin next month. Buddy reported on the recent pre-legislative conference in Lubbock, where he was chosen as a nominee, and cited the value of the project. R. H. Weaver, YMCA president, called attention to the fact that Barnes was the first Big Spring youth to be honored as the area nominee.

Other reports came from Everett Taylor, program director, on the progress of Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y work at Lakeview School; from Bobo Hardy, general secretary, on organization of four new Indian guide tribes.

Wind Topples Pole Sitter's Perch

A smashed house trailer, right center, possibly saved the life of a pole sitter at Tulsa, Okla., when high winds toppled his 40-foot-tall canvas-covered quarters. William Len Van Brunt, 26, was admitted to a hospital but his injuries were not believed to be serious. He was in his 14th day atop the pole at a neighborhood shopping center in a radio station promotion stunt. He was telling his station by telephone the swaying pole was making him ill when the crash came.

SYRACUSE HAS A BIG ORDER THIS WEEKEND

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Reports from Miami say that Syracuse is the likely choice to oppose the Big Eight representative — most likely Oklahoma — in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

But at West Virginia, there's a non-poet type named Longfellow who could put the stamp of disapproval on Syracuse's post-season ambitions. He could turn the Mountaineers' so-so season into a successful one if they can defeat the Orange this Saturday.

The 21-year-old with the literary name is Dick Longfellow, senior quarterback and the Southern Conference's new offense leader. He picked up the Mountaineers, after four straight losses following an opening game victory, to three wins and a tie in their last four games.

Longfellow, a mite at 5-foot-9, has gained 1,127 yards in 9 games to overtake Virginia Tech's Bill Holsclaw, who led all season. He has completed 72 of 139 passes for 869 yards and 6 touchdowns.

Another bowl hopeful, Clemson, took a verbal prod from Coach Frank Howard as it prepped for Saturday's game with Boston College.

"They talk like they wanna's go to a bowl," he said, "but now I'd like to see 'em play that way. We just don't look good atall."

Oklahoma and Nebraska, which clash Saturday to decide the Big Eight title officially, both worked on defense Tuesday.

Notre Dame worked on pass defense for Saturday's nationally televised game with Iowa. Fullback Nick Pietrosante, hobbled in the North Carolina game, is expected to see action.

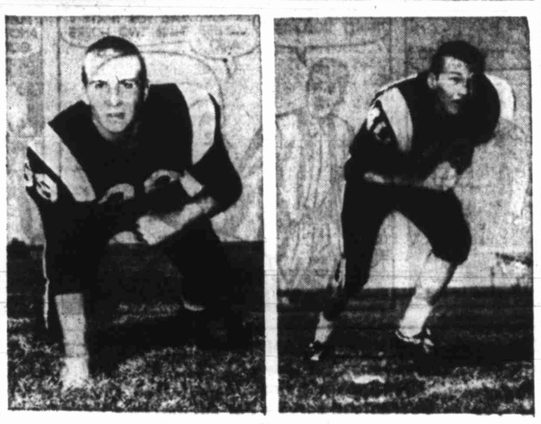

Iowa Coach Forest Evasheveski moved Jeff Langston to No. 1 left end and Capt. John Nocera worked at fullback in place of the injured Dan Horn.

At North Carolina, where the Tar Heels are still hoping for a bowl bid, things were settled down today after a verbal scuffle between Tarheel Coach Jim Tatum and North Carolina Coach Earle Edwards over eligibility of N. C. State tackle Dick Reynolds.

Tatum questioned Reynolds' eligibility when he learned the sophomore had agreed to play pro ball with the Baltimore Colts.

However, this happened when Reynolds played for the Camp Lejune Marines and his eligibility was approved by Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Jim Weaver.

Plains Standouts

The Plains Cowboys, who play Rotan in a Class A bi-district football game here Friday night, will be depending heavily on the four boys pictured above. Top row, left to right, they are Jimmy Williams, 175 pounds, fastest player on the squad and its leading scorer, with 122 points to his credit. Bill Lattimore (upper right) weighs 175, is a guard and a co-captain of the squad. Bill has missed the last three games due to a hip injury but will probably play against Rotan. He's a stellar blocker. At 195 pounds, Don Cooke (lower left) is the biggest boy on the team. He has speed to go with his size, plays tackle. Don Todd (lower right), 175 pounds also plays tackle. His strong suit is downfield blocking.

Bobbie Lane had 23 points for Crane while Phyllis Gilbert led Lakeview with 18.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

I notice the San Angelo mayor has proclaimed a "Beat Abilene Week."

He might import an African voodoo practitioner or bribe the fellow who prepares the food at the Abilene training table, if he really wants to help.

Granted that San Angelo will be keyed to the skies for this one, I don't think the Cats can stay within hailing distance of the Eagles. Judging, that is, from what I saw of the Cats last weekend.

With a healthy Wayne Fields, the Big Spring club could have given Bob Harrell's team a run for its money. And, with a break or two under such conditions, the Steers might have won. For one thing, with Fields in there, the Steers would have controlled the ball more.

San Angelo doesn't have the line to stay up with Abilene—one wonders how the Cats got by Midland. It doesn't have a quarterback with the imagination to mount much of an offensive. Its lack of a polished game will enable the Eagles to concentrate its defensive strength along avenues where the Bobcats, born of desperation, are most likely to travel.

Herschel (Mule) Stockton, the one-time head football coach here who has resided in San Angelo the past several years, says it's nice to call a little time his own, but he misses coaching.

Stockton decided to call its quits as a mentor a couple of years ago, due to the illness of his mother-in-law, who later passed on to her reward.

In East Texas, they think Carthage has the ball club to go all the way in the Class AAA football playoffs.

Carthage has consistently been ranked among the top four or five teams in the AAA division.

The Bulldogs are having to get along without their head coach, however. He is Ralph Murff, who was advised by his doctors several weeks ago to quit due to a heart condition.

Carthage, by the way, is in the same conference with Tyler Lee, where ex-Big Springer Sam Bell is now the head basketball mentor and football assistant.

Dave Coffin, the Penn halfback who outgained the entire Harvard team in a recent game, is the first architecture student in modern Penn history to play varsity football.

He's a left-hander, too, an oddity in the profession.

Bob Groseclose, the Abilene track and field mentor, says he's not discriminating against West Texas meets when he passes up shows like the West Texas and American Business Club Relays and takes his Eagle thinly clads into Central Texas for appearances in late March and early April.

Groseclose says the weather is too uncertain out this way in the early spring.

"Why take a chance on running in a sandstorm when we can virtually be assured of competing in good weather in places like Fort Worth and Dallas," he explains.

Groseclose has been unjustly accused of going to the larger cities in order to reap more publicity for himself and his school.

Cliff Livington, the New York Giant footballer who might be remembered to local TV audiences from an appearance he made on the musical quiz show called "Name That Tune," plays lots of volleyball during the off season.

He says the endeavor has helped him to become proficient as a kick blocker. He plays almost exclusively on defense for the Giants.

Cliff won $10,000 on the quiz show, by the way.

Joey Giardello Tries Webb In Ring At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Middleweight contender Joey Giardello aims to enlist public support tonight in his campaign to win a shot at the title.

"If I put up a good fight, maybe the people will help me," says Joey who goes against Spider Webb at the Cow Palace in a 10-rounder televised by ABC at 9 p.m. Big Spring time.

Giardello, 28, is ranked No. 3 contender in the 160-pound division by both Ring magazine and the National Boxing Assn.

Webb, 26, a former Olympic boxer from Chicago, holds the No. 4 spot in the NBA ratings and No. 5 in Ring magazine's.

Both are good boxers with a punch. Webb showed his here last January when he knocked out tough Rory Calhoun in the fourth round after being down twice himself.

Webb has fought 33 times with 29 victories and has stopped 15. Giardello has 77 victories, 14 losses, 5 draws and 1 no-decision match.

280 Could Win I'national Golf Tourney

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The glittering fairways and greens of deceptively beautiful Club de Golf Mexico were given a final trim today on the eve of the International Golf and Canada Cup matches.

A record field of 64 stars from 32 countries will tee off Thursday in the first of four 18-hole daily rounds on the tough 7,216-yard par-72 course on the outskirts of the Mexican capital.

The two-man team with the lowest combined score will win the Canada Cup. The individual low scorer will win the International championship.

"Anyone shooting 280 will win," predicted defending champion Torakichi (Pete) Nakamura of Japan, waving a chopstick over a hot Japanese meal delivered to him and teammate Koichi Ono at the clubhouse.

"I think a 282 will be good enough," said young Gary Player of South Africa.

The man expected to shoot that winning low score, despite his age, is Ben Hogan of the United States. Hogan and Sammy Snead, both 46 and the oldest in the tournament, are also favored to win the team trophy.

Experts rate the U.S. team No. 1 followed by Japan, South Africa, England, Ireland, Australia, Sweden, Wales and Argentina.

Hogan and Nakamura are betting favorites, but they could be upset by Player, Snead, Wales' Dai Rees or Dave Thomas, Peter Allis Jr. of England or Flory van Donck of Belgium.

The world championship of golf opens on a national holiday, Mexico's Constitution Day and a large holiday crowd is expected to provide overflow galleries.

Hogan and Snead are matched against Argentina's strong Fidel de Luca and Leopoldo Ruiz in the opening contests.

Japan's defending champions tangle with Mexico's host team of Jose Gonzalez and Juan Neri.

Playoff Teams Assigned Gyms

The Plains football team will use the dressing rooms at Howard County Junior College when it arrives here Friday to play Rotan in the Class A bi-district game.

Rotan has been assigned the dressing room at the senior high school gym, it has been announced.

The Rainbow girls will sell the programs prior to and during the game and will share in the proceeds. Concessions will be handled by the local schools while the Band Boosters will sell cushions.

Any number of organizations and businesses are cooperating to make the game a success.

The Coca-Cola Bottling Co. will furnish the time-keeper. The Quarterback Club will furnish three persons to operate the chain as well as the down-box for the officials. Ramp attendants and ticket takers will be supplied by the QBC while the school will furnish ticket salesmen.

The game announcer will be Bill Dawes, local teacher.

The game is jointly sponsored by the Quarterback Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

Zale's Jewelry Store is donating a championship trophy to the winning team. The trophy is valued at about $45.

Cosden Petroleum Corp. has agreed to purchase advertising rights for the program.

FAN FINALLY GETS REWARD

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rep. William J. Green (D-Pa) did not mind going to a lot of trouble last year to get a pair of tickets to the Army-Navy game for a friend.

But he was a little annoyed when the friend didn't show up. And he was more than a little annoyed when the friend never explained.

This year, the friend made the same request. Green sent him the tickets—last year's.

Red Schoendienst Has TB But He's Set On Playing

Schoendienst Mantilla

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst, Milwaukee Braves second baseman, has tuberculosis but his wife said he is determined to play again in the major leagues.

Schoendienst's personal physician, Dr. Ray Martin, said a series of tests disclosed beyond a doubt that the veteran ballplayer has TB and probably will not be able to play next year.

But Schoendienst's wife, Mary, said Tuesday night that he was "in very good spirits and determined to play again."

Buckeyes' White Is AP Back Of Week

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob White, Ohio State's fullback, has been named The Associated Press Back of the Week by the nation's sports writers and sportscasters for his strong performance against Iowa.

The 210-pounder hammered the Iowa defenses for 209 yards on 33 carries while scoring 3 touchdowns in Ohio State's 38-28 victory. He bore the brunt of the attack lugging the ball on 11 of 14 plays during the decisive 61-yard touchdown march.

White had to share the glory with Don Clark who carried 15 times for 152 yards although neither matched the yardage total of the losers' Randy Duncan, who made 246 yards net with a passing barrage.

Several other collegians received support in the balloting.

Pete Dawkins, Army's fleet halfback, scored three times in a 26-0 victory over Villanova. He broke open a scoreless game with an 80-yard punt return, raced 46 yards with a Joe Caldwell pass on a great exhibition of faking. Another 48-yard pass play from Caldwell brought the ball to the 5 from where Dawkins took it over.

Charley Milstead, a doubtful starter for Texas A&M against Rice because of a knee injury, played 50 minutes, passed for a touchdown and scored twice, gain- extra points in the 28-21 upset over the Owls.

California's Joe Kapp passed and ran for 205 yards against Washington. He was 66 per cent of California's total offense.

Strong support from the South came for Alex Hawkins of South Carolina for his performance against Virginia. His running sparked Carolina's first TD drive, a 45-yard return of an interception broke a tie and his catch kept alive a march for a final TD.

Larry Naviaux of Nebraska drew favorable mention for his 2 southpaw touchdown passes in a 14-6 upset of Pittsburgh. Pete Hart of Hardin-Simmons netted 125 yards while scoring 3 touchdowns against West Texas State.

In the Ivy League area, Jake Crouthamel of Dartmouth scored 3 times and gained 150 yards in 15 carries against Cornell. Frank Finney, Brown's fine passer, scored 3 touchdowns, passed for another and gained 164 yards against Harvard.

Others who got votes were:

Jack Spikes, Texas Christian fullback; Don Meredith, Southern Methodist quarterback; Jim Monroe, Arkansas quarterback; David Ray, Vanderbilt; Chuck Zimmerman, Syracuse; Dale Hackbart, Wisconsin.

THEY PLAYED TOGETHER

Printer No. One Gridder's Fan

By WAYLAND YATES

Nearly every morning during the football season, Larry Smith, Herald printer, has made his way to the front office for a look at the sports pages of the Abilene Reporter-News.

He's been looking for the latest news on Sammy Oates, deaf football player for Hardin-Simmons University. Oates has been one of the sensations of the Border Conference this fall and, despite his handicap, also has made some notable academic marks at H-SU.

Young Smith probably is Oates' No. 1 fan. He beams with joy every time an account of the H-SU end's exploits appear in the public prints.

Smith and Oates were All-Americans together at the Texas School for the Deaf in Austin. That was in 1956, Larry's last season. Oates went on to win the honor again in 1957—the fourth All-American designation he earned among football players in schools for the deaf.

Larry was an all-around lineman, starring in end, tackle, guard and center positions. He earned three football letters at the Texas School for the Deaf, and might have made the All-American roll another year or two except for the fact that he was running against stiff competition for a starting berth and didn't really come into the spotlight until his last year in school.

His interest in football isn't confined to the exploits of his former teammate now starring in college circles. Smith was in the stands for nearly all of the Big Spring Steers' football games this fall.

Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of San Angelo. He has been deaf since birth.

He entered the School for the Deaf in 1943 when he wss 5½ years of age and graduated in 1957 at the age of 19, having learned the printing trade while earning his high school diploma. He worked for the San Angelo Standard-Times for a time before taking a job in the Herald composing room where his uncle, Carroll (Rusty) Smith, is foreman.

Larry resides with his uncle here, but is a frequent visitor to San Angelo where his family still lives. In fact, hardly a Sunday passes but what young Smith goes either to San Angelo or Midland, where Sunday school classes for the deaf are conducted.

Unable to talk because he never has been able to hear, Smith communicates by writing and sign language, although there are few here able to converse in the latter. Sports are his principal hobby, and he also likes to watch television. He learned to dance in one of his physical education classes.

LARRY SMITH

Larry made his mark at Austin off the gridiron, too. During high school, he served as a "dormitory dad" for a group of smaller children, and earned a citizenship award for his campus activities.

The Texas School for the Deaf competed in the Southwest Academic League, made up of a number of private schools, including San Marcos Academy, St. Edward's of Austin, St. Mary's of Taylor, St. Joseph's of Yoakum, Sacred Heart of Halletsville and Concordia of Austin.

Smith's team also played against schools for the deaf in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi. Standard high school football rules were observed, except that deaf players used their sign language for calling signals.

The Texas School usually played a 10-game schedule while Smith and Oates were competing. The team won its conference crown in 1957 and was runner-up in 1956.

Management, Union Join To Aid Fur Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union and management forces in the fur industry united today in a three-year, $900,000 program to revive the American woman's flagging interest in buying furs.

While mink, ermine and sable remain popular with those who can afford them, the less exotic furs have slumped in feminine favor. Fur sales have dwindled to about half the volume of 10 years ago.

Improbably, it was the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union which took the initiative in trying to restore the glamor appeal of fur coats.

The Fur Workers Union has been adopted by the Meat Cutters as its fur and leather department, but a substantial part of the department's membership is out of work.

The Meat Cutters announced that an initial $25,000 contribution from their treasury will be supplemented with about $150,000 a year collected by a joint union-management authority for use of the union label in fur garments.

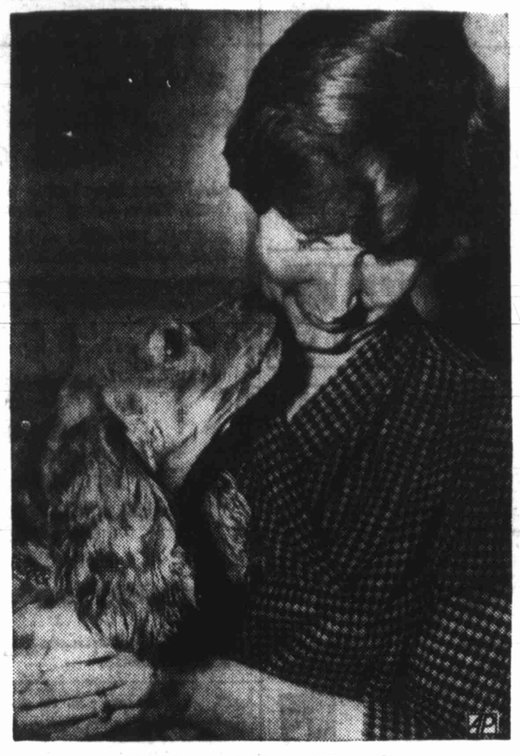

Another $150,000 annually, more or less, is to be raised by individual contributions from the many fur manufacturers — mostly small operators — and from the manufacturers' trade associations.

A study of consumers' fur-buying habits, wants, likes and dislikes has been made, the union announced. That study will provide the basis for a promotion and advertising campaign.

This program will be managed by a Fur Fashion and Information Council headed by Abe Feinglass, director of the union's fur and leather department.

In addition, Feinglass said, the council will undertake an intensive research program into fur coloring, styling and production techniques.

The fur industry acknowledges makers of cloth coats have cut deeply into their market by smart styling, the use of new fabrics, textures and finishes, and introduction of new artificial fibers.

DAV Chapter To Sponsor Forget-Me-Not Observance

The Big Spring Chapter of Disabled American Veterans will sponsor Forget-Me-Not Day Saturday, and the blue flowers will be on sale throughout the day, leaders of the organization have announced.

Support of the project, which helps finance the DAV's welfare program for disabled veterans and their families, is being urged by Mayor G. W. Dabney in a proclamation issued today.

In the proclamation, the mayor called on everyone to purchase Forget-Me-Nots, blue flowers of remembrance, when they are sold on the city streets Saturday.

The proclamation emphasized that all funds collected by the Disabled American Veterans will be used locally in its welfare work among disabled veterans and their dependents.

Mayor Dabney in his proclamation said:

"It is the moral duty of everyone of us to feel gratitude for those men and women who returned to civilian life in our community with wartime injuries and handicaps.

"There not infrequently comes into the lives of these persons periods of want and temporary financial distress, many times because disabled veterans have not yet had their government benefits approved by the Veterans Administration, or because partial illness bars them from fulltime employment."

He commended the Disabled American Veterans for providing welfare assistance to disabled veterans and their families; free service in assisting veterans in their claims, employment and hospital problems, and the further pledge of the organization to protect existing benefits and obtain additional needed benefits for disabled veterans.

Cold Air Covers U.S.

By The Associated Press

Strong northwest winds from the violent storm which raked the Rockies and northern Midwest fanned cold air accoss the eastern half of the nation today.

Gale warnings remained posted on the Great Lakes.

Wind gusts of 50 and 60 m.p.h. lashed northern Michigan Tuesday. A big cargo ship with a crew of 35 was caught in the mountainous waves of Lake Michigan and apparently broke up and sank off Gull Island, 38 miles north of Charlevoix. The missing 615-foot carrier was the Carl D. Bradley.

Gale-like winds also hammered the north shore of Lake Superior as the tail-end of the storm struck the Dakotas and northern and northwestern Minnesota. Towering waves smashed summer cabins and resorts as the storm swept into northwestern Ontario.

At least 10 deaths were attributed to the snow storm which pounded sections from Idaho, Utah and Arizona northeastward to Minnesota.

However, skies cleared and temperatures rose from sub-zero and freezing levels in the storm-stricken areas of the West. Warmer weather was the outlook in all areas west of the Mississippi River.

Girl Foils Bank Robber

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) —A pretty girl who doesn't scare easily foiled Louis J. Cerruti and his elaborate bank robbery plans.

Miss Elaine Gapch, 20, is a teller at the National State Bank. She was working quietly Tuesday when Cerruti, an unemployed travel agent, handed her a note demanding all her cash and threatening harm to her mother and brother if she sounded an alarm.

Miss Gapch quietly read the note, handed Cerruti $4,000 and pulled an equally quiet police alarm.

Cerruti was met at the door of the bank by two patrolmen. "I'm the man. Don't hurt me," he said.

Police said that Cerruti, 33, married and the father of five children, was heavily in debt.

He learned Miss Gapch's identity and called her mother on the telephone. He told her he represented a television show.

In answer to his questions, Mrs. Adele Gapch of Roselle Park told him she has two sons, Thomas and Paul. She confirmed that Elaine is her daughter.

Cerruti then composed the note which he presented to Elaine. It indicated that her brother Paul and mother were being held and would be shot unless she followed instructions.

Suicide Ruled In Attorney's Death

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — The death of a former Brownsville attorney who was charged with murder in the shooting of an Army officer here in 1953 was ruled suicide yesterday.

R. A. Hightower, 61, was found hanging from a tree at his home at Olmito near here.

Hightower was charged with fatally shooting Col. J. W. Worthington. He was committed to the state hospital at Rusk in 1954 but was released last month.

The verdict of suicide was returned by Justice of the Peace G. A. Garza.

Low Of 27 Degrees Is Recorded Today

Temperature fell to 27 degrees early Wednesday morning for the coldest night of the current fall season. It was 28 degrees at 8 a.m. The U. S. Experiment Station said the subfreezing temperatures prevailed for more than three hours. The 27 degree reading lasted for more than 30 minutes.

Meantime, James Taylor, county farm agent, said he had made a general survey of the county on Tuesday afternoon. Frost on Monday night was general over the county, he reported. However, it was colder north of a line extending east and west through Fairview. South part of the county had frost but not of the intensity that struck in the northern areas.

Cotton leaves had already begun to blacken Tuesday, Taylor found, and he believed that the frost of Monday and the repitition last night would probably defoliate all of the fields.

This, he explained, was probably a benefit rather than an injury to the farmers. He pointed out that farmers were happy that the first killing frost had held off two weeks longer than was anticipated and that these two weeks will be higly helpful in maturing late cotton which needed the additional respite badly.

Stripping will be possible in many fields now that the leaves will drop. Feed crops not as yet combined were also undamaged by the freeze and the frost could have killed off sucker heads which posed a handicap to harvesting, the county agent said.

Warning was sounded to all farmers that livestock should not be permitted to eat any sorghums, maize, Johnson grass or a froxther forage in the fields for a few days after a frost such as occurred last night. Taylor said the frost creates prussic acid in the stalks and that danger of loss of animals is high until the grain has time to season.

He suggested any animal which may somehow get into frosted grain fields and become ill be rushed to a veterinarian at once. In a few days, the poisonous impact of the frost will disappear, he said.

High on Tuesday was 57 in Big Spring. Wednesday morning was bright and clear with a warm sun and by midmorning the most of the uncomfortable chill had vanished.

Army Convoy Halts At Webb

Elements of the U. S. Army Third Corps Artillery, en route to their regular station at Ft. Hood, spent last night at Webb AFB and departed early today on the last leg of their trek from the West Coast. Another group of the artillerymen is due at Webb late this afternoon and will be billeted at the base tonight.

The units passed through here nearly six weeks ago to take part in "Exercise Rocky Shoals," a joint Army-Navy amphibious maneuver staged Nov. 5-10 near Camp Roberts, Calif.

The first return convoy which stopped here last night included 118 vehicles and some 300 men. It is due to reach Ft. Hood this afternoon.

In addition to receiving food and housing at Webb, the Army unit refueled its trucks for the final leg of the long trip.

Rain Interferes In Ticket Giving

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rain, rain, go away — so the police can issue parking tickets.

A number of motorists were summoned to traffic court Tuesday for failing to pay parking tickets. All said they found blank tickets under their windshields. Naturally, they threw them away.

Magistrate Joseph J. Hersch was skeptical, but he had a hunch.

"Let us conduct a scientific experiment," he said. "Get me a glass of water."

He wrote out two tickets, put the carbon copies — the ones the motorists get — in a glass of water. The writing disappeared.

He put the tickets on a radiator and waited. In 30 minutes the writing reappeared.

"I suppose," said Hersch, "that we shall have to ask policemen who issue tickets on rainy days to also leave a note for the motorist, 'Kindly hang up to dry.'"

Kids Get Ribbing In 'Ginger' Play

"Time Out for Ginger" is an hilarious spoof on the kids as well as their parents. And high schools come in for their share of ribbing also.

Take, for example, the principal's statement that "we don't pay the coach to think—we pay the coach to teach English!"

"Ginger" will be staged by the Court Jesters at the Big Spring High School Auditorium Thursday and Friday evenings. Advance indications are that it will be an evening well spent.

The story line gets rather complicated—a banker tells the local students during assembly that all people should be allowed to do as they please, with the result that the kids take him seriously. Especially his own three daughters, one of whom decides to go out for the grid squad.

Much of the comedy of "Time Out for Ginger" comes from this situation, but the author throws in some amusing observations of human nature, as well. Some of the humor is subtle, but most of it is easily enough recognized.

And besides the comedy, there are spots of rather touching drama—such as when Ginger, who has finally made the team, and has brought victory by a touchdown in the last two minutes of the game, is suddenly confronted by an excited father calling her "my son!" This is too much for Ginger, and she rushes tearfully upstairs. When she comes down again, she has decided she wants to be a girl, after all.

Any director must have a good right arm, but speech instructor Phillip Wayne has three. It's about time these three got a little recognition; they've earned it.

Janet Thorburn is Wayne's Girl Friday. As student director, she handles all the little chores that mean big headaches for the director. She's the type that one knows instinctively is efficient just from the way she carries herself.

The other Girl Fridays are Linda Hearn as prompter, and Mary Jane Engstrom on publicity. All three have a sense of responsibility, and often take on necessary chores on their own, without having to be told what to do.

* * *

Wayne is planning a surprise for the curtain call. Just what it is he isn't saying, although it's not supposed to be anything earth-shattering. Just a new twist in keeping with the subject matter of "Time Out for Ginger."

Lubbock Gets Bob Hope Show

America's great comedian and good-will ambassador, Bob Hope, will appear at the Municipal Coliseum Friday at 8:30 p.m. This will follow the Texas Tech homecoming pep rally on the Tech campus, at 7 p.m.

Appearing will be singer Ann Mason, a new act, "The Mark III", "The Ink Spots", a vocal group, and emcee Pete Pedersen. Russ Gary and his orchestra will play for the show.

Tickets are $4.00, $3.50, $3.00 and $2.50 and military personnel and Tech students are admitted for $2.00. Tickets are on sale daily in the lobby of the Aduitorium and will be on sale at 7 p.m. Friday night at the main entrance to the Coliseum.

The Lubbock Auditorium box office will be closed Nov. 22-Nov. 30 to open again Dec. 1 for ticket sales for "Music With Mary Martin," scheduled for Feb. 2.

The box office will be open Monday through Friday Dec. 1-Dec. 12, and will close until after the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

Purpose In Art Not Photographic

The clothesline show, annual sales and exhibit of Las Artistas, should be interesting to all kinds of people.

There will be some paintings to draw the interest of the artistically unlettered, who are shopping for pretty pictures to grace the living room wall. And there will be some paintings to interest the artistically cultivated.

As far as most people are concerned, a certain noted artist was not necessarily correct when he said "if a pretty picture is what you want, get a photograph." Yet, within this statement lies the secret of understanding what art is and what it is not.

The uninformed layman seeks in a painting just about what he seeks in a photograph—an exact likeness of whatever subject he wishes to decorate a wall. The exact likeness is inherent in photography and, generally speaking, is the purpose of that particular art. The photograph is largely limited to what the lenses and the lighting and the emulsions can do with the subject.

The purpose in painting, on the other hand, is interpretation of the subject. Thus, the painter, not being restricted by the physical laws of optics and chemistry, is able to shape his subject in slightly less than realistic terms. This re-shaping, properly used, is a device for interpretation.

There are a thousand such techniques available to the painter, developed over the past several centuries before photography was even thought of. For example, there is composition; the placing of objects so that their architecture balances, or draws attention to the central theme. Or, balance may be expressed through color.

A good painting is not to be understood quickly or off-handedly. It requires study, which is why museums arrange benches across from the exhibits.

When you view the efforts of local artists Saturday, bear in mind that in a good painting, all the elements must balance, and that no one factor stands alone; each element contributes something to the whole, and the whole is not complete without each of its members.

Hearing Held On Warren-Gulf Oil Company Merger

A day long hearing on the Federal Trade Commission's investigation into the merger some two years ago of Warren Petroleum Corp. and Gulf Oil Co. was conducted in the Howard County Commissioners courtroom Tuesday.

This one of a series of hearings at which representatives of the trade commission have taken mountains of testimony in connection with the merger of the two oil firms. It is said the hearings will continue 18 months. There are a large number of additional hearings of a like nature yet to be conducted.

The hearing here dealt with the commission's investigation into what effect the merger has had on the business dealings and relationships of the two principals and associated industries.

Included in witnesses who were heard at the Howard County meeting were representatives of the Cosden Petroleum Corp. It was pointed out that Cosden does business with both Gulf and Warren and has for many years.

Cop's Presence At Bra Search Told At Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Horace Dodge underwent a brassiere search by policewomen while a male bluecoat stood by when she was jailed on a charge of intoxication, a municipal court jury was told.

Mrs. Dodge is the wife of auto heir Horace Dodge II. Her trial on three counts of battery and one of drunkenness resumed today.

Policewoman Gail Rice, under cross examination Tuesday, told of frisking Mrs. Dodge's brassiere and removing her stockings while a male officer was standing nearby.

Miss Rice testified that Mrs. Dodge spit and tried to bite officers when they arrested her last Aug. 26 in the company of Chicago newspaper columnist Irv Kupcinet.

Miss Rice and another policewoman, Marilyn Sperry, have filed separate civil actions for $170,000 each against Mrs. Dodge, alleging battery.

Kupcinet awaits trial Dec. 10 on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor.

News Of Star's Death Kept From Mother As Rites Pend

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The body of Tyrone Power will be interred near the crypt of Rudolph Valentino, but Power's mother, 70 and ill, won't be told of her son's death.

"The news would kill her," a maid said Tuesday.

The disclosure recalls the benevolent family conspiracy that kept the mother of crooner Russ Colombo ignorant of her son's death. She died in 1944 unaware the crooner accidentally had shot himself 10 years before while examining an old Civil War pistol.

Power's mother, who lives quietly in a Hollywood home with a nurse and a maid, suffered a stroke several years ago. "We don't have a radio in the house and we only let her watch certain programs on television," the maid said.

Power, who died Saturday of a heart attack on a movie location in Spain, was a devoted son. He visited his mother frequently while in Hollywood and sent her a constant flow of cards when away.

The body of the 44-year-old actor was scheduled to arrive by plane tonight accompanied by his widow, the former Debbie Ann Minardos. She expects a baby in February.

Funeral services were tentatively scheduled for Thursday noon.

However, a Catholic source here said that it is doubtful Power can be buried in the Catholic faith. Although born and baptized a Catholic, a source said, Power automatically excommunicated himself when he married the former Mrs. Minardos, a divorcee and the actor's third wife.

The church considers Power's marriage to his second wife, actress Linda Christian, still a valid marriage. His first marriage to actress Annabella was not valid in the eyes of the church.

Miss Christian arrived Tuesday night from Paris and New York. Miss Christian's and Power's two daughters, Romina Francesca, 8, and Taryn Stephanie, 6, arrived from Mexico City where they had been living with their grandmother. The children have not been told of their father's death.

Miss Christian said Power told her last May that he had a heart condition and then informed her a few days later that the diagnosis was incorrect.

She said she urged him to take another examination but that he indicated to her he would rather not know.

The actress said she knew of an insurance policy taken out by Power through Lloyd's of London to provide continued payment of her estimated million-dollar alimony settlement in their 1955 divorce.
