Rig count plunges

HOUSTON — The number of working oil and gas rigs in the nation plunged to a new record low this week of 610, but an industry official attributed the decline in part to bad weather in some states. The count dropped by 19 rigs this week, eclipsing the previous record low of 623 set earlier this year, Baker Hughes Inc. reported Friday. A year ago, the count stood at 850.

Perot wants TV time

NEW YORK — Ross Perot is negotiating to buy a half-hour of TV time on June 27th, his birthday and the date some have speculated he would announce his candidacy for president, network sources said Friday. The Texas billionaire has approached ABC and NBC about purchasing a prime-time slot on the 27th, sources said. Perot, who turns 62 on that date, has shown a penchant for taking important steps on his birthday.

Max Lerner dies

NEW YORK — Max Lerner, an educator, journalist and student of American civilization who was for many years a syndicated columnist for The New York Post, died Friday at Mount Sinai Hospital in Manhattan. He was 89 and had homes in Manhattan and Southampton, N.Y. He died of a stroke, said his son Stephen, of Washington. Lerner was one of the more conspicuous of the post-World War II non-fiction writers, a humanist whose unabashed liberal conscience led him to the political barricades for more than three decades. In the 1950s and early '60s, he was regarded as a controversial speaker.

Princess Diana

LONDON — Princess Diana swallowed a handful of mild painkillers in 1986, troubled by marital problems and the belief that her two sons were happier with their nanny than with her, a newspaper reported Friday. But her overdose of the aspirin substitute paracetamol "was never intended to be more than an agonized cry for help," according to unidentified palace insiders quoted in a front-page report on a new biography of Diana. Buckingham Palace had "absolutely no comment at all" on the article.

Rift grows between EPA, administration

WASHINGTON (NYT) — President Bush on Friday defended William K. Reilly, the head of the American delegation to the Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro, and attacked an unidentified member of his administration who made public a confidential memorandum in an attempt to embarrass Reilly.

"Mr. Reilly, a top environmentalist, has my full support," Bush said at a White House news conference Friday morning. "He conducts himself the way he should, with great dignity and great decency. That a document that he prepared properly was leaked, I find terribly offensive."

Bush tries to appease oil, environment lobbies

By Jackie Koszczuk

WASHINGTON — Going into the Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro, President Bush has tried to keep his balance on a thin wire between two potent political constituencies, the oil industry and the environmental movement.

When the president says he will not sacrifice American jobs for new controls on global warming gases, to a large degree he's talking about oil-patch jobs, many of them in Texas.

With its heavy concentration of oil, gas and petrochemical industries, the president's home state is by far the nation's

Drug sting swarms city

Lawmen target street-level dealing in raid

■ Police expect arrests to continue throughout the weekend.

By Darren J. Waggoner

Staff writer

Street-level drug dealing in Midland suffered a "serious" setback Friday as lawmen swarmed the city, methodically carrying out 72 sealed indictments before noon — including 49 on charges of dealing crack cocaine, police said.

"Crack is very prevalent in Midland. In fact, there is a severe drug problem in Midland. Cocaine and marijuana are available nearly all over the city," Chief of Police Richard Czech said Friday afternoon.

Czech believes the arrests will slow street-level dealing — but only temporarily.

"The problem is a lot of these people have already bonded out and some are probably back to dealing right now," Czech said. "I can't tell you how frustrating that is for me and my officers."

According to Czech, drug dealers in Midland have become careless. And, indeed, several of the alleged offenders appeared complacent and smug as they were handcuffed and led to patrol cars.

At least one man turned himself in when he got word of the morning sting, police said.

"I think they (dealers) have become negligent because there is no deterrent to stop them. They don't get any time (in prison)," Czech said. "They view it (an arrest) as the cost of doing business."

Jobless rate hits 8-year high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unemployment rate jumped to 7.5 percent in May, the highest level in nearly eight years, as the weak economy failed to accommodate a huge infusion of college graduates and other young job seekers, government figures showed Friday.

The Bush administration insisted there were glimmers of hope behind the dark figures, but some private economists worried that the 0.3 percentage-point increase in the Labor Department's jobless rate could be a warning the economy is in danger of stalling out again.

While a survey of businesses indicated the economy produced 68,000 new jobs last month, a separate survey of households showed there were 330,000 new entrants into the labor market — half of them between the ages of 16 and 24.

The big rise in job seekers unable to find work pushed the number of unemployed Americans to 9.5 million in May, the highest level since October 1983. The 7.5 percent jobless rate was

Perot promises power in 'electronic town hall'

WASHINGTON — Twenty-three years ago, Ross Perot had a simple idea.

The nation was splintered by the great and painful issues of the day. There had been years of disorder and disunity, and lately, terrible riots in Los Angeles and other cities.

People talked of an America in crisis. The government seemed to many to be ineffectual and out of touch.

What this country needed, Perot thought, was a good, long talk with itself.

The information age was dawning, and Perot, then building what would become one of the world's largest computer-

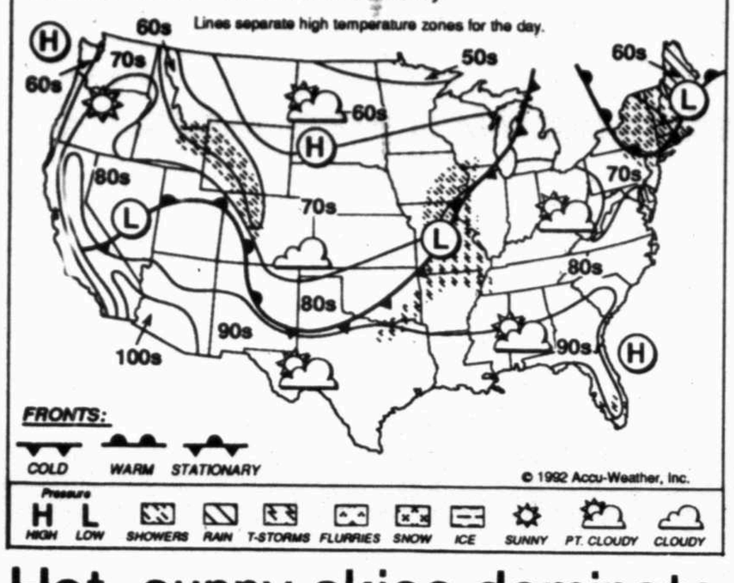
WEATHER SUMMARY



Hot, sunny skies dominate

Staff report

Hot, sunny weather is to range over the Midland area today.

Daytime temperatures are to rise between 95 to 100 degrees today, and winds are to be southwesterly to westerly at 10 to 20 mph, according to the weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

The sky is to be partly cloudy tonight, when the low temperature is to be in the mid-60s.

For Sunday, the weatherman is forecasting partly cloudy skies and a 30 percent chance of showers or thunderstorms. Daytime high temperatures are to be 90 to 95 degrees.

Friday's peak temperature was 93 degrees, and the overnight low was 63 degrees.

The record high temperature for June 5 is 106 degrees in 1990, and the record low temperature for June 6 is 56 degrees in 1983.

STATE

It was partly cloudy and warm across most of Texas on Friday with scattered showers in North and Central Texas.

Forecasters issued a tornado watch for a large part of the Texas Panhandle.

Temperatures statewide climbed into the 70s to 90s with south to southeasterly winds at 5 to 15 miles an hour.

The North Texas forecast was for partly cloudy skies with a slight chance of afternoon or evening thunderstorms. Highs today and Sunday were to be around 90. The low tonight was to be around 70.

The forecast for South Texas was for partly cloudy skies with widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms in the north. Highs today were to be mostly in the 90s. Lows were to range from the 60s in the Hill Country to near 80 in the south.

NATION

Rainshowers and thunderstorms splattered across much of the nation on Friday, and some people were evacuated in two states because of flooding.

Heavy rains caused flooding, road closings and evacuations in southwestern Virginia. About 40 people were evacuated late Thursday from homes in Wythe County, Tom Dupuis, the county's emergency services director, said Friday morning.

About 50 Mercer County residents in southern West Virginia also were forced from their homes.

Near Shelby, N.C., at least one tornado touched down Thursday, destroying two mobile homes and knocking down power lines. Thunderstorms on Thursday also spawned destructive lightning and large hail, the National Weather Service reported.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

DRUG: Officers target street-level dealing

(From 1A)

Many of those charged Friday exercised their right to remain silent, while others voiced their innocence.

One handcuffed man smoked a cigarette held by his wife while narcotics detectives searched his apartment.

Fidel Silva, 47, had enjoyed one week of freedom following his release last week from the Fort Stockton jail on a delivery of marijuana charge.

"When can I call my lawyer?" he said. "I don't know when I could have done anything wrong in a week's time."

Police said Silva's arrest stemmed from a previous Midland County charge of delivery of marijuana.

The sting, initiated in November, netted more dealers than any previous Midland police drug operation.

Nearly 90 lawmen began executing the 72 arrests around 8 a.m. Friday. And police expected to serve the remaining 34 indictments during the weekend.

Jail officials booked the offenders at a feverish pace until around 11 a.m. when officers began to find fewer and fewer people at home.

"I'm sure the word got out on the street. They probably left the house," said detective Mel Francis. "But they'll come back. We'll get them eventually."

"If they sell to us once and we get them, they will say they needed money to feed their kids or something," said Cpl. Jim White. "They come up with some real tear-jerkers sometimes."

According to Czech, undercover officers usually find it easy to blend into the surroundings and buy drugs from the local dealers.

"Our officers know who's dealing. A lot of it runs in the families — it's a generational thing," Czech said.

At 1002½ W. Washington St., police arrested Mary Bell Jurado, 22, but had to wait about 30 minutes until a relative arrived to take care of her young child.

Ms. Jurado was charged with two counts of delivery of cocaine and one count of delivery of marijuana.

Police seized her black Mercury Cougar, as well as five other vehicles during the raid. All of the vehicles had been used to deliver narcotics, officers said.

At 8:25 a.m. police arrested 32-year-old Brentley Jackson, a.k.a. George Ralph Jackson, at 1414 Chestnut Ave. and charged him with delivery of cocaine as three others watched from the door.

Minutes later, after a background check, police arrested another man at the house.

Lovie Blaylock, 33, shrugged as officers read him his charge — one count of delivery of cocaine.

The two remaining bystanders at the door laughed as an officer closed the squad car door on Blaylock.

Two neighbors shook their heads in disgust.

"I'm glad to see them get it, but it won't do any good," said James Wilson, 30.

During the department's last major sting operation on Dec. 14, officers arrested more than 30 people, some of whom were accused of operating out of several local restaurants and bars.

"That was not the intent of today's operation. We strictly wanted to hit the street dealers and put a crunch on their dealers — the wholesalers," Czech said.

Those arrested on felony delivery of cocaine charges Friday, along with age and address, include: Clarence Lee Anderson, 26, 200 N. Madison St.; Lovie Blaylock III, 33, 1310 E. New York Ave.; Evelyn Denice Braziel, 32, 100 N. Madison St.; Julius Durham, 41, 1714 Butternut Lane; James Lee Gambles, 30, 1112 E. Pennsylvania Ave.; Litsandra Gipson, 21, 400 E. Pine Ave.; Randall Ray Hughes, 21, 4303 Andrews Highway; Brentley Jackson, 32, 1414 E. Chestnut Ave.; Charles Johnson, 35, 1002 S. Mineola St.; Mary Bell Jurado, 22, 1002 W. Washington Ave.; Mary Lenard, 51, 105 S. Mineola St.; Leonard Pope, 31, 3101 N. Midland Dr. and Kathy Jean Williams, 32, 108 S. Mineola St. Apt. E.

Charged with delivery of a controlled substance include: Eric Lambert Hess, 36, 2438 Whitmire Blvd. 21D; Sammy Lee Johnson, 52, 408 N. Lee St.; Wylene Julia Lenard, 23, 105 S. Mineola St.; Terry McGowan, 26, 310 N. Tyler St.; James Ronald Maxwell, 43, 1100 W. Washington St.; Carlos Eduardo Montez, 39, 1011 Tarleton St.; Christopher Michael Newton, 20, 404 W. Spruce Ave. and Mark Anthony Owens, 18, 4315 Neely Ave.

Accused of delivery of marijuana include: William James Bloom, 19, 4819 Rustic Trail; Carolyn Jane Burns, 32, 5100 Ric Drive.; Terry Edward Dial, 34, 210 Mitchell St.; Michael Wayne Frary, 41, 1910 Nash St.; David Valles Garcia, 32, 4405 Garfield St.; Kevin Floyd Ison, 20, 2600 N. Loop 250; Billy Wayne Madry, 35, 204 E. Pennsylvania Ave.; Albesa Pena Martinez, 42, 208 Howard Drive; Sean Patrick Murphy, 22, 5100 Ric Drive; Cosme Rodriguez, 49, 1519 S. Fort Worth St.; Fidel Silva, 47, 405 N. Carrizo St. Apt. 28; James Dean Swarts, 44, 1000 W. Indiana Ave. and Wendell C. Yarborough, 28, 4616 Thomason Drive.

Three people were charged with misdemeanor offenses, including a local liquor store owner who was accused of selling alcohol after hours.

Charges against 33 other people were expected to be available today.

Bonds of $10,000 for each felony charge were set in grand jury indictments issued May 29.

Officers from the Midland County Sheriff's office, the Midland County District Attorney's office, the Department of Public Safety, the Drug Enforcement Administration and the Permian Basin Drug Task Force assisted the police during the sting.

RIFT: Reilly criticizes U.S. opposition to Rio treaty

(From 1A)

But even as Bush called the leak "an insidious practice," a struggle over the administration's environmental policy grew sharper as Reilly fought back. In Rio, he and his aides blamed staff members of the President's Council on Competitiveness, a group led by Vice President Dan Quayle, for the leak.

Jeffrey Nesbit, a spokesman for the vice president, denied the accusation, saying that "the assertion that the Competitiveness Council leaked a confidential memo is totally false."

The newest conflict between Reilly, the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, and the vice president began Wednesday night when Reilly made a last-minute appeal to the White House to reverse its position and approve an international treaty to protect the earth's plants and animals. The appeal was rejected, but in Rio on Friday the treaty was signed by delegates of 16 other countries.

Reilly's confidential memorandum was sent to Clayton K. Yeutter, the president's domestic policy chief, and included a passage that described how the administration's refusal to sign the treaty was "the major subject of press and delegate concern here."

The memorandum said that Brazil had offered to "fix" the treaty to gain U.S. approval. An administration official, concerned that Reilly might persuade the White House to sign the treaty, gave a copy of the the memorandum to The New York Times.

The conflict between Reilly and Quayle was joined last summer when the vice president overcame Reilly's strong opposition and issued a proposed policy that would open 50 million acres of wetlands to development.

Since then, the Council on Competitiveness has become one of the administration's most influential bodies in deciding environmental policy.

The council has been intimately involved in developing the regulatory moratorium and review that the president announced last January. It has also delayed new rules under the 1990 Clean Air Act, and last month gained the president's support for limiting public involvement in deciding how much air pollution a company can emit.

The influence of the council extends to international affairs. David M. McIntosh, its 33-year-old executive director, wrote a memorandum in April opposing U.S. support for the treaty to protect plants, animals and other biological resources.

The memorandum, which McIntosh wrote with John Cohrssen, an associate director of the Competitiveness Council, argued that the treaty would harm the ability of biotechnology companies to protect biological inventions developed from resources collected in foreign countries.

Reducing restrictions on testing and marketing genetically engineered products has been one of the central projects undertaken by the Competitiveness Council over the last two years.

BUSH: President tries to balance oil, environment leading source of carbon dioxide, considered the major culprit in greenhouse warming.

The industry produces something else in abundance: political money, the mother's milk of a tough re-election campaign.

So far this election season, U.S. corporate oil and gas chieftains have kicked in $2.3 million to Bush's GOP fund-raising dinners and to the Republican Party, more than any other industry, according to a study done for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram by the Center for Responsive Politics in Washington.

Bush is also surrounded by advisers and friends who come from the oil patch, where the president made his personal fortune as head of Zapata Petroleum in Midland in the late 1940s and 1950s.

No wonder then that Bush sometimes struggles to be the environment president when he also is the oil president.

When the administration refused to agree at Rio to an international treaty that included specific caps and timetables for curbing carbon dioxide emissions, the United States fell out of step with the rest of the world's industrialized countries.

The environmental lobby was quick to accuse the White House of sacrificing policy for politics, while the oil lobby praised him for doing the sensible thing to protect jobs during a recession.

"The administration has been walking through a very difficult cow pasture and trying to avoid stepping into anything unpleasant," said Terry F. Yosie, a former oil industry lobbyist. "And in the process, it has been doing this weaving and bobbing exercise.

"Bush wanted to have it both ways," Yosie said. "He wanted to be able to tell the environmentalists we signed a treaty, but he also wanted to tell industry we avoided the most onerous parts of the treaty."

In advance of the Rio summit, oil joined with the transportation, coal and electric utility industries in a classic battle against environmental groups to stop the United States from agreeing to carbon dioxide emissions caps and timetables.

There was much at stake for those industries in Texas, especially oil and gas.

Texas belched carbont at a rate of 155 million metric tons a year in 1986, far more than any other state, according to the most recent statistics available from Renew America, a Washington research firm that compiled a state breakdown for the Department of Energy.

By comparison, the second-highest emitter of carbon in the United States was California, which logged 85 million metric tons in 1986.

Carbon bonds with oxygen in the air to form carbon dioxide, a heavy, colorless, odorless gas that was not considered to be an air pollutant until still inconclusive research linked large quantities of carbon dioxide in the atomoshere to global warming.

Industry lobbyists flooded congressional offices with studies that said 74,000 jobs would be lost in Texas alone — and as many as 360,000 nationwide — if the carbon dioxide emissions were subject to controls. It presented other studies that predicted a 1.7 percent decline in gross national product, enough to keep the nation mired in recession indefinitely.

"Clearly we have made the administration aware of the plight of this industry," said William O'Keefe, executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute, oil's chief lobbying arm. "Many of the environmental groups simply don't care about economic growth in this country."

SUMMER: Program helps teens get work experience

(From 1A)

"We give them training and put them to work so they can gain experience and earn additional income," said W.C. Wilson, office manager for PIC.

"It's one way we hope to keep them from dropping out of school and a way they can help their families."

Wilson said the young people, ages 14-21, will be paid minimum wage for four weeks of work and may work more if funding becomes available.

Tarango said he will use that money to buy school supplies for next year. He worked for the program last year, too, and found it helped him make his summer productive.

"Without it, I'd be sitting around at home or just out bumming around," he said.

Burton, who wants to go to college and become a chemical engineer, has plans for his income as well.

"I plan on buying my own school clothes," he said. "I might even put a down payment on a car or something."

They attended an orientation Friday designed to ready them for Monday's first day on the job. PIC Executive Director Willie Taylor told the working teens on Friday that they were among the lucky few.

"We serve 17 counties in the Permian Basin, and we have had to turn away 1,500 to 2,000 kids we had no funding to serve this year," Taylor said. "I hope in the next few days you put your right foot forward. I wish you the best of luck."

TeamBank President Joe R. Andrews III, whose company co-sponsors the program, urged the young people to consider career choices now.

"The economic and social barriers that once existed aren't there today," he said. "What you should start doing is thinking about what you want to be and how are you going to get there. Time goes by a lot quicker than you want it to."

Andrews said TeamBank's sponsorship was "an effort to meet the needs of the community."

"Education is so important," said bank sales manager Dora Clardy. "If we can get them to start out on the right foot and get them into a career field, it's going to be better for everyone."

Participants got lessons about motivation, goal-setting and an introduction to using a bank. They got advice about job interviews, filling out applications and creating a good first impression.

And they were told to have dreams.

"It's okay to dream, to want things in your life," PIC deputy director Donna Harrison told the group. "But be your best and do your best. Be ready to work for what you want."

PEROT: Idea could place power in hands of TV audience

processing companies, saw in its glow the answser to everything.

Every week, Perot proposed, the television networks would broadcast an hour-long program in which one issue would be discussed. Viewers would record their opinions by marking computer cards, which they would mail to regional tabulating centers. Consensus would be reached, and the leaders would know what the people wanted.

Perot gave his idea a name that draped the old dream of pure democracy with the glossy promise of technology: "the electronic town hall."

Today, Perot's idea, essentially unchanged from 1969, is at the core of his "We the People" drive for the presidency and of his theory for governing.

It forms the basis of Perot's pitch, in which he presents himself, not as a politician running for president, but as a patriot willing to be drafted "as a servant of the people" to take on the "dirty, thankless" job of rescuing America from "the Establishment," and running it.

In set speeches and interviews, the Texas billionaire-populist describes the electronic town hall as the principal tool of governance in a Perot presidency, and he makes grand claims: "If we ever put the people back in charge of this country and make sure they understand the issues, you'll see the White House and Congress, like a ballet, pirouetting around the stage getting it done in unison."

Although Perot has repeatedly said he would not attempt to use the electronic town hall as a direct decision-making body, he has on other occasions suggested placing a startling degree of power in the hands of the television audience.

He has proposed at least twice — in an interview with David Frost broadcast on April 24 and in a March 18 speech at the National Press Club — passing a constitutional amendment that would strip Congress of its authority to levy taxes and place that power directly in the hands of the people, in a debate and referendum orchestrated through an electronic town hall.

Once the danger of the nation's huge debt was explained properly, Perot theorized, "The people will say, 'All right, the responsible thing to do is to raise taxes on ourselves.' And that leads to the next question: What should the tax system be?"

The answer to that, again, would rest in the hands of those quickest to reach for the telephone. The new federal tax system, Perot said, "would be conceived, worked out, and agreed to by the American people through the town hall."

Perot has said he would be willing to resign the presidency if enough people dialed in to tell him to do so, in a sort of 1-800-CANROSS campaign.

"I would just go through the town hall," he told Frost. "I'd say, 'Now, would you be happier if someone replaced me?' If the answer came back 'Yes,' then I would say 'That's fine.'"

There is a modern precedent for the electronic town hall. In 1976, the New York Regional Plan Association organized a series of five electronic town meetings to discuss policy options on such issues as the environment, urban growth and poverty.

Eighteen New York-area television stations broadcast the meetings, on weekends, and 28 newspapers published mail-in "ballots" linked to the meetings. About two million people watched the meetings, but only 120,000 mailed in ballots. Those who voted generally supported change.

To many who support Perot, and even to many who do not, the idea of an electronic town hall has a powerful appeal.

It holds the promise of a magical, technological answer to all they have come to hate about the ways of Washington — the endless, gridlocked repetition of arguments so old and tired they have become reduced to catch phrases and code words, the corruptive influence of lobbyists and interest groups, the insulation of the political elite from the rest of the population, the shallowness of a debate framed by the forces of journalism.

RATE: Unemployment jumps to 7.5 percent in May last hit in August 1984.

The administration insisted the economic recovery remained on track in spite of the big jump in unemployment. They noted that in the early stages of a recovery, it is not uncommon for the rate to rise as so-called discouraged workers — those who had quit seeking a job — tried again to find one.

Labor Secretary Lynn Martin said the rate was simply a factor of "people wanting to go back to work. . . . As people read about increasing activity, they try to find work again."

But Democrats, who hope to make the economy an election issue, said it was just the latest sign of Bush's misguided policies and the continued hard times facing many Americans.

Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md. and chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, said the big jobless surge belied the optimistic assessment aired by President Bush at his Thursday night news conference.

Bush, who now trails independent challenger Ross Perot in some polls, blamed his low standings on the "sluggish, anemic" recovery but insisted the economy was improving and said he hoped to receive credit when Americans began feeling the rebound.

House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., also said the jobless rate showed Bush was out of touch with reality. "What is troubling about these figures is the number of young people who are coming into the job market and who have a long, hot summer of idleness greeting them," Gephardt said.

Some private economists feared the rising jobless figure could prompt worried consumers to cut back on spending, and thereby stall out the recovery, just as happened during a similar rebound last year.

"The economy just isn't going anywhere," said Michael Evans, head of a Washington forecasting firm. "We are in a no-man's land with the economy growing but at such a sluggish rate that unemployment is rising as well."

David Wyss, an economist with DRI-McGraw Hill Inc., said there was a definite danger the recovery could falter again, especially if the Federal Reserve fails to counteract extremely weak growth in the nation's money supply.

Although published reports have said the Fed has decided against any further rate cuts, some economists said Friday's unemployment report might well cause the Fed to rethink that position. The administration has been stepping up pressure in recent days for further rate cuts.

Fixed-rate mortgages edged down to 8.59 percent this week, compared to 8.60 percent last week, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. reported Friday. Analysts said those rates could fall further if the Fed does ease credit again.

Some economists said the job picture was not quite as bleak as the overall jobless rate would suggest. They noted that the factory work week rose to 41.3 hours, the highest level in 25 years.

Bruce Steinberg, an economist with Merrill Lynch, said he expected manufacturing employment, which fell by 10,000 in May, to start expanding this month given the high number of overtime hours signified by the average workweek figure.

"You can only push existing workers so much before you have to start rehiring," he said.

Analysts also said the 68,000 gain in the survey of business payrolls, the fourth straight increase, was encouraging although it was still far below the 300,000-plus monthly increases recorded at this stage of more typical economic rebounds.

Allen Sinai, chief economist of the Boston Co., said he rated the chance of another period of economic weakness similar to last year's stall at only 20 percent, even with the weak growth in jobs.

"The underpinnings of the economy are much better than they were a year ago," he said.

REUNION: Class of '42 joins to reminisce about old days graduated from Midland High School in 1942 when the 11th grade was the senior year.

It was an era in which children understood from their parents and teachers that "No meant no, and yes meant yes, and nobody said 'maybe'," Mrs. Henderson said.

Those times 50 years ago are being recalled this weekend in Midland, when many surviving members of the Class of '42 join in a reunion.

Mrs. Henderson and classmate Jack Noyes recalled their "firm foundation" for living that was built at home, church and school, where their revered superintendent, W.W. Lackey, exhorted the students to learn poetry and songs.

Lackey was a strict disciplinarian, Noyes said, and helped build a school that was strong in academics, arts and athletics.

"He brought in the best teachers in the state of Texas to Midland," Mrs. Henderson said of Lackey, and he insisted students be versed "in everything from Shakespeare to the Bible to Milton."

Following graduation in May 1942, many of the students ventured to Odessa, known as a wild town, to celebrate.

"That was the first time that I was allowed to go to Odessa — after graduation," Mrs. Henderson said. "Odessa was absolutely off limits. Nobody could go to Odessa. But the night we graduated, we went to the Ace of Clubs (to dance)."

The late 1930s and early 1940s were days when a nickel was respectable change.

"I had lots of dates for 50 cents," Noyes said. "Of course, that didn't include the gasoline (which was 15 cents a gallon, for the car) If we got down to the Ritz Theater on Friday nights, you could get in there for a dime (each)." Afterward, sodas were a nickel each, and hamburgers were a dime, he said.

Until he sold it in 1941 for a $100, Noyes drove a 1929 Model A Ford that he bought in 1939 for $16. He had earned money for the car, gasoline and general spending while working in a drug store, grocery store and in a Howard Hodge movie theater.

"I saw in the paper the other day — $25,000 for a (restored) '29 Model A Ford," Noyes said.

The major life-changing event of the Class of 1942 was World War II.

"Pearl Harbor happened our senior year," Mrs. Henderson said. Some seniors left school before they graduated to serve in the armed forces.

"No one really thought past a year or two in their lives because of the war," Mrs. Henderson said.

She went off to the University of Texas at Austin to study journalism. Since the male student population there was almost nil during the war, Mrs. Henderson said UT coeds would visit the then all-male Texas A&M University campus at College Station.

Noyles enrolled at A&M, then Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, to "get military training."

"There was no doubt that we were going to be in the war if we were mentally and physically fit," said Noyles, who served in the United States Navy on the cruiser USS Brooklyn in the Mediterranean. "We got to see a lot of the world — the good and the bad."

Midland was involved in the war effort.

One of the community's salient roles was in the development of Midland Army Air Field, where bombardiers were trained in the twin-engine AT-11 and in the four-engine B-24 bombers.

"Those who were doing their training here felt at home," Mrs. Henderson recalled.

"They opened their hearts, too," Noyes said, "because quite a few (military men) married" Midland women.

Jack Matthews was one of them.

After flying to Midland in 1942, Matthews, who was from New Jersey and who trained in Texas to fly fighter (pursuit) airplanes, piloted twin-engine and four-engine bombers at Midland. Later, he was to fly the Boeing B-29 Superfortress in Guam-to-Japan bombing runs.

"I was really unhappy when I came to Midland," Matthews said of the West Texas plains. "The place I came from was beautiful. I was raised on the water."

Matthews, who got into the ranching and oil business in Midland after the war, said his attitude quickly changed after he got to know the people and, particularly, Frances Link, whom he married in 1943 after they had met in 1942 at a dance in the Crystal Ballroom in the Hotel Scharbauer, now site of the Hilton Inn, where members of the Class of 1942 were re-united.

"I was an unhappy ex-fighter pilot," Matthews said. "When I met Frances, that turned me around.

"I'll tell you what excited me about Texas was the people," Matthews said, "the friendly people. I fell in love with the people."

Pilots make emergency landing

Staff report

A flight instructor and his student pilot escaped injuries and their single-engine aircraft was undamaged after the instructor-pilot made an emergency landing on a dirt road when the airplane's engine failed about 10 minutes following takeoff from Midland International Airport on Friday afternoon.

Hugh Hillman, 35, of Midland landed the Cessna 152 on a north-south dirt road about nine miles south of Midland International Airport, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The aircraft had taken off about 6:10 p.m. Friday, the DPS spokesman said, and landed on the dirt road about 10 minutes later.

"The aircraft had developed some engine problems," the DPS spokesman said.

With Hillman was the student pilot, Carl Gene Butler, 49, of Midland, the DPS said.

Bomb blast kills four at TV station

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A bomb-rigged truck exploded Friday outside a pro-government television station, damaging the facility and killing at least four people in the first suspected rebel attack against a media outlet, police said.

The bombing, which injured at least 20 people, also raised fears that Peru is sliding into the indiscriminate violence that marked Lebanon's civil war.

The 1,100-pound bomb was detonated before dawn outside the headquarters of Channel 2, one of seven national TV networks.

The station had taken a strong stand against the Maoist Shining Path rebels and backed President Alberto Fujimori, who suspended the constitution in April to launch a military-backed crackdown.

Fernando Rospigliosi, a sociologist at the Institute of Peruvian Studies, called the recent wave of bombings was "a step towards the Lebanization of the country — uncontrolled violence affecting innocent people who have nothing to do with the conflict."

The Shining Path has launched dozens of attacks in the capital since security forces put down a prison uprising in early May, leaving at least 36 rebel inmates dead.

Peru's civil war has claimed at least 25,000 lives since 1980.

Gunfire was heard outside Channel 2's offices just after the newscast ended at midnight, news director Ricardo Muller said.

"The damage to Channel 2 is an attack on all media outlets," Muller said. "They can kill us physically, but they can't kill us spiritually."

The explosion toppled a 20-foot-high wall surrounding the offices and sheered off part of the building's facade. Satellite dishes, cameras, lighting equipment and a dozen of the station's cars were also ruined.

The force of the explosion uprooted trees and damaged dozens of cars and homes in a 15-block radius.

Producer Alejandro Perez and three security guards were killed in the blast.

More than 30 journalists have been killed in political violence since the Shining Path took up arms. But the attack at the station was the first against the offices of a media outlet.

The channel broadcast a black screen for most of Friday with a message saying the station mourned Perez's death.

Afghans search for personal belongings after their shops in Kabul were destroyed in a mortar attack Friday.

Muslim factions battle for Kabul

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Militiamen loyal to the Islamic caretaker government stepped in Friday to try to stop bloody street battles between pro-Iranian and Saudi-backed militias.

But attacks continued, and more shops, schools and homes were destroyed in the ravaged capital. At least 20 more people were killed and 100 others injured before the blast of mortars and machine guns subsided after prayer services on the Muslim sabbath.

The caretaker government of ex-rebels took over on April 28 after toppling Afghanistan's communist rulers after 14 years of civil war. But many experts predict the new government is not strong enough to impose and enforce a cease-fire.

The latest truce, signed late Thursday, collapsed almost immediately in the middle of a prisoner exchange. Some of the 250 prisoners had been beaten and tortured.

Militia sources said a fistfight between two sentries started Friday's fourth day of intense fighting.

More than 100 people have been killed, nearly 500 have been wounded and 1,000 are missing.

The opposing sides are Hezb-e-Wahadat and Ittehad-e-Islami. Hezb-e-Wahadat, a coalition of eight small parties supported by Iran, represents Afghanistan's Shiite minority. Ittehad-e-Islami is aligned with Saudi Arabia and belongs to the Sunni sect of Islam that has dominated Afghanistan for three centuries.

Another Shiite group, Harakat-e-Islami, joined the fight alongside Hezb-e-Wahadat, a move that threatened to turn the conflict into a full-scale sectarian war.

Defense Minister Ahmed Shah Masood ordered loyal militiamen deployed to the battle zones to try to separate the warring sides, but they came under fire. A 12-member security committee representing all guerrilla factions also tried to calm the hostilities, but many rebels said they didn't want to stop fighting.

In the Saudi capital, Riyadh, King Fahd called on all factions, Sunni and Shiite, to end the bloodshed.

Fishermen find governor's body

BASSETERRE, St. Kitts (AP) — Fishermen found the naked body of the governor-general of Nevis-St. Kitts floating off the coast from his home Friday, three days after he had sworn in a new premier for Nevis island.

The body of Weston Parris, 64, was found in Gallows Bay, about 500 yards from his home in Charlestown, capital of Nevis. Parris usually took a morning swim and was considered a fine swimmer.

Police said they found that Parris' two dogs had been shot to death around the same time he died.

Muslims lift army siege

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Muslim fighters lifted a monthlong blockade of an army barracks Friday and allowed 800 Yugoslav soldiers and their families to leave. In another encouraging sign, a pact was signed to reopen Sarajevo airport for relief supplies.

Food and medicine in the besieged mountain-ringed city are running low, and many neighborhoods are without electricity and water. U.N. negotiator Cedric Thornberry spent three days brokering an end to the airport blockade among Serb and Muslim forces.

Ejup Ganic, a member of the Bosnian presidency, said the tentative agreement reached Friday calls for the United Nations to take control of Sarajevo Airport and bring in U.N. personnel to protect it.

U.N. officials in Sarajevo earlier termed the army's withdrawal from the Marshal Tito barracks, which had been held up since May 19, "a major breakthrough."

"We can now start talking business with the two sides," said Adnan Abdel Razak, a U.N. spokesman.

House OKs defense bill, including B-2

WASHINGTON (NYT) — The House approved a $270 billion defense budget for 1993 on Friday after defeating a last-ditch effort to cancel the B-2 Stealth bomber.

Action on the B-2 came near the end of three days of debate on the massive spending plan.

■ More national news/8b, 1c

Calling a truce in the long-running battle over the costly bat-winged aircraft, lawmakers accepted a compromise that would give the Air Force a total of 20 B-2s — considerably less than the original goal of 132.

The House voted 212-163 against a more stringent proposal that would have ended B-2 production at the 15 planes already approved by Congress.

The B-2 compromise marked the final phase of a defense program that had been one of the most contentious issues in the annual budget debate. Some longtime B-2 critics welcomed the agreement as the best way to resolve the yearly tug-of-war over the aircraft's future.

"We've finally got this killed. Dead. Done," said Rep. John Kasich, R-Ohio, an outspoken B-2 opponent. "What I'm interested in is shutting the program down and closing it out. I want to stop the Chinese water torture."

The House voted 198-168 to send its version of the budget to the Senate, which is scheduled to take up its own proposal later this summer. Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, citing at least $7 billion in House cuts, has said he will recommend a veto if lawmakers fail to restore at least some of the money requested by President Bush.

The House bill includes $615 million to buy 24 F-16s from General Dynamics' Fort Worth Division next year and directs the Air Force to order 24 more aircraft in 1994.

Lawmakers also approved $2 billion for the F-22, a stealth fighter that is being developed by GD, Lockheed and Boeing.

In a warning shot to Cheney, the House approved $755 million for the V-22 Osprey and threatened to cut part of Cheney's personnel budget by 5 percent a month for each month he delays development work on the tilt-rotor aircraft.

Cheney has tried to stop work on the aircraft for three consecutive years. The troop transport is a joint project of Bell Helicopter Textron of Fort Worth and Boeing Helicopters of Ridley Township, Pa.

Another little-noticed provision in the bill blocked improvements to President Bush's helicopters until the V-22 issue is resolved. Citing Cheney's refusal to support the V-22, lawmakers rejected Bush's request for $28 million to upgrade the White House helicopter fleet.

The president frequently travels by helicopter to the presidential retreat at Camp David in Maryland.

Fallout shelter goes on market

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — This room has no view. But for $250,000 you can get your own 44,000 square-foot, climate-controlled, three-story atomic bomb-proof Cold War bunker, complete with glassed-in command theater.

"It's something of a white elephant," real estate agent Esta Busi said Friday. But she has gotten a few inquiries for the former Strategic Air Command bunker, buried underneath a mountain in this college town.

"It's the only one (for sale) in the U.S.A.," reads the advertisement, "$250,000, a wild imagination ... and it's yours."

Its latest owner, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, used the underground command center primarily for records and storage. The more serious inquiries about the bunker have come from like-minded companies, said Busi's boss, Gerald Jones. "But it is zoned residential," he said.

For the purchase price, 26 acres above ground, with guard house and electric gates, would be included.

■ Portland beats Chicago in overtime, 115-104, to make up for being blown out in Game 1 of the NBA finals.

Associated Press

CHICAGO — The Portland Trail Blazers overcame Michael Jordan, having two starters foul out and a 9-point deficit in the last 4 minutes to gain a split in the NBA finals Friday night.

Danny Ainge, filling in after Clyde Drexler fouled out, scored nine of his 17 points in overtime as the Trail Blazers rallied for a 115-104 victory over the Chicago Bulls to even the NBA finals 1-1.

The Blazers, routed 122-89 in the opener, appeard to be headed for a second defeat when they trailed 94-85 with 4:09 left in regulation. They forced overtime at 97-97 on Kevin Duckworth's baseline jumper with 13 seconds left.

Jordan, who scored 39 points but had no 3-pointers, started the overtime with a jumper, but the lead was short-lived as Buck Williams scored on a layup and Ainge hit a jumper, giving Portland a 101-99 lead it never lost.

Terry Porter, who led the Blazers with 24 points, including 14 after the third quarter, hit Portland's first 3-pointer in 13 tries in the game with 1:31 left, making it 108-102. Ainge followed with a layup and two free throws to seal the outcome.

Portland outscored Chicago 18-7 in overtime. Only the Los Angeles Lakers, with 22 in 1970, scored more in an overtime in the playoffs.

The next three games of the best-of-7 series are in Portland, starting Sunday night.

Drexler, held to 16 points in the Bulls' 33-point rout in the opener, scored 26 before fouling out with 4:36 left in regulation. Williams had 19 points and 14 points for Portland, which made 325 3-pointers in the regular season to 138 for Chicago, but missed its first 12 from 3-point range.

Scottie Pippen and John Paxson each added 16 for the Bulls, winners of their five previous games in the Finals.

The Trail Blazers also gained a split on the road against Detroit the last time they were in the Finals two years ago. The Pistons then won the next three games in Portland to repeat as champions.

Chicago, hoping to become the third team in six years to win consecutive titles, also was 1-1 at home in 1991, then won four straight over the Los Angeles Lakers for its first crown.

By winning on Friday night, the Blazers have the opportunity to earn the franchise's second NBA title by winning three straight at home. Portland is 8-0 at home this year in the playoffs, 4-5 on the road.

Portland led 63-54, matching its largest margin of the game, on Drexler's tip-in with 7:55 left in the third quarter.

A jumper by Jordan and consecutive 3-pointers by Paxson closed the Bulls within one. A three-point play by Drexler helped the Blazers rebuild their advantage to 70-64 with 4:50 left, but they didn't score again in the third quarter.

The 13-0 run that gave Chicago a 77-70 lead going into the final 12 minutes was started by Pippen's rebound basket. Then Paxson hit his third 3-pointer of the period, Jordan converted a three-point play, Scott Williams connected from the baseline and Bobby Hansen hit another 3-pointer with 3.5 seconds left.

Courier delivers

■ Jim Courier smashes Andre Agassi in the French Open semis.

Associated Press

PARIS — No talent, huh?

Jim Courier demolished American rival Andre Agassi — the man who said he lacked natural ability — 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 on Friday to reach the French Open final for the second year in a row.

The defending champion will face surprising Petr Korda, the No. 7 seed who dashed France's hopes with a 6-2, 7-6 (7-4) 6-3 victory over hometown hero Henri Leconte in the other semifinal.

Agassi said earlier this week that Courier's game is built on hard work and mental strength because "I don't think he has a lot of natural ability to fall back on."

The comment apparently annoyed Courier, who was more than eager to respond following

A.P. Indy returns to the stable at Belmont Park. The horse, whose was sired by 1977 triple crown winner Seattle Slew and whose grandsire was Secretariat (1973 triple crown), is a 6-5 favorite.

A.P. Indy early favorite to win Belmont Stakes

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Ghosts of the last three Triple Crown winners are sure to hover over Belmont Park today.

The 6-5 early favorite to win the 1½-mile Belmont Stakes is A.P. Indy, whose sire, Seattle Slew, won the 1977 Triple Crown, and whose maternal grandsire, Secretariat, won it in 1973.

Riding Cristofori, a French-based, Kentucky-bred colt, will be ridden by Steve Cauthen, who last rode at the track in 1978, the year he won the Belmont Stakes on Affirmed, the 11th and most recent Triple Crown champion.

Cauthen has been a top rider in Britain since moving there in 1979.

A.P. Indy, Cristofori and five others in the 11-horse field will be making their debuts in Triple Crown competition.

Angels beat Missions to launch major push at leaving basement

■ Mark Zapelli handcuffs San Antonio with three-hit ball over seven innings for his second win of the year.

Staff report

SAN ANTONIO — The Midland Angels moved to within ½-game of escaping the Texas League West baseball basement here Friday night with a 5-2 victory over the San Antonio Missions.

If the Angels defeat the Missions again tonight, Midland would leap ahead of San Antonio in the standings. The Angels haven't been out of last place since they were 4-4 on April 17 on a victory by Bert Blyleven over El Paso.

The Angels are now 21-30 on the year while San Antonio is 23-31. These two teams have two more games in this series before Midland heads for El Paso Monday for six games with the league leading Diablos. Midland leads the current series by a 3-1 margin, a rare winning mark on the road.

The Angels don't return home until June 14 when they will host San Antonio to end the first half race of the Texas League.

Mark Zapelli (2-1) went seven innings to get the win and the "Zap Man" gave up only one run in his stint on the mound, giving up a solo home run to Mike Busch in the seventh.

Zapelli, who started the year as a short reliever, gave up only three hits and struck out two batters.

Brett Merriman pitched the final two innings to earn his second save of the year. Merriman gave up a run in the ninth.

Midland's Bobby Jones hit his second homer of the year, a solo shot, in the sixth inning. Dan Rumsey doubled, tripled and knocked in two runs. Second baseman Terry Taylor, the Texas A&M grad who has gotten off to a slow start this year, continued his impressive batting performance of late, getting two hits in three at-bats and knocking in a run.

Busch drove in both runs for San Antonio. He had two of the Missions' six hits on the night. San Antonio's Mike Doffek also had a double and a single.

The middle of the Angels' batting order (J.R. Phillips, Walt McConnell and Rod Correia) were a combined 0-for-12 at the plate.

Midland broke open a 0-0 standoff with a three-run outburst in the third inning and never trailed in the game. The Angels led 4-0 before Busch got to Zapelli for the homer in the seventh.

Midland had only eight hits in the game, but six went for extra bases. San Antonio had few scoring chances, leaving only four runners on base. Midland left just five in a short two-hour, 18 minute game.

The Angels and Missions will have a late start tonight, playing at 8 p.m. The Missions are hosting an Oldtimers game prior to the Texas League contest.

Guzman slows Twin bats, Rangers take 5-4 win

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Jose Guzman quieted Minnesota's hot bats with 7 1-3 strong innings and Juan Gonzalez hit a home run and a triple as the Texas Rangers beat the Twins 5-4 Friday night.

Guzman (5-3) scattered eight hits and gave up two runs. Five Texas pitchers allowed 15 runs, 14 hits and 10 walks in losing the previous game 15-12 to Minnesota. The Twins entered Friday's game hitting .317 over their previous 23 games, outscoring the opposition, 169-100 in that span.

The Twins moved within 5-4 with a two-run eighth on Kent Hrbek's RBI double and Brian Harper's run-scoring single. But Jeff Russell got the last five outs for his 14th save.

Kirby Puckett continued his hot hitting for the Twins, leading off the sixth with his 12th homer. He has homered in three straight games and five of his last eight.

Texas has won nine of its last 11 at home.

American

Orioles 1, Blue Jays 0

BALTIMORE — Cal Ripken drove in the game's only run with an eighth-inning single and Rick Sutcliffe pitched eight scoreless innings as Baltimore beat Toronto.

The victory propelled the Orioles into first place in the American League East, percentage points ahead of the Blue Jays. The teams own the best records in the majors.

Toronto starter Jimmy Key (3-4) had retired 12 straight batters before Brady Anderson beat out an infield hit with two out in the eighth. Mike Devereaux followed with a single to right, sending Anderson to third. Duane Ward replaced Key, and Ripken lashed a single up the middle to extend his hitting streak to 14 games.

Sutcliffe (8-4) allowed four hits, walked one and struck out four in eight-plus innings to win his third straight decision.

Brewers 7, Angels 1

MILWAUKEE — Dante Bichette drove in four runs and Chris Bosio pitched a five-hitter as the Milwaukee Brewers beat slumping Jim Abbott and California.

Bosio (4-3) struck out four and walked none for his first complete game of the season. It was Bosio's first victory in five starts since May 10.

Abbott (2-8) allowed a season-high six runs on eight hits in five innings, losing his fourth straight decision.

The Brewers opened a 6-1 lead on Bichette's bases-loaded triple in the fifth inning.

Royals 6, Mariners 4

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Wally Joyner and George Brett hit run-scoring doubles, ruining Calvin Jones' first major league start and leading Kansas City past Seattle.

Kevin Appier (5-3), who began the game with the third-best ERA in the major leagues at 1.99, struck out four and walked none while giving up six hits in seven innings and seeing his ERA rise to 2.14. Jeff Montgomery pitched the ninth for his 11th save.

Jones (2-2), who had made 46 relief appearances before getting his first start, gave up three hits and two runs in five innings, but also had five walks and a wild pitch.

A's 10, White Sox 3

CHICAGO — Jose Canseco and Harold Baines each hit three-run homers and Mark McGwire hit his major league-leading 21st homer as the Oakland A's overpowered the Chicago White Sox.

It was the 40th time that Canseco and McGwire have homered in the same game and the sixth time this year. When the two sluggers have homered in the same game, Oakland is 31-9.

Baines, who also had an RBI double, finished the White Sox off with his third homer of the season against reliever Donn Pall in the eighth.

The loss was the ninth in the last 10 games for Chicago, coming off a 1-8 road trip.

Ron Darling (5-3) won for the fourth time in five starts, allowing six hits and three runs in 5 2-3 innings. Vince Horsman and Gene Nelson finished for the A's.

McGwire did not hit his 21st homer during his rookie season (1987) until his 63rd game on June 15, ending the season with 49. This was his 53rd game.

His second-inning homer off loser Kirk McCaskill (3-5) following a walk to Baines, came on the first pitch, the eighth time he has done that this season.

Canseco, who has 13 homers, gave the A's a 7-3 advantage, hitting a 383-foot shot into the left-field bleachers with two outs.

Daulton deals Cards deadly blow

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Darren Daulton drove in five runs with two home runs, including a three-run shot in the eighth inning that rallied the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-5 victory against the St. Louis Cardinals on Friday night.

Daulton's seventh home run of the season spoiled Cardinals reliever Todd Worrell's bid for his first save since Aug. 28, 1989.

Barry Jones (4-2) pitched one scoreless inning for the victory, and Mitch Williams pitched a nerve-wracking ninth for his 10th save.

With the Phillies trailing 5-4, Dave Hollins opened the eighth with a single off Worrell (2-2) and John Kruk followed with a single. Daulton then hit the first pitch from Worrell for his second home run of the game and the second five-RBI game of his career.

The Cardinals threatened in the ninth, loading the bases with none out, but Williams got Ray Lankford to line into a double play and struck out Ozzie Smith to end the game.

St. Louis trailed 3-2 going into the seventh inning, but Pedro Guerrero opened with a single, went to third on Todd Zeile's hit-and-run single and scored on Tom Pagnozzi's double. Jose Oquendo followed with a double to score Zeile, and Pagnozzi also scored when left-fielder Mariano Duncan bobbled the ball.

The hit was his first of the season for Oquendo, who suffered a partially dislocated shoulder on opening day and wasn't activated until June 1.

National

Cubs 10, Expos 4
Expos 6, Cubs 2

MONTREAL — Danny Jackson won for the first time in almost a year as the Chicago Cubs beat the Montreal Expos 10-4 in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Expos came back to win the nightcap, 6-2, as Chris Nabholz allowed two runs on 10 hits in 7 1-3 innings. John Wetteland got the final five outs for his ninth save.

Moises Alou drove in three runs for the Expos in the second game with a triple, double and ground-out after going 3-for-4 with an RBI in the opener.

Loser Greg Maddux (5-6) gave up for six hits and five runs in six innings.

Pirates 5, Mets 4

PITTSBURGH — Lloyd McClendon's pinch single off New York relief ace John Franco following Jay Bell's two-out triple in the 10th inning gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a victory over the Mets and a four-game winning streak.

The division-leading Pirates have won six of eight since losing 11 of 12 and are 16-4 against NL East opponents.

Mets reliever Jeff Innis (4-2) had retired all five batters he had faced until Bell lined a triple down the right-field line.

Braves 3, Padres 2

SAN DIEGO — Jeff Blauser hit a game-tying home run leading off the ninth inning and Greg Olson drew a bases-loaded walk from San Diego reliever Mike Maddux, lifting Atlanta over the Padres.

Blauser's homer, his second of the season and first in two months, and Terry Pendleton's single immediately after spoiled Craig Lefferts' bid for his first career complete game. Lefferts finished allowing seven hits in eight plus innings.

TENNIS: Frenchman Leconte falls short of final

(From 1B)

his emphatic, two-hour win over Agassi.

"I've been reading about how I don't have much talent," Courier said. "There are many different talents besides hitting a tennis ball. Having guts on the court is a talent; having desire is a talent; having courage to go for a shot when you are love-40 down is a talent.

"I may not hit the ball as cleanly as anybody out there, but I have got a few talents that are just as good as anybody else's."

Courier proved to Agassi that, with or without natural talent, he is the best player in the world.

"He is really putting everything together this tournament," Agassi said. "I said before the match, if he can go out there and do it against me, then he would make a believer out of me."

But Agassi added, "I don't want to blow this out of proportion. The guy is playing well, but he's not by any means unbeatable."

Courier was certainly unbeatable Friday as he extended his winning streak to 22 matches. He played virtually error-free tennis, controlling the points with his hammer-like groundstrokes and never losing serve.

Korda, a 24-year-old Czechoslovak, reached his first Grand Slam final by silencing a center court crowd that had lifted Leconte to a series of emotional victories.

The highlight of the match came in the third set when Korda celebrated a spectacular forehand passing shot by leaping in the air three times — culminating with a cheerleader's split.

"I only exploded once," he said. "I was very nervous during that game."

When Leconte sailed a shot long on match point, Korda looked stunned. He put his hand on his head, then swiped their air with his racket and pumped his fist.

"It was maybe one of the most important seconds in my life," he said. "I enjoyed it for myself. I said to myself, 'You did an incredible job today.'"

Leconte paid Korda tribute. "He didn't crack at all. He played a perfect match to beat me."

On paper, Sunday's championship match is anticlimactic — the world's top player against a relative unknown who reached the final without even facing a seed.

But Courier said he will approach Korda just like any other opponent.

"It's like playing a faceless person out there," he said. "The ball comes over the net, and when the ball is in my court it doesn't matter who I am playing."

Fullerton topples No. 1 Miami

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Ron Fraser's 30 years as baseball coach at Miami ended one game short of a third NCAA title, partly because his team couldn't figure out how to pitch to Cal State-Fullerton's Phil Nevin.

Nevin, the college player of the year, had a pair of doubles and drove in two runs to lead the fourth-seeded Titans to a 8-1 victory over Fraser's top-ranked Hurricanes in a soggy semifinal of the College World Series on Friday.

The Titans (46-16) earned a berth in today's title game against seventh-seeded Pepperdine (47-11-1), which won the West Division with three straight wins. The title contest will mark the first time in the 46-year history of the CWS that two teams from the same state will play for the championship.

BELMONT: Pine Bluff primed

er in the three races. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first-place finish, 5 for second, 3 for third and 1 for fourth.

"I want to win the race; the bonus will take care of itself," said Shelley Riley, owner-trainer of Casual Lies, who has 8 points and trails Pine Bluff by 2.

A victory by Pine Bluff would make him the ninth horse to win the Belmont and Preakness after failing in the Derby. Hansel, who was 10th in Derby, accomplished the feat last year.

Two other Belmont starters have had Triple crown experience. Al Sabin finished sixth in the 1¼-mile Derby, and Agincourt was seventh in the 1 3-16-mile Preakness.

Trainer Nick Zito expects Agincourt to go to the front in the Belmont, a tactical race that often is won from or near the lead. In six of the last 10 runnings, the winner was never worse than third.

A.P. Indy, ridden by Eddie Delahoussaye, is expected to be close to the pace as he was in winning the San Rafael, Santa Anita Derby and Peter Pan to stretch his winning streak to six starts.

The colt, who missed the Derby and Preakness because of a quarter crack in his left front hoof, prepped for the Belmont with an impressive win in the 1⅛-mile Peter Pan May 24 at Belmont Park.

Six previous Belmont winners prepped with victories in the Peter Pan, the last being Danzig Connection in 1986.

Casual Lies, ridden by Gary Stevens, has good tactical speed, according to Riley, and will be closer to the pace than he was in the Derby and Preakness.

Steinbrenner waits on Vincent decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Apparently, George Steinbrenner will have to wait at least through this weekend to learn if commissioner Fay Vincent will modify the New York Yankee owner's lifetime ban from baseball.

Vincent told New York Newsday Thursday that he has reached a decision on Steinbrenner's request to be reinstated and "will publish it fairly soon." But the commissioner left Friday to spend the weekend at Cape Cod, Mass., without making any announcement.

Owners meetings scheduled for three days beginning next Tuesday may also impact on the timing of the announcement. Vincent told Newsday, "Part of it is because of my schedule and my work with the owners."

Steinbrenner was removed from the day-to-day operations of the Yankees on Aug. 20, 1990, climaxing the commissioner's investigation into the owner's dealings with gambler Howard Spira.

Storms delay PGA Memorial

Associated Press

DUBLIN, Ohio — Nolan Henke and Joey Sindelar shared the second-round lead when a series of storms forced an overnight delay in the weather-plagued Memorial tournament.

Henke and Sindelar, who completed their rounds before the storms struck Jack Nicklaus' rain-soaked Muirfield Village Golf Club late Friday, were at 134, 10 under par.

But they were being challenged by Paul Azinger, one of the 33 players stranded on the course by the late-afternoon storms that marked the 20th time in 65 playing dates for this event that play has been hampered by weather problems.

Azinger, on a roll and 5 under par for the day, was a single stroke back for the tournament with eight holes to go.

He and the others unable to complete play marked their positions on the course and were scheduled to return at 7:30 a.m. (EDT) to finish the second round. The third round of the $1.3 million event is scheduled later in the day.

David Edwards, who birdied all four of the par-5 holes, also was among the leaders at 8 under par. He had one hole to go to complete the second round.

Henke, the first-round leader, and Sindelar played in the same threesome and completed their rounds hours before the storms began to roll in.

Henke had a 69 despite hitting two balls in the water and Sindelar, on the rebound from an 18-month slump, had a 65 that matched the best round of the tournament.

Colbert, Nichols tied in Seniors event

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Nichols and Jim Colbert fired 7-under 65s Friday to share the first round lead of the PaineWebber Invitational seniors golf tournament.

The pair leads Don Bies by one stroke with Mike Hill, Rocky Thompson and Lee Trevino another shot back on the 6,774-yard Tournament Players Club at Piper Glen.

Nichols carded 10 birdies, tying the course record set by Tom Shaw and Larry Mowry in 1990.

Although six birdies came over the first nine holes, Nichols lamented the one that got away — an errant six-iron approach to the 425-yard 11th which plugged into a bank out of bounds and tempered an otherwise sterling round.

"It's like a big sledgehammer hit me," he said. "I didn't even know the stake was there until I hit it there. It's very gratifying to come back and shoot a score like that after number 11."

Colbert had no bogeys and missed only one green.

After making the turn at 3-under and matching par for six more holes, Bies closed with three birdies to draw within a stroke of the lead.

Hill, who tied for third in last year's tournament, returned from a two-week vacation to birdie two of the last three holes for his 67.

Thompson experimented with different equipment during a round which featured three birdies over the last four holes.

Off the tee, a new driver which he built just before the tournament produced "a lot of short irons into greens. It feels great," he said.

Thompson employed two different putters throughout the round, sometimes on the same green.

South African Bob Verwey, playing in his first full year on the Senior Tour, joined Jim Dent at 68. Dave Stockton, John Brodie, J.C. Snead, Rives McBee and Homero Blancas were at 69.

Mickelson has stranglehold on NCAA field

Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Phil Mickelson put up another red number and shot down another record, with the weapon of choice this time a silencer.

The Arizona State senior shot a quiet 3-under-par 69 Friday and loosened only slightly his hammerlock on the individual lead at the 95th NCAA golf championships.

For the record, Mickelson is now 19-under-par (197) through 54 holes and has a nine-shot lead over Arizona's Harry Rudolph, his rival since the two were junior golfers in the San Diego area.

Rudolph, playing in the same threesome with Mickelson, had eight birdies and two bogeys in a round of 66. But the quiet, bespeckled Rudolph conceded Mickelson had too much daylight on the field for any last round turnarounds.

"He shoots 69 today and probably feels like he shot 80," Rudolph said. "I'd have to shoot something like 52 (tomorrow)."

For the third straight day, Mickelson got into the record book. His 54-hole total of 19-under is seven shots better than the 12-under posted by John Inman of North Carolina in 1984. It's also already under the 72-hole record of 17-under by Inman the same year.

Mickelson opened the 72-hole tournament with a record-tying 63 and with a nine-shot cushion was in cruise control throughout the third round. Twice he jokingly told the teen-ager carrying the players' scoreboard to get ready to post a lower red number.

"I used it to try to get myself rolling," said Mickelson, whose round was a no-frills, three-birdies, no-bogeys snoozer.

Rudolph said the adrenalin for his round came from playing with Mickelson and seeing the disparity of his 4-under score compared with Mickelson's 16-under when the round started.

"I wanted to get the red number (under par) in double digits so it wouldn't look so funny," he said.

While the individual title is in Mickelson's bag, Rudolph and teammate Manny Zerman have carried Arizona to the top of the leader board in the team title chase.

Zerman, the low amateur at the Masters this year and the runner-up at the U.S. Amateur the last two years, was just a shot behind Rudolph with a 5-under 67.

Moss makes hole-in-one

Staff report

Brent Moss sank his first-ever hole-in-one Friday by acing the No. 2 West hole at the Green Tree County Club golf course.

Moss used a 6-iron to drain the shot on the 160-yard hole. Witnesses were Dave Cotner, Larry Oldham, George Hover and Carol Holt.

Rain plagues LPGA tourney

Associated Press

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — After the second round of the LPGA McDonald's Championship was rained out Friday, Nancy Lopez and her husband, Ray Knight, decided to take the kids to a movie or go spend some money at a mall.

"This will be a real good day to spend some time with the kids," said Lopez, who shared the lead with Ayako Okamoto and Katie Peterson-Parker after the first round on Thursday.

Friday's rainout prompted officials of the $750,000 tournament to scale back to 54 holes — 18 today, with a cut to the top 70 for Sunday's final round. This was the first rainout in the 12-year history of the event.

The second round, which never started, was canceled after the National Weather Service forecast day-long rain. There was a 30 percent chance of rain for today.

Lopez said the rainout was an advantage for the leaders, who 67 in the opening round.

"I feel even better about my position now because in a three-day tournament you have to get off to a good start," she said. "In a four-day event, you have one more day to be able to pull yourself up in the standings. But if you are six or seven strokes behind in a three-day tournament, it's a lot tougher to get up into the lead."

Lopez, a member of the LPGA Hall of Fame, said she had never had a round rained out while she was in the lead.

"But I will not think about it at all today," she said. "I will enjoy the day with my family and come back out tomorrow to play golf."

Land activists recall courthouse takeover

TIERRA AMARILLA, N.M. (AP) — Reies Lopez Tijerina believes history was written when he led a small armed band of fellow land grant activists into the Rio Arriba County Courthouse here 25 years ago Friday.

As the charismatic leader of the Alianza Federal de Mercedes, Tijerina brought angry and alienated residents around the northern New Mexico communities of Tierra Amarilla, Canjilon and Coyote to his cause — to regain Spanish and Mexican land grant property.

Nowadays, Tijerina, 65, views the Alianza in the context of world events, citing changes in Europe and the former Soviet Union.

"I have never given up hope or felt frustrated about the land grant question. ... The records (land grant claims) are already established," said Tijerina, who served time in prison for his part in the raid.

"We wrote history ahead of our time," he told the Albuquerque Journal. "Nobody has to tell the world who Tijerina is, what the land issue is about. I slowed down because I felt I was getting ahead of God."

Alianza members were holding a private gathering near Canjilon Friday.

"It's just for the Alianza," Tijerina said beforehand. "It's kind of like a family reunion."

Tijerina's armed band of about 20 stormed the courthouse at Tierra Amarilla on June 5, 1967. A jailer and state police officer were wounded, citizens and courthouse employees were held at gunpoint, and a reporter and a deputy were taken hostage. For days afterward, Tijerina and his followers were the targets of a massive manhunt by law enforcement officers augmented by the National Guard with armored tanks.

The group failed in its primary objective — a "citizens' arrest" of then-District Attorney Alfonso Sanchez, who wasn't at the courthouse that day.

Sanchez angered the Alianza by sending officers to break up an Alianza meeting at Coyote days before.

Reies Lopez Tijerina says his group left a mark on history.

The group failed in its primary objective — a "citizens' arrest" of then-District Attorney Alfonso Sanchez, who wasn't at the courthouse that day.

"It's a disgrace what the United States did to our people. All they care about today is tourism," he said.

"The raid opened a lot of people's eyes. We were the first Chicano movement in the Southwest," Morales said. "It was the Alianza that educated everyone."

A 1988 land grant protest by Amador Flores near Tierra Amarilla was an outgrowth of the Alianza's doctrines, Morales said. Flores' protest included an armed encampment and a large signing reading, "Tierra or Muerte," land or death.

An Arizona development company eventually gave Flores $117,250 and 18 acres and turned over 200 more acres to El Consejo de la Tierra Amarilla, a group claiming to be heirs of the Tierra Amarilla land grant.

Nick Sais, then a 27-year-old state police officer, was shot in the shoulder and chest during the raid. He said he was angry for a long time afterward.

He's since found out his own family lost land in the La Joya grant.

"I think now the people in the raid had the right idea but they went about it in the wrong way,"

Sanchez told the Journal this week he issued warrants for the Coyote meeting "because the meeting could turn into an unlawful assembly if they were planning or plotting to take over the land."

He said he was trying to avert a misunderstanding, and made copies of the relevant statute "and passed it out to the people up there."

"I think it's important that the public knows the good legal work that I did trying to defuse the situation," he said.

"It was a moment in history that none of us can be too proud of, but some good came out of it. The beautiful thing is people learn from mistakes or events, and Tijerina's one of those. It's nice that we've reconciled, and life continues."

At least one man arrested after the courthouse raid, Moises Morales, remains angry over the land grant issue.

"We're still prisoners in our own land," Morales said. "First the Forest Service took our winter pastures, then they took our milk cow permits and our saddle horse permits. They're manipulating us whichever way they want, and we're left with nothing.

Sais said. "Tijerina was bullying people. If he had done things right, he would have gotten more followers, better educated followers.

"You can't do anything by force. But the raid did wake up a lot of people about buying land on your own. You have to make sure you have clear title."

Court weighs Demjanjuk's extradition

CINCINNATI (AP) — A federal appeals court said Friday it would review whether John Demjanjuk was wrongly extradited to Israel, where he was convicted of being the Nazi death-camp guard "Ivan the Terrible."

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said records and news articles in the United States indicate the U.S. extradition warrant that sent Demjanjuk to Isreal in 1986 may have been based on erroneous information. The court scheduled a hearing Aug. 11 to determine if the extradition was proper.

Demjanjuk, 72, a former Cleveland auto worker, was convicted in Jerusalem of operating gas chambers at Treblinka, where more than 850,000 Jews were killed in 1942 and 1943. Key testimony came from five Treblinka survivors who identified him as Ivan the Terrible.

In Cleveland, Ed Nishnic, Demjanjuk's son-in-law, said Friday's ruling gave the family the chance it had wanted "to right this wrong, have Mr. Demjanjuk come home and start living like a normal person again."

Demjanjuk, who is on death row in Israel, maintains he is a victim of mistaken identity. He said he was held as a prisoner of war by the Germans when the Treblinka crimes were committed.

It was not immediately clear what impact the ruling would have or whether it meant Demjanjuk would be returned to the United States. The court wouldn't comment.

The ruling came one day after an Israeli prosecutor acknowledged for the first time that the defense may have cast "a tiny doubt" on Demjanjuk's conviction.

Over the last two years, those working in Israel on Demjanjuk's defense have obtained 80 statements identifying another man, Ivan Marchenko, as "Ivan the Terrible."

Demjanjuk's attorney has until July 25 to file the information gathered in Israel with the U.S. appeals court.

Although the statements cast some doubt on the conviction, Israeli prosecutor Michael Shaked said he didn't believe they lessen the importance of other evidence that Demjanjuk had been in Treblinka and other death camps.

Shaked has noted in the past that Demjanjuk gave the name of Marchenko as his mother's maiden name in a 1948 visa application form.

In the meantime, the U.S. Justice Department is also reviewing the case.

Perot can't end gridlock, Gramm says

WASHINGTON (NYT) — Sen. Phil Gramm said Friday that fellow Texan and billionaire presidential hopeful Ross Perot is an outsider incapable of breaking the political gridlock that has produced mass voter frustration this election year.

Gramm, a conservative Republican from College Station who launched his own career in Congress as a political outsider, said Perot supporters are engaging in "escapism," and are sure to be disappointed if Perot is elected president.

"I don't believe that an outsider coming in will break the gridlock," Gramm told reporters at the Capitol. "The Perot phenomenon is a manifestation of our frustrations, our unhappiness and our outrage with government, but it doesn't change the cold reality."

Gramm said voters should either elect enough Republicans to give President Bush a GOP majority in the House and Senate or elect a Democratic president to work with the Democrat-controlled Congress.

"We've either got to let the people in Congress govern in America by giving them a president who will do what they want, or we've got to let the president govern by giving him a Congress," he said. "Those are the only two options we have."

Gramm portrayed Perot as a short-term sensation who is drawing support from only political extremes on the right and left.

"It is clear when you look at who's supporting him that it is an unstable coalition of Jerry Brown suporters and Pat Buchanan supporters. And it is a coalition that cannot hold together."

Gramm began his career in Congress by campaigning for the 6th District House seat as tight-fisted conservative outsider who would "do the Lord's work in the devil's city."

Today, in his second Senate term and having won a leadership position as chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee, Gramm has shed much of that maverick image.

Though Ronald Reagan was a lot more to his political liking than George Bush, Gramm has toed the line and campaigned hard for the president as he has traveled around the country in his role as NRSC chairman.

Workers find supporters for AT&T boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Workers of America gathered support Friday among other labor unions for a threatened boycott of AT&T unless a new contract is signed.

A spokesman for a competing long distance company said he'd gladly accept the extra business.

CWA and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have been working without a contract since Sunday when their three-year pact with American Telephone and Telegraph expired.

Talks sputtered along during the week, and CWA President Morton Bahr said Thursday the union would try to strengthen its position by urging union members, other labor unions and businesses to agree to switch from AT&T unless a contract is signed.

Talks went through the day Friday with some progress reported by AT&T. Meetings were to continue all weekend, and Bahr ruled out a strike or the start of a boycott for that period.

CWA spokesman Jeff Miller said more than 60,000 CWA members have signed cards designating another long distance carrier to take over their residential service, but the cards have not yet been acted on.

Some individual IBEW members and locals also are participating in the CWA-organized card-signing, said IBEW spokesman Bob Stander.

Miller would not say what company would be given the business if a widespread switch was made by union members. While MCI and Sprint are second and third to AT&T in size, several hundred smaller long distance companies operate all over the country.

AT&T vice president William Ketchum noted that AT&T's competitors are mostly non-union and said he didn't understand why the union would give them business.

The union indicated it would not take business to adamantly non-union companies.

Several other unions contacted by CWA said they would join a boycott.

The CWA and IBEW represent about 125,000 of AT&T's 317,000 workers worldwide. The contract affects only domestic operations.

Clinton tells Texans Bush, Perot shouldn't be president

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Clinton came to the home state of President Bush and Ross Perot on Friday, saying neither should be elected president.

Clinton, speaking to the state Democratic Convention, derided Bush's handling of the U.S. economy and mocked Perot's boast that he would spend his own millions to get elected.

"I've got an opponent in this race who says he will ... do whatever it takes to hold onto this job. I've got another one who said, and I quote, he would spend whatever it takes to get this job," Clinton said.

"Now let me tell you something ... I can't spend whatever it takes. And there's a lot of things I wouldn't do to get this job," he said.

However, the apparent Democratic nominee told the 12,000 convention delegates he would seek to rebuild the American economy, create jobs and improve education for all children.

"I'll tell you what I will do. I will get up early and I will stay up late," he said. "I will work as long as it takes to bring common sense and a warm heart, a clear head and a driving, passionate vision back to this country because we have got to rescue the American dream."

As Dallas billionaire Perot ponders an independent White House bid, Clinton has run third in a number of recent opinion polls around the country.

He told cheering supporters, however, that it is too early to count him out of the November election.

"They may say we can't win now. I've had my obituary written many times," he said.

But Clinton recalled a story told by former President Lyndon Johnson about the first train to arrive in Kerrville.

An old curmudgeon first predicted "they'd never get it started," Clinton said. But when the locomotive began to roll, the skeptic said "they'd never get it stopped."

Clinton picked up the endorsement at the convention of U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who was the party's 1988 vice presidential candidate and who some Democrats had hoped might run for president this year.

Bentsen hailed Clinton's achievements as governor of Arkansas and blasted Bush for failing to deliver jobs and hope to average people.

Four years ago, Bush talked about a thousand points of light, Bentsen recalled.

"Today, millions of Americans are looking for just one flicker of hope ... George Bush hasn't earned a second term, he doesn't deserve a second term and he's not going to get a second term," Bentsen said.

Speaker encourages Hispanics to pull for educational equality

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Hispanics have gained politically but must continue to fight for educational equality to head off the development of an "underclass,"a member of the Texas attorney general's office said Friday.

Susan Rocha, chief of the Municipal Affairs Section of the state attorney general's office, delivered the keynote address at the state convention of the League of United Latin American Citizens.

Ms. Rocha praised the work of Hispanic groups fighting for single member voting districts.

"Because of single member districts our local elected officials are more and more starting to reflect the populations of the communities they serve and represent," Ms. Rocha said. "What a novel concept ... Do you believe we had to litigate this issue?"

But Ms. Rocha said Hispanics have a long way to go in the fight for educational equality.

"One-half of all Hispanics ... never make it out of high school," she said. "And each new dropout class costs Texas another $17 billion in lost productivity and additional social and criminal justice expenditures."

Ms. Rocha called on Hispanics to help Texas climb up from its ranking of 38th among the 50 states in median years of education.

"Those who fail to meet those challenges will fall through the cracks of our education system, and many of them will land in our state's welfare and criminal justice system," she said.

Things were calm Friday, but some LULAC convention members attending speeches and workshops at the 63rd annual state meeting promised to shake things up during the four-day gathering.

Last year, about 100 people said they walked out of the LULAC state convention in Waco when they were denied convention voting rights because organizers said they were not properly accredited. Some members threatened to form their own organization.

NAME: Adela Marmolejo
OCCUPATION: Oil & Gas Research Clerk - Trust Dept., NationsBank; Secretary, MISD School Board; Audit and Insurance Committees of Board
VOLUNTEER POSITION: Fund-Raising; Project Blueprint Class 11

Volunteerism is nothing new to Adela Marmolejo. She has given unselfishly of her time, talents and energy to helping others without thought of personal gain ever since, as a freshman in high school, she began working with Casa de Amigos as a volunteer.

She also serves tirelessly as Secretary of the MISD School Board and on the Audit and Insurance Committees of the Board.

Her work with Casa taught her a lot about volunteering and about the United Way. So it was just natural for her to get involved with other United Way committees. She has worked in fund-raising campaigns for the United Way and is a graduate of Project Blueprint Class 11. She conducts workshops in effective parenting information for children (EPIC) through child abuse prevention program (CAPP), a program of MISD, teaching parenting skills.

Smokey Robinson's sister sues brother for cheating on profits

LOS ANGELES — Smokey Robinson's half-sister is suing him, saying he cheated her of profits from songs she collaborated on.

Robinson

Rose Ella Jones said in the Superior Court lawsuit filed Thursday that the soul singer stopped making royalty payments or sending accounting statements from 1980 to 1988.

Ms. Jones' lawyer, Neville Johnson, said royalty payments and statements later resumed. She is suing for royalties on songs between 1976 and 1983.

The lawsuit seeks an unspecified amount of money.

Robinson's press agent, Michael Roshkind, was out of town Friday and unavailable for comment, said a receptionist at the singer's record company, Jobett Music.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Hank Williams Jr. and his wife are expecting their first child.

"They've known for a couple of months, but we haven't really made a big deal out of it," Kent Arwood, a spokesman for the country singer, said Friday.

Williams and his wife, former model Mary Jane Williams, were married in July 1990. She is due in November.

Williams has a 19-year-old son and two daughters, ages 13 and 11, from previous marriages.

NEW YORK — Daisy Eagan, whose performance in "The Secret Garden" made her the youngest Broadway performer ever to win a Tony award, says she wishes there were a real secret garden, where her mother might be healed.

Daisy, now 12, left the show in April, but her performances for the previous six months were tinged by the knowledge that her mother, Andrea, was suffering from cancer.

"At the end of the play, I have to say goodbye to the ghost of my mom," she said in an interview in Sunday's Parade magazine. "I just bawled every night. I thought about how many times I had to say 'die' and 'death.'"

"I wish I had my own key" to a real secret garden, Daisy said. "And I'll say, 'Hey Ma, let's go.'"

Her mother called 1991 "up there with the very best of our lives."

"With everything that's happened — cancer and all, I would not trade last year for anything," Mrs. Eagan said.

LOS ANGELES — Ted Koppel says he won't stay on as host of "Nightline" if stations continue to bump it for other shows.

The 12-year-old program follows the local news in 62 percent of the country. In other markets, affiliate stations carry syndicated shows at 11:30 p.m. and bump "Nightline" to midnight or later.

ABC News President Roone Arledge said Wednesday the show might be on its way out because of the defections.

Koppel said he is hoping the show will pick up a few stations now that Johnny Carson has left NBC's "The Tonight Show."

If not, Koppel said, "It will never die a death of attrition with me at the helm. If I see that these folks continue to run reruns of 'M-A-S-H,' then I will have to take that into consideration."

"Nightline" began as a temporary news program in 1980, covering the holding of the American hostages in Iran.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Singer Ricky Skaggs, whose current album is "My Father's Son," has invited his father to perform with him next week.

Hobert Skaggs, a country musician in Cordell, Ky., plans to perform with his 37-year-old son at the annual Fan Fair country music festival on Wednesday.

Ricky Skaggs' hits include "Country Boy," "Highway 40 Blues" and "Crying My Heart Out Over You."

LOS ANGELES — W. Axl Rose, the lead singer of Guns N' Roses, is tired of running and plans to turn himself in to face charges stemming from a riot in St. Louis last summer, a spokeswoman for his recording label says.

It's not clear when Rose will surrender, Bryn Bridenthal of Geffen Records said Wednesday.

"We're in the process of trying to settle it," Guns N' Roses guitarist Slash said in an interview from Germany, where the group is on tour. "I don't want to see us walking on stage and being walked off by the police."

The band canceled concerts in Chicago and Detroit this spring after a prosecutor threatened to have Rose arrested.

Dan Diemer, an assistant St. Louis prosecuting attorney, said Rose won't have to go to jail on the misdemeanor charges but might face a fine or community service.

Witnesses said the riot began after Rose plunged into the audience to stop a photographer from taking pictures, then cut short the band's show. Forty fans and 20 police officers were injured.
