Reconversion Bill Signed Reluctantly

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—President Roosevelt accepted today the congressionally-designed machinery for getting the nation back from a wartime to a peacetime basis but declared it would not run satisfactorily without further tinkering.

He announced at a news conference he had signed with reluctance the surplus war property disposal bill and had also signed the bill to establish an office of war mobilization and reconversion. Both measures, sharply varying from administration recommendations, were enacted by Congress just before it took a recess until after the national elections.

Wants Workers' Travel Pay

That creating the office of war mobilization and reconversion was "quite satisfactory" so far as it went, Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement, but it did not "adequately deal with the human side of reconversion."

He observed that the bill as finally enacted failed to provide for transportation of migratory war workers back home or to places of new employment, failed to provide unemployment compensation for federal employes, and failed to establish nation-wide minimum standards for unemployment benefits.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was glad to know the House Ways and Means committee planned further study of these matters. "I have considerable doubt whether many provisions of the bill will not make extremely difficult the accomplishment of its objectives."

Mr. Roosevelt said that after Congress reconvenes Nov. 14 he would nominate for a two-year term a director for the new office of war mobilization and reconversion. This office, meantime, will absorb the office of war mobilization now headed by James F. Byrnes.

Byrnes, who has said he could not accept the new post, will direct the office under an interim appointment until a new director is appointed.

Specific Mandate

The law provides a specific mandate for the demobilization of the armed forces when men are no longer needed by the services, declaring:

"The War and Navy department shall not retain persons in the armed forces for the purpose of preventing unemployment or awaiting opportunities for employment."

Described as a "state rights" law, it leaves administration of unemployment insurance entirely in the hands of the states.

ACCUSED IN DEATH OF SON—Warren Patterson, 31, left, was jailed at Coshocton, Ohio, after Prosecutor Russell Lyons said he admitted pushing two of his four sons into a river because he had no home for them. One son, Larry, year and a half old, drowned, and the other waded ashore, Lyons said. The three surviving sons are shown at right. Raymond, 7, in center, waded ashore. Gene, right, and Glenn, left, 8-year-old twins, were left under a tree in a rainstorm, Lyons said.

Rain Damage To Crops Feared

Chilly and misty weather still prevailed over the South Plains Tuesday night after at least one agricultural authority predicted that Lubbock county might not produce more than 60,000 bales of cotton.

Fear also was expressed that damp weather probably would severely damage grain piled on the ground.

Total Is .73 Here

The Texas experiment sub-station reported at 6 o'clock last night that .73 inch of moisture was registered there.

Raymond Anthis, inspector at Lubbock Grain exchange, said he had received reports that much grain was still on the ground throughout the territory — as much as two carloads on some farms. "I would say that this rain would cause much damage to this grain since much of it is in bad shape now as result of last week's rain," he said.

Optimism Is Lacking

Jason O. Gordon, Lubbock county agent, said it was "hard to tell" just what effect the rain would have on cotton. "Of course," he said, "it will delay harvesting and, if continued, would certainly cause much damage." He was not optimistic, as to prospects and predicted that Lubbock county's crop this year would yield only about 60,000 bales. Average predictions earlier had hinted at a 78,000 bale crop —highest estimates having mentioned 90,000 bales.

The dispatcher for Santa Fe railroad reported from Slaton the fall was general over the territory covered by that system — from Clovis, N. M., and Amarillo to Sweetwater. Fort Worth and Denver railroad's dispatcher here gave a similar report of territory covered by that line.

There were no itinerant laborers stranded here as result of the rain, Manuel Ayers, assistant county agent, reported. They have been coming in steadily the last week, he said.

SLOW RAIN BLANKETS MOST OF WEST TEXAS

(By The Associated Press)

A slow, soaking rain covering much of West Texas and the Panhandle area halted cotton picking and delayed the feed harvest but put broad grins on faces of stockmen of that section who pictured a bright winter with fine ranges and fields of grain.

The rain was expected to do a minimum of damage to cotton but reports indicated the grade will be lowered since the moisture will stain the lint.

A .62-inch rain at Midland was accompanied by a severe electri-

Tito Also Lays Siege To Capital

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 4.—Red Army troops slashed into Yugoslavia on a new front 55 miles wide yesterday and pressed a spearhead from the northeast to within 37 miles of the Yugoslav capital of Belgrade, already reported under virtual siege by Marshal Tito's Partisans.

Striking across the border north of the Danube, Soviet troops clamped a stranglehold on communications in eastern Yugoslavia by the capture of the important regional centers of Petrovgrad, Bela Crvka, Vrsac and a dozen other towns and railway stations.

The early morning Moscow communique pointed out that Vrsac, a city of 30,000, is the junction of five railway lines and three highways. Ten miles to the southwest the Russians took the town of Ulma, which is 37 miles from Belgrade.

Drive Of 24 Miles

At Petrovgrad, 40 miles north of the Yugoslav capital, the Red Army had pushed 24 miles from its starting point on the border southwest of Timisoara.

Hard fighting in the mountains to the south was reported by the communique, which said the Soviet troops making the original penetration of Yugoslavia had wiped out more than 1,500 Germans.

The new offensive apparently had been under way at least two days. While Moscow announced no gains yesterday, Marshal Titos headquarters declared the Red Army had joined units of his 14th Partisan corps in a converging drive on Belgrade.

Other Drive Goes On

The first invasion of Yugoslavia, announced Saturday, meanwhile was continued on a north-south front beginning 50 miles east of the lower extremity of the new drive, and carried to a depth of 22 miles westward with capture of the town of Rudna Glava, 36 miles southwest of the Romanian border town of Turnu Severin.

The Russians also announced capture of the Estonian island of Ristna by amphibious forces bent on ending Germanys domination of the Baltic Sea. Ristna, one of four islands commanding en-

Morocco Reports Landing On Crete

ROME, Oct. 3. (AP)—Crete was under Allied siege today and the Morocco radio said, without confirmation, that strong forces had landed in the northwestern section to wrest away the island which Hitler won with much German blood in the spring of 1941.

Naval headquarters announced that the Brtish cruiser Black Prince shelled the Malme airdrome Saturday, apparently to knock out the field from which big Junkers transports have been avacuating key personnel of the Crete garrison.

The Algiers radio reported tonight that the Germans in northwestern Crete were retreating before the Allied forces. The Cairo radio said the Nazis were attempting evacuation by air because the Allied navies had stopped enemy water traffic. Two German planes were downed over the Aegean last night.

Allies Seize Island

The danger of the German position on Crete was heightened by Allied seizure of Kithera, an island between Crete and the Greek mainland, from which the enemy garrison of 150 men fled after destroying its radio station.

Germans were reported withdrawing from a number of small islands along the southern fringes of Greece.

The Allied command said troops, gun positions and shipping were bombed at Port Zara, on the Dalmaian coast. Other aircraft struck at small shipping in the northern Adriatic and the Gulf of Genoa. One enemy plane was destroyed.

Al Smith's Condition Reported Improved

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)— Improvement in the condition of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith was reported tonight by his physician, Dr. Raymond P. Sullivan.

Dr. Sullivan said Smith's fever had abated ,a lung congestion had not spread, and that there was improvement in an intestinal disturbance.

Admiral Edwards To Fill New Navy Posts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) — Vice Admiral R. S. Edwards has been appointed deputy commander in chief of the fleet and deputy chief of naval operations, it was announced tonight by the Navy.

Both posts are newly-created and place Edwards second in command to Admiral Ernest J. King. The Navy explained that the great expansion of naval activities had made it necessary for King to delegate some of his duties as commander in chief of the fleet and chief of naval operations.

Edwards has served on Admiral King's staff since Jan. 2, 1942, and has been chief of staff since Aug. 15, 1942. Vice Admiral C. N. Cooke, jr., has relieved him as chief of staff.

Fort Worth Man Is Given Church Post

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3 (AP)—Rev. Harrell Rea, educational director of the First Christian church, was elected president of the district 13 association of Christian churches at a one day convention of the group today.

Other new officers elected for the ensuing year are Rev. Rawlins Cherry Holmes, Gainesville, first vice president; Mrs. W. H. Pexin, Mineral Wells, second vice president, and Mrs. Tom Flake, Cleburne, secretary treasurer.

Cleburne was selected the next convention site.

BOMBER OUTPUT RISES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) — Production of long-range super bombers in September was "the greatest yet in a single month", the War Production board said today in announcing that total output of all aircraft was 7,598 planes or 98 per cent of schedule. Total production in August was 7,632 planes.

Japs Push On In China, Oil Supplies Hit

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

A MEETING of American naval chiefs to plan new moves against Japan was officially disclosed by the Navy yesterday shortly after radio Tokyo reported a surprise Japanese invasion of the China coast designed to complete Nippon's seal against U. S. landings on the eastern side of that country.

The blasting of one of Japan's most important oil sources— Balikpapan on the east coast of Dutch Borneo — was reported in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Wednesday communique. More than 60 Army Liberators unloaded 74 tons of bombs on installations in the oil center last Saturday (Borneo time), leaving great fires. Seven of 30 interceptors were shot down. Three Liberators were lost.

Philippines Attack

A Navy Liberator hit the southern Philippines, destroying or damages seven seaplanes, three bombers and a flying boat at Zamboanga.

Conclusion of the naval conference at San Francisco was announced by district headquarters there. No details were given. But the current pattern of Pacific hostilities might indicate that the Navy chiefs had under consideration plans connected with the Japanese-feared invasion of the Philippines. Another possible subject was the carrying of naval hostilities closer to the Nippon homeland from new bases in the Marianas.

A Japanese imperial headquarters communique, broadcast from Tokyo, said Rising Sun forces landed on the Fukien coast and were driving toward Foochow, last major seaport still held by the Chinese. Japanese press and radio reports, picked up by FCC, said the landings were designed to upset American "plans to land on the China coast from the Pacific

Nomura Drums At "Long War"

(By The Associated Press)

America, says Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, "does not realize that this is to be a long war."

A newspaper article written by the admiral, last Japanese ambassador to the United States, and broadcast by the Domei news Agency, said American operations against the Philippines were a part of an American strategy of blockading Japan and destroying her "nerve centers."

Nomura admitted loss of the Marianas was a "defeat," but insisted that "retreat and advance in war is only a national course."

Discusses Campaign

The admiral discussed the American presidential campaign and said the major issues concerned rationing, industrial reconversion, and the demobilization of the armed forces. Adding that this "clearly indicates that America does not realize that this is to be a long war."

"Taking a broad view of the enemy's armed strength and other factors," Nomura said, " . . . we must be prepared for the transition of the war from a preliminary to a truly serious stage. In the midst of this crisis we must emerge as a great driving force and strengthen our national effort . . . we must fully expect to face hardships. Under such conditions it is characteristic of our people to become stronger. Our only course, then, is to march ahead toward fulfillment of our aims."

The Domei broadcast was reported by Federal Communications commission.

Triple Deaths Laid To Murder, Suicide

COLEMAN, Oct. 3 (AP)—Justice of the Peace Barclay Martin, sr., rendered a verdict today that Mrs. Myrtle Evans shot to death her husband, W. D. Evans, 65, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Pauline Evans, 31, then inflicted a slash wound in her own throat from which she later died.

The shooting occurred at a farm home near the Coleman-Brown county line in the Buffalo school community yesterday. Mrs. Myrtle Evans died in the Santa Anna hospital last night.

W. D. Evans and his wife were principals in a divorce action at Brownwood last week which Judge O. A. Newman took under advisement.

Italian Girls Warned On Illicit Relations

ROME, Oct. 3 (U.P.)—Thousands of anonymous leaflets were plastered on walls throughout Rome today, warning Italian girls they will have their hair cut if they indulge in immoralities with American soldiers.

The leaflets, secretly posted during the night by a society signing itself PGAI, composed of young Roman men, threatened a widespread haircutting campaign, particularly for young women who are caught in compromising positions in public places such as doorways and parked cars.

4-Mile Gap Blasted Through Siegfried

Troops "Definitely Through" Old Line In Powerful Drive To Outflank Aachen

By HOWARD COWAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Oct. 3—Powerful elements of the U. S. First Army have smashed a four-mile gap through the Seigfried line north of Aachen, 12 miles north of the first Allied wedge driven into the massive German fortifications, and tonight more men and armor were driving to outflank the ruined stronghold of Aachen.

"The attack continues and advances are being made against varying resistance," supreme headquarters said late tonight.

The twin penetrations of the Seigfried line were 30 miles from Cologne at one point and 32 miles from Dusseldorf at the other.

"We are definitely through the old Seigfried line," declared an American officer. "We have our second major breach. There still are fortifications and anti-tank defenses ahead of us which the Germans built recently," he added.

Spectacular Assault

In a spectacular 36-hour drive the doughboys—virtually without air support—captured Ubach, nine miles north of Aachen and three below Geilenkirchen, and drove the Germans from the moated 12th century castle of Rimberg on the German-Dutch border. Thirty-nine enemy pillboxes were knocked out and between 400 and 500 prisoners captured in furious fighting.

The first gap in the Seigfried defenses was driven just below Aachen at the outset of the invasion of Germany. Today's breakthrough placed Lt. Gen. Courtney T. Hodges' troops almost astride a main highway running north from Aachen to Geilenkirchen.

All along the Aachen front the battle flamed bitterly, with the Nazis trying desperately to close the breaches in the defenses of the Rhineland. For the past two days the enemy was purely on the defensive, despite the fact that Allied air support was being hampered by the weather.

Near Nazi Center

Ubach, captured after furious house-to-house fighting, is but 10 miles from the important German communications center of Julich, whence hard-surfaced highways lead 20 miles to the industrial cities of Cologne and Duseldorf on the Rhine.

(A broadcast by the German DNB news agency declared the Allied attack near Aachen was "nothing but local reconnaissance thrusts supported by artillery" and said the Allied pressure in that sector apparently was designed merely to prevent the Nazis from sending armored reinforcements against the British Second Army spearhead frontier farther north in Holland.)

Seigfried line defenses in the sector now under attack include many anti-tank ditches, but the doughboys ran into none of the big concrete "dragon's teeth" barriers through which they fought south of Aachen. The Nazi defenders appeared to have few good anti-tank guns, and some enemy prisoners complained that their version of the bazooka was not effective against American tanks at much more than 50 yards.

Giant Bombs Tear Seawall

Hundreds of RAF heavy bombers using 12,000-pound bombs tore open a seawall guarding the Dutch island of Walcheren and sent the North Sea pouring over Nazi fortifications which had denied use of the Belgian port of Antwerp to the Allies.

The "earthquake" bombs breached the dike near the village of West Capelle, on the southwestern tip of Walchern, sending a great sheet of water spreading over the lowland. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower warned Dutch civil-

Road Junction Taken In Italy

ROME, Oct. 3. (AP) — American doughboys, slogging along in deep mud in their main drive through the northern Apennines, have captured Monghidor, an important road junction 18 miles south of Bologna, German supply and communication center in northern Italy, Allied headquarters announced today.

Flood waters of the Fiumicino river, behind which the Germans are strongly entrenched, stalled the British Eighth Army offensive on the Adriatic sector, the communique said.

Nazi Attacks Beaten Off

Americans of the Fifth Army beat off continuing German counterattacks against their positions on Monte Battaglia and the Monte Cappella, heights dominating the highway to Imola, junction point on the Bologna-Rimini-Milan lateral supply route for the Nazis.

While the main Allied drive at the center is down the highway through Monghidor, other U. S. forces have reached Casoni Di Romagna, a village 16 miles south of Bologna and three miles east of the highway.

Brazilian troops, on the western flank of the Allied line, moved ahead despite bad weather and stiff enemy resistance and captured Monte Mona, 14 miles northwest of Lucca.

Indians Seize Junction

Between the American Fifth Army front and the Adriatic sector, Indian troops seized Monte L'Alto and Monte Cavallara, 17 miles southwest of Faenza, another junction point on the Bologna-Rimini road, 10 miles southeast of Imola.

Negro troops of the U. S. 92nd infantry division pushing up the Pisa-Modena road have reached a point 15 miles northwest of Pistoia, the communique said.

Continued bad weather over all the battle area cancelled air operations again.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's headquarters announced that the Eighth Army in its current Adriatic campaign had captured 9,300 prisoners.

Hearing On Seizure Injunction Called

ATLANTA, Oct. 3. (AP)—A hearing on the question whether a federal district judge may enjoin governmental seizure of a war plant to avoid work stoppage due to labor disputes was ordered at Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 6 by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals today.

The court issued its order after hearing arguments in a case in which the Humble Oil company, charging the government had threatened seizure of its Ingleside, Texas, refining plant for non-compliance with a labor contract, obtained a temporary injunction in Dallas Federal District court against the Petroleum Administrator for War and other government agencies to prevent the alleged threatened seizure.

Circuit Court Judge Edwin R. Holmes at Yazoo City, Miss., granted the government an order staying the injunction pending an appeal. In the hearing here before a three-judge circuit court the company asked that Judge Holmes' staying order be vacated, soon.

Texas Regulars To Set Up State Office

MARSHALL, Oct. 3. (AP)—Judge Merritt Gibson of Longview, who will direct the campaign of the new Texas Regulars party for the November election, said today he planned to open state headquarters in Austin this week.

He said that division headquarters would soon be opened in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, and at either Waco or Belton.

Gibson conferred here with Horace Blalock, one of the Texas Regulars electors. He said the party would issue a detailed declaration of aims and principles

Nazi Industrial Areas Battered

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 3. (AP) — More than 2,000 Allied planes blasted German industrial targets, knocked out a sea wall guarding the Dutch island of Walcheren, and supported ground forces pressing against the Siegfried line today.

A force of British bombers used 12,000-pound "earthquake" bombs to breach the sea wall and send the cold waters of the North Sea sweeping over German guns and fixed positions on Walcheren. The blow fell a day after Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower warned Dutch civilians they must prepare for heavy bombing of Schelde estuary islands.

Walcheren, westernmost of these islands, contains heavy gun emplacements, some perhaps capable of reaching Antwerp, 35 miles away, which the Allies captured intact.

Seventh Big Pasting

Today's forays marked the seventh time in the last nine days that at least 1,000 heavy bombers attacked German targets. Eighth Air force Liberators and Flying fortresses, escorted by about 750 Lightning and. Tunderbolts, hit the Nurnberg tank factory, the Daimler-Benz heavy truck plant at Gaggenau, and the German Air force station at Gieblstadt, 53 miles west of Nurnberg.

The Eighth Air force announced 11 bombers and 13 fighters were missing, but said some of the fighters were believed to have landed in friendly territory. No aerial opposition was encountered. but fighters destroyed at least two enemy planes on the ground in strafing attacks after the bomb run.

The Ninth Air force announced that all of its planes—Marauders, Havocs, Lightnings, Mustangs, Thunderbolts, Black Widows—are operating now from continental bases, within easy range of Germany proper.

Field Day Near Metz

European-based medium bombers struck Dort, near Metz, Associated Press war correspondent Edward D. Ball reported they had a field day against enemy communications deep behind the Siegfried line. The Ninth Air force said its planes shot up 50 motor transports, 29 locomotives and 150 freight cars, bombed three tunnels and cut railroad lines in 29 places.

Photographs taken today showed the entire ordnance depot near Kassel was seriously damaged by

Ship Hits Mine, 11 Army Men Die

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 3. (AP) — Eleven Army men were killed and 22 others were listed as missing after the Navy-chartered Liberty ship Elihu Thompson struck a mine while entering a South Pacific port Sept. 25, the Navy announced tonight.

There were no casualties among naval and Merchant Marine personnel. Patrol craft and boats of the Thompson removed survivors.

A Navy salvage unit took the Thompson in tow and beached her in a repairable condition.

Mopping Up On Island

The accident was disclosed in a communique which reported a continuation of mopping up operations against Japanese holding out tenaciously at "Bloody Nose ridge" on Peleliu island and in one pocket on Angaur island, both in the Palaus.

The Japanese indicated concern over the use by the invaders of caputred Peleliu airfield, sending over a plane Oct. 1. But its two bombs fell in a swamp near the field.

Liberators dropped 31 tons of bombs on bypassed Truk, encountering anti-aircraft fire which damaged two of the big bombers.

MUD HOUSES PLANNED

Dewey Demands Tax Revisions

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, blaming the "waste and extravagance" of the New Deal for increasing the nation's high wartime tax bill, called tonight for postwar simplification and reduction of individual and business levies to help America "get ahead."

Speaking from the first floor study of the executive mansion, the GOP presidential nominee told a nationwide radio audience (Mutual) that if a Republican administration is elected it will lift the income tax off the man who makes as little as $11 a week, telescope excise levies and lower corporation imposts which, he said, now "act as a drag upon production and barrier to jobs."

First Full Radio Talk

It was the first campaign address the new governor has directed exclusively to a radio audience and preceded a talk to Democratic party workers Thursday night by President Roosevelt.

Declaring that while the nation cheerfully pay high taxes to meet the cost of war, Dewey said that its peacetime objectives of expansion and recovery could not be reached "by taxes which eat into the income of those who are already below a decent American standard of living."

Assailing the New Deal for what he said were 15 changes in the revenue laws in 12 years, he proposed this program if the Republicans win in November:

(1) Revision of personal income tax exemptions "so that the man who makes as little as $11 a week no longer has an income tax taken out of his pay envelope."

Reduction Of Others

(2) Reduction of personal income tax rates.

(3) Revision and lowering of the income levy on corporations "until it no longer acts as a drag upon production and a barrier to jobs," with attendant elimination of "special war time taxes which now rise to 95 per cent."

(4) Elimination "as soon as possible of excise taxes, except those

Patriot Resistance Ceases At Warsaw, City Destroyed

By ALEX SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 3—A terse communique from Lt. Gen. Tadeusz Komorowski (Gen. Bor) today announced that his underground army's resistance in Warsaw had ended after a 63-day struggle during which thousands of patriots were killed and the city reduced to a shambles.

Moscow newspapers said a Polish officer who escaped reported that thousands of insurgents had crossed the Vistula river to Russian lines. "There is no longer any resistance in any part of Warsaw," the officer was quoted.

"Warsaw is as greatly destroyed as Stalingrad."

A German communique announced that the "insurrection collapsed" and said the city had been "almost completely destroyed." A Stockholm dispatch said the Germans claimed a total of 24,000 prisoners.

Komorokski's communique said: "Warsaw has fallen after exhausting all supplies of food and ammunition on the 63rd day of fighting in the face of overwhelming enemy superiority.

On Oct. 2 at 8 p. m. orders were given to "cease fire."

Polish patriots, their hopes fired by the approach of the Red Army to the eastern banks of the Vistula, brought out their long-hidden arms and turned on the Germans within the capital on Aug. 1.

Nazis Gone, And British Landing On Greek Island Almost A Picnic

By CLINTON B. CONGER
United Press War Correspondent
(Representing The Combined Allied Press)

WITH COMMANDOS ON KITHERA, Sept. 16. (Delayed) — British Commandos, transported by the British and Canadian navies, landed unopposed during the last five hours on the island of Kithera, five and a half miles south of the Greek mainland, in the first liberation of Greek territory.

Left wing Greek Partisans who welcomed us said the Germans had withdrawn during the past week but still were present in force in the Peloponnesus peninsula just across the channel.

Landing with the first assault wave at the tiny fishing village of Avelmonon at 10 o'clock last night, I saw what was probably the most un-Commando-like operation on record.

Develops As Picnic

Veteran Commando troops approached the shore ready for trouble. Almost at the moment of landing we confirmed earlier intelligence that the island was clear of Germans which turned the assault into a camping trip.

Within 10 minutes of landing the "no smoking, no flashlights" rule was abandoned and the headlights of two jeeps beamed on the ston jetty where assault craft were disembarking troops and supplies.

Several columns pushed out on reconnaissance and others went from house to house summoning the villagers so the commanding officer could tell then through an interpreter, American Cpl. George Stathis of Brooklyn, N. Y., why the troops landed, and order and cooperation were expected.

We seem to be getting both.

Villagers Pitch In

Five youthful partisans checked their rifles and pistols until morning and served as messengers. A farmer offered two horses for transport and most of th 30 odd villagers assisted in unloading the assault craft.

An old woman whose store room became temporary Commando headquarters said she was glad food been brought. She had not eaten bread for six months and sometimes she had to make one cabbage last a full week.

All of the villagers looked and talked as if they were hungry but they did not show the starvation the Allies expected to find on the Greek mainland.

Could Feed Own People

Kithera is roughly 11 miles wide and 19 miles long and is large enough, although rocky and mountainous, to feed its several hundred inhabitants as well as the few score of Germans garrisoned there without much famine.

Having recently been in France, I noticed immediately that liberation ceremonies did not include wine but there was food. The inhabitants told us the Germans were "bad" but did not commit atrocities.

Partisans claimed they had artillery on the island and used it recently to sink a boatload of German troops returning to the mainland from Crete but this seemed unlikely as the villagers did not mention reprisals.

All afternoon Friday our task force sailed along in sight of the Peloponnesus and in the remaining hours of daylights we cruised unhindered barely a mile off shore rounding Kithera.

One Minor Incident

Commandos finished their dinners and strolled out on deck buckling on their equipment as if going to a movie instead of making an assault.

Thn we dropped anchor a half mile off shore. Except for a mishap when one landing craft broke loose from its davits and sank with no one aboard the routine was without incident and the work shuttling men ashore began.

Appropriately, the first man to land was Commando Capt. Harry Kithera of Sherborne, Dorset, England.

The stealth of the approach went out the window when a Greek fisherman standing on the shore began yelling "welcome." Two others lit bonfires and lights began blowing in all the houses.

Four hours after the landings began everything was ashore.

"I say, correspondent," one officer said to me. "When this bloody war is over would you mind awfully dropping into the war office to make sure they haven't forgetten we are still here? Thanks awfully."

Belly Landing Frays Only Passenger Nerves

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3. (U.P.)—Six members of Ray Noble's orchestra breathed a sigh of relief today after a Flying Fortress in which they were returning from a camp show made a belly-landing at the San Bernardino Army Air base.

The plane was one of six returning Edgar Bergen, Olivia de Havilland and the radio actor's company to Hollywood.

The players, with a War department representative, were returning yesterday from an Alamogordor, N. M., Army Air Base show, when the landing gear on the plane failed to drop.

The pilot, Capt. Arva Anderson, exhausted his gas supplies and made the landing, with only slight damage to the passengers' nerves.

Excessive Drinkers Fourth Most Serious U. S. Health Problem

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. (U.P.)—The nation's 3,000,000 excessive drinkers, whose alcoholic cravings constitute the fourth most serious health problem, will receive scientific aid from a new national committee to combat the problem, Mrs. Marty Mann, executive director of the organization, said today.

Mrs. Mann disclosed the formation of the National Committee for Education on Alcoholism, Inc., which she said would work for recognition of alcoholism as a disease and the chronic drunkard as a sick person worthy of help.

The committee is sponsored by the Yale university plan for alcoholic studies which had released results of a survey showing that there are 3,000,000 excessive drinkers in the United States, 600,000 alcoholics and 45,000,000 persons who take a drink occasionally. One out of 20 of the latter group will probably become excessive drinkers, the study showed.

Mrs. Mann, who said the first step would be arousing public interest and switching the drinking problem from one moral to the scientific plane, disclosed that she would tour the nation, setting up clinics and information centers; contacting doctors, social workers, clergymen and other community leaders; establishing women's committees; working with the present organization, alcoholics anonymous, and distributing booklets.

TO AMERICAN WOMEN ASKING—

"Will Defeat of Germany Lessen the Need for Saving Used Fats?"

—THE GOVERNMENT ANSWERS "NO!"

LEE MARSHALL

ON THE contrary, Mrs. America, the need for saving used cooking fats will be as great or greater than ever. Victory over Germany still leaves the Japs in possession of the Dutch East Indies, the Philippines and Malaya — countries from which we formerly imported about one billion pounds of fats and oils each year.

Even victory over Japan will not ease the situation immediately. Not for a year or more can these areas be brought back to pre-war production levels.

In the meantime, the need for your used fats will be as acute as ever for these reasons:

1 Even after European victory, we still have Japan to beat. Vast supplies of ammunition, medicines, parachutes, rubber boats, soaps and other battlefield essentials must keep on going to our fighting men in a steady stream. These all require fats to make.

2 We must help in the rehabilitation of liberated countries, such as Greece, Norway and the Netherlands, with medicines, machinery, etc.

3 Many factories now producing for war will turn to manufacturing the civilian goods we need so urgently. These factories will consume vast quantities of industrial fats.

American farmers are doing everything possible to build up domestic production of fats and oils. But during the next 12 months, because of a smaller hog kill and reduced yields of some oil-seed crops, we expect that approximately a billion-and-a-third pounds less of fats will be produced.

Need Greater Than Ever

Therefore, more than ever, salvaging used cooking fats is an important resource on which the country must continue to lean in order to tide us over.

Saving used fats is not a glamorous task. It takes effort. But it is one that only you, the American housewife, can perform for the country. We ask you to continue the wonderful job you are doing to help speed final Victory.

Area's Welfare In Postwar Years Set For WTCC Discussion Today

West Texas' welfare in the postwar years—in jobs, production, free enterprise and private initiative—will be discussed at a district meeting of West Texas Chamber of Commerce here this afternoon in Hilton hotel. The session, one of eight half-day meeting of the WTCC, will be held from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

President M. C. Ulmer, Midland, and Manager D. A. Bandeen, Abilene, are taking the organization's proposed declaration of policies and program of work for 1945 straight to the affiliates.

Host directors will be Dr. Clifford B. Jones, president emeritus of Texas Tech; Judge R. C. Hopping, Walter Alderson and Harry Morris. A. B. Davis will be host secretary. Percy B. Ralls, district 2 director, will preside.

Referendum Convention

The chamber has set the five-weeks period from Oct. 3 to Nov. 8 for holding its 1944 referendum convention. This year's procedure provides as usual for local meetings in the 148 affiliated towns. In addition, eight meetings of officers and district director, led by President Ulmer, were to be conducted during the first two weeks of October, like that slated here today, for directors, chamber of commerce secretaries and town groups. Th opening district meeting was held in Odessa Tuesday.

LEADERS TO ATTEND

Among chamber of commerce officials to be here this afternoon for a district meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce are D. A. Bandeen, Abilene, WTCC manager; M. C. Ulmer, Midland, president of WTCC and Texas Bankers' association; Jed Rix, Fort Worth, assistant manager of WTCC; Mrs. Clara Mae Cooper, WTCC secretary, and P. B. Ralls, of Ralls, district director, who is to preside. Rix arrived Tuesday and other officials were expected to arrive last night or early this morning.

After the meeting here, and the other six meetings, attending directors will take their ballots home for deliberation with the homefolks and for voting.

Directors and secretaries of chambers of commerce have been invited from Abernathy, Brownfield, Crosbyton, Dimmitt, Floydada, Hale Center, Muleshoe, Petersburg, Plainview, Post, Ralls, Slaton, Spur, Sudan, Tahoka and Tulia, it was announced. The entire Lubbock WTCC membership was asked to attend.

Nine Policy Proposals

To be laid before them, in today's meeting, are nine policy proposals set forth in a 16-page referendum ballot for affiliate's action. The vote of this meeting and others throughout West Texas will be canvassed and results announced at the chamber's general assembly set for Nov. 8 at the Abilene headquarters.

Platform planks have to do with seeking postwar security benefits and reduction of federal income taxes for the agricultural workers; maintenance of West Texas army camps in postwar hospitalization and defense plans; a proposal to take Texas' case direct to the U. S. supreme court on the freight rate parity conflict; a legislative program for tight fiscal control in state, county and city budgetary practice; legislative redistricting based on the 1940 census; changing the formula of passing out school apportionment funds from a mere census basis to actual attendance; promotion of a $2,000,000 two-year state financed and directed campaign for nationally advertising Texas' potentialities; a campaign calling for a total federal budget not exceeding $20,000,000,000, with abolition of excess profits and capital stock taxes; deduction of corporate dividends in determining net income for taxation, and with income and surtax not exceeding 15 per cent in the lowest bracket and 60 per cent in the highest.

Economic Situation

Most comprehensive plank in the ballot, believed by many to be the most important, is No. 8, recommended for adoption by the West Texas committee on economic development, and reading:

"Believing that the maximum of employment and highest national income can be produced by private, free enterprise system with adequate rewards for working, for saving, for inventing and for promoting, and believing that the now necessary wartime expenditures and taxes must drastically be reduced in order to achieve the maximum of private investment, production, consumption and employment, we favor, on the termination of the war, the following:

"(1) A postwar federal budget no greater than $20,000,000,000 per year including service charges on the national debt.

Tax Equalization

"(2) When not interfering with the national defense and when interfering with legitimate free enterprise, all tax laws and equal percentage schedules should be applied to all agencies created, controlled or financed by the government, when such agencies are operating in competition with privately owned agencies.

"(3) The abolition of the wartime excess profits tax.

"(4) The deduction of corporate dividends in determining corporate net income for axation.

"(5) The abolition of capital stock taxes.

"(6) The reduction of individual income and surtax rates, with the minimum bracket no greater than 15 per cent and the maximum bracket no greater than 60 per cent of the total taxable income."

Service Ballots To Be Available Soon

AUSTIN, Oct. 3. (AP)—State absentee ballots which qualified service men and women from Texas will cast in the general election Nov. 7 should be available in some counties late this week.

Secretary of State Sidney Latham today said mailing of certificates listing names of candidates and parties and also mailing of sample ballots to Texas' 245 county clerks had been completed.

As a result some counties probably will be able to print ballots by the end of the week, he said.

An estimated 70,000 to 80,000 Texas service men and women have applied for absentee state ballots but not more than 5 per cent of the applicants are eligible to vote these ballots, Latham estimates.

However, those who failed to pay a poll tax or who are not exempt from payment because of age will be permitted to vote the federal or bob-tailed ballot. Thus the Texas soldier vote is not expected to exceed 80,000.

State absentee ballots may be sent to eligible applicants as soon as the ballots are printed. They may be returned to county clerks by midnight of Nov. 3. Federal ballots may be returned to county clerks until the polls close on Nov. 7.

The Woman's Angle

HOW can people look so engaging when they come in out of rain storms in the movies or when they are shown in the magazine advertisements and yet in real life look so drenched, so pinched, so cold, so everything but romantic and handsome?

PARDON, PLEASE

DUE to a mistake in the Tuesday's column, either typographical or by the typewriter, Dinah Shore was reported to say a favorite song with the men in Europe is "I'll Walk Along" instead of "I'll Walk Alone," the latter being the correct title, of course.

What a lot of difference a simple letter can make! For instance when we think of "along" it's in company or together such as "We will go along by the King's highway." But "alone" conveys the meaning "Alone with one's thoughts" or apart from others or by oneself.

Somehow with the commentators and correspondents telling and writing with every breath and every release of the beauty and charm of the French girls, we've an idea the girls back home would rather the men would be singing "alone" than "along."

FOR THE NURSES

SENDING a gift to fellow nurses now serving overseas is a Christmas project set by the Lubbock General Hospital Nurses Alumnae association. With the deadline set for Oct. 15, only a few days away, the alumnae members are wondering if they have overlooked anyone.

If you are the father or mother, sister, brother or sweetheart of a graduate nurse from Lubbock General Hospital Nursing school who is now serving overseas will you drop a card to either Mrs. Merrie Merriam or Mrs. Inez Hines at the hospital?

CADET NURSES CORPS

SPEAKING of nurses, one of the most beautiful gifts we have seen in a long time is a lipstick and rouge set in a smart gray box bearing the red Maltese cross motif. Lentheric who presents the cosmetic has called it "Rocket Red" and that's the shade of the lipstick and rouge, also. It's a clear red, something like the color that comes to mind when you think of the Red Cross and should be a badge of color for those young girls who are enrolled in this comparative new branch of service. There's something about a lipstick you know that builds for morale.

The set is as neat as the uniforms the girls wear. And by the way, you may have wondered about that silver Maltese cross of eight points, mounted on a regimental red ground, that is worn high on the left sleeve of those uniforms now seen about town. This symbol was adopted by the Knights Hospitalers during the first Crusade in 1099. As the first nursing order, Knights Hospitalers carried on their charitable work for wounded Christian soldiers—exactly 721 years before the birth of Florence Nightingale.

THE Cadet Nurse corps, administered by the U. S. Public Health Service, has been inaugurated in order to relieve the serious nursing shortage caused by wartime demands, and offers to high school graduates, between the ages of 17 and 35, a free scholarship which provides for regular nurses training and other expenses plus a monthly allowance.

These students form a reserve to relieve critical shortages in civilian and government hospitals, health agencies, and war industries and to replace the thousands of nurses being called into the armed services. Information about the cadet nurses may be secured at the Lubbock hospitals which are included in the 1,100 schools of nursing participating in the program.

DRI-PERFUME

ONE of the losses from milady's cosmetic shelf which may be checked to the war are many perfumes made with alcohol. And while manufacturers have gone a long way toward overcoming this handicap, the main difficulty is that colognes and perfumes now-adays will not remain with one. If you recall the three jills in a jeep reported the boys overseas are nostalgic about perfume and they'll walk a mile for a whiff and that's the way the careful miss thinks about applying it.

What is a worse fate than to be seated in church at a lecture or at the movies next to a woman who is drenched with a perfume which she applies from time to time as the evening wears on?

Speaking of scents, there is a powder perfume on the market which has reached Lubbock stores and most likely will be included among "must" Christmas gifts for girls, teensters, the young married woman and the married woman who is not so young. It's called Dri-Perfume and it is exactly that and not to be confused with sachet. Ingredients are the same as used in leading perfumes with the exception that powder is used instead of alcohol and, for that reason, is to be classed with the leading liquid perfumes. It comes in two fragrances: Creation and Allure. It will not evaporate and it has a lasting fragrance, is in no way harmful and conforms to the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Washington Woman Creates Quite A Furore With Publication Of Little Green Booklet

By DOROTHY WILLIAMS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Members of the Civil Service commission today were debating a thought-provoking little green booklet, authored by one of their employes, Miss Ruth Welty, who advices how to "deborn, declaw and deglamorize" their jobs to discourage male employment competition and who has founded an organization dedicated to that end.

In her booklet Miss Welty urges her readers to be gracious and charming about it all, but to shoot for the "big" as well as the "little" government jobs and to discourage men by expressing contempt for "sissies" who enter government employment.

Published At Own Expense

Miss Welty, government worker by vocation and playwright by avocation, is going about her usual chores as acting chief of the commission's test construction unit, while Commission Head Harry B. Mitchell and his fellow members decide what's to be done about the booklet she published at her own expense and without their permission.

Miss Welty's ideas on how to make this more nearly a 100 per cent goal government brought her into print and to the attention of commission officials.

Press Conference Cancelled

She refused to see reporters during working hours, but agreed to a press conference later to tell more about her organization, "Matriots, Inc.," and the booklet which she describes as "serious" and having a "deep philosophical and spiritual import."

But at the appointed hour reporters were informed that Miss Welty had left and that the conference was "cancelled at the request of the commission."

Mitchell explained Miss Welty had violated a commission rule forbidding commission employes to write on government work without obtaining commission approval.

"I was asked not to talk and I have agreed," Miss Welty said.

"We just asked her to delay discussion of her book," Mitchell declared.

Mitchell would not be quoted on what he thought of a woman-run world, unless a chuckle could be translated into words.

Small Daily Sulfa Doses Sharply Reduce Service Respiratory Ills

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—From 75 to 90 per cent of winter's common respiratory diseases have been prevented in more than 600,000 service men by use of a small daily dose of sulfadiazine.

This is the longest medical step yet made toward turning winter into summer, as to disease, and was reported to the American Public Health association today by Commander Alvin F. Coburn, Navy, Washington, and Capt. Richard C. Hodges, Army Air forces, Sioux Falls, S. D.

Comparisons Cited

In the Navy moe than 600,000 men were given nothing, to compare with and validate the sulfa results. In both groups the results were almost identical.

Scarlet fever and strep throat were reduced by 85 per cent. All other streptococcus infections were similarly reduced. Meningitis was wiped out in some camps and reduced to almost zero everywhere. Rheumatic fever and pneumonia dropped markedly.

Furthermore, the ability of the streptococcus diseases to spread from one center to another was virtually stopped. Before the sulfa use, virulent infections had been carried from the United States to Navy centers in distant parts of the world.

Not Certain On Colds

The common cold and other respiratory infections were also strikingly decreased. But there is a puzzle concerning the common cold. Neither report is sure that the cold reductions were due to the sulfa drug.

Colds are supposed to be caused by a virus, rather than by germs. Both reports agreed that sulfadiazine apparently does not affect the virus. Capt. Hodges suggested that the apparent improvement in colds could be due to the sulfa knocking out the germs which usually become active and cause some misery in addition to the cold virus. He said that it is proposed to try to clarify the common cold and respiratory infection puzzle this winter.

Rainey Says Civil Rights Apply Also In Times Of War

DALLAS, Oct. 3. (AP)—Quoting the Constitution of the United States, Dr. Homer P. Rainey, president of the University of Texas, said here today that civil liberties were intended for war emergencies as well as peacetime.

"There can be no virtue in a bill of rights that exists only for peacetime," he said at a meeting of clubmen and representatives of newspapers and radio press associations honoring national newspaper week, Oct. 1-8.

He said Americans were in danger of accepting a type of European regimentation that leads to tyrannies, and said he believed in a democracy "based on the declaration of independence, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and on Christian religion."

He said political history must be shaped on a code of morals rather than economic values.

"If economic values are to take precedence over moral values," he said, "the road is wide open for propaganda, force and power politics."

Shallowater Pilot Is In Liberator Training

KEESLER FIELD, Biloxi, Miss., —2d Lt. George W. Gates, Jr., who recently received his commission and Army Air Force wings, has been enrolled in the AAF Training Command's B-24 Liberator co-pilot school at Keesler Field. He is the son of Mrs. G. W. Gates, Sr., Shallowater, Texas.

The special training he will receive at Keesler Field will extend over a period of approximately five weeks. He will get more than 30 hours of flying training under the expert guidance of seasoned Liberator pilots, and will send approximately the same amount of time in technical and ground course training.

Flying in his plane will be students in their final phase of training in the B-24 Liberator bomber mechanics course. While he is mastering the duties of the co-pilot, they will learn emergency procedure and practice the duties of the aerial engineer.

Socialist Billings Is Sentenced To Prison On "Slacker" Charge

KANSAS CITY, Kans., Oct. 3. (AP)—Arthur Goodwyn Billings, 33, Socialist candidates for United States Senator from Kansas and former professor of economics at the University of Texas, pleaded guilty today to a charge of failing and refusing to submit to induction in the armed forces.

He was sentenced to two years in prison.

Billings refused to take the Army oath after he had been taken to Fort Leavenworth induction center in August, 1942.

He was placed in the disciplinary barracks and held there for two years pending hearing of his case before the Supreme courrt. The court upheld his argument that he should be tried as a civilian rather than a soldier inasmuch as he had not yet taken the oath.

The court hearing was brief.

Judge J. Foster Syms of Denver, presiding, asked Billings, "Do you plead guilty of not guilty to this charge?"

"Guilty, your honor," he replied.

The district attorney then recited the history of the case, including the refusal of Billings' draft board at Salina to classify him as a conscientious objector. The board based its refusal on the grounds Billings' request was made on "rational" rather than religious grounds. The conscientious objector classification had been recommended by the office of the attorney general.

"Would you go into the Army now?" asked Judge Syms.

"No sir, under no circumstances."

"Then you will serve two years more in prison," the judge said.

Billings had been free on bond since his release from the barracks four months ago following the court opinion.

Increase Noted In Enrollment At Tech

Final enrollment for the 1944-45 fall semester at Texas Tech college is 1,948, an approximate 25 per cent increase over last fall's enrollment, it was announced Tuesday by Registrar W. P. Clement.

Of this total, 684 are men and 1,264 are women students. The men had a 1.4 per cent decrease under last fall's total, and the women a 26 per cent increase, Clement said.

A total of 732 students are enrolled in the Arts and Sciences division, showing an increase of 25 per cent over last fall. Commerce division has 383 students enrolled, a 26 per cent increase; home economics division, 365, a 33 per cent increase; engineering, 355, a 14 per cent decrease; and agriculture, 113 students enrolled with a 5.8 per cent decrease.

Tuberculin Tests To Be Scored Today

Approximately 2600 tuberculin patch tests, which were given Monday to first and second grade students and seniors of all Lubbock public schools except for negroes, are expected to be removed for observation, Mrs. Ruby Wilson, field director of Lubbock County Tuberculosis association, said Tuesday.

She explained the tests were not given at Dunbar school at the same time of other schools because a negro doctor, who usually gives the test, was not available this week. Negro students, however, will be tested at an early date.

Last year between 2,400 and 2,500 tuberculin tests were given to Lubbock school children. Although definite figures are not yet available, it is believed tests this year will exceed that amount.

A tuberculin patch is a piece of adhesive tape with test material on it which is applied to either arm or chest. After 48 hours it is removed and shows either a positive or negative reaction.

Motion pictures are said to be the most popular form of entertainment in all the armed services.

Terms On Armistice Said Given Hungars

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The London Daily Sktch said today Hungary has received preliminary armistice terms from the United States, Britain and Russia through Baron Garbiel Apor, Hungarian minister to the Vatican.

The terms, the Sketch said, include withdrawal from all Czechosloyakian, Romanian and Yugoslavian territories occupied by Hungary since 1938; a declaration of war against Germany; and removal of Regent Nicholas Horthy and other top men in the Budapest government.

The Allies, although seeking elimination of the present pro-Axis regime, would deal with incumbent leaders for fulfillment of admistice terms, the paper said.

MOLECULES TAKE THE HURDLES ON PHILLIPS NEW "PROVING GROUNDS"

Almost buried in a recent Phillips Petroleum Company report was this simple statement: "The Company has completed, in recent weeks . . . an additional research laboratory which is one of the largest in the industry."

To every patriotic citizen interested in new products, and particularly excited by the thought of our nation's finest product—complete and final victory over the Axis powers—the statement deserves to be underscored and spotlighted.

The new research laboratory at Phillips, Texas, more than doubles Phillips existing research facilities. Judging from the previous record and long list of achievements of the Phillips research and technical staff, it is obvious that this enlargement will mean new weapons for the war effort, significant improvement in old ones, and vastly better post-war gasolines and lubricants for car owners.

A laboratory originally meant "the workroom of a chemist." But the new Phillips laboratory is much more than that. It is a series of experimental, pilot (small-scale) plants . . . which are true proving-grounds for products, processes, and full-scale manufacturing plants.

And these are the workroom, not of a chemist, but of literally hundreds of technically trained enthusiasts, whose ranks represent graduate degrees from 142 of the nation's universities.

Devoted to science, both pure and applied, these experts are engaged in the never-ending study, test, and analysis, which has made Phillips a leader in extending the frontiers of knowledge concerning hydrocarbon chemistry. Always they are seeking new and better ways to make new and better things from petroleum gases as well as from petroleum: 100-plus octane aviation gasoline . . . synthetic rubber . . . explosives . . . plastics . . . medicines . . . and an almost limitless list of other synthetic chemicals.

No wonder the Phillips 66 Shield reminds so many people that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils, are also gigantic chemical plants, pouring out weapons for victory. Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.

Bridgehead Saved In Epic Stand On Hill 386 By Gallant Doughboys

By COLLIE SMALL
United Press Staff Writer

WITH THE THIRD ARMY, On the Moselle, Oct. 2.—Wraith-like men came out of the foxholes on Hill 386 today after an epic three weeks stand that saved a vital bridgehead.

It had been three weeks in hell. But they didn't look much different from other mud-caked doughboys — that is, until you looked into their glazed eyes and at their matted beards and their feet, red and swollen in shoes whose heels and soles had rotted off in the stagnant water of the foxholes where they had been living and dying.

Hands Hardly Shook

1st Lt. Donald Phillips, platoon leader, of Cadillac, Mich., was calm. His hands hardly shook at all as he traced the course of his gallant comrades across a map, from the west bank of the Moselle near Arnaville to the blood-soaked hill called 386.

"I guess you won't believe me when I tell you what we have been through," Phillips said wearily. "Unless you have lived with death sitting right beside you in your foxhole, I guess you wouldn't understand.

"We crossed the river in assault boats at midnight three weeks ago. The Germans knew we were coming because while we were still huddled in the boats on the west bank we started getting it from 88's.

All Hell Broke Loose

"We finally got to the other shore and started up a hill. Some of us were pinned down by German mortar fire until dawn but we got up the hill anyway.

"Then all hell broke loose. Germans from an uncleared area across the river pumped 88's into us from the rear. German artillery screamed at us from both sides and from up ahead. Our own artillery from across the river was pounding into the area. Nobody knew which was which or which way to duck.

Then The Tanks Came

"At noon German tanks came. We hadn't even had time to dig slit trenches. We just sat like naked birds on the hill with our puny machine guns and mortars while the Germans attacked. But we held the hill, by God, and for five hours my one little platoon hung on just with guts and saved the whole bridgehead. In those five hours we could have done more damage to the Germans than we did by throwing apple butter at them.

"The little village of Arry was at the base of the hill and tanks started out both ends of main street. Some Mark 4's punched holes in a stone wall and fired point blank at us with just their muzzles sticking out. Other tanks tried to hit us from the sides.

Afraid To Look Up

"Some of our men at the bottom of the hill were attacked by tanks firing from 50 yards. 1st Lt. Frank O'Malley of Scranton, Pa., said they were so close he was afraid to look up.

"German infantrymen followed the tanks out of the village and I watched one of our men pick them off with his rifle, one by one. He got five before a shell killed him. He shot a German in a tank, too, when the Jerry unbuttoned the hatch and stuck his head out when the tank was only 15 feet from him.

"We had a few bazookas and the boys fired them until they burned out.

"Sgt. Clarence Mitchell of Zanesville, Ohio, and Pvt. Argyle Swiger of Clarksburg, W. Va., ran along the other side of a hedgerow from the tanks. Mitchell had a bazooka and Swiger a rifle and they ran along the hedge potting at the tanks through every opening.

"You can't believe it but Sgt. Walter Jenski of Elm Grove, W. Va., ran down the road beside one tank firing at the treads with his rifle and grenades. Every few steps he would try to throw a grenade inside. You never saw such guts.

"German infantry tried to storm the hill four times from the cover of an orchard next to the village but we drove them back with rifle fire.

"We Slaughtered Them"

"At 3 o'clock the next morning the Germans attacked with a strong force. We slaughtered them. The Jerries came sneaking out of the woods and we held our fire until they were within 75 feet. Then we cut loose with rifles, machine guns and mortars. Dead Germans stacked up two deep.

"I don't know whether it was true but one of the few Germans we captured said only eight men survived out of three companies.

"The next day was worse and it didn't get any better for six days when our armor came up. It was horrible. The foxholes filled with water and our shoes rotted off.

"When we came out today one boy told me he couldn't eat hot food any more because something happened to his stomach up there.

"In all truth, we were pretty disorganized and it is a miracle we held. But we did, by God, and we saved the bridgehead, too."

Four Sons Die In War, Release Of Fifth Is Sought

TREMONTON, Utah, Oct. 3. (AP) —Mr. and Mrs. Alven Borgstrom, a farm couple mourning the loss of four sons in the war, today awaited an answer to a plea that their fifth soldier-son be sent home to comfort them.

Community leaders joined Senator Elbert D. Thomas in asking the Navy department to honorably discharge, or at least furlough, Boyd Borgstrom, 23, who has been in the South Seas war zone for 18 months.

The telegram said "Mrs. Borgstrom has given her country what few are asked to sacrifice."

Le Roy Borgstrom was killed in Italy in May, 1944; Clyde, 28, lost his life at Guadalcanal in March, 1944; Rolon, 19, was killed during the invasion of France, and last month Rulon, Rolon's twin brother, was reported missing in action in France.

FDR Declines To Comment On Explosive Russo-Polish Affair

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—President Roosevelt, stressing by implication the explosiveness of the present Russo-Polish situation, flatly declined today to talk about the end of Polish resistance to the Germans inside the battered city of Warsaw.

Asked for comment, the President told his press conference that he supposed he knew as much about the Warsaw affair as any American but he did not know eough to talk about it.

Other officials, including some who have been well-informed on previous developments in Poland's tangled affairs, described the end of resistance as the last act of tragedy which included: (1) Apparent Russian refusal to supply the Polish Patriots for several weeks and (2) Two Red Army military setbacks before the gates of the Polish capital.

Raises Fresh Problems

The political importance of the Warsaw incident is considered certain to raise fresh problems of Anglo-American-Russian solidarity.

In a strictly military sense the Warsaw Polish force was doomed when it turned out about the middle of last month that Red armies on the central front would not be able to crack German resistance at the Polish capital. It was doomed, according to authorities here, because no guerrilla force can exist without adequate support from outside.

This fact and the way it worked out in Warsaw with last night's surrender by General Bor after 63 days of fighting are now being cited in official quarters as evidence of a theory rapidly gaining popularity here—that even though the Nazis try to organize underground resistance inside of Germany they will face inevitable failure because there will not be any outsiue military source on which they can depend for arms and supplies.

In Warsaw, the Polish General Bor, whose real name is Tadeusz Komorowski, had a considerable underground force with a fairly large hoard of supplies late in July when Red armies attacked along the eastern approaches to the Polish capital. What happened from that time on is the subject of bitter controversy. One source charged that Bor was a criminal for having ordered his men into open fighting against the Germans.

The "criminal" charge is not accepted by officials here. For one thing, Bor was named Polish Army commander by the Polish exiled government at London which Moscow opposes. For another, it is widely accepted in American diplomatic quarters that Russian propaganda, if not the Russian military and poliitcal command, bears considerable responsibility for the timing of the outbreak inside Warsaw.

Overseas Christmas Mailing Brisk Here

Christmas packages to men overseas are being sent daily in Lubbock at the rate of 750 to 800, Postmaster Amos H. Howard estimated Tuesday.

The postmaster reminded the public that only one package weekly can be mailed to the same addressee. Deadline for getting parcels in the mails is Oct. 15.

Families and friends of prisoners of war, Howard announced, must have instructions from the United States Army provost marshal, Washington, D. C., before Christmas mail will be accepted for them. Such packages are sent postage free.

"So far, those sending packages have done exceptionally well in wrapping, tying and estimating the maximum weight of 5 pounds," he said.

Baby's Disappearance Is Still Mystifying

DETROIT, Oct. 3. (AP)—Detectives, after checking more than 100 clues, reported today they were as mystified as ever by the whereabouts of 4-year-old Robert James King and a nursemaid recently hired to care for him. Both disappeared from the King home Saturday night while the baby's parents were away.

Addresses and a reference given by the maid when she was employed by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. King a week ago were found to be false, police said.

The Gallup Poll Surveys Presidential Election Turnout

Civilian Vote In November Is Estimated At 39,500,000, Or 10,000,000 Short Of 1940

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 3.—Evidence available at this stage of the political campaign points to a likely turnout of 39,500,000 civilian voters in the presidential election, not including ballots from the armed forces.

This represents a sharp drop from the 1940 election, when nearly 50,000,000 people went to the polls.

The comparatively low anticipated turnout in November is a factor which many Democrats will look upon with dismay. A light turnout generally helps the Republicans and hurts the Democrats, because it usually means fewer workers and low-income voters going to the polls. Analysis of the 1942 elections shows that a substantial part of the gain in seats made by the Republicans in the House of Representatives was owing to the light turnout.

GALLUP

Hence it is easy to see why the Democrats, faced with the possibility of a low turnout this year, are redoubling their efforts to get out the vote.

In arriving at the present estimate for turnout several things were taken into account, principally the Philadelphia voting registration which closed September 18, the turnout in the recent state and local elections in Maine, and the degree of voting in primaries that have been held throughout the country. All these things taken together would indicate that 39,500,000 is a reasonably accurate estimate at this stage in the campaign. The Institute will make new estimates as further data become available from registrations and from surveys indicating degree of interest in the presidential campaign.

88 Million Potential

A civilian turnout of 39,500,000 would be phenomenally low for a presidential year in terms of the total number of potential voters. According to a recent report by the Bureau of the Census, there were 88,600,000 "potential voters"—men and women 21 years old or over—as of January 1, 1944. This includes all men over 21 in the armed forces.

The Census bureau estimated that if voting this year were in the same ratio as the 1940 presidential election, the total turnout in November would be 55,300,000 with the servicemen included. This ratio would mean 50,300,000 with the servicemen excluded.

One has only to compare this latter figure of 50,300,000 potential civilian votes at the 1940 ratio, with the 39,500,000 actually anticipated, to see the decline in turout which the political parties face today.

The following table shows how the estimated 39,500,000 turnout compares with the vote cast in other recent presidential elections. It would be the lightest vote for president since 1928.

1928	36,800,000
1932	39,900,000
1936	45,600,000
1940	49,800,000
1944 (st.)	39,500,000*

*Civilians only.

The size of the servicemen's can only be a matter of speculation at this time. Later evidence, chiefly the number of requests from the armed forces for ballots, should shed further light on the situation.

Plaintiff's Cause In Involved Hockley Suit Is Under Advisement

LEVELLAND, Oct. 3. (Special)—Judge Dan Blair of 72nd district court has under advisement issues raised by the plantiff's cause of action in the case of Grady C. Thurman against J. D. Watts and wife for possession and rents.

(In a late September hearing of the case, no issues were presented to a jury on the plaintiff's cause of action—the jury only answering special issues on the defendants' cross-action. The court reserved to himself a decision on Thurman's cause of action.)

History behind the law suit is involved. It was testified that Watts and his wife leased 240 acres of the Ropesville resettlement project in Hockley county from the Farm Security administration for five years, from Jan. 1, 1940, to Dec. 31, 1944, with an option to purchase; that Thurman bought the tract in September of 1943 and obtained an injunction Sept. 30, 1943, enjoining the Wattses from harvesting and selling the crop on the tract; that the injunction was dissolved by court action Oct. 7, 1943, and the Wattses ordered to pay all rents into registry of the court.

The case went to trial on merits, and the Wattses filed their cross-action. Thurman was granted possession, and 1943 rents of $868.42. The Wattses received an award f $216.67 on their cross-action growing out of allegations the temporary restrianing order obtained by Thurman had prevented them from harvesting their crops over a seven-day period during which feed was damaged by falling over.

St. Louis Opens Big Series Today

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4 (AP) — The first all-St. Louis World Series in the 41-year history of the baseball classic opens tomorrow with the Cardinals' Mort Cooper, ace of the National League champions' staff, opposing veteran Dennis Galehouse, surprise nominee of the Browns.

Manager Billy Southworth's selection of Cooper to get the

KFYO TO BROADCAST

The World Series will be broadcast over radio station KFYO and the Mutual Broadcasting hookup with top notch sports announcer in charge of giving the radio listeners a blow by blow description of the St. Louis classic. The broadcast will start at 1:45 p. m., giving the opening color of the day before the start of the real battle.

Cards away in front in the best four-out-of-seven series was in line with the big righthander's 22 and 7 record during the season.

Galehouse Surprise Choice

But the naming of the 32-year-old Galehouse caught this baseball wild city by surprise. Luke Sewell, pilot of the surging Browns has been expected to head off with Nelson Potter, leading hurler on his staff with a 19-7 record.

Although Galehouse's record of nine wins and 10 defeats doesn't compare with those of other Brownie pitchers, Sewell is placing his confidence in a right-hander, who, at times, proved mighty tough to beat. And he was right in the closing days of the season as the Browns fought the Tigers down to the final day of the season for their first pennant.

Cooper has not pitched since beating the Phillies in a 16-inning affair 10 days ago. Galehouse's last outing was Saturday when he blanked the New York Yankees 2 to 0 on five hits.

Although the boys who say it with money made Southworth's hard-hitting crew 9 to 20 to win the series and 1 to 2 to take the first game, there were many who believed the Browns would belt the National Leaguers out of the picture in five or six games.

Thirty-five thousand or more fans are expected to be in compact Sportsman's Park when Umpire Ziggy Sears yells "Play Ball" at 2 p. m. (central war time). All of the reserved seats have been sold for days. Seven thousand unreserved seats will go on sale at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The bleacher line started forming this morning with a 17-year-old St. Louis boy first in line at 8:15 a. m.

Will Start Regulars

After announcing that Galehouse "is my man," Sewell said he would send out the same lineup that completed a four-game sweep Sunday by the Yankees, world champions in 1943. That means Myron Hayworth will be behind the plate, George McQuinn on first, Don Gutteridge on second, Vern Stephens at shortstop, Mark Christman on third with Chet Laabs, Mike Kreevich and Gene Moore patrolling the outfield.

The Cardinals' opening lineup will be the varsity made up of catcher Walker Cooper, an infield of Ray Sanders, Emil Verban, Martin (Slats) Marion and Whitey Kurowski and Stan Musial, Danny Litwhiler and Johnny Hopp in the outer garden.

The weatherman has promised cooperation in that it will be cool and no rain for the opener.

The first six games, if all are necessary, will be played on successive days with a break of one day between the sixth and seventh contests. The Cards will be the home team for the first two and the sixth and seventh games, reverting to the system used before the war limited the traveling to one jump between the two cities.

Baseball's war relief and service fund will share in the third and fourth games and the sixth and seventh, if they are played.

For the first time since he became commissioner of baseball in 1920, K. M. Landis will miss the series. Ill health has forced him to stay in Chicago.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Republican nominee for vice-president, will view the opening game before making a political speech here tomorrow night and Senator Harry S. Truman of Missouri, Democratic candidate for the same office, expects to see at least one of the games.

Austin Books Three Service Grid Teams

AUSTIN, Oct. 3. (U.P) — Three Army Airforce teams will play football in Austin next Saturday.

Randolph Field, now given the nation's No. One rating, will play the University of Texas Saturday afternoon. Saturday night, Bergstrom Field and Blackland Field will play at Austin High school stadium.

Bergstrom defeated John Tarleton college last Saturday 33 to 0. Blackland earlier defeated Tarleton 24 to 0.

Waste Paper Drive Get Series Tickets

DETROIT, Oct. 3. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers may have lost the American League pennant, but they've found a taker for their 1944 World Series tickets.

If the club gets permission for such disposal from the Internal Revenue office and assurance that that the tickets will be ground up, about two tons of them will go to the Wayne county wastepaper salvage committee.

DAFFY DODGER DOINGS

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3. (AP) — Add Dodger doings: When Stan Musial of the Cardinals made a spectacular catch of Ed Stanky's short fly in the sixth inning of a recent Cards - Dodgers game, Bobby Bragan was doubled off first without the player or the bag being tagged. Stanky registered annoyance by catching Musial's doubling throw to Ray Sanders with his bare hand and firing the ball to the right field wall. So Umpire Larry Goetz called Bragan out, anyway.

SPAAF Prepares For Aggie Tilt

Prospects for a good showing against North Texas Agricultural college were considerably brighter this week as South Plains Army Air Field's Winged Commandos spiritedly drilled for their game with NTAC Friday night in Arlington—and the mounting enthusiasm was no whit dampened by SPAAF's staggering 34-0 loss to Texas Christian.

Big reason for the ray of sunshine piercing SPAAF's gridiron gloom was the return to the Winged Commando lineup of the air crew trainees lost to the team several weeks before the TCU game.

The trainees — five of them starters—played against the Horned Frogs, but were out of shape, had not been working out with the squad and were not able to do much toward hobbling the Frogs.

Expect Better Team

Although Head Coach Ray Cagni still refuses to forecast fair-and-warmer and smooth sailing for his SPAFF outfit in the Arlington tilt, he does believe that things won't be quite so stormy when the Commandos go against Klepto Holmes' hustling young bunch of Aggies.

Paul Campbell, Gene LeRoy, John Stungis in the backfield and Pat Steele and Tom Lacey in the line are the trainees expected to bolster SPAAF's starting lineup. Other trainees will improve the SPAAF position as to reserves.

Campbell, all-district fullback at Breckenridge last year, can play either quarterback or left halfback, but likely will start in the left half spot. Big 190-pound John Stungis, former Ohio State gridder, is slated to see action at the fullback or quarterback post. Gene LeRoy, ex-Denison college flash, will take over the right half position ,it is believed.

Lacey, Wisconsin letterman, will be the starting center and Steele, from Lamar Junior college in Beaumont, will hold down a guard position.

Team Bearing Down

The Winged Commandos are bearing down this week on ball-handling and timing, since fumbles were instrumental in SPAAF's rout by TCU. SPAAF players fumbled seven times in the TCU game and Cagni doesn't intend for it to happen again.

Brightest spot in the TCU debacle was the line play of 175-pound Ray Truitt, who knifed through the Purple line from his guard position time after time to spill Frog ball-carriers and passers. Truitt won three letters at Marshall college, captained the North team in the North-South game and played professional football with the Detroit Lions.

Another SPAAF standout was 190-pound G. D. Young, a two-letter gridder from Wayne university at Detroit, who played 52 minutes of good football against TCU at both end and guard positions.

Lubbock Grid Teams Smooth Offenses For Friday Games

The Lubbock Westerners began to bear down Tuesday afternoon to get ready for the invasion of the lair of the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes Friday night to seek their fourth win of the season, and fourth in a row over District 3-AA foes.

The Westerners, shoved into the limelight in the state by wins over Odessa and San Angelo, continued their string last week at Big Spring with a 25 to 0 win over the Steers. But Coach J. Mule Davis is taking nothing for granted this week, and will be prepared to shoot the works.

Harris Still Out

Davis said Tuesday night that he would probably start the same lineup against the Tornados that started against the Steers last week, and indicated that Billy Bob Harris, injured wingman, probably would miss this game, and that there was doubt of R. W. Moyers, big fullback, seeing much action.

Harris has not returned to work because of a knee injury suffered in workouts last week. Moyers has been out, but taking little part in the team's drills. He may be used, however, if he is needed.

Have Good Workout

There was no scrimmage Tuesday, but the team spent plenty of time in getting ready for the game Friday night, setting a defense against the Lamesa plays, and polishing up the offensive plays.

Lamesa opened its conference schedule last week, taking a 45 to 0 pasting by the Odessa Bronchos, and are expected to be on the rebound this week against the Westerners. The team showed plenty of class in early season games and proved they would be a tough test for the Westerners.

The Westerners will not be the only team from the local school to be in action this week.

Coach Marlin "Shorty" Hayhurst's Gold team of the Cowhands will battle Petersburg at Chapman field Friday afternoon with Coach George Philbrick's Black team going to Slaton.

Both Cowhand elevens will be shooting the works for their first victory of the season. The Gold team, however, has played one tie game and lost once while the Blacks have been beaten twice.

READY FOR SERIES

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 3. (AP) —Jack McConnell of Winnipeg expect to see his 24th consecutive World Series next week—a record, he says, that is surpassed in Canada only by Joe Page of Montreal. The 80-year-old Page has seen them all. McConnell's first series was the 1921 clash between the New York Yankees and Giants.

An unabridged dictionary printed in Braille requires 32 volumes.

Lubbock Juniors To Start Action Today

The local football weekend will get underway today with Coaches Roy Morris and Curtis Barrett taking their Junior High school Cowboys on the road for a pair of ball games at Tahoka and Sundown.

Morris' Purple team will move into Tahoka for its second game of the season, and seeking a second win. The Morrismen opened the season here two weeks ago by beating Barrett's team 25 to 0.

After absorbing this 25-0 drubbing from the Morrismen, Barrett's eleven bounded back last week to nose out a 14 to 7 victory over the Tahoka eleven here.

Just what Sundown will have is a big question mark. The school has been a powerhouse in six-man football in this area, but are indicating a shift to the eleven man game with their junior team this year.

The Tahoka eleven, paced by little Joe Minor, a familiar grid name in Texas, will be a tough foe, but on the basis of comparative scores the Cowboys will be favored over the Pups.

The Petersburg Juniors will move into Lubbock on Thursday

BATON ROUSE, La., Oct. 2. (AP)—Coach Bernie Moore sent his Louisiana State gridders through a stiff drill late today to correct weaknesses revealed in Saturday's tie with Alabama, in preparation for a tilt with the Rice Owls Saturday in Houston.

Flyers Face Sky Giants Saturday

Badly battered after their 19-0 defeat at the hands of the heavier and more experienced Amarillo AAF Sky Giants, the Flyers of LAAF are working desperately this week in an attempt to whip a squad into shape for next Saturday's return engagement.

Among the injured were Cates and Niemer, guards, Teusink, center, who twisted a knee, Schattel and Schmidt, ends, and Lyons, tackle. Also the worse for wear are Wilson, end, and C. C. McWhorter, halfback, who are still nursing injuries from the Texas Tech game.

LAAF coaches and the officials who worked last Saturday's game were unanimously of the opinion that the Giants from Amarillo were one of the finest aggregations to appear in Tech Stadium in recent years. Although hard fought from start to finish with plenty of bruising play, the game was cleanly and well played. Local experts had only praise for the Amarillo machine.

It will undoubtedly be a regrouped lineup that will take the field Saturday night for LAAF. C. C. McDonald, former Abilene Christian back who plays a guard position for LAAF, will be back in the lineup after being absent for several weeks on military duty. J. C. "Big Mac" McWhorter, who recenty returned to the field from Randolph, has been chosen game captain for Saturday night's tilt.

Both George Shook and G. B. "Jeep" Morris, who turned in outstanding performances, will be back in the lineup this Saturday. Just what the Flyer lineup will be at game time depends upon how well the LAAF cripples respond to treatment and upon how the emergency shifts that are being made to fill holes left by injuries work out. The starting lineup will be sent later.

Unbeaten Teams To Clash At Seagraves

SEAGRAVES, Oct. 3 (Special)—Football fever is a common ailment in this little city, and everywhere the conversation is centered on Friday night's grid battle here against two undefeated, untied machines.

It will also be the important conference grid game in District 6-A for both teams, and will give a lot of light on these two dark-horse entries as the Seagraves eleven battles the vaunted O'Donnell Eagles.

Pre-season dopesters gave little consideration to either team, and Tahoka and Denver City were tabbed as the teams to fight it out. But Seagraves and O'Donnell have leaped into the limelight by powering over strong early season foes to reach their conference battle unbeaten and untied, and to this, Seagraves adds unscored on.

Coach Tommy Austin's Eagles beat a veteran packed Meadow club, 24 to 6 and last week blasted the Cowhands of Lubbock 18 to 6 with a shower of great power in both games.

Seagraves has maintained an uncrossed goal line by beating the afternoon and battle Coach Wimberley's Whites at Chapman field. The whites have also played but one game, battling the Reds to a scoreless tie two weeks ago.

GAME CALLED OFF

KEESLER FIELD, Miss., Oct. 3. (AP) — Kessler Field's scheduled football game with the Galveston, Texas, Army Air base here next Sunday, has been cancelled because of transportation hardships for the Texas team, Major Harry F. Kurtz, Kesler's public relations officer, said.

Frogs Favored Over Arkansas Saturday

FORT WORTH, Oct. 3. — Two weeks ahead of the other four contenders, Texas Christian and Arkansas will open the Southwest Conference feud here Saturday afternoon.

On the face of the record, the Horned Frogs appear to have an edge over the visiting Razorbacks. The Frogs have two victories to date—7 to 0 over the University of Kansas and 34 to 0 over the South Plains Army Air Field.

Arkansas nosed out the Missouri Tigers 7 to 6 and then went down beore Oklahoma A. & M. 19 to 0.

The Razorbaybs have managed for only one touchdown against the Frogs in their last four meetings. That was in 1942, when T. C. U. won 13 to 6.

Since Coach Dutch Meyer became head man for the Frogs, his teams have won seven of 10 games with the Razorbacks. One game ended in a tie and two contests went to Arkansas.

Lubbock Cowhands 14 to 0, blasting a powerful Plains eleven 33 to 0 and topping this off last week with a 39 to 0 win over Post.

Friday's winner will establish itself as a decided threat to the 6-A conference crown.

"The Battle Of The Statler"

WHILE we can readily understand the perturbation of Daniel Tobin, president of the AFL Teamsters union, over the melee between a group of his followers and two young Navy officers as an aftermath to the union's meeting before which President Roosevelt appeared as a speaker, we do not share his fears that the incident will react politically against the President.

From this point of disadvantage 1,500 miles removed from the scene of the "Battle of the Statler," we do not make bold to place the blame for it. Fairminded people, however, will not blame the President, or Tobin, neither of whom were on the scene. Tobin certainly cannot be responsible for the personal actions of all his union's members; nor is the President responsible for the doings—right, or wrong—of those who support his campaign.

The melee was, of course, a regrettable thing. Yet it is not unusual for political differences to result in fighting. Fisticuffs—and worse—have resulted from political rivalry for many years; probably will continue for many years to come. We can think of no past melees which have been blamed upon candidates whose supporters were involved, and we see no reason why the Washington trouble should be blamed upon the President. Nor will most Americans, whether they favor a Fourth Term, or the election of Gov. Tom Dewey.

All reports of the Statler fighting agree that the Navy officers were outnumbered. Therefore, the most regretable part of the affair is that a group of civilians entered into the melee against only two service men, both of whom have served their country in the midst of shot and shell. No matter which side of the argument was right, the teamsters who entered into the fighting were wrong—as individuals, not as union members—for taking numerical advantage. For "ganging up" on the Navy officers, the guilty should be punished. Doubtless Daniel Tobin will see that they are. If he doesn't, he should.

JUDGING from all reports of the "Battle of the Statler," the swapping of kicks and punches was preceded by some discussion of whether or not the Navy officers planned to vote for the re-election of the President. Thus the extent of a service man's obedience to his wartime commander-in-chief was involved. Since this is a question much in the current national limelight, let it be settled, once and for all, for the record.

The service man is bound to accept the orders of his commander-in-chief in all matters military, or bearing upon the military.

He is not, however, bound to vote for continuation in office of his commander-in-chief, which is a political, not a military, matter.

When an individual marks his ballot—whether he is a civilian, or wears a uniform—he is performing a duty of civilian citizenship, not of military expediency. Chief duties of a President, even in wartime, are not military; in the case of President Roosevelt they cannot be military, because he is not a military man. Regardless of who is elected on November 7, our military campaigning must and will be carried on by men schooled in such matters and not by either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Dewey, neither of whom can be classed—even by a stretch of the imagination—as experts in such matters.

Policies At The University

DECISION of the board of regents of University of Texas to turn down the suggestion of President Homer P. Rainey to move the institution's medical school from Galveston to Austin was a wise one. It also lends credence to reports of months duration that all is not peaches and cream between the board and the president of the Austin school.

It will occur to most Texans who have followed the controversy over the Rainey proposal, we think, that the President erred in making public his theories without first finding out how a majority of the regents would stand on the matter. The board's overriding of Doctor Rainey's suggestion must have been unpleasant and somewhat embarrassing all around.

The proposal to move the medical school from Galveston, where a large investment has been made, to Austin, which could not possibly offer clinical advantages essential of the school's operation, is not the first in which President Rainey has found himself and the board out-of-step in matters of policy.

And if we judge Texas public opinion aright, neither is it the first time the University's president has found himself thinking quite in opposition to the desires of the majority of the taxpayers from whom the Austin institution semi-annually secures tremendous sums of money for operation.

The One Minute Sermon

Therefore, they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney.

Yet I am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no god but me: for there is no saviour beside me.—Hosea 13: 3-4.

Believe It Or Not --- By Robert Ripley

The Life Of Eisenhower

By Francis Trevelyan Miller

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

SUPREME COMMANDER
CHAPTER XXIX

ONE HUNDRED days after Iron Ike reached England from Italy he was ready for the invasion of Europe from the west in the spring of 1944.

During these hundred days little was heard from Eisenhower except that he was following his usual pace, sleeping little, working from dawn to dark and longer, and apply his attention to every detail. Even the Nazis were impressed, as witness the story published by the Munich newspaper, Neueste Nachrichten: "The American general has an athletic appearance, full health and strength, a well formed jaw and head showing great will, and is a man whom his countrymen would call a 'he man.' He is a man who has great abilities as an organizer and who has demonstrated great good sense in leadership and tactics in Africa."

He was inspecting troops in England while across the Channel Field Marshal Rommel was conducting a detailed inspection tour of his defenses.

"I found the troops in good condition," General Eisenhower said, "intensively engaged in efficient training for the big job that lies ahead. If their fighting is as good as their training, God help the Nazis!"

General Eisenhower's tour was as informal as it was thorough. He insisted that no parades or formal inspections be arranged for him. Commanding officers were ordered to continue the regular training schedule when he arrived. He traveled in a special train which carried staff cars for trips through the countryside, and was in continuous radio communication with the Supreme Allied Command in London. A radio-equipped jeep followed the general on all tours in order to allow him to remain in touch with his headquarters. He worked nights on deskwork in a fully equipped office on wheels.

His first inspection at any camp was the kitchen. Next the general checked the health of the men and then their guns and equipment. Once in a while his passion for informality was frustrated. A long column of troops was marching down a road along which his car was moving. As the car approached, with its red plate bearing the four stars of a full general, cries of "Eyes right!" echoed down the column.

The general averted the threat of an impromptu review by jumping from his car, motioning two or three men out of formation, and asking, "How's your chow and your billets?"

DURING these Second Front preparations the general received the top Soviet award, the Order of Suvaroff, first class. To the Russians on the 26th anniversary of the Red Army, the general sent this message:

"In stopping the Nazi military machine the Red Army showed the world the most courageous exploit ever accomplished during a defensive war. I salute the officers and men of the Red Army. . . ."

AMERICAN troops poured into Britain from across the seas. The Nazis worriedly fortified the invasion coasts. Invasion jitters grew stronger and stronger. Despite his tremendous burden, General Eisenhower found time for inspections and close contacts.

"Only a self-disciplined Army can win battles," he told his soldiers.

"Assurance of our success in battle and our chances to return home safely and speedily are directly affected by our success in establishing here a reputation as a first-class, disciplined fighting organization. . . . My deep appreciation to each of you for duty well performed in the past and with the best of luck in the future."

GENERAL EISENHOWER as Supreme Commander of the Allied Western Front is invested with the greatest authority in history, greater than that of old Roman generals. Commanding all Allied land, sea and air forces, the joint American-British governments have given him control never before placed in the hands of one man.

The Allied Armistice Plan providing for the end of the war is said to place the entire economic life of Europe under Eisenhower's control for whatever period is required to restore peace and trade after the war ends. All nations except Germany and her satellites will be allowed to choose their own governments. France, Norway, Holland, Belgium will be under their safety and security are assured and they are able to resume self-government without Allied protection.

General Eisenhower will have direct control over all parts of Germany occupied by Allied troops (except the Russian). German territory occupied by the Red Army will be controlled by a Soviet Military Government. General Eisenhower will set up a similar protectorate over Italy until it is purged of its enemies.

Iron Ike as he stands surrounded by his "Invasion Team" (his name for it) is the commanding figure in the greatest military adventure in the world's history. Eight old warriors—five Britons and three Americans—stand beside him, the key men in the final drive on Hitler's three thousand miles of fortifications on the western coast of Europe.

Three years ago Eisenhower was a lieutenant-colonel; today his record of successful generalship includes the conquests of North Africa, Sicily and Italy. His formula is starkly simple: "Plan to the least detail, then strike like death itself."

NEXT: Ike's Invasion Team.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

SOMETIMES I wonder who these people are who write the thousands of booklets and folders and articles published by our benevolent government.

Surely, they must be made of mighty stuff, for in these publications there is always such a tone of complete infallibility, or shall we say, superiority, that only the most powerful brains—or the most powerful fools—can speak with so much authority.

For instance, take the subject of women.

Who knows anything about women? Surely not men, or the wisest of them could not be so easily fooled by pretty little dumb-bells.

Do women know women? Of course not; else why would it be so easy for one woman to steal a man from another one?

So, who does know anything about women? The War department—or at least somebody in the War department who has just written a special booklet for returning GI's telling them all about what to do with women after the war.

The booklet makes the brilliant observation that "women are not all alike"—some of them, it says, are made only for having babies and "a woman may have the mind of a moron or the genius of Madame Curie."

The thing I personally resented most was the suggestion "man could share in almost every task in the house," whereas whenever my wife suggests even the slightest household help, I run as fast as I can.

I'd like to meet the writer of that booklet. Years ago one of the California communities near San Francisco where I was a reporter, had a particularly efficient Parent-Teacher association, with a very active president. My city editor sent me to interview her, and I took a photographer along. I was to talk to her husband and her children, get pictures of their happy family life, ask her what made marriage successful, and so on. When we got out to the place we went to the president's address, and we found her in a tiny, little home, a lovely old maiden lady, keeping house with a Cocker Spaniel and two cats.

THAT'S how I picture the author of the War department's booklet on women. Only I think it's an old bachelor who never had a wife of his own and whose only contact with women is probably through the pages of Esquire Magazine.

Maybe I'm wrong. As for me, I have been married many years, I have a sister and aunts and nieces, and in my work I have met women by the hundred.

But if I were asked to write a book about women, it would be a handsomely bound volume with three hundred and sixty-five blank pages.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

FARMER Henry Morgenthau apparently did not consult old or recent world trade statistics when he framed his plan for postwar control of Germany and other Axis nations. Although President Roosevelt supports his general views, the Treasury secretary's program for keeping the Reich in subjection infuriates such economic realists as Cordell Hull and Henry Stimson.

Morgenthau suggests that the enemy country be transformed into a purely agricultural state. It would be deprived of all its industries and forced into the slave status of an agricultural bread basket for the continent. Such a scheme in his opinion, would prevent the Teutonic race and satellite powers from ever again threatening the peace of the world.

It probably would. But Hull and Stimson are working on more practical arrangements for the same end. Their criticism of the Treasury secretary's proposal rests on the belief that Germany cannot be turned into an economic vacuum without disastrous effects on the system of international trade, industry and finance.

The loss of rich markets in the Reich, they contend, would result in unemployment in numerous other countries, including the United States. It would, perhaps, produce postwar unrest and a distinct trend toward Communism. Under such rigid reorganization the Germans would become dipe for Russian penetration and conversion to the Soviet philosophy.

TRADE: Even a casual study of world trade balances from 1913 to the pre-Munich year of 1937 convinces the Hull-Stimson school that the Morgenthau proposition is unsound. The Secretary of State is particularly upset for several reasons.

In the first place, he does not understand why Morgenthau, who has never been engaged in trade, should be placed on this committee. Second, the financial chieftain's ideas cut squarely across the Tennesseean's theories regarding expansion of world commerce through negotiation of reciprocal tariff agreements. Then there is the underlying fact that the State has resented for some time Treasury's persistent attempt to intervene in postwar matters.

In 1913 Germany imported goods valued at around a billion and a half dollars, of which $408,000,000 worth came from the United States. That sum was about 18 per cent of our total exports.

We sold Berlin such things as grains, cotton, meats, etc., while we imported skins, potash, chemicals and fabricated articles which totaled $200,000,000. In that same year the Reich bought from all nations $300,000,000 worth more than she sold.

HAVOC: Germany's 1926 imports amounted to a billion and a half, and more than one-third originated in the United States. Our favorable balance of trade was in excess of $300,000,000. Her purchases from us in the year 1937 were $182,000,000, as against only $84,000,000 which we bought from her.

In short, the world—and this country particularly—has always profited from an exchange of goods with our present foe.

No one wants the Reich to reoccupy a position which will enable her to plunge the globe into war in another 25 years. But the restrictive arrangements now under consideration by the Dumbarton Oaks conferees, as well as by State-Army-Navy strategists, should clip the aggressor's wings without creating international havoc.

SCHEME: Tom Dewey may not carry California (the state went for FDR by five hundred thousand in 1944), but he did not hurt himself with the Townsendites in that area when he declared for "all-inclusive Social Security" in his Los Angeles speech. That is the very phrase which backers of the old-age pensions movement apply to their program.

Incidentally, the almost forgotten measure on behalf of this plan has recently picked up some momentum in the House. The Cannon bill embodying the ideas of this group has been slumbering in committee for more than a year under orders from administration leaders to keep it off the floor.

In view of the official opposition, the promoters have sought to bring it up for debate through the discharge system. If a majority of the members—218—sign a "discharge petition", the legislation must be reported to the lower chamber for public discussion and a vote on whether it shall be made an order of business.

For months the number of signatures sagged far below 200. But now the total is 210, or only eight less than are needed. About 20 re-election candidates sneaked to the Speaker's desk at various times after last June's recess and scribbled their John Hancock's. They had apparently heard from the old folks during their summer vacations.

The White House has blocked a test until after November 7 for Congress will not meet again until after that date. By that time the present petition will have lapsed and it will be necessary to begin all over again. Whether the next session will be more or less favorable to the "ham and egg" scheme is a question."

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

SURVEYS made by New York research organizations indicate that America's demand for more comfortable homes and working places will mean more jobs than ever before in the heating and cooling lines.

Ambitious returning veterans and others should find plenty of openings in manufacturing, distributing, installing and servicing the products of these two industries. One-half the nation's dwellings are without central heating systems. Seven of every 10 ranges and furnaces are obsolete and will require replacement or modernization.

The oil-burner people predict their business will double in the next five years and that they will dispose of two and a half million units. Gas and stoker experts are optimistic, too.

There will be many opportunities in the air conditioning field but these will be fewer in number than in the thermal enterprises. Lowering temperature is ten times as expensive as raising it. The chilling trade is 38 years old but it has been retarded by initial and maintenance costs, which can be reduced after V-E Day. Its executives anticipate sales five times better than those of the best prewar year.

COSTS: Oil-burner managements boast of turning out more equipment than the present outlets can use. During the emergency retailers without servicing men on their lists folded up when they could not get furnaces and petroleum by reason of war demands. These vacancies becken to newcomers.

As a rule, heaters have been side lines of plumbers who frequently were more eager for a $2 faucet order than for a $200 sale. Big corporations will continue to have their own distributors.

But there may grow up H-C shops (heating and cooling) that will display all types of stoves and equipment for keeping the mercury down, including iceboxes and deep freezer cabinets. Some important manufacturers already sell both ranges and air conditioning units.

Spurred by government contracts, great strides have been made in the general cooling branches based on air circulation and the dehumidizing gadgets using frigid pipes. Factory personnel and installation engineers have the know-how today and the small motor, developed in this war, will trim costs.

SLEEPING: Previously, setting up a device that turned sweltering summer into mild spring indoors ran into money. Water, electricity and sewer charges were steady drains on the pocketbook. An expenditure of $1,500 was necessary for a living room and chamber. Only large establishments or millionaires could afford such luxury.

But, after the armistice releases the materials, companies will market a unit for $200 adequate for a room measuring 10 by 15 feet; operating expense will be economical.

Wrist Watch, Plane Ride Break Records For Coke

By WILLIAM E. KEYS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Oct. 3. (AP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson has two now first experiences on his personal log.

One brought a broad smile to his face. He's still wondering about the other.

For the first time in his life he slipped a wrist watch onto ihs wrist—and liked it. It was a beautiful time piece with a heavily decorated gold band, presented to him by the personnel of a Mexican Army regiment on Mexican Independence Day, Sept. 16, in appreciation for his good neighbor activities.

For the first time in his 56 years he took an Airplane flight—to Washington. High altitude flying on the return trip caused an ear disorder. He may fly again, he said, but at the moment he does not contemplate another air trip.

Not The Dog's Fault!

A member of the Supreme Court Commission of Appeals owns a dog. The dog has a friend, a long brown dachshund whose master is a neighbor youth.

The youth is an avid news reader and radio listener. One day at the judge's he remarked:

"I hope you don't mind Dingle being over here. You know, we mustn't think about the kind of dog he is."

STATE officials are among Texans making their first antelope hunt in Texas yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Under game department regulations for the antelope season, first 40 years, the first hunts occurs on those days at the H. L. Kogernot ranch in Brewster and Jeff Davis counties.

Permitees for these days include Governor Stevenson and his secretary, Ernest Boyett; D. J. Harrison of Houston, a member of the University of Texas board of regents; Rep. R. Emmett Morse, formerly of Houston and now of Austin; State Senator Weaver Moore of Houston; Rep. W. O. Reed of Dallas, and Rep. Claude Gilmer of Kerrville.

Speeders Still Active

Despite a general slowdown caused by thinning tires, excessive speed continues high on the list of traffic accident causes in Texas.

For the first six months of the year, report Public Safety department statisticans, 373 violations of speed limits figured in 115 fatal accidents. Iin 30 of these cases the driver was pushing his vehicle above 70 miles per hour. Forty-six were traveling between 61 and 70 miles per hour and 112 were driving between 51 and 60 miles per hour.

THE oil industry recognizes that the first producing well was brought in south of Titusville, Pa., in 1859, but the log of the De Soto expedition is authority for the fact that Texas is the birthplace of the American petroleum industry.

The Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association reports:

"Texas may lay some claim for the first search for oil in this country. Early in 1859, Jack Graham dug a pit near a tar spring in Angelina county. The supply was more abundant than that on the surface of the spring. . . .

"The first recorded use of American petroleum by white men (Indians finding it seeping out of the ground had used it many years for medicine, tanning and waterproofing) occurs in the log of the De Soto expedition.

"About July 25, 1543, the rudely constructed boats of the expedition were sailing westward along the Texas Gulf coast en route to Mexico. The boats put ashore when a squall came up.

Brief Record Kept

"The chronicler of the expedition referred to himself as the Gentleman of Elvas (Portougal) but his name is believed to have been Alvaro Fernandez. In his account which was published in Evora, Portugal, in 1557, he wrote:

'The vessels came together in a creek, where lay the two brigantines that preceded them. Finding a scum the cast up, called dopee, which is like pitch and used instead on shipping, where that is not to be had they payed the bottoms of their vessels with it.'

'Historians, geographers and nautical experts have figured from a study of the De Soto chronicle that the spot mentioned was about 3.5 miles west of Sabine pass, Jefferson county. There is an oil seepage here, perhaps from the great Spindle Top field several miles to the north."

STATE Senator George (Cotton) Moffett will wage a fight in the next legislature for more state support of cotton research.

Newest substitute which may displace cotton for some uses is glass, Moffett reports.

To prove his point he sent to the state Board of Control a sample of spun glass fiber which is in commercial use where cotton insulating material cannot withstand high temperatures.

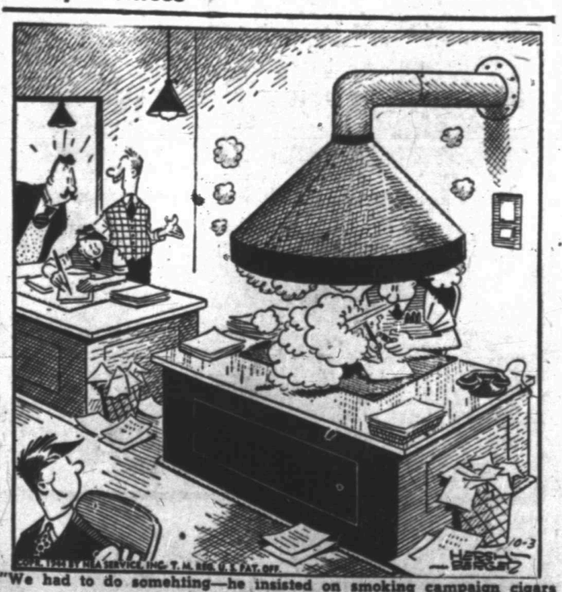

Says Moffett:

"The point is that if scientific research can produce a flexible spun glass fiber . . . which has found genuine commercial usage, there is no telling just what other snythetic substitutes for cotton fiber may ultimately be found."

He adds that Texas, the biggest producing state, had better step up its cotton use research in view of a lint surplus he foresees accumulating when the war ends.

Barbara Hutton And Actor-Husband Cary Grant Reconciled

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3. (U.P.) — Woolworth Heiress Barbara Hutton and her actor-husband, Cary Grant, today sought seclusion for an impromtu "honeymoon" after announcing a reconciliation from their seven weeks' estrangement.

Immediately after issuing the statment that they had reunited, the couple departed for a few days' vacation.

"We feel sure that the press and public will respect it as being our own affair," their statement said, without giving any indication as to what caused the separation or the reunion.

On Aug. 15, Grant, Miss Hutton's first commoner husband, moved out of their palatial residence where the dime store heiress keeps two sets of furniture to change the decor according to her mood. At that time they said the separation had been planned for June, but they had put it off when Miss Hutton's former husband, Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, whisked her son off to Canada.

"It's unfair to take advantage of his name and protection because I am fighting to hold my child," Miss Hutton said when the separation took place.

Friends said that Grant, who relinquished any claim to Miss Hutton's $40,000,000 when he married her in 1942, had industriously sought reconciliation during the interim.

Dewey Tax Plan

on alcoholic beverages, tobacco and gasoline.

(5) Complete overhaul of "existing, confused and complicated tax laws" and the creation of "a basic tax law which can be expected to remain simple and generally stable."

(6) Establishment of a "consistent national tax policy—one directed toward achieving full employment and a rising national income."

Dewey said that in the postwar years, with a national debt of three hundred billion dollars, large federal revenues would be needed.

"But it is stupid to suppose," he said, "that we can support our government by levying heavy taxes upon a dwindling national income. Our first aim must be to increase our national income by putting to work all the productive resources of our country—industry, labor and agriculture."

It was far better, he said, to have a low tax rate with a national income of one hundred fifty billion dollars than to have a high rate with a national income of seventy-six billion dollars "as we had under the New Deal at its peacetime best."

Aerial Assaults

yesterday's Eighth Air force bombing, which also kindled fires in railroad yards and a steel mill at Hamm. Every building at the ordnance depot was hit, and two of the six biggest were destroyed.

Other reconnaisance photographs showed that the Dortmund Ems canal, which carried 11,000,000 tons of freight annually before the war, had been dry since a pinpoint attack by 96 Royal Air force Lancasters with 6-ton bombs Sept. 23.

"The Ruhr is completely isolated by waterway both from the North Sea and from Berlin and eastern Germany," the air ministry said. "No Rhine traffic can now reach the North Sea because the Rhine itself is out at Nijmegan and almost certainly impassable for heavy traffic at Arnhem."

Pilots of Britain-based Flying Fortresses said they flew through heavy cloud protection to Germany, then "the sky opened beautifully."

One crewmen, E. C. Loggins, of Hillsboro, Tex., said he saw a few enemy fighters "but they didn't come in. I guess our escort was too much for them."

New Soviet Drive

trances to the Gulfs of Riga and Finland, was taken by troops of Marshal Leonid Govorov's Leningrad Army.

Now the Russians need possession only of Saare, largest of the four islands, to give the Red fleet clear sailing in the Baltic, where it can be employed against German shipping and in support of future campaigns to drive the Germans out of those parts of Latvia and Lithuania they still occupy, and to invade East Prussia.

Nazi Escape Menaced

The new drive into Yugoslavia not only places Belgrade between one of the Red Army's vaunted pincers but threatens to cut the last Nazi escape routes from the Balkans.

Romanian troops were believed to be participating in this new drive, and Col. Ernest von Hammer, Nazi radio military analyst, mentioned the presence of motorized Bulgarian formations.

Berlin placed the Russian strength at five infantry divisions, probably more than 50,000 men, and indicated they were thoroughly motorized and accompanied by some armor. The Germans announced evacuation of the principal cities taken by the Russians before the Soviet communique was issued.

Accounts of the landings on Ristna, broadcast by the Berlin radio, said strong Russian forces behind a sweeping screen of low-flying aircraft beached their boats on the northeastern side of the island yesterday and also established beachheads on the south side.

Near Estonian Mainland

The direction of the landings indicated one amphibious force came from Vormsi to make the northeastern landing while the southern operations were carried out by units which sailed from Muhu.

Ristna, about 22 miles wide and 30 miles long, lies near the Estonian mainland almost due east of Stockholm. It was believed to have been a refuge for thousands of German soldiers driven to the sea by Marshal Govorov's conquest of Estonia.

There were indications the Russians also were invading Saare. Von Hammer said the dam between Saare and Muhu had been demolished and that German naval forces "temporarily cut Russian crossing," but he did not expand on the subject.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. (AP)—Service men on leave or furlough three days or more after October 7 may obtain furlough rations of processed foods on the basis of 10 points for each nine meals, the Office of Price administration announced today.

The action is an amendment adjusting furlough rations to the recent order which gave processed foods point values in multiples of ten.

THE AWFUL TRUTH

McALESTER, Okla., Oct. 3 (AP)—Accustomed, as they were, to extinguishing blazes caused by freight car "hot boxes,' firemen in this railroad city were perfectly calm on the latest job—but when they learned later the car was loaded with bombs some of them felt a little weak.

and sever our communications with the southern region."

The Chinese high command reported no change on the vital Kwangsi front where strategic Kweilin is the Japanese objective. Fighting raged at Paoching, on the Japanese right flank.

Clyde A. Farnsworth, Associated Press war correspondent, reported from Kweilin under date of Oct. 1 that the Japanese were said to be only 14 miles from the city but that the Chinese, well armed with U. S. war supplies, were confident they would hold this hub of China's southern defenses.

U. S. airmen were strongly supporting the Chinese through the Kwangsi war zone.

In Washington, President Roosevelt said 20,000 tons of supplies are going into China by air each month. A Chinese spokesman recently commented on the inadequacy of Allied supplies reaching his country.

Nomura Sees "Long War"

Meanwhile, Adm. Nomura, last Japanese ambassador to the United States, predicted a "long war" in a newspaper article reported by Domei. He said American operations against the Philippines were part of a plan to blockade Japan, and urged the Japanese people to prepare for "a truly serious stage of the war" from which "we must emerge as a great driving force and strengthen our national effort."

In western Burma, British forces were within two miles of the Tiddim-Fort White road. This is the chief Japanese avenue of escape from the Chin hills sector. The British are headed for Tiddim, Japanese supply base.

to the White House it was shorn, at House insistence, of Senate provisions for back-home travel pay, up to $200 a family, for war workers and of unemployment insurance provisions for an estimated 3,100,000 federal workers.

The demobilization and reconversion law sets up an overall administration to handle the relations of government and industry in the reconversion period. The administrator will coordinate contract terminations and the disposal of $100,000,000,000 in surplus war property, covered in separate legislation.

The bill also:

1. Permits continuation of work under war contracts where it will beenfit the government or is necessary to avoid substantial physical injury to a plant or property.

2. Set up a retaining and reemployment administration to coordinate existing activities for veterans and handicapped civilians.

3. Guarantees the solvency of state unemployment compensation funds.

4. Provides loans, without interest, to states and cities for planning postwar public works.

CRESENT CITY, Calif., Oct. 3 (AP) Fishing for salmon, Ted Westbrook caught a big buck deer and landed it.

Trolling on the Smith river he spied the buck swimming the stream. He jumped astride the deer's back, slashed its throat with a pen knife and brought his prize ashore.

Deficit Financing Flayed By Bricker

CENTRALIA, Ill., Oct. 3. (AP)—Governor John W. Bricker said tonight that even with increased tax income the federal government has spent more than it collected and declared that continuation of "deficit financing" would mean "an end to representative government and free enterprise in America."

"The most effective way to overthrow our republican form of government in America is to continue the New Deal fiscal policies in the postwar period," he had in a prepared address.

The Republican candidate for vice-president, in a text released by his campaign staff, added "it is high time that every citizen knows where a continuation of the New Deal fiscal policy of spend, waste, borrow and tax will lead our country."

ians on Monday to evacuate the island.

Some 1,700 American planes attacked industries and airfields at the southern German cities of Nurnberg, Gaffenau and Giebelstadt.

To the south in France Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's American Third Army, employing flamethrowers, was reported to have fought into Fort Drian, a main bastion of the formidable system of the Nazi fortressss guarding Metz.

While doughboys stormed Fort Driant under machinegun fire, Patton's artillery and American divebombers maintained a heavy assault on the entire Metz area.

British Second In Lull

A lull settled over the British Second Army front in Holland as the Germans temporarily, at least, abandoned their armored counterattacks against Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's salient in the Nijmegen area and bad weather slowed Allied air attacks.

There likewise was little activity back along the Belgian-Holland border, except for a Canadian successes in knocking the Nazis out of Merxem, a suburb of Antwerp.

Southeast of Nijmegen an American armored unit was reported fighting from house to house in Overloon, one of the last enemy strongholds west of the Maas (Meuse) river in Holland. The town previously was reported to have been captured by the Yanks, but a late field dispatch said the Nazi garrison still was resisting.

There were repeated reports that German troops all along the front had been ordered by Hitler to stand or be shot by their own men.

Sharp Nazi Attack

In an apparent effort to take the pressure off their troops north of Aachen the enemy made a sharp attack south of the city last night and in bright moonlight slugged the Americans back from one pillbox. But a prompt Yank counterattack regained all lost ground.

It was announced that the six Allied armies in western Europe had captured at least 526,084 German prisoners by tonight, Hodges' First Army, with 183,827 to its credit, had taken nearly twice as many as Patton's Third Army, with 92,600.

The U. S. Seventh Army at the extreme southern end of the front captured Ronchamp 10 miles west of the fortress city of Belfort at the entrance to the Belfort gap gateway to Germany. Third Army troops cleared the last Germans from the forest of Gremecey, some 20 miles east of Nancy.

Capture by American troops of Maizieres Les Metz, on the west bank of the Mozelle seven miles north of Metz, was confirmed by Allied headquarters.

relations, and the Germans seized upon it for propaganda purposes in their campaign to drive a wedge between Russia and the United States and Britain.

The struggle widened the gulf between Russian and the Polish government in exile in London. The London Poles and the Soviet-sponsored Polish national committee of liberation accused one another of responsibility for the ill-fated uprising.

Throughout, the Russians stood firmly behind the liberation committee, and Washington and London backed the London regime.

Polish sources in London said the peoples of Warsaw had been living in holes beneath the rubble, lacking food and water, and suffering from epidemics of dysentry, typhoid and scarlet fever.

These were the conditions which prevailed, a spokesman for the London government said, when Gen. Komorowskl, a few hours before the capitulation, informed the government a mercy truce had been arranged to permit the evacuation of civilians from the city which had a pre-war population of 1,225,000.

How many were slain as the Germans bombed the city, poured hundreds of artillery shells into the capital and smashed through streets with tanks may never be known, but estimates range up to 250,000.

Navy Man Draws Congratulations In Teamsters Fracas

AUSTIN, Oct. 3. (AP)—A congratulatory telegram today was sent by Roy Sanderford of Belton, permanent chairman of the Texas Regulars convention, to Navy Lieut. Randolph Dickens, jr., who told reporters Monday he had been in a fight Sept. 23 with several men who identified themselves as members of the teamsters union.

Sanderford said in a telegram made public here:

"With millions of other Americans I am proud of your war record and am outraged that anyone should attempt to invade your sacred right to vote as you please without accounting to anyone for your vote.

"You were 100 per cent right when you told these unioners it was none of their business how you were going to vote. It is none of my business either. It is my business, and that of all Americans to condemn all attempts to put pressure upon our fellow-citizens in uniform for political purposes. When men seek political office they must ask for votes, not command them, and the contention that a soldier or Marine must support a certain candidate because of his official title cannot be admitted without making a joke of democracy.

"I congratulate you . . . and your friend . . . you were fighting for all Americans there, as you have done on the battlefields. As an American and as a citizen of the state which leads all others in contributing men to the battle fronts, as a Texas regular Democrat, I salute you, sir, and thank you, for you were performing a duty on the home front which inspires all of us to perform likewise."

cal storm which interrupted electric service in some parts of the city.

The rains, which began last night and continued today, were heaviest at Anson, which reported three inches. Stamford in West Texas got 2.91 in a steady downpour and Wichita Falls 2.52.

The cotton picking peak in Mitchell county, expected this week, will be delayed by a 2-inch rain at Colorado City. Ranchmen there reported the moisture will put the range in excellent condition for the winter.

Albany received 2.15 inches in three showers and a ranchman there said the rain had filled Shackelford county stock tanks badly in need of water.

Abilene had received only .79 of an inch this morning, but a steady drizzle continued.

Damage to grain on the ground was predicted in the entire South Plains region.

In the Panhandle, Plainview's fall wheat prospects were boosted by a half-inch rain which halted harvest of small grains. Pampa and Amarillo reported overcast skies but little moisture. Vernon had 1.94 inches of rain and electra 2.21.

The rains came at a time when the cotton harvest was just getting under way. The Abilene Reporter News said a survey showed about 10 per cent of the estimated 300,000-bale crop in that area had been picked and about 25 per cent of the unharvested crop was open.

Other points receiving rain were Hamlin 1.75; Sweetwater .34 of an inch; Jayton, 2 inches; Spur .28; Winters 1.50; Haskell 2.1; Seymour 1.8; Munday 1.4; Aspermont 1.25; and Snyder 1.64.

Orth Asks Session On OPA Squabble

DALLAS, Oct. 3 (AP)—Regional Office of Price Administrator William A. Orth said today he had telegraphed Rep. Overton Brooks (D-Lt), that he would meet him in Washington within the next few days to discuss their differences concerning the dismissal of the Shreveport, La., district OPA director.

Orth will be in the national capital on routine visits with national OPA officials.

Brooks, commenting on Orth's dismissal last Friday of J. E. Brumfield, said, "the general impression is that Louisiana offices are being subjected to the dictates of Texas politics. I feel a great injustice is being done him (Brumfield) by your office."

Orth asked Brooks to explain his meaning by "dictates of Texas politics" in his telegram, but late today said he had received no reply.

E. L. Bersley is temporarily replacing Brumfield.

Jury Is Completed For Trial Of Shaw

SARDIS, Miss., Oct. 3. (AP)—A jury was completed late today in the trial of A. I. Shaw, jr., Coffeeville, Miss., mule dealer, charged the slaying of Jimmy Deskin, Tulia, Tex., soldier.

District Attorney Joe L. Chatham and Defense Atttorney W. I. Stone agreed on the jury after nearly two days had been taken up with its section. Circuit Judge John M. Kuykendall of Charleston, announced that presentation of testimony would begin tomorrow.

Deskin was beaten to death with a tire tool in 1943, and indictments were returned last January against Shaw and Aaron Heffner. Heffner, a Coffeeville pool hall operator, was convicted at a separate trial and sentenced to a life term.

Virginia Man Becomes Europe's Top Pilot

Brown gained his latest credit today while strafing an airfield in southern Germany. He had flown as a bomber escort, but no luftwaffe fighters rose for combat.

Aachen And Metz, Outer Bastions Of Siegfried, Believed Doomed

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Twin outer bastions of the Nazi Siegfried line, Aachen and Metz, appear doomed as American First and Third armies close in on them, bent on averting a winter stalemate in the west.

Allied official advices give little information as to the battle for either place but front line dispatches left little doubt that both were tottering under the concerted fire of American guns and bombs and lunging infantry thrusts.

SIMPSON

Collapse of either or both would go far toward throwing the foe back behind the Rhine itself in the center of the 500-mile western front. It would open the road for Allied deployment on the left bank of the Rhine itself to regain mobility in action and bring the weight of American tank and mechanized superiority again into play.

North of Aachen the upper jaw of a First Army vise was virtually abreast of its southern mate, which previously had driven into Stolberg and beyond. Seizure of Ubeck and Rimberg Castle beyond the Dutch border in Germany cut athwart the direct northern escape route for the partially encircled enemy garrison in Aachen.

Athwart Main Route

The main highways and rail routes out of Aachen lead northeasterly to the Rhine, however, through the gap between the upper and lower jaws of the First Army pincers. All are in crossfire range of American field guns.

The fury of German resistance establishes the importance of Aachen to enemy hopes of holding off the Allied advance to the Rhine until winter bogs down the Western front. It may take time and bitter fighting to complete its investment; but General Hodges' troops are within sight of their first objective within two days of their jump off.

Bombs used during the first part of World War I consisted of 25-pound pear-shaped containers with a smokeless powder or gun-cotton charge, wich were dropped by hand from the open cockpit.
