PRESIDENT'S BIRTHDAY BALL TUESDAY NIGHT

Mr. W. A. Wallace, chairman of the local President's Birthday Ball committee has announced that the Ball in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday would be held at the Dal-Pase Hotel on Tuesday evening January 29, instead of Wednesday the 30th, as previously announced. This change was made so that a good orchestra could be secured.

Tickets for the ball are on sale at Drug Stores this week.

Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the National Committee of the 1935 Birthday Ball for the President, has reported that more than 5600 balls have been planned in communities where they were held last year, while hundreds of new localities are eager to join this year.

At President Roosevelt's suggestion, and endorsing a recommendation the trustees of the Warm Springs Foundation made, no part of this year's funds will go to the foundation. Seventy cents of every dollar is to be used for the rehabilitation of handicapped children with in the nearest geographic unit of which the community is a part. The other thirty cents will be turned over to the president to be used by a national commission appointed by him for widening the research efforts aimed at wiping out paralysis.

In a statement urging the cooperation of every community in the country to make the campaign a success, Mr. Doherty said that the President "has given his fifty-third birthday anniversary in reality to every person in the country, young and old, who has been afflicted with infantile paralysis."

"This dread disease is a constant threat hanging over every home in the land," he said. "It strikes ruthlessly, irrespective of age and leaves each victim suffering for years from its after effects. It must be eliminated from our national life and I know that every man, woman and child in the United States will want to help in this great humanitarian work."

On Wednesday night, the night after the local celebration, President Roosevelt will make a radio address that will be heard over all the nation. It will be broadcast over the combined network of the National and Columbia Broadcasting systems. The program will begin at 11:30 P. M. Eastern Standard Time and continue until 12:30 A. M.

PRIZE OFFERED FOR BIGGEST LIE

What a LIE! Yet it pays to tell a lie—only when the lie is told in jest and the Trades Day Association offers a substantial prize for the BEST LIE.

Next First Monday the Trades Day Association will offer a substantial cash prize—as much as $10—for the best lie—the subject to be of some outlandish nature and must carry the name of Lamesa.

It will be easy—ask your merchants for a card on the back of which are the rules of the contest and you are to write on the other side your LIE. When you have thus written your lie, drop it in the box or container so provided at any store sponsoring Trades Day and wait until the judges collect all the lies and decide the WINNER.

The contest will be conducted fairly, and in order to do so—you are asked not to sign your name. The judges will decide on the best LIE—same will be posted and then identified by the handwriting. All lies must be in the long hand of the author.

Example (any lie about Lamesa or containing the name Lamesa will be eligible): "I came to Lamesa in 1924 and went to the bank etc"; "The Lamesa Chamber of Commerce etc"; "A preacher in Lamesa" "The drouth—jack rabbits etc".

Next First Monday will be Lie day in Lamesa. Any one is eligible. All Dawson county lies will be accepted in person by any merchant sponsoring trades day. All out of county lies not present, must sign their names. All lies will be accepted not later than five P. M., Monday February the 4th.

Mr. Dyer has a record of at least 13 years as scout master and leader and was scout master of one of the two troops on the South Plains when the area was formed in 1925.

At the business session earlier in the day Dr. F. B. Malone was re-elected president of the area; K. N. Clapp was renamed scout commissioner and T. E. Buckner treasurer. J. Edd McLaughlin, Ralls, was named National Council member. The vice presidents will be the several district chairmen to be elected by the districts as soon as possible.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR INFANT MONDAY

Funeral services were conducted for little Nina Bee Bone, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arbie Bone of this city, Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the Higginbotham Funeral Home with Rev. E. B. Bowen, pastor of the First Methodist Church officiating.

Nina Bee, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Bone, became seriously ill with pneumonia last week and died late Sunday afternoon.

The many friends of the family extend sympathy to them in their bereavement.

Weldon Bryant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bryant, spent last week visiting with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Bryant in O'Donnell.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Millard McDonald Saturday morning.

THE CAT IS OUT OF THE BAG

At last the cat is out of the bag. In last night's Lubbock paper (Tuesday's) The Plainsman said, "If Ely it not re-appointed (Highway Commissioner it will be too bad for the South Plains." Lamesa and other small towns in the supposed to be trade territory of Lubbock, cannot understand that. To Lamesa it might mean more than it would to other small towns in the area. Since Sam Richardson of Lamesa is an applicant for the highway job, we take this statement to mean that the Plainsman thinks if Mr. Richardson is appointed as Highway Commissioner "it would be too bad for the South Plains."

If this is the idea that is desired by this statement, we have this to say: Sam Richardson is plenty big enough for this job and will make as good a Highway Commissioner as Mr. Ely or any one else. He is fair minded and honest and will see to it that not only the South Plains, but all of West Texas and for that matter an equitable share of road building, the entire State of Texas will get.

We can see no reason why Lubbock cannot get squarely behind Mr. Richardson and lend what influence they have toward getting his appointment since they have said over and over they do not want the appointment to come to Lubbock and since there are no other formidable aspirants on the South Plains, other than Lubbock itself.

Lamesa has always cooperated with Lubbock and her leading citizens have gone out of their way to "jump" at the call and beacon of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the Lubbock papers when they so requested. But now, it seems when Lamesa is offering to Texas and by the way, to the South Plains as well, a man—and he is being very seriously considered by Governor Allred—for the very important post of Highway Commissioner, these same agencies in Lubbock are not only turning a deaf ear to us, but actually throwing cold water on our candidate and Lamesa's efforts.

Lubbock you want our good will to continue, and we want you to have it in the future, but if it is true you are our friends and really want to practice what you preach, "As grows the South Plains, so grows Lubbock" you will not wait another day to get on our band wagon. Your cause will not be hurt by the appointment of Sam Richardson. We feel with your help we will get this appointment for the South Plains. If you do not help it will go elsewhere. You say you do not want it in Lubbock, but you should want to see it come to the South Plains. Lubbock, oh Lubbock, where is your sense of loyalty and where is your consistency.

TRAINING SCHOOL CLOSES AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Ralph Grant of San Angelo was the instructor and results of the enlargement and training course was revealed Sunday as 489 were in attendance at Sunday School at the First Baptist Church of Lamesa.

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the First Baptist Church of Lamesa the eleven churches which entered the training course and enlargement campaign of the Lamesa Association came together for commencement exercises with about 500 present and the Munger Baptist church was awarded the efficiency banner for 1935 which was presented to them by J. E. Barron, Superintendent of the Sunday School of the First Baptist Church of Lamesa.

The training course and enlargement campaign of the Lamesa Association was directed by Bro. Hopkins, State Secretary of Dallas, and Willis J. Ray, District Missionary. It was generally conceded that much good would come from the week work for carrying on the Sunday School work in the Lamesa Association.

STATE WIDE DRIVE FOR SCHOOL MUSIC

Recently provision has been made for music to be included in the curriculum of every Texas school. Dr. L. A. Woods, State Superintendent, is supervising this work and has provided a plan through which every school may have a phonograph and a complete set of records. There has been an additional allotment to the rural aid to cover the cost of these.

Dr. Woods is anxious for every school child to know many Texas songs by next year for the Texas Centennial, and has plans to have a singing center in a number of the larger cities presiding around 50,000 school children in each group. He feels that under the guidance of the great artists presented through the records that the children will not only have a greater appreciation of music but will have a keener sense of pitch and tempo.

Miss Pauline Bulsterbaum, County Superintendent, urges all the county teachers to take advantage of Dr. Wood's plan, and for further information to report to her office. If the phonograph and records are bought through that office it will be possible to receive a discount.

THIRD STATE APPORTIONMENT IS RECEIVED

County Superintendent Miss Pauline Bulsterbaum states this week that she has received the third State school apportionment. The amount received was one dollar per scholastic per capita totalling $2476.00.

She has recently purchased four leagues, or 17,712 acres of land and paid $17,712 cash, assuming a balance of $6.00 per acre state debt. A league is 4,428 acres.

M. C. Lindsey and Son of this city handled the deal and the total consideration was near $125,000.

Mr. Lindsey, commenting on the matter, stated that this was one of the largest land transactions that has been had here in several months and with its development will be even larger than the community projects the government has under consideration for removing families from the relief rolls and taking them back to the farms.

Every acre of the land is subject to cultivation and is located in the Lamesa trade territory, 25 miles southwest of Lamesa.

ELECTRIC HEATING PADS

A dozen different ailments are rampant in the winter time—"flu," gripe, common colds and other kindred physical disturbances. No one is immune entirely from all of them, so we want to suggest that the soothing warmth from an electric heating pad will often relieve the attendant discomfort.

Mahon's Washington Paragraphs

Congressman, 19th Texas District

The Congress of the United States has been in session for two weeks and 3138 bills have been introduced. Those bills have been referred to committees and will be considered there before being given a chance to be brought before the House itself.

The first bill to be introduced into the House was one providing for the payment of the Soldier's Bonus. It is still being considered by the committee. The only one to pass the House of Representatives was an appropriation measure known as the Independent Office Bill.

Some bills that have been introduced which involve the interests of the 19th District particularly might be briefly outlined as follows:

1. A bill providing for the reestablishment of the H. O. L. C. (The Home Owners Loan Corporation).
2. A bill providing for a continuation of farm feed and seed loans.
3. A bill that would give the Western part of the State of Texas a supply Federal District Judge.

Tech Government Depository

The announcement has been made from the office of George Mahon that Texas Technological College at Lubbock has been named as the Government depository library for this District.

After contacting the Government Printing Office Mr. Mahon found that he was entitled to designate one school in his district to serve as a depository for all Government documents and official publications. In answer to a written request that a selection be made, he sent his official choice to the Superintendent of Documents, naming Texas Tech.

Mr. Mahon expressed pleasure at being able to cooperate in aiding the College in this matter.

Guests of Texas Club

Mr. and Mrs. George Mahon, Mr. and Mrs. Maury Maverick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. South and Mr. and Mrs. Nat Patton were honor guests at the first social function sponsored by the Texas Club in Washington this year.

Mr. Mahon was called upon for a brief talk. He expressed his appreciation for the friendliness of the Texas people in Washington and stated that it was his desire to do his job as well as the able statesmen now serving the State.

The Texas Club is an organization of all those Texas people who live in Washington and who are employed in any phase of the government service. Wright Matthews of the Bureau of Internal Revenue is President and Bob Jackson, secretary to Senator Connally, is secretary to the club.

Mahon Elected Secretary of Texas Delegation

The Hon. George Mahon, was elected secretary to the Texas Delegation at its first caucus of this year. Hon. Fritz Lanham of Fort Worth was elected chairman.

The Texas delegation is made up of all the members of Congress from the State. It meets regularly every two weeks to discuss problems before Congress that peculiarly involve the interests of Texas.

Club Reports

By Miss Madeline Cox Dawson County H. D. A.

"Keeping account of my clothing expenses has already made me watch my clothing expenditures more closely," said Miss Eudora Bruce, Patricia Home demonstration clothing demonstrator. Miss Bruce is planning her improved storage space for her clothing which will be a new clothes closet. She plans to make her closet 5 feet long and 2 1-2 feet wide in order to fit the only space she has for it. She plans to build the closet to the ceiling, thereby eliminating a dust and rubbish catcher out of the top of the closet, and providing a place for high shelves for storage.

Miss Bruce has spent $19.50 on her clothing. This includes accessories and cosmetics. By using her foundation pattern, Miss Bruce has been able to save on her clothing by renovation and making over several garments.

Forty-two varieties of food are to be found in the pantry of Mrs. A. E. Latson, 4-H pantry demonstrator for the Patricia Home Demonstration Club. Her pantry contains ten varieties of relishes and pickles; nine varieties of preserves, jellies and fruit butters; seven varieties of vegetables; five varieties of fruit and fruit juices and eleven varieties of canned meats.

Due to a late start in Home Demonstration work this year and the persistent drought, Mrs. Latson was unable to completely fill her pantry budget. With an early start for next year she hopes to have a well filled 4-H pantry.

THE MAN FROM YONDER

By Harold Titus

The Bull Gave Up Trying to Close.

ward, arms hooked and extended, like some great jungle creature stirred to killing fury.

Elliott did not try to evade him. With a grunt he charged, head down, one arm before his face, the other drawn back, and when he struck the sound was like that of a club on a quarter of beef. The blow spun Duval half about and the next raked him. He grappled for Ben, but Ben was gone. He rushed for Ben but Ben sidestepped and struck Duval as he lurched past.

The Bull gave up trying to close. He struck out, now, with renewed savagery as they stood toe-to-toe for a moment. He dodged a brace of drives which, it seemed, would have felled a horse, so great was the effort behind them, and then, feinting, sent in a slashing uppercut.

The great fist landed squarely on the point of Ben's jaw, lifted him from his feet and sent him reeling, clawing the air over on his back again.

Elliott was dazed by that blow. Bella clanged thunderously in his ears and lights flashed and flickered before his eyes but as he crashed down to the floor Bird-Eye's voice, shrill and frantic, cut through the fog that had folded over him:

"The boots! . . . The boots!"

Boots, yes. Bull Duval did not fling himself on his prostrate adversary, this time. Erect, he strode forward two measured paces . . . three, and on the fourth he bent backward from the hips, lifted his right foot and raked it out before him; raked those many spikes in the sole straight at the face of his fallen adversary.

But his river boot only swung across the place where a face had been. One lone spike ripped the skin over the cheek bone; a companion left a bright red trace. Ben had jerked his head sideways, moved it that quarter inch which left his face still a face and not a mass of raw flesh ribbons.

Duval tumbled on his left foot, hopping for balance and cursing because he had missed, as Ben, reeling to his feet, shouted:

"Keep out! My fight!" He had seen, as he came erect, Bird-Eye Blaine leap for the wood box and grasp the heavy iron poker. "My fight!" he repeated and his hoarse voice was commanding.

Bird-Eye fell back, clinging to the poker, lips moving. It was Elliott's fight, indeed. He had seen many men fight before, had Bird-Eye Blaine; born to a rough life, he had lived it fully. He had seen countless battles but never had he witnessed such a fury as Ben Elliott tossed then.

ing against the window frame. The Bull gave a bubbling roar and tried to grapple. His hands were struck down. He swung mightily, slowly, and missed, and as he went by, off balance, a chopping stroke on the back of the head felled him.

Again Elliott waited. "Get up!" he cried thickly. "Get up, Duval, and take the rest!"

The other started to move, looking over his shoulder with one eye that remained open. He saw a tall, supple young man, hair awry, shirt ripped open from neck to belt, cheek bleeding, jaws set, stand there swiping one fist as though the knuckles were wild for strike again. He sank back to the floor, shuddering.

In that Elliott relaxed and moved close.

"Enough?" he asked, sharply, prodding the Bull with a toe of his pug.

Duval moaned and shook his head. He made as if to rise again and Ben stepped back, giving him every chance. A mutter arose behind him.

"Finish—!" a man cried. But the boss at Hoot Owl would not do that. He asked no odds.

The Bull did not get to his feet. He started to draw one knee beneath him, heaved and then sank back to a hip. He swore heavily and hung his head, propping his torso by both great hands, spread wide on the floor.

"Through, Duval?" Ben asked and it seemed as though his bruised and battered face tried to twist in a grin. The other gave no intimation of having heard. "There's more on tap. Or have you got enough?"

And then, when no reply came Elliott stooped, grasped the Bull's shirt in his hands and half lifted him.

"Let go!" the man blurted. "Let go or I'll—"

He tried to twist away, tried to strike Ben's legs, but his crop yth was gone, beaten from his great body. He was dragged across the floor, river boots trailing over the boards, straight to the doorway. With one foot Elliott kicked open the portal and with a heavy lung Duval, the "fence-terror," tumbled into the trampled snow outside.

A half hour later Bull Duval, who had washed his bleeding head and face in the horse trough against the shout of protest of Bird-Eye Blaine that it would be unfit thereafter for his teams to drink from, showed himself erect and wiped trembling hands on his necktie.

The door of the van opened and Elliott emerged. He walked straight to the bull and examined his visible injuries critically.

"Fair job," he said, as though to himself, and grinned. "A fair job, Duval. But remember this: If you ever set one of your feet in this camp again, or on any operation where I'm in charge, I'll give you a licking you'll remember!"

The Bull whimpered. "I know when I got enough," he said and his one servicable eye blood-shot eye searched Elliott's countenance. "I . . . I didn't mean no harm," he whined. "I was drunk."

"No, you weren't drunk. If you'd been drunk I wouldn't have hit you. You know what you were doing. Now, Duval, why'd you come out here this morning? Who sent you?"

Duval looked away.

"Nobody," he said weakly. "I got drunk. But . . . but if you're needin' a man, I can work for a better man than I am."

Ben shook his head. "No use, chuz. You're going to tell me why you came and who sent you. Was it Brandon?"

"No"—evasively.

"Sure? How much did he give you to come here? Or are you on the payroll to do such chores?"

"E—I, he didn't—"

"You're a worse liar than you are a fighter by a mile or two, Duval. Mine was a good guess, wasn't it? What were his orders?"

"Well, he said if I didn't that he'd—"

"Good! That's all I want to know. There's the road. And you can take this little message with you to Brandon: Tell him that he needs to send more and better men here the next time. And as for you: I hire no men who can be hired to fight another man's battles. Make tracks, Duval!"

It was a week later.

Old Don Stuart, propped on pillows in the narrow, cell-like room of Joe Piette's hotel, listened to the colorful account that Bird-Eye Blaine, with many gestures and considerable profanity, rendered for him of what had transpired at Hoot Owl since Ben Elliott had taken charge of the operation.

" . . . 'nd so he's got th' mill crew a-warkin' their blessed heads off for him 'nd 's got that ragged-pants gang av beet-weeders 'nd hay pitchers that passes for a loggin' crew doin' more'n they're evir done in their lazy loaves

STUARTS REPORT ON INAUGURAL CEREMONIES

The following is a description of the inauguration ceremonies of Gov. James V. Allred and other high state officials as described by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stuart.

Tuesday was a gala day for the Capitol City as well as the State. A warm sunny day welcomed the new Governor and his host of friends gathered in the shadows of our beautiful Capitol building.

Early morning found bands, from various cities of the State, marching proudly down Congress Avenue. They were truly on dress parade. The prancing drum majors, the handsomely uniformed men, the instruments flashing in the sunlight, and the music gave you a thrill that cannot soon be forgotten.

The Capitol building seemed to be a magnet drawing all Texans unto itself. So great was the crowd inside you could scarcely move. Friends were meeting friends and an atmosphere of friendship and cordiality pervaded the entire building. The legislative halls were thronged with spectators. All were anxious to see their Senators and Representatives at work.

In front of the Capitol an immense platform had been erected and beautifully decorated for the inauguration. Flags draped the rails and masses of ferns, palms and various other plants completed the setting for the inaugural ceremonies.

At high noon six officers of the Texas Militia stepped upon the stage and crossed their swords forming an arch under which the official party passed. Great shouts arose from the thousands of people, who had gathered to see the Governor and Lieutenant Governor take the oath of office.

No sooner had the official party seated themselves on the stage than six aeroplanes, flying in formation flew over, adding their force to the solemnity of the scene below.

Speaker of the House, Coke Stevenson presided. Associate Justice Pierce administered the Oath of office, first to the Lieutenant Governor, then to the Governor. After the Governor had finished with the oath nineteen shots were fired in salute from a cannon.

There were several in the crowd who did not know the salute would be fired and several women fainted. That afforded some excitement.

The used shells were pitched to the ground and the instant the firing ceased many rushed over to get one for a souvenir. The police tried to prevent it and were straightaway knocked down and stepped on by the surging crowd.

When peace reigned once again, Governor Allred introduced his family as had Lieutenant Governor Woodul. The introductions included his wife, his two small sons and his father and mother.

Both Governor Allred and Lieutenant Governor Woodul made excellent speeches which were well received by the people.

Honorable Walter E. Witt expressed his appreciation to the people of Texas for their support and confidence during the nineteen years that he had served in the Senate.

The citizens of Austin gave an Inaugural Reception and Ball in the evening honoring Gov. Allred and Lieutenant Governor Woodul. The Gregory Gymnasium of the State University accommodated the largest number, however, the Stephen F. Austin and Driskill Hotels were also crowded to capacity.

The Gymnasium stage was decorated beautifully. Silver vines, rainbow lights, and a great electric star in the background formed a perfect setting for the States two most honored officials and first ladies.

The Longhorn Band of the State University opened the reception with a concert. Then a San Antonio club gave an exhibition of the old time dances. About ten o'clock the official party arrived. Again they were introduced to a great crowd of people, and shook hands for one and one-half hours. Only a few compared to the crowd were able to shake hands with them. So many wanted to who could not. To make up for this as much as she could, Mrs. Allred in her charming way, threw roses, one by one, from her arm bouquet, out into the crowd.

At eleven thirty the Governor and his wife led the Grand March and the dance was on. At two A. M. the orchestra played "Good Night Ladies" and thus ended a perfect day for Austin and her twenty thousand visitors.

ON TEXAS FARMS

"Thanks to my terraced and contoured land I raised enough feed to winter my cattle and won't have to sell them to the government," said E. A. Oberst, who lives five miles southeast of Canyon to W. H. Upchurch, farm demonstration agent of Randall county. This feed enables Mr. Oberst to avoid sacrificing a herd that he has spent years developing.

A. Nieman, Pecos county, planted 45 acres of cotton which a July hail storm demolished. He plowed under the cotton plants and late in July planted hegari which produced an average of five tons per acre at a cost of $11 per acre. Mr. Nieman sold his crop at the rate of $17 per ton, netting a nice profit.

Peach trees that are going into new orchards on land released from cotton in Van Zandt county are being protected from rabbits by the use of paper cylinders. Elbertas and Georgia Belles are favorites for planting in this county and more than 2100 trees went into the ground in December.

C. H. Millinger of Llano is installing several hundred feet of concrete D. Steele, Llano county agent.

OBSERVATION OF TRAFFIC REGULATIONS ASKED

Mayor W. L. Marr makes a personal appeal to the citizens of Lamesa to be henceforth adhere more rigidly to city ordinances in regard to traffic regulations.

There has been a very noticeable laxity in the observance of the speed limit and coming to a stop at the indicated stop signs. It would also be advisable, Mayor Marr stated, for every owner of an automobile to assume the responsibility for his lights, as such defective lighting on automobiles is punishable by law and subject to fine and may endanger the lives of the occupants.

Wallace Is Urged To Restore Wild Life

Washington, Jan. 19.—Advocating a "National movement for wild life restoration" J. N. (Ding) Darling, newspaper cartoonist and chief of the Biological Survey Bureau, told Secretary Wallace today of a crisis that is approaching.

Submitting his annual report, Darling said the bureau had made the "most exhaustive survey of waterfowl conditions ever attempted" and had found "an appalling shortage of waterfowl."

STOCKHOLDERS OF CREDIT GROUP HAVE MEETING

Members of the Sweetwater Production Credit Association held their first annual stockholders meeting at Sweetwater last week. This was one of 621 similar meetings held by production associations throughout the United States.

Among board of directors members and officers named at the meeting are O. P. Thane of Snyder, W. L. Boothe of Sweetwater, G. S. Barnes of Sylvester, J. W. Watson of Colorado, and Roscoe Holter of Lamesa.

It was reported at the conference that the association had made 266 loans for $152,000 to farmers of Dawson, Nolan, Fisher, Mitchell, Borden and Scurry counties the territory served by the association.

The Association makes short term loans for from 3 to 12 months for almost any agricultural production purpose including the production of crops, livestock and livestock products. Interest is 5 per cent per year at present and is paid only for the time the borrower has used the money.

Applications are handled at Sweetwater by A. M. Cooper, secretary and treasurer of the association.

Mr. Cooper made a brief talk in which he outlined the history of the association. A statement of the activities of the executive committees was also made by Mr. Cooper.

The meeting was addressed by J. C. Snipes of the Production Credit Corporation of Houston, the parent body which supplied approximately 75 per cent of the associations capital stock. Mr. Snipes explained the corporate set up of the Farm Credit Administration of Houston which serves the tenth district, the State of Texas. He also pointed out the opportunities for service available to farmers through the association and made a thorough explanation of the local association's financial statement.

TROOP 22 TAKES WEEK END HIKE

Eleven members of Troop 22 Boy Scouts returned Sunday night from the Mullins ranch where they had been camping out since Friday, and all report one of the most enjoyable outings the troop has had. Several Tenderfoot scouts added to the fun when the old campers put them thru the "ropes" of the troop camping routine. Some of the activities that kept all busy throughout the entire time were: stalking, follow the leader, volley ball, baseball, hunting, story reading, running the trail and cliff scaling. Those making the trip were Judge Roberts, Harold Lambeth, Dwight Morris, Richard Crawley, Toady Morris, Bob Crawley, Jackie Vaughn, Ralph Burleson, Skeet Noret, Chuck Jacobs and Joseph N. Spikes.

LUNCHEON CLUB HAS 20 PRESENT

The Lamesa Luncheon Club met Tuesday noon at the Williams with 20 present. Mrs. Matt McCall played delightful piano music while those present ate a fine meal.

Mr. T. J. Cornett was the genial toastmaster and put across a very fine program. He introduced Judge Philip Yonge who talked on the pertinent subject of "Taxes". Judge Yonge did himself proud in discussing this topic. He gave the hearers a detailed report of the present standing of all accounts of the county and it was delightful to hear that the county was on a cash basis and had money in the treasury. Judge Yonge stressed the point that valuations had been constantly lowered and the expenditures of the county was thus reduced each year.

Next meeting the Rev. E. B. Rowan will present "Preachers Day" at the luncheon. It will be good. Come out.

Brazos Water Project Will Affect O'Donnell

Information released this week by the state board of water engineers is to the effect that several small dams along the Brazos would be built in the region around O'Donnell, Rule, Lockney, Haskell, Matador, and other West Texas towns. The dams eight of which are already plotted along the western reaches of the Brazos, would cost from $100,000 to a million dollars.

The underground water survey is expected to be of unusual benefit in West Texas, because it will give information on the location of water bearing sands, the depth of the strata from the surface, and the amount that may be taken from the sands without endangering the supply during the time of drought.

A vast supply of water for irrigation, local consumption, and municipal usage would be made available through the construction of the small dams. In addition, farther down the Brazos, some major dams costing several million dollars are scheduled to be built, which would supply electricity to many of the farms and ranches in West Texas that cannot now afford to have power.

Residents are urged to write their congressmen immediately to urge the passage of the Brazos bill, and to also write friends in other states to contact their congressmen in favor of the Texas project.

Crop Curb Due Another Year

Washington, Jan. 19.—Extension of the Bankhead compulsory cotton control act for a year was said in authoritative quarters today to have been definitely determined upon by the Administration.

Those who attended the recent White House cotton conference said it was determined then that President Roosevelt would recommend another year of operation under the law.

The decision has been expected, since the cotton producers voted overwhelmingly in favor of continuing this unprecedented experiment in agricultural control. Recent announcement by Secretary Wallace that only 10,500,000 bales could be produced tax free in 1935 made it even more certain.

Budget Starts Controversy
Washington.—Out of President Roosevelt's eight-billion-dollar budget is developing a very real controversy which runs to the heart of the New Deal. True, this controversy like nearly all of the others will not result in changing the Presidents plans but it seems to me to be a matter which justifies consideration even though the Roosevelt will in the end must prevail.

Included in the budget was provision for an appropriation of four billion dollars and, as stated by the President, to be supplied "in one sum subject to allocation by the Executive principally for giving work to those unemployed on the relief rolls." Beyond that, there was no exposition of its intended use nor has there been any detailed statement of the plan. As a result, there is a considerable body of opinion in the halls of congress which is saying in effect that Mr. Roosevelt ought to define his work relief program. He has not done so, and the best information I can obtain is that no explanation may be expected in the near future. He intends to proceed as he has in the past by developing the program piecemeal and using the funds as the occasion requires.

In the critical days of 1933 when Mr. Roosevelt took office, I believe it was generally conceded that the emergency was so serious as to warrant delegation by Congress of almost any power even remotely desired by the President. He used that power during 1933 and 1934. Now, many members of the house and senate believe that the time has arrived for congress to become more inquisitive about the expenditure of taxpayers money and to avoid following in blind trust however the President may direct. While it is probable that congress will not be told how the President intends to use the money, and while it is also probable that the requested four million dollars will be rubber stamped, the fact remains that at no time during the New Deal has there been such a buzz of discontent in the President's own list of wheel-horses. Senator Byrnes, the South Carolina Democrat, who has been looked upon consistently as Mr. Roosevelt's spokesman on financial affairs in the senate, has informed that body that it is impossible "to be more specific at this time" on the work relief program. Senator Byrnes will go no further. He has given no interviews respecting his own thoughts on the matter and apparently has elected to wait at bat until the President tosses him the ball. Nevertheless, there are some senators who think they detect just a trace of concern in the attitude of this administration spokesman and they are wondering how long he will continue to repress his own energies.

Critics Chide President
Presentation of the budget was expected in many quarters to disclose the means by which the President hoped to get employment going again in private industry. It showed nothing tangible in this direction. Consequently, critics of the administration who have had opportunity to speak in the house and senate have begun to chide the administration on its third experiment in three years. Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader in the house, has called attention to the situation something in this manner: The President tried out one plan in 1933; he tried out a second plan in 1934, and now he is trying a third experiment. The first two were found to be all wet, and the Republicans, it seems, are convinced that the current effort has two strikes on it before it gets started. They are predicting failure for it in every way except the success that is assured in getting rid of the money which the treasury is borrowing. Their conversations all have the same theme song, namely that the country is seeing activity, but they are not predicting how long this action can continue until the nation goes broke.

Whether the business leaders who met at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., a month ago were right or wrong in proposing the use of a dole instead of the more expensive work relief plan, or whether they were correct in any of the other recommendations they made, the truth is the administration has rejected with out comment every single one of the recommendations made by that group. Mr. Roosevelt made no mention in his budget message or in his annual message to congress of plans for balancing the budget, and this fact at last has sunk in. The result is additional fear on the part of many business leaders who can see in the future only inflation and economic chaos for the country.

Privately, I have heard many expressions indicating that men of wealth are putting their money into tangible property—something that will not dry up and blow away. That is always the refuge of individuals who fear that currency which their government controls is losing its worth. These men will be criticized for that course, naturally enough, by blind followers of inflation plans.

From all the signs now visible and from the undercurrent of mumbling that I hear, it certainly is made to appear that Mr. Roosevelt is confronted with a necessity for some definite outline of his plans and an assurance that he will adhere to those plans. Without such, the situation assuredly is that he will not have the confidence of the business structure. It seems illogical even to suppose that he can gain the cooperation of business in expanding its activities, thereby re-employing workers, unless he takes a different tack than his pronouncements thus far indicate. At least, such is the conclusion of a vast number of thinking people.

Night Flying
I heard a visitor to Washington say the other day that he would like to ride airplanes, "but the confounded things fly most of their schedules at night."

The individual is a man of great wealth and his time is of great value. He insisted he was sincere in his statement that he would much rather save time by flying if the planes were on daylight schedule.

The statement aroused my curiosity to the extent that I conducted some inquiry into the situation. I found the night schedules of the airlines to be due to the fact that they are fixed by the post office department. If a line desires to carry mail it has to subject itself to the dictates of "Big Jim" Farley, the postmaster general. His office can and does say to an air line that it will fly a ship leaving New York at 9 P. M. or else it does not get the mail contract. The result is that the plane leaves New York at 9 p. m. or it leaves Chicago or Washington on a time stated by the Post Office department.

Many persons feel that such a policy is taking undue advantage of private industry. It is true that the Post Office department is paying for carrying the mails at a rate probably well above the rate it receives on postage on that mail. It is therefore a subsidy. But this government has for years subsidized new industries and that course is responsible for the success attained by the development of the transportation systems of this country.

The President's special commission named to study the airplane problems of this country and to make recommendations heard much testimony and received much data showing that the airplane industry in the United States had placed this country in the number one position in the air among nations.

The Oil Case
The administration is determined to control oil production. If it cannot do so by Executive order—and the Supreme Court of the United States has decreed it cannot do so in that manner—there will be laws predicated upon the interstate-commerce clause of the Constitution which will permit the executive branch of the government to keep its hand on the valve of oil wells.

President Roosevelt was apparently not much concerned over the Supreme Court decision which invalidated that part of the recovery act, giving the Chief Executive authority to allow or prohibit interstate movement of oil as it decided best. The President appeared to feel, in responding to questions by news correspondents, that the rebuff was only temporary. He announced at that time a determination to control oil production in one way or another to avoid what he describes as a criminal waste of a great natural resource.

The oil case, the Supreme Court decided, had its origin in regulations and executive orders issued under what the administration believe to be authority accorded by the recovery act. Those regulations and orders prescribed quotas allowed to be shipped from the several producing states. The motivating spirit was a desire to avoid accumulation of a vast surplus of crude oil with the consequent depressing of prices until crude oil was worth little or nothing. But, like many other prohibitory laws and rules of conduct, individuals resent being told they could not do a certain thing, and immediately began to devise ways by which it could be done—a characteristic that was developed to its fullest during the bootleg days of national prohibition. The oil that was moved surreptitiously came to be known as "hot oil" and the controversy over the validity of the regulation and executive order consequently became known as the "hot oil" case.

Delayed Checks on Cotton Rentals, And Parity

Copy of letter from Hon. Geo. Mahon, Washington, D. C.
"Mr. C. M. Burton, L. A. Duff, D. L. Adcock, Lamesa, Texas.

Dear Friends:
After contacting the A. A. A. I found that 1198 Dawson county cotton contracts out of the total of 1390 received had gone to the disbursing office on January 11. This would mean that the checks would start arriving there possibly by the time this letter does.

The remainder of the contracts were being held up for individual causes. Some of them required further adjustment, while others were being rechecked in accordance with requests from the county.

I don't know whether this involves the 300 cases which you mentioned or not, but I could only get general information there of course. They assured me that the entire series of checks would be out in the very near future. I am glad that you felt free to call on me in regard to this matter, and at any time that you feel I can be of service to you I want you to call upon me.

Yours very truly,
George Mahon."

Since the above letter was received we have had two lists of checks that are due and we are expecting them on every mail.

Cotton Committees

The entire County Cotton Board was re-elected by members of the local committees present at a meeting called Tuesday afternoon. In the balloting of committee which was instructed to vote for two of the old committee as hold overs for this year the votes were for the three, 15, 16, and 17. Then two other men were nominated by the community committees present with the third member of the previous cotton committee, and the third member of the old committee was elected with a majority over the other two men.

New Cotton Plan

The following men are eligible to sign contracts in 1935: "Any producer is eligible to sign who is owner, cash tenant, standing or fixed rent tenant, or managing share tenant jointly with the landlord, and who operates or controls a farm on which cotton was planted in 1933, or 1934 and on which cotton will be planted in 1935 and which was not covered by a 1934-1935 contract."

Tenants Who Signed Contracts And Landlords Refused

We are in receipt of information from the Washington office that tenants who signed contracts during 1934 and the landlords refused, if such tenants will bring in their old copy or copies of their contracts and such tenants did not plant over their acreage as the contracts called for during 1934 it is believed by this office that we can get such tenants pay for the 1934 sign up if they carried out the contracts and did not plant over the amount of cotton as called for by the contract. EXAGGERATED CLAIMS vs. FACTS..

Good tires are built by tire machinery, not by dictionaries. They are built out of high grade rubber and fine cotton, not trick phrases and "scare copy." They last longer and yield greater safety if they are the product of long experience and honest manufacturing methods instead of selling patter.

Seiberling advertising does not promise the world, but Seiberling Tires do deliver mileage, safety and economy that make wild claims unnecessary. The "selling talk" that sells Seiberling Tires again and again comes out of the Seiberling research department and the Seiberling factory and not the Seiberling advertising department.

We are anxious to show you the facts about Seiberling Tires. Glad to explain the reasons why we are proud to offer tires that wear well, not read well.
