They Think Twice Before Jumping

Grant, B. J., (before jail) was a town of frequent gang fights and disturbances. Grant A. J., has seen none of these affairs.

Grant's little FERA-county jail, unused since its completion, is serving its purpose even better than if it were filled nightly with miscreants and criminals. Would-be disturbers of the peace hesitate when they recal lthat there is a nearby "locqup" to hold them while they repent.

Demonstration of French Silo At Haislip Farm

A trench silo demonstration was held at the farm of Tom Haislip on Thursday, March 21. This demonstration was attended by about 30 farmers, as well as several business men from Portales.

E. E. Anderson, Extension Dairyman, and Dr. W. L. Black, Extension Animal Husbandman, State College, were the principal speakers. J. B. H. Young, Tom Haislip and several others told of their experiences in feeding silage. Many things of interest to farmers and residents of Roosevelt county were discussed. Many interesting points were brought out in connection with the Bangs Disease Eradication program.

It was very conclusively shown that feed may be stored in a trench silo in times of plenty and kept for a number of years to carry the farmer over in times of drouth. Two silos were exhibited on this farm, one of which was filled in 1933 and the other in 1934. There was no more waste in the one filled in 1933 than the one filled in 1934, which proves that the waste due to dryness and weathering was practically eliminated.

There were some animals exhibited which proved beyond any doubt that silage is an excellent feed by itself or as a supplement to other feeds.

This demonstration proved to most al lthose present that a trench silo can be, and is a paying proposition, and many of those present are seriously considering installing one for future use.

It was proven at this meeting that the cost of filling a silo of this type is no greater than the cost of stacking the feed. It was also brought to the attention of those present that the palability of the feed was increased, as well as the value, and when few as silage a much greater percentage of the entire plant' (stalk, leaves, seed, etc.,) were consumed and digested by the animals than when fed dry.

Many farmers should, and some will profit by the experiences of their neighbors and install trench silos.

Mrs. Coe Howard Named Local P.M.

On Monday of this week, President Roosevelt nominated Mrs. Coe Howard as permanent postmaster for Portales.

Confirmation by the senate is expected any day.

Mrs. Howard has been serving on a temporary appointment for some time, and has given the people of Portales splendid service.

Her many friends in Portales and the county of Roosevelt will welcome the news of her permanent appointment.

Dr. Kent Reported Improving Slowly

SALT LAKE CITY, March 28—Dr. H. L. Kent, president of New Mexico State college, Tuesday was described by his physician, Dr. Clarence Snow, as "improving slowly," though the doctor said his patient's condition was "just fair."

Dr. Snow declined to discuss the nature of Dr. Kent's illness except to say that pleurisy had developed He denied emphatically that the New Mexico educator's illness is critical.

Dr. Kent became ill on his arrival here several days ago to attend a conference of educators.

Double Parking To Be Enforced

Mayor R. G. Bryant says that the ordinance against double parking will be rigidly enforced. The city marshall has received orders to tag all cars found double parked.

Warning have been given on this several times, and instead of heeding, double parking has been continued until it has created great traffic hazards.

On Sunday cars were double parked so thick on the block between Colorado Street and Nevada Street on State street that it was almost impossible to get through, and there came near being several wrecks.

Make Extensive Plans for Erection of Hospital

Plans for establishment of a New Mexico Warm Springs Foundation to erect a hospital at Hot Springs for crippled children has advanced to the point where Gov. Clyde Tingley will soon appoint a board of five members who will have charge of completing details and handling finances for the undertaking.

Governor Tingley announced, while in Hot Springs last week, that he would attempt to get approval of various communities in the state to use their share of the Roosevelt Birthday party balls for this enterprise.

The governor said Hot Springs would donate the land. A gift of $800.00 has been received from Bernalillo county.

"I feel positive," the governor said, "that not only can the money be raised to build the hospital this summer, but that sufficient money can be obtained each year to operate it without extra expense to the state.

"There is no finer cause to which any fund could be put than that of caring for crippled children and to provide a place where they will have an opportunity to regain the use of their little bodies which have been crippled by infantile paralysis or other diseases."

Send Delegation To Washington

Turner Hensley, county democratic chairman, Johnnie Miles, state chairman and Coe Howard of Portales will soon leave for Washington. Mr. Hensley will look after Roosevelt county's interest in regard to federal appropriations for buildings and public works. While Mr. Howard is making the trip on priavte business, he will also back up the work of Mr. Hensley in the interest of this county.

Mr. Miles will look after the state's interest in the federal program.

To Make Reduction In Electric Rates

The New Mexico Utilities company has announced changes in some of their present rate schedules, effective for the April meter readings or on the bills which will be mailed out May 1, this year.

Detailed explanations are being prepared by the company and will appear in this paper at a later date.

The proposed rate changes will affect a considerable portion of the residence and commercial lighting customers for electricity each month.

This company recognizing the new trend of rates in the electrical industry, affording customers more liberal use of energy at very low rates, is adopting rates which are designed on the same lines as those approved in several states and favorably commented upon.

As we understand it, the New Mexico Utilities company is the first to introduce this new type of rate into this state, as applied to residence lighting.

Troy T. Noe, shop foreman for the Universal Motor company is in Denver this week attending a Mechanics Service school.

HATCH MOVES TO PROTECT EX-SOLDIERS

Chapman Claims Disabled Vets Refused Work on Relief

Draw $10 Monthly

Senator Presents the Matter to FRD in Washington

Action of Sen. Carl A. Hatch in Washington this week may result in increasing the compensation received by disabled service men who have been denied jobs on relief work because of their physical condition.

John W. Chapman, state service officer, wrote Senator Hatch setting forth that some disabled veterans who draw in some cases as little as $10 per month compensation, have been refused jobs on relief work because they were unable to do the kind of work required.

Mr. Chapman said that veterans whose disabilities were not incurred in active service were eligible to receive up to $30 per month and those with service connected disabilities up to a maximum of $100 for total permanent disability.

"I believe," Mr. Chapman said, "That where one department of government has denied a disabled veteran employment because of his physical condition, the veterans' bureau should rate up the disability of that man so he could draw increased compensation."

Mr. Chapman said the president had authority to issue a regulation authorizing this increase.

In reply to his letter, Senator Hatch said:

"I am today taking up with the President the matter of issuing the regulations along the lines set out in your letter. I agree that such a measure would be of great benefit to the veteran and I hope the President may see fit to approve it. I will advise you of developments and assure you I will continue my efforts to be of assistance to our veterans in this and other matters."

Issue Suits to New Men For Football

Football suits were issued to about 22 next fall football candidates for spring football practice by coach C. F. Brown of the Portales high school. Only two letter men have reported so far. Ten letter men are graduating this spring.

Coach Brown is putting the men through conditioning exercises, getting them ready for work on fundamentals next week.

These cottages are being built of dobie, and will be modern in every respect.

Dempsey Assails The Taylor Act

The fight of Congressman John J. Dempsey to amend the Taylor Act to insure selection of trained men for the position of graziers is apparently headed for success.

As a result of Dempsey's objections to the qualifications provisions in the original bill, which allowed men with certain "college credits" to be appointed, an amendment has been drafted providing:

"...the basis of merit for the selection of such graziers shall be livestock range experience and no person shall be selecteu who has not had at least seven years actual experience in the livestock business in the public range states, and providing that any educational requirements that may be prescribed shall be by test and not by any fixed rule."

AGRICULTURE BOYS ATTEND STOCK SHOW

The Agriculture department of the Junior College sent seven boys to the Fat Stock Show held in Ft. Worth, Texas, last week. The young men who attended the show are members of the agricultural classes, and were sent there to view the better classes of livestock.

Professors William O'Donnell and Therman Harris escorted the group to Ft. Worth, Men who made the trip were Herman Mitchell, Bert Clark, Raymond Worrell, Albert Woodburn, Jimmie Smith, Alton Miller and Williard Howl. They left Monday morning and returned Thursday night.

While there they did not enter the stock judging contests, but made arrangements to enter next year.

Tingley Is Friend To Newspapermen

Governor Clyde Tingley is proving one of the greatest friends the newspaper boys at the statehouse have had.

The governor has set 9:45 as the press conference hour, and regardless of what the chief executive is doing at that hour, or how many important dignitaries are waiting in the outer office, the governor throws open the doors of his private office to the press.

So far the news hounds have never gone away empty handed. Other governors have fixed press conference hours, or have professed to be willing to see the reporters at any time, but none have so promptly observed the conference hour.

CRUDE PRODUCTION UP

New Mexico's crude allotment for April is 49,700 barrels, according to advices to Gov. Clyde Tingley from Secretary of the Interior Ickes. This is an increase of 400 barrels per day over March.

S. V. Cissell was a Clovis visitor Tuesday. He made the trip on business.

Severe Dust Storm Envelopes Roosevelt Co.

Wednesday morning the citizens of Roosevelt county awoke to find that the heavens were filled with fine dust, which continued to sift down throughout the day.

Dust was so thick that lights were required early in the day. Traffic was handicapped as one could see the road only about 300 yards ahead. Where windows or doors were left open, the houses were filled with fine dust, to the disgust of the housewives.

This is one of a series of dust storms of this nature that have prevailed during the last month, the dust being carried thousands of miles, and at an altitude of from 10,000 to 15,000 feet in the air.

Some claim that this dust is from the fertile soil of Kansas, Nebraska and other states and that it will add fertility to the New Mexico soil.

Much complaint was heard Wednesday morning about the dust filling the lungs, making breathing difficult.

No casualties have been reported in this section from this or previous storms, while in Colorado during the last week or so several deaths have been reported from suffocation and dust pneumonia.

Open Practice for Spring Football

About 25 huskies turned out for the first practice in spring football last week at the Eastern New Mexico Junior college. Regular practices have not been held, due to sandstorms, but on clear days Coaches Reed and Green are putting the men through a tough schedule.

Arrangements are under way for the Greyhounds to play at least one game during the spring practice. But, at present, nothing definite has been announced by the officials.

REMODEL HOME OF H. TAYLOR

Work is in progress this week remodeling the Henry Taylor home. Foremost among the many changes is the new roof which is changing the style of architecture from Spanish to English.

The living room is being enlarged and two bed rooms added. A fireplace is being built in the living room and French doors will be placed between the living room and dining room.

Taylors are among the first to take advantage of new home improvement loan in Portales.

NEW CCC CAMP

Prospects of a new CCC camp for Elephant Butte Reservoir are bright, according to word received by Gov. Clyed Tingley from Sen. Carl Hatch and Cong. J. J. Dempsey, who are actively supporting the project.

Decision Reached Recently; To Offer Usual Poster Contest; Prize to be Awarded —Expect Large Representation

It has been definitely determined that Camp-O-Ral, annual meet of the Eastern New Mexico Area of Boy Scouts of America will be held at Camp Roosevelt, 10 miles east of Portales, just off the main Portales-Clovis highway. This decision was reached by Area Scoutmasters and the dates have been fixed at April 25, 26 and 27.

A goal of 600 Scouts has been set, and each district will be asked to be responsible for a certain quota as agreed upon. Every Scout should be given the opportunity of attending this great affair.

HAD LARGE ATTENDANCE AT MEETING

Five Counties Represented in First Gathering

Many Speakers

Home Ec. Department Served To Visitors

Between four and five hundred teachers attended the first annual meeting of the Eastern New Mexico Teachers, held in Portales on March 22, under the auspices of the Eastern New Mexico Junior College.

Curry, Quay, Roosevelt, Lea, and Chavez counties were represented. The teachers were from both the rural and municipal schools.

"Make your own curriculum to meet the individual needs of your pupils" was the advice given by Dr. Earle U. Rugg, curriculum expert, Colorado State College of Education, Greeley, Colo., in his address on the subject of the Basic Conceptions of Social Science in the Modern Schools' Curriculum.

Dr. Rugg stated that the old curriculum should be discarded and new ones made. The new changes that are being made in our social organizations are demanding new material taught in our schools. He urged correct attitudes be developed in the teaching of the social studies and the mere teaching of facts be supplimented by this aim.

"The teachers now can make a better plan to teach their pupils that the one that has been handed down to them," states Dr. Walter B. Townsend, curriculum expert from Tempe, Arizona.

Dr. Townsend stated further that "the purpose of the school is to help the child to adjust himself to life. Emphasis should be placed upon the individual. However, the individual must be prepared to fit into society."

"Tentative Plans for Curriculum Revision in New Mexico" was briefly discussed by State Superintendent of Schools, H. R. Rodgers.

The program was given a good start by the Bass Clef Club from the music department of the college, under the direction of Prof. Harry F. Taylor. The Echols Singers gave three numbers between addresses of the speakers. President Donald MacKay was in charge of the program.

The afternoon session was divided in two sections, one for the high school teachers and one for the intermediate and primary teachers.

"The Morrison Technique is not new and has been used for ages by the best teachers" stated Dr. J. W. Diefendorf, North Central High School Inspector from the department of education of the University of New Mexico, who spoke to the high school section on the subject of "The Morrison Technique in the High School Teaching."

Not only did Dr. Deifendorf make the theory of the method clear to the high school teachers, but he demonstrated how it might be put into practice.

The demonstration — "Upper grade Social Science and Reading Technique" conducted by Mrs. Mary Watson, state supervisor for Lincoln and Socorro counties was made so that the grade teachers culd have an idea on the latest methods of teaching the social science studies.

"Evaluation" was discussed by Prof. Andrew F. Ogle of the Department of Education, Eastern New Mexico Junior College.

Luncheon was served for some of the visitors by the home economics department of the Eastern New Mexico Junior College, under the direction if Miss Pearl Ludy.

Besides State Superintendent, H. R. Rodgers, State High School Inspector C. H. Conway, and President of State Teachers' association, George Sanchez were present.

Miss Ruth McKone, instructor at the Clovis School of Dancing was in Portales Tuesday evening attending to classes.

THE TEACHERS CONVENTION

The Teachers Convention held under the auspices of the Junior College last Friday was a great success. Five-hundred teachers from over eight counties were in attendance, and all report that this was a very successful meeting from every angle.

The Junior College is to be congratulated in sponsoring this convention, and it will become an annual affair; Portales will be the home of this convention, as it is logical that it be held where it will be convenient to the college.

The Junior College has also been instrumental in bringing many worthwhile programs of entertainment to Portales. The Junior College is a great asset, and so far every move that is in cooperation with this college has been successful.

Portales is proud of the College, its administration and faculty, and will do her part to help make this an outstanding educational institution.

TRAFFIC LAWS ARE FOR PROTECTION

Traffic laws are for the protection of the public and not to irritate any individual. The officers who call attention to these violations are only acting for your safety, and such warnings should be taken in the spirit given.

Traffic is becoming heavier each day, and especially on the highways through Portales, the ignoring of the safety rules, endanger the lives of the traveling public.

In Portales traffic laws have almost been utterly disregarded, and it is a wonder that there have not been serious accidents or loss of life.

SPEED THE SHELTER BELT

The severe dust storms which have taken such a toll over a number of Western states demonstrates the importance of speeding the planting of the shelter belt.

Not only will such a tree belt modify the winds, but it will build up the soil that has been impoverished by soil erosion. It will also have a tendency to give more even distribution of rainfall.

Real estate values for the last 60 days have been damaged probably more than the cost of this shelter belt.

Down here in New Mexico we have not suffered to the extent of some of the mid-western states, but considerable damage has been done. This shelter belt should come down the border of New Mexico and Texas, and supplimentary belts should be provided wherever practical. The Black Water draw would make an ideal shelter belt, and would be of great value to the farmers of Roosevelt and Curry counties.

The government is slow but sure, and in time this belt will give the needed protection, but in the meanwhile millions of farm values may be destroyed by dust storms.

MANY CHURCHES LACK MUCH MONEY

When one looks over his home town and sees the inordinate struggle of many good and worthy people, our very best citizens in fact, over the problem of church finances in order to keep a denominational machine in operation in a field where the competition is so keen that survival displaces service, he cannot help but realize that a denominational soul isn't worth saving.

Five struggling preachers, five worried congregations there are, all patriotically waving the banners of the several church demonimations and each with only strength to hold up the staff and not enough to do any valiant service for the Master.

The answer comes in field exchanges, merging of congregations, federation of denominations or what have you to get into united action the Christian folk of every rural community for consistent and unselfish service which would enlist the whole-hearted support of youth, middle-life and age.

Some of these days with a new ministry of disallusioned young men and a laity who will see less in denominational yokes and more in active service to others there will arise a commonsense and unbiased view of the present tragic situation. Out of it will come a new order of church comity and the world will be far better off for souls will be born into the real Kingdom of God.—Journal, Lander, Wyo.

AN IDEAL GOVERNMENT

If we were asked to depict an ideal social organization, we would say, offhand, that it would be one under which any able-bodied, intelligent man or woman could always find work at wages sufficient to provide for the necessities of life and lay aside something for old age, and after 40 years of work be able to retire on his or her savings.

We think that a government which concentrated on those objectives and on nothing else would come pretty near to being and ideal government. Its corollary functions might well include provision for the security of the thrifty individual's savings, and such regulation of terms and conditions of employment as would at least not impair the worker's chance of living to enjoy the fruits of a life's work, and would protect him on the one hand against unfair competition by the workers of any foreign nation in which a lower standard of living prevails, and on the other hand against exploitation by unprincipled employers.

Such an ideal government would protect every man in his right to keep what he has earned, and as an essential part of that protection, would be administered as economically as possible, in order that the burden of taxation might rest as lightly and as equitably as possible upon all it citizens.

This ideal government would make it its first concern that every child had an opportunity to obtain the best education of which it was capable. If, in spite of that education, it persisted in making a fool of itself as it grew up, we do not believe that is any part of any government's concern.

That is not to say that government should permit the swindler to roam unchecked; it should not tolerate impositions of any kind upon the ignorant and the unwary. But we do not conceive it part of government's business or recompense the victims of their own foolishness and extravaganee.

The ideal government would neither pamper its criminals nor allow such social conditions to exist as tend to make crimes against the body politic alluring to the young. It would be a government of few laws, and those restrictive upon individual liberty only as the exercise of that liberty infringes upon the liberties of others. It would be adequately policed and its laws would be rigidly enforced.

We do not expect ever to see such a government, either in the United States nor anywhere else. We believe that what we have set down represents in large measure what our government is striving for. We think that there are too many people who want government to do a great deal more than the simple essentials which we have outlined, and that progress toward economic recovery is being hampered by too many lawyers and uplifters having a finger in the pie.—Exponent, Chagrin Falls, Ohio.

THE WISE GUY

You know the jay-walker—in fact, you've probably burned your tires at one time or another in avoiding him. He crosses the street wherever and however he pleases. He takes intersections on a diagonal. He's never content to follow the regular path. He thinks he's saving time. But is he? The dodging, jumping and backing use up more time than it would have taken to follow the regular path. And he is taking a needless risk.

Mr. Jay-walker has a brother—the jay-buyer. Although not a product of the depression, his numbers have increased many fold since the country lost the formula for Sanforizing the family income. Today his numbers are legion.

The jay-buyer knows a way to buy things cheaper. He knows of a man from whom he can buy radios at half price, of a small mail-order house that will sell to him at wholesale prices. His favorite pastime is telling his friends what sucker they are and how much money he could have saved them had they only come to him before furnishing their new home or buying a car.

He thinks he's saving money, but somehow or other he just cannot make his income go as far as his acquaintance who read the advertisements and buy standard goods from reputable merchants whose guarantee stands for something.—Times, Hammond, Indiana.

"Don't Quote Me"

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 20. (UP)—Maybe it's spring, maybe it's just coincidence, but the gentle art of poetry is flourishing in Washington.

Pick up almost any congressman's speech these days and tucked in somewhere will be a little gem of poetic art. Take this one from a speech of Oklahoma's John Lee, for instance:

"Pardon me, friends," said John. "if I seem to lean toward the Democratic faith; you see my father's name was Thomas Jefferson Lee; my name is Joshua Bryan Lee.

"I was rocked in a Democratic cradle.

"I was fed on Democratic food.

"I was spanked with a Democratic paddle.

"And raised in a Democratic brood."

Poetry flourishes in unexpected places, too. Industrialism and depression are supposed to have stamped all lilt and rhyming out of the people. But the spirit of poetry seems to spring eternal.

A tattered picket line was marching dourly around the agriculture building protesting high food prices due to the AAA program.

Here is what startled government workers read on the banners:

"Prices are high.

"Wages are low.

"How are we to live?

"Wallace! Let us know!"

Those who have to listen to endless senatorial debate wish there were more members like Senator Henry F. Ashurt, D., Ariz., Sen. Millard Tydings, D., Mc., was attacking the work relief bill. He had adopted an ironic manner and said:

"Of course I'm the only politician in this chamber. All the others who are voting these millions are patriots. They can rise above politics. But I say they're the kind that can also rise above principle. * * * "

Ashurst interrupted: "I think what the senator is trying to say is that you can't reclaim a spendthrift by filling his pockets with money."

"Thank you," said Tydings, "that reduces an hour's speech to a simple epigram."

Harry A. Millis and his colleagues of the National Labor Relations board are going through an experience familiar enough to concert stars and opera singers but passing strange in government circles.

Just two weeks after a round of farewell dinners, testimonials, etc., Millis is back doing business at the old stand.

Millis, head of Chicago university's economics department, resigned to return to his teaching post. A member of the labor board since last summer, his leave of absence had expired.

Before returning to face the rigors of wintry Chicago in March, Millis went south for a little vacation—he had a couple of weeks leave coming from the government anyway. Hardly had he arrived in Chicago than word came that the university had extended his leave and that he had been renamed to the labor board.

So back to Washington came Millis. His colleagues were glad to see him. They were glad to see also that he was carrying the fine gold watch, inscribed with affectionate farewells, presented to him when they really thought he was going away.

Millis' leave of absence runs until June. When his time is up the board is going to be a little cautious about saying goodby. June is also the end of the academic year and it wouldn't surprise them to see Millis stay on until next fall, at least.

The services of the one and only specialist, Chic Sale, were almost required by the august United States senate before one hurdle of the much battered work relief bill was negotiated successfully.

The hurdle was one which resulted from a demand by the master plumbers of the nation that all mechanical sanitary work on projects be let by contract.

The plumbers maintained that unless the work were done by contract, it wouldn't be done right and the country would be in a fine fix.

Sen. Carter Glass, D., Va., fought hard for the amendment. He told a story about the Reedsville, W. Va., project where difficulties have been legion in almost every field, including apparently that of plumbing.

Glass said it cost $600 to do work skilled plumbers could have done for $450. And even then the job wasn't satisfactory.

"The plumbing," said Glass, "didn't plumb."

In spite of Glass' eloquence, the senate voted down the measure. If the relief plumbing doesn't work, don't say the plumbers did not warn the country.

"PLANT A TREE" TINGLEY ASKS

Schools of the state are requested by Governor Clyde Tingley, in his Arbor Day proclamation, to dispense with classwork on April 5 at least long enough for each class room in the state to plant one tree.

"New Mexico each year," he said, "celebrates Arbor Day with planting of trees for the benefit and adornment of public and private grounds, and each year the need for more tree planting is further impressed upon the people of the state."

Professor A. F. Ogle and H. E. Mehrens and Dr. C. B. Wivel instructors at the Junior College attended a teacher's meeting held at the West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon last Saturday.

COUNTY TREASURER

OLDER MEN QUICKER AT TRIGGER OF GUN

Youth's reputation for fast thinking has been shattered by an electric timing device used by a gun manufacturer. Tests were made with groups of marksmen of different ages.

Each marksman was told to pull the trigger as soon as possible after he saw a light flash on the target. The action of pulling the trigger closed a switch attached to the gun and the device measured the time between the flash of light and the pulling of the trigger.

The tests revealed that the mature men showed the quicker reaction and the boys the slower, says a writer in Pearson's Weekly.

Youths of ten to nineteen years required nearly a quarter of a second to pull the trigger. The best time was made by a group ranging from forty to forty-five years, who averaged less than one-fifth of a second.

A man of eighty-five had an average reaction time of .218, his slowest time being about the average for the group from ten to nineteen years.

The greater experience of the older men did not account entirely for the better marks, as some had done comparatively little shooting.

Your Face Makes Noise, Says London Scientist

An expert will soon be able to tell a pretty girl from a plain one merely by listening to her face. For an eminent sound specialist has discovered that everything makes a noise of its own, when placed in front of his television gadgets. The whiter the face the louder the noise, because a white face has a higher reflective power than a dark one, notes a writer in Pearson's Weekly.

These sounds can actually be measured in decibles. For instance, the Bengal tiger, snarling at a distance of 15 feet, registers 75 decibles, a pneumatic drill 90 decibles, and an airplane anywhere from 80 to 110 decibles.

The human ear, however, can catch a range of 7 octaves of noise, constituting from 30 to 30,000 vibrations a second.

Spiders, on the other hand, are constantly making sounds, and listening to sounds, that are inaudible to us. Lurking out of sight in its lair, it can tell just what insect is approaching and something of its strength and emotion—whether it is fresh or tired, angry or good-tempered.

Pliofilm Rivals Cellophane

Cellophane has a rival. This is pliofilm, a rubber product. It is produced synthetically from rubber by an entirely new process. Pliofilm has the advantage of being moisture-proof after considerable wrinkling or creasing. In this it is unique among wrapping materials. It is also said to have greater tear-resistance but, strangely enough, it does not have the elasticity one associates with ordinary rubber. It does have a toughness with some "give." Another very important advantage of pliofilm is its heat-sealing quality. A moderate amount of heat with pressure makes possible a strong permanent seal of the edges.—Scientific American.

Men "Beef" Eaters

It is generally believed that men eat more than women. And now it is claimed that men eat more intelligently than women. Such a claim of course will be challenged by all women and the bureau of home economics of the Department of Agriculture can look for a lot of protests. Still, that bureau made actual tests which showed that while women may be the nation's cooks men eat more intelligently than they do when it comes to a selection of the proper foods for a proper or balanced diet.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Arrow Shot With Throwing Stick

Ancient Mayan hunters used a "huiche," or throwing stick, instead of a bow to shoot their arrows great distances with deadly accuracy, and the weapon is being revived in modern sport on the Pacific coast. Archeologists found specimens of the throwing sticks in Yucatan. These were brought back and have served as models for sticks being used by archers today. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

U. S. Farms Worth 57 Billions

In 1850 when the first count was made of the number of farms in the United States there were approximately 1,500,000 with farm property valued at $4,000,000,000. The census of agriculture taken in 1930 shows more than 6,000,000 farms with a property value of more than $57,000,000,000.—Department of Commerce.

Piano Plays Music in Color

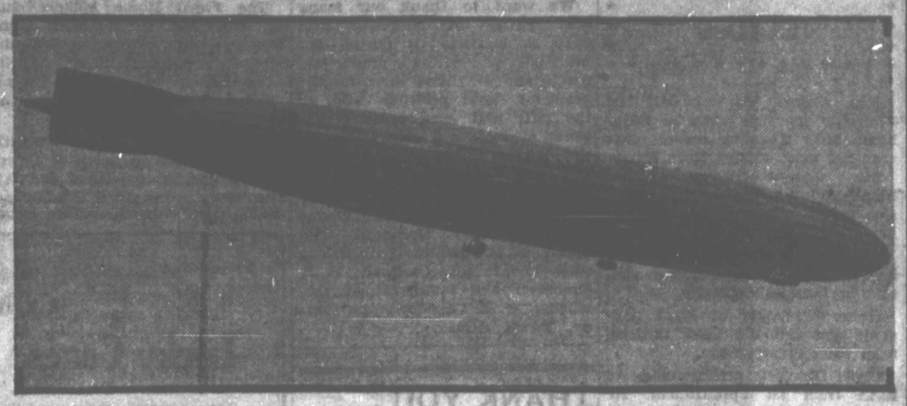

Different notes in a composition are reproduced in color on a white disk by a piano exhibited recently in London. The colors appear on the disk as the music is heard. Each note has its own color.

Giant Airship Macon Sinks in Pacific

One of the boys remarked "Daddy, I am going to tell you. I have held it for a week. Mother is having a birthday dinner for you today." This was the first news he had had of a birthday surprise.

Norse Women Were Bob

In recent years many people have claimed to be the inventor of the shingle, but no one has been able to establish an indisputable title, and it is possible that no one ever will. The Welsh women bobbed their hair 700 years ago, and there are older records even than that of close-cropped feminine fashions. A few years ago archeological excavations near Tilsit, in East Prussia, brought to light remains of the Viking civilization which revealed that many a Norse maiden wore her luxurious golden hair clipped short. Thus more than 1,000 years ago shingling was a fashion among women, while the mode for men was flowing locks.

Viking Game Board Found

Harvard archeologists found an ancient Viking game in Ireland. It was found in a Tenth century lake dwelling. The game consists of a board about nine inches square, perforated with 49 round holes. The center hole is surrounded by a double ring, cut in the wood. This board is set inside an ornately carved frame with two wood handles. Each handle is rounded like a doorknob, one almost twice the size of the other. Christian crosses of a type found on the Isle of Man are also on the game board.

Veteran Gridster Is Best Blocker

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 20. (UP)—The best blocker in football Gwinn Henry, veteran coach of the University of New Mexico, has seen was Maurice Moulder, one of his present assistants.

Weighing only 135 pounds, Moulder was one of the biggest factors in the success of the great University of Missouri elevens Henry coached in 1924, 1925 and 1926.

Moulder's gridiron background was founded in Manual high school, Kansas City, where he played end for four years. At Missouri University he was quarterback and in his sophomore year he starred in the Tigers' sensational victory over their arch rivals, the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

"Moulder is one of the few small men I ever had who could take an end out of the play alone," Henry said. "His success as a quarterback was due to the uncanny football sense he possessed. If Missouri ever got inside the 20-yard line you could bet your last cent that the plays Moulder called would score.

Moulder came to New Mexico from Higginsville, Mo., high school where he coached football, basketball and track.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Conducted by Dr. J. R. Earp Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

FROM PIG TO MAN

There are at least six diseases which man may catch from hogs. One that is usually quite serious is undulant fever also called brucellosis. This is a disease that also affects goats and cows, but the pig variety of brucellosis is the most dangerous to man. Then there is the pork tape worm that is got through eating measly pork. Although common in Mexico this worm is not found often in the United States. Moreover we are protected from it by meat inspection if we buy meat with the government stamp on it. The disease we catch most commonly from pigs, however, is trichinosis and against this disease meat inspection is no protection. This point deserves emphasis. It is not commonly known that microscopic examination for trichinella spiralis was abandoned in 1907; partly no doubt because even with such an examination it is impossible to be sure that the meat is not infested.

The trichinella spiralis is a worm that lives its brief adult life in the hog's intestine. Mr. Worm is one-sixteenth of an inch long and his wife almost twice as long as he is. When she has been an adult for about 10 days, Mrs. Worm gives birth to 1,000 or more babies each one two hundred and fiftieth of an inch in length. These babies get into the blood stream and thence to the muscles. Having grown to ten times their original size they curl up each into a larva. The larval cysts are so small and so much the same color as muscle that when you look at your pork you cannot possibly see them without a microscope. If you eat them uncooked the larvae come out of their cysts in your intestine and in two or three days are adult worms. About two weeks after the pork is eaten thousands and thousands of new babies are in your blood and burrowing into your muscles. Whether you live or die depends on how many thousands there are. Unless the doctor knows you have been eating raw sausage or underdone pork he will not be likely to know what is wrong. He may think you have rheumatism or influenza or even typhoid fever. There is only one way of guarding against trichinosis: If you eat pork, be sure it is well cooked.

Monday morning while at school Haschall White, son of Mrs. Claude White was taken suddenly ill. It developed that he was suffering from an attack of gall stone.

Mrs. J. L. May and daughter Winnifred were visitors in Clovis Saturday night. Mrs. May attended the meeting of the Eastern Star in the Hotel Clovis.

Woman's Club

Professor A. P. Ogle of Eastern New Mexico Junior College talked on City Beautiful at the meeting of the Portales Woman's club yesterday afternoon.

First of all in making the city beautiful Ogle suggested a clean-up and paint up week with the rubbish hauled off free.

He complimented the flower show which is sponsored each year by the Woman's club and the Portales Valley News, and suggested its continuance as a motive for beautifying gardens.

A children's garden club with a flower show in which only children participate would, according to Ogle, help beautify the town.

He spoke of the reduction of water rates as a necessity for beautifying the town. With a reduction in rate the amount of water used should bring in the same amount of revenue to the city, according to Mr. Ogle.

Mrs. Taylor McCasland sang "Thank God for a Garden" accompanied by Mrs. Ernest Pogue. Mrs. Lucille Cumbie was program leader.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mesdames M B. Jones, J. B. Priddy and Ernest Pogue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. King made a trip to Roswell Tuesday.

Miss Sybil Lyons attended a Utility Company meeting in Plainview the first of the week.

Husbands Outlive Bachelors

Figures show the death rate of husbands is much lower than that of bachelors, thus supporting the old contention that married life, especially for men, is conducive to health and longevity. Vital statistics compiled by the census bureau show that the death rate of husbands between the ages of thirty-five and forty-five is about one-half that of bachelors of the same age group. And the death rate for husbands of all ages between twenty-five and sixty-five is only two-thirds that of bachelors between those ages.—Pathfinder Magazine.

The Echometer

The echometer is an electrically operated device for sounding at sea, by means of which the nature of an ocean bed and the depth of water beneath a vessel can be determined. It was announced by the British Marconi system. The echometer is operated by push-button principle. Among the claims for it are that it will prove of great value in saving vessels from grounding and that it can be used by fishermen in trawling to determine the type of fish to be found from the depth of water.

A Prehistoric City

An entire prehistoric Iberian city was discovered at the base of the mountain of San Miguel in Valencia. Among the remains, to which great value is attached, are ancient vessels, on one of which are paintings of soldiers on foot and on horseback. A complete Iberian alphabet has also been found.

The Baby's Faculties

The ages when certain faculties first appear in average infants and children vary considerably. Memory and simple consciousness come soon after birth, curiosity at about ten weeks, the senses of shame, remorse and the ludicrous at fifteen months, self-consciousness at three years, the color sense at four years and the sense of fragrance at five years.—Collier's Weekly.

The UNITED

SHORT SHAVINGS

Wise men are not wise all the time—ever.

No friend is a friend until he shall prove a friend.

We can't imagine knowingly doing a friend an injury.

Peace may be the last thing a man wants when he is young.

Life's too short to "get used to" every town's drinking water.

After a woman passes eighty, she tells her age and is proud of it.

Generally the best man at the wedding does have the best of it.

In solitude it is easy to be sad. That's why misery loves company.

Common-sense can be taught; but that kind is acquired through pain.

It makes a bigger wedding to invite your enemies as well as your friends.

The wisdom gained in life's laboratories cannot leave the hand that finds it.

Energy arises from being so bored by one's surroundings that one gets busy.

An optimist endorses another man's worthless note; but it is a pessimist that pays it.

Common sense is a valuable asset, but that alone doesn't necessarily make a man rich.

Men don't care whether what is said about them behind their backs is true or not if it's nice.

There are so many things to read about in the news that you can worry all day—if you're that kind.

Not enough consideration is given to the people who like solitude—and silence. They have to fight for the latter.

One is getting a good deal out of life if he can largely do as he pleases, even if he doesn't have much.

"Beauty is skin deep" is a cheering phrase, for by a carefully considered diet and regimen one can have skin-deep beauty.

Roman Theater Unearthed

The details of a Roman theater at Verulamium, near St. Albans, England, have been recently revealed through the completion of five years of excavation and study. It was a complex structure designed to seat about 1,600 persons, and built about the middle of the Second century A. D. At first it had a large circular "orchestra," after the Greek style, but later the stage was enlarged at the expense of the orchestra, and was backed by a range of columns some 20 feet high. The theater was rebuilt from time to time, and in the declining days of Roman Britain was used as a municipal rubbish dump.—New York Times.

Vienna Measures Rattles

Vienna, Austria, is determined to have silence and has placed a limit on rattles and other sounds made by vehicles. A unit of sound, labeled "phone," has been evolved. Each class of transportation is allowed just so many "phones," and no more, and there is a schedule of fines according to the number of excess "phones." The police use a new apparatus which records the sound emanations of passing vehicles.

Cries at Job Every Day

In order to do his work, a federal laboratory chemist in Pittsburgh is forced to cry every day. He tests samples of tear gas before the shipments are sent to banks and law-enforcement agencies. Although he has been gassed hundreds of times he has suffered no permanent injuries.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Masks of Rubber

Masks of rubber render unnecessary the make-up box for actors and actresses, who can now change their faces as easily and as quickly as they don different costumes. The new masks are perfectly lifelike, for they are made directly from each individual's features.

Darkest Africa, in its stride toward the light, is demanding so many telephones there are not enough instruments to go 'round. Small towns in the interior are begging for them.

FLOWERS FOUND TO RUN TEMPERATURES

Flowers are apt to be feverish, says a communication to the French Academy of Sciences by Professor Blaringhem, reporting his observations of the temperatures of plants.

Some of the flowers that are given to developing abnormal temperatures, he says, are the narcissus, the nasturtium and the dandelion.

Most flowers, however, are given to higher temperatures at budding time, sometimes several degrees above the temperature of the surrounding air.

This is easily noted in sweet pea buds between ten o'clock in the morning and noon.

The male flowers of dioecious and monoecious plants are warmer in temperature than female flowers of the same plant at the same state of development.—Detroit Free Press.

Notes in the Belfry

Britain's reputation as the Ringing Isle is enhanced by the enlargement of the Bournville carillon, which hangs in the tower of Bournville village school, near Birmingham. When it was installed by the late George Cadbury in 1906, it consisted of 22 bells; now it boasts 48 bells, and the most delicate response to the player's touch of any carillon in the world. The heaviest bell weighs three and a quarter tons and the lightest twelve pounds, the total weight of the instrument being seventeen and a half tons.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

A City That Was

The record rise and fall of a city is probably held by Pithole, in Pennsylvania. Within three months of the finding of oil, the town had a hotel, a theater, and a daily paper. At the end of seven months it had 24 hotels, an academy of music, a water works, a city hall, and 15,000 inhabitants. Then the oil was taken away by a pipe-line and in three weeks the city had 40 inmates.—Montreal Herald.

Odd Tricks Played by Noise

Noise plays many tricks. In the great cathedrals of Milan, Cologne and St. Peter's an organ note lasts so long that any rendition is a confused jumble. In St. Paul's in London and in the Hollywood bowl it is possible for two people 90 feet apart to have a whispered conversation, owing to the acoustics.—Scientific American.

There are approximately 16,000 miles of trout fishing streams in the state of Michigan. The acquisition of land with river frontage is favored by the department of conservation to insure continued freedom of fishing privileges.—Detroit News.

Pathetic Case to Cost State Nearly $200,000 for Care

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 20. (UP)—There are three families of Wyoming whose members, by the time all have died, will have cost the state an estimated $196,000 for care in state institutions.

Diseased either physically or mentally, or both, the families have become wards of the state. Their case histories afford interesting and significant studies in eugenics.

Not only have they already cost the state a large sum of money for care but they have been responsible for several crimes. Their histories were completed in a recent survey.

One family of a father and mother and four children came from western Wyoming. All now are in state mental institutions and have cost the state more than $34,000. Collectively they have spent 81 years in the institutions and probably will continue in the institutions for 95 years more.

The father, who suffers from a social disease, has been confined at the rental institution for 12 years. The mother has been in an institution since 1923. She has the same disease and is feebleminded.

Nine children were born to them. Three died in infancy, one expired after being in a training school 11 years and the other died at an early age, although never committed to an institution Of the four living, three are in a mental institution and one is in a home for dependents. Two of the three are on the borderline of normality and feeble-mindedness and the third is definitely feebleminded. The fourth probably is normal mentally but has a severe heart condition.

The histories of the other two families are much the same. By the time all have died they will have spent about 750 years in mental institutions.

Many Different Species of Catfish in the Nile

In the Nile system are almost 300 different species belonging to the catfish group and more than 50 species closely allied to the carp. Some of the catfish run well up to six feet; with long dorsal fins extending two-thirds the length of the body they present a very strange appearance. In fact, they are strange as any animals found in the mysterious heart of the black continent.

Some of the great African fishes have very peculiar characteristics. One of the catfish tribe reaching up to four feet in length has been known to bed down in the mud at the bottom of pools when they dry up in the dry seasons. The big electric catfish is one of the strangest of all fishes of the Nile, and though a sluggish creature, can deliver a powerful shock.

The tiger fish is one of the most voracious fishes in the world, equipped with very muscular and powerful jaws and armed with formidable teeth on the outside of its mouth. The "tiger fish" is able to bite in two heavy leaders of iron or copper wire and will often break the strongest three-inch steel hooks.

The tiger fish is as great a bait robber as is the barracuda. Instead of taking the whole bait in his mouth he merely seizes it in his teeth and dashes off. When the fisherman strikes to set the hook, the tiger fish merely bites the bait in two and disappears with his trophy.

Custom of Bowing Mark of Respect Used by All

When Greek meets Greek there isn't always a tug of war, especially if they happen to be friends. They have quite a reputation as business men and so one politely asks the other: "How are you getting on?"

There isn't really much difference between the American and the English methods of salutation as the people of both countries say "Hello," "How are you" and "How do you do."

Turks are very ceremonious and greet you with a grave, "God grant you his blessing" while the Persian quaintly wishes, "May your shadow never grow less."

French people ask you, "How do you carry yourself?" The Dutch "How do you travel?" The Swedes inquire, "How can you?" while the Spaniards want to know, "How are you passing it?"

The custom of bowing to another as a mark of respect is one that is used in nearly all countries of the world.

Typewritten Postage Stamp

The first issue of postage stamps made by Uganda, a British protectorate in Africa, were produced on a typewriter. This was in 1895 and while not old as stamps go they enjoy the distinction of being rather scarce. The letters U G stand for Uganda government and the value is expressed in cowrie shells, which passed as currency in Uganda at the rate of about 12 shells for one penny.

Farm Housing Program Launched In New Mexico

Farm homes that are repaired and improved pay many times over in convenience, comfort and happiness for the family, says Veda Strong of the New Mexico State college. The need for improvement is not recent but covers a long period of time. For the last five years or more many farm owners, due to financial conditions, have not been in a position to maintain the normal upkeep and repair of the house nor make the needed improvements.

In connection with the adjustment programs and other recovery measures, a program is now being launched to improve the farm home. The Better Housing program, sponsored by the government through the National Housing Act, was designed to help improve property and increase its value and usefulness. The Federal Housing program for rural areas is in line with the home improvement program that the extension service is carrying on.

The extension service is cooperating with the Federal Housing administration and other agencies in an effort to encourage the rural people of New Mexico to improve their homes, first, with the labor and materials they have on hand and then, if they have some money they feel can be invested in home improvements, it will be well spent as it will pay in increased comfort, convenience and satisfaction for the family in the home.

County extension workers and vocational teachers are cooperating with the program in the counties under the supervision of the New Mexico Rural Housing Advisory committee, of which J. V. Duffin, Santa Fe, is chairman.

The Rural Housing survey, made in six counties in New Mexico in 1934, gave a cross-section picture of home conditions in the state which will serve as a basis for carrying on the work this year.

There are many repairs or improvements that may be made in and around the home without spending a cent and many more for a nominal sum if the home owner will only get at the job.

Donald MacKay, president of the Eastern New Mexico Junior College is making a tour of the Southeastern part of the state this week, visiting schools. Monday, he was in Tatum, Lovington and Hobbs; Tuesday, Artesia, and Hope; Wednesday, Hagerman and Dexter. Today he is visiting in Carlsbad, and tomorrow he will be in Tucumcari.

Mrs. E. H. Sprinkle underwent an operation in the Brasell hospital Saturday.

Misses Loretta McCarty, Germaine Baer, Lucy Faye Yoachum and Rev. Claude A. Lorie spent Sunday in Tucumcari.

Nematodes Are Studied in Crop Production Here

The problem of growing truck and other crops on land infested with nematodes is an important one. Farmers are at a loss to know just what to do to control or irradicate nematodes. Each year a heavier and heavier tol lis taken by nematodes until at present some lands fail to mature any crops.

It is of vital importance to farmers on irrigated land in Roosevelt County that some method be found to control nematodes, or to limit the damage done by them to a minimum. Considerable work along this line has been done the last few years, and in order that farmers may know of the results accomplished to date, a meeting will be held in the court house on Tuesday, April 2, 1935, at 1:30 o'clock.

All persons interested in this matter are invited to attend this meeting and take part in the discussion. Professor H. C. Stewart, Extension Horticulturist, State College, N. M., and R. A. Young, Vocational Instructor, Portales high school, will lead in the discussion.

Proper Care of Land Control Wind Erosion

This is the season of soil movement; in fact, almost every spring in New Mexico is dry, and the loose, dry soil moves with spring winds, says G. R. Quenesberry of the New Mexico State College. Few farmers appreciate the amount that is actually lost. Muddy water moving off of fields usually makes gullies and depressions that are readily noticeable but when the wind takes away even one-tighth of an inch of surface soil, 36 tons, few will notice it. Waters in New Mexico move a small amount of soil when compared with the winds. This spring millions of tons of soil were transported from cultivated New Mexico fields.

It is much easier to prevent than to correct the conditions that now prevail. Farms with practically no signs of blow may be seen adjacent to other completely denuded farms.

Over-grazing and severe winter pasturing are some of the factors that contribute to blow.

Road sides adjoining cultivated farms should be planted. Weeds, with the possible exception of Russian thistle, should be left along the road side. A strip, not less than 100 feet in width, of untilled land should be left around every field. If this land does not have sod it should be planted to some fibrous rooted crop and left unmolested for the succeeding windy season. Wheat, rye, or sudan grass can be planted along the roadside.

Group action by farmers in any community will largely control the wind erosion.

Most Famous Midget

Gen. Tom Thumb was a well known circus midget whose real name was Charles Heywood Stratton. He was born in Bridgeport, Conn., January 4, 1838, joined the P. T. Barnum shows in 1852 and married Lavinia Warren, another midget, in 1863. General Thumb died July 15, 1883. Mrs. Thumb continued with the circus and a few years later married Count Magri, an Italian midget. She died at the advanced age of seventy-eight years.

Chamber of Commerce Rumblings

Tuesday's meeting was of unusual interest. The attendance was large and many were the matters of importance coming up and each member present gave evidence that they were keenly interested in the development of Portales and Roosevelt county. Harmony, enterprise and action is what it takes to bring results and the Portales Chamber of Commerce is made up of men who are willing and anxious to do their part and now just watch Portales grow.

County Superintendent Woodburn called the attention of the members of the local chamber to the need of new school buildings at Dora, Causey and Floyd. The buildings at Dora he states, will not accommodate the students already enrolled and the same condition exists at Causey, and the recent burning of one of the buildings at Floyd has left that school in dire need.

These enterprising communities need our help in getting the building they need. Woodburn stated that hardly a locality was adequately supplied with class rooms and the Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee to work with the trustees of these localities in working out plans to secure the buildings necessary. There never has been, in the history of our country, a more opportune time to get this work under way and no time must be wasted. E. T. Hensley, Jr., was appointed to head a committee to be sent to Washington to make an effort to secure the funds necessary.

Ed J. Neer was unanimously elected to fill a place recently vacated on the Board of Directors. Mr. Neer has always been a supporter and active worker in the organization.

Plans are being made by the entertainment committee to send the College quartette to appear on the program for the opening night of the annual meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce on May 13, 14 and 15. Professor Harry Taylor in charge. This will bring Portales favorably before one of the leading and largest assemblies of people in the southwest and the Chamber of Commerce of Portales greatly appreciates the invitation thus extended.

The cry for homes in Portales increases every day. If you doubt this being to stake off a lot preparatory to building and note the number of applicants that will endeavor to arrange to rent the building when completed.

A Fair this fall must be held. We have missed two years, and now it must not occur again. Portales and territory can put on the best fair of any town in the west. We have all the advantages and can put on exhibition better produce, livestock, poultry, etc., than any town in the West. So why not begin now. When the committee calls to see you do not begin to say, "Wait Until it Rains." We did that last year, then it was too late to start, and yet we had the best of crops and could have held a most successful fair.

Listen to the Rumblings:: A new city hall, postoffice, court house and jail are some of the new projects that are being worked upon and when people become as interested as the people of this city and county something is sure to develop from their efforts.
