Drug Smuggling Suspected

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (AP)-The New Mexico Civil Air Patrol has found two bodies in the wreckage of a plane that vanished en route from Colorado to Texas, and a federal air safety inspector in Denver says the plane may contain a cache of drugs.

The twin-engine Cessna 310, en route from Bemerton, Wash., to Lubbock, was last seen at Grand Junction, Colo., during a refueling stop Oct. 30.

The victims were identified as David A. Jones, 33, of Lubbock, the pilot, and Michael O. Keefe, age unavailable, of Bremerton, Wash., said search coordinator Don Davis.

Higher Rates For Banks

AUSTIN (AP)-The State Depository Board expressing concern over the possible effect on smaller banks has reluctantly raised the interest rate banks must pay on state savings accounts.

"That was a rough one," State Treasurer Warren Harding said of the board's decision Monday to hike the annual rate from 10.5 percent to 11.5 percent.

Iran Move To Boost Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)-Americans may pay more for home heating oil and face service station lines for higher-priced gasoline as a result of President Carter's decision to end Iranian oil imports, officials in and out of government say.

Prices will probably climb and gas station lines, reminiscent of the spring, could return, especially if Iran decides to reduce its crude oil production and lower the world's already tight oil supply, the experts said Monday.

Demonstrations In Texas

By The Associated Press

Anti-Iranian demonstrations spread to two college campuses in Texas Monday, where Iranian flags were set afire and the nation's leader was burned in effigy. There were no arrests.

Hundreds of Texas A&I University students surrounded about 50 Iranians and forced them to take refuge in a dormitory during a protest on the Kingsville campus.

The demonstrators, who burned an Iranian flag and sang "America," demanded the 200 Iranian students attending the college be deported. They remained outside the dormitory for about 30 minutes, then dispersed.

In Beaumont, an engineering professor at Lamar University asked several Iranian students to leave his classes shortly before about 500 protesters burned the Ayatollah Khomeini in effigy.

Anti-Iranian demonstrators marched through downtown Houston for the fourth time in five days.

Hospital Blast In Italy

PARMA, Italy (AP)-An explosion at the city hospital today killed at least four persons, officials said. Dozens more, mostly patients, were believed buried under the debris.

Want U.S. To Admit Shah's Guilt...

Iranian Proposal Offered

By The Associated Press

Iranian leaders today offered new proposals for ending the 10-day-old Tehran embassy impasse, stopping short of insisting on the shah's immediate extradition. But the Moslem militants holding 98 hostages at the U.S. Embassy rejected any compromises, Tehran Radio reported.

The officials said the hostages might be freed if the United States acknowledges that Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is a criminal, allows an international investigation of the deposed monarch and hands over his U.S. property, it was reported from the Iranian capital.

The State Department said this appeared to represent a softening of the Iranian position.

But a Tehran Radio broadcast said later that spokesmen for the student militants rejected "any conciliatory proposal" regarding the shah.

The students said their movement was based on ideological principles and they cannot compromise, according to the broadcast, monitored in London.

Iranian Foreign Minister Abolhassan Bani Sadr today reiterated the key demand of the students that the United States surrender the shah to Iran for trial, the Kuwait news agency reported from Tehran. He is currently hospitalized in New York for cancer treatment.

But Bani Sadr added, "The United States should at least acknowledge the shah is guilty," the report said.

Another member of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Revolutionary Council, Sadeqh Gothzadeh, set out more detailed conditions, said Iran was not retreating from its demand for the shah's extradition, but added that the Iranians were ready "to end the occupation of the U.S. Embassy before the extradition of the shah for humanitarian reasons and the interests of the hostages," the Kuwait news agency reported from Tehran.

He said the hostages "may be freed if the United States acknowledges that the shah is guilty" and agrees to an international inquiry "to investigate his crimes," the Kuwait agency reported.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported that Gothzadeh said the United States must also agree to return all of the shah's U.S. property to the Iranian government.

Gothzadeh, who is director of Iran's radio and television, said he was speaking only in his own name and not for the Council.

College Board Approves New Landscape Course

Regents of Western Texas College Monday night approved a new course of study in Landscape Technology and made changes in the present golf and grounds course of study.

Golf and grounds operations will be combined with Landscape Technology into a two-year course of study in the Occupational Technical program.

Persons completing the college credit program can earn an Associate in Arts degree. The program calls for 71 semester hours with 52 of those hours eligible for transfer to a senior college for advanced study.

The curriculum is designed to teach skills so that persons may accept employment as a golf course groundskeeper, assistant golf course superintendent, landscape crew foreman, or continue study to complete a four-year degree in horticulture or nursery management.

Under routine matters, the board accepted the resignation of Bill Hale, effective Oct. 12, as head of the residential construction program. The board then ratified the employment of Abel Garza as the new instructor in residential construction, effective Oct. 22.

The board awarded several bids for supplies and material. Gilliland Publishing Co. of Arkansas City, Kan., was awarded the bid for the printing of 5,000 college catalogs for 1980-81. Gilliland's was the lowest of four bids received and the cost will be $4372.

Trustees accepted the low bids submitted on lumber and other building material to be used in the second apartment project on the WTC campus. Diamond International was awarded material bids totaling $3480, and Clark Lumber Co. was awarded a bid for materials totaling $4945.

Metroplex of Dallas was awarded bids for copy machine paper and supplies in the amount of $3887, Xerox Corp. was given the bid for copy machine supplies in the amount of $883.

The board then okayed the renewal of the college's group health insurance with John Hancock. Annual rates per employee will increase to $138.87, an increase of $28.68 or about 20 per cent.

Dr. Robert Clinton, WTC president, said the increase actually repre-

Ask Us

Q--When is the next school board elections, how many places will be voted on in it, and what are the qualifications for a person to run for the school board?

A--School board elections are held on the first Saturday in April each year as decreed by state law. This date falls on April 5 in 1980. Snyder Independent School District will elect three board members at its next election. To qualify as a board member a person must be a citizen of the district and eligible to hold public office in Texas, which means he or she must be at least 18 years old.

The SDN Column

Nearly everywhere you look, or listen, these days there are results of polls to give you a variety of information, ranging from preference in breakfast cereal to candidates for the office of president.

We have been reminded from time to time that figures don't lie, but at the same time you can "prove anything with statistics." And polls provide statistics.

The credibility problems that most polls have involve two basic factors: 1. Who took the poll, and 2. how the questions were phrased.

The professional pollsters who gather statistics for business firms on a regular basis generally know what they are looking for and the also know how to get it. Their existence depends on a fair percentage of accuracy and credibility.

But during political campaigns, the pollsters multiply. Not only do the campaign organizations employ some professionals to take polls, but they also do some polling on their own. And one of the latest fads seems to be the polling for campaign contributors.

Within the past two weeks we have received "invitations" to participate in polls. The invitation begins with a piece of standard flattery such as, "You are one of a select few knowledgeable persons who are being invited to express your views in a poll of experts..."

After several more paragraphs designed to hold the recipient's interest, they tell you the topic of the poll and then comes the main ingredient. Since this is a poll of experts and the information it will provide is so important, would you, as an expert, please help take care of some of the expenses?

There is a sheet with questions and blanks for you to fill in, plus a range of contributions--$10, $100, $500, or even $1,000. Kindly fill in the poll blank and circle the amount of your contribution.

Naturally, we doubt that this type of poll will be of any value from the standpoint of statistics, but it might help the old campaign coffers if enough "experts" fall for it.

Actually, the campaigners seem to have merely taken a page from the operations of publishers of biographical books--the type in which subjects are "selected" for honors, provided, of course, that they sign a contract to purchase one or more of the books at $35 to $50 each.

But we will see lots of campaign gimmicks during the coming year.

United Way Drive Hits 76%; Drive Extended

The Scurry County United Way campaign edged past the three-quarter mark this morning, and campaign leaders announced that the drive would be extended two weeks to continue efforts to reach the goal.

Contributions so far amount to $43,156.90, which is 76 percent of the $56,969 goal.

Campaign workers are being urged to complete their assignments and make reports as soon as possible. The organization hopes to fulfill the approved amounts to all 14 participating agencies, but to achieve this, the goal must be met.

Two divisions are over the top so far. The rural division, which was the first to reach its goal, now has $2,321, or 116 percent of its objective. It was joined this morning by the educational division, which now has reached a total of $4,421, or 105 percent of its goal. Fred Davis heads the rural division and Dr. Ed Barkowsky heads the educational division.

Latest reports from other divisions show the following totals: Advance, $16,095, or 89 percent of its

Ms. Coward Misses 4 To Win Grid Pot

Cheryl Coward is the winner in this week's Snyder Daily News Football Contest.

Ms. Coward mispredicted only four outcomes of games played over the weekend, and will receive $12.50. No second prize was given as more than two people tied for that place. This prize will be added to next week's pot.

Games miscalled by Ms. Coward were Borden County vs. Roby, Texas Tech vs. TCU (which ended in a tie), Lamesa vs. Brownfield, and St. Louis vs. Washington Redskins.

She may pick up her prize money at the SDN office.

Football fans have one final chance to test their skills in football predictions. The football contest rules and teams in today's paper mark the final week of the contest, so pick up an entry blank at any of the participating merchants and win money!

Merchants Begin Christmas Plans

Members of the retail committee of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday morning to make plans for the Christmas season here.

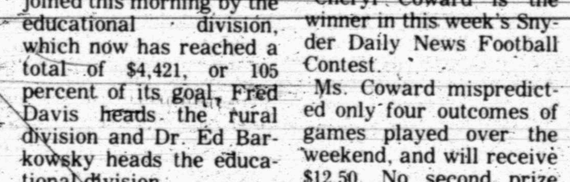

The shopping season officially kicks off Nov. 23-24 with the big annual Two-day Sale. On Friday after Thanksgiving, the first day of the sale, merchants will remain open late until about 8:30 p.m.

Christmas decorations and lights will be turned on Nov. 23, and chamber manager Bill Warner will see about making arrangements for Santa to be in town on Nov. 23 and on several dates in December.

Merchants at the meeting also voted to recommend a late opening on each Thursday in December. Merchants will also stay open late each evening the last week before Christmas, Dec. 17-22.

The committee also asked Warner to see about getting the sound system in downtown Snyder operative for the Christmas season so that Christmas music can be enjoyed by holiday shoppers.

Bill Dryden is chairman of the chamber's retail committee and presided at the meeting.

Trustees To Cast Tax Board Vote

Snyder School Trustees are scheduled to name a textbook committee and prepare their ballot for the county appraisal board election at their meeting tonight. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the administration building.

The administration will submit recommendations for appointments to the textbooks committee, and the board is expected to go into executive session to discuss the appraisal board election.

Ballots for the county-wide appraisal board must be in the county clerk's hands by Thursday. A five-man board named in the election will have the responsibility of appraising all taxable property for all taxing entities beginning the coming year.

Also to be presented for consideration are some policy revisions and three personnel changes.

21 Indictments Returned Here

Twenty-one indictments were handed down Monday by a Scurry County grand jury.

Among those indicted were four Slaton women who were charged with theft following a shoplifting spree last month that involved 10 local mercantile stores.

Named in those indictments were Angelita Ruiz, 31, Norma Vidaurre, 25, Mary Vidaurre, 34, and Alice Valderaz, 41.

Luther Williams, 100 East 37th St., was indicted on two forgery by passing charges.

Both charges involve forged checks on the account of Anita Anderson on Oct. 20. One check was drawn for $10 and the other check was for $12.

Turkey Walk Set 10 a.m. Saturday

The American Heart Fund Association's annual Turkey Walk and Fun Run is set to take off at 10 a.m. Saturday in front of the junior high school on El Paso Ave.

Participants should gather in front of the school at 9:30 for the 5 mile race that will wind through Towle Park and end up back in front of the school.

Everyone is invited to participate, says one of the organizers, Randy Perkins. Snyder school students may pick up pledge blanks at the elementary schools. They must collect $5 in pledges for every half mile they wish to walk. They should bring pledges and any money collected to the junior high Saturday morning.

Adults wishing to enter in the Fun Run competition will pay a $2 entry fee. Winner of the Fun Run will receive a trophy from the American Heart Fund Association.

All Snyder School students entering will win something, says Perkins. First place will be a 10-speed bicycle for most money collected. Second place will be a $50 savings bond. Third place will be records and a coupon good for a giant pizza. The next ten places will receive turkeys.

The organization or class that makes the most money will receive a 1979 Turkey Walk Heart Fund trophy and an ice cream party at the Sunshine Shop.

Perkins reminds the public that heart disease is the number two killer disease in the country and that no one is immune. The money collected will go to the American Heart Association in Austin but most of it will come back here, he said. He urged everyone to support the event.

thinkers get ahead

Forward thinking businessmen are going to get ahead in any recession. So says Lawrence Martin, publisher of Texas Business Magazine.

In a talk made in Austin recently, Martin took a very positive attitude toward the aggressive people in the business world. In conversations with businessmen throughout the state, Martin came to these conclusions:

-In any recession the business communith finds it a totally unacceptable condition and has no intention of lying down and playing dead.

-Anyone who wants to find out anything about today's economic conditions learns quickly: One economist says one thing; another, entirely the opposite.

"We're probably in a recession now, we're probably not in a recession, depending on who you are reading," Martin said. "It's going to be long or short, deep or not so deep. Two economists don't agree on anything."

Martin decided to make his own survey and contacted the heads of large ad agencies in Texas. "Advertising budgets are very sensitive to economic downturns," he said, after calling about two dozen agencies.

It was those calls which convinced him that if there is or will be a recession, nobody has told the positive-thinking Texans.

At the very least, he said, companies are increasing their spending 10-15 per cent. Some were boosting their spending 50-60 per cent.

Among individual comments he heard:

-This is one of the most active periods in new business the man could remember.

-Many firms are spending more on market research, trying to get the maximum from each dollar.

-Budgets cuts made earlier are being reinstated.

"Everyone reported bullish attitudes on the part of their clients," Martin said.

Martin added he believes the business community is far better prepared than others elsewhere for a turn up or down.

He said Texans seem to be in a much better frame of mind for whatever develops.

And then he made these comments, which we wish every businessman and consumer, Texas or non-Texan, could hear.

-Texas businessmen know 'they must fight for their share of the market. Those who fight have a chance to get more of the market, too, from the competitor who pulls in his horns.

"Any valley means there's bound to be a peak on the other side," Martin said, "Businessmen need to be getting momentum to get through the valley and to the peak."

anchor in history

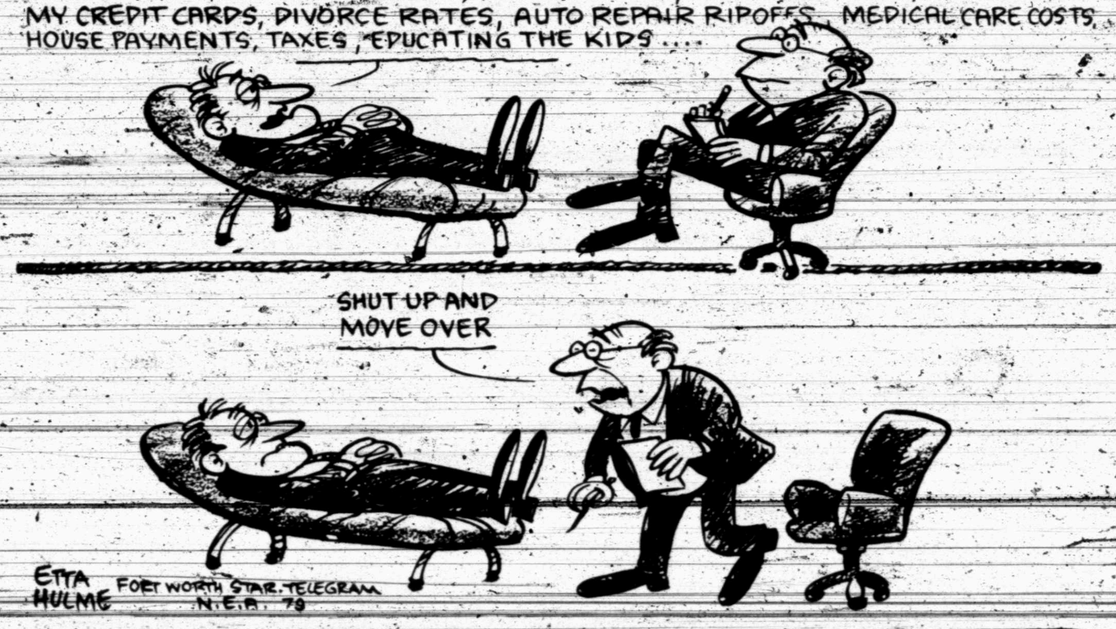

The world's first nuclear submarine is about to go the way of many historic ships before it.

The U.S.S. Nautilus, being retired from active service, is to become a monument. The Navy Department has decided that the forerunner of the nation's nuclear fleet will be berthed permanently at the Washington Navy Yard as a permanent public tribute to its pioneering achievements.

Commissioned in 1954, the $29 million, 3,000-ton Nautilus has many feathers in it's bonnet, including the first voyage beneath the North Polar ice cap. But it has not fulfilled the ultimate purpose for which it was designed. It has never fired a torpedo in anger.

A waste?

Hardly, that's the way it should be.

mad geniuses

A teen-age computer genius was missing from Michigan State University for most of a month.

The bizarre circumstances of his disappearance focused public attention on a little-known intellectual fantasy game which fascinates some highly imaginative students. The setting for the game involves dragons inhabiting mythical dungeons and challenges participants to "improvise."

What I am about to report does not relate to that person nor necessarily to that game.

It is instead an effort to understand the dark recesses in many otherwise billiant brains.

My son, researching REST OF THE STORY stories, has catalogued what has to be more than a coincidental relationship between creativity and madness.

Sir Isaac Newton was intellectually capable of explaining gravity and inventing calculus -- yet he was a schizophrenic who eventually cracked up completely.

Ezra Pound was hospitalized as psychotic. T.S. Eliot had what was then called "a nervous breakdown." Jack London was a manic depressive who killed himself at the age of 40. And the list appears endless.

Havelock Ellis published a study in 1904 linking genius with craziness. W. Lange-Eichbaum, during the 1930s, scrutinized the lives of 80 highly creative people and concluded that "at least one-third" of them were psychotic at some time."

The "inventor of television," if anybody deserves that designation, was Dr. Lee De Forest. He suffered episodes of severe depression.

Sinclair Lewis reportedly drank himself to death.

Now a psychiatrist believes he knows why brilliant brains get bombarded with a cacophony of unrelated thoughts and feelings until the victim becomes like somebody trying to watch four television channels simultaneously.

Dr. John Karlsson, of California's Patton State Hospital, believes geniuses are predisposed to psychosis because of a "chemical overactivity."

His theory is that dopamine is a chemical messenger -- a neurotransmitter concocted in nerve cells -- which helps the brain to form ideas, images and emotions. And that a breakdown in the dopamine system may be triggered genetically.

This, he believes, explains some 2 million Americans who suffer delusions, hallucinations and illogical thought.

And, he believes, the same if slightly less frenetic brain stimulation begets genius.

But he does not know why an accelerated dopamine system will inspire a Stravinsky in one case and a Son of Sam-killer in another.

If genius and madness do indeed relate to something as identifiable as proteins on the surface of nerve cells -- we may be able to bring the latter under control.

Or, suggests Dr. Karlsson, we may have to put up with "this unfortunate byproduct of man's evolution. Perhaps it is the price some must pay for the inventiveness of the species."

my turn

by john dunnam

Mohammed Ali has offered himself in exchange for the 60 Americans being held hostage in Iran. I say we give him to them. In six months they would be begging us to take him back. It would be fun to do a column on such a scenario, something like O'Henry's "Ransom of Red Chief," but the situation is too grave for humor.

Khomeini is living proof of the adage that there is no fanatic like a religious fanatic. And at 81 years of age he is also proving that there is no fool like an old fool. How? By allowing his much smaller country to back the most powerful nation in the world into a corner.

It has always been a tenet of warfare to leave the enemy a path to retreat. Otherwise he will, he must, fight all the more viciously.

All Khomeini and his Shah-squad have achieved so far is the classic stalemate. We can't succumb to their demands of returning the Shah. That would be admitting defeat and setting a dangerous precedent. And we can't march in and rescue our marines either. Why? There were three reasons: oil, world opinion and the safety of the hostages. Carter's latest move to quit buying Iran's oil has left only two.

Iran is also in a pinch. What can they do now. Their 5-day hunger strike will not cut any mustard with Americans. In fact most relish the thought of Iranians going hungry -- as long as they feed the hostages.

If they harm their captives in any way the other two reasons will no longer exist. Military action would not be viewed by the world community as bullying a smaller nation. Everybody understands retribution.

One death has already resulted, at least indirectly, from the incident in Iran. In Denver an Iranian student shot and killed a 16-year-old boy who was purportedly harassing him. More violence is bound to come if tensions are not eased.

Somewhere there may be a silver lining behind this dark cloud. For the first time in years the citizens of this nation are united in their opinions. From Maine to California there have been anti-Iran demonstrations. The only counter marches have been by Iranian students who in unabashed hypocracy choose to get their education in the country they declare to be evil beyond words.

The only easy decision to be made in this whole mess was ordering the deportation of all Iranians not living up to the letter of their visas. This Carter has done. Good riddance.

Now the President is attempting to turn the national mood into something tangible, a rallying point in our real war against the energy crisis. Instead of the government blaming the oil companies and the oil companies blaming the government maybe we can all hate Iran together and be motivated to conserve energy until we find a viable alternative to Khomeini's oil.

Actually, everyone is to blame for the energy crisis. Everybody who can read a graph that is. For years the line depicting consumption was going up while the line representing domestic production was at best hovering. That ever widening gap had to leave us dependent on somebody. But we were too busy fighting a war in Vietnam, financed with money custom printed for the occasion, and creating a demand for big gas guzzlers which Detriot cheerfully supplied to be bothered with rising oil imports. There were also riots on campuses and corruption in Washington to be tended to. The future would just have to take care of itself.

And here we are.

donald f. graff

While there is nothing positive to be read into the seizure of the U.S. embassy in Tehran, there may be one least-negative consequence.

The outrage has simplified the political situation in Iran. It has compelled Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan to make good on his repeated threats to resign.

Now de jure and de facto authorities in Iran are one and the same. Who else but that man of the year -- any year in the 13th or 14th centuries -- the Ayatollah Khomeini?

In fact, there is some reason to believe that the attack on the embassy was instigated in part for precisely this purpose. It has enabled the religious extremists within the fragmented revolutionary ranks to neutralize the few pragmatic political figures who have had the effrontery to attempt to act like a government and to deal on civilized terms with other governments.

The issue of the ailing shah's presence in the United States may be a superbly convenient pretext serving this end and in the process propelling this country once more into the domestic political infighting of yet another erstwhile ally.

The embassy seizure may be news, but there is certainly nothing new in that basic situation. Nor in the violation of diplimatic turf to which Western governments and press are reacting so strongly.

That has been going on as long as potentates have been exchanging envoys, a practice that goes back a long, long time. There were Hittites in the capitals of the pharaohs and Greeks at the courts of the shah's and ayatollah's imperial Persian predecessors.

Modern diplomatic niceties such as immunity of person and property are, however, essentially a Europeans refinement of recent centuries, imposed upon the rest of the world whether it liked them or not. And it is to the West's recurring surprise that portions of that world from time to time suddenly decide not to play by the rules.

At one time the penalty could be swift and irresistible. China's Boxer Rebellion in 1900 sent an eight-nation international army marching to the relief of beseiged embassies in Peking.

But in a contemporary world where the distribution and application of power are more complex matters, that sort of response is out of favor. For one thing, it can be self-defeating, strenthening popular support for the very violators being punished.

Not that the ayatollah would appear to be weak in that area at present. But situations can change rapidly, particularly revolutionary situations, as he himself keeps demonstrating. He may have rid himself of inconvenient political frontmen in this latest escapade, but he has also very likely added moderate politicians to a growing opposition that already includes leftists, rebellious Arabs and Kurds and a chunk of the armed forces.

What else he has accomplished is difficult to say. He has proved again that a mob can seize a few unarmed foreigners, but he has not been able to force his will upon another government. He has shown his power to inflame the public but has not brought public order to Iran, only continuing turmoil and rule by terror rather than law.

His is the sort of authoritarian, destructive performance that not only gives revolution a bad name, but in the end may well prove him to have been his own worst enemy.

Dear Abby

Abby Heartwarms A Cold Shoulder

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed AMERICA FIRST, in which the writer was opposed to our taking in the boat people, sickened me. I was further sickened to read that your mail was running 200 to 1 in favor of turning away the refugees!

I would like to think that the writers of those letters are in the minority, otherwise I fear for the future of our country.

Your answer to AMERICA FIRST must have touched the heart and soul of every decent human being who read it. It was the finest letter you ever wrote. Our founding fathers would have been proud of you.

Keep up the good work, Abby. You may be speaking for the silent majority.

AN AMERICAN IN TUCSON

DEAR AMERICAN: I know now that I was! My mail usually confirms the theory that many more people will take up the pen to oppose something than to support it.

However, since printing a sampling of the discouraging reponse, I have received a blizzard of mail from readers—easily 10,000 to 1—in favor of providing refuge to the boat people. And they're still coming in. Thank you, readers. You are beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and it's like I am walking around in a fog. I just found out that my "mother" is really my aunt, and my "aunt" is my real mother.

My mother wasn't married at the time, so she gave me to her married sister to raise. Later, my real mother got married and had children. That means my brothers and sisters are really my cousins, and the kids I always thought were my cousins are really my half-sisters and brothers. I feel terrible to think almost everybody in the family has known this all along and I had to find it out from a stranger.

There is nothing I can do about it because I feel toward the aunt who raised me just like any kid would feel toward his own mother. And I don't honestly feel anything extra special for my real mother who I thought was just another aunt.

I guess what I want to say it this: Please tell people if they have a secret like this in their family, it's best to tell the kids before they hear it from strangers. HURT AND IN A FOG

DEAR HURT: Excellent advice!

DEAR ABBY: In reply to LARRY'S GAL, you wisely pointed out that gambling can become an addiction as serious as liquor and tobacco.

That caused me to recall the words of Dr. George S. Stevenson, a medical consultant to the National Association for Mental Health:

"Many people come to adult life suffering from a feeling of inadequacy about themselves, and a feeling of uncertainty about life in general. Unable to meet the demands of life, they may develop neurotic symptoms, take to alcohol or narcotics, or turn to compulsive gambling, which permits them to avoid reality—one turn of a card, one spin of the wheel can make everything come out all right—they hope.

ARTHUR H. PRINCE

CONFIDENTIAL TO LISA: I don't think he was "confessing." I think he was BRAGGING. (Or, possibly, lying.)

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In this charity-game hand, South will wind up playing in two, three or four hearts. The bidding in the box shows one way to get to four.

All Wests will open with the king of diamonds and probably shift to a club at trick two. South will win, lead his jack of diamonds and get to discard his losing spade on the diamond queen.

Those West players who make the superior shift to a spade will collect a spade trick and their top diamonds.

In all cases South will get to lead the singleton heart from dummy. A few will finesse the nine and wind up losing just one heart trick. Those who finesse the jack will have to lose two heart tricks.

A few South players get top scores by making four hearts doubled. They did not get the spade shift, and when they got around to leading trumps they decided the doubler held K 10 x x and took the nine-spot finesse.

Most Wests who found the spade lead at trick two held declarer to eight tricks and were plus 100 against four hearts, plus 50 against three and minus 110 against those who only got to two.

All in all, any plus score either way was above average.

PRISCILLA'S POP

DENNIS THE MENACE

FUNNY BUSINESS

IN REHEARSAL—Brenda Otto, who will portray the role of Beatrice in "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" at WTC, is shown during a rehearsal. The setting for the play is the house where Beatrice and her daughters live with an elderly invalid, Nanny, and Beatrice is as powerless to leave the confines of the house as is Nanny.

Teacher Finds Role In Play Enjoyable Venture

"High school kids — they're a captive audience. The people out there (a theatre audience) — that's a different challenge."

Snyder High School teacher Brenda Otto seems to be thoroughly enjoying her latest venture out of her English classroom by doing something as "simple" as assuming the lead in the Western Texas College fall theatre production.

Besides keeping up with senior class themes, graduate study, a new home on display and an active nine-year-old son, Mrs. Otto is now putting in two to three hours nightly preparing for her Nov. 15 debut as Beatrice Hunsdorfer in "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds."

"I like the play. I really do. I think there are a lot of Beatrices in the world. That's a miserable existence. She has the ability but she doesn't have enough faith in herself to get out and do something," says Mrs. Otto.

"Marigolds" concerns a middle-aged widow who emotionally abuses her two teen-aged daughters, Tillie and Ruth. One daughter discovers an exit from the situation through the concern of a teacher while the other remains trapped in Beatrice's despondent lifestyle.

"You see a lot of Tillies and Ruths. I see them in my classroom — the Ruths who want so much to be liked and the Tillies who have the potential to do something with their lives but need a little extra push, usually from a teacher," says the six-year veteran of Snyder High School.

"I have a busy life already. Giving up four hours every night is hard for me. It's hard where my family is concerned. It is hard where I am concerned physically. But it's very seldom that someone comes to you and says, 'We want you.' That gives you a good feeling."

Mrs. Otto herself graduated from Snyder High School and then attended Sul Ross State University where she received a Bachelor of Science Degree as well as her Master's Degree. She has majors in English, history, and education.

"I like literature. English and history are so intertwined. Writers of the age write about the problems of the age and that's what historians write about, too," she explains.

Mrs. Otto has drafted her husband, Mike, an instructor in the WTC science department, to help her learn lines.

"I know one (Western Texas College) faculty member who's coming to see this show every night — even if I have to tie him down!"

"The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds" premieres Nov. 15 and will be performed at 8 o'clock nightly on Nov. 16, 17 and 19. All performances are in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus.

Reservations for the show can be made by calling 573-8511, extension 233. Adult tickets are $3 and student tickets are $1.50.

Programs For Sr. Citizens Are Scheduled

The Sunshine Choir will present a musical program in the Senior Citizens Center before the noon meal on Thursday.

The choir is made up of Senior Citizens and is under the direction of Chuck Weatherford.

On Friday, Sandi Arnesman will present twirling routines before the luncheon. Miss Arnesman is a student at Western Texas College this fall and also teaches twirling classes. She has won numerous awards as a twirler.

All Senior Citizens are invited to visit the center, located at 2605 Avenue M, and to join in the activities there. The center is open each weekday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Gloria Shaw, director, reminds Senior Citizens that the center will be closed on Nov. 22 and 23 for the Thanksgiving holiday. A traditional Thanksgiving dinner will be served at noon on Nov. 20.

Day care center help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column in the Hong Kong Standard on changes in senility and I wish you would write about the concept in day care centers for persons such as the older husband that you described in your column. Believe me, the day care centers are a great blessing for the elderly and for the family caring for elderly people.

There are now some day care centers in the U.S. and many of your readers probably don't know it. Some of your readers could see to it that they're established in their own community.

This is a great blessing for the family caring for an elderly person as it gives them some time to look after their own needs.

DEAR READER — I'm all in favor of day care centers for elderly people who need to be supervised or in a supportive environment.

I'd also like to remind people that not everyone who appears to be senile has irreversible changes in the brain. Many people who have such symptoms do have medical problems which need attention. That's why such individuals should be examined by a neurologist.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 14-2, The Aging Mind. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. In addition, as a person gets older, there are things that can be done to help improve and maintain function. Some of these ought to be started at an early age, such as memory training exercises.

I'm particularly glad that you asked about day care centers because I wish every community would develop them for their elder citizens. There's no reason that such centers can't be established by the members of the families in fair-sized communities on their own as a cooperative effort.

Also many older people need things to do. Being active helps keep them functional and enables them to enjoy life more. That's why a lot of older people who have trouble getting jobs could certainly do volunteer work in such centers to help people who are less fortunate than themselves.

Such cooperative efforts on the part of the public to establish services that help themselves, would do a lot to relieve some of the burden for caring for older people in our society. In short, those who are able ought to still try to do something to help even if it's on a volunteer basis. In the long run they may be the recipient of such care.

I also think that older people working in such centers might be more considerate of other older people than others since they can see that in the future, they, too, might need that kind of help and attention.

Some people who are thought to be "senile" really are depressed. Depression is one of the most common causes of curable disorders that are mistakenly called senility. Staying involved and feeling needed is one of the best defenses against depression. That is another good reason for active older people who can to work in such centers to help others.

Local Posses Win Trophies

The Scurry County Sheriff's Posse, both the senior and junior divisions, won first place statewide parade trophies this past weekend in Austin.

Members of the Sheriff's Posse report it is the fourth year for the senior division to win the trophy.

Members also reported the Sheriff's Posse will meet tonight at the Posse Hut off West 30th St. The meeting time is 7:30 p.m.

Klan Has Grown, Says B'nai B'rith

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ku Klux Klan, aided by a younger and more violent leadership, has grown over the past decade but is not a threat to American society, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith said in a new report.

The league said membership in Klans in 22 states had increased from 8,000 to 10,000, and the number of Klan sympathizers grew from 30,000 to 100,000.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

A minor traffic accident was investigated Monday morning by city police.

The mishap occurred at 10:17 a.m. in the 2600 block of Ave. R and involved a 1973 Ford pickup driven by Z.W. Davis and a 1975 Ford driven by Cindy Drake.

The accident was investigated by officers Don Cheek.

For every way to use electricity in the kitchen, there's a way to use it more efficiently.

Keeping your heating and cooling costs down are the biggest ways to save electricity, but there are lots of little ways, too.

Your kitchen is a good place to start. Here are a few ways to save.

Use flat-bottomed pans. The flatter the pan the better its contact with the cooking unit. A tight-fitting lid on your pan will reduce cooking time.

Use less water. By cooking vegetables with the least amount of water possible, you'll improve their appearance and nutritive value, and you'll save electricity.

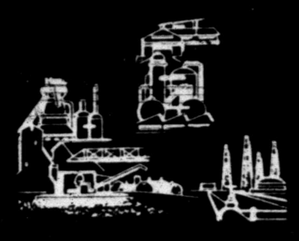

Reduce cooking time. Thaw meats before cooking them. This will save cooking time and energy.

Make efficient use of your oven's heat by cooking several foods at the same time.

Use your oven timer and keep the oven door closed. Opening the door unnecessarily causes heat loss and extended cooking time.

Get our free booklet, "Tips To Help You Use Electricity More Efficiently Throughout Your Home." Copies are available in our office or you can request one on the comment portion of your electric service bill.

Alexander Can Control Winter Weeds, Rodents, and Termites

There are three things that inevitably show up this time of the year—cold weather, winter weeds and rodents.

There's not much any of us can do about the first one, but Craig Alexander of Alexander Pest Control can take care of the last two for you if you call him at 573-7133.

According to Alexander, winter weeds begin to germinate as the temperature drops. Weed seedlings emerge from November through January but remain small and unnoticeable until January or February.

This means applying preemergence herbicides right now, and Alexander can apply granular materials with a drop type applicator or custom spray with a liquid.

As it gets colder outside and you find more and more mice keeping warm in your home, call Alexander Pest Control. He offers monthly service, and fees run from $10 and up depending on location.

Alexander, who is fully insured and licensed by the state to handle general pest control, termite control, weed control, fumigation, and lawn and tree problems, can do most pruning also.

Deciduous trees and shrubs, vine ground covers and evergreens probably could be pruned right now.

Alexander can fertilize your lawn, sterilize residence, business or farm soil and solve most weed problems.

And, if termites are a problem, he can solve it. If they are a potential problem, he can prevent it.

Alexander recommends that anyone thinking about building or adding on consult him. He can pre-treat the soil before you pour the cement and save you the worry of termites ruining your new home, office building, or addition.

According to Alexander, anybody thinking of buying or selling should certainly check for termites. Termite infestation reports are available for VA, FHA or conventional home sales.

Odor control is another service Alexander offers, and one which can come in handy should a skunk decide to house under your home, or a fire leave a strong smoke odor.

He now offers a monthly pest control service for businesses, and can use a product that is odorless and will not be offensive to customers.

Although Alexander Pest Control is a one-man operation, with Craig's wife Andrea handling the book work, Alexander promises prompt and fast service.

"Ordinarily the same day the call comes in, we can take care of it," he says.

Even with Craig Alexander's four years of experience in pest control he can't get rid of the cold weather, but if the winter weeds or rodents that come with it are a problem for you, give him a call at 573-7133.

Robinson Says Energy Saving Water Heater Good Investment

Did you know that November is National Water Heater month? It is, and for a good reason.

An energy conserving water heater is an investment that will pay annual returns.

So says Rob Robinson, owner of Robinson Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning, 2204 25th. Robinson said that an energy conserving water heater costs more than an ordinary water heater, but has features designed to save either gas or electricity... whichever the homeowner prefers as his energy source.

He stated that an energy conserving water heater costs anywhere from $70 to $140 more than an ordinary water heater, depending on the model and size selected.

"However, the annual return on this extra dollar investment can be 33 percent or more," Robinson said.

This return comes back to the consumer in the form of annual energy savings, the amount of which varies from community to community, depending on the local cost of natural gas or electricity.

In many cases, putting the money into a water heater like the A.O. Smith Conservationist energy saving model, can be better than putting the money in a bank.

"The advantage of a bank, of course, is that you can always withdraw the money. However, the annual return is ordinarily about 6 percent, and is taxable," Robinson said.

"The Conservationist water heater, on the other hand, can pay back as much as six times the amount received from a bank...and you don't have to pay taxes on the savings."

In addition, these energy conserving water heaters carry a 10-year warranty, as against the five-year warranty of an ordinary water heater.

What achieves energy saving?

Such things as thicker insulation, more efficient burners, and overall design.

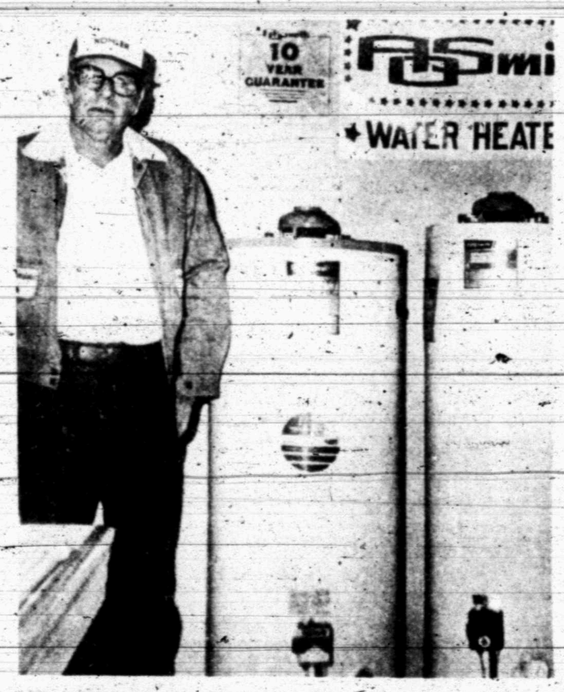

In addition, according to Robinson, the A.O. Smith Conservationist gas model has what is called a Thermogard dip tube, which actually provides more usable hot water.

Tests conducted show that the Thermogard dip tube actually provides 30 percent more hot water from the same tank, than you receive from an ordinary water heater.

Robinson pointed out that more and more homeowners are becoming conscious of energy use in their home. He said that the water heater is getting increasing attention, since it is the second largest energy user in the home. The largest user of energy is the heating system.

"Energy conserving water heaters have been on the market for some time, but it is only because of current rising prices of energy that they have become more popular.

"They are an idea whose time has come," Robinson concluded.

WATER HEATER MONTH--Rob Robinson of Robinson Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning is celebrating National Water Heater Month, but you get the benefits. An energy conserving water heater is an investment that will pay annual returns. (SDN Staff Photo)

Philadelphia Zaps Dallas...

Eagles Lower Pokes A Notch

IRVING (AP)—Looking at Tony Franklin, you wouldn't think he and his Philadelphia Eagle teammates had just beaten Dallas for the first time since 1974.

And you sure wouldn't think Franklin had booted a monster field goal of 59 yards, second longest in National Football League history, on the way to the 31-21 victory.

His head hanging amid the hand-slapping, shouting jubilation of the locker room, Franklin said: "Poor. That's all I can say. I made one I wasn't supposed to, and missed two that I was."

While Franklin was being sullen, Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil was enjoying his first victory over Cowboy Coach Tom Landry and the game ball his players awarded him.

"This (the game ball) is the most meaningful thing that ever happened to me," Vermeil said "you see, this didn't just happen overnight."

Holding court from a perch on top of an equipment box, Vermeil said his team "realistically is going for a wild card spot."

The Eagles and the Washington Redskins trail Dallas in the National Football Conference Eastern Division by one game with 7-4 records.

Vermeil said Franklin's towering 59-yarder was the product of a committee. "Tony told me he could make it, so I told him okay, so go do it."

Stunned by a Dallas touchdown in the opening 61 seconds, the Eagles didn't play favorites in coming back to win.

Dallas used just three plays to get on the scoreboard with the payoff coming on a 48-yard Roger Staubach pass to Tony Hill.

Quarterback Ron Jaworski evened things up after Tony Dorsett fumbled the ball away to the Eagles.

Jaworski spotted Giant tight end Harold Carmichael in the end zone for a 32-yard touchdown that tied the score.

A few plays before, Carmichael had gathered in a third-down pass to mark the 107th straight game in which he has caught a pass, extending his own record.

Jaworski departed late in the second period with a wrist sprain, but was to return in the second half.

In the meantime, backup John Walton managed to stretch the Philadelphia lead with a 29-yard touchdown pass to Charlie Smith, who recorded his first TD reception of the year.

Franklin's club record 59-yarder followed to make the score 17-7 at halftime.

The third quarter saw Philadelphia open up its ground game behind steady Wilbert Montgomery, who became the first Eagle runner to record back-to-back seasons of 1,000 yards. Montgomery finished the night with 127 yards and one touchdown on 25 carries.

Behind Montgomery's rushing, the Eagles found themselves at the Dallas 13, and Jaworski again found Carmichael towering Aaron Mitchell in the end zone for a touchdown.

The Cowboys tried to make a game out of it late in the final quarter.

Staubach again hooked up with Hill, this time for a 75-yard touchdown.

Fighting the clock as well as the Eagles, Staubach managed to strike for another touchdown on a 5-yard pass to Billy Joe Dupree that brought the Cowboys to within three points at 24-21.

An onside kick failed and the Eagles faced a third and two situation at the Dallas 37. Montgomery slid along the jammed center of the line and broke off left end of a touchdown, sealing the game.

Tigers Title Hunting; Try Tornados Tonight

LAMESA—Coach Joyce Elrod's varsity volleyball team has a district playoff berth clinched if necessary, but the Tigers would just as soon wrap up a fourth consecutive 3-3A championship here tonight, thank you.

"Oh, definitely," assured the coach. "We'd like to have district behind us and not hanging over our heads. We'd like to have two reasons to celebrate tonight!"

The second reason, or the first if we put them in order of game time, would be an undefeated season for Snyder's junior varsity. The underclassmen, upon learning that the best previous record included only one loss, have put it upon themselves to better that.

"A lot of people laughed at them at first," said Elrod, who admitted she was a little doubtful too at the first of the season. "But now that they are so close, everybody has gotten behind them."

The junior varsity comes into tonight's 6:30 game with an amazing 30-0 record. The varsity, at 26-6, is nothing to take lightly, either.

"I think we're mentally up for it," said Elrod, who allows playing in Lamesa is always tough for the Tigers. "We've been holding extra workouts ... doing all we can to prepare for playing over there."

Getting special treatment has been the Tiger back and front line defense. The girls have also been put under tonight's expected conditions -- smaller gym, partisan crowd -- during practice.

"I think they go around in buses picking people up to go to the game over there," Elrod laughed, though almost seriously. "I'm sure they'll pack 'em in for this one.

"If the breaks go our way -- hopefully we can make them do that -- I feel like we can beat them over there though," she added. 'I believe our girls feel that way, too. There's not anything more to be done now. Either we can do it or we can't."

Should the Tigers win the 7:30 bout, they would clinch their fourth straight district title. If not, Snyder and Lamesa would schedule a district playoff for the near future.

Tickets for the doubleheader are $1 and 50 cents. Both games will be played at Lamesa High School Gym.

WTC Classic Begins Here Thursday Night

Western Texas College will host its annual WTC Classic at Scurry County Coliseum Nov. 15, 16 and 17, with games at 7 and 9 Thursday and Friday, and 6 and 8 on Saturday.

Tickets for the tournament are $5 for a three-day adult pass, $3 for a three-day student pass, $2 for a one-day adult pass and $1 for a single-day student pass.

The action opens at 7 p.m. Thursday with the University of Juarez playing South Plains. At 9, WTC's Westerners entertain Sul Ross.

Friday's fare pits Sul Ross versus South Plains at 7, followed by Juarez against the Westerners at 9.

Saturday, Juarez and Sul Ross take the floor at 6, while WTC and South Plains give a pre-conference look at the WJCAC at 8.

The WTC Classic is sponsored by the chamber of commerce.

Dusters Want Fourth; Host Weatherford, 6 p.m.

Coach Joe Cushing and his Western Texas College Dusters go for win No. 4 tonight at 6 in the WTC gym.

The Dusters, 3-0, will be hosting familiar foe Weatherford College. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Should the Dusters win tonight, they would reverse last season's beginning record, which was 0-4.

According to Cushing, his Dusters will not be able to ride an earlier 67-57 victory over Weatherford again tonight.

"Weatherford has a good ballclub. They are as tough as anybody we'll play," he noted. "No, we can't look past Weatherford. We're going to take it one game at a time. We can't give up anything to them."

The visitors possess 6-2 and 6-1 inside height, and shoot well from outside, added the coach. "Defensively, we'll try to do the same things as always, only not foul as much," said Cushing. "Anytime you give a team 24 points from the free throw line, you're giving up a lot.

"I look for them to run a zone defense. We'd like them to play man, but I'm sure they won't. We're quicker than they are, so I'm sure they'll keep it in a zone. We'll have to get some movement, penetrate and make some things happen tonight."

As Weatherford found out earlier in the season, the Dusters have a lot of talent of their own. Nine individuals put points on the board against Temple JC earlier this week. Shari Teal, Jennifer Gregg and Linda Holubec led point-wise against Temple and Texas Tech, but earlier against Weatherford, it was sophomores Joyce Plagens, Katie Fisher and Liz Hooper who filled the basket.

"Our scoring has got to the point where it is real balanced," allowed Cushing. "We're having good balanced scoring and good, balanced rebounding."

The Dusters average 51.3 percent from the floor and 76.3 from the stripe while scoring an average of 72.3 points a game and allowing 66.

Bowl Deals Are Starting

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Bowl negotiating between the universities of Oklahoma and Nebraska is apparently in full swing, as the Saturday deadline for the announcement of post season bowl invitations nears.

Coach Barry Switzer said Monday he talked to Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne that morning. He also admitted a proposed agreement that could keep the Sooners out of the Sugar Bowl doesn't bother him.

Babe Ruth won or tied 12 times for the American League home run title.

Akers Thinking Cotton Bowl Still

AUSTIN (AP)—Coach Fred Akers of Texas is still thinking Cotton Bowl even though the odds are against this squad winning the Southwest Conference football title and host spot in the bowl.

Asked about Texas' bowl chances, Akers told his weekly news conference Monday, "We've seen several bowl representatives, but right now the only bowl bid we're concerned with is the Cotton Bowl."

Eight-ranked Texas upset No. 5 Houston, 21-13, Saturday to scramble the Cotton Bowl picture.

Texas, Houston and Arkansas each have one loss with games yet to play, and Texas has the tougher schedule -- facing Texas Christian and Baylor at home and Texas A&M on the road.

A three-day tie would boost Arkansas into the Cotton Bowl as Texas and Houston have played in the post-season game since Arkansas.

Texas would go to the Cotton Bowl only if Arkansas should lose to Texas A&M or Southern Methodist and Texas should win its three remaining games.

"Nothing is less important now than the Houston win," said Akers. "That's over and gone with," said Akers.

Nevertheless, he said "That was probably the most complete ball game we've played."

He said the upcoming game with Texas Christian, 2-6-1 for the season, "will require our full attention. They're acting like they want to win."

Ohio State Jumps To 2nd; 'Bama Hangs On At 1st

By The Associated Press

Ohio State's freshman football coach, Earle Bruce, won't admit he is eyeing No. 1, but the national title loomed closer for the Buckeyes today.

Bruce and his Buckeyes have moved from third to a close second behind Alabama in The Associated Press college football poll, with Nebraska dropping to third from the runnerup spot.

"I can't say I ever thought about being No. 1," said Bruce, whose Buckeyes clobbered Iowa 34-7 last Saturday and face a tough Big Ten Conference test next weekend against Michigan. "I have thought about being 10-0. I never thought about being 0-10."

In balloting by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters announced Monday, the 10-0 Buckeyes received 14 first-place votes for 1,218 ponits. Alabama, which eked out a 3-0 victory over Louisiana State Saturday night, had 34 top votes and 1,262 points.

It takes more than optimism!

The farmer/rancher is an eternal optimist. He must be— to contend with such imponderables as weather, prices and costs.

Yet, it takes more than optimism in today's high cost agriculture. It takes an organization the farmer/rancher knows he can count on. Farm Bureau is such an organization. That's why four out of five farmers in the nation are members of Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau works for agriculture on three broad fronts—

1. TO INCREASE ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY—Through effectiveness in Public Affairs policy development & legislative activities.
2. TO STRENGTHEN FARMERS' COMPETITIVE POSITION IN MARKETPLACE—Through marketing programs, commodity activities, market expansion.
3. TO CONTROL PRODUCTION COSTS—Through group purchasing of tires & batteries, insurance protection, fire, life & casualty, group insurance, medical care.

COLLEGE

sents a two-year increase since the college was able to renew early last year and avoid a 10 per cent rate hike. At the present, the college pays the bulk of the group insurance premium for professional employees.

The board also briefly discussed the 10th Anniversary celebration scheduled for Nov. 18. An open house at 1 p.m. will precede formal ceremonies beginning at 3:30 p.m. Guest speaker will be Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls.

LENNOX IS MAKING A LOT OF OTHER HEAT PUMPS OBSOLETE.

HP10 Energy Saver Heat Pump

EFFICIENCY — The HP10 is our most efficient heat pump yet! In cold weather it takes solar heat from outdoor air to deliver up to 3¢ of heat for every 1¢ of energy used. In warm weather the HP10 air conditions your home with Energy Efficiency Ratios* over 8.0—far better than past heat pump industry performance.

DEPENDABILITY — The HP10 is built with our most dependable components. You not only get economical heating and cooling, but the durability and long life Lennox equipment is known for. The HP10's indoor partner, the CBP10, is a specially matched coil/blower unit that ensures maximum performance and efficiency.

SERVICE — As an independent Lennox dealer, we provide fast, effective service. We're experts — you can count on us to install and service your equipment right. Call or visit us, the energy savers at the indictments allege.

Also indicted yesterday was Ricky Rios for aggravated assault. Rios, 3010 Ave. E, is alleged to have pulled a gun on Luther Williams and threatened him. The incident was reported to have taken place Oct. 20.

Lorenzo Rodriquez Larralde Jr. was named in an indictment charging him with burglary of a vehicle. Larralde, 2111 Ave. X, is alleged to have broken into a car Oct. 21 owned by Alfonso Juarez.

Named in indictments of driving while intoxicated were Rogelio Cantu, Earnest Forest, Ollie Pike, Juan Armando Hernandez (2), Pedro Torres Jalomos, Ramon Lopez Valadez, Antonio Garcia Velasquez, and Stephen Dale Shoemake.

The grand jury neither indicted nor no-billed (refused to indict) two persons. Their cases were passed over. They involved Jeanette Newby on an assault charge involving her 16-year-old daughter and a complaint against James Alexander Faulkner.

Faulkner is alleged to have acted with his mother, Sue Wood, in interfering with child custody in an incident involving his 6-year-old daughter. The case against Ms. Wood, however, was not presented to the grand jury yesterday, and no action was taken in the Faulkner case.

The grand jury also returned four more indictments, but the individuals named in them have not yet been arrested.

Serving on the grand jury were Elizabeth Jenkins, Mickey Baird, Napoleon Braziel, June Boren, Delores Jones, Alvin H. Wimmer, Mrs. Harold A. Lacik, J. Scott Casey, Earnest Brandon, T.M. Deffebach, and R.C. Patton.

Clements Sees No Return To Rationing

AUSTIN (AP) Gov. Bill Clements' chief energy advisor said today he sees no need of a return to odd-even gasoline rations just because of the Iranian oil shutoff.

However, Ed Vetter, head of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Council, said the odd-even plan might be reinstituted if gasoline supplies get short next year as some expect.

"But not this week anyway," Vetter told reporters in commenting on California's return to odd-even rationing.

Vetter said his office is looking at the fuel situation in Texas "carefully and continually."

"The November allocation for gasoline is one percent below October but we are still getting about 93 percent of what we had last year at this time," he said.

He said his reports show there are "some very short lines at gasoline stations but most of these are those that are selling at discount prices. Motorists shop around and if they can get it 8 cents cheaper they will go there."

Wind Powered Cargo Vessel Begins Voyage

THOMASTON, Maine (AP)—After a rocky start, the nation's first wind-powered cargo ship in 40 years has begun its maiden voyage to haul lumber from Massachusetts to Haiti.

The 97-foot wooden schooner John F. Leavitt ran aground about a mile down the St. George River on Sunday and had to wait seven hours for the next high tide to clear the rocks and mud. The trip to Quincy, Mass., where the Leavitt will pick up its first cargo of oversized lumber, and then head to Haiti, is expected to take two days or more, at a rate of about 100 miles a day.

Theologian Dies

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The Rev. Warren A. Quanbeck, an internationally known Lutheran theologian and a member of the governing committee of the World Council of Churches, died Sunday of cancer at age 62.

Martin Luther, church reformer and translator of the Bible, nailed his 95 theses on the church door at Wittenburg in 1517. His original theses, directed against the sale of indulgences by the Dominican monk Johann Tetzel, were burned as heretical but translations survived and spread throughout Germany.
