Sewer Treatment Plant

Total renovation proposed

Since February of 1982, when Colorado City first received notification that the sewer treatment plant was unacceptable by state standards, City Manager Rick Crowley, Mayor Elmer Martin and the City Council have been examining the ways and means of bringing the plant within the acceptable guidelines.

In May, the city advertised for bids for an engineering service to study the problem, receiving five proposals by the early part of June; after considering the proposals, the Council selected the engineering consultant firm of Freese and Nichols, Inc. of Fort Worth.

Freese and Nichols presented the Council with five alternative methods of bringing the sewer plant up to state standards.

Two of the proposals were deemed "absolutely unacceptable" by the Council because of the cost involved.

Of the other three, the construction of a new oxidation ditch (race track plant) was found to be a very good way of handling waste but not cost efficient for Colorado

City while total expansion of the existing plant was found to be the least cost effective of the three, besides being complicated and entailing high operating costs.

The proposal accepted by the Council, termed total renovation of the existing plant, which is the one that will be financed by the passage of the bond election on April 2, was found to be the most cost effective as well as being tailored specifically for the needs of Colorado City.

Freese and Nichols prepared a historic and See SEWER, PAGE 2

BURNING HOME-The home of Ray White was engulfed in flames by the time fire fighters arrived. Firemen battled the blaze for nearly two hours.

Dockrey donates land to city

J. O. Dockrey, local businessman, presented Colorado City with a gift of about 15 acres of land at the last meeting of the city council.

The gift was accepted with thanks by the council.

The land lies along Lone Wolf Creek and is mostly west of the Austin Street bridge, although one lot is east of the bridge. It is the land once known as the "Hickman Estate" and was owned briefly by the city several years ago, when presented to the city by the Hickman heirs. The gift at that time had a reversionary clause in the deed which specified that if certain improvements were not made in a set time that the property would revert to the heirs.

The improvements were not made and the land did revert to the Hickman heirs.

Contrary to reports published at that time, the land did not link up with Ruddick Park. Several acres of privately owned land lie between the two tracts.

Dockrey says that there will be no strings attached to his gift, except "The land is to be used as a park."

"There is no time limit," he said "and no reversionary clause."

White home destroyed in blaze

Monday morning at 1:12 a.m. the Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department answered a call of a house fire at the Ray White residence at 151 Temple Street.

Firemen fought blazes for nearly two hours, but not before the fire had destroyed everything inside the house. There was no one inside the residence when the fire started. According to Fire Marshall L. O. Schafer, the possible cause of the fire was the electrical wiring in the walls. Two family pets, a dog and a cat were lost in the blaze.

Liquor petition completed

According to Deputy County Clerk Emma Williams, the petition calling for an election to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages for off-premises consumption in Precinct 3 only has been turned in to the county clerk's office with 326 signatures, 95 more than were actually needed.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Burnett had earlier stated their intention to get more than the required 231 signatures in case some of the signers were disqualified for some unforeseen reason.

The next step in bringing the issue to election is for the signatures on the petition to be verified as those of registered voters in Precinct 3 who voted in the last gubernatorial election. This will be done in the county clerk's office.

After that, the petition will be presented to the Mitchell County Commissioners' Court to decide on the date of the election; the next Commissioners meeting will be on Monday, March 14.

Wadley gets 20 years for aggravated rape

Jacque Wadley, 25, of Colorado City, was convicted of aggravated rape by a Mitchell County jury, Friday night, and sentenced to 20 years in the state penitentiary. Wadley had been charged with the rape of an 18 year old Colorado City woman behind the vacant Agri-Supply building on U.S. 80, on June 23.

The victim was not able to make a positive identification and the damaging evidence in the case were confessions given by Wadley to polygraph operator Byron Deal of Abilene and to Colorado City police.

The two confessions were not similar and Wadley testified that he was under pressure when he gave them.

The case was heard before 32nd District Judge Weldon Kirk. Court appointed attorney Frank Conard defended Wadley. District attorney Rusty Carroll was the prosecuting attorney.

Shackelford and Hunter attend meet

Precinct Two Commissioner Johnny Shackelford and Precinct Three Commissioner Paul Hunter attended the 25th Annual County Judges and Commissioners Conference sponsored by Texas A&M in College Station on February 22, 23 and 24. The theme of the conference was "Responsible County Leadership Through Education."

Governor Mark White and Attorney General Jim Maddox appeared at the conference, along with Debra Shaw and Tom Neilson of the State Comptroller's office.

Hunter said that it was a "really good conference," adding that some of the subjects covered included bud-

The week of March 7-11 has been proclaimed Clean Up Week by Loraine Mayor Royce Beights.

Lemons runs for hospital board

Bobby Lemons

A vice president at City National Bank, Bobby Lemons has filed again for a place on the Hospital Board of Directors.

"I'm very proud of the medical facilities that we have," he said. "I want to see that we continue to have the best medical facilities possible for a community our size."

He continued, "There are some things I think we need to look at in the long range and that's one of the reasons I'm running again-to see if I can have an input into completing some projects."

Lemons concluded, "I do think that the hospital board has a responsibility to the taxpayers to see that the money that is spent is spent wisely. I think we need to be conscious of keeping the tax rate as low as possible."

He is a member of both the Mitchell County Industrial Development Board and the Colorado City Industrial Team and is chairman of the latter. Lemons also serves as chairman of the Mitchell County Tax Appraisal District Board of Review. He belongs to the Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis Club and is past president of both.

He and his wife, Jan, have two children in school (Robert, age 15, and Blaine, age 13) and one married daughter, Dawn. They are members of the First Baptist Church.

Crowley said that the expected life of this plant would be 20 years.

According to Crowley, the improvements to the treatment plant that will be made with the $750,000 available if the bond issue passes are:

- Total renovation of the existing trickling filter plant (all mechanical equipment will be replaced with new equipment while taking advantage of the concrete structures which are sound and currently in place;
- Improvements to the raw sewage pump station;
- Total renovation of the trickling filter (new mechanisms and rock media);

- Total renovation of the clarifiers;
- Renovation of the digester (a bond election in 1975 replaced the cover on the digester and Crowley said that it is still in good shape and will be utilized);
- Construction of new sludge drying beds;
- Restructuring of drying beds currently in use so that removal of sludge can be accomplished with a front-end loader instead of the time-consuming manual method;

- Some modifications to the equalization pond and transfer pond;
- Construction of a new transfer line from the plant to the oxidation lagoon, which will also be constructed;
- Purchase easements and 13.2 acres plus a 20 year flood easement on 80 acres;
- Engineering, inspection and testing.

For food stamp abusers Stiffer penalties to be enforced

Beginning April 1, people who abuse the food stamp program will face stiffer penalties, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Marcy C. Jarratt said. "Under this new policy, individuals found guilty of a third food stamp offense will be permanently barred from the program," Jarratt said. Those found guilty of two offenses will be barred for one year and those who abuse the program a first time will not receive food stamps for six months. Jarratt said, "We are determined to safeguard the food stamp program by going after the people who are abusing the program. States in the Southwest Region of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service have taken several measures to intensify enforcement of Food Stamp regulations, Jarratt said. These states, Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, have beefed up investigative staffs, put the computer to work searching out cheaters and channeled increased federal funding to local jurisdictions to encourage enforcement. The penalties will apply to all individuals regardless of whether they are determined guilty of food stamp abuse at state or local administrative disqualification hearings or in courts of law, Jarratt said. They also apply to individuals who make false or misleading statements, conceal or withhold facts, make other misrepresentations or commit any act that violates a state food stamp law. The new rule will make it easier for states to collect overpayments from households. Currently, only the disqualified individual is responsible for repaying fraudulent overissuances. Under the new rule, the household will have the option of repaying the overissuance in cash, with food stamp coupons or through a reduction in its monthly food stamp allotment. States may keep 50 percent of the amount collected on recipient fraud claims and 25 percent of the amount collected on inadvertent recipient error claims. These provisions are part of the 1981 Omnibus Reconciliation Act and the 1982 Food Stamp Amendments.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing to ask Colorado City area residents to do themselves and their neighbors a favor: check with the telephone company before digging near posted cable warning signs.

Last year, Southwestern Bell telephone cable repair costs in Texas totaled almost $5 million for more than 6,000 incidents of cable cuts and damage.

Sometimes, cable damage affects only a few people and can be repaired quickly. All too often, however, cable damage means loss of telephone service to major selections of cities or even entire communities. Cable cuts sometimes isolate hospitals, police and fire departments.

A large number of long distance transcontinental coaxial cables run through Texas. These cables daily carry vital long distance telephone messages and data communications to millions of businesses and people. When those cables are cut, long distance calls are routed in other ways if possible, but a jammed network can result, affecting many callers.

A suggestion for anyone planning digging activities: before plowing, building fences or terraces, installing sprinklers, landscaping or digging, please look for telephone company cable warning signs. Also, please watch out for aerial cable when working with tall equipment. The cable warning signs display a telephone number than may be called to notify the telephone company of any work planned near cable routes.

When we receive a call, we will promptly send someone to pinpoint the exact cable location. We do bill for damage to our cables, and the repair bills can be quite costly.

Please call before work begins near telephone cable. In Texas, ask the operator for the Enterprise 9800 number to report planned digging activities. If a sign is posted for AT&T Long Lines cable, the number to use is Collect (214) 824-4400.

A simple free phone call is the best insurance to help us protect the most convenient and reliable telephone network in the world.

Sincerely,
Jim West
Community Relations Manager

Auxiliary discusses remodeling

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Wilson Wyatt VFW Post 9178 held their meeting on Thursday, February 24, with Audrey Wilson presiding.

Programs for the month of March were presented and a check for one-fourth of the money raised during the project the program on February 12, was approved and will be mailed to the VFW-PAC Program.

It was also announced that several items were needed for the remodeled Post kitchen. Anyone wishing to donate any of the needed items may do so by taking them by the Post Home.

Those attending the meeting were Audrey Wilson, Martha Wilson, Mary Bell, Irma Ann Thomas, Emma Lee Hill, Ann Ingram, Estela Rivera and Virgie Mosley.

Medical care is topic of meeting

Medical care was the subject of the Self Culture Club when they met on Friday, February 18 in the home of Elizabeth Elliott. Mrs. Elliott's co-hostess was Della Fox.

Lil Brown discussed "Helps for coping with stress," stating, "Unfortunately, stress is part of almost everyone's life," and demonstrating some exercises that helped break down anxiety-caused dilemmas.

Dona Reed told the group that, although some rural areas still suffer from a doctor shortage, most towns of 2,500 are served by a physician and that medical care, including specialized care is becoming more and more available to smaller and smaller communities.

Pearl Watson's topic was "When you need medical care in a hurry."

Members present were Eddie Barclay, Fannie Beeman, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Fox, Ida Keith, Mrs. Reed, Linnie Williams and Mrs. Watson.

Information about your changing telephone service from Jim West, Community Relations Manager

Divestiture, FCC actions to affect cost of local service

Concern is being expressed today in many places that changes taking place in the telecommunications industry are going to create a rapid increase in rates for local flat-rate service.

Unfortunately, that's probably true. We've been saying for years that Long Distance revenues were subsidizing local rates. Because others were saying just the opposite, the public's confusion was understandable.

Now that the Bell System is being broken up, the handwriting is on the wall. Revenues from Long Distance will no longer be available to Southwestern Bell as they have been in the past to help keep local rates low.

Beginning this year, the company lost another important revenue contribution from the FCC's order that a separate subsidiary (American Bell) be set up to exclusively market telephone terminal equipment. Southwestern Bell may continue to sell the Bell System terminal equipment it had on hand at the beginning of the year. When it's gone, however, the company won't be able to sell Bell System-manufactured phones, PBX's, etc.

Services will need to be repriced

Therefore, virtually every service Southwestern Bell offers will be repriced to make each contribute sufficient revenue to stand on its own, profit-wise.

Local flat-rate service probably is the most under-priced service we offer, because of the generally accepted public policy that local rates should be kept as low as possible to encourage the development of "universal" service.

Virtually everyone who has wanted telephone service in recent years could afford a basic local service. Public policy has now shifted to de-regulation, with competition expected to provide the impetus to take advantage of the fruits of the ever faster technological race.

Long Distance bargains come in minutes, too

Long Distance service may be the first to realize the benefits of true competition in the industry, with rates almost sure to go down once subsidies for local service are withdrawn.

But Bell Long Distance rates within Texas are already a bargain. Surprisingly, our research indicates most people overestimate the cost of an in-state call. Do you? Test yourself. What is the rate for the first minute of a Day-rate call dialed direct (1 +) from a non-coin phone, without tax, say from Amarillo to Brownsville? A. 42¢ B. 59¢ C. 73¢. Hint: It's the same from El Paso to Texarkana, Texas.

You don't have to turn the page for the answer. Or even turn the page upside down. It's A. Just 42¢. You can talk as long as you like at 42¢ for each additional minute.

That's one of the nice things about Long Distance. You can virtually tailor-make each call. You can pick the time, type and length of call which suits you and your pocketbook best.

Remember, if you have something to talk about, don't hesitate to drop me a line.

Deer population high

Statewide white-tailed deer populations in Texas are at their highest levels since 1965, according to data gathered by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The department's annual deer census completed in fall 1982 shows the herd has rebounded from the drought of 1980 and now totals an estimated 3.6 million animals.

Biologist Fielding Harwell said statewide deer populations apparently peaked in the early 1970s and remained at slightly over three million animals until dry range conditions caused a low count of 2.7 million in 1980.

However, Harwell warns that while higher populations are a welcome development in some regions, the habitat in others is again becoming overpopulated with deer.

A prime example of this is the Edwards Plateau west of Austin, where the population has increased from an estimated 1.3 million in 1980 to 1.5 million in 1981 and now is estimated at 1.8 million. "With deer populations in the Edwards Plateau reaching a nine-year high in 1982, high losses could occur during 1983 or 1984. This high density of deer cannot be sustained," Harwell said.

Harwell said high fawn survival rates in the Edwards Plateau enabled the populations to bounce back quickly from 1980, but the habitat is becoming over loaded. "This usually results in the deer being in poor condition, with low body weights and poor antler development," Harwell noted.

While the Edwards has the most deer of any ecological region of the state (about 50 percent), the South Texas brush country also is a major contributor to the annual harvest, particularly for trophy bucks. This region now supports an estimated 680,000 deer, which is the greatest number since the 1975 census which showed 698,000.

Other ecological areas which showed an increase in deer populations in 1982 over 1981 are: Gulf Prairies and Marshes, 249,000 to 270,000; Post Oak Savannah, 279,000 to 324,000; Blackland Prairies, 5,800 to 6,900, and the Cross Timbers and Prairies, 222,000 to 270,000.

Root Valley Fair Lodge

By PAM JARNAGIN

Our residents tell me "March has come in like a lamb and will go out like a lion." According to some, this always holds true and may be considered a word to the wise.

Many of our residents were farmers and our conversation turned toward Spring and planting. We discussed the custom of planting by the "signs." There were signs to do everything from weaning babies to cutting hair.

For example, when the sign Pisces is in the feet, it is time for planting and transplanting all crops that bear above the ground and all flowers; it is the second best sign for all root crops, the best sign being Capricornus in the knees. It is also the best for biddies (baby chicks) hatched for laying hens, pigs for brood sows, pulling teeth, marking hogs, pruning and setting out trees, fishing and weaning babies and animals.

It is fascinating to hear about and share in a small portion of our "roots."

Seeds presently being planted are in the participation of our volunteer council for summer activities and programs. The ideas were exciting and challenging. Many pleasant surprises are in store for our residents.

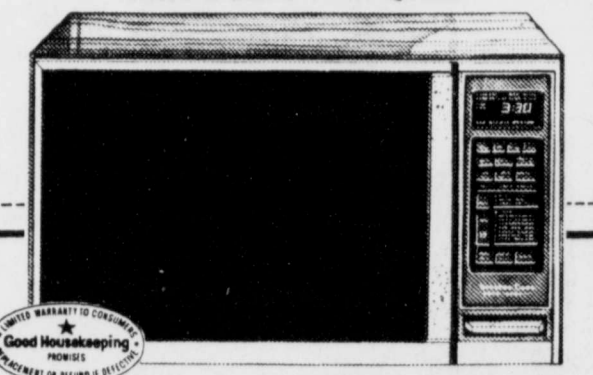

This week we are looking forward to our country and western band. Everyone is excited about it. They will be here at 6 p.m. on Thursday, March 3.

Russia's need for imported foods growing

Most discussions regarding the United States and Russia usually center on military strength. But in the crucial area of agriculture and the capacity of each country to feed its own people, Russia is in deep trouble.

"While our exportable food surplus is climbing, the Soviet Union's dependence on imported foods is growing," says Dr. Bill Black.

"This year Russia will import more than 40 million tons of grain, or nearly one-fourth of all the grain fed to Soviet people and livestock. About one-half of their grain imports will come from the North American breadbasket, mostly from the U.S.," says Black, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

By comparison, the U.S. will export about three times more grain than Russia's total imports, notes the economist.

Black describes the Soviet Union as a centrally planned economy in which the country's leaders annually plan that their agriculture will produce sufficient food to feed their people and livestock. However, each year their production continues to fall short by a growing amount, with bad weather generally blamed for the deficit.

With 3.7 million people in U.S. agriculture—of which 2.4 million are family farm managers—this nation produced twice as much grain the past year as the Soviet Union with its 26 million farm workers.

"Individual productivity and individual decision-making in the U.S. make all the difference in the world," emphasizes Black. "Our farmers respond daily to market signals and information; they are flexible, adaptive creatures."

In turn, the government makes all the decisions in Russia. Farm workers on collective farms customarily leave their tractors promptly at five o'clock regardless of the circumstances. "This clearly shows that the proprietary initiative of the U.S. farmer is missing," says Black.

As long as this situation exists, the Soviet Union will continue to depend heavily on other countries for its food and fiber supplies, notes the economist.

"The long line of ships that now connect American farms with Soviet dining tables constitutes a growing economic link between the two countries," says Black. "This eventually could affect their political relations as well."

Fires cost county over $15,000 in 3 months

Fires cost Mitchell County property owners $16,798 between July and September 1982 according to figures released by the State Fire Marshal's Office.

No one died or was injured in the 24 fires responded to by firefighters in Colorado City.

Fire departments participating in the Texas Fire Incident Reporting System reported 34 fire-related deaths statewide and 315 injuries during the third quarter of 1982, according to Lyndon L. Olson, Jr., Chairman of the State Board of Insurance, which oversees the State Fire Marshal's Office.

Property damage was estimated at $27.6 million across the state. The majority of all reported fire deaths (82 percent), fire injuries (81 percent), and property loss (78 percent) occurred in building fires, the report said. No firefighter deaths were reported.

About 190 fire departments are currently reporting through the system. The departments protect approximately 36.2 percent of the state population.

"According to national studies, there is a lower incidence of death and injury and a smaller dollar loss when someone's home is equipped with a smoke alarm," said Dennis Gissell, spokesman for the state fire marshal's office.

"The majority of structure fires don't have some detectors, resulting in higher personal injury and more deaths," Gissell said. "In my opinion, every room in the house should have one."

Gissell said the dollar loss is a ball park figure because some fire chief's use estimated insured cost and others go by the market value cost.

"This information will help the fire chief's spot trends of fires occurring in their towns. It will help in the prevention and suppression of future fires," Gissell said.

Lummus honored on birthday

After prayer meeting Wednesday night at the First United Methodist Church in Loraine, the pastor, Rev. Charlie Lummus, was really "surprised" when he found he was the "honoree" for a party: the day happened to be his birthday. On the sly, his wife Melinda had planned the affair.

She was assisted by Syble Walker in serving lime sherbet and green decorated birthday cake. Each one who wanted a piece of the cake, though, had to show off their vocal talent by singing "The Happy Birthday Song" to Rev. Lummus.

Enclosed in the birthday card was a love gift and he was told to go buy himself a gift of his liking, color and size.

Later, the young people of the church kept the party going by gaily decorating his car with placards and colorful streamers, which caused him a little effort in getting it back in shape, but was fun for all.

Those enjoying all this activity were Charlie Hamilton, Ralston Bruce, Bob Bruce, J. M.

and Ovada Templeton, Ruth Blair, Roy and Eva Wells, Mrs. J. D. Norman, Tommy Green, James Meadows, Jay Beaty, Shelli, Sheila and Georgy Martin, Lori and Lilah Lummus, Syble Walker and the honoree and hostess.

Is your heating/cooling system gobbling up too much money?

If electric bills are taking too big a bite out of your budget, consider equipment with a higher energy-efficiency rating. The higher the rating, the less electricity it takes to heat and cool your home. And using less electricity will help hold down your bill.

High-efficiency equipment costs more, but when the equipment qualifies, Texas Electric will give you a bonus check to help pay the difference. So if you're planning to install a room unit, or replace central air conditioning or a year-round heat pump, ask your dealer about equipment that qualifies for a bonus check from Texas Electric.

And put money back in your pocket.

Scouts prepare for future

Girl Scouting has opened new worlds of thought and action to nearly four generations of American girls. Today's Girl Scouts are preparing for the expanded roles women can play in society, discovering new worlds, and creating new roles.

Finding new worlds in Girl Scouting begins with the individual girl working at her own level and pace. Caring Girl Scout leaders help her gain the security to reach out to other people, find new interests, and accept new challenges.

For some girls, the new world they find in Girl Scouting is camping. They learn that outdoor living is a team effort. They observe nature to see the connection among all life forms.

Adults find new worlds in Girl Scouting too. Men, senior citizens, and even entire families are involved as short-term volunteers. Women with no paid work experience are discovering they have valuable skills and are learning to share them with others.

Girl Scout Week, March 6-12, gives us the opportunity to see the many ways Girl Scouting affects our world-for the better.
