REDS SAY MILLION NAZIS ARE DEAD

(By The Associated Press)

A Russian spokesman said late today that Adolf Hitler's invasion armies had lost nearly 1,000,000 men in dead and wounded in 16 days of blitzkrieg attack, and a Moscow communique declared Soviet Red troops had stemmed the Nazi onslaught along the entire front.

The Soviet spokesman, Vice Commissar of Foreign Affairs S. A. Lozovsky, estimated German casualties in the first 12 days at 700,000 and said the Germans' daily average loss was 60,000.

Lozovsky said the fighting was growing in fierceness, but that Russia felt no lack of manpower.

Previously, the Russians had estimated about 2,500,000 troops were thrown into the original attack on the USSR frontier.

Meanwhile, Hitler's high command was silent on reports that Nazi columns had "broken" the Stalin line—presumably in the Ukraine sector.

The official German news agency said Nazi troops in two weeks' fighting had captured nearly all the territory Russia acquired since Sept. 1, 1939—including the western Ukraine, western White Russia, Bessarabia, northern Bucovina, Lithuania and Latvia.

Territory Is Large

Altogether, the news agency said, the seized territory is larger than the Germany of the treaty of Versailles or about 182,000 square miles.

A Moscow bulletin said Russian defenders had driven the Germans back in five key sectors of the 2,000-mile batlefront.

The Soviet high command said Russian troops had seized the offensive in heavy fighting from the Baltic to the Black sea, smashing the Germans along the Berezina river and hurling back a Nazi drive aimed at the north flank of the Stalin line.

Line Said Broken

DNB (official German news agency) asserted German troops had "broken" the line, which runs 75 miles deep in some places. No details were given.

Equally vague, the Berlin radio said German columns had pierced the line at several points.

The Russians reported officially that the Germans were using

Nazi Targets In Flames

RAF Bombers Spread Havoc

(By The United Press)

LONDON, July 7 — British fighter and bomber squadrons today blasted at German war targets —including a big French airplane factory that was set afire near Amiens—in the heaviest sustained daylight offensive yet hurled at northern France.

The aerial attacks, which followed heavy night raids on the German Ruhr industrial area, struck along the coast in the Boulogne and Calais sectors and surged far inland to bomb objectives in Nazi-occupied France for hours.

Direct Hits Reported

The offensive began in the morning and continued late this afternoon in a cloudless sky through which British bombers roared in big swarms over the English channel. Pilots reported direct hits on the French airplane factory at Meaulte, near the French town of Albert. Three German and two British fighters were shot down, it was stated.

Heavy explosions were heard along the French coast during attacks on coastal targets or enemy shipping. All the German anti-aircraft guns along the coast from Calais to Boulogne seemed to be in action.

Strong forces of long-range bombers smashed during the night at Munster, Dortmund, Duesseldorf and Cologne in the Rhur, at the naval bases at Emden, in northwest Germany, and Brest, in France, and at Rotterdam, in the Netherlands, the air ministry said.

Rangers Step Into Case At Floydada

Negro Suspect Who Threatened Aged Pair Is Held Here; Houses In City Entered

Investigation of Lubbock ranger headquarters was resorted to this morning to supplement work of the Floydada sheriff's department in attempts to identify a 17-year-old negro as the person who appeared Friday night at the Floydada residence of an aged man and his wife and threatened them.

Footprints, officials said, and other clues left by the intruder matched the suspect being held.

Suspect Held Here

James P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff of Lubbock county, said the negro was being held in Lubbock county jail. Posey related the following story:

The negro appeared at a Floydada service station a few minutes after someone answering his description had gone to the aged pair's residence in the south fringe of Floydada.

He demanded to be let into the residence. The aged man had sold a cow for $50 that day. His wife answered the door knocks by asking who was there.

Tracks Were Barefoot

The man outside demanded that the husband open the door lest it be broken down and harm come to him.

"Get away or I'll shoot," the woman cried.

"Go ahead and shoot him," the husband called, awakened by the noise.

The intruder ran.

The woman had no gun.

Barefoot tracks left were found to match the size of the feet of the suspect held, officials said.

Neal Arthur, ranger, took possession of him after a Floyd county deputy had arrested the negro.

The deputy found the negro lying in the middle of the road. The negro, not knowing it was an officer who slipped upon him, jumped up with a threatening gesture, and the officer hammered him to the

Japan's Press Assails U. S.

(By The United Press)

TOKYO, July 7 — Japan's observance of the fourth anniversary of the start of the war with China was marked today by a vigorous and almost unanimous newspaper attack on the United States.

The newspapers generally took the tone that Japan has determined to defeat China despite United States "encirclement."

China Determined To Continue Resistance

CHUNGKING, China, July 7 (U.P.) —Quo Tai-Chi, Chinese foreign minister, said in a broadcast to the United States today that China was prepared to fight for four or 14 more years to win the war against Japan.

Speaking on the fourth anniversary of the Japanese attack on China, Quo said that China was confident because of increased American aid. He expressed the nation's gratitude to the United States.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, the Chinese leader, in a war anniversary message, said the European and Asiatic wars had become a single conflict in which anti-aggressionists were facing the aggressor nations and in which no nation could escape the conflict because the aggressors were determined to dominate the world.

DENVER, July 7. (AP) — Byron (Whizzer) White, Colorado All-America football star who played with the Detroit Lions professional team last fall, volunteered for enlistment with the marine corps but was rejected because of color blindness, the marine corps recruiting office disclosed today.

Car Accidents Take 18 Lives Over Holiday

5 Die In Planes, 4 Are Drowned, 3 Others Shot

(By The United Press)

Texas had completed another Fourth of July holiday today but more than a score of persons had died during the week-end celebration.

In the three-day period since midnight Thursday at least 30 persons died in automobile accidents and from other forms of violence. The death toll from automobile accidents stood at 18. At least four persons had drowned, five had died in airplane crashes and three others had perished in shootings. As yet, no deaths from fireworks had been reported.

Oil Man Is Killed

Harry A. Glenn, chief clerk for an oil company at Wichita Falls, was shot to death Sunday when he challenged a transient hijacker who had hidden in the shrubbery at his home.

Harold Carroon, Shelbyville, Ind., flying instructor at the Spartan School of Aeronautics, Tulsa, and his wife were killed in a head-on collision south of San Antonio in Atascosa county.

Jesus Moreal, 32, was killed in a truck collision at El Paso Sunday and Fred Nausman, 26, a soldier stationed at Fort Bliss, was killed in an auto crash near McCamey.

One Injured Fatally

Russell Bacon, 30, of Berkeley, Calif., construction engineer at the Phelps-Dodge Copper corporation smelter at Morenci, Ariz., was injured fatally and George T. Sloan, chief engineer on the project, was hurt seriously Sunday when their automobile overturned 80 miles west of El Paso.

Near Santa Anna, Miss Mary Beth Lesuere burned to death when the car in which she was riding skidded off the highway, overturned and caught fire.

Two Austin men drowned Sunday to raise the drowning total to four. Victor E. Hanning, 33, a

New National Lottery Planned Soon; Latest Registrants To Be Mixed With Old Draftees

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Selective service officials made plans today for a new national lottery, probably late this month, to determine the order in which 21-year old youths who registered July 1 will be integraled into the lists of older registrants by local boards.

Numbers of the new registrants, it was disclosed officially yesterday, will be fitted into the existing local number sequences according to the ratio of new names to old.

Thus if a local board had 500 older men on its list and 100 of the 21-year-olds registered, the number of a new registrant would be inserted after every fifth name on the list. Numbers drawn in the new lottery will be preceded by an "S." The holder of "S-1" in this board's area would become the sixth man on the list, the holder of "S-2" twelfth and so on.

Peru, Ecuador Clash In Undeclared War

South America's Peace Shattered By New Outbreak; Fifth Columnists Are Blamed

(By The United Press)

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, July 7 —Frontier dispatches reported today that Peruvian artillery was bombarding the Ecuadoran village of Haquillas as Ecuador and Peru engaged in undeclared war, shattering the peace of the western hemisphere.

Well-informed government quarters expected President Arroyo Rio to assume extraordinary powers to deal with the situation.

Ecuadoran Troops Holding

Official dispatches meantime denied earlier reports that Peruvian forces had occupied the frontier towns of Chacras, Balzalito, Buagillo, Aguas Verdes, Quebrad Seca and Catcabon. Ecuadoran troops were said to be holding out strongly at these points.

The newspaper El Universo charged that the hostilities were launched by "Fascist fifth columnists who operate with the Peruvian government."

"Never has our neighbor in the south been more aggressive toward us," said the newspaper. "This can be explained by the dominant influence of totalitarianism in Peru's internal politics and the desires of the enemies of democracy to disturb the defensive ac-

County's AAA Payments High

Seven Lubbock county farmers or landowners received $67,202.49, or an average of $9,600, for agricultural conservation and parity price adjustments in 1939, the Agricultural Adjustment administration told Congress this morning, the Associated Press reported from Washington.

They, together with amounts received, were reported as:

A. L. Cone, $5,847.25.
E. P. Ellwood, $10,555.31.
W. O. Fortenberry, $10,164.61.
Reid and Snyder, $5,062.65.
J. D. Slaughter, $8,613.25.
Texas Land and Mortgage Co., $19,307.84.
Maple Wilson, $7,651.58.

The report from Washington said farmers and landowners in Texas received more than 9,000 payments of $1,000 or more.

The state's figures were included among 43,454 payments reported to Congress, under provisions of the AAA requiring submission of names of all persons who received $1,000 or more.

Many Others Made

Additional millions of payments, the AAA said, were made in amounts below the $1,000 figure

Texas Senator Brands Radio Reports False

Proof Of Charges Asked; Statements Said Slanderous

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, July 7.—State Sen. Clem Fain of Livingston, today requested an immediate investigation of the recent special election for U. S. senator in Texas.

Fain telegraphed his request to Sen. Rudolph Weinert of Seguin, who is chairman of the state Senate's general investigating committee.

Empowered To Act

The committee was empowered to make such an investigation by a resolution of the Senate last week.

Fain said that his request for immediate investigation was due to national radio broadcasts Sunday night by Walter Winchell and Drew Pearson, together with Texas newspaper articles.

Fain stressed particularly a statement in the Pearson broadcast that 15 Texas senators held a meeting with liquor and brewery interests and decided that Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel must be elected senator.

Branded As Lie

In his telegram to Weinert, Fain called that statement a "dastardly lie" that reflects on all members of the Texas Senate. He called other broadcast statements "untrue and slanderous."

Fain urged the committee to call on Pearson to substantiate the charges, and said:

"I am not advised whether these broadcasts and newspaper articles are Washington-inspired but, regardless of their source, it is incumbent on the people of Texas to preserve the sanctity of their elections and to safeguard them from outside control."

Should Be At Once

Sen. Allan Shivers of Port Arthur, member of the investigating committee, said that he would telephone to Chairman Weinert during the day. Shivers said that if there is an investigation, it should be held promptly.

Other members of the investigating committee are Sens. Houghton Brownlee of Austin, A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris, and

Russia Massing People's Army Of Millions To Battle Germans

(By The United Press)

MOSCOW, July 7—S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, said today that Russia is enrolling a people's army "numbering millions" to reinforce the mobilized troops of the Red fighting forces.

Lozovsky said that the mobilization of the people's army already is under way at top speed.

Mobilization of the Red army, he said, still is in the partial stages but the new reserves will include all available manpower from 17 to 55.

From the people's army, he said, will be drawn fresh forces to reinforce the regular Red army.

Lozovsky said that large scale partisan warfare already is going on in the rear of German advance units.

He said that fighting is growing more and more bitter and asserted that the Red army "does not intend to give the enemy any breathing spell."

Famous Warden Of Sing Sing Will Give Up Duties July 16

(By The Associated Press)

OSSINING, N. Y., July 7. —On a bleak winter day 21 years ago an automobile bearing a grim-visaged passenger drove through the grounds of a great cluster of gray buildings on the Hudson river.

It was the Christmas season and although New Year's eve was near, the man in the car was far from gay.

He was Lewis E. Lawes and the scene was Sing Sing prison, where he was about to become the new warden.

His mission — to tame the riot-wracked prison where sometimes there were as many as 20 crush-outs a year—was a tough one, but the tall husky warden fulfilled it. Now, at 57, he is retiring.

Behind him is a record of 36 years of service in New York state penal institutions and 21 years at Sing Sing; ahead of him writing, lecturing and "many causes which

Move Made To "Thwart Any Nazi Aims"

Congress Informed Of Far-Reaching Step By Roosevelt

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 7. —Forces of the United States navy arrived in Iceland today.

In accordance with an understanding between President Roosevelt and the prime minister of Iceland, naval forces moved in to supplement and eventually replace British forces which have been stationed there to insure the adequate defense of that country.

Move Is Defensive

Mr. Roosevelt informed Congress in a special message of this far-reaching step in America's foreign policy.

Mr. Roosevelt said the United States could not permit "the occupation by Germany of strategic outposts in the Atlantic to be used as air or naval bases for eventual attack against the western hemisphere."

At the same time, he said this country had no desire to see any change in the present sovereignty of those regions.

Three Dimension Threat

Iceland was a sister kingdom of Denmark which eventually became virtually independent except for retaining allegiance to the king of Denmark.

After Germany overran Denmark, Iceland separated the last tie.

The United States already has taken similar steps to insure that Germany will not occupy Greenland.

Mr. Roosevelt told Congress that occupation of Iceland by Germany would constitute a serious threat in three dimensions:

"The threat against Greenland and the northern portion of the North American continent, including the islands which lie off it.

"The threat against all shipping in the North Atlantic.

"The threat against the steady flow of munitions to Britain—which is a matter of broad policy clearly approved by the Congress."

Strength Of Forces Unknown

There was no indication of just what naval forces had moved into

Jackson Under Tydings' Fire

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 7—Assailing the nomination of Robert H. Jackson to be an associate justice of the supreme court, Senator Tydings (D-Md) charged today the attorney general was "reached" before he declined to prosecute a criminal libel action at Tydings' request in 1939.

"This was what is known up in Tammany hall as 'getting to the court'," Tydings told the Senate when Jackson's nomination was brought up for confirmation.

Set Aside Libel Law

He claimed the attorney general had "set aside the libel law by administrative fiat" in refusing to press an action against Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, political columnists.

Before the judiciary committee last week, Tydings argued that Jackson was unfitted "by character, philosophy or judicial temperament" to be a member of the high court. The committee, however, approved the nomination unanimously.

Should Have Prosecuted

The Maryland senator argued that Jackson should have prosecuted for criminal libel Pearson and Allen, Washington columnists, after they made radio statements in 1939 that Tydings had obtained work relief labor for construction of a road and a yacht basin on his private estate.

Jackson replied that where civil courts remedies were available, he believed that criminal prosecutions of the character proposed might "constitute harassment not consistent with our support of freedom of the press."

The Jackson nomination was the only business before the Senate this week. The House idled today on minor legislation, but prepared to take up tomorrow a bill requiring deferment from the draft of all men who reached the age of 28 on July 1. The bill also would make it illegal to interfere with any person who wished to return to work in a strike-bound plant if the president had declared the plant necessary to national defense.

What Can Women Do For Defense? Plenty, Says Busy Mrs. J. B. Harriman

Ex-Minister Proves Words

BY MARIAN YOUNG
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 7.—Now is the time for every patriotic woman to stop saying, in plaintive tones, "But what can I do to help?"

There's plenty for her to do—right now.

You have this on the word of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, our former Minister to Norway, the energetic woman who, during Hitler's invasion of Norway, stood her ground, did her job of keeping the U. S. government informed as to what was taking place and didn't leave until the affairs of her high office were in good order.

"There are literally dozens of things that women can and should be doing," vivacious, white-haired, square-shouldered Florence Jaffray Harriman continued.

"She can go to her local Red Cross chapter and enroll for a course in first aid. Or join an Ambulance Corps and, incidentally, learn how to change a tire and repair a broken down ambulance motor, as well as how to drive the vehicle.

WORKING EXAMPLE OF WHAT SHE ADVOCATES

"She can write to the Nutrition Committee in Washington and request bulletins and pamphlets on their findings and advice regarding menus and ways to prepare food. She can go to the library and borrow books on low cost about nutritious meals. She can write to the food and health experts in her own city and ask for lists of necessary foods and their vitamin content.

"In other words, she can become a kind of minor food expert now. So that, later on, she will be able to serve health-giving meals to her family, in spite of food shortages. All too many cooks know too little about food and what it contains."

Mrs. Harriman drove an ambulance in the World War, and she knows motor mechanics as well as the intricacies of driving at night without headlights, finding the way across fields where no roads exist. At the moment she is serving on the newly formed Nutrition Committee, heading up the women's division of the Committee to Defend America and working with several organized charities. Her book, "Mission to the North," was published recently.

Mrs. Harriman stresses the importance of learning to do something before you join a committee, rather than afterward.

"The untrained woman is dead weight for any committee to carry. It's better to learn, then join and, by so doing, carry your own weight as a member instead of expecting a committee to do it for you."

Among organizations which, according to Mrs. Harriman, are prepared to direct women who are anxious to help is the American Women's Voluntary Services, with headquarters in New York and 73 branches in 20 states. Technicians will teach any woman who qualifies code practice, teleprinting and radio.

COURSES FOR WOMEN WHO WORK DURING DAY

For women who work during the day and cannot be taught in hospitals, there are home nursing courses. You can find out about these by writing to the head of your state university or the nearest large hospital. The Red Cross gives home nursing as well as first aid courses. Both are essential in an emergency.

Women's clubs can start nutrition classes for mothers. They can plan to have this summer's surplus food canned for next year's school lunches. They can collect money now for milk for school children later on.

Mrs. Harriman points out that it may not be as exciting for a women's club to worry about milk for the children of its own community as it would be to collect money for British war orphans or to adopt a couple of British children, but that it is just as important.

"We must not neglect our own American charities or our own children," our former Minister to Norway concluded. "We should give all we can to those less fortunate than ourselves, of course. But we must remember that numbered among the less fortunate are citizens of our own country as well as of foreign nations. We must not give all of our money or all of our time to one needy group to the utter exclusion of all others."

White-haired, energetic Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, former Minister to Norway, says that there are plenty of answers to the American woman's question-of-the-hour: "But what can I do to help?" Above, she presides at a meeting of one of the various committees on which she is serving these days.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

Girls are beginning to realize that it isn't necessary to have a husband in order to be as domestic as they please.

They have at last realized that a woman's desire for a home and having her own things about her needn't be squelched just because there is no man to share it.

And now that they are waking up to this fact, unmarried women are beginning to build more real and lasting back-grounds for themselves.

There is the extremely domestic young woman who, tired of furnished one-room apartments, took the plunge and bought herself a lot and built a little house on it. She figured she couldn't swing it on her job, so she rents one room to a couple of single girls, and she'll continue to rent that room until the house is paid for. Then it will be hers—all her own.

GOT BIG KICK OUT OF IT

Nothing she ever did in her life gave her quite the thrill of poring over house plans, and then going to work with sewing machine and paint brush to do an inexpensive, but inviting decoration job.

Another girl who likes living in an apartment decided there was no reason in the world why she couldn't pick out a sterling silver platter, just as a bride would, and let her friends and family know she would rather have silver for birthday and Christmas than anything else.

When she got her silver service together, she began on a set of lovely china, and today she is just as proud of the table she sets as any bride.

Still another young woman who had wished for years she had a place of her own so that she could have a flower garden woke up to why she couldn't have one.

THIS CITY GIRL WANTED A GARDEN

So she moved from her downtown apartment into one in a private home with a large, beautiful yard. She took the apartment with the promise that she could have her own garden, to plant as she pleased, in a spot she could see from her living-room window. Now she rushes home from work, gets into slacks, and has a grand time digging and transplanting instead of sitting in a stuffy apartment wishing she had a garden of her own.

A domestic-minded woman who finds an outlet for her domesticity doesn't miss half as much by not marrying as the woman who thinks that a husband is an absolute necessity around a house.

As one of these resourceful women puts it, "A man in the house is an enviable luxury and I'm the first to admit it. But fortunately for those of us who haven't husbands he isn't a necessity."

An estimated 60,000 young men are being trained under the defense program of the U. S. Office of Education in co-operation with schools and colleges.

News Briefs

Construction Begun — Work in fitting new office quarters for several county and state officials was begun this morning at the courthouse. H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector, will have all the south half of the ground floor, with exception of two small offices on the southwest corner, which will be allotted to the liquor control board. County courtroom, a jury-commissioners courtroom and quarters for County Judge G. V. Pardue will take the space formerly occupied on the northeast quarter of the ground floor by the highway patrol and the liquor control. The highway patrol office will be in the basement. Changes were because of the necessity of the tax office for more space.

Condition Improves — Much improvement was reported this morning in the condition of Clarence Fox, 1602 Twenty-first street, who has been a patient in Lubbock sanitarium about three weeks. Miss Ruhamah Fox of Wichita Falls, a registered nurse, is here to attend him during his illness, members of the family said.

Is Convalescing — Mrs. R. C. Douglas, jr., who underwent major surgery Friday at the West Texas hospital, is reported to be convalescing satisfactorily.

Stangel Writes Article—An article on a feeding project conducted at Texas Technological college during the 1940-41 session is included in the July issue of The Cattleman, published by the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association. It was written by W. L. Stangel, head professor of animal husbandry. Subject is "Cottonseed Hulls or Silage for Fattening Yearling Steers with Varying Levels of Cottonseed Meal."

Draftees Leave Soon—Approximately 40 selective service men from this section are to leave Wednesday in a Texas-New Mexico-Oklahoma Coaches chartered bus for Fort Bliss, El Paso, and a second group is to leave Thursday, C. N. Owens of the company, said. Wednesday's party, including men from Dickens, Garza, Lynn, Terry, Hockley and Lubbock counties is to leave at 8 o'clock in the morning. The Thursday bus is to leave at 1 p. m.

Wheat Receipts Low—Four cars of wheat for federal grain inspection were received by Lubbock Grain exchange this morning, said P. C. Blazi, chief inspector. Eight cars were received Saturday. All wheat is light in weight, testing generally 54 to 56 pounds. Moisture content is low. Blazi said he had heard reports of rains at Muleshoe and other points over the wheat producing sections of the area over the week end.

Committee Meets—A Farm Security administration committee to study problems relating to a livestock project in Cochran county was to meet this morning in Morton with Roy W. Hickman, county farm agent, and the county land use planning committee. Jessee B. Gilmer, Amarillo, assistant regional director, came down with several Bureau of Agricultural Economics men and others and met Earl Wise, rural rehabilitation supervisor. The group left early for Morton.

Little Rain Here—Week-end rainfall, as recorded at the U. S. weather bureau station at Texas Technological college, measured .22 of an inch for the past 48 hours, it was reported this morning. Only a trace fell Sunday night.

Recovering Satisfactorily—Buddy Beasley, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Beasley of 2008 Seventeenth street, was recovering normally this morning in West Texas hospital, where he underwent an emergency appendectomy Saturday. The father, in Louisiana when he received a telegram saying the boy had been taken to the hospital, drove almost 900 miles to return to Lubbock.

Goes To Kirksville—Dr. E. M. Whitacre left Saturday night for Kirksville, Mo., to take post-graduate work in osteopathy and visit relatives. He will return in about two weeks.

Daughter Born — A daughter weighing 5 pounds 7 ounces was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Mayfield of Aspermont at 3:26 o'clock Saturday afternoon in West Texas hospital. The father is a rancher.

Birth Reported—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Dawson of 1519-A Ninth street are parents of a daughter born at 9:12 o'clock Saturday night in West Texas hospital. The infant weighed 6 pounds 5 ounces. Dawson is a representative of the Standard X-Ray corporation.

Talk On Education Made At Meeting Of H-D Club

Students who are willing to work their way through school are students who want an education was the thought brought out at a meeting of the Union Home Demonstration club in the home of Mrs. F. A. Nelson recently.

After a talk, Miss Clara Pratt gave a demonstration on the grinding of whole wheat which was made into muffins.

Mrs. R. D. Presley led the group in games. Refreshments were served to Mesdames H. M. Cade, W. B. Jeter, M. D. Gamble, C. L. Griffin, Rhea Pierce, R. M. Cade, Spencer Brewer, F. H. Griffin and Miss Pratt.

Rozeltha Smith Marries Clyde Hale, San Angelo

Word has been received here of the marriage of Miss Rozeltha Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jerome H. Smith, former Lubbock residents, to Clyde Hale which took place Thursday in San Angelo. The bride is assistant laboratory technician at the Shannon Memorial hospital in San Angelo.

Mr. Hale, son of M. L. Hale of Houston, is in the 64th Air Base Squadron at Goodfellow field.

Urgent Job Is Facing Board

(By The Associated Press)

Failure of the management and a union at an ammunition plant to settle differences which led to a strike threat gave the defense mediation board an urgent job today.

AFL's Chemical Workers union at the Alton, Ill., plant of the Western Cartridge company asked the board yesterday to take supervision of bargaining negotiations. Fred Olds, AFL organizer, contended the company was stalling, but management spokesmen said progress was being made.

Offer To Negotiate

Olds said later at a union mass meeting that the workers' representatives were willing to resume negotiations without waiting for the board to act, if the company would bargain in "good faith." There was no immediate indication whether the management would accept the offer.

The union had planned to strike last midnight, but held off when the mediation board persuaded both sides to continue bargaining.

The company holds $8,468,000 of contracts for ammunition, a necessity of war with which President Roosevelt said recently the United States was poorly supplied.

Thousands Are Employed

Involved in the dispute are 550 employes of the plant's smokeless powder division. In all, the firm employs 6,500.

The union wants recognition as bargaining agent in the smokeless powder division, a 25 cent increase in the minimum wage of 60 cents an hour plus adjustment in other wage brackets, and a union shop.

Fears of defense officials that there might be another work stoppage in soft coal mines were ended yesterday when CIO's United Mine Workers and southern mine operators signed a new two-year contract.

$7 Wage Provided

The contract provides a basic $7 a day wage for 150,000 miners of the area, the same as northern operators already had agreed to pay. Under contracts which expired in April the pay was $6 in the north and $5.60 in the south. The southern operators tried vainly to continue the 40 cents a day differential.

While the negotiations were going on southern miners worked for $6.60 a day. The contract, however, was retroactive to April 1, so each will receive an extra 40 cents for each day worked since then.

Housing Information For City Is Sought

J. A. Raley, jr., senior evaluator in charge of Lubbock offices of the Federal Housing administration, went to Fort Worth today to confer with regional officials of the FHA relative to possible housing problems which may develop because of the location here of an aviation training school of the army air corps.

His studies, Raley explained, will be in the nature of "preparedness" for the problems when they arise. He emphasized that it is impossible at this time to anticipate what the exact nature of the problems may be.

One of his studies, however, is to be concerned with the procedure to be followed if it should be deemed advisable to seek designation of Lubbock as a "defense housing area." Such designation, it was explained, probably would lend to strengthen the Lubbock position in the obtaining of federal financing for housing that must be provided.

85 Are Killed During Panic

(By The Associated Press)

GUADALAJURA, Mexico, July 7—At least 85 persons were reported killed and 11 injured seriously last night when lightning struck a crowded motion-picture theater, causing the audience to stampede for the exits.

Most of the victims were trampled in the struggle to escape from the building, which caught fire and collapsed. Authorities estimated that 2,000 persons were in the theater when the lightning struck during the midst of a heavy wind and rain storm.

Bodies Are Removed

Firemen, police and soldiers aided in removing bodies to the city morgue, which was stormed by several thousand frantic citizens seeking to learn the whereabouts of relatives. Several families were reported to have perished in some instances.

First accounts said all lights in the theater went out shortly before the lightning struck. The audience was sitting quietly waiting for the show to be resumed when the lightning hit near the stage with a blinding flash.

In the ensuing panic many of those in the balcony leaped over the rail to the first floor in an attempt to escape.

Old Oil Fields Are Reopened

(By The Associated Press)

BRADFORD, Pa., July 7 — There's resurgence today in Pennsylvania's oil fields—the oldest in the world—in answer to demands of mechanized warfare.

Apparently doomed to slow death by vast production of western fields and depression-decline of Pennsylvania grade crude prices, fields hereabouts took on new life when war flared.

New Wells Sunk

Oil wells—some dating back almost to the birth of the petroleum industry—were cleaned out and new wells sunk to add to the flow of "black gold" sorely needed by defense machines of America and other democracies.

Prior to the sudden upsurge, Pennsylvania crude prices dropped from a first World war high of $6.10 per barrel to a depression low of $1.68, making it too expensive to operate any but the best producing wells.

Now Pennsylvania oil commands a price of $2.75 per barrel, a figure which makes it feasible to start some of the old workings along with drilling of new wells.

Since hitting a low of 184 wells drilled in 1940, drilling in the Bradford area has advanced steadily. Repressuring activities, by which production of old wells is stepped up, also have shown advances.

For the week ended June 28 output in the Bradford area was 38,081 barrels daily or more than half the 74,100-barrel daily production of Pennsylvania grade crude fields which extend into New York, West Virginia and southeastern Ohio.

PATRIOTIC JEWELRY

Jewelry has gone patriotic. Red, white and blue is the most important color motif in the new jewelry displays. Combinations of diamonds, sapphires and rubies are highly featured. Single slender bracelets of these stones are worn in sets of three to make red, white and blue patriotic stripes; tiny American flags, accurately reproduced, are smart new lapel ornaments; red, white and blue rosettes of sparkling stones, make patriotic earrings.

Latin America Delays Action On Granting Defense Bases To U. S.

Vital Question In Limelight

BY LAWRENCE S. HAAS
United Press Latin American Editor

There has been evidence of a move recently by the United States toward negotiating for use of air and naval base sites in South American countries, notably Brazil. However, clear and definite indications of how far such negotiations may have progressed are lacking.

Regardless of how negotiations may be progressing, the complete picture of hemisphere defense scarcely can be characterized as satisfactory from the United States viewpoint.

Some months ago Mexico and the United States ratified a convention providing that military planes from each country would be permitted to use fields of the other, with certain restrictions.

The Central American nations have expressed readiness for what comes closer to all-out defense cooperation with the United States than any of the other Latin American countries. If bases or other aid is needed on their soil there is no prospect of future difficulties in that area.

Colombia Delays Action

Colombia's President Eduardo Santos has denied a report that his country was included in United States negotiations for base sites. This in no way implied that the present Colombian administration is anything but strongly pro-democratic and favorably inclined toward the United States, yet a new administration is to come into office following next year's elections, and there are certain important political factors which Dr. Santos must keep in sight.

The new Venezuelan government, beyond affirming its strict adherence to the Pan-American expressions of continental union and democratic principles, has made no public indication as to its attitude regarding defense bases.

Galapagos Islands Proffered

Ecuador on more than one occasion has hinted a willingness to allow the United States to make use of the Galapagos islands for defense purposes. Peru, with whom Ecuador has an aggravating boundary dispute, regards such an eventuality with little pleasure, although the Peruvian government has shown no anti-United States leanings.

Bolivia, long regarded as a prototalitarian hotbed, has ousted German-operated air transport, by expropriating the Lloyd Aereo Boliviano and turning over the operation of its routes to the Pan-American Grace Airways. More recently, President Enrique Peneranda made a housecleaning of his cabinet, named a new police chief, and ordered prosecution of Axis propagandists.

Chile, Argentina Watched

Chile, which is largely out of the immediate orbit of direct European aggression, is considered prodemocratic. Government officials, however, have made it clear that they do not wish to allow the United States the use of base sites. The Chilean government seized a number of small Danish steamers but kept hands off German and Italian idle shipping. Also it recently accepted the former German training ship Priwall, as a gift from Berlin.

Both before and after President Roosevelt's May 27 radio address, Acting President Ramon S. Castillo, of Argentina, affirmed Argentine neutrality, and asserted there will be no expropriation of idle shipping. The government also has minimized activities of totalitarian agents despite a rising clamor for repressive action.

Argentina constantly has taken exception to any plan that would allow United States forces to be based in the vicinity of the River Plate, the principal trade route. It is likely that Argentina derived no pleasure from the announcement by Uruguay that the latter would adopt a formula to regard no American country, warring with a non-American country, as a belligerent.

Paraguay Stand Uncertain

Paraguay, an isolated landlocked country, is not necessarily pro-Axis and might be willing to make air base sites available to the United States. However, Argentine international policy is influential in Paraguay.

Brazil, exceedingly friendly to the United States in the fields of trade, economics and finance and culture, still presents an enigma as to defense cooperation. The Brazilian coast is the most vulnerable of American territory in event of totalitarian aggression against the western hemisphere. For that reason it could be regarded as entertaining a natural willingness to go all the way with the United States on the question of bases. But that has not been the case, and many observers have concluded that influential Brazilian army and navy circles regard Axis power as paramount and are opposed to a U. S. military tie-up.

Cuba, of course, occupies a peculiar position within the entire defense base setup. The United States has had a strong naval base on Guantanamo bay for nearly 40 years.

They Served Uncle Sam's Army During Bloody Frontier Wars--

Picturesque Indian Band Disappearing

By NEA Service

In the wild hills of southern Arizona along the Mexican border, eight full-blooded Apache Indians watch over a small section of the vast area that the cunning and courage of their fathers helped to win for the white settlers.

Proud, dignified, loyal, these eight (see picture above) are the last of the United States Scouts. With them ends a thrilling chapter of U. S. army history.

At the close of the Civil war, the western frontier was almost defenseless against the skillful and daring attacks of the redmen. Troops and settlers alike lived in terror of the savage, treacherous, raids of the hostile Indians.

Indian Scouts Served In 288 Engagements

General George Cook conceived the idea of matching the wits of the Indian himself against this menace and fostered legislation that was signed by President Andrew Johnson on July 28, 1866, establishing the United States Scouts. This provided for enlistment of up to 1000 Indians as scouts, guides, and counsellors in Indian warfare.

Indians of many tribes served in this branch of the service. Records show that the Scouts served in 88 engagements after 1870 before the hostile tribes were finally pacified. As the West became peaceful, the Indian posts were abandoned until finally only Fort Huachuca remained.

Radios, planes, and maps have replaced the Scouts. No longer will they be needed to risk their lives to carry messages through wilderness ravines of enemy territory. Their woodsmanship and frontier heritage would not avail against the observation plane. They need not prepare for solitary missions in the land of their enemy, scouting out ambushes and traps that would fatally ensnare moving troops.

Aware of the traditions of their branch of the service, these eight are tremendously proud of their insignia, U. S. S. No enlistments in the Scouts have been accepted since 1923 and the eight now at Fort Huachuca will be the last.

Appropriately enough, the Scouts are entrusted now with the guarding and preservation of the Fort Huachuca military reservation, a part of the land their fathers fought to win for the United States.

Second and third generations of their families to serve with the Scouts, they occasionally commemorate this service by taking part in military maneuvers—carrying messages, scouting ahead for ambush, plotting moves across the mountains they know so well.

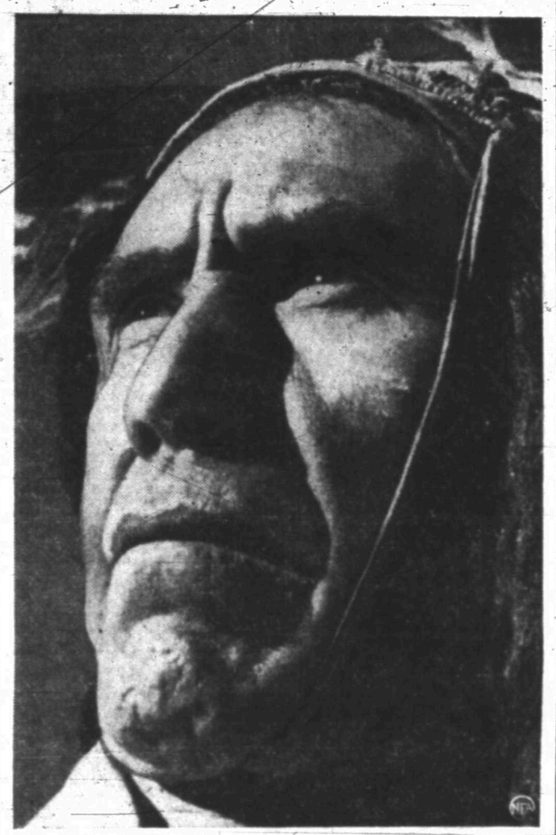

For parades and special occasions the Scouts have their ceremonial regalia and make a colorful addition to the display of the 25th infantry, command of Lee D. Davis, colonel in the U. S. army.

The Scouts live in a little village just beside the post and keep much to themselves when they are off duty. Their houses are of adobe built by themselves with materials supplied by the post.

Picturesque—but misleading. Modern machine guns are still a mystery to the oldtime Indian Scouts.

One of the famed Indian Scouts today—still "proud, dignified, loyal."

Pied Piper Was A Piker When Compared To Chicago's Mass Effort To Wipe Out Pests

Associated Press Feature Service

CHICAGO, July 7.—It doesn't cost a cent to kill a rat in Chicago.

Charles Eaton, assistant commissioner of public works, has succeeded in killing 908,000 at a cost of only about four mills apiece.

The first thing he did when the city decided to finance an abatement campaign was to ferret out every rat hole in every street, alley and vacant lot in town. His workers, all volunteers from the relief rolls, found 750,193 holes. With this and other data they fixed Chicago's rat population at something more than 1,750,000.

Then they set about removing those things essential to rat life. Householders were urged to put garbage in tight containers, rubbish piles were removed, and water drained. (Eaton says a rat can't live much more than 24 hours without a drink).

He estimated this phase of the program accounted for 242,000 rat deaths. A "baiting" campaign, which began last September, killed 666,000 more. Poison was wrapped in squares of old newspaper, something like candy kisses, and deposited outside the burrows by the same volunteer workers.

"Since rats crawl back into their holes to die, we don't have to pick 'em up," Eaton explains.

"It's little things like that which are keeping costs down."

Play Ball Or Move Over!

By Collier Parris

WOULD THAT IT WERE POSSIBLE for the Hubbers to watch tonight's "fight" in Abilene between Tony Galento and Kingfish Levinsky.

In the first place, if they were in Abilene, they wouldn't be out at the ball park trying to match the Borger Gassers.

In the second place, they would have the opportunity to learn a lesson in spirit and hustle and the old college try, as no doubt will be exemplified by the colorful and fast action of Levinsky and Galento.

For a few days last week a lot of us thought the Hubbers had found themselves and would continue to play something resembling baseball. But we've just about come to the conclusion that they couldn't find their hats with both hands.

To the Hubbers on this day we would say, if we were writing a sports column: If baseball isn't worth your time; if it isn't worth fighting for and sacrificing for and getting some sleep for and doing without a little fun and frolic for; and if you aren't interested in the game and if you don't care how you look and play, or how the fans who foot the bills feel about it, then, why don't you pull out and make room for somebody who wants to make good in baseball! This is the starting place, you know.

As we've said a million times, more or less and we'll continue to say, you don't have to win all your games in order to make fans and influence the box office. You can lose—and still look good, if you hustle. You look like a million bucks one day, and lousy the next. Once or twice you have looked good losing, and a few times you've looked terrible winning. You have looked good enough times to convince everybody that you CAN play ball when you put your minds to it.

So how's about putting your minds to it and making us eat all our harsh words. We'd a lot rather write something nice and complimentary about athletes than to criticize them. We realize with all soberness that we couldn't get out there and do any better than you're doing on the baseball diamond. But you couldn't come down here and bat out a readable column, either, so that makes us even on that score.

However, you're at liberty any time to try writing a column, or you can write a letter, and you won't be obligating yourselves, because we ain't gonna play no shortstop or center field.

Tonight would be a good time to start making us eat our words. It's ladies night, and maybe a few of 'em will be out there.

The new starting time, fans—both of you—is 8:45 o'clock.

ONE OF THE ANGRIEST men who ever burned up the wires to an Avalanche-Journal telephone was one Charlie Engle, when we conversed following yesterday's party out at the ball park. Engle told us things he can't tell the players, under the circumstances, and which we couldn't begin to print. But he let it be known he was plenty burned up about the way his boys are playing ball.

Gist of Engle's tirade was that he, "old and crochety as I am and with a sore arm from pitching batting practice and sore legs from trying to run," will defy orders from headquarters and get himself in the regular lineup, beginning tonight.

Engle was so hot under the collar that he couldn't say where he'd play, who he'd bench or what he'd do, but he said positively that he'd be in there playing and hustling.

"We've been working out every morning and I've pitched batting practice until my arm feels like it will fall off every day. I pitch batting practice again in the afternoons before the games, and I try to make the boys hit. I'm not what I used to be 20 years ago, or even 10 years ago, but by gosh I can still try, and that's more than half the boys on the club are doing! I'm not supposed to play; I'm supposed to give the kids a chance. By gosh they've had their chance and they turn it down. I may get fired, but I'm gonna play until we get some players."

Engle's attitude, contrary to the opinion of some fans, is the best. He doesn't lay claim to being the smartest manager in baseball, major or minor, but we have been around him enough to know that his ideas and principles regarding the game are sound and full of reason. Engle isn't a horn-blower, and unless you're on the spot with him, closely associated with him, you won't appreciate his attitude, his ideas and his suffering. And, boy, the man really suffers!

Ball players and times being what they are, a manager has to handle his club with kid gloves these days—or they'll quit the club and get a job nightwatching in a munitions factory, or something. Engle has orders to be "nice" to the boys and not make them sore. And if you ask us, it's a helluva order! If a ball player doesn't have enough respect for the game and the manager to carry out his suggestions, he hasn't any business in the National sport. Through the ages, with one or two exceptions, baseball has endured as THE most honest and upright game, professional or amateur, mainly because the guys who played it were honest and upright and played for love of the game and for the reputation the game has enjoyed.

You can't censor Engle for all the mistakes the Hubbers make. He tells the boys to do one thing, they do another. If he fines 'em or gets tough with 'em for not "taking the sign," they get sore and go home. (It's happened in about four instances this season).

True, Engle has his peculiar ideas. There's the sacrifice, or bunt business. His theory—and he may be right—is to get men on base and hope they'll get around, especially in the early innings when there are no scores, or when his team is four or five runs behind. He doesn't believe in "wasting" a potentially good hitter on a sacrifice when the next one or two are three batters coming up can't be depended on to get a hit or knock a fly ball to the outfield.

For those theories, Engle is severely criticized from the stands and for leaving from 10 to 18 men stranded on the bases in any given game. The club being so very, very short of hitters, we can't blame Engle for letting such guys as Rivera, Lorenz, Schlereth and Castino "hit away" when they come to bat, but in other cases, when the time is ripe to "move somebody up," we cling to the Sled Allen rule of baseball—get a man on base, then get him around! This league isn't so wild that a run now and then doesn't count. A team that can score one run per inning wouldn't have any trouble winning this pennant.

But we're in favor of giving Engle the benefit of the doubt, considering the players that the White Sox have given him; we're in favor of him playing in the lineup—and we hope you have a little better insight to the circumstances which surround him.

(Personal note to Vincent Castino: Snap out of it, kid. You're dying a natural baseball death right about now. You'll never catch in Class B, Double-A or the majors if you can't catch in Class D. This isn't the cinch we thought it would be, because you ain't putting out but about 50 per cent of what you've got. Bear down, boy; you can put some life into that outfit if you will).

Houston Stretching Texas League Lead

(By The Associated Press)

Houston's pitchers were stingy with easy ones yesterday and the Texas league-leading Buffs defeated the Shreveport Sports twice, putting the Buffaloes that much farther ahead in their already huge margin over the clubs.

Freddie Martin, sensational hurler who set a league record of thirteen straight wins before finally losing one, was in top form yesterday in limiting the Sports to four hits for a 3 to 0 shutout in the opener. Carl Doyle gave up only five safe blows as the Buffs took the second game, 6 to 2.

Before one of the largest crowds of the season in Fort Worth, the Cats and the Dallas Rebels fought to a draw. Each took a game, by the identical score 2 to 1.

Tulsa took the first game of the doubleheader with Oklahoma City, 5 to 4, and the Indians took the second, 4 to 3.

At Beaumont the Exporters swept two games from the San Antonio Missions, 5 to 4 and 5 to 0.

"Ladies Night" Is Scheduled

Lubbock Is Pushed Around, 5-1, 9-3

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Journal Sports Editor

With all the fire and sparkle and hustle of a family of turtles holding a wake over the remains of an expired second cousin, the larrupin' Lubbock Hubbers fizzled out on another job of work yesterday with one of their more typical demonstrations of how not to play baseball.

The same wishy-washy, don't-give-a-damn brand of baseball that has made them a collective baseball joke to fans who have supported the game here when they had at least a hustling team, resulted in the dropping of a doubleheader to a Borger club that has little business being where it is in the league standings.

Looked Easy

Swinging their bats with all the vigor and force of nine sore-arm pitchers, the Hubbers fell in the first game, 1 to 5.

Hitting a little more sharply, but spacing the blows for the accommodation of the Gassers, Lubbock dropped the second contest—if it would be called that—3 to 9.

All the Borgers had to do was stand up at the plate, scare hell out of the Lubbock pitchers with a dirty look, tap the ball toward practically any fielder, and take their own good time trotting around the bases.

TONIGHT AT 8:45

The same teams play again tonight, inaugurating a new starting time—8:45 o'clock. Maybe the change in the time will make a change in the Hubbers, but it's doubtful. Ladies and very young children will be guests.

One change that is to be made concerns Manager Charlie Engle himself, who plans to insert himself somewhere in the lineup and batting order and try to show, by example, that there's such a thing as hustle. The skipper, who gladly would have twisted the necks of each and every Hubber after Sunday's program had it not been for possible entanglements with the law, boiled and stewed in the sweat of mind and body, and wished he had stood in bed for the last five years. Bill Sucky is slated to pitch against the Borgers in the series finale.

The double defeat hauled the Hubs out of fourth place, where they had dwelt for a few hours on account of not playing Saturday night, and put them back in the second division, naturally.

Lefty Bill Garland, exercising his own good pitching arm and also the jinx that faces the right-handed hitting Hubbers every time they face a southpaw, gave up four hits in the nine-inning opener and blanked Lubbock except for an unearned run in the sixth inning when he walked Bob Rivera, erred on a ground ball after Schlereth's single to left, walked Castino to fill the sacks, and committed a wild pitch to let Rivera score.

Threaten—But—

The Hubbers threatened another time or two but couldn't shoot a lick with ducks on the pond.

The Gassers, led by Riordan and Peterson with three hits each, got an even dozen bingles off Steve Vrablik, making most of them count for something, and took advantage of Lubbock's sloppy defensive work to win, going away. They even pulled the double

Pioneers Annex 8-6 Game From Lamesa

(Special To The Journal)

LAMESA, July 7—The Clovis Pioneers converted one hit into three runs in the first inning here Sunday and were never headed, going on to defeat the Lamesa Loboes in the delayed series opener, 8 to 6.

Lefty James Sullivan lasted only two innings for the Loboes, retiring in the third with none out. Bill Hewitt, Clovis starter, also failed to go the route, leaving the game in the seventh after the Loboes found him for four straight hits.

But veteran Jim Rollins came in then and promptly stifled the rally.

Schoendienst led the Pioneer attack with a single, double and home run, driving in four runs.

The Loboes presented two new players, Right Fielder Fullheart, who got two hits and scored three runs from the leadoff spot, and Catcher Peacock, who failed to connect in four times at bat.

The Loboes still have a very muchly shuffled lineup, with Pitcher Buck Tinsley playing first base, Manager Sam Scaling on second, Eddie Guynes on short and Don Lang on third. The

Skipping Over Sports With Brietz—

Wood, Nelson, Hogan Favored For PGA; American Leaguers Favored For All-Star Game

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 7 — Here's a laugh to take the edge off blue Monday: Chick Meehan's second shot against the boxing monopoly will be fired by three members of the Jack Kearns boxing "trust"—Lee Savold, Pat Comiskey and Melio Bettina . . . Freddy Corcoran wires that Craig Wood, Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan are bracketed as 6-1 favorites in the P. G. A. grind at Denver. (Hogan has out-dimagged DiMaggio by finishing in the dough 50 consecutive tournaments, or since the 1939 Open at Philly) . . . Those darned academics are menacing one-fourth of the Minnesota football squad and Bernie Bierman is so jittery he can't stay still long enough to get a hot-foot . . . Mike Jacobs is paging Diogenes to help him find the old Midas touch — he blew $12,000 on the Zivic-Davis fiasco.

NEWS IN RAGTIME

Most people think that Dizzy Dean made fine use of his noble bean, in fading from the baseball show to pop off on the radio . . . Old Diz was never known to balk, when up there bobbed a chance to talk, and all agree that on the air the field for gab is passing fair . . . For going ahead and getting hitched, Conn's curly head soon may be stitched . . . The word is out his pop-in-law is going to clout him on the jaw . . . We sure would like to be around if papa really goes to town . . . It would be fun to see him slap a right hook to that classic map . . . DiMaggio's still going great. His streak now stands at forty-eight . . . The grass hats gave Jim Dykes the lumps for cussing out his pals, the umps . . . And ere this to the printer goes, what's ailing them 'ere Redios.

QUIPARADE

Louisville Times: "Speaking of the DiMaggio streak, the Phillies don't get excited until somebody goes 46 games without a hit." . . . Youngstown Vindicator: "Maybe the country is softening up . . . Aren't we having a day for the umpires occasionally."

If you can go by the side-view shots, Billy Conn's bride is a dead ringer for Sonja Honey Topping . . . Minnesota's referees are in a shooting mood since the guy who worked the Nova-Jim Robinson fight (gate around $8,000—got only 15 frogskins) . . . Latest from the All-Star front has the American leaguers 5-4 favorites . . . Zeke Bonura is getting thin managing both the baseball and softball teams at Camp Shelby. Got two round-trippers in his first baseball game . . . Atlanta golf bugs are chipping in to send a three-man team to the National Publinx tourney at Spokane . . . Homer Peel, who succeeded Rogers Hornsby at Oklahoma City, is getting only $400 per month as player-manager — $600 less than the Rajah collected . . . If you can strut, the Washington Redskins' 100-piece band is looking for a drum major.

"Jumping Catfish!" Bass Hitches Ride

Fishing season's not fishing season without one like this:

Billy Bacon, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bacon of 2810 Twentieth street, was rowing his boat at Buffalo lakes recently when a large fish jumped into the boat.

Friends said the bass weighed two and a half pounds. After bringing his catch in, Billy went back out in his boat.

Then said his 8-year-old brother Don, in little-brother fashion: "Look at Billy. He thinks another fish is going to jump in."

Ace Wins 9th Game In Row

Yankees, Brooklyn Maintaining Leads

(By The Associated Press)

A popular or unpopular question a few years back, depending on how many times an hour you heard it, was "where's Elmer?" A most unpopular question in seven National league cities today is "who's Elmer?"—and the Cincinnati Reds are the only club which has the answer.

Besides the answer, the Cincinnati Reds also have Elmer—Elmer Riddle, the name is. The department of vital statistics says Elmer was born in Columbus, Ga., that he will be 24 years old July 31, bats and throws right-handed, weighs 170 pounds, stands 5 feet 11 1-2 inches, began his baseball career with Wausau, (Wis) of the Northern league in 1936 and is pitching his second season for the Reds.

Dodgers Advancing

What the department of vital statistics does not say is that Elmer right now is the hottest pitcher in what always has been known as a pitchers' league. He has won nine games and hasn't lost any, having achieved No. 9 yesterday with a three-hit 3-0 shutout of the St. Louis Cardinals which dropped the Redbirds three games back of the leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers, taking advantage of this assistance by Riddle and the Reds, got some fine five-hit pitching from their own Kirby Higbe, to top the Boston Braves, 5-2.

Yankees Win Easily

Rain also cut short a projected Giant-Phillies doubleheader after the New Yorkers had won the eight-inning opener, 7-3. But in Pittsburgh the weatherman didn't interfere, and the Pirates whipped the Chicago Cubs, 2-1 and 13-4.

In the American league the New York Yankees had the stage, front and center. They drew the year's top crowd of 60,948, which first witnessed a simple and impressive dedication of his teammates' memorial to Lou Gehrig and then saw those mates proceed to take apart the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-4 and 3-1.

Lyons Triumphs Again

Since 40-year-old Ted Lyons was giving the Chicago White Sox a 9-4 triumph over Cleveland, the Yanks' bulge on the Indians grew to 3 1-2 games.

The Boston Red Sox posted 6-2 and 4-3 victories over the last-place Washington Senators.

The Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns split their double bill. A six-run blast in the fifth and Al Benton's relief pitching gave Detroit the first encounter 7-5, but the Browns got to Dizzy Trout for four runs in six innings and enough to win the second, 5-3.

Ward Defeats Todd For Western Title

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 7 (AP)—Western amateur champion Bud Ward fell in step today with Chick Evans and other fine golfers of another era.

The present, personified by the strong-wristed, blue-eyed Ward, from Spokane, Wash., caught up with the past, represented by Evans and his contemporaries, when Ward won his second consecutive Western crown.

The 28-year-old Ward conquered Texas' Harry Todd, four years younger, 3 and 2, in the championship match yesterday and when the contest ended on the 34th green, the man from the Washington wheat country had finished giving mountain-girted Broadmoor a real lacing for the six days of the meet.

Hunt Meets Vandiver For Crown Tonight

ABILENE, July 7 (AP) — Babe Hunt, a transplanted Oklahoman who won the Texas heavyweight boxing championship, meets young and ambitious Joe Vandiver of Fort Worth tonight in a title bout—but that's only half the story of why Abilene sportsdom is quite worked up.

Also carded was a bout between fat Tony Galento, the very unorthodox fighter, who missed ring glory by a whisker, and Kingfish Levinsky, Chicago fish peddler, who fought all the top-flighters with varying success.

Hunt, who lives at Lubbock, will go into action at 196 pounds and Vandiver at 202. The bout, in which the state heavyweight championship will officially be at stake according to an announcement by the state labor commissioner, is scheduled for ten rounds.

Junior All-Stars To Be Chosen Tonight

All-star teams from the two circuits in the Lubbock junior baseball league are to be chosen tonight at a meeting of managers at Powers Sporting Goods. The meeting is to start at 8 o'clock.

The teams selected are to appear against the first half winners in the two leagues—the Baker Company Cardinals in the National and Bill Dean's Yankees in the American—in a doubleheader attraction at Hubber Field next Monday night.

The teams will be selected from the other clubs in each league. Each manager is urged to be present in order that his players may have fair representation in picking the team.

Pampa Takes 2 To 0 Tilt Over Spudders

WICHITA FALLS, July 7 (Special)— Lefty John McPartland hurled a one-hitter at Wichita Falls last night to give the Pampa Oilers a 2 to 0 victory in the second game of the series and even the set at one shutout apiece.

Pampa scored its two runs in the fourth inning, collecting 10 hits over the route from Mike Pruitt, another left-hander.

Lefty Lucas shut out the Oilers, 4 to 0, Saturday night.

Sizzling Match Climaxes Play

Claiborne Annexes Consolation Crown

BY JOE PIERCE
Journal Sports Writer

Slim, sandy-haired Jodie Bihl broke a three-year victory drouth with a shower of birdies and pars that smothered Jack Trammel, 4 and 3, Sunday in the finals of the Meadowbrook Open tournament.

In winning his first championship as a professional, Bihl turned in a six-under-par score for 33 holes. Trammel, a golfing amateur who makes his living as a carpenter and does most of his playing on Sundays, wasn't far off the sizzling path, and was two strokes better than par when the match ended on the long 15th hole at Meadowbrook.

Bihl Started Fast

Jodie started fast and had Trammel four down at the halfway point of the morning round. Thereafter, it was nip and tuck. Once on the front nine of the afternoon round, Bihl went five up and several times Trammel trimmed the margin to three holes.

At the end of the morning round, Jodie was three up and 5 strokes under par with a 66. Jack had a 69 for the morning's play.

Going into the last nine holes, Bihl had stretched his margin to four holes. On the 28th, No. 10 at Meadowbrook, Trammel cut the lead to three with a beautiful approach shot that nullified a longer drive by Bihl and gave Jack the hole with a par three.

Gains It Back

But Joe gained it back on the next by firing a birdie three.

On the 115-yard 12th hole, Trammel laid his tee shot only three feet from the pin, while Bihl's was over the green, Jodie laid his second shot only inches from the cup, then Trammel missed his putt to halve the hole.

The next hole was also halved with pars when Bihl missed a two-footer.

Trammel's par three on the 14th was good enough to win when Bihl needed two putts for a bogey four.

That brought the match down to the [illegible] par-five 15th, with Trammel needing at least a half to stay in the running. Both tee shots were good, well over the creek that splits the fairway just short of 200 yards. Trammel's second found the rough to the right of the green, while Bihl's was in the fairway just short of the green. Trammel's next shot was on the green, but he needed to sink a long putt for a half when Bihl laid his third shot within two feet of the cup for an easy birdie.

Trammel barely missed the putt, and the match was Bihl's giving him his first championship since his grand slam of 1938. That year, competing as an amateur, he won the West Texas, Meadowbrook, Country club and City Open championships.

Carol Claiborne had to go 20 holes for a 1-up victory over Tom Sampson in the championship consolation finals. Other winners, all decided previously, were T. E. Patterson, second flight; Jasper Sanders, third flight; Otis Felty, fourth flight; and H. E. McCrocklin, fifth flight.

Pepper Said FDR's Choice For Administration's Trouble-Shooter

Fiery Senator In Spotlight

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, July 7.—A high congressional source said today that President Roosevelt is anxious to have Sen. Claude Pepper, D., Fla., accepted by the Senate as the logical successor to retiring Sen. James F. Byrnes, D., S. C., as the administration's chief trouble-shooter.

Although the choice is Mr. Roosevelt's, the job would require that Pepper be acceptable to the various Senate factions, because he must deal with them in smoothing the legislative way for administration measures by persuasion and "horse trades."

The job is not recognized in the formal organization of the Senate, and is separate and apart from the majority leadership. The trouble-shooter must keep the White House informed of Senate temperament on major legislation and be ready with a quick compromise when a measure is threatened with defeat or an objectionable amendment.

The United Press informant said that Mr. Roosevelt has broached the possibility of Pepper's succession to Byrnes' post as unofficial liaison man to other congressional leaders. Pepper is an ardent advocate of all out aid to Britain and her allies and often has espoused administration foreign policy moves long before their adoption.

Other Changes Considered

Considerable opposition to Pepper probably would be presented by anti-interventionist senators, who might construe his selection as a rebuke to them.

Meanwhile, it is believed that Chairman Walter F. George, D., Ga., of the foreign relations committee will retain that post instead of becoming head of the finance committee.

As ranking member of the finance committee, he could succeed the late Sen. Pat Harrison, D., Miss., who was chairman, but he would have to vacate his other committee chairmanship. Under Senate rules, a senator can hold only one major committee chairmanship.

It is understood that Sen. David I. Walsh, D., Mass., a critic of administration foreign policy, might vacate the chairmanship of the naval affairs committee to succeed Harrison, should George decide to retain his present post.

Peru-Ecuador Clash

tion of the United States in this hemisphere."

The newspaper charged that recent anti-Nazi measures by Peru were designed to prevent the United States and other nations of the western hemisphere from losing confidence in Peru.

Airplanes Engaged

Patriotic demonstrations swept Ecuador. President Rio, in a fervent manifesto, called upon the people to rally around the flag and pledged his government to "comply with its obligations without weakness or timidity."

The fighting began on the frontier Saturday, was intensified yesterday, continued today. Artillery and airplanes were engaged. The government, in a detailed statement charged that Peruvian forces had attacked Ecuadoran border guards, invaded Ecuadoran territory, and had been the aggressors throughout.

(The Peruvian government charged in Lima, the capital, that Ecuadoran forces had been the aggressors throughout and said Peruvian forces had fought defensively only).

The outbreak of fighting was another in a long series of skirmishes, battles, and wars between Ecuador and Peru that date back almost 100 years over a strip of territory along their border which both claim. Only on May 13, both Ecuador and Peru accepted the good offices of the United States, Argentina, and Brazil to mediate their quarrel, the only threat to efforts to unify the western hemisphere into continents of good neighbors.

News of the fighting stirred patriotic nationalism throughout the country. Twenty thousand demonstrators charged through the streets here yesterday, shouting "viva Ecuador" and denouncing Peru. Demonstrations and mass meetings were being held in every city.

The ministry of national defense said that Saturday morning a Peruvian garrison, accompanied by civilians, crossed into Ecuadoran territory in the Huaquillas and Chacras sector. Ecuadoran patrols arrived and were received by bursts of machine gun and rifle fire, the communique said. The Ecuadorans replied and the fighting spread to Belzalito, Guabillo, Carcanon, and Quebrada. It continued until 4:50 p. m. when the Ecuadorans stopped fighting.

"We had two killed," the communique said.

Yesterday, it continued, the Peruvians renewed the attack against Chacras, Balzalito, and Goabito after artillery and aerial preparations in which four planes participated.

Champ Consumes 31 Pancakes For Crown

EPHRAIM, Wis., July 7. (AP)—The Paul Bunyan pancake crown went to Perry C. Hill, jr., of Milwaukee, after he downed 31 standard sized pancakes, one better than previous champion, James J. Lowe, of Chicago.

Before attacking cakes, Hill first ate, as required by pancake derby rules, the standard Paul Bunyan breakfast—fruit, cereal and cream, toast, eggs, bacon.

Governor Plugs Hillbilly Music And Lashes Out At "Snobs" Who Ridicule Entertainers

HOW TO DRESS FOR A DUCHESS—The Duke of Windsor wouldn't be seen in this rig, but Stirling Hayden, Hollywood star, wins a smile from the Duchess and Madeleine Carroll, British actress, at left. They're on location in the Bahamas for a movie.

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, July 7—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel put in a plug today for hillbilly music, which helped him sell flour for several years before aiding in his three political victories, two for the governorship and one for the U. S. Senate.

"There is something about hillbilly music that appeals to a great many people," said O'Daniel in a radio program that included some of the best-known songs of that type. "Of course, there are some who do not like it, and who even go so far as to ridicule it and the people who like it . . . Well, let them rave on."

The governor then pointed out that the war department advised his son, Pat, who will be inducted into the army Thursday under the selective service act, to bring along a musical instrument. The instructions are given to all conscripts.

"Those kind of boys are good enough to fight for their country," said O'Daniel, "but they must be ridiculed by the snobs who stay home."

Pat will take a banjo, guitar or accordion to the army camp, his father added. The 22-year-old youth has been a member of his father's hillbilly band for several years.

"It may serve to occupy his spare time entertaining himself and possibly some of his buddies, and thus help keep them from falling into the snares of the booze dives set up around our army camps for the enrichment of the manufacturers and the booze peddlers of Texas," said the governor.

O'Daniel declared that world conditions are so grave that "it's time to declare a moratorium on fun, foolishness and frivolity. We must remain in high spirits and a happy frame of mind, but at the same time realize the seriousness of the world situation and leave no stone unturned for our protection and safety."

O'Daniel's only reference to the U. S. Senate election, in which he won a 1,095-vote victory over Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson of Austin on the basis of unofficial returns, was to express thanks to his supporters.

"In my new position, I shall continue to put forth every effort to serve you well, and I ask the continuance of your friendship and prayers," he said.

The official canvass of election returns will be conducted in Austin on July 14, after which the winner will go to Washington to take his seat in the Senate.

Finger Is Scratched In Airplane Crash

WICHITA FALLS, July 7. (AP)—Ray Rockwell's plane developed motor trouble after he took off from municipal airport last night and he was forced to land amid men, machines, materials and buildings at the army's Sheppard field under construction here.

A wing struck a dirt pile and the ship was demolished. Rockwell crawled from the wreckage and examined himself.

His injury—a scratched finger.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP) — Buying inspired by sharp price gains in the soybeans, cotton, cottonseed oil, lard and hog markets lifted wheat quotations more than two cents a bushel today.

Strength of securities and Russian claims about halting the German advance and heavy Nazi casualties were additional bullish factors in the wheat pit. Some buying was attributed to milling and making trade activity.

Soybeans rose more than 5 cents due largely to reports of government purchases for export.

Despite late profit taking sales, wheat closed 1¾-2 cents higher than Saturday, July 73¾, September 76⅛; oats ⅝-½.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, July 7 (AP) — Moderate demand for grain wheat reported on the Fort Worth market as the new week began.

Stock Market

MARKET SHOWS RALLY

NEW YORK, July 7 (AP) — A little better brand of war news, plus a slight touch of inflationary temperature, today helped give the stock market its best forward push in about a month.

The list displayed rising inclinations at the start in much faster dealings than witnessed since the early part of June. At the top of the move, which came after mid-day, gains ranged from 1 to 4 or so points. Closing prices were at or near the peaks in most cases. Transfers were around 800,000 shares.

Pepsi-Cola again was one of the liveliest in the share list, jumping to another new high. Others prominent on the run-up included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Eastman Kodak, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Gypsum, Standard Oil (NJ), Dupont, Montgomery Ward and Johns-Manville.

At Chicago wheat finished with advances of 1⅛ to 2 cents a bushel and corn was up ⅛ to ⅝. Cotton, in late trades, held improvement of $1.30 to $1.45 a bale.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 7 (AP) — Expectations of a bullish government acreage report tomorrow, unfavorable crop reports and strength in other commodity markets boosted cotton futures here today nearly $2 a bale.

Lecturer Speaks To Crowd Of 200 Here

Ways in which discipline is practiced in a democracy were discussed by Dr. T. V. Smith, lecturer representing the Hogg foundation of the University of Texas, Sunday afternoon in Senior High school auditorium. Approximately 200 persons were present.

Dr. Smith said people in a democracy do not blindly follow the state as do those under a totalitarian form of government, but those in science, art and other fields have their own forms of discipline. He expressed hope that in the present crisis the people would discipline themselves to whatever their ideals call for. He discussed public schools as the greatest agency for furthering democracy.

Dr. James M. Gordon, director of the summer session at Texas Technological college, introduced the speaker. Dr. Smith spoke under auspices of Lubbock public schools and the Tech summer recreation committee.

FIGHT WITH BRITISH

LONDON, July 7. (AP)—Crown Prince Olaf of Norway told a luncheon today more than 90 per cent of the Norwegian air force pilots had escaped their country and were fighting with the British.

German Losses Set At Million

wood-and-canvas tanks to pad out their panzer columns, described as self-propelling and carrying machine guns.

Subterfuge Discovered

Red army scouts, it was said, discovered the subterfuge when they spotted a Nazi tank column moving up to the front and noted with amazement that "the body of one of the tanks unexpectedly gave in under the pressure of the elbow of an officer who leaned against it."

In the column, the Russians said, only one of the 20 tanks was genuine.

The German high command said Axis troops had captured Cernauti, capital of Sovietized Bucovina, in a drive toward the Russian Ukraine.

Nazi Losses Said High

Rumanian and Hungarian troops, allies of Germany, were declared to have reached the upper Dnestr river in Bucovina, while in nearby Bessarabia, German-Rumanian forces were reported "in a progressive advance" after repulsing Soviet counter-attacks.

By contrast, a Red army bulletin said that in the Bessarabian sector "the enemy, suffering very heavy losses, was thrown back to his previous position."

A Moscow communique, proclaiming success everywhere for the Red armies, declared heavy losses had blunted the German drive to the east, and that German attempts to cross the Dnepr river near Bobruisk, on the central front, had been repelled violently.

Describing bitter fighting along a river—apparently the Berezina—a Soviet communique declared the Germans threw fresh reserves into the battle and "crossed to our shore at a cost of tremendous sacrifices."

Counter-attacking with bayonets, Russian troops "threw the German Fascists back across the river, inflicting heavy casualties," the communique said.

"The bodies of several thousand Fascist soldiers remained on the field of battle, and many more perished in the river."

Nazis Admit Resistance

While conflicting versions of the 16-day-old struggle came from Moscow and Berlin, one thing seemed clear:

Adolf Hitler's invading armies, according to reports edited by the Nazi fuehrer himself, still were fighting mostly on the fringe of the vast Soviet hinterlands after battering through Sovietized "buffer" states. A German military commentator admitted frankly the Russians remained at their posts longer than the French did in the 1940 campaign in the west.

Dr. McKee was elected secretary and Dr. H. L. Chapman of Shreveport treasurer of the zone organization.

Meeting dates for next year's state and zone conventions will be set later, Dr. Harvey said. However, the expectation is that the state convention will be held immediately in advance of the zone session. Lubbock is the second Texas city in history in which state and zone conventions have been held jointly.

Recipients of special honors were Dr. J. A. Herschel of Houston, for having attended all conventions of the state society since it was organized 25 years ago, and Dr. W. Lee Austin of Dallas for having been a member of the society continuously since its organization.

Trip Is Called Off

Plans for a chartered bus trip to Carlsbad caverns were cancelled because the required 25 reservations were not made. Dr. Harvey said. A considerable number of the delegates visited the caverns, but preferred to make the trip in their own cars, he explained.

Delegates were unanimous in their agreement that the conventions were not made, Dr. Harvey successful in the history of the state and zone organizations. Attendance was well above average in spite of the fact that this was the most westerly city in which either state or zone convention ever has been held, according to Dr. Harvey, who has been present at every annual state meeting since 1926.

British Launch Big Assault On Beirut

VICHY, July 7 (AP)—British forces appeared today to have launched their long-expected assault upon Beirut at dawn as reinforced Australian infantry pressed the French defenders on heights over the Damour river, about nine miles south of the Lebanese port.

French advance posts north of Djezzine, in the coastal area about 25 miles below Beirut, were believed forced back.

News Briefs

Property Taken — Galbraith Steel & Supply Co., of 2318 Avenue G, informed police today several plumbing leads had been stolen there. Mrs. R. E. Garrett of 1712 Avenue X said a table model radio had been stolen from her home.

Formby Visiting — State Sen. Marshall Formby of McAdoo is in Lubbock for a several-days visit. He returned to the district Friday night after sine die adjournment of the legislature, which established a new record for sitting period.

Hit By Car—Mrs. O. A. Foster of 1411 Avenue F entered Lubbock sanitarium early this afternoon after she was struck by a car. Police said driver was J. T. McDonald of New Home and the accident happened at Fourteenth street and Avenue F. Mrs. Foster suffered abrasions of the face and left knee. She was considered satisfactory and was not expected to remain in the sanitarium.

Suit Transferred — Workman's compensation suit of Francis Bell of Yoakum county against Ocean Accident Guarantee corporation, Ltd., has been transferred from the Yoakum county district court to the U. S. district court. Bell seeks compensation for 401 weeks amounting to $4,547.35, in an appeal from a state compensation board decision.

Moves Family Here — Major Joseph R. Peller, district army recruiting officer, with Mrs. Peller and their son Ivan, arrived from Lawton, Okla., their former home, Sunday night and are located at 2418-B Broadway. Their daughter, Mrs. Charles Darling, also of Lawton, is visiting them for a few days.

One Man Enlists — Thomas L. Burleson was enlisted this morning in the district army recruiting office and sent to the air corps. Jefferson barracks, St. Louis, Mo. He is the 11th recruit for July, said Major Joseph R. Peller, district officer.

File Damage Suit—J. W. Francis and wife of Yoakum county have filed a damage suit in U. S. district court against S. R. Hazelrigg, of Seminole, Okla., an oil field contractor, for injuries allegedly received in a highway crash near Wolfforth, Feb. 20, 1940. Mrs. Francis asks a total of $53,500 for injuries she received and her husband asks $7,500 for medical and hospital care and $2,500 for damages.

Trustee Is Chosen — Neil H. Wright was elected a trustee of the First Presbyterian church at a congregational meeting held Sunday following the morning service, said Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor, who was moderator of the meeting. Other members of the trustees are L. C. Ellis, H. D. Woods, S. C. Wilson and H. E. Blocker. The congregation also approved a change in the resolution for a loan to finance a building program.

Returns From Holiday — Sgt. Richard Strawbridge of the district army recruiting office returned this morning from Fort Bliss where he spent the Fourth of July holiday.

pavement.

It was theorized, officials said, that the negro had planned to grab whoever stopped to investigate his presence in the road — either with intent to rob or to force someone to drive him to a farm eight miles away, where he had been employed.

Police said a Lubbock negro, Johnie D. Jefferson, had been seriously cut with a knife in the right ribs sector and that charges would be filed as soon as his condition indicated its eventual trend. The Jefferson negro was being treated in a sanitarium. Two other negroes were mixed up in the affray, which happened at a cafe, officials said.

Homes Burglarized

Two girls in 1500-block Fourteenth street informed police they had returned from a show and found a negro in their room. He ran and police squad car patrolmen found him in an alley, but the black escaped. Property valued at $29 was taken, but part of it was found scattered about.

Mrs. J. F. Hankins of 2309 Broadway reported someone had burglarized her residence, but that only a small amount of property had been taken.

Coupe Is Stolen

A dopehead who allegedly had stolen narcotics from a drugstore here had recovered consciousness and, officials said, been identified as a "four-times loser who had been paroled from a New Mexico life sentence provided he would leave the state."

A federal marshal from Fort Worth will be here for accepting custody of the "dopey," police said.

A light 1941 coupe was stolen from J. D. Moreland of Hockley county, from where it had been parked in 1000-block Thirteenth street.

Jack Slagle of 2119 Ninth street reported his bicycle had been stolen.

Clergyman Has Loan Agency For Members

KANSAS CITY, July 7. (AP)—Mrsgr. J. W. Keyes learned several of his parishioners were in financial trouble caused by high interest rates on small loans.

With a personal donation of $5,000 the Catholic clergyman established an agency from which members of his flock may borrow small sums, paying on handling charges—no interest.

In its first week's operation the agency has made eight loans ranging from $25 to $250.

SHERMAN, July 7. (AP)—Disabled American veterans yesterday elected Dwight E. McLean of Tyler state commander and named San Angelo as the 1942 convention site.

Teas Is Speaker At Jaycees' Luncheon

Lubbock is geographically located near a series of oil pools which destine it as a center of the oil business for the next 25 years, Paul C. Teas, president of the Ordovician Oil company, and president of the Permian Basin association, told members of the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce, in their luncheon today noon at the Hilton hotel.

"Of course there are a lot of uncertainties in the oil business but every indication points toward Lubbock being in the center of a gigantic oil field which won't be complete for the next 25 years," Teas said. He cited the recent discovery of granite in the test near Petersburg as one factor in the case, declaring that this discovery told for the first time where the north rim of the basin is and one that will have a bearing on geological reasoning in this area for years to come.

The trend of the basin is now in an easterly and westerly direction, Teas said and predicted that production in western Garza, Scurry and Lynn would be linked with that of other fields in the area.

fires were clearly seen," the air ministry reported.

"A great weight of high explosives and incendiaries was dropped on the Ruhr and Rhineland, especially Dortmund," it was added.

"Lighter attacks were made against Duesseldorf, Cologne, the port of Emden and the docks at Rotterdam," the air ministry said.

The docks at Brest, where the German warships Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen still are berthed, were said to have been bombed heavily.

"Extensive damage also was done to the naval base and harbor," the ministry added.

Six Planes Are Lost

Six British planes were lost in the night operations.

Three of a small force of German planes which crossed the English coast during the night were shot down.

Thousands of Britons sat along the southeast coast Sunday under a brilliant sun, listening to the drone of the British planes as they went over to the continent and returned, flying so high that they could not be seen.

The air ministry announced that the youngest member of the American Eagle fighter squadron had shot down a German Messerschmitt fighter during yesterday's sweeps.

Was About To Attack

"The Messerschmitt was about to attack one of our bombers when I gave it a burst," the pilot reported. "The hood came off the Messerschmitt and it went straight down, crashing near a woods. It might have been a 500 pound bomb. It hit the ground and blew up with a flash and a cloud of smoke."

(Several months ago the youngest member of the Eagle squadron was Gregory Augustus Raymond, 19, who gave his address as the American embassy, London. The youngest Eagle was credited with his first plane last week.)

The Senate resolution empowered the committee to investigate all phases of the campaign, including campaign contributions and expenditures as well as conduct of the election and canvass of the votes.

Canvass Set Monday

Official canvass of the election returns will be made here next Monday. On unofficial returns collected by the Texas Election Bureau, Governor O'Daniel was winner over Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson of Johnson City by 1,095 votes.

Until a late hour, election returns showed Johnson leading; but late returns showed a steady gain for O'Daniel on reports from the "forks of the creek" and parts of the state not closely connected with cities.

Offices of the internal revenue service here said that reports on the number of paid campaign workers and their salaries must be made but that the records are confidential. The records could be examined, however, by a U. S. Senate committee.

Youth's Body Washed On Shore To Father

NEW YORK, July 7. (AP)—Each dawn for seven days, early rising ocean-front residents at Edgemere, Long Island, saw Edward Steffens take up a lonely vigil on the boardwalk as the tide came in.

What Steffens watched for was his 11-year-old son, Edward, jr., whom he knew would be returned some day by the waves that claimed him while swimming June 28.

The father's patient watch ended yesterday. In a swirl of foam, his son's body was washed up on the sand.

Children Of Moscow Are Being Removed

MOSCOW, July 7. (AP)—A voluntary removal of children from Moscow is under way, although it was said officially tonight there is no compulsion for them to leave.

"Many parents want to take them away because of the psychological effects of possible bombings, and the government affords them full aid," it was said.

Some of the children are being taken by bus to country towns.

Gas Line Explosion Kills Two At Alice

ALICE, July 7. (AP)—Explosion of a gas line ripped up the floor of an oil derrick today, killing Aubrey Butler, 30, Kingsville, and James Clinton Watson, 29, Woodsboro, drillers.

The well was being holed by Gray and Wolfe, contractors, for a recycling plant near La Gloria, Texas.

Cause of the blast had not been determined.

Mr. Roosevelt did not indicate either, whether similar action might be taken against other stepping off points for a possible German attack on the western hemisphere.

But he has spoken of dangers which might be inherent in any Nazi control of such points as Dakar on the west coast of Africa and of the Cape Verde and Azores islands, which are Portuguese, and the Canary islands, which are Spanish.

Letter Is Revealed

Along with his message to Congress, Mr. Roosevelt sent to Capitol Hill the text of the letters exchanged between himself and the prime minister of Iceland.

Mr. Roosevelt received a letter from the prime minister on July 1 and replied the same day.

It was in line with an understanding reached in this exchange that the navy went into Iceland.

While the president has hesitated to draw a definite boundary line for the western hemisphere, some administration officials have said that Iceland was outside of the western hemisphere. The line demarcation, as these sources outlined it, passed between Greenland and Iceland.

Now the United States for the first time has taken over the actual protective duties heretofore carried out by the British troops. This will free the British for service elsewhere.

Employment Agency Busy During June

June was one of the most active months in the history of the Lubbock office of the Texas State Employment service according to announcement by Sam G. Wynn, manager of the office.

During the month, 1,637 new applications for work were received. Two hundred and seventy-eight placements were made to private employment. These placements represent a wide variety of occupations, such as stenographers, hospital utility men, domestic workers, sales ladies, bus boys, carpenters and many others. In addition to these placements, 13 farm hands were placed in regular farm jobs.

The active file of applications for work is about 6,000 and represents a very wide variety of occupations in the professional and commercial, skilled and industrial fields, as well as laborers and domestic workers.

Metal trades workers and shipbuilders are needed in defense industries and anyone experienced and interested in this type of work who is not now using his skills should contact the employment service office at 1207 Thirteenth street.

Two Die Of Injuries

In Dallas, two persons injured in traffic accidents during the holiday week end died. Three-year-old Carol Ann Riggs, who with her twin brother darted in front of a truck while attempting to board a bus, died in a Dallas hospital late Sunday. Herman Schluter, 48, died of injuries received in a highway accident that took the life of S. R. Harrison, also of Dallas.

At Shiner, Tex., funeral services were planned for Irene Maeker, 16, who died of a bullet wound in her back. Ernest Kulhanek, 21, her sweetheart, was charged with the murder.

Five Die In Planes

Five persons died in week end plane crashes. Ray Thomas, 30, was killed Saturday near Wichita Falls when his plane crashed from a height of 100 feet. Thomas L. Miller, 50, and his son, Lamont Anton Miller, 22, of Odessa, were killed Friday in New Mexico when the small private plane fell out of control.

Offices of the internal revenue service here said that reports on the number of paid campaign workers and their salaries must be made but that the records are confidential. The records could be examined, however, by a U. S. Senate committee.

Friday Al Arnold and Earl Sweatt were killed in the crash of a small plane near Amarillo.

The $19,307.84 paid to Texas Land and Mortgage Co. of Lubbock was the greatest amount paid to any Texas beneficiary. Second highest went to Texas Land and Development company of Plainview, $16,541.17, the report said.

Glass Likely To Be Next Senate Head

WASHINGTON, July 7. (AP)—Carter Glass, elderly statesman of Capitol Hill and stauch supporter of President Roosevelt's recent foreign policy after years of bitter opposition to the New Deal, was expected to become the president pro tempore of the United States Senate sometime this week.

The 83-year-old Virginian, a senator for the last 21 years of his half century of public service, was the choice of the democratic majority to succeed the late Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

Heavy Loss Of Life Recorded In Nation

(By The United Press)

The nation recorded a heavy loss in life today in its cost account for the Independence holiday week end.

Late reports showed at least 631 had been killed in accidents in 43 states. Automobile mishaps caused 407 deaths; fireworks, drownings, airplane crashes and other accidents caused 224.

The National Safety Council predicted the final count would show at least 475 of the estimated 30,000,000 on the highways would die in traffic accidents. Only five deaths were blamed on fireworks.

California reported the highest individual state total of 67, including 45 in automobile accidents. Illinois recorded 58 deaths, Indiana 36, New York 36, Pennsylvania 51 and Ohio 41.

States listing no fatalities were Delaware, Florida, Nevada, New Mexico and South Dakota.

RESIGNS FROM OFFICE

MORTON — James L. York, who has been deputy sheriff for some months, has resigned and moved away. He plans later to enter peace officer work, he said.

Behind The Scenes In Hollywood

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 7—The most cussed and dreaded ogre in the whole motion picture industry, until recently, is sitting at a new desk today and is at peace with everybody. Now and then he glances with pride and some amusement at a stack of more than 700 telegrams and letters tendering him the admiration, gratitude and best wishes of practically every executive, scenarist and director in Hollywood.

This congratulatory heap is no evidence of insincerity on the part of moviemakers. The fact is that during more than seven years of battling with Joe Breen — and of trying to trick him and getting caught at it — they all liked him, respected his unshakable integrity and recognized the enormous value of his services.

As director of the Production Code Administration for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association, he was identified less formally as "the Hays Office", and sometimes as "that —— —— Breen." He often forced costly changes and was accused of ruining many a film, unwisely undertaken before being cleansed.

HE was no sanctimonious reformer. Producers who tried to bluff and bluster him into making an exception to the code for them quickly discovered that Joe Breen could pound a desk as hard, yell as loudly and cuss as fluently as anybody. They also discovered that he took no malicious delight in purging their pictures of objectionable scenes and dialog; in fact, he never made a deletion without suggesting a substitution.

Sometimes he'd sit up all night with writers figuring ways to tell stories so that they'd be morally acceptable and yet would retain their dramatic values. Many a picture has been greatly improved by Breen's ideas and almost anybody who wasn't in the midst of an argument with him would admit that he had the best story mind in town.

It was last November that Breen told Will Hays that he wanted to quit. The job was wearing him out. For every picture actually produced in Hollywood in 1940, he read and corrected almost four complete scripts.

When it was learned that Breen planned to leave, studios and religious and professional groups made earnest appeals to keep him on the job. Toward the last, with the Producers Association still ignoring his request that a successor be chosen so that Breen could train him, they offered to double his salary. Not until he actually walked into RKO and assumed the duties of studio manager and vice president in charge of production did Hollywood realize that once more had the stocky, stubborn Irishman meant exactly what he said.

"I KNOW the production code and its applications," said Breen. "Lots of people in Hollywood haven't even read it. They don't realize that almost anything can be done in pictures if it is handled the right way.

"'The Primrose Path' dealt with prostitution, but it was perfectly acceptable under the code because it represented that sort of life as shameful and miserable. I got a lot of kicks from all over the country on that picture, but all I could say was that the theme seemed to have been handled with creditable taste."

Defense Bond Quiz

Q. How many types of defense bonds are on sale?

A. The Treasury has divided defense bonds into three groups: Series E, Series F and Series G. The Series E bonds are offered on the following terms, with maturity 10 years after issue date:

You Pay	You Receive
$18.75	$25.00
37.50	50.00
75.00	100.00
375.00	500.00
750.00	1,000.00

Series F and G bonds are for persons or corporations that make a practice of investing larger earnings and are available in denominations from $100 to $10,000.

(Note.—To purchase defense bonds and stamps, go to the nearest post office or bank, or write for information to the treasurer of the United States, Washington, D. C.)

The Sacred Dagger

BY RITA MORLER HANSON
(Copyright, 1941, for The Journal)

YESTERDAY: In order to escape the Emir of Yangsar, who has a nasty way with white visitors to the Mongolian desert, Anne Willard has married Blaze Sherwood by a native ceremony. Blaze has saved the Emir's life, and a wife was his reward. Now they have set out, ostensibly to the castle that was supposed to have been Anne's dowry; actually they hope to reach the desert camp of Anne's parents.

Chapter Eleven
NEW TRAP

Presently they were speeding across the desert behind galloping white horses followed by Mackey and several armed outriders on racing camels.

Said Anne, "From the way the women in the harem wailed when I left you'd think this was a funeral instead of a wedding."

"You may be right," said Sherwood in a troubled voice. "Something has gone wrong."

"What do you mean?" she asked quickly recalling the Princess' tears at their parting. Her grief had been excessive.

"While you were changing into this black traveling robe I went out into the street where the carriage waited. A crowd had collected as usual. Among them appeared Doddap, still free, though the authorities were combing the city for him. He told me that the Emir's Persian daughter had been accidentally killed in the rioting of the night before, her body identified by the fact concealed by order of her father."

Anne was too stunned at first to comprehend, and as the truth finally dawned on her she cried; "Then he knew I was an imposter!"

Sherwood nodded.

"But the Princess wasn't aware of his knowledge."

"Not at first. You speak of the wailing in the harem last night."

"They knew last night and wouldn't tell?"

"It looks that way."

"The Princess let me give her all my money. She began crying when she took it . . . said I wouldn't have use for it any more. I thought that was strange so I explained I was doing it because I felt grateful and would be with my parents tonight."

"The Emir has also discovered that you're the girl to whom the priest gave the sacred dagger of Shy-a Nago. He'd rather have that treasure than his present throne."

"Then why did he let me go, and let me keep the dagger? Gratitude to you?"

"Hardly," said Sherwood with a mirthless laugh. "I can't conceive of a spark of gratitude in his corrupt carcass. I've always distrusted him. He let that dagger go because he's afraid of it. He has a wholesome respect for Nagara prophecy."

"But if Nagara prophecy says the man who marries me is entitled to the dagger—"

"He considered that the lama tells me, but decided it was no good."

"Thank heavens," murmured Anne devoutly. "No wonder I have been feeling depressed and didn't know why."

The carriage stopped at a serai for a change of horses. Anne drew her veil across her face, Mackey rode up beside them. He was in high spirits.

"Did you get the one you bargained for?" he asked.

"Bargained for?" Anne demanded, lifting her clear wine-brown eyes.

"Didn't he tell you?" Mackey queried. "The princess came to him. 'Will you bargain to marry the white girl?' she asked."

"Mackey," Sherwood objected, but his friend went on.

"Blaze just about swallowed his tongue trying to say 'yes ma'am' quick enough. They bargained and she promised to put a bug in the Emir's ear — recommend that he award the fellow his Persian daughter in marriage—"

"Along with a castle in the desert," interrupted Sherwood. "What did he mean by that? I'd understand a castle in the mountains or in an oasis."

No Secret

Mackey put up a hand to stop him and went on with his story. "—and she promised to substitute you for the dusky gal if this same fellow would promise to deliver a shipment of arms to a certain station on the border when he arrives in Shani Lun."

"Well," gasped Anne.

"Then," Sherwood laughed, "she gave me your note. She's some schemer."

"Note? What note?" demanded Mackey. "You never showed me any note?"

"Can't a bridegroom have any secrets from you?" his friend demanded.

"Bridegroom! You're no bridegroom. You're just a means of escape. If I'd knocked the Emir down I'd be riding in the carriage now instead of on this overgrown jackrabbit." He bent towards Anne. "Miss Willard, I take it for granted you want me to hang round as chaperon — keep things respectable like . . ."

"Naturally," she said, her eyes dancing.

"I see," he grinned, taking advantage of her answer. "Don't trust him eh? Has he been—"

"Pete Mackey," she pleaded laughingly. "Will you please stop this teasing? How soon will we reach Chuka?"

"By mid-afternoon at the rate we're going." He put his hand to his hat. The horses were ready. The driver mounted and they struck off with a bound.

A canyon opened up before them and led down to a river bed containing a flow of water muddy from the storm of the night before.

"Does Pete know that you spoke with the lama?" Anne asked.

"You saw—he was so busy talking that I didn't have a chance to tell him. But if we're on the right road maybe there's nothing to worry about and the Emir has good reasons for sending us safely along." She was aware however that he didn't believe the statement.

The horses had slowed to a trot and then to a walk as boulders and fresh slides made the road all but impassable.

"I wonder if I could take off this hot robe?" said Anne restlessly.

"What are you wearing underneath?" Sherwood demanded, fanning her with his helmet.

She laughed. "The tweed I wore in the airplane."

"It may be a shock to our driver and footman to see the Emir's daughter expose her face and emerge in American clothing."

"Do you care?"

"Not at all. But before he helped her remove the garment he looked back for Mackey and received a reassuring shout and wave of the hand from among the mounted men. "Since the Emir knows," he still debated, "can there be any harm in letting these men know?"

"Perhaps they know already," Anne suggested.

He leaned forward to speak to them and received respectful answers. "They know who you are," he said presently, reaching an arm across her shoulder to help remove the garment. "And they've given me some new information. They declare that the Nagara tribesmen are pledged to avenge you should you be—this sounds rather gruesome but the word they used was 'murdered.' So it appears that you're pretty safe."

"But you're still worried," she accused.

"Doddap was crying when he left me today. He implied though, that I would find my reward in heaven — which is really longer than I wish to wait," he ended with that engaging smile of his.

Friendly Enemies

She laughed and allowed his charm to have its way with her now that they were about to part. "Tell me more of Doddap's prophecy."

"When he first began to see you in his visions and to tell me you were coming he vowed that if I'd go to you, just stay in your vicinity, put myself in the hands of the 'Invisible One' as he worded it; make no plans, simply carry out each day whatever activity came to hand, then fate would give me the right to explore and preserve Shy-a Nago."

In spite of herself Anne felt stirred. "Do you believe it?"

"I don't seem to believe anything until I experience it. But I was so desirous of such an ultimate fate that, as I told you before, I performed the initial act of faith — flew to Jus Masor that Saturday and found you there as he had predicted I would. You can imagine my emotions."

They were passing close to the water's edge with the river less turbulent here in preparation for a falls below. A pair of Mandarin ducks lit on the stream and went swimming about like a little team held together by an invisible harness. Anne leaned forward to look at them across Sherwood.

"Symbol of conjugal fellcity, according to the Chinese," said he. "A fine omen for us."

"Do you talk like this to all the girls?" she asked plaintively.

He shook his head. "Only those I marry."

She glanced at him with shrewd amusement. "Would you give up your association with the Government of Shani Lun for me?"

"Sorry," he said, looking straight ahead.

"Or your idea that an American museum should not carry away the relics of Shy-a nago?"

"Afraid not."

She looked at her stained fingernails distastefully. "I told the Princess that you can take awfully good care of yourself where a girl is concerned."

"I can take darned good care of the right girl, too. Don't you want me to be that way?"

"Of course I do. I admire people who can take care of themselves, know what they want out of life and go after it."

He turned and rested an arm along the back of the seat.

"Would you give up your parents for me?"

"Why do you ask that?"

"A wife is supposed to give up her father and mother and brothers and sisters and cleave to her husband."

"A girl is supposed to marry a man who can get along with her parents. Besides, you're not my husband," she flushed lightly, "I didn't sign any papers."

"Women aren't supposed to be able to write in this benighted country. Nor have they the right of divorce."

"I wish," she murmured, "that I knew what you are really thinking back of all those idle words."

"He gave her a swift glance, "Smart girl," he commented, "truth is, I'm afraid if I don't watch out I'll fall in love with you."

She laughed gaily, quoting Fletcher, "Tell me dearest, what is Love?"

NEED FOR STREET LIGHTS GROWS ACUTE

People of Lubbock have been most patient about the deficiencies in the city's street lighting.

But they and the officials of the city undoubtedly recognize that the situation is one which demands immediate correction, if it is at all possible to correct it.

The aviation training school is going to bring large numbers of people here. Among those attracted to Lubbock will be the worst kind of criminals. They will include hijackers, safe cracksmen, burglars, sex criminals and murderers. All will be looking for the "easy money" they will expect to be abundant in this city. An unlighted street will be the ideal spot for their workings.

For our part and no matter how blameless our officials might be, we would not care to be in their shoes if the blame for some terrifying crime could be laid to the absence of a street light at a spot where one should be located.

Hundreds Of Little Sub-Capitals Now Popping Up

Washington's Offices Are Overcrowded

BY PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 7—All the hullabaloo about the overcrowding of government offices in Washington, plus the expansion of defense agencies, plus the fact that some of the defense agencies themselves have been forced to set up field offices in other cities—all these things call attention to the fact that in spite of the concentration of authority in the capital, federal activities now reach down to so many levels of local administration that there are now literally hundreds of sub-capitals, little Washingtons, in every area.

EDSON

Skip entirely the activities of the 46,000 postoffices with their 233,000 workers, comprising the world's biggest business, handling $4 billion a year. Skip the WPA with its relief projects in nearly every community and its million-and-up wage-earners. Skip the draft boards and the censustakers. Consider just the regular federal administrative agencies which have branch offices outside of Washington and you get unbelievable totals.

Consciously or not, your federal government is taking over so many functions which deal directly with the people, and not through the states or smaller units of local government, that if the trend goes on, the entire pattern of administration will be changed.

GRASS ROOTS GOVERNMENT

ADVENT of the defense program has hastened this movement. As the Office of Production Management expanded, several of its divisions have found that they must have more sub-headquarters to keep in touch with local conditions.

The training within industry program of OPM was the first to branch out, establishing 22 field offices. Then the defense contract service, organized to assist in subcontracting, put 12 regional headquarters in each of the Federal Reserve districts. The purchasing division, to buy local produce for Army training camps, put in 12 main advisory buyers with an additional 24 sub-offices to help the quartermaster corps with the food problem. The information service then branched out with 12 regional offices, again picking Federal Reserve cities for their sectional headquarters. Latest of the OPM agencies to open regional offices is the priorities section.

The tendency to pick for regional headquarters the 12 cities which are the Federal Reserve "capitals" is most pronounced. Department of Commerce, in the reorganization of its field service, follows this pattern, and so general has it become that the Federal Reserve cities are gradually becoming the 12 most important "little Washingtons" in the country. To show the extent to which this is true, it is only necessary to list the cities and give the number of agencies which have branch offices in each. Here is the score:

City	Federal Offices
Boston	101
New York	185
Philadelphia	85
Cleveland	70
Richmond	65
Atlanta	87
Chicago	191
St. Louis	109

Edson's Column

states have their offices in these cities. Detroit, in the Chicago district, has 83 federal offices. Texas has 733 federal offices in 78 cities.

STATE BOUNDARIES NO BARRIERS

THE Federal Reserve districts pay no attention to state lines. Missouri, for instance, is the only state with two Federal Reserve banks. Each district is as near an economic unit as it could possibly be, which gives the 12 districts a logical, if ungeographic reason for being. This again makes this dozen cities natural choice in any scheme for decentralizing the country.

There has been no systematic study of this whole problem since the National Resources Committee published its report on regional factors in national planning, six years ago. At that time, New York had 69 federal agencies, Chicago 66 and San Francisco 73. Compare those figures with the table and you'll see how the babies have grown.

The NRC report emphasized there was far from any degree of unanimity among federal administrators on how the country should be divided. Studying 74 agencies, the report showed they had split the country in 108 regional schemes which made use of from one to 307 divisions. More than half, however, used fewer than 10 areas, and the scheme of 12 regions was by far the most popular.

The old state lines seemed to be meaning less and less.

Nazis Must Maintain Speed Or Suffer, Is Claim

Reds Not 'Out' By Any Means

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Journal War Analyst

Marked stiffening of Russian resistance to the Nazi invasion and a slowing down of the Hitlerian drive are the outstanding developments at the beginning of the third week of the Russo-German holocaust.

Not only has there been a hardening of the Bolshevist defense, but Moscow reports heavy Soviet counter-attacks from north to south along the attenuated battle-line, especially in the crucial center on the bloody Berezina river.

This demonstration that the Reds still possess the power of initiative is a bright spot for Britain and her allies. The fact that the Bolshevists are able to stage any sort of offensive, after the fortnight of terrific punishment which they have undergone, is proof that their strength for resistance hasn't been shattered.

Delay May Change Outcome

It would be a mistake, however, to jump to the conclusion that the Nazi operations have bogged down. It would be equally unwise to try to form definite conclusions at this juncture as to how much the Muscovite strength may have been undermined.

There is no doubt that the Communists' fierce opposition has retarded Hitler's invasion in marked degree, and likely has upset the German schedule, which calls for extreme speed. It is even possible that this delay may be the determining factor of the outcome of this titantic struggle.

Nazis Need Rest

Still, it must not be overlooked that the Nazi drive would have slowed of its own weight and exertions. The Germans have raced across a vast amount of territory. Not only are their communications extended, but since the human body can stand only so much, the Nazi troops must be given a breather. Furthermore, the invaders now being up against the Stalin line, they must slacken their offensive in order to consolidate their position and bring up supplies.

We are on the verge of another phase of one of the greatest, perhaps the greatest, struggles of all time. We must wait to see what happens along the Stalin line before we shall be able to gauge the trend of the conflict closely.

Goal Is Quick Victory

Irrespective of whether the Russians can hold that line, they may lay the ground for an ultimate victory if they are able to interpose sufficient strength to turn the blitzkrieg into a war of attrition. As I have remarked before, if Hitler cannot win a quick victory over the Bolshevists, he will have done himself a vast disservice by undertaking his invasion.

While the Russians are making this fresh stand, the British report a continuation of the heavy bombing of Germany and occupied territory by the Royal Air Force. It's a long jump from Germany's industrial Ruhr region to the Berezina river, but the intensified British air attacks represents invaluable assistance for Russia and coordination of the Anglo-Russian efforts against Nazidom.

The switching of the Hitlerian air power to the eastern front has presented the British was a grand opportunity. It is a chance which won't occur again, and the outcome of the war will be greatly influenced by the way in which the Allies take advantage of this situation.

The moon shines when it's springtime in Kentucky

Stills That "Bloom" In Spring Keeping "Revenooers" On Jump

(Associated Press Feature Service)

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 7. — The moonshiner, who got the name from working at night, has switched to daytime operations. And this change, federal alcohol tax agents report, is only one of a number in the illicit whisky trade.

Once notorious for exercising his shooting eye when a "revenooer" came around, the moonshiner also has abandoned gunplay. Experience has taught him, the agents explain, that the revenue men carry long-range rifles and know how to use them. They even have a new weapon designed to spray slugs through automobile bodies.

"Industry" Still Booming

Night work now is confined to the transporter, a comparative newcomer to the game, who finds the darkness more suitable for bridging the gap between still and hip pocket.

But the changes do not mean an end to moonshining, and the stills are blooming with the springtime in Kentucky.

Moonshiners parade before United States District Judge H. Church Ford here twice annually.

"I jest couldn't make a livin' out of that farm of mine," say those who own farms. The agents report, however, that the average moonshiner's farm is untilled—and that moonshining runs in families.

"Tips" Pay Off

How do agents locate stills?

More often than not "tips" come from law-abiding citizens. In one unusual case, a father "turned in" his own son, with whom he had been living in a one-room mountain cabin for years. Pressed for explanation of his motive, the father explained his son had brought home a bride forcing the father to sleep outdoors.

El Pasoan Is Jailed For Chasing Autos

EL PASO, July 7 (U.P.)—Ricardo Corona's life is endangered by his own reckless conduct, but El Paso police solved the problem by putting him in jail to keep him from accidentally killing himself.

When he was ordered to go home and quit loafing in El Paso night clubs, Corona dashed into the street and started chasing cars, trying to run into them.

Police verified the fact that passing automobiles seemed to infuriate Corona.

Burglar Keeps Word; Makes Return Visit

BRISTOL, Conn., July 7 (U.P.)—This town has a "phantom burglar" who keeps his word.

On New Year's day he ransacked a Boy Scout cabin and penned on the back of a calendar:

"January 1, 1941. The Phantom has struck. I will be back again. Happy New Year."

He came back, as promised, a few weeks later.

ROCKING CHAIR GARDENER

GRANDFIELD, Okla. (AP)—John Lawson had a fine Bermuda grass lawn but in the midst of one of the wettest spells this region has experienced he found the grass was growing too fast for him. So he plowed it all under and sowed blackeyed peas. Now he leans back in an easy chair watching his crop mature while the neighbors struggle with lawn mowers.

Led by Mrs. Gladys Gordon Fry, known as "The Bird Lady," a party of nature lover from the United States will study the fauna and flora of South America's west coast including ruins of the great Chimu Empire, and Chan Chan, the city of sand, in Peru.

steal for a run in the eighth, catching the Hubs flatfooted.

Peterson's homer in the second scored Riordan and Webster, and Riordan's single in the third scored Manager Nell, who had doubled.

Nell. Willingham Cut Up

In the nightmare—pardon, the nightcap, the two old folks of the Borger squad, Hugh Willingham and Manager Nell, had a lot of fun and got half of the eight hits given up by Steve Sakas and Leonard Heinz.

Wildness and slouchy pitching and errors caused Manager Engle to take over the mound for the seventh inning, after going in as pinch hitter and banging a single in the sixth. Engle's presence didn't help much, however, because the Hubbers went right on making errors and letting in three unearned runs. Nearest thing the Gassers got to a hit off Engle was an easy grounder toward first base which Bob Rivera watched go by. Mahan turned in a couple of swell errors at short for the other two runs.

The Hubs started the second game smartly enough, Mahan—who got three singles in a row—Rivera and Castino getting hits for two runs, after which they got plenty of hits off Clem Hausman but never at the right time. They got three hits in the fifth, but would have never scored without help of Borger's lone error.

Borger piled up four runs off three walks, a wild pitch and three hits in the third, and the Gassers probably could have gotten more down the line if THEY had hustled a little more.

English Blitz Family Takes Name Of Bliss

LONDON, July 7 (U.P.) — Charlie Blitz, of Clapton, has had enough of his name, and has decided to get rid of it.

Neighbors, office friends, colleagues in the A.R.P. organization twitted him, asked about "Adolf" and "Hermann." They talked about things not going quite to plan.

Mrs. Blitz, too, had a lot of chaff to stand from the grocer and the butcher. And the little Britzes at school were asked what it was like at the other end of the blitzkrieg.

So the Blitzes have decided to change their name to Bliss.

Important mercury deposits have been found near Leon, Mexico, where, according to old records, Jesuit missionaries of the 17th century discovered mercury, but never developed the finds.

College "Fun" In Old Days Was Precarious

HAMILTON, N. Y., July 7 (U.P.) —College fun was hard work in the old days, according to a page from the diary of the late Delavan Daniel Dean, Colgate '77, which read:

"Monday, May 8, 1876—Walked back to Hamilton this morning. At Eaton I came across Richardson (William Durant Richardson, later a noted ceramic engineer) and we came over together. He told me about a time they had Saturday evening at Hamilton. About 100 boys went down to the old barn that belongs to Mott, down in front of the academy, and tore it all down after taking out the horse and cow. Mott is mad and proposes to make a fuss. It is reported that he has sued the county and the boys are to be sent up to Auburn (penitentiary). We await further developments with fear and trembling."

Records did not reveal the outcome.
