Absentee Voting Begins

No Write-Ins Allowed For Primary Election

The Mitchell County Clerk's office has received 12 absentee votes for the May 6 Democratic primary election since absentee voting got underway Monday.

Absentee voting will continue until May 2, four days before the election.

This year Mitchell County has a record number of persons registered as eligible voters.

The high number of registrations is indicative of the high interest in the contested races in the county as well as hot state races.

Also, in regards to the voter registration is the fact that the record number of voters includes for the first time 18, 19 and 20-year-old individuals.

Another possible reason for the high number is the extended length of time for voter registration which was made possible by a bill passed by the last state legislature allowing voters to vote in any election provided that register at least 30 days prior to casting a ballot.

Previously, voters were required to register by Jan. 31 in order to vote in any elections during that ensuing year.

NO WRITE-INS

During the past few weeks there has been growing speculation on the possibilities of several write-in campaigns for a local office.

However, County Democratic Chairman Tom Rees said write-ins are not allowed in the primary election, except for the office of county Democratic chairman and Democratic chairman of Precinct No. 7.

However, Rees said write-ins will be allowed in the general election.

Those considering mounting a write-in campaign for one particular office have indicated to the Record they probably will wait several months before making a decision on a possible write-in for the general election.

A great deal of interest has been created locally by a number of races including those for county attorney, sheriff and commissioner races in Precinct 1 and 3.

Perry Barber and Joe Earnest (as listed on the ballot) are seeking the post of county attorney being vacated as the result of the resignation by Dan Barber.

W.R. (Bill) McGuire, Forrest Smith and R.L. (Roy) Richard (as listed on the ballot) are seeking the job of sheriff to succeed retiring sheriff Lewis Claxton.

In Precinct 1, Commissioner W.M. (Marcus) Vest is seeking re-election and being contested by Orin Feaster and Jack Long.

In Precinct 3, Commissioner

Drug Program Set For Schools, Lions

The Colorado City Noon Lions Club will bring to town a pair of speakers well-versed on the narcotics problem.

The pair will talk to students in the schools here Thursday and Friday and will present the program during the weekly meeting of the Noon Lions Club at noon Friday in Civic House.

The public is invited to the Lions Club Meeting. Reservations must be made for those wishing to eat their noon meal at the meeting. Reservations can be made by phoning the Chamber of Commerce office, 728-3403, before Friday.

For those who want only to hear the program, it will begin about 12:25 p.m. Friday.

The two speakers are Joe Lee Kirkpatrick, a reformed narcotics addict, and James Hicks, now a candidate for his PhD degree from Texas A&M University in educational psychology.

Kirkpatrick has been working with young people for several years in an effort to warn them of the dangers of drug usage. Young people pay attention when Kirkpatrick speaks as it is the voice of experience.

Here is Kirkpatrick's life as told by Hicks:

"Joe Lee Kirkpatrick is a married, 35-year-old father of two sons. He grew up in Houston and at the age of 13 began to use marijuana.

"After later using narcotics of a great variety and being arrested on several occasions by the Houston Police Department and Harris County's Sheriff's Department, he was sentenced to the Texas Department of Corrections.

"In the late 1950's, he served for 2 years inside the Central Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections and was released only to promptly return to the use and sale of herion in the Houston area. After some 12 years of drug abuse, Joe Lee committed his life and drug problem to Christ in October of 1964.

"Since that time, Joe Lee has obtained the spiritual strength to live without any need for or the use of illegal narcotics or synthetic drugs.

"Prior to his conversion to Christ he sought help from the Federal Narcotics Hospital in Fort Worth, Texas and any other source of strength available. He had concluded that suicide was likely his only way out from his bondage to narcotics when he heard that Jesus Christ was 'The Way, The Truth, The Life.'

"Since 1964, Joe Lee has become chaplin of the Harris County Jail and Juvenile Detention Home. He became director of a drug withdrawal center in Houston called 'Giant Step.'

"Joe has obtained a full pardon

TOWN TALK

By MAC McKINNON

Everyone should be interested in the action of the city council and school board.

But have you ever tried to attend the meetings of both of these groups in a particular month?

If you have, you discovered it's virtually impossible. Both groups hold their monthly meetings on the same night, the second Monday night of the month.

Both meetings begin at 7:30 p.m.

Now it is possible to attend the city council meeting and then get to the school board meeting in time to hear part of the agenda in time to hear part of the agenda, or vice versa.

And it's true that an individual probably wouldn't have a particular reason to attend the the meetings of both groups during any one month.

But, that occasion might arise. Since both are public bodies, they owe it to the public they serve to make it as easy as possible for everyone to attend their meetings.

Surely, one group could change its meeting to another night.

Educators Cite C-City

National Interest On Bilingual

It's happening again for Colorado City's innovative public school program.

The inquiries from educators are coming from across the nation.

School administrators and teachers from a wide area of Texas are traveling here for a eye-view study.

And, it is all because of Colorado Independent School District's new educational pacesetter--bilingual education.

Stirring up exceptional interest from educators throughout Texas, all around the Southwest region and, yes, across the nation is nothing new for Colorado City's school system.

This has been a fact of school life here in recent years as Colorado City has pioneered in several areas of public school educational methods.

These advancements have brought national attention and special citation from the National Education Association for the effective use of teacher aides (personnel) and the coordination of visual aides (films, film strips, etc.) for stronger instructional program and improved classroom techniques.

Now, the bilingual program -- which next fall enters its third year as a pilot program for West Texas -- is lifting the eyes of educators from here to the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

The bilingual project is proposing next year a federal funding of $70,850 (paid for by federal money instead of local taxpayer cash) to include 4 kindergarten units, 3 first grade units with a supplementary first grade teacher and 3 second grade units with a supplementary second grade teacher.

The '72 - '73 proposal is for each the first and second grades in Kelley Elementary to consist of 5 classrooms, 3 of which will be classified bilingual with the sixth supplementary teacher in each grade specializing in Spanish reading.

For the first time since the bilingual project was introduced 2 years ago in kindergarten, bilingual will incorporate the entire faculty and student body of Kelley Elementary. This assures that all children will have some oral Spanish as well as English instruction each day next year.

Bilingual education is new in public education, but appraised as a definite need by educators. Here in Texas it is likely to be required by the State Education Agency. So, Colorado City is pioneering and every method for curriculum and instruction developed here is a guideline for schools which are beginning tc follow.

CONVERSATION CORNER

PEOPLE in this world are largely made up of attitudes and opinions. The words and feeling of attitudes and opinions are similar. They are not synonyms. There are some big differences.

People form opinions. Attitudes form people.

Webster distinguishes between the two by saying attitude is a feeling or mood and that opinion is a belief stronger than an impression but less strong than absolute knowledge.

Ah, how true! And the air is so full of opinions right now you get the feeling that nobody much knows anything much absolutely, any more.

ATTITUDES require less thought and do not necessarily need loud words to proclaim them.

Attitudes are feelings and you, yourself, may not even know when, why, or how you got them.

An attitude can make you feel superior because you happen to be rich, highly educated, or simply beautiful.

An attitude can make you feel inferior just because you don't have much money, did not finish college, and feel a bit on the homely side.

HOWEVER it is and why ever it is, everybody is full of attitudes.

Ever examine any of yours? Do you feel that honor is more important than fame? That to have a few trusted friends is more satisfying than to be a celebrity?

How generous is your attitude toward people of other creeds, other races, other countries?

What is your attitude toward the so-called generation gap? Toward the ones getting old or already very old? Toward the very young who are so eager and so vulnerable at the same time?

What is your attitude toward people who are somehow different--retarded, deformed, helpless, sick? Is it the attitude of kindness, love, understanding? Or do you just turn away?

HOW about your attitude toward mistakes made by other people? Will your attitude let you forgive?

Does that forgiveness include wrongs and injustices done to you? Or is your attitude one of resentment the rest of your life?

You can waste a lot of time resenting.

Giggled all day after reading that the Feminists resent the word hurricane. They, the little women with the Feminist attitude, want the devasting storm called "him-i-canes."

They also take the attitude that the "him-i-canes" should be named after men and not be designated by feminine names all the time. They want 'em called George, Clarence, Bertram, Herbert of something.

To tell the truth had rather be Ruth if I have to be a "him-i-cane."

Guest Speaker For Esther Class Meet

"We should do good every opportunity we have," Mrs. Newt Miller told members of Esther Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church Tuesday in home of Mrs. R. L. Moseley.

Mrs. Miller, a guest of the class, quoted Bibical authors and recent writers who talked of "doing good deeds."

She explained that the authors were saying each morning is a new creation, a new opportunity, another chance, another challenge to walk on stronger, more forgiving and more loving.

"We should open each day with as much reverence as if it were a gift, wrapped and presented personally to us-which it is," Mrs. Miller advised.

Sometimes we are so busy with menial tasks that we fail to see beauty around us, fail to appreciate friends, fail to accomodate a neighbor, the class was told.

The guest speaker encouraged class members to "use your abilities and talents that God has given you," explaining "As long as we are still here, God expects us to be busy about His business."

In concluding devotional thoughts Mrs. Miller suggested "Let's start sowing our seeds of service every day while there is time. Let's look for opportunities."

A brief business session was opened with prayer by Mrs. H. B. Graves and conducted by Mrs. Lester Watson, outreach leader.

Hostess served refreshments to Mrs. Alton Moore of Sweetwater and Mrs. Miller, guests; Mrs. A. H. Jackson, Mrs. A. C. Benson, Mrs. John Bell, Mrs. Paul Beeman, Mrs. E. L. Tiller.

Health-Rite natural vitamins. They cost more than synthetics. Are they worth it?

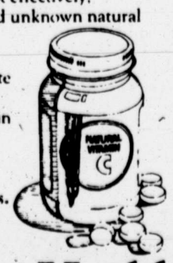

Naturally. Because natural vitamins come from natural sources. Synthetic vitamins are made in the laboratory. So they can usually be made for less money.

But here's the catch. In nature, many elements occur together—vitamins, minerals, enzymes, and amino acids. They all work together to help your body use nutrients.

In making synthetics, only the vitamin itself is isolated and produced. All other elements that might work with vitamins in nature are left out.

What does your body really need? Research indicates that to use vitamins most effectively, your body needs some known and unknown natural elements as well.

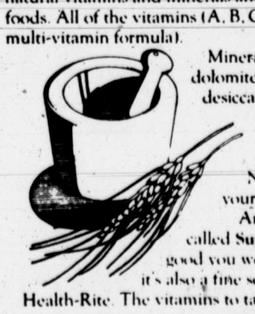

For example, Vitamin D is necessary for the body to assimilate calcium. And calcium works together with phosphorus. Vitamin A helps the body use Vitamin E. In most natural sources, those elements occur together.

Health-Rite natural vitamins. Where are they? Buying natural vitamins has not always been easy. Mostly, you had to find a health food store.

Now there's a pharmaceutical company producing a full line of natural vitamins and minerals and health foods. And selling them where you can find them. Easily.

A health store in your drugstore. Most drugstores have the big Health-Rite Health Food Center—a miniature store stocked with dozens of natural vitamins and minerals and some health foods. All of the vitamins (A, B, C, D, E, and a special multi-vitamin formula).

Mineral supplements like dolomite and bone meal, desiccated beef liver tablets and multi-minerals. Protein supplements. Natural ways to help your digestion.

And an organic food called Supro that tastes so good you won't even care that it's also a fine source of protein.

Health-Rite. The vitamins to take. Naturally.

Letters To Editors

Are you a Senior Citizen? Yes, if you are 55 or older.

As a Senior Citizen myself, I am interested in doing things for them and helping you do things for others and yourself.

We have just returned from attending the Governor's Committee on Aging Convention and learned we as a town and county can do much more for our Senior Citizens if we will put forth the time and effort.

We were privileged to hear such distinguished speakers as John B. Martin, Commissioner, Administration on Aging, from Washington, C. D., Dr. Arthur Flemming, Special Consultant to the President on Aging, Washing, D. C. and many other good speakers through the workshops.

They told us of the many services for the aging that can be done here such as Library services for the blind, the partly blind that need large print, talking books, casette machines, outreach services to the rest home and hospitals, letters and visits on person to person basis. The Meal on Wheels for home-bound patients that they may stay in their homes longer instead of rest homes.

Tutoring classes for slow learners, the Green Thumb and Green Light program for rural Senior adults, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program who serve without compensation, but may be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses such as transportation and meals.

Another interesting program is the Foster Grandparent program where Senior Citizens work with handicapped children for 2 hours a day.

Also there are educational activities such as workshops, traveling exhibits and multimedia show available for the asking.

At the recent conference, President Nixon announced the highest level of funding yet for programs to aid the elderly. He said the budget of the administration on aging had been increased to $100 million, the Retired Senior Volunteers Program to $15 million, and the Foster Grandparent Program to $25 million.

Two months after the conference, the Congress passed the nutrition bill providing funds for daily hot meals for the nation's elderly.

So, why can't our Senior Citizens get more of the privileges. Senior Citizens lets work at it please.

Thank you so much Mitchell County for the privilege of the opportunity of representing our county at this convention of Governor's Committee on Aging in Houston, Texas, April 12-14, 1972.

EDUCATORS

nandez, who directs the bilingual program on a national level from Washington, D.C., describes Colorado City's project as "more in line for accountability" than any other project.

That is a compliment you can't dismiss with a shrug. It means that Kelley Elementary is getting the job done in the best manner under the guidelines developed by the nation's experts.

So, it is no wonder that Kelley Principal Esten Blackmon, Bilingual Director Mrs. Wallace Price and Supt. Lloyd McKee are busy constantly answering inquiries about Colorado City's successful pilot project.

Odessa, Lubbock, Abilene, San Angelo, Sweetwater and Snyder have sent administrators and teachers to Colorado City to study the program. Their observers visited classrooms, conferred with the project director, checked the project's audit, discussed curriculum and plans so that their schools can make the best of principles established here.

Inquiries for details have come from school systems in San Diego, Calif.; Ashley, Penn.; Joliet, Ill., Mission and Robstown in Texas, Washington, D.C., plus two school systems in Maryland, another in California and one in New Mexico.

When Colorado City administrators or bilingual teachers travel to conferences and workshops in their special field, representatives from other schools crowd around them for information.

Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Crystal City, Edinburg are among those who have learned with data from the local project obtained at conferences.

Bay City adminstrators cornered Supt. McKee recently at a national meeting in San Francisco, Calif., to obtain know-how for their school system.

Request for data are frequent and detailed enough that McKee and his staff, to save time for the bilingual staff, have compiled a printed brochure that is mailed to inquirers. It's a brochure that would draw applause from the Chamber of Commerce, too, because it's jacket proclaims Colorado City, Texas, as the site for this educational progress.

It is the successful reputation of the program here that is drawing all the interest from other schools as they also plan to move into the bilingual field.

Abiline, the first to travel to Colorado City, went back home to convert its bilingual laboratory materials to the pattern developed here -- where lab materials are developed to meet the exact situation in the class room instead of generalizing with a regional or national criteria.

A professor from San Angelo State University, who also is an evaluator for San Angelo Public Schools, came to visit and left praising the manner in which Colorado City pupils studing both languages -- Spanish and English -- simultaneously.

One of the country's major reading firms sent its consultant here to observe how the Spanish reading program was being developed so effectively.

Texas Education Agency's experts cited Colorado City especially for its innovative program in bilingual kindergarten.

When Colorado City program moves into its third year next fall--the original plan of achievement was mapped for a 5-year period, it still will be "learning" to develop and adjust the program to local needs of the individual student and his or her community.

However, the program will be far ahead of most communities across the nation. And, yc can be sure, more and more schools will be watching Colorado City for experience and know-how that will start the same type bilingual educations for their communities.
