Lance Questions Inevitable at News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and his longtime friend Bert Lance reportedly are nearing a decision on whether Lance will keep his job as head of the Office of Management and Budget.

Carter scheduled a news conference today and there were indications that some sort of decision on the Lance affair would be forthcoming, although Press Secretary Jody Powell discouraged speculation Tuesday that an announcement would be made.

Lance played doubles tennis with Carter as his teammate Tuesday and the former Georgia banker was described by an aide that night as saying he has "no intention of resigning."

But there were two developments Tuesday that appeared to erode Lance's position.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, who visited Carter on Monday night, was believed to have urged the President for the second time to let Lance go.

The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee released new testimony by a government lawyer, indicating that Lance actively sought to clear his record with federal bank examiners.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Times quoted White House aides in today's edition as saying Carter had left it up to Lance to decide whether he should resign, but both were weighing the politics of the situation.

Powell said Tuesday that Carter would not be swayed by public opinion about his old friend and the Los Angeles Times said one senior White House aide had heard

Carter telling Lance during a Monday meeting, "Bert, come back and let me know what you think."

The newspaper said one Carter aide pictured the President as anxious to hold the press conference, despite the certainty of a flood of Lance questions, and quoted the aide as saying, "He said he's tired of hiding and wants to get on with it."

Byrd revealed his Monday meeting with Carter, but refused to say what the two had discussed. Before Lance's testimony to the Governmental Affairs Committee last week, Byrd had said Lance's resignation was inevitable.

But on Tuesday he refused to say if his opinion had changed, telling reporters, "I think the President and Mr. Lance are evaluating the situation and I think they both need a little time in which to do that. I think they will be aided by silence, not by public statements."

The new information revealed by the Senate committee, which spent nine days taking testimony on allegations involving Lance's financial practices, disputes Lance's statement denying that he suggested that a federal regulator lift sanctions against one of his Georgia banks.

The new evidence was volunteered last weekend to Internal Revenue Service agents by Michael Patriarca, a lawyer for the enforcement and compliance section of the comptroller of the currency's office.

Patriarca told the IRS about a private conversation he said he had with Donald L. Tarleton, regional administrator for the comptroller's office in Atlanta, in a Miami restaurant. He said Tarleton told him that last Nov. 22, Lance had come to his office and said:

"Jimmy wants me to be the head of the OMB, and I want to go into it with a clear record, so I just wondered if you could see your way clear to lift the agreement on Calhoun."

Later that day, Tarleton revoked an agreement requiring the First National Bank of Calhoun, Ga., which Lance headed as chairman of the board, to correct procedures bank examiners had criticized, including liberal overdraft policies for bank officials. Lance, his wife and members of her family who were bank directors had written checks for substantially more money than they had in their accounts.

Testimony before the committee indicated that overdrafts by Lance, his wife and members of her family at one time totaled some $450,000.

Lance told IRS investigators earlier this month that the Calhoun agreement was mentioned only "in an offhand manner" to Tarleton.

"I did not ask or tell Mr. Tarleton to remove the agreement from the Calhoun bank," Lance said. "I did not suggest or imply that the agreement be rescinded."

Tarleton said he did not remember the agreement being discussed at all. Both men substantially repeated their testimony in appearances before the Senate committee last week.

Both Lance and Tarleton declined comment.

EVEN THOUGH WE are still having warm days, the first day of fall comes Friday, according to our calendar. We've had a couple of cool fronts that got us to thinking about cold weather, but the Indian summer days have been great. The Farmers Almanac is predicting a cold winter, again, but we heard a weatherman say the southwest would have a mild winter. Just hope we have some snow so we can go into the spring growing season with the soil prepared to nourish crops and grass.

THE HEREFORD HIGH School student council is sponsoring a "Singing Time in Texas" show here Saturday, Oct. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The show will feature a number of gospel singing groups, and tickets are now on sale by student council members. Advance adult tickets are $3 and will be priced at $4 when purchased at the door. The council will use proceeds for a high school project.

A FEW FAITHFUL, Whiteface Booster Club members have become very concerned about attendance at the Monday evening meetings and are starting a drive to do something about it. The booster club has usually fared well in selling membership cards, but attendance is something else again. There were more coaches than boosters at this week's meeting, and club officials decided it was time to change that situation or quit the meetings.

We have attended booster meetings over the years and have noticed cycles in which the attendance goes up and down. Naturally, when a team is winning the meetings seem to draw more interest. But there should be plenty of faithful fans to keep a decent turnout. We've also noticed that the percentage of parents attending these meetings is always low, and we've never been able to figure that out. You'd think the parents of the players would be most interested in seeing the film of the game and in keeping up with the activities of the club, whose only purpose is supporting the athletic program of the school.

The Whiteface Boosters are now meeting at 6:45 p.m. on Mondays, which gives times for its football fans to get back to the booth tube by 8 o'clock. If you're a

Corn Harvest Underway

Don Waters harvests corn on his farm south of Hereford on Progressive Road. Waters reported that the yield from this field was only fair, although the moisture content of the grain was surprisingly low. Corn harvest in the Deaf Smith County area will continue into October, with harvesting of the early-maturing corn varieties coming as much as two weeks early this year. Corn yields throughout the Panhandle will be down substantially this year, due to problems with dry weather and insects. (Brand Photo by Jim Stielt)

Drastic Decline in Yields Noted As Corn Harvest Gets Underway

By JIM STIELT
Brand Farm Editor

Deaf Smith County's 1977 corn harvest is beginning to gather speed, but while the combines are going through the same basic motions in area fields, they're not putting the volume of grain in the bin that they have in past years.

Harvesting of early-maturing corn varieties is already well along in some areas, and it is painfully evident this year's corn crop will come up short, even before the scale tickets from local elevators are totaled.

Francis "Fritz" Backus of Hereford Grain Corporation reported that "quite a bit" of corn has already been received by that firm, with the first big harvest run recorded Saturday.

"The grain is looking fairly good, but the yields aren't anything like they were last year," Backus commented. The moisture is running anywhere from 18-22 per cent right now, which is surprising a lot of people," he added.

Backus theorized that the corn currently being harvested is coming from fields dried out by attacks from spider mites and banks grass mites, and added that elevators may receive some better corn a little later in the harvest.

This early corn is yielding around 5,000 to 6,000 pounds per acre on most of it. Some of it is only yielding 4,500 pounds and 8,000 pounds per acre would catch the best of it. That sure won't cut it at today's prices. In fact, that type of corn yield will hardly pay for all of the water that was required to raise this year's crop," Backus emphasized.

The 4,500-8,000 pound yield figures are a jolting drop from the 10,000 pound per acre corn yields which have become relatively commonplace in the Magu Triangle area in recent years.

One of the key factors in the demise of the 1977 corn crop's yield potential was the extremely hot and dry weather which descended on the area in middle and late July.

Farmers who had overextended themselves on the amount of acreage they could effectively irrigate saw their corn shrivel under moisture stress. And the stressed corn became an inviting target for hordes of spider mites which descended on area fields.

Insecticides failed to give effective control of the mites and the rain that would have eliminated the mite problem and boosted corn yield potential didn't fall.

But while the rains didn't fall the corn has

The combination of moisture stress, mites and corn borers has proven too much for many varieties, and Backus estimates that 80 per cent of the corn fields in the area have fallen corn in them.

"I'm not saying 80 per cent of the corn crop is on the ground, but there is a lot of corn which has toppled, and that isn't going to help the situation much either," Backus added.

The serious decline in the corn situation isn't limited to Deaf Smith County, either, according to Wister Cleveland of Grain Handling Corporation

Nixon Group Drugged by CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of President Nixon's traveling party were drugged during a trip to an "unfriendly" nation sometime in 1971, the CIA's former scientific chief told investigating senators today.

Dr. Sidney Gottlieb told a Senate health subcommittee that the President was not affected but that his personal physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, was.

Gottlieb said one symptom of the drug was that those affected by it cried at inappropriate times.

County Jail Nearing Approval

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The Deaf Smith County Jail, slowly but surely nearing final approval from the Texas Jail Standards Commission, is receiving its finishing touches.

Joe Slater from the Texas Jail Standards Commission in Austin toured the jail last week and told Sheriff Travis McPherson a report would be forthcoming to county commissioners concerning jail approval.

Tougher state jail codes have forced jails throughout Texas to remodel or rebuild to gain compliance. Deaf Smith County has spent close to $200,000 in rebuilding its facility.

"Joe Slater said there were some things we still had to comply with," McPherson said. "Like smoke alarms and fire codes and several other things we needed to do."

All of the areas Slater discussed with McPherson were budgeted in the original new jail plans, McPherson said it would

He said that he has seen documentation indicating that foreign intelligence agents used drugs on American officials until 1973, the year Gottlieb left the CIA.

Gottlieb apparently made the disclosure as an afterthought after he had concluded reading a prepared statement. His testimony was taken in front of senators in a small room and piped to reporters and members of the public who completely filled a nearby hearing room. Gottlieb requested the unusual procedure through his physicians because of a heart ailment.

Gottlieb also said that it was his understanding that in most cases foreign intelligence agents used drugs to steal documents from American officials. He did not say this was the case in the alleged drugging of members of the Nixon traveling party. He gave no reason for that alleged occurrence.

Gottlieb was in general charge of the CIA's testing of mind altering drugs in the 21 year period beginning in about 1952.

England To Remember Victor the Late Giraffe

LONDON (AP) — Britons mourned today for Victor, the giraffe who died for love, and the Glasgow museum proposed stuffing him so it could put him on display.

The 18-foot-tall animal did the splits at Marwell Park Zoo last Thursday night while trying to mate one of his three wives and couldn't get back on his feet. After 125 hours reclining and the loss of 500 of his 2,000 pounds, he was hoisted to his feet in a canvas sling Tuesday but started gasping and died minutes after the workmen lowered him for a rest.

Victor's death was watched by more than 200 spectators, many of them weeping, and made front-page headlines in the British papers. His plight attracted much foreign attention also, and his owner got more than 1,000 telegrams suggesting how to get him back on all fours.

"After The Fall, he became a nation's hero," the Daily Express said. "He died for love of a woman. Or rather, greathearted creature and father of 18 calves that he was, he died for love of three women."

"His final, tragic moments as his might frame lay stricken and his own dumb tears rolled from under his yard brush eyelashes, filled us with pity for him. Because the whole country rose to him, and to the grandeur of his fight for life."

The Daily Mirror commented: "Who on the right side of sanity could have envisaged a lump rising in the nation's throat over a giraffe? Who but the British could actually see their stiff upper lips trembling over an unknown beast?"

"Yet daily they bombarded our telephone switchboard and those of the British Broadcasting Corporation ... begging for news - and hoping it would be good... Victor made a whole nation pause in its stride."

A post mortem by veterinarians of the Ministry of Agriculture will determine the cause of death. John Knowles, owner of the zoo 70 miles southwest of London, said the animal apparently died of shock.

Normally Victor would be cremated, but officials of the Glasgow City Museum asked for the body so it could be stuffed and put on exhibit. Knowles said he was willing, but the Ministry of Agriculture would have to approve.

Israel Rejects PLO Seating

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Bank mayors or other Palestinians publicly known as Palestine Liberation Organization sympathizers would be acceptable at a reconvened Geneva Peace Conference, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan has told Carter administration officials.

However, it was learned that privately as well as publicly Israel flatly rejects the seating of actual representatives of the PLO, which is committed by its charter to dismantling Israel.

And, while ruling out a separate Palestinian delegation, Dayan left the door open for having some Palestinians in the Egyptian or Lebanese delegations as well as with the group from Jordan.

Israel's proposals, which rule out creation of a Palestinian state, were likely topics at today's meeting of Egyptian foreign minister Ismail Fahmy with President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. Ministers from Syria and Jordan will be here next week.

The current talks are designed to clear the way to a peace conference by the end of the year. Dayan told reporters he believes "ultimately an agreed formula will be found."

At a news conference Tuesday, he said, "I estimate the Geneva peace conference can be convened even before the end of the year with what I know of the attitude of the Arab states."

However, Dayan said Israel has several major differences with the United States.

Among them, he said, are new Israeli settlements in occupied Arab territories and the U.S. call for an almost total withdrawal from the land the Arabs lost in 1967.

Later, after meeting with members of the Senate foreign relations committee, he specifically denied a report that he had met with King Hussein of Jordan last weekend. But Dayan hinted he may have met with another Arab leader. "When and if some of us are meeting with Arab leaders, it is not us that are in trouble - it is the other party," he said. "So we cannot discuss it."

Meanwhile, Sen. Richard Stone, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee's Middle East Subcommittee's Middle East Subcommittee, said the State Department had changed U.S. policy and was leaning toward a "PLO formula" for peace talks that offers no chance for stabilizing the Middle East.

The Florida Democrat said "dealing with an inbred terrorist organization like the PLO, with extensive connections to terrorist organizations all over the world, poses a threat not only to Israel."

The State Department last said the Palestinians must be represented in peace talks. On Monday it said the United States would be willing to deal with the PLO if it accepts U.N. Security Council resolutions implicitly recognizing Israel's existence.

Woman Enjoys Needles

LONDON (AP) — Lady Jacynth Fitzalan Howard spent a year organizing an exhibition of needlework and said the hardest thing she had to find was a stuffed goat.

The animal was needed to display an embroidered coat made for a goat.

"It took me months. I finally hired one from a taxidermist," said Lady Howard, sister-in-law of the Duke of Norfolk.

The goat stood in for Taffy, the real live goat mascot of the Royal Regiment of Wales, a British army outfit. Taffy's coat was designed and worked by the Royal School of Needlework, which staged the exhibition, "The Threads of History," as a contribution to this year's silver jubilee celebrations of the reign of Queen Elizabeth II.

The show was open only for 10 days in London this summer because the owners of many of the exhibits, knowing the colors are prone to fading, will not allow them to be exposed to daylight for a longer period. The brightest silks were on the inside of lined boxes which are normally kept closed. Some of the boxes date back more than 300 years.

Some embroideries retained their colors better because they were kept in rooms facing north, missing most of the direct sunlight.

The exhibition stressed royal connections. Queens and princesses traditionally were skilled needlewomen. There was a cushion cover worked by Queen Elizabeth I when she was still a princess, about 1550, and another done by Mary Queen of Scots, whose death warrant was signed by Elizabeth in 1587.

Mary had plenty of time for her craft, spending 20 years confined in different castles for plotting against England — at the end of her life in conspiracy with the Duke of Norfolk.

In a glass case were reins embroidered by Mary for a child learning to walk. The child was her son, later to become King James VI of Scotland and then, on the death of Elizabeth in 1603, the first Stuart monarch of England, King James I.

Embroidered chairseats on display were the work of Alice, Countess of Athlone, 94, granddaughter of Queen Victoria and the oldest living member of Britain's royal family.

The Royal School of Needlework was founded in 1872 by Princess Christian, a daughter of Victoria, with the object of "restoring ornamental needlework to the high place it once held amongst the decorative arts."

Lady Howard said the school, which teaches needlework and undertakes restoration, is "fantastically busy."

"We cannot meet the demand," she said. "I think more people are becoming interested for two reasons — they want something to do while watching television and, in a machine age, there is a growing desire for craftsmanship."

She said she read the catalogue of every exhibition of embroidery in Britain over the last 30 years to track down the exhibits, which included a coronation robe, samplers, needlework pictures, wall hangings, clothes, purses, work bags and clerical vestments. Private families own most of the exhibits and many are handed down as treasured heirlooms.

Two veils were shown which belonged to Lady Nelson, wife of the famous admiral killed at the Battle of Trafalgar. One of Brussels lace she wore at her wedding and the other, of black Buckingham lace, at an audience with the Pope. An embroidered wedding dress from the Philippines, done about 1906, was made from sinamay fabric, woven from the leaf fibers of banana and pineapple plants.

One exhibit, the "Alabama Hanging," came from the United States. It consists of 100 squares, worked in wool on canvas by Alabama chapters of the American Needlepoint Guild. The brightly colored squares depict events and themes in the history of the state. The hanging was lent by the Birmingham Museum of Art in Alabama.

Another American exhibit is kept at the American Museum in Bath, England — the "Baltimore Bride's Quilt," bearing the name of Alice A. Ryder and dated April 1, 1847, at Baltimore, Md.

More than $48 million in counterfeit bills, most of them tens and twenties, were printed in 1974, says National Geographic. Most of them were seized fresh off the presses and only $3.6 million reached the streets.

Public Records Maybe Not All That Public

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just how public is a public record? It can depend on whether or not any member of the public can find it.

Take the case of the records of overseas travel by members of the House of Representatives. Any congressman can tell you that the records of his overseas travel are open to scrutiny by any member of the public with the persistence and instincts of a bloodhound.

Records for the current period are on file with the House Administration Committee in one of the less obvious rooms in the capitol.

To find it, walk through an archway and ignore a sign that says, "Members and Staff Only." Then climb the narrow, metal spiral staircase to an upper floor of the capitol in the oldest part of the building.

That brings you to a doorway behind which can be found the records for 1975 and 1976. To get the figures for any earlier year, requires going to the committee that authorized the trip.

How the records are kept varies from one committee to another.

The House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee has shipped records of overseas travel by its members to a government warehouse. Two days after a request for the records concerning one committee member, there had been no response.

Chinese Groceries Going As Children Turn to Careers

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — King Fung, a 43-year-old Chinese, was born in the rear living quarters of the small grocery store he and his family run in a southwest Phoenix ghetto peopled mostly by blacks and Mexican-Americans.

He grew up there, before the neighborhood took on the racial and economic walls of the ghetto.

Today it's a high crime area where policemen travel in pairs and the door of the grocery is always bolted. Business — and it's good — is conducted at an outside window, just like a bank branch.

A slim, energetic man, Fung smiles as he talks about his family and his life as a grocer. In keeping with his prosperity, the family home was transplanted years ago to a comfortable north Phoenix neighborhood.

"Most of these people (his customers) are my friends and we've never been held up," said Fung.

The bolt on the door, he acknowledges, is there to discourage the would-be bandit and to shut out the shoplifter entirely.

Fung's wife June, 42, dark-eyed and vivacious, serves customers at the window, trading off this duty with Frankie Eligar, 23, a black who has worked there since boyhood.

Son Kenny, 19, a junior in accounting at Arizona State University, and daughter Kathy, 21, have also worked in the store. Kenny plans to switch to medicine at Baylor in the fall and Kathy, a Phoenix College graduate, wants to major in political science at Rice University in Houston.

There are about 70 small Chinese grocery stores in the metropolitan Phoenix area, embracing five suburban cities, and even more in Tucson, says Francis Wong, a prosperous Chinese storekeeper and vice president of the Associated Grocers.

"They've survived because it was a family affair with sons and daughters to work in the store and living quarters upstairs or in the rear," said Wong.

"This is probably the last generation of the family Chinese store, though, because the new generation is going to college and turning to the professions," he said somewhat sadly.

Wong says the Chinese grocer appeared in Arizona in the 1880s. Many, like Fung's father, had worked as dish washers or laundry workers or turned their hand to other menial tasks to save the money needed to start their own business.

John Yee, 49, owns a market in a neighborhood programmed for future annexation by the spreading state capitol grounds. It, too, is a neighborhood mostly occupied by blacks and Mexican-Americans who keep Yee's store doing a brisk business. No bolted doors here, except at night.

Yee's father, Henry, born in China, came to Phoenix with his family and bought the small store in 1948. Yee took it over a few years later when his father died. He has three sons, one an electrical engineer with the Salt River Project, another who is a sophomore at Arizona State and a third in high school.

Yee feels there will always be a place for the neighborhood grocer, but that his generation may be the last of the small Chinese operators.

"The kids all want to do something different now," said Yee.

Only three blocks away, Jim Wong, 56, a native of China, has a thriving market which draws from the same trade as Yee's.

His brother opened the store in 1947 and Wong, who still feels more at ease speaking his native tongue, became sole owner at his brother's death a few years after the store opened.

Action Being Taken Under New Nursing Home Bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State health officials said today that strengthened supervision of Texas nursing homes has resulted in efforts to revoke the operating licenses of two facilities with decertification action being taken against seven other homes.

One report of abuse of a nursing home patient has been referred to the El Paso district attorney.

The report on two-and-a-half months of work under the nursing home bill passed by the recent legislature was made at a news conference held by Dr. Robert M. Moreten, chairman of the State Board of Health; Dr. Fratis L. Duff, state Commissioner of Health; and Dr. Raymond Moore, deputy commissioner directly in charge of nursing home supervision.

"The act has provided us with the needed tools," Moore told the news conference.

"We are making it much easier for people with complaints to get to us," Duff said. He added that the department is considering installation of a state-wide free long distance phone service for those with complaints.

Moore said the revocation action had been taken against nursing homes in Galveston and Childress. He said the decertification action, which means their contracts to supply patient care have been canceled with resulting loss of Medicaid payments, were taken against two San Antonio homes and one each in Abilene, Childress, Jayton, Waco and Amarillo.

Warnings have been sent to 117 other facilities that show specific action must be taken to meet state and federal standards. The officials said a total of 615 complaints had been investigated in the past two months. In addition 15 public hearings have been held in nursing homes in which 122 allegations were registered and investigated.

Teen Life Follows Art

Medford 'American Graffiti' Lives

MEDFORD, Ore. — (NEA) — Saturday night in this southern Oregon lumber center should convince anyone that the whole world is aged 15 to 25.

Or at least that's the way it looks on Central Avenue once dusk settles over the Rogue River country and the neon lights go on to announce beauty shops, vacuum cleaners, hardware and pizza.

By 8 p.m., the traffic is bumper to bumper where Main crosses Central. It has been going on like this for five years, the guy at the Shell Station tells me. And maybe you can blame George Lucas and the film "American Graffiti" — for that signalled the revival of cruising in Medford and Modesto and Walla Walla and maybe 1,000 other small cities in America.

The kids really get brazen, too. Even a middle-aged intruder in nondescript slacks and sneakers is flattered when the blonde in the Camaro shouts as she zips by. "Hey, you're good looking."

In the corner window of Monte's Shoe Store, facing the intersection of Central and Main, Jerry Allen, a local disk jockey for station KYCZ is winding down toward the final hours of a muscular dystrophy marathon broadcast. He's gone without sleep for four straight days, and a young brunette standing behind him massages his shoulders to ease the fatigue.

Half a block down the street, at the Craterion Theater, "Star Wars" is the feature attraction and, miracle of miracles, the line doesn't even extend around the corner. For city folks, it's a perfect time to catch Lucas' latest cinema opus. And, while standing in the modest line for the 9 o'clock show, still watch the motorized parade down Central Avenue.

There's a steady var-r-room of four-wheel drive pickups, jeeps, Camaros, Mustangs, Darts and even one big Mack truck — without the van. They're piloted by boys and girls in flowing hair (both boys and girls). There's no mingling. Boys are with boys as passengers; girls are with girls.

This makes us question Patty and Joannie, who are stand-ding behind us in line, about the phenomenon of unisex. Patty and Joannie are high school freshmen (freshpersons?). Patty confesses that she has seen the movie four times so far because "it's neat."

How come they don't have dates? Where are the guys?

"The guys aren't here," shrugs Joannie, "because they're somewhere else making out."

In front of us are a couple of husky, handsome high school seniors who are also standing in line for the show. Why aren't they cruising?

"Plenty of time for that," scoffs Hank. "It doesn't really get heavy till after the movie lets out. We don't start till midnight."

Thirteen miles down the road from Medford is picturesque Ashland, where a Shakespeare festival reigns all summer and where there isn't a single motel room available.

Patty and Joannie know all about it, but they've never been. "That's for tourists," says Patty. "By the way, what are you guys doing here?"

No motel reservation, it is explained. And no ticket to the Shakespeare Theater. So we had to track all the way to the big city of Medford (population, 28,000) to bunk down at the action at the intersection of Central and Main. There's only one disconcerting note on this Saturday night in Oregon.

While all the young people are chasing frenetically up and down the boulevards, across the street from where Jerry Allen is broadcasting in the shoe store, in the United Bank building, on the second floor, there's a light on in the office.

A young guy in his 20s, sleeves rolled up, is at a desk. You can see him clearly through the open window. His head doesn't raise once as the little world around him cruises by in that strange, aimless pattern of kids passing time.

The young guy is actually working.

FHA Chapters Assemble Monday for Salad Supper

Seventy-two FHA-Hero members from La Plata, Stanton and Hereford High Schools attended a salad supper Monday evening at La Plata Junior High.

The objective of the FHA/Hero program is to help youth assume their roles in society through home economics education in areas of personal growth, family life, vocational preparation and community involvement.

A group of high school FHA members explained the three levels of Encounter, which emphasizes the personal growth of an individual. The advantages of participating in the Encounter program include better understanding of one's self, meaningful activities, assistance in defining one's objectives, help in obtaining one's goals and evaluation of new experiences.

Encounter Level I, a program for self-evaluation and self-improvement, was presented by Donna Riley. The next level, which pertains to a student's family, school and community, was explained by Nancy Snow, who related that the program helps one identify his or her role. She stressed that Level II of Encounter helps develop one's skills in order to produce a more productive citizen.

The third level of Encounter, involving preparation for adulthood, was defined by another high school member, Viola Padilla.

The welcoming address and invocation were given by Karol Shook, an FHA member from La Plata Chapter. A fun period was directed by members of Stanton's Hero Chapter.

Spritz cookies were served after the salad supper. Tables

El Llano Study Club Reveal Secret Pals

The revealing of secret pals was the highlight for the El Llano Study Club which recently met for dinner at The Railroad Crossing in Canyon.

Mrs. Raymond White, chairman of the yearbook committee which is made up of Mmes. Lloyd Kirkeby, Ben Childers and Labry Ballard served as hostesses.

The discussing of yearbooks was followed by individuals telling the group about summer activities that they had taken part in.

Members present in attendance were Mmes. Labry Ballard, Ivan Block, Jim Bookout, Pete Caviness, Fain Cesar, Ben Childers, R.W. Eades, R.C. Hoelscher, John Jacobson, Elmer Kimball, Milton Rudder, Raymond Whiter and Travis McPhearson.

FHA/Hero members at La Plata were in charge of decorations and name tags were made by La Plata's Hero Chapter. Comprising the clean-up committee were members of La Plata FHA Chapter, including Gene Riddle, Karen Coplen, Cindy Chapman and Kelly Beatty.

Advisors of the FHA/Hero organization include Mrs. Frank Prowell and Mrs. R.L. Layman from Hereford High, Mrs. M.T. Burelsmith and Mrs. Leo Witkowski from La Plata and Mrs. Joe Bradley and Mrs. Don Sanders from Stanton Junior High.

Women earn substantially less money than men. Median income for full-time year-round female workers in 1975 was only $7 per cent of their male counterparts' salaries, says Linda McCormack, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Clothing Older Adults Challenges Industry

COLLEGE STATION — The garment industry faces the older adult challenge, says Marlene Odle-Kemp, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. In less than 10 years, older adults are expected to comprise 20 per cent of the U.S. population, the specialist says.

With aging comes different clothing needs. Body figures take on different proportions which do not comfortably fit into regular sizes.

There is a need for garment design that will remain attractive and stylish despite changing fashion trends.

Older adults generally do not have large wardrobes, and may not buy clothes frequently, but when they do need something, they like to have a choice from which to select, says Mrs. Odle-Kemp.

At The Library

What's Good for Management Not Always So for Business

Geraldo Rivera's specialized forte for capturing human interest is brought to light in his book "A Special Kind of Courage," being featured this week at Deaf Smith County Library.

Rivera combines the stories of six extraordinary youngsters who have displayed bravery and a love of life in his book. In a time a fallen heroes, Rivera reminds America of the bravery inherent in her children.

Also recommended for reading is "The Gamesman" by Michael Maccoby, who has offered a detailed and colorful description of today's corporate executive. Maccoby's book is based on interviews with 250 business managers, representing 12 major American companies.

Deaf Smith County Library is open free to the public from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday and Thursday; from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. other weekdays and until 12 noon Saturdays.

A SPECIAL KIND OF COURAGE

by Geraldo Rivera

At a time when our nation is aware of the Bicentennial, the profiles of these and the other children in this book celebrated the youth of this country. A "Special Kind of Courage" is dedicated to these children who have chosen to act on their own with honor and dignity at moments of individual crisis, performing acts of courage benefiting not only themselves and their families and friends but, by their example, our whole society, proving them to be true American Heroes.

Geraldo Rivera, award-winning TV journalist of ABC Eyewitness News, movingly tells the stories of some very special children:

Bob Hernandez, an Explorer Scout who saved the lives of two deputy sheriffs in a shoot-out.

Edward Kennedy, Jr., learning to live a normal life despite a permanently crippling disease.

Bernard Carabello, who rejoined society after being incorrectly labeled retarded and consigned to Willowbrook State School for eighteen years.

Maria Pepe, whose overwhelming desire to play Little League baseball let her to court victory opening the sport to all children.

Joey Cappelletti, an example of quiet valor in his day-to-day struggle against leukemia.

THE GAMESMAN

by Michael Maccoby

From intensive interviews with 250 business managers from 12 major American companies, Michael Maccoby has created a sympathetic and definitive portrait of the new corporate executive. A more dynamic and adventurous leader than his counterpart of the 1950's, the corporate gamesman is flexible, competitive and totally fascinating.

Maccoby describes further development of the smoothly functioning organization man, most brilliantly defined by William H. Whyte, Jr. and David Riesman. With the rise of the modern technology companies, a new leader has emerged. He is the corporate gamesman; in public life he would be typified by John F. Kennedy, who became the model for the corporate gamesman-a flexible, competitive player, a glory seeker.

The gamesman, in contrast to the jungle-fighter, industrialist of the past, is driven not to build or preside over empires, but to organize winning teams. Unlike the security-seeking organizations man, the gamesman is excited by the chance to cut deals and to gamble. His character holds the key to an understanding of both the modern corporation and the direction which America is moving.

In their interviews, the managers talk about their ambitions, their methods, their dreams, their relationships with their families, their emotional states. And in an extraordinary chapter, "The Head and the Heart," Maccoby describes how the separation of his ambitions and human feelings within an individual can render him unhappy and dissatisfied even as he succeeds.

This is decades about American business leaders. Maccoby's sympathetic portrait of these extraordinary men, of conflict between individualism and corporate cooperation, is an exciting narrative about fascinating characters. The corporation needs craftsmen, scientists, company men-even jungle fighters, perhaps-but its future depends on the gamesmen's development and self-liberation.

ELDERS PETERSEN AND MORRIS
...represent Church of Latter-day Saints

Elder Morriss Joins Elder Petersen Here

Elder David Morriss of Ogden, Utah has been called to serve with Elder Brent Petersen as representatives of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. They work with the people in Hereford, Friona, Dimmitt and surrounding areas.

Elder Petersen whose home is in Cokeville, Wyoming has been in Hereford for three months and has "enjoyed meeting the people here." Elder Morriss has been in Hereford two weeks.

The pair, who are self-supporting in the tradition of the Mormon missionaries, have been called to serve in the Texas Dallas Mission during the two years they devote to the Lord they will be in many cities in the northern part of Texas.

Their message is of the restored gospel of Jesus Christ, which came about as an answer to a young man's prayers. This man was later visited by other messengers who told him of a book that was written on plates of gold. He was told to translate the record so the people living today could benefit from the Lord's teaching to the ancient inhabitants of this continent. It contains a record of a special visit made by Jesus Christ to these people anciently.

Any interested person may obtain more information concerning the above or about the church in general by visiting the Latter-day Saint Chapel at 500 Country Club Drive or by calling

Ann Landers Cruel Child Abuse

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to thank you for the public service you rendered in the fight against child pornography. Because of your recent column on the subject, we received a number of calls and letters from citizens with information about individuals engaged in such activity.

Investigation of one such called led us to a highly placed professional person who, incredibly enough, works with young children. We learned that he has been engaging these youngsters in pornographic activity for quite some time and we are hopeful our investigation will end in a conviction.

By educating your readers to this reprehensible criminal activity and alerting them as to whom to contact you have performed a service of enormous magnitude. Iana Diamond Rovner, Chief, Public Protection Unit, United States Attorney, Northern District of Illinois.

DEAR CHIEF: Thank you for your kind words. I'm delighted to learn that the column was effective. Adult pornography is a bore. Anyone who enjoys such garbage as steady entertainment must have strudel in noodle. "Kid porn" is not just pornography. It's child abuse, and anyone involved in that scummy racket should get the maximum. Good luck on the conviction.

DEAR ANN: You are probably fed up with letters from C.B.'ers but I hope you'll find room for one more.

"K.A.I.D. - 7777 North Carolina" should bone up before he calls "Mad In Illinois" ignorant. Power or no power, sunspots or no sunspots, it's illegal to communicate more than 150 miles from your station. C.B. radios are not toys, but that's how the "skippers" use them when they take an ego trip to see how far away they can get to say nothing.

When you want to talk to someone locally and all you can hear is the same ratchet-mouth bellowing, "Have a fine day!" it's enough to ruin yours.

The problem of illegal hogs doesn't mean anything until you are stranded in a car with a CB at your fingertips and you can't get through to ask for help because the "skippers" have all the channels tied up - including the emergency. And how sweet it is to be watching TV and all of a sudden some "Good Buddy" turns up the power so high it knocks out your picture and the sound goes dead - but you can hear him loud and clear - calling Canada.

Ask the FCC why they aren't doing their job of enforcing the laws, especially when the "skippers" are kind enough to give their addresses over the CB. - Also Mad

DEAR ALSO: O.K. I will. Dear F.C.C.: Why aren't you doing your job? Since this CB flack has come up in my column, dozens of people have posed the question. If you can come up with an answer I'll print it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you advised everyone to bathe or shower daily. I haven't taken a bath or a shower for three years and I'm fit as a fiddle and smell like a rose. The secret? I rub coconut oil on myself every day. It prevents sunburn, too. - Two-Gun Pete From Puerto Vallarta

DEAR PETE: Did you say three years? Thanks for letting me know where you are. I don't think I'll go there.

FBI Informants Really 'Cleaned Up' On Money

WASHINGTON (AP) - By financial standards, Informer No. 505 was a real go-getter. No. 505 earned $11,100 from the FBI in 1973 and a total of $46,383 over seven years ending in 1976.

What did the FBI get from No. 505 to warrant the payments? "Approximately 55 leaflets and pamphlets regarding Socialist Workers Party activities, approximately 36 SWP newsletters," financial statements, membership lists and schedules of party activities.

On the other hand, Informer No. 28 apparently told the FBI hardly anything it wanted to know about the small Trotskyite political party. No. 28 received only a single $5-payment in 1966.

Those details emerged from FBI documents made public Tuesday by the Political Rights Defense Fund, which is financing the party's multimillion-dollar lawsuit accusing the FBI of illegal harassment and disruption of legitimate political activities.

During the course of the four-year lawsuit, lawyers asked the FBI for details about the money paid to informers to spy on the party. The FBI was required to provide the information in a procedure which allowed the informers to be designated by code numbers to protect their identities.

The documents show that the FBI paid more than $1.6 million during a 16-year period to 301 informers who joined the party or its affiliate, the Young Socialist Alliance, as a way of gaining more information about party activities.

The bureau has acknowledged having 309 informers who were members of one group or the other, and the documents show that all but eight of them were paid.

The FBI has acknowledged that more than 1,000 other informers spied on the party without joining it. The bureau has remained silent about money paid to those informers.

Informer No. 505, according to the documents, was the highest-paid of the list of 301 informers and earned the most in a single year. No. 505's annual earnings from the bureau began with about $3,500 in 1970, the year he began working, and rose to the high of $11,100 in 1973. His earnings dropped to $2,800 last year.

The records show that the other informers usually were paid from $2,000 to $5,000 annually for several years. All of the payments were in cash. Other FBI files, released in the course of the lawsuit, have described bureau efforts to encourage informers to show dissension among party members, stir up factional disputes and use a variety of tactics to disrupt party activities.

After investigating the party for 38 years, the FBI last September closed the case to comply with new Justice department guidelines restricting intelligence-gathering activities against domestic political organizations. Only one federal charge was brought against party members as a result of party activities during the 38-year investigation. That was an indictment of 18 party leaders in 1940 for violating certain sections of the anti-subversive Smith Act. Those sections later were ruled unconstitutional.

'Tractor' Protest Held In Austin

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - A 200-vehicle caravan of Texas farmers drove to the Capitol Tuesday and left most of their tractors and pickups blocking the Capitol drive while they protested low prices.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Speaker Bill Clayton, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown and other officials greeted the farmers.

"American agriculture today is one of the greatest success stories of the world," Briscoe told them. "Unfortunately, you are here today because it is not a success story today for the individual ranchers and farmers."

Farmers face "a cost-price squeeze worse than at any time since the Great Depression," Briscoe said.

Clayton said, "Starvation is rampant in many countries. After we're called on to produce, we can't sell our product."

Brown, shedding his coat and addressing the demonstrators in a short-sleeved white shirt and tie, said this country needs a national agricultural policy.

"We can't change the rules of the game everytime we change presidents in Washington," Brown said. That would be like playing a football game and changing the number of points for a touchdown during the game from six to four, he said.

Jay Naman, president of the Texas Farmers Union, said he knew some motorists were unhappy to be delayed in traffic because of the demonstration, but asked, "What are they gonna do when they go to the supermarket and the shelves are empty?"

Several speakers criticized President Carter. Naman said Carter "has forgotten a few things since he was back on the peanut farm." Ron Butler, Naman's assistant, said, "We know farm policy is not written in Austin, but we know where it is written, and this is where it starts."

Naman promised a larger demonstration by farmers from all over the country in Washington.

Several farm leaders then met with Briscoe in his office at his invitation to discuss "specifics of what we can do."

The tractors carried such signs as these: "Give us a living, or starve" and "No farmers, no food."

The Capitol has witnessed many protest demonstrations, particularly anti-war demonstrations in the late 1960s, but not until Tuesday were protesters permitted to block traffic.

House and Senate sergeants at arms did not authorize the double parking, but nothing was done after the tractors stopped.

GETTING TO WORK DETROIT (AP) - More Americans go to and from their jobs in privately owned vehicles than in any other form of transportation, according to the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Association.

The organization said the U.S. Census Bureau's 1975 survey of 140,000 households in 21 metropolitan areas showed 86 per cent of all commuters take private cars or trucks to work. Twelve per cent use public transportation, while another two per cent ride motorcycles or bicycles or find some other way to their places of business.

In comparison with 1970, the association says, the number of people who ride public transportation has dropped 21 per cent.

The first settlement in Georgia was made at Savannah in 1733.

'Drift' Factor Seen In Economy

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) - While activity has picked up in so many areas of life after Labor Day, a good deal of drift, of inattention to big problems, is evident in the economy.

It isn't so much aimless drifting so much as it seems to be a lack of determination to do much of anything fast, such as with the energy problem. And so the business pages have a repetitious look, like something we read last year.

Almost nobody expects the economy to pick up much vigor for the rest of the year. At best, those who try to foretell say we might expect a further slowdown, although nothing alarming. Nothing seems to alarm any more.

Many of the important elements of the economy exemplify the ennui, the lack of expectations, and perhaps a bit of fear. Steel is in trouble. The stock market is sinking. Unemployment is stuck around 7 per cent.

The steel people are showing they aren't crying wolf - that to their way of thinking they're unable to meet all the costs of pollution abatement while simultaneously competing with subsidized foreign imports.

For the first seven months of 1977, imports of steel amounted to 9,632 million tons, an increase of more than 2 million tons over the comparable 1976 period. Only 75 per cent of capacity is being used, compared to more than 80 per cent for industry in general.

Facilities at Lackawanna, N.Y., and Youngstown, Ohio, are being closed, resulting in the losses of many thousands of jobs, and when drastic action of that sort is taken you may be considering.

Some members of the industry have taken to newspaper advertisements to argue their case, to seek relief from imports and perhaps environmental regulations too. They admit they are in retreat.

The atmosphere recalls the days when railroads were arguing that they were being regulated out of business, a contention that was met then by countercharges of mismanagement, some of which turned out to be very true.

The problems of the steel industry are also connected with capital spending, or the lack of it. Companies must be able to raise money in the stock market, it is said, or else the whole capitalistic system will be undermined.

And that brings up incentives, or the elimination of disincentives, such as the double taxation of dividends at the corporation and personal levels. But when? And will the new income tax structure being planned permit more liberal depreciation and lower capital gains taxes?

Nobody can say at the moment, any more than they can tell what the "prudent man" rule of ERISA, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, is all about. This too is related to steel and Washington, and related also to the stock market's drift.

The prudent man rule warns fiduciaries involved with pension funds that their investment performance will be judged on the prudence they use. But if it knew, Congress didn't define prudence.

Therefore, most portfolio managers interpret it as an insistence on safety rather than an encouragement to take a degree of risk in order to achieve greater growth and thereby more liberal pensions for members.

Safety is anathema to the stock market. Risk is what makes it move, and the big pension fund managers aren't taking many risks, not when they might be judged imprudent for doing so. And the market drifts.

Some say the drift factor is almost solely a product of Washington, a consequence of attempting to dictate from on high to an economy whose life and activity is more effectively guided by the forces and opportunities that rise up out of the marketplace.

Whatever, the problems have been there for a long time and not a lot has been done to deal with them, and according to some exasperated critics we can't expect much to be done about them for a while yet.

Baptist Blasts Center's Sex Change Operations

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) - An Oklahoma Baptist church leader says church members were shocked to learn that sex change operations have been conducted at Baptist Medical Center. He says action will be taken to stop the surgery.

The hospital's board of directors had voted in favor of the operations, but suspended them this summer at the request of Baptist church officials after complaints from an unidentified rural preacher who had learned of the operations.

"This is more than a medical issue," said the Rev. Richard B. Douglass, president of the Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma. "The ultimate problem is that when we own an institution, we are publicly identified with what happens there."

The Rev. Mr. Douglass predicted that when the convention's hospital committee meets Oct. 6 it will vote "strongly against" continuation of the operations.

Some church officials said that if the operations are not vetoed next month there may be a floor fight over the issue at the state convention's annual meeting in November.

The Rev. Mr. Douglass said that from a theological standpoint, the Baptist church firmly believes that the "wholeness" of the individual can't be achieved through a physical change, but only a spiritual change.

"I am sure the average member of the average Baptist Church in Oklahoma would feel very negatively about this kind of operation," he said.

There are 600,000 Baptists in Oklahoma, about one-fourth the state's population.

Dr. David W. Foerster, a surgeon at the Baptist Medical Center who has performed sex change operations, says he is "confident that the operations will be resumed."

News reports have listed Oklahoma City as among the nation's top centers for sex change operations. Since 1973, about 50 such operations have been performed at the Baptist hospital. Hospital officials have said there is a waiting list of 50 patients.

An undisclosed number of sex change operations have been performed at Oklahoma City's University Hospital, affiliated with the University of Oklahoma.

MINORITIES PROGRAM LOS ANGELES (AP) - Two graduates of the Orchestral Training Program for Minority Students, which is sponsored by the Los Angeles Philharmonic, have won posts with California orchestras.

Rufus Olivier, 21, has been named second bassoon of the San Francisco Symphony and Oscar Meza, also 21, has been named to a string bass chair in the San Diego Symphony.

The program was conceived in 1972 and selects about 50 students each year. The candidates' average age is 18. Each musician works with a member of the Philharmonic to develop all aspects of orchestral techniques.

Keep the original deal

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In proposing that the age of eligibility for full Social Security benefits be raised from 65 to 68, House Republican leaders have demonstrated an unerring instinct for the jugular — their own.

You would think the Goldwater debacle of 1964 would have instilled in GOP politicians a prudent skepticism about the political wisdom of suggesting any drastic revisions of the most popular social program ever enacted in this country.

You would think that, but you would be wrong. It is never wise to underestimate the suicidal tendencies of the Republican Party.

To be fair about it, not all Republicans should be held accountable for the age advancement proposal put forward by House Minority Leader John H. Rhodes and GOP members of the Ways and Means Committee as part of an otherwise thoughtful 15-point plan for saving the Social Security system from bankruptcy.

"We had no input," a spokesman for GOP National Chairman Bill Brock said through clenched teeth. "They didn't consult us on the damned thing."

"Strictly a House initiative," choked a staff aide to Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

"Harebrained!" snapped Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee. "More and more I turn to prayer."

Rhodes and his allies rather plaintively noted that they weren't the first to suggest some of the strain on the Social Security system's precarious finances could be alleviated by gradually raising the eligibility age for full benefits to 68.

Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps popped up with such a proposal in late July, and was nearly lynched for her efforts. HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., whose department presides over Social Security, hastily denounced the notion as a breach of promise to working Americans.

But it is one thing for Democrats to discuss controversial changes in the towering social monument of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's New Deal, and quite another for Republicans to do so.

Rhodes & Co. should have read and digested an extraordinarily perceptive speech which Sen. Packwood delivered in Oregon last March decrying the insensitivity of the modern Republican Party to the security-seeking impulses of a majority of Americans.

The country, Packwood theorized, has always been made up of a minority of risk-takers and a majority of "certainty seekers." For almost 70 years after the Civil War, Packwood noted, it was the Republican Party which managed to appeal most successfully to the needs of both.

Then along came the Depression, and "an uprooting of all that had symbolized certainty and security in our history. There was panic and fear to a degree unknown before."

FDR stepped forward, and calmed the fears. With program after program, he put people back to work and restored their sense of certainty about themselves and their country. Yet at each move, Packwood noted, "the Republicans said 'NO.'"

"We Republicans," the senator said, "lost touch with our twin goals of security and certainty for the majority, and rewards for the risk-takers. We forgot that both were essential for stable, popular government."

Of all FDR's works, none has proven more durable and more popular than Social Security. It is the government's most sacred compact with those Packwood dubs the "certainty seekers," and its central element is the promise of full retirement benefits to all workers who reach 65.

That is why the House GOP proposal is, as Packwood said, "harebrained" from a political perspective. Never mind that those who were around when Roosevelt launched the Social Security system will not be affected by any change in the age for full benefits. Those of our generation — now in our 30s and 40s — are the children of the New Deal. Like our parents, we expect the original bargain to be kept.

Inside Scoop

The weekly mothers' meeting with Herd head football coach Fred Upshaw provide an abundance of insight into the game of football to the mothers of the players. Both junior and senior high mothers are urged to attend the meetings each Thursday morning at the fieldhouse. The coach provides films of the games as well as answering questions put to him by the ladies. The meetings begin at 9:30 a.m. [Brand staff photo].

Bell Leads Rushers, Scorers

By Bob Nigh
Brand Sports Editor
Hereford tailback Paul Bell continues to lead District 4-4A in both rushing and scoring after three weeks despite a Whitefaces slump last week that saw the Borger Bulldogs gain a 40-6 win at Whiteface Field.

Team	W-L-T	PF	PA
Monterey	2-0-1	39	13
Hereford	2-1-0	53	67
Plainview	2-1-0	53	67
Coronado	1-2-0	45	57
Lubbock	0-3-0	21	90

Last week's results: Borger 40, Hereford 6; Monterey 19, Midland 0; Plainview 21, Midland Lee 14; Coronado 17, Estacado 6; Amarillo 34, Lubbock 7.

This week's games: Thursday-Coronado at Tascosa, Dunbar at Lubbock, Friday-Hereford at Canyon, Amarillo at Plainview, Monterey vs. Estacado.

Golfers Rip Bulldogs In Practice Match

The Hereford High School boys golf team opened a series of Fall practice rounds in Plainview last weekend, coming out on top of the Bulldogs by a 314-323 count. Tommy Weaver led the Herd charge with a 76, while James McDowell was just behind at 77.

"Plainview is going to have to find out how the other half lived," Herd coach Terry Russell said after the match. The Bulldogs dominated the area golf scene last year with standouts Greg Weathered and John Horne leading the way. Weathered has departed via graduation to Odessa College, while Horne has likewise gone to the University of Houston.

In addition to Weaver and McDowell, Mike Hill had an 80 for HHS, Jim Lyles shot an 81, and Richard Brandon carded an 83. "We were pretty good on the front nine with four 38s and one 39, but we slumped on the back nine," Russell added. "HHS has tentatively scheduled five more practice rounds this fall. Dual matches with Tascosa (Here Oct. 8), Borger, Monterey, Coronado, and another match with Plainview are yet to come.

The team will not play in any tournaments this fall, however, due to a limit set on tourney play by the UIL.

"Each school is allowed eight tournaments during the year excluding the district rounds," Russell explained. "Since we are allowed only 36 holes for district, four of our six round robin events has to count toward our limit of eight. So, we are saving our tourney play for the spring."

The Herd JV also played at Plainview last weekend. Andy Yocum topped the JV with an 82, while Miles Goforth had an 85, Keith Pagett shot an 89, Jeff O'Rand had a 93, and Dee Hairgrove carded a 103.

Weaver, Peterson Roll High Series'

McDowell Pharmacy and Hereford Janitor Supply are tied for the lead in the Kings and Queens bowling league with 7-1 records after two weeks of play. Both teams posted 4-0 marks last week.

Bobby Weaver headed men's play with a 233-193-191-617 series, while Shirley Peterson's 193-178-167-538 led the women. Weaver's 233 also was the men's high game, while Alice Lueb had the women's best at 204.

Split earners for the night included Margaret Betzen, Diana Britten, Stella Varner, and Buddie Evans (3-10); J.R. Varner (5-7-9); and Robert Betzen (5-7-9 and 6-7).

League standings after two weeks have McDowell Pharmacy and Hereford Janitor Supply at 7-1; Anderson Sales at 5½-2½; National Life Insurance, Electrical Specialists, and Athletic Shirts and Lettering at 5-3; Hereford Glass, Vance Hall, and Henderson's Exxon at 4-4; Anthony's at 3½-4½; PAG Seeds at 3-5; and Team #9, Stevens Welding, and Bridges Agency at 1-7. Also, Team #3 and Troy's Sweet Shop are incomplete with the latter at 3-1 and the former standing 1-3.

Dorsett's Turn Coming

DALLAS (AP) - The question comes up every time Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry gets around writers: Are the Cowboys getting their money's worth out of million-dollar bonus boy Tony Dorsett?

The answer: They will. Landry is confident that as soon as Dorsett, the No. 1 draft choice and Heisman Trophy winner from Pittsburgh, absorbs the complex X's and O's of the Cowboy offense then he will run with abandon.

"Knowledge of the offense is very important," said Landry Tuesday. "Tony has great running ability but he needs to learn our blocking patterns. He's just not in the groove."

Dorsett ran only four times for 11 yards in Dallas' National Football League 16-10 overtime victory over Minnesota last week. He will see more action against the New York Giants in Texas Stadium Sunday although he fumbled and missed some blocks.

"Tony got so far behind when he was injured in training camp that he hasn't caught up," said Landry. "He should be stronger in the latter part of the season. He still doesn't have the feel for our very complicated offense."

Dorsett ripped off 99 yards against Baltimore in a pre-season game to give the Cowboy staff an indication of things to come.

But since then he's spent most of his time on the sidelines with his helmet tipped back on his head and his feet crossed.

Veteran Preston Pearson was the catalyst in the victory over the Vikings, catching a touchdown pass and rushing for 63 yards.

Dorsett admitted "Preston did a tremendous job. He was probably the difference in the game."

Landry was asked if opponents keyed on Dorsett when he entered the game.

That one got a guffaw out of Landry who answered, "In the NFL, they don't read college clips. When Tony turns loose, then maybe the other teams might starting keying on him."

Landry was reminded that

Duane Thomas and Calvin Hill had good rookie years for the Cowboys.

Landry reminded the writers that Hill and Thomas were playing behind an experienced line.

"Our offensive line is young," lectured Landry. "A young back has to have that confidence. And Tony will get it. None of our backs got much daylight from the Vikings."

Birds Get Reprieve

The Baltimore Orioles are still alive. Just how well they are remains to be seen.

While the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox were rained out Tuesday night, the Orioles came through with a 5-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays as Jim Palmer scattered seven hits for his 18th triumph and rookies Eddie Murray and Rich Dauer homered.

"The magic number holds tonight," said Manager Earl Weaver, whose Orioles took over undisputed possession of second place in the American League East, three games behind the Yankees but one-half game in front of Boston.

"We're on our death bed but we're not dead yet," shouted outfielder Pat Kelly.

With 11 games left for the Yankees and Orioles and 12 for the Red Sox, the magic number is nine for all concerned. Any combination of nine Yankee wins and Oriole or Red Sox losses will spell the end of the long, hot summer race.

"It's up to the Yankees," said Palmer, who won his fifth consecutive decision. "If they win nine we're in trouble.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the California Angels downed the Texas Rangers 5-2, the Chicago White Sox trounced the bumbling Oakland A's, who committed seven errors, 8-2, the Detroit Tigers edged the Cleveland Indians 5-4 in 10 innings and the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Seattle Mariners 5-1.

Royals 4, Twins 2

George Brett hammered two solo homers and Hal McKee added a two-run shot while Paul Splittorff scattered seven hits for his sixth consecutive triumph, Kansas City leads Chicago by 10½ games and Texas by 11 and the Royals' magic number in the AL West is down to two.

Angels 5, Rangers 2

Ken Brett celebrated the signing of a three-year contract with his 13th victory. Bobby Bonds hit his 36th home run and stole a pair of bases and Dave Chalk and Ron Jackson also homered. Bonds has 11 games in which to become the first player in major league history to hit 40 home runs and steal 40 bases in the same season. He has 39 steals and 36 homers.

White Sox 8, A's 2

Oakland tied a club record by making seven errors in one game and Henry Cruz blasted a two-run homer. Cruz' homer preceded three Oakland errors in the fifth inning when the Sox scored five runs and took a 6-2 lead. An error in the first inning and two on one play in the sixth contributed to a pair of runs. The errors were committed by first baseman Mike Jorgensen, a pair by second baseman Rodney Scott, center fielder Tony Armas, catcher Manny Sanguillen, third baseman Wayne Gross and shortstop Rob Picciolo.

Tigers 5, Indians 4

Jason Thompson opened the bottom of the 10th inning with his 29th homer and pinch hitter John Wockenuss singled home the winning run following a walk to Lance Parrish, a sacrifice and an intentional walk to Ben Oglivie.

Brewers 5, Mariners 1

Sal Bando's two-run single sparked a four-run fifth inning while Jim Slaton scattered eight hits.

Victory Caravan Set for Friday

The Hereford High School cheerleaders will direct a "Victory Caravan" to the Hereford-Canyon football game, which will be played in Canyon Friday night.

All Whiteface fans are invited to join the caravan, and a prize will be awarded to the car decorated with the most spirit. All participants will meet at the high school at 6 p.m. Friday.

HHS cheerleaders include Tonja Black, Sonya Hacker, Staci Payne, Liz Andrews, Judy Griego, Rhonda Hall, and Stephanie Stringer (Scat).

The Whitefaces, 2-1 on the year, will be attempting to duplicate a 20-15

ELMONT, N.Y. (AP) - The daily and lengthy shower with a garden hose given the great race horse, Forego, is a great help to him, according to trainer Frank Whiteley.

"We keep a steady stream of water on his legs," the trainer said. "We work with him for a couple of hours every day. I'm sure the water helps his circulation. He loves it and all our stable help chips in to help in every way for the champion."

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) - Attractive and chic Frances Crockett, the general manager of the Charlotte Orioles of the Southern League, spoke to the manager of a topless bar.

"I believe I have something you'd be interested in," she said.

The manager's eyebrows went up. "A job?" he asked. "No," she replied. "I'd like to sell you an ad for our baseball scorecard."

AUSTIN—Gov. Dolph Briscoe now has two announced challengers in the Democratic primary governor's race. Atty. Gen. John Hill made official his long-expected candidacy at news conferences in Austin, Houston, Dallas and San Antonio this week.

A few days earlier, former Gov. Preston Smith (1969-72) revealed his comeback effort in mailings to newspapers all over the state.

Both candidates predictably slammed Briscoe for not exerting stronger leadership and zeroed in on the fact that the incumbent will serve 10 years in office if re-elected.

They also pointed to steep increases in state government spending during the last six years.

Hill and Smith immediately began initial campaign swings through the state.

Briscoe continued to shrug off the attacks and predicted he will win a third term without a runoff.

"I view the future with great optimism," said Briscoe at a news conference. "My record speaks for itself. I am proud to run on it."

Meanwhile, U.S. Rep. Robert Krueger of New Braunfels and former Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie of El Paso focused statewide interest on the race to unseat U.S. Sen. John Tower. Christie is still not an announced candidate, but a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner to bankroll start of his expected campaign is set for October 18.

Federal, State Courts Speak

A federal court held 40 children of illegal aliens should be allowed to attend Tyler schools free. The Tyler school board voted to appeal the decision by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice that it could no longer charge the children of non-citizens $1,000 tuition.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals stayed the first scheduled execution by drug injection. Kenneth Granviel had been sentenced to die September 16 for murder of three women and two children. His attorneys challenge constitutionality of the injection law because it does not specify the lethal substance to be used.

A district court jury in San Antonio ordered Southwestern Bell Telephone Company to pay $3 million for slandering two former executives in an internal investigation. The company is appealing.

State Textbooks Approved

The State Textbooks Committee unanimously ordered publishers to eliminate the generic use of "he" from future schoolbooks.

The committee adopted 90 new books, after voting to strike the generalized masculine pronoun.

The State Board of Education will vote on final adoption of the $31 million in new books here November 12.

Porn Booming

A legislative committee studying child pornography was advised to recommend tough state laws to deal with the problem.

A Los Angeles author told the committee, producers, distributors and shippers of pornographic films and photographs of children should be prosecuted vigorously.

The writer described Los Angeles as main production point for the films and Houston as a leading distribution center. He said most of the child performers are runaways but "there is a higher degree of parental knowledge and participation than we would like to think about."

Attorney General Opinions

A final DWI conviction automatically suspends a driver's license, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

Hill also said an audit report on purchase of wiretapping equipment in the Jefferson, Orange and Hardin county areas is available for public scrutiny.

In another opinion on the open records act, however, the attorney general concluded a University of Texas committee report on possible reduction in personnel at UT Permian Basin is not subject to required disclosure.

In other recent opinions, Hill found: —Identity of persons who complain about child care standards violations at state-licensed day care centers is confidential.

—The Board of Pardons and Paroles can require a parole commissioner to accept a new duty station.

—Bidders' proposals for administration of a portion of Texas Medicaid submitted to the Department of Human

Record Cotton Crop Seen

Largest Texas cotton crop in four years—about 4.5 million bales—is now being harvested.

Yield per acre has been set at 366 pounds, up a little over the 1976 average, but Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said estimates dropped 200,000 bales since August 1, due mainly to lack of moisture for dryland cotton in the High Plains.

Cotton prices have dipped since the mid-March peak. World production is expected to increase 11 per cent over last year.

Main producing areas in Texas are expected to continue large harvests, Brown predicted. Southern Plains may produce over half the state total—2,485,000 bales. High Plains, in spite of dry conditions, should have a total of 800,000 bales, and the Lower Rio Grande Valley 425,000 bales.

Meanwhile, the All Farm Products Index dropped a full six points last month. Consumers, however, didn't benefit from the drop.

Short Snorts

The seasonally-adjusted index of total construction in Texas during July hit the third highest level ever recorded. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Bill Clayton are "road show" participants in a series of area meetings to discuss local impact of legislation enacted this year—including highway finance and education bills.

Ray Hutchison stepped down as chairman of the Texas Republican Party while deciding whether he should run for governor.

The Conservative Union is helping form a committee to study feasibility of a constitutional amendment to limit taxation. Dwayne Holman of Wharton, president of Young Democrats of America, has been named executive director of the Texas Democratic Party.

H. C. Pittman has notified the State Bar board of directors he will resign as executive director of the 28,500-member State Bar of Texas at the end of the year and re-enter private law practice in Austin.

Alvis Vandrygoff succeeded W. Sale Lewis as Texas Savings and Loan Commissioner.

Amarillo College Regents Allow 2 Parolees To Stay in School

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) - Two former Kentucky jail inmates will be allowed to serve the next two years of their paroles playing basketball - on scholarship - for the Amarillo College Badgers, regents of the school have decided.

The two athletes-one convicted of manslaughter and the other of armed robbery - had their parole transferred from Kentucky to Amarillo when they were granted the scholarships.

Charles D. Lutz, Jr., president of the 6,000-student state junior college, said he did not know the parolees had been awarded scholarships until he read it in a copyrighted story in the Amarillo Globe-News.

Before the Tuesday night meeting Lutz said he had prepared a statement to read to the board concerning the matter. He would not reveal the contents of the statement.

"I didn't know what happened or what instructions the new coach had received," Lutz said. "There has been an obvious breakdown at Amarillo College that allowed such a thing to happen."

The parolees, John H. Luster, 24, and Stephen Lamont Varner, 21, are both former Louisville, Ky., residents. They were recruited by first year Amarillo College coach Jim Calvin. Calvin, a former Murray State College coach in Kentucky, was unavailable for comment prior to the meeting.

Varner had been sentenced to seven years in prison for manslaughter and abiding and abetting a robbery, according to Bob Zollinger, a Louisville prosecutor. Luster had been convicted on two charges of robbery.

Luster's prison sentences totaled 10 years, the prosecutor said. He served about three years before he was paroled on Aug. 20, 1977. The parole was transferred to Amarillo on the basis of the scholarship.

Luster also served a six-month sentence in Hamilton County, Ohio, for assault with a dangerous weapon. He was arrested at the University of Cincinnati where he had been awarded a basketball scholarship.

He was charged with attacking a student with a knife, according to a Cincinnati Police Department records clerk.

The robbery charge stemmed from a December 1973 incident in which Luster and two other men beat and kicked a man and took $60 from him, a prosecutor said.

Varner's manslaughter conviction stems from the September 1973 beating death of an elderly man. He was charged along with two juveniles.

Varner was sentenced to five years in prison on the manslaughter conviction and two years for aiding and abetting in a robbery.

He said he did not want to discuss his prison record.

"The pen, man, that's behind me. You know? I just want to look to the future. What happened to me in the past, that's no one's business."
