District Court Finds Umsted Guilty In Arson Case

Joe Floyd Umsted, 39, was found guilty Wednesday by a 69th District Court Jury which had heard about two full days of testimony in the arson case.

The jury deliberated just over three hours in reaching their verdict, and then were sent back in to set the sentence. Returning nearly two hours later, the jury sentenced Umsted to nine years in the state penitentiary. Notice of appeal in the case was not given.

Umsted and Bill Hartsfield, 27, both of Amarillo and owners of the Butcher Boy Market before it was destroyed by fire Feb. 5, had been charged jointly in the case. Hartsfield's case has not been set.

Floyd Lebow, 18 of Amarillo, who also was charged with arson in the case, was the chief witness against Umsted in the trial which began Monday with selection of the jury. Testimony began Monday afternoon after the jury was impaneled.

District Attorney Bill Hunter prosecuted the case, while Hal Ochsner and Frank Baughman of Amarillo defended Umsted.

The trial closed with a flurry as defense attorneys entered six motions for mistrial during the closing statement by Hunter. They also had asked for a mistrial on Tuesday and had countless exceptions to rulings by Judge McDonald entered into the record.

The 11-man, one-woman jury was sworn in soon after the court had resumed following the noon break Monday. Testimony began for the state with Lebow describing his part in the case.

Lebow had been charged with arson, pleaded guilty to the charge and received a five-year probated sentence in the same courtroom on June 9. He became 18 on Sept. 30.

Lebow, under questioning by Hunter, said the Butcher Boy Market No. 3 operated on South Washington Street in Amarillo by Umsted and Hartsfield was near his home and he had become acquainted with the men through trading at the market. He had known them about 10 months before the alleged incident.

About a month before Feb. 5, Lebow testified, Umsted had asked him if he needed some money. He said Umsted told him that the Internal Revenue was after him, he was not making any money and if he (Lebow) would burn the Hereford market, he would be paid $200. "I told him I would do it," said Lebow.

On Feb. 4, Lebow continued, he saw Umsted again and Umsted "asked if I intended to go ahead and burn the market. He said the Internal Revenue was wanting money real bad and he didn't have it. He said they were going to come next day and get the money. He wanted me to get rid of it real quick because he was worried."

On Sunday afternoon, Feb. 5, Lebow talked to Umsted and "he wanted me to burn it that night," the youth testified. He stated that Umsted called his home about 9 p. m. that night "and wanted to know if I was ready." Umsted, continued Lebow, came to his home and picked him up. Umsted was driving and Bill Hartsfield was with him. They said we were going to burn it."

Lebow testified that the three men then drove to the Amarillo market on Washington Street, Hartsfield got his car and "we started to Hereford." He said they had stopped on the Canyon Expressway just outside Amarillo and talked.

He said "there was supposed to be a fire at the airport to draw the attention of the fire department away from the town and I'd have time to start the fire at the market." Lebow said he "was supposed to wait until I heard the sirens going to the first fire, then I was to light the one in the market." Plans also were made for Umsted to wait for Lebow about a block away, he said.

When they arrived at the market, Lebow continued, he was handed the keys by Umsted and unlocked the front door. Umsted went to the back part of the market, looked around, got some papers and got the money out of the cash register. He also pointed out a 5-gallon gasoline can in the back part of the market.

"I was supposed to spread the gas around and throw it up where some tile had been knocked out so it would burn faster," he testified. Umsted left through the front door and locked it as he went out, said Lebow. In answer to a direct question from Hunter, he said the door could not be opened from the inside or outside without a key.

The only other exit was the back doors, which had a two-by-four board across them and a meat hook in the hasp, stated Lebow.

The youth said he "threw gas up in the corner, on the floors and walls. I heard something, looked up and fire was coming toward me. It had started in the back. I ran to the front and then remembered that it was locked, so I ran back through the fire." Lebow said his clothes were on fire and he put them out twice. "I stopped and ripped my shirt off. My hair was on fire and I put it out."

He stated that he hadn't been ready to start the fire when it started. Lebow couldn't remember how he got through the back door but he must have raised up the board and took out the meat hook, he stated. Questioned by Hunter, he said he didn't attempt to hide, because "people were going all around." Lebow said he walked to a service station about a block east of the market and got up in a truck behind the station

A while later, he went into the station and a man there called the ambulance. Lebow remained in the Hereford hospital an hour or two, questioning revealed, and then he was taken to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. He was there three months.

In cross examination, Ochsner pointed out that Lebow had first told officers that he was just walking by the market when it blew up. He later changed his mind and told the story he had related in court. Ochsner asked "What caused you to change your mind?" Lebow replied "I don't know."

Further questioning revealed that Lebow had been unable to sign the statement, but had given it orally to Potter Couny Deputy Sheriff Bobby McCarty and Lebow's mother had signed it for him.

"Did anybody force you to come to Hereford and do what you say you've done," asked Ochsner. 'No," replied Lebow. 'You did this freely and voluntarily so that anything that happened as the result of this action cannot be blamed on anyone but yourself," asked Ochsner. "Yes," said Lebow.

Mrs. Corinne Moore of Hereford, the next witness, told the jury that Umsted and Bill Hartsfield had leased the building from her and Troy Moore for a two-year period and she and Moore owned only the building and not the contents.

Under cross-examination by Ochsner, she said Umsted had been under no obligation to keep insurance on the building, that she had no difficulty with the leasees and the rent had been paid through January, 1967.

Troy Moore, a brother-in-law to Mrs. Corinne Moore and co-owner of the building, collaborated the testimony concerning

Commission Buys Auto

Deaf Smith County Commissioners in a light session Monday, approved the purchase of a new automatible for the Sheriff's Department, tentatively okayed the building of a speakers platform for the Bull Barn and changed the regular meeting time of the Commissioners Court.

The Court accepted a bid submitted by Hedrick Dodge of Hereford for a 1968 Dodge Polara 4-door sedan, police special equipped according to the specifications submitted by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department. The net cost, after trade-in, will be $2173.77.

Other bids submitted included: Hedrick Dodge, 1968 Coronet 4-door sedan police special, $1961.99; Orsborn Chevrolet-Olds 1968 Chevrolet Biscayne 4-door sedan, $2284.64; Dishman Hale Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc., 1968 Plymouth Fury police special, 4-door sedan, $2800; Orval Watson Ford Sales Co., 1968 Ford Custom, $1949.74. Delivery dates ranged from 30 days to 60 days from the individual dealers and the department was trading-in a 1965 Dodge Coronet.

The Commissioners tentatively approved the building of a platform to be used at the Bull Barn and voted to change the regular meeting time of the Commissioners Court from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. every 2nd and 4th Monday. The change was made to give County Judge H. C. "Hank" Williams more time to take care of the heavy Monday morning court business.

The Court also discussed and turned down a request by Santa Fe for participation in the installation of a warning sign and gates at a crossing near Dawn.

Sugar Content Good

James W. Witherspoon, Executive Secretary of the Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association announced at a meeting Monday night of that organization that of the first 46 samples taken of sugar beets delivered at the factory on opening day, Monday, Oct. 9, the average sugar content was 15.55 per cent.

Witherspoon stated that by the time the harvest is completed, the content should be a great deal higher, and that the average content this year could be close to what it was in the 1964 crop.

The Board of Directors of the Growers Association expressed hope that its members will cooperate with the company in an orderly harvest since the harvest date was extended from Sept. 25 until Oct. 9. It was stated that by each grower taking only a small pro-rata in the beginning, all growers would be in the same position.

Guests present at the meeting for the purpose of discussion on plant diseases, insecticides and herbicides were: Dr.

Disaster Fund To Be Sent To Brownsville

Members of St. Anthony's Catholic Church parish have collected a total of $456.50 to aid victims of Hurricane Beulah at Brownsville.

The parish will send the funds to Bishop Lawrence M. DeFalco in Amarillo, who will in turn forward it to Bishop Humberto S. Mederios of Brownfille.

The final amount was added to the fund after Sunday Masses on October 8, according to Mrs Kenneth Walterscheid, reporter for the organization.

Contract To Amarillo Co.

A contract for 11.289 miles paving on Farm to Market Road 2587 in Precinct 4, Deaf Smith County has been awarded to an Amarillo firm, it was announced in Austin this week by the State Highway Commission.

This is the first in a series of FM roads approved early last year by the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court. At that time, the citizens of Deaf Smith County went to the polls to vote a $450,000 bond issue to aid in the road improvement program. $250,000 was allocated by the state for this purpose.

Gilvin-Terrell, Inc. submitted the low bid of $218,850 on the project. Grading, structures, base and surfacing from the junction of U. S. Highway 385 and FM 2587 east to FM 809 (Dawn-Wildorado Road is expected to take 150 working days according to Charles W. Smith, District Highway Engineer at Amarillo.

W. V. York, Resident Engineer at Canyon will be in active charge of the project while it is under construction.

Three other projects have been approved in Deaf Smith County by the Commissioners Court, but bids have not been let at this time. Also approved by the State and earmarked for improvement is retopping and widening of Harrison Highway from the Holly Road west to Bootleg corner.

County Attorney Resigns

Deaf Smith County Attorney Bruce L. Miller Wednesday officially submitted his resignation to County Judge H. C. "Hank" Williams effective immediately.

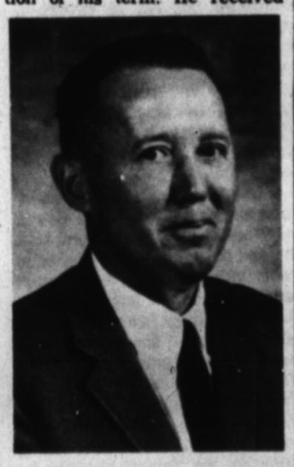

Miller, who has served as County Attorney since January 1965, resigned after receiving a ruling from the Attorney General's office concerning his recent announcement for Judge, Court of Civil Appeals, 7th Judicial District.

"I have received a ruling from the Attorney General," Miller said, "stating that it is not possible for me to continue to serve as County Attorney after having announced for the Court of Civil Appeals, and therefore I am submitting my resignation effective immediately. I had hoped to continue to serve the people of Deaf Smith County for the remainder of my term (ending December 31, 1968), but unfortunately this is not possible and in order not to confuse the situation further, I feel that it is best that I resign immediately."

A provision in the Texas consituation as amended Nov. 4, 1958, provides that "if any of the officer named herein (including County Attorney), shall announce their candidacy, or shall in fact become a candidate, in any General, Special or Primary Election, for any office of profit or trust under the laws of this State or the United States other than the office then held, at any time when the unexpired term of the office then held shall exceed one (1) year, such announcement or such candidacy shall constitute an automatic resignation of the office then held, and the vacancy thereby created shall be filled pursuant to law in the same manner as other vacancies for such office are filled."

A check with the County Judge Wednesday morning indicated that no immediate replacement for Miller had been found, but a replacement will be found as quickly as possible, according to the Judge. "The Commissioners Court will meet Friday morning in special session and the County Attorney's position will certainly be discussed," the Judge said, "if not earlier.

Miller, in a statement to the Brand, said that he was aware of the constitutional provision but had been waiting for an opinion from the Attorney General to see if there was any possibility that he might continue to serve the people of Deaf Smith County until the expiration of his term. He received word from the AG's office Wednesday morning and immediately submitted his resignation.

Bruce L. Miller

Miller submitted the following statement to the Brand Wednesday:

"Crawford Martin, Attorney General of the State of Texas, today advised me, that it is not possible for me to remain as County Attorney of Deaf Smith County while I am an announced candidate for the position as Judge of the Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo.

"This opinion resulted from my request to the Attorney General for a ruling on he constitutionality of the law. Therefore, I have submitted my resignation to the county officials of Deaf Smith County as County Attorney, effective as of October 11, 1967.

"It is with regret that I must do this. I had hoped and planned to fill out my unexpired

Broken Toy Is Ticket To Show For Children

The Hereford Kiwanis Club and the Star Theatre are jointly sponsoring a special showing of "Misty," the story of a rebellious colt and two orphan children who'd do anything to own her, on Saturday morning, October 14, at the Star Theatre.

Admission to the show will be by means of a broken toy and a special ticket handed out by principals to local school children. Although tickets will be available for school children only, the movie can also be enjoyed by smaller children who bring a toy to the admission booth.

The movie, which stars David Ladd and Arthur O'Connell, will begin at 8:55 and 10:35. Afterwards, free ice cream bars will be given all the patrons of the show.

Toys collected will be turned over to the VFW for repair and distribution at Christmas time to needy children.

Petitions Now Being Circulated

Petitions are being circulated throughout Deaf Smith County, in Adrian, Friona, Dimmitt and Vega in an effort to forestall the induction of two of Hereford's young doctors, Howard R. Johnson and Noble L. Ballard, into the military service.

Both Johnson and Ballard have received their orders to report for active duty and will leave the clinic before January 1 if action is not taken by the selective service board of review.

The petitions, being circulated by Mrs. Chris Brooks, credit manager at Deaf Smith County Hospital state:

"We, the undersigned, hereby petition the appropriate military and Selective Service authorities to defer, delay, or dispense with the induction into active military service of Drs. Howard R. Johnson and Noble L. Ballard, both of whom are Lieutenants in the United States Army Medical Reserve.

"We are familiar with the critical shortage of medical doctors in the Hereford and Deaf Smith County area, an area which serves many persons from Castro, Parmer, Oldham, and Randall Counties, as well as Hereford and Deaf Smith County, and we are of the opinion that the induction of these doctors into active military service will leave this area so short of medical doctors that the public welfare would be seriously and permanently endangered.

"We recognize and acknowledge the importance to the National Defense effort of adequate medical attention for our soldiers, but we believe that there must be areas from which military doctors could be obtained where the danger to the civilian public would be less critical."

Vega has no doctor at this time and many residents of that area now travel to Hereford for their medical needs. While Friona and Dimmitt do have doctors and hospital facilities, they are faced with the same shortage in both cities that we have in Hereford. None of the three towns have adequate number of doctors, according to Mrs. Brooks.

Aggravating the critical shortage of doctors in the area is the loss of two doctors from Friona; the death of Dr. Bruce Beene in April of this year; the recent resignation of Dr. Roy Grubbs, which will be effective October 15, coupled with the tremendous growth of the area over the past five years. Although a new clinic operated by Drs. J. H. McCrary and Gerald Payne is now operating in Hereford, the total number of doctors now practicing is no greater than it was a number of years ago when Hereford was much smaller.

Dr. Millard Nobles is a radiologist and has not done general practice in years, according to a spokesman at Hereford Clinic, and Drs. A. T. Mims and Clyde Rush spend a large portion of their time in surgery. Dr. C. E. Hicks is a specialist, practicing internal medicine and this leaves only Drs. McCrary and Payne to carry the bulk of the load in a city of more than 10,000 people as well as those who come in from the area. "It is important that we try to keep Drs. Johnson and Ballard here," he said.

Petitions are now being circulated throughout the county, Mrs. Brooks said, and will be placed in some of the grocery stores and restaurants with the permission of the owners within the next couple of days. Everyone interested is urged to sign these petitions.

"We realize that the situation in Vietnam requires a number of doctors," Mrs. Brooks said, "but we feel that the military service can find these doctors in areas where the need is not so great as it is in Hereford."

Meeting Held In Vega Sunday

At a District Democratic Executive Committee meeting in Vega Sunday, plans were launched for a party political seminar scheduled for Nov. 18 in Amarillo. Attending the planning session from Hereford were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Witkowski, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Jackson Bruce Miller and Andy Shuval.

County Democratic chairmen from each county in the 31st Senatorial District were present with a number of precinct chairmen and interested party members. Final plans for the seminar will be made at another executive session Nov. 5 in the downtown Democratic headquarters in Amarillo.

Prominent Democrats of Texas are expected to take part in the seminar, which will begin with registration at 8:30 a. m. at the Coronado Inn in Amarillo. Panel discussions are tentatively set for the morning and workshops on finance, organization, publicity, public relations education, women's activites and Young democrats in the afternoon.

Services Held For Former Resident

Funeral services were held recently in Wichita Falls for a former Hereford resident, Mrs. Paul Barnett, known to old-timers of this city as Leta Boone. Her family lived here in early years of the century and she was graduated from Hereford High School in 1906.

In June of that year she married at Houston, and has lived in Wichita Falls since 1920. She was manager of school cafeterias there until her retirement six years ago. She and her late husband were charter members and very active in Highland Heights Christian Church, where the funeral was held.

Survivors include a son, James, executive vice president of the Wichita Falls Times Publishing Co., and a sister, Mrs. Lillie Mae Earthman of Plainview.

Cooley Speaks At Nebraska U.

Ross Cooley, a nutritionist for Farr Better Feeds of Hereford, has recently returned from the University of Nebraska where he presented a paper on "Grain Processing Methods In The Panhandle of Texas" to an industry-college seminar.

Cooley had been asked to present the paper dealing with the practical aspect of the feeding industry, dealing primarily with commercial feed lots. Dr. Walter Woods of the University covered the scientific aspect of the industry.

HEAVILY INSURED

Orville Bratton of Amarillo, a general insurance agent, testified that he had written an insurance policy for $20,000 on the contents and fixtures of the Hereford market on Nov. 4, 1966. Written for one year, the policy was in effect at the time of the fire, he stated. Ochsner brought out that Bratton also had other policies for Umsted.

Hereford Fire Marshall Terry Hale described the events on the night of the fire, stating that he had gone east on U. S. 60 to get a snorkel to fight the fire and had seen the other fire to the east of the city. He called the dispatcher, but there had been no reports of the fire at that time. Later, the department had to send one truck from the market fire to the airport where the other fire was, and the Friona Fire Department was called to assist.

Hale said the call about the market fire came into the station at 10:56 p. m. and had been going only a "very few minutes when we got the call." Continuing, Hale said he had found glass "all over the place in the front of the building" when he arrived and was immediately told by two men that "there's somebody in there." He identified the men as Melvin Green and George Green, service station attendants at the J. P. Jones Texas station across the highway from the market.

After the fire was out, Hale said, firemen began looking around inside and found a gas can in the back with a liquid in it. "The back of the building was total debris, the roof, everything," stated Hale. "There was a lot of smoke damage, not actual fire damage to the front." Two large windows on the market had been blown out, he said.

Firemen also found part of a red shirt in the middle aisle near the front of the store, Hale stated. The liquid in the gasoline can was smelled of and some poured on a stick and burned. Asked what the liquid appeared to be, Hale replied "gasoline."

Several pictures taken inside the building showing the damage to the floor, the place where the gasoline can had been and outside showing the back door and how it locked, were introduced as evidence. Defense attorney argued that the pictures could not be used as evidence because they did not depict a true picture of the scene, as Hale had stated the debris had been cleaned out before they were made.

Defense attorneys also objected to Hale's testimony concerning the fire at the airport because it did not have any bearing on the charge against Umsted. "This is being submitted solely to inflame the minds of the jury," argued Baughman.

Under further examination by Ochsner, Hale stated that the gasoline can was about one-half full when it was found and some of the paint had been burned off. "You mean that can set all through the fire with the liquid in it and didn't explode," he asked Hale.

The defense attorneys also asked that Hale's testimony be stricken from the record concerning how the fire started and other details because he was not an expert in arson investigation, and that his opinion was not based on actual knowledge but from looking over the premises after the fire. The motion was overruled. Hale was the last witness to testify Monday before the recess.

First witness to testify Tuesday morning was George Green of Hereford. Green stated that he and his son, Melvin, had been working at the serivce station across the street from the market when they heard an explosion. "I turned around and looked and saw someone inside on fire. By the time we got there, he had disappeared into the back of the building." Green said he had not been able to identify the person because he saw only the outlines and he didn't see anyone again. He also was unable to get in the building because of the smoke and fire.

Fire Chief J. W. Dickerson also described the market fire and said he had seen the other fire as he was leaving his home to answer the alarm. He was not questioned by the defense.

INTERNAL REVENUE MAKES CLAIMS

R. B. Richards of Amarillo, an Internal Revenue Service Officer, explained that his main job is to collect delinquent taxes. The defense attorneys objected to any of Richards' testimony being submitted "on the grounds it is being entered to prejudice the jury and it is immaterial to the case." The objection was overruled.

Under questioning by Hunter, Richards said he had contacted Umsted and Hartsfield on more than one occasion about approximately $1,600 owed in delinquent federal taxes. He said he "demanded that they pay the taxes the first time on July 27, 1966.". On Sept. 22, 1966, he went to the Butcher Boy Market in Hereford to collect taxes and when he found no one there, he took physical possession of the contents of the cash register to apply to the debt.

Richards also said he had contacted the banks in Hereford and Amarillo to check accounts and had seized an individual account of Umsted's to apply to the debt. On Jan. 4, 1967, Richards testified, he talked to both men at the same time and told them if the tax liens were not satisfied he would seize the contents of the market.

Continuing, Richards said he was told the men were trying to sell the store voluntarily. He stated that the men had been given a reasonable amount of time to do so or he would seize the contents.

During cross-examination, Ochsner brought out that Richards had no way of knowing about payments being made by Umsted, but saw only the debts. Richards said he had seized a total of approximately $40 from the Hereford market and the bank account. He said that the last time he had checked, in September, the debt was about $1,600.

BANK ANNOUNCES FORECLOSURE

Forrest Stradley, a loan officer of the First National Bank in Amarillo, testified that he had been dealing with Umsted about four years. Defense attorneys objected to any of Stradley's testimony on the grounds that it was immaterial to the case and was meant to prejudice the jury.

Stradley testified that on Jan. 25, 1967, his bank had issued a foreclosure petition and Umsted bank, as noted in the petition, was advised of the petition. The had set Feb. 6, 1967, as the date it would take legal action to foreclose, if the debt were not paid, stated Stradley.

Ochsner brought out in questioning Stradley that Umsted had several other loans with the bank and had kept up the payments on them. Stradley said Umsted would get one of the loans about half paid, then would want to buy something else, so the bank would carry the note over to another one.

Mark Taylor, operator of the Air Speed Truck Center, approximately one block east of the market, testified that he had come to the station the night of Feb. 5 to put anti-freeze in his car. He said he was standing inside the station watching the fire when the front door came open and a young boy came in hollering for help. "He was stripped to the waist and burned badly."

Taylor said he called an ambulance and a city policeman had come with it to pick up the boy. Under cross-examination, Taylor siad he had asked the boy what had happened and "he told me he was walking in the alley behind the market when it exploded. He said he was hitchhiking to see his granny."

Gabriel Martinez of Hereford, who had been employed at the market at the time of the fire, testified that he had positively locked the business when he left that night. He also said he had left some money in the store — about $50 in the cash register and some under the cash register.

Martinez related that he was called to the market by the firemen, inspected the cash register and all of the money was still there. No questions were asked by Ochsner.

Kenneth King, an IBM supervisor for the Kimbell Institutional Foods Co., told the jury that Umsted owed his company $2,607 on Feb. 5, the last payment on the debt having been paid in April, 1966. There also was some $2,089 outstanding balance on an open account, stated King. The testimony by King was objected to by the defense because, they said, it was immaterial.

Ochsner brought out that Umsted had made a payment of $200 in December, 1966, and had cash payments four times. Ochsner asked King if he was aware of an agreement made in early 1966 in which payments would be made on the open account and the note would be deferred. King admitted that he was not sure how the records were kept, but Umsted had been on a cash basis only on Feb. 5.

James Riddle, a special agent with the Fraud and Arson Bureau of the American Insurance Company, said he had arrived in Hereford Feb. 9 and inspected the market. He stated that it was his opinion that "it was arson."

Riddle aslo told of inspecting the fire at the airport and stated that there two separate fires and possibly three. "It is highly unlikely that the fire would jump over a two foot terrace with grass on it," Riddle told Ochsner. He said there was no gasoline or any other inflammable material found at the airport fire. Defense attorneys objected to all of Riddle's testimony because it 'is immaterial to this charge."

Arthur Tiefel, a Hereford Volunteer fireman, appeared briefly to state that he had found the front door to the Butcher Boy Market locked and firemen had to break the glass to enter there.

Bobby J. McCarty, a Potter Couny Deputy Sheriff, testified that he had talked to Floyd Lebow in the hospital on Feb. 6, talked again later in the week and took a statement from Lebow on Feb. 17. Ochsner had no questions for McCarty.

Russell Durham, manager of the Plains Service Co. of Amarillo, said he had been dealing with Umsted about three with non-food items. Prior to February, Durham said in answer to Hunter's questions, Umsted owed the company $819. He had been placed on a cash basis only.

Ochsner asked if there had been any payments on Umsted's accounts. King showed through records from his office that there had been two payments of $50 and $32.

MISTRIAL ASKED

Travis McPherson, Deaf Smith County Deputy Sheriff, told the jury that he had worked for the Butcher Boy Market for about a year before quitting, and he knew both Umsted and Hartsfield. He stated that he had been directing traffic by the airport fire on the night of Feb. 5 when Hartsfield came up with a passenger in the car which McPherson did not know.

McPherson said he told Hartsfield that his store was on fire and that someone had been in it. "I told him he ought to go see about it." Hartsfield pulled off the side of the road and sat for three to five minutes, said McPherson, "and then I went over to him and told him again that I thought he ought to go into town and see about the fire." Hartsfield then turned around and went back toward Hereford.

Ochsner produced several checks which had been signed by McPherson and his wife for goods at the market and stated "you actually owed them money when you left, didn't you." McPherson stated 'no," but was cut off when he started to explain. McPherson was dismissed at that time.

Jack Vance of Lubbock, branch man for the Underwriters Salvage Co. of New York, described how his job is to go into a business following a fire, verify the loss and sell the damaged merchandise. He stated that the items in Butcher Boy Market had been damaged to such an extent by fire, water and smoke that they had been condemned by the Health Department and could not be sold.

Vance said just over $4,900 was raised in the sale of the goods by Umsted and Hartsfield.

McPherson was recalled to the stand at that time by Hunter and, through questioning, stated that he had made an agreement with Lee Umsted, market manager and brother of the defendant, in which he (McPherson) would leave his butchering equipment as security until the checks could be paid.

Ochsner asked McPherson why he had not testified to this when he had been on the stand earlier and how he had been able to return. McPherson said he had sent a note by Sheriff Ed Roberson to Hunter asking that he be recalled to explain the situation.

Defense attorneys immediately pointed out that McPherson had violated the rule which prevents the witnesses from discussing the case with anyone but the attorneys. "The only witness that could collaborate the testimony of the state's chief witness (Lebow) is guilty of violating the rule," they told the judge in asking for a mistrial. The motion for the judge to give an instructed verdict of not guilty was overruled by Judge McDonald.

With the jury out of the courtroom, Lee Umsted stated that there had been no agreement made and he had never talked with McPherson about the knives. He said McPherson had taken his equipment with him when he left the market and had done parttime since a two other businesses. The amount owned the market by McPherson, stated Umsted, totaled $44.

Defense attorneys offered the testimony of Umsted to the jury but the motion was overruled. In his statement for the record, Judge McDonald pointed out that Lee Umsted had also violated the rule since he had been seated in the courtroom throughout the day. Defense attorneys reiterated that McPherson had violated the rule.

DEFENSE BEGINS

The state rested at that point and the defense began bringing forth witnesses. Lanelle Grigsby of Amarillo described her tenure as an employe in Umsted's market on South Washington Street in Amarillo.

Mrs. Pauline Heiser of Amarillo testified that she had talked with Umsted on the telephone three times on the Feb. 5. The first time, she stated, was about 5 p. m., the second time between 11:15 and 11:30 p. m. and the third time about 30 minutes later.

The second time Umsted had

THE CAISON HOUSE
Proudly Presents
The Players Of The Week!

Offensive—No. 40 Elgin Williams. The junior halfback scored two touchdowns against Portales as he rushed for 98 yards on 12 carries—an average of 8.2 yard per carry. Williams almost broke loose on several plays and was very difficult for the Rams to bring down. Williams is a hard-running 140-pounder who may have earned himself the starting position.

Defensive—No. 87 Mike Higgins. A standout because of his hard tackling which caused at least one fumble which set up the Whitefaces in Ram territory. Also made several solo tackles on key plays. Higgins is a 175-pound senior end.

called from his motel room, Mrs Heiser continued, because the motel operator had broke in to tell him he had a long distance call. She called Umsted back later and he told her about the fire in Hereford. Hunter asked Mrs. Heiser, who had said she was a widow, if she was a "girl friend" of Umsted's and she said yes.

Mrs. Peggy Burks of Amarillo said she had seen Umsted at a small party in Amarillo on Feb. 5. She said he had been at the party when she and her husband arrived about 3:30 and he had left between 7 and 7:30 p. m. She did not see him again. Hunter asked Mrs. Burks if she had any real recollection of Umsted leaving the party an dshe said no but he had left before she and her husband and they had left at 9:30 or 10 p. m.

Stewart Hahn of Albuquerque, N. M., a cigar salesman, said he had known Umsted sine 1959 through the business and was driving by Umsted's market about 10 p. m. on the night of Feb. 5 when he saw Umsted's car at the business.

Hahn said he stopped in and found Umsted alone cleaning up. They talked for 20 to 25 minutes and Hahn left Umsted there. The defense rested following Hahn's testimony.

Hunter recalled Riddle to the stand and had him describe the conversation with Mrs. Heiser when he went to her home. "She said she went to bed about 10:30 p. m. and sometime during the night he called. She didn't recall what time he called."

McCarty was recalled by Hunter and collaborated that Mrs. Heiser had stated she could not be sure when Umsted had called, "she just knew that she had slept and it was dark." McCarty said he had checked the motel, but records were not kept for periods of time on where the calls were made.

Following McCarty's testimony, the jury was dismissed until 10 a. m. Wednesday. At that time, the defense attorneys said they possibly would have one more witness.

The final witness called by the defense Wednesday morning was the telephone operator at the motel where Umsted lived. The woman said one officer, and perhaps two, came to see her and she showed them the records kept on Umsted's calls. She believed that one of the officers had made notes from her records.

The operator also testified that she could not be positive about when the calls were made but there had been one call between 9:30 p. m. and midnight on Feb. 5 and another one later. The state and defense stipulated that the calls were made by the defendant to Mrs. Heiser.

The charge to the jury, as read by Judge McDonald, stated that the jury must find a connection between the defendant and the act committed, other than the statements by Lebow.

In his statement to the jury, Hunter pointed out that the principal evidence in the case was the testimony of Lebow. "It is up to your judgment whether you believe that witness was telling the truth. If you believe he was telling the truth and you find other facts connecting his statements to the defendant in committing the act, then he must be found guilty."

Hunter reiterated that the men were seriously in debt, were getting merchandise only ona cash basis and owed money to the Internal Revenue. He reminded the jury that the bank had a mortage on all the fixtures in the market and had set the foreclosure date. Also, "the insurance was higher than the fixtures was worth."

"If this defendant didn't unlock that door (to the market) and let Lebow in, how did he get in," asked Hunter. "He couldn't have."

Hunter also reminded that officers said they could not pin Mrs. Heiser down on the time Umsted had called. And the operator said it was between 9:30 and midnight, said Hunter. He concluded by saying he felt that was sufficient time for Umsted to leave Hereford and get back to make the cails.

Ochsner began his statements to the jury by saying "It looks like its the good guys against the bad guys, according to Mr. Hunter. He will have you believe all of the witnesses for the state and nothing said by the defense." He pointed out that the defendant must be connected with the crime other than testimony of Lebow.

Ochsner went through the list of state's witnesses and pointed out how he thought each did not connect Umsted with the crime. In discussing how Lebow got into the building, he said "Maybe he broke a part of the window. We'll never know because they were gone."

Ochsner also pointed out that the state did not produce the gasoline can. "They ask you to believe that can stood right near the hottest part of the fire half full of liquid and didn't explode."

The defense attorney also told the jury that Lebow had given conflicting statements. "The first day he said he was going behind the market when it exploded. The next day he said he was walking in front. Ten days later, he gave the story as you heard it here."

According to Ochsner, Lebow also said he had talked to Umsted at "4 or 4:30" on Feb. 5. Other witnesses, he said, had told of Umsted's whereabouts. Lebow, continued Ochsner, also said Umsted had gone into the market and cleaned out the cash register. Garbriel Martinez had said the money was still there.

Ochsner also said the state had produced a fourth person in the case in the person who was seen with Hartsfield on the night of Feb. 5. "That person was never explained." Lebow also testified, Ochsner said, that he saw Umsted frequently at the market in Amarillo. Mrs. Grigsby had testified that she hardly ever saw Umsted in the store during the time she had worked there.

"There is not a witness presented by the defense other than Lebow who connected the defendant with the crime. I say that you cannot, under this court's charge, find the defendant guilty."

In his final statement, Hunter told the jury that many items such as the gasoline can could have been produced, but they were never challenged by the defense.

Hunter also stated that the persons brought forth by the defense are "considered as alibi witnesses." He said they 'should be viewed with suspicion" because they usually are friends.

The district attorney suggested that Hahn could have been by to see Umsted some two or three hours earlier and "it would change the alibi very much." He also stated that, being a friend, Hahn could have been persuaded to say that he came by later. The defense attorneys asked for mistrial due to Hunter's remarks. They were overruled.

Hunter said it also was possible that the persons who saw Umsted at the party also could have changed their times. Another motion for a mistrial was entered.

"We can't rule out the possibility that it wasn't meant for Lebow to get out of the building alive," since the door was locked as the defendant went out Hunter said. Another motion for mistrial was inssued and overruled.

Still another motion was made when Hunter said Umsted "certainly should be punished for the injury he caused this boy." That motion also was overruled by Judge McDonald.

Members of the jury were James H. Fangman, Bill Bookout, Gerald Banner, Ed Dzuik, Raynold Herr, Mrs. Leo Harper, Johnnie Jesko, Virgil Justice, M. H. Wiseman, A. B. Higgins, Merl Parker and C. M. Diller.

India Pictured To Club, Guests

Sights of India were presented on film as well as in word pictures by a member who grew up in that exotic land, when Mrs. Gene Parsley gave the program for Veleda Study Club's guest night Tuesday in the Flame Room of Pioneer Gas Co.

Mrs. Parsley, who was born in Asia and spent her girlhood in India when it was governed by the British, spoke informally of her life in a British family and her observatons of Indians' life.

She introduced Mrs. L. C. Hewiett, who showed a film on India narrated by Basil Rathbone. Souvenirs of the county were shown by Mrs. Parsley.

Mrs. George Ritter and Mrs. Glenn Watts were hostesses. They decorated the refreshment table in autumn motif, with a centerpiece of miniature fall fruits heaped around slender gold tapers. Colorful leaves repeated the autumnal tones and cakes were ornamented in leaf patterns.

Guests in addition to Mrs. Hewitt were Mrs. Lloyd Webster, DeLois Lyman, Martha Tipps and Mary Jo Hamman. Members present included Mmes. Robert Willmot, Billy Sisson, James W. Durham, Gid Brownd, Don Baugous and Dale Barkley.

Punt, Pass And Kick Trophies Awarded Sunday

Eighteen proud and happy boys went home Sunday afternoon from Whiteface Stadium with a symbol of their prowess — trophies from the Punt, Pass and Kick contest.

Approximately 80 boys in ages ranging from 8 to 13 competed for first, second and third place trophies in the contest. Winners included:

EIGHT-YEAR-OLDS — Kent Herring, first; Gordon Beane, second, and Layne Martin, third. NINE-YEAR-OLDS — Keith Crum, first; Ramiro Alaniz, second, and Kelly Kitchens, third. Kitchens had tied for the third spot with Curt Spain, but won in a playoff. 10-YEAR-OLD —Mike Munnerlyn, first; Steve Cornelius, Second, and Monty Waits, third.

11-YEAR-OLDS — Gregg Dameron, first; Joe Priddy, second, and Robert Peacock. 12-YEAR-OLDS — Terry Scott, first; Marc Herring, second, and James Massey, third. 13-YEAR-OLDS —Bruce Garrett, first; Alan Cornelius, second, and Keith Kitchens, third.

Winners in the local contest will participate in the regional contests at Amarillo Oct. 21. Winners there will go to Dallas, then to Philadelphia and the final winners to the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla.

All expenses to the contests for the students and their parents will be paid by Orval Watson Ford Co. of Hereford, which sponsored the local contest.

Antique Display

The 11th annual antique show and sale sponsored by Amarillo Federation of WWomen's Clubs will be held Oct. 19-21 at the Federation clubhouse, Wolflin Ave. and Civic Circle, with hours from 10 a. m. to 9p. m. each day. Admission is one dollar and a ticket entitles the holder to return visits.

C of C Hustlers Meet Air Travelers

Hereford Hustlers were out in force despite chilling winds Tuesday morning at Hereford Municipal Airport to greet members of the 19th Annaul All Texas Air Tour when some 47 aircraft from as far away as Chicago and Cincinatti, Ill. landed shortly after 10:30.

The short 'Howdy" stop at Hereford was the third of six stops for the day for the air borne visitors, after having made an overnight stop at Pampa. The group was due to leave the local airport with Plainview as the next stop.

The Air Tour, sponsored by Texas State Aviation Assn., Private Flyers Assn., Flying FKA Farmers, Texas Ninety-Nines, and Texas Wing of Civil Air Patrol, is an annual week long occurence, is a non-profit corporation dedicated to the development of general aviation through the promotion of aviation appreciation and education.

The Air Tour's mass flights are planned to stimulate the community appreciation and interest for their local airport facilities and to help impress upon citizens the great use and potential of air transportation.

Again this year, as in the past, the March of Dimes is being sponsored.

Members of the Hereford Hustlers who were out to greet the arrivals as they steped down from their planes were: Melvin Jayroe, Frank Ball, Opal Norton, Geneva Summers, Kathryn Kester, Russell Carver, Lynton Allred. Several members of the business community were also on hand.

By MELVIN YOUNG

Apparently Hereford is going to be well represented in the district political races this year with Bruce Miller tossing his hat in the ring for Judge of the Court of Civil Appeals, 7th Judicial District, and now it is rumored that Andy Shuval, local attorney, will soon announce plans to fun for District Attorney.

Miller has picked up a couple of opponents to date, but so far as is known no one has announced for the District Attorney's job, now held by Bill Hunter. Hunter, a former Hereford boy now living in Dalhart does not plan to announce for reelection so we understand.

Shuval is a relative newcomer on the scene, but has become quite well known throughout the district since moving to Hereford. He was active in the Young Democrats organization and has served as president of the group at one time.

On the state scene, Connally continues to keep everyone guessing but we noticed in the papers Wednesday that Ben Barnes had announced for Lt. Governor, which probably means that Connally will be a candidate for the top spot, again.

Preston Smith has already announced and Waggoner Carr is certainly interested.

And on the National scene, there is little doubt as to who will be the Democratic standard bearer, but who the Republicans will name to oppose Lyndon Johnson is still anyone's guess.

The surprise resignation of Bruce L. Miller Wednesday morning as County Attorney has left the county casting about for a replacement. Miller resigned after receiving a ruling from the Attorney General's office concerning his continuing to serve as County Attorney after announcing for a place on the Court of Civil Appeals, 7th Judicial District. Miller announced his candidacy in The Brand, Sunday, September 17.

All in all, it should be an interesting year in politics.

Congratulations to the folks over at the Jim Hill Hotel. It's nice to see the coffee shop cleaned up and looking a little brighter.

Sugar beets started rolling into the Holly plant Tuesday, and according to a reliable source, the sugar content this year is going to be better than average. Tonnage too, looks good.

Actually we have four crops being harvested now that should add greatly to the economy of the Hereford area.

Milo started coming in some two weeks ago but is just now really beginning to roll. Milo of course, is still our big money crop in the area with more than 175,000 acres being grown in Deaf Smith County alone. And incidentally, the crop looks good again this year.

Lettuce and carrots are also coming in at this time, and prices have been good on both. Carrots have been exceptionally profitable this year and we have heard some fantastic reports on this particular crop. We hope all the reports are true.

L. J. Iwig called home from Dallas to report that the Iwig's registered Hereford bull had placed second in the State Fair contests. The bull beat out all other Texas animals and placed second to a registered Hereford from Kentucky who came in as Grand Champion.

Petitions are now being circulated in a three county area in an effort to keep two local Doctors from being called into active duty with the Medical Reserves. Drs. Howard R. Johnson and Noble Ballard will leave the Hereford Clinic sometime between now and January 1 if efforts to obtain a deferment for the men fail.

Hereford's doctor shortage has been severely aggravated during the past few months by the death of Dr. Bruce Beene as well as the resignation of Dr. Roy Grubbs, effective October 15.

The petitions will be placed in at least two local restaurants and some of the grocery stores in an effort to obtain 10,000 signatures. Everyone is urged to sign the petitions.

A youngster wrote to the Library of Congress: "I am no help to my teachers because I have no research information. I would appreciate it very much if you could send me anything about anything."

Provisions For Farmers In SS

The special problems of farming have long been recognized in the Social Security Law, according to Bruce Grady, Field Representative of the Social Security Office in Amarillo.

Farming, as any farmer can tell you, is a risky business. Many times outside forces byyond the farmer's control can damage or destroy his crops and cause him to suffer a low return for his investment and labor or even a loss.

To protect the farmer's stake in social security against low yield or loss years," explained Grady, "an optional method of reporting self-employment income for social security purposes was set up.

"The law now provides that if net earnings after expenses are less than $1600 in a year, the farmer can still get credit for up to $1600 social security credit by reporting two-thirds of his gross earnings. He pays social security tax on this amount."

Most farmers know that their social security benefits are based on all their earnings credited under social security. The higher his average earnings are, the higher his retirement benefit will be.

Anyone desiring further information about this method of reporting should contact the Amarillo district office; or, if it is inconvenient to do that, meet the representative of that office at the courthouse in Hereord every Tuesday.

Young Farmers To Hold Awards Banquet

The Hereford Young Farmers Organization will hold its annual Awards Banquet Saturday, October 28 at the Hickory Log Restaurant, and will have as its principal speaker, Rev. Frank Pollard of Dimmitt.

The organization, which includes some 20 active members, plans to have the awards affair annually. It will begin at 7:30 p. m.

According to Dave Honea, reporter for the club, the purpose of the Young Farmers organization is to help each other learn better farming practices and also to participate as a group in worthwhile community activities.

Honea said about 60 members and guest will be present for the Saturday benquet.

4-H News

Responsibilities of officers and members in 4-H Clubs were detailed by Argen Draper, County Home Demonstration Agent, as speaker at two club meetings Monday.

Willing Workers Club met in the Floyd Cole home with Cheryl and Beverly Cole as hostesses. Kay Clearman presided. Also present were Lynette Cole, Martha Ann McBride, Monica Herring, Sina Marie Sims, DiAnn Egbert and Debbie Stringer.

Adult leaders attending were Mrs. Hugh Clearman, Mrs. Juston McBride and Mrs. Cole. The next meeting was set for Nov. 13 in the home of Sue Shirley.

Dawn 4-H Club had its meeting in Community Center. Members present were Donna and Steven Olson, Twig Rose, Charles Allison, Hal Easley, Bill Cole, Jim Christie and Jim McKnight. Mrs. Daisy Allison served refreshments. George Olson was another adult leader present.

Group Goes To Regional Convention

Members of Delta Xi Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, women teachers of Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer Counties, will attend a regional meeting in Amarillo Saturday in lieu of their regular October meeting.

Mrs. Merlin Kaul, chapter president, Miss Della Stagner, past president, and Mrs. A. G. Ratcliff of Dimmitt, vice president, will go to Amarillo Friday evening for the Presidents' Dinner, a preliminary to the all-day programs of Saturday.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a. m. in Amarillo High School, where coffee will be served. Directing the day's programs will be Mattie Ruth Nowlin of Plainview, area director, and Dimple Watson of Lubbock, regional director.

Both have headed state committees in the honorary society of women educators, as well as holding local officers. Mrs. Watson is elementary music teacher in Lubbock public schools and Mrs. Nowlin, former classroom teacher in Plainview and other West Texas schools, is receptionist in her husband's law office.

She was chosen Teacher of The Year in 1962 by Caprock District Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Watson was recipient of the 1967 State Achievement Award of Delta Kappa Gamma. Both are active in other organizations, professional and cultural.

ADVANCE IN CAMP FIRE — A Fly-Up ceremony was held for the Smiling Bluebirds this week, marking their advancement to Camp Fire Girls. 1-AAA Teams Get Ready For District Games

Three of the District 1-AAA teams including the Hereford Whitefaces, will be idle this week, while the other three members take on outside foes in the final week of non-conference play.

The Whitefaces, Dumas Demons and Tulia Hornets all will be idle this week. Muleshoe will travel to Morton; Perryton will host Liberal, Kan. and Canyon will go to Spearman.

Final statistics from last Friday's game, in which the Whitefaces battered the Portales, N. M., Rams 27-7, showed that Hereford gained 241 yards rushing and 72 passing while holding the Rams to 189 yards rushing and 40 passing. A touchdown run of 85 yards accounted for a great portion of the Portales yardage.

Other statistics from the game showed that the Herd averaged six yards per play, while Portales got 4.4 and Hereford ran 61 offensive plays and the Rams got off 62. In the first half, Hereford made 129 yards rushing and 63 passing, while Portales had 137 yards on the ground and six yards through the air.

Hereford lost two of six fumbles and Portales lost two of five; Hereford had eight penalties for 92 yards and Portales had seven for 43 yards; Hereford punted three times for a 53.7 average and Portales booted five times for a 29 yard average per kick, and each team intercepted one pass.

In individual statistics, Elgin Williams carried the ball 12 times for 98 yards, or an average of 8.2 per carry. He scored twice. Steve McAndrews carried 10 times for 77 yards, or an average of 7.6 per carry. Karl French carried five times for 43 yards.

Quarterback Sid Shaw, who also did the punting, completed four of 11 passes for 62 yards and one touchdown.

A full report on the season to date andthe District 1-AAA race will be in Sunday's Brand.

Bradley Wins Teenage Races

Jimmy Bradley was the victor in a special teenage race at the Amarillo Speedway Sunday over seven other drivers.

Participating in the special races were Larry Lowry, Donny Locker, Charles Butcher, Chester West, Tommy Reeves, Wes Carter and Matt Bellamey.

The final race day of the season will be held Sunday, with several special events planned including a Demolition Derby.

Other results from Sunday's races include:

"B" TROPHY DASH — H. W. Johnson, first; Travis West, second, and James Bradley, third. "A" TROPHY DASH — Bill Byers, first; Don Loafman, second, and Mike Burns, third. FIRST HEAT — Johnson, first; Bobby Bradley, second, and Billy Bates, third. SECOND HEAT — Loafman, first; Red Easton, second, and Byers, third. FIRST SEMI-MAIN —James Bradley, first; Bates, second, and Johnson, third.

SECOND SEMI-MAIN — Burns, first; Byers, second; Bob Campbell, third, and Red Easton, fourth. "B" MAIN EVENT — Bates, first; West, second; Gary Easton, third; Bradley, fourth and Jim Culpepper, fifth. "A" MAIN EVENT — Burns, first; Byers, second; Red Easton, third; Stacy Starrett, fourth, and L. V. Watts, fifth.

Trophy Girl for the day was Judith Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morrison and a sophomore at Hereford High School. Free passes were won by Ellen Bridges and W. W. Johnson. A case of cokes was won by Joe Lankford.

"A lot of prizes will be presented and several good buys will be sold, so plan to attend for the last races of 1967 at the Hereford Speedway Sunday," stated one racing official. The races begin at 3 p. m.

West Hereford Club Has Two Program Topics

Two program topics were presented at the meeting of West Hereford Home Demonstration Club Tuesday afternoon in Mrs. V. V. Pierce's home. Mrs. Blanche Hardin conducted the business session, announcing that the next meeting day, Oct. 24, is the date for a demonstration on crafts which members will attend at the County Bull Barn.

Mrs. Robert Boyd spoke on a health problem now being attacked on a national basis, birth defects. She quoted statistics on the incidence of premature births and birth defects in babies of this nation, and told of research being done to prevent such defects.

Mrs. Hardin gave practical advice on Storing Our-of-Season Clothing. She suggested use of zippered bags to hang garments and boxes labeled plainly, for articles which must be folded. Closet space can be used best by having some low rods for hanging, she said.

Mrs. Eunice Boyd, Mrs. Cody and Mrs. C. V. Burges were guests. Other members present were Mmes. Roy Boyd, Alice Bradly, Alice Cox, Carlos Vaughn, Bell Grimes, Carl Schroeder, John Jacobsen Sr.; Misses Mary Bradly and Evelyn Bell.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Hands Create Beauty

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Getting routine housework and cooking done quickly, then turning to "better things" is Mrs. Ross Cooley's policy, and the things which are better in her estimation are tasks of creating something beautiful out of ordinary materials.

ANY SORT OF HANDWORK from sewinga dress to painting in oils, interests her. Her home shows the result of her talents, with refinished and polished furniture and a variety of decorative items. More of her work is evident in the yard; she likes to garden, too.

Articles she made last year were popular with bazaar customers and she is ready to begin work now on items for the gift booths. "All of us are geting to work in earnest on the bazaar," she says, speaking of the church Women's Auxiliary "and we are looking forward to the best one ever. We are expanding luncheon plans because people do seem to like our food!"

Mrs. Ross Cooley
. . . bazaar duties ahead

Lucy Cooley is general chairman of this year's Christmas bazaar at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, which has been scheduled for Dec. 2, the first Saturday in December, and members expect her original ideas to contribute to decoration for that mers and she is ready to begin work now on items for the gift booths. "All of us are geting to work in earnest on the bazaar," she says, speaking of the church Women's Auxiliary "and we are looking forward to the best one ever. We are expanding luncheon plans because people do seem to like our food!"

A dish which she might make for the luncheon because it is easy to prepare in large quantity and because it appeals to most appetites, is Spanish rice according to her mother's recipe. It fits Mrs. Cooley's requirement of needing little of the cook's time, too.

SPANISH RICE

¼ cup bacon grease
1 bud garlic or ¼ tsp. garlic powder
1½ cups chopped onion
1 cup green pepper
1 cup chopped celery
3½ cups solid pack tomatoes.
2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. chili powder
½ cup water
1tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 pound ground meat
1 cup raw rice
(Add Italian spices if desired)

Saute rice in grease; Put in a 2-quart casserole. Saute onions, pepper, celery and meat. Add all other ingredients and heat through. Add to rice and mix. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes, or until rice is tender.

Mrs. Cooley says she is right now "on a sewing spree," which will probably produce half a dozen or more dresses, "then I'll be tired of sewing for awhile, and will do something else. That's the way she likes to work, concentrating on one thing for a time, then switching.

"For a while it was papier mache, then decoupage, so I won't go back to those right now." As examples of the latter art, she has a group of attractive pictures, old posters and maps mounted on wood "beat up" for an antique effect and covered with layers of varnish to simulate the patina of age.

She uses ordinary objects like tin cans and boxes as bases of decorative containers handsome enough for the living room. An unusual use of papier mache, from which she also makes costume jewelry, was to coat cheap plastic fruit shapes from the dime stores, then make designs on them with lace paper, cord and ribbon, gilding and antiquing the whole. A bowl of that fruit makes a beautiful centerpiece on her highly polished dark oak dining table.

Hereford residents two years, the Cooleys came here from Minnesota. As Lucy Michel, Mrs. Cooley was born and grew up in Glendale, Calif. Her husband is also a California native and they were married in that state. Then they lived at Ames, Iowa while he attended Iowa State and at Lexington when he was a student in the University of Kentucky.

"I was very happy to come to Hereford, back where it's warm!" says pretty blonde Mrs. Cooley after a few years in more northern states.

The couple has two sons, Mark 14 and Gregg, 12 years old. They live at 301 Stadium Drive.

Yard work gets the young housewife's attention in springtime and she has plans for her flower beds for next summer. Fortunate enough to move into a place with the lawn already established, she worked last spring to get the beds dug, bordered with brick and planted with quick-growing flowers like the gay petunias across the front

"This year we were interested in quantity; next year the aim will be quality," she promises.

She likes to play golf when she has time, and is a member of the Ladies Golf Association here.

Home Tour Flower Show Open Friday Afternoon

Four of Hereford's beautiful homes will be open to visitors Friday afternoon beginning at 2 p. m., in the annual tour sponsored by Garden Beautiful club as a benefit for its projects fund.

Mistresses of the show homes and a committee from the club will serve as hostesses at each place, the C. F. Newsom residence, 150 Liveoak, the Ray-Frye home next door at 144 Liveoak, the Liston Wilson place at 322 Centre and the F. W. Hill home at 217 Ranger.

Flower arrangements made by Garden Beautiful members will be placed in various rooms at each home. Theme of the flower show is Hereford Habitat '67, adapted from the theme of Expo '67, this summer's world fair at Montreal, Man And His World.

That theme is the title of a book by the French writer, Antoine St. Exupery, based on the idea that "to be a man is to feel that through one's own contribution one helps to build the world."

Flower show arrangements have been made by a committe e headed by Mrs. Ray Cowsert, with Mmes. Homer Newton, E. W. Young and Carl Swanson as members. Also sharing tour plans is the ways and means committee, with Mrs. Leo Witkowski as chairman, Mmes. J. Howard Walker and Deward Roberson as other members.

The public is invited for the tour. Tickets will be on sale at the door of each home, or may be obtained in advance from members of Garden Beautiful Club. Mrs. Charlie Noland is club president.

Final plans for the tour were made at a recent club meeting in Mrs. Roger Brumley's home with Mrs. Young as co-hostess.

Committees made their reports, and Mrs. Deward Roberson conducted a demonstration of flower arranging with emphasis on arrangements for the tour homes.

Contributions to the United Fund and the County Federation of Women's Clubs were voted.

Hostess groups for the tour are as follows:

At the Hill home, where a sunny patio room with growing plants and a splashing fountain is a chief attraction, Mmes. Cowsert, Tom Carter, Bruce Burney, Clifford Trotter, Jesse Stanford and L. H. Lookingbill Sr.

Mmes. Charlie Noland, Brumley, Don Robinson, Newton and Witkowski, at the Wilson home; Mmes. B. E. Roberson, G. S. Solomon, J. H. Walker, Roy Smith and Young at the Newsom home; Mmes. Will S. Kerr, Ansel McDowell, N. D. Bartlett Jr., Swanson and Deward Roberson at the Frye home.

Chapter Hears Reports From BSP Convention

A program on Personal Appearance shared interest with reports of last week's district convention at the meeting of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in Community Center recently. Mmes. Delbert Bainum and C. D. Fitzgerald Jr. were hostesses.

Mrs. Clete Corlis introduced a local hair stylist who demonstrated combing of a hair set, and also showed the use of wiglets. Mrs. Bill Kendall and Mrs. Oliver Streu showed means of hand and nail care.

Chapter members voted to sponsor a Blue Bird Group here Announcement was made that the next meeting, Oct. 17, will be a Halloween costume party in the home of Mrs. James Shearer at Dimmitt.

At the district convention in Amarillo, Mrs. Bob Huddleston of Hereford won the principal prize, a mink stole, while door prizes were received by Mmes. Dave Heck, Duke Powell, Bob Pugh, Ted Wimberley and Bainum.

Dumas was chosen the 1968 convention city. Members of XEA and Alpha Mu Chapters who went from Hereford included Mmes. Howard Gore, Preston Hagans, Kendall, Howard Kids, Hicks Roberson, John Snyder, Charles Laing, Shearer, Bainum, Fitzgerald, Max Stipe, Harold Beauchamp, Huddleston and Ollene Williams.

Symposium Airs Views On Program

Pros and cons of universal military training were discussed in Summerfield Study Club by two speakers and in a symposium with Mrs. J. R. Euler as moderator, at a recent meeting when Mrs. J. C. Clearman and Mrs. L. B. Lookingbill were hostesses in the Clearman

A VISITOR FROM CHICAGO, passenger of the second plane to arrive Tuesday morning, was greeted by chilly blasts of typical Panhandle wind and Hereford C. of C. members Mrs. Palmer Norton, right, and Mrs. Kathryn Kester.

District TFWC Head Is Speaker

Her administration's theme of Education and Community Service was the subject of Mrs. Guy Crawford of Borger, president of the Top of Texas District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, as she spoke to Pioneeer Study Club at a Federation Day luncheon Tuesday.

Mmes. O. G. Hill Sr., J. V. Pickens and R. L. Wilson were hostesses at Hereford Country Club. Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill Sr., third vice president of the district federation and a member of Pioneer Club, introduced Mrs Crawford.

The Borger woman, holder of the Key Club award and an honorary member of the Lions Club in her city, was chosen Clubwoman of the Year in Top of Texas District in 1959. She is a former teacher and much of her civic work has been with youth so she is particularly interested in education.

Emphasis on youth and its needs is not new with Federated Clubs, she told her audience Tuesday; the National Federation of Women's Clubs adopted a youth program in 1889, although chief attention was given then to physical needs of children and young people.

A vast majority of today's youth is good and wholesome, she continued, although the noisy minority draws the most attention. She urged education in homes and schools to teach children respect for themselves, each other, their elders, law and the U. S. flag.

"Our duty is not to prepare the times for youth, but youth for the times," she concluded.

Mrs. M. L. Simpson spoke briefly of Our Veterans' Needs, reminding members to bring gifts for the club's annual contribution to the Christmas gift shop operated at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Amarillo. Mrs. Frank Ball led the opening flag pledge and Mrs. Wirt Phillips presented the meditation.

Mrs. Delmar Sigle presided for business. Mrs. Ralph McCullough, finance chairman, reported on the sale of bulbs being conducted as a fund-raising project and to aid in city beautification. Announcement was made of the fall board meeting of Top of Texas District, to be held in Stratford Oct. 24.

Mounds of chrysanthemums from Hereford yards were used by the hostesses to decorate tables covered with green cloths. They had also made corsages of the autumn flowers for special guests, officers and the speaker.

Mrs. Guy Walser, Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine and Mrs. A. L. McCullough of Oklahoma City were guests. Other members lunching were Mmes. Bess Werner, P. B. Sowell, Mary Seigler, Paul Rudd, H. E. Miller, A. L. Manjeot, Ray L. Johnson, W. C. Hromas, Henry Hastings, J. M. Gililland, N. E. Gass, Burl France, Bonnie Brumley and Fred Barrett.

Training and the Draft. Mrs. Mack Noland presented arguments for ending the draft, and Mrs. Guy Walser for compulsory training. General discussion followed, centering on current United States draft laws.

The program followed an invocation by Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill Sr. and a business session with Mrs. Walser presiding. She reminded members that the club project of this month is bulb planting, with each one expected to make plantings for spring bloom.

Refreshments were served to 11 members.

Music Clubs Meet Together

Music Study Club members were special guests Monday morning in the home of Mrs. D. W. Palmer, who also entertained the Harmony Club of Amarillo. She holds membership in both organizations.

A regular meeting of the Hereford club was held in the afternoon at Ward Parlor of First Methodist Church, when four new members were voted into the club and a program was given by Bob Wert.

Harmony Club presented the program in Mrs. Palmer's home, with Mrs. Carter Wood directing .Mrs. Wendel Heiny presided and asked Mrs. R. C. Godwin, president of the Hereford club, to lead in reading of the club collect.

Mrs. Lowell Sharp, also of Hereford, played an organ solo, B, The Waters of Babylon, and Mrs. Palmer led group singing of the Hymn of the Month, "Yom Kipper Prayer." Vocal solos were Morning (Speaks) by Mrs. Jackie Gann and a selection from the opera Madame Butterfly by Mrs. Malcolm McDaniel, both accompanied by Mrs. Vester Hindulitec.

She was also the pianist, and Mrs. Bobby Robbins violinist, to accompany a sextet rendition of "Lift Up Thine Eyes." She was one of the singers, with Mmes. Howard Boxwell, Dwight Elliott, J. M. Simpson and Paul A. Ellis.

Hereford members present included Mmes. W. T. Carmichael A. O. Thompson, Wesley Fisher, B. Y. Crosthwait, Glenn Snyder, and T. W. Roberson.

At the afternoon program Mrs. Carl Wimberley of the Dawn Music Club, president of First District, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, gave a report on the recent district convention at Wellington.

Wert, director of music at First Methodist Church, spoke on the subject, The Historical Past, discussing hymnody, Monodic music, music of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

Selections to illustrate his talk were sung by a trio, Mmes. Godwin, Wert and Richard Jackson. They included This World Doth Pass (Weekes), If I Love Truth (Campion) and In These Delightful Pleasant Groves (Purcell).

Elected to membership were Mmes. Bill Devers, Wilson Green, Tom Burdett and Clifford Trotter.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bill Dameron and Mrs. Jackson, hostesses.

To Purchase Equipment For Boy's Ranch

The Hereford Chapter of the Young Farmers organization has begun a project to raise funds to purchase a tandem disc and a stalk shredder to be given to Cal Farley's Boys Ranch according to Clark Andrews, president of the club.

Approximately $1500 will be needed, according to Dave Honea, reporter of the club, who also said that the equipment would be bought in Hereford if possible. Donations are being asked from farmers, business men, or any individual interested Honea said.

The group now has $150 cash and another $250 pledged towards the equipment.

Honea said the equipment would be used at the Ranch located some 25 miles north of Vega.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for all the get well cards and many kind wishes while I was hospitalized.

Speciality Grew Out Of Trial And Error Methods

By PAT SPURGEON
Staff Writer

A business just happened and a specialty grew out of trial and error methods when Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wilson entered the restaurant business eight years ago with the opening of the Corral across the street from the High School.

"We had a certain type of restaurant in mind," Mrs. Wilson says. "We didn't want to be tied down to a 12 or 24 hour place, rather, we just wanted to be open a few hours a day." This objective has been carried out with both the Corral and the newest addition, La Cafe Hacienda, located on the corner of Ave. D and Grand Avenue.

MAKING PREPARATIONS for the evening serving hours at La Cafe Hacienda, Gerald and Anna Jo Wilson have realized their objective in both the naming and service of the restaurant. La Cafe Hacienda can be translated to the 'home cafe', and is open from 5 until 9 p.m. six nights a week. The Corral, located across the street from the High School, is opened for three hours daily.

FRIEND AND COUNSELOR to over 250 young people who daily visit the Corral, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wilson take five minutes out of a busy schedule to pose for photographs.

A B I
agriculture • business • industry

HEREFORD, TEXAS, 79045, THURS., OCT. 12, 1967

The Corral is operated for the benefit of the school children, from 11 a. m. until 2 p. m., and some 250 junior high and high school students pass through the doors daily, Monday through Friday.

"Two years ago we had the opportunity to buy the Hacienda," Mrs. Wilson continued. It had formerly been a restaurant which served 'home-cooked' type meals. The meals are still home cooked, and fresh foods are cooked daily, but the restaurant now specializes in pizza and Mexican foods.

Mrs. Wilson, who doesn't mind giving the secret of her delicious Mexican foods, cooks all the ingredients of the dishes with the exception of the tortillas and tamales. Tortillas are made and delivered fresh daily from a supplier in Hereford, while the tamales are made in San Antonio.

The secret of her Mexican food, Mrs. Wilson admits, is in the way it's cooked. She cooks the ground meat without any seasoning, and drains it through a colander. The seasoning of the food is done later in the preparation. "The meat and chili," says Mrs. Wilson, is never fatty or greasy."

Mrs. Wilson learned the tricks of the trade through trial and error methods. When customers suggested a different way, perhaps better, she incorporated the ideas into the next batch. Using some ideas, discarding others, she worked out her own recipes and sticks with them now.

"I just dabbled in those dishes before, but when we opened the Corral," she says, "I had to work at it."

Mexican foods were served at the Corral two nights a week in the beginning of the business, and later it was opened six nights a week. The folks who had operated the restaurant before her had served the dishes several nights a week, and she vowed, "if they could do it, so can I."

Because of the success of her recipes, much of the food is sold through the drive in window at the Hacienda. Aluminum dishes are kept for this purpose, and the trade is brisk. The two kinds of sauces served with the dishes, hot and mild, also made by Mrs. Wilson, is sometimes bought by the pint jar, and she is always having to start another batch. "There's just never enough of it," she says.

Pizza, because it is also a favorite of the younger set, became a speciality in much the same manner as Mexican foods. Special equipment had to be purchased for this food, however, including a special asbestos oven, which cooks the pies at 700 degrees.

Pizza doughs and sauces were made and tried by the Wilsons, and a finished product now rivals any found this side of the old country.

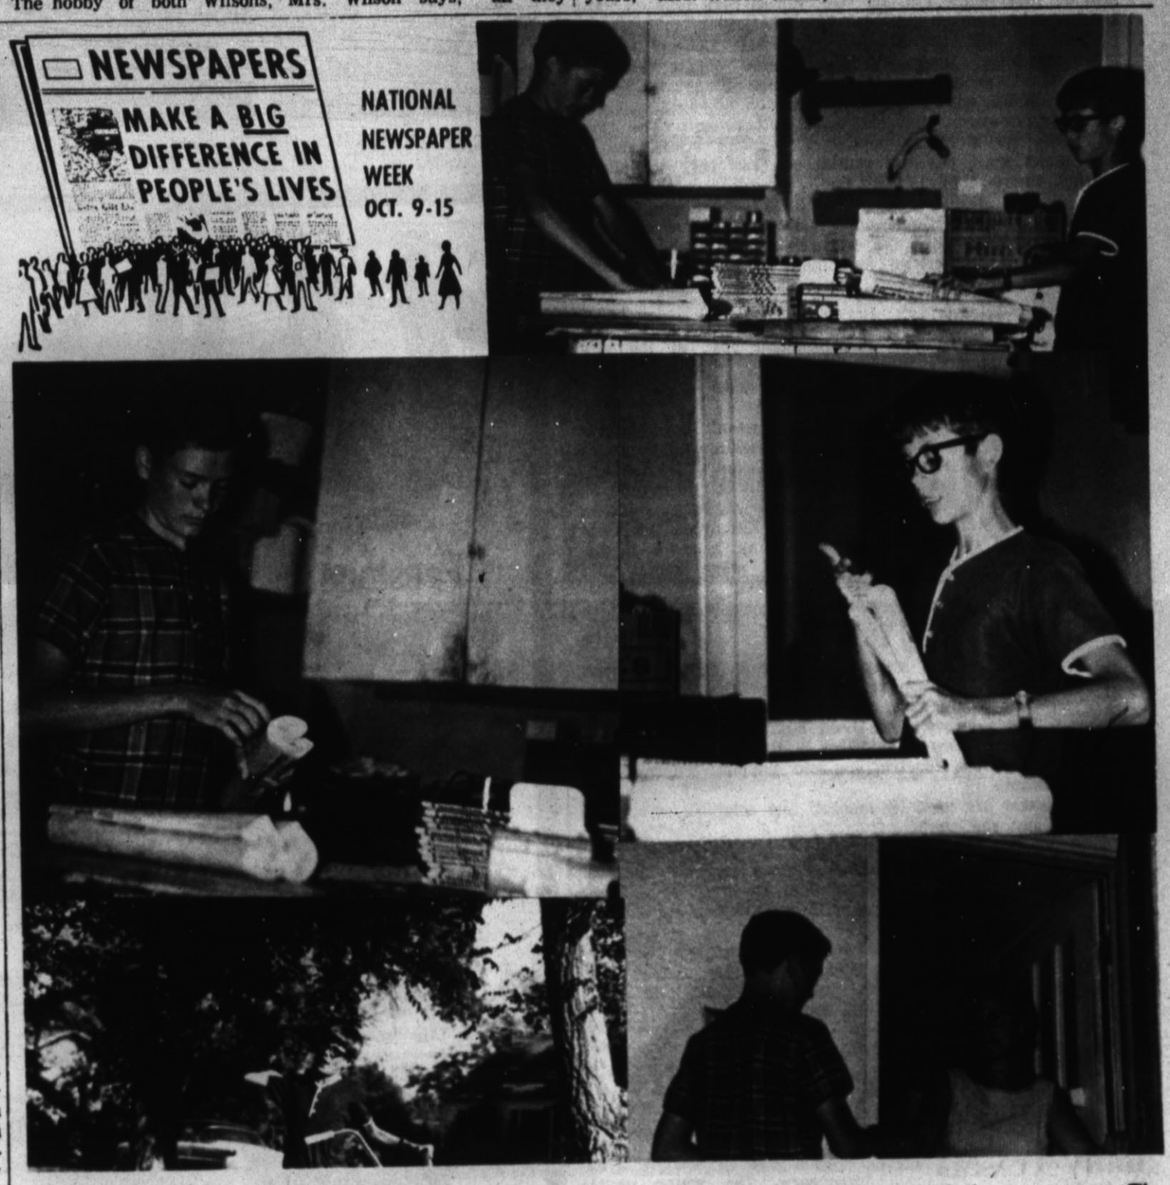

La Case Hacienda, aside from its two specialties, also serves a varied menu, during its hours, 5 to 9 p. m., ranging from soups to the ever popular hamburger, and has a banquet room capable of seating 22 persons, in which special affairs are catered. The decor is pleasantly Spanish and home-like.

Wilson, an energetic man, has a full schedule every day, working with his wife, Anna Jo, at both restaurants, and driving a school bus 'in his spare time.' Almost as soon as the Corral doors are closed, he is off on the afternoon run on the bus, and arrives home in time to help with the preparation of the evening meal at the Hacienda.

The hobby of both Wilsons, and one which occupies a special place in their lives, is their affection and admiration of the young people, and many hours are spent n listening and counselling with them. "Sometimes," Mrs. Wilson says, "all they want is for someone to just listen to them." Advice isn't always needed, and often none is offered. If it is, however, it is gladly given by both Wilsons.

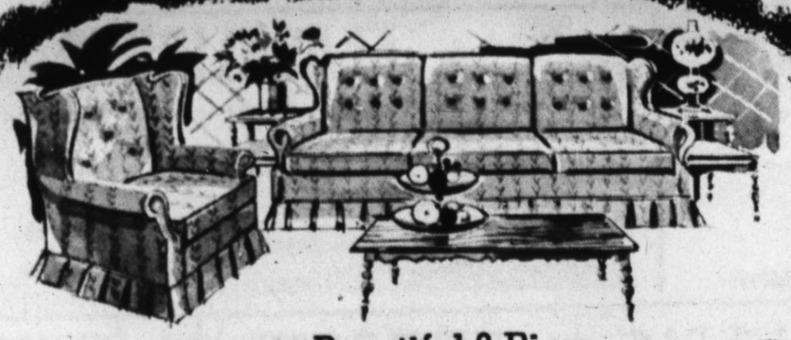

"This stage, the teenage years," Mrs. Wilson thinks," is often the most difficult time, and if I can help even one of them, then I am always happy." A staggering number of teens and nearteens visit the Corral weekly, and never have the

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

WHERE TIME STANDS STILL — in 1890, a group of Quakers from Kansas came to Texas and settled at Alvin, Brazoria County. When they discovered that young people there attended dances, the Quakers moved on to Galveston County and established a new town named Friendswood on Clear Creek.

Over the years, Friendswood changed little. Dancing was banned and neither of its two stores sold tobacco. Any teacher who smoked was dismissed.

Then, in 1962, the Manned Spacecraft Center was located 10 miles away and Friendswood began to grow. Projections indicate that the one-time village will be a city of 50,000 within a few years.

So far, however, the old ways still prevail. The town still sells no alcoholic beverages, permits school dances only under rigid parental control and has only one supermarket where cigarets are sold.

• • • •

TEXAS BRAG — Some other states may have more industry, but Texas has the world's largest smokestack.

Built by the American Smelting and Refining Company at El Paso, the smokestack towers 828 feet above its base.

• • • •

BEFORE MEDICARE — When Dallas opened its first charity hospital in 1873, the principal cost to the city was the $25 monthly building rental.

Three physicians contributed their services.

• • • •

TEXAS FUNTIER, 1858 — Tourism wasn't big business a century ago, but there was a best-selling guide available for anybody who wanted to see Texas.

It was written and published by Jacob de Cordova, founder of Waco and one of the state's earliest geographers. His book was called "Texas, Her Resources and Public Men," and it included accurate maps, a table of distances between settlements, a list of stage routes and ferries and facts about points of interest.

Published in 1858 at Galveston, the book is a rare item eagerly sought by collectors today.

ODD TEXAS — San Antonio hopes that the 1970 census will show 4,000 baboons as residents of the Alamo city.

For several years now, the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education has been building up a colony of primates there. It even maintains a station at Nairobi, in Kenya, East Africa, for trapping and shipping the monkeys to San Antonio.

The baboons are used by medical and scientific researchers thrughout the world.

• • • •

COUNTRY FOLKS — Texas has more farmers than 25 other states have in total population. In fact, more than half of the counties in Texas still have more rural residents than urban.

But the state also boasts more concentrations of city slickers than any other part of the country. Texas has 22 metropolitan areas of more than 50,000 population, giving it more urban centers than any other state.

Easter Seal Program Aids Many Texans

A total of 16,031 disabled Texans were helped by Easter Seals during 1966, as stated in the Annual Report of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas. These people were given treatment in one of the 23 Treatment and Service Centers that are financially aided by the Easter Seal Society throughout the state.

J. A. Hodges, Jr. of the Hereford State Bank is the Easter Seal Representative for Deaf Smith County, according to Robert N. Eastus, Jr., Field Representative for the State Easter Seal Society.

Any person in need of the services provided for by the Easter Seal Society should contact Hodges. He will assist with an application that will be sent to the State Treatment and Service Center, where arrangement will be made for the proper treatment at the appropriate center.

Conditions treated in 1966 included: arthritis, cerebral palsey, multiple sclerosis, muscular distrophy, other nuro-muscular conditions, stroke, poliomyelitis, orthopedic, brain damage, speech disorders, hearing conditions, and others.

Gerry Steele Freshman At Stephenville

Gerry Steele, a Deaf Smith County resident, is enrolled as a Freshman at Tarleton State College in Stephenville, where he is majoring in Industrial Arts.

A breakdown of enrollment shows Tarleton students from 162 Texas counties, 13 other states, and six foreign countries. Total registration reached a record figure of 2,203 as compared with 2,025 last year.

Wilsons been the victims of delinquency. The young people are treated fairly and equally there, and the Wilsons have never had cause to regret their associations.

Young people are also hired to help in both restaurants, and professional help has never been used by the Wilsons. Working in and with the public is good training for young people, according to Mrs. Wilson, and experience is gained by them in several areas of public relation.

Gerald, a native of Amarillo, and Anna Jo, were married on Christmas Eve in 1939, after which Wilson spent six years in the service. Coming back to Hereford, the Wilsons operated a dry-cleaning establishment until an allergy acquired in the South Pacific forced Wilson to do other work. After working with appliances for a few years, the couple decided to open a restaurant, and the Corral was purchased.

Mrs. Wilson, the daughter of the late G. P. Owens, has lived in Hereford most of her life, and is the only daughter in a family of eight brothers. Both Wilsons are active in the Baptist Church and do extensive work at Thompson Memorial Mission, located on Norton Street, working with little Latin children. Mrs. Wilson teaches a class there, while Gerald leads the singing. Although neither are fluent in Spanish, both know enough to prove useful in their work there.

The Wilsons have two chilren, Dian, a junior student at Hardin-Simmons College in Abilene, and James Neil, a fourth grader at Shirley School.

Home for the family is the second floor of the rambling two story white building on the corner. Visitors are greeted by a huge brown dog bounding up with a bark, and sometimes it's difficult to decide whether the dog is a cannine-welcoming committee or just sizing the vistor up for the next course on the menu.

Two Marines Complete Basic Training

San Diego — Marine Reserve Robert A. Higgins, son of Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Altus B. Higgins, Rt. 4, Hereford, and Marine Reserve Private George L. Muse, son of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Muse, 123 Centre St., were graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

They will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to their first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival technques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-caliber pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects, hygiene, first aid and sanitaton, and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare them to join the Marine combat forces.

SWEDEN'S OLDEST PUPIL

KRISTIANSTAD, Sweden — Frida Lindkvist, 84, is this country's oldest pupil. Sh ehas started to study English to better understand the American and English movies on television. Foreign movies shown in Sweden are always in the original language with subtitles.

Mrs. Lindkvist has not been to school since the 19th Century.

A school outside this southern town organizes an eight-week course for retired people. Besides English, the 38 participants study politics and take part in physical therapy courses.

Our grandfather thought they had a good test for determining if anybody had watered their drinks. They poured a little of the whiskey over gunpower, then lit it. If it burned, it was "proof" the whiskey was neat.

Fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Hoff was celebrated Sunday when their daughters and families joined them at their home for dinner and visiting — the Bill Blackwell and Paul Hagar families, that is.

ANOTHER DAUGHTER, the Hoffs' youngest, lives in Las Vegas, Nev. and their son, Paul Jr., is now stationed downstate on Army duty.

Married Oct. 8, 1927, in Lincoln, Ill., the Hoffs have lived here 21 years. Before her marriage Mrs. Hoff was Margaretha Haas, but her friends don't call her that formal first name — she is Peg.

Because a fortieth anniversary is not celebrated with much fanfare, you may not know that it is the ruby or garnet anniversary. The superior air I'm taking results from looking it up in Amy Vanderbilt's Book of Etiquitte.

You may know why there is an option — maybe so the honored couple can pick their favorite shade of red, since garnets are darker than rubies. With neither of the gems to offer, I'll just wish the Hoffs many more happy anniversaries.

GUESTS AT THE beautiful home wedding of Cynthia Haile and Eddie Gandy Friday evening include the John Gandy family of Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin K. Shaw and family of Amarillo and the Troy Gandys of Boys Ranch, among relatives from other cities.

FORMER MEMBERS of Hereford Study Club during its 30 years of existence are being invited to the reception next Thursday celebrating the anniversary. It's been something of a struggle finding present addresses of some, says Jean Ballard, the general chairman.

But the committees believe they will be able to reach almost all the ex-members with invitations, and hope that a number who have moved to other places will be back to forgather with present club members and exes who still live here.

Clubs do accumulate a lot of former members in 30 years and it's fun to stop occasionally, observe an anniversary and get as many as possible together.

IT DIDN'T TAKE long to find out the origin of Emma Street's name, when I wondered about it last week. It was a namesake of the late Mrs. Emma Brownlow, whose family owned land in the area which is now the northwestern residential section of Hereford.

Her children, grandchildren and other relatives are still residents of Hereford.

Father Davis To Speak On KPAN

The Rev. Father Aedan Davis S. A. will be the speaker on the Columbus Day program, sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, to be broadcast on Thursday, Oct. 12, at 11:15 a. m., over Radio KPAN. Every one is urged to listen to this broadcast.

Subject of the message will be Christopher Columbus and the extreme courage shown by the adventurer in the discovery of the New World. While that type of courage is difficult to appreciate in 1967, with our array of scientific instruments and knowledge, an equal amount is required of every person almost every day in meeting and solving personal day to day problems, according to the text.

Bowlers Of Week Are Clark, Leub

L. J. Clark and Alice Lueb have been named "Bowlers of the Week" as the result of play in the Kings and Queens games in the Major Bowling League.

Clark, who was receiving the honor for the second time this season, earned his laurels after posting a 588 score. He also had the high series with a 561 mark, while Carl Kleuskens had the high single game with 211.

Alice Lueb had a 570 score to gain honors among the women bowlers, and also had the high series with 507 and the high single game with 211.

In the games of last week, Vance Hall Sporting Goods won three games and lost one; Team No. 2 had three wins and one loss; Farmer's Elevator, 2-2; Team No. 5, 2-2; Sunset Food, 2-2; Hereford Aero, 2-2; One Hour Martinizing, 1-3, and Team No. 1, 1-3.

Dimes and quarters, once 90 percent silver, now are minted entirely of copper-nickel alloy. A half-dollar contains only 40 percent silver. The rest is a chaper alloy.

Awards Given At Starlighter Club Meeting

An installation ceremony was held for Starlighter Horizon Club at a recent supper in the home of Becky Elliott. Rema Coffin became president Barbara Brook vice president, Sherri Marsh secretary, Miss Elliott reporter and scrapbook keeper.

Community service patches and project charms earned during the past year were presented to members and special citations, the Margaret F. Allen Award, to Billie Jo Witherspoon, Misses Marsh and Coffin, who each brought a new member into the group.

Mrs. Vance Crume, club leader, led discussion on plans for the coming year. Mrs. Lewis Lea was a special guest. The next meeting was set for Oct. 25 in the home of Miss Marsh.

Other members present were Linda Glenn, Sharon Hagans, Shelly Rush, Kathy Miller and Lynda Jacobsen.

OPTIMIST OFFICER VISITS — Curtis Griffin of Pampa, Lieuttenant Governor of Optimist International, paid an informal visit to the Hereford Optimist Club Thursday and made a brief talk.

PERSONALS

by Penny

Mrs. Max Leon spent last week in Pittsburg, Kansas visiting her parents and other relatives. She returned Sunday morning.

Gaston Baer is attending a sales market in Dallas for four days.

Arleen Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wade of 128 Mimosa, celebrated Halloween a bit early with a party at her home Saturday night. Engaged for the event, were two bands.

Renee Malouf traveleed to Morton for a day to visit Mr. and Mrs. Simon Marina. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Swayden accompanied Renee.

Mrs. Calude McGowen left Sunday for Mangum, Okla., to spent several days visiting relatives and friends.

Johnny Pool, proprietor of Western Auto Associate Store was awarded the 1967 District dealers sales award by Davis Western Auto Supply, Wichita, Kansas.

The winners are based on last year's sales and how much they have increased between last year and now. Western Auto increased 260 percent for Hereford, which won first, Perryton 210 percent, Borger 210 percent, Pampa 179 percent increase, and Texhoma 123 percent increase over last years sales. Perryton took the award the year before.

Mrs. Farris Harfoush of Bervit, Lebanon, the sister of Ted Dakil visited for the weekend in their home. Dakil is the proprietor of the Fair Store. Mrs. Herfoush flew from Beruit to New York and from there to Dallas where she visited her brother Arthur Dakil. She was accompanied to Hereford by her oldest brother from Childress and his family.

After a tour of Hereford and a talk with her family, Mrs. Herfoush commented, 'I think that Hereford is one of the best towns that I have visited in the U. S. I find the people very likeable and friendly."

When commented on the world affairs, Mrs. Herfoush spoke the feelings of a good percentage of people when she stated, "It is not fair for all the free world not to come to the aid of the American servicemen in their fight to maintain and support the freedom privilege for all nations. America remains the hope of the world."

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Dutton, Route 5, have returned from Santa Ana, Calif., after a visit with their son. Sgt. Frank Dutton who is Stationed in the Marine Air Wing at nearby El Toro Air Base.

Dutton, who received his sergeant's stripes early in September, was chosen "Marine of the Month" at the base and his parents helped him celebrate that distinction.

He is due to be discharged from the Marine Corps Nov. 26 after four years of service. He spent 22 months in overseas duty, half of that time in Viet-Nam.

He plans to enroll in a school of aeronautical engineering at Tulsa, Okla., after his discharge, to continue training he began in the service. He attended West Texas State University at Canyon two years after graduation from Hereford High School.

"Tennessee Waltz," introduced in 1950 by Patti Page, now is the official state song of Tennessee. It is said to have sold 3 million copies in its first year of release, 6 million by now, making it the largest selling record by a girl singer.

FOR GOD SO LOVED THE WORLD

STEPS TO GOD

The Bible says for us not to neglect church attendance, Heb. 10:25. Here we find a family on the way up the steps to an hour of worship. The church is the strongest dyke against corruption and the evil forces that destroy human life. The church is the foe of the penitentiary. Jesus said, "I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," Matt. 16:18.

The church is not perfect... nothing human ever is. Even the Apostles chosen by Jesus had a Judas, but see the success He made of the other eleven. Christ loved the church enough to die for it and that makes it mighty important. Whether people worship in a tent, tabernacle or cathedral, they mean to be on God's side. Church-going people are people of Faith. Do you go to church?

FINE RECEPTIONS — Lenny Petree (80) hauls in a 21-yard pass on the Portales 15 in the first quarter of Friday night's game to set up a touchdown. Mike Higgins (87) took a 10-yard pass to put Hereford on the Portales 15 in the second period, but the Herd could not push the ball across.

ALLY IN BLOOM — Not only does he keep weeds out of the alley behind his home at 312 Star, Cawthon Bryant replaces them with dahlias, and for the past few weeks has had a striking show of bloom on 120 plants along the back fence. Now past their peak, the dahlias still present an attractive display of many colors and varieties. Bryant is pictured with dahlias in a bed in the yard, where some of the plants grow taller than his head and bear blooms as large as a man's head. The blossoms in front of him are pastel yellow, those in the foreground flame color.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Serivce Director, 702 Colorado Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q — I'm a college student. My registrar said I had to take 15 semester hours in the fall semester to make proportionate progress under the new draft law. Right?

A — That depends on your situation.

Q — I'm a freshman on a football scholarship and have time to take only 12 hours. Will that give me a deferment in Class II-S?

A — Yes, for the present. But whether it will in the future depends on what degree you're seeking and how long normally it takes to get it.

Q — I'm studying business administration. It takes four years or less if you go to summer school. I plan to pick up some hours each summer. What's the least number of hours a year I'll need to take?

A — That depends on the total semester hours necessary to get the degree. You should get one-fourth of them off each of the four years.

Q — It takes 128 semester hours to get the degree. Let's see — that means I need to average 31½ hours a year. Is the summer term included in each year?

A — Yes.

Q — Let's see. If I take 12 hours this fall, 12 hours next spring, and 12 hours next summer — that's 36 hours. I'd be ahead of schedule, wouldn't I?

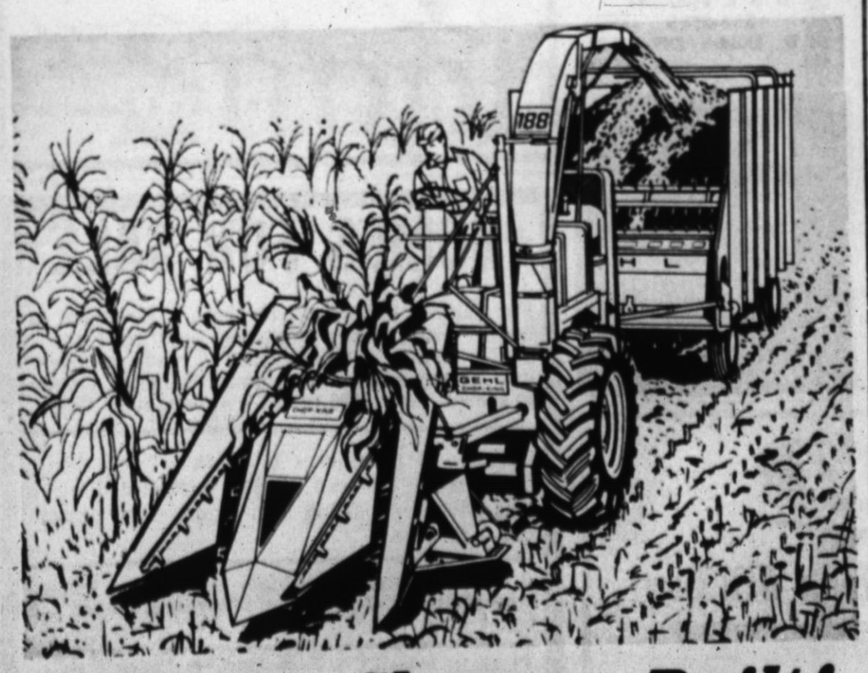

A — You sure would.

NO TIME LIMIT

LOUISVILLE — The Louisville & Nashville Railroad recently sent William Stagg a $3.50 refund on a ticket purchased 73 years earlier.

Nobody knows who purchased the ticket. Stagg found it in the debris when an old railroad station was demolished. He wrote the railroad, explained the circumstances and collected.

Gibson, still wearing his tuxedo, saved the day by miking for half an hour.

Biggest Chopper Built!

unmatched capacity and finest chopping

It's the biggest, brawniest of them all . . . the Gehl Self-Propelled Chop-King. Chops more tons per hour than any other chopper! Owners report over 700 tons in a day . . . 11,000 tons a season.
Eight tungsten carbide faced knives short-chop even the toughest crop to a fine ¼-inch.
Select-A-Cut Transmission changes cutting lengths in seconds.
Rear-wheel power steering gives you a 10-ft. turning radius, perfect tracking.
Floating heads adjust to field contours, even at full speed.
See the new Gehl Chop-King today!
Financing available.
(*Optional equipment)

NEW! 10,000 RPM PORTABLE KNIFE SHARPENER*. Lightweight, gas or electric models. Gives minute-per-knife sharpening on the machine — in the field or at the machine shed. Adjustable guide insures proper beveling of knife cutting edges.

CACTI AND SUCCULENTS

Glad has been a very busy person this week, with many hours being spent on writing the schedule for the annual Christmas Flower Show, which the Hereford Garden Club and the Bud to Blossom Club will present in Sugarland Mall on Dec. 2nd and 3rd. I've also conferred on materials and designs for arrangements for the Tour of Homes, sponsored by the Garden Beautiful Club, Friday, Oct. 13. (Hope the awards won't be withheld on this. . Friday 13th.) along with preparing the schedule and rules for the Rose Panorama which will be sponsored by the merchants of Sugarland Mall on Oct. 28th, and making arrangements and corsages for a party, and consulting with friends on plants they could not name.

One of the highlights, however, of the week, and a real delight was the visit I had with Mrs. J. W. Kirby. She had a potted plant which had produced its first blooms, and she and her friends wanted to know the name of it. The plant was a gift from her son, and she has had it, for approximately five years. She had given it tender loving care and watched its development and the reward when it bloomed. I had seen plants like it many times, but had never seen one in bloom, but could not give its name, and would not until I had done some research, and was sure to be correct. I went to the Exotica, a pictorial ecnyclopedia of indoor plants by Alfred Byrd Graf, where I searched, read and studied, then called Mrs. Ray Johnson who is an authority on Cacti and succulents.

We compared our findings, some of which was that all Cacti are succulents, but succulents are NOT Cacti, that there are 18 genera of the Cacti, and over a thousand species. This plant of Mrs. Kirby's is of the Asclepiadacea genera, and the variety is Stapelia variegate, with the common name of Kenna Starflower.

The flower is a perfectly shaped star with five distinct points around a raised center filled with minute stamens. The predominant color is deep yellow, almost gold, with tiny black spots all over the blossom. It hangs by a very tiny stem directly downward, and gives one the feeling of its being artificial, or of a badge worn suspended from a thread.

The bloom pod is many sided, and when it blossoms it suddenly bursts into bloom. The plant has to be five years old before it blooms. There is no fragrance or odor which is not characte or odor which is not characteristic of all the other Stapelias. However, the encyclopedia stated that there was one of the Stapelias which did not stink the (others do and many of them have a very strong offensive odor).

The Stapelias gigantee, the Stapelia clavicorona both have star shaped blossoms. The center of the Stapelia clavicorona's blossoms are heavier, larger, and thicker in texture, and they are also reflexed, with pin points as each star point. The center is deep and empty. Their blossoms are more securely attached to the plants, and are much closer together.

It was so good to visit with Mrs. Kirby and to share her other house plants. Most of all it was enriching and inspiring to listen to and share her wealth of knowledge and interests. Yes, we even talked of children and grandchildren; after all, no visit would quite be complete without this bit of gossip.

If you are making plans for winter house plants, do include some of the Cacti and succulents. They are easy to grow, do not take much care, colors are pretty (so many different greens) and they are easy to transplant or start by cuttings. Their variance in sharp forms and characteristics are a constant attraction. Portacaceae, (Moss Rose) is one of the common varieties with a wide range of flowering colors. A prettier winter houseplant you can not grow. Lift some of the small plants from the garden, and transplant to pots for long winter LIFTING. There are countless others which will give you satisfaction.

Things to do: Keep your outdoor plants, shrubs, and roses well watered. Moist, but not soggy. This will help them to withstand the first freezes.

To promote flowering of the chrysanthemums, it is advsiable to keep them well watered. A late spraying for insects and diseases will make them more attractive, and better for the cut flowers.

It is the time now to take cuttings and plants and to lift small plants which you want to start for winter houseplants: Geraniums, succulents, cacti, petunias, balsam, portulaca, Poinsettia, and Amaryllis.

To keep geraniums through the winter, lift the entire plant, shake off most of the soil, but leave some around the roots. Hang up, with roots up, in a storage place which is not too dry, and where there is no danger of freezing.

Another suggested plan is to take cuttings from the mother plant, place them cut ends down in a box of sand. Dip cut ends into plant solution before placing them in the sand. I would also suggest that after cutting let the cut end dry out a little before dipping into the plant solution and placing it in the sand. Store in a place where there is not too strong a light exposure and where they will not freeze. Water two or three times during the winter. Keep them moist enough to stimulate growth, and just enough to keep them alive.

Now is also a good time to make rose cuttings.

Have you seen the graceful Pampa Grass at the Ray Howell home at 147 Sunset Drive? It is beautiful. The harmonious color blending of the flowering chrysanthemums with the background of shrubs, at the Joe Lyons home, 1119 Douglas, is very lovely. The mass of white chrysanthemums, with the pyracantha background, on Dr. Hick's vacant lot, 107 Douglas is very picturesque. There are many beautiful golden autumn leafed trees in town.

GLAD SAYS: Make a "peace pillow" by gathering bunches of herbs and any pungent scented leaves, hang them to dry, and then crumble and fill a small calico (or other material) pillow to lay on your bed. It is called a peace pillow because it is said it will calm the ruffled spirit, and I hope a tired mind.
GLAD

CARD OF THANKS

I want to take this means to thank each and every one of my friends in and around Hereford for the nice visits, get-well cards and letters of kind expressions during my stay in the Deaf Smith County Hospital. Thanks especially to the doctors and nurses and the hospital staff who made my stay as comfortable as they could, and to Rev. Naugle for the fine visit every day. Everyone was so nice to me. Again, I want to thank all immensely.

Washington Report

From Congressman
BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS
1323 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C. • 225-3706

Last week I introduced two more Veterans bills. One of them would prevent cuts in benefits which were raised by the recently enacted Veterans Pension and Readjustment Act of 1967.

Two of my first bills which I introduced last February were to increase benefits for veterans and their widows and to increase educational allowances for veterans. I was happy to see my bills incorporated into the Act as it was passed and signed by the President.

However, the Act has certain income limitations which would be affected in many cases by increased Social Security benefits. This would exclude some veterans from the program so it will be necessary to make adjustments in the veterans' pension program.

The Veterans Affairs Committee of the House has in fact, already begun hearings on the legislation but will not be able to complete action until the Senate agrees on the amount of Social Security increases.

The other bill I introduced would allow the Veterans Administration to contract with community nursing homes in order to alleviate crowded conditions in V. A. hospitals. This would reimburse nursing homes up to 45 percent of the cost of care furnished by the V. A. in hospitals under direct and exclusive jurisdiction of the V. A.

The new Veterans Assistance Act that went into effect October 1, will benefit not only veterans and their widows and children with a cost-of-living increase in pensions but will also offer educational benefits to all veterans who have served in the military since 1955 and grants certain war time benefits not previously provided to veterans serving in the Armed Forces on or after August 5, 1964.

Higher benefits will include:
$130 a month for an unmarried veteran in school full-time.
$155 a month for married veterans in school full-time.
$175 a month for veterans with two dependents, in school full-time, and $10 extra per child.
Veterans may choose on-the-job or apprentice training and receive payment from $30 to $100 a month for the first of 4 six-month periods with payment reduced in each succeeding six-month period.

The law also includes on-the-job farm training while attending agricultural courses and flight training.

A veteran may also complete high school without losing eligibility for college training. Time spent in completing high school will not be charged against a veteran's basic entitlement period.

The Act also increases the period of time during which training may be taken by extending the age limit from 23 to 26 years.

It extends the over-all delimiting date for entitlement of WW II veterans to a guarantee, direct loan, or business loan from July 25, 1967 to July 25, 1970. And the V. A. may now increase maximum allowable direct-housing loan from $17,500 to $25,000 in areas where it is found that cost levels so require.

A summary of the bill and its provisions may be obtained from local Veterans Service officers or by requesting one from my office.

Progress Report Given

Several reports were given and plans were completed for a dance in which the public is invited at a recent meeting of the VFW Auxiliary.

C. L. Walker gave a report on the progress of the Voice of Democracy program sponsored locally by the Auxiliary. This program, which will feature taped speeches by sophomore, junior, and senior students of Hereford High School, will be held locally and assisted by the High School Speech Department and Radio Station KPAN, who will be responsible for the taping process. The theme, Freedom's Challenge, will be the subject, and the students are required to winner whose speech will then use.

Local judging will select a winner whose seppch will then be entered in district competition, and winners from those will go on to state and national contests. The Hereford VFW will sponsor a $25 bond for the local winner.

John Green gave a report to the Auxiliary on the Western Association meeting held Sept. 23-24 in Lubbock, at which he was elected vice chairman of the Association. Attending that meeting from Hereford were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Driskill and Mr. and Mrs. John Green.

Plans were completed for a VFW Dance to be held on Oct. 21, to which the public will be invited. Admission will be by means of the presentation of a toy valued at $1.50 or more. Toys collected will be used by that organization in the Christmas toy distribution program.

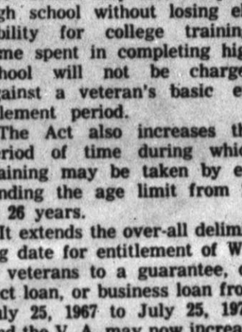

The building behind the La Mexicala Grocery on Third Street across the street from the courthouse, will be used as a collection and repair center by the VFW for broken toys. The public is invited to leave broken toys there.

Tentative plans were also made at the Auxiliary meeting for attendance at the District Convention to be held in Canyon on December 2 and 3.

Medical Film Shown At Rotary Monday

"The Pulse of Life," the story of artifical respiration and artifical circulation, was shown during the regular noon meeting of the Hereford Rotary Club Monday.

The film, which was presented by Dr. Clarence Hicks, local physician, dealt primarily with the ABC's of resuscitation. The three main things to do when bringing a person back to life after some type of accident are "open the air passage, restore breathing and restore circulation.

Restoring breathing is done by mouth to mouth resuscitation and restoring circulation is done through heart massage.

"There's not going to be a doctor present every time you have an accident," Dr. Hicks stated after the film. "These are relatively simple new techniques you're going to have to learn."

During the meeting, Jim Conkwright of the Dawn community was brought into the club as a new member.

Four Grid Games Set For Tonight

Although the Hereford Whitefaces will be idle Friday night, local football fans will have plenty of chances to see their favorite players and teams in action.

The Hereford Junior Varsity team will meet the Dumas "JV's" headon in a contest beginning at 7 p. m. today in Dumas. The Hereford JV's will take a 3-1 record into the contest, having lost their first game of the season last Thursday against the Hart Longhorns 18-12.

The La Plata Junior High Freshmen will go after their third straight win of the season at 6 p. m. today when they host Dimmitt. The Mavericks have beaten Canyon and Friona in previous games.

The Stanton Junior High Freshmen will be after their first victory of the year at 6 p. m. today when they travel to Littlefield. The Dogies have dropped close contests to Canyon, Dimmitt and Plainview.

One of the fullest football schedules of the season is on tap for next week. The La Plata 7th and 8th grade teams will travel to Canyon for a game at 6 p. m. Tuesday; Stanton's 7th and 8th grade teams will host Dimmitt in Whiteface Stadium at 6 p. m. Tuesday; the Stanton Freshmen will travel to Tulia for a game beginning at 6 p. m. Thursday; La Plata Freshmen will travel to Plainview for game with the Red Pups at 6 p. m. Thursday; the Hereford "B" team will play in Plainview at 7:30 p. m. Thursday;

The Hereford JV's will host Tulia at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, and the HHS varsity will begin the District 1-AAA race when they host the Canyon Eagles Friday night, Oct. 20.

Fertilizer Use Symposium On October 26

Latest information on fertilizer use and management will be presented at the Southern Great Plains Agronomy Symposium to be at West Texas State University on October 26. The symposium is sponsored by the Texas Plant Food Educational Society.

Featured at the all-day session will be discussions on the characteristics, handling and application of ammonia; nitrogen transformatons in the soil; fertilization of wheat, gran sorghums, cotton, sugar beets and ships of fertilizer use with production practices.

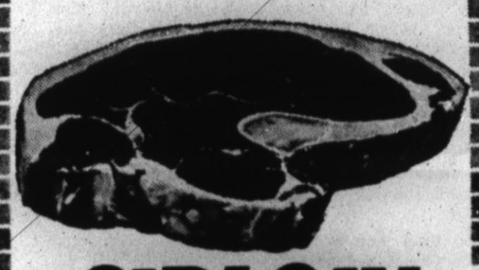

Some of the keynote speakers on the program will include Dr. Eugene Coleman, services representative, Southwest District International Minerals and Chemical Corp.; Dr. W. F. Bennett, director of Agricultural Services, Elcor Chemical Corp.; Dr. Charles Welch and James Valentine, soil chemist and area soil chemist and area soil chemist, respectively, Texas Agricultural Extension Service; Dr. Arthur Onken, assistant professor of Soils and FERtility at the South Plains Research and Extension Center; and Wendell Roberton, technician in soil fertility, USDA, Southwestern Gre Great Plains Research Center, Bushland.

Registration for the symposium will begin at 8 a. m. Advance registration at $5 each may be sent to the Agriculture Department, West Texas State University in Canyon. Registration at the door will be $6. This fee will include the noon luncheon.
