HST's 'Home Relief' Plan Splits States

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 — State officials split sharply today over President Truman's plan to aid the nation's needy with a vast new "home relief" program.

Members of Congress also were divided on the administration's proposal to expand the social security system by adding 20,000,000 workers to the old age insurance rolls and increasing the benefits through more payroll deductions.

An Associated Press poll of governors and welfare directors showed the major "home relief" dispute centered around the sliding scale of federal contributions which the local governments would be called on to match proportionately.

New Maximums Proposed

Under the proposal, the largest federal grants would go to those states having the lowest per capita income. The maximum payment toward which the federal government would contribute would be $100 per month for husband and wife, and $20 for each additional family member needing aid. Participating states would put up from 40 to 75 per cent of the cost, depending on their per capita wealth.

These was no estimate of how much the "home relief" program would cost. It would be in addition to the $1,000,000,000 a year the government now spends for aid to the needy aged, blind and dependent children.

The other phases of the projected social security expansion are expected to boost the current $1,800,000,000 in payroll taxes for old age and survivors insurance to about $6,000,000,000.

Plan Given Good Chance

To pay for that, the administration has proposed doubling the payroll tax to 2 per cent next January 1. The self-employed who would be added to the rolls under the expansion plan would pay a 2¼ per cent levy.

House Democratic leader McCormack (Mass.) conceded that Congress may not bring in all the persons Mr. Truman wants covered in the new program. But he told a reporter "there is no question but the major part of the program the President recommended will be adopted."

But Rep. Taber (R-NY) said "I'm not in favor of taxing the people generally to pay any more gratuities to anybody unless it is a direct obligation of the government."

To this, Rep. Woodruff (R-Mich), added: "These do-gooders who want to take on the troubles

Warning Issued On Vote Change

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP) — Rep. Patman (D-Tex) cautioned Congress today to go slow in trying to change the electoral system, lest it make possible election of a president by the Communists or the Ku Klux Klan.

Patman delivered the warning in the Congressional Record and in an interview.

He was discussing the proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the present electoral college, retain the electoral vote now guaranteed to each state, but divide each state's electoral vote among the candidates in proportion to the popular vote the candidate receives.

Plan Called Dangerous

Now, it is customary for a candidate receiving the greatest popular vote in a state to get all of its electoral votes. A majority of all such votes—or 266—is necessary to elect.

Patman referred specifically to the proposed provision permitting election by a mere electoral vote plurality instead of a majority. This would avoid throwing a close election into the House of Representatives where each state would

U.S. Army Engineer Claims Nazis Had Liquid Death Spray

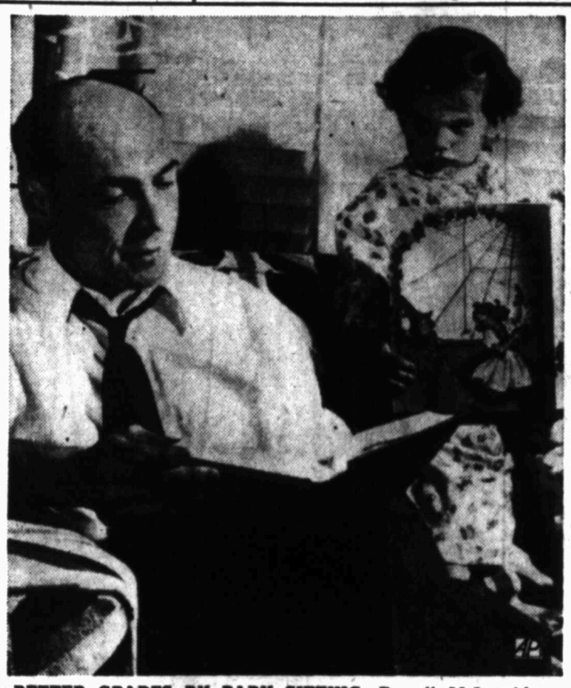

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif., Feb. 22. (AP)—The Nazis had a liquid death spray potent enough to have knocked out whole divisions of men in exposed positions, says a U.S. Army engineer who helped destroy the stuff.

A dime-sized spot of the liquid on the skin, unless wiped off quickly, would kill a man in two minutes, asserts Maj. James M. Graham. It would penetrate ordinary clothing and some kinds of gas masks.

The Germans called this liquid tabun. The word is a combination of the names of the scientists who invented it. Army intelligence officers found 125,000 tons of the stuff stored in carefully hidden caves in Bavaria.

BETTER GRADES BY BABY SITTING—Russell McLaughlan, 30-year-old Navy veteran from Philadelphia, who claims baby sitting has upped his grades at Pennsylvania State college where he is a sophomore. When his grades started to slip near the danger mark, McLaughlan says he gave up his part time job and tried baby sitting as an experiment. "It worked like a charm," he said. "I haven't had any trouble with my school work since then." The ex-sailor says the baby sitting gives him a better chance to study. Watching him do some work is one of his charges, two-year-old Jean Strozier, daughter of a neighboring couple. McLaughlan's grades now are 2.2. A perfect grade is 3.0. (AP Wirephoto.)

Trustees Okay Purchase Of School Site

School Election Is Slated For April 2

By CHARLES STONE
Avalanche Staff Writer

PASSAGE of a resolution calling for a school board election on April 2, announcement of dates for letting contracts on two school additions, and the approval of the purchase of a new school site for northwest Lubbock highlighted the regular monthly meeting last night of the board of trustees of Lubbock Independent School district.

In connection with the school board election, terms of three trustees are scheduled to expire at that time. They are Clyde G. Tatum, president of the board, C. H. Hamilton and E. J. Parsons.

Seven Boxes Set Up

Seven polling boxes will be set up for the election, it was announced, and the board designated them as Dupre school, Wilson school, Dunbar school, George R. Bean school, McWhorter school, Carroll Thompson Junior High school and the school tax office.

Neither Tatum nor Parsons gave any indication as to whether they would seek re-election or not, Tatum saying that he "hadn't decided." Hamilton, however, told a reporter that he "definitely would not be a candidate again."

Contract for an addition to Chris Harwell school will be let on March 10, the board decided, and the contract for additions to Cottage school will be let almost a week later, on March 16.

School Site Purchased

The board of trustees approved a contract to purchase the new school site, and indicated that it hopes to have at least a temporary school in operation on the site by next fall. The site includes the south half of block 21 and all of block 28, Carter-Coffee addition, located on Plainview highway just outside the city limits and near the Lubbock Country

McGrath Proposes Trio Of Senators From Each State

(By The Associated Press)

TOPEKA, Feb. 22—Sen. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island said Tuesday night he will propose to Congress this session that three senators instead of two be elected from each of the states.

The chairman of the Democratic National committee said he will present this "challenging" proposal to the nation's lawmakers as a means by which the federal government "may more efficiently meet its growing responsibilities."

The New England senator said the idea of two senators for each state dates back to times when the nation's population was between 10 and 15 million and the federal government's responsibilities were much less than they are today.

McGrath, who guided the successful Democratic campaign last fall, said the Senate, as it is made up now, frequently does not place states on record on important issues. Quite often, he said, the two senators take opposite views on major legislation.

A senatorial election every two years, he said, would create a "healthy situation" and make political organizations more alert to the nation's wishes.

SUGGESTION IS OPPOSED BY TOP DEMO LEADER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP) — Senator McGrath's chances of getting his three-senators-for-every-state plan through Congress looked poor Tuesday night.

Oposition was expresed by senators from each party.

Told of the proposal, Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader, said:

"Oh, my gosh! As much as I love and respect Senator McGrath, I wholly disagree

Soviet Army Told To Be Ready For Combat

LONDON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Marshal Nikolai A. Bulganin, Soviet minister of armed forces, said tonight Russian fighting men must "maintain constant combat preparedness on a high level" because of America's "policy of aggression," the Moscow radio reported.

He made the statement in an order of the day marking the 31st anniversary of the Soviet army. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported his declaration.

"The ruling circles of the United States which seek to establish their world domination by force pursue a policy of aggression and of unleasing of a new war," Bulganin said.

He said the Soviet Union "is successfully carrying out a plan for the development of the national economy, and is perseveringly striving for lasting democratic peace throughout the the world."

'THE COMMUNIST CONSPIRACY'

Chambers Tried For Ten Years To Tell Story Of Red Activity

By ROBERT E. STRIPLING
(Chief Investigator, House Un-American Activities Committee, 1938-1948; Edited by Bob Considine.)

No. 17

WHITTAKER Chambers is a quiet, studious flabby, pipe-puffing man who tried sporadically for 10 years to tell his story of the Communist conspiracy against the United States to the proper authorities.

Eventually, he gave up in disgust and probably would still be an obscure editor of Time magazine today if the House Un-American Activities Committee had not called him, more or less by chance.

What the Committee eventually obtained from him, sensational as it was, perhaps is only a part of what he can tell. But that part unveiled enough to make it abundantly clear to all that a Red espionage network—which unquestionably still exists—funneled important U. S. diplomatic and military secrets to Russia a decade and more ago.

I first became interested in Chambers without knowing his name. In the spring of 1948, while inquiring into the record of Dr.

Embassy Staff Is 'Implicated'

By NATALIA RENE
INS Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—Annabelle Bucar, former Moscow embassy employe who renounced her American citizenship a year ago to live in Russia, today accused Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith and other U. S. diplomats of being professional anti-Soviet spies and blackmarketeers.

A Russian-language book, "The Truth About American Diplomats," written under her name simultaneously depicted Smith as a smooth spy ring director and dealer in "old clothes, gold coins and watches."

11 Others Attacked

Eleven other Americans formerly stationed in Russia were attacked in the book which sold quickly when it was put on Moscow news stands.

The 34-year-old native of Trafford, Pa., who attended the University of Pittsburgh, quit her post as an assistant in the U. S. Information service last February. She said then she had been married secretly for 13 months to a Russian singer, Konstantin Lapshin. A child was born to the couple the next May or June.

(The woman's father, Ivan Bucar of Clairton, Pa., has disowned his daughter and said he was "disgusted" with her conduct.)

Author Is Deported

The book appeared simultaneously with a brief one-line Soviet press announcement that Dr. Anna Louise Strong, American author, was deported from Russia Monday on spy charges. (Dr. Strong, who lived in Russia for many years, was known as a pro-Soviet author and the reason behind her arrest and expulsion still has not been learned.)

Miss Bucar declared that Smith, chief of staff to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during the war, was given his Moscow post because the State department wanted him to guide professional diplomats in espionage.

She named these other Americans in her book:

Eldridge Durbrow, former embassy counsellor whom she depicted as an "evil genius," master speculator and organizer of spying activities against embassy employes themselves;

Frederick Reinhardt, whom she

Reorganization Of USDA Urged

By OVID MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—A reorganized Agriculture department with a single office in each farm county to handle the government's multiple farmer-aid programs was advocated by the Hoover commission Tuesday.

Such an agency, said the commission, would end one of the major criticisms of the department—that the farmer must now deal with many separate agencies which "too frequently follow conflicting policies."

Under the present setup, many counties have separate department agencies dealing with crop control, farm credit, price supports, soil conservation, school lunch activities, and forestry.

Savings Claimed Possible

The department's rapid growth from 22,000 to 82,000 employes in the last 20 years, the commission said, has resulted in some 20 different offices reporting directly to the secretary and causing "unnecessary diffusion" of authority.

"It is a loose confederation of independent bureaus and agencies," the commission said in a report to Congress.

The commission, a bipartisan group on government reorganization headed by former President Herbert Hoover, said a reorganization of the department could save taxpayers at least $80,000,000 a year as well as save farmers a lot of confusion.

However, two members of the Driver Is Critically Burned In Butane Truck Explosion

ABILENE, Feb. 22. (AP)—Billy Dunn, Wingate, was severely burned Tuesday night in an explosion of the butane truck he was driving eight miles southwest of View in Taylor county.

Highway patrolmen on the scene informed Abilene police by radio that the truck was still burning at 10 p. m. and the highway was blocked, an hour and a half after the explosion. They were of the opinion Dunn's truck hit a bridge during a fog.

Hospital attendants said Dunn's burns appeared critical.

The truck was owned by Floyd Simms of Winters, owner of the Simms Butane Co.

President Truman Uses Plain Barracks Language In Denouncing Criticism Of His Military Aide

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—President Truman, using some plain barracks language to defend a criticized military aide, said tonight that no "S.O.B." was going to prevail on him to discharge anyone "by some smart aleck statement over the air."

Later, however, when the official transcript of the President's remarks was issued at the White House, reporters found that the talk had been cleaned up to omit the startling expression. The stenographer, or some one higher up, apparently had decided the language had been a bit strong.

The talk was given at a country club banquet of the Reserve Officers association and many in the audience were old soldiers like Mr. Truman.

The military aide whom the President defended was Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, who had been criticized for accepting recently a medal from President Peron of Argentina.

Drew Pearson, radio commentator and columnist, stood outside the Argentine embassy on the night the medal was presented, and with pencil and paper in hand, took down names of those who entered to attend the fete. Later Pearson launched a campaign of criticism against Vaughan on the air and in his column.

Pearson said, among other things, that while this country is spending billions of dollars abroad to help democracy and "while President Truman has spoken thousands of words about saving democracy, his military aide partly nullifies this talk-and-money—by accepting a high decoration from a military dictator who has ridiculed all the things that Truman talks about."

Business Asks Less Control

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 — The government was urged today to cut back its spending and let business solve the present downtrend through price reductions and additional capital investments.

Pressure for such a policy came as the Federal Reserve board estimated that price cuts have already stimulated department store sales to a level 5 per cent above last year.

Henry Modell, signing himself chairman of the Smaller Business Men's Association of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, telegraphed top government officials that "we are closer to the people." He added:

Suggests Action By Business

"Instead of lay-offs, curtailment of stocks, and maintenance of high prices, let business take the bull by the horns and dig into its reserves for the good of all concerned."

Modell said his firms on Feb. 28 will cut prices 10 to 25 per cent and raise wages 10 per cent in an effort to cushion the business decline.

Earl O. Shreve, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, declared in a Washington's birthday address at Charleston, W. Va., that if the government will cut spending and strengthen its credit, business will fill the spending gap. Shreve said:

"The first bloom of postwar business is over, but the readjustment should help to clear the way for a prolonged period of business spending.

Need For Capital Cited

"New capital investment is needed for commercial building, transport equipment of all kinds, pipe lines, power plants, homes, machinery. This is the type of spending that makes for durable prosperity."

Federal Reserve officials said there is no doubt that price cuts which began Jan. 1 are responsible for increasing department store sales despite lay-offs and lower farm income.

Completed statistics already show sales 5 per cent up for the first three weeks of January, with indications the trend is continuing.

Modell's telegram was addressed to Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, and to Commerce Secretary Sawyer and Labor Secretary Tobin. The business executive said:

Immediate Action Urged

"We urge you to impress business with the fact that dilly-dallying and hoping for the best won't pull us out of a tailspin.

"Waiting for the trend in taxes, waiting for the tug-of-war between the advocates of the Taft-Hartley act and the Wagner act, may bring disastrous results in sales, profits, and employee and consumer relations.

"Let labor negotiations be consummated as soon as possible . . . fear in business and consumers can only lead, as it inevitably does, to depression."

18-Year-Old Girl Captures Cherry Pie Baking Contest

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. (INS)—An 18-year-old New York girl had the crust Tuesday—literally—to win a national cherry pie baking contest held in Chicago.

The champion pie maker is Betty Latimer, a high school senior of Fredonia, N. Y., who excelled over 14 other girls from as many states.

Betty won the contest chiefly because of her pie crust, in which she used milk instead of the usual ice water to cut and combine the shortening and flour.

The title of cherry pie champion carried with it $150 in cash, and a trip to Washington, D. C., Wednesday, to present a pie which she will bake, to President Truman.

Congress Warned Of Coal Strike Threat

By LEON SHLOSS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—A coal industry spokesman said today the nation may face another coal strike this summer unless "safeguards in the Taft-Hartley act" are continued in the administration substitute measure.

The warning came from Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers association, who reminded the Senate Labor commission that the soft coal contract with John L. Lewis expires June 30.

Moody made his assertions after Jack W. Haley, general counsel for the National Coal association, claimed that any Taft-Hartley act substitute must retain its injunction powers to "protect the national health and safety" in such emergencies as coal strikes.

Safeguards Urged

Haley said the bituminous coal industry has had 12 major strikes since 1935, and added:

"The executive branch of the government should not be put in the position of doubt as to its power to protect the national health and safety."

Moody told the senators that the proposed administration substitute for the controversial labor act would eliminate all provisions which enabled the SCPA to negotiate the contract now in force with the United Mine Workers union. He added:

"We feel that unless the safeguards in the Taft-Hartley law, which enabled us to reach a contract in 1948 are continued, the country may again face a crisis in coal."

Morse Is Angered

Morse, angered by Haley's statement, asserted:

"You may labor under the impression that you can mine coal with injunctions, but I don't share that view.

"You didn't mine any with the present injunction authority. You mined it with a telegram from Lewis that went out to the miners."

Morse referred to the 40-day soft coal strike of last year in which Lewis and the United Mine Workers were fined a total of $1,-

Bank, Robbed Three Times In Last Four Months, To Give Up

(By The Associated Press)

VIRGIL, Ill., Feb. 22.—The Virgil State bank, pillaged by holdup men three times in the last four months, has decided to call it quits.

Directors today called a stockholders meeting for March 24 to vote on proposed liquidation. The reason, directors said in a statement, is the "recent succession of robberies and the evident necessity of continued protection outlays."

The bank was robbed of $4,090 Oct. 20. It was taken for $2,000 Nov. 13 and looted for $1,917 Jan. 14. The participants in the three robberies were all captured and sentenced to prison terms.

Midwest Flood Fears Increase

(By The Associated Press)

Rising temperatures Tuesday increased fears of floods from melting snow in midwestern states.

From Oklahoma to North Dakota the weather generally was fair and sunny with above freezing temperatures. Much snow was reported melting and the Weather bureau forecast a continuation of thawing temperatures Wednesday.

Storm-battered Nebraska, the state most seriously affected by recent Midwest blizzards, prepared to meet the new threat to life and property. Predicting the state is facing "serious trouble" from melting snow, Gov. Val Peterson called a conference of state, local and federal agencies Wednesday in Lincoln to prepare for the expected floods.

Temperatures Climb

Temperatures in Nebraska Tuesday climbed to 56 at Sidney, in the western part of the state, and 50 at Valentine near the South Dakota border. The lowest Nebraska reading of 30 was at Omaha.

Warmer weather also prevailed over the northern Rocky mountain states. Temperatures climbed to the middle and high 40's in Montana, Idaho and northwestern Nevada. In Wyoming and Colorado

Baptist Leader Urges All-Out Effort In Work For Churches

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

DR. Robert G. Lee, of Memphis, Tenn., president of the Southern Baptist association, last night told a capacity audience in First Baptist church auditorium that "a man who is mediocre in his work for the Lord is like a great and talented artist who spends his time whitewashing fences."

The gathering was a meeting of District 9 of the Baptist Brotherhood, at which more than 1,500 persons from approximately 169 Baptist churches in this area attended. Dr. Lee's subject was "The Danger of Mediocrity."

The church official, who also is pastor of the Bellevue Baptist church in Memphis, declared in his talk that "when we think of the danger of being little in the days that demand greatness, we see the tragedy."

He drew a number of word pictures to describe his concept of the menace of mediocrity: "The mediocre fellow is like a ship with many guns which uses only one or two of them even as the enemy approaches," and, quoting Disraeli, "it is a tragedy when men

Smith Denies Latest Attack

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 — Ambassador to Russia Walter Bedell Smith ridiculed as "absurd" today Soviet charges that he and other American embassy officials acted as spies and black-marketeers in Moscow.

The envoy implied that the lurid accusations, hurled by an American-born former woman employe of the embassy, were made under threats from the Soviet propaganda machine. Smith, Gen. Eisenhower's wartime chief of staff, asserted:

"I am certain that the Kremlin itself would absolve me of any charge of espionage."

Woman "In Web Over There"

Miss Annabelle Bucar, daughter of a well-to-do Pennsylvania businessman, kindled the newest diplomatic hot spot in the "cold war" when she made her charges in a Russian-language book entitled "The Truth About American Diplomats."

Smith said he doubted whether Miss Bucar, whose father disowned her after she married a Russian baritone, ever wrote the book. He pointed out that she is the mother of a young child whom she wants to bring to the United States and is in no position to refuse to "co-operate" with Soviet propagandists.

(In Clairton, Pa., Ivan Bucar, the girl's father, told International News Service "she is in a web over there" and said he would like to see her come home to America.)

Charges Labeled "Lies"

Diplomatic quarters in Washington regarded Miss Bucar's published accusations as another episode in Russia's "hate" campaign against the U.S.

On Capitol Hill, members of Congress blasted Miss Bucar's charges as "lies and propaganda."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said that "this is just some more inspired propaganda designed to keep the poor benighted wretches behind the iron curtain afraid capitalism will take away what little they have left." Russell added:

"It's a device dictators have to resort to in order to keep their slaves quiet."

Sen. Morse (R-Ore.) said Miss

Cloudy Weather Is Seen For Plains

Cloudy and continued warm weather was predicted for South Plains today and Thursday by the Weather station north of Lubbock last night.

A high reading of 66 yesterday carried the area through almost a week of exceptionally mild winter readings, and the weather forecaster said no break in the high readings is in sight. Tuesday's low was 35 degrees and the mercury hung at 49 degrees at 11 p. m.

Temperatures ranging from a low of 38 to 40 degrees was expected this morning, with a high this afternoon in the low 60's. A light drizzle may cover the Plains this morning, the forecaster said, but it is expected to leave only a trace of moisture before subsiding.

Idalou Man Held On New Charges

Two additional charges have been filed against Raymond Lee Tate, 21, of Idalou route 1, as a result of a two-county investigation into forgery and passing of checks.

The investigation resulted in admission of four burglary cases, and cleared up the mystery of a missing check protector, the Lubbock and Brownfield sheriffs' offices announced.

The check protector and a typewriter were recovered in a pasture five miles northeast of Lubbock on Idalou highway. The typewriter was discovered by two small boys who were hunting, some hours after the check protector had been recovered, the sheriff's office said.

A charge of burglary Jan. 21 of W. E. Watson Coal & Grain Co., in Lubbock was filed by A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, in the court of C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, who set bond at $1,000 in binding Tate over to grand jury investigation.

Forgery Charged

A forgery charge was filed against him in Brownfield, Sheriff Ocie H. Murry said.

A previous charge of forgery by endorsement had been filed against the suspect here Saturday.

In addition, the man's 21-year-old wife, Millie, posted bond of $750 Monday afternoon on a charge of forgery of a $23.30 check.

In a statement given to Murry and Lubbock Dep. Sheriff Earl Horton at Brownfield, where the man is held, Tate admitted taking the check protector from the coal and grain company, and burglarizing Parks Commercial company about a week later in unsuccess-

TRANSIT SYSTEM IS 'PUZZLE'

Officials Face Many Problems In Figuring City Bus Schedules

Like puzzles? Here's one:

Take a city bus system, make 30 buses run 3,500 miles a day in city traffic so they can carry 15,000 passengers a day.

Make provisions to meet the possibility of stopping at every corner—56,000 stops a day—and (this is important) try to keep all your customers reasonably happy.

Sounds hard, doesn't it?

It is hard. But that's the problem that the Lubbock Bus company faces—not just for fun, but every day in the year.

Has Able Assistance

To help keep this labyrinthine problem functioning smoothly, J. A. Fortenberry, owner of the company, has the able assistance of Crayton O. Campbell, the auditor, Cliff Youngblood, route manager, and Chubby Hicks, driver foreman.

They do a remarkable job of it—even if you did have to wait 10 minutes for the bus this morning.

The bus company has a lot of experience behind it that helps to predict the habits of the bus passenger.

In 1938, when Fortenberry bought the company, Lubbock had five old school-type buses that ran two schedules. Now 13 routes run smoothly to nearly every section of this spreading city.

42 Drivers Are Used

To keep it running, 42 drivers work three shifts of nine hours each. They start running buses at 6:10 a. m. and keep them going until the last buses make a lonely last run at midnight.

One big problem is to meet the "peak periods" of traffic. To do this the bus company runs extra buses from 7 to 9 a. m., from 12 to 7 p. m.—when passengers are going to work, going home to lunch and going home at night. And when housewives are out shopping in the afternoon.

Campbell explains that there is a slight let-up in peak traffic during the afternoon hours, but the full schedules are run for better service.

Factors In Scheduling

In scheduling a bus route Crayton and the other officials must take several factors into account: the maximum number of stops on the proposed route, the traffic conditions, number of stop lights encountered on the run, special speed zones such as school blocks and those on the Texas Tech campus, and the load factor.

All these ingredients go to make up the recipe for the bus route.

Take the Arnett-Benson schedule for example. During the peak period 7 buses an hour run on that line. As the passenger total drops, the buses are gradually cut off.

This can be done without interrupting the frequency of the service, for auto traffic is also dropping and the bus can speed up and still meet the schedule.

"One Cardinal Sin"

But—and here is the cardinal sin of bus drivers—they must NEVER get to a point ahead of schedule. That's one thing an irate passenger won't forgive—when he gets to a bus stop on time and sees the rear of the bus going on down the street.

There's another thing that affects Lubbock bus schedules—the human element.

It's amazing how much passengers can delay schedules. The woman who stops to chat with another passenger as she gets off the bus, the man who is slow to get aboard the bus—these things make it harder for the driver to maintain schedule. Another thing that causes bus drivers to get gray hair: A passenger with a transfer. He hands it to the driver all wadded up, or torn in two. The driver has to stop and figure it out.

Face Other Dangers

Automobiles that block the bus and children playing in the street are other dangers that drivers must watch out for.

Most of the 42 drivers on city buses work nine hours at a stretch. Except for a three-minute cup of coffee at the end of the line once in a while, they don't pause for anything during the nine-hour stint. Some, however, work a split shift, going on from 7 until 9 a. m. and then from 12 to 7 p. m.

One out of eight weeks a driver works seven days a week.

Lost articles are found frequently on buses. At the bus station is a room filled with school books, coats and hats, packages, billfolds and numerous other items that a forgetful public is inclined to walk off the bus without. After six months, if the articles are unclaimed, they are given to a charitable institution.

Lost For Two Years

A recent case was a Bible found on a bus with a young man's name on it. Campbell called the owner and told him a driver had found his Bible.

The young man sounded puzzled "I lost that Bible more than two years ago," he said.

Dogs are not allowed on the bus unless they are muzzled. Most passengers know this and don't try to come aboard with a dog.

The Jim Crow law causes occasional difficulty, although the company does not post signs. One of the principal problems is people who occupy the rear seats of the bus when negroes are aboard and forward seats are empty.

In traveling 3,500 miles a day, the buses make an average speed ranging from 8.8 miles an hour to a maximum of 14.4 miles per hour.

Travel Varying Distances

They travel varying distances—from a total of 158.4 miles a day on the Sixteenth street-Tech run to 739.2 miles a day on the Nineteenth-Green Acres-Seventh-Arnett-Benson route.

Total mileage on the other routes is as follows:

Ave. V-Thirty-first-Ave. T-Seventh-North Arnett-Benson, 424.8 miles a day.

Ave. N - Thirty-fourth - Tenth-Tech-Ellwood, 581.4 miles a day.

Broadway - Tech - Hub Homes, 359.6 miles a day.

Flats, 533.6 miles a day.

East Broadway-South Ave. H-Forty-eighth street, 408.4 miles a day.

On the drivers' bulletin board at the bus station is a cartoon clipped from the Lubbock Morning Avalanche. It portrays Bugs Bunny asking a bus driver for change for a $10 bill.

The driver patiently gives him the change, then tells him to deposit his fare.

"Fare?" Bugs Bunny exclaims in surprise. "Why I ain't going nowhere." Then he steps back off the bus.

A little extreme, some of the drivers say. But they can tell you of incidents almost as bad.

Optimists Hear Talk On 'Human Side' Of George Washington

County Attorney Waggoner Carr delivered a brief talk on what he described as "the human side" of George Washington as the program feature of Tuesday's weekly Optimist club luncheon in Hotel Lubbock.

In a speech observing Washington's birthday, Carr discussed personal traits and physical characteristics of the first U. S. President. He also mentioned the fact that Washington narrowly escaped death or serious injury in three different military engagements, seemingly because he led a "charmed life."

City Manager Speaks

Carr was introduced by L. G. Kammerdiener, program chairman.

Among guests introduced at the luncheon was Steve Matthews, new city manager.

Matthews spoke briefly to some 55 club members and guests present, saying, "All together, the city problems look pretty bad. But when we break them down into smaller groups, or parts, we should be able ot do something toward solving them."

He added that he felt honored at having been selected as city manager, because "Lubbock is without question the leading city of West Texas."

Guests Are Introduced

Other guests introduced were J. Wayne Boone, Ralph W. Ogan, and Mrs. R. V. Law, who was piano accompanist for pre-luncheon group singing.

Club members unanimously approved amendments to the constitution and by-laws which advance the date of election of officers about one month. The annual election now is scheduled for March 1.

G. C. Stewart presided at the luncheon, with invocation by Dr. Art Young.

American buyers a tthe recent International Bicycle and Motorcycle Exhibition in London placed orders worth $2,000,000 for a revolutionary lightweight motorcycle now being manufactured in Britain.

MacArthur Silent On Author's Libel Claim

TOKYO, Feb. 22. (INS)—There was no official comment in Tokyo today on author Agnes Smedley's statement in New York yesterday that she wanted to sue Gen. Douglas MacArthur for libel, and not one of his aides.

The office of Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, MacArthur's intelligence chief, said no statement would be issued on the matter "today at least."

Takes Responsibility

Willoughby declared yesterday that he would waive his immunity to permit Miss Smedley to sue him instead of MacArthur as result of the Richard Sorge Soviet spy ring report.

Willoughby took sole responsibility for the report which deals with a vast Russian espionage network operating in pre-war Japan. He said it was prepared under his direction but that it should never have been published.

Miss Smedley, cleared Saturday by the Army department which said she was not a member of the ring, declared she wants to sue MacArthur if he will waive his immunity. She described Willoughby as "ready to protect his superior."

The report was released in Washington.

Knife-Throwing Husband Forced Her To Crime, 'Princess' Says

CHICAGO, Feb. 22 (U.P.) — An attractive Menominee Indian princess said today that her husband an expert knife thrower, taught two robbery accomplices to toss knives and then made her a target for close misses until she agreed to act as a "lure" for them.

Mrs. Virginia Neosh, 21, of Keshena, Wis., was arrested last night with William Haag, 24, whom police described as a member of a strong-arm robbery gang organized by Mrs. Neosh's husband, James Goodhue, 27.

Mrs. Neosh said she and Goodhue came here from Wisconsin last August. They met Haag and a third man, who was still at large today, and organized into a gang.

She said Goodhue taught the other men to hurl knives. The men stood her against a wall and pitched knives at her until she agreed to participate in the robberies, she said.

Solon Asks Release Of Atomic Test Information To U.S. Public

By DEAN W. DITTMER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Since the Russians were permitted to observe the Bikini atomic bomb test, Rep. Melvin Price said there's no reason why a "general report" shouldn't be given to Americans.

"I don't want to reveal any military secrets," Price said in an interview, "but I blieve a general report on the Bikini tests should be made public."

The Illinois Democrat, a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy committee and the House Armed Services committee, referred to a report prepared by the joint chiefs of staff evaluation board and kept secret by Secretary of Defense James Forrestal.

He said the tests were witnessed by military observers of all nations, including Russia, but the report originally prepared for publication apparently has been "blotted out by the black ink of censorship."

"I don't want to reveal the number of atomic bombs we have or do anything to help another nation make the atomic bomb," he said, "but I do think the public should have better knowledge of what atomic energy is.

"Th public ought to know something about the awfulness of this weapon and not regard it as just another weapon."

"If the Russian people, as well as the American people, are given the full facts about the destructive potential of the atom bomb, I believe a long step will be taken toward making sure there will be no future war."

Information Release Asked

Price is one of several Atomic Energy committee members asking that more information about the awfulness of atomic destruction be released.

"Powerful military leaders, monopolizing atomic information can do more harm to our nation than any truth about the dangers of atomic destruction and radioactivity," he said.

He said the House should act to "demand" a full accounting of the final report on the Bikini tests and investigate possible suppression of legitimate information of the later Eniwtok tests.

As examples of things the public should know, Price quoted Dr. David Bradley, Bikini-test radiological monitor, as saying the 200-square-mile Bikini atoll won't be fit for human habitation for years and perhaps centuries.

He quoted Bradley as pointing out three things—there is no real defense against atomic weapons, no satisfactory method of decontaminating radioactive areas, and no satisfactory medical or sanitary safeguards for people in atomized areas.

Chicago Paper To Open Drive On Communist Front Groups

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. (INS)—The Chicago Journal of Commerce will announce in tomorrow's edition a move "to force out into the open" groups and organizations cited by the House Un-American Activities committee as "Communist or Communist-front."

A list of 564 organizations, the latest compilation by the congressional committee, will be published in the business newspaper with a policy statement by the editor.

The so-called "Red list" will be posted in the newsroom and in the future no cited organization will be mentioned in any news story without parenthetical identification as a Communist front group.

The editor said the new procedure is being adopted as a public service.

Levelland Man Seeks State Legion Office

LEVELLAND, Feb. 22 (Special)—The Wm. E. Evans post of the American Legion here has announced its sponsorship of the candidacy of Wm. T. (Pete) Bridges for commander of the district which comprises all of the counties of the Nineteenth Congressional district.

Bridges, now vice commander of the Levelland post, was commander last year and is the only member in the post here to sign 100 or more members for 1949 and is a member of the 49's club.

Jack Thomman and Burnie R. Carraway are co-chairmen of the campaign committee.

Dallas Woman Faces Charge Of Murder Without Malice

DALLAS, Feb. 22 (U.P.) — Police filed a charge of murder without malice today against Sammie Thomas, 40-year-old woman, in connection with the traffic death of Jim Canales.

Miss Thomas, a brunette, also was charged with failure to stop to render aid.

The complaint, filed by C. L. Brown of the police department and accepted by Bob Singleton of the district attorney's office, before Justice of the Peace Pierce McBride, accused the woman of being the driver of a car which struck Canales as he started across a Dallas street.

In a signed statement, the woman admitted hitting something at Gaston and Oak streets, but added "it was raining and I thought that I had swerved enough to miss a man I saw crossing the streets."

Her arrest came after the sheriff's office was tipped a car was undergoing repairs which answered the description of the one involved in the accident.

Fall Grades For Tech Students Available In Registrars Office

Students' grades for the fall semester will be available today in the registrars office at Tech according to Miss Barbara Clewell, assistant registrar at the college.

In addition to grades the student for the first time will be told his total work and the grade points he accumulated the past term.

W. P. Clement, registrar, said that grades would not be mailed to students this time because of the many people who had changed their place of residence.

Grades will still be mailed to parents, however.

Square Dance School Scheduled At Tech

The annual square dance school at Texas Tech will be held for one week beginning March 14 according to Mrs. Margaret Richards, assistant professor of women's physical education at the college.

Mrs. Richards said that Jimmy Clossin of El Paso again would conduct the school that is open to townspeople and students alike. Clossin is recognized as an expert in the field and he has been very active in the recent square dance craze that has been sweeping the country.

There will be a morning session each day that will open to all comers. At night, classes both for advanced and beginning pupils, will be conducted.

A fee of $2 will be charged for the whole week's activities. Tickets will be on sale at the woman's P. E. office at Tech beginning March 7.

Houston Police Raid Suspicious Meeting, Find 'Pyramid' Party

HOUSTON, Feb. 22. (U.P.)—Police felt the influence of the Pyramid club craze today after swooping down on a party last night they believed to be a "reefer" gathering.

Sgt. Dick Schorm said neighbors had complained the frame house was a rendezvous for delinquents, and his men raided the place.

They arrested 15 boys and girls, most of them high school students, and a 40-year-old widow who was their hostess.

But officers found no mariauana cigarets. The teen-agers insisted they were in the midst of a pyramid party. Six of the participants, however, were held in jail overnight for questioning.

Says Man Has Strange Powers That Work While He Sleeps

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remark ble system that often leads to i provement in power of mind, achi ement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer, tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they an be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power-mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capa' 'e of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth to success in many fields. Strangely, he says that this power works best while we sleep, when proper methods are used.

The author states the time has come for this long-hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 9000-word treatise which reveals many startling results—to readers of this paper, free of cost o. obligation. For your free copy, addres the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 312-J, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free treatises have been printed.—Adv.

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

"FEW of us can stand prosperity. Another man's, I mean." (Mark Twain).

FASHION NOTE

IS YOUR man rugged? Does he outfit himself in suits, shirts, socks and ties which are vivid in color and bold in design? If so, he fits in with the new picture of the so-called "lusty-type" of male.

Rugged masculinity, the experts say, doesn't mean discomfort. Far from it. The revolt against stiff, heavy and uncomfortable apparel, has been going on for years and at long last new materials in men's clothing are softer in cloth and construction. This goes for shoes, too. They are going to be lighter weight, particularly as the spring days change to summer.

The Guild says one important fashion note is the "use of four patch pockets on coats, suits and jackets." Another fancy touch is handstitching on pockets, coats and cuffs. And isn't that something!

MISCELLANY

A READER who lives on Seventeenth street wonders if there is any appeal one may make to cause dog owners to keep the animals at home.

"I like dogs as much as anyone," she declares, "but I don't like them tearing over the lawn, pawing up my flowers and frightening my small grandbabies. Had you ever thought that dogs always leave home? Why is that?"

The Woman's Angle wishes she could say something that would be in help in this situation. We cannot understand why dogs are allowed to run wild and destroy property. In town we agree that dogs should be kept in the backyard or if let outside should be watched.

BIRTHDAY POEM

MRS. R. S. Rodgers, who observed a birthday recently, was so pleased over this poem written in honor of the occasion by her long time friend, Mrs. M. V. Gray, 2104 Eighteenth, she asks us to pass it on.

Against our policy, we are answering Mrs. Rodgers request, since we like the poem, too.

"Things aren't like they used to be
When we were young and gay;
I can't imagine why it is
We look and act this way.
The stairs are steeper that we climb
And longer coming down;
Our rooms have too much space to sweep
Our gardens too much ground.
Our clothes don't fit us as they did
They pinch in the funniest places,
Or lie in folds, or hang in drapes
Sort of like our faces.
But hats are worse than all the rest,
Perked up or drooping down,
Show too much face
Or not enough to fill up all those spaces.
Our friends and children mumble so,
Don't speak out loud and clear;
I think they do it just to see
If we can really hear.
I stick my glasses on my nose
But things just fade away.
They didn't do that years ago,
I wonder why today?
Our mirrors show us short and fat
Or wrinkled, lean and gray,
But we're not getting old, my dear,
It only seems that way."

ATTORNEY SPEAKS FOR STUDY CLUB

The legal rights of women in Texas were discussed by R. Briggs Irvin, local attorney, at a meeting of Progressive Child Study club conducted Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. June Roberts, 2212 Twenty-eighth.

Attending were Mrs. J. J. Tipps, co-hostess, and Mesdames Pete Bynum, Lester Cooper, Hall McCrummen, Ralph Robinson, Maurice Cowan, Paul Pugh, Leo Healer, Raymond Cone, B. C. Spratt Lloyd Swann, Jack McLaughlin, Gordon Sanders, E. C. Hatton, Raymond Painter, Donald Robertson and W. C. Rutledge.

Leadership Course To Continue Today

The basic leadership training course opened Tuesday at the Girl Scout Little House will continue this amount at 9:30 o'clock. Twenty-three leaders enrolled for the lessons. Attending, also, was Mrs. R. A. Shelton, second vice president of the Girl Scout council.

Instructors for the course are Mrs. Galen Carr, field director; Miss Madeleine McDonald, executive director and Mrs. Nelson Green, training chairman.

The course, which is for Intermediate, Brownie and fly-up leaders, will continue through Friday morning.

Program On Prayer Given For Circle

First Christian Business Women's circle meeting with Miss Joardis Park, 2512 Twenty-eighth, Monday night, heard a program on prayer. Mrs. Jim Little was cohostess.

Mrs. Mabel Chapman led a devotion on "Prayers of Jesus." The lesson on "Prayer and Providence" was given by Miss Minnie Lee McMurry.

Refreshments were served to 15 women.

Brownie Troop 88 Visits Fire Station

Brownie Troop 88 which is making a series of field trips visited Central Fire Station Tuesday afternoon accompanied by Mesdames Virgil Baldwin and J. B. Falls, troop leaders.

Members of the troop were Jerri Baldwin, Jackie Lou Beesinger, Dorothy Britt, Kay Falls, Betty Jean McCoy, Betty Maynard, Jeannette Moseley, Carol Ann Smith and Judy Ann Thomas.

American Red Cross Discussed For Group

Mrs. J. H. Stiles, executive secretary of the Lubbock county chapter of the American Red Cross, stated that the Red Cross stands for mercy to all mankind in a talk before Texas Alpha Gamma chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, Monday night. Mrs. Sidney Keeton was hostess in her home at 2302 Twenty-eighth.

Mrs. Stiles described various activities of the Red Cross. One of the phases mentioned was the disaster preparedness plan, which has been worked out in detail in Lubbock so that it could be placed in use immediately if a disaster should occur.

Miss Ina Bacon introduced the speaker. Mrs. Charles Cathey, president, presided for a business meeting.

The chapter recently sent five boxes of clothing to Greece. The group voted Monday night to pay postage for sending several boxes of clothing given by students at George M. Hunt school.

Members attending were Misses Norma Skiner, Marguerite Harris, Ina Bacon, Bonnie Campbell, Norma White, Lois Alexander, Mary Paul Long and Mary Jane Kinard, Mesdames Herbert Leaverton, J. Today's Town Talk

DR. AND MRS. ARTHUR JENKINS of 2124 Thirtieth and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bryant of 3312 Twentieth will be host tonight between 9 and 12 o'clock at a dance in the Lubbock Country club.

Music will be by C. A. Rodgers and his orchestra, and 300 guests have been invited to attend.

At the Knife and Fork club dinner Monday, it apparently was "Ladies Night" (at the speaker's table at least.)

Usually at these meetings, there are men speakers, introductions by a man, invocation by a man, etc., but this week the feminine element took over in all three cases. Mrs. William G. Dingus introduced Mrs. David Simms as speaker of the evening, and the invocation was given by Mrs. Ivy Savage.

Following the Knift and Fork club's custom of having a member of the board of directors of the club to sit at the speaker's table, Mrs. Lila Lenning was seated there. In fact, Clarence Whiteside, president, looked a little lonely among all of the flowers and frills.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Meiser, 2308 Sixteenth, returned over the weekend from New Orleans, La., where they spent a short vacation accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Larson of Denver.

On their entertainment menu were pre-Mardi Gras festivities.

Mrs. Erle Thompson of 1911 Sixteenth was hostess at Hector's Tuesday at noon when she entertained with a luncheon on her birthday. A George Washington motif was carried out in decorations.

Her guests were Mesdames J. H. Whiteside, R. C. Odom, A. G. Odom, G. B. Walden, Pebble Talley, Harry Hall and C. M. Mitchell. The group played 42 in the hostess's home following luncheon.

The eight women always meet together to help celebrate each other's birthday.

Mrs. Nettie Ann Morrow celebrated her 87th birthday Tuesday, when an open house was given for her by her daughters, Mrs. C. T. Presley and Mrs. Faye Love in the Presley home, 1912 Ave. N.

Carrying out a George Washington motif, the birthday cake was decorated with cherries, and cherries were in the punch. Multi-colored tapers completed decorations. Refreshments were served to about 25 guests.

The active octogenarian likes to "entertain the young folks" with stories about her childhood. When she was eleven year old, her family came from Jefferson City, Mo., to Texas in a train of 31 wagons. Spending about a month on the road, the group encountered Indians on the San Saba river, had their mules and provisions stolen, and in general, "fought their way through" all the way.

Affectionately called "Granny" by her many friends, Mrs. Morrow "feels fine" and still likes to cook, wash and dry dishes, and do patching and embroidery. She is full of humor, emphatic in her beliefs, and is known for her pretty handwriting. One of her favorite expressions is "all right enough."

Mrs. Morrow looks forward to seeing her family and friends on her birthday, and "although we're not exactly youngsters," laughs her daughters, "she can still tell us where to stop and start."

Mrs. R. W. Tucker, foreign language instructor at Texas Tech, spoke to the sixth graders at Roscoe Wilson school Tuesday afternoon about her three months' stay in Spain last summer.

The children were "spellbound" throughout the talk and were full of questions when Mrs. Tucker finished.

Story Of Washington Reviewed For Class By Mrs. Leonard

A George Washington party was given in the A. D. Leonard home, 2211 Twenty-second. Monday night for Asbury Methodist Fellowship class.

Entertainment included stunts and a singsong. Mrs. Leonard reviewed "The True Story of George Washington" by Paul Ford.

The refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with a miniature cherry tree and red, white and blue candles. Frosted cherry punch and flag cakes were served to 21 guests. Mrs. Lowery presided at the punch bowl.

The class is sponsoring a drive to buy a public address system for the church and W. B. Kelly reported it will be installed soon. A piano was donated recently and the class room is being redecorted.

Mrs. Gordon is chairman of the patronesses.

Auxiliary Makes Plans

Year's activities were outlined by Mrs. D. Kinney when St. Paul's Episcopal Woman's auxiliary met Monday afternoon in business session at Seaman hall. Mrs. J. L. Barstow, program chairman, announced plans for traditional World Day of Prayer to be observed Friday, March 4, at 10 a. m. in Community Center.

Mrs. Walter Clayton presided.

The following business matters were transacted: Guild chairmen reported activities of their groups and Rev. Claude E. Canterbury announced that prayer desks had been given to the church by Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Weaver, jr., and Mrs. Earl Miller had given processional candles.

Mrs. Clayton Carter was authorized to appoint delegates and alternates to the convocation to be held in Big Spring March 13-14.

Budget Is Approved

Mrs. James Whiteside reported on the proposed budget for the auxiliary, which was approved.

It was voted to establish a welfare emergency fund to care for a needy family "adopted" by the church.

Year's activities, as outlined by Mrs. Kinney include:

Pancake supper, Shrove Tuesday, March 1, at Seaman hall; sale of hot cross buns on Good Friday; an Easter luncheon; family picnic in July; fall luncheon and reception and Christmas bazaar.

Patronesses Entertain

Patronesses of Las Vivarachas club entertained with an introductory tea Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. S. Miller, 2205 Sixteenth. Guests were club members, their mothers and alumnae members.

In the house party were Mrs. Durwood Bradley, who met guests at the door and Mrs. William H. Gordon who alternated with Mrs. Wayne Henly in presiding at the refreshment table which was centered with an arrangement of red roses, and appointed in silver.

Assisting in serving were Mesdames Homer Maxey, Alfred Crosby, W. O. Daniels, Doyle Jordan and Sam Camp.

Other patronesses are Mesdames H. E. Archer, Bill Collins, William G. Dingus, R. H. Fulton, W. T. Gaston, T. C. Ingram, Morley Jennings, James Milam, T. Denman Morgan, Weston Pettey, D. B. Pope, Robert Prothro, Preston E. Smith, J. E. Vickers, Buster Welch and three new patronesses: Mesdames Edgar Womack, A. E. Gesell and Tom Pendergraft.

King And Queen Are Chosen At BTU Meeting Staged At Spur; Wayland Students Speak

SPUR, Feb. 22 (Special) — "Sweethearts Around the World" was the theme of the program at a banquet attended by Baptist Training unions of the First Baptist church Monday night at the church.

Joe Simpson and Virginia Ruth Shugart were crowned king and queen. The intermediate union won in a contest between unions and then elected the king and queen from its membership.

Members Of Court

Members of the court of the king and queen were: John Hagan and Bertha Nell Walker, from the young people's union; Thurmond Morrow and Dean Reagan, from junior union; Lyndal Bingham and Shirley Henshaw, from Bykota union, and Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Ratheal, from adult union. Sue Ann Shugart, sister of the queen, was crown bearer.

A total of 152 persons attended

Four Wayland college students from other countries spoke. They were Peter Chen, from China; Lydia R. Bravo, Philippine islands; Eliseo (Cheo) Garrido, from Mexico, and Julia Molnar, from Brazil. Rev. Mr. Ratheal was master of ceremonies at the banquet. Grady Lackey, Training union director, was announcer for the coronation.

Chairmen of committees planning the banquet were Mrs. Ruth Ensey, food; Mrs. Chlota Engleman, decorations, and Mrs. Melvin Ratheal, program.

Mrs. George Gabriel presented two vocal solos. Jackie Cloude spoke. Eliseo Carrido presented Mexican selections. The junior department presented a Dutch skit.

Diamonds Given Green Hue In St. Louis Cyclotron Experiment

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22 (INS) — Production of rare green diamonds through cyclotron bombardment of diamonds was reported today by the St. Louis Star-Times.

The Star-Times said the experiments were carried on at Washington university in St. Louis with gems provided by W. G. Drosten, a local jeweler.

W. B. Shipton, associate professor of geology at the university, said the grass-green hue was given to about a dozen diamonds after cyclotron treatment lasting but a few minutes.

Professor Shipton said diamonds have been turned green before through exposure to radium, but that the procedure is a long one and the results have not been as good as with the clyclotron.

BRITON DEBUNKS ATOMIC WAR

Experts Disagree Over Strategic Importance Of U.S. Atom Bomb

By ROBERT N. SCHWARTZ
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—A panel of four experts clashed bitterly today over whether the United States has overestimated the strategic importance of the atomic bomb and is holding out for unnecessarily stringent control of atomic energy.

The panel of experts contributed reviews of a book by British Nobel prize winner Dr. P. M. S. Blackett, "Fear, War and the Bomb," in the current issue of the "Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists."

View Opposed

Lined up squarely against Prof. Blackett's opinion that the atom bomb strategic importance has been over-rated were Prof. Edward A. Shils, of the London School of Economics and the University of Chicago, and Sen. Brien McMahon, (D-Conn) chairman of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy.

Blackett's thesis is defended by Prof. Philip Morrison, of Cornell university, who worked on the fabrication and design of the atom bomb at Los Alamos, N. M., and by M. Marinin, in a review of the book reprinted from "Pravda," Nov. 22, 1948.

Blackett Called 'Apologist'

Sen. McMahon and Shils both assert that Blackett writes as an "apologist" for Soviet Russia.

Shils added:

"Professor Blackett is a master of artful and intelligent distortion."

Sen. McMahon asked:

"Is it not a shame that no Russian apologist for America dares express himself inside the Soviet Union?"

Morrison defended the Blackett book as having a "moderate and reasoned air," and added:

"That our policy of making plenty of bombs, of using the atomic threat diplomatically, of proffering control on our own inflexible terms, of talking of 'oriental maneuver' is in fact tough power politics is hard to doubt."

Writer Lauds Book

Marinin lauded Blackett's book for possessing the "unquestionable advantage of refusing to follow the fashionable 'theories' of the Anglo-American press about the importance of atomic energy as a decisive military factor."

Sen. McMahon charged the Nobel prize winner in hysics with putting into the mouths of the Russians arguments which their own statements contradict.

He added that anything less than effective atomic energy control would be worse than nothing, and said that America was asking only for the minimum controls which would make it safer for all peace-loving nations to destroy atomic armaments than to continue manufacturing them.

Iron Curtain Scored

"The number one task before us," Sen. McMahon declared, "is the conquest of the iron curtain." He said that if it were not for the iron curtain, the Russian people would join hands with us "to achieve the blessedness of real atomic peace."

Morrison blasted the idea of a short-quick war and supported Blackett's thesis that atom bombs are decisive only when thousands are available.

He declared:

"The atomic attack in force would not be unimportant—on the contrary, it would be as grim as the most terrible blow any people has suffered anywhere, anytime—but it does not seem that it could of itself settle the issue in total war between the great states of today.

Military Gamble Seen

"It is clear that those in our country who talk of a cheap, preventive war, and place their hopes on 55 bomber groups and the A-bomb, are exposing our country to a military gamble in the most reckless way."

Three major flaws were picked in Blackett's argument by Shils. They are that Blackett "debunks" the atom bomb as a weapon by citing the rise of the production curve in Germany during ordinary bombing . . . but "fails to recognize that where total damages are inflicted almost simultaneously over several weeks, the resources for recuperation will be greatly diminished."

Flaws Cited

Shils also asserted that Blackett's position quota system is not consistent. Shils argued that Blackett's justification of Soviet rejection of UN Atomic Energy commission inspection proposals is also contradictory because he favored the Soviet proposal for periodic inspection, which could also be a threat to Soviet security.

The Soviet journalist found that "Blackett confirms the suspicion that the purpose of the Baruch plan is not merely to retain for the United States the monopolistic possession of the atom bomb, but also to transfer into American hands the world resources of atomic raw materials," he added:

"If the Baruch plan had been carried out, the United States would have become the complete atomic boss, and the economies of all countries would be dependent upon America."

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

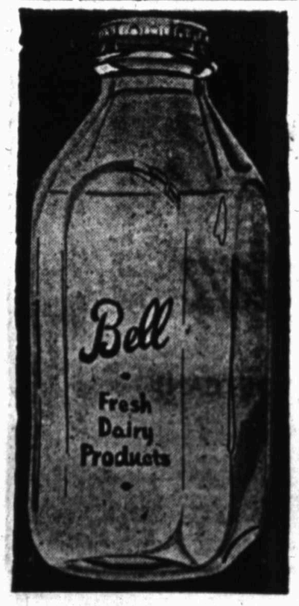

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

WHAT A BITE! Dash Jitkoff, 12-months-old, of Houston, is shown above as she displays eight of her sixteen teeth. Doctors had expressed the belief that she has the greatest number of teeth for a child of her age which has been reported in the nation. However, since the appearance of this pictufe in some downstate papers, the Associated Press has received a call from Tyler to the effect that Helen Marie Anders of Tyler had 16 teeth at 11 months. Tech Educator Talks At Lions Club Meet

Asserting that free competition of ideas in the open light of day is the only real test of a democracy, such as that in America today, Dr. Byron R. Abernethy, associate professor of government in Texas Tech college, addressed the Lions club luncheon Tuesday at the Hilton hotel on application of the club's code of ethics on citizenship and patriotism to every day living.

Setting up what he called four basic characteristics of a democracy, Abernethy believes that "there is no greater obligation on a citizenship" than the responsibility of seeing that such conditions are met.

Characteristics Outlined

These characteristics he outlined as ability of a people for self-government; a constant and active intelligent interest in public affairs on the part of the people; a strong sense of public responsibility on the part of the people; and freedom of expression and thought.

Among other characteristics he mentioned, but did not discuss, was willingness to accept the majority will of the people involved.

The speaker was introduced by Frank Kennedy, program chairman.

Plans Completed

Plans were announced completed for the club's annual stag barbecue and initiation ceremony tonight at the Ford Implement company's assembly room. The menu includes barbecued chicken, and beef for those preferring it to the other, with all the trimmings, and serving is to start at 6:30 o'clock. Approximately 50 members who have come into the club since last February are to be formally initiated in a season of horseplay and general good fellowship, Club President Wayne Henly said. The barbecue was prepared under direction of Raymond Burford, past president of the club.

The event is closed to all but club members.

Club President Henly was in the chair at the luncheon, with invocation by Rev. David Zacharias.

Run-Off Scheduled Thursday In Tech Student Council Election

Six students at Tech will be in runoff elections to be held Thursday to place three new members on the Student Council according to Clint Formby, student council president.

The original field of 12 office seekers was narrowed to six Monday when 812 people cast their ballots in the primary election. Marshall Gettys of Amarillo and Edward Campbell of Center will face each other in the contest for the representative from the Engineering school to the Council. In the primary Gettys polled 170 votes to Campbell's 136. A total of 365 votes were cast in that division.

In the division of Business Administration, Bill Gillespie of Lubbock got 65 and Bill McCasland of Lamesa received 51 of the 182 ballots that were cast in that race.

Roy Trice of Texarkana and Levora Manning of Amarillo will oppose each other for the Arts and Science seat. Trice captured 96 votes Monday while Miss Manning got 71. Two hundred sixty-five people voted in that race.

Formby said the Council was disappointed over the poor turnout for the primary but hoped more students would vote Thursday and then really turn out in April for the general elections. The election held Monday was to fill three positions left vacant by departing students at mid-term.

KUHN NOW 'DESPISES' GERMANY

Former U.S. Bund Leader Seeks To Regain American Citizenship

By GEORGE MANCE
INS Staff Correspondent

MUNICH, Feb. 22.—Fritz Kuhn, former German-American bund leader who now says he despises Germany, was freed by a German court today and announced "I am trying to regain my American citizenship."

Kuhn was deported from the United States in the fall of 1945 as an enemy alien "dangerous to the public peace and safety of the United States."

A German denazification court sentenced Kuhn to ten years imprisonment last April as a major offender. Today's appeal court decision cut this to two years, which Kuhn already has served.

Seeks U. S. Citizenship

The court ordered 20 per cent of Kuhn's property confiscated, but the former bund leader said he has no holdings in Germany.

The court also forbade Kuhn to ever hold a public office in Germany—a decision which amused Kuhn.

"I don't want any part of Germany," he said, "I am trying to regain my American citizenship.

"My first aim is to get my family out of Germany."

Kuhn did not specify what steps he intends to take, but it is assumed he will apply to the American consulate in Munich.

He also said he was going to try to get his memoirs published.

Had Stormy Career

Kuhn's postwar career in Germany has been stormy. He first was arrested and cleared by a denazification court which ruled he was out of Germany during the war and hence out of its jurisdiction.

On Feb. 4, 1948, he escaped from Dachau prison where he was being held as a witness in a war criminal trial. During his absence a court sentenced him to ten years in jail as a major Nazi offender.

He was recaptured last June 16 while trying to get a permit as "G. Kulm" to operate a chemist laboratory in the French occupation zone, and immediately appealed the denazification court ruling.

While awaiting today's decision he was nervous and pessimistic, saying "I expect to get the limit—ten years."

He also complained that the trial was unfair until the verdict was announced, then he said: "The trial was very fair."

The Armenian-born American John Roy Carlson, author of the book "Under Cover" had testified against him.

When Carlson started to approach him after the court verdict Kuhn shouted "get away from me, you Communist."

Rosalind Russell, Robert Cummings Teamed For New Columbia Film, 'My Next Husband'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22 — Rosalind Russell is back in town after putting her sister, Mrs. Mary Jane Beirne, who suffered a broken leg in Sun Valley, on a plane for home. Roz met her sister in Las Vegas.

Soon as she reached town, Roz heard the good news that Bob Cummings, one of the best comedians in our town, will be her co-star in "My Next Husband" at Columbia.

Harry Cohn and Buddy Adler, the producer, have had their heads together to find another title. So far the only one they have come up with is "Why Have A Husband?" Bet you a cookie that doesn't go either.

Roz told me that the Ray Millands and the Willie Wylers were on the same train with her sister and were very kind to her. They were all held up by a storm for 48 hours.

Actor Gets Contract

Jack Warner took a look at "The Champion" and put the name of Kirk Douglas down in his notebook. It happened that Charles Feldman was with him when they saw the movie and now Kirk will go to Warners on a contract.

I saw "The Champion" at a preview, and not only is Kirk excellent but the direction of the picture is worthy of comment. The fight scenes are not the ordinary cut and dried champion-take-all stuff.

Stage Play Brings Luck

The stage play, "Born Yesterday," seems to be luck for actors. Paul Douglas is going like big guns in the movies ever since he left the Broadway cast.

Now, Lon Chaney, of the road-show company, gets a good break. Lon will be co-starred with John Payne in "Captain China" for Bill Pine and Bill Thomas and he reports April 15.

I'm glad to see Lon get a real break again in the movies. His late father will never be forgotten, and he was glad that Lon, Jr., was following in his chosen profession.

Soldier Loses Temper On Train, Wrecks Lounge Car Furnishings

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22 (INS) — Corp. John R. Demille, 29, of Framingham, Mass., lost his temper today on a New York to Cincinnati train, according to police, and demolished about $1,000 in car furnishings.

Demille, who boarded the train after attending a wedding in Schenectady, N. Y., told police he downed "four or five highballs" and then went on the rampage because of a traveling salesman's continual "knocking of GI's."

Police said the corporal smashed windows, doors, a cash register and numerous incidentals in his wrath at being unable to get at the salesman, who locked himself in a men's room.

Demille finally was taken into custody by railroad police who turned him over to Army authorities in Cleveland.

He later admitted to military police that "I guess I must have been crocked."

Lubbock Bests Childress, 39 To 23, In Bi-District Opener

Jim Wilson Paces Westerners With Sixteen Tallies

By AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche Sports Writer

The Lubbock Westerners won an easy, 39-23, victory over Childress last night in the first game of the bi-district basketball playoff as Big Jim Wilson scored 16 points in the first half.

The Westerners were never behind as Wilson put them ahead after 30 seconds of the initial quarter and kept pouring the ball into the basket to total 14 points in the first quarter. Bob Rooker added two points, and Lubbock led, 16-4, after eight minutes of play.

SECOND TUSSLE FRIDAY

Special school buses will leave the high school at 3:40 Friday afternoon for the second game with Childress and return after the game, which begins at 8 o'clock. The round trip ticket is $3, and a faculty sponsor will be assigned to each bus, Floyd Honey, principal announced Tuesday.

The Lubbock defense worked smoothly and decisively throughout the first half, allowing only two field goals to be scored by Childress, one by Joe Powell and the other by Bill Woods. Powell collected the other two points on free throws.

Wilson turned in his best defensive game of his career in the first half, and capitalized on rebounds to push the Westerners out in front. Charles Galey and Jimmy Sexton aided in recapturing the wild Childress shots, and Lubbock led at halftime, 28-6.

Coach Roy Morris used substitutes exclusively throughout the second half of the game, and the B team held its own against the more experienced Bobcats, scoring 11 points and holding the visitors to 17 markers. What they lacked in polish was added in hustle and aggressiveness.

Lubbock scored on 12 of 28 field goal attempts the first half for a 42.8 average. Over the entire game Childress made only eight of 52 attempts from the field, and the Westerners connected with 17 of 54.

In the second quarter Wilson put the Westerners in front, 18-4, and Rooker added two points, Galey one, and Blair Hankins three before Powell hit a push shot for Childress to make the score 24-6 for the Westerners. Sexton counted two markers with two and one-half minutes remaining in the quarter, and then Galey came through with a two-pointer wth less than a minute left in the half to help pile up a 22 point lead at halftime, 28-6.

The second half scoring for Lubbock was done by Morris Turner, Jessie Fullerton, Garnet Reeves, and Neil Sikes. Some of the boys broke into the scoring column the first time this year.

Ronnie Browning, 107, Tahoka, scored TKO over Ken Powell, 109, third round.

Bill Burkhart, 120, Tahoka, scored TKO over Max LaDuke, 119, second round.

James Adair, 125, Olton, knocked out Bob Call, 121, third round.

Ken Gullett, 124, Olton, scored TKO over Bill Short, 128, first round.

Bo McClure, 128, Olton, scored knockout over Raymond Jenkins, 134, first round.

Billy Mayfield, 125, Olton, scored knockout over Charles Brookshire, 132, first round.

Paul Hill, 168, Tahoka, scored knockout over Alton Cannon, 171, second round.

Anton Girls Drop Bula, 27-14

Cotton Center Paces Girls Cage Tourney

SUNDOWN, Feb. 22 (Special)—Cotton Center's strong girls basketball team paced four teams through first round games here tonight in the District 18-A basketball tournament.

Cotton Center wound up the night's play with a lopsided 58-36 victory over Three Way and could have scored even more points. Ruth Cannon, who was sensational in her freshman year, showed that her eye for the basket was just as sharp this year with 35 points.

Laquita Emerson scored 17 points for the losing Three Way team and the total points that Miss Cannon and Miss Emerson scored between them was more than the total score of any other two teams.

In the other first-round games, Anton advanced to the second round with a 27-14 victory over Bula; Spade edged out Morton 23-20; and Amherst took an easy 21-11 victory over Abernathy in a slow game.

Myrtle Brown paced the Anton cagers to victory with 11 points, while Charlotte Hall had nine for the losing Bula team.

Betty Monroe and 11 points to lead Morton, but yielded scoring honors to Edwina Inklebarger of Spade, who had 12.

Linda Duffy's seven points helped Amherst to its victory over Abernathy, which was led by Sandy Lutrick and Doris Ruth Vineyard, each of whom had four points.

No games will be played in the tournament Wednesday, with four games slated for Thursday night. Anton and New Deal will get the tournament started again with a game at 6 p.m. They will be followed by Spade-Whitharral, Whiteface-Amherst and Roosevelt-Cotton Center.

The concluding game of the night, between Roosevelt and Cotton Center, should be one of the best games of the tourney.

Double Main Go At Arena Tonight

Another double event will headline the weekly wrestling card at Sled Allen's arena tonight as Monte LaDue meets Balk Estes and Billy Goelz attempts to defeat Pat O'Dowdy.

Last week O'Dowdy won a decision over Goelz after slamming him to the concrete floor outside the ring. Many of the fans, as well as Goelz, were not satisfied with the decision. Goelz had won the first fall and was well on the way to winning the second when he threw O'Dowdy out of the ring and went out with him to finish the fight. But the rugged O'Dowdy beat the Chicagoan to the punch and put him out of action with a body slam. When Goelz couldn't return to the ring for the third fall, O'Dowdy was given the decision.

The demand rematch will give Goelz an opportunity to defeat O'Dowdy and he thinks that this time there will be no slip up. But O'Dowdy has promised to do more than bruise Goelz's hip this time. The match is for the best two out of three falls with an hour time limit.

The main event features LaDue, Texas Junior Heavyweight champion, against Estes of Oklahoma in a match that has the earmarks of a thrilling contest.

Estes is an experienced, hustling wrestler who is well versed in all the tricks of the game, and pretty rough in his own right. In amateur bouts in college he established quite a record. He moves with speed and ease surprising in one of his size.

In the preliminary George Overhul, who looked good in his two appearances here, will wrestle Big Bill Parks with a 20-minute time limit on the match.

The first contest starts as 8 o'clock and tickets are on sale at Wylie's Drug after 9 this morning.

HOLGUIN PACES OPEN

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—A 22-year-old golfer with only five years tournament experience led six top-notch U. S. professionals in the Mexican open Tuesday. Tony Holguin, born in San Antonio, Texas, and recently named pro at the Guadalajara golf club, shot a sizzling 66, five under par, for the first 18 holes. He was out in 33, in another 33 for the par 35-36—71 Chapultepec course.

Eight Schoolboy Fives In Region One TIL Tourney

CANYON, Feb. 22. (Special)—Eight high school basketball teams from Class A schools will come here for the Region One, TIL, basketball tournament to be played in Burton gym Friday and Saturday.

Both the winners and the runners-up in each of the four districts will bring their teams to Canyon, with first place teams playing second place quintets and third place winners meeting fourth place teams.

From District 1 will come Dumas, the winner, and Phillips, the runner-up; from District 2 will come Memphis, the winner, and Shamrock, the runner-up; from District 3 will come Abernathy, the winner, and Spur, the runner-up; and from District 4 will come Sudan, the winner, and Sundown, the runner-up.

Two games will be played Friday afternoon, two games Friday night, one game Saturday morning, another Saturday afternoon and two games Saturday night.

The schedule will begin Friday afternoon at 2:30 when Abernathy meets Sundown. Memphis and Phillips will play at 4 p. m. Sudan and Spur tangle at 7 p. m. and Dumas and Shamrock come to grips at 8:30 p. m. to end the night play.

Raiders Meet Buffs Tonight

Pioneer days will be restored here tonight in Tech gym when Texas Tech's Red Raiders go stalking the Buffaloes of West Texas State Teachers college in an important, crucial Border Conference basketball game.

Firing will begin at 8 p.m. between the second-place Raiders and the third-place Buffaloes, who have only one game separating them. A defeat for Tech would throw them into a tie with the Buffaloes, while it also would mean the end of their last chance for a Border Conference first place finish.

Gibson Still Bothered

The Raiders go into the game at full strength, although Forward Gene Gibson still is bothered with a sore thumb and a bad thigh. Gibson never has recovered completely from either injury and it has been affecting his play slightly.

The Buffaloes also will be at full strength for this contest, one of the most important of the year to both schools. Coach Gus Miller is not likely to let the Buffaloes forget that humiliating 53-39 defeat in Burton gym at Canyon plastered on them by the Raiders.

Buffs Well Balanced

The Buffs have a well-balanced team this year. Coach Miller can use either a short, fast quintet, or shoot a taller, more deliberate team on the court. Both are first rate.

Coach Polk Robison probably will stick with his usual starting five of Gibson and Whistle Banks, forwards, Don Grove at Center and Ardis Barton and either Wimpy Hill or Jiggs Jackson at the guards. In reserve will be Wayne Bowles, C. W. Dukes, Bill Eddins, Derwood Patterson, George Belchef and Charley Pinnell.

Cloverlake Dairy Is Winner In District 2 TAF Court Tourney

Brown-Layco And Lumber Bin Lose

Two more Lubbock teams dropped by the wayside in the District 2, Texas Athletic Federation basketball tournament in O. L. Slaton Junior High school gym last night.

Cloverlake Dairy of Lubbock, a last minute entry, took an early lead and held it throughout the game to chalk up a 34-31 victory over Brown-Layco of Lubbock.

Blue Flame Gas ousted another Hub City contender, Texas Lumber Bin, with an easy 55-42 victory. And in the final game of the night, Sisco Grocery of Denver City had little trouble beating Derrick Gulf Service of Idalou 56-39 for one of the real upsets of the tournament.

Games will continue tonight at Chapman Fieldhouse, which was vacated by the TAF tourney last night in favor of the Lubbock-Childress basketball game. Thomas Tinkers will meet Henly of Monroe at 7 p. m., Primm Drug of Brownfield meets Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers of Lubbock at 8 p. m. and Panhandle All-Stars will play Plains Gas of Shallowater at 9 p. m.

Deacon Johnson with 18 points and Troy Ennis with 16 led the Blue Flame quintet to victory, while Harold Rhoads had 15 points for the losers and Y. F. Boley had 14.

Joe Wheatley paced the winning Cloverlake five with 13 points and Tim Hatch had eight for Brown-Layco.

John Meeks' 17 points helped Sisco to victory over Derrick and he had 15-points support from Lefty Epperson. Bob Galey with 16 and Jack Durham with 10 topped the losing team.

ARTICLES SIZE UP MAJOR CLUBS

Opening Situation Shows Tribe Is Still Power-Packed Nine

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of five-part series by Davis J. Walsh, veteran baseball writer, analyzing the 16 major league baseball teams. Today's articles primarily is on the first four 1948 teams in the American League).

By DAVIS J. WALSH
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—This is the national giddy season when all the world's a wee sprig of wild mimosa and ball teams get grandiose ideas while fidgeting around the advance edges of baseball's annual pre-springtime odyssey into the sun.

In shorter and stubbier words—it's the big "nothing" time between intent and performance, when "huksters" of the ball field are in a great position to make copiously with the mouth. And, meanwhile, in the process, have claimed practically everything that isn't soldered.

But nothing they've said to date has seemed quite so fantastic as the words of Yankee general manager George M. Weiss who, when last observed, was looking archly out from behind his '48 "hand" and saying:

"I'll play these."

The Scan-Back

That, to every practical purpose, tells a terse, three-word story of the next American league race—there appareptly isn't going to be any.

On a quick scan-back, that's Mr. Weiss' implied belief. For he's either conceding the '49 American league pennant to the world champion Cleveland Indians, in fee simple, or his faith in betting a beaten hand into a pat full-house borders of eccentricity.

Anyhow, the last time George took a peek-back squint at that mitt—as of October, 1948—it was a busted straight. So, now he just ups to everybody and checks the bet.

The Boston Red Sox are merely adding, with rugged strength of character, a first baseman named Walter Dropo. Otherwise, they're apparently coming back to play for another last-day tie.

The fourth-place Athletics seem remarkably un-gimmicked, too. All they may add is another year on the calendar.

A Look At Indians

Let's look at the Indians, for instance: They had Boudreau, Feller, Gordon, Keltner—all that crowd, for years and couldn't win. Last year, they added Gene Bearden and Larry Doby to the varsity; and this pair gave every sign of meaning the difference between everything and nothing.

Another example: The Yankees desperately needed a first baseman, going into the 1947 season—and proved it, by taking a chance on George McQuinn, bony, brittle and chasing 37. He hit .304, drove in a lot of runs and the club went on to a world's championship.

The book is practically closed for the moment against the league's low four—Detroit, Washington, Chicago and St. Louis—since the record shows that almost no clubs go from the second division to the pennant in a single season.

Of the top four, it wasn't the three losers who set about trying to see what, if anything, might be done. They left that to the club that had just won a world's championship.

The Great Difference

So the Indians parted with a few guys they didn't particularly admire and added a couple—notably from Washington—who were not without interesting possibilities:

Namely, first baseman Mickey Vernon, league batting champion two years ago, and pitcher Early Wynn, a man of parts when moved to sterling endeavor and high purpose. Maybe the Indians weren't greatly helped by the dicker, but it seems equally definite that they

House Passes Fishing License Bill

Jester Recommends Simpler Game Laws

AUSTIN, Feb. 22 (AP)—Gov. Beauford H. Jester today urged simpler state game and fish laws to help make Texas one of the top recreation centers of the nation.

His message reached the house shortly after it passed a bill requiring a $1.65 general fishing license in place of the present $1.10 license for artificial bait fishing and ten other special license laws. A license is not now required for sport fishing with live bait.

Under the new law, persons under 17 would not be required to get a license. A license also would not be required where a resident fishes within his home county.

Confusion Exists

"In view of growing interest in hunting and fishing, it seems to be essential that the legislature eliminate the confusion caused by the maze of game and fish laws now on the statute books and simplify the licensing requirements," Jester said.

He asked both houses to give "Attentive consideration" to improving the recreation attractions of the state.

Jester said he hoped the legislature would give "Fullest possible support" to the inter-agency committee on recreation. The committee was set up last year by the governor and it includes the Game and Fish commission, the state Parks Board, the State Education department, the Vocational Education Department and the Highway Department.

Bill Ready For Senate

"I would also call to your attention the meritorious proposal to retire the bonus . . . for Palo Duro State Park," he said. "There also seems to be a need for machinery to assist small cities and rural communities which do not have established recreational departments, with planning their needed recreational improvements."

"I am hopeful that the inter-agency committee may develop some plans in this connection which can be projected by existing agencies of the state and at no substantial increase in cost to the state," Jester said.

The general fishing license bill, now ready for senate consideration, is one of several recommended by the Texas Wildlife Federation.

Indians Again Club To Beat

couldn't have been hurt much, either.

Anyhow, here's the status quo of the top four, which the challengers seemed so strangely reluctant to change:

Indians—Still on the up-swing, with power, pitching, added poise and a man named Lou Boudreau. Doby's first complete season in centerfield won't hurt anybody. Club ought to win for next two years.

Red Sox—Didn't win with what they had last year, losing pennant to Indians in post-season playoff game. They were almost good enough then, but probably aren't now. Too many guys waiting for 1946 to come back—Dave Ferriss, Tex Hughson, Lefty Harris, etc.

Athletics—Pitching good, but isn't getting any younger. Not much speed down through the line up. Hitting is largely inferential. They don't think anybody coming up is good enough to break through 1948's first line.

Yankees—Have added pitcher Fred Sanford, from St. Louis Browns, and let it go at that. Pitching doubtful, infield downright dubious. Have replaced manager Stanley Harris with manager Casey Stengel, which shows that, while the Yankees didn't get a new club for the manager, they did the next best thing: They got a new manager for the club.

Dallas Eagles Announce Purchase Of Floyd Speer

DALLAS, Feb. 22. (AP)—The Dallas Eagles of the Texas baseball league anounced Tuesday purchase of Floyd Speer, 32, veteran right-hand pitcher, from Oakland of the Pacific Coast league.

Business manager Bobby Goff of the Eagles described the deal as a conditional buy under terms of which Dallas gets a 30-day look at the player. Speer was in 49 games last season. He hurled 108 innings, mostly in relief roles, but was credited with 12 wins and charged with three losses.

Softball Tourney Slated For Dallas

HOUSTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Dallas was selected for the first Texas A.S.A. Softball Regional Tournament at a meeting of the state Amateur Softball Association here.

It will be the first time Texas will hold its own regional tourney with two entries coming from the state meet and four entries from the four metropolitan tournaments.

The regional tournament will be held the first week-end in September.

Brownwood will be host to the state tournament in mid-August while the metropolitan meets are being held in Houston, Fort Worth, Dallas and San Antonio.

Officers of the state organization named were: Art Webb of Lake Jackson, president; Frank Worley, Dallas, vice-president; Howey Mayhall of Austin, vice-president; Hugh Welch of San Angelo, vice-president, and Art Perkins of Harlingen, secretary.

Texas Junior College Loop Playoff Will Start Friday

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 22. (AP) Four teams of the Texas Junior College Conference will start play here Friday to determine the conference basketball champion.

Lon Morris of Jacksonville and Clifton meet in one of the opening games. The winner of a Corpus Christi-Wharton game will play Laredo Junior college for the right to meet Amarillo in another opening game.

RED RAIDERS MAY BE INVITED

District Eight Of NAIB Plans Playoff Among Texas Colleges

CANYON, Feb. 22. (AP)—W. A. (Gus) Miller, director of District Eight of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tuesday announced plans for a playoff among Texas college teams.

Miller said the Lone Star Conference, the Texas Conference, the Border Conference and the independent colleges of Texas will be invited to play in a single-game elimination tournament to decide the state's representative for the national tournament in Kansas City.

The Lone Star representative and the unaffiliated colleges' representative will meet in one game on March 2, and the Texas Conference representative and the Border Conference representative in the other. The winners will meet on March 4. Site of the games will be determined by coin flips.

Miller said the Texas NAIB committee will pass on all the teams to compete for the Kansas City tournament berth.

Since the Border Conference champion qualifies to play the Southwest Conference champion in the National Collegiate Athletic Association playoffs, it is likely the runner-up in the Border Conference will be invited.

Currently Texas Tech's Red Raiders are in second place in the Border Conference race and West Texas State Teachers college is third.

Abilene Christian is out in front in the Texas Conference with Howard Payne next in line. Stephen F. Austin and East Texas State are in a dogfight for the Lone Star lead.

Staff Of Coaching Clinic Is Complete

BEAUMONT, Feb. 22. (AP)—The instructing staff for the annual Texas High School Coaches association clinic here Aug. 1-5 was virtually completed today with the signing of Don Faurot of Missouri and Henry Iba of Oklahoma A. & M.

Faurot, an exponent of the split-T formation, will oppose coach Carl Snavely of North Carolina as mentors of the rival squads in the annual All-Star football game climaxing the school as well as instruct in his specialty.

Iba, whose "stalling" Oklahoma Aggie basketball teams have been in the national limelight for years, will coach an All-Star cage team in opposition to one tutored by Adolph Rupp of Kentucky.

Faurot announced that Harry Smith one of his assistants, would accompany him to the clinic, while only the naming of Snavely's aide remains to round out the full staff.

PETE GIL LOSES OPENING BOUT

Walke, Adams Gain Decisions Over Golden Gloves Opponents

CHICAGO, Feb. 22. (AP)—Texas battler Bob Walke of Corpus Christi handily won a three-round decision tonight in the opening 160-pound bout in the National Golden Gloves tournament at Chicago stadium.

The rangy Walke outpointed Joe Jordan of Cincinnati. Another Texas, Pete Gil of Austin, was defeated in the first bout of the 147-pound class by Johnny Leach of Mankato, Minn.

Neither Leach nor his Texas foe displayed much desire to become warlike until the third and final round of their bout. Then Leach carried the fight to Gil, winning on points.

Walke, a former San Diego high school athlete, was six inches taller than his Cincinnati negro opponent. Walke used his advantage brilliantly.

Tom Adams, Fort Worth's football player from Hardin-Simmons, won his opening light-heavy bout with a hard-earned decision over Norb Stancil of Los Angeles.

Adams scored well with hard rights all the way to take the decision from the west coast negro. Stancil handled both fists well and made Adams hustle for his victory. A right to the head by Adams stunned the muscular Stancil in the second round and probably was the turning point.

Eight of the twelve players on the Villanova College basketball squad are from Philadelphia, all four of the others from nearby New Jersey.

Truman Defends Military Aide

Pearson Defends Stand

The President did not mention Pearson in his talk tonight, although other speakers at the banquet did so. Pearson said in comment:

"If Mr. Truman is trying to discourage the right of fair comment, then he too has another think coming. The men he has on his staff are his business — even though the taxpayers have to foot the bill.

"But when his staff members accept medals from a military dictator whose principles this government has denounced, then it's the public's business and should be Truman's."

The President's speech was made extemporaneously at the Army-Navy country club at nearby Arlington, Va., at a banquet given by the Reserve Officers in Vaughan's honor.

Remark Quoted

Newsmen who took down the President's remarks reported that he said:

"If any S.O.B. thinks he is going to get any member of my staff or cabinet changed by some smart aleck statement over the air, he's mistaken."

(The President used the initials only, not the full expression.)

As issued by the White House, the passage read:

"Now, I am just as fond and just as loyal to my military aide as I am to the high brass, and I want you to distinctly understand that anyone who thinks he can cause any of those people to be discharged by me, by some smart aleck statement over the air or in the paper, he has not another think coming.

Argentine Praises Vaughan

"No commentator or columnist named any members of my cabinet, or my staff. I name them myself. And when it is time for them to be moved on, I do the moving, nobody else."

The Argentine decoration — the Order of the Liberator General San Martin — was presented to Vaughan at a reception at the Argentine embassy Feb. 4.

Dr. Jeronimo Remorina, the Argentine ambassador, conferred the decoration in recognition, he said, of Vaughan's "virtue as a soldier and an American."

"You are a loyal friend of my country and also a brilliant soldier in the glorious army of the United States," the ambassador told Vaughan at the time. "His excellency the president of the Argentine republic, Gen. Juan Eomingo Peron, has wished in this way to recognize your outstanding merit."

Attacks Called Vicious

Following up his defense of Vaughan at his last news conference, the President said that "no pollster" or anyone else is going to influence his selection of his cabinet or members of his staff.

Mr. Truman went on to say he alone will do any changing of his administration.

He said attacks on Vaughan actually were aimed at him as President.

"I'm a fair target for everything," he said. "I have my secretaries and my military and other aides. They are able to take it."

Mr. Truman said there had been "very vicious attacks on my military aide." He said the attacks were "unjust, and I say it advisedly, vicious."

Quotes Book on Polls

Paying his respect to pollsters, the President said he had recently finished reading a book about them. He quoted the author as saying that if he ever "found himself in agreement with the Chicago Tribune and some columnists or broadcasters" the author would think something was wrong with him.

The President delivered his talk in his usual rapid-fire pace in the dining room where the Reserve Officers had assembled to honor Vaughan as the "Minute Man of 1949." They said he had made great contributions to national defense.

Mr. Truman emphasized that "I never go back on an old friend."

He said he had a great many "so called friends" who "got a little jittery" during the last fall's campaign. But, he said with a smile, "they were not so jittery on Nov. 3 as they were on the first."

Tells of Training

Stressing again that no one else is going to tell him what changes to make in his staff, Mr. Truman said:

"When the time comes for any of them to move on, I'll do the moving."

The President began his talk in a light vein, asserting, "I don't know if I'm supposed to tell all I know on Vaughan or not."

He said he had known the general nearly all his military life and some time besides."

He told of Vaughan's training at Ft. Sill in 1917 and of his service in the first World War.

In 1940, he said, Vaughan was called to active service and sent to Australia where his chest was crushed and a leg broken in a plane accident.

Subsequently, the President said, he made Vaughan his military adviser when he become vice president and later brought him to the White House as military aide.

The President praised Rear Adm. Robert Dennison, his naval aide; Brig. Gen. Robert Landry, his air aide; and his physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham.

He also had words of praise for other officers who served under his as President, including Gens. George C. Marshall, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Omar Bradley.

He told of the time he went to see Gen. Marshall just before the last war, asking that he be given active duty. When he told Marshall he was 56 years old, he said Marshall informed him:

"'You're too damn old—you'd better go back to work in the Senate.'"

He said years later, Marshall told a presidential secretary he would "say the same thing today, only I'd be more diplomatic about it."

Earlier Maj. Gen. Carl R. Gray, Veterans administrator, and others paid tribute to Vaughan.

State Officials Split of the whole world are not only determined to do that but they are apparently determined to put everybody in the United States under obligation to them, regardless of costs."

In Texas, John Winters, welfare director, said under present state law Texas could not join such a program since its constitution provides state funds be used only for needy aged, blind and children. Winters said any increase in benefits "would result in reducing old age assistance rolls."

The nationwide poll of state officials also showed a divergence of views. Here are typical reactions of those available for comment on the holiday.

Folsom Okays Plan

Alabama—Gov. Jim Folsom said he is "100 per cent" for the Truman plan and that he will ask the legislature when it meets in May to put up the state's share "whatever it costs."

Arizona—Gov. Dan E. Garvey reported he is "heartily in favor of extension of social security benefits."

California—Social Welfare Director Myrtle Williams said she favors any "good legislation to help the aged, blind or needy," but that is up to the legislature to decide whether the state could afford such a program.

Florida—Gov. Fuller Warren: "It's very desirable, but I don't believe the state can afford it."

Idaho—Bill Child, director of public assistance, said the idea is "essential."

Kansas Welcomes Idea

Kansas—Frank Long, social welfare director, said the proposal would be welcome since the state could save $1,716,000 a year on its own "general assistance" program costing $3,432,000 annually.

Louisiana—Gov. Earl K. Long said "I'm for it. We are ready and able to put up our share of matching funds for this program."

Maine — Gov. Frederick G. Payne commented: "This phase of the proposed Truman program has a definite trend toward socialism." He said such matters should be left to the states and municipalities.

Michigan—C. J. Maxey, state welfare director, said: "The idea seems like a good one—we're always glad to get federal funds."

Minnesota—Jarle Leirfallom, social welfare director, said the "plan has merit, but there are some phases, particularly the variable grant, which would require study."

New Mexico Willing

New Mexico—Murray Hintz, the welfare director, noting that his state would be in line for large federal grants, said "New Mexico would be willing and able to participate in the program."

North Carolina—Dr. Ellen Winston, the welfare director, said "it is a good idea, tremendously needed as far as North Carolina is concerned."

Oklahoma—Gov. Roy J. Turner said: "I can see no way in which Oklahoma can expand its present service." The state now has maximum aid payment of $7 per month, with top of $14 for family.

Pennsylvania — A spokesman for department of public assistance said the state now is granting "home relief" for which it bears total cost but would be opposed to any system of variable federal grants under which the wealthier states would get the smallest percentage of aid.

South Carolina—A. B. Rivers, welfare director, said: "I believe the federal government should participate in the general assistance program just like it does in other phases of the social security program."

Reorganization

12-man commission disagreed with this estimate of possible savings. The dissenters, Dean Acheson, now secretary of state, and James H. Rowe jr., explained they did not believe that the estimated savings had been "subjected to enough scrutiny."

Action of the commission's "task force" on agricultural activities in taking sides on a controversial issue of future farm price supports attracted attention. The commission itself did not mention the subject. It did say, however, that crop adjustment programs should be operated on a "standby, rather than continuous, basis."

The task force said a system of flexible price supports embodied in the Aiken farm bill passed by the Republican 80th Congress was a step in the right direction. It opposed further extension of the present rigid supports at 90 per cent of parity.

Farm Bloc Seeks Repeal

(Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, designed to be equally fair to producers and consumers alike.)

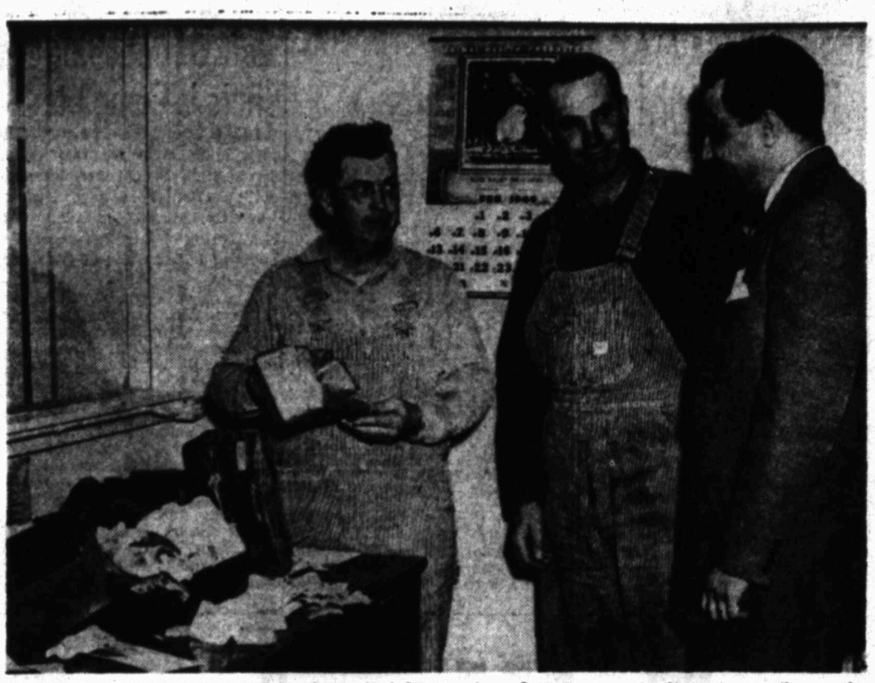

A strong farm bloc in Congress is demanding repeal of the Aiken law which would allow supports from zero to 90 per cent. This group wants the 90 per cent parity supports continued.

BLAST HITS PLANT

RANDOLPH, Mass., Feb. 22. (INS)—A number of small buildings at a fireworks plant near the Randolph-Canton line were destroyed tonight in a series of explosions. The explosions were felt over a large area, causing newspaper, police and fire department switchboards to be swamped with calls. Police reported no one was killed or injured in the blasts.

JOURNALIST LEAVES WARSAW

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 22. (AP) — Anna Louise Strong, leftist American journalist deported from Russia, left Warsaw secretly today. Her destination was not disclosed. A Warsaw hotel said she had arrived there Saturday.

HALSEY CASH BOXES RECOVERED—Ted Watts, above left, farmer who lives three miles north and five miles west of Abernathy, was plowing in his field Friday morning. He looked back and noticed that one side of his chisel-type plow was out of the ground and dragging something. Investigating, he found that one of the plow's blades had pierced two cash boxes and checks were scattered for approximately 30 yards. Further investigation revealed that the checks were made out to the Mark Halsey Drug Stores of Lubbock and that the four cash boxes were those stolen from a Halsey truck on a downtown street here on Jan. 7. Gathering the checks and the boxes, Watts and H. C. Ellis, center, brought them into Lubbock and gave them to Hop Halsey, right. Between $1,900 and $2,100 in cash and checks was lost in the robbery. Of the checks recovered silghtly more than $235 of them are "cashable," Halsey said. The cash boxes were wrapped in a gunny sack and buried in a hole about 12 inches deep near an irrigation ditch along a fence row on Watts' farm. (Staff Photo.)

are content with the ordinary when they can lay their hands on the superlative."

Dr. Lee cautioned that "if we are to be magnificent Christians instead of mediocre Christians, we must be as mature and grown-up Christians and not as little children."

Leaders Are Needed

He stressed that mature people and not childish adults are needed today to lead people out of their complacence and into useful activity.

"As mature men, if we are to be great for the Lord, we must be the maximum for Him and not just the minimum," he declared. He said that "the most magnificent thing on this earth are persons who are magnificent for their God and their church.

"God wants us to be giants," he said.

He said, however, that if people would be magnificent rather than mediocre, they must master some things. First, they must master money, for "when it becomes your master, it will dry up the milk of human kindness in your soul." Secondly, they must master their bodies, he beclared, for "if you would be magnificent men for Christ, you must put aside mediocre things and mediocre living."

Reports Are Made

"Jesus deserves more than the tame half-heartedness which many people give him," Dr. Lee said, and reminded his listeners that "the most blighting frost of all is the frost of mediocrity."

A song service under direction of Shelby Collier of Wayland college, Plainview, opened the meeting. Later, special music was presented by the men's octette of Wayland college.

Judson Burnett, layman of Levelland and district president of the Baptist Brotherhood, presided.

Rev. A. C. Hardin, pastor of Sundown Baptist church, talked on "Plains Baptist Assembly" at the gathering, and made an appeal for funds for a swimming pool at the Baptist summer camp near Floydada. The district Brotherhood unanimously agreed to assist in the project, and offerings in excess of $3,000 for the project were made at last night's meeting.

Other talks also were made, including "Men in the Revival," by Rev. A. A. Brian of Brownfield First Baptist church; and "Our District," by Rev. Franklin E. Swanner of Plainview, district missionary.

Dr. Lee's address was broadcast last night over radio station KCBD.

At the meeting, also, announcements were made concerning the district convention at Ralls March 8, at which Attorney General Price Daniel of Texas will speak; and the simultaneous revivals which are to begin March 20 in Baptist churches.

Measure To Permit Oil Field Pooling Agreements Opposed

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—Terms of a bill to allow cooperative development of oil and gas fields would violate Texas anti-trust laws and give six or seven big companies control of oil business in this state, the Senate Oil and Gas committee was told tonight.

The charges were made by Elmer Patman, Houston attorney representing Superior Oil company. He spoke in opposition to a bill by Senator George Moffett of Chillicothe legalizing voluntary oil and gas field pooling agreements.

"I'll tell you what you will do to my company and others like it with this bill. You will make royalty owners out of us, and you will turn the oil business of Texas over to six or seven companies," Patman told the committee.

He charged that one provision of the measure would exempt petroleum derivatives from the anti-trust laws.

SUPERSTITION HURDLE

ABILENE, Feb. 22. (AP)—Abilene's try at a national record of 702 days without a traffic fatality received a superstitious jolt today. Traffic safety leaders counted the days until the day of decision. The 702nd day falls on May 13, a Friday. Already 621 "deathless days" have passed.

Congress Warned

420,000 for contempt of an anti-strike injunction.

Moody declared that the Taft-Hartley act "has hurt no one, even the labor leaders who cry the loudest."

Rows Are Reported

Haley testified before the Senate Labor committee after the National Labor Relations board charged that the Taft-Hartley act has caused "friction, delay and uncertainty" between it and its general counsel in dealing with labor disputes.

NLRB Chairman Paul Herzog told the committee that the act's division of authority has resulted in an "intra-family" battle between the board and General Counsel Robert Denham.

Haley contended that the act has not "unduly impinged" upon labor. He appealed "most strongly" to the senators to continue the act's denial of collective bargaining rights to foremen.

T-H Law Criticized

At the same time, he urged the committee to remove union pension and welfare funds from the field of required collective bargaining under the law.

He estimated that coal operators are now paying Lewis' United Mine Workers union $250,000 daily for its funds, which he contended provides "special benefits" for a "privileged group."

Herzog told the senators, who are working against a Wednesday afternoon deadline on the hearings for a Taft-Hartley substitute, that the act has caused "friction, uncertainty and unnecessary litigation."

Flood Threat Grows

it ranged from 55 to 60. In Utah, temperatures remained slightly under freezing.

North Dakota reported readings averaging about 10 degrees above zero near the Canadian border. Elsewhere over the state it touched as high as 50.

West Coast Threatened

At Omaha the Fifth Army set Feb. 26 as a possible date for terminating its operation snowbound in South Dakota, Wyoming and Nebraska. Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, directing the snow clearance said he hoped sections of the North Dakota disaster area also would be cleared by that time.

The flood threat extended to the Pacific coast. In California, two communities in Del Norte county were menaced by the Smith river, already at road level. Telephone communication to the towns of Smith River and Fort Dick were cut off.

Residents of the two communities were told to keep themselves in readiness to move out.

Over the eastern part of the nation, snow was reported in New England, with rain in New York, the Middle Atlantic states, and the Appalachian region.

Anti-Lynching Measure Is Okayed By House Committee

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—A bill defining and providing penalties for lynching was approved 9 to 3 tonight by the House Criminal Jurisprudence committee.

It adopted a subcommittee report under which persons from 14 to 17 years of age would not be subject to criminal prosecution for second-degree lynching—mob assault not resulting in death. The provision including this age bracket was objected to when the measure by Rep. S. J. Isaacks of El Paso was originally heard by the committee.

The bill, which now goes to the House calendar, defines first degree lynching as any act of violence by a mob upon the body of any person, which results in death.

When Isaacks originally explained his bill, he said its purpose was "to satisfy some of the advanced thinkers at Washington who have for many years been threatening to pass an anti-lynching law.

The Texan called this "plurality" clause "dangerous." He said it is noticeable that the "very reactionary and conservative groups in the Fascist-minded class are not opposing this resolution" and added:

"It is because they think it is possible for the electral votes to be spread so thin among many parties that they will have a chance to elect a president."

Minorities Not Encouraged

He also asked if it were for the same reason that "extreme leftist groups in the Communist-minded class" are not opposing it.

Patman said minority parties have not been encouraged under the 160-year old American system, but under the amendment proposed by Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) and Rep. Gossett (D-Tex) this situation could change.

"It would be possible," he added, "for 10 or 15 different political parties to divide the electoral votes in a way that 10 per cent of the votes could elect a president."

In arguing for the change, Rep. Gossett has said candidates must now "kowtow" to racial and other minorities in the big pivotal states because these minorities can now swing the whole state one way or the other.

Substitute Suggested

Patman put in the record a study by the legislative reference service showing there have been 105 parties and "splinter" factions in the United States since 1879 (parties that have elected one or more members of Congress, or have nominated a presidential candidate.)

He argued that under the proposed amendment, Communist, Ku Klux Klan and other minority groups would 'have a chance to divide our country like France has been divided for some time."

As a possible substitute, he suggested an amendment that would give each member of the house a vote in choosing a president in event no candidate received an electoral majority. This would mean that 435 instead of only 48 votes would be cast in a House election.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.): "I don't see any merit in the idea. I don't see how increasing the size of the Senate would increase efficiency. The Senate is a place where, because of its present size, matters can receive very careful and efficient consideration."

Officials Say Russian Rocket Once Fell In U.S. German Zone

BERLIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—A Russian rocket fired in practice, landed in the American zone of Germany some time ago, but caused no damage or casualties, U.S. authorities disclosed Tuesday.

The incident was kept secret until now, and details of both the bomb and the incident will remain secret, the officials said. They explained they felt no purpose would have been served by an earlier announcement.

A high Army officer said there was nothing unusual in construction of the rocket. It carried a smaller-than-usual charge of explosive, as customary in maneuvers. It cut a crater about a foot deep in an isolated area near the boundary of the Soviet zone. The Soviet army engaged in maneuvers last fall, and possibly the rocket was fired then.

New Airlift Record Is Set By American, British Planes

BERLIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—American and British planes roared into Berlin at 90-second intervals today with a new airlift record.

In a 24-hour period ended at noon, the big sky freighters carried almost as much food and fuel to the city as it used to receive by train before the Russian blockade.

The new record was 7,513 tons, 526 tons better than the previous high set on U.S. Air Force day Sept. 18.

The board approved the appointment of Ada B. Houston to teach at Dunbar school and Robert J. Pipkin as orchestra director for beginning strings in the three junior high schools, and the appointment on a temporary-terminable basis of D. C. Heath as mathematics teacher at Senior High school.

Principals Re-Elected

The resignation of Mrs. H. V. Rice of K. Carter school and a leave of absence for Miss Lourene Bussey of Senior High school were also approved.

Reelection of the following school principals on two-year contracts was announced:

Floyd Honey, Senior High school; Jay E. Gordon, J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school; G. E. Dawson, O. L. Slaton Junior High school; Carl M. Bailey, Carroll Thompson Junior High school; W. Kary Mathis, Bean school; Mrs. Ruth Carter, P. F. Brown school; R. D. Ford, K. Carter school; Alfred C. Smith, Central Ward school; Mrs. Iris Bergholm, Cottage school; Mrs. Guy L. Trow, Dupre school; Leo J. Warren, East Broadway school.

P. E. Davis, George M. Hunt school; Howard L. Day, Chris Harwell school; Mrs. Reuby S. Rhodes, McWhorter; Lennon Hill, Overton school; Mrs. Ivy G. Savage, Wilson school; R. P. Swofford, teaching principal, Guadalupe school; Mrs. Josephine Ballenger, teaching principal, Special School for Exceptional Children; and E. C. Struggs, Dunbar school.

Faculty Changes Approved

A request from Cecil E. Buck, present principal of Sanders school, for assignment as coach and teacher was approved, along with the transfer of Trula Maud Jetton from a teaching position to the principalship of the school. Howard Price was named to the position of principal of the new school to be placed in operation in northeast Lubbock.

The board of trustees adopted a policy providing for payment to teachers for time missed from the classroom when on regular jury service with approval of the school administration. Under present laws, teachers may be exempt from jury service, but the board's policy was taken to allow them to serve on juries without loss of regular pay if they wish to do so.

A plan to send the Senior High band and A Capella choir at school district expense to the Region 1 Music contest at Canyon on April 29 and 30 was approved.

A. C. Jackson, business manager, and R. W. Matthews, superintendent of schools, will leave Saturday for St. Louis, Mo., to attend a three-day meeting of the National Association of School Administrators, it was announced.

The board voted to contract for paving of sidewalks, drives and other needed paving around the various schools in the city, where needed, and approved the construction of baseball backstops at all schools in the city where such backstops are not already provided.

Other routine business included the approval of the superintendent's statistical report for the fifth month of school and the monthly report of expenditures.

Present at the meeting were Tatum, Hamilton, Parsons, Jackson, Matthews, M. M. Ewing and W. H. Evans. Board members G. C. Dowell and Glenn Woody were absent.

Joseph Hanson, Ruggles' assistant;

John Davis, former first secretary;

Edward Freer, former third secretary;

Louise Lukke, another attache described as a "former naval intelligence" agent;

Robert Magidoff, former NBC and McGraw-Hill publications correspondent expelled from Moscow last year on spy charges;

And a man named Rullard attached to the former U. S. Counsul-general's office in Vladivostock.

Bill Restricting Annexation By Cities, Shelved In Texas House

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—A bill under which cities could not annex territory without a vote of the people who live there was in effect killed by a House committee today.

The House committee on municipal and private corporations sent the measure by Rep. Louis J. Ivey of El Paso to an unfriendly subcommittee. An effort to instruct the committee to report at a specified time was defeated, indicating the bill is dead for the session.

Opponents of the measure, mostly from the larger cities, contended it would block future expansion.

TO OBSERVE TRIAL

LONDON, Feb. 22. (INS)—The British foreign office announced Tuesday Bulgaria has agreed to admit two British legation observers at the treason trial of 15 Bulgarian Protestant ministers accused of spying for the United States and Britain.

U.S. MOVE AWAITED

MAY SHUT DOWN

169-Mile Railroad Is Put On Block

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 22. (AP)—Want to buy a railroad? The Wichita Falls & Southern railway, a 169-mile line, is on the market.

If it isn't sold it may go out of operation.

Employes went on a strike last Dec. 16. They wanted higher wages. Union and management expect to resume talks here tomorrow.

The line, however, is still in operation so water can be hauled to Archer City from Olney in tank cars. A 90-day strike suspension was granted for that purpose.

Worth Coffey, manager of the Olney Chamber of Commerce, said today he knew somebody would buy half interest in the line.

But, he said, shippers in the nine communities served by the line are slow in putting up money for the other half.

He said committees are at work trying to find investors also the railroad line won't go out of operation.

Orville Bullington, board chairman of the W. F. & S., said he was going ahead with plans for abandonment. He is awaiting approval from the Interstate Commerce Commission on his application for abandoning the line.

Smith Hits Charges

Bucar is a "woman. . .to be pitied rather than taken seriously."

Chairman Bloom (D-NY), of the House Foreign Affairs committee, observed that the charges are "too ridiculous even to notice."

Rep. Douglas (D-Calif), described the charges as "patently a lie," and Rep. Jackson (R-Calif.), called Miss Bucar a "renegade American."

Smith, recuperating from an illness at Army's Walter Reed hospital in Washington, began his reply to the charges with a smiling "Tain't so!" He declared:

"An American official in Moscow, of all places, must be, like Caesar's wife, above reproach.

"Therefore, I instructed all American personnel under my direction to conduct themselves as though they were living in a goldfish bowl, and I set them an example by such conduct.

Other Officials Named

"As for the Bucar woman's charge that embassy officials, including myself, were engaged in espionage, I must point out that the U. S. does not maintain or countenance the presence of spies in its embassies.

"This is well known to the Soviet government, and I am certain that the Kmelin itself would absolve me of any charge of espionage."

The general expressed interest when told that Miss Bucar accused numerous Americans of being "intelligence agents," including Armand Willis, an ex-embassy official. Smith said:

"Willis, as it no doubt will be recalled, himself made charges that the State department and American diplomatic representatives were guilty of 'misunderstanding' the Soviet union.

"Eager To Return"

"Willis was in charge of the embassy's cultural information service and it was necessary for me to relieve him of his duties and send him back to the U. S. because of his recalcitrant attitude."

Smith, observing that Miss Bucar's charges were "ridiculous and absurd," added that "unfortunately she has a baby which is of dual nationality." Smith declared:

"She is eager to return to the United States and take her child with her. Therefore, I suppose, it is necessary for her to co-operate with the Russians in any undertaking they may choose to order."

The envoy scoffed at Miss Bucar's charge that Elbridge Durbrow, counselor of the U. S. embassy in Moscow, has a "wicked pathological hatred of everything Russian."

Smith said that Durbrow is "wise and efficient."

Rites Slated In Oklahoma For Father Of Lubbock Resident

Funeral services are to be conducted in Boise City Okla., for Lanning B. Thompson, 64, of that city, who died early Tuesday morning in the home of a son, Roy, of 907 Thirty-first, after an illness of three months.

The body was carried overland to Boise City Tuesday by Rix Funeral home. Time of funeral services and burial was not known here last night.

Thompson, a building contractor, had been living here in recent weeks in order to take medical treatment.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Ira Niece of Seneca, N. M., and Mrs. Hurley Tolbert and Miss Essie Thompson, both of Boise City; and three sons, Roy, Earl of Felt, Okla., and Virgil of Boise City.

Gus Lesnevich Signs To Fight Eldridge Eatman On March 3

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 22. (INS)—Gus Lesnevich, former light heavy-weight champion, today signed for his first fight since dropping the title to Freddy Mills in London last July.

Lesnevich will meet Eldridge Eatman, Norwalk, Conn., heavyweight, in a 10-round bout in Newark March 3.

GAFFERY WINS RACE

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 22. (AP)—The Foxcatcher Farms' Gaffery came from behind in the final furlong Tuesday to win the $50,000 Santa Susana stakes for three year old fillies before 56,000 fans, largest crowd of the season at Santa Anita park.

ful search for blank checks. He said he burglarized S&T Feed and Coal company, on East Broadway, twice, on Feb. 11 and 17, tearing blank checks out of a checkbook each time.

He said he was in financial difficulties at the time and hoped to "save his car and furniture" by writing and passing forged checks.

The woman made out the checks after Tate had used the check protector on them, she admitted, but she did not pass any of them.

Tate said he and his wife went to a theater after the checks had been made out and were ready for passing, and that he lost his billfold containing four of them. He said he was afraid to go back and ask if the billfold had been turned in at the boxoffice.

A juvenile also has been included in the investigation, officials said. Four checks traceable to Tate have been accounted for, in addition to the four Tate said had been lost, it further was said.

Station Operator Alert

The entire investigation — lengthy as it was—was "hurried along because of the alertness of a service station operator who took the precaution to copy down a license number of a car," Horton and Chief Dep. Sheriff George Eubank said here. They said their appreciation to the man, and suggested that "arrest of suspects in check cases can always be facilitated by such assistance of the public."

Bond of $1,000 was posted by Henry Mojica, 18, Idalou Mexican farmhand whose recent arrest cleared 11 burglaries in the Idalou section, the sheriff's department announced.

Auto Is Stolen

U. S. Robinson, who operates Bob's Frigidway grocery at 1701 Nineteenth, reported the second chain of ill fortune to strike him in two days. His gray 1947 Plymouth club coupe, AP 2875, was reported as stolen from the store Monday night. A day earlier someone had burglarized the store and taken $25. Robinson lives at 2603 Twenty-ninth.

The state highway patrol reported early Tuesday afternoon that the car in "running condition," had been recovered on the Littlefield highway.

Burglary of the Queen City, negrom residential section, property of Jim Priestley was reported to the sheriff's department. Priestley said two cartons of cigarets and approximately 12 pounds of barbecue had been taken by someone who forced his way through a front door.

Drug Store Boxes Found

Mrs. J. E. Orr of 1509 Twenty-seventh said someone had burglarized her residence sometime Monday afternoon, taking a chip diamond pin valued at $35, police reports showed.

Law enforcement officers have learned of the finding of four cash boxes and a number of checks, those taken in a robbery Jan. 7 of a panel truck belonging to Mark Halsey Drug stores.

The boxes, wrapped in burlap bags and buried, were turned up by Ted Watts, farmer of three miles north and five west of Abernathy, whose plow struck the boxes and unearthed them. Most of the checks were found intact, it was said, but cash was gone from the boxes.

In the county court of Judge Walter Davies, the following judgments were filed Tuesday:

Jessie Lee Sinclair, $75 fine, court costs and revocation of driver's license six months on a drunk driving charge filed Feb. 10; Louis E. Romo, 34, $125 fine and court costs on a liquor law violation complaint filed in July; Fred Gormany, 27, a negro, $100 and court costs on a pistol carrying complaint; Wayne G. Buzan, $75 fine, coure costs and revocation of driver's license six months in a drunk driving complaint filed in December; H. B. Putman, 40, $125 and court costs on a liquor law violation charge; Morris McElrath, $100 and costs, feed law violation.

Jessie Jackson, 21, a Lubbock negro charged with carrying a pistol, pleaded innocent. Bond of $400, returnable March 7 for trial, was posted, the sheriff's department said.

Texas Solons Approve Bill To Keep Reds Off Election Ballot

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—A bill to keep the Communist party off the election ballots of Texas was unanimously approved by the Senate Elections committee today.

The measure, by Senator John J. Bell of Cuero, would keep off the ballot the name of any candidate who advocates Communism or the overthrow of the United States government.

Wendell Addington, University of Texas student, who said he was "a member of the state committee of the Communist party," declared the bill was unconstitutional.

Homer Garrison, director of the State Department of Public Safety, urged passage of the measure. He said the department has been carrying on a thorough investigation of Communism in Texas for several years.

Garrison displayed a photostatic copy of a letter he said was written by "the Texas agent for the Communist newspaper, The Worker." He quoted the letter as saying the Communist party had "well established representatives" in Dallas, Houston and Austin.

Polio Victim Gives Birth To Two-Pound Son In Abilene

ABILENE, Feb. 22. (AP)—Mrs. J. C. Patterson, 17, was back in the polio ward of an Abilene hospital today—after giving birth to a premature two-pound baby yesterday in the maternity ward.

The young mother, wife of an Odessa, oil worker, has not seen her tiny baby. The infant son had to be placed in the hospital incubator.

Mrs. Patterson had been a polio patient here five months. Hospital attendants said the baby is "vigorous" but that there is some doubt an infant weighing only two pounds can survive.

Chambers Related Amazing Story Of Communists' Activity; Admitted Playing Role In Red Ring

Edward U. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards, I made an effort to establish the relationship between Condon and Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, a former Government economist accused by Elizabeth Bentley of heading one of the Communist spy rings working in Washington.

One day Ed Nellor, Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Sun, asked me what I knew about a senior editor of Time who lived on a farm at Westminster, Md., and was to be questioned by a N. Y. Grand Jury. Nellor had inquired about him at the Justice Department, but had been asked to "lay off."

I was interested in that jury's findings, for I knew it was hearing Silvermaster. I found that the farmer-editor's name was Chambers, and thinking he might supply some needed information, I dispatched two investigators to Time's New York office to question him.

THEY returned empty-handed. Chambers did not know Silvermaster, nor did he know Condon. However, he told my men that he had been a Communist and once, years before, had served as a courier between an underground apparatus in Washington and the party's New York headquarters. He added that he had told all this to Assistant Secretary of State Adolh A. Berle and later to the F.B.I. when he broke with Communism, but that nothing had come of his revelation. He did not wish to appear before the Committee, he said.

I forgot him.

But the startling testimony which Miss Bentley gave during her appearance before the Committee on July 31, 1948, and the denials of those named and the blasts the Committee received from liberals and left-wingers, made it imperative that we get some kind of corroborating witness on our stand. The Justice Department, I recalled moodily, had warned us that there were none.

Feared News Blast

I remembered Chambers, and subpoenaed him. Miss Bentley's story plainly was too hard to believe, I agreed. But if Chambers told us of his own work as a courier perhaps there would be links connecting his bygone activities with the later ones outlined by Miss Bentley.

The subpoena on Chambers, once served, gave me additional worry. I felt that Henry Luce would be indignant. His magazine had been critical of the Committee and especially of Rep. Rankin. Calling one of his editors, I guessed, would provoke fresh rebukes.

But on the appointed day, August 3, 1948, Chambers walked into my office accompanied by Frank McNaughton, of the Washington bureau of Time. McNaughton had been anti-committee for a long time, but it had not interfered with our friendship.

CHAMBERS shook hands solemnly when we were introduced, then I turned to McNaughton and said, "Okay, Frank, what's the pitch. Why can't he testify?"

"He's ready," McNaughton answered, to my surprise. "He has a statement he'd like you to read." It was three pages of pure dynamite, composed in the man's careful prose. This is what he had written and later read into the committee's record:

"Almost exactly nine years ago —that is, two days after Hitler and Stalin signed their pact—I went to Washington and reported to the authorities what I knew about the infiltration of the United States Government by Communists. For years international Communism, of which the United States Communist Party is an integral part, had been in a state of undeclared war with this Republic. With the Hitler-Stalin pact, that war reached a new stage. I regarded my action in going to the government as a simple act of war, like the shooting of an armed enemy in combat.

Joined on His Own

"At that moment in history, I was one of the few men on this side of the battle who could perform this service.

"I had joined the Communist Party in 1924. No one recruited me. I had become convinced that the society in which we live, western civilization, had reached a crisis, of which the First World War was the military expression, and that it was doomed to collapse or revert to barbarism. I did not understand the causes of the crisis or know what to do about it. But I felt that, as an intelligent man, I must do something. In the writings of Karl Marx I thought that I had found the explanation of the historical and economic causes. In the writings of Lenin I thought I had found the answer to the question, what to do?

"In 1937 I repudiated Marx' doctrines and Lenin's tactics. Experience and the record had convinced me that Communism is a form of totalitarianism, that its triumph means slavery to men wherever they fall under its sway, and spiritual night to the human mind and soul. I resolved to break with the Communist Party at whatever risk to my life or other tragedy to myself or my family. Yet, so strong is the hold which the insidious evil of Communism secures on its disciples, that I could still say to someone at the time: 'I know that I am leaving the winning side for the losing side, but it is better to die on the losing side than to live under Communism.'

FOR a year I lived in hiding, sleeping by day and watching through the night with a gun or revolver within easy reach. That was what underground Communism could do to one man in the peaceful United States in the year 1938.

"I had sound reason for supposing that the Communists might try to kill me. For a number of years I had myself served in the underground, chiefly in Washington, D.C. The heart of my report to the United States Government consisted of a description of the apparatus to which I was attached. It was an underground organization of the United States Communist Party developed, to the best of my knowledge, by Harold Ware, one of the sons of the Communist leader known as 'Mother Bloor.' I knew it at its top level, a group of seven or so men, from among whom in later years certain members of Miss Bentley's organization were apparently recruited. The head of the underground group at the time I knew it was Nathan Witt, an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board. Later, John Abt became the leader. Lee Pressman was also a member of this group, as was Alger Hiss, who, as a member of the State Department, later organized the conference at Dumbarton Oaks, San Francisco, and the United States side of the Yalta Conference.

Sought Top Posts

"The purpose of this group at that time was not primarily espionage. Its original purpose was the Communist infiltration of the American Government. But espionage was certainly one of its eventual objectives. Let no one be surprised at this statement. Disloyalty is a matter of principle with every member of the Communist Party. The Communist Party exists for the specific purpose of overthrowing the Government, at the opportune time, by any and all means; and each of its members, by the fact that he is a member, is dedicated to this purpose.

"It is ten years since I broke away from the Communist Party. During that decade I have sought to live an industrious and God-fearing life. At the same time I have fought Communism constantly by act and written word. I am proud to appear before this Committee. The publicity inseparable from such testimony has darkened, and will no doubt continue to darken, my efforts to integrate myself in the community of free men. But that is a small price to pay if my testimony helps to make Americans recognize at last that they are at grips with a secret, sinister, and enormously powerful force whose tireless purpose is their enslavement.

AT THE same time, I should like, thus publicly, to call upon all ex-Communists who have not yet declared themselves, and all men within the Communist Party whose better instincts have not yet been corrupted and crushed by it, to aid in this struggle while there is still time to do so."

The Committee heard Chambers briefly in closed session, but after fifteen minutes of his story one of the members interrupted.

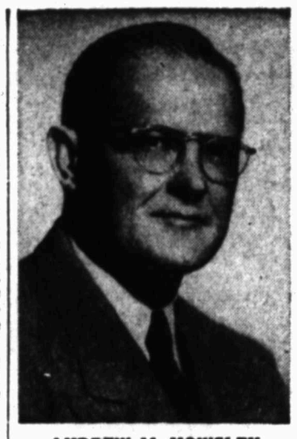

"Hell," said the member, "why is this in executive session? This should be in the open."

We moved to the caucus room of the old House Office Building and began an unforgettable day.

Permian Basin Group Will Hear Official

MIDLAND, Feb. 22. (Special)—Andrew M. Howsley, independent oil operator of Albany, and general counsel for the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas association will be the featured speaker of the first 1949 meeting of the Permian Basin chapter of the American Petroleum institute to be held at 6 p. m. Friday in Odessa.

Howsley's address will cover the legislative problems, on both state and national levels, which are facing the Texas oil industry. W. D. Lane, of Midland, chairman of the chapter, urges all members to attend this timely discussion.

Served As Attorney

Howsley has served as general counsel for the association since 1946. Prior to that appointment, he was retained as attorney for the organization.

Following law school training at Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., and the University of Texas, Howsley began practicing law in 1923 at Albany, Shakelford county, and later served as county attorney of that county for two terms. He also served as a member of the 42nd Legislature in the House of Representatives.

His career in law and in the operation of stripper wells in West-Central Texas has given Howsley wide experience with legal, legislative, and production problems of the Texas oil operator. Following the talk at the Ector county auditorium, a barbecue dinner will be served.

Amnesia Victim Says 'New' Husband Okay

SEATTLE, Feb. 22. (U.P.)—Mrs. Hertis Sugden, 26, an amnesia victim who forgot the family she had acquired since 1944, took another look at her husband today and said she didn't see how she "could have made a better choice."

"My husband is such a nice man," she said. "He's so kind and affectionate."

Mrs. Sugden, a bride of three months, lost her memory when she was hit on the head with a davenport cushion hurled from a motion picture balcony. She remembers nothing since 1944.

Husband Optimistic

Her husband, Will, 33, a bus driver, said he was delighted with the progress he had made in making his wife fall in love with him all over again. He confidently looked forward to taking her on a second honeymoon in a few weeks.

But getting used to a husband wasn't the only thing that troubled Mrs. Sugden.

Sugden's two children by a previous marriage thought she was playing a game when she failed to recognize them.

Then there was the problem of clothes.

"I just don't like my clothes," she said when she examined her wardrobe. "I found a coat in the closet with two strips of fur down the front. And a little hat. It's the dizziest thing."

Negro Woman Receives Honorary Degree From Florida College

WINTER PARK, Fla., Feb. 22 (U.P.) — Mary McLeod Bethune, 73-year-old self-educated negro, today was the first of her race to receive an honorary doctor's degree from a white southern college.

She received a doctor of humanities degree from Rollins college here along with President Karl Compton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Edward R. Murrow, Columbia Broadcasting System news analyst; Serge Koussevitsky, conductor of the Boston Symphony; Paul E. Stillman of Glendale, Calif., and Eugene R. Smith and Leonard H. Dyer of Winter Park.

President Hamilton Holt of Rollins praised the elderly negro woman as one who has "demonstrated that from the humblest beginnings and through the most adverse circumstances" it is possible to rise to "a place of honor and influence."

Mrs. Bethune was born in a cotton picker's shack in South Carolina and rose to become President Emeritus of Bethune-Cookman college at Daytona Beach, Fla., a co-educational school for negroes which she founded 38 years ago and directed for 31 years.

She took part in the academic procession, dressed in academic robes, and received the degree without comment.

Police Seek Clue In Slaying Of Millionaire

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22 (INS)—A Virginia millionaire and philanthropist was found slain today in his New Orleans hotel room and police appealed tonight for public help in solving the crime.

The victim in the mysterious brutal killing was James A. Mahoney, 56, a bachelor, of Bristol, Va., his nude body was found on the blood-soaked bed in his Vieux Carre hotel.

Recalled By Photo Dealer

Police said he had been beaten with a heavy object, possibly a pistol butt, and strangled. A blood-soaked towel had been wound about his throat with brute force that broke the man's neck.

Acting chief of detectives John C. Jackson, admitting police were without a substantial lead, asked the public to give its help if anyone had seen Mahoney since his arrival Sunday.

Only one person—a photo supply dealer who sold him some equipment—recalled seeing the quiet, middleaged man as he planned a solitary vacation in Mexico.

Police developed film in a camera found in the room, hoping for a clue. But the film was blank. The man's friends in Bristol said he had neither kin nor friends in New Orleans.

Mahoney, a large landowner whose family amassed a fortune in the dry goods business, was bludgeoned to death sometime between 1:30 last night and 5:30 a.m. today. He had left a call to be awakened at that time. Hotel employes found his body when he failed to answer the ring.

Former Girl's Counselor At TCU Claimed In Baytown Hospital

BAYTOWN, Feb. 22 (U.P.) — Mrs. Alpha M. Hopkins, former girls counselor at Texas Christian university, died in a hospital here today. She was 63.

A native of Bonham, Mrs. Hopkins received her early education at the old Carlton college there, and later at the school in Fort Worth which eventually became TCU.

She resigned as counselor at TCU three years ago, and since had made her home here with a daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Forrester.

Funeral services will be held here Wednesday, with burial in Clarksville, Thursday.

Jester Calls Fellow Governors' Attention To Tidelands Dispute

AUSTIN, Feb. 22 (AP) — Gov. Beauford H. Jester was written a letter to the new governors of other states calling their attention to the tidelands question.

In the letters, dated Feb. 2 but not released until today, Jester warned that federal claim on the states' tidelands was another step in federal encroachment on states' rights.

"If this trend continues, our governors and state legislatures will become mere housekeepers for absentee owners in Washington," he wrote.

Dewey Backs Down In New York Tax Fight After Solons' Action

ALBANY, Feb. 22 (U.P.)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey backed down today in his fight with insurgent Republican legislators over his proposed $168,200,000 tax increase.

The governor told disgruntled GOP senators and assemblymen it was their "exclusive perogative" to impose new taxes and that he would not insist on approval of his fiscal plan. He added, however, that they would have to find means of cutting his $936,200,000 budget and assume full responsibility if they curtail essential services.

Californian Finds Movie Too Realistic With Added Attraction

SAN PEDRO, Calif. Feb. 22 (AP) — The movie "Snake Pit" was a "bit" too realistic for Earl Cordova.

Just as Olivia De Havilland was being administered an electric shock treatment in an insane asylum scene, a mouse scampered up Cordova's pants leg and bit him.

His scream enhanced the drama, gave the crowd the jitters. Fleeing to a rest room, he obtained first aid. While the carniverous rodent was being chased about the darkened theater, it fled into the rest room and Cordova quit that sanctuary, sans pants.

An attendant finally captured the culprit.

'Rainbow Corner,' GI Hangout In London, Re-Opened By British

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP) Former American troops have a "rainbow Corner" to come back to in London.

The American Red Cross club where millions of American GI's relaxed off-duty, is being re-opened as a British-run glorified milk bar—American style.

American Minister Julius Holmes, a wartime brigadier general on General Eisenhower's staff, unveiled a bronze plaque on the site today. It is dedicated to the 8,000,000 troops who passed through the doors of "Rainbow Corner."

James M. Thornton Assigned To First Cavalry Division In Japan

WITH THE EIGHTH U. S. ARMY IN TOKYO, Japan—Recruit James M. Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Thornton of Lubbock, is now assigned to the First Cavalry division in Tokyo.

A member of the Eighth Engineer squadron, Recruit Thornton is busy with the combat engineer training being conducted at Camp Drake, Tokyo.

Recruit Thornton enlisted in the Army in July of 1948, and was sent to Fort Ord, California, for his basic training. Upon completion of that training he was transferred to Fort Lawton, Washington to await orders assigning him to the Eighth Engineer squadron in Japan.

Jap Reparations Deliveries Small

TOKYO, Feb. 22. (AP)—A survey showed today that only 60 per cent of the planned advance reparations from Japan's arsenals and laboratories have been delivered thus far.

The survey made by Allied headquarters at the request of the Associated Press, showed that deliveries to date have been from selected plants "constituting somewhat less than 30 per cent" of Japan's total arsenals and laboratories.

This was reported by headquarters' reparations section in answer to questions asked by the AP six weeks ago concerning deliveries upon the so-called "30 per cent advance reparations plan."

The economic and scientific section of Allied headquarters reported, meanwhile, that no action of any kind has been taken regarding other types of Japanese industry earmarked for reparations.

The following percentages of Japanese industry "in custody" for possible reparations were listed:

Iron and steel, 40 per cent, light metals, none; sulphuric acid, 15; caustic soda, 60; chlorine, 85; soda ash, 30; textiles, none; machine tool manufacturing facilities, 15 per cent.

Navy Denies Texans' Charge Of Argentine Beef Purchases

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (Special)—The Navy denied today that it had been purchasing Argentine beef, as charged by the Panhandle Feeders association of Canadian, Texas.

The matter had been taken up with the Navy by Senator Tom Connally of Texas.

The Navy said it looked to the Army for purchase of meat in accordance with Munitions Board subsistence policy for purchases of overseas origin. The Army had bought some $1,500,000 of canned corn beef from Brazil in 1948 which it was able to get at 50 cents per pound cheaper than that in the U. S. These purchases were made through Wilson and Company and Armour from their warehouses at Norfolk under the Buy American act. The Army did not buy any fresh or frozen beef of foreign origin, it was reported, nor was any contemplated.

Investigating similar charges against the Army some months ago, Senator Connally's office was then informed that some beef and lamb had been purchased from South America in 1948 when it was reported that meat production in this country would be 10 per cent less than in 1947. Then, the foreign purchases were affected at from 40 to 50 per cent less cost than the same meat could be bought in the U. S.

HAGOODS ESTABLISH LANDMARK

Hale Center Man, Son Operate Unique Museum-Service Station

HALE CENTER, Feb. 22. (Special)—John Hagood, 74, and son Earl of Hale Center hold several distinctions. They have operated a service station on Highway 87 for 24 years, handled the same petroleum product and operated in the same building for that length of time. In addition, theirs is probably the only service station along this route in which a good-sized museum is housed.

In their collection are pistols and guns almost a century old; Indian arrowheads and spearheads from several states; old American coins and bills as well as pieces of money from all over the world. A spinning wheel they have on display has caught the eye of many travelers who have offered large sums of money to buy it. Other old objects on view are a brass powder flask from England, made by G. & J. Hawksley and sons; a corn planter, a side saddle, swords, one of them of Civil war vintage; knives, bayonets and a shotgun from Italy.

Money Is Interesting

Among the old American money they have are $329 in Confederate bills, plus quite a sum in coins. They have giant copper pennies from India and other foreign lands.

The arrowheads and spearheads are from many historical points in the Panhandle, from East Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Among the rare pistols are an 1850 double-barreled dueling pistol of about .41 calibre, which used cap and ball; an 1860 "pepperbox" pistol which has six barrels and was made by Blount & Sims; a Remington - Derringer double-barreled pistol of the type assassins used to slay three presidents of the United States; and a five-shot Remington pistol. They have other old guns and pistols, one of them a Belgian "six-shooter" about 35 years old.

Was Born in Georgia

John Hagood was born in Alpharetta, Ga., near Atlanta, Nov. 17, 1874, and came to Texas at the age of 11 with his parents, who got off the train at Rome. They lived in Garvin, and in 1903 he married Martha Faith in Decatur. They lived in Decatur until 1908 when they moved to a farm near Anadarko, Okla. In 1920 he and his wife came to Hale Center, farming for four or five years near here, then moving to town to allow their children to attend school. Hagood entered the service station business in 1925 and he and his son still operate the concern in its original building. For many years Highway 87 passed the station as an east-west route, but nearly 20 years ago when the important Panhandle road was paved, it came straight through Hale Center on a north-south line and Hagood's station now serves motorists on this route from a different direction.

Economic Index Snarls Debate

By BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Feb. 22—The Senate got lost today in the maze of how a new plan to finance the public school system works, and quit until tomorrow without voting on it.

Senators said they were confused by the "economic index" which is supposed to fix the comparative tax-paying ability of school districts over the state.

While the senators were firing questions at each other and not always getting answers, the House slashed at its short calendar, finally passing these bills:

1. Requiring a license costing $1.65 of nearly every Texan who fishes in fresh water.

Would Boost Pay

2. Raising the salary of the state school superintendent from $6,000 to $10,000 a year. The vote was 105 to 30. This job would be abolished under the pending school reorganization bills.

3. Requiring that the adjutant general have at least five years military service and have at least held the rank of second lieutenant.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester urged the legislature to pass laws to help make Texas a great recreation center. Jester suggested simpler game and fish regulations. He also asked for appointment of a commission to revise the constitution.

Senate debate on the Gilmer-Aikin committee's second public school bill chiefly brought out this fact: Legislators are confused on how the finance plan would operate.

Would Set New Quotas

Debate was on the so-called "minimum foundation" bill by Senator Ottis Lock of Lufkin.

His bill sets up a minimum program of education designed to give Texas children the best opportunity possible to go to school from the first grade through high school, and calls for a new financing plan.

The measure provides teacher-student quotas to insure an average of one teacher for every 26 students in the classroom. It would boost the minimum pay of first year teachers with bachelor degrees from $2,000 to $2,400.

It determines the total local share which all school districts together would contribute—$45,000,000 or one-fourth of the $180,000,000 which Senators James E. Taylor, A. M. Aikins, Jr. and Lock estimate the minimum program will cost the state and districts.

An economic index to be used in figuring how much each school district is able to pay in proportion to other districts, to raise the $45,000,000.

"I'm not being facetious, but would you explain the economic index to me? I'm thoroughly con-

Bodies Of Area Vets Returned

Remains of nine South Plains servicemen who lost their lives during World War II, as well as a number from the Panhandle area, have been returned to this country from the Pacific area aboard the United States Army transport Dalton Victory, according to announcement by the Army department.

A total of 5,806 remains were aboard the transport, of which 296 were returned upon instructions of next of kin residing in Texas. The armed forces dead were originally interred in temporary military cemeteries on Iwo Jima, Tinian, Guam, and Hawaii.

Dead Are Listed

The Army announced that each next of kin was notified in advance of the arrival of the vessel, and would be notified again after arrival of the remains at the regional distribution centers of the American Graves Registration service.

Armed forces dead from the South Plains, with next of kin as listed by the Army, are:

Pfc. Herbert R. Badley, next of kin, John L. Badley, 2205 Twenty-fifth, Lubbock.

Italy's Top Communist Leader Levels Attack On Pope Pius

ROME, Feb. 22. (AP)—Italy's No. 1 Communist, Palmiro Togliatti, Tuesday levelled an attack on Pope Pius XII which may mark an important change in Italian Communist policy.

Togliatti released proof sheets of an article to be published over his signature in the Communist weekly, Vie Nuove, accusing the Pope of seeking a "holy alliance" against Communist nations. Its caption: "God and the Atlantic Pact."

The Communist policy in predominantly Catholic Italy has been to avoid a fight with the Vatican. Observers feel abandonment of that policy would be an admission the Communists have failed to win Italy's masses with promises to improve their way of life.

Togliatti himself in the past has followed the Communist live-and-let-live attitude toward the Vatican.

IN LINE OF DUTY

FORT ORD, Cal., (U.P.) — A reporter and a photographer for the camp newspaper here were so engrossed in covering a story they barely escaped becoming AWOL. They were assigned to the departure of a troop train which pulled out while they were still aboard. After they leaped from the train they had a five-mile walk back to the fort.

Lubbock Residents Visit Taxco Mansion

Mexican Artist And Mother Warmly Welcome Visitors

Fidel Figueroa, the noted Mexican artist who received a cold shoulder in a Lubbock restaurant last October because he was a Mexican, is a more gracious host to visitors from Lubbock.

Bearing witness to that fact is Mrs. Eloise Campbell of 1704 Ave. X, who with her brother-in-law, Tom Duggan, visited in the Figueroa home in Taxco recently.

The mansion "is a place of grace, beauty, charm, attractiveness and atmosphere and Mr. Figueroa was the epitome of graciousness and thoughtfulness," Mrs. Campbell said.

Not Aware Of Connection

She recalled that as the artist was showing them through, she remarked to him: "How I love this charming home."

His simple, and typically Latin reply: "It is yours."

They were escorted by a guide who was an outstanding person himself, Mrs. Campbell said. Mrs. Figueroa, the former Leslie Curtis, an American writer, was away but they met Figueroa's mother,

"His mother held my hands in hers and in Spanish expressed her delight in meeting us," Mrs. Campbell said.

At the time of the visit Mrs. Campbell was not aware that Figueroa was the man who had been refused service in a Lubbock restaurant because he was a Mexican. She avers that if she had known, she very likely would have been too embarrassed to accept an invitation to visit the mansion.

It was only Tuesday morning, after she had returned from the trip, that she realized he was the same man.

An article in The Avalanche-Journal last October relating the incident was widely reprinted, and Mexico City newspapers featured banner headlines and editorials on the incident.

Duggan and Mrs. Campbell made the trip by automobile, visiting Laredo, Monterrey, Mexico City, Valles, Taxco and other points on the 20-day vacation.

TWINS STICK TOGETHER

CHICAGO, (U.P.) — The five-year-old Mayes twins do everything together. Maude and Agnes got appendix attacks almost simultaneously. At the hospital, an examination showed that even the degree of inflamation was almost the same. They were operated on within an hour of each other and were sent home together.

Connally Warns Of Alien Forces

By EARLE MARCKRES
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—Sen. Connally (D-Texas) Tuesday keynoted the nation's observance of George Washington's 217th birth anniversary by warning that "alien and evil forces" threaten American independence.

Connally was the principal speaker in a ceremony at Washington's tomb at Mt. Vernon, Va.

President Truman, who spent the morning putting finishing touches on his Jefferson-Jackson Day speech, which he is to deliver Thursday night, sent a wreath in tribute to Washington.

Wreathe Placed On Tomb

The presidential wreath was placed on the tomb of the father of his country by Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, Mr. Truman's military aide.

Connally spoke beneath heavy skies that doused the nation's capital and the historic Washington shrine with a gloomy, day-long drizzle.

The senator, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, recalled Washington's constant struggle against odds during the revolution. The Texan said:

"Today when our freedom and independence are threatened by alien and evil forces, may Washington's spirit under God give strength and courage to defend and protect them.

"We shall follow his majestic example in war and peace. George Washington. . . be with us yet!"

VFW Head Speaks

Commander - In - Chief Lyall Beggs, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said that if all the world followed the teachings of Washington "the peace for which we are praying and striving would indeed become a blessed reality."

Throughout the nation's capital the occasion of Washington's anniversary was observed in prayer, song and oratory.

The Seante and the House adjourned promptly after hearing the customary reading of Washington's farewell address.

Main ceremony was at Mount Vernon, where military an patriotic organizations stood at attention despite the rain, and bugles shrilled over the Virginia hills.

HST Prepares Speech

The President worked on his speech during the forenoon. Afterward, he walked across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the Blair House, temporary residence of the President and his family while the executive mansion is undergoing repairs.

Mr. Truman told reporters "I hope I won't be disturbed this afternoon."

A nine-division parade moved through the rain-soaked streets of Alexandria, Va., Washington's "home town" before the ceremony at Mount Vernon began.

NOT FLEEING RUSSIA

Soviet Composer's Plans For Visit To U.S. Makes News

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Corresponedent

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—The passing show:

There's something terribly pathetic about the hoopdedoo raised over the expected visit to this country of the Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich.

Aside from his talent, which is considerable, he is held newsworthy today mainly because he has been granted permission to take what in this aerial age is a short trip, and to a country with which his own country has diplomatic relations.

Yet this is hailed as a feat of some proportions, and the routine letterhead committeemen have been lined up, dusted off and made ready to receive him.

Pawn In Power Game

Seems to me that if the world were at least half civilized the chief news that Shostakovich could make would be to write another hit.

Instead, he has become a pitiable pawn.

He was forced to recant not words nor deeds but a melody, because that melody "smelled strongly of the spirit of the modern bourgeois music of Europe and America." That was the judgment of his commissars—perhaps illiterate men. He recanted, either out of fear of prison or the threat to his family, prestige or considerable earning power.

Now he is news because he, who in the enlightened 20th century should be able to go where he pleases, has been okayed as "safe" to travel. Unlike the iron curtain athletes who stayed in London last summer after the Olympic games ended, Shostakovich can be depended upon to return.

That apparently has been attended to in advance.

Hats are being thrown in the air not because an acknowledged master is coming to this country, perhaps to conduct one of his creations, but because the man himself has been permitted to engage in the simple act of travel.

The earth below his plane will not change colors like a map. There will be no discernible boundaries. Yet his passage over this river, that mountain, this ocean, that plain will be a historic trek—for the terribly complex reason that he will not be fleeing in his flight.

New Invention Offered

As a fitting companion piece to the gloom that laces the above, I have at hand a note from a Bronx inventor, superbly named Harold I. Machinist, telling me of an electronic brainchild which he says will purify contaminated air.

He would like to sell it to hotels and tourist camps in countries visited by Americans who come down with what we called, in the China-Burma-India theater, "Delhi Belly." I hope he does. But it has another use, Mr. Machinist points out.

"It would also be a wonderful thing to have if there ever should be a war wherein this country is dusted with germs.

Crank her up, Mac.

New Book Contest

If the muse of Shostakovich has been shackled, its American cousin-wraiths seem pretty active, according to word from father James Keller.

Keller, founder of the Christopher movement and director of its quest for decent new books, tells me that this year's $40,000 worth of prizes the Christophers are offering for winning books and plays attracted 2,451 manuscripts.

All 48 states, U. S. possessions, Canada and more than a dozen foreign countries have provided entrants in the contest "to encourage Christian principles in the writing fields."

The book judges are Myles Connolly, Clare Boothe Luce, Fulton Oursler, Mary O'Hara and Fr. John S. Kennedy. Katherine Cornell, Eddie Dowling, Oscar Hammerstein II, Leo McCarey and Jo Mielziner will judge the plays.

Of the 2,451 manuscripts, 1,102 were produced by women, 483 of whom are married. Among the men represented are 37 priests, 23 Protestant ministers and 17 doctors.

One woman sent in five plays and four novels. Another brought in seven novels. New York produced 340 of the contestants, with California in second place with 295. There were 83 writers from Ohio, 74 from Pennsylvania and 72 from Illinois, followed by 68 from Massachusetts and Texas.

This is believed to be the first time Texas ever finished out of the money in any field of endeavor.

The referee wore a top hat and the players stocking hats when Westerham, England, Football club recently celebrated its diamond anniversary by defeating Sevenoaks, the club it first defeated 60 years ago.

Seeman, Co-Founder Of Hotel Chain, Claimed In Arkansas

LITTLEROCK, Feb. 22 (AP) — William Seeman, one of the founders of the Southwest Hotels, Inc., died at Arkansas Baptist hospital here early today. He was 86.

He had been in ill health for the last three months.

A native of Savannah, Tenn., Seeman began his business career in northwest Arkansas in 1890 when he operated a small general merchandise store.

Until his retirement from business life in 1945, Seeman operated a chain of about 27 retail stores and lumber yards in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

He also was a former vice-president of the First National bank at Fort Smith and partner in the Seeman-East Grocery Co., Greenville, Texas.

Seeman along with the late Grady Manning founded the Southwest hotel chain which now operates hotels in Arkansas, Memphis, Tenn., and Kansas City, Mo.

Lubbock Rotarians Plan Special 44th Anniversary Observance

The Lubbock Rotary club, at weekly luncheon today noon at the Hilton hotel, is to join in a worldwide celebration of the 44th anniversary of Rotary International, it was announced Tuesday by Irving L. Jones, local club president.

The organization, one of the first general civic service and fellowship groups of the kind, was founded by Paul Harris, a Chicago attorney, and has spread throughout the world.

Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of First Methodist church here and a Rotarian, is to make the principal address. Jones anticipated a record attendance by club members and friends.

Stock Show To Be Held At Lamesa

LAMESA, Feb. 22 (Special) — The first annual 4-H club and Future Farmers of America boys' livestock show will be held at the fair grounds here March 5, under the joint sponsorship of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce and the agricultural interests of Dawson county.

Officials of the show include Lee Roy Colgan, who recently came here from Lubbock to succeed T. A. Barfield as Dawson county agent, general superintendent; assistant superintendents Earl Sears and J. W. Reed; Billy Mitchell, calf scramble superintendent, Lynn Alford, superintendent of weights, and Lee Roy Olsak, superintendent of the arena.

Anderson To Be Judge

Judge of the events will be Stanley E. Anderson of the animal husbandry department at Texas Tech.

Members of the agriculture and livestock committee, which are helping to stage the affair, include Jack McLaughlin, E. J. Watkins, F. P. King, George Simpson, Dee Hull, R. A. Noret, Dr. J. M. Harrington and Dr. T. A. Bucy.

Entries are limited to active 4-H club and FFA members in Dawson county or the O'Donnell school district.

Classes to be judged include fat steers, gilts, fat hog, fat sheep and ewes, dairy heifer and dairy cow. Grand champion and reserve champion awards will be made in each division. A number of Lamesa business firms are donating calves for the calf scramble.

All entries must be in place by 10 a. m. the day of the show and remain there until 5 p. m. The gates will open and the judging will begin at 1 p. m. Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded to the first four places in each class or division.

Science Laboratory Worker To Interview Tech Seniors

J. R. Pierce, a Tech graduate, who is connected with the Physical Science laboratory at New Mexico A. & M., will be at Tech Friday to interview graduating seniors in electrical engineering and physics.

Pierce said that his office is doing contract work for the rocket firing unit that is located at the White Sands proving grounds near Alamogordo, N. M. The project is concerned with the development of rockets as instruments of research for the upper atmosphere.

Both married and single men will be considered for positions. All students who can qualify and are interested should drop by the make an appointment for an interview.

Aged Dallas Woman Jumps To Death From Hotel Apartment

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 22, (AP)—An aged woman leaped to her death from the ninth floor of an apartment hotel here today during a thunderstorm.

She was identified as Mrs. Flora Ullman, in her 70s. Her body was found on the terrace near the hotel entrance.

An acquaintance said Mrs. Ullman came here from Cincinnati in 1928, and that she had sisters residing in Cincinnati and Los Angeles.

WORKERS NEEDED!

Chamber Program

EVERY organization becomes the target on occasions for criticisms which amount, in gist, to, "the same old bunch always runs everything." The more active the organization, the more frequently such criticisms are likely to be heard.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce has not escaped this form of disparaging attention. And, to a considerable degree, such comments are true. In most chambers of commerce and in most other organizations, a few people usually do most of the work.

This is neither the fault nor the wish of those who work, nor of the organizations with which they are affiliated. They certainly would welcome additional help. A few usually "run things" simply because they are the ones who manage to find time—although they, as a rule, are among the busiest people in town—for additional effort in behalf of their community and other worthy causes.

AT THE present time, the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is in the process of forming committees to spearhead efforts in behalf of various projects to be included in the 1949 Program of Work, which is being revised. Individual members of the chamber are being asked what projects interest them most and for which they would be willing to work. They are being given the opportunity to help shape the program. They have before them the opportunity and the challenge to have a personal part in striving for achievements which would mean a bigger, better and healthier Lubbock.

The Program of Work, when completed, undoubtedly will include individual projects of vital importance to the community. They pertain to extensions of the City limits, solution of the water problem, better highways, farm to market roads, office building and hotel needs, the City auditorium, coliseum and public library, and many others.

Each of these offers the opportunity for major achievement for Lubbock. Each represents a challenge which will demand hard work by many people. All are possible of realization. But the possibilities of success will depend, in large degree, in each instance upon how much work is done in their behalf and upon who does the working.

EVERY member of the chamber of commerce —and every Lubbock citizen can be a member—has a cordial invitation to participate in the formation of the organization's program and in carrying it out. They have not merely the opportunity, but an urgent invitation, to become one of the "bunch" which "runs things." They practically can choose their own jobs as active chamber members.

Those who have this invitation and fail to accept cannot blame anyone except themselves. Lubbock and the chamber of commerce want and need them.

The welcome mat is out. It is for each individual to decide whether he is willing to devote time and effort to his home town and the territory it serves.

A political radical is the man who would share his money with you—if he had any money.

Men were born to lie says a philosopher. Well, many of them certainly know how to fulfill their mission.

Down Memory Lane

(From files of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche of Feb. 23, 1929.)

George W. Dupree was named general chairman of the annual campaign for funds for the year on behalf of the South Plains Area Council of Boy Scouts, and Tom A. White was re-elected head of the council financial committee. The meeting, held at the chamber of commerce offices, was called by Rev. L. G. H. Williams, council president. Committees were to be named later. Speakers at the session included R. J. Murray, former council president; K. N. Clapp, acting executive; J. T. Trigg, A. B. Davis, James H. Goodman, M. B. Hilburn.

JUST how Carter managed to persuade Susan that it was wise to let Merry have her way, Merry herself never knew. She walked warily, thought twice before she spoke, and kept out of the way as much as she could. Once or twice Susan came to dinner with her eyes slightly pink from tears and her voice trembled when she looked at Merry. But within a week or a little more, she had come around to their way of looking at it, and Merry, with her heart singing, made her plans.

A golden morning late in February, with herself and Andrew in the front seat of her own car and Lizzie beaming like a dusky goddess in the back, found them driving toward Marshallville. Merry drew a deep breath of relief and tried not to remember the look in her mother's eyes as she had stood on the steps of Cielito Lindo and watched them drive away.

"It was the best thing," she told herself, her hands clenching tightly on the wheel. "It's got to be. Having me underfoot all the time just kept making her remember things, and that made Carter jealous. He's crazy about her and she likes him, and they have a right to be alone."

As the miles sped beneath the wheels, the sun came out, lifting the fog and revealing the greening landscape, her spirits rose. She was going home! And that was enough to make her want to sing for joy . . .

THE mellow old house looked forlorn and neglected as they drew up to it in the late afternoon, but Merry jumped out and jingled the keys joyously as she ran to unlock the front door and Lizzie and Andrew, beaming happily, followed her with the luggage.

"It's too cold and damp for us to stay here tonight," Merry decided when they had stowed the luggage in the house and stood looking about the dust-sheet-shrouded furniture, the stripped beds. "You run on over to your son's and spend the night, and I'll go to the hotel, and in the morning we'll get things started."

Lizzie and Andrew exchanged a swift glance and Andrew said, "Yessum. Us drop you off in de mawnin'."

Merry nodded as she turned the key in the lock and went back to the car with them. She was welcomed at the hotel with pleasant warmth and had dinner served in her room, since she was too tired to risk running into any of her friends. She hesitated for a moment with her hand on the telephone, about to call Tip, and then thought better of it. She was tired; and she wouldn't admit that she was a little shy of seeing him again.

She fell asleep almost as soon as she got to bed and slept dreamlessly until almost nine o'clock the next morning. She tumbled out of bed, thrilled by the pleasantly important prospect of an awful lot of work that had to be done that day.

She was having an enormous breakfast in the dining room when a bell-hop came to tell her her car was waiting. She finished and ran out into the warm sunshine where Andrew, his black face split by a white grin, was waiting for her.

"Where's Lizzie?" she asked as she tumbled into the car.

"Dave taken her on to de house, Miss Merry, whilst I pick you up," said Andrew cheerfully.

"Oh, Andrew, isn't it a frabjous morning? Oh, Mrs. Lewes' camellias are out. Aren't they heavenly?"

"Sho' is a fine mawnin', Miss Merry. Ain' no place in de world better'n Marshallville, Miss Merry!" said Andrew, and beamed.

Merry perched on the edge of the seat, sniffing delightedly like an excited puppy at the scents that, to her, made up the real word "home." She had never known until that moment just how terribly homesick she had been.

ANDREW turned in at the gate set in the low brick wall surrounding the old house, and, startled, Merry saw smoke rising from the chimneys; saw two men working on the unkempt lawn, the overgrown shrubbery; all the signs of activity about the place.

"Dave brung Lizzie ove', and a frien' o' his whut ain't workin' come along to fix up de grounds," Andrew explained.

As Merry fished for the keys, the front door swung open and Aunt Jane stood there, with Lizzie right behind her, and both wore smiles that rivalled the golden morning.

Merry flew into Aunt Jane's arms and they wept together and laughed at each other and Lizzie also shamelessly wiped away a tear. Aunt Jane said huskily, "Welcome home, child."

"But how in the world did you get here? And how did you get in?" Merry marvelled when the first transports of delight were over.

"I slipped de lock offen de front do' 'fore me an' Andy taken yo' to de hotel, honey. Den us come back hyeh and work awhile. An' den dis mawnin', us telefoamed Miss Jane an' she got he'se'f a taxi and come right out."

"I came down a couple of days ahead and spent the time with some friends. Lizzie and I thought you'd like having us all here together when you came back home, child," said Aunt Jane gently

"You're all lambs and I love you to pieces," said Merry huskily, and dashed the tears from her eyes childishly with the back of her hand. "I'll run upstairs and get into work-clothes and be right back. Oh, glory, isn't it frantic to be home again?"

"Frantic is probably the word—I wouldn't know," grinned Aunt Jane. "In my day, we'd probably have said 'dee-light-ful,' only it's been so long I wouldn't remember.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

IS THE LADY right?

I shall leave the decision to you.

But before I start quoting from her letter, I want to make two remarks:

BRANDEIS

First I want to ask the typesetters and the editors not to fool around with the lady's grammar or spelling, because both are charming.

Second I want to say that here is one case where I do not resent the criticism of a foreigner, such as those who come here for a few days, hang around our sucker nightclubs and then tell their countrymen at home that we are a nation of nitwits and degenerates.

This young woman is different, as you will see in a moment.

I shall not give her name or address.

She may have neighbors.

You have neighbors, I presume, so you know neighbors.

"Being in this country since Christmas two years ago," she writes, "my home country is or was in western Europe. I came over to marry my husband whom I had met over there while he was still in the Army—a war bride, so to say. Our marriage is a very happy one.

"This to give you a short view what and why I am in this country.

"In today's column you describe in words a feeling, I couldn't get over for most of the time I have been here.

"There is a meanness, an excitment-searching spirit in almost every one and everything I get in touch with.

"Very often I am wondering if people don't realize how happy comfortably they could live in this wonderful country of theirs, without quarreling, biting, scratching as you call it so right in your column.

"WOMEN as well as men are each others devils and most of the time in a very unsignificant way and for just a nonsense, that if they would put aside for only a short moment their artificial behaviour, they would be ashamed of themselves.

"'Excitement' is the leading title for every happening. Why don't they try to get fun and excitement out of a good life?

"And (this very confidentially), why are there so many single living persons in this country? Why don't they search for excitement by building up a home that holds the real excitement of life without asking for?

"Dear Mr. Brandeis this letter is, as I said, a personal outbreak toward someone who understands.

"My husband is not a column writer, he has not yet the judging outlook on life, he has still a lot to learn, but as time goes on the experience grows and accomplishes itself. Nevertheless he is a grand person."

P. S. "Please don't criticize and laugh too hard the funny turns I do in writing English. Sometimes I think my teacher in English was a Comiedirector!!"

No, my dear, I won't laugh because I understand.

SOLONS FEAR COSTS

Pact May Lose Force

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Current politico - diplomatic wrangling over the scope and provisions of the proposed North Atlantic military alliance indicate that it will wind up as nothing more than a futile, psychological gesture in the "cold war" against Russia, despite advance official claims of its effectiveness.

Foreign nations now blame the United States State department for "bungling" negotiations. State's representatives shift the blame to the U. S. Senate, charging that its leaders insist on such "weasel wording" that any treaty would be meaningless.

TUCKER

As a result of their own survey and secret sessions with Secretary Acheson, some legislators declare that the annual cost of rearming Canada, England, Western Europe, South America, and possibly other countries, would be nearer ten billions than the one or two now estimated.

REBEL: Unless there is an outpouring of funds on this scale, they maintain that American arms and equipment would simply fall into Russian hands in event of a conflict, as British weapons fell into Hitler's after the Tommies were driven off the beaches at Dunkirk.

The Senators also rebel at the original proposal that each member of the alliance must go to war if any of them are attacked. They refuse to surrender their constitutional right of passing on this grave question.

Secretary Acheson has tried to meet these objections by revising the language of the program considered at the Brussels conference. This new version permits each signatory to define whether any given attack amounts to "aggression," and to decide whether it would go to war or simply furnish food, raw material and weapons under a sort of Lend-Lease arrangement.

Obviously, such a watered-down pledge would give no assurance to European peoples in the path of a surprise Soviet advance, especially the Scandinavian nations.

PETAIN-MINDED: But it is the Senators' study of European realities which makes them wonder whether even the United States can build a continental barrier against Russia without "going broke" and suffering a domestic collapse.

Even if armed in the manner now proposed—$2,000,000,000 a year—it is doubtful if any Western European coalition, although backed by Anglo-American resources, could prevent Russia from breaking through to the channel within a few weeks—more quickly than Hitler did.

The peoples of the Benelux countries—France, Holland, Belgium and little Luxembourg—are dispirited any weary of war. Their homes and factories are still in ruins, and they are poverty-stricken. Their politicians, except in England, are unwilling to demand the moral and material sacrifices necessary to make them strong again. Their leaders are Petain-minded.

ODDS: From the military standpoint alone, the odds are awesome.

As of today, and despite the pressures of the "cold war," these nations have only six poorly trained and equipped divisions—three French, one Belgion, one Dutch and one British in Germany. We have one division in our German zone, but it is not one of our best.

As against this skeleton force, which is ten times smaller than the opposition Hitler overwhelmed, Moscow can mobilize almost two hundred overnight, with about fifty now in striking positi Her supericrity in p' ..., tanks and armored vehicles matches her supremacy in numbers.

Once having seized these countries, the Soviet forces would live off their "slave" agriculture and industry while they paused to regroup and repair before their next strike.

CONQUEST: Oddly enough, and in the face of these adverse considerations, a majority of the Senators realize the need of such a program, provided it is feasible militarily, financially and diplomatically.

Both Democratic and Republican leaders agree with President Truman, Secretary Acheson, ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman and former Secretary George C. Marshall that it is utterly absurd to rebuild these countries economically, and permit them to become a highly productive part of the menacing soviet state.

Stalin would then be on the highway to world conquest.

ALLIANCE: In view of these difficulties, however, it is generally expected that the outcome will be what Winston Churchill proposed in his famous speech at Fulton, Mo. With President Truman on the platform and seeming to assent, the former Prime Minister asked for a hard-and-fast, offensive-defensive alliance between the United States and Great Britain.

If the Western European nations can be made strong enough to hold off a possible Russian attack for several weeks or months, it would be worth a modest investment, in the opinion of Capitol Hill spokesmen.

But the legislators insist that they do not want to approve any costly pact that, without Senate consent, could get us into another global war over a boundary dispute between Russia and Luxembourg.

Believe It Or Not -- By Robert Ripley

CAUSE FOR HST'S PROGRAM STUDIED

Defense Moves Bring Controls

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The program that President Truman recently submitted to Congress for continued controls of all sorts on prices, credit, wages, and for allocation of still scarce commodities, has provoked outcries that the administration aims at a completely planned and controlled economy.

Republicans have been harshest, which is subject to the usual discount for political attacks. Democrats, with a few exceptions, have been strangely silent, and politics is a factor there. Business, likewise has been critical in public statements and through representatives who have appeared before the joint economic committee in Congress.

The program does call to a degree for a controlled economy in some respects, much more than anyone would like in our country normally, and much more certainly than President Truman, himself, and his advisers, would like or want. To attribute to him motives ascribed in some extreme political attacks is not only unjust, but somewhat silly. He is not that sort of person or President. He has no power complexes, as far as anybody who knows him has found out.

The big mistake is that the criticism goes to effects rather than causes. The real reason for controls, and it is very simple, is the huge military outlay which requires a great quantity of all sorts of production. This is in competition with the requirements for civilian goods. To meet both demands as equitably as possible, it is essential to have controls to provide fair distribution. Because of the shortages that exist still in some lines, which runs up prices under the old law of supply and demand, it is also necessary to have price controls.

An armed economy, as we should have learned by our war experience, can not be a free economy. An armed economy must, from its very nature and its very demands, be a controlled economy. We are, in effect, living in a military state today. It permeates the fabric of our government, our economy, and our thinking.

On top of military requirements are demands for the European recovery program, which itself means commodities of all sorts from our supplies. The latter, however, could be filled without too much strain if it weren't for the extra 15 billions for military needs beyond the five billions for ERP. Both will be continued in the years immediately ahead.

All of this makes for an unbalanced economy that calls for constant watchfulness and regulation.

It does no good, therefore, to call President Truman names. It accomplishes nothing to criticize the controls, which are effects, unless the critic wants to take the responsibility of going behind them. This leads him, first to our foreign policy, which is the tense situation in the world today that has caused every nation that can afford it, and some that can't to maintain an armed camp, even as we are.

Both Sides Arming

When we get back there, we are only dismayed and confounded by man's inability to live with man, and the reliance on all the strange machines we are building today, all of us all over the world, with which to strike at each other, over the ground, over the water, under the water, in the air.

Our foreign policy today has one main objective that is carried out in two ways. There is, first, the European recovery program to build up Western Europe and make it self-supporting so there will be no attraction in Communism to the people there. There is, second, the gathering of allies and arming them so they can be ready if Communism strikes in a military way. Russia is going through exactly the same motions against us and our allies. Each accuses the other of starting it.

Until that impasse is broken, we will continue to have an armed economy and because of that we must have controls. That is a very simple fact of life today to which we might as well get accustomed.

It ought to make us more conscious of the basic problem, which is the armed truce that causes it all, and how to dissolve that.

There's no use of shouting at the cart. We'd better do something about the horse.

JAILING MADE EASY

CHATANOOGA, Tenn., (U.P.) — Detectives A. F. Sells and W. S. Taylor jailed a Chattanooga Negro with a minimum of effort. They arrested John Tatum in a downtown building when they noticed an open window. Tatum was in the city hall. The window led to the policeman's recreation room next door to the jail.

House May Balk At Extension Of Social Security To Agriculture

By SAM FOGG
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Democratic leaders said today that the House will not approve inclusion of farm workers in the administration legislation for a broadened social security.

House Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass.), said he believes the farmers and farm laborers would be left out because of "practical difficulty from a legislative angle."

House Speaker Rayburn, (D-Tex.), is said to have informed President Truman that House members will not accept extension of social security to agriculture.

Solon Takes No Stand

The possibility of still further opposition to certain portions of the two administration bills introduced in the House Monday was also seen in the refusal of Rep. Doughton (D-N. C.), chairman of the House Ways and Means committee, to say whether he would support the legislation.

Doughton emphasized that he had introduced the bills at the request of the President. He said: "I'm not opposed or in favor of them right now. They'll merely serves as the basis for consideration by our committee, which can either approve all, some or none of the proposals."

Committee hearings are scheduled to begin Monday on the bills to extend social security benefits to about 20,000,000 persons not now covered and to establish a broad federal-state aid program for the needy.

In the opposition camp, Rep. Reed (R-N. Y.,) accused the administration of using Congress "merely as a reichstag" in submitting the President's proposed legislation.

Active Duty Offered Reserve Corps Group

The Organized Reserve Corps in Texas has been authorized by the Army to send 12 reserve officers and 12 enlisted reservists to Fort Bragg, N. C., for active duty training with the 82nd Airborne Division beginning March 16 for 60 to 75 days. Maj. James R. Samsel, instructor, Organized Reserve, Lubbock district, announced Tuesday.

Reservists may choose from three types of duty—the umpire group, and overhead group, or the troop duty, staff, or visitor bureau group.

The overhead group is open to enlisted reservists only with no other requirements.

The troop duty, staff, or visitor bureau group is open to reserve officers only.

Reservists must submit applications to the Organized Reserve Instructor's office in the Lubbock county court house not later than Feb. 25.

Last Rites To Be Read Today For Mrs. S. F. Gentry, 75

Last rites for Mrs. S. F. Gentry, 75, a resident of Lubbock 40 years, who died Tuesday morning in her residence at 2524 Walnut street, are to be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence.

L. J. Moyer, minister of the Slaton Church of Christ, and Rev. Ralph McCoy, pastor of the Temple Baptist church here, are to officiate. Interment is to follow in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Mrs. Gentry's husband, who died in 1941, formerly was a contractor here.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. J. E. McClung of Lubbock; three sons, Sam, John and Fred, all of Lubbock; a sister, Mrs. Addie Roberts of Dallas; and nine grandchildren.

To provide more room for needed houses, Limerick, Eire, will add 3,000 acres to the city.

Brief Bits Of Local News

Recruit Ruby J. Miller, son of Adrin O. Miller of 316 Temple Ave., has been assigned to Btry. "C" 71st Armored Field Artillery battalion for eight weeks of basic training with the Fifth Armored "Victory" Division, at Camp Chaffee, Ark. Before entering the Army, Miller was employed by a local laundry.

A county court jury decided Tuesday afternoon that Mrs. Safronia S. Johnston was innocent of a charge of permitting goats "not driven or ridden to go in and remain on public grounds of the state; to wit: Mackenzie State park." The woman, about 60, conducted her own defense.

Edward L. Jones, fireman, USN of Lubbock route 2, recently visited Athens, Greece, and Istanbul, Turkey, while serving aboard the destroyer USS Hawkins with the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean forces. The Hawkins currently is on a world cruise as an escort of the aircraft carrier USS Tarawa.

Fourteen Tech Agriculture students will attend the Amarillo Fat Stock show opening Monday. The trip will be made in preparation for the Intercollegiate Livestock show to be held in Oklahoma City later in the year.

Senate Bogs Down

fused," Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg asked Lock.

"I'll try to explain it," replied Lock.

The index would be based on these factors: assessed county valuations; population; county income as measured by value added by manufacturs, mineral and agricultural products, and payrolls of retail, wholesale and service establishments.

Income and payroll figures are given the heaviest importance in determining the index.

"It seems the central education agency would be constantly besieged by counties claiming economic setbacks," he continued.

Lock said the central education agency—proposed in Taylor's administrative reorganization bill—passed the Senate over strong opposition last week—would not accept figures from just any body and would check such situations.

Unequal Payments Feared

Senator Fred (Red) Harris of Dallas said he was worried about the "big boys" paying more than their share.

"The boys in the forks of the creek are doing their share in proportion to their ability to pay," Senator G. C. Morris of Greenville retorted.

Lock introduced an amendment relating to local school maintenance taxes.

It would make school districts eligible for state aid if they could not raise their share of school costs with a top local maintenance rate of $1 on the $100 valuation.

(The maintenance rate is aside from the 50-cent maximum rate which most districts allow for sinking funds.)

Senator R. A. Weinert of Seguin thought Lock's amendment would result in other counties contributing support to a county unable to raise its share, even after levying the maximum legal maintenance rate of $1.

"No," said Lock. "It (the county) would receive the difference from the minimum foundation fund."

"Where does the money come from for that fund? Don't all counties pay taxes that help build that fund?" asked Weinert.

"Yes," said Lock.

The Senate adjourned by voice vote on the motion of Senator Gus Strauss of Hallettsville, opponent of the Gilmer-Aikin committee's proposal. No vote was taken on the Lock amendment.

Jackson Speaks At Slaton Lions Meet

SLATON, Feb. 22 (Special) — A speech by Dr. Doyle Jackson, professor of education at Texas Tech, highlighted the Slaton Lions club observance of Washington's birthday Tuesday night.

Dr. Jackson's theme "Days In The Sun," dealt with the position of the United States in world affairs since the close of the Spanish-American war.

Tying his topic in with the observance of Washington's birthday, the educator said, "our course was plotted by George Washington and his fellow countrymen in their recognition of the individual. It is the individual's right to invest, save and produce which has kept the United States ahead in the production of food and other commodities."

Tracing the rise and fall of great nations and empires throughout history, Jackson indicated that Christianity and democracy have combined to make the United States great.

He concluded his talk by saying, "the future of the United States in world affairs depends on the disposition of atomic power, either wisely or unwisely."

Max Arrants, president of the club served as master of ceremonies at the joint birthday celebration and ladies night. An estimated 80 persons attended the program.

Vets Land Bill Given Approval

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Feb. 22—The Senate State Affairs committee approved the veterans land bill today after its benefits were limited to disabled veterans.

Opponents of the act indicated they would be satisfied if the bill is amended on the Senate floor to apply to all World War II veterans with disabled veterans given top preference.

A constitutional amendment authorizing a veterans' land board and fund was approved by Texas voters in 1946. The present bill by Senator John J. Bell of Cuero, would allow the board to begin operations.

If approved by the legislature and signed by the governor, the land board could issue up to $25,000,000 in bonds. The board would buy land and resell it to the veterans for a ten per cent down payment and 40 years to pay the balance at four per cent interest. The bill carries a $100,000 direct appropriation.

Bell stressed that the bill would not cause speculation in land at the expense of veterans. A veteran would have to hold the land for three years and have paid 40 per cent of the purchase price before he could sell it, Bell said.

George Berry, of Lubbock, legislative committee member of the American Legion, said the bill should be passed as soon as possible so veterans could get the benefit from it. He pointed out that the constitutional amendment only allowed the land board eight years of operation. After that any land not purchased by veterans could be sold to any person.

State Land Commissioner Bascom Giles said he had about 11,000 letters from veterans interested in buying land under the state program.

Bids To Be Asked On Proposed Paving Of Tech Parking Lots

As soon as specifications can be drawn up, bids will be asked for laying pavement over the Tech parking lots, according to Frank Junnell, assistant to the president.

Junnell said that a black top would be laid to improve the appearance of the lots and to aid drainage from the campus.

James G. Allen, dean of men, George B. Long, superintendent of building and grounds, William T. Gaston, business manager, Lewis Jones, assistant dean of men, and Junnell will serve on a committee to look into the possibility of creating a parking lot west of Sneed Hall, a men's dorm on the campus.

'BABY' LOST

Ventriloquist Fools Oklahoma Police

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 22. (AP)—Sam Gordon, 68, heard the muffled cries of a baby coming from a parked automobile's trunk yesterday.

He called police. Scout car officers J. L. Mullenix and J. C. Jordan rushed to the scene.

A crowd of puzzled spectators had gathered, listening to the cries. Officer Mullenix flew into action. He pried open the trunk and found some tools and a spare tire.

The cries continued. Jordan jimmied a door and a window shattered from the jolt.

A helpful spectator raised the hood and another looked under the car—no baby.

"It looks like somebody is trying to be funny," officer Mullenix said," surveying the crowd suspiciously.

But it wasn't so funny when William O. Eller, 44, got there.

The officers suggested Eller file a claim with the city.

In the meantime, they're out looking for a ventriloquist —one who makes noise like a baby.

Bill To Regulate Jewelry Auctions Is Given Okay

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (AP)—A bill regulating jewelry auctions, described by one jeweler as class legislation, was approved by a House committee this afternoon.

"I know many people who are right smart but go to a jewelry auction sale and get duped," said Rep. George Parkhouse of Dallas, author of the bill.

"People from the east come down to Texas and unload on the unsuspecting."

Parkhouse said that his bill would grant city councils power to pass laws regulating auction sales of jewelry and other allied materials such as bric-a-brac. He emphasized that a city didn't have to pass such laws unless it wanted to.

Only one person appeared in opposition to the bill. He was E. T. Leutwyler, an Austin jeweler who said he had just closed down an auction sale that ran six or seven months and disposed of his entire stock.

"This bill is fostered by big chain stores to legislate the independent merchant out of a chance to do business the way he wants to," Leutwyler declared. "It is unconstitutional because it's a violation of the state's anti-trust laws."

Exams Scheduled For Civil Service Posts

Examinations have been announced by the Civil Service commission to fill jobs in several government departments, including commercial specialist and industrial specialist for assignment in Texas, and for meteorological aid, historian, intelligence specialist, foreign affairs officer, and social science analyst, all located in Washington, D. C., and vicinity, and in possessions and foreign countries.

Commercial specialist jobs pay $2,794 to $7,432 a year, and industrialist posts pay $3,727 to $6,235 a year. Employment would be with various federal agencies in Texas.

Meteorological aid jobs are with the U. S. weather bureau, and salaries range from $2,498 to $3,727. The others are in various federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and vicinity. Educational or experience requirements are set up.

Information and blanks are available at the office of Elmer Potts, local board secretary, room 217, Postoffice building here, or from regional civil service offices.

Officers Hunt Woman Missing Week From Home Near Cleburne

CLEBURNE, Feb. 22 (AP) — Mrs. Frank Edwards, 35, has been missing since last Tuesday from her home in the Rio Vista community near here, authorities disclosed today.

Sheriff Houston Walling and his deputies were searching the woods near the woman's rural home.

Walling said her 73-year-old husband had not reported her disappearance. The sheriff said Edwards told him that she "might be visiting relatives in California" but was unable to give him the names or addresses of any relatives.

Mrs. Edwards, the sheriff said, was the mother of nine children, ranging in age from 18 months to 17 years.
