

On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

The date for the fair has been set for October 10-11. This will give everybody plenty of time to prepare for it.

This year I hope everyone will cooperate by bringing in what they have raised or made so that we may have good exhibits in every department.

This section of the country is in need of a good rain—that one more rain that we look for every year. With a good rain the country would make a wonderful crop, without it some crops may be short.

The American farmer produces $3 out of every $5 worth of raw materials produced in the United States. Prices paid farmers for raw products have decreased by an average of 20% in the past ten years.

Our biography this week will be of our secretary, Ben Clopton. Ben will be a sophomore this school term and a very hard working member of that class. Ben was chosen most studious boy in L. H. S. last year.

Ben participated in the junior farm skill and the poultry judging contest last year. As his major project last year he fed out two fine wool lambs.

We are watching this coming year to see Ben make one of our best secretaries.

Pitfalls of Man Cleo, two thousand years ago, cited six mistakes common to mankind:

THE DELUSION that individual advancement is made by crushing others.

THE TENDENCY to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.

INSISTING that a thing is impossible because we ourselves cannot accomplish it.

REFUSING to set aside trivial preferences.

NEGLECTING development and refinement of mind, and not acquiring the habit of reading and study.

Fear no man, hate no man, wish no one misfortune, and more than likely you will have plenty of friends.

1959 CONSERVATION RESERVE PLANS DEVELOP

Plans for opening the sign-up under the Soil Bank's 1959 Conservation Reserve Program are continuing to take shape. A. L. Young, Chairman, County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation, said recently. State ASC and other interested Department of Agriculture field personnel in this area met in Oklahoma City on August 4, 5 and 6, in one of a series of regional meetings to acquaint workers with details of the 1959 program. Groundwork will be laid for making the program available to farmers through County ASC offices.

While the Conservation Reserve Program for 1959 will contain major changes in certain details, the method of program operation will be about the same as in previous years. Farmers will contract with the Department to reduce their acreage of harvested crops for a period of up to 10 years and to devote this acreage to approved conservation practices. In return, the Government will make an annual rental payment to the farmer for the period of the contract and will share the cost of establishing the conservation practices.

School Grounds Once Bare Now Flourish With Trees And Grass

The "rocky schoolhouse hill" without any vegetation is now past history. Have you driven by the school in the past few weeks and noticed the trees and grass which adds so much to the school house setting. The trees and grass were planted in the spring and seemingly have not noticed that no rain has come but have grown and completely changed the looks of things up there.

A few times in the past the P. T. A. or other groups have made attempts to beautify the school grounds but because of drought and lack of care the grounds were still bare until last spring when Mr. Holt and his group of agriculture boys planted more than 20 Chinese elm trees.

front of the building and between the trees and the building now grows a beautiful area of bermuda grass with canna growing on either side of the east walks. Later an area on the west side of the north wing trees were planted and the area between the trees and the building sodded with grass and now that side has caught up with the east side in beauty. Maintenance men have kept the new plantings watered and if you haven't seen the change drive by and I'm sure you will appreciate the new look too.

City Of Loraine Offers A Bargain To Those Owing Delinquent Tax

The City Council of Loraine has been informed by the city attorney that a considerable amount of taxes owed to the city has become delinquent.

Some property owners have failed to pay their city tax for a number of years. The delinquent taxes are drawing interest and a penalty has been added to the cost. The penalty on delinquent taxes ranges from 11% to 62%, depending on the number of years it has been delinquent.

The City Council came to the conclusion that most people who have not paid their taxes have not been financially able to pay them during the long dry years and for other causes so the council has made it easier for them to catch up on their tax payment.

The council is making an offer to all delinquent taxpayers to make a saving during the 3-month period of September, October and November, 1958 to pay their delinquent taxes with only 10% penalty added, it makes no difference how far back you owe for.

The city sorely needs the revenue to be derived from the collection of the delinquent taxes and the council has made the above offer in the hopes of collecting the delinquent taxes.

In case, however, at the end of the 3-month period, no effort has been made on the part of the taxpayers to clear up their part of the taxes the delinquent tax roll may be turned over to an attorney for collection.

MILK-SANDWICH IS NOVEL FOOD IDEA

A glass of milk and sandwiches are hardly a new idea. But, when the sandwiches actually contain a glass of milk, that is new!

The MILK-SANDWICH is a new food idea which combines favorite sandwich fillings and New Pet Instant Nonfat Dry Milk. Two MILK-SANDWICHES are the equivalent to an 8-oz. glass of milk with all of the B vitamins, calcium, phosphorus and protein of fresh pasteurized milk. With less than 1 per cent fat in New Pet Instant the MILK SANDWICH is welcome news to weight-watchers who still need milk in their diets.

Sandwiches, when combined with milk, make for quick and nourishing lunches or handy TV snack suppers which all the family will enjoy.

The addition of nonfat dry milk to fillings does not change either flavor or texture of the sandwiches.

The following suggestions are for two sandwiches. Quantities may be increased to meet family requirements.

PEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY
Mix together gradually, until smooth, 2 Tbsps. of jelly (apple, plum, etc.) and 1/2 cup Pet Instant (in dry form). Stir in 1/4 cup peanut butter until well blended.

PEANUT BUTTER & HONEY
Mix 4 Tbsps. Honey and 1/2 cup Pet Instant (in dry form) until smooth. Stir in 2 Tbsps. peanut butter until well blended.

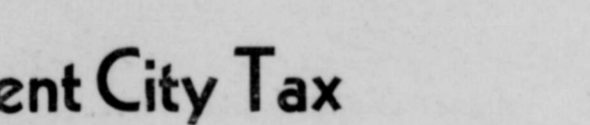

CHEESE
Mix together 1/4 cup cheese spread (olive, pimento, bacon-cheese, etc.) and 1/2 cup Pet Instant (in dry form).

CHICKEN SALAD
Have salad prepared (ham, tuna, egg, etc., may be substituted). Stir in 1/2 cup Pet Instant (in dry form) gradually until well blended.

DEVILED HAM
Mix 2 1/2 oz. can of deviled ham spread and 1/2 cup Pet Instant (in dry form) gradually until well blended.

MILK-SANDWICH CONQUERS "MILK-REBEL"

The MILK-SANDWICH is the ideal way to add extra milk to the diets of youngsters and teenagers, too. If you have a "milk rebel" in the family he won't even know there's milk in his sandwich—and if he likes milk, he'll be intrigued with a MILK-SANDWICH.

We are now entering the dog days of the summer season. It is that time in August when dogs go mad, snakes go blind and it is as hot as the proverbial hinges without a breeze.

Mid-August perhaps offers less for the outdoorsman than almost any other time of the year, particularly in Texas. It's a pretty good time to slow down. The weather is hot, you can get mad in a hurry, which is bad for the heart; and fish are not biting too good anyway. When you go out, make it in the cool of the morning or late in the evening. This time can be delightful, and some fish will be hitting, too. But in the middle of the day, take it easy. Don't over exert yourself. Sit under the air conditioner and read a good outdoors book, or clean out your tackle box.

It might also be a good time to check your gun and the ammunition supply left over from last year. Come Sept. 1, and dove season will be open. From then on we'll be thinking more about hunting than fishing, and things will change from week to week.

Seems funny, but it is just such a short time until summer will be over. Perhaps you'd already noticed it, but the days are getting shorter. It started that way June 21. We are losing a little sunlight each day.

Speaking of hunting, if you are planning to buy a gun this is a good time to do it. There are some new ones on the market this year. There won't be too large a stock of these new ones for this season, but there are plenty of the old standbys.

Only entirely new shot gun we've seen listed for this year is that new 410 gauge Noble repeater. This company has been making a 12 gauge for several years, but now it has entered the 410 gauge field with a new gun that will take the eye of young shooters.

We've needed such a gun for a long time. There are several reasonably priced single barrel and bolt action 410's on the market. There also is the Winchester pump and the Remington automatic, each shooting the 410 gauge, with both the long and short shells.

You might also start cultivating some landowners. They are the key to the whole hunting situation. You will need their permission to hunt on their property. In some instances they will permit dove shooting without charge. Others will ask lease money.

And it is not a bit too early to be looking for deer leases, too. Every indication points to a good deer crop. From the Trans-Pecos area comes the word that there will be a bumper antelope crop.

Yep, it is August, but the hunting season is just around the corner.

New Book on Hunting
If you are looking for something to read these hot days, you might be interested in Clyde Ormond's new book, "Hunting Medium Size Game." It is a recent Stackpole book. It is written by a man who knows, and is published by one of the greatest outdoors publishing houses. You've no doubt read and enjoyed many of Ormond's stories in outdoors magazines.

He writes mostly of his own northwest country, where he has hunted deer, elk, bear and sheep. In fact, he has bagged every type of big game on the North American continent.

Ormond describes his first hunt, in which he did everything wrong, and still killed a buck. You'll find it entertaining reading, and very helpful whether you've ever killed a buck or not. Eating Outdoors is Fun—Eating outdoors has become a big craze. Notice how all the recent magazines have come out with recipes on how to cook outdoors, and enjoy it? Some people are just finding out that food can be prepared in other ways than in a fry pan or in the oven of a conventional stove. Most of these recipes call for complicated methods of preparing outdoors food. They are to suit the palate of those who have developed their taste buds for highly seasoned food, usually washed down by a mug of suds.

We still like the old fashioned way, however, of cooking a good steak over hot coals, with nothing but a little salt and pepper, a few sliced tomatoes and perhaps a pot of frijoles cooked for several hours with a piece of sow belly.

These fancy barbecuers and their delicious. Just call me when built in arrangements are fine for company. We have one. But when it comes to real outdoors eating, how about burning some cedar or mesquite chunks to charcoal? Let these coals get white hot. Now toss on a thick sirloin and let it sear on each side good. Then move it a little farther away from the fire until it has cooked just enough to keep it from jumping off the plate. Sprinkle a little salt and pepper over it, and then try to stop eating.

This cow camp method of cooking is pretty hard to beat. Incidentally, have you ever tried broiling fish over coals? You can cook it best with one of those wire grates that can be turned easily. Take a pretty good size bass and slice it along the backbone. Hold it over the coals and turn it frequently so that it will cook evenly on both sides without burning. With salt and pepper, a few sliced tomatoes and a chunk of bread, it's delicious.

MAX CARRIKER: FATHER AND TEACHER

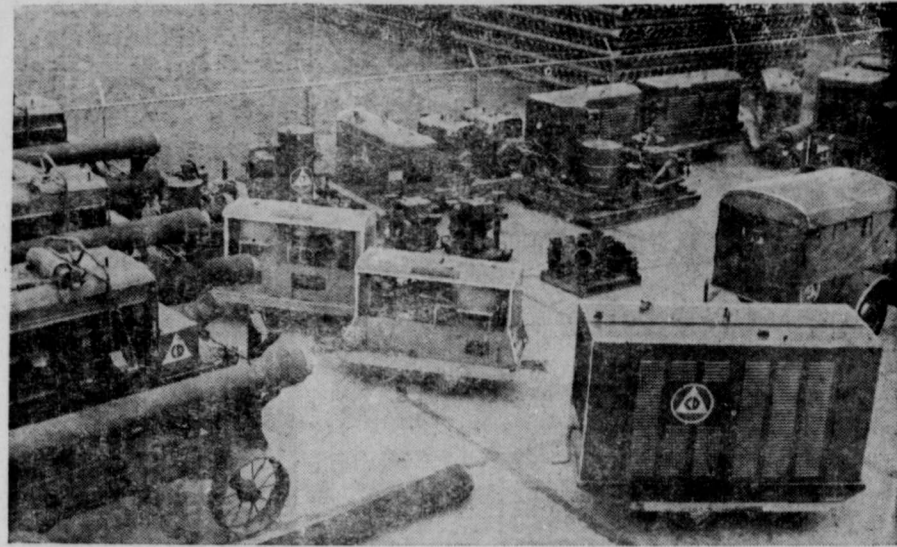

Besides being the breadwinner for his children, a present-day father has got to provide instruction, companionship and example to help his youngsters grow up with the right perspective for living. Max Carriker believes this, and he practices what he preaches by taking his two sons Stevie and Stuart with him into the fields of the farm where the Max Carriker family has always lived. The qualities of a successful father are the same qualities men seek when they want a man of trust, honesty, maturity and judgment. That's the kind of man you will be voting for when you cast your vote August 23 for
