Fliers Not Fatigued After Fighting Fog And Storms Across Atlantic; Spain Celebrates Arrival

(By Associated Press)

SANTANDER, Spain, July 9 (AP)—Roger Q. Williams and Captain Lewis Yancey, forced down today after a trans-Atlantic air voyage of 5,000 miles from Old Orchard, Maine, slept on the laurels here tonight before completing their flight to Rome tomorrow in their airplane Pathfinder.

Lack of gasoline forced them down as night was falling over the northern Spanish coast not far from the very spot where the French comrades of the Yellow Bird had landed.

They did not seem fatigued when the Associated Press correspondent found them drinking a glass of whiskey with Governor General Basquet.

Williams and Yancey said they had realized a few hours after leaving Old Orchard that they could not reach home because of head winds. During their flight since they left Old Orchard at 7:49 a. m. (E. S. T.) yesterday they had to weather one storm and flew above heavy fogs.

Their gasoline supply of 500 gallons was exhausted by the unfor-

Co-Pilot Of Famous Plane "Fort Worth" To Remain Here Several Days In Interest Of Aviation

Flying a J-6 Travelair T. A. T. monoplane, Jim Kelley, famous co-pilot of the endurance ship "Fort Worth," first plane to break the record set by the army plane "Question Mark," brought his ship to a landing in Lubbock at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. With him as passengers Kelley carried his young wife and E. F. Moseley, connected with the traffic department of the T. A. T.

Soon after landing Kelley was informed that the California entry "Angeleno" in the try for honors of endurance had broken the record set by the Ohioans last week and were still up.

"I am very glad to hear that they are still in the air," he said. "Any fellow that stays off the ground continuously for over 100 hours certainly deserves to break a record and I wish the California fliers all the luck in the world."

Replying to a question asked him by a reporter as to whether he would again try for a record, Mr. Kelley said: "Just at this time I have no intentions whatsoever of trying to better any record set. Later, however, when some of the enthusiasm, that seems to have a firm grasp over the country for endur-

Another Hop Made By "Untin" Bowler

CHICAGO, July 9. (AP) — Berlin bound through fog and wind, the "Untin" Bowler landed safely today at Port Burwell on Cape Chidley, nearly a week after leaving Chicago. On its next hop the plane will fly from Port Burwell to Greenland, making its first flight over water.

A message from the aviation editor of the Chicago Tribune, financing the flight in the hope of blazing a commercial air route over the top of the world to Europe, today was the first received here since the plane landed at Great Whale.

"Arrived Port Burwell 6:10 a. m Tuesday," said the message signed by Robert Wood. "Battled fog last two days. Were down 40 miles south of here waiting weather."

Official confirmation that the "Untin" Bowler had arrived at Port Burwell was contained in a wireless message which reached Ottawa tonight.

Note Dropped Says Single Motored Plane To Stay Up As Long As Engine Will Hold Together

(By Associated Press)

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 9—Having set a new world's record in endurance flying for planes refueled in the air this afternoon the single motored biplane "Angeleno" tonight was being pushed onward to greater laurels by its pilots, L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart. At 7:29:30 p. m., the fliers completed 180 hours in the air, and a few minutes afterward took on 100 gallons of gasoline, an all night supply.

Mendell and Reinhart set a new world's endurance flight record here today with their biplane "Angeleno". At 2:30:29 p. m. they bettered by one hour the record of 174 hours and 59 seconds established Saturday at Cleveland, Ohio, by Roy L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb.

Apparently not satisfied the plane was refueled and continued to fly into the night with the men in excellent spirits and the plane apparently in good condition. They had planned to fly at least 200 hours until they were forced down.

When the record was beaten the men flew low over the airfield and

Motorcycle Cop Seriously Hurt

C. E. Luce Is Thrown From Machine While Chasing Car Here Last Night; Is Knocked Unconscious

While chasing an automobile on Texas Avenue at about 11:30 o'clock last night, Clarence E. Luce, motorcycle officer of the Lubbock police department, hit a rough place in the pavement and was thrown from his machine, receiving serious injuries.

Luce was unconscious when taken to the Lubbock sanitarium in a Bynum Brothers ambulance, and had not regained complete consciousness at an early hour this morning. His injuries consisted of a severe cut on the forehead and numerous bruises and lacerations about the legs and body.

Details of the accident were meagre. It occurred in the 1500 block on Texas near the home of C. E. Hunt who placed the call for an ambulance.

Hospital attaches reported that the injuries are not expected to prove critical.

ROTARIANS RETURN

J. J. Clements, president of the Lubbock Rotary club, Sam T. Davis, secretary, with Mrs. Davis and their daughter, Molly, have returned from Sweetwater, where they attended the two days' session of the conference of executives for the 41st district of Rotary clubs.

Accompanying them back to Lubbock was R. B. Davis and Glen Harris, of the Brownfield Rotary club.

1929 Acreage Of Cotton In Texas Shows Increase

Two Per Cent Larger Crop Now Standing Than At This Time Last Year, U. S. Report Reveals

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 9. — Texas' 1929 cotton acreage was estimated at 18,697,000 acres in the July report of H. H. Schultz of the division of crop and livestock estimates, U. S. department of agriculture, released today. This figure was two per cent larger than the crop planted and standing one year ago.

Extreme conditions during the spring affected cotton, the resume said. March and April were warmer than normal and May temperatures were below the average. Rainfall was the heaviest in 40 years, and amount of moisture being greater than at any time except 1914.

Rain Affects Grain.

"While the lack of rain did not affect early cotton, it was felt by the large replanted acreage and that recently out of grass," Schultz said. "Corn, grain, sorghum and other crops also were affected. More cotton than in many years was abandoned this spring due to excessive rains and floods in May and much replanting was done. As a consequence a large percentage of the crop is late."

Favorable conditions from now on will help overcome this handicap, the report said.

Weevils Active.

Particularly near timer, weevils have been more active than usual. Last year Texas' yield was reduced fully 12 per cent by the pest, according to the crop report, and in the United States as a whole 14 per cent.

"The cotton hopper has been harmful this spring, 40 counties being affected," the report said. "Grass hoppers are numerous in scattered localities and many planters are applying poison by airplane, machine or hand in an effort to save the results of their labor and investment."

East Is Swept By Blanket Of Heat

NEW YORK, July 9. — (AP) — A wide and sticky blanket of heat continued for the third day today to make the eastern seaboard swelter.

The mercury in new York registered 88 at 4 p. m., one degree cooler than yesterday at the same hour. Ten deaths and more than a score of prostrations have been recorded in the Metropolitan area in the last three days.

In Washington, where it was 97 yesterday, Baltimore, where it was 93, and Philadelphia, where it was [illegible] there was no relief today.

From Holyoke, Mass., came a report that the Connecticut river was so low that, unless there was rain soon, the mills would have to close for lack of water power.

Relief for the whole eastern seaboard is promised, but not before late tomorrow.

Attempt To Reach Compromise Fails In Strikers' Riot

Company, Armed With Federal Injunction Refuses Demands Of Union; City Officials Seek Agreement

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, July 9 — The street car strike situation quiescent, city officials, civic leaders and government conciliators sought vainly today to find compromise ground for negotiations between the union and the company.

Both sides were obdurate, the New Orleans Public Service Inc., armed with a federal injunction against the strikers, breaking off relations with the union and declaring an open shop policy; union officials declaring the men will not return to work until the union is recognized.

Others May Strike

Further complication was seen in a meeting tonight of other unions in the city to consider a proposal for a general sympathetic strike, which would bring thousands of workers out and disrupt the life of the city.

On receipt of the injunction restraining the strikers from further violence against street car operation and property, the United States marshal swore in two hundred and

Rotary And Kiwanis Club Members Attend Closing Exercises Of 1st Period Of Annual Summer Camp

A number of representatives from the Lubbock Kiwanis and Rotary clubs motored to Post Tuesday evening to attend exercises at the closing of the first period of the 1929 camp being held by the South Plains Area council, Boy Scouts of America.

The visitors were entertained with a barbecue, which the Scouts had prepared, a number of games, singing stunts, contests, and the court of honor. This last part of the program was held around a large bon-fire, with the Scouts and spectators huddled in a circle, Indian fashion.

Visitors Listed

Among the Lubbock visitors were J. J. Clements, Sam T. Davis, J. F. Hankin, C. E. May, J. T. Trigg, J. L. Dow, Rev. W. R. White, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Meyers and children, C. J. junior and Beverly Jean, Mrs. Sam T. Davis and daughter, Molly, and Dr. V. V. Clark.

Dr. Clark, who is a major in the United States reserves, made the trip for the purpose of inspecting the camp. He gave it a grade of excellent. Everything in the camp is running smoothly, according to Rev. L. G. H. Williams, president of the council; K. N. Clapp, scout commissioner and H. B. Yates, scout executive. There has not been a single case of discipline, and every detail has been worked out to perfection.

Twenty Ships Rush Toward Scene Of Collision

(By Associated Press)

PEMBROKE, Wales, July 9—Navy experts and divers tonight entertained only the slenderest hope of saving any of the 21 men aboard the submarine H-47, which sank twenty miles west of Fishguard today after a collision with the submarine L-12 during surface maneuvers with 18 other submarines. The flotilla was en route from Lampash to Portsmouth naval station.

Twenty ships of the British navy rushed tonight to the rescue of the H-47, lying 270 feet below the surface of St. George's channel. Salvage operations with Pembroke docks as their base will begin as soon as the vessels arrive.

Casualties Are 24

The total casualties of the collision reached 24 tonight with the death of Arthur Sampson, injured seaman of the L-12. Chief signaller, Bull, of the L-12, reported missing, is believed dead.

The submarine L-12 limped into Pembroke tonight. She apparently was only slightly damaged.

Only two members of the crew of 23 of the H-47 were saved. Lieutenant R. J. Gardner, commanding officer, and Telegraphist Sidney Cleburne were believed to have been hurled into the seas from the conning tower by the collision.

Was Second Collision

At the time of the disaster the H-47 was serving as a training ship and the composition of her crew was subject to continual change. This was her second collision. In 1926 she collided with the L-22 in the English channel, but the damage was slight and no lives were lost.

The admiralty tonight revised its list of casualties in the submarine collision to 24, as follows:

Lieutenant Bickmore, two sub officers, two telegraphists, and 10 artificers, seamen and stokers who sank with the H-47 were listed officially as "missing." A sub-officer and a signal man of the L-12 died tonight of injuries.

LONDON, July 9—(AP)—Two British submarines collided today in St. George's Channel, off Fishguard, sending the H-47 to the bottom with a loss of all but two of her crew of 23, damaging the L-12 and killing one member of her crew.

New Money To Be Received Today

Lubbock banks will receive the first shipment of the new United States currency and Federal Reserve Bank notes today, according to an announcement made yesterday.

The redemption plan will be used in the process of putting the new currency into circulation which will necessarily slow things to a certain degree, bankers explain. The currency will not be placed into circulation until the old is redeemed after the bills are too aged for further use.

The supply of old currency will be exhausted before the new is placed into general use.

An outstanding feature of the new note is its durability. The bills can be folded approximately 1,500 times, while the old currency could be folded no more than 500 or 600 times.

Exact Count Of Election Gives Project 497 To 69 Lead; Board Is Pleased With Results Of Vote

SMOTHERING all opposition under a top-heavy total of votes, adherents of the proposed $650,000 bond issue Tuesday swept the polls to score more than a 7-to-1 count in carrying the election.

The exact count as given out by judges 15 minutes after the polls had closed at 7 o'clock stood at 497 for and only 69 against. Two of the ballots were thrown out because of mutilation. Five hundred sixty-eight voters were numbered at the polls recording one of the lightest votes ever cast in a city election in Lubbock.

Voting Late.

The polls opened at 8 o'clock and up to noon barely 100 had been cast while in mid-afternoon only 175 citizens had visited the box. The bulk of the voting came after 2 o'clock, about 400 votes being cast in the last three hours.

When informed of the fact that the election had been carried, A. C. Jackson, secretary of the board of the Lubbock Independent School district, stated: "The vote was very gratifying and you can rest assured that arrangements will be push-

Identity Of Ones Connected With Smuggling Opium Into United States Expected To Be Revealed

(By Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—Voluminous correspondence in the Chinese language which federal officials believed might reveal the identities of those persons for whom Mrs. Ying Kao, wife of the Chinese vice consul here, brought 2,299 tins of opium into the United States was found by customs inspectors late today in Mrs. Kao's luggage.

The opium, valued at approximately $1,000,000, was secreted in seven trunks and four suitcases brought in by Mrs. Kao last week on her return from a visit to China. When it was found, she said friends had asked her to include the trunks with her baggage and insisted she had not known of the presence of the contraband.

Mastodon Teeth, Measuring Twelve Inches Long Found In Canyon Near Scout Encampment At Post

TWO TEETH, each measuring from about 12 to 14 inches in length, six inches wide and perhaps five inches in thickness, and a thigh bone the size of a man, were found in a deep canyon about a fourth of a mile from the Boy Scouts camp, near Post, Tuesday, by J. R. Mitchell, Scout Master and the Levelland troop of scouts.

The fossil discovered is supposedly a Mastodon. The mammoth teeth were taken, after some excavation had been done, but digging was stopped around the thigh bone because of fear that this might be injured by inexperienced excavators.

In addition to these unique discoveries, two buffalo heads were found, one in an excellent state of preservation. These were found by Mike Crenshaw and "Possom" Blackwell, Lubbock scouts, and by Stanley Gunn and "Shorty" Grinder, of this city. These scouts all are members of troop number 4.

According to K. N. Clapp, scout commissioner, experts will be called to the scene of the fossil discovery and careful excavating will be done in an effort to get the remaining bones out in good shape.

First Found.

This is the first fossil bones ever to have been discovered in the vicinity of Post and searching parties will no doubt be occupied in endeavoring to uncover more of them.

Another unusual incident to life at the camp was the killing of a four-foot rattlesnake by members of troop number seven. This was found a good distance from the camp site and is the first rattler to show itself near the camp this year. A number of tarantulas have been caught on the grounds and placed in a glass container. These, the scout commissioner states, are harmless and to prove it he picks them up in his hand to show them.

Roumania Defeats Agitator Plot To Overthrow Nation

Peasant Government Headed By Premier Juliu Maniu Entrenched More Firmly Than Ever

VIENNA, July 9. (AP)—The peasant government of Rumania, headed by Juliu Maniu, premier, appeared today to have weathered successfully a projected military coup d'etat, and to be entrenched more firmly than ever at Bucharest.

As a result of strict censorship the only direct advices obtainable, were contained in an official government communique, which said:

"Some civil agitators, known for a long time to the authorities as men without scruple or worth, organised a ridiculous plot against the form of the state, without causing the least disorder.

Workmen Join Plotters.

"The head conspirator is former Colonel August Stoja. They could achieve nothing except the adhesion of two officers, Captain Cambra and Lieutenant Georgescu. Some factory workmen also joined the plotters. All are arrested.

"Investigations are being continued. All sensational reports of disorders are without foundation and perfect quiet reigns in the country. Order is secured in all particulars and the army is as ever at its post."

Reports Disquieting.

Other reports, notably those received from travelers arriving here from the Rumanian capital were more disquieting but even they indicated the government had the situation well in hand.

The version of the affair generally accepted here was that a well bolstered plot existed to overthrow the Maniu government, reinstating the liberal regime which it ousted, or a military dictatorship.

On Saturday night the authorities arrested General Brosteanu, commander of one of the frontier armies, and about 40 others, including a number of civilian officials who were said to have handed arms and ammunition to the rebels from the arsenal.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 9. (AP) There was absolute quiet throughout Rumania today while the authorities continued investigations into a plot against the government foiled by the arrest of several army officers.

Reports were current here the government was put on the scent of plot Saturday night when two officers who attended a secret meeting of the military conspirators left under plausible pretexts and went straight to the minister of war. They divulged the plot and thus enabled the government to watch the movements of the conspirators.

Oil Production Shows Increase

Output Of All Fields In United States Boosted For Week Ending July 6, Oil Journal Shows

TULSA, Okla., July 9. (AP)—Light crude oil production in virtually all fields of the United States continued to increase during the week ending July 6, to result in a total estimated increase in the daily average production of approximately 29,117 barrels as compared to the estimates for the week ending June 29, according to the Oil and Gas Journal here.

Heavy oil, on the contrary, decreased approximately 6,169 barrels from the estimated daily average for the week ending June 29, making the estimated daily average production increase for both heavy and light oils but 22,946 barrels over that of the preceding week.

Estimated daily production for the week ending July 6, was 2,851,168 barrels, as compared to 2,828,222 barrels for the week ending June 29.

Seminole Field Increases

Greater Seminole area contributed 10,075 barrels to the 19,735 light oil increase registered in Oklahoma fields. Yates field boosted West Texas production more than 5,000 barrels and total mid-continent production light increased 20,551 barrels. Heavy oil decreased 740 barrels in this major area.

Light oil in the eastern and Rocky Mountain areas remained constant while heavy oil in these areas decreased slightly.

Santa Fe Springs area in California, deep drilling fields, continued on the increase with approximately 13,000 barrels registered. A 5,000 barrel drop in other fields held the total increase for this area to the 8,000 barrel mark. Heavy oil was constant.

Kansas production was 122,210 as compared with 121,735 for the previous week.

Aged Barber Shop Glories In Half Century Of Famous Scrapings

DAVENPORT, Iowa, July 9. (AP)—Sebastian Herd's barber shop, which he opened here early in the cast-iron deer and varnished mustache era, has passed its fifty-fifth milestone.

It's fame has gone far and in its years—all in the same location—nearly every one of importance except Mother India has been shaved there. And who knows about that, now that its doors are opened to women?

Actors, prize fighters, a president, an admiral or so, and Gen. Tom Thumb, famous midget, all have been tonsored there.

Whims of many of its celebrated customers are recalled by Fred Herd, son of the founder, and present proprietor.

"Now there was Buffalo Bill," recalls Herd. "He was a great sport, was Colonel Cody, with his long hair. He always came here in the fall with his Indians and cowboys to start their theater tour."

Actors touring the midwest, demanded careful grooming. To the shop came Joseph Jefferson, John Drew, James K. Hackett, Maurice Barrymore, Frank Mayo, William Faversham and the Salvinis, Italian tragedians.

Booth and Barrett were there—Booth was very reticent while Barrett was "loquacious and demanded a close shave before every performance." Herman, the magician, wore a mustache and an imperial and was "fastidious and fascinating."

"Bob Fitzsimmons always drew a crowd at the shop windows, as did 'Gentleman Jim' Corbett," said Herd.

"Corbett has the longest face and neck of any man I've ever shaved."

John L. Sullivan was there many times, as was Paddy Ryan. Woodrow Wilson, during his first campaign, and William Jennings Bryan, were patrons. Bourke Cochrane of Tammany Hall and Admiral 'Fightin' Bob' Evans were others.

"We're just getting used to women," says Herd. "In the old days father had to go outside and bring the youngsters in because their mothers wouldn't come in the shop."

Moody Advocates Nine Members In Judicial System

Adoption Of Amendment to Constitution Increasing Membership From Three To Nine Is Asked

ROUND ROCK, July 9. (AP)—Adoption of an amendment to the constitution increasing membership of the supreme court from three to nine was advocated as a step to strengthen materially Texas' judicial system in an address by Governor Moody here today. The governor's appearance was in connection with the annual reunion of Williamson county residents.

The proposed amendment, together with another increasing the governor's salary from $4,000 to $10,000 annually, will be balloted on at an election set for July 16.

The governor asserted adoption of the amendment would not be a political victory for himself and its rejection would not be a political defeat.

"I advocated submission of this amendment and I now advocate its adoption, because conditions are such that the welfare of the state and the speedy disposition of litigation demands a supreme court of nine judges," he said.

Abilene Exhibit Hall Is Underway

Construction Started On New Structure For West Texas Fair; Building To Cost Over $20,000

(Special To The Avalanche)

ABILENE, July 9. — Construction has been started on a new exhibit hall for the West Texas fair in this city, which when completed will be worth over $20,000. The new structure will be called the Fine Arts building and will be of fireproof material.

Ground space of 60x120 feet will be covered by the new building. It will house the women's departments, the art and textile displays and other fair features and will be finished and ready for use during the annual fall exposition to be held here during the week of September 23 to 28.

Two Stories High.

Height of the new structure will be equal to that of an ordinary two story building. It will have a mezzanine floor 20 feet wide on all four sides. The wall will be of brick and the floor and roof of concrete slabs. All window and door frames will be of steel as will be the roof joists.

Officials of the fair association say the new building will be one of the most imposing and substantial exhibit halls in the southwest. It will be erected under direction of a committee composed of W. J. Pulwiler, W. A. Minter, W. S. James and T. C. Campbell, president of the fair association.

Light colored face-brick will be used for the outside walls and a Spanish style of architecture will be followed.

Third Man Sought In El Paso Death

EL PASO, July 9. (AP) — A third man, suspected of complicity in the murder of Robert Wilmore, 63, beaten to death in his borderland inn, near here, was sought today after murder charges had been lodged against H. L. Hendricks, 29, and Rex L. Stone, former cook at the inn.

A Mexican laborer found Wilmore dead in bed, his head crushed, Wednesday.

District Attorney Stewart Berkshire and Sheriff Tom Armstrong announced they had obtained a statement from Stone.

It is their theory the aged Wilmore was clubbed to death by men seeking money, who overlooked, however, about $200 which the innkeeper carried in his pockets.

NEW OFFICE OPENS

Auditing Firm Of Cormack And Eubanks Locate

Cormack and Eubanks, with offices in the Lub-Tex Motor building, 817 1-2 Broadway, is the style of the new accounting and general auditing firm recently organized in this city by H. E. Cormack and F. S. Eubanks.

Mr. Cormack is from Abilene, Kansas, having been for the last seven years engaged in the business of auditing and assisting taxpayers with their federal income tax reports. He is enrolled to practice before the various branches of the internal revenue department, including the board of tax appeals and is prepared to render aid to anyone needing assistance with their federal tax returns.

Mr. Enbanks has been doing general auditing and accounting work in Lubbock for the past two years.

Dr. O. Latham Hatcher, president of the Southern Woman's Educational Alliance, to find out the success of a trained woman in combining marriage and her own job. She called several dozen of them together before she wrote her book, "Occupations for Women." Not one of them had really solved the problem, the writer records.

ON THE WAY

"The very fact, however," writes Miss Richardson, "that women are attacking the problem and that fewer and fewer are bowing beneath the yoke of complete domesticity is encouraging.

Mrs. Richardson, among other suggestions, suggests that working hours be lowered for the married woman worker, and wages accordingly, of course. In other words, part-time jobs for married women.

FAIR ENOUGH

Her title, "Every Wife to her Last," proves her tolerance and her belief that it's all a matter of doing your own job.

"The woman who stays within the home and has the satisfaction of knowing that she is doing so through choice and not compulsion makes an invaluable contribution to society. In this hectic age she is the one person who has enough leisure for cultural pursuits. If she feels, however, that her position is in need of constant defense, she is defeated at the outset."

Loyalty and love of her dead husband explains that most phenomenal of all modern women, Aimee Semple McPherson, according to a writer in "Nation."

"When her husband's death in China, two years after their marriage and one month before the birth of their daughter, sent her back to America stricken with grief and loneliness, her one solace was to carry on his work. Henceforth loyalty to his religion was loyalty to her beloved dead. Her second unsuccessful marriage threw her back once more upon her early loyalties and her former work. This is the emotional history which prevents Mrs. McPherson from questioning her husband's religion—the religion of her childhood," Julia Ludlow writes.

BEAUTY CONTESTS

"Ten drunks for every beauty" is a western newspaper woman friend's account of the international beauty show at Galveston. Only she calls it "the great American stock show." She tells of the girls fainting under a blazing Southern sun, of their desperate attempts to live on the three dollars a day allowed them and, worst of all, the fight to evade all the drunks who congregated from miles around in order to try to drink with the beauties.

If women's clubs who vaguely tirade against bathing beauties would salt away some of these facts to use in their next anti-bathing beauty campaign, they might accomplish more than by merely prattling about "immodesty," "spoiled girls," and so on.

"All the argument in the world will not take wage-earning mothers out of industry," writes Eudora Ramsay Richardson in "The Woman's Home Journal." "The time has come for some adjustment to be made between extra home work and the traditional tasks that have been laid upon women."

Screen Star Displays Fashions Of Daytime

By MME. LISBETH

There has been some talk that American fashion headquarters has transferred from New York to Hollywood. Be that as it may, the screen stars are, without doubt, snappy dressers. They must be, because if they know that the girls in the audience will know and resent it if they attempt to put over any "old stuff"—in their clothes, that is.

Only the very latest, or advance styles, are therefore worn by these hardworking young women of the cinemas.

These three views of Laura La Plante might be called 'round the clock with a screen star—almost. In the center Miss La Plante shows a snappy little black cloth suit appropriate for morning shopping. It has a short jacket and plain skirt with one side pleat.

She wears with this a white overblouse and extremely chic tam of crocheted gray chenille. Black patent leather pumps, a black bag and white chamois gloves complete the costume.

For sports Laura wears the suit she shows, right. The coat is reversible, being blue and white printed crepe on one side and white jersey cloth on the other. It is worn with a white skirt and white satin overblouse and a white felt hat. White pumps, sun tan hose and white gloves finish this smart suit.

For the afternoon garden party the tailored mode is left behind. Here we have her, left, dressed in lace and tulle or some other sheer material. The uneven hemline is very much in evidence, also the sleeveless mode. The frock is cut in the princess style, which is the darling of Paris at the moment. A long sash is posed on the left hip. Pearls, in necklace and bracelet, are worn with this dress, and a "poke" shaped hat gives it just the right finishing touch.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

BY MADAME RUBINSTEIN

In the summer every skin, be it youthful or mature, oily, normal or dry, has two outstanding beauty needs. The wise woman will overlook neither, if she values her good looks during not only this season, but in the months to come. The first I have spoken of before, briefly, but since it is so important I shall mention it again. It is nourishing.

MME. RUBINSTEIN

The sun has exacted the same effect on your skin that excessive heat would have on any delicate texture. It bakes it and dries out the natural moisture. You know what happens to a piece of bread when you toast it. The very same thing happened to your skin. Only, in addition, your skin, after it has baked, is especially susceptible to lines and wrinkles. Particularly the sharp, ugly little squint lines that form around your eyes.

To restore the natural oils which have been dried out in this process you must use some type of lubricating cream. This precaution is important at all seasons, since even the most casual exposure to the outdoor elements in the spring, winter or fall, will prove somewhat drying. But in the summer the drying tendency of air and wind is intensified, and your beauty care, to meet it, must be doubly effective.

For the young or normal skin, a rich cleasing cream will be enough—either a pasteurized face cream or a light cleasing and massage cream, or a cream made on a base of waterlily juice. Always cleanse with this cream after continued exposure to the outdoor air, rather than with soap and water, or even a washing preparation and water. Your skin is likely to be irritated by this exposure, and soap and water cleasing would only irritate it more. The cream, on the contrary, is soothing, and while it cleases the pores of every bit of dust and grime, it also lubricates the skin, replacing natural oils.

If by chance your skin is not young or normal—if it is very dry, instead, or lined, you will be wise to add also to your list of skin essentials a rich, nourishing cream, such as a good anti-wrinkle cream. This should be patted in around the eyes and mouth and on the throat, or wherever there are lines, and retained all night. It will nourish the tissues and restore a youthful, soft look to your skin.

The second need of your skin is for bleaching. Any dark, so-called liver spots, or other discolorations—as well as tan and freckles—come out most noticeably at this season. I have stressed the importance of protectives before and I am sure that I need not repeat myself here.

If you already have tan, liver spots or other discolorations, however, your problem is to bleach and remove them, and then to go on with protective measures to be sure that they do not come again. An active bleaching cream will do the work when properly applied. But I am going to list, also, two excellent home remedies.

The first consists of peroxide diluted with from three to five times as much water. Or combined with one part of lemon juice and one part of water. Should this irritate the skin wash with a solution of boric acid and warm water and use instead, the following. Two ounces of buttermilk mixed with one-third ounce of horseradish, grated and one ounce of cornmeal. Spread the mixture and allow to remain on the paris to be bleached as long as possible, preferably over night.

Be careful to keep it away from the eyes, as it has a tendency to irritate them.

Follow these simple rules carefully through the summer, and you will do much toward prolonging into later life the health and youth of your skin.

PREFERENCE SCORED

Imperial Choice Branded As Unsound

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, replying to a question in the house of commons today, characterized imperial preference as "a falacious and unsound creed."

The chancellor made the statement during debate on a conservative amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne dealing with safeguarding. He declared the labor party had given full notice that if it were returned to power the McKenna duties would be repealed and if they were repealed in his next budget, the country could not be surprised.

Wrecked Airplane Is Found In Utah

Occupants Thought to Have Been Japanese Fliers; Officers Will Attempt To Identify Pilot

SALT LAKE CITY, July 9. (AP)—A report to the sheriff of Wasatch county today from Stewart's ranch, at the head of Provo Canyon, said a wrecked airplane had been found eight miles from there, and the officer set out from Heber with a party in an attempt to identify its occupant.

Earlier reports said the plane bore the number 4498 and that two occupants had been found dead. A mechine with that identification left the Salt Lake airport July 4, employees there said. It was a single-seater driven by a Japanese pilot.

A report today from Compton, Cal., said a plane bearing that number left there several days ago for the east, driven by Masashi Goto, Japanese flier.

Cleveland's Van Sweringen Brothers, Wizards Of Finance, Are Now Reaching Out For More Millions

By NEA Service.

CLEVELAND, July 9.—The newspapers of Cleveland the other day announced that "the Van Sweringens have completed their plans for Cleveland's rapid transit system." And back of that bare announcement lies a great story—a whole series of stories, in fact, that deal with the rise of two bachelor brothers and a tremendous industrial empire.

For this business of the rapid transit is only the latest step in the story of the rise of the Van Sweringen brothers; and that story, in turn, is the story of many other things—railroads, street cars, skyscrapers, bridges, towns, banks, all mixed together to form an integral part of the amazing tale of America itself and their developments in and around Cleveland that are costing more than the Panama canal.

To begin with, these Van Sweringens started out as poor boys. Born on a central Ohio farm, they came to Cleveland in their early 'teens, sold newspapers on the streets (see how the story conforms to the traditional American type?) and then took to dabbling in real estate.

Just what they had in mind when they began selling real estate no one knows, for Orris Paxton Van Sweringen and Mantis James Van Sweringen are the least talkative of all American businessmen.

But before they got through, these two young realtors had become the outstanding railroad men of the nation, had remade the downtown section of one of the country's biggest cities and had rearranged the entire future development of the city.

And — incidentally, as it were— they had made themselves very, very wealthy indeed.

It was in 1900 that the brothers took up real estate. Orris Van Sweringen was 21, and Mantis was 19. They began buying farm lands on a pleasant plateau southeast of Cleveland, where a pioneer Shaker community had fizzled out some generations back. The land was open country, then, and Cleveland was a relatively small city with less than 600,000 inhabitants; but the Van Sweringens always planned things on a big scale, and in no time they were laying out a high grade residential suburb with wide, curving streets, ample lots, plenty of shade trees and modern architectural restrictions.

Being excellent salesmen, they sold many lots; and they also induced the city traction system to shoot a car line out to their new development, which they named Shaker Village.

But this transportation system was inadequate. The Van Sweringens were prospering and Shaker Village was growing; but quicker access to downtown Cleveland was needed. The Traction company refused to extend its lines any further.

So, quite characteristically, the Van Sweringens decided to build their own electric line.

No fiction hero in any of Horatio Alger's stories of boyish rise to fame and fortune can equal the real-life story of Cleveland's ex-newsboys, the Van Swearingen brothers. These new kings of railroads and realty—O. P. Van Swearingen, left, and M. J. Van Swearingen—are shown here in their latest photo.

Cleveland is split by a number of river valleys and gullies. Along one of these the old Nickel Plate railroad had its right-of-way. The brothers arranged to bring their rapid transit line into the city on the Nickel Plate's right-of-way, thereby avoiding the street traffic that slowed up the ordinary car lines.

Maybe the brothers had the idea in the first place, and maybe it occurred to them when they built their rapid transit line; they alone know, and they never talk. But, at any rate, in 1916 they decided to buy the Nickel Plate road. It was a poor relation of the New York Central, running a single track line from Buffalo to Chicago and losing money with magnificent regularity. The New York Central sold it cheap —for $8,500,000, $2,000,000 down and the rest in long-term notes.

The Van Sweringens had a little over half a million in cash. They put it in the pot, borrowed a million and a half from Cleveland bankers —and with rare acumen, hired J. J. Bernet away from the New York Central to run their railroad.

Bernet was—and is — one of the canniest railroad men in the country. He had always felt that the Nickel Plate had possibilities. Now he had his chance to prove it.

He did. The Nickel Plate began to earn money. In a few years the Van Sweringens were using its profits to pay off the rest of the debt to the New York Central.

Bernet saw that the Nickel Plate needed extension. It was crossed, near the Indiana-Ohio line by the Clover Leaf, a rambling wreck of a bankrupt line running from Sandusky, O., to Peoria, Ill. He suggested that the brothers buy it.

The brothers bought it using profits from the Nickel Plate to make the down payment. A little later they bought another weak cross line, the Lake Erie and Western, again making only a small cash payment. Bernet went to work to knit the three roads into a unified, profit-making system.

Meanwhile, the brothers had conceived the idea of putting up a station on Cleveland's Public square for their electric line to Shaker Village and the city's other interurban lines. When they bought the Nickel Plate, they decided to bring it into their station too. But sometime before 1920 they suddenly expanded this project many fold, and decided to build a union station for all Cleveland railroads.

This brought them smack into deep water. The job would be a costly one. But the Van Sweringens went ahead anyhow, secured the cooperation of all railroads entering Cleveland except the Pennsylvania.

First they had to buy something like 130 acres of land in downtown Cleveland, and rip all the buildings off. Then they had to build numerous bridges, re-arrange a perfect maze of railroad trackage and construct enormous new freight terminals. Besides their station they planned a huge collection of skyscrapers, stores, theaters and the like.

It was a 10-year job, to cost something like $200,000,000.

The Van Sweringens, however, had established themselves by this time. New York bankers — J. P. Morgan and George F. Baker—were lending them money.

Then they began to expand. They bought control of the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Erie, the Pere Marquette, the Hocking Valley, the Wheeling and Lake Erie. With these and their old lines they announced they would form a new eastern trunk line, worth over a billion and a half dollars and having more than 9,000 miles of track.

This part of the job hasn't been so easy. The Interstate Commerce Commission has disapproved various of the financial and stock setups by which the Van Sweringens have sought to put the merger into effect. There seems little doubt that the merger in some form will ultimately be approved, however.

Meanwhile—incidentally as it were — the Van Sweringens' personal profits from the rise in value of their railroad stocks have been estimated at around $80,000,000.

The amazing brothers have never forgot that they were real estate men. They proceeded with their development of Shaker Village. They cut new boulevards through miles of Ohio farm land, charing an enormous residential chain of suburbs. On their Nickel Plate right-of-way they provided rapid transit service for most of the inhabitants of Cleveland. They believe that Cleveland will have 2,000,000 inhabitants in a few years, and that most of these people will be living many miles from the downtown section.

But—as if to make sure that no Clevelander escapes being carried to and from his work by the Van Sweringens—they have just gained control of the city's entire street car system; and they are reported on the verge of buying the city's leading taxicab company.

High over the heart of downtown Cleveland rises a great 500-foot skyscraper, like a renaissance Italian tower gone American. It is the Terminal Building, heart of the Van Sweringen development, capitol of the Van Sweringen empire.

In a suite of offices near the top of this tower sit the brothers—enormously busy, uncommunicative, and daring as ever. They are seldom seen anywhere else. Unmarried, they do not go into society, and the city's clubs seldom harbor them. The Terminal Tower is their building, shooting up like a great beacon to signalize the triumph of the two brothers who took to selling lots southeast of town some 30 years ago.

Mininger Denies Willys Purchase

TOLEDO, O., July 9. (AP)—C. O. Mininger, president of the Electric Auto Lite company, declared an announcement of the purchase by him and associates of John North Willys' interests in the Willys-Overland company, was unauthorized and not true as far as Mr. Mininger is concerned.

"There has been a deal for the purchase of this stock by Chicago and Toledo capital. This deal has been under way for several weeks and has not been closed to my knowledge," Mr. Mininger said.

Local Coaches To Fish For Devils

Del Morgan, Lubbock high school coach, left late yesterday for Quanah where he is to spend the remainder of the week visiting relatives of Mrs. Morgan.

Sunday he will join Coach Vic Payne at Abilene from whence the two will proceed to South Texas where they will engage in a lengthy fishing session on the Devil's river. After their two weeks outing in the wilds of South Texas, the local men will then join the Dana X. Bible coaching school at Corpus Christi which opens during the third week in July.

Coach Henry Prnka explained last night he was unable to get away at the present time, owing to recent obligations caused by the arrival of Henry E. Jr. Nevertheless, he plans to be on hand for the school.

During a recent Sunday night republican notices were posted in various parts of Dungannon, Ireland, but were removed early Monday morning by the police.

The Nut Cracker

The umpiring in the American league hasn't been so wonderful this year, according to the managers. This is merely a tip to some smart insurance salesman.

It seems little use to suggest international disarmament conferences with a view to world peace when the umpires are calling them wrong.

O'Goofty suggests a revision of the rules, granting the arbiters three guesses on each play.

In Cleveland the other day the plate umpire called a liner down the third base line fair, and the third base umpire waved it foul. President Barnard ought to recruit a staff from the coast and geodetic survey.

The theme song for a ball game ought to be "They Don't Believe Me."

In the Central league the other day, they had to haul away a couple of the umps in a police wagon. The fans cheered, but the cops let 'em get away.

The umpires in the American league have been rather bold since Ty Cobb quit the game.

Gilbert Jackson Leaves For Ballinger To Join West Texas League Club; Gaither To Harvest

Possibility that the Lubbock Hubbers' lineup for their Sunday fracas with the Quanah Chieftains became a certainty yesterday upon the announcement that Gilbert Jackson and Red Gaither would not be on hand for the game.

Jackson left last night for Ballinger where he is to join the West Texas league team of that city. He will likely take his place in the lineup today. Gaither is on his way to the wheat fields of Kansas.

Joe Chisum, business manager of the Lubbock club, said last night, that although Jackson and Gaither would be hard to replace, he could lose outfielders more easily than infielders. Having been overstocked with capable fly-chasers, the Hubbers will likely swing Brothers, Waller and Hensley into regular action Sunday.

Word has been received here from Jim Bradford, manager of the Quanah semi-pro aggregation, that the Indians will be here Sunday with their war paint smeared on thick, ready to hand the chesty Hubbers a thorough scalping. Bradford boasts a full lineup of seasoned diamond performers and is set to give the locals a stiff battle.

Alex McColl, who injured his good right arm in last Sunday's encounter with the Amarillo Texans, has rounded into form and is slated to start the fireworks for the Hubbers.

Santa Fe Nine Hands Hardwaremen 9 To 1 Beating As Second Half Of City Gets Under Way At Local Park

Dunlap Limits Hardware Crew To Lone Bingle In Ragged Exhibition; Auto-Barbers Play Today

Bill Hargrove's Railroaders were off to a flying start in their opening game of the City league second half Tuesday evening, scoring at will against the ragged Hardware aggregation to walk off with the long end of a 9 to 1 score.

With a number of their stars out of the lineup the Hardwaremen were easy pickin' for the hustling Santa Fe baseballers yesterday. Taking the lead at the outset, the winners pounded three Hardware chunkers for 15 hits while Dunlap was holding the opposition to a lone hit and run. This tally came on a wild throw to third base after Dickerson had tripled.

Dunlap had little trouble in turning back the Santa Fe batsmen with his fast ball working to perfection. Seven were retired via the strikeout route. In five of the seven innings, the Hardwaremen were set down in order.

Robertson, Pinson and White led the assault on the Hardware hurlers. The Santa Fe third sacker set the pace with a single, triple and double in four trips to the plate.

Today the Auto-Barbers and Carpenter-Painters meet in their first game of the second half.

Women Made Dry Law And Women Will Alter It

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, July 9.—Many years ago, a band of earnest women founded the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, wore white ribbons, passed out pledge cards to all who would sign on the dotted line—and today's eighteenth amendment is due in no small measure to their determined efforts.

Today, another group of women, quite as earnest, with much more impressive names, trained in leadership and in public work, also are organizing with the same object—temperance. But this latter group believes it can be broughtt about only through modification of the law which the first group tried so hard to have enacted.

Say Temperance Retarded

In other words, they are protemperance and anti-prohibition.

Their pledge reads:

"Because I believe that national prohibition has incited crime and increased lawlessness, hypocrisy and corruption; because I believe that the cause of real temperance has been retarded and that sumptuary laws have no place in the Federal Constitution, I promise to work for some change in the law which will bring about a sane solution of the problem, and therefore enroll as a member of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform."

The W. O. N. P. R. is headed by Mrs. Charles Sabin, former New York state Republican committeewoman and the first woman to serve on the National Republican committee. She has been identified as one of the most astute women politicians of this country, and is a prominent social registrite.

Mrs. Sabin Quit G. O. P. Post

When Mrs. Sabin resigned from the Women's National Republican club in March, after President Hoover's dry policy had been announced, she surprised everyone by relinquishing the political power her position gave her.

"I had no intention, at that time, of getting into any anti-prohibition organization," she said. "But I was honest about why I was at odds with the party. Immediately after my resignation, I was beseiged with letters from women in all parts of the country, saying that they too protested against prohibition, as we now have it.

"In a short time, I was in too deep to get out. Coming out against prohibition, I found I had spoken for thousands of other women—there was a large group ready to be organized, wanting to be organized. And the road before me was so plainly indicated, I could not turn back from it. Now it remains to organize, investigate and plan a campaign."

Prominent Women Back Mov

Mrs. Sabin gathered around her women who have been conspicuously before the public for years, and have served in philanthropic, educational and welfare work. Among them are Anne Morgan, daughter of the famous financier, active for years in philanthropy and war work; Virginia Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard college; Dr. Josephine Baker, formerly of the Child Hygiene Bureau; Mrs. Sidney Borg, active in the Public Education Association, and the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies; Alice Foote MacDougall, millionaire restaurateur; Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, builder of "model tenements" and Mrs. Roger Bacon, prominent social worker.

These women of wealth and social position, who have been significantly successful plan to organize women of the nation in anti-prohibition work. The movement now is but two and a half months old, but it is organized in 30 states. By November, the whole country is expected to be lined up so that actual work can begin.

Plan Investigation

"We are not broadcasting our plans," Mrs. Sabin said frankly. "We are going slow, and in as much silence as the country will allow, until we know our way around better.

"We will form committees in different localities which will find out whether there are more speak-easies in certain specified communities than there were licensed saloons in former days; and if so, how many.

"Our investigators will go into industrial towns to find out from the wives of workingmen whether or not they feel that conditions have improved since prohibition.

"From high school teachers we will learn the effect of the present state of prohibition upon adolescent children in regard to law and order. We will do the same with heads of colleges."

Typical communities of all sizes in as many states as possible will be investigated.

Says Drinking on Increase

Mrs. Sabin expressed the opinion that young America is drinking far more than ever before, which is the very reverse of what those wanted who worked conscientiously for temperance. She said she sensed a gradual change in the feeling of women toward the Eighteenth Amendment, due to the effects of prohibition upon the youth of the country and the morale of public officials.

Mrs. Sabin is a fighter for what she believes is right. In 1926 she resigned from the League of Women voters because she said they did not play the game fairly. She worked tirelessly with the Republican party despite the fact that her husband, a prominent New York banker, was an ardent Democrat.

THINKING OF FACTORIES

WITH agriculture fairly well established on the South Plains it is time Lubbock and other South Plains leaders were thinking about securing its share of industrial plants.

Such industrial establishments as now obtain in this area, in addition to the cotton mill at Post, are primarily the result of our agriculture. Even the Post cotton mill is a result of cotton production on the Plains, although the practice of years past has been for capital to establish cotton textile mills in the New England states, until the very few late years, when the movement Southward changed that procedure.

Common sense, as has long been recognized, tells us that factories, located near production of raw materials, are economically sound—in truth, is the only sane thing to do, wherever practical, when labor and power are available.

There is no reason why Texas should not be the leader in textile mills, both cotton and wool. It is the leader in production of cotton and wool and mohair. Power is available. Distribution facilities are installed and operating. When Texans awaken to the fact that there is a wealth of prosperity within their grasp, perhaps the mills and factories will come.

On the South Plains are produced more raw materials, outside of wool and mohair, than in many other parts of Texas. It is foolish to permit the years roll by, without definite effort being made at locating or establishing many of these industrial plants that will utilize this raw material at the point of production.

Sherman, Texas, has for many years been working on a definite program to make of that North Texas city a manufacturing center. Today it boasts of more factories for its size than any city in the Southwest.

Lubbock's Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development can well follow Sherman's example. In many respects this city is very similar to Sherman. Located in the center of agricultural development, on good railroads a college town, hTe only difference is that Sherman, much older, has seen its opportunity and grasped. Lubbock has arrived at the point where it should be thinking and planning to secure more industries.

Agriculture has received sufficient impetus to keep it going good, although there is much work yet to be accomplished with this; yet there remain factories that are closely allied with agriculture, which can be secured, if we want them strong enough to go after them. With these will come more stabilization economically.

POWERFUL

A New York genius is said to have invented a device that will cast a ray of light for a distance of 20 miles through ocean fogs and mists now impenetrable to the most powerful searchlights. The report goes on to say that the new ray has withstood tests made by the United States bureau of standards.

If the seemingly impossible has been accomplished, the benefits that will follow are incalculable, especially in the fields of navigation and transportation.

With such a light Chamberlin and Byrd would have found Paris and probably the worst hazard of air navigation would be eliminated. Railroad service would be expedited and made safer. On the motor highways, as well as on the high seas, it would remove one of the foremost causes of accident.

Some skepticism, however, will be excusable until the actual success of the invention shall have been demonstrated beyond doubt. The problem is one which has occupied the close attention of scientists and inventors for many years, without material success and until the public has about given up hope.

One has but to pilot a plane, hold the control lever of a locomotive, steer an automobile, pilot an airplane or walk through a dense fog to feel man's powerlessness against this element and man's dire need for a weapon with which to conquer it.

Conquest of fog would indeed be one of the triumphs of this amazing age of inventions and great would be the reward that would be heaped upon the conqueror by this most appreciative of ages. Is it not true that every time the question of fog arises someone remarks that a fog-piercing light would be worth billions to the inventor?

WHAT PLUPERFECT NONSENSE!

The inventor of a new type of tank which is to be tried out by the war department says:

"A theoretical enemy equipped with 1,000 of them could invade the United States across the Canadian border and overrun the country while we stood helpless. The tanks would be vulnerable only to artillery fire and could run rings arounds any artillery that might be sent to oppose them."

Therefore we must have a huge fleet of these tanks. And since, conversely, they could overrun Canada, the Dominion must have a fleet of them. Then, to stop the Canadian tanks, we must have still more—larger and better ones. And then Canada must outdo our preparation. All the nations of Europe must have them, too, since once they are introduced by one country, no other is safe. Billions for defense, and all that.

What pluperfect nonsense it all is, when the governments of the world can stop all this waste by a stroke of the pen!

THE PORCH SWING

In a beautiful spirit of happy progression, Lubbock is a city of homes provided with porches, each of them equipped with a porch swing.

The porch swing is the perfection of all systems of transportation. On it one may travel there and back in the least possible time and with the least expenditure of nervous energy. It is the one train you can't miss and never fails to arrive on schedule.

Running continuously from early spring till late autumn, the porch swing carries slim purse to vacation land, poet to dreamland and lover to matrimony.

Rah for the porch swing! It is one of America's greatest institutions.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

INTERPRETATION OF SENATOR SPOILS DEBATE IN CONGRESS
BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 9.—When the reapportionment bill—

(The bil to re-district the country for representatives on the census basis next year)—

When the bill was before congress recently, the lawyer-members, who are in a big majority, couldn't agree on how the job ought to be done.

The nation's "founding fathers" told how, in the constitution — but some legal experts said they plainly meant one thing, while others insisted that they clearly meant something else.

They quoted authorities, pro and con, and by the bookshelf-ful. They argued back and forth for days.

• • • •

Finally Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan got up and made a short speech. Vandenberg is not a lawyer, but it was his bill, and he wanted it to pass.

The trouble with the authorities cited, he complained, was that they all were of post-constitutional date, and consequently were merely guessing—just as were the legislators he had been listening to.

Now who, he asked, must have known what the founding fathers really did mean?

Obviously the founding fathers themselves.

They wrote the constitution and put the apportionment and reapportionment paragraphs in it. Why ask anybody else to interpret their meaning? Why not ask them?

• • • •

True, the founding fathers are dead.

Yes, but immediately after describing the apportionment and reapportionment system they wanted followed, what did they do?

Why, they apportioned—accordingly.

"Naturaally," observed the Michigan senator "the way they did it was the way they meant it to be done."

• • • •

Sullenly the lawyer-solons had to admit the force of this reasoning. In glum silence they passed the bill. Even thouse who agreed with Senator Vandenberg concerning the method were sore. He had spoiled what had promised to develop into one of the best debates in years.

Moreover, indirectly he had opened up another subject which lawyers may not like having ventilated any better than they liked having their reapportionment argument choked off.

By implication he had questioned the soundness of the time-honored tradition of leaving it to lawyers—on the bench—to interpret all laws.

• • • •

It is mighty seldom congress passes a law of much importance which is not presently disputed by one interest or another.

Who ought to know better what it does mean than the body that passed it? Is congress asked to interpret it, however? Oh, no. The courts are askedultimately, usually, the United States Supreme court, which virtually makes the law by deciding what it ought to mean, whether it was intended to or not.

Off and on, there has been a deal of kicking about this power which precedent has vested in the supreme court.

Senator Vandenberg may prove to have started it afresh.

• • • •

Frequently the courts read their own meaning into a law whose author is readily available, to tell what he meant it to mean, but they never ask him.

To be sure, he may not know just what he did mean.

In such cases, seemingly, the sensible thing would be to say "Evidently it means nothing," and cross it off.

If he does know, certainly he knows better than the courts.

Presumably, however, a law means something that any judge ought to understand. So he simply has got to understand it—just as every scientist has got to understand the Einstein theory like A. B. C. Otherwise he admits his ignorance. What scientist—or judge—is going to do that!

IF ICE CREAM ISN'T SANITARY IT CAN CAUSE SERIOUS DISEASE
BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The popularity of ice cream in the United States needs no explanation to American people. It is no longer considered a confection or luxury but is a standard dessert.

It is estimated by F. W. Fabian that the production of ice cream in the United States in 1921 was almost 350,000,000 gallons, or almost three gallons for every person in the country. In 1910 less than one-third this amount was consumed.

In the manufacture of ice cream the substances used are milk, cream, condensed and evaporated milk, milk powder and butter. From the point of view of sanitation the question of bacteriologic control involves the control of these substances. The other constituents, such as gelatine, sugar and flavoring extracts, do not contribute bacteria to the product. It is therefore necessary in the manufacture of good ice cream to begin with good milk and milk products.

For some time attempts have been made to secure by law pasteurization of ice cream mixes, which includes the substances before freezing. According to a recent report, two states and one province require ice cream mixes to be pasteurized and 11 states and the District of Columbia require the milk and cream used in ice cream to be pasteurized.

Some states require that all milk be obtained from tuberculin tested cows; some states require certificates of health for those employed in the ice cream industry. Obviously there is a wide variety of regulations where there should be research and standardization.

Some people may be inclined to doubt the possibility that epidemics may arise from ice cream, but the actual fact is that typhoid fever, septic sore throat, diptheria, scarlet fever, dysentery and various other intestinal diseases following the eating of ice cream was due to metallis substances from the cans. Later people were inclined to blame ptomaine.

Now it is definitely understood that in practically every instance when a considerable number of cases of disease follow the eating of ice cream, they are due to bacteria that have been allowed to persist in the milk and which have in this way come into the bodes of the people who have eaten the material.

Another rather unfavorable thing about the small red hats, now the vogue among the jellybeans, is that they are too red to mislay.

If Jerry Simpson were to come back now, minus his socks, we dont know whether he would be mistaken for a college boy, first, or a girl tennis player.

At one time or another every incorporated town in Greece claimed Homer as a local boy. So the quarrel between Ripon and Jackson is really quite an old idea.

BEAUTY AND DUTY

I slept, and dreamed that life was beauty;
I woke, and found that life was duty.
Was thy dream then a shadowy lie?
Toil on, sad heart, courageously.
And thou shalt find thy dream to be
A noonday light and truth to thee.

Money Seekers Are Curiosity Seekers

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—The Myriad ranks of money seekers tomorrow will become, at the same time, curiosity seekers. For with the opening of banks for business the nationwide scramble will begin to acquire some of the new currency which, within a few months, will replace the long familiar, much larger paper money now in circulation.

The "curiosity demand" for the new currency, one-third smaller than the old, is expected to keep up for several weeks. With about 912,000,000 pieces already printed, the treasury is prepared to meet that demand, but only to a limited extent because of the big problem of distribution and the necessity of avoiding waste by keeping the old currency in use as long as it is fit for exchange.

This change in currency, to be completed in about a year, is the first undertaken by the government since 1861, and is expected to reduce the cost of materials, printing, storage and distribution about $1,500,000 a year.

The Chinese government mint at Nanking, which resumed operation on April 1, has been destroyed by fire.

Hog production in England is gaining. All other domestic animals show a decline.

GERMAN SUB IN U. S.

On July 10, 1916, diplomatic representatives of France and England filed protests at Washington against the presence of the Deutschland, a German submarine, in a U. S. port.

The German undersea vessel, built wholly for purposes of commerce, had arrived safely in Baltimore, July 9, 1916, after a daring trip across the Atlantic sometimes beneath the very keels of the warships of its enemies.

The French and English diplomats held the sub was potentially a warship and that it should not be allowed to sail from an American port. United States naval experts, however, inspected the craft and found it purely a commercial vessel, unarmed and incapable of being fitted with torpedoes or large guns.

The coming of the Deutschland furnished a dramatic surprise as it was the first commercial submarine in history. The craft carried a cargo of dyestuffs from Germany to the United States.

The sub was 300 feet long, 30 feet wide and carried 1,000 tons of cargo and a crew of 23 men. It cost $500,000 and its cargo of dyestuffs on the first voyage was said to have paid for the whole enterprise.

Explanation Given For Steamer Wreck

LONDON, July 9. (AP)—With rescue of 18 survivors of the Swedish steamer Botte, wrecked near Yarmouth on a sand bank Saturday night, an explanation has been offered of a mysterious north sea explosion which led to fear of a major sea disaster.

A Dutch steamer took the officers and crew of the Botte off when it was seen she would founder. Later the steamer Arneberg in the same locality wirelessed Lloyd's here an unidentified ship had sunk nearby after an explosion.

Captain Borreson of the Botte after examing the Arneberg's reckoning's said he was convinced the explosion was due to the Botte's hatches blowing off when the tide came up and it slipped off the sand bank into deep water, long after the crew had been taken off her.

The crew of the Botte were landed at Hull today.

Man Arrested In Enid For Killing

ENID, Okla., July 9. (AP)—Police today held a man who gave his name as David E. Smith, who they believed was connected with the death, at El Paso, Texas, April 18, of Henry Clinger, jr., said to be the son of a wealthy Milton, Pa., couple.

Clinger, officers said, disappeared from his Pennsylvania home several weeks before his body was found in a rooming house in El Paso. The family automobile, which Clinger took, was in Smith's possession when he was arrested here.

Smith first told officials he was Clinger, but upon questioning said he was David E. Smith.

Sheriff C. E. Banker said he had a telegram from L. T. Robey, El Paso chief of police, asking him to hold Smith.

seen struggle.

Williams and Yancey said their flight had been "magnificent" despite the fog.

"We flew 31 1-2 hours, encountering low fogs, which cut us off from the sight of the sea. For only two hours were we free of fog and able to see the ocean.

"We didn't sight any ships near Cape Ortegal, we saw land for the first time and were very glad, but we continued the flight, wishing to go as far as our gasoline would take us.

"Having drained our supply we tried a landing wwhich we made successfully at 9:30 p. m. (3:30 p. m. E. S. T.) We flew about 3,400 miles."

The fliers explained they had been well prepared for the flight and it was not physical fatigue which prevented them from reaching Rome.

Williams and Yancey had hoped to reach Madrid after they realized they couldn't make Rome to meet Major Ramon Franco and the aviators of the Dornier Wal 16 but had been prevented by lack of gas.

In view of the impossibility of refueling quickly the fliers decided to spend the night here and take off early tomorrow morning. Spanish authorities hunted tonight for special gasoline.

Aviators Welcomed

The civil governor gave an address of welcome to the fliers and congratulated them on their feat, pointing out that it was the second plane to come from the United States within a month in a trans-Atlantic flight and land in the province of Santander.

Yancey replied that he was extremely pleased to be able to see Spain and that he was grateful for the attention and courtesy already shown him since he landed. He said he would not forget the hospitality.

"We hope that a Spanish airplane will make a direct flight to New York so that not only the American people, but their aviators also will be able to return some of the hospitality shown us."

Appears at Dark

The Pathfinder appeared over Santander just as dark set in.

The aviators waved handkerchiefs to show they wanted to make a landing and peasants started a huge bonfire on the former military airfield at Albericia to guide them.

They made a perfect landing.

Williams and Yancey said they were disappointed over their failure to make the nonstop flight from Old Orchard to Rome but had had a "magnificent" flight just the same.

The Pathfinder landed almost at the spot where the Yellow Bird of Assolant, Lefevre and Lotti came down about a month ago and followed roughly the same course.

The Pathfinder carried no radio outfit and sighted no ships because of the fog, and was thus out of communication with the world during the flight.

SANTANDER, Spain, July 10. (AP)—All that Roger Williams and Captain Lewis Yancey wanted to do when they realized that head winds would prevent them from making their non-stop flight to Rome was to fly farther than their French comrade of the Yellow Bird.

It was Pathfinder against Yellow-bird for the long distance record to Europe from Old Orchard, Maine, the American aviators told their hosts at an impromptu banquet of the Maritimo club which continued into the small hours this morning despite the fatigue of Williams and Yancey.

They said they realized the adverse condition which faced them soon after starting and feeling that it would be impossible to reach Rome they decided that they would try solely to break the distance mark of the Yellow Bird.

When their hosts told them they had gone farther than the Frenchmen, the Americans set up a volley of cheers.

Williams and Yancey constantly repeated that now they were safely across the Atlantic it all seemed easy to them and without great importance.

"We first sighted the Spanish coast about 11:30 New York time. We were flying about 50 feet above the land, and we quickly found our bearings.

"Our chief difficulty seemed to be in finding a favorable landing site and still be certain that we had surpassed the Yellow Bird's mark.

"Gasoline was scarce and night was coming on and not more than three quarters of a gallon of combustible was left in the reserve tank. We began to fly over a field, which seemed to us to be suitable for landing purposes and soon we saw a huge bonfire which gave us sufficient light for coming down.

"The landing gear suffered a slight mishap when we touched the earth but it is of slight importance and will not prevent us continuing our flight."

ed forward with all speed in order that the school board will be able to let a contract within the shortest possible time."

Site Selected.

A site for the proposed new structure has been selected and is bordered by Avenues T and U and Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets. The new building will provide for the accommodation of 1,200 new students and will have provisions for future additions for 1,500 and possibly 1,800 students.

It became apparent to the school board last year that a new high school building was needed when nine rooms of the junior high school were used by senior high school students. As a result several grades which were in junior high were forced into ward school buildings.

High School Crowded.

The greatest trouble experienced has been in the high school, board members point out. This congested condition will be relieved by the erection of the new building by releasing the present high school and junior high school buildings for the use of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. After taking care of the junior high grades there will be enough room left in the present high school and junior high buildings to accommodate a number of elementary grades from the northwest part of the city.

Sites already have been purchased by the board for ward school buildings in the Ellwood addition and the southeast part of the city and these will be erected when the need arises.

Hope Abandoned

begun. The best diving apparatus available was dispatched from London and Portsmouth to the spot where the H-47, one of the smaller type of British submarines used for training purposes, went down in 270 feet of water.

First lord of the Admiralty Alexander had little hope that the crew of the H-47 ever could be brought up alive. He announced in the house of commons that salvage of the submarine in such a depth was improbable.

Ships Hasten To Aid

The H-47 lay tonight three times as deep as the level to which the American submarine S-4 sank in 1927. Battle ships, dock yard tugs and expert submarine officers hastened to St. George's Channel from Portsmouth, and Plymouth naval stations.

Ocean salvage experts thought it would be possible to locate the hull if the weather continued fine, but the great depth at which it lay would make diving operations difficult.

The collision occurred while several flotillas holding maneuvers off the coast of Ireland were returning to base.

Shock Sudden

The shock was so sudden that the H-47 staggered and went down like a crushed shell of steel. Lieut. R. J. Gardner, her commanding officer, and Sidney Cleburne, telegraph operator, were the only men of her crew of 23 saved. They were thought to have been in the conning tower when the L-12 rammed their ship.

Chief Signaller Charles Edward Bull was missing on the L-12, a larger submarine than the H-47, and Arthur Sampson, a seaman injured, died tonight.

The collision today brought the total of lives lost in submarine disasters since the war to 221. There have been 17 such disasters.

The H-47 was of 500 tons displacement and was built in England in 1918 after the design of the American constructor, John Holland. The first of her type was built in parts in the United States, assembled at Montreal during the early stages of the war and was sent to Europe under its own power.

The L-12 had a displacement of 1070 tons.

ance flights, has died away. 'Reg' and myself may try our luck again but at the present we have other things to think about."

In speaking of the possibility of an air line being established through Lubbock, Mr. Kelley was firm in his belief that such a line would be in operation in the very near future. The line, according to his statements, would start at Amarillo, connect with the T. A. T. service east and west at either Midland or Big Spring and thence into San Antonio.

Air Line Likely

Mr. Moseley was just as strong in his conviction that Lubbock would be routed on the new line as was Kelley. "We believe that the possibilities of Lubbock as an air city," said Mr. Moseley, "are very good and prospects as the air center of this territory are promising, in the event that accommodations for air going craft are established.

"We are here," he continued, "in the interest of aviation and come to offer our aid to Lubbock in the establishment of a modern airport. The progress that is going to be made in aviation in the next three years will surpass that seen during the last five. We are flying this territory on a goodwill trip and expect to visit a number of towns of the territory."

To Visit Rotary

Mr. and Mrs. Kelley and Mr. Moseley have been invited as guests of the Rotary luncheon today and it is understood that at this time they will address the gathering urging that the city take definite action in the establishment of a municipal airport.

The party landed their ship from Amarillo, taking off from that city at 4:30 o'clock and just an hour later settled onto the Lubbock field. It is understood that the famous pilot will carry passengers during the day.

nounced that high score on the McMillan cup contest had been made by troop number 4, Lubbock, with 709 points, with troop 16, of Post, trailing, with 601 points. The Post troop won the attendance pennant, with highest percentage of Scouts in camp, having 11 out of 12. Troop 4 won second in this.

Troop 4 won pennants for tent inspection, personal inspection, table inspection and camp set-up. They were hard pressed in many of these and won some of them by less than one point.

The medal for the best camper, given to the boy most actively participating in all features of the camp, was won by "Possum" Blackwell, of troop 4, Lubbock.

Spencer Kendricks, of troop 19, Brownfield, took first place in all swimming events, winning the swimming medal.

There were 85 boys in the first period of the camp, which started on July 1 and ended Tuesday. The second period starts today, and as large or a larger attendance is anticipated by the scout leaders.

H. B. Yates is camp director, and was assisted during the first period by Rev. L. G. H. Williams, K. N. Clapp, William Evans, Charles Brock, Thadeus Thomas, George Eaton, all of Lubbock, and E. V. May, C. L. Lincoln, of Brownfield, and Marshall Mason and a Mr. Napier, of Post.

fifty special deputies armed with revolvers and guns and stationed them at the car barns.

Operation At Standstill

Both public service officials and the marshal declined to say whether another attempt would be made to operate street cars with strikebreakers that caused the killing of two strikers, brought injury to hundreds, and damage of property. Chief of Police Theodore Ray assured Marshal Victor Loisel of the cooperation of the police.

Henry B. Dynes, and W. H. Rodgers were sent here by the federal labor department to offer their services as conciliators, they called on both the street car company and the union officials and offered their services.

Citizens Called

When the public service notified the city commission council of its refusal to accept the compromise offered by the union, which the council har requested the company to accept, Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe called a meeting of leading citizens to aid in breaking the deadlock. A committee was appointed to go into the case and it is expected to report tomorrow.

were cheered wildly by crowds below. Mendell stuck his head out and grinned through his whiskers and Reinhart came out on the fuselage and waved and shouted something inaudible.

Then to prove their spirit the fliers sent down a note which read:

"We're going to stay up as long as the old motor hangs together. If it runs a month, we'll stay up a month. We both feel better than before we started. We're going to show you a regular he-man record. We're going to stick close to the field now in case something happens. We told you when we went up we'd stay till the motor fell apart. We're going to do it 'cause we're a couple of tough hombres. Thanks to all of you—Pete and Loren."

Mendell held a rank of lieutenant in the American balloon corps during the World War, but did not turn to airplane flying until 1921. He is chief pilot of the flight.

Reinhart was a "Gob" in the United States navy during the world War. Each is about 30.

FORT WORTH, July 9. (AP)—L. W. Mendell, one of the Culver City endurance fliers is a former Fort Worth man and was known here as the "flying cop."

Mendell worked on the Fort Worth police force in 1926, getting his air lessons at the public airport. Later he left here and joined the United States border immigration patrol at Laredo.

Police say that when he was learning to fly he made a landing on top of an automobile.

Delegates Robbed By Unmasked Men

GALVESTON, July 9. (AP)—Two unmasked men, believed to have been seeking $30,000 in expense money being paid delegates to the national convention of the Fraternal Aid Union here this afternoon, bound two delegates, E. B. Archer of Joplin, Mo., and J. P. Graves of Parsons, Kas., in their room at a beatch hotel and took money and jewelry aggregating about $350 from them.

After vainly demanding "the other money" the robber locked the room and departed. The delegates worked half an hour loosening their bonds.

Recent Favorites Are Reactionary In Stock Market

Bullish Operations Shifted To New Field; Score Of Issues Are Bid Up To Record Levels Tuesday

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP)—Reactionary tendencies were prevalent among recent favorites in today's stock market, but bullish operations were shifted to new fields, and about a score of issues again were bid up to record levels.

Firmness of call money, which held at 9 per cent and was on the verge of going higher for a time was somewhat unnerving, particularly at a time when commission houses were advising that caution should be exercised in making new commitments, as a mild reaction would not be surprising after the market's recent rapid advance.

Condition May Last

Bankers state that the comparatively tight money conditions may persist for a few days, possibly holding over the mid-month settlement period. Time money held at 7 1-2 per cent.

There was little in the day's news to influence the market. The statistics on June and half year steel and automobile production had been largely discounted.

Persistence of the heat wave in New York brought forcibly to the attention of bull traders the large volume of business being enjoyed by ice cream and beverage manufacturers, and such issues as Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Coca Cola, Bordens and National Dairy Products were sent up about 2 to 4 points to record levels.

Columbian Carbon, Cutler Hammer, Lackawanna, U. S. Tobacco, Montgomery Ward, and American Machine and Foundry made wide gains, the first three reaching new high ground. Utilities received renewed attention on the theory that the recent selling movement in this group had run its course.

Liquor Import Is Cut By Campaign

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—The treasury's intensive war on bootleggers who import liquor from Canada in June cut the amount of alcoholic beverages exported from the Windsor, Ontario, area by 357,155 gallons.

Figures showed that in the year ending last May 31 more than 5,000,000 gallons of alcoholic beverages had been exported from points opposite Detroit into this country, and scores of prohibition, coast guard and customs agents were sent into the region with orders to stop the smuggling.

The first definite indication of how effective the rum blockade had become was received yesterday by the treasury from the Canadian collector of national revenues at Ottawa, who reported that exportations of liquor in the Windsor area last month totaled 112,878 gallons. The statement also showed that in June, 1928, the exportations amounted to 470,033 gallons.

CLUBS TO RALLY

Terry 4-H Members Meet At Brownfield Friday

Terry County 4-H club boys and girls will gather for an all-day rally at Brownfield Friday according to County Agent R. B. Davis, who was in Lubbock last night.

There will be between 300 and 350 boys and girls, representing the 18 4-H clubs of Terry county, present at this meet, Davis predicts, and a gala event will be made of the affair. A street parade, beginning at 10 o'clock will begin the festivities, which will be followed by speaking, singing, yells and a luncheon to be furnished by the Brownfield chamber of commerce and the Terry County Farm Bureau.

The Brownfield Rotary club will hold a meeting with the club members during the day, giving a program for their especial benefit, following which the Rotarians will provide free tickets to the picture show for the club boys and girls.

Tax Reduction Is Declared Unlikely

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—Prospects of huge postoffice department deficits during the next five years disclosed today in administration circles were cited immediately by Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee to support his view that there could be no tax reduction this year.

President Hoover has ordered a survey of the postal service aimed toward effecting economies, and coincident with its initiation a general realignment in executive department duties was announced today by Postmaster General Brown. Federic Tilton, third assistant postmaster general, will conduct the survey—going over a division by division to determine sources of the deficits and ascertain means of economy.

Mr. Hoover has been informed that an average annual deficit of $85,000,000 can be expected until 1935, this does not include expenditures planned for new postoffice buildings, which will bring the annual unfavorable balance to approximately $120,000,000.

Cotton Works Into Higher Ground Due To Favorable Cable

NEW ORLEANS, July 9. (AP)—Cotton worked into somewhat higher ground today due partly to more favorable Liverpool cables and more bullish view of yesterday's acreage statement.

The advance also was stimulated by two private reports, one making the indicated crop 15,196,000 bales and the other 14,500,000 bales. After advancing 23 points, the market eased off 10 to 11 points in selling due to expectations of a bearish textile report by the textile bureau tomorrow. October after advancing to 18.56, up 23 points, closed at 18.46, down 11 points from the top and 13 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains of from 2 to 13 points.

Liverpool came in 4 to 5 points better than due and first trades here showed gains of 5 to 6 points.

Cotton Is Active Tuesday Because Of Boll Weevils

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP)—Cotton was more active today with prices higher on increasing apprehensions of boll weevil damage and a feeling that the technical position of the market had been strengthened by the selling noted in advance of yesterday's official acreage report. October contracts sold up to 18.72 or 25 points above Monday's closing quotation and about 60 points above the low level of Monday morning. They closed at 18.59, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 9 to 18 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 7 points on the new crop months on buying influenced by the relatively steady showing of Liverpool and continued reports of boll weevil infestation in the south.

Liverpool was reported a buyer here early but a good part of the day's demand was supposed to represent covering by recent sellers and a readjustment of the technical position. Private cables reported covering, London and Continental buying in Liverpool. Exports today 5,095 making 8,064,917 so far this season. Port receipts 2,226. U. S. port stocks 685,757.

THE VACANT LOT MARKET
Seems to be looking up, and lots all over town are worth a little more money than they were 60 or 90 days ago. But our client still advises us to sell those two we have listed for him on 26th, just west of Ave U., at $325 each, cash. These lots are well worth $450, and they sold for $400 two years ago, so this price makes what is the very best small opportunity in Lubbock to buy open lots low down and either to build on or to hold for the advance.

Fort Stockton Is Ready For Guests

FORT STOCKTON, July 9.—This town is no slacker when it comes to entertaining out-of-town visitors, and when the guests are representative of more than a dozen West Texas towns elaborate plans are made.

So it will be that when the members of the Fourth Annual Motorcade sponsored by the West Texas chamber of commerce under the direction of B. M. Whitaker arrive Thursday night on their way to Carlsbad Caverns, they will be handed the key to the city, or rather, the keys to the Country Club. All privileges of the club house, golf course, bathing pool and fishing at Lake Leon will be granted the motorcaders, according to a wire sent to Stamford headquarters of the regional organization by Grady L. Webster, secretary of the local chamber of commerce. He wired, "Bring your fishing tackle as early Thursday as possible, we extend a most cordial invitation."

STUMPED THE PROFESSOR
RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Dr. J. M. Bell of the chemistry department of the University of North Carolina, one of the educators conducting examinations in the Edison scholarship contest, said he couldn't have answered all the questions himself.

Legislators Face Task Trimming Money Measures

Solons Must Reconsider Entire Appropriation Program In Effort To Stay Within Income

AUSTIN, July 9.—(AP)—Faced with reconsidering the entire appropriations program, members of the legislature today prepared to engage in the thankless task of trimming money bills to a total within the state's anticipated revenue during the biennium.

The first day's session in which both houses met yesterday was devoted to little other than organization and employment of minor workers. Today, however, the senate planned to consider from the floor the judiciary of eleemosynary bills, and the house appropriations committee arranged to make some report on bills for the upkeep of state departments, the judiciary and other divisions of government.

Bill Above Income

Contending that money bills approved by lawmakers totaled approximately $55,000,000, or $6,000,000 more than the state's income, Governor Moody yesterday disapproved every major appropriation measure which had not already been blue penciled. To the list of eleemosynary, educational and judiciary vetoes were added the $5,500,000 rural school bill, $250,000 for the purchase of land surrounding the Alamo in San Antonio, $50,000 for an underground water survey, the $12,638,225 departmental bill, the measure refunding illegally paid bus seat taxes and the claims and accounts item. Total vetoes of money bills by the governor today stood at $51,542,667.

The governor did not act on the Patton bill appropriating $100,000 for a memorial building to David Crockett at Crockett on account of serious illness in Senator Nat Patton's family.

Ask Speeding Up Of Tariff Action

Senator Watson Demands Speedy Work Be Done By Senate Finance Committee Before Recess Ends

WASHINGTON, July 9. (AP)—Speeding up of the tariff bill work by the senate finance committee to insure its preparation for the senate by the time the recess ends August 19 is demanded by Senator Watson of Indiana, the republican leader.

His move is seen as the first step in an administration effort to wind up the tariff contest before the regular session opens in December. Chairman Smoot of the committee has been apprehensive of late that the bill wouldn't be ready by August 19.

President Hoover wants this highly controversial legislation out of the way and on the statute books before the biennial congressional campaigns begins next spring. The republicans want to keep the impending tariff struggle in the senate out of that campaign, if possible.

Cooperation Assured.

Democrats have given informal assurance they will cooperate to see the tariff bill is acted upon during the extra session. But the republican independents who are organizing in opposition to the house measure have given no indication they are in a hurry to see the legislation enacted.

The senate tariff contest is more than a month away but there are many predictions already of stormy days and perhaps lengthy debate.

Ranchmen And Old Settlers To Come Into Their Own At Reunion, Picnic

Everything is in readiness for one of the biggest old time ranchmen's reunion and old settlers' picnic that has ever been held in West Texas, according to an announcement made yesterday by Bud Johnston, owner of the Bud Johnston ranch, better known as the old Igo Ranch in Yellowhouse canyon, 12 miles southeast of this city. The celebration will be held July 18, 19 and 20.

A three day rodeo, racing program, dancing each night and many other features have been arranged and the old settlers will register and get together again to talk over old times. A prize and a pass to all the events will be awarded to the oldest settler that registers.

Track Prepared

A quarter mile track has been prepared and in addition to racing ponies each day, the crowds will watch saddle ponies race. Wild buffalo riding will be added as a special feature each day as will wild cow milking, cowboy range relay, novelty race, chariot race and wild mule races. Over $50 in prizes have been hung up in prizes by Bud Johnston, and the best skilled riders, ropers and other rodeo performers are expected to be on hand for the three-day celebration.

A special platform has been constructed for dancing and both old time "fiddle" music and the more modern "jazz" tunes will be played for crowds that come to dance.

An old fashioned chuck wagon will be on hand at the celebration during the entire time where people can secure food cooking in real Western fashion.

No Charge For Entrance

No charge will be made for entering the park, Johnston says. The Johnston ranch contains more than 5,000 acres and is one of the most beautiful picturesque places in this section of the state. It has an abundance of pure water from springs, ten miles of scenic drives, and suitable places for outings, boating, fishing, picnicing and other sports.

H. A. Johnson, of Lubbock, widely recognized as "Huckaberry Slim" and as an outstanding rodeo man, is assisting officials in preparation of the program.

Florists To Fight Chain Store Lines

GALVESTON, July 9. (AP)—A long fight for and against the chain store system looms ahead of Texas florists, it was said at the annual meeting of the Texas State Florists association here today.

A motion by R. C. Kerr of Houston for the organization of a research committee to delve into major problems confronting individual florists was recognized as an effort to thwart within the next several years the merging of florist firms into chain systems.

Warm discussion followed introduction of the motion, and several amendments were added. Finally, it was decided to shift the motion to the board of directors, who will take the matter under advisement and report before the close of the convention.

Mrs. Gladys Green and Mrs. Bill Townsend have returned to their home in Brownfield, following a business visit in this city Tuesday.

SEES FIRST WELL DAY IN 11 YEARS

"Orgatone Has Restored My Health And Has Been One Of My Greatest Blessings" Says Lubbock Woman"

"I am so grateful for the good Orgatone has done for me. I consider it a duty to make this statement, so that others may learn how I was relieved after eleven long years of suffering," said Mrs. J. H. Wilson, of 704 Ave L, Lubbock, Texas. Mrs. Wilson is a well known, popular business lady. She runs an apartment house.

"I suffered with a case of serious stomach trouble that just made my life miserable. My food would lay in my stomach just like lead and wouldn't digest, and gas formed on my stomach which crowded my heart until I nearly smothered to death, and my heart would palpitate so fast, I often thought I had a very bad heart and had heart burn always after eating.

"My liver and kidneys were bad, and I would have severe pains in my sides and back. I lost my appetite until I hardly ate enough to keep me alive and was getting weaker and thinner all the time. My complexion wasn't as clear as it should be, and I was very nervous and was so restless when I went to bed I couldn't get any rest at all. I also had a bad case of constipation.

"Orgatone was recommended to me by a friend and I started taking it. I have just taken one bottle and wish you could just see me now. Really, I haven't felt so well as I do now in the past eleven years. I have no discomfort since I have begun on Orgatone. My stomach has toned up, and my food digests properly and I sleep fine every night. I believe Orgatone is one of the greatest blessings I ever had, for I know that it has been a great benefit to me."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store who are direct laboratory agents. Ady.
