Huge Italian Army Ready To Start Advance

SIX BILLS ARE RETURNED BY GRAND JURY

Relief Funds Will Bring In Small Return

Only Two Agencies Lend Money, Others Are Giving It Away

(Copyright, 1935, By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (UP)—The government is in a position to recover only five per cent of the $4,000,000,000 it is spending for work-relief, officials said today. Of the millions spread throughout the country to end the drought, only the rural electrification administration and the public works housing division, with combined appropriations of $200,000,000, are lending money. All other agencies, spending $3,800,000,000 to put 2,500,000 needy on federal payrolls, are giving away their funds. They expect no return, counties and cities put up what they can for employment projects.

Where It Goes
Harry L. Hopkins, head of the works progress administration, already has donated $972,539,644 and is slated to hand out millions more. The civilian conservation corps is spending $600,000,000 in almost every state, with relief roll needy paid, fed and sheltered by the government.

Scout Chiefs To Assemble

Scouters In This Area Are Urged To Attend The Amarillo Meet

An appeal to scouters of this area to attend the sectional meeting for scouters in Amarillo Sunday and Monday was made Thursday by Charles Paxton, Sweetwater, president of the council and chairman of the western section. Such notables as Dr. George J. Fisher, deputy chief scout executive, Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive, Regional Executive James F. Fitch, and Thomas J. Horsley, regional chairman, will appear at the Amarillo meeting.

Soviet Military Strength Paraded

MOSCOW, Nov. 7 (AP)—The Soviet army paraded its most modern weapons through Red square today, in a great show of might on the eighteenth anniversary of the bolshevik revolution. Klement Voroshiloff, commander for the army and navy, told the army it must be ready to protect the frontiers of their nation at any moment. He warned in a newspaper article that the danger of a new world war hangs over mankind.

Murder, Assault Indictments Included

Six indictments including one for murder and another for assault to murder were returned Wednesday afternoon by the 70th district court grand jury.
Trinidad Romo, Mexican, was named in an indictment as the slayer of Jose Quezada, Jr., here Sunday morning. He previously had been reported to have made a complete statement of the affray which cost Quezada his life.
Robert E. Ray was billed for an assault with intent to murder for his part in a family argument which sent J. R. Bond, his father-in-law, to a local hospital with a serious abdominal wound and several minor cuts.
Jesse Alcorn, alias Jesse Brown, was indicted for felony theft in connection with the taking of clothing from the Elmo Wasson store.
Two other counts were returned against men for driving while intoxicated while a third indictment was brought for swindling by bogus check.
District Attorney Cecil Colling said that the grand jurors would convene again the final week of court.

Billy Sunday Death Victim

Noted Evangelist Succumbs At Home Of Kin In Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP)—Billy Sunday, 72, famed arm-swinging evangelist who forsook baseball for the pulpit, died at the home of a brother-in-law here last night, the victim of angina pectoris.
Sunday, who came here several days ago from Winona Lake, Ind., dined with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Thompson, his brother-in-law and sister. He went upstairs shortly before 8 p. m., after complaining of illness and died before a physician arrived.
His means, after he had gone upstairs, attracted members of the household who summoned medical aid immediately. The noted evangelist had been an invalid for some time.

Sunday was born in Ames, Ia., Nov. 19, 1863. He was graduated from a high school in Nevada, Ia., studied at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and became a well known professional baseball player.
Between 1883 and 1890 he played with Chicago, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia in the National league as an outfielder.
Upon his retirement from professional baseball, Sunday became interested in religious work and in 1891 was appointed an assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian association in Chicago.

On Oct. 27 Sunday preached in Mishawaka, Ind., at a Methodist church. Mrs. Sunday said, and expressed himself as "delighted with the success of the meeting." Mrs. Sunday said "30 or 40 people came to the altar."
The clergyman's first attack, his wife said, was suffered three years ago when he was preaching in Des Moines, Ia. He suffered another attack last May in Chattanooga, Tenn., and had been in failing health since.
In spite of his poor health he insisted on filling engagements already made. Mrs. Sunday said, speaking at Kansas City, among other places.

Five Killed In Army Plane Crash

MONTEPELLIER, France, Nov. 7 (AP)—A big tri-motored army bombing plane crashed in a forested land near Montepellier today, instantly killing five occupants.
Cause of the crash was unknown.

Ethiopians To Make A Stand Near Makale

Two Armies Within 100 Miles Of Each Other, Clash Imminent

(By the Associated Press)
The entire Northern Italian army, 100,000 strong, Thursday gained an advantageous position on a ridge overlooking the valley leading into Makale.
Italian native troops routed a small group of Ethiopians as the offensive was reopened. Ethiopians were reported massing 40 miles south of Makale at Amba Alaji.

Calls More Men
In Rome, Premier Mussolini ordered out men from the military classes of 1900 to 1910 as a precautionary measure. These apparently will be used for home service only.

The Italian army planned to march into and beyond Makale, starting at dawn Friday.
On the diplomatic front, it was reported that Britishers looked upon the strong United States position in the oil industry as damaging the chances for success of an oil embargo against Italy. Although asserting its neutrality, the United States has not entered into the embargo movement.

London diplomatic circles said that Mr. Molini and Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Rome, would renew discussions in an attempt to allay the tension between the two nations. Britain meanwhile denied a report that Italian-British differences about the Mediterranean fleet concentration had been settled.

German Embargo
A German foreign office spokesman revealed that Germany had imposed an embargo on arms and ammunition for Italy and Ethiopia, when the war started. The British halted the action of Germany in forbidding profiteering in exports of war materials to Italy.

Natives told the Associated Press correspondent Makale had been deserted by all but Ras Gugsa's adherents after a bloody battle between the deserters and the faithful at the time Haile Selassie's notorious son-in-law declared for Italy.
A sharp engagement between Askaris and Ethiopians was reported in the Hausien area covered by Italian advances, with Ethiopian casualties reported heavy in hand-to-hand fighting. Two native soldiers were killed and ten Askaris and two Italian officers wounded. These gigantic armies of the warring nations appear to be less than 100 miles from the other.
In Addis Ababa, the government contrary to Italian claim, asserted an Italian patrol was repulsed at the gates of Makale and that ten of the enemy were killed and four captured.

Merchandise Is Taken From Store Lobby Showcase

Breaking off a lock on a glass showcase in the lobby of the La Mode store on East Third street early Thursday morning, burglars got away with merchandise valued at about $5, according to Dave Tobolsky, manager of the store. The robbers did not molest the fixtures in the case, nor was any of the glass broken.

The Weather

Demos Win Record Vote In Kentucky

Chandler Holds Wide Lead; Farley Claims Gains Made By The New Deal

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 7 (AP)—Slowly yesterday's vote in Philadelphia increased over the 1932 figures.
Despite Republican victories in New York and New Jersey state assembly elections the election of a Republican mayor in Philadelphia and of a Republican Pennsylvania superior court judge, Farley interpreted the voting in all three states as pro-New Deal. Republicans hailed them as indicative of a trend back toward Republicanism and the forerunner of a national reversal to the Republicans in 1936.
Farley, who claimed gerrymandering and not popular votes for the New York assembly for the Republicans, last night declared the Democrats had picked up votes in Philadelphia.

To Continue Naval Parity

U. S. And Britain Together, Regardless Of Others

LONDON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Authoritative quarters said Thursday that the United States and Great Britain would agree to continue their naval parity, no matter what happens at the forthcoming, and apparently ill-fated naval conference.
Secretary of State Hull at Washington last night enunciated an American policy of using "appropriate" influence to stop foreign wars while still keeping out of them.

In a nationally broadcast radio address, intended to explain this country's neutrality stand in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, the secretary of state pleaded for wider discretionary powers for the president in directing this country's foreign affairs in times of international disturbance.
His suggestion was interpreted by some observers as paving the way for an administration request to the next congress for a more far-reaching but less rigid neutrality law expires at the end of February. Congressional efforts already are under way to extend it.
Wide significance was attached to Hull's words when he said: "Our foreign policy would indeed be a weak one if it began or ended with the announcement of a neutral position on the outbreak of a foreign war."

Kiwanians To Honor Ladies

Banquet Program Slated At Crawford Hotel This Evening

Kiwanians will stage their annual "stunt nite" honoring the ladies of Kiwanis at a banquet to be held at the Crawford hotel at 7 o'clock this evening.
The club's social event will be presided over by George White, president of the club.
Headlining the program will be the Brass Band quartet featuring Chic Bulot, Jack Ellis, Cal Boykin, and Tom Beasley.
Other oddities will be the cracker endurance race, the pole vault, 50 yard dash, and an oratorical flourish by W. T. Strange, a Kiwanian fallen from grace.
Balloting on every kind of a Kiwanian ranging from the ugliest to the most timid will be held and prizes awarded to the winners.

Instructor Meets Reserve Officers

Major J. J. Albright, unit instructor in the 35th infantry, stopped here Thursday for a brief conference with local reserve officers.
A group of reserves had held an informal session with the major here Tuesday before he left for Midland. He doubled back here Thursday, however, before continuing west.

Division Men Meet State Officials At Parley

Ten division engineers in the West Texas areas for the state highway commission, assembled in Big Spring Thursday, meeting with their chiefs, Chairman John A. Woods of the commission and State Engineer G. B. Gilchrist, in discussing the road program in this territory.
Sessions were held at Hotel Settles Wednesday morning and afternoon. Discussion was concerned primarily with technical phases of the highway program, principally that being developed under the Works Progress administration aid program.

Inspection Trip
Woods and Gilchrist stopped here for the day on their way back to Austin, after an inspection tour that took them through the far West Texas division. They came here from El Paso. With them were Tom Kelley, chief engineer for the department, and Roy Faltinson, designs engineer.
Woods said that much construction is under way in the West Texas sections, and that satisfactory progress is being made.

The state's road-building program has reached huge proportions this year, due to the boost in funds provided under the WPA. Texas' share in that fund was $22,000,000, of which $9,000,000 goes for grade separation projects, the remainder for highway construction. This money, with the federal aid provided under regular road construction, gives Texas about $39,000,000 for highways this year.

Contracts
The heavy program is being speeded with the letting of contracts by the commission twice a month. One batch was awarded this week, and another letting is scheduled for November 15.

Division engineers here to confer on the road program included W. A. French, Abilene; M. C. Wellburn, Fort Worth; George Garrett, Lubbock; Guy Lott, El Paso; George Finley, Pecos; John Nabers, Childress; W. J. Van London, Amarillo; A. F. Mourmond, San Angelo; Ed Woodward, Wichita Falls, and W. D. Dockery, Del Rio.
Resident engineers here for the session included S. C. Daugherty and J. K. Roberts of Abilene; J. R. Titus and George Achterberg of Pecos; D. W. Hopper and Earl Seaver of San Angelo; and A. A. Veager of Fort Worth.

Nelson Favors Changing System Of Legislature

AUSTIN, Nov. 6 (UP)—Sen. G. H. Nelson of Tahoka, baby member of the senate, hasn't been a Texas legislator but a member but he wants to change the system. Today he presented the senate a resolution seeking abandonment of the house-senate form of legislature and adoption of Nebraska's unicameral plan.
He wants it submitted as a constitutional amendment in 1937.
The two-body legislature, he said, causes delays, permits dodging responsibility and accountability to the people.
His suggestion was referred to the committee on state affairs.

Auto Sales Far Above Last Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (UP)—Automobile sales at the five current automobile shows are 30 to 40 per cent ahead of sales at last year's shows, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper said today.

Official Of United Stores In B'Spring

Elias Krupp and daughter, Miss Eleanor, of El Paso, are in Big Spring for several days, being registered at the Settles. Mr. Krupp is an official of the United Dry Goods company. He was very well pleased with the business outlook in this area, stating that Big Spring appeared to be one of the busiest little cities in this section of the country. While here he conferred with David Merkin, manager of the local United Dry Goods store.

Senate Takes Up Debate Of Money Bills

Measure Providing 1 Per Cent Sales Levy Is Drafted By Small

AUSTIN, Nov. 7 (AP)—The sales tax and a proposed levy on natural resources were in the foreground as senators Thursday started work on the amendment-riddled house omnibus tax bill. Estimates on the measure's revenue ranged from six million to 13 million dollars per year.

Liquor Bill Passed
The tax measure was taken up after both houses Wednesday had voted against sale of liquor by the drink and moved to restrict distribution of distilled spirits to sealed packages through state licensed stores.

Senator Clint Small of Amarillo prepared a one percent sales tax from which numerous articles, including groceries, and certain low-priced clothing articles and cotton goods would be exempt.
Senator Poage of Waco drafted a natural resources tax, proposing a graduated oil production levy, and assessments on sulphur, sweet gas and sour gas. He estimated the measure would bring in 44 million dollars annually. Small estimated his bill would raise at least $1,500,000 per year.

Allred Offers Topics
Governor Allred submitted certain appropriations and eleven local bills today, suggesting that the legislature could dispose of them in night sessions during the final week of the special term.
The governor said he did not "wish to open the general subject of appropriation," and warned that he would veto money bills other than those he submitted, which he called "absolutely imperative."
Although the house and senate were in accord on the chief principles of liquor control in their action Wednesday, they passed separate bills varying in many respects and the final draft likely will be written in conference.

Double Victory
House proponents of package sales gained surprising momentum as a final vote neared and approval seemed assured.

Hoppers Killing Panhandle Wheat

DALHART, Tex., Nov. 7 (UP)—Hordes of brown, flying, inch-long grasshoppers, coming from the north, have destroyed more than 2,000 acres of wheat in Dallam county alone and are preventing re-seeding, farmers in the area reported today.
The hoppers cut off or eat out the heart of wheat any time within 10 days after it sprouts.
Heretofore, even in the memory of the oldest pioneers, the first freeze has killed or run the hoppers out of the country. G. S. Lashley, farmer, asserted. The present horde has survived half a dozen freezes and one snow.

Rogers Was the Interviewer When Reporters Tried To Question Him

Bobby Jones, the golfer, was accompanied for years on all of his trips by an Atlanta newspaperman, O. B. Keeler, who interviewed world figures in all walks of life on two continents.
"But I never was able to interview Rogers though I tried many times and spent many hours in his company," says Keeler.
"It always began and wound up," said Keeler, "with Mr. Rogers doing the interviewing."
"That first time, now," Keeler went on. "Mr. Rogers was in Atlanta for a lecture. I went to the train to meet him. As he got off the Pullman he was asking me about the gubernatorial race in Georgia, and as we got in the taxi he was inquiring about the Atlanta traffic regulations."
"In the hotel room, Mr. Rogers took the lid off a portable typewriter and asked me what I thought about an article he was writing for a national magazine, a page of copy being then on the machine."
"I was enormously flattered by this digression and the chance to see for myself if Mr. Rogers really wrote those articles with the funny spelling and grammar in which they appeared. He did—and I got my story mostly about that. But I didn't get an interview out of him then or at any time, subsequently."

"Mr. Rogers amazed a great audience that evening with his information concerning local politics, sports, economics, personal history, and a variety of other matters connected peculiarly with Atlanta and Georgia. I was more amazed than anybody else. I had no idea I knew so much about these things, myself. He was by all odds the greatest interviewer I ever worked with—or against."

People From Midland Join Play League

Membership Drive Pushed Here, Must Be Completed Soon

While workers continued their efforts to enroll more members in the local unit of the Playboys League, word was received at the organization's offices Thursday that a number of Midland residents had signed memberships.
Purpose of the League is to sponsor presentation of high class legitimate stage shows here, and the work is carried on solely through the membership program. League members are hoping to enroll not only a big representation from Big Spring, but from neighboring cities.
First Play Saturday
Workers in the member drive, headed by Mrs. Harvey Williamson, stressed the fact that memberships

Railroad Builder Claimed By Death

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 7 (UP)—Martin W. Bates, an Irish immigrant boy who became one of America's pioneer empire builders of the last century, died here last night after a 10-day illness. He was 86.
Born in Kilkenny county, Ireland, Bates came to this country at the age of 14, and went to work on the railroads. At 21 he became a contractor in his own name and for many years built railroads, particularly in Canada and the southwest. While building the Kansas City Southern he founded and laid out the town of Ogden, Ark.

FLEET COLLEGE GIRL TO TRY FOR PLACE ON OLYMPIC TEAM

HELEN STEPHENS STAR OF BIG WINTER RACES SPEEDS WAY TO FAME

By WHITNEY MARTIN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

FULTON, Mo., Nov. 7 (AP)—Helen Stephens, a long, lean, lithe 17-year-old first-year student at the William Woods college for girls, is a candidate on the speed ticket for a berth on the 1936 American Olympic team, and right now it appears she is as good as elected.

Unheard of outside her own community a year ago, Miss Stephens, whose parents live on a farm five miles from Fulton, leaped—or rather sprinted—into fame overnight with a spectacular victory over Stella Walsh in a race at St. Louis last

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley

CHECKING THE weights of Big Spring and San Angelo football players, we were surprised to find that the starting line-ups of both Big Spring and Angelo average 163 pounds per man. We were greatly surprised, having figured for some time that the Steers had a comfortable weight advantage. The Steers weights are certified. We know them to be correct, but the Bobcat chart may not be accurate. However, it's not likely that the Bobcat mentors would report their charges heavier than they really are.

IN THE secondary the locals have the Cats on the line. The Bobcat backs average 159 pounds, while the Steers are seven pounds to the man heavier in that department.

RAY, SAN Angelo's star ball carrier, is the lightest man on the starting eleven. Ray tips the scales at 142. Reese is the heaviest man in the line-up at 181 pounds.

IN HERB Smith, 150-pound end, Coach Harry Taylor has a young fellow who is just about as good a wingman as there is in West Texas. Smith is no badly injured, sharing honors with Mercer, 175-pound tackle. Both are steady, dependable players with plenty of experience.

HARRY HAYS ran wild in early season games but a rough bunch of Breckenridge Blues battered him so badly he has been confined to the bench lately. Reports have been getting out of San Angelo to the effect that Hays is no badly injured, but he may not be able to start. Even if he does start the game here he can't last, according to the reports. Steer coaches have been treating such rumors lightly. Bristow says he understands the Hays boy is in good condition.

THIS MORNING'S San Angelo Standard-Times carried a five column lay-out of Steer coaches, Ole Cordill and a small picture of the squad. The layout was headed, "THIS LAYOUT ISN'T FROM THE ROGUE'S GALLERY—IT'S THE BIG SPRING FOOTBALL ENTOURAGE." Local school authorities considered it a gross insult, and a thorough investigation may be made.

BOB COOKE at Sweetwater is still worried about his Ponies. The poor old Sweetwater Mustangs haven't been given an outside chance all the way to do much in the district argument. It has been San Angelo and Big Spring from the day, or even before the fall training season opened. To add to their apparent weakness the Ponies lost one of their best backfield bets in the first game. A. J. Roy, the only backfield candidate with any weight, went out more or less for the season with a knocked down shoulder. The need of a back with power to hit the line has been demonstrated in numerous games this season.

TO LOSE FAT EAT SENSIBLY

Go light on fatty meat, butter, cream, and sugary sweets—eat fresh vegetables, fruits, fowl and fish (except salmon and mackerel).

Be sure you take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts with the juice of half a lemon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

Mrs. J. R. McCausland of Pittsburgh writes: "I took off 8 lbs. in two weeks with Kruschen. I ate as usual and feel fine."

Pay no attention to gossipers who say there is no safe way to reduce. Millions the world over take the little daily dose of Kruschen not only to banish excess fat but to keep stomach, liver, gall bladder, bowels and kidneys in healthy working condition. — Kruschen costs as low as 40c.

No more satiations—no more laxatives and no constipation when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen. Collins Bros., Drug Co., and druggists everywhere—adv.

Ticket Sale Is Slow

Big Spring fans have two more days to snatch off tickets for the Monday classic between the Big Spring Steers and the San Angelo Bobcats.

If 500 remaining tickets are not sold by 8:30 p. m. Friday they will be sent to other surrounding towns which have been bombarding school authorities for tickets. They are on sale in the Settles lobby.

San Angelo, having disposed of 1,500 tickets in less than a day and a half, is crying for more ducts. Orders by wire have been pouring in from that city. Other towns in this area have repeatedly requested a block of tickets.

Principal George Gentry said Thursday that an additional 2,500 seats had been provided for the game, and if the demand warrants another 500 will be erected to meet the seating capacity of the stadium to 6,000.

He predicted that the previous district attendance record of 5,300 for this year. The record was established last year when Big Spring played the Bobcats in San Angelo.

Aside from reserved seats already held by Big Spring fans, approximately 2,500 other tickets have been moved at $1 each.

San Angelo fans and pep squad will be seated in the east stand while Big Spring and out of town fans will draw the west side.

Special seats near the sidelines will be provided for the Big Spring band and pep squad.

Game time has been set at 2 p. m. Monday at the request of San Angelo school officials. They wanted the tilt called early to permit Bobcat fans to return home before dark.

Charges Told How To Stop Texas Aerial Game

WACO, Nov. 7.—Coach Morley Jennings Baylor Bears make their final home stand of the current season Saturday afternoon when they tangle with the University of Texas Longhorns on Carroll field. The Bear-Ster clash will be the feature of the day.

Continual rains of Tuesday and Wednesday drove the Bears inside for their daily drills and deprived them of much needed practice drills on their new running attack. Under cover of the gymnasium, Coach Jennings told his Bruins how he planned to stop the Texas aerial game Saturday and also gave them detailed instruction on their new plays and signals.

Fair weather and a dry playing field Saturday will find each team trying to outdo the other through the air. Profiting from the Frogs experience against the Grizzlies last week, the Steers will take to the air as they struggle to annex their first conference win of the season.

On the other hand, Coach Jennings states that he will combat the Texans with a renovated passing attack. Despite the fact that the Christians stole the air show last week, the Bruins displayed a neat aerial performance. With Russell and Gernand doing the heaving, the Bears attempted 23 passes and completed 11 for a total gain of 119 yards. Both of the Grizzlies' touchdowns against the Aggies were scored on passes.

John Williams, stellar wingman for the Bears and one of the outstanding defensive ends in the conference, will be captain of the Bears in the Longhorn encounter. Williams, senior from Wellington, weighs 190 pounds and has lettered two years on the varsity eleven.

LOMAX, MOORE DIVIDE SERIES
Lomax, Nov. 7.—The Lomax junior boys swept through to their fourth straight victory Wednesday night by defeating the Moore Bulldogs, 15-7 in the Lomax gym, but the Moore senior girls, led by Fay Burchette, enabled the visiting forces to split the two-game series by trouncing the Lomax girls, 29-3.

Higgins and Woods, center and forward respectively, led the boys' victory drive with four field goals, but Griffice of the Moore quint took high scoring honors with a field goal and three free shots.

A good defense on the part of the Moore girls kept all except Rice from scoring, the Lomax lass hitting the basket for four field goals. Burchette, flashy Moore offensive star, led the way to victory by hitting the hoop twelve times during the evening.

The Garden City junior boys and senior girls play the Hornets in the Lomax gym Friday night and the senior boys of the Garden City and Elbow communities will get together.

SPUNKY CATS

Strom and Elwell, both guards on Harry Taylor's San Angelo Bobcat team, intend to give the B. S. Steers a troublesome afternoon Monday. Strom is the heaviest at 175. Elwell weighs in at 170.

S. M. U. SPECIAL TO PAUSE HERE

A special train, bearing the Southern Methodist Mustangs, who are making football history, and more than 100 of the Fony rosters, will pause here around 8 p. m. this evening.

The Mustangs, who have won all seven of their 1935 starts against the toughest kind of competition, are enroute to Los Angeles, where Monday they will meet a severe test in the University of California at Los Angeles. The Browns are contenders for the Pacific Coast title.

The Ponies will arrive in California Saturday and will take in the Stanford-USC game in Berkeley before taking a light workout in Los Angeles.

Brush Up On Pass Defense

Coaches Fear Cats May Try Numerous Lateral Passes

The Steers coasted along Wednesday afternoon, brushing up on pass defense and going through more drills calculated to condition them.

"I'm just a little worried f' fear Angelo will come at us with an attack of laterals," Bristow confided after practice. "However, he couldn't, 'I believe we are ready and can stop them."

In an Armistice day game, the Mustangs will be without the services of J. C. Wetzel, star guard, Johnny Sprague, stubborn blocking halfback, probably will be unable to go to the route.

Coach Bell laid plans to stress offensive tactics in training, based on a new combination, without the services of the injured men, Charlie Baker, who has proved himself in action, was designated to start in Wetzel's guard position; but in James Russell and Bob Turner, candidates for the Sprague post, Bell had two men whose efficiency remained to be demonstrated in action.

Angelo Players And Fans In A Big Frenzy

San Angelo sports fans are hot for action: Thousands of the Bobcat followers are expected to pour into Big Spring Monday to witness the clash with the Steers of Big Spring high school.

It has been reliably reported that a group of San Angelo sportsmen will visit this city to cover all a local syndicate case against the Bobcat fans are said to be offering eight points and taking all corners. Blondy Cruz, San Angelo sports writer, and one-man publicity committee for the Bobcats, is attempting to work the San Angelo players and fans into a frenzy by repeating every day in his column a statement by Frexy Anderson, Abilene sports editor, that San Angelo doesn't stand a chance against the Big Spring Steers.

Angelo To Send Cops
He has succeeded to such an extent that the San Angelo city commission approved a plan to allow nine members of the police force to attend the game. All except one Angelo commissioner plan to witness the game and the city attorney of that place is seeking continuance of a case in Dallas in order to be at Steer stadium Monday afternoon.

So great was the demand for seats when the tickets went on sale at San Angelo Tuesday morning that a block of 12 seats was the limit for one person. Mike Cook, employe of the San Angelo Standard-Times, was the first in line for a block of 12 seats.

Cook was one of several who started forming a line in front of the City Drug store where the tickets were sold, at 5 o'clock in the morning. It gave the sale the aspects of the demand that greeted world series baseball.

Five hundred of the ducats were sold within an hour and a half.

CONCHO FANS TO STAGE PARADE

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 7.—Two motorcycle policemen, Sam Haynes chief, and at least six of his patrolmen will lead the Bobcat parade in the Big Spring business district preceding the San Angelo-Big Spring high school football game next Monday afternoon.

The Big Spring band and pep squad will also parade through the downtown district Monday morning, school officials have announced.

STERLING AND FORSAND CLASH

FORSAN, Nov. 7.—Forsan high school career, victorious over Moore last Friday night, 27 to 15, will play Sterling City here tomorrow night. The Sterling City aggregation will furnish strong opposition.

Liles was high point man last week as his team romped over Moore.

The Forsan girls' team will play Coahoma. The lassies' lost to Moore last week, 24 to 22.

Longhorns Will Take To Air Against Baylor

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (U.P.)—Practice indications were today that the University of Texas football squad would take to the air against Baylor Saturday in an attempt to win their first Southwest conference victory.

While Texas probably has no passer to match Baylor's Lloyd Russell, half a dozen dependable throwers are available.

W. J. Inkman of Fort Worth arrived Thursday to spend two months here on a visit with his son, W. W. Inkman.

NEGRO IS FULLBACK SENSATION

Rode A Freight Train To University Two Years Ago

By WINTHROP LYMAN
CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (UP)—The best ball carrier in the middle west so far this fall is Oze Simmons, negro fullback who carried his own bed clothes and rode a freight train to the University of Iowa two years ago.

The 20-year-old elusive Texan has been the most important factor in maintaining Iowa's undefeated record and few players in the country have equaled his long distance runs for scores.

His most outstanding accomplishment: Against Illinois—Ran 71 yards for a touchdown to break a 0-10 deadlock. Gained 192 yards from scrimmage.

Against Colgate—Ran 63 yards for a touchdown after taking a lateral from Bush Lamb. Plunged over for the second and winning touchdown. Gained 120 yards from scrimmage.

Against Indiana—Ran 59 yards for a touchdown on a rain-soaked field to enable his team to finish with a 6 to 6 tie. Gained 119 yards from scrimmage.

Against South Dakota—Ran 71 yards for one touchdown after taking a lateral pass from Dick Crayne. Returned a punt for 51 yards for another touchdown.

The only game in which Simmons didn't star was the opener against Bradley Tech, in which he played only a few minutes.

He has carried the ball from scrimmage 95 times this season for a total gain of 464 yards or an average of seven each time he ran.

Simmons first gained athletic note in Terrill high school, Fort Worth, Tex., where he won 11 letters and held the negro 100-yard dash record of 9.8 seconds.

Oze and his brother, Don, now a reserve end at Iowa, wanted to play football at college, but southern schools discouraged negroes. They heard of Ossie Solem, Iowa's head coach, because he had commanded a negro company during the World war. They asked him if negroes could play football at Iowa.

"Sure," he replied. "Duke Slater, the best guard Iowa ever had, was a negro."

Oze and Don barely had enough money to pay tuition, so they packed up a bundle of bed clothing and hopped a freight for Iowa City.

As a sophomore Oze started out to be a second Red Grange. Against Northwestern he gained 166 yards from scrimmage and returned punts for a total of 124 yards. Then Iowa's best blockers were hurt and Simmons also was hampered by an injury. He did not regain the form he showed against Northwestern until this season.

Simmons returned to school this fall weighing 185 pounds, 15 more than in 1934. The added weight has enabled him to absorb more punishment and has made him harder to knock down.

TCU Freshman Eleven Will Play NTAC Team

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—Coach Howard Grubbs' freshman eleven at Texas Christian university will take on the strong junior college team from the North Texas Agricultural college in a night game here Thursday, Nov. 14.

Undeafated this season, the Junior Aggies are expected to give the Poliwogs some real trouble. Grubbs' outfit looked good in defeating the Baylor Cubs 28 to 14 in a game here Oct. 30, but the Arlington eleven will be decided favorites to down the freshmen.

African War, Railroad Streamlining Provide Motif For Christmas Toys

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (U.P.)—While the world at large is gravely concerned by the African war, the toy world finds in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis only inspiration for new and gaudier types of tin soldiers, new and more realistic scenes of playroom "war" with which to greet the 1935 Christmas season. Despite its short duration, the conflict between Mussolini's trim legions and Haile Selassie's ragged warriors is influencing the American Christmas toy market. On toy counters throughout the land, in the tin soldier section, the most prominent position is being given to those figures cast in the Algerian or "Foreign Legion" mode, because they are most suggestive of the flowing-robed Ethiopians.

And within a few weeks, say toy style forecasters in the Merchandise Mart here, manufacturers will catch up with current history by producing figures even more faithfully copying the fighting equipment and regalia being used in East Africa.

Tractors Mount Guns
Meantime, the rubber-belted caterpillar tractor, an overwhelming favorite a few Christmases ago in a peaceful agricultural role, is staging a comeback this year in warlike pattern with a pair of fire-spitting machine guns on either side.

Metal casting sets, growing in popularity each year, also will reflect the military note with greater emphasis than ever this season, judging from previews of what the holiday season will offer. Tiny fighting airplanes will help youngsters, so inclined, to fight "from the air" their battles on what Robert Louis Stevenson called "the pleasant land of counterpane."

Aside from the military motif and possibly running abreast with it, streamlining is the keynote of Toyland, 1935.

New Trains Popular
With most of the nation's leading railroads having at least one super-speed, air-cleaving new creation, the quickly imitative toy world has copied them all with amazing faithfulness, and manufacturers estimate that probably 80 per cent of toy trains sold this Christmas will be in the streamline pattern.

Toy autos, velocipedes, scooters, coaster wagons, every sort of ve-

Texas Payrolls Show Increase During October

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Reports from nearly 1,500 representative establishments show that a total of 70,507 men and women were employed in Texas for the week ended nearest the middle of October, a decline of 2 per cent from the like month a year ago, but practically the same as the corresponding week of September, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research. Total payrolls for these firms, however, were $1,591,000, an increase of 28 per cent over October last year and slightly larger than the previous month.

Cities showing an increase over both comparable periods included Laredo, Port Arthur, San Antonio, Waco, and Wichita Falls. Industries showing gains over the two periods were: Cement plants, cotton oil mills, electric maintenance and equipment, furniture manufacturing, men's clothing manufacturing, petroleum refining, and wholesale stores.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Berry of Stanton visited with friends here Wednesday evening.

Bonus 'Boom' Due To Start Next Session

Bills Providing For Payment On Preferred List Of Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Politicians and observers in Washington expect the first ten days of the coming session of congress to culminate in a similar period of any congress in recent times.

They base their expectations on a simple but politically powerful word spelled "BONUS."

The last congress left hanging fire two pieces of legislation providing methods of payment of the soldiers' bonus. Both have a preferred parliamentary status in the session opening on Jan. 3, 1936.

One is the perennial measure of Wright Patman of Texas, passed by both houses in the last congress, but vetoed by President Roosevelt. The other is authored by Fred Vinson of Kentucky, member of the house ways and means committee, and sidetracked in favor of the Patman bill by the margin of one vote in the senate.

Sometime between the opening day of the session on Jan. 3 and Jan. 13 the membership of the house will have before it a bill for payment of the bonus. The "ayes" and "nays" of the 435 representatives will be recorded either on the Patman bill or the Vinson bill.

The Democratic leadership of the house has been and will be from now on in serious conference to determine which bill will be voted on first. Politicians are laying odds that the first vote will come on the Vinson bill. Their predictions are based on:

1. Representative Doughton of North Carolina, chairman of the ways and means committee, and his authority.

2. Action of the American Legion convention this year in St. Louis, calling for payment of the bonus without inflation.

3. That the house will pass the first bonus bill presented whether the author be Patman or Vinson.

Byrns Gets Petition
Stated bluntly, the Democratic leadership in the house (where such legislation as the bonus must originate) is out to beat the Patmanites to "the draw."

There's a petition on the desk of Speaker Byrns now, signed by a majority of the house, which forces automatically a vote on the Patman bill January 13. The Vinson bill, is blessed by the house ways and means committee, easily could be maneuvered into an even more preferred status than both now enjoy jointly.

And ways and means probably is the most powerful single group in congress.

Trainman Dies Of Injuries In Wreck

HOUSTON, Nov. 6. (U.P.)—G. J. Hill, 52, of Smithville, engineer for the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad, who was injured in a train wreck early Saturday, died here Tuesday.

The crash occurred when a freight train and a switch engine collided.

Hill was driving the locomotive on the freight train and applied the airbrakes and jumped when the two engines struck, but was pinned under the debris of wrecked freight cars. J. A. Smith of Galveston, fire-

PROVED BY 2 GENERATIONS

"I'd better ask Betty."

Most men know their wives have sound and expert opinions on merchandise. Even the husband who would never admit his need for advice usually tries to ferret out HER views, wishes and hopes before buying.

Why? Because most women seem to have an inborn interest in new things and better ways . . . They are curious and alert . . . They ask their friends about this and about that . . . They compare values with great care . . . They read the advertisements eagerly for the latest news.

It pays to keep ahead, by keeping up with advertising. Well-known products are definitely better products—if not, they couldn't be advertised month after month and year after year. The manufacturer and the merchant both know that the business that prospers is the business that promises satisfaction and keeps its promise.

The advertisements in this newspaper contain useful information about many things that concern you personally. Read every one that interests you . . . Read it carefully and take it seriously.

SPORT SLANTS

Frequently, in recent years, one has noticed famous football names of a generation ago cropping up in the collegiate lineup and summaries with little "jr's" attached. The younger generation of Staggs, Hestons, Pages and other great names have done little to endanger the reputations of their famous daddies, but then perhaps too much was expected of them because of the names they bore.

Right now young Bill Spaulding is a member of the University of California at Los Angeles Football squad which is coached by his father. The younger Spaulding is one of the most promising backs Coach Spaulding has in the ranks.

Navy Has a "Junior"
At Annapolis, Midshipman Bill Ingram is carrying on the name his father made famous in Navy football. Old "Navy Bill" coached at Annapolis for years and then resigned to take up the coaching duties at the University of California, where he continued to teach football until late last fall when he decided to retire from the field.

Tuss McLaughry, Brown coach, can look forward to better days for he has two sons coming along, and reports have it that the youngsters have the makings of real football players. Andy Kerr's son will soon be wearing the Colgate colors on the gridiron and doing what he can to put over his father's ball-passing tricks.

There is a peculiar situation at Notre Dame. Coach Elmer Layden knows that his kid brother Mike is a fine ball carrier, but does not use him as often as he would like for fear of being accused of showing favoritism. Elmer leans over backward trying not to show Mike any preference with the result that they both suffer. Mike, because he is not getting the opportunity he deserves, and Elmer, because he deprives himself of the full benefit of brother Mike's powerful plunging and blocking.

There have been plenty of brother acts on the gridiron, even several instances where brother opposed brother, but here is a unique situation involving brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Service Host
And Hostess For Jolly Annual
Birthday Celebration At HotelFloor Program Given During Dinner Hour
In Which Guests Impersonate Major
Bowes and Amateurs

Using a floor program impersonating the Major Bowes hour over the radio, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Service entertained their guests at Mr. Service's birthday dinner Wednesday evening at the Settles hotel with one of the cleverest-planned parties of the season.

The guests assembled in the card room, drew tallies and matched partners for the grand march into the dining room. This was led by the host and hostess.

A delicious and bountiful buffet supper awaited them. In the dining room a platform had been constructed with a microphone to carry out the illusion of broadcasting. Shine Phillips as Major Bowes announced amateur hour. C. S. Blomfield wearing a red tie and a derby performed as Piccolo Pete. Mrs. R. T. Finner was Kate Smith. Swinging considerable red jewelry and chewing gum she rendered a solo. Ira Thurman dressed in overalls was announced as Antonio Spaghetti. He sang and received the song. Mrs. M. M. Edwards impersonated Mae West. A huge hat with a flowing black plume and a white fur in addition to a pink evening dress made her resemble the noted actress. She read a poem dedicated to the honor guest of the evening.

Dr. E. O. Ellington as Reubenoff gave a harmonica solo and tap dance. He was appropriately garbed in plaid trousers, light coat and a slouch hat.

The climax of the program came at the end when two performers announcing themselves as famous movie stars crashed the amateur hour. Mrs. Homer McNew as Jean Harlow, insisted on singing a solo after which Mrs. Shine Phillips as Greta Garbo, yodeled.

The ensemble concluded the program by singing together happy birthday to Mr. Service and signing off with the Service name and initials as the station name.

When the dinner was concluded, Mr. Service unwrapped the many pretty gifts the guests had brought him and read aloud telegrams received from friends in Los Angeles and other points.

This concluded the dinner hour and the party returned to the card room, found places at the tables, and spent the remainder of the evening at bridge.

A centerpiece of dark red roses was used for the dining table. Orchid and bronze chrysanthemums in urns and bowls furnished the formal decorations for the card room.

Mrs. Emil Fabrenkamp received a beautiful Cambridge fruit bowl for making high score for the women present. Mr. Ford was awarded the new mystery novel, "Murder in Texas," written by a Big Spring girl, Ada E. Lingo, as men's high prize.

Mrs. R. V. Middleton and George Wilke each received double decks of cards for high cut. Mrs. J. D. Farr was given a pretty bowl for consolation for the women and Harry Hurt a summary of Culbertson's bridge rules for consolation for the men.

About 60 guests were present to enjoy the evening and extend felicitations to the honor guest.

DUPLICATE WINNERS

Mrs. Frank Murray and Mrs. Elmo Wasson were the highest scorers at the evening duplicate class held at the Crawford hotel Tuesday evening.

Bob Hoover of Fort Worth spent two days visiting his aunt, Mrs. W. W. Inkman.

as has the three-piece satin ensemble.

Emulating street attire, lounging things are going militaristic with frogs and braid trimming. Ostrich trims many of the more formal models and any number of hostess pajamas are designed with trains.

In the matter of lingerie, nighties which entered the ranks of evening gowns this spring with formalized styling, are even more elaborate this fall with circular skirts, matching coats and jackets and off-the-shoulder treatments. Strawberry is a luscious new color for lingerie, and lavender is a close second in popularity. Hems are weighted with lace, and hand detailing and hand-finished scalloping are employed.

Mrs. Frank Wilson was elected president of the Firemen Ladies at their annual election of officers Wednesday afternoon at the V. F. W. hall. Mrs. Frank Sholte became past president.

Other officers selected were: Vice-president, Mrs. S. M. McTier. Secretary, Mrs. Russell Manion. Treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Smith. Collector, Mrs. Alfred Moody. Chairman of board of trustees, Mrs. Roy Jones.

Second member of the board, Mrs. A. E. Wade. Third member of the board, Mrs. Tom Adams.

Prayer Week
Is Observed
By W.M.S.

Methodist Women Meet At Church In All-Day Service

The women of the First Methodist W. M. S. observed their annual Week of Prayer with a service at the church Wednesday beginning at 10:30 and continuing until 2 o'clock, with luncheon omitted.

Mrs. Fox Stripling, superintendent of spiritual life, presided over the meeting and Mrs. Joe Faucett was the pianist.

Mrs. C. A. Bickley and Mrs. Herbert Keaton had charge of the first hour whose program topic was "Prayer Retreat."

Mrs. V. H. Fievelken had the second hour program, called "Contagion of Service." She was assisted by Mmes. Tracy Roberts, C. F. Lochridge, M. E. Ooley, Charles Morris and R. L. Warren.

Mrs. O. M. Waters gave the third hour subject: "Immortality of Service" with the assistance of Mrs. Carl Williams, Mrs. Lochridge and Mrs. W. K. Edwards.

The fourth hour was devoted to a playlet by members of Circle Four of which Mrs. Faucett is chairman. A very enjoyable number was given on the work in China by Mmes. Harold West, Dave Duncan, Pascal Buckner, H. M. Rowe, Hayes Stripling, Walter Cundiss and S. P. Jones.

An offering of $33 was made, to be divided between the Laura Haygood Normal school in China and the Ensley Wesley house in Birmingham, Ala.

Flag-bearer, Mrs. Loy Smith. Inner guard, Mrs. Tom Adams. Outer guard, Mrs. E. L. Deason. Musician, Mrs. Alfred Moody. Magazine correspondent, Mrs. Ralph Smith.

Delegate and alternate Mrs. Sholte and Mrs. Roy Jones. Medical examiners, Drs. Hoover and Sanders.

The officers will be officially installed the first meeting in December.

Present were: Mmes. Sholte, Wilson, McTier, Manion, Ralph Smith, Moody, Roy Jones, Wade, Adams, Wiesen, Arnold, Deason, Gladys Stuser, Minnie Barber, Ida Smith, W. G. Minn, Iva Johnson, Florence Rose and Miss Marvin Louise Davis.

Last Lecture To Be Given Friday
By Food Expert

Dr. Rose A. G. Fraser will conclude her series of health lectures on proper diet Friday afternoon at the Settles ballroom. Her lecture will be on the subject of the adolescent child, which she has postponed until Friday at the request of many mothers, she stated.

This will be one of the best lectures and the most popular sessions of the whole school, if past schools are a sample, she reported. Sponsors offered by merchants sponsoring the school will be given away.

The hours are from 2:30 to 5 and Dr. Fraser suggests that the women come on time to secure advantageous seats.

Dr. Fraser has spoken every night this week in surrounding communities on the subject of diet.

Surprise Party
Is Held For Mrs.
Charles Burleson

A surprise birthday party was given Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. L. Hush at 709 Douglas street honoring Mrs. Charles Burleson.

The house was decorated with autumn flowers.

Mrs. Simon Terrazas and Mrs. Lucy Myers won the contest prizes. At the conclusion of the games a telegraph delivery boy left a decorated basket containing presents for the honoree.

The guests then assembled around a long candle-light table beautifully decorated with vases of pink and red rosebuds, to be served salad with slices of angel food birthday cake and coffee. Miniature turkey gobblers were Thanksgiving favors.

Attending were: Mmes. Burt Trice, Glass Glenn, J. A. Kinard, Ira Martin, H. H. West, Jack Potter, Willard Crain, Douglas McKinney, J. D. Logan, George Grimes, Lucy Myers, Simon Terrazas, Ernest O'Brien, Merl McGinnis, Temple C. Rodgers, George Covey, Dewey Parkhill and Miss Evelyn Parkhill.

Mrs. Hazel Lamar and L. C. Taylor sent gifts.

Mrs. E. L. Morrison and son of Ballinger are visiting Mrs. Morrison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. House.

Also present in addition to those named were: Mmes. B. B. Zinn, J. C. Waits, J. A. Myers, Pete Johnson and Cliff Talbot.

Actress From Broadway In Comedy Role

Geraldine True Has Lead Part In Stage Play Here Saturday

Playing the leading feminine role in "Petticoat Fever," the New York stage comedy to be shown at the Big Spring municipal auditorium Saturday evening, is Geraldine True, a Broadway actress of note who recently appeared with Eva LeGallienne in "Cradle Song."

Miss True appears in one of the principal parts, with Lionel Ince, English actor. "Petticoat Fever" will be offered here as the first of three attractions under sponsorship of the Playgoers' League.

Miss True has played both in New York and on the road in a number of modern comedies, including "This Thing Called Love," "Meet the Wife," "The Cat and the Canary," and "Holiday."

She has played opposite Lionel Ince before, and the two have made a success.

The bright comedy comes on the road after a notable success at the Ritz theatre in New York, where it was one of the laugh hits of the season. "Petticoat Fever" tells of the strange events that happen to a young man when a pretty girl drops in at his far-away outpost in Labrador, where he has lived for two years without seeing a woman. With Ince and Miss True in the cast are Edward McCarty, Joe Kemary, Jeanne Lloyd, Orpha Phillips, Lee Orland, H. E. Walker, Joe Flannigan, and Frances Hall.

Four Children Burned To Death

CARIBOU, Me., Nov. 7. (U.P.)—Four children, ranging in age from 1-2 to 7, were burned to death when fire swept a wooden bungalow Wednesday.

Mrs. Alice Martin and Mrs. Maxine Bouchard, mothers of the victims, escaped with three other children. Their husbands are in jail on non-support charges.

Novel Feats Promised In Magic Show

Mel-Roy The Great Plays Here Friday Under Auspices Of Band

Many unusual feats of magic not performed by other entertainers are promised in the show to be presented at the municipal auditorium Friday evening by Mel-Roy the Great, famous magician. The show is sponsored by the municipal high school band, and proceeds will go to the band's fund.

The current tour which includes Big Spring is Mel-Roy's eighth annual one, and this year, it is said, he has gathered together a most impressive program of mystifying illusions and manifestations of magic. His wide experience as a magician and his stage personality make Mel-Roy one of the outstanding entertainers in his line.

Tickets for the Friday show, it has been announced by Dan Conley, director of the band, are 25 cents for adults and 20 cents for children. Members of the band are offering the tickets for sale.

An escape from a nailed-up packing box, fastened by members of the local audience, will be one of Mel-Roy's featured stunts. He promises to make the escape within a minute, and then to exhibit the box still intact.

The Denver Post said in part of Mel-Roy's show: "With the simple feat of pouring a miniature mountain of flower petals from an utterly blank piece of writing paper, Mel-Roy nonchalantly proceeds to wave a bit of colored cloth and cause objects to materialize literally out of thin air. The skeptics will be forced to admit that even a magician could hardly carry a goldfish bowl and a three-foot plant up his sleeve, and yet these, too, are made to appear."

Big Spring Bowling Alleys Open Again

The Big Spring Bowling Alleys, closed for the past several weeks, reopened today under new management.

Zasu Pitts Turns 'G-Woman' To Get Her Man, In Comedy At Ritz Today

When a shy, flustering girl from a small town gets mixed up with all sorts of Chicago's gangsters, anything is liable to happen. And a lot does happen in "She Gets Her Man," a farce comedy which shows Thursday only at the Ritz, with Zasu Pitts and Hugh O'Connell in the leading roles.

In the story Miss Pitts and her small-town sweetheart, Lucien Littlefield, conduct the Bon Ton Lunch Room in Plainville, Ill., and one day the girl is making a two dollar deposit at the local bank when the institution is held up by gangsters. Miss Pitts promptly faints and in so doing falls on a concealed button which releases jets of tear gas. The bandits are forced to flee, and the startled Zasu finds herself hailed as a heroine.

A newspaper account of her exploit is seen by Hugh O'Connell, a press agent, and with his fiancée, Helen Twelvrees, he goes to Plainville to sign Miss Pitts for a lecture tour, in which she is presented as "the bravest woman in America." With her prepared speech she arouses the women of the country in a fight against crime, but her rousing campaign is brought to a halt when she is kidnapped by gangsters. The climax of the picture brings the most ludicrous situations ever shown on the screen, and definitely establishes the dumbfounded Miss Pitts as America's greatest force for law and order. But even then she doesn't know what it is all about.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste, poisonous matter may develop, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

VALUABLE INDUSTRIES

Press dispatches recently told of the town of Hopedale, Massachusetts, as being one community which never has applied to either the state or the nation for relief.

There is no welfare list in Hopedale. The town itself is called upon for care for only a few aged people.

The reason? Hopedale has a steady payroll. It is a mill town, and the mills provide a regular income for a major portion of the population.

Which all reminds us that Big Spring should never fail to note and appreciate that it stands out above many cities of its own section as a town that can boast dependable industrial payrolls—a factor that does much in assuring steady business.

Payrolls like those of the railroad, the refinery, the oil interests and others—these are of inestimable value to the city's business life. The industries that make them possible deserve due recognition for their great influence in the building of Big Spring.

NEW PARKS CHIEF

West Texans should welcome the news of appointment of one of their number, Wendell W. Mayes of Brownwood, as new chairman of the state parks board.

Mr. Mayes steps into a big job. Only in recent years has Texas turned seriously to the development of its vast natural beauty spots, and although considerable progress has been made, there is still much to be done.

West Texas has its share of scenic territory which must be beautified and turned into parks that will be recreational spots for its own people and points of attraction for visitors. With the help of the National Parks service and CCC labor, much can be accomplished.

Mr. Mayes, a native West Texan and one who understands well the need of Texas in park development, should be able to direct the advancement of parks in this section; and he deserves support of this section and all the state.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

NEW YORK—Ever since the beginning of modern gangsters in the big city, one of the romantic fallacies bruited about is that the chiefs whose names appear most frequently in the papers are the "brains" of the mobs.

This, as any one may see after making what Al Smith would call an examination of the records, is strictly the Okra Soup, as almost never are the headline boys the real "brains" behind the throne.

Dutch Schultz, overlord of the numbers racket who was mowed down in a Jersey bar recently, was by no means the shrewd thinker who single-handed planned his coups and waged campaigns against rival racketeers. "Legs" Diamond, legendarily The Brain of a powerful underworld clique, was only a build-up figure, a cheap hoodlum who rode the front pages behind a $1,000,000 publicity campaign.

None of the notorious Amberg trio, now all dead, could be called the master brain behind the loan sharks' racket. The real "intelligence" came from a staff of crafty attorneys always retained by influential mobs. Hymen Amberg, known as "The Rat," was a quaking, dope-peddling suicide. "Pretty" Amberg, so known because of the unusual sour expression on his face, was notoriously a killer and a money-squeezing Shylock. He was hacked in the face, garroted and burned. Joseph Amberg, executed against a garage wall in Brooklyn, was said to be the smartest of the three.

Even Al Capone, safely ensconced behind bars (probably the reason he still is alive) was no grand strategist, although romantic tales of his "brain work" probably will exist until long after he is dead.

Probably the smartest of the modern thugs still alive is Johnny Torrio, who "got smart" when a fortunate break let him get out of Chicago alive. A Brooklyn boy who made good as Al Capone's pal, Johnny made the grievous mistake of attending the funeral of the wrong gangster, and wound up by having half his face shot away. Now he is said to be a lieutenant of Charles "Lucky" Luciano, boss of an east side Italian mob, but Luciano never saw the day he could match wits with Torrio.

"Lucky," who succeeded to power after the "demise" of "Joe the Boss" Mescalera, four years ago, although influential, is regarded as just another head-line runner, while Torrio, badly wanted by the police, is emulating the elusive tactics of the "Seldom Seen Kid," fictional character of the underworld.

A canvas of underworld characters probably would reveal more colorful names than could be lured from a library of fiction. There was Otto Herman, killed with Schultz, known everywhere as "Regret," so called because he once won a bet on a horse named Regret. "Legs" Diamond, whose first name was Jack, won his cognomen because of his extraordinary skinny, under-pinning. The slightness of Augie Piasano's fame caused him to be known as "Little Augie." Because of his firm grip upon Brooklyn Italians, Joe Mescalera was known as "Joe the Boss." And for reasons obvious to friend and foe Jake Wallner came to be called "Take the Rm."

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By
DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The die is cast.

Thirty million housewives of the U. S. A. might as well prepare for the worst. AAA jugglers of statistics have it all figured out that, crop control or no crop control, the price of spuds next year will be sky high.

The reason for this is what they call the "potato cycle"—a new theory they have evolved from a study of 16 years of potato prices, during which low and high prices each extended over two-year periods.

This see-saw up-and-down is attributed to the old law of supply and demand. When prices are profitable the growers plant more potatoes. Then the market becomes glutted, and prices crash. For a couple of years thereafter, the farmers ease up on potato production and prices improve. Then there is another surplus and prices tumble.

In the belief that potato markets the last two years have been abnormal, the AAA concludes that 1936 should be a high-price period. They admit that their calculations may go awry. So, publicly they are saying nothing about them. Also, if prices should improve next year they want the voting farmer to credit the administration's agricultural program.

Cordell Hull

Friends of Cordell Hull, who knew him as a judge in the Tennessee mountains, tell this story as indicative of what the secretary of state thinks of Benito Mussolini.

Hull was walking down the main street of Carthage, Tenn., one day when a rain of bullets spattered about him. A Tennessee feud in full force had broken loose. Firing came from both sides of the street.

Judge Hull, however, continued to walk straight ahead. He did not even quicken his pace.

Later, friends who saw the incident asked him he had not taken to cover like almost everyone else on the street. Hull replied: "I figured that there was just about as much chance of my being hit if I ducked and ran as if I walked straight ahead. But the next day I found the leader of the gang who endangered the lives of everyone on the street, and I paid my respects to his jaw."

Behind the scenes, the recent A. F. of L. convention settled nothing in the fierce struggle between the craft and industrial union factions.

On the surface it looked as if President Bill Green and his coteries of Old Guard, time-serving office holders mopped up miner John L. Lewis and the industrial union group. This victory, however, was not the end but the opening round in a fight that is destined to mark an epoch in labor history in the next few years.

Lewis and those backing him not only do not intend to bow to the triumphant craft unionites, but they are already laying plans to defy them openly. The details of their program still are in the formative stage. They will be worked out at a secret conference to be held early next month.

The general outline of their strategy was agreed upon at an unrecorded meeting of the group, following the adjournment of the federation convention. It calls for the following:

A militant offensive WITHIN THE A. F. OF L. FOLD during the course of the next year to organize new industrial unions. The established industrial unions (such as the United Mine Workers, United Textile Workers, International Ladies Garment Workers, Amalgamated Clothing Workers and smaller federal unions) lending financial aid to the new industrial unions now getting under way in the steel, auto and rubber industries. Green and his faction are trying to stifle these organizations by loading them up with officers of their own choosing.

Creation of an informal confederation of industrial unions which may eventually break loose from the A. F. of L. if the craft group refuses to come to terms, and form a rival federation.

In waging their battle temporarily within A. F. of L. ranks, the industrial unionists are cannily taking advantage of a fortunate set of circumstances. Their bitter foes are unable to discipline them, much as they would like to do so.

The rules of the A. F. of L. provide that no international union can be expelled except on a two-thirds vote of the annual convention. This majority never can be mustered, since the industrial unions already control about 40 percent of the A. F. of L. vote.

So long as they want to remain in the federation the power to do so rests safely in their hands.

Protective Atmosphere
Several New York friends of Secretary Henry Morgenthau, who dropped in on him for a call, talked about a one-time high administration figure who is now very much persona non grata in the New Deal circles.

"How did he ever come to be appointed?" asked one of the visitors. "Up in Albany we pegged him for what he was right away."

"That is one of the big differences between Albany and Washington," Morgenthau replied drily.

French Justice

While in Paris recently, Attorney General Cummings got a close up of French justice.

Taken to see the Court of Assizes in the Seine district, he arrived during the trial of a crime passionel. The three presiding judges invited Cummings to sit with them on the bench.

The first thing that struck Cummings was that the jury box held five alternative jurors, a practice just being introduced in the United States.

The next thing was that the defendant, one Henri Agar, accused of murdering a former friend of his sweetheart, was allowed to make a plea in his own defense.

The third departure from American procedure was that after the prisoner had made his stirring harangue he was removed from the court room, and not brought back until after the jury had reported its verdict.

The jury, out only 25 minutes, found him not guilty. Agar, returned to the court chamber, was handing he is second only to Big Jim Jovial, smooth-talking and an unflinching joiner, Howes knows politics from the ground up.

He has been a district attorney, served as a member of the South Dakota legislature and he ran for governor of the state. He was one of the earliest B. C. (before Chicago) Rooseveltians, a fact which earned him the job of second assistant postmaster general in 1933. He was later promoted to first assistant.

Howes' ardent devotion to politics even played a role in the naming of his young daughter.

He was sitting in the South Dakota state senate when word of her birth was received. An enthusiastic colleague forthwith introduced a resolution that her second name be "Senate." The measure went through with a whoop and the little girl was duly christened Mary Senate Howes.

Eastman Will Speak On New Carrier Law

Federal Transportation Chief To Be In Houston Monday

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, will speak on the recently enacted federal truck law and coordination of transportation at Houston on Monday, Nov. 11, to a meeting of shippers and truck operators.

Mr. Eastman, crossing the country, has agreed to stop in Houston en route and address the meeting, according to telegram from F. G. Dorsey, Houston president of Texas Motor Transportation association, from Washington.

"Shippers and truckers alike throughout the east feel that the instrument for stabilizing the motor transportation industry has been placed in the hands of the interstate commerce commission," said Mr. Dorsey. "Mr. Eastman's route makes it impossible for him to be at any more centrally located point in the state."

The federal motor carrier law, which became effective Oct. 15, places under interstate commerce commission control the granting of certificates, fixing of rates, etc., on all trucks operated for hire in interstate commerce. The coordinator is also a member of the I. C. C. "Business men distributing by their own trucks will be as much interested as truckers-for-hire," Mr. Dorsey explained, "as certain provisions of this law apply to them. I hope they will come from all parts of Texas to greet Mr. Eastman."

EX-LETTERMEN TO HOLD RALLY

All of Big Spring high school's football ex-lettermen are urged to attend a pep rally Sunday at 7 p. m. on the mezzanine floor of the Settles Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Lewis spent two days here visiting Mrs. Lewis' brother, Mr. E. House and family, before going to their home in Dallas after spending a month in Arizona.

Lendora Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Rose, is ill.

HIGH COURAGE

Chapter II
CAMPAIGN PLAN
by Jeanne Bowman

Further persecution? Anne stared at Anne Kellogg in bewilderment. "But what else can he do?" she asked.

"He had planned to break all of this to you tomorrow at the reading of that part of the will ready to be made public. He had planned, I believe, to do it in so cruel a fashion you would try to retaliate."

"There is a provision, made by Luke, that should any person contest the will, that person will be cut off from any participation in the estate. You wouldn't know that. He would."

"And then there was the publicity he intended to have directed towards the clouting of your name, or lack of name."

"Aside from that, he intends to try to keep you from taking one article from your home. I can forecast him there. I want you to make a list of everything you own from fur coats to bath soap, all monies you have spent on the house, on anything or anyone other than yourself. Will you do that?"

"But there is so much, you know mother and Dad were both interested in my new home and were constantly buying things and storing them in the house because our new home wasn't ready for them. I know," she said, suddenly, "Yvonne, can list my clothing and personal things, and Harney . . . say," she began with sudden illumination, "this is why Mrs. Farnsworth fired Mrs. Harney this morning."

She explained to the judge, "Of course," he agreed, "Charlotte and Tom would be working together. By getting Mrs. Harney out of the way, they could question your right to things and should she appear for you they could say she was doing it in retaliation for being discharged."

"Well, we'll fix that little game," he declared in triumph. "You have Mrs. Harney come to see me."

"She's down-stairs now."

"Send her up. Then you'd better go on home and have Yvonne pack your clothes, and in the meantime I'll try to figure out a place for you to stay."

"You won't have to appear at the reading of the will, tomorrow. I'll represent you, that will save you from some of their devilry."

"Now, feeling any right? Think you'll be able to get home alone?" Anne nodded.

"You've been a fine brave girl, Anne," Judge Kellogg told her in parting, "Luke would have been proud of you."

Anne carried this thought with her. To have Luke proud of her had always been her ambition. She cherished the thought no less now.

She felt that he and Lucinda would have told her themselves had they not been sure their secret would never be revealed, and had they lived Tom Farley would have kept silent.

Anne drove methodically. She stepped at the red lights, went into gear on the amber and released her clutch on the green, and all the time her mind tried assimilate what she had learned in Judge Kellogg's office.

A traffic officer, seeing the sleek black car pass with a pretty girl at the wheel, talking aloud to herself, looked at a nearby clock. Too early in the morning for intoxicants; she must be angry. His wife talked to herself when she was in a temper; nevertheless he watched the car until it was out of sight.

"I am not the daughter of Luke and Lucinda. I am not adopted. Tom Farley wants me to challenge the will, but why need he? If I do not belong to these parents, I'm not kin, and therefore I won't receive a share. He wants to disgrace me publicly."

"Why? So I can't fight. I suppose." She turned into her own driveway, looked up at the big house which had been her home. Already it had taken on the look of another's. And then she saw Rob's car in the driveway.

Rob. He would take care of her. He would find her real parents, give her a name, and once she belonged to him, Tom Farley would be afraid to do anything. Tom was a little afraid of Rob, she'd always thought.

She parked her car, and rushed up the steps, and into the house. Rob was in the library. He arose from a seat near the fire and Anne sped to him, found herself engulfed in tweed-clad arms. The blessed safety of them.

"Let's get out of here so we can talk," she said, and looked up at him as if wanting visible assurance of his presence.

"We'll go up to the house," he agreed, "this place has a thousand eyes and two thousand ears. Sharlee entertained me until she saw you coming. She thinks she's an animated mystery story. She kept saying, 'what a surprise you're in.' Do you know what she means?"

"Yes," answered Anne, as Rob tucked her under a robe in his car. "I'll tell you when we reach . . . home."

"Fine." He started the car and as they drove along he talked of the canneries. "Tom Farley tried to get hold of me a couple of times. He was at Westport, but I didn't know that until I phoned the office from the house there. Wonder what he wanted? He said it was important. But then he thinks anything he does or says is important."

"Anne, I'll be mighty glad when I can run things my way. They're still raising Cain down there about the fish-traps."

"Rob, you know what father said about that?"

"I know. But Anne, you're going to trust my judgment, aren't you? Wouldn't you think me crazy if I tried to go into a motor race with a horse and buggy? Same idea."

when you're in a competitive business you have to use modern methods. Well, here we are."

He parked the car but made no move, and Anne, sitting beside him, looked down on the house, white against the fir trees. Lonely looking this day. A hammer was pounding somewhere inside, echoing distantly.

"Anne," Rob spoke cautiously, "wouldn't you feel more at home in the big house? You know we could sell this easily because it's a modest size and it won't be so easy to dispose of the other place. It's a bit old fashioned and all, and you'd like to keep the old servants with you, wouldn't you?"

He had thrown his arm about her, and Anne, weary and heart-broken, was curled into the nest it made, trying to find the strength she would need to face this last trial.

"About the first thing I'd do," he went on, "is run that crowd out. They act like they own the place."

"They do," came in Anne's quiet voice.

"They own the place. Father, Luke Farnsworth left it to Uncle, to Lee and Mabel."

"Well, what do you know about that? Rob's voice was flat. He waited a moment, then, "perhaps it's just as well, I'd like to move down to Astoria for a while. Our house won't be dried out enough to live in for two or three months and that would give me time to straighten things out at the canneries."

"It like Lee, but he's lazy and things are slack as the deuce. I'm going to have to jump into the harness and work like the dickens if your interests are to be taken care of properly."

"Rob," Anne looked up at him, anxious to catch each shading of expression as he listened to what she had to say, "they are not my interests."

"What do you mean?"

"Luke left the canneries and the rest of his interests as an estate."

"Anne, what are you saying?" Rob had taken his arm from her shoulders and had turned to look at her in incredulous surprise.

"I am to receive only my usual allowance of one hundred dollars a month."

"There's something wrong, someplace, Anne. Your father told me soon after we were engaged that he wanted me to learn the business thoroughly because if anything ever happened to him, you would be left with the entire responsibility of the canneries."

"He said he'd already made out his will, leaving you the only heir."

"He changed the will," the girl interposed. "He changed it while you and I were waiting to see him. If you'll remember, that man who came out as we went in was an attorney."

To Issue Bonds On Brazos Work

AUSTIN, Nov. 6. (U.P.)—Resolutions calling for issuance of nearly $9,000,000 in Brazos river bonds were on record today, to be used in acquiring property for the $30,000,000 program on conservation dam-building on that river.

Directors held their first meeting in Austin and chose L. Mims of Freeport as president. John A. Norris, state water board chairman, will be in temporary charge of the Brazos project.

A test case is planned to establish validity of bonds to be issued. Federal officials of the WPA announced that men would be put to work on the giant undertaking as speedily as possible.

All directors of the Brazos board were present.

ADVANCE—NOT RETREAT

The Right to Drink vs. Other Rights

People talk about the right to drink liquor. What about the right to be safe on the street? What about the rights of the people to quiet and decency in the neighborhood? What about the right of children to have food and clothes? What about the right of wives to have security and courtesy? What about the right of industry to have workmen who are sober and dependable? What about the right of government to have citizens and officers who are free from the evil and corrupting influences of the liquor traffic?

Legalizing the manufacture, sale, and use of intoxicating beverages is a wrong, and use of intoxicating beverage is a wrong, as all history and every development of the traffic proves it to be a moral, social and political wrong.—Abraham Lincoln.

Brewers Say

"Concentrate all your advertising on the young men and women," "draw your customers from the lighter to the stronger drinks."—R. T. Lang in Advertising and Brewing Industry.

The Terror Of It!

During the last 15 months more people lost their lives in motor accidents in this country than all the Americans killed in action during the entire World War.—Research Foundation.

"Wee unto him that giveth his neighbor a drink."—Hab. 2:15.

There are various ways of giving one's neighbor a drink, but whether at a social function, in the legislative hall or at the ballot box, the wee pronounced upon the giver is the same.

Now read "The Brewers' Journal" yesterday and were assessed fines. The cases grew out of the gunfight in which Solis was shot.

Rangers McMurray, Davenport and Wheatley arrived last night to assist Rangers Wright and Allee in patrolling the waterfront.

Offer Prizes To Students

Historical Essay Contest Is One Phase Of Texas Centennial

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Prizes totaling $1,500 have been offered to the school children of Texas by Lieutenant-Governor Walter F. Woodul for the 16 best historical essays written on subjects drawn from county histories. Winners of first place in each of four divisions will receive $200 each; second place $100 each; third place, $50 each, and fourth place, $25 each.

Divisions in which these prizes will be awarded are rural ward school, rural high school, independent district ward school, and independent district high school.

All essays are to originate in the history and English classes of the schools, and must not be more than $500 words in length. The first contests will be within the schools.

In order that the judges who select the county winners will have only a relatively small number of manuscripts to handle, the Centennial advisory boards in each county will handle the county contests, and only one essay in each division, first place winner, will be sent to the state finals.

State awards will be announced after May 1, 1936.

Details of this contest are being handled in Dallas by the public school division, Mrs. Elthe Hamilton Deal, director, of the state department of publicity for the Texas Centennial celebrations, and committee for this month:

"Let's See What the Drys Are Doing"

"We have no further advice as to how far the Dry forces have progressed toward their goal of a $500,000 propaganda fund, but we do know they are well-organized, they are concentrating their forces, and they are continuing and ever increasing their activities. Nothing daunts them or dampens their spirits and they are still telling the world that the brewers are the country's greatest enemies."—Contributed by the local WCTU.

After leaving the Post as city editor, Merrill joined the Washington bureau of the Associated Press. He took up the practice of law in 1905.

plet instructions and rules for this contest will be mailed to all schools in the state within a short time.

Dallas Plans A Big Reception For Roosevelt

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (U.P.)—Texas Centennial officials rushed plans today to make President Roosevelt's visit to the Texas Centennial Central exposition here next year the occasion for the largest celebration in the city's history.

R. L. Thornton, chairman of the central exposition's executive committee, said the reception for the President would be made "the biggest thing that ever happened in Dallas or the southwest."

No definite date for Mr. Roosevelt's journey to Texas was announced.

Drag River For Body Of Lawyer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. (U.P.)—Police dragged the Potomac river today for the body of Charles H. Merrill, 70, prominent lawyer and a former city editor of the Washington Post.

When he failed to return to his home, his wife began making inquiries. Later a hat and a coat believed to be Merrill's, were found on the Virginia bank of the Potomac, near Chain Bridge.

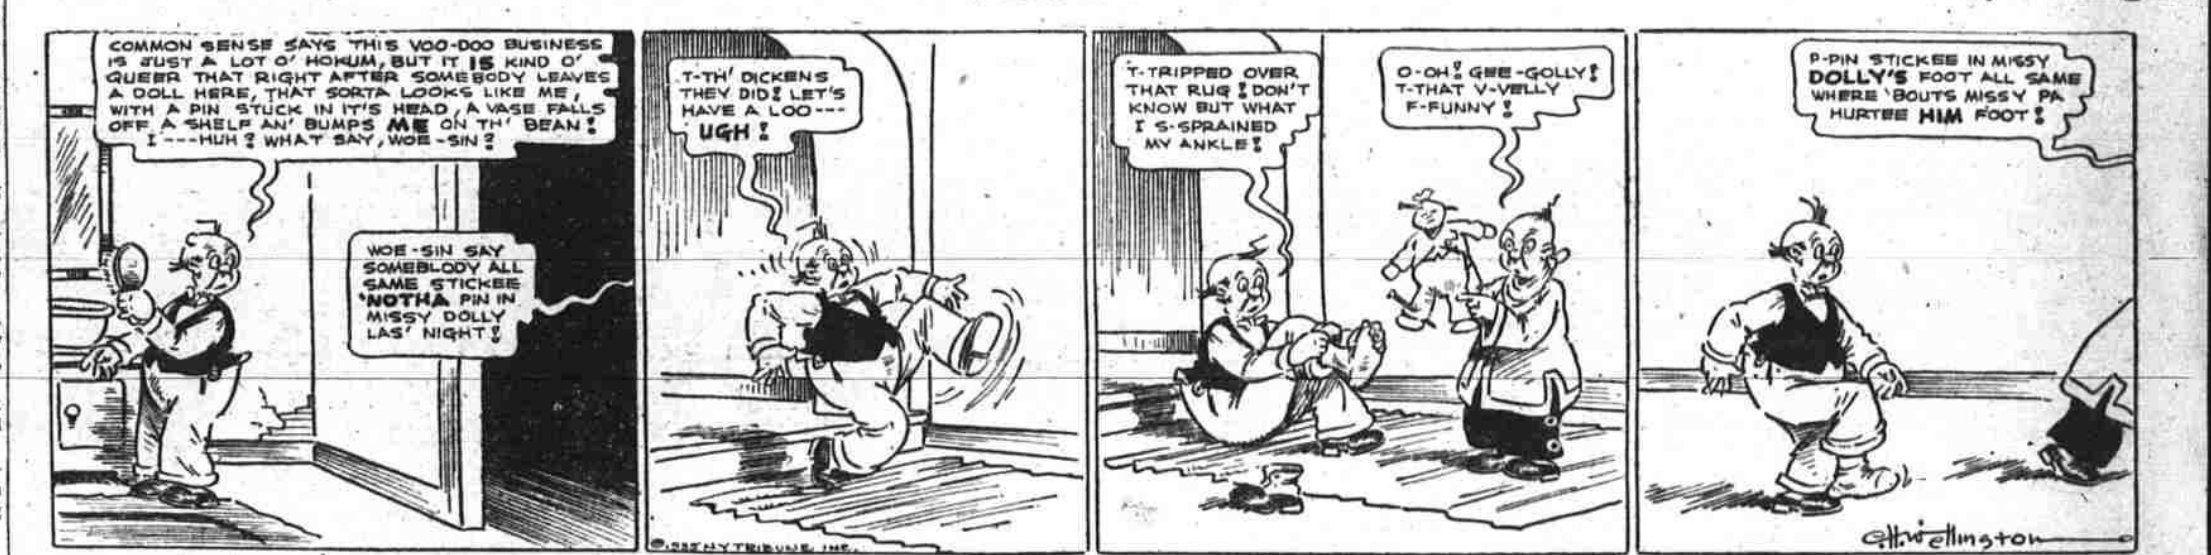

Friends said the lawyer had been depressed by the death of a friend who shared an office suite with him.

After leaving the Post as city editor, Merrill joined the Washington bureau of the Associated Press. He took up the practice of law in 1905.
