A new federal lottery law passed by Congress has clarified some issues about publication of news about lotteries, but it really hasn't changed anything in our region of the country.

For years we have had people inquire why we could not publish news items or advertisements about raffles, drawings, etc. The reason was that such activities were classified as lotteries by Uncle Sam, who had strict laws forbidding the use of U.S. Mails to distribute information about them. Since some of our newspapers are distributed by mail, this meant us.

The advent of some state-sponsored lotteries resulted in pressure to ease these restrictions. Newspapers and broadcast media in such states were caught in a squeeze—their own state governments were promoting something that they could not even publish, or put on the air. The federal law put the mailing permits of the newspapers in jeopardy as well as the broadcast permits of radio and television stations for interstate distribution of such information.

Well, the new law permits a newspaper to publish information, including the results, of state lotteries in their own state, but not those in other states. So, where there is no state lottery, papers may not publish anything promoting them.

The problem under the new law for broadcasters is even more complicated. In some cases, a station near a state line may carry lottery information from a contiguous state, but they don't have any clear-cut legal definition on this point as yet.

As for "charity" lotteries—raffles, drawings, bingo, etc., sponsored by clubs, churches, etc., the new law has no effect whatever. The word is that "such lotteries still are governed by the old laws prohibiting mailing and interstate distribution of lottery materila."

So, if your club or organization is going to have a raffle, drawing or a bingo game, we can't list such an activity in any stories we publish.

A shortage of housing continues to be one of the biggest problems in an around Snyder, we are advised by several sources.

Our Chamber of Commerce reports that trying to explain to people who are hunting a place to live why they can't walk right into modern apartment, or house, is one of their biggest chores these days. Consequently, local interests have been listening for some indication of an easing of factors that have depressed the building industry for many months.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, January 23, the 23rd day of 1975. There are 342 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1973, President Nixon announced an accord in the Vietnam War, with a cease-fire to begin on January 27th.

On this date—In 1542, England's Henry VIII took the title of King of Ireland.

In 1799, French troops captured the Italian city of Naples.

In 1920, the Dutch refused to surrender ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany to the Allies for punishment as a war criminal.

In 1943, in World War II, British troops entered the North African city of Tripoli.

In 1932, Franklin Roosevelt announced he was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In 1964, Indonesia and Malaysia agreed to a cease-fire in their undeclared border war.

In 1968, North Korea seized the U.S. Navy ship, Pueblo, and held the 83 crewmen as spies.

Ten years ago: Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China called for a new United Nations which would, in his words, be "free of manipulation by American Imperialism."

Five years ago: Joseph Fielding Smith Jr., 93, was designated as President of the Mormon Church, succeeding the late David McKay.

One year ago: Israel moved tanks and troops from the West bank of the Suez Canal in its first step of military disengagement with Egypt.

Ford, GM Car Sales Decline

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. reported today that its U.S. car sales in mid-January fell 24.7 per cent from the same 1974 period and General Motors said its sales declined 7.3 per cent.

Ford officials conceded the firm's rebate program had little impact on sales because it began late in the period.

A similar rebate plan at GM got under way Jan. 20, the last day in the period, and GM officials said the effects of their discounting move would not show up in the latest figures.

GM sales were 65,456 in the latest period, compared with 70,640 a year ago and 42,626 in early January. For the first 20 days of the month, GM sales were 108,082, a 16 per cent decline from 128,896 in the same 1974 span.

Chrysler, which was first to announce a rebate program, was expected to release its figures later in the day.

Ford Vice President John B. Naughton said sales of small models covered by the rebates rose 31 per cent from the previous period, while all models rose only 12 per cent.

Ford said sales in the second 10 days of the month were 36,612, compared with 48,628 a year ago, a decrease of 24.7 per cent.

Exxon Earnings Up 9.3%

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's biggest oil company, Exxon Corp., announced today fourth quarter after tax earnings climbed 9.3 per cent, capping a year in which earnings rose 28.5 per cent.

The quarter's net income totaled $860 million, or $3.84 a share, compared with $787 million, or $3.51 a share in the fourth quarter of 1973 — the time when Middle East producers first slapped on their oil embargo, and petroleum prices began their upward spiral.

Revenues rose 49 per cent to $12.57 billion, against $8.42 billion the comparable period last year.

For the full year ended Dec. 31, Exxon said it earned $3.14 billion, or $14.03 a share, compared with 1973's $2.44 billion, or $10.90 a share. In 1972 and 1971 the company earned about $1.5 billion.

Revenues in 1974 expanded about 60 per cent from $28.51 billion a year ago to $45.84 billion — more than the gross national products of all but about 10 nations.

The company said fourth quarter earnings included a total of $82 million in extraordinary items.

Presnal Gets Power Post

AUSTIN (AP) — A little known Bryan Democrat, Rep. Bill Presnal, was the surprise choice today of Speaker Bill Clayton for chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Rep. Fred Head, D-Troup, whose support swung the speaker race to Clayton, had been expected by many to win the post, perhaps the most powerful chairmanship in the House.

Head was named chairman of the Higher Education Committee and as a member of the Appropriations Committee.

Rep. Joe Wyatt, D-Bloomington, was named chairman of the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, will head the Public Education Committee, which is expected to grapple with the mammoth issue of overhauling public school financing.

The State Affairs Committee, which traditionally handles many of the most important bills, will be chaired by Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City.

Rep. Ray Hutchison, R-Dallas, was named chairman of the Constitutional Revision Committee.

The only other Republican to get a chairmanship was Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, Natural Resources.

Other major committees and their new chairmen are:

—Transportation, Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville.

—Energy Resources, Rep. Joe Hanna, D-Breckenridge.

—Reapportionment, Rep. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches.

—Rules, Rep. Ben Reyes, D-Houston.

All of the chairmen with the exception of Reyes are conservatives, as is the speaker.

A committee's importance is determined by whether it will handle those issues considered to be the hottest for this session. Appropriations always is important, as is Revenue and Taxation and State Affairs. Public Education, Constitutional Revision, Transportation and Energy Resources will work on bills dealing with the most pressing problems this year. Reapportionment and Rules are intrinsically important to legislators.

Other committees and their chairmen are:

—Criminal Jurisprudence, Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston.

—Judicial Affairs, Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad.

—Judiciary, Rep. Ben Grant, D-Marshall.

—Liquor Regulation, Rep. Bennie Bock, D-New Braunfels.

—Labor, Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson, D-Dallas.

—Intergovernmental Affairs, Rep. E. L. Short, D-Tahoka.

—Insurance, Rep. Ben Bynum, D-Amarillo.

—Health and Welfare, Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood.

—Social Services, Rep. Lane Denton, D-Waco.

—House Administration, Rep. Pete Laney, D-Hale Center.

—Financial Institutions, Rep. Jerry Donaldson, D-Gatesville.

—Environmental Affairs, Rep. Bill Sullivant, D-Gainesville.

—Elections, Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso.

—Local and Consent Calendars, Rep. Tom Schieffer, D-Fort Worth.

—Calendars, Rep. Felix McDonald, D-Edinburg.

—Business and Industry, Rep. Chris Semos, D-Dallas.

—Agriculture and Livestock, Rep. Joe Hubenak, D-Rosenberg.

Ms. Johnson is believed to be the first woman ever to chair a committee of the Texas House.

"I feel we have come with a workable and durable committee structure that has not only a geographical and philosophical balance, but also a broad distribution of women, men, blacks, whites, Mexican-Americans, Republicans and Democrats," Clayton said.

Tax Deadline Draws Near

January is the last month that property taxes for 1974 can be paid without a penalty.

If you wait until February to pay them, the penalty will be 1½ per cent. The penalty after that will increase 1½ percent each month through June. In July, the penalty will be 11 percent. After that, the tax goes on the delinquent roll.

Don Adams, Scurry County tax assessor-collector, said that about 85 percent of the taxes have already been paid. He said the total amount of tax money for county, state and junior college taxes will be $3,403,692.07.

Around 82 percent of the City of Snyder taxes have been paid, Leighton Griffin, city tax assessor-collector reported. Collections usually account for 92 percent or more by the end of January.

Snyder Independent School District still has the big end of its taxes to come in. Ray Peveler, the school district tax assessor-collector, said about 21.2 percent is in. The larger tax payers in the school district usually pay toward the end of January and with interest rates high now, most hold onto their money until the last minute before the deadline.

Simon Requests 22% Hike In Federal Debt Ceiling

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blaming rising federal deficits, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon asked Congress today for a 22 per cent increase in the federal debt ceiling to $604 billion through June 30 of 1976.

The current limit on government borrowing is $495 billion. However, that is a temporary limit that expires on March 31, after which the limit would legally fall to $400 billion.

Simon told the House Ways and Means Committee that the government will exceed the temporary limit of $495 billion on Feb. 8.

"Thus there is a pressing need for immediate action on the part of Congress," he said.

Simon appeared on Capitol Hill as President Ford and key Democratic congressmen were rushing into a fast-developing battle over new oil import tariffs the President plans to proclaim later in the day in his campaign for American energy independence.

Ford, directly challenging Congress, declared Wednesday night he would sign the proclamation for higher tariffs on imported oil beginning Feb. 1 in a bid to curb American oil consumption.

The tariff hike is a key part of the administration plan to curtail petroleum consumption by increasing prices. Opponents of the hike claim it will fuel inflation without cutting consumption.

Simon blamed the the rapid downward slide of the economy for the worsening federal revenues picture.

He said the federal government will receive $6.7 billion less in the 1975 fiscal year from individual income taxes than it had earlier estimated, and $3.7 billion less in corporate income taxes.

"As a result, federal deficits are mounting rapidly and are causing the current squeeze on the debt ceiling," Simon said.

The Treasury secretary previously had said he is horrified by the proposed federal deficits of nearly $35 billion this year and $50 billion next year. But he told the committee they are necessary in the current recession.

He said the proposed debt limit will include the cost of the President's new economic proposals, but would not allow for any new spending programs by Congress.

Meany Outlines Economic Program At Labor Summit

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany called President Ford's economic and energy program disappointing today and said the American people demand an emergency plan that will get the nation back to work and stabilize the economy.

Meany proposed that Congress take action within 60 days on tax cuts for low-income groups, gasoline rationing, broader unemployment protection, an increased number of public service jobs and new housing programs.

"Now is the time for action — compassionate, sensible, fair action by the Congress and the President," Meany dclared at a rate meeting of the AFL-CIO's general board.

The board, composed of the presidents of all 110 unions affiliated with the labor federation, listened to reports on the recession's impact on workers in all sectors of the economy.

The union chiefs planned to act on the economic program outlined by Meany.

Declaring that the economy is in the worst shape since the depression of the 1930s, Meany said Ford's program could fuel inflation and do little to conserve energy while enhancing oil company profits.

Ford's program, he said, "was the weirdest one I have ever seen. For those who are suffering the most — the unemployed, the aged, the sick and the poor — he proposed even more suffering."

Under the President's $12 billion tax rebate plan, Meany said a family of four earning $7,500 a year would receive a rebate of only $58 or an average of $1.11 a week.

He urged an energy program that would not give in to "the blackmail demands of the Arab oil sheiks," and said if necessary this country should turn to rationing and mandatory fuel allocations.

This would be "a small price to pay to avoid total economic collapse and to take America's economic destiny out of the hands of the Arab sheiks," Meany said.

Meany had earlier dismissed Ford's program as "peanuts for the poor," and the plan offered by Democratic congressional leaders as "a big nothing."

In today's speech, the labor chief avoided any reference to the Democrats.

The AFL-CIO program is expected to include a call for an immediate tax cut of between $20 billion to $25 billion for low- and middle-income families, the release of about $20 billion in impounded funds for public works projects.

Meany said the federation also would push for a longer range program dealing with tax reform, national health insurance and regulations to control interest rates.

Texas Jobless Rate At 4.8%

AUSTIN (AP) — Unemployment in Texas in mid-November totaled 245,500 persons, or 4.8 per cent of the labor force, the Texas Employment Commission said today.

"Total employment sagged with fewer persons being utilized in agriculture and a slump in the number of self-employed, unpaid family members and domestics working in private households," the report said.

The TEC said that every area in the state had a higher jobless rate in November than the month previous. However, in four areas the jobless rate was lower than it had been a year earlier. Abilene and Lubbock were the only major areas with fewer than 3 per cent unemployed.

Action Sought On Terrorism

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The chief United States delegate to the United Nations says he's going to launch a new drive for international action against terrorism now that the French government is upset about the situation.

After more than two years of cold-shouldering U.S. efforts to get U.N. action against hijackers and other terrorists, France's pro-Arab government had a change of heart this week when Arab terrorists held 10 French people hostage overnight in an Orly Airport restroom. Interior Minister Michel Poniatowski called for "an agreed international position that would permit the punishment of terrorist-killers."

U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali said in an interview that Poniatowski's remarks "clearly reflect a growing revulsion in the Western world to the use of terror tactics to achieve political ends.

"We will be discussing with the French and other governments what steps we can take to give some sort of concrete meaning to this," Scali continued.

"As you know, this is an issue that we have faced before where other nations have declined to support those who believe that terrorism has no place in the civilized societies."

After the 1972 Arab massacre of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim put international terrorism on the agenda of the U.N. General Assembly, and the United States proposed an international treaty providing for the prosecution or extradition of terrorists who escaped to another country.

Planes Collide Killing Seven

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — Two planes collided over Mogadishu today then plunged to earth, destroying 23 houses, killing seven persons and injuring 132, the Somali news agency said.

The agency said the pilots of both planes were among the dead. It did not identify the planes, but said they were not passenger aircraft, implying they were military.

DESPITE CANCELED PACT

Little Change In US-Soviet Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — There will be no serious drop in American-Soviet commerce despite the collapse of a major trade agreement between the two superpowers, U.S. officials say.

However, the officials disagree with President Ford's judgment that trade with the Russians can be expanded much over the $900 million reached in 1974.

"I would be surprised if trade took a dramatic drop, but there's little hope for much growth now," one State Department economist said.

There had been more than hope for expansion when American and Soviet officials signed the agreement in 1972; there were flat-out predictions of trade totaling billions of dollars.

That agreement called for a $722 million payoff of the Russian World War II Lend-Lease debt in exchange for a dropping of U.S. tariff discriminations and a promise to arrange major loans from the American Export-Import Bank.

But Moscow canceled the accord last week because Congress severely limited credits and demanded that Moscow guarantee freedom of emigration for Russian Jews as a condition for dropping the tariff restrictions.

Trade with the Soviets had been small before 1972, running from $157 million in 1969 to $218 million in 1971.

Following the agreement, U.S.-Soviet commerce jumped to $642 million in 1972 and vaulted to $1.4 billion in 1973.

The total tailed off to an estimated $901 million last year because of a drop in Soviet purchases of American grain, but was expected to rebound on the basis of Russia's need for machinery and technology.

That need still exists to some degree and will help keep trade levels at their current rate. Contributing to the situation are existing long-range contracts, Russian demand for available food grains and a U.S. desire to continue importing Soviet chrome, platinum and diamonds.

In fact, U.S. demand for these products has become a major factor in the trade relationship.

While the 1974 trade balance between the two countries favored the United States by a ratio of 1½ to 1, the margin has shrunk drastically over recent years.

The dive in trade balance is explained by administration economists in terms of a growing U.S. need for Soviet raw material, including petroleum products and a diverse Russian trading policy that has Moscow buying increasingly from other capitalist nations.

Sheet Metal Workers Okay Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major obstacle has been removed from contract negotiations between the railroad industry and unions representing 560,000 workers.

Federal negotiators reported a tentative agreement Wednesday night on a long-standing dispute by the Sheet Metal Workers Union, which had threatened strikes for Friday against the Union Pacific railroad and four other major carriers.

Meanwhile, tentative agreements also were reported between the railroad industry and three other unions on new contracts increasing wages and benefits 40 per cent over three years. The agreements may set the wage pattern for all 17 unions involved in bargaining with the rail industry.

The Sheet Metal Workers' dispute involved issues not related to the current round of contract talks, but which threatened to complicate those negotiations.

Sheet metal workers were seeking higher wages than those agreed to by other unions in 1973 negotiations and attempted to change a rule allowing workers to perform "incidental" minor jobs not normally done by their craft. Details of the proposed agreement were not disclosed.

Formal strike notices had been served by the sheet metal workers earlier this month against the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Texas & Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Seaboard Coast Line railroads, which haul about 20 per cent of the freight the nation ships by rail.

Quakes Jolt Imperial Valley

BRAWLEY, Calif. (AP) — A series of sharply felt earthquakes jolted residents in California's Imperial Valley early today, cracking windows and walls but causing no injuries, authorities said.

Local officials and residents reported four brief temblors at approximately 4:30, 4:40, 4:57 and 5:03 a.m. The California Institute of Technology seismology lab recorded the quakes but said it had no immediate reports of intensity.

Wednesday evening, an earthquake of 3.2 on the Richter scale shook Santa Monica in western Los Angeles County, causing no damage or injuries, authorities said.

Extension Of Voting Act Urged

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Civil Rights Commission urged Congress today to extend the 1965 Voting Rights Act for another 10 years because "there is still hostility and resistance to the free and effective political participation" of racial minorities.

The six-member commission made the recommendation as it issued a 478-page report assessing the barriers still confronting minorities at the voting booth.

The commission also prodded the Justice Department to step up its efforts to prevent minorities from being deprived of their voting rights through changes in local election laws and districts.

A majority of the members urged that Congress also suspend for another 10 years the use of literacy tests as a qualification for voting.

Commission member Frankie M. Freeman, a St. Louis lawyer, disagreed and urged that Congress abolish literacy tests altogether.

The proposed 10-year extension of one of the major civil rights bills passed during the Johnson administration was generally in line with the positions of President Ford and the most influential civil rights organizations.

Ford, however, has said he favors extending the act for only five years. The 1965 act covered five years and was renewed for another five years and expanded in 1970.

It expires in August unless Congress extends it, a step which is considered likely.

Enrollment For Part B Medicare

Medicare offers a general enrollment period Jan. 1 through March 31 for Part B (Supplementary Medical Insurance) to those eligible for Medicare not already having this coverage, announced Don Minyard, Social Security Branch Manager in Big Spring.

"Although everyone has a seven-month initial enrollment period, beginning three months before his 65th birthday or 25th month of entitlement to Social Security disability benefits, not everyone avails himself of that opportunity to enroll for Part B of Medicare," Minyard continued.

"Eligible people not already enrolled can do so during a general enrollment period," he added.

General enrollment periods occur during the first three months of each year. Those enrolling at that time are covered by the insurance beginning the following July.

Part B of Medicare covers physicians' services and the use of durable medical equipment primarily. Each enrollee pays an insurance premium of $6.70 monthly plus a 10 per cent penalty for each 12 months' delay in enrollment. Enrollment under Part A (Hospital Insurance) in not limited to enrollment periods once a person becomes eligible.

Minyard suggested that anyone interested in Part B who is over 65 or has been receiving Social Security disability benefits for more than two years call his nearest Social Security office for assistance.

Ford To Undergo Routine Physical

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will undergo a three-hour routine physical examination at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital on Saturday, press secretary Ron Nessen says. Nessen said Wednesday the only health problem Ford ever had was with his knees, the result of a football injury.

Court Hears Guilty Pleas

Several pleas were entered in 132nd District Court yesterday.

Linda Sue Cabaniss and Andy Russell, both of Albuquerque N.M., pleaded guilty to burglary of the Boyce Jones Grocery in Hermleigh on the night of Dec. 25, 1974.

Each received a two-year probated term after promising to make restitution.

George Torrez pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, second offense. He received an 18-month jail term. He was arrested Dec. 15, 1974 by City Police.

Armadillos that invaded the Big Thicket area of East Texas from Mexico were served up in the days of the Depression as "Hoover hogs."

Girl Is Released Unharmed

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A 17-year-old South Bend girl held captive for more than 30 hours by two bandits surprised by police in a department store holdup was released unharmed early today, police said.

Lt. John Weinzetl of the South Bend Police Department said Loucindy Sherman, a pupil at LaSalle High School, was found walking along a street just a few blocks from police headquarters.

He said the girl was being questioned. He said there were no other details on her release.

He said the two men accused of abducting her from a downtown department store Tuesday night were still at large.

More than a dozen FBI agents had joined city police in searching for the gunmen and Miss Sherman after a federal warrant was issued Wednesday.

Miss Sherman was one of four persons taken hostage. The others, including two police officers and the wife of the store owner, gained their freedom early Wednesday.

Police Chief John Walsh said the warrant charged David R. Winters, 23, with kidnaping. He said another man sought for questioning was not named in a warrant because positive identification had not been established.

Police said Miss Sherman, a part-time clerk, was among six persons inside Rosenbaum's Department Store Tuesday night when two men armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a pistol barged in.

Alerted by a passerby who spotted the holdup, police quickly surrounded the store. Police Capt. Paul Harvey and Sgt. Larry Hostetler exchanged themselves for hostages.

The bandits took the officers, Miss Sherman and Ruth Rosenbaum, 53, and fled in a van provided by police after authorities granted their demands for safe conduct from the store.

Snow Falls In West Texas

By The Associated Press

Eight inches of snow piled up at Fort Davis in West Texas today while another four inches covered the ground at Alpine. Cold temperatures settled, along with the snow, over the frozen ground across broad stretches west of the Pecos River.

Rain added to the chill in some areas.

Forecasters expected an end to the moisture by evening. Another cool night was in prospect.

School Ruling Reactions Vary

WASHINGTON (AP) — A split decision of the Supreme Court enhancing the rights of students in school suspension cases has drawn a cool reaction from a school principals' group but enthusiasm from a teachers' organization.

Many public school officials around the country said the decision would not substantially influence their discipline procedures since most of them have "due process" for students anyway. Some said they even permit students to bring attorneys to disciplinary hearings.

The court ruled 5 to 4 Wednesday that schools must give the students notice of the charges against them and at least an informal hearing — and in most cases must do so before the student is sent home.

The ruling applies to suspensions of from one to 10 days, but the court suggested that even stricter requirements might be called for in the case of longer suspensions.

James A. Harris, president of the National Education Association, said the decision would protect blacks and other minority students from discrimination in suspensions. The NEA represents teachers.

"We are elated that minority students, who are disproportionately represented in the quarter of a million students expelled or suspended annually in this country, will now have a chance to defend themselves against arbitrary and unfair actions," Harris said.

Dr. Owen Kiernan, executive director of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, responded more coolly to the decision.

"The general rule that the hearing would have to be held before the suspension except in unusual cases would trouble me quite a bit," he said. "There frequently are situations in which a principal would have no choice but to take immediate action in suspending a student."

The case involved nine students who were suspended from junior and senior high schools in Columbus, Ohio.

Redgrave Finds Marriage Okay

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Marriage is a "terrific thing" says actress Lynn Redgrave "if you are happy." She is happy — and lucky, she emphasizes.

Motherhood, housework, cooking — the whole bit agrees with her. She didn't always share the view that marriage could be so great.

"I know two people who lived happily together for 20 years. They were then married and divorced within two months. Marriage is different somehow from just living with somebody."

It isn't easy to find the right man, she says. And she feels sorry for many young girls who meet only married men and homosexuals. Then, too, if an 18-year-old girl were to marry a 20-year-old, he would probably be too immature for marriage anyway, she says. That was her own girlhood experience in meeting 20-year-olds "but some men are adults at 14, and some are still little boys at 50."

Her husband since 1967, actor John Clark, who is now her manager, had been married before. He "didn't go into our marriage blindly," she says, and she considers that an advantage.

"The duality of my life makes being a housewife even more interesting. I don't have to do the same thing every day. But there is nothing more therapeutic than cleaning the floor or vacuuming and I like the fact that a lot of things connected with it (homemaking) are mindless as opposed to the frenetic other things of my life.

"Then, too, children are great levelers. They keep things in perspective. You must be with it all the time when you are around them. So, if you are upset about anything, they don't give you time to think about it."

Her children, Benjamin, 6, and Kelly, 4, have been on film sets, and she also takes them to the theater, the first time for only five minutes. She was afraid they would call out to her when she was on stage and she didn't know how she would react.

"My father (Sir Michael Redgrave) tells a story about the time his mother (an actress) took him to the theater to watch her perform. From the stage in a scene came his mother's voice, 'My son, my son,' and my father jumped to his feet and shouted to his mother, 'He is not your son, I am.'"

She grew up in a close family relationship with her sister Vanessa and brother Corin, who are also in the theater.

"We lived in a nice house with a nice garden and went to ordinary schools. Our parents just happened to be actors. The only difference is that our children can travel over the world with us..."

It's the kind of life she wants for her own children, completely normal in every way. They were with her recently when she made a "spaghetti western" in Spain. The Italian movie directed by an Italian was a lot of fun, she says. She plays an Irish journalist and the part gave her an opportunity to ride a horse, which she didn't have to learn how to do. She is a good horsewoman.

"Always before I've had to spend a lot of time learning something for a movie — tap dancing, ballet, whatever. But this time I did what I know how to do."

She also made a recording of the title tune in the movie, "Don't Turn the Other Cheek."

The family makes its home in Dublin in a 100-year-old Victorian house that has proved to be a do-it-yourself adventure. Her husband has laid floors and done lots of other necessary work around the house, she explained.

"The do-it-yourself fun palls after a while. No matter how much you do, it never gets quite finished. There is always something more. You think you've done a big job and then you start noticing the chipped shutters and that kind of thing..."

Unicycle Record Set By Kibben

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — "Because it was a nice day," pianist James Kibben said when asked why he rode a unicycle up and down Flagstaff Mountain.

Kibben claimed a world record for his 2½-hour, 9.8-mile ride Sunday up the 2,500-foot mountain and back down again. He's challenging all comers to try and outcycle him.

'Guinness' Book of World Records has no listing for unicycle riding. But the 27-year-old Rapid City, S.D., native who plays the piano with a local band said he plans to submit his feat to the Guinness publishers.

Kibben said he set out on his jaunt just to see if he could make it up the mountain. Boulder residents say the climb is strenuous on foot.

Get them together now.

Now, while you're all at home, before the kids grow up and go off on their own, get the family together for a professional photographic portrait.

Now is family portrait time.

Dusters Play At 7 Here Tonight

The starting time for the Dusters-Hardin-Simmons University womens basketball game has been changed. Tipoff is on tap for 7 o'clock tonight in the WTC gym.

Coach Sid Simpson's Dusters are 6-2 for the season, but haven't seen action since Dec. 13. Consequently, they could be a little rusty. Moreover, they lost three girls off the squad during the holidays, including one starter and a part-time starter.

Hardin-Simmons, on the other hand, will be playing its second game of the season. In their first outing, they lost to a strong Ranger Junior College team. The H-SU girls competed in volleyball the first semester.

The visitors are bringing a 9-girl squad with them to Snyder. Possible starters include Marcia Brans, 5-10 soph from Rule; Ada Feaster, 5-10 senior from Colorado City; Jan Mears, 5-8 senior from Roscoe; Regina Bryan, 5-1 soph from Tulia; and, Janna Jenkins, 5-7 soph from Lockney. The roster also includes Robbie Lambert, 5-3 junior from Hawley; Sue Tillbrook, 5-4 junior from Wylie; Mignon Williams, 5-4 junior from Hamlin; and, Karen Long, 5-6 junior from Clyde. They are coached by Peggy Barney.

Coach Simpson said probable starters for the Westerners include Theresa Beal, 5-10 freshman from Coahoma, and Sandra Jimenez, 5-9 freshman from Victoria, at post; Marilyn Payton, 5-11 freshman from Lubbock, and Melisa Taylor, 5-7 freshman from Gail, at wing; with Dale Mitchel, 5-8 freshman from Coahoma, at guard.

Other Dusters ready for action are Debbie Sharp, 5-9 soph from Wylie; Darilynn Stewart, 5-7 freshman from Tarzan; Deanna Michulka, 5-7 freshman from Crosbyton; and, Cindy Klepper, 5-7 soph from Roscoe. June Sterling, 5-4 soph from Coahoma, has returned to practice after recovering from an injury, but she probably will not see action until next week.

The Dusters meet Ranger Junior College there at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Ranger is 5-3 for the season, but their losses have all been to strong teams.

Walton Shines, Portland Loses

By The Associated Press

Bill Walton is getting used to playing in the National Basketball Association but isn't getting used to losing.

The enigmatic center of the Portland Trail Blazers had his best game in the NBA Wednesday night, but wasn't happy with it because of the final results.

"We lost," was Walton's only answer to a reporter's question about his 25-point, 11-rebound performance during Portland's 96-94 loss to the Detroit Pistons.

The former UCLA star, who played in only a few losing games while in college, has come down to earth in the pros. The Trail Blazers have blazed no trails this season and Walton has had problems both on and off the court in his first pro year.

Recently back after a protracted absence, the red-haired rookie is starting to look like the million dollar baby he's supposed to be. He played an excellent defensive game, too, Wednesday night, giving Detroit center Bob Lanier some trouble.

"That's the best he's played and the longest he's played since he's been back," said Portland Coach Len Wilkens of Walton. "A couple of more games and he'll be in good shape."

In the other NBA games, the Washington Bullets stopped the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 97-88 and the Boston Celtics beat the New Orleans Jazz 110-102. In the American Basketball Association, the Kentucky Colonels whipped the Memphis Sounds 114-91; the Indiana Pacers trimmed the Denver Nuggets 120-110 and the Spirits of St. Louis beat the San Diego Conquistadors 129-124 in overtime.

Lanier sank a nine-foot turnaround jumper with seven seconds left to give Detroit its victory over Portland. Portland had battled back from a 79-70 third-quarter deficit mostly on the shooting of Walton.

Lanier finished with 25 points and Curtis Rowe also added 25 — his best output of the season. Dave Bing scored 22 for Detroit. Bullets 97, Kings 88

Phil Chenier tossed in 33 points and Elvin Hayes added 31 to pace Washington over Kansas City-Omaha. Hayes scored seven points in a three-minute span midway in the final period to help the Bullets pull away to their 33rd victory in 46 games.

Celtics 110, Jazz 102

Boston rode the scoring and rebounding of center Dave Cowens to victory over New Orleans. Cowens scored 22 points and grabbed 16 rebounds before fouling out with 2:38 remaining in the game as he led a balanced Boston effort that overcame a 34-point, 11-assist performance by New Orleans' Pete Maravich.

Colonels 114, Sounds 91

Artis Gilmore scored 23 points and grabbed 16 rebounds to lead Kentucky to an easy victory over Memphis.

Pacers 120, Nuggets 110

George McGinnis pumped in 43 points and collected 20 rebounds and six assists a. Indiana beat Denver.

Spirits 129, Qs 124

Veteran Freddie Lewis scored seven of his 31 points in overtime and helped the Spirits of St. Louis rally past San Diego.

Cleveland Hires Forrest Gregg

By RICHARD BILOTTI
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Forrest Gregg, a salt-and-pepper-haired, 41-year-old disciple of the late Vince Lombardi, was named head coach of the Cleveland Browns Wednesday.

Gregg, who is taking his first head coaching assignment, said, "Lombardi greatly influenced me and it was a pleasure playing for him, but I'm not Vince Lombardi and I'm not going to try and be."

Drafted No. 2 in 1956 out of Southern Methodist University, Gregg became the mainstay of the Green Bay Packers' offensive line as Lombardi enjoyed his greatest successes with National Football League titles in 1961, 1962, 1965, 1966 and 1967.

In 1969, when Phil Bengtson became the Packers' head coach, Gregg was named a player-coach. He assumed the same dual role with the Dallas Cowboys and became a coach of the San Diego Chargers in 1972.

Gregg spent last season as the Browns' offensive line coach under Nick Skorich, who was fired shortly after the team ended the worst season in its 28-year history.

Gregg said he has not decided who will make up his coaching staff.

"We'll be talking to all the present coaches in the next few days and those decisions will be made shortly," said Browns owner Art Modell.

Modell said Gregg was given a three-year contract, but he would not disclose details. Modell said Skorich has not decided whether he will remain in the club's front office.

Kiner In Famed Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Kiner, seven-time National League home run champion, was elected into Baseball's Hall of Fame today in his last chance in voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The 52-year-old Kiner was the only player selected from a list of 37 eligibles submitted to the BBWAA by the group's Selection Committee. He received 273 votes from the total of 362, one more than the required 272—or 75 per cent—needed for election.

The addition of the power-hitting Kiner increases the Hall's membership to 147 since voting began in 1936. He will be formally inducted into the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y. during official ceremonies at the sleepy upstate New York town in August.

Robin Roberts, former Philadelphia Phillies pitcher who won 286 games during an illustrious 19-year major league career, finished second in the balloting with 263 votes, nine shy of election.

He was followed by Bob Lemon with 233, Gil Hodges with 188 and Enos Slaughter with 177.

Oiler Says Gal Didn't Have Dope

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Solomon Freelon, a reserve guard with the Houston Oilers, told The Associated Press Wednesday night that he met the woman who claims to have delivered narcotics to numerous National Football League players and let her spend a night in his apartment.

But Freelon said she showed him no drugs and he accepted her story that she was a medical researcher from Ghana studying the relationship of water pollution to cancer.

"I didn't see any dope and she didn't have anything that looked like it carried dope," Freelon said. "That never entered my mind because she seemed too interested in water poisoning."

Freelon was the first NFL player to acknowledge publicly having had any contact with Roxie Ann Rice, the 19-year-old woman arrested Jan. 4 in St. Louis on charges of defrauding an innkeeper and of fraudulently using a credit card, reportedly stolen from Washington Redskins' defensive back Ken Houston.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported in today's edition that Ken Houston gave the St. Louis police a statement in which he, too, acknowledged having been in contact with Miss Rice.

Houston said a woman claiming to be from Africa stayed with him and his wife for two days in Reston, Va., after which a pocket calculator and a charge card were missing.

Houston said he met that woman through another who said her name was Pat, that she worked for a national magazine and that the publication wanted to do a story on him.

Miss Rice, who has allegedly passed herself off as a writer, doctor and medical researcher, was to undergo a lie detector test Thursday to evaluate her story, St. Louis police said.

A 39-page intra-departmental police memo in St. Louis quotes Miss Rice as saying she was recruited to transport briefcases containing what she believed to be narcotics to many NFL cities and that she became familiar with players and took orders and delivered drugs.

Police officials and spokesmen for a number of NFL teams have also refused to comment on the report or have denied knowledge of any of the woman's alleged activities.

Among the teams mentioned in the police memo are the Oilers, Redskins, St. Louis Cardinals, San Diego Chargers, Detroit Lions, Kansas City Chiefs and Cincinnati Bengals.

The NFL acknowledged Wednesday that an investigation is being made into these allegations but the league has refused to elaborate.

Tigers, Tors Vie For 1st Half Crown Friday

The Snyder Tigers will tangle with an old nemesis, the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes, at 8 o'clock Friday night in Lamesa in a basketball game that will decide the first half champion in the District 3-AAA race. The program begins at 6:15 p.m. with the junior varsity squads of both schools meeting.

Snyder and Lamesa are both 3-0 in district play. Lamesa is 23-0 for the season and the Tigers are 19-4. Everything points to a classic contest.

The Tigers are coached by Bob Moore, who is one of the best defensive coaches in the state. The Tigers usually go into a man-to-man alignment, but they also press some. Head mentor at Lamesa is O.W. Follis, whose teams have won over 700 games. He has been at the Tornado helm for 25 years. During that time, Lamesa has won two state championships and finished in the top four three other times.

Follis is an advocate of a strong zone defense. The Tors weren't expected to be as strong this season as their record indicates. They have two starters, a part-time starter, and two lads up from the junior varsity in the starting alignment.

The returning regulars are Brian Meeks, 6-4 center, and Melvin Robinson, 6-2 forward. Eddie Spencer, a 5-11 guard, also started some last year. Up from the JV are Dennis Fleming, 5-7 guard, and Vaszauskas, a 6-3 forward.

The Tigers will have five lettermen in its starting lineup. They are Welton Cobb, 6-0 senior, and Larry Johns, 6-3 senior, both two-year numeral winners; and one year lettermen Chester Cobb, 6-2 junior; Roy Lee Carter, 6-2 senior; and, Robert Alderete, 5-9 senior. Welton Cobb and Johns will start at post in the Tigers' double post attack with Chester Cobb and Carter on the wings and Alderete on the point.

Snyder has good bench strength with three other numeral winners—Greg Gafford, Randy Gressett and Sid Perry—available for service. All three are seniors. In addition, two talented competitors up from last year's junior varsity, also can make valuable contributions. They are Danny Brumley, 5-10 senior, and Johnny Eicke, 6-0 junior. Kelly Ragland, 5-11 junior, still is out with a leg injury.

Neither team has great size, but both units are quick and have some good shooters. Both squads can score quickly from the fast break.

Lamesa has beaten two teams that have beaten the Tigers this season--Odessa Ector and Lubbock Dunbar. However, Snyder also shot down Dunbar by 14 points in their second meeting of the season here last week. Lamesa took a 21-point decision over Dunbar last Tuesday night in Lubbock.

With the home court advantage, Lamesa will be a slight favorite. But don't be surprised if the game goes into overtime. It would be that close.

WTC, Odessa Tangle Tonight

The Western Texas College Westerners take on the Odessa Junior College Bronchos at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Odessa in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference basketball game.

The Westerners will be out to protect a perfect 6-0 league record and a 17-1 season mark. Odessa is 8-7 for the season and 4-3 in conference play.

Coach Mike Mitchell of the Westerners was primarily concerned about the Odessa offense. The hosts are a high-scoring team and have averaged almost a 100 points per game.

"We'll have to have a top defensive effort if we beat them," Coach Mitchell pointed out.

Odessa will have three sophomores and two freshmen in the starting alignment. The freshmen are Walter Bond, 6-8 center from Shamrock, and Randle Hunt, 6-2 guard from Midland. The sophs are Terry Been, 6-2 guard from Pecos, Lester Cezar, 6-4 forward from Odessa, and Billy Giddens, 6-4 forward from Carlsbad, New Mexico.

Coach Mitchell said he would go with his regulars. They include Ken Fowler, 6-2 soph from Austin, and Bob Miller, 6-5 soph from Seaford, N.Y., at guard; Brian Minor, 6-5 soph from Richmond, Va., and Eugene Harris, 6-7 soph from Hattiesburg, Miss., at forward; and, Norman Barnes, 6-8 soph from Richmond, Va., at post.

Miller is leading the team in scoring, averaging over 20 points per game. However, he saw only limited action in the Westerners' last outing against Howard College, because he got into foul trouble early. Stanley Covington, a 6-0 freshman guard, from Washington, D.C., filled in for him and did a creditable job, handling the ball well and guiding the attack. Barnes is always tough on the boards. He grabbed 18 rebounds against the Jayhawks.

Other Westerners ready for action are James Smith, 6-8 freshman post from Richmond, Va.; Greg Hill, 6-3 soph forward from Midland, Pa.; Tyrone Clopton, 6-6 freshman post from Washington, D.C.,; Harrison Johnson, 6-2 freshman guard from El Paso; and, Kevin Jones, 6-5 sophomore forward from Snyder.

The Westerners are ranked sixth in the nation among junior college team, and Odessa would like nothing better than to knock them off.

Expert Says Tide Turned On Heart Attacks

By WILLIAM STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — After a steady, deadly rise for more than 30 years, the rate of heart attack deaths among white men has begun to decline, a noted expert on heart disease prevention has found.

"I think we may be over the hump," Dr. Jeremiah Stamler of Northwestern University said Wednesday. He reported on a study of heart attack death rates since 1940.

"These findings have produced cautious excitement among heart researchers and others concerned with the mass onslaught of heart attacks in this country," Stamler told an American Heart Association science writers' forum.

"They suggest that at long last a start has been made in turning the flank of this great modern plague."

No single reason appears responsible. Instead it is a combination of factors that reflect basic changes in American lifestyles and improved medical treatment for heart patients and potential heart attack victims, Stamler said.

White, middle-aged men have been the most frequent heart attack victims. But women and non-white males also have experienced increases in heart attacks.

Between 1940 and 1958, coronary heart disease deaths rose more than 30 per cent in white men aged 35 to 64.

The sharp growth rate tapered off in the next decade, finally nearly leveling off at 463 deaths a year per 100,000 people for white men.

Researchers anxiously watched the high plateau in the death rates in the 1960s, fearing another dramatic rise might be around the corner.

But instead of the feared rise, a clear downward trend is seen — an 8.9 per cent decrease for white males between 1968 and 1972, the last year for which complete data has been studied, Stamler said.

The coronary death rate for white men is now 427 fatalities per 100,000 people, slightly below the 1950 level.

Similar but smaller death-rate decreases have been found for women and non-whites.

One possible explanation for the downturn could be a reduction in smoking, particularly in men, Stamler said.

There also is evidence more Americans are being treated for high blood pressure, a major cause of heart disease.

And there are indications the country is eating differently, switching from saturated fats that can cause heart disease to unsaturated fats.

The care of coronary patients in hospitals also has improved in the last decade. The specialized hospital coronary care unit now is common.

Cattle Scabies Big Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattle scabies, a skin disease caused by tiny mites, continues to be a stubborn problem this winter, the Agriculture Department reports.

When the disease is detected, the department puts the area under federal quarantine until cattle have been treated and the malady eliminated. Most of the problem has been in the Southwest but it also has plagued parts of other states.

Department officials said Wednesday that new quarantines have been imposed in parts of Childress, Swisher and Hansford counties in Texas, and a previous quarantine removed from portions of El Paso County in the state.

Until cattle are found free of the disease, none can be shipped from quarantined areas across state lines.

OVERLAND TO ODESSA

Trouble With The Cops

EDITOR'S NOTE: Earlier this year, Murray Olderman learned that relatives of his late parents, who came to the United States from Russia 60 years ago, still lived in Odessa. He decided to search them out and, rather than fly, he picked up a car in Munich and drove some 1,700 miles through Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. This is the third of a series which describes the author's personal odyssey.

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

JASSY, Romania—(NEA)—This is not my trip for cops.

On my first day ever in a Communist country, I'm looking for a hotel on the Pest side of Budapest (which straddles the Danube River) and frustrated by the foreign signs and the language barrier. Hungarian is impossible.

Down the next street a policeman is directing traffic, so I steer the car in his direction. Before I can say, "Intercontinental," he says, "Passport."

Why would a communist cop want my passport? I remember that in writing for a visa, a note came from the Hungarian consul in Washington, "You will not practice your profession while in our country."

I don't want to be a journalist right now. I just want my hotel. But the cop points to the street and says, "Autobus."

"I don't know what you're talking about," I answer. "Just tell me where the hotel is."

He says, "Hundert forint." That I understand. Forint is the Hungarian currency. "Hundert" is German for 100. He's putting the arm on me for approximately $5.

"Uh, uh. Nichts verstehen. I'm American No Hungarian money."

He won't budge. "Hundert forint!" He points to a sign, "Autobus." I had driven down a bus lane.

"This is a helluva way to treat a tourist," I yell indignantly. He doesn't undertand a word, but his face clouds and he tucks my passport in his coat pocket and walks back to his traffic post at the intersection.

Livid, I dig out a 100-forint note (having fortuitously exchanged money at the border) and hand it to my wife: "Here, give him his money and get my passport back." A real gutsy move. She comes back with the passport - and a written receipt. Souvenir of Budapest.

The next day, I'm telling a tour guide about it, still fuming. His driver leans over and says something in Hungarian. The guide translates, "Tell him if he had been a Hungarian, it would cost him 200 forint.' "

Budapest is a frayed reminder of the time it was the liveliest city in Europe. At dinner in any good restaurant there is always gypsy music. The prices are reasonable by American standards. At a "gulyas" (goulash) party in the hills of old Buda, there is a master of ceremonies who comes on like Joel Gray in Cabaret. He cajoles a Finn, a Pole, a Russian, a Chinese from Hong Kong and an American from San Francisco - all visitors - to come on stage and learn an Hungarian folk song. The man from San Francisco wins a bottle of Hungarian champagne for his solo rendition.

THE ROAD to Budapest, today a frayed reminder of the time it was the liveliest city in Europe.

Eastern Europe has become the outpost of the old-fashioned travelling salesman. Our dinner partner at the goulash party is a cowhide salesman from Lebanon. We drive further east on Highway E15 into Romania and at the bar in Cluj meet Fred, who has a broad Boston accent and is a manufacturer's representative getting the Romanians to produce shoes. At breakfast the next morning we sit with an engineer from Syria who is dealing for a phosphate factory.

Cluj is in the Transylvania foothills, the third largest city in Romania, with a large university and a famed medical school. One of its products is Dr. Nick, who works at the children's hospital. He tells us, over brandy, he makes 1,400 Leis a month ($98). He says a 50 year-old doctor can work his way up to 3,000 Leis a months. Nick is 29 and a bachelor. He lives at home with his mother and grandfather in a small village 15 miles away. He travels by bus because he can not afford a car. "This," he says resignedly, "is a socialist state." He also adds if we should get sick, it won't cost us anything for treatment.

Food in Romania can be amazingly cheap. At dinner in the Napoca, Cluj's best hotel, we order a filet mignon for $1.35 and tournedos of beef for $1.15 - both first rate, served with french fries and salad and rolls. With a bottle of wine and dessert, dinner for two costs us $3.85, service included. We add a 10 per cent tip.

The Carpathian Mountains across the northern ridge of Romania are breathtaking driving country, a lot like the Great Smokies of Tennessee and North Carolina. And a lot quainter, without neon signs and with distinctive wood carvings to decorate the peasant homes. In the village of Carpus, the native women in their black head shawls hang their embroidery over the front fences for display and sale.

At Heudin, on the main east-west highway, a herd of cows completely seals off the road. You also learn to look out for chickens, sheep and old ladies.

The last big city before the border to Russia is Jassy, the ancient capital of Old Moldavia. It is now, like every other population center, ringed with monotonous, slab-like highrise apartment dwellings.

At the cinema in the main square of the city the feature is "Cat Ballou," starring Lee Marvin.

NAHB Will Try To Help Cut Building Costs

DALLAS (AP) — The new president of the 77,000-member National Association of Home Builders says the organization will try to help builders hold housing costs down in the years ahead.

"Surveys in indicate that people want homes, but 60 per cent cannot afford to pay the current price," J. S. Norman Jr. of Houston, Tex., told his first news conference Wednesday.

He said the NAHB will try to identify areas within the housing industry which have caused the most inflation. The organization will try to find answers, and pass them on to builders, on how to hold down costs in those areas.

Norman, who will spend much of his time in Washington, D.C., promoting the housing industry's programs, said he foresees smaller homes as one step to cutting costs.

Multi-family housing, such as condominiums, also will get close scru tiny.

The NAHB board of directors issued a policy statement Wednesday calling on the federal government to take immediate action to revive the slumping housing industry as part of a program to pull the nation out of its economic recession.

A major point of the statement's 12-point "Housing Economic Program" urged Congress and the President to immediately provide a subsidy during the next 90 days to lower mortgage interest rates to 7 per cent.

The NAHB said the subsidy should apply to loans on a maximum of 250,000 homes, but should have no dollar limit on loan amount. Such a move would help homebuilders unload the present inventory of nearly 400,000 unsold housing units.

Other major points of the program called for action to:

—Exempt from federal income tax on, or provide a tax credit for, a specific portion of interest earned on savings in thrift institutions.

—Create a Wage-Price Monitoring Board to restrain inflationary surges.

And, urge the Federal Reserve Board to expand the supply of money and make credit available at lower interest rates.

The NAHB policy statement said that, with help, the housing industry can lead the nation out of recession.

"Production means employment. Jobs mean housing and sales and rentals of apartments. An upturn in housing will swell throughout other industries, into other occupations, and move the economy foward.

The NAHB convention, which brought about 50,000 visitors to this city, winds up today with no major programs on the agenda.

Second Largest Feedlot Files To Reorganize

AMARILLO, Tex (AP) — Wheatheart Feeders Inc. of Perryton, Tex., has filed for relief under the National Bankruptcy Act, but the company says it will continue normal operations and "does not contemplate an interruption or liquidation" at this time.

Company officials of the world's second largest cattle feedlot filed for reorganization under the Bankruptcy Act Wednesday in U.S. District Court here and were given 90 days to restore the company's economic stability under the supervision of a court-appointed referee.

Judge Halbert Woodward appointed Lee Bowen of Oklahoma City to surpervise the company's operation during the reorganizational period. Woodward said a review of Wheatheart's economic condition will be made after the 90-day period expires.

The petition for relief was signed by vice president H. C. Brillhart who explained that Wheatheart had had a deficit of $6 million for the past nine months and could not meet its debts.

The petition was filed a day after stockholders of the company held long meetings in Oklahoma City with the firm's creditors in an attempt to find solutions to the firm's economic woes.

The petition listed 15 creditors. Some of the largest debts included two notes held by the First National Bank of Oklahoma City for nearly $2.5 million. Other creditors listed were John Hancock Insurance Co.,which holds a note for $2 million and Travelers Insurance Co. with a note for nearly $1.2 million.

Rumors that the company was on the verge of bankruptcy spread through this West Texas area Monday and by noon at least ten trucks were parked in front of the Wheatheart pens as cattle owners loaded their animals.

The company's offices were closed Tuesday and company officials declined comments on the firm's situation.

After the petition was filed Wednesday, the company issued a statement saying it "seeks to maintain normal operations" under federal supervision.

The company has subsidiaries in Texas and Oklahoma.

Wheatheart was organized in 1966 in Perryton, in the Texas Panhandle, and quickly grew to become the second largest feedlot in the world behind Montfort Feeders of Colorado.

Its pens have a capacity for 100,000 head of cattle. On Tuesday, the pens held nearly 50,000 head.

Industry sources in the area said the whole cattle feedlot industry is suffering economically, caught in the squeeze between the high cost of feed and the low cost of beef.

Feedlots take cattle from cattlemen to fatten and sell. The average stay of a steer in a feedlot is two to three months with an average gain of 500 pounds.

Males Model For Females

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Women from 17 to the 70s clapped, whistled and stomped their feet as male models paraded the newest in masculine underwear.

The occasion Wednesday night was a fund-raiser sponsored by Minnesota GOP Women for Political Effectiveness.

"Take it off! Take it off!" the women urged the models as the few men in the audience of about 350 persons grinned good-naturedly.

The models left it on.

But that was virtually the only area in which the models and audience bowed to the traditional decorum of women's fashion shows.

"This won't work," a pessimist among the men had vowed prior to the start of the show. "Women buy more men's underwear than men do. And the sight of a man in his underwear is only too familiar."

Perhaps, but that's under normal conditions.

In this case, the underwear was the latest line of monochromatic and patterned bikinis, along with some of see-through lace and a few longjohns thrown in for spice.

The models — well-built young men named Jeff, Harry, Bob and Rob — appeared as amused by their plight as the audience.

"What am I doing here?" Jeff asked, as much to himself as anyone, as he walked down the T-shaped ramp in red bikini briefs.

The crowd responded with gales of laughter, but not much in the way of answers.

In a classic example of reverse sexism, a woman asked Rob, "What's a nice boy like you doing here?" He, too, seemed at a loss for an answer.

Ellen Fitzgerald, chairperson for the show, said the GOP women's group held its first such extravaganza a year ago. Its success convinced the women to hold another.

Proceeds from the $6-a-head tickets were to go toward supporting GOP candidates, male or female, who support feminist causes.

Program On Nuclear Plant

Shug Bowlin of Sweetwater, representing Texas Electric Service Company, presented the program at the regular luncheon meeting of the Noon Kiwanis Club, held Wednesday at the American Restaurant.

He showed slides about nuclear power plants and discussed the one to be built at Glen Rose.

Dr. Jim Tully, president, presided over the meeting. He reminded the club of the annual pancake supper to be held from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, March 21.

Lt. Gov Hank Myers of Lamesa was a special guest of the Club. He invited everyone to attend the basketball game between Lamesa and Snyder Friday night in Lamesa and to attend the Lamesa Club's pancake supper next Saturday night.

Other guests included Doyle McAda, Johnny Plunkett and A.J. McDaniels, all of Lamesa; Guy Sullivan of the Sunrisers Club, and Sgt. Bill Barlow of Snyder.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

★★★

Q. When must I give my employees their W-2 forms?

A. Give your employees their Forms W-2, Wage and Tax Statements (or Social Security Statements), for a calendar year, or any corrected statements made in the year, not later than January 31 of the following year. If someone leaves your employ before the end of the calendar year and you don't expect that employee to return to work within the calendar year, you must give a wage and tax statement to the employee not later than 30 days after you pay the final wages.

Q. Last summer I earned a few hundred dollars to cover some of my college expenses this semester. Do I have to file a tax return and report this income?

A. Single individuals who have $2,050 or more gross income for the year must file a return. Any individual who may be claimed as the dependent of another taxpayer must file a return if he or she had a gross income of $750 or more and received any unearned income during the year. Even if you did not make enough money this year to require you to file a return, you may haveincome tax withheld from your pay. If so, you should file a return, claim your personal exemption and get your refund.

Q. A great-uncle of mine recently died, naming me executor of his estate. His will states I'll receive a small amount of cash. In addition, I will receive a fee for performing the executor's duties. Do I have to pay tax on this money?

A. Gifts, bequests or inheritances you receive are not income. But if property you receive in this manner later produces taxable income such as interest or dividends, that income is taxable to you. The fee you receive as executor must be included in your gross income, however.

Q. In addition to prescribing medicine and new eyeglasses to relieve my headaches, my doctor sent me to a clinic for acupuncture treatment. I know the drugs and eyeglasses are deductible medical expenses, but what about the acupuncture services?

A. Payments for acupuncture services qualify as deductible medical expenses.

VIEWPOINT

A Case For Ingenuity

President Gerald Ford's formula for attacking the energy problem and inflation is not likely to win any popularity polls, but perhaps it will jolt Congress into action and lead to some serious planning for the future.

One point in which the consumer as well as the producer may be in accord with the president is the reluctance to go into a gasoline rationing problem. Rationing usually means price controls as well, and whatever the ceiling price might be, you could bet your bottom dollar it also would be the floor price.

Rationing would be a stop-gap effort at best---treating the symptom rather than the cause.

The president's anti-rationing plan has drawn fire from several Congressmen and Senators, two of the more prominent being Sen. Ted Kennedy of Massashusetts and Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington state. Sen. Kennedy has indicated that his interest is in seeing that the New England States get their share to the country's petroleum production. Just what that share might be is difficult to determine from here. The New England "share" might come into sharper focus if citizens of that region had not expressed indignation and turned thumbs down on a proposal several months ago for a huge off-shore terminal for handling petroleum and a refinery in Connecticut.

Sen. Jackson has for years had difficulty grasping realities in dealing with the petroleum industry.

Anyway, it would be interesting to see what would happen if enough strings could be cut to give the nation's ingenuity and technology an opportunity to attack this problem without interference from the sidelines. Who knows? They might lick it as they have thousands of other national problems in the past 199 years.

Question Of Questions

Times have changed, and company employment offices had best be aware of it. A management bulletin put out by the Water Quality Assn. contains a number of tips to enable personnel interviewers to avoid difficulties with the Equal Economic Opportunity Commission:

-Ask no questions about the job applicant's national origin. Restrict questions about membership in organizations to those dealing with professional societies or other work-related groups --and only when it is relevant to the job.

-Don't ask for the name of nearest kin. Instead, ask whom the applicant wishes notified in an emergency.

-Don't ask for a recommendation from the applicant's last employer. Ask for persons who will supply references.

-Restrict questions about the applicant's military career to work-related experience or training. Arrests are not convictions, so don't ask about them. It's even risky to ask about convictions, unless the applicant would be handling money or other valuables.

-Restrict any employment tests specifically to job requirements. Anything else may be discriminatory.

-Questions about height can be discriminatory (particularly against Hispanic Americans). Questions about weight can be asked only when it is relevant to the job and the standards are applied uniformly.

-Questions about car or home ownership, as measures of affluence, can be considered unfair to some minorities. Exception: It's safe to ask a salesman if he has a car.

-Don't ask single women if they are engaged.

Some of these restrictions seem eminently right and reasonable, others maybe a little less so. In any case, one is tempted to suggest an additional caution: Whatever questions you ask -- smile.

Farmers To Plant More Feed Grains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers will boost plantings of feed grains this year from 1974 but all of the increase will be for sorghum and barley, according to a survey by the Agriculture Department.

Corn plantings in 35 states surveyed Jan. 1 will be about 76.1 million acres, a cutback of four-tenths of one per cent from 1974. Oats producers also will scale down plantings to 17.3 million acres, a decline of four per cent, the department said Wednesday.

But sorghum grain producers said they intend to increase 1975 plantings 10 per cent from last year to 19.4 million acres. And barley producers indicated they will plant 9.4 million acres, an 8 per cent increase.

In all, the four major feed grains will be planted on about 122 million acres in the spring, an increase of 1.4 million acres from 1974, the report said. The states surveyed account for more than 98 per cent of the nation's feed grain production.

Soybean farmers, including many in the South who will switch from cotton, indicated they will boost plantings 8 per cent from 1974 to 57.1 million acres.

Don Paarlberg, director of economics for USDA, said the intended reduction in corn planting came as "somewhat of a surprise" but he was encouraged by the over-all increase in the four feed grains.

Paarlberg told a reporter he was shocked by the indicated reduction for cotton. The report showed cotton plantings will drop 32 per cent from last year to 9.5 million acres.

Cotton producers have seen prices tumble sharply from year-ago levels as demand for the fiber by textile mills in this country and abroad has dropped off.

Upland cotton producers in Texas and Oklahoma indicated they will plant 4.5 million acres, down 23 per cent from 1974. In the delta states, plantings are expected to drop 38 per cent to 2.9 million acres, and in the Southeast the crop will be planted on 785,000 acres, a reduction of 48 per cent.

Cotton plantings in Arizona, California and New Mexico are expected to total 1.3 million acres, 28 per cent fewer.

Sheikh Wants To Buy Alamo

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Sheikh Masoud Al-Sharif Al-Hardan's son remembered the Alamo so well that the Saudi Arabian father wants to buy the shrine of Texas independence for his son, a Houston lawyer says.

"My son learned how to fly in San Antonio. He used to visit the Alamo and he loved it," the sheikh said in a letter to the Houston lawyer printed by the San Antonio News Wednesday.

"Please contact the proper people and see if we can buy it. I want to present it as a gift to my son."

The Alamo is owned by the State of Texas. A Texas detachment of 187 men died at the one-time mission in the war for Texas independence to stall the advancing Mexican army and give hurriedly-formed Texas forces time to group.

The Texas army battle cry became, "Remember the Alamo."

"Of course, I intend to write to Sheikh Masoud to explain to him the difficulty of fulfilling his request," the lawyer told the News.

"I'll suggest to him to think of something else, maybe a Texas ranch, to present to his son."

HEW Seeks Help On Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare says it has strong indications that 1.1 million children of Spanish, Indian and Asian descent are illegally being denied bilingual education in 333 school districts across the nation.

HEW's Office for Civil Rights disclosed Wednesday that it had sent letters to 26 chief state school officers asking for their assistance in identifying and correcting violations.

The state officials were asked to pass along forms requesting current enrollment and instructional data to the districts and report back within 45 days. An HEW spokesman said it was the first time that states had been enlisted to help in a major civil rights fact-finding probe.

The government has begun a major investigation in New York City of equal educational opportunity for national origin minorities and plans similar investigations in Chicago, Houston, Los Angeles and Philadelphia.

States suspected of having districts in violation are Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Kansas, Illinois, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming.

Civil Rights director Peter E. Holmes noted that Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin.

Women Propose Sacrificial Meal

DALLAS (AP) — A group of Baptist, Catholic, and Jewish women here have recommended eating one less meal week, eating less beef, and cutting out their women's luncheons to help fight world hunger.

The women, members of Church Women United, the Dallas division of Catholic Women, the Baptist Women's Missionary Union, and the National Council of Jewish Women, met Wednesday for a seminar on world hunger and said they came away feeling just a little guilty about their standard of living.

"We did a little consciousness raising," said Margaret Estes, president elect of Church Women United. "We decided it would be a good idea to give up ladies' luncheons.. You know, sort of as a sacrificial meal. And we probably don't need all those sweets with coffee, either."

The women decided they also might be able to do without one meal a week to cut down on food consumption. They zeroed in on beef consumption after hearing statistics on grain. According to information distributed by the Christian Life Commission (CLC) of the Baptist General Convention, it takes seven pounds of grain to produce a pound of beef. If Americans cut their meat consummption in half, says the CLC, it would release enough grain to feed 100 million people.

The women also were told that tons of nutrients are being used on U.S. lawns, gardens, cemeteries, and golf courses. The women recommmended a cutback on fertilizers.

"We're also going to simplify our meals," said Mrs. Estes. "We believe that if we can have some impact on the community as nourishers of our families and as members of women's groups, we will have accomplished something.

"You know, this is an easy thing to forget about. But sooner or later we have to recognize the fact that we all belong to the community of man."

Haig To Pay For Transporting Dog

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. will pay the United States government $46.92 for transporting his dog, Duncan.

The dog was taken last October from Frankfurt to Stuttgart by two enlisted men who made a 260-mile round trip to get him. The incident occurred when Haig became commander of allied forces in Europe.

Haig said the trip had been authorized by a subordinate. He said he heard of the incident for the first time after the disclosure Monday by Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., that the government had paid for the trip.

Dr. Lamb

Two chemicals aren't the same

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have a heart condition and use Digoxin daily and quinidine. The quinidine price is very high, having increased 50 per cent in a few months.

Your column indicates potassium helps prevent heart irregularities, which, if I understand correctly, is also the purpose of quinidine.

My question is, can potassium be used as a substitute for the quinidine? If yes, would the cost be cheaper?

DEAR READER—The potassium will help prevent heart irregularities if a person is low on potassium. It is sometimes prescribed when a person is taking digitalis medicines such as Digoxin and also for people taking diuretics to eliminate excess salt and fluid, or in the treatment of high blood pressure.

When the potassium level is normal, taking excess potassium will do nothing to prevent heart irregularities. By contrast, quinidine has a direct drug-like effect on the heart muscle fibers and changes their irritability in such a manner that irregular contractions or beats are less likely to occur. So while both are useful in specific cases of irregularity of the heart, they do not have the same actions and cannot be substituted at will, one for the other. I wish it were so, then I could simply advise patients to use more orange juice and fruits rather than taking quinidine and similar medicines when needed.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I would like to ask you a question. I am a lactovegetarian, using milk (low-fat), and lots of cheese, no meat or fish at all. I read an article by another doctor, which said that one important amino acid is missing, that can only be found in meat.

I am 54 and in excellent health, having started on this deal 24 years ago. I take a daily vitamin tablet and 800 units of vitamin E every day. What do I lack that I could get from meat and what should I take to get the missing amino acid?

DEAR READER—The protein in milk does contain all the essential amino acids - those that the body cannot manufacture from other amino acids. That, plus its calcium content, is why milk is such good food for growing bodies. I would think that you really have no problem as far as amino acids, protein or calcium intake.

Vegetarians as a group tend to live longer than their meat-eating contemporaries. Many of them tend to weigh less - eliminating or decreasing the problems of diseases associated with obesity, such as heart disease.

I am not strong on recommending all varieties of cheese in the diet because process cheese may have 80 per cent of its calories as fat and half of that is saturated fat believed to contribute to heart and vascular disease. For this reason I usually recommend low-fat or uncreamed cottage cheese which is an excellent source of both protein and calcium without adding fat to the diet.

I don't think it is a bad idea to take one simple daily all-purpose vitamin tablet. Many people do not have adequate diets and such a practice may actually help in these situations. Vegetarians usually get all the vitamins they need because vegetables, fruits and cereals are major sources of vitamins. Most meat is actually poor in many of the needed vitamins. So you are not losing much there. The main contribution of most cuts of meat to the diet is really in helping to provide the daily intake of protein.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

'Copter Becomes Heavy Moving Van

ROOSTER ROCK STATE PARK, Ore. (AP) — Three years ago a federal ruling said there would be no further use for a 30-ton steel fabricated building atop a hill in Rooster Rock Park as a relay station for broadcasts to boats on the Columbia River. It was to be sent to Corvallis, Ore., for other use.

That presented a problem for a moment only. Pacific Bell Telephone Co. brought in a helicopter which lifted it up 100 feet, carried it two miles over hills without damaging trees and then deposited it gently on a trailer waiting alongside the Columbia River in the park.

Tallulah Bankhead revealed at her New York stage debut, in 1918, that she was named for her grandmother who, in turn, was named after Tallulah Falls, Georgia.

MANNIX IN EIGHTH YEAR

Connors Looks To Future

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)— One of the favorite conversational subjects at Hollywood parties is the behavior of stars. With great relish, the folks love to exchange the latest stories about the temperamental antics of this one or the scandalous escapades of that one.

And then, invariably, somebody will say how lucky Ivan Goff and Ben Roberts are. And, if Goff or Roberts are present, they will roll their eyes heaven-ward and agree.

Goff and Roberts produce CBS' Mannix and they are deemed fortunate because their star is Mike Connors. And Connors is that rarity - a star who seems totally devoid of any trace of annoying temperament and completely without the need to get involved in scandal.

There has never been an unkind word said about him by anybody he works with. There have been attempts, since Mannix began, to trump up a feud between him and his on-screen secretary, played by Gail Fisher, but they haven't worked.

About the only problem around seems to be what will happen when that inevitable day comes and Mannix goes. Now that Raymond Burr's Ironside series has been axed, Mannix has become vulnerable. It's been around eight years, which is ancient by current TV standards.

MIKE CONNORS: handsome enough to play a newspaperman?

Connors admits he's thinking ahead. He says that if and when Mannix is canceled, he'll probably take a year off "to recharge my batteries; to get a fresh outlook on my career."

But he will undoubtedly then do another series. He's too valuable a property for the TV moguls to let sit on the beach, even though he could probably afford to retire. And he admits that another series is highly probably. The only question seems to be - what kind of a series, what sort of a character would he like to play?

"I don't want to be either a doctor or a lawyer," Connors says, "and certainly not another private eye. What's left? Teachers and politicians don't work on TV. Maybe a newspaperman - if it's done well, that might work."

A newspaper series never has been done well on TV but he's right - it might work. And Connors is handsome enough to be a newspaperman, perhaps.

The problem for creators of TV series is just that - what profession to give the leading character. Connors put his finger on the sore spot.

"You know," he says,"if you take out law-and-order shows and situation comedies, there's not enough left on TV to fill three nights."

Eight years of Mannix - eight years of anything - is enough to make most actors bored with the character they are playing. Mike Connors says he's still not bored with playing Joe Mannix and he says it is the chance to work with new and different people each week that enables him to stay fresh and unbored.

"Everybody," he says, "reacts differently when confronted by different people. Having new people on the show week after week allows me the luxury of a new and fresh reaction. As a human being, I get to meet new personalities and new problems. And that keeps me fresh."

Most of TV's current crop of shows allows the star to share the burden with others - often as many as three or four other characters are regulars, thus spreading the work load. But Mannix is alone (except for Miss Fisher) and, thus, the work load is almost entirely on Connors' shoulders.

"It's hard work," he says.

He gets up every morning when he's shooting, at 5:30 and it's a rare day when he's home before eight in the evening. He admits that he is physically tired.

Besides the acting, he does most of his own stunts. He estimates that between 80 and 85 per cent of what we see on the screen he does himself. He draws the line at jumping off high buildings or driving cars down the face of sheer cliffs or allowing himself to be hit by cars. Otherwise, he does it all.

The criterion is whether or not he runs the risk of serious bodily injury. If he thinks he can do it without getting hurt, he'll do it. If not, he passes.

To keep himself in shape for the hard work of both stunts and ordinary acting takes time, too. He watches what he eats carefully so he doesn't gain any weight. He says that he relaxes that vigil on weekends but during the week he eats sparingly. And he tries to do some swimming every day and plays tennis on weekends.

"Besides," he says, "the show itself keeps me active. That's really all I need to stay in shape."

So his is a tough life, physically, but it has its rewards, financially. The old rule-of-thumb was that if a show lasted five years, it's star would be financially independent. Mannix is in its eighth year.

"That's true," Connors says, "but the rule-of-thumb was written before inflation. Unquestionably, I've earned a lot of money and have a lot coming in, but each month inflation goes up and I wonder."

He isn't the only one who's wondering.

Airlines May Merge

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American World Airways and American Airlines say they are studying the possibility of a merger.

Pan Am lost $60 million during the first 11 months of 1974 and a spokesman says the firm is anticipating a total $76 million loss for the entire year.

For the first 11 months of 1974, American recorded a net profit of $20.14 million, despite an $8.9 million loss in November.

In a joint statement issued Tuesday, American chairman Albert Casey and Pan Am Chairman William Seawell said, "We are conducting a study to identify and evaluate potential cost reductions, service improvements and operational efficiencies that could be achieved through an integration of our operations."

The two airlines have already proposed a route exchange to the Civil Aeronautics Board. Pan Am would pick up some of American's Pacific routes and in return give up its Bermuda flights and those from New York to Santo Domingo.

Zsa Zsa Takes Sixth Husband

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Hungarian-born actress Zsa Zsa Gabor took her sixth husband in a quiet civil ceremony at a Las Vegas Strip hotel, then commented: "I've really only been married twice."

Miss Gabor, 55, married wealthy California inventor and businessman John W. "Jack" Ryan here Tuesday night. It was Ryan's second marriage.

Miss Gabor said Ryan was the only man who could compete for her affections with the late George Sanders, her third husband. She said her other husbands were merely "father figures."

"If this doesn't work, I shoot myself," she said.

SIGNS PROCLAMATION—Brownies of Troop 248 from Stanfield Elementary and their adult leader, Anne Overhulser, asked Mayor Bill Vestal to sign a proclamation Thursday afternoon designating the week of Jan. 24-31 as "March of Dimes Week" in Snyder. The Brownies and several other organizations and individuals will be asking for public support during the week. The girls are, from left to right, Kim Butler, Susan Bollinger, Milinda Overhulser, Carrie Lieb, Lesa Barkowsky and Missy Mitchell.

March Of Dimes Week Proclaimed Jan. 24-31

Mayor Bill Vestal signed a proclamation Wednesday afternoon, proclaiming the week of Jan. 24-31 as "March of Dimes Week" in Snyder.

On hand to witness the signing were Mrs. Anne Overhulser, adult leader of Brownie Troop 248, and girls of the Troop from Stanfield Elementary School.

There will be a "Mothers March" on Sunday, Jan. 26, for the purpose of collecting money for the National Foundation of the March of Dimes. The foundation provides communities with educational and treatment facilities for treatment of children who have birth defects.

During this special week several organizations and individuals will be collecting money. Included among the organizations are the Lucky 13, Gay 20, Retired Teachers Association, Amitie Junior Study Club, Boy Scouts, LULAC, LULAC Juniors, NAACP Juniors, Brownies, and Jaycee-ettes.

In his proclamation, Mayor Vestal declared:

"Whereas, more than 200,000 American infants are born annually with birth defects; and

"Whereas, birth defects are due to environmental as well as hereditary factors; and

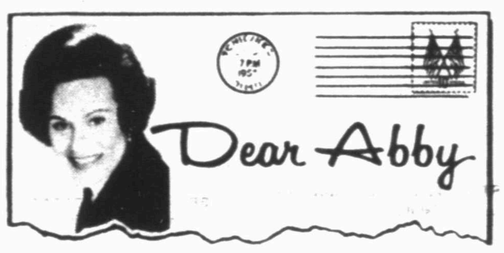
"Whereas, the United States ranks fifteenth among the advanced nations in the prevention of infant deaths; and

"Whereas, the National Foundation-March of Dimes is providing communities with educational and treatment facilities like genetic counseling and prenatal care clinics; and

"Whereas, researchers supported by March of Dimes grants continue daily to seek prevention of major threats to the physical and mental health of future generations; and

"Whereas, past breakthroughs have been largely due to the generous support of millions of concerned Americans;

"Now, therefore, I, William A. Vestal, Mayor of Snyder, do hereby proclaim Jan. 24-31, 1975 as March of Dimes Week. I am confident that we will each make a sincere effort to ensure the continued success of this organization which gives the promise of a healthier, brighter future."



Reports of hubby's death were premature

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago, my husband found out he had a malignant tumor. At first the doctor said he thought it was inoperable, so we both faced the fact that my husband was going to die. He was 36 and I was 30, and we had a four-year-old son.

However, the doctor later changed his mind and decided that he could operate. In the meantime I had already accepted the fact that since my husband was going to die, my son needed to have a father, and the sooner he came into our lives, the sooner I would get over my husband's death. To make a long story short, I met a man and fell in love with him.

My husband survived the surgery, and it looks like he is going to be all right.

I have become very attached to this man and am still seing him. I really love them both and don't know what to do. Help me. ONE MAN TOO MANY

DEAR ONE: DYING unexpectedly is not uncommon, but LIVING unexpectedly is. It's wise to prepare for the future, but you jumped the gun. If you believe in fairness to a man pulled back from the brink of death, you'll say goodbye to his premature replacement.

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from the grandmother who complained because the grandparents on the MOTHER'S side always seemed to be favored, I had to put in my two cent's worth.

I am the young mother of three very active children, and it's always MY mother who babysits. She works fulltime and has her own family to take care of, but when I ask her to babysit, for a night, a day, or weekend, she acts like it's the best offer she's had all week.

On the other hand, my husband's mother has no job and no family at home. All she has to think of is herself, but she's never volunteered to babysit for me. Once she said, "If you ever need me in an emergency, I'll come," but, Abby, she knows that in an emergency I can call my own mother.

Twice in nine years I have asked my mother-in-law to sit for me. She did, but she made me feel like she was doing me the biggest favor in the world, so I quit asking her.

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest. Maybe my mother-in-law will read it and see herself. BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: Maybe. And maybe not. Not all grandmothers regard an offer to babysit as "the best offer they've had all week." Many have written to say that they raised their children and they wish their children would raise their own—but when asked to babysit, they hate to refuse.

Those grannies who genuinely enjoy sitting should do so, but those who don't should not be made to feel guilty.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please do me a favor and answer this in your column so I can give it to my son to show his future wife?

Every time we have this girl over for supper, she brings her scale and insists on weighing everything before she eats it. While I am putting food on the table and everybody else is sitting down, she goes into the kitchen and weighs her food before bringing her plate to the table.

I think this is bad manners. Don't you? INSULTED

DEAR INSULTED: Not necessarily. The young woman is obviously a weight watcher—and I say hooray for her. Try to be a little more understanding. Or would you rather have a fat daughter-in-law?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Milan Requests Probe On Religious-Owned Stations

DALLAS (AP) — A California broadcast consultant says his concern over a scarcity of television and radio space reserved for educational programming and not an anti-religious bias prompted him to petition the Federal Communications Commission for an investgation of religious-owned stations and their application to the Fairness Doctrine.

Lorenzo Milan, 41, said in an interview Wednesday that the petition, which he and Jeremy D. Lansman submitted last Dec. 1, addresses itself to the FCC's granting of licenses to religious groups who seek to operate on those reserved portions of radio and television frequency bands.

"I don't think those frequencies should be squandered," Milan said. "I'm worried that fundamentalist religious groups are moving into educational FM bands and not opening up to other groups. They're using the bands in a very strict way."

Milan said he and Lansman were prompted to submit the petition because fundamentalist groups around the country were buying up the reserved frequencies. They had considered writing the petition for about a year, he said.

He said the FM bands between 88.1 and 91.9 are reserved for educational programming. The groups apply for the educational frequencies through their affiliated schools.

Milan said the three-phase petition asks the Commission to investigate the actual programming of the religious stations. It also proposes that independent funding be made available to schools and colleges for programming so they will not be dependent on state legislatures for support.

"I'm not opposed to religious stations--just on reserve bands," he said.

Milan pointed out that there were at least three religious stations doing good broadcasting at one time in the nation. His primary concern, he said, is the quality of the programming.

"The material is so terrible," he said. " It's really pap. They have something to sell. They want to sell Jesus. I think that stinks. I don't mind if they do it on commercial stations, but when they go on reserve stations, I get really irritated.

"In radio and television, religious broadcasters are phenomenal money-makers. I resent it when they move into the scarce frequencies."

Milan, a writer whose home base is Los Gatos, Calif., is in Dallas to help set up a minority radio station. He and Lansman have served as consultants in setting up more than 20 minority stations in Seattle, Portland, Ore., San Francisco, Atlanta and other parts of the country. Milan said he handles the "literary" side while Lansman covers the technical aspects. They have worked together since 1962.

"My contact with these fundamentalist religious groups indicates to me that they don't really have open access," he said.

The petition states he concluded that the religious stations are really anti-educational since they all preach "back to the Bible" without really having a central educational core.

"I very specifically addressed myself to the question of freedom of religion," he said of the petition, "that it does not mean freedom to bore people or to ignore the needs of the community."

Fraternity Placed On Probation

DALLAS (AP) — A Southern Methodist University fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, was placed on probation for a year Wednesday by the school's judiciary committee for the role its members reportedly played in an incident involving black and white students Friday.

While charges of assault filed with the SMU campus security force by a black girl were dismissed by a judiciary committee, the fraternity was placed on a year's probation for campus liquor violations.

The judiciary committee declined to name any students involved. One black student, Carolyn A. Lee, 19, of San Antonio, had filed charges against a Waco student member of the fraternity saying she had been hit in the face.

The Friday night incident began when two fraternity members reportedly poured beer on a car carrying two black couples in front of the fraternity house. A fight erupted in which the black student was allegedly struck in the face.

Two other incidents were sparked by the fight and at least one white student was taken to Presbyterian Hospital for treatment and released.

SMU blacks Wednesday night criticized the committee's decision saying it was "discriminatory and typical of SMU."

Robert Butler, president of a group called BLACKS, said, "these incidents have happened before and we get the same thing. Had a black student hit a white woman, he would have been expelled."

Airlines Profits Are Up

DALLAS (AP) — Southwest Airlines, a small commuter outfit that operates with four jet planes, has reported a 1974 net income 32 times greater than in 1973.

The line said Wednesday that net income for the 12 months ending Dec. 31 was $2,140,609 earned on revenue of $9,208,841.

This is equivalent to $1.93 a share for 1974, compared with 16 cents in 1973.

Net income figures include a $1,095,257 reduction of federal income taxes arising from prior losses.

President M. Lamar Muse said a 40 per cent rise in passenger traffic and a 152 per cent increase in freight revenues boosted the operating revenues.

The commuter airline flies between Dallas, Houston, and San Antonio.

Rep.Cramer Named General Counsel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Rep. William C. Cramer of Florida has been named general counsel of the Republican National Committee. Cramer, 52, who served in Congress from 1955 to 1971, was named Wednesday to replace Harry Dent, who resigned last month.
