Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OCT. 27.

General Topic — The Christian New of Recreation.
Scripture Lesson—Mark 2:18-28.

18—And John's disciples and the Pharisees were fasting; and they came and say unto him, why do the disciples of John fast, but they do not fast, but they do eat and drink as do the disciples of the Pharisees, but they do not fast?

19—And Jesus said unto them, Can the bridegroom be taken away from them, while the bridegroom is with them? As long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast.

20—But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then will they fast in that day.

21—No man seweth a piece of unclean cloth on an old garment; for that which should fill it up with mire, the new from the old, and a worse rent is made.

22—And no man putteth new wine into old wine-skins; else the wine will burst the skins, and the wine be spilled, and the skins be ruined; but they put new wine into fresh wine-skins.

23—And it came to pass, that he was going on the Sabbath day through the grainfields; and his disciples began, as they went, to pluck the ears.

24—And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the Sabbath day that which is not lawful?

25—And he said unto them, did ye never read what David did, when he had need, and was hungry, he and they that were with him?

26—How he entered into the house of God when Abiathar was high priest, and ate the showbread, which it is not lawful to eat save for the priests, and gave also to them that were with him?

27—And he said unto them, The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

28—So that the Son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath.

Golden Text—I came that they may have life, and may have it abundantly.—John 10:10.

Time and Place—Christ's teaching about the Sabbath was given at Capernaum, in May-June of A. D. 28, in the second year of his ministry. The visit of John's disciples took place later in the same year, and the retirement to the north-west shore of the lake in April, A. D. 29.

INTRODUCTION

Play is one of the chief factors in the socialization of man. If the purpose of God in the world consists in training human beings in the divine art of living together, then play is one of the most necessary elements in every life. For there is a higher value in the spontaneous reactions of play than in the conscious experiences of labor. The will lose its power when play is made more attractive. The failure to recognize this primary need of man for recreation and to provide adequate facilities for its development, means an increasing large number of persons who are not fully socialized and coordinated.—Batten, "Building a Community."

JENNY LEAD'S DECISION

Thirty-seven years before her death, Jenny Lead abandoned the mercenary stage. The motive of the great renunciation was purely a spiritual one. Every appearance has been a dramatic triumph, and her pecuniary reward was large; yet she never regretted her decision. Once an English friend found her sitting on the steps of a bathing machine on the sands, with a Lutheran Bible on her knee, looking out into the glory of a sunset that was shining over the waters. They talked, the tall drew near to the inevitable question, "O Madame Goldschmidt, how was it that you ever came to abandon the stage, at the very height of your success? What every day, was the quiet answer, "It made me think less of this" (laying a finger on the Bible), "and nothing at all of that" (pointing to the sunset). "What else could I do?" It is thus that we are to test our veneration, and this lesson is to show us how.

Boys and Girls Playing in the St.—"And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof."—Zech. 8:5, 6. Zechariah, it will be remembered, was a contemporary of Zerubbabel, the governor under Jesus the high priest who led the first company of exiles that returned from Babylon. He was also a contemporary of Haggai, and the two prophets combined their forces to persuade the returned Jews to resume the work of restoring the ruined temple. This verse is from one of Zechariah's encouraging prophecies. He tells the returned exiles that they need not be discouraged about rebuilding Jerusalem and the temple. To be sure, Jerusalem was then unsafe for old people and children; they were liable to be carried off at any time by the enemy, for there was no wall to keep out the foe; but Zechariah foresaw a time so secure that old people could sit in safety outdoors and little children could play in safety in the streets. In a lovely picture, this of streets full of boys and girls playing happily together, with no one to molest them.

A New Patch On an Old Garment.

No man seweth a piece of unclean cloth on an old garment. When the patch of new cloth gets wet, it shrinks and pulls away from the old cloth, making a bigger hole than before. Christ's thought for the questioners was that they must take the new teachings and the new life he brought them as a whole, and not make it patch on the old system which the Jewish rabbis had so skillfully fabricated. Applied to us of today, the parable means that the Christian life is not a mere compromise with the old life of sin. It is not a little of the new on the surface while a great deal of the old remains underneath, as wretcher and imperfect as ever. It is not a new, mended, unsightly cloak, to be thrown over the life. It is a new life, wholly new, a complete life, a life wholly distinct from the old.

It is a life that grows more and more into harmony with the divine life of God."

The Pharisees and the Sabbath, v. 24.

"And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the Sabbath day that which is not lawful?" It was lawful (Deut. 23:25) and quite customary to help themselves to the grain. What the Pharisees objected to was the plucking of the wheat, which they had decreed to be a form of reaping, and rubbing the kernels out in the hand (Luke 6:1), which they had decreed to be a form of threshing, and reaping and threshing were forbidden on the Sabbath. A further refinement of Pharisaical casuistry forbade walking on the grass on the Sabbath, for the shoes would be threshing out the grass seed, nor was a fruit to be plucked from a tree on the Sabbath, for that would be reaping; it was against such non-sensical rules that Christ made his protest.

Jesus and the Sabbath, vs. 27, 28.

"And he said unto them, The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." "The Sabbath was instituted at the beginning of the human race. It was a divine provision, universal and perpetual. For man; no broader, no stronger statement can be made. The Sabbath was made for man, but what was man made for? Man was made to know and love and serve God in the use of his higher and nobler faculties, sympathies, and affections. And for this man the Sabbath was made."—Edwin B. Webb. "So that the Son of man is Lord even of the Sabbath." Christ, "the Son of man," had a right to control what was intended for man. He was Lord of all things pertaining to man, even of an institution.

tion so sacred as the Sabbath. He was the Creator and Ordainer of the Sabbath. It is his free gift, his priceless gift, to his toiling, weary, burdened brothers.

"Now it is clear why the Lesson Committee united a lesson on the Sabbath with a lesson on recreation. The Lord's Day is intended for the highest recreation—rest of the body and renewal of the soul. Under the Son of Man we pass from the old, negative rule of Sabbath-keeping to the new, positive rule; it is to be a day of joy, a day of privilege, a day of growth and a day of service. It is, in short, a day set apart by its Creator for recreation."

Christ at a Wedding, John 2: 1-11. The first of our Lord's miracles was the turning of water into wine at a wedding in Cana, a village about three and three-fourths miles northeast of Nazareth. Jesus and his disciples were invited, and Mary, the mother of Jesus, was there. In the course of the festivities the wine gave out, and Mary told Jesus about it, evidently expecting him to work a miracle. This he did, though at his own time and in his own way, transforming into the juice of the grape six stone jars of water holding from 18 to 27 gallons each. The wine was taken to the manager of the feast, who praised the quality of the wine in the highest terms, declaring that the best had been kept for the close of the feast.

"We learn from this miracle that Christ is willing to be with us, not merely in places and times of religious service, but in all the times also of our pleasure and enjoyment, in our marriage feasts and days of rejoicing and happiness and daily at our table, and meals, and fireside, when we talk freely, and laugh and are merry with our friends; and that as he is willing to be with us there, and to bless our enjoyment, as we go by faith to see him there; to assist us by faith, not to make us gloomy, or restrain our mirth, but to make us thankful for our enjoyments, and to keep them innocent."—Dean R. W. Church.

Observance of the Sabbath.

Mark 2:23-28.

The Sabbath has a history. All the Pentateuchal codes give a large place to it. The historical and prophetic books of the Old Testament allude to it. The New Testament scriptures do not ignore it. The history of the Sabbath tells us what the Sabbath has been. A day marked by the cessation of labor; of religious observances, very simple at first, but more complex—involving special sacrifices, worship in the Temple, prayer and meditation—as the maturer religious consciousness developed. It was, therefore, not only social and philanthropic, but also religious.

"The Sabbath has an ideal. The ideal was human and divine. It was concerned with the relations growing out of man with man, and of man with God. This ideal proved to counteract the deadening influence upon both body and soul of uninterrupted daily toil and a continuous absorption of secular pursuits.

Jesus worshipped and taught on the Sabbath. He healed and blessed on the Sabbath. Deeds of mercy and helpfulness were no desecration of the sanctity or purpose of the day. It was lawful to do good on the Sabbath. To help man; to aid man; to minister to the needs of man, for he declared that the day was made for man.

INCREASE APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—The senate today approved an increase from 40 to 45 cents a pound in the tariff on transparent cellulose sheets used in the manufacture of safety glass for windshields.

The finance committee had proposed to raise the duty to 50 cents a pound. The vote was 48 to 35.

Amusement Ends In Death To Two

LEITCHFIELD, Ky., Oct. 25. (AP)—Throwing black powder into an open grate for the amusement of visitors in a country home near here last night caused an explosion and fire which killed two persons and injured four others.

The persons killed were Mrs. Marty Meredith, at whose home the tragedy occurred, and her stepson, Lee Meredith, 20. All of the nine persons in the room had escaped except Lee Meredith. His stepmother went back into the burning house to find him. Stanley Embury, 24, farm hand, had been throwing powder into the fire from a can. The flames flared back setting fire to the house.

Special Poultry Feeding Is Urged

State Poultry, Butter And Egg Association Warns Texas Farmers Of Competition From North

PORT WORTH, Oct. 25. — Texas farmers were warned by the State Poultry, Butter and Egg association in its opening session here today that unless special feeding methods are used to prepare turkeys for the Thanksgiving market this year, competition from northern and western growers will be overwhelming.

The fact that, as in Texas, the turkey crop is from 20 to 30 per cent larger this year than in several previous seasons and that throughout the north growers will pen their flocks for special feeding before Thanksgiving makes it extremely important that Texas growers use every possible measure to protect their interest, it was pointed out.

Farmers Pen Flocks

The advice issued from the convention floor is that farmers pen their flocks from three to four weeks before Thanksgiving and feed the turkeys for market just as cattlemen feed their livestock.

The fact that only two eastern dealers attended the convention as it opened yesterday, whereas in former years a dozen or more attended annually, was taken by the state growers to mean that an unusually low demand for turkeys will be made this year. Lou Greene of Boston and Ralph Collier of Brooklyn corroborated this conclusion.

Rate Schedule On Imported Dyes Is Up In Tariff Row

Issue Of American Value Injected In Controversy In Senate Tariff Consideration Friday

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—Senate tariff consideration today embraced another controversial rate schedule in the duty to be imposed upon imported dyes.

Farmers Win Out. Debate extended to the dyestuffs after the farmer had received overwhelming support in a contest with industry over the rate to be fixed upon casein.

existing law recommended in the house measure. The senate finance committee had proposed a rate of three and one-half cents.

Twenty-seven democrats and 26 republicans joined in defeating 17 republicans and low democrats to write the higher rate into the bill.

Republicans Split. Senators Blaine, Wisconsin, and Borah, Idaho, both republicans, were leaders in the campaign for the higher rate, while the opposing view was championed by Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Gillett of Massachusetts, also republicans, who contended the increase would ruin the costed paper manufacturers.

Plot To Defraud Railway Company Object Of Probe

Heavy Sedan Abandoned On Grade Crossing Of Track Over Which Special Train Of Hoover Was To Pass

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Oct. 25. (AP)—What appears to have been a petty plot to defraud a railroad company of a few hundred dollars, about the time that President Hoover's special train was to pass over the Baltimore & Ohio tracks near here, caused a sweeping investigation which convinced officers today that no effort had been made to wreck the train.

Spillers Convicted Dallas Man Found Guilty Of Fraud Charges

PORT WORTH, Oct. 25. (AP)—Mose F. Spillers, Dallas, who was convicted here today in United States district court of a charge of using the mails to defraud in the sale of automatic food vending machines, will be sentenced Friday by Judge William B. Sheppard.

The government charged fictitious dividends were declared by the automatic food company, Inc., to further the sale of the automatic machines on which it was claimed Spillers received a profit ranging from 300 to 5,000 per cent.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine by the sides of thine house; thy children like olive plants round about thy table.

Behold, that thou shall the man be blessed that feareth the Lord.—Psalm cxxviii, 3, 4.

THE PAVING OF SOUTH AVENUE H DECISION of the Lubbock City Commission to order the paving of the south part of Avenue H, from Nineteenth Street to the Denver crossing, is welcomed with widespread rejoicing.

Heavy rains recently, followed by many and deep mud holes along this stretch of Avenue H, irked drivers of every type vehicle more than the dry-weather roughness of the chug-hole infested seven blocks.

The City Commission is to be congratulated upon the promptness with which it has ordered this paving done. The incident is merely another evidence of watchfulness practiced by that body over hundreds of problems that are facing the city of Lubbock.

Every member of Lubbock's governing body, one may judge from watching them during various meetings, thinks and acts with the sole purpose in view of making things better for its citizens.

These men are faced by more problems than would prevail were Lubbock staid in all its ways. Their task is similar to the driving of a spirited team of horses through heavy traffic and at break-neck speed. Hands that hold the reins are necessarily tauter than if the same team headed down a homeward-bound lane, jogging along and unhindered.

WILL'S SCHEME A heinous plot against American culture has been discovered by a bishop, who charges that Will Hays is driving literature from the home. According to the eminent divine, the organization of which Mr. Hays is the directing force "employed a number of very able and promising college women, supplied them with the finest sort of moving picture machines" and sent them out among the women's clubs to show "how the present-day home could be made over into a really up-to-date one."

The point which was unobtrusively but very emphatically brought out was that such a modern home—the kind that every woman would want, of course—did not have a single book anywhere in it. So the club women reorganized their homes and threw out their books—and now there is nothing for husband and wife to do in the evening but go to the movies!

Mr. Hays has long been credited with being smart, but this is a scheme at which Machiavelli would have turned green with envy. He really should get it patented, lest it be immediately infringed by others who have discovered through Mr. Hays how quillies the club women are. For instance, the hotel proprietors might campaign in a similar fashion for homes without beds, so that everyone would sleep in hotels. Restaurants could show the pictures of houses and apartments without kitchens, so that everyone would eat in restaurants. Railroads could exhibit pictures of automobiles without wheels, thereby persuading everyone to travel by train.

Indeed, Mr. Hays seems to have thought up the best job of persuading since Mr. Shearer convinced three shipbuilding firms that he was a naval expert.

EVOLUTION OF THE FILMS There died in New England the other day the first exhibitor of motion pictures in the United States. It is a big step from his two-by-four nickelodeon to the million-dollar cinema palaces of today, but so rapid was the phenomenal development that he lived to see his consumption.

The first movie house was a curiosity and its chief attraction was as a novelty rather than as a house of entertainment. Memories of it and of its countless counterparts that were scattered throughout the nation a little more than a score of years ago are still fresh in the minds of all in their late twenties or older. The films would prove a pastime for the young, but they would prove serious competitors of the legitimate stage. As usual they were wrong. The Adam of exhibitors lived to see them refuted.

Here is a giant industry in which billions are invested and millions employed that less than a quarter of a century ago was a scrawny and sickly infant. In those pioneer days the silent drama was almost invisible. In its robust manhood it has not only forced itself constantly upon the consciousness of all but has learned to talk.

While the movies leave much to be desired, particularly after the censors are through with them, they certainly flatter the business genius of the nation.

MORE ROADS FOR MORE CARS In France, Alfred P. Sloan predicts continuation of automobile manufacture in America at the present pace indefinitely. The day before the American Automobile Association, in an appeal for a new national road building drive, estimated the American registration of cars and trucks at 35,000,000 by 1940.

Allowing for the increase since last year's figures, probably 24,000,000 machines are in use in the United States now. The figure of 35,000,000 by 1940 means replacement of virtually all these 24,000,000 and the addition of 11,000,000 more. Although part of the foreign demand no doubt will be met through plants operated abroad, the manufacture here of still other huge fleets of machines for export nevertheless will continue.

As Mr. Sloan says, fluctuations of output from time to time are inevitable, but that in no way weakens the demonstration of evidence indicating a decade of manufacturing expansion in the United States equalling, and by all probabilities, far surpassing the decade now coming to an end.

The arguments both for the future of automobile manufacturing in America, and for persistent highway and street development in the country and in the cities, are overwhelmingly convincing.

We imagine the portfolio Mr. Mussolini turns over to a new cabinet member would be quite useful for keeping prints, etchings or clippings in.

It is almost impossible to tell which comes first, the excitement or the business.

UNCLE SAM TAKES BIG LOSS ON SALE OF MERCHANT FLEET, INVESTIGATION SHOWS

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Uncle Sam's war-built merchant fleet was mostly carelessly thrown together from poor material exorbitant prices.

No wonder he could not get all his money back when he began to advertise these ships for sale. Still, it does seem as if he might have done better than to put up cold cash to persuade private concerns to take vessels off his hands.

It would have been cheaper to sink them than to get rid of them by one typical method which Comptroller General J. R. McCarl tells us about.

This was a bargain by which the government was to receive $325,000 for a line of boats it was anxious to unload.

However, it agreed to recondition them first, at a cost of half the $325,000—"more than half," according to McCarl, but he does not say just how much more, so call it an even $162,500. Besides, out of the $325,000, the government actually got only $28,674—the balance being pure hot air.

Net loss to Uncle Sam thus, $133,826—or considerably more than he would have had to pay a man to bore holes in the boats' hulls.

True, a $225,000 sale of ships does look better in an official report, for the public's benefit, than an account of the scuttling of the vessels to get them out of the way—more like Coolidge economy, decidedly so.

As for the $296,326 hot air item, and the item of the $133,826 loss—it was easy enough not to over-emphasize them.

Indeed, they were not over-emphasized. Neither was a 10-year mail contract to the ships' purchasers—a contract for between $30,000 and $50,000 annually—so high, McCarl remarks, to "more than provide for the cost of the line," in a year.

Such details were rather "played down" and might have escaped outsiders' attention altogether if McCarl had not felt the urge to pry into the United States Shipping Board Merchant Fleet corporation's books.

It was in connection with the report he made following this feat of expert accountancy on his part, that McCarl mentioned the sale by the Emergency Fleet corporation of 321 ships, which it cost Uncle Sam $408,062.896 to build—

For $43,962,308—on paper— Of which, however, Uncle Sam got only $15,413,919 in cash—

Whereas, there remains outstanding an indebtedness due to Uncle Samuel of $53,326,005, inclusive of the sums still owing to him for various accessories, in addition to the 321 ships—

An indebtedness which would not be so bad if it were not for the fact that the Fleet corporation refers to $31,562,174 of it as "doubtful or uncollectable."

That is, as McCarl pessimistically observes, 80 per cent of it is n. g.

The comptroller general adds that the corporation appears to have dealt with many irresponsible firms—but after the figures quoted, it seems superfluous to rub it in like that.

"It is my understanding," says the statement issued by President Hoover, in ordering a justice department investigation, following the McCarl report, "that there is no charge of misfeasance."

And curiously enough, not only is there little suspicion of "misfeasance" among Emergency Fleet corporation officials, but few folk who have watched the fleet's vicissitudes in the last few years are inclined to accuse them of it, if any mismanagement they could have helped.

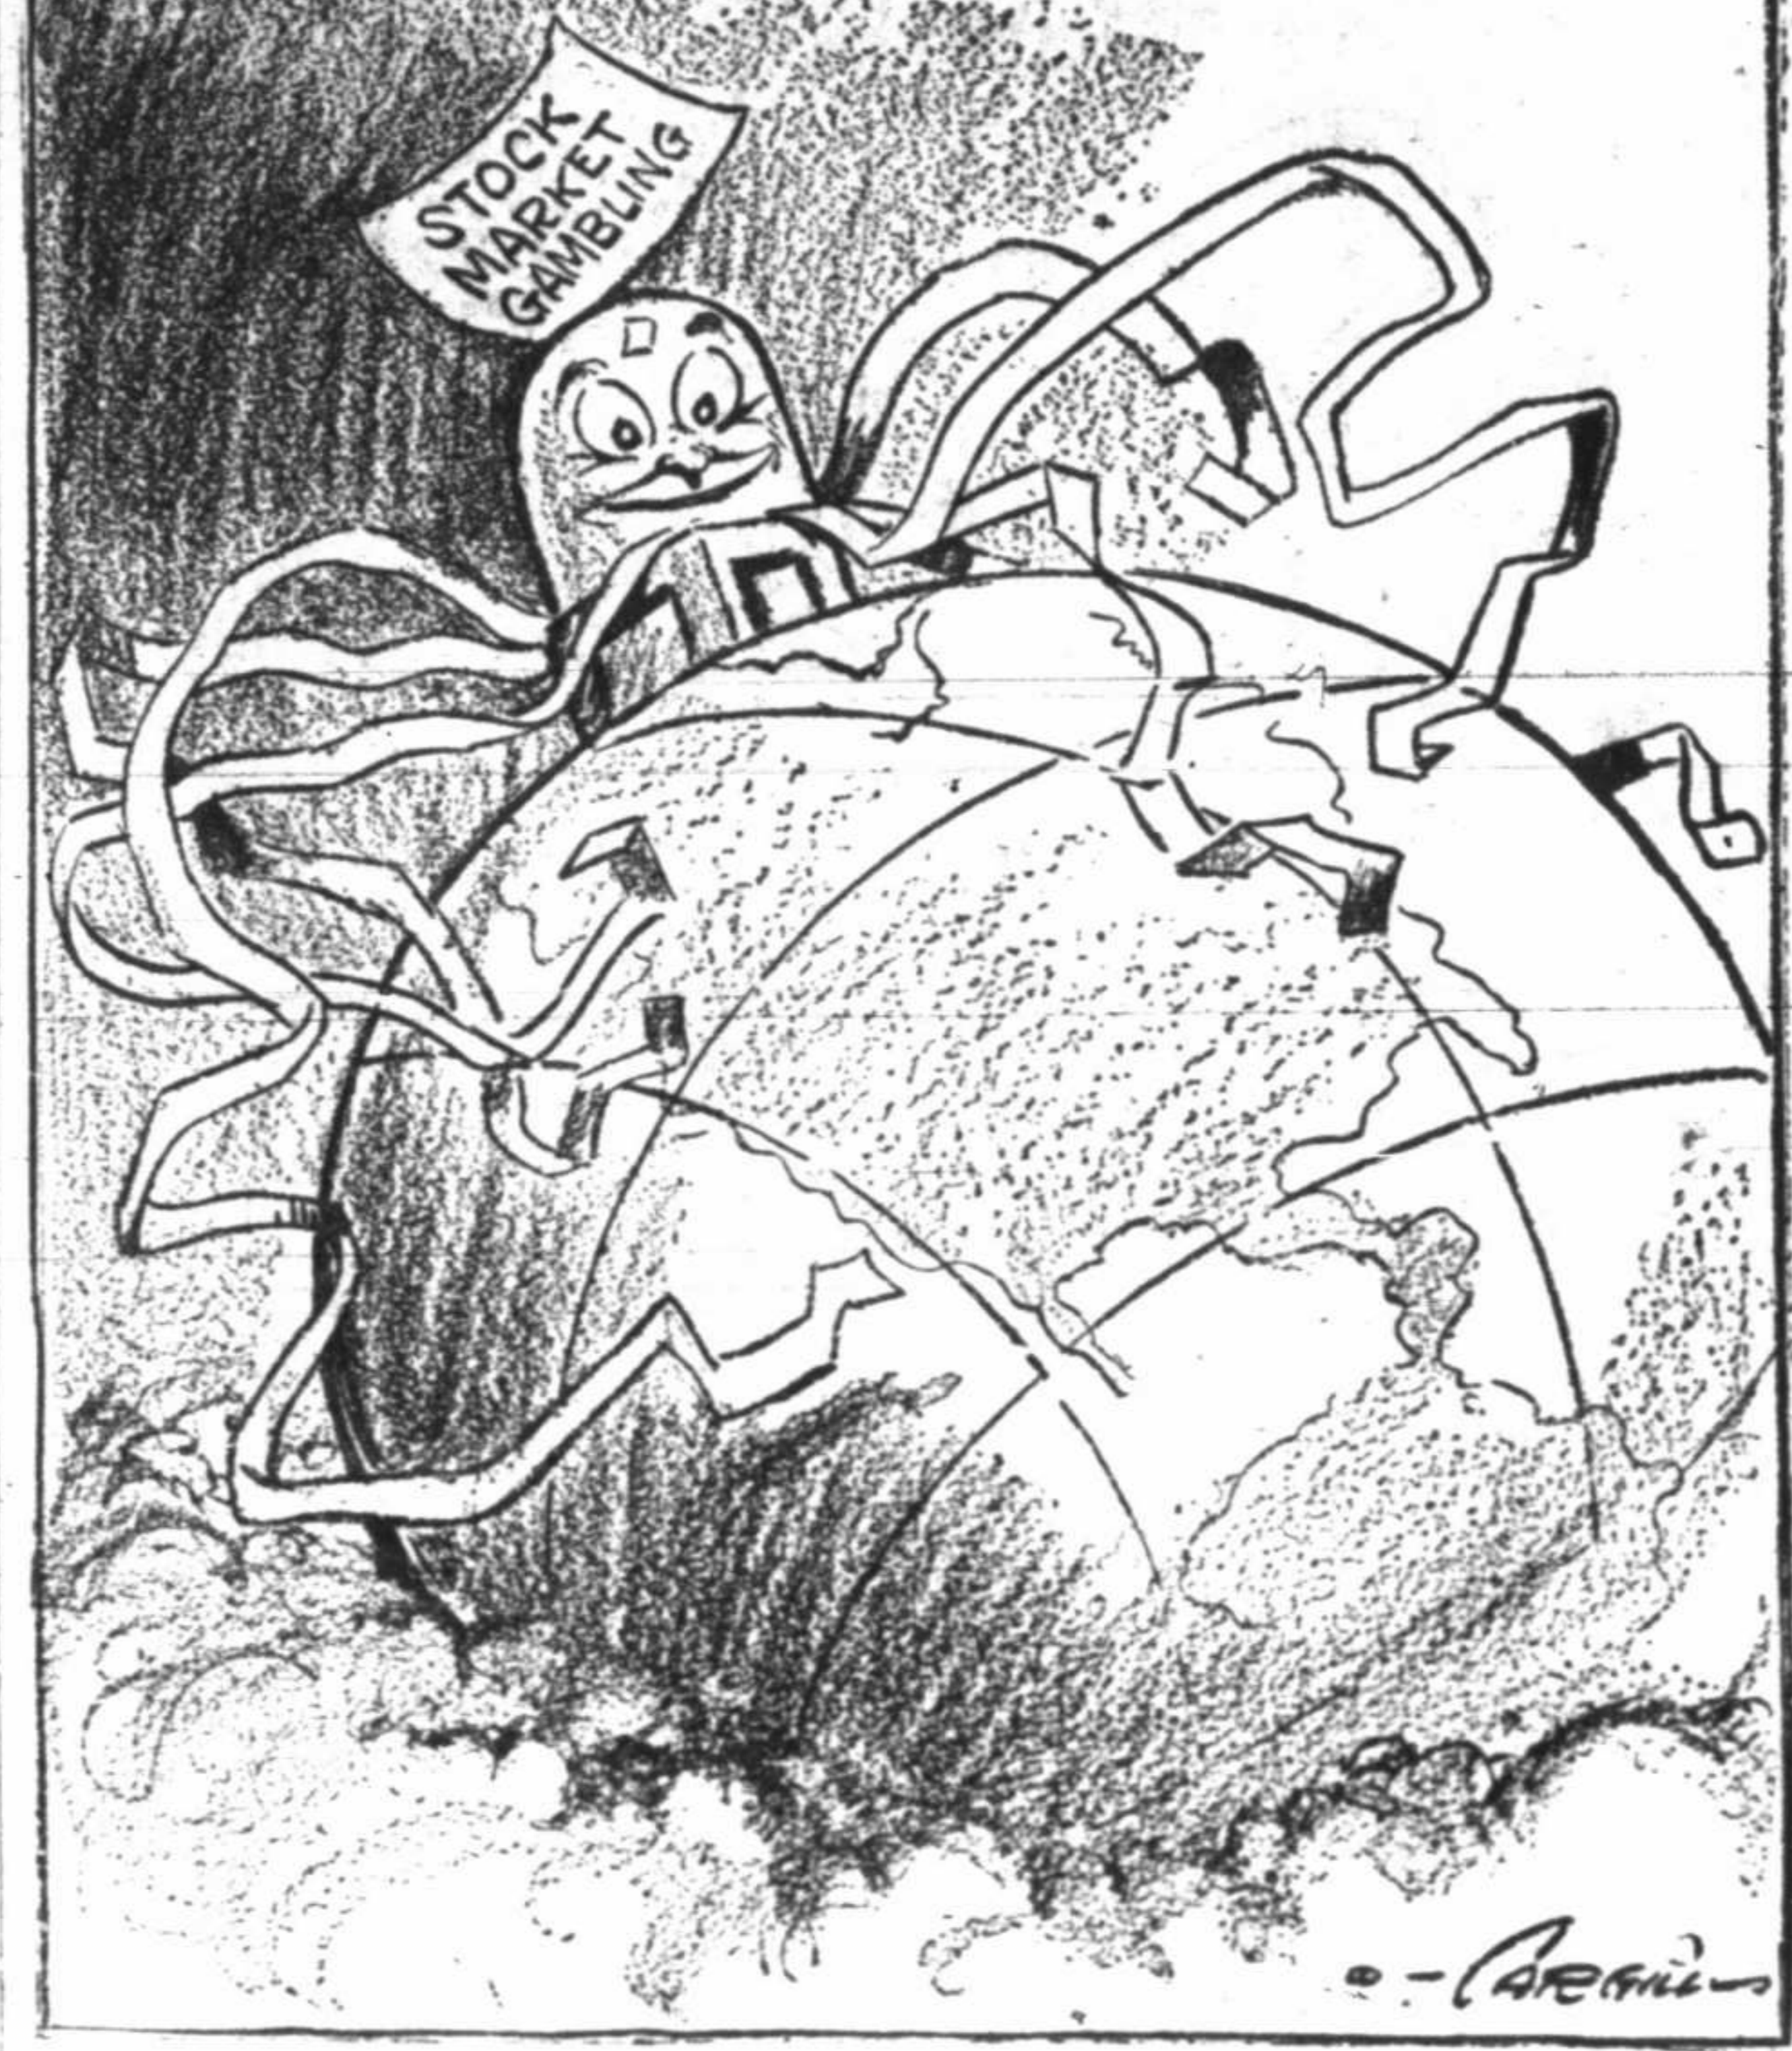

No policy of the Coolidge administration was more relentlessly pursued than the policy of ridding the government of its merchant marine—at whatever cost.

Officials held responsible for the policy's fulfillment sold ships for what they could get—or quit. The turnover in presidents of the Emergency Fleet corporation was mighty rapid during the Coolidge regime—it was hardly in human nature for a shipping executive not to balk sooner or later, at one bargain counter transaction or another that he was required to indorse.

Farley, Palmer, Crowley, Dalton—a name had scarcely time to appear on the corporation's office door before a fresh one took its place.

It was not ships alone. Twenty-one electric fans sold for $5.10 the lot. An engine which cost $105,000 sold for $2,500. A debt of $100,000 cancelled for $16,000. McCarl lists items like these into the millions. It got the government out of the shipping business, anyway.

Anniversary Notes

ERIC CANAL COMPLETED The Erie Canal, an artificial waterway across New York state, extended from Buffalo to Albany and connecting the Great Lakes with the Hudson river, was completed and dedicated on Oct. 26, 1825.

On that day the first canal boat, Seneca Chief, left Buffalo for New York and navigation from the Great Lakes to tidewater was established. The canal is second in length only to the great canal of China among the artificial water highways of the world.

The actual cost of the Erie canal was $7,143,789, but by 1836 it had turned into the state treasury more than that amount.

The canal was 332 miles in length with nine miles of adjuncts and played an important part in the development of New York state and contributed in a large measure to the establishment of New York City as a great port and commercial center of the eastern coast.

Until 1882, when tolls were abolished, the gross revenues of the canal totaled $121,461,871.

MARKET RECOVERS NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP)—The New York stock exchange appeared to have recovered its equilibrium for the moment at least, in opening transactions today, as trading was resumed after yesterday's stampede of liquidation, which caused the most violent scenes in the exchange's history. A broad advance set in directly after the opening gong, and trading was in sharply reduced volume, although many blocks 5,000 to 15,000 shares changed hands.

Ten liners carrying 7,000 passengers left Montreal, Canada, for Europe within 17 days this summer.

Today's Poem

ROUDEL Kissing her hair, I sat against her feet. Wove and unwove it, wound and found it sweet. Made fast therewith her hands drew down her eyes. Deep as deep flowers and dreamy like dim skies.

With her own tresses bound and found her fair. Kissing her hair. Sleep were no sweeter than her face to me. Sleep of cold sea-bloom under the cold sea.

What pain could get between my face and hers? What new sweet thing would love not relish worse? Unless, perhaps, white death had kissed her hair.

IDENTITY SOUGHT Payroll Checked To Find Names Of Victims

HOUSTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—The Sugarland industries payroll at Sugarland was being checked today to determine identity of four men blown to bits yesterday by a dynamite explosion.

Only part of the torso of one man was found after several cases of dynamite on which the men were sitting at lunch time exploded. G. T. Pike, justice of the peace, delayed his verdict pending further investigation.

Germany has 25 per cent more toy factories than before the World war. Panama will spend $5,000,000 in new highways.

The Innocent Cheat

By Ruth Dewey Groves AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL," "POOR GIRL," ETC.

"THIS HAS HAPPENED HELEN PAGE feels indebted to and in love with her guardian, LEONARD BRENT. The latter, changes his plans for her future after meeting a young beggar, NELLEN, and tells the girl she is heiress of a millionaire named CUNNINGHAM. Brent takes her to the lonely old man and offers proofs which Cunningham accepts, as he had been searching for his dead daughter's child. Among Helen's new friends are EVA ENNIS and her brother, ROBERT, who falls in love with her. Brent becomes jealous of Bob and plots to win Helen quickly, especially after finding another heiress. The one he had taken from Nellie to write Helen the check. Hearing that Brent's sudden shock would kill Cunningham, Brent stily administers the shock, and the servants find the old man dead in bed. Then, by clever acting and appeal to her loyalty, Brent wins Helen's promise to marry him. Later she discovers that her true love for each other and he is angry when she tells him she cannot break her engagement even though she loves him. Bob flirts with SHALLIMAR MORRIS, not knowing that Helen has tried to break her engagement with Brent, but he is continuing one of his numerous affairs with other women, and that he has made threats against her happiness if she throws him over. Eva realizes that Helen is unhappy, but resents her treatment of Bob, which has driven him to Shallimar. But Eva is worried, too, for Brent is now avoiding her after having made ardent love to her. Bob goes to tell Helen the kind of a cad she is engaged to, and while he is there an urgent call comes from his mother. They rush over but in time to prevent Eva from taking poison in a fit of hysteria. Helen tries to tell her what a cad Brent is, but she insists that she must see him. Helen decides to see him first and phones for him to come up. Brent dressed leisurely and lingered over his breakfast, taking a third cup of the crystal-clear coffee his man had prepared for him—adding a tiny pinch of salt in place of sugar or cream. Its steaming fragrance mingled with the smoke from his Turkish cigar. With her hand on a sense of well being that brought the look of a lately fed jungle beast into his eyes. His satanic smile played over his lips now and then as certain pleasing thoughts came to him. Helen must be stewing over his delay. Let her. The more upset she was the better for him. Capel had promised to be good, saying 'under' enough to know the limit of all things. Eva was a mouse. No trouble there. That girl Shallimar—well, if she hadn't landed Bob Ennis it didn't matter. She'd get her own back hanging around to give Ennis an excuse to call. The young puppy might have the nerve even with the door closed in his face at Helen's orders. But what did it matter? What did anything matter? Brent drank deep from the cup, drew in a long breath of smoke and steeped himself in his satisfaction. Helen was his. He could take her when he wished. She was utterly helpless. Finally he glanced at a small clock on his desk, arose, stretched himself, and went to change his dressing gown for his street coat. His Japanese, ever watchful, came in to help him. Brent told him to telephone for his car. The garage was just around the corner, a convenience for which those who hired space in it were required to pay heavily. The car was brought to the door of Brent's apartment house within 10 minutes and he went down to take the wheel, thoroughly convinced that the ultimate success of his scheming was at hand. Even he had entertained formerly that Helen would refuse the new role he would offer her had subsided. No one could be so mad, he believed. Give up millions? Face poverty—a girl who had been carefully protected all her life? Yes, perhaps he added, but the publicity? Could she stand up to all that exposure? Would mean to her? He thought not. Not caring for slow driving, he made good time to Yonkers. Helen was watching for him. She ran to open the door herself, having lost much of her self control while waiting for him in nervous anxiety. He attempted to take her hand for a kiss in greeting but she drew it angrily away from him and turned to lead the way to the living room. Brent followed without a word. She must be the first to speak—it suited his purpose to have it so. In the privacy of the vast room she whirled upon him and her words came like the lash of a whip. "I've heard about you and Eva," she said. Brent stiffened slightly, the only outward sign that she had disturbed his pose. One eyebrow went up inquiringly, but he remained silent. "Well, what do you mean to do about it?" Helen pursued. "Do?" Brent repeated blankly. "Are you thinking of marrying her?" Helen asked tensely. "My dear girl!" Brent was amused. "I see," Helen said jolly. "I am glad to know that you have no such impossible intention," she went on, her eyes fairly burning with scorn for him. "You need not have worried," Brent said hastily. "I shall marry one or the other, Helen." For a moment Helen was too furious to speak. Then, "You are mistaken," she said, again all her will to say it calmly, "if you expect to marry me." "Because of Eva?" Brent taunted her. "My word, you are jealous, aren't you?" "I thought you at least too intelligent to be facetious at a time like this," Helen promptly returned. "Why at a time like this?" he inquired blandly. Helen came close to losing her temper completely. "Don't you know that you've simply broken Eva's heart?" she cried. "Nonsense!" "Some day I'm certain she will think so too," Helen agreed; "but for the present she imagines herself in love with you—she wants to see you. That is why I have sent for you..." "No, she isn't!" Helen relieved him. "She doesn't know how futile it would be to make an appeal to you for any kind of decent treatment—but I know, and I wish to spare her further disillusionment." "Yes?" Brent smiled over her opinion of him, thinking of what she was yet to learn. "How do you propose to do that?" "I want your promise never to see her again. No fate could be worse for her than to go on with you." "Thanks," he answered dryly. "I'm willing to make that promise. The kid's a damned nuisance, but don't let her go by degrading to me my dear. I simply find it convenient to comply with your wishes in the matter." "But should you change your mind," Helen began warningly, "let me tell you that her brother will thrash you within an inch of your life, and maybe he won't stop there." "An inch to live," Brent exclaimed. "Sounds like a popular questionaire. What would you do if you had but an inch to live?" "Just, if you like," Helen told him; "but you can't go forever trampling on other people without being trampled on in return." Brent smiled broadly. "What a dear little lecturer you are," he said enthusiastically. "You ought always to be in a temper. Helen you literally braise." "I mean what I say," Helen cautioned him. Brent sobered. "Where does young Ennis come in?" he shot at her suddenly. Helen's head reared haughtily. "I am going to marry him," she stated. With her words a grim distortion replaced Brent's sarcastic smile. "You are going to marry me," he retorted snarlingly. Helen answered rather quietly, considering how his words fired her anger. "I promised to tell you when I made a decision like this," she said. "Well, you may persist in taking a ridiculous attitude if you choose, but I am going to marry Robert Ennis." "They had been standing. Brent now waved toward a chair. "Sit down," he said and seated himself on another. "This is going to take time," he warned, as Helen disdained to comply. "There really isn't anything more to be said," she hinted. "There is a great deal, and it will take some time," he differed. "It won't be pleasant either—for you. You're better off down, my dear." Helen glanced at her wristwatch. "I'm taking Miss Morris to the station in a few minutes," she told him. "Please say what you have to say as quickly as possible." "I'd advise you to make other arrangements for getting other people's remarks. You do not take me seriously, I see, but you will shortly, and I predict that you will not be in a mood to drive out when this interview is over." Helen refused to be frightened. "Very well," Brent began as she stood waiting. His practice of politeness compelled him to rise and stand aside. "You may as well have it straight from the shoulder. Here it is: You will never marry Ennis!" Helen smiled disdainfully. "You won't have the nerve to tell him that you're a criminal," Brent went on; "and if you marry him without telling him I'll expose you." Helen's eyes were wide with mixed emotions, chiefly astonishment and disbelief, but there was fear lurking in them as well. Fear that Brent was evil enough to have found some way to wreck her happiness, however innocent of any wrong she herself might be. She made a wordless sound of protest and shrank back from his closer, threatening approach. "What have you to say to that?" he demanded. Helen rallied her courage. "Only that you are a contemptible coward," she cried, "and utterly inane." "Am I?" Brent mocked her. "Possibly, but not too insane to have put you in the Nellie girl's place—to have won an immense fortune for you—and to have you just where I want you." Helen was now completely confused, quite unable to follow him. He saw that she would not know where to begin to ask the questions that were settling in her mind and decided to tell her everything of her story from the start. Helen listened helplessly. It was so appalling, so shocking, to hear the dead parents she had revered revealed as crooks, to learn that Brent himself was even worse than she had thought him—she could do nothing but stare gawily at him while her world fell about her head. He told her the whole truth—how he had stumbled upon the facts of the Cunningham case—how he had conceived the idea of imposing her upon the aged man as his granddaughter—and what it meant to him. When she fell, I stopped firing and ran to her. I held her in my arms and asked her to speak to me.
No Assault Reason
When asked concerning the filing of the assault charge, Lester asserted that he knew of no reason why she should do such a thing. "Wednesday when I came in after an absence of seven weeks from the city everything was peaceful between us. When the boy came in from school I picked him up in my arms and kissed him, asking him how he had been getting along. The only thing cross between us at that time was when we had a little quarrel over the way she reprimanded him."
Followed a brief description of events in the home Wednesday night during which time Lester said that he found, while rummaging in some old papers, several letters he had written to his wife from another man.
Statement False
"Such a thought as killing her never entered my mind," he continued. "Why I had every chance in the world to do so then. I was in the house all night and my gun was there. I want to correct a statement that I have been quoted on. I absolutely do not say I had to kill her because we couldn't get along. That is false. I didn't kill her intentionally."
Lester also explained that the coroner's decision that she had been shot in the house was wrong. "She was shot where she fell, in the line of fire."
Talks Of Boy
Turning his conversation again to the boy, Lester told how he had sent clothes to the lad while away from home. "He was just as much my boy as hers," he said. "I loved him, too. While away from home I would often send him clothes and on numerous occasions I sent money to her for their support."
Ending the interview, Lester indicated that his defense would be that the death was accidental.
District Attorney Durwood Bradley announced yesterday that he would fight any effort to obtain bail for the prisoner, stating that he would demand a speedy trial. The grand jury for the October term of 26th district court, which convenes here Monday, will investigate the case.
Not Ballable
"In my opinion this case is not ballable," said Mr. Bradley. "I will fight any effort for bail through all courts, if necessary. It represents the most heinous case I have investigated in several years."
Assembling an array of statements from witnesses, Mr. Bradley is losing no time in preparing for the trial. He had secured 12 signed statements yesterday but would not divulge names or the substances of the testimony.
Funeral services for Mrs. Lester were held yesterday afternoon at Weatherford. The body was shipped Thursday night by Bynum Brothers of this city.
A 10-year-old son, Roscoe, pupil of the high third grade at the George M. Hunt school, and a sister, Mrs. Roche Newton, also of Lubbock, survive.

Cotton Rises; Stock Trading Stable

Undertone Friday Healthier After Thursday Decline

Prices Move Moderately Upward Despite Bearish Ginning Figures; Market Is Less Active
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25. (AP)—Although cotton was less active than yesterday, the undertone was healthier today and prices moved moderately upward despite bearish ginning figures.
December contracts traded up from 17.86 to 2.30 but reacted and closed at 18.19, or 3.33 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net advances of 4 to 9 points.
Cables Easier
Liverpool cables were relatively easier and opening transactions showed declines of 2 to 7 points in sympathy. Some trade buying developed after the start. Prices rallied 5 to 6 points from the low. The census bureau's ginning total of 9,099,083 were construed as rather bullish and resulted in a wave of selling which carried active positions 11 to 14 points down from the earlier high. January traded at 18.99 and March 18.36.
Active positions recovered to levels practically $1.50 a bale over the low. January rallied to 18.42 and March 18.65, or 33 to 34 points up.

Hog Trade Marked By Decline Around Eleven Market Circuits In Livestock

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 25. (AP)—Hog trade around the 11 market circuit was marked by a 10 to 26c decline. Packers on the close at several points enforced the full loss of 25c. The top of $9.80 was paid at Chicago and St. Louis. Total offerings, 74,800, an increase of 10,000 over a week ago, but 7,900 less than the corresponding day last year.
Fat lambs firm to slightly higher. Some markets reported strength on mature classes of sheep. Chicago realized $13.25 on choice natives, and $13.00 for rangers. The supply was 50,700 against 40,086 last Friday and 49,900 a year ago.
Aggregate receipts of cattle, 17,200, an increase of 4,000 over a week ago, and 2,500 more than a year ago. Generally steady prices were maintained on killing classes of cattle with trade generally confined to the lower grades. Trade interests expect liberal run of range cattle the forthcoming week.

Prison Report To Be Drafted Nov. 5

Sub-Committee Of Six To Meet And Compile Formal Recommendations To Be Made To Moody

AUSTIN, Oct. 25. (AP)—A sub-committee of six will meet in Houston on November 5 to draft the formal report of the prison centralization commission to be submitted to Governor Moody and by him to a special session of the legislature.

At a meeting here yesterday the commission voted, 11 to 4, to recommend a site within 20 miles of Austin for the proposed new central and industrialized plant.

The majority composed of representatives A. H. King of Throckmorton, F. T. Murphy of Livingston, and Harry N. Graves, of Georgetown, and Senator Nat Patton, of Crockett, gave notice they would carry their fight to have the central plant located on penitentiary property now owned by the state to the legislature. They asked permission to employ experts to survey penitentiary lands preliminary to presentation of a plan in support of their contentions.

The sub-committee appointed to inspect lands adjacent to Austin and recommend the most suitable site for the prison failed to make a report. It submitted a list of all the lands it inspected and advised the committee most of it was suitable for the purpose. Prices ranged from $40 to $125 an acre.

Patent Is Given For Maize Header

Designed as a labor saving farm implement, a machine for heading maize has been created and patented by Warren Johnson, 1314 Twelfth street.

All the different pieces composing the new machine have been assembled from various farm implements and hand-worked into an effective apparatus by Mr. Johnson.

A demonstration of the machine was made yesterday afternoon. "It will head six to eight acres of maize per day, while a man can work only one and one-half acres by hand," said Mr. Johnson.

Assisting Mr. Johnson in the demonstration is his father, W. N. Johnson.

Small Land Bill Gets Endorsement

EL PASO, Oct. 25. (AP)—Revolutions endorsing the Small Land validating bill and proposed legislation for retaining venue of West Texas land suits in counties of origin rather than transfer to the state capital were passed by the legislative committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce last night.

While the actual vote on the resolutions was unanimous, they passed only after Alfred Petch of Fredericksburg, known in the legislature as the administration's floor leader, had spoken against them.

Today's program included breakfast at 8 a. m., a business session at Liberty Hall from 9 a. m. until noon, and committee conferences in the afternoon.

ACT ON CARRIERS
Naval Committee To Decide On Huge Carriers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—The house naval appropriations sub-committee is to inquire in January into the feasibility of keeping the huge airplane carriers, the Lexington and Saratoga, in commission.

Representative French, Idaho, chairman of the sub-committee, said it cost almost as much to keep the two carriers operating as four first-line battleships.

The combined cost of the 33,000 ton vessels in the past fiscal year was given by French as $8,407,571 while that for the first line battleship California, one of the largest in the fleet, was $2,219,082. French said it would be more economical for the government to build smaller carriers such as the 13,800 ton ship authorized with the 15 cruiser program.

TWO MEN ARRESTED
Pair Charged With Raising $1 Bills To $10

NACOGDOCHES, Oct. 25. (AP)—Two men, arrested here yesterday in connection with the circulating of a number of $1 bills raised to $10 denominations, escaped from the county jail last night by sawing the bars of their cells and letting themselves to the ground by tying blankets together. One was re-arrested shortly after the break was discovered.

Tonnage of merchant ships being built in the world is 128,225 tons greater than a year ago.

No Opposition Is Expected To Plan

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 25. (AP)—No opposition is expected when the board of education of the West Texas Methodist conference, now in session here, presents recommendations that Westmontland college be enlarged.

The committee headed by Judge Henry Jackson of San Angelo, decided today to submit plans which will call for the enlarging of the school to a four year accredited co-educational college. Plans for making Westmontland college a co-educational school with regular college standards will call for a campaign to raise a $500,000 endowment fund.

Elders Report

The morning session was filled by reports from four presiding elders. Those who reported were the Rev. H. M. Rathin, Yoakum district; the Rev. L. U. Spellman, Uvalde district; Dr. Sterling Fisher, San Angelo, and Dr. T. F. Seaton, San Antonio.

Harlingen beat Austin in the contest for next year's West Texas conference. Harlingen was nominated by the Rev. S. L. Batchelor and Austin was nominated by Dr. W. F. Bryan. The vote was 109 to 98.

Last Of Dams On Ohio Is Finished

GRAND CHAIN, Ill., Oct. 25. (AP)—Ohio river dam No. 33 recently completed after four years work, was the last of the 50 dams built to provide a nine-foot navigation channel on the Ohio river, was formally dedicated today by Max General William I. Sibert, United States engineer retired, of Bowling Green, Ky., builder of the first dam authorized by the 1916 Rivers and Harbors Act.

In the presence of more than 200 inland water development advocates, members of congress and others who came here aboard the steamers Cincinnati and Greater Pittsburgh, General Sibert predicted that completion of the Ohio canalization would result in a great boon to the middle west and to the country as a whole.

Texas Tech Gridmen Face Crucial Test In Annual Battle With Big Southwestern Conference Eleven

Brilliant Attack Uncorked Friday By Lubbock Crew

Smith And Green Leads Onslaught Against "B" Eleven From Lamb County; Skull Practice Today

Lubbock's Westerners uncorked a brilliant assortment of running plays, mixed in with a few deceptive passes, Friday afternoon on the Tech gridiron to smother a scrappy Class B eleven from Olton, 27 to 0, in a final tuning-up exercise before they encounter the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm next week in the outstanding battle of the 1929 District One season.

Gaining almost at will through the lighter aggregation, the Westerners appeared at their best during the opening quarters, registering 21 points in the first 24 minutes of play. Interference that approached perfect precision paved the way for the Westerner backs, with Moody Smith, John R. Green and Malcolm Martin bearing the brunt of the attack.

Figers Fight Back

Lubbock met a more determined opposition in the second half and added but one more touchdown, and at the same time chose to assume a defensive role. The visiting Figers held the Westerners scoreless during the third quarter, thanks to a penalty which brought the ball back out to the 30-yard line after Green had gone across for a touchdown. The final counter came in the last quarter with the Olton crew hitting hard to hold down the score.

Moody Smith, flashy Lubbock halfback, had another big day, piling up more than his share of Lubbock's 277 yards gained in scrimmaging. Green likewise played a leading role for the Westerners turning up for long gains through and around the Olton forward wall.

The Westerners went across for their first touchdown within the opening minutes of play. Olton kicked off to Smith on his own five-yard line and the Lubbock back returned to the 27-yard line before he was fumbled. At this point, the Westerners started their drive, employing straight running plays. After advancing the ball to within scoring distance, Smith took the ball on the Olton 17-yard line and on a pretty cut-back scampered through the visiting club for a touchdown, then added the extra point by a kick from placement.

Lubbock's second counter came a few minutes later after Olton had kicked off for the second time. The Westerners advanced from their own 30-yard line to the final check line on four running plays. Smith followed perfect interference around Olton's left flank for 20 yards. Green carried the ball out of bounds on the Olton 17-yard line, and on the next play Smith took the ball from this point and side-stepped his way through a mass of tacklers, making one of the prettiest runs of the day to cross the Olton goal line and add the score. He again kicked goal on the next play, Smith to Green, helped the Westerners score their third counter, the heavy placing the oval on the visitors' 30-yard line. Smith and Martin made ten on two plays. Green added another to count their final marker. Smith's lighter of the line and Smith opened over on the next play for the touchdown. Smith made his third kick from placement good.

Pass Aids In Scoring

Another pass aided the locals to count their final marker. Smith's lighter of the line and Smith opened over on the next play for the touchdown. Smith made his third kick from placement good.

Driving Back

A hard-driving fullback of no mean ability is Clarence Hodges, one of the most consistent ground gainers on the Tech squad, who is certain to see considerable action in today's battle with the Horned Frogs on Tech Field. Shifty, elusive and using words of drive, Hodges may prove the most dangerous leader later for the Matadors today.

Mustangs Set To Open Up Daring Onslaught Today

S. M. U. Facing Dangerous Foe In Intersectional Battle With "Ole Miss"; Ponies In Condition

DALLAS, Oct. 25. (AP)—The Southern Methodist University Mustangs tapered off for tomorrow's clash here with Mississippi University with a light workout at Owenby Stadium this afternoon. Coach Ray Morrison pronounced his squad in perfect condition for the intersectional bout.

The "Ole Miss" squad, 24 strong, arrived during the afternoon and was given a brief limbering-up by Coach Homer Hazel. The Mississippi mentor expressed confidence his eleven would give the Mustangs a close battle. With the exception of Sam Kyar, halfback, injured in last week's Loyola game, Hazel's team is intact.

A spectacular offensive tilt is forecast for the closing state fair attraction, with the Methodists the slight favorites. S. M. U. scouts who saw Mississippi nose out Loyola, 26 to 24, have warned Coach Morrison he is up against a fast, tricky team. Loyola had defeated both Rice and St. Edwards by big scores.

Southern Methodist is prepared to open up with everything it has tomorrow in an effort to get a quick jump on the visitors. A lateral passing attack is expected to be one of the Ponies' principal weapons. Davidson and Mason will carry the brunt of the running attack, with Gilbert doing the passing.

The probable starting line-ups: S. M. U.: Koorits and Long, ends; Hammon and Skeeters, tackles; Neely and Sanders, guards; Powell, center; Gilbert, quarterback; Davidson and Mason, halfbacks; Hooper, fullback.

Mississippi: Patis and Payne, ends; Morris and Forbis, tackles; Jones and Turner, guards; Boutwell, center; Wilcox, quarterback; Burnett and Biggers, halfbacks; Woodruff, fullback.

League Moguls Gather Today In Annual Meeting

Fall Business Session Of Texas League Owners To Open In Dallas; President Roberts To Preside

DALLAS, Oct. 25. (AP)—It will seem like old times when the owners of eight Texas league baseball clubs gather here tomorrow for their annual two-day fall business session. President J. Doak Roberts, the "Grand Old Man" of the Texas league, is expected to preside over the meeting for the first time since he was stricken seriously ill a year ago. He has received permission from his physician to attend.

Roberts' apparent recovery from the illness which caused physicians at one time to despair of his life will be an occasion for rejoicing among the club owners. The league, long prosperous under his guidance, suffered a serious financial slump during the past year.

If his health permits, Roberts will be president of the league for at least three more years, the length of his contract. He is at present on a six-months leave of absence, which will expire January 1. If, at that time, he does not feel able to resume his duties, a successor will be elected.

Texas Longhorns Meet Rice Owls On Austin Field

S. M. U. Mustangs Tangle Up With Mississippi At Dallas In Intersectional Combat

BY GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

DALLAS, Oct. 25. (AP)—Refusing to accept their defeat by T. C. U. last week as final, Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggies hope to start beating back toward at least a tie in the Southwest Conference grid crown when they encounter the air-minded Arkansas Razorbacks tomorrow at College Station.

The Cadets have taken hope from the fact that Texas university fought its way to the title last year after having dropped an early game to Southern Methodist. As they play all but one of their remaining contests at home, the Bellmen believe they have an excellent chance to finish on the summit, providing each of five now undefeated elevens loses at least once.

Already downed both by Texas and Baylor, the Razorbacks will go into tomorrow's most important conference battle with nothing in particular to lose. They already are out of the running. They will have nothing on their minds except to trim the Aggies, and for that reason will be doubly dangerous. Their best in scoring three touchdowns on Baylor for last week limbed them with confidence.

Only one member of what now look like the Southwest's "Big Three," Texas, Baylor and Texas Christian, will engage in a championship fray tomorrow. The Texas Longhorns, undefeated and unscathed on in four starts, play host to the Rice Institute Owls at Austin. As the Owls in their early games have appeared somewhat short of conference calibre, the Longhorns are prohibitive favorites.

The conference's "mystery" team, Southern Methodist, is expected to uncover its offense for the first time this season in its intersectional tilt with Mississippi university here. In view of an announcement two days ago that the Mustangs will go after the national championship next year, the showing of Ray Morrison's speedy sophomore against "Ole Miss" will be watched with particular interest. The team is said to be 100 per cent stronger offensively than when it played Nebraska to a scoreless tie.

Baylor favored.

Baylor's miltary machine, although developing less horsepower than had been expected of it against Arkansas last week, will be favored to defeat the Centenary College Gentlemen at Shreveport. Coach Jennings has announced he will use a second team most of the way, unless the Gents prove more troublesome than anticipated. Several Bear stars, including Paradeaux, regular center, came out of the grueling Arkansas battle in bad shape and will not be used against Centenary. Grubb, Leland, Drumblow et al. of the Texas Christian ensemble will show West Texas fans how they punter the Aggie bubble last week, using the Texas Tech Matadors as sparring partners. The game will be played at Lubbock, and 1,000 persons are expected to see the powerful Christians do their tricks. In order not to disappoint the customers, as well as out of a deep respect for Tech, Coach Francis Schmidt promised to start his first team and leave it in their most of the way.

Aggie favored.

The Aggie-Arkansas conflict, even through bringing together the conference's two beaten elevens, promises to provide some rousing entertainment. Both essentially are passing teams, and the air over Kyle Field is certain to be filled with flying footballs. Arkansas used its aerial attack to score its three touchdowns on Baylor last week and three completed passes paved the way for the Aggie's score on T. C. U. as the Aggies are notoriously obstinate about losing on Kyle Field, they generally are accorded the favorite's position.

The prospect of seeing Dexter Shelley, whose 190 pounds ripped the Oklahoma line to ribbons last week, carry the mad will attract many conference fans to the Texas-Rice game. It is doubtful the Longhorns' premier backfielder will be in the game long, however, as Coach Littlefield is looking forward to a brush with Southern Methodist next week.

Idalou Wildcats Defeat Abernathy

(Special To The Avalanche)

ABERNATHY, Oct. 25.—Idalou Wildcats clawed their way to a 30 to 0 victory over the Abernathy High school eleven here Friday afternoon in the second game of the season between the two teams.

The Wildcats scored in each of the four quarters, using many second stringers throughout the game. Yarborough, Wheeler and Weaver starred for the victors.

The housing program of Calgary Canada, calls for an expenditure of $1,295,000.

Tornadoes Down Carlsbad Eleven

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Oct. 25.—A sweeping victory for the Golden Tornadoes over the Carlsbad Eleven, 30 to 0, in which they struck their stride today a score of 27 to 12 was challenged for the locals. The first half ended 40 to 6 and in the last half Carlsbad high stiffened.

For the most part it was a game in the air, passes being completed and intercepted for long gains. Carlsbad made all its score by returning punts and completing passes.

A large crowd watched the game. Next Friday the Tahoka Bulldogs will invade the grid camp of the local high school.

Billies Battle Saints To Tie

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 25. (AP)—St. Edwards battled desperately in the shadow of its own goal posts here today to gain a scoreless tie with Daniel Baker.

In the final quarter both teams passed freely, completing many passes, but their gains cancelled each other and there was no scoring threat.

Pony Netters Win

DALLAS, Oct. 25. (AP)—The S. M. U. Dallas team opened its fall season today by defeating Trinity university of Waxahachie in a practice dual meet here, five matches to one. The lone defeat for the Mustangs was in a doubles bout.

members of the Longhorn football squad were guests of honor at a giant "Wreck Rice" pep rally today.

After the passing punting and signal drill today Coach Littlefield announced that all his charges were in fair shape except Claude Meadows and "Bull" Elkins, backs and Nick Gators, lineman. The crafty Sheep mentor plans to hold this 100 out of the Rice fray if possible although Meadows, and possibly Elkins and Gators will be able to play if needed.

Matador School Boasts Unusual All-Time Record

Showing Of Bull Fighters Against Southwestern Conference Eleven Saturday To Be Set

Texas Tech will be making a supreme bid for recognition among the state's leading institutions Saturday afternoon when the Matador football eleven takes the field against the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs.

With a student body outranked by only two of the older members of the Southwestern conference, the Texas Tech college continues to knock at the door of the major athletic loop of the southwest and the chances for her admission are brighter than ever before.

The record of the Lubbock institution during the first four years of its history is one which commands the attention of every sportsman and football enthusiast.

Come to Front Boasting a well rounded athletic department, headed by experienced directors, the local institution of Matadors is fast taking its place alongside the ranking colleges and universities of the southwest. Matching their prowess from the outset with the state's leading aggregations, the Matadors have come to be recognized as dangerous opponents for the strongest clubs in Texas.

When Texas Tech opened its doors for the first time in September, 1923, a vast horde of the Lone Star state reported for Coach Ewing Freeland's first Matador football team. More than 100 ambitious grid candidates were on the field the first day and this number increased to 137 before many days had passed.

Fight for Positions The usual number of men dropped out in this "survival of the fittest" struggle, and when the time for the first game rolled around, 80 gridsters were still grinningly battling for positions on the football eleven which was destined to attract statewide attention through its first-year record.

Football at Tech continued to grow in popularity as the institution advanced in years. The fall of 1926 found another large squad hustling for position on the Freeland machine. The number of candidates reached 105 at one time during early season training, but this was reduced to a much smaller number by plying season. Thirteen letter men from the first year's squad were back for further laurels on the gridiron as Coach Freeland led his cohorts forth to battle. Among these was Winfield Nicklaus, first Matador football captain. A lanky, red headed lad hailing from Sudan. Hurley Carpenter, led the Matadors through this second season, which brought additional fame to the new institution.

Reed is Leader Sixteen letter men from the first two years reported for the football opening in 1927. Bruce Reed, a hefty guard who had covered himself with glory in the two preceding seasons was named captain of the bull fighters and proved himself a capable leader. Ninety eight candidates were on hand for the training camp.

Playing under Southwest conference rules for the first time, the 1927 edition of the Tech Matadors found the competition a little stronger than usual and manager to break even in games won and lost. Two Southwest conference teams were included in the most strenuous schedule the Matadors had ever gone through. Holding the Texas university Longhorns to a pair of touchdowns and gaining recognition for crossing the T. C. U. goal line for the first time during the season, the Tech eleven emerged from the hectic season, stamped as one of the most powerful defensive clubs in the state.

A Great Record Texas Tech has a football record for the first four years of its existence that will undoubtedly go down in history as one of the most remarkable on the books for a new school. The Matadors have piled up a total of 492 points and have held their opponents to 292. This record has been made against

Matador Head

Ewing Y. Freeland, director of Tech athletics, has worked untiringly for the interest of the Matador institution since the school opened in 1923. Possibly no other one individual has put forth more effort than Freeland to gain the admission of the college into the Southwestern Conference.

WEARS NO. 13

Barr Doesn't Mind Wearing Feared Numeral

PORT WORTH, Oct. 25. — "It's a wonder you don't get killed."

That is what football fans tell Milford (Buck) Barr, giant Frog tackle from Kaufman, when they see No. 13 on his football uniform. Barr is playing his third year for Texas Christian university. This is his second year to wear No. 13 on his football jersey. "I'm not superstitious," Barr says. "When Matty Bell last year offered No. 13 to me, after several other players had refused it, I took it. So far it has had no effect one way or the other. Some persons believe 13 is good luck, but well, maybe so."

HIS FORM IS PERFECT

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. (P)—Bill Lancaster, who drives a bus for the Flossmoor country club, has practically perfect form. There's a tradition at the club that the driver must climb the flagpole when he misses a train. Bill has never climbed it and has been missing 30 trains a day for 16 years.

strong teams from the Southwestern conference, the Texas conference and the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association.

During the first year, the Tech eleven played nine games, winning six, tying two and losing one. This record stands unchallenged in the annals of college competition when new institutions are considered.

The Matadors waited but one year to step out into big-time company, meeting the Texas Christian university eleven on the Horned Frog gridiron. This battle with Matty Bell's warriors was the only game lost by the Matadors during the 1926 season. This season's record of six games won, three tied and one lost included two Texas Conference clubs, five T. I. A. A. teams, one Southwestern Conference eleven and two junior colleges.

The season of 1927 proved to be an off year for the Scarlet and Black gridsters from the standpoint of games won and lost as compared to previous years. Nine games were played, five were won and four were lost. Coach Freeland stepped a notch nearer state-wide recognition for the institution by meeting two Southwest Conference teams. In both instances the Matadors made an impressive showing.

TY COBB'S MOVE IS BIG QUESTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 23. (P)—Baseball has Ty Cobb's word that he will be back in the game next year. And that makes the suspense just that much worse.

Ty at 42 won't play. He will try the executive end. So the question is:

Will he become a major league manager or content himself with a position as assistant manager? The Georgia Peach has been asked to manage at least one major league club. But baseball men who know the great old slugger doubt if he cares to accept such weighty responsibilities.

After 24 years in the game, Ty may prefer to serve in an advisory capacity.

Cobb is coming back to baseball only because of his love for the game. The financial end of it has no attraction to him since he applied his baseball earnings to investments that proved highly profitable.

HAS BIG ASSIGNMENT

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 25. (P) All the Wolverines are asking of Harry Kipke, new University of Michigan football coach, is that he duplicate Fielding H. Yost's first year record. It may sound easy until one glances at the records. Yost came to Michigan in 1901 and that year his boys played 11 games. Their total point score was 350 to 0.

Old Grads Gather Here For Second Big Celebration

No Formal Program Mapped Out For Returned Tech Students; Luncheon Set For Saturday Noon

When the Texas Tech Matadors trot out on the field Saturday against the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, their support from the sidelines will be further strengthened by several hundred loyal fans.

That group will be composed of graduates and ex-students who are journeying back to their old alma mater to witness the varsity Scarlet and Black in action again on the grid. The occasion will be the second annual "Home Coming" of the state's youngest institution.

No formal program is to mark the day which will be given entirely over to the visitors to do as they please, meet old friends, visit familiar places and meet new students. The only scheduled meeting of the day will be the luncheon program for all former graduates to be held at Our Cafeteria at 12.30, C. W. Balliff, president of the alumni association has announced.

Even here no formal program will be held, the grads merely gathering for an informal lunch and discussion of affairs of the association. The only speaker will be Dean James M. Gordon, who is to make a short talk.

Meet At Bonfire
Friday night all ex-students and graduates gather at the gigantic bonfire and pep rally Friday night before the game, pep talks being scheduled from a number of students of former days.

On Saturday an information booth will be maintained in the east rounds of the administration building where all ex-students and graduates will register and give desired information of their addresses, occupation and etc. Saturday night, an all-college dance at the gymnasium will mark the final event of the day.

At the game Saturday, an effort is to be made to have all graduates and former students sit in a special section with the students and sit again in routing the old Tech spirit. All of the lettermen of the college will be honored in a special section on the sidelines immediately behind the team.

In the four short years that Texas Tech has been a college, more than 3,000 different students have attended school here and it is expected that more than 500 will be present for the Home Coming on Saturday.

McGRAW MAY FIND TRADERS APLENTY

BY JAY VESSELS
NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP)—When John McGraw gets ready to do his heavy winter trading he may find a surprising number of baseball men ready to do business.

For the Giants' veteran manager has been handing out some very choice players in recent years.

In fact McGraw has made possible some of the greatest bargains in the history of the game. Boston jumped in and grabbed Hornsby for some money and two players—Jimmy Welsh and Shanty Hogan. Within 10 months, the Braves picked up around $200,000 in cash and four or five players for the same.

Pittsburgh eagerly swapped Vic Aldridge for Burleigh Grimes whom McGraw just as eagerly put on the block. Grimes developed into one of the best Pittsburgh pitchers since the days of Babe Adams. And Aldridge didn't even last one season with the Giants.

Then Philadelphia came forward for its slice of the McGraw cake by getting Lefty O'Doul in a trade involving Fred Leach. Lefty promptly set his sights on the National League batting championship which he copped with the princely average of .50. And Leach did no better than play in his usual Philadelphia style.

McGraw is looking for pitchers, outfielders and a second baseman this time. He probably will find plenty of takers for whatever he has to offer.

Texas Tech Grid Notables Gather For T. C. U. Tilt

Football Captains Of Entire School History To Be On Bench During Battle Saturday

Matador leaders from the beginning of Texas Tech in 1925 to the present date will be on the sidelines Saturday when the 1929 Tech eleven takes the field against the T. C. U. Horned Frogs.

Men who have furnished the fighting spirit for Texas Tech football teams for the past four years will be back to take their old places on the players' bench and cheer on the wearers of the Scarlet and Black in the crucial encounter with the Southwestern Conference aggregation.

Two of these former Matador captains are now engaged in the coaching profession but are expected to leave their teams in order to be present for the Home Coming battle.

Winfield Nicklaus, a product of Amarillo High, was the first Texas Tech captain, leading the first Matador eleven on the field of battle in 1925. "Windy" was a smashing fullback who gave the Matadors plenty of drive and was a worthy leader. Tahoka High school now claims Nicklaus as its head coach.

Hurley Carpenter, red thatched gridster from Sudan, was named captain of the 1926 Tech aggregation, proving himself one of the most deadly tacklers in this section. Carpenter finished his college career last year and is now employed as an assistant to Rhodes Ingerton, Tech freshman coach.

Bruce Reed, who gained fame as a star lineman on the Vernon High school eleven, led the Matadors through the season of 1927 in his third year on the varsity eleven. "Ox" was one of the most aggressive guards on the squad through his four years of service.

The outstanding athlete in Tech's athletic history was the 1928 Tech football captain. In addition to leading the team, Ransome Walker was the Matador's sole scoring threat registering the first touchdown of the year against the T. C. U. Horned Frogs. Walker is playing his last season with the Scarlet and Black.

Vaughn Corley, captain-elect for the 1929 season, who left school to take the position of head coach at Las Cruces High school, is expected to be among the Matador notables at the game Saturday. Corley was a center who knew nothing of the word "quit."

Former Tech Captains Back For Home-Coming

Leaders of Matador football teams from the beginning of the college in 1925 to the present time will be on the sidelines Saturday when the Bull Fighters tackle the T. C. U. Horned Frogs in the annual battle between the two institutions. They are standing, from left to right—Winfield Nicklaus, Hurley Carpenter, Bruce Reed, Ransome Walker and Vaughn Corley. The last named was named captain of the 1929 eleven but left school to enter the coaching profession.

EL PASO, Oct. 26.—Jesus Pannas, Jr., and Ruben Davilla, young cotton planters from Torreon, Mexico, were killed last night in an airplane crash near Galegos Station, about 100 miles south of Juarez, Mexico, according to an official telegram received by Chief of Police in Juarez.

Pannas and Davilla were flying a Waco plane with Pannas as pilot. They left the El Paso municipal airport late Thursday en route to Torreon from Los Angeles, where they purchased the plane. Neither had a pilot's license.

Pannas and Davilla were said to be members of wealthy families of Torreon. No details were available as to the reason for the crash. The plane was completely wrecked. Headquarters in Torreon of the Compania Aeronautica De Transportes have been asked to send another plane to take the bodies to Torreon tomorrow.

Record Throng Expected To Witness Matador-Frog Game

Seating Capacity Of Tech Athletic Plant To Be Taxed To Capacity When Frogs And Matadors Clash On Field

Spectators From All Sections Of West Texas Send In Applications For Seats In Stands

Telegrams, telephone calls and personal applications have been pouring in daily at Tech athletics headquarters for the past week and indications point to the largest gathering of football fans that has ever witnessed a gridiron battle in Lubbock when the Texas Matadors take the field Saturday afternoon against the invading Horned Frogs from Texas Christian University.

co and college authorities are expecting every available seat to be taken when the opening whistle sounds Saturday. Marvin T. Warlick, manager of athletics at the college, has estimated the crowd at approximately 7,500. With the grandstand reserved for regular customers, the bleacher sections on the east side of the field will be occupied by the Tech student body and visiting football teams from surrounding high schools. Word has been received from Elton, Crosbyton, Lorenzo, Brownfield and Ralls that the high school football squads from these towns will be on hand to witness the season's grid classic in Lubbock. A message was received today from Clayton, N. M., from Grady Burson, high school coach in that city, who is gringing his squad of 40 gridsters to the game. In addition to the Texas Tech student band, the Lubbock High school and Crosbyton High school band will be on hand to furnish music for the occasion.

Pete Wright, director of athletics at T. C. U., has wired ahead that a large delegation of Fort Worth boosters will follow the Horned Frogs to Lubbock. A special section in the stands will be reserved for the Purple rooters. Although the Canyon-Simmons tilt in Amarillo Saturday will hold a number of Panhandle football fans away from Lubbock, Plainview and other north Plains cities are reported to be coming strong to Lubbock Saturday. Tahoka, the home of Coach Winfield Nicklaus' Tahoka Bulldogs, is likewise sending a large delegation.

The Tech athletic field will be in charge of a representative body of the Lubbock police force who will guard against all violence and assist in handling the crowd. A corps of ushers, under the personal supervision of L. H. E. Killin, R. O. T. C. commander, will direct the throngs to their seats in the stands. In order to put a stop to the practice of viewing games from the highway and road in front of the stadium, a temporary fence has been erected inside the permanent iron fence. This will make it impossible to see the game unless inside the field.

About 75 high schools are competing for the state football championship of Montana this season.

At least 14 states are represented in the coaching ranks of Montana high schools.

FOUR BIG TEN ELEVENS ARE WITHOUT CAPTAINS ON GRIDIRON THIS SEASON

CHICAGO, Oct. 25. (AP)—School politics and fraternity jealousies largely were responsible for four of the 10 schools in the western conference doing away with elected football captains for this season.

Last season, Ohio State, suffering from Greek letter managers and corner cigar store coaches, dropped the custom of naming captains by franchise. This year Minnesota, Indiana and Purdue did likewise. The coaches appoint a captain for each game.

Of the six Big Ten captains for the 1929 season, five are linemen. Willis A. Glasgow of Iowa is a halfback. And to further contradict the popular fiction that gridiron heroes must be individualists, three pilots are guards—a place usually filled by disappointed tackles. Russell Crane of the championship Illinois team; Henry Anderson of Northwestern and John Parks of Wisconsin are guards. Joe Fruskowski of Michigan and John M. Kelly of the much-defeated Chicago team are ends.

Moody Will Address Tax Assessors' Meet

BEAUMONT, Oct. 25. (AP)—Governor Dan Moody is scheduled to speak during the convention of the Tax Assessors' association of Texas here November 21-23, according to the program announced by A. L. Leonard, county tax assessor and secretary-treasurer of the association.

The session will be presided over by F. W. Hitt, assessor of Harris county, president of the organization. After the opening meeting is called to order, a message of welcome will be made before the assembly by J. W. Anderson, city manager.

Marion Kennedy of Trowbridge, Ill., a blind telephone operator in the country. He has held his post 28 years, and is a livestock dealer on the side.

Montana university has adopted the system of naming a captain just before each game for its football team.

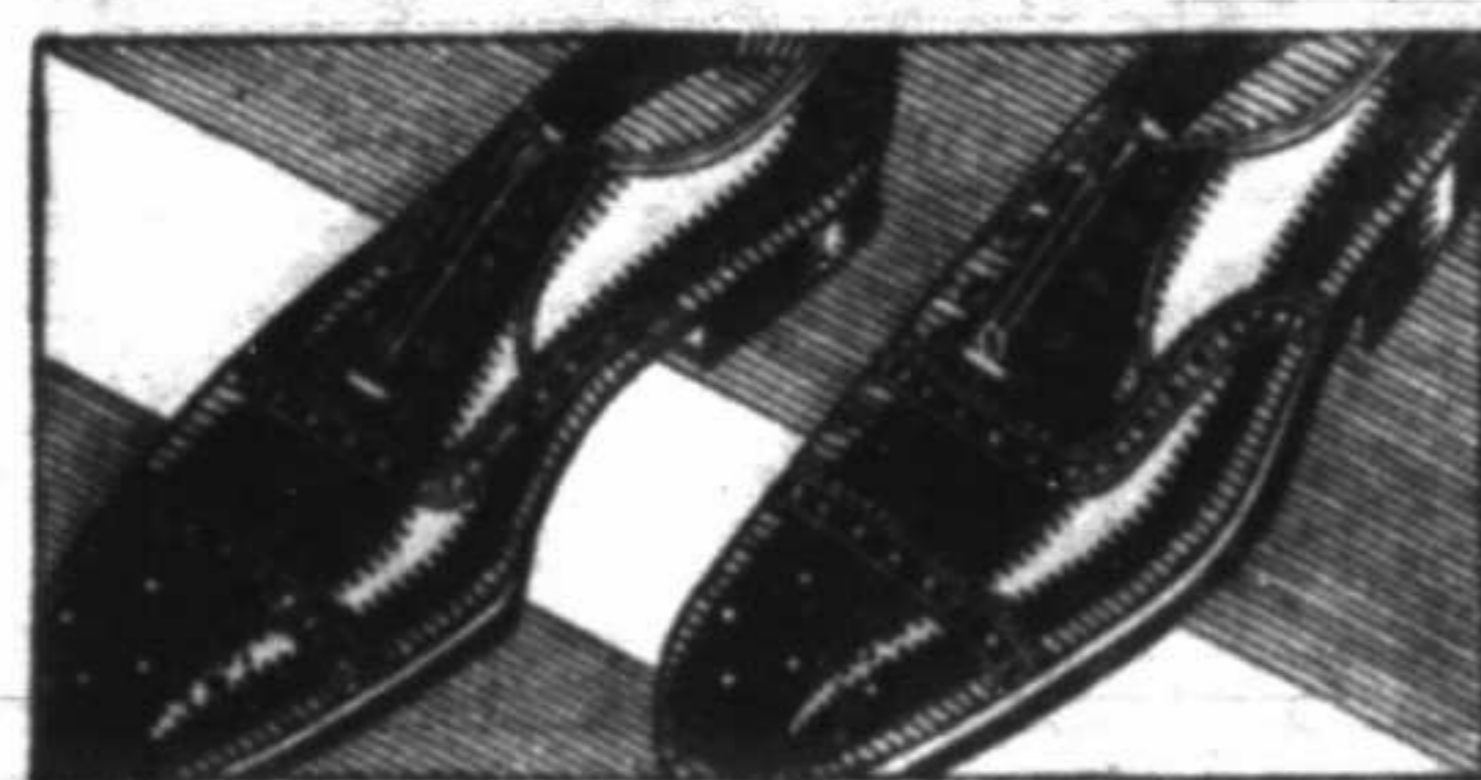

Hewitt Is New Star For Columbia Squad

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP)—Generally regarded as the best football player at Columbia since the days of Walter Koppisch, the all-American back in 1924, Ralph Hewitt is setting the gridiron afire this year.

Hewitt, whose home is in Lawrence, Mass., is a sophomore but he already has clinched a varsity berth. He scored four touchdowns in a recent game and added the extra point each time.

Ralph is a three-sports star. He plays football and baseball and is one of the Lions' best trackmen.

Pony Backs In Tip-Top Shape For Intersectional Clash With 'Ole Miss' As Final Fair Attraction

Coach Morrison Expects Stiff Battle Saturday From Mississippians; All S. M. U. Backs Ready

DALLAS, Oct. 25.—"Beat Mississippi" is the battle cry of the Southern Methodist University Mustangs as the big intersectional gridiron classic between the Mustangs and "Ole Miss" draws near. The game is scheduled to be played before the late Fair patrons in the final football attraction of the '29 fair. Interest is running high in Dallas and on the campus of S. M. U. over the game. Big pep rallies and bonfires have been arranged by the Pony yell crew for the remainder of the week to further arouse the spirit for the game.

No Set-up For Ponies.
The S. M. U. professor of football science, Ray Morrison, gathered his pupils around him Monday and let them in on the big secret that the Mississippians are not weak and that if the Ponies were to come out of the game with a victory they would have to put out fight and plenty of it. The general opinion that has circulated around the Southwest conference that the out-of-state visitors would be a set-up for the Red and Blue machine of the Mustangs got a set back Saturday when the Mississippians defeated the powerful Louisiana University Wolves, 26 to 24. The Wolves defeated the Rice Owls earlier in the season by a top-heavy score. Pony scouts who saw the Saturday game in New Orleans came back with plenty of warning for Morrison's men.

Line Players Shifted.
Line Coach McIntosh is having his troubles this week. He is shifting his line to meet the peculiar offense of the Hazelmans. A week is a short time to mold a defense to function properly.

For the first time this year Morrison will probably let his backfield constellation loose. Every Pony back is in great shape for the go. Quarterback Gilbert's limp is no longer noticeable as the young signal barker sends his mates through their various plays. Davidson, the promising young grifter whom Morrison shifted from end to half back is showing up great and will make a good running mate for Mason, the Pony triple threat backfield ace.

Reports from across the Father-of-Waters state that Coach Hazel's Mighty Mississippians are going to the limit to win and that the "Ole Miss" mentor has some little specialties in his bag of tricks that he hopes will catch Morrison's men asleep. The out-of-staters have pointed to this game all season. Those fortunate enough to attend the game Saturday will no doubt be well supplied with 60 full minutes of breath-taking football.

President Horn Welcomes T. C. U. Visitors To City

College Head Praises Spirit Between Christian Institution And Texas Tech

Addressing a special welcome to the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs and all Fort Worth visitors during the home-coming festivities at Texas Tech, Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the local institution emphasizes the friendly relations that have existed between the two schools and expresses hope that this cordial spirit will continue through the years.

Dr. Horn's official welcome follows: During the next few days the football team of the Texas Christian University will be a visitor upon the campus of the Texas Technological college. Doubtless there will be some members of the faculty of the Texas Christian University and some other friends of the institution who will accompany the football team on their visit.

To each and every one of these the Texas Technological college extends heartiest welcome. Every one of us is glad to see you. We hope each and every one of us, that your visit to our campus will be pleasant. The relations between the Texas Technological college and Texas Christian university have always been friendly and cordial. During the past several years, our team has paid an annual visit to your campus. In each instance we have been hospitably received.

There is not the slightest occasion for any untimely rivalry between a state supported institution and an institution maintained by one of our great Christian denominations. Each institution has much that can be said in its favor. They are colleagues and co-laborers rather than rivals or even competitors.

So far as the game is concerned, each team expects to do its level best to win. We both expect a sharp battle to be fought out on the gridiron, however, the only fighting that will be done will be upon the football field. Each team is going to give the very best that it has to give. May the best team win.

But whatever the results of the game may be, win, lose, or draw, the kindly and courteous feeling which in past years existed between the two institutions will continue to exist. There is room in West Texas for friendly contests and for generous rivalry. There is room for the two institutions to serve to the full extent of their power. There is not room, however, for the slightest trace of jealousy or bitterness. Again the Texas Technological college welcomes the visitors from the Texas Christian university to the campus and the buildings and to the hearts of Texas Tech.

Aggies Set For Clash With Hogs In Title Game

Farmers Determined To Win First Conference Battle With Arkansas Aggregation

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 25.—Undaunted by their reversal at the hands of the T. C. U. Horned Frogs in Fort Worth last week, Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggies are looking forward with renewed determination to their clash with the Arkansas Razorback eleven on Kyle field Saturday. The game will be the first conference clash of the season Kyle field and the Aggies' first performance on their own gridiron since their opening game four weeks ago.

"We are not out of the race yet," Coach Bell said in commenting on the prospects of his gridsters. "What we have to do now is to scrap all the harder the remainder of the season. It has been some time since a team winning the conference title got through the season undefeated or without a tie."

McFadden Out
The Aggie eleven will meet the Razorbacks minus the services of Paul McFadden, scrappy end from Abilene, and Walter Ewell, veteran guard from Dallas, both of whom were injured in the clash with the Horned Frogs. McFadden and Ewell are both expected to be out of the game for some time, the former with a broken hand injured in the second play of Saturday's game and the latter with an injured shoulder and collar bone.

With these exceptions, however, the Aggies suffered no material damage in the Fort Worth game and the team will be in excellent shape for the Porker tilt.

Despite their two losses in as many conference starts, the Porker team with which Coaches Thomson and Bassett will invade Aggie land is not rated the underdog of the contest. In holding both Texas and Baylor in check for more than three-fourths of the game the Porkers displayed a powerful eleven which they led Baylor Bears—during a passing attack, with which they led the Baylor Bears during a large part of the game, is expected to be the Porkers' chief offensive weapon against the Aggies.

LARGE DELEGATION FOLLOWS BULLDOGS

SLATON, Oct. 25.—A delegation of 300 or more citizens of spur will come to Slaton today to witness the clash between the Slaton High Tigers and the Spur Bulldogs, according to telephonic advice received Wednesday from W. B. Lee, president of the Spur Chamber of Commerce.

The game is holding the spotlight this week-end in South Plains' football circles, and both elevens are keen for the fray. Both are known to have powerful machines, and neither has been defeated this season in its own class.

In avoidance, the Spur crew are said to have some advantage over the Tigers, while it is conceded that the Slaton eleven has the Spur aggregation outclassed in some other particulars. The "dope" has it that the two are closely matched, however.

The game will begin at 3 p. m.

One of the biggest crowds ever assembled at a football game here is expected to see the game Friday afternoon. Local interest is at high pitch, and many visitors are expected from other South Plains cities, besides the largest delegation from the Dickens County capital.

Conference Tilt On Tap At Uvalde Between Teachers

San Marcos And Sul Ross Pedagogues Clash And A. C. C. Wildcats Meet Sam Houston Eleven.

CANYON, Oct. 25.—Two very important football games in the T. I. A. A. feature the week's go with reference to Conference standing. Sam Houston Teachers of Huntsville journey to Abilene for their first conference game. They have played some very strong teams, including Rice and Centenary, and have made a creditable showing, holding the Rice Owls to a 7 to 2 score. A. C. C. will be playing their third conference tilt, having won from West Texas and being San Marcos Teachers.

San Marcos Favored. The other conference game will be that of San Marcos Teachers and Sul Ross Teachers, which will be played at Uvalde. Guessing for that is what it is, at the outcome of either of the above games is difficult, however, most football critics will pick Sam Houston over A. C. C. and it is believed that San Marcos Teachers should defeat Sul Ross.

North Texas meets Trinity university at Wabashville and should win from the Texas conference school. McMurry has an open date. Daniel Baker will entertain for St. Edwards at Brownwood. St. Edwards is hoped to win by at least two touchdowns. The Nacogdoches Lumberjacks move over to Natchitoches Louisiana Teachers for their annual tussle. This should be a whale of a game, but dope favors the Louisiana Teachers by a slight margin.

East Texas also has an open date. They have played two conference games, losing one and tying one.

Bufs Meet Cowboys. The West Texas Buffaloes have the hardest assignment of any T. I. A. A. team this week. They meet the much touted Cowboys from Simmons university. The game being played in Amarillo under the auspices of the Amarillo Tri-State fair. Simmons, under the tutelage of Frank B. Bridges, former Baylor coach, has whipped the Cowboys into a fast stepping bunch. His starting line-up of 11 men will weigh a few pounds over a ton, and their record is more or less impressive. They defeated Texas University Team B, held the Texas Christian university to a 20 to 0 score and last week defeated the Daniel Baker Hill Billies, last year champions of the T. I. A. A. 15 to 0.

The Buffaloes are adding momentum to their offense and it is being predicted that before the season ends, will have the greatest offense in the conference. The center of the line proved the weak spot when the Bufs played A. C. C., but this was tight as a jug at Commerce and it looks like forward wall although light in weight will be able to function very creditably against the Cowhands from Simmons.

Berkley Bell Gets Distinguished Award

AUSTIN, Oct. 25. (AP)—Berkley Bell, captain of the University of Texas tennis squad, is the fourth Longhorn net star to win the Distinguished Athlete Award of the University of Texas.

Bell, national intercollegiate singles champion, was presented the award by Dr. H. J. Eitinger, director of athletics. The award is bestowed on University of Texas athletes who become national champions in any sport.

HAS 30 SIXFOOTERS

MORAGA, Cal. (AP)—Regardless of the showing the 1929 St. Mary's college football varsity, an imposing lot of freshmen candidates promise "heavy gridiron business" as first stringers next year. Twenty of the 80 yearlings are six feet tall, or better and a team could be picked averaging 106 pounds. Twenty-three of them were team captains in high school.

JOCKEY ACTIVE AT 78 LA CROSSE, Kan. (AP)—At the age of 78, Levi Burlingame still competes with jockeys one-fourth his years. His son, Charlie, who rode "big time" circuits a few years ago, was forced to retire when he exceeded the weight limit.

SCOUTS PREFER END SEATS DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Football customers yell for sideline seats, but football scouts prefer to watch the game from an end of the field seat, so they can observe play formations. So the box for scouts at Duke university is at the end of the field.
