1 Dead, 2 Hurt In Cyclone

Personal Liberty in QUEBEC

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff.

QUEBEC, Canada, Aug. 29.—This is written in the historic city of Quebec where Montcalm died, Wolfe became an immortal, the British became the masters and France lost an empire in the new world. All that is history is known to the school children of Texas. There is a France here in the heart of British Canada and the descendents of those who planted the flag of France in a wilderness 300 years ago are the masters of a rich and ancient province.

Texas is dry. Indeed, wherever Old Glory floats the territory is dry. Not so with the Canadian-France of today. There is a direct highway from the city of New York to the city of Quebec. It is a marvelous motor trip through the New England states and on to the cities of Quebec and Montreal. It goes without saying that the province of Quebec is not dry. Neither are the cities and towns of the province.

Here the government controls the sale of beverages which intoxicate. All the profits go to the state and are used for state purposes. It is said that the total sum realized last year approximated $7,000,000. This is the liquor law of the New France: A commission establishes stores in cities where alcohol is sold in sealed packages—one bottle at a time. The stores are open between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. daily except Saturdays when the hours are 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. On holidays and election days the stores are closed. Sale is made openly, freely and without stealth. The alcohol is pure. Before being placed on sale it is submitted to analysis in the service of the commission.

WINES and beer are sold in licensed hotels, restaurants, steam boats, dining cars and clubs at meals only between the hours of 9 a. m. and 10 p. m. daily, except on legal holidays, by holders of a permit which the commission grants to the best of its judgment and without influence from any one whosoever. No store for the sale of alcohol or wine or beer may be opened in a municipality which is opposed to it. Municipal autonomy and the desire of citizens is thus respected.

No where in the provine of Quebec, city or country, has the writer come across an intoxicated individual or one under the influence of liquor—that is visible to the naked eye or the naked ear. An increase of over 20 per cent in the traffic on highways and principal roads of the province of Quebec is recorded over 1924 by officials of the department of roads. This report, issued in the closing days of August, shows American tourist cars away in excess of provincial vehicles.

On one day aone as many as 8,000 cars were recorded on the Montreal-Toronto highway and according to Minister of Roads Boulanger the traffic is more than double that of five years. Americans are the greatest spenders in the world and a vast army of American tourists are filling the pockets of the French Canadians this year.

Before 1912 no good roads could be found in the province of Quebec. Now the province has 6,000 miles with concrete or gravel highways, connecting every center of the province. Eighteen are complete and 26 are under construction. To date these canny French-Canadians have expended $60,000,000 on modern highways. In 1915 only 3,433 American touring cars came into the province of Quebec. In 1923 this was increased to 132,905 tourists cars and in that year it is estimated by Minister Boulanger that American tourists spent $30,000,000 in the province.

IN 1924 more than two hundred thousand touring cars invaded the province but no estimate has been given of the sum total that American tourists dropped into the pockets of French-Canadians that year. Quebec leads all the Dominion in all matters pertaining to roads and he says Quebec good roads represent today for the province a capital of $600,000,000 placed at 5 per cent interest. These figures show that American tourists are the best public highway builders in the world.

Think of what they are doing for French Canada. Public highways are crowded with tourists, all the hotels and cafes and private lodging houses are crowded with tourists. New York leads the procession and Massachusetts gets second place. Texas takes high rank. Thirteen parties of Texans registered at one hotel in this city in the first 15 days of August and they are coming and going all the time. French Canada is wet but there are no saloons and no intoxicated individuals decorating the landscape.

Maine, the first state to vote dry when Neal Dow was the apostle of prohibition, is another great tourist state. Thousands come through Maine on their way to Canada. It is impossible to purchase rye or bourbon whiskey in Maine. It is not impossible but it is exceedingly difficult to purchase a bottle of Scotch. Maine is a great apple state. Every farmer makes his own cider. Hard cider is the favorite tipple of the natives. Most of them love it. They dose it with plain soda to make it foam and then they drink it down as if it were a nectar given by the gods.

Then there is another favorite drink in Maine. It is pure alcohol diluted with hard cider. How do they get the alcohol? Just as easy as falling off a log. A barrel of cider is permitted to freeze. Alcohol is non-freezable. It finds itself surrounded by ice. Then a native drives a tube through the ice and drains the barrel of its alcoholic content. This makes a frenzied drink in the good old summer time.

Everywhere along the Maine and Canadian coast and on the border line of the two countries the government patrol are making life miserable for rum smugglers. More than four hundred agents have been added to the army of pro sleuths by the Coolidge administration and the smuggler who is able to break his way through the Maine woods by way of Jackman hasn't been discovered up to date.

EVEN the boldest admit, according to those who claim to be close to them, that with the co-operation of the officials of the Canadian governments and the government of the United States liquor smuggling is certain to be destroyed in the near future. If American tourists dropped $30,000,000 in French Canada in 1923 it is an easy bet that the sum total they will drop this year will be close to the hundred million dollar mark.

Everywhere in the country there are tourists camps; everywhere the natives cater to the American tourists;

10,000 Railroad Men to Be Out of Work When Mines In Anthracite Area Close

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29—(AP) The anthracite suspension ordered for September 1 will not only mean a walkout of 150,000 workers, excluding the 8,000 to 10,000 maintenance men remaining in the mines, but will also throw out of work 10,000 railroad men, officials of anthracite carriers in the region, reported today.

This small host of rail employes directly serves the local and through movement of hard coal produced at the mines. Their present tenure of employment after "suspension Tuesday" officials said was good for only two additional days or so at the most. By then the roads would have cleaned up the last of the mined coal awaiting shipment.

Immediately thereafter the anthracite carrying roads would issue orders closing down locomotive and car repair shops in their hard coal territory, thus laying off several thousand shop men and car repairmen, it was said. A similar order would go out for round house men and train and engine crews on mine runs and through coal trains.

The Lehigh Valley railroad company for one officially announced at Hazelton, Pa., that 750 men will be let out, representing a pay roll of $158,000 a month.

The road also disclosed that coal shipments from the thirty-seven colliers on the division during the week ending tonight had broken all records for the past two years.

The decrease in freight traffic activity may be somewhat compensated for, spokesmen for the carriers said, by the increase expected in passenger business. In fact a marked travel rush is expected from the mine workers by the passenger agents of the carrier lines. Various excursions are accordingly being outlined for early announcement which, officials admit, will be aimed at the surplus spending money with which the miners are said to be "flush" after two years of steady employment. New York, Philadelphia, Niagara Falls and Buffalo are being scheduled as the favorite excursion objectives.

SEWELL SHOT; 18-YEAR-OLD YOUTH JAILED

He Ruined My Sister Only Statement of Boy Under Arrest

HE DIES INSTANTLY

Three Shots Take Effect In Head, Neck and Heart Of Man

DUNCAN, Okla., Aug. 29.—Maxie Sewell, familiarly known here as "Red River Slim" was shot and instantly killed in the heart of the city late Saturday afternoon. Choice Pickett, 18, residing six miles south of Duncan was arrested immediately and charged with murder in connection with the case.

Leaned on Car.

Sewell, who is a taxi driver, was leaning on a fender of his machine at the corner of Main and Eighth streets, talking to a friend, when Pickett approached him. He opened fire while standing on the opposite side of the car. Three shots in all were fired, the first catching Sewell in the neck, the second in the left temple and the third straight above the heart. Sewell slumped to the ground and was dead when picked up.

Waves Of Modernism Hit Turks

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 29. (AP)—Innovation after innovation follows the trend of times in new Turkey. By order of the prefect the picturesque night watchman of Constantinople must shave off their flowing beards and crop their long hair. So they must replace their varicolored turbans and scarfs and baggy trousers with a uniform resembling that of the regular police.

No longer are the wakeful inhabitants of the city to hear the reassuring beat of their long iron-tipped sticks on the cobblestones or thieves make their escape, thanks to the warning "tap, tap, tap." The sticks of the watchmen have been confiscated and the policeman's billy, less attractive, but of more practical use, is to be carried instead.

ELECTRA AREA HARD HIT BY SATURDAY GALE

8-YR.-OLD GIRL DIES

12-Year-Old Girl Also May Die as Result Of Wind

ELECTRA, Aug. 29.—One child is dead, another probably fatally injured, and thousands of dollars worth of damage done to West Wichita county property as a result of a cyclone and windstorm which swept over this territory late Saturday afternoon, leveling oil derricks, trees, outbuildings, and destroying all telephone communication in the visited area. The wind, which was described as being a straight gale in some places, and in other localities as a well defined twister, was accompanied by hail and an electrical display that lasted for more than two hours. The telephone office tonight estimated that more than 400 telephones were out of commission.

Electra Suffers.

In Electra itself several small outbuildings on the northwest edge of town were demolished and window panes all broken out. On the Texhoma-Waggoner lease along south of the city on the K-M-A road, 18 oil derricks were blown down. Telephone lines between Electra, Harrold and Newton were all down and it is not known what damage occurred in these areas.

It was on the Texhoma's lease south of town that the child was killed and two others hurt. In the J. D. Ratcliff home on the lease Mrs. Ratcliff was tending a small baby while her 7-year-old daughter, Velma and two neighbor children, Olida Smitto and Gladys Smitto were playing around.

House Carried Away.

The wind lifted the house bodily from its foundation carrying it some 75 or 100 yards. Mrs. Ratcliff and the infant were unhurt, but Olida Smitto, age 8, was instantly killed, and Velma Ratcliff, age 12, injured internally, probably fatally. Gladys Smitto was cut badly about the face and head but was expected to recover.

The Texhoma lost 18 out of 19 derricks on this lease alone, while on surrounding leases the damage is said to have been heavy also. The full extent of the damage over the district will probably not be ascertained until morning when communication has been restored and more information is obtainable.

Electra Men Laying Plans For Irrigation

35,000 or 40,000 Acres May Be Watered From Pease River

Business men of Electra are planning a survey to determine the feasibility of damming the Pease river near Vernon for the irrigation of some 35,000 to 40,000 acres of land lying north and west of Electra, W. S. Curlee, president of the Wichita Falls real estate board, declared at the weekly luncheon of that organization yesterday.

This section, because of its elevation, cannot be reached by the Wichita valley irrigation system and the cost of pumping water to that district would be prohibitive, it was said.

Build Near Vernon.

The section lies in the direction of Vernon and the proposed dam would have to be built somewhere near that city in order to give the irrigation ditches the proper lift, Mr. Curlee explained.

"The same situation exists among far-visioned citizens of Electra that existed in Wichita Falls a few years ago," Mr. Curlee said. "The men of that city simply have an idea that the irrigation project can be put over and surveys are being considered to determine the practicability of the project. Many well-informed men men are of the opinion that the irrigation of a big section of land near Electra can be accomplished by the damming of the Pease river.

Rich Land.

"Some of the richest agricultural land in Wichita county is situated near Electra and this vast section, rich and productive as it is, could be turned into one of the finest irrigated farming sections in this state," Mr. Curlee said.

J. T. Harrell, president of the chamber of commerce, said he was particularly interested in the attempt to water lands near Electra and promised the aid and co-operation of the business men of this city in the enterprise. Mr. Harrell expressed great admiration and respect for the citizens of Electra.

Mr. Curlee said citizens and landowners at Charlie, Byers and Thornberry had asked the real estate board to lend its influence toward the extension of the north side canal to cover their land. This proposed extension, if made, might add as much as 40,000 acres to the Wichita valley irrigation project. The extension is considered feasible.

Holliday, Too.

Residents of Holliday also requested that the board's influence be used in securing an extension of the canal to that section. Surveys were reported made for the extension, showing the need of a heavy cut through the ridge from the present south side main canal but it was said that more land could be irrigated for less money by the Holliday extension, than by any other extension.

Mr. Harrell promised to aid the real estate board in its efforts to secure irrigation for the two sections petitioning.

COMING?--OR GOING, ASKED OF FERGUSONS

Have They Seen Their Best Days?—or Are They Yet to Come?

LOTS OF PARDONS

Very Economical, — They Gave the State Two Governors for One

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS.
Record News Staff.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 29.—"The Campbells are coming."—are the Fergusons coming or going?

What of the Ferguson family? Where is it, as compared with last election day, with inauguration day? Has the "voyage from Elba" been completed, or are the Fergusons to sail to fresh victories and new conquests?

What are the relative prospects now of Texas having another term by the same woman governor? What are the achievements of the Ferguson second term, what its failures?

This discussion doesn't undertake to prove any argument or hypothesis that the Fergusons will or won't do anything. It doesn't attempt to pass judgment on merits or shortcomings. It simply aims at summarizing and analyzing some of the things which have been proposed, attempted, achieved or failed on, with which the reader is perhaps familiar, and leave all the conclusions and postulates to the individual reader. No two people have probably ever agreed any way on the meteoric political comet which spurted across Texas' horizon in 1914, and which flamed back again into the political skies in 1924, with a double head and a tail of devoted followers which stretched across the state.

Offers No Opinion.

This discussion offers no opinions, either individual or editorial, but undertakes to deal with the facts as they have been established beyond controversy.

TO CELEBRATE LABOR DAY AT HAVEN'S PARK

Both Fergusons to be There; Possibly Gwinn Williams

The big Labor Day rally which will feature an appearance and address by Governor Miriam Ferguson and former Governor James E. Ferguson will be held at Haven park just south of the city, it was announced Saturday by the Central Trades council committee arranging for the program.

All plans for the meeting have not yet been completed, but efforts are being made to bring Congressman Gwinn Williams of Decatur here for the occasion also. An urgent invitation has been sent Congressman Williams and word has come that if he can possibly do so he will be in Wichita Falls. He will be one of the principal speakers of the day along with the governor and former governor if he comes.

Local Speakers.

A few local speakers to precede the Fergusons are being provided and will probably include County Judge B. D. Sartin, Attorney B. Y. Cummings, prominent attorney and close friend of the Fergusons, and possibly others.

Free barbecue and a series of entertainments will be provided at the park, it is announced.

No labor day parade will be held this year.

Famed Evangelist To Appear Here In Revival At Christian Church

Henry Packard is to come to the First Christian church next Sunday to open what is designed to be one of the most stirring revivals in the history of the city.

Packard it seems from advance notices of him is a man of more than ordinary forcefulness in the evangelistic field. From communities in which he has appeared before, have come an unbroken string of testimonials to past good accomplished by him; of conversions without number and of moral tone improved amazingly. S. J. Mathieson, pastor of the First Christian church, Denton, says of him:

A Needed Type.

"Paul Henry Packard, in my judgment, represents the type of evangelism that the church needs today. He presents the truth of the new testament with unusual power. He makes no compromise with sin or error, while at the same time his messages have an appeal that is almost irresistible. All of his methods are sane and safe, and after working with him for three weeks in a revival here, it gives me pleasure to recommend his work to the brotherhood of Texas."

Amazing Success.

Says Prof. Lloyd L. Epley, department of ancient languages, York College, Neb.: "Having heard of the phenomenal success of Evangelist Paul Henry Packard of Cleveland * * * I journeyed to Aurora, Neb., while the man was in that city for the purpose of watching closely and studying the work of this young evangelist. As I watched him, every unfolding of his program was eminently satisfactory and the marvelous success of Mr. Packard can be attributed to the fact that he is a practical preacher, with little or no sensationalism, possessing a pleasing personality and good common sense."

Similar tributes, many of them, have come in regarding Mr. Packard's work.

Services will be held each evening at the church, with a spirited song services led in conjunction with the preaching.

A special train carrying Abilene boosters, arrived in Seymour about 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, and paid a short visit here.

The Junior Christian Endeavor of the Christian church were given an unusual treat by the pastor, Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Cogswell on Monday when they took them for a hike and all-day outing at Crownover's tank about three miles from town. Each member invited a guest. The happy group of young people gathered at the church early in the morning and were off by 7 o'clock. The place for the outing was ideal, grassy and with beautiful overhanging trees. All kinds of games were played. A picnic lunch was spread. Those enjoying the day were: Mildred McDavid, Ethleen Craddock, Pauline and Murrie Head, Juanita Camp, Mary Ann Alexander, Flo Richmond, Ruth Fancher, Kathleen Clarke, Lois Montgomery, Sue Kennison, Lorine Hardy, Dorothy Kennison, Edith Forester, Irene McCluskey, La Verne Webb, Katy Lee Coy, Margaret and Mary Cogswell, Johnny McElhamon, Crawford Caussey, Basil Caussey, Nat G. Adkins, Kenneth Swilling, Clinton Bagwell, George Adkins, Ransom Camp, Cleon Cogswell with Rev. and Mrs. Cogswell.

Chillicothe

D. L. Jones, for two years superintendent of the Chillicothe experiment station, has resigned to accept the superintendency of the station at Lubbock. Two years ago Mr. Jones was promoted from assistant superintendent of the Lubbock station to his present position with the Chillicothe station. During that time his advancement has been so rapid that the Lubbock station offered him the promotion and a handsome increase in salary. Mr. Jones is one of the ablest agriculturists in this part of Texas. The Chillicothe station will be in charge of J. R. Quimby, who has been promoted from assistant, which position he has held for the past two years. Mr. Quimby is a graduate from A. & M. college. Mr. Jones departs at once.

M. R. Allensworth and children Jesse, Oliver, Dorrace and Clarence, have returned from a two weeks' vacation in Galveston, Austin and other points in South Texas.

Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Jones entertained the past week-end Mrs. Jones' father and brother, M. Wideman and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Wideman and her niece, Miss Ruby Diggs, of Ralls.

Mrs. J. W. Roberts was hostess recently to a number of children honoring the third birthday of her daughter Maralynn. On arrival the little guests were served fruit punch after which they enjoyed play until refreshments of cake and jitneys were served. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the refreshments. The birthday cake was adorned with three tiny pink candles and decorated with pink rosebuds. The little honoree was the recipient of many gifts. Favors were miniature birds. Those enjoying this delightful affair were Fern and Retta Carrol Cagle, Samaree Curry, Mary Hattye Wilson, Albertine Farris, Jacqueline Ledbetter, Irene and L. W. Swatt, Marjory and Don Lee Henry, Louvain Harris, Keith Wickliffe, Loraine Hitt, Kathryn Thornton and Maralynn Roberts.

Miss Ila Tippitt, assisted by her sister, Mrs. John L. Randel, were hostesses to a few friends Thursday evening of last week, honoring their house guest, Miss Austina Koon, of Gainesville. The home was very attractive with bowls of petunias. Three tables of forty-two were enjoyed until a late hour, when the honoree favored the guests with several vocal selections, which were greatly enjoyed. Sherbet and cake were served to Misses Austina Koon, Bess Vernon, Phloreene and Gwendolyne Geeo and Ruth Payne and Messrs. Clarence Haynes, Guy Rowe, Russell Jones, Glenn Chambers and Van Hill.

2 HURT WHEN ODELL FARMER SHOOTS FAMILY

Joe Crownover Jailed On Assault and Arson Charges

VERNON, Aug. 29.—Joe Crownover, a farmer living in the northeast part of the county, was in jail here today facing charges of assault with intent to murder and arson as a result of a shooting on his place Friday night. Officers are investigating the fire which completely destroyed the farm house and its contents shortly after the shooting.

French Staleup, Crownover's brother-in-law, and Crownover's 10-year-old daughter were sprinkled with bird shot from a gun.

Crownover and his wife have been separated recently, it was learned by officers, and she has been living with her brother.

PERSONAL

everywhere these motor travelers are welcomed with open arms by the natives. Why? Well, the Americans are the best spenders in the world and the Canadians need the money. Canada is prosperous this year. This applies to all the provinces. Canada will harvest the largest wheat crop in its history and will have for export more than two hundred million bushels. Canadian cities are prosperous and Americans who are financiers are invading Canada.

Canada is to be the home of the Aluminum Company of America. This company is a family proposition. It is a Pittsburgh concern. Its control is held by the Mellon and Davis families of that city. Andrew W. Mellon is the big figure. They have let in one of the DuPonts. It is said the corporation has a capacity of 175,000,000 pounds of aluminum yearly and now is producing about twenty million pounds of this in Canada. Under the new Canadian development most of the aluminum used by the Mellon corporation in the fabrication of aluminum products will be made in French Canada.

The Canadian deal takes in the Dukes of North Caroline and more than seventy-five million dollars will be invested in the Canadian power venture by these wealthy Americans. And think of it, the bauxite deposits in Aakansas furnish the supply for these multi-millionaires and in French Canada the bauxite will be converted into aluminum because water power is available in Canada and the low development cost makes it advisable for the gigantic corporation to concentrate its refining operations in this New France of the Dominion.

BUT back to the American tourists. Maine is another state where the natives welcome the tourists from all other states. It is said that more than half the annual revenue of the state of Maine comes from the pockets of tourists. If this has been the rule in bygone years then the year 1925 should establish a new high record as the line of march for the motor vehicle is from New York City to Quebec via Boston and Portland and on to Jackman where the Moose river forests are said to contain more wild game and the river and lakes more of the finny tribe than any spot under the American sun.

A cablegram to the Montreal Gazette says that Paris is crowded with American students this year and that the boys do not know how to handle their liquor. Well, there are thousands of students on the Canadian highways and they all appear to know how to handle their liquor. They know how to handle it in the cities and towns of the province—that is if the writer is any judge of the details of the drinking game.

Never sneer at Europeans for loving the American tourist. All New England loves the American tourist. All Canada loves the American tourist. Even in the province of Ontario they love him. Ontario is supposed to be dry but they permit the breweries and the distilleries to manufacture for export, they permit the farmer to turn his apples into cider and the grape grower to press his grapes into wine—all for domestic consumption.

Throughout the ages this Canadian province known as New France will be preserved as a green oasis for lovers of wine, ale and beer. This is the boast of its leaders and its people. Their forebears came here in the sixteenth century. They refuse to go dry.

VISITS C. M. T. C. CAMP

President and Mrs. Coolidge See Young Soldiers in Review.

CAMP DEVENS, Mass., Aug. 29.—(AP)—President and Mrs. Coolidge today visited Camp Devens to watch their son, John, and 1,400 other youths pass in review.

Motoring from Swampscott they arrived before noon and from the reviewing stand witnessed the final parade of the citizens' military training camp.

Marching by as a corporal in company C of the infantry was their tanned son. Neither the president nor Mrs. Coolidge spied him in the even line and he was past before they were aware of his platoon.

THE "PERFECT CRIMES" FAIL.

From the New York Sun:

Within a year the United States has been the scene of three crimes admittedly planned by individuals who held themselves to be intellectually superior to the vast majority of their illegal acts with such skill and adroitness that the police and prosecuting officers could not trace them. It is an interesting fact that all of these super-criminals came to grief.

To murder a little boy was simple for Leopold and Loeb, but the police ran them down in short order after the killing was discovered. A subsequent conspiracy of two University of California students, Bliss Baker and Leo Beeman, to kidnap a person for ransom was so ineptly directed by the cynical young man who got it up that the police captured him and his companion before they had time to do more than write a threatening letter or so. The latest "perfect crime" to come to public notice was also staged in California and was a complete failure, so far as the criminal's purpose was concerned.

In this case the settings and incidents were such as to satisfy the most devoted reader of detective stories. A chemist, Charles H. Schwartz, insured his life for $10,000, murdered a stranger, put the body in a laboratory, caused an explosion and fire which disfigured the corpse, and disappeared. His wife, family physician and lawyer declared the body was that of Schwartz but the police, dissatisfied with this identification, persisted in their efforts to get at all the facts. They eventually found Schwartz in hiding. He killed himself as the detectives were battering down the locked door of his room.

In these cases the perpetrators of the crimes were aided by the fact that they bore good reputations. In the kidnaping cases the conspirators were not in situations naturally bringing them under suspicion. The life insurance carried by the chemist made investigation of his alleged death inevitable, but he believed the identification he arranged was entirely adequate. Yet the police had little trouble in handling these crimes, just as they handle hundreds of other cases every day. If these are supercriminals, the policemen who get at the truth would be justified in calling themselves supercops.

CLAY COUNTY ROADS.

A columnist in a prominent southern Oklahoma paper has unloaded unmercilessly on Clay county, Texas, roads. In a recent issue of the paper, he refers to Clay county as "the greatest auto spring breaking territory in the south," and goes on to the extent of half a galley or more, handing out similar bouquets.

There is no denying the literal truth of the charges, for Clay county herself will admit her highways are abominable. The Oklahoma editor, however, could have at least been charitable enough to record that Clay county is in the midst of a comprehensive highway building program that in a short time will give it as fine a system of roads as any county in Oklahoma.

A city, county or commonwealth is not to be condemned for existing conditions if it is making an honest effort to correct them. Clay county's highway sin was a sin only so long as it stood in status quo with nothing done to bring about a betterment. The county has rectified that evil by voting a bond issue and actually starting work. So long as it stands staunch in its program and makes headway it is deserving of more consideration than was shown in the Oklahoma editor's vitrolic attack.

"WILD PARTIES."

The police department, spurred on by what it deems to be a prevalance of "wild parties" has opened war on all such breaches of the peace and dignity of the state.

Parties of more or less boistrousness have come to be a common occurrance in recent years. The blase thrill brought by a night of boozing seems to hold an attraction for those of moral laxity who profess to get a kick out of staying up until the chickens crow with a bottle of unofficial dynamite as a stimulator.

Just why this should be is not readily apparent, although the psychologists would probably point out that the parties are not now any "wilder" than they were in the pre-Volstead days when getting drunk was more or less legitimate. The present day sessions of conviviality seem, therefore, all the more reprehensible because of their glaring infraction of all the laws of statute and moral decency.

Despite this, though, they will probably continue despite the best efforts of the police.

MORE TRAFFIC TROUBLE.

Rumors from the heart of the automobile-making region tell of a projected new "mosquito car," which will have its engine at the rear, use an unbelievably small quantity of gasoline, carry two passengers comfortably and occupy about half the parking space of everyday cars.

We accepted this story cheerfully until we came to the part about parking. So small a car must be comparatively inexpensive, which means more car owners, which means more vehicles to claim room on our already too-congested streets, and consequently more dodging by pedestrians.

MAY HELP SOME

Harold McCormick, who startled at least a part of the country some months ago by donning overalls and going to work in the harvester plant, has had enough of it, it seems, and gone back to the luxuries that were his before the experiment. Anyhow, the experience probably gave him an insight into conditions that may be helpful in many ways should he ever take an executive position in the industry.

WHY CUT IT.

The bishop of Colorado objects to the word "obey" being stricken from the marriage ceremony as contained in the Episcopal prayer book. The venerable prelate must be a tallow dipper. We will wager a dime against a Jew's shirt that he believes in state rights and is opposed to both the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments.

HUMAN FRAILTY AGAIN.

An official investigation of the Mackinack disaster, Aug. 18, when 52 persons were killed by a boiler explosion on board a steamer has resulted in placing the blame on the captain and chief engineer of the vessel. These two officers, the report of the inspectors said, knew the boiler was faulty before the ship put to sea and that they were guilty of gross negligence in allowing their boat to go out, heavily crowded with human freight, with conditions in the engine room as they were.

Once more human frailty is charged with a grievious error.

Assuming that the ispectors' report is correct and that the engineer and captain were aware of the boiler's condition, it must be supposed that they decided to "take a chance," hoping that the plates would hold and allow them to make their voyage safely and thus earn a handsome return, perhaps, from ticket sales.

Fundamentally, their attitude in this was no different than that of the motorist who seeks to beat the limited over a crossing or of the man who plays with open flame around a gasoline supply. They know there is danger, but possibly in the past they have flirted with disaster and come off unscathed.

Now they rue the day—when it is too late. The world will never be fool proof. Diasters such as that of the Mackinack will continue to blot the pages of history. Perhaps they will come less frequently now that safety rules are more rigidly enforced and since safety campaigns are being pushed with such vigor; wherever the human element enters, mistakes will follow. It is a stern truth, but an exact one nevertheless.

ATWELL IN NEW YORK.

The Hon. William Hawley Atwell, United States judge in the Wichita Falls and other divisions of the northern district of Texas, is giving New York City a new slant on judicial procedure.

Sitting as a special judge on a federal bench in the metropolic, the eminent Texas jurist and grand exalted ruler of the Elks is attracting no small amount of attention from blase Gothamites by his reform pleas to culprits brought before him. He has mixed stern corrective measures with a more mellow personal appeal to errant lawbreakers to forsake the paths that lead to crime, turn over a new leaf when they are out of jail and, in the vernacular of the underworld, "go straight."

It is evidently something new under the sun for New York. The metropolitan papers have commented freely, and not unkindly concerning the Texans tactics. A few of them even have gone so far as to suggest to resident judges that a more liberal application of Judge Atwell's doctrines would be a good thing for the crime drenched city of millions.

Those Wichitans who have had occasion to watch Judge Atwell in federal court here are entirely familiar with his famous before-sentence lectures. It is seldom indeed that he has failed to talk in a personal vein to the man standing in judgment before him. This is especially true of young men; men who are up for their first offense and who, with a little encouragement, may be saved from more grave infractions later on in life.

It is a policy correct in theory, at least, and one that may accomplish more good than all the lessons learned behind prison bars.

FALL STYLES.

The Record News this morning includes in its addition a fall style section, devoted to a resume of what the well dressed man and milady will wear.

The human animal is a vain brute, but that vanity is, perhaps, one of the reasons it is a human and not a dumb animal. A proper appreciation of and a demand for the beautiful in life is an outstanding characteristic of man. It is a God-given right to enjoy beauty, whether it be in nature, the arts or simply clothing. And it is an inherent trait in man—this craving for the new and beautiful.

Hence it is that Wichita Falls, along with all the other cities, towns and hamlets of the world, spends uncounted thousands each year for clothing; it is the explanation of the great department and clothing stores here with their well-packed shelves of the newest of merchandise. Man likes to dress up, and so we have the stores; so we have seasonal attire. It is a good thing. More power to 'em.

THE FLORIDA BOOM.

News dispatches telling of wholesale indictments against alleged land fraud perpetrators in Florida's amazing boom-town area will probably come as little surprise.

It is only a question of time in cases of great community expansion until some band of crooks take advantage of a guillible public and hikes off with a few assorted millions in ill-got gain. Wichita county saw quite enough of that during the oil boom here when millions of dollars were extracted from pockets in various parts of the country on the strength of oil land in this section.

The situation is the same in Florida and the stigma of a gigantic fraud is just a part of the penalty the state must pay for its new found wealth and power. About all it can do is run down the smooth-tonged gentry, try them and put them in the pen as quickly as possible.

ITALY NEEDS MONEY.

Now American financiers are getting ready to loan $200,000,000 to the Italian government for the Italian people at a fat rate of interest. Italy borrowed large sums while the world war was on. Italy hasn't funded the debt. Italy hasn't paid a cent in interest, let alone the principle.

Loans made by the United States government and the bankers of America, while the war was on and since the war closed total more than twenty billion dollars. And yet David Lloyd George is begging the American people to save Europe from total bankruptcy and final annihilation.

What will happen when pay day comes? Pay day always comes. Europe will be in pawn to the United States for a century at least and should repudiation come then Uncle Sam will be permitted to hold the bag.

THAT PRINCE OF WALES.

The Argentine cheers the Prince of Wales as the United States cheered him a while ago, and South Africa more recently. The British Empire has a valuable young "traveling man" in that Prince.

With the possible exception of Thomas A. Edison or Henry Ford, there is nobody in the United States that could interest the Argentine as much as that royal British boy, with his pleasant smile and brave struggle not to look bored.

It takes more than a hundred years to rid the human race of its love of kings.

HOPE FOR THE BALD.

Bald-headed men will thank that New York man who discovered that the licks of a cat cause hair to grow. When tonics of all sorts left his pate as bald as ever, his pet cat began to lick him on top of the head. And now he has hair. Bald-headed men try everything to encourage a thatch on their heads, and it would not be surprising to see many animal lovers among the middle aged of the male sex.

Handing It to Iowa, Ante-Nuptial Agreements, Discounting Gallant Talk. —By Ed Howe

I'm glad I have always admired Iowa. There have been only two bank robberies in that state in two years, and in both cases the robbers were captured. Iowa men tired of the numerous bank robberies and organized a vigilance committee of four thousand. As a result, robbers now avoid Iowa. In addition, the laws concerning bank robbers have been stiffened and are promptly executed. In some other states, bank robbery is as common as violations of the prohibitory law. The robbers get off easily, by dividing their loot with lawyers. One noted bank robber in Missouri has been convicted seven or eight times, but his lawyers have always managed to keep him at liberty.

Finally he drifted over into Iowa. He was badly wounded and captured in his first job, and will soon be in the penitentiary for a long term. The Iowa plan shows the way to get rid of many other outrages. The way is to resent them. The cowardly, indifferent manner with which the people of the United States submit to outrages is more disgraceful than the outrages themselves. Honest men are too lenient with dishonest men.

At a lonely railroad station in the west, a woman is agent, and lives in the station building. One day, after washing her dishes, she threw the dishwater out the back door. A farmer was driving by with a young mule tied behind his wagon. He says the dishwater frightened the mule and caused it to turn the wagon over. The farmer was injured in the accident. Advised by one of the attorneys always looking for that sort of thing, the farmer brought suit against the railroad company for three thousand dollars. If the farmer wins, his lawyer will get half. The woman stated on oath that when she threw out the dishwater, the farmer was a hundred yards away. Disgraceful suits similar to this one are brought against railroad companies everywhere, and the number of lawyers willing to take them is steadily increasing. Still, we say there are not dishonest men except the capitalists.

I know a persistent drunkard who quit drinking from becoming disgusted with himself. Also, a man who quit smoking for the same reason. The drunkard said quitting was easy; the smoker said it was a terrible task.

I never knew a man with proper appreciation of saving for a rainy day that a lot of people were not trying to induce him to change his habits, and become a spendthrift. His wife and children nearly always object to his saving habits.

Materialism is demonstrated truth. Spirituality is the argument on the other side.

Handicaps are not so numerous as opportunities.

I heard a railroad man grumbling the other day. A cement road had been built beside a railroad track connecting two populous towns. On the completion of the cement road, a line of automobiles was put on, and the railroad robbed of most of its passenger business. The railroad man was grumbling because his company had been compelled to pay 24 per cent of the expense of the cement road.

In one mail I lately received letters addressed to me at New York City and Topeka and Wichita, Kan., The letter addressed to me at New York City came from England. The trouble with me seems to be people do not know where I am at.

Man is the queerest of animals. A rabbit, on sight of a dog, always runs, but many men, on sight of the devil, rush into his arms.

"All truths," writes a mighty man in literature, "began as blasphemies." It is as silly and famous a thing as was ever printed.

The ills in public affairs of which we complain are results of bad acts of those complaining.

It is mercy, not justice, you need.

Bill Johnson has written a book called "These Women," and manages to make a good suggestion (I have not seen one before in years). The good suggestion is, ante-nuptial agreements. That is, before marriage let the proposed husband and wife talk thingsc over, and make agreements for the future, in presence of witnesses, and in legal form. If either party has unusual notions, let them be discussed at a time when separation may be accomplished without scandal or alimony.

I know a woman who was divorced from her husband ten years ago, and it is a source of gratification to me to know that she is one of the most popular women in the town where she lives. It is a very unusual case: divorced people somehow seem to have tar on them.

Of the famous outrages we all hear of hourly, I often remark I have never personally known anything like them.

I have no sort of patience with the man who is satisfied with himself, and doesn't try to do better.

Women discount the gallant talk of men, but do not discount it enough.

Saving men from perpetual hell fire is a greater work than saving them from whiskey. Therefore why does not the government employ forces of men to patrol every community, and see that citizens attend church services? Barkeepers, distillers and brewers have never harmed me. Cooks have, with their savory but damaging messes. I was lately the guest of a general of the United States army. At this table no liquor was served, but an enormously good dinner was, and it harmed me more than liquor, which is prohibited, would have done. Why was not a government inspector admitted to this general's home, with a table of calories, and empowered to save me? Here was man living in the principal residence in one of our largest army posts. He is in command of several thousand soldiers, all armed with rifles and revolvers. Yet he did me up; he did himself up, for he, too, ate too much, as did a congressman, who was present.

A gentleman in Connecticut writes me that "everyone, up to the present moment, has done the very best he could. Punishment does not cause good behavior. When you punish you place yourself on the same level with the criminal." I print this as a curiosity in what men call "thinking." As a matter of fact, punishment is the surest means of enforcing order. If it is true that occasionally there is a man who assaults every woman he meets, and this is the very best he can do, then the very best the people can do is to exterminate that man.

Ever since learning to read, I have regularly encountered the name of Charles Lamp. I do not like anything he has written or any incident in his history ;probably my dislike of the man is a result of seeing him exploited so much. I do not recall hearing anyone mention Charles Lamb in conversation; newspaper writers usually let him alone, but the magazines are forever exhibiting him. Boston is as famous for Charles Lamb as it is for baked beans; both bad dishes.

Every morning and evening, when I pick up a newspaper, I read of bad men and women, but rarely hear of them otherwise. Where I live ninety-five out of every hundred behave very well. A really bad action is almost as unusual as a death by lightning. There are many dull, tiresome people, but year after year I see them going to work, and hear of their performing pretty well during the day; no shooting, no runaways, no great scandals, except in the papers.

Probably you have observed that you tire of the gossip of your town. Where I live we have gossip five and ten years old, and I have become so tired of it that I almost scream when the subject comes up. Probably women are more interested in it than men and better satisfied with its trifling details. I was lately sitting on a porch with four women, and their prattle was more tiresome than silence would have been.

A noted Englishman once said: "The only way materialism can be explained away is to explain it away." Another old fellow covered the ground pretty well when he said that if a thing is true, it will persist in spite of all, and if it is not true, Father Time will finally dispose of it.

God says we are sinners. Why should we not answer that God is mistaken, and that we are actually saints? Why not burn churches and chase pastors, as we now burn factories and chase employers? While about it, why not break all the old and respectable rules?

An English writer who has been examining the literature of industrial economics, says that what is called capitalism is almost without a literature. Seventy-five per cent of books on economic subjects are frankly socilistic; that is, frankly unfair. Their writers start out with the assumption that everything is wrong, and invent new and untried schemes, which may or may not be for the advantage of the minority, but must certainly risk the established good of the minority. Every man who is doing well hates the man who is doing better, and assists in boosting socialism a little. The socialists are foolish and incapable, their habits are as bad as their doctrine; their victories are achieved by their enemies.

Movie Traffic Cop —J. J. Montague

He Was Flung Through the Air Directly Over the Head of His Quarry.

The life of a movie traffic cop is always exhilirating. For him there are no full days. If he is speeding along on a motorcycle at 80 miles an hour in pursuit of an eloping couple who drive right through rivers and jump their cars over ditches, he is having his tries shot from under him ban bandits, or being knocked down by debutantes who have got ne wcars for birthday presents, and are trying to drive them after one lesson.

I've been told that the movie directors get their cops off the regular forces, but I don't believe it. I yield to no one in my admiration for the nerve and daring of our blue coated protectors, but I don't believe a man would spend his day off doing things that are 10 times as risky as anything he is called upon to do in the line of duty. You could just as easily pull a soldier out of a front line trench and send him up to the crater of an erupting volcano with a thermometer to test the temperature of the lava.

I saw a movie the other day in which a traffic cop, after being run down by a roistering young millionaire, picked himself up, arranged his dishevelled clothing, mounted his motorcycle and started in pursuit. The young millionaire sped off down the road for a mile or two until the pursuer had gained momentum, and then suddenly applied his four wheel brake and brought his car to a stop in the middle of the road. The motorcycle came dashing up, impinged on the stalled car and also came to a stop. But not the traffic cop. He was flung through the air directly over the head of his quarry, and landed in a small lake beyond with a very conspicuous splash. He was last seen swimming for shore, while the man he had been trying to catch, and who ought to have got at least four years for attempted murder, bowled on his way to the girl of his heart to whom he was happily wedded before the policeman could get time to dry his clothes.

Sometimes movie motorcycle cops operate in squads, and always against prosperous young gentlemen who apparently have nothing else to do but violate the speed laws. In these cases the entire squads come to grief, and if they do succeed in surrounding and capturing the man they are after, he turns out to be the son of the mayor as soon as they get him to the police station, and all the cops are fined a weeks' pay for presuming to interfere with him.

Nothing seems to delight the average audience as much as the humiliation of a police officer who has been doing his best to do what he is paid to do, and who always gets either hurt or into trouble by doing it. If he is the kind of a cop who stands on fixed post and turns the "Stop" and "Go" signals, he is sure to be knocked off his feet at least a dozen times in a picture by speeding young gentlemen and ladies, who look back and smile pleasantly when they see him scramble to his feet and dust off his clothes.

If he resents this sort of treatment and later appears at the domicile of one of these comedians to protest, a servant leans out of the window above the front door and pours a pail of water over him. And when he finally batters in the door and enters, the man he is seeking comes out of a chimney, slides down the roof and escapes on the cop's own motorcycle, which he was considerate enough not to drive into the house.

I know a young man who had been to see pictures with traffic policemen so many times that he got an idea they were the real thing. He was a thoughtless, lovable young man, like the movie heroes always are, and like them he was supplied with plenty of money.

Having purchased a new car with a potential speed of 80 miles an hour, he took it out one morning to try it on the broad highway. He sailed through the first village on his route at something like 60 of those 80 miles, and when the cop on the corner set the signal against him he just smiled cheerfully, waved his hand and went right on by.

The cop was surprised, but he was also indignant. He went to the telephone and notified a brother officer in the next village of the occurrence. The brother officer was waiting for my young friend when he came along. But he received the same sort of treatment, and having a large family and small life insurance, he stepped nimbly aside when the car did not swedve to avoid him as it passed.

By this time the youth was quite happy. Everything was turning out as it does at the movies. He was convinced that the pictures authentically recorded life, and was planning to chase the next officer who stopped him and force him to climb a tree or something.

But the second cop he had passed had also telephoned, and had given more particulars about the character of my friend than had his predecessor. So when the youth swung into the next town, and rounded a bend in the main street he found a large chain stretched tightly across the center of the street, and a number of grim-faced men in blue uniforms standing at either end of it. He made this discovery just a trifle too late. He continued to violate the speed law in person but the car did not. It merely buckled up and stopped where it was stopped.

His friend moved along for some 50 feet and then gradually decreased his pace till he ceased to move altogether. When he was restored to consciousness he was in a well-built unbreakable jail with six separate charges of law violation against him.

A hero on the screen spends six weeks in jail with nonchalance, and does amusing things to show that punishment doesn't worry him any. But my friend said there was no fun to be extracted from the six weeks he remained there, and from that day forward he had quite a bit of respect for motor policemen.

I have often wondered where movie cops come from. They look like the real thing. They have the build and the physiognomy of traffic officers, and wear the same kind of uniforms.

But if they were actual officers borrowed from the chief of police for the making of the movies in which they figure, that official would have to get in a new supply of men after every production, for none of those he lent out would be in shape to return to their duties inside of six months, if at all.

And not even the compensation is theirs of the sympathy of the public after they have been thrown into gutters, flattened out on the streets, or deprived of most of their clothing alike by hero and villain in the wild chases that make thrillers thrilling. The hand of every one in the picture is against them, and the sentiment of the audience toward them is one of derision. Theirs must be a hard, bitter life—while it lasts.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

"Well, what of it?" Warren, figuring over his check book, did not trouble to look up.

"They're coming for that Good-Will bag in the morning—and I've hardly anything in it."

"Good-Will bag? What the Sam Hill's that?"

WASTE into WAGES

But the capacious bag swallowed the shoes and yawned for more.

Returning to her room, Helen again delved into her closet.

Giving was never easy. She WANTED to give! Theoretically she was most generous. But the actual parting with any of her possessions was incredibly hard.

That old grey suit! Would she ever wear it? Yes, on stormy days. And this overblouse—not worn for a year.

Reluctantly she was resigning it to the Good-Will receptacle. No, those buttons—she could use them. Better cut them off.

The buttonless blouse contributed but little to the cavernous bag.

Again she read the list printed on the front:

PLEASE PUT INTO THIS BAG
Clothing
Bedding
Cooking Utensils
Rubber Goods——

Rubber goods! That leaky hot water bottle.

Where was it? That box under the pantry sink?

A hopeful scrutiny of the pantry shelves and drawers produced a rusted muffin pan, a handleless rolling pin, and a patented potato peeler that never peeled.

But still the bag was pathetically lean.

The hall closet next. That broken-ribbed umbrella! No, not worth fixing—cheerfully consigned. And that old raincoat of Warren's! Bought in Paris and never any good. Seams only pasted.

"Dear, this old raincoat," again fluttering into the library. "It's all coming apart. You don't want it, do you?"

An irate grunt his only comment, the raincoat was gleefully contributed.

His old velour hat! And that ornate horn-handled cane!

"Look, dear, just a moment—and I won't bother you again. You'll never wear this—you've that good velour you bought in Vienna. And this old stick Aunt Amelia gave you—you'd never carry because it's so fancy."

"That old stick? What in blazes they want with that?"

"Well, that's the last. Now, lay off my things. Loosen up on your own duds."

"I've given lots of mine, but it's such a huge bag and I'd like to fill it."

The cane poked in at the side and the hat on top. Helen tied together the rope handles. Then with purring complacency she viewed the now reasonably corpulent bag.

The lights turned out in the hall closet, the Good-Will donation dragged into the pantry, she returned to the library where Warren was still figuring over his bank balance.

"Dear, it's almost eleven. Lou said you wanted to get up early."

"Now, I'm going to make this blasted thing balance if I stay up all night."

"Here, don't start clearin' up yet. Leave me alone, can't you? Been pesterin' me all evening. And get that fool cat away from the ink."

"You know you're not allowed up here," lifting Pussy Purr-Mew from the desk. "Look, your nice new ribbon—all rumpled! Be still, let me fix it."

Her ring! Her solitaire! That gaping setting!

"My ring!" clutching the empty prongs. "The stone's out!"

"The devil it is!"

"Oh, I'll never find it—I know I won't! You never find a diamond!"

"Now none of that! When did you have it last?"

"I don't know—I just missed it!" frantically, shaking her gown.

"Must've just dropped out. Couldn't have been out long—or you'd have noticed it, wouldn't you? What've you been doin'?"

"Those things for that bag! Oh, I've been in everything—all the closets!"

"'Round here somewhere—and we have got to find it. A head-light that size costs real money now. Where were you last?"

"In your closet—no, the hall closet!"

"Well, come ahead—let's get on the job. We'll tackle the hall closet first. Get that flashlight!"

The hall closet, Warren's closet, her closet, the pantry, the box under the pantry sink—a tedious, disheartening search.

"It's so small—it might've rolled anywhere. Oh, I'm just sick over it," almost in tears. "I KNOW I'll never find it!"

"Well, whinin' won't help. If it's here, we'll find it. Have her look when she cleans. That twelve?" as the clock struck. "Guess we'll have to give it up for tonight."

Then, as he stumbled against the Good-Will bag, propped by the pentry cupboard.

"Hold on—this goes tomorrow? Then we got to look this stuff over now."

"Oh, I never thought of that! It might've dropped in there," eagerly. "Let's take it out to the dining room—there's a better light."

Pushing aside the dining table, Warren dumped from the Good-Will bag the motley, forlorn assortment.

"Of all the worthless old junk!" he snorted. "Your 'Good Will' wasn't on the job when you picked this lot. What d'you expect 'em to do with this rubbish?"

"Now, dear, don't stop to criticise! Help me look," shaking out the buttonless blouse. "It may be here."

"Well, you've got nerve!" as he kicked the rusted muffin tin. "Wishin' that on to charity! Deserve to lose your diamond. Look at this umbrella—every rib broken. Take a major operation to put that in shape."

Jeering he opened the decrepit umbrella. A glittering drop fell out!

With a joyous cry, Helen snatched it up.

"Well, you're darn lucky!" cutting in on her emotional ecstasies.

"Oh, dear, I'm so happy—and SO grateful!"

"Then here's your chance to prove it. Got a closet full of togs you never wear—now dig out! Cough up somethin' that'll do somebody some good—"

"That pleated sport skirt!" impulsively. "I was keeping it for rainy days—but I'll give it now," darting to her closet.

"Rainy days!" he snorted. "You never stir out when it rains. That's your worm-eaten excuse for hangin' on to all your old duds."

"Look, it's a good skirt," holding it up.

"Just what we need—good things," he stuffed it in. "Now what else?"

"That's all, dear. I haven't another thing."

"Haven't, eh? Well, you keep me stripped clean—now come across with some of your scenery. Here, let me get in there."

"Great guns, how many shoes you got? Won't miss a few pairs from that lot."

"But my shoes are so small. Nobody can wear them."

"Huh, always tootin' about your feet. Give 'em anyway. May be a Cinderella in that charity line-up. Now a suit or somethin', Not these flimsy frills," pawing over her sheer dresses. "Somethin' good and heavy."

"There's that old tulle evening gown."

"Pass that up! The poor devils that get this hand-out don't strut the Charleston. Now somethin' good and warm. Somethin' that'll keep the weather out when you sleep on a park bench. What 'bout a coat? What's this?"

"Why, dear, that's my new steamer coat."

"Had an old one didn't you? What'd you do with that?"

"I still have it—but it's perfectly good."

"Trot it out. That it? Great!"

"But wait, dear—those big pearl buttons. I can use them on—"

"No, you don't! No cuttin' things off! There!" as the imported camel's hair coat filled the bag. "They'll get some good out of this lot. Got any string? Full now—I'll tie it up."

"Oh, dear, you needn't bother tonight. I can do that in the morning."

"Not much you won't! No changin' your mind and swipin' things back! No renegin'. All this GOES! Where's that string?"

The now heavy bulbous bag securely tied, he lugged it into the pantry.

"Well, it's a good thing I borned in! That charity bunch can thank ME for that donation. You may be long on 'Good Will'—but you're shy on shellin' out!"

Then fumbling for his pipe, as he stumped back into the library.

"Huh, the stuff you were goin' to wish on 'em—wouldn't have paid 'em to haul away. What's that? Well, you're due for a call down! Always spoutin' about wantin' to help—puttin' up the Lady Bountiful bluff. But when it comes to a show-down—heluva lot you give! Now the next time there's a Good-Will bag to be filled 'round here—I'LL boss the job!"

Next week, "A Midnight Marauder."

POPULATION DECREASES

Persons on Ryukyu Islands Rapidly Dying Off.

TOKYO.—The population of the Ryukyu Islands, which lie between Japan and Formosa, is rapidly dying off, declared S. Sakurai, a health officer of the Okinawa perfecture, who attended the recent health conference in Tokyo. Malaria is blamed principally for the decrease. In eight villages of the Yaeyama group, it was said, not a single baby has been born for the last 30 years.

In Nozoko village, Mr. Sakurai said, one sick woman was the only inhabitant. In 1922 an appropriation of 10,000 yen was made by the government to combat malaria in the islands.

"WELCOME TO AUSTRIA."

VIENNA.—(AP)—An organization known as the "Welcome to Austria Club," has been formed under the patronage of Dr. Michael Hainsch, the president of the Austrian republic. The members mawe it their task to receive foreigners coming to Austria, to show them about the town, arrange social meetings and act as interpreter for them. The federal chancellor, all ministers and the captain-generals of the provinces are honorary presidents of the club. The club will consider it its duty to render the stay of foreigners in Austria as pleasant as possible.

FIRST POWER OBTAINED AT ALA. SHOALS

One Unit of Vast Dam Completed and Water Is Turned On

FLORENCE, Ala., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Harnessing of Muscle Shoals, a dream of years, is an actuality today. Water was turned on one of the units of a great battery of turbines and the energy generated later will be flashed through an inter-connected system into several southern states.

This achievement will go down in history, inhabitants of the Tennessee valley believe, as marking a new electrical age. The demonstration today constituted the first concrete result of an expenditure of about $51,000,000 by the federal government. The building of Wilson dam and the great steam power plant adjacent was begun nearly seven years ago. The work is now more than 95 per cent complete. About June 1 next year the workmen will turn over a finished job. There were 2,221 persons employed on the reservation this week. The force has been gradually reduced from 5,000.

Big Achievement.

The dam is described by government officers as one of the engineering achievements of the century. It is the longest concrete structure in the United States and from river bed to crest reaches a height of 122 feet. The length is nearly 5,000 feet.

The generator started today is one in a battery of four generating 30,000 horse power each. Four others of 36,000 horse power are being placed and the eight combined turbines will have a capacity of 264,000 horse power. Ten other turbines will be added as the demand for current increases. The total power to be produced is reckoned at 640,000 horse power.

On at Wilson.

Water was turned on at Wilson dam sooner than had been anticipated by engineers in charge as the result of calls for power in southern states due to great drouth over the southern Appalachian region. Industries of the Carolinas and Georgia are the heaviest sufferers. Properties of the Alabama Power company, lessee of Muscle Shoals electri l plants and power are linked with those of power companies in Georgia and the Carolinas. This inter-connection gives a current that is available for thousands of users in the four states.

As much as 480,000 horse power has gone into the inter-connected system from Alabama for several weeks. Most of this was furnished by the power company from the government's steam plant at Muscle Shoals which has been running full capacity and from the companies Gorgas plant.

Vernon

Mrs. Richard Walker of Wichita Falls, recent bride was honored at a very pretty reception and shower at the home of Mrs. Innes McCray, Wednesday afternoon, given by members of the Home Economic club, of which Mrs. Walker had been a valuable member.

In the receiving lane were the hostess, the honoree and the bride's sister, Miss Robbie Castlebury, and at the side entrance Mrs. P. A. Denney received the gifts which were concealed until the opportune moment arrived for inspection.

Mrs. Roy Abbett led the way to the gift room, where the secret of the shower was being kept from the bride. Miss Mildred Robertson and Miss Mattie Mae Renfro presided over the punch bowl, artistically arranged in a bed of flowers and ferns.

A short program was enjoyed.

Members of the Girls' club of the county met at the library Thursday for an all-day canning under the supervision of Miss Emma Gunter, home demonstration agent. Vegetables and relishes in glass are now in readiness for their booth at the county fair, to be held here September 16 to 19.

Fancy needlework is being finished up now by women in both city and rural communities for the textile department and their displays are being prepared for the annual event. Though it seems little late to get things in readiness, it is pointed out that the last few weeks are the busy ones of each year for those who have displays at the fair; as all are assured that the displays will be up to their usual standard of excellence.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Easterling and children of Memphis are here for a visit with her mother, Mrs. L. E. Robertson.

Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Caylor of Walla Walla, Wash., former residents, are here for a few days on business and visiting Mrs. T. E. Standifer and other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Timms and sons, Cecil and Aubrey of Dozier, former residents of the east part of the county are here for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. M. D. Morgan of Vernon, and Mrs. P. D. Barrett, sister of Mrs. Timms at Hinds.

Mrs. Cam Evans and three sons, Herman, Eugene and Floyd of Southland are visiting their brother, E. A. Vernon and family.

Mrs. J. A. Brady who has been visiting her brother, J. A. Dixon and family left yesterday for her home at Hope, Ark.

J. A. Dixon, head of Dixon Dry Goods company, and Mrs. D. D. Jackson, manager of ready-to-wear department of the store, returned this week from eastern markets where they purchased fall and winter stocks. They were met at Wichita Falls by Mrs. Dixon and Miss Beryle who accompanied them home.

Mrs. B. W. Williams, owner of the Murray shop, and Mrs. Bess Osborn of the same shop, returned this week from eastern markets where they purchased goods for the fall and winter trade.

Mrs. Lila Peyton of Mexia, resident of Vernon 30 years ago, stopped off in Vernon this week en route to her home after spending the summer in Colorado.

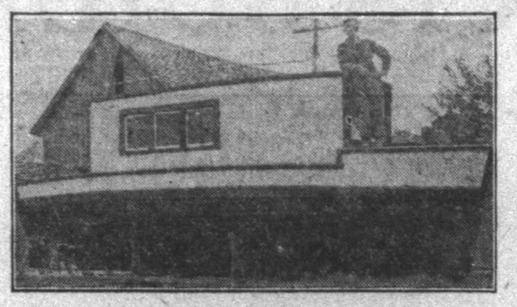

B. F. Piper and Charley Alger are enjoying an outing at Medicine Park, Okla. They will return by the way of Crateryille where they will attend the Indian fair now in progress there.

Judge Green of Muleshoe is here on business for a few days and visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton Thornton spent Wednesday night here with his uncle, H. A. Hood and family, en route to their home at Lockney after an automobile trip to Galveston.

Mayor Mason and wife returned Wednesday from Colorado Springs where Mrs. Mason has been spending the summer. Mayor Mason went there about ten weeks ago.

M'Farland's "House on Water"

County Court Jurist Knows Something About Boats As Well As Laws and Justice

Judge C. M. McFarland Has House on Water" For Use on Lake Kemp

A well known Wichita Falls jurist has proved to the world that he can do more than hand out verdicts, rule a court and use "whereas-es." For Judge C. M. McFarland of the county court at law, although crippled, has just finished work on an attractive house-boat which he built from keel to stern and which will be launched soon on Lake Kemp. The judge handles a hammer, plane and saw with as much facility as he handles long, drawn-out technical terms of his court. He designed and built the entire boat during his leisure hours.

25 Feet in Length.

Measuring 25 feet in length and a little more than seven feet across the beam, the craft should make a graceful addition to the numerous boats now afloat on Lake Kemp. It is to be a "home on water."

In addition to exhibiting his ability as a carpenter and as an architect, Judge McFarland also has brought out the fact that he is a financier of no mean ability. The material and engine in the boat cost $600, while a factory boat of the same size generally sells at around $2,000 or $2,500.

"I began working on the boat in this little workshop," said the judge, pointing to a small house behind his home at 1508 Burnett. "At first, I spent only my leisure hours on the boat, beginning the work on March 18. But during my vacation I have been putting in full time, and I will have her ready to be launched in a few days.

"Boats are interesting things to me. And you would not believe it, but there are few folks who are not interested in them. Scores have stopped in the back yard here to look at the boat and they all appear much interested. Most folks would like to have a good house boat, and that is why I built this one.

"I have only a few odds and ends to finish up now, and in a few days she will be on the water," he adde, with a bit of pride.

With the exception of 22 hours of work, Judge McFarland did every bit of work on the boat. He said the carpenter he employed did good work but may be converted into bunks to accommodate four persons. Under each seat is a lock box for bedding.

In one end of the boat is the "kitchen," where cabinets are provided to hold food and cooking utensils. The boat will use an oil stove. Opposite the kitchen is the lavatory. The boat also is equipped with a large he learned soon that his work was not better than his own. Pointing to window casings on each side of the cabin, he defied the reporter to pick out the casings made by him from the ones made by the expert carpenter.

Pine and Cypress.

The frame of the house boat is of hard pine, double planked with cypress. It will be propelled by a Ford automobile engine, which the judge regeared for the boat. The pilot, instead of using the regular Ford pedals, will use a lone lever which will put the motor in two speeds, one reverse and one forward. The regular Ford radiator equipment was dispensed with and Judge McFarland installed a centrifugal pump in its place, which will pump water from the lake, through the cooling system and out into the lake again, keeping a constant stream of water going through the motor. The pump lines are so arranged that they can be made to rid the boat of any water which may leak in.

The cabinet work is perhaps one of the most interesting and attractive features of the craft. The inside measurement of the cabin is 13 by six feet. On each side are seats which ice box. Electric lights are provided, the power to come from the motor.

The boat is equipped with special fishing "decks." In the rear is a roomy deck, outside the cabin, where the judge will match his wits with the sly members of the finny tribe. Around the top of the cabin is a rail which allows passengers to walk around the outside of the cabin. The top of the cabin is flat and would make an ideal, but rather hot, place for fishing.

A copper propeller, guarded by a heavy iron band, will move the green and white house boat over the waters of Lake Kemp. And when the cares of his court do not demand it, the judge can hop in his flivver and run out to Lake Kemp with his family for week-end vacations in his "house on water."

Fancy Packs Are Studied in Home Demonstration Class

"Fancy Packs" were studied Thursday afternoon by the ladies of the Lakedale Home Demonstration club when they met at the home of Mrs. W. B. Robinson. A number of jars of tomatoes, relish and snap and shelled peas resulted from the afternoon's work.

The lessons were in charge of Miss Ethel Louise Webb, county home demonstration agent, who had as her guest Miss Edith Lansford, sister of Mrs. J. S. Downing, former home demonstration agent.

Refreshments were served after the lesson.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. John McGrath near Cedar Park pool, on Sept. 10.

FREED OF MURDER.

Marshall Man Gains Freedom on Charge of Slaying Black.

EAGLE PASS, Aug. 29.—Thomas S. Munden of Marshall was acquitted today on a charge of killing a negro at Villa Acuna, Mexico, in a second trial, the first having resulted in conviction and a sentence of 10 years in prison. An alleged confession, which was chief evidence against him in the first trial, was made, he testified, to shield a group of other persons who were preset at the time the negro was killed.

IF SICK, BILIOUS! START YOUR LIVER

Don't Take Calomel! "Dodson's Liver Tone" Acts Better and Doesn't Gripe, Salivate or Make You Sick—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee!

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. it's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetble, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick—Adv.

CITY'S NEWEST WOMEN'S SHOP HAS OPENING

Scores Crowd New Orchid Shop on First Day's Business

The new Orchid shop, one of this city's latest and most elaborate women's stores, made its bow to the women of Wichita Falls Saturday. From early morning until closing time, eager shoppers filled the store.

A ready-to-wear, millinery, shoe department and beauty salon comprise the new store at present. Later another department may be added. O. R. Wells and D. M. Whittekin own the ready-to-wear and Mr. Wells will manage it. B. G. Morris will have the shoe department, Mrs. Annetta Jennings, the millinery, and Mrs. Eastwood, formerly of Perkins-Timberlake, will be in charge of the beauty salon.

Attractive Store.

Everything has been done to make the Orchid shop an attractive place. It is finished in orchid with touches of black and orange. Luxurious rugs cover the floors. Built-in cabinets with glassed mirrored doors have been provided to contain dresses and frocks not on display. Expensive chandeliers and lighting fixtures have been added to give the proper light for displaying colors. This has been done to make the lighting effects as near like sunlight as possible. The balcony is as pretty and attractive as the main floor. Roomy and well ventilated, it is a cool and pleasant place to shop. The balcony extends the entire length of the building and is occupied by the millinery shop and beauty salon.

Quality Stock.

Mr. Wells has secured furnishings in keeping with his establishment. Black and silver valances adorn the display windows. German silver display stands will be used to display the dresses. Pretty gate leg tables of maple, and finished in decorated and polychrome colors with chairs to match also add much to the interior.

Mr. Wells has purchased the latest and best in modes, quality frocks, dresses and coats for fall. The proper attire for every occasion whether formal or informal is in stock.

B. G. Morris, formerly of Fort Worth and a man who has had long experience with ladies' shoes, will have the shoe department. He comes here with a stock of the best in footwear.

The millinery department, with Mrs. Annetta Jennings in charge, and the Orchid beauty salon, with Mrs. Eastwood in charge, are in keeping with the high standards of the entire establishment.

College Men Admit "Sure Hit" Plot At $50,000 Extortion

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Trying to put into practice a plot that was "too good for fiction" was the explanation given by Bliss Baker and C. Russell Crawford, former university students, when they entered pleas of guilty here yesterday to a charge of extortion in connection with an unsuccessful attempt to extort $50,000 from Colonel Daniel C. Jackling, wealthy San Francisco man, on June 26.

The two youths sent a note to Colonel Jackling saying that Mrs. Jackling had been kidnaped and would be tortured unless the money was delivered. Shortly before the note was sent Mrs. Jackling had been called out of the city by a fake telephone message. She returned home unharmed later in the day. The youths were arrested after their attempt was foiled.

Both asked for probation and the case was postponed.

Crawford was a former law student.

Clinics Urged As Means of Cutting Baby Death Rate

AUSTIN, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Lack of proper milk sanitation ordinances in many cities, lack of knowledge of parents on practical health preventitive measures and few clinics were given as reasons for the high death rate of babies born in Texas today, by the bureau of vital statistics of the state board of health.

Approximately 7 per cent of the babies born in Texas in 1924 died before becoming a year old; 51 per cent being white, 31 per cent Mexican and 13 per cent negro, which is an average of 67.8 deaths out of 1,000 births for infants as compared with 68 deaths in every 1,000 birth in New York, the bureau report showed. Death rate in New Mexico is 132 out of every 1,000 born, it was said.

Free clinics were urged as a solution to the problem.

SEIZE REAL BEER

Scranton, Pa., Brewery Was Turning Out High-Powered Stuff.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 29.—(AP).—Federal prohibition agents yesterday raided the Lackawanna brewery in this city and seized 2,800 barrels of alleged high-powered beer. A brewery at Simpson was raided last week and 4,000 barrels seized. With the seizure of these two breweries federal men believe they have cut off a substantial supply of the Scranton beer which has been shipped to various parts of the country.

SEYMOUR IS BUILDING

GRADE SCHOOL AT SEYMOUR

The Story of Seymour As Told by Her Leading Citizens:

Seymour is attracting new residents and business enterprises. The erection of a modern 50-room hotel is perhaps the most important contribution to the highly consistent and extensive expansion and development of Seymour. The structure and furnishings will cost upward of $100,000, (one hundred thousand) and is the utmost in modernity. The service and cusine will be in keeping with this standard.

Among the new business enterprises is the firm of Andruss and Parker, whose garage and filling station is located across the street from the new Seymour Hotel. G. W. Andruss and J. H. Parker have shown their faith in the growth of Seymour by the purchase and enlargement of a very complete and efficient filling station and motor supply establishment to serve the traveling public with high grade tires, accessories, gas and oil.

Mr. Parker has been a resident of Olney, establishing in Seymour some three months ago. He will make a city builder and the progressive business men of Seymour appreciate his co-operation and energy in the development of the financial prossibilities of the town.

Mr. Andruss is a man of keen foresight and splendid business acumen. He has done much for the fostering of progressive measures to build the town and improve its financial, moral and educational scope.

When asked for an expression of the most important characteristic of Seymour, both Mr. Andruss and Mr. Parker said that the entire absence of vice, crime and civic carelessness makes the investmnt of capital doubly safe and desirable.

Join progressiveness with honest, clean and energetic living and work as exemplified in every activity of this sterling community and you have ideal conditions indeed.

The City Garage and Machine Shop recently purchased and enlargey by J. O. Coffey and his son, C. C. Coffey, is another evidence of the growth and promise of Seymour.

The handsome stone building in which it is situated was built some thirty-five years ago, and is notable not only for its substantial construction and design, but also as the first store building in the then village of Seymour. The City Garage and Machine Shop is the largest establishment of that kind between Wichita Falls and Abilene. Welding and other equipment added by Mr. Coffey at the time of purchase three years ago, makes this indeed an important project in view of the oil play Seymour is participating in by reason of the adjacent development.

Mr. Coffey was attracted to Seymour because of its clean and handsome progress along all lines and especially because of the unparalleled financial development of the last few years. Mr. Coffey, would not have invested a large amount of money in Seymour as well as the faith and vision of a loyal and constructive city builder but for the educational and moral excellence of the town and community which guarantees that all growth and progress is and will be clean and wise.

Mr. Coffey has a rarely met standard of civic and moral worth. He values the splendid solidarity of the spiritual forces of the city. He cites the fact that there has never been the least sctarian strife nor has there been any failure of the various churches to co-operate with each other cordially and cheerfully. Such vision on the part of the leaders of thought will make the town of Seymour appreciated as a progressive and hospitable home for the finest type of citizens and a place in which one would have every wise co-operation in safeguarding the growing child in education and environment. And that is the test, for if we cheat the young of the rightful privileges of honest and clean rearing we have been renegades in our duty and our financial progress is vilest idolitary and worthless. All honor to the citizens of Seymour for the care they have taken of the "better things", the things of character building as well as the material.

The Sanitary Bakery of Seymour owned by R. F. Haley is one of the most modern establishments in Texas. Mr. Haley has a vision of service that is of great importance to the residents of Seymour. He knows the great need of the growing child is for a balanced diet that will contribute elements needed to build structure and health. The baker can make a splendidly flavored product and yet leave it without these elements. Mr. Haley has undertaken to cater to these needs of the school child and by making a study of all related subjects has fitted himself to aid the careful mother to provide a safe yet enticing diet for that important period when the child is establishing either health or decay, strength or weakness through over taxation and careless or careful diet. The vital elements which if added to the diet will safely balance much carelessness according to Mr. Haley, are carefully balanced in the products of the Sanitary Bakery. This is a vision of service far in advance of the average and the progressiveness of this sterling young business man is appreciated by the citizens of Seymour. What better program than to safeguard the health and happiness of the heedless and joyous school child and what service is of greater importance to all the rest of the world since the solidarity of the race makes the illness, weakness or other fault of one the burden of all through the interruption of business, school and general endeavor. All honor to the expert baker who applies the high standard of absolute merit of his product for a balanced diet is imperative if we attain scholastic honors and advancement. Hr. Haley deserves and gets the appreciation of the people of Seymour.

E. L. Humphries has made fine boots for the cattlemen of North Texas for the last twenty years. He settled in Seymour when that growing city was a village and has widest acquaintance among the cowboys as the maker of well fitting boots. His fame has gone all over the United States and he receives orders for his product from the Mexican to the Canadian borders. As the beautiful women demands the hat that best graces her type so the cowboy insists on the boot that meets his exacting needs and he changes bootmakers until he finds the artist who fills those demands. That Mr. Humphries' patrons are loyal to him and spread his fame where ever they go is proof that he is indeed an artist in appreciating and filling the needs of the most exacting in the matter of hand-made boots, boots that fit and wear, yet please the eye with beauty of texture and stitching in the approved cowboy fashion. Many pairs of boots cost as much as thirty dollars and upward. One customer who had located in Old Mexico had a pair sent him on which postage alone cost nearly three dollars. A Stetson hat and the kind of boots made by Mr. Humphries and the cowboy is established as a well dressed man no matter how careless the rest of his costume may me.

Says Irrigation Ditches Must Have Fish Strainers

AUSTIN, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Warnings were issued today by T. E. Hubby, fish and game commissioner, to operators of irrigation projects to have strained places over the mouths of ditches to prevent fish from being washed onto the farm lands and dying.

Commissioner Hubby said it was in violation of the law to operate irrigation without strainers and that such cases would be prosecuted as numerous complaints are being received that the law is being disregarded.

J. H. Boggess of San Angelo, member of the house of representatives, today appealed through the Associated Press to irrigation farmers to prevent the waste of fish by placing screens in the ditches.

COMING

Fergusons proposed to do if elected; what of that has been done, what attempted, what disregarded; what modifications have been made, what new undertakings have been offered since the Fergusons took over the reins, and what's in sight.

It's a big subject, and no claim of completeness is made.

Cuts Are Made.

Foremost, the Fergusons promised a deep cut into the cost of running the state departments. Itemized savings of millions of dollars were listed in the platform. A one-third trimming was predicted.

The Fergusons have probably succeeded in this farther than they expected. Because the governor alone doesn't have the whole say. A friendly legislature helped the governor in general to score real accomplishment along the line. Vetoes added more to the final result. One department was wiped out, together with bureaus of the university and other schools; and occasional jobs were eliminated. Superflous clerks have been weeded out. The ranger force was reduced.

Relief to farm sections from onerous cattle dipping, at local expense, a consolidated road system, an anti-mask law, were promised, and in these the administration has carried out the program, none wholly equalling the glowing campaign prospects, but all substantial progress in the indicated direction.

Some of the promises, like "taking the government off wheels" by removal of all inspectors, have been conveniently forgotten, to the extent that there has been no radical disruption of any of the functions of the government previously exercised.

The Fergusons proposed a sumptuary tax on cigars and cigarettes, but this was killed. They offered an amnesty law and this was passed in the outstanding, tensest legislative contest of the year.

Two for One.

The Fergusons have, in many economies, given to Texas the first example of two governors serving for one salary.

This is no disparagement or reflection, but accepting the executive's own frank admission that Jim helps around a whole lot besides carrying in the wood.

The Fergusons have overhauled the prison system operations, according to claims made here and blessed with favorable weather, stand to show a cotton crop which will not only finance the system for the year, but go toward paying back some of the losses of the past two or three flood years.

They have promoted a competitive spirit in farming, by prizes which have stimulated the farm managers to extra efforts. The Fergusons have pushed road building work, and have adopted a policy of priority in public work on roads for short crop counties.

Lots of Pardons.

Pardons have brought both criticism and commendation to the administration. Up to August 26, Governor Ferguson had granted 526 pardons, 47 paroles, 132 furloughs, and issued altogether 854 proclamations dealing with clemency. Names of many counties and city officials and prominent men and women, ministers and lawyers, and even the Dallas district judge who was Governor Ferguson's opponent, have been cited as recommending the pardons.

The governor watched a seething investigation of the Texas penitentiary with apparent disfavor, and under the technical outcome of failure of the senate to adopt the house's action, has disregarded the findings. The administration has fought back at attacks both on the pardon record and on the administration of the highway department.

A maximum tax rate was re-assessed, with the declaration that approximately $4,000,000 deficiency was being met by so doing, rather than to have made a cut in the rate and permitted the deficiency to remain.

Governor Ferguson was quoted in an interview before her inauguration that she would drive every "klan jobholder" out of appointive office. She has pretty well made a clean sweep of all jobholders who were not Ferguson supporters, regardless of klan sentiment, and the process is still going on. The Fergusons have made no secret of rewarding the "originals" by firing those whose support and loyalty in the previous race were questioned. But there's nothing startlingly original in this.

Regardless of the measure of business sagacity which may be ascribed to its handling of the big business problems of government, the Fergusons would perhaps be the first to admit that theirs has been a "political" or policy administration, rather than a business administration.

The Fergusons, smarting under the buffets of the seven and a half years exile, still give signs of retaining the "persecution complex" and of a courageous but self-conscious readiness to fight back on any occasion with anybody about most anything.

But when you would ascribe political motives to every act and every utterance, you are reminded that before the crucial vote came on the Ferguson amnesty bill, to whose passage they pinned hopes of freeing Jim Ferguson from the political bondage of 1914, the Fergusons vetoed and killed, in a message of incisvie force and directness, a bill, passed by overwhelming majorities in both houses, that would have meant hundreds of dollars a year to the average member of either house.

Old-Time Appointments.

The Fergusons—so it seems anyway—have appointed to office many of the old-timers. A generation in politics is a whole lot shorter than the cycle of human succession. There have many grown to maturity, and to important participation in public affairs in eight years. Aside from Mark McGee, and he's no youngster—we don't recall any of the younger people of Texas who have been called into the councils. Of course E. A. Berry, state chairman, later appointed as a judge, is young, but he was an established success eight years ago.

As to another term. There is every indication, from the tendencies and inferences of the present, that Mrs. Ferguson will seek a second term, rather than that Jim will hazard the efficacy of the amnesty law on a third-term race, when the U. S. senate race would not test the political pardon bill.

It is almost a plasitude to say that should either enter the race again, the catchword of "Fergusonism" would be the key to the campaign.

Who can say whether the Fergusons had won to them more friends in Texas than they have alienated? But the big question of uncertainty in any other race they might make it not what would happen to the regular Fergusonites, but how many of those not Ferguson regulars who voted for them as a second choice last year, would vote for them in a new race.

And it does seem to us we remember in the announcement by Mrs. Ferguson for office, the declaration she would seek but one term, that for the vindication of her husband.

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

West Texas Play Continues To Feature State's Wildcatting

VAST SPACES ATTRACT OIL INDUSTRY EYE

Currie Field Gives Atlantic 10,000 Barrel Oil Well

PANHANDLE ACTIVE

Shackleford,, Callahan, Brown, Eastland Counties Active

FORT WORTH, Aug. 29.—With production losing ground in North Texas and gaining in West Texas and the Panhandle, the play has turned to the latter point with the recent discoveries there.

In the World district of Crockett county, just south of the Big Lake field of Reagan county, latter 65 miles west of San Angelo, Humble has started on two wells. Around the Big Lake field there are several other wells and Gulf Production company got its second dry hole south of the field, No. 2 University, southeast of section 1, block 1, at 3,200 feet, No. 1 was in the northwest of the same section.

Near the Westbrook field of Mitchell county, eight miles southwest, where the Magnolia Petroleum company No. 2 Foster, southeast of the southwest of section 17, block 29, T&PRy survey, opened a new field at 2,867 to 2,870 feet with a 200 barrel well, drilling wells nearby are receiving attention.

Choate and Henshaw, who, with the Marland Oil company of Texas, are drilling a group of nine wells stretching from the Mitchell county field southwest through Crockett county, are reported to have refused nearly one-half million dollars for their holdings adjoining the Magnolia's block of 13,500 acres. According to contour maps based on sub-surface geology, Marland's block, which adjoins the Magnolia on the west and southwest, lies on at least half of the structure.

Magnolia's location was worked out only by the production department and ignoring geology. It is declared that Marland had previously worked out a closure on its block.

Marland is to drill at least two tests on the black andone, No. 1 O'Daniel, center of the southeast of section 34, block 30, T&PRy survey, township 1-s, was last reported drilling at 800 feet. It is on the southwest end of the structure.

East Central Texas.

The Currie oil field of Navarro county, several miles southwest of the Corsicana-Powell field, pulled another of its pleasing tricks this week when it yielded the Atlantic Oil Producing company a well of from 10,000 to 12,000 barrels. The well is an offset to J. K. Hughes No. 1 Morrow, which in 1923 started off at 540 barrels an hour. It is expected that the first 24 hours will show 10,000 barrels production.

Railroad Commissioner Lon Smith and Deputy Supervisor F. H. Pierson were on hand when the well came in and asserted it was well handled.

In the New Currie-Richland district, northeast of the new well towards Richland, Barkley and Meadows N. 4 Hillburn, Boren survey, is testing the deeper sands of the Woodbine formations and drilling in.

In Southwest Texas, Humlbe Oil and Refining company No. 1 Coreth, Bexar county, six miles southwest of San Antonio, got a 75,000 barrel sulphur water well at 1,460 feet, the second on the block. The other was on the northeast end while the newest is on the southwest end. Humble is expected to make a deep test of the well as it is asserted that nearly half a million dollars is represented in the block.

In Laredo, it was announced that the contract for a gas line from the Burmi-Cole district in Webb and Duvall counties to the Callihan district of McMullen county, had been signed, assuring an outlet for the immense gas field there. The line, 79 miles long, connects with another line there to carry the gas on northeast into San Antonio.

There is considerable wildcatting under way in Shackelford, Coleman, Callhan, Brown and Eastland counties at present. In the Cross Plains townsite pool, Lowe, Delaney and Carter's No. 1 on block 82, central addition, Callahan county, swabbed 42 barrels in twelve hours at 1,424 feet and has settled to 70 barrels pumping.

It defines and proves the townsite pool opened by Mook, Wakefield and the Canyon Oil and Gas company No. 1 McDonough, just south of town. A new shallow pool, the McDaniel district, was proven last week at 360 feet when the second and third wells came in. It is between Cross Plains and the Burkett shallow field, latter about four miles southeast.

Panhandle of Texas.

In Huthinson county, Panhandle, a well that is attracting considerable attention is the South Hutchinson Oil company No. 1 Whittenburg, northeast quarter of section 12, block Y, drilling at 2,800 feet and near the expected pay. It is north of the Carson-Hutchinson district. Next week should see a gauge if it produces. There are considerable new locations in the Carson-Hutchinson field.

Elsewhere in the Panhandle there was little happening.

Clarendon Well

CLARENDON, Tex., Aug. 29.—Of special interest to oil well people the past few days is the Lonbick well, located on section 7, block A-5, Roberts county, situated about 22 miles north of Pampa. The well is now 3,712 feet deep. The following log of the well is of interest: One thousand four hundred feet of lime, oil, gas and water at 3,676 feet; Pennsylvania lime struck at 3,704 feet; oil with less gas and water at 3,700 feet. Sufficient casing has been hung and tried to the well to cass the entire depth and drilling will be resumed by noon August 30. Capital for the lowering of the well to a 4,500-foot depth is already in the Pampa bank, the promoters of the well being farmers and merchants from Clarendon and Pampa. This well is the deepest test in the entire Panhandle.

Drop In Markets Is Week Feature

Finishing up of the first step in the usual summer crude cutting and a two cent reduction in gasoline prices were the principal features of the past week in North Texas' oil industry. With one exception the field was comparatively quiet, although at this writing another well west of the small town of Anarene is showing considerable ambition and may develop a new pool there.

The Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Gulf were the crude price cutters.

Prairie led off Thursday morning with what amounted to a 25-cent drop in their offering. Gulf followed a few minutes later. As it now stands every crude buyer in the district is operating under the revised schedule, with the Prairie and Gulf offerings just a bit higher than those of Magnolia and Humble.

Gulf's Lead Starts Gas Cutting; Waite Phillips Gets Mankins Well

The Gulf led off in the gasoline cutting, followed closely by the other companies. The price at the stations now is 20 cents, with the tankwagon at 17 cents. In the wholesale market export orders by Sinclair and Bell during the week in North Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas strengthened the market some, removing surplus product, but at that the market has a distinctly bearish tendency.

After dickering for two months south of Mankins and getting little other than semi-commercial producers and water wells to show for his troubles, Waite Phillips finally came through with a real oil well in his No. 2-B, T. B. Wilson, Ben Howard survey, between the didscovery well and pseudo extension well of Carter on the Parkey land, southeast. Sand was topped at 1,711 feet and in the first 24 hours the well swabbed and flowed something around 450 barrels, the week's biggest well in what looked to be as hopeless as any in the county. The new well should undoubtedly stimulate other drilling in the area, and adds an encouraging color to the new pool here.

Smith-Trahan Well Is Sole High Point in Slack Field Week Here

West of Anarene at this writing, just 50 feet north of the old McNamara-Pace well, William Justice land, W. H. Patton survey, Smith and Trahan have a sand and are setting casing at a depth of 1,078 feet. The sand is reported to show plenty of oil, and in the hotel lobbies at least a well is expected. The old hole just south at the first part of the year had a good sand at the same depth, but was lost when a packer failed to hold. The well, if it makes a producer, will open an area several miles from any production. It will line up just a little south of the trend that has thus far given the county its Green-Flowers, Comac and Green-Flowers extension pools, and, geologists think, will afford little more in the way of production than have those.

Maer and Staniforth's No. 4, Mills, farthest south well on their lease in block 2428, TE&LCO survey, southeast Baylor county, went on the pump for 50 barrels initial and 70 barrels thereafter, sand at the at the usual lower 1,400-foot level. Maer and Staniforth are drilling No. 5 while Petroleum Producers have a hole started on the Mills just to the east in block 2427.

In the northeast Litchfield extension Petroleum Producers are dry and abandoned in their No. 3, Kilcrease, on the north line of their lease in block 1809. Plains is hunting the sand about two locations east.

In the southeast Litchfield extension, a location north of the extension well, Murchison and Fain and Marland are bailing in their No. 2, E. Campbell, sand topped at a depth of 990 feet.

Marland's Third Wildcat On Krupka Block Is Dry At 1,300

The third wildcat on the Krupka land east of Swastika by Marland et al is dry, drilling last considerably below 1,300 feet with no sand yet. North of the Krupka on the Richardson land Tidal Oil company is down past 1,200 feet and looking for the sand on their wildcat. On the Sulphur Forks Iron Works survey, north of the Ragle land, Neele farm, Gwynn and Hedrick are rigging up for a test.

Pois and Weaver J. W. Dunnegan, southwest of Olney in the F-H-E pool was showing 300 barrels on the swab Friday morning from sand at 1,003-11 feet.

In north Archer county Wichctex is spudding on its No. 1, Annie P. Jackson in lot 137 of the Aldridge survey, while the Jensen well in lot 57 is drilling in hard lime at 1,506 feet and is dry.

In the Barkley and Meadows area north of Archer City a rise in the Wichita river allowed activity to start up there again. Barkley and Meadows added a new well in their No. 12, about 60 barrels a day, and have set and cemented casing on another. Lomax has a new well in his No. 5, showing for about 150 barrels a day. On the west side of the field Willard Hill et al are reported on the sand at 1,514 feet and should have a well. The hole is west of the Freeman and Hampton lease. On the north side of the field Lee Wilson is starting up on his No. 1, Wilson, in the southwest corner of his 40 acres.

Wichita county was quiet, with one new well by Texhoma starting in the new John and Jeff pool north of Beaver creek. Clay, Montague and other outlying counties also failed to report anything new.

East Side of South Vernon Shows Minor Developments

Barkley and Meadows added a new 2,300-foot well to South Vernon this past week in their No. 3-B, Stephens, on the south line of their 40 acres in the northeast quarter of section 83, block 14, flowing and pumping about 100 barrels a day from sand at 2,305-30 feet. No. 1-A in the northeast corner of the field has the 5 3-16 inch casing set and is bailing the lime at 2,385-2,400 feet, with a former showing in the hole making it look like a possible 100 to 200-barrel well from the deepest level in the field.

Better than a half mile to the southeast Atlantic Oil Producing company seemingly has tapped the same deep stratum in its No. 5, Zipperle, pumping now in sandy lime at 2,360 feet to 2,382 feet. This well showed 24 barrels in the first six hours.

Barkley and Meadows' east offset to their No. 3-B, Stephens, is deepening from 1,800 feet to 2,300 feet to complete in the deeper stuff. Atlantic's No. 3 Zipperle, in the northwest corner of their 40 acres in section 80 is deepening also and was last reported looking for the 1,800-foot sand.

Out on the pasture Thelma Wells has abandoned her No. 1, Waggoner, in section 15, block 2, H&TCRRCO survey as a dry hole at a total depth of 2,360 feet. The well had plenty of sand but failed to show much oil.

Texhoma abandoned its No. 2, Covert, in section 8, block 15, H&T CRRCO survey, north Wilbarger county, at a depth of 2,315 feet, a duster.

Between the Gulf wells and the old Texas company group the Atlantic and Roxana had a sand at last reports at 1,375-77 1-2 feet and were underreaming casing to set and test in their No. 1, Waggoner, a location west of the northeast corner of the southeast quarter of section 50, block 14.

Milham corporation is reported to have a sand at a depth of 2,446-48 feet south of the Noble well, in section 31, block 4 and to be underreaming casing to set and test.

South Vernon Oil company's No. 2, Zipperle, in section 84, north of the old Stephens farm, is going deeper after producing for a while in the sand at 1,300 feet. It will be carried to 2,400 feet if necessary.

News of the Fields

Smith-Trahan, Justice

Smith and Trahan No. 1, Justice, William Patton survey, west of Anarene, south Archer county, lost its casing seat yesterday afternoon after bailing down and showing some oil and gas at about two o'clock. Sand had been taken at 1,078-80 feet, and the operators had gone after another core barrel when the hole filled up with mud and water. Casing was being pulled to reseat last night. Every indication pointed to a well of some sort.

Williamson County

Williamson county, aside from its Thrall field, has yielded wildcatters nothing but a lot of subsurface geology.

Simms Oil company No. 1, Smith, Wm. Byerly survey, about 10 miles southeast of Taylor, is drilling at 1,620 feet in the Austin chalk. It is about three miles southwest of Thrall.

Gulf Production company's test in the Jefferson West survey near Coupland was dry at 1,629 feet.

W. T. KNIGHT BACK IN TOWN AFTER VACATION

W. T. Knight, president of the Consolidated Oil company is back in Wichita Falls after a month's vacation in Boulder, Colo. Mr. Knight made the trip overland from Colorado but left his car at Lubbock coming back. His family will arrive today via train.

Production Figures

North Texas Production, last week almost stationary, shows a diminutive increase in daily average this week. This gradual increase over the past six weeks has put the district something like a thousand barrels ahead of its figure prior to that time. Detailed figures follow:

District—	Last week	Week before
Electra	17,330	17,320
Burkburnett	14,795	14,195
Iowa Park	1,800	1,770
Archer county	37,195	37,005
Clay county	185	190
Vernon	8,895	8,910
Nocona	440	440
Young	11,260	11,460
Jack	30	30
Throckmorton	150	150
Baylor	145	145
Totals	95,975	95,810
Decrease, 165 barrels.

Newberg, Speer

A. S. Newberg on the A. C. Speer land 15 miles east of Olney has derrick built, tools on the ground and is now rigging up.

This well is in the same vicinity as the Prideaux wells. The Dollman-Kellog on the Prideaux has just been bailed preparatory to putting on the pump and is showing for a possible 20-barrel well at a depth of 647 feet.

The Newberg No. 1 Speer expects to drill to a depth of 1,200 feet unless a well is made at less depth in the Prideaux sand. An 860-foot sand has also been encountered to the northwest. To the southeast a promising sand was found at about 500 feet.

Nicholas Pursued Miscreants In Gasoline Sales To Nebraska

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 29.—Refiners and jobbers alike are opposed to states engaging in the oil business, especially along the line that the mayors at Omaha and Lincoln, in Nebraska, and the governor of South Dakota is doing.

For weeks and weeks an effort has been made to secure the initials and numbers of the tank cars that are delivering cheap gasoline to the municipal and state owned filling stations so that they can continue to undersell the regularly organized and operated independents and so-called standard distributors.

L. V. Nicholas, president of the National Petroleum Marketers association in his weekly bulletin says in part:

"For two weeks we have been promising to get the initials and numbers of tank cars that are being delivered to municipel, state and similar types of stations. According to reports, there were unloaded at the municipal plant at Lincoln, Neb., during the past week:

"El Dorado Refining company No. 318, and Sinclair Refining company No. 3823.'

"In South Dakota, according to reports, there were unloaded to supply the state stations operated by the governor:

"'Louisiana Oil Refining company Nos. 419 and 740; Marland Refining company Nos. 1022 and 1003, and Liquid Despatch Line Nos. 1064 and 1774.'

"The governor of South Dakota, we are told, is buying the bulk of his requirements from the H. H. Cross company, and the Marland Refining company cars, it is reported, are leased equipment temporarily in the service of the Cross company."

Nicholas concludes with this hot shot, straight from the shoulder, "please let us get this straight. We do not criticize anyone for selling to these stations or to any one else. We do criticize a price structure that sells on an open market that holds our tank wagon and filling station prices up to public criticism and ridicule."

BLOSSOMS AND DISAPPOINTS IN NEW WELL

Deepest Smackover Pay Is Not Living up to Predictions

By D. B. BANCROFT

SHREVEPORT La., Aug. 29.—Blossom sand completions in Smackover made an even worse showing, in one respect, this week than they did last. From a production standpoint, however, they showed a slight improvement in average initial production per well. There were 19 completions in this horizon this week, but only three of them were producers. They had a total initial production of 1,580 barrels, an average of 527 barrels compared to 300 barrels for 12 new producers last week. Of the remaining 16 wells five were lost as junked, three salt water holes and eight, were gassers. The majority of these completions were west of the discovery wells. Graves sand producers, of which there were 16, averaged 374 barrels compared with 296 barrels for 14 wells last week. Smackover's average per well for 26 producers this week was 697 barrels compared with 288 barrels for 27 new wells last week.

Forty-six wells were completed in the district this week of which 26 were producers with an initial 7,715 barrels, eight gas wells with 206 million cubic feet and 12 failures. Last week's score was 37 completions, 27 wells with 2,784 barrels initial, seven gassers with 339 million cubic feet and three failures.

Urania Gets Well

Completions in Louisiana were distinguished by official recording of the first commercial producer in the Urania district, Rowe-Wallace Syndicate's No. 1 Hardtner in 10-10-2E as a 60-barrel pumper at 1,572 feet, four per cent of the production being water. Tw oother wells in the district are being standardized and should appear in the completion records next week.

Gleason gas district of Northern Webster parish added another big gasser in Fortuna Oil company's 2 Maynor in 34-23-10 making 30 million feet at 2,635 feet.

Two semi-wildcatters on the edge of Bellevue production both were failures, one on the west side of the south extension in 29-13-11 and the other on the west side of the original discovery section.

There were 58 completions in the Shreveport district as a whole, 30 of them producers with an initial 8,086 barrels, nine gassers with 236 million feet and 19 failures. Last week there were 51 completions, 30 producers with 7,914 barrels, nine gassers with 280 million feet and 12 failures.

Everything Slumps

While the difference between this week and last was not quite so marked as between last week and the week before, production pipe line runs, continued their decline, the week showing a total daily average for the Shreveport district of 287,087 barrels compared with 298,300 barrels last week, a drop of 5,218 barrels. Every pool in the district save one, Cotton Valley, contributed to the decline, the lone exception showing a gain of 315 barrels in daily runs over the week before.

Marland Pardner Refuses Fortune In Mitchell Co.

Choate and Henshaw, who, with the Marland Oil company of Texas, are drilling nine wildcat tests in Texas scattered from Mitchell county southwest through Crockett county, have refused an offer of nearly half a million dollars for their Mitchell-Howard county block, it became known here today.

The block of 6,800 acres adjoins on the west the lease of the Magnolia Petroleum company on the Foster ranch, upon which a new pool was opened last week, and both blocks are located upon the same structure, according to contour maps worked out by Marland's geological force, with sub-surface data.

Marland and Choate and Henshaw No. 1 on this block, four miles southwest of Magnolia's discovery well, in the center of the southeast of section 54, block 30, township 1 south, but in Howard county, is at present drilling at 600 feet.

According to Marland's contour map, the Choate and Henshaw acreage occupies more than one-half of the structure, with Magnolia's No. 2 Foster, in the southeast of the southwest of section 17, block 29, T&PRR survey, located on the northeast end.

Marland will drill at least two more well on this block, it is learned.

Magnolia's well is 18 miles southeast of the Westbrook field and at present it is flowing about 200 barrels with casing off the seat in the hole. Pay is a sandy lime at 2,870 to 2,872 feet.

Yesterday's Cuts

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 29.—(AP).—Another cut of 25 cents a barrel in the price of six grades of Pennsylvania crude oil was posted by purchasing agencies today. Buckeye was reduced 20 cents and a cut of 10 cents was made in Cabell, Somerset medium and light Ragland. The new prices are:

Pennsylvania grade in New York Transit lines and Bradford district in National Transit lines, $3.15; Pennsylvania grade in National Transit lines, $3.05; Gaines grade in National Transit lines, $2.70; Pennsylvania grade in Southwest Pennsylvania lines, $3.05; Pennsylvania grade in Eureka lines, $3; Pennsylvania grade in Buckeye lines, $2.20; Cabell grade in Eureka lines, $2.10; Somerset medium in Cumberland lines, $2.20; Somerset light in Cumberland lines, $2.35; and Ragland grade in Cumberland lines, $1.10.

Corning was unchanged at $1.80.

Schoolmaker, George

George Schoonmaker of Fort Worth and Anderson No. 1 George, J. Pointevent survey, northeast corner of the west half of block 29, abstract 532, is underreaming 8-inch casing to shut off water at 1,540 feet after a long shut down.

Guadalupe County

J. M. Davis No. 1, Hoese, Josefa N. de los Cortinos survey, near New Berlin, Guadalupe county, is dry five feet in the Edwards lime at 1,795 feet. It is to go 150 feet into the Edwards. It is between Luling and San Antonio.

BED-ROCK IS REACHED FOR OIL CUTTING

Tulsans Think Industry's Slump Is as Far as It Will Go

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 29.—The first reaction to the Prairie Oil and Gas company general reduction of 25 cents a barrel for Oklahoma, Kansas and North Texas oil fields was one of relief.

The attitude of expectancy that has permeated oil circles for weeks had oil men worried because the cut did not come. Now that it has come and the full extent of the reduction appreciated, the oil men are readjusting themselves to meet the new situation.

With many operators the increase in crude oil production caused them to slow up activities weeks ago and they are now reorganibed to accept the new price schedule, while others who half way imagined that there would be no cut are now readjusting. Several concerns are arbitrarily stopping all drilling work.

In refinery circles the crude cut, as always, disorganized the spot market, but refiners feel that bedrock was almost reached through the recent Standard Oil company of Indiana tankwagon reductions.

The new Prairie Schedule follows:

28 to 28.9	$1.15
29 to 29.9	1.23
30 to 30.9	1.31
31 to 31.9	1.39
32 to 32.9	1.47
33 to 33.9	1.55
34 to 34.9	1.63
35 to 35.9	1.71
36 to 36.9	1.79
37 to 37.9	1.87
38 to 38.9	1.95
39 to 39.9	2.03
40 to 40.9	2.11
41 to 41.9	2.19
42 to 42.9	2.27
43 to 43.9	2.35
44 and up	2.45

Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, Empire Petroleum company, Cosden Pipe Line company met the Prairie price immediately, while the Gypsy Oil company-Gulf Pipe Line company met with three additional grades for lower gravity crude. These follow:

Below 26	.91
26 to 26.9	.99
27 to 27.9	1.07

The Kay County Gas company, the purchasing agency of the Marland Refining company, early Thursday afternoon met the new price schedule.

Standard Oil company of Louisiana on Thursday reduced Louisiana and Arkansas crude prices 25 cents a barrel, except at Smackover, Bellevue and Cotton Valley grades, which were unchanged.

Central Pools Decline.

All of the six active Central Oklahoma oil fields fell off in output the past fiscal week. Cromwell produced 28,519 barrels a day from 407 wells, a loss of 364 barrels and with two new wells in.

Wetumka, including Gilcrease and Papoose, did 15,328 barrels from 204 wells, a loss of 73 barrels and three new wells.

Crude Output Shows 18,000,000 Decrease In June

Magnolia Growing Factor in Laredo Texas Districts

By B. D. SEVENSON

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 29.—Magnolia Petroleum company has made the second large purchase in the Mirando district within a month, having just purchased the Carnahan Producing & Refining company property in the Schott field, a lease of 320 acres with daily average production o fabout 200 barrels, and a pipeline to the railroad and a loading rack. Consideration is reported to have been $225,000.

Just about one month ago Magnolia bought the Plateau property in the Jim Hogg pool of the Mirando field amounting to 150 acres with 13 producing wells and a daily production of less than 1,000 barrels per day for a consideration of $240,000. Previous to this Magnolia had made other purchases and it now has considerably over 1,000 barrels daily production from the field. Magnolia on one of its first leases discovered the one of its wells on the Carnahan lease is producing from this sand.

Magnolia has its own pipeline and ha sa tank farm of considerable dimensions including about six 55,000-barrel tanks. Producing properties in the Mirando field are rapidly gravitating to the hands of a few of the major companies and since the first of the year more than a dozen small companies have sold out to large operators, Crown Central being one of the biggest purchasers.

Zapata County

The Texas company's No. 1, Jennings in the old Jennings gas field in Zapata county which cored an oil showing at 3,237 a week ago is waiting for casing and will make a test. Associated's No. 1 Southerland in Duval county tested at 1,404 and got a duster and is drilling deeper. Texas company's No. 1 Jennings in Zapata and the Magnolia's No. 1 Bank in Jim Hogg county, seven miles south of the Henne, Winch & Fariss pool are being watched with interest as likely to open new pools. Magnolia's test is on survey 415 and just a little south of where J. W. Pippin et al at 1,805 feet had the hole standing 900 feet in oil but have not been able to complete the well and have spudded in a new test. In the meantime Magnolia is down around 1,900 feet and will soon set and test out. Andrews Petroleum company on survey 207 is rigging up on the No. 1 Bank a few hundred feet to the northwest of the Pippin test.

Rio Grande City

Following along the Reynosa Escapemnt south into Starr county geologists and scouts are thick and the first test in Starr in the new campaign of wildcatting sweeping over the county is rigging up on the Kelsey land 20 miles northwest of Rio Grande City on a block of leases gotten together by Bertrand de Graffe. Dauchy & Bryant are drilling the well and major companies have taken offset acreage. Rio Grande City is filled to overflowing with oil men of every description.

Pay $400 an Acre For Wildcat Block

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 29. Rydal Oil corporation has purchased for $25,000 cash and a drilling obligation the 2,500 acres immediately south of the Henne, Einch & Fariss extension to the Jim Hogg pool and immediately sold a half interest to the Rycade Oil company. The Rydal's No. 2 Vela in which Texas company has a half interest offsets the block to the north. It came in a few days ago as a 500-barrel well and Thursday when tubing was set increased the flow, making an average of 58 barrels an hour Thursday night and Friday.

Total consideration for the 2,500-acre block of leases is said to be about $100,000, the remainder to be paid in oil. The block consists of two rows of 40-acre tracts extending south about four miles and at the south end of the tract a new pool is being brought in in J. W. Pippin's No. 2 Palacios, having found a sand at 1,305 feet from which oil rose in the hole 900 feet. Magnolia offsetting to the south on survey 415 has cored the sand and is setting casing.

Bee County

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 29.—Bee county has three wildcat tests and each test has a gas showing. No. 1 Welder, three miles east of Beeville, has no much gas at 2,067 that it is coming up through extra thick mud. It belongs to Ross and Frederick of Houston. Casing was being set Friday and Saturday.

W. G. Clark in the No. 1 Scott, five miles north of Beeville, has cored a gas sand at 3,200 feet and will core ahead to ascertain the thickness of the sand.

W. G. French No. 1 Lucas encountered gas in a rock at 2,500 feet and is taking a core. The Lucas well is about nine miles north of Beeville.

RICHARDSON BROS. DRILLING WELLS

Richardson brothers No. 1 R. V. Colbert, southeast of the northwest of the southeast of section 178, ETRY survey, Shackelford county, northwest of Albany, is underreaming to lower 8 1-3 inch casing at 874 feet.

AN EXHILARATING EFFECT

California First, Oklahoma Second, Texas Third Figures Show

BILLION VALUE

Crude Imports for Year Amount to 77,775,000 Barrels

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(AP) Crude petroleum production in the United States in 1924 amounted to 713,940,000 barrels, a decrease of 18,467,000 barrels from the 1923 figure.

A bureau of mines announcement today showed that the heaviest output in 1924 as compared with 1923 came from the Mid-Continent field, which produced 375,579,000 barrels, an increase of 27,019,000 over 1923. It was the only field to show increase.

Production in California was greater than in any other state with 228,993,000 barrels, a decrease of 33,943,000 barrels under the previous year.

Oklahoma was second with 178,538,000 barrels, an increase of 12,069,000.

Production in Texas amounted to 134,522,000 barrels, an increase of 3,499,999 barrels.

Crude petroleum imports in 1924 amounted to 77,779,000 barrels, a decrease of 4,204,000 barrels under 1923. Of the 1924 total 73,979,000 barrels came from Mexico.

Petroleum exports were 17,973,000 barrels, an increase of 588,000 over 1923. Of this amount 10,992,000 were sent to Canada.

The department estimated the total value at the wells of the nation's 1924 petroleum output at $1,022,683,000, an increase of 44,253,000 over 1923. The average value per barrel of petroleum was $1.43 in 1924 and $1.34 in 1923.

Crude petroleum stocks at the end of 1924 aggregated 400,738,000 barrels, an increase of 26,226,000 over stock on hand at the close of 1923. Domestic consumption in 1924 was 747,516,000 barrels, an increase of 32,654,000. Of this amount 643,719,000 barrels were run to refinery stills, the remainder being chiefly used for fuel.

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SUNDAY, AUGUST 30, 1925.

STYLE SECTION

AUTUMN! And what a wealth of dash and style for Fall will be unfolded here.

The Record News is proud to present to its readers this style revue from the leading merchants of Wichita Falls.

Portrayed in this section is all that Dame Fashion has placed her stamp of approval on for Fall.

By JOE MAX
Cinderella Boot Shop.

Main streets of the smaller towns today are almost as up to date as the principal business thoroughfare of the larger cities, and Paris gowns, millinery, footwear and accessories are as much in demand in the rural districts as in Detroit or Chicago, according to the population of their respective cities.

Good paved and hard surfaced roads, the automobile and the leading authentic style publication such as Harper's Bazar, Vanity-Fair and Vogue going into thousands of homes each month has not only brought about a high standard of living but a keen and finer appreciation for style itself. And today Wichita Falls demands as much of the Paris aroma as any city its size anywhere.

Few Styles.

From a footwear standpoint the autumn and fall styles are few, that is especially from the standpoint of shoes for street, or general dress wear. Black shoes are predestined to be the favorite, and at the present time it is very hard to predict which of the black materials will be foremost, patents, satins and velvets, selling in equal proportion.

Simplicity is the keynote. Eighty-five per cent of the patterns sold today are pumps of the strapless variety. The elaboration coming via trimmings, in which buckles and embroidered stitching of birds, flowers, vines and leaves play an important part. Buckles of steel, rhinestone and buckles of galalith, the latter leading by a scant majority, because of the variety of colors in which they are produced, making it possible for milady to match, blend or harmonize a touch of color from the shoe accessories with her gown.

With black leading we look for them to continue doing so for another thirty days or forty-five days, then a gradual lightening color from brown to the new copper and autumn blonde and back to the light shades of early spring.

High Heels.

The heels, generally speaking, are high with the gradual inclination to high elevation. We do not believe that women will ever demand three to three and one-half inch heel, popular among a small minority of Europe's best. Two to two and one-fourth inches are very popular, being favored over the one and three-fourth inch heel of the past season. Block heel one and one-half inches high remains popular for street, afternoon party wear and for the school miss.

Natural Lines To Dominate Clothing For Men—J. S. Riggs

"Fall styles are to be very attractive, at least so far as men are concerned, thinks John S. Riggs, of Ludlam and Riggs, men's clothiers. "I think personally they are the most attractive set forth in several seasons," says Mr. Riggs.

"What are the chief characteristics of suits for fall? Natural, comfortable, easy-fitting body lines. Snugness sacross the hips. Coat shoulders not too broad. Sleevie-heads sometimes raised to lend that slenderness which young men like. Backs slightly figure-defending or boldly free-draping. Single breasted and double breasted coats, as preferred. Waistcoats collarless and fastening with five buttons. Trousers about 10½ to 20 inches at the knee and 17 to 18 inches at the bottom, according to preference.

Fall Wardrobe

"What is the correct fall wardrobe? It need be neither expensive nor extensive, but it should be broad enough to meet every definite need. The correct fall wardrobe (exclusive of top coat and evening dress) includes at least two business or lounge suits; at least two felt hats of different colors; at least eight shirts; at least a dozen pairs of socks; at least a dozen handkerchiefs and scarfs; at least two pairs of gloves and also of shoes.

Colors Stylish

"Show your colors this fall. Clothes have definitely swung away from the darksome and depressing effects of former days and ways when men wore white shirts and black scarfs, as though in solemn mourning. Color is life. Color is style. Color is character. Color is taste. Color is personality. Color permits a man to express dress a mere drab civilian uniform."

Scott May Launch New Steamer Line

HOUSTON, Aug. 29.—Reports are current here that W. B. Scott, former president of the Southern Pacific lines, is contemplating establishment of a steamship line to transport bananas from Nicaragua to Houston.

Asked about the project, Mr. Scott said he had nothing to announce at present on the subject but added that he had no intention of starting a steamship service within the near future. He said he was interested in Nicaraguayn bananas, however.

There have been several reports regarding the project of bringing bananas to Houston from the Latin American countries, but so far no regular line has been established. Early in the year the converted submarine chaser Deering brought back a cargo from Frontera, after an earlier effort had failed, but since then no other attempt has been made. It is understood there are two or three other interests looking into the matter.

FIRE TRUCK IS ADDED

Olney Department Doubles Its Capacity With New Machine and Pump.

OLNEY, Texas, Aug. 29.—The capacity of the Olney fire department was doubled last week with the addition of a Reo speed wagon, equipped with a 350-gallon pump and carrying space for 1,200 feet of high-pressure hose.

In addition to this, greater fire pressure has been provided by the water works which has just completed installation of a new 450-gallon Worthington pump.

Glowing Tints To Encase Milady's Limbs This Fall

Rainbow Colors Proving Popular in Newest Line Of Hosiery

By MRS. LILLYON COBB.

The ambitious little silk worm has been working overtime all this past summer in far away Japan to produce enough silk to supply milady's increased demands for this fall season. Through two little openings in the head of the silk worm, the worm secretes a fluid which hardens as soon as it is exposed to the air into a fie filament. This is unwound from the cocoons and several strands of it are combined to form silk thread.

Silk is graded similarly as cotton, there being a base grade and then several up the scale, as well as several below. All grades of silk cost the manufacturers different prices. Double extra crack is the term applied to the finest grade of silk obtainable.

Many Colors.

Style leaders in the hosiery marts of the country are bringing out for this fall wear, the most beautiful colors, tints and harmonies we have ever seen in silk stockings. You will be delighted with the new exquisite mauve, with its delicate suggestion of the lightest orchid, it blends so harmoniously with the new black slippers and is worn with any of the lighter costumes. Tea rose is as delicate as its name implies; with black slippers, and worn as a contrast to the costume, the wearer is dressed in the perfect vogue. Pine is the kiss shade. It is absolutely new and bids fair to be the among the biggest used shades for fall, harmonizing with any of milady's wardrobe. As the season comes on, we will find our old friend gunmetal, or cannon (the two being very much alike) coming back in vogue very strong. Mauve taupe, a trifle lighter shade with the soft rose tint hidden in its fine texture, bids fair to be the "runner-up" to the gunmetal and cannon. Gravel, sudan and champagne will still hold in high favor and be demanded by many smart dressed women, as will also the staple shades of beige, biscuit, maple cream and French nude. Autumn blonde will be demanded by many for its exquisite shadings ito the lighter tan shoes and will be a most popular color. The ultra-fashionable dressed woman, as well as the conservative stylist will find just what her costume demands, and how opportune for change in dress is the fact that so many beautiful shades of silk stockings can be worn with one costume; this gives more wear and service to milady's silk hosiery, and also enables her constantly to appear differently, and yet be dressed in the seasons' correct and newest vogue.

Jameson Takes Over Hood Tire Agency In This District

Earl Jameson, formerly with the Bradstreet company of this city, has secured the Hood tire contract for this territory and will occupy the building formerly used by the Pat Jarratt Tire company at 908 Ninth street. Camp Fire Girls In Work Meeting

The Tonskatawa Camp Fire girls, Mrs. T. N. Colligan, guardian, met at camp fire headquarters for an all day meeting. The members began work on the scrap books they are making for children at Day Nursery.

Evelyn Harris, Beulah Nell Ray, and Burton Wilson prepared and served lunch to Edith Long and Mary Hyatt, two new members, and Virginia Wilson, Mildred Robinson, Nadine Loafbourrow, Kathleen Colligan, Eunice Somerville, Dorothy Somerville and Therresa Kauffman, Mrs. T. N. Colligan and Miss Mary McIlheran, local executice.

The next meeting of group will be a ceremonial at home of guardian, 1309 Taylor street, Friday, Sept. 4.

Olney Girl Will Be Sept. Bride

OLNEY, Texas, Aug. 29.—Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Winnie Dees, a popular member of the young set, and Henry Craig, also of this city, early in September, was made here this week at a party given the bride-elect by Miss Verna Bluett and Mrs. L. B. Wilborn. The announcement party was held at Mrs. Wilborn's home and was attended by a number of intimate friends of Miss Dees.

A miniature wedding scene was enacted, after which the honoree was presented with a number of attractive and useful gifts.

Those attending the function included Mesdames George Hamilton, F. Robertson, Henry Harris, S. O. Callnhan, Charles Hunt, Arthur Gray and Misses Mae Cozart and Lois Wilson.

Deer Hunting On Streets Of Waco

WACO.—Deer hunting on the streets of Waco: Patrolmen Joe Dillard and Lee tried today with the hoodlum wagon and a rope, when half a dozen telephone calls came in to the city hall about mid-afternoon, about a deer which had escaped from the cotton palace zoo and was running wild over town, disrupting traffic. After tearing around town in the hoodlum wagon for an hour, the officers caught sight of the door doubling back down north Fifth Street, pursued it into a building excavation and Lee roped it. The wild little animal, now the protege of the city, fared ill in its first encounter with traffic. It was much scarred up with one born broken and bleeding.

SPORT APPAREL HAS IMPORTANT STYLES PLACE

Coat Frock a Popular Garment for Fall Wardrobe

Sports have come to mean so much a part of American life that sports apparel is nowadays an essential and important part of the feminine wardrobe, as well as that of the man. Among the popular phases of the sports costume as shown by the fall styles of the Perkins-Timberlake company is the coat frock.

This is presented in many interesting interpretations, some of which introduce the vestee or gilet in white or a contrasting color. A smart touch is injected in the neckline of the gilet or vestee by an adroitly tied high collar or scarf treatment.

Knife pleating is conspicuously endorsed in skirts—appearing in front apron effects, in narrow panels at the sides, or simultaneously at side fronts and side backs.

In every type of sports dress, the belt is conspicuous, except in the coat frock. Flares and pleats are noted in a variety of treatments, quite as profusely as on other types of garments. Style features included yoked tops, bolero effects, long fitted or peasant sleeves, and a wide diversity of collars and pockets.

Colors for Wear.

Fabrics for sports use are essentially colorful and decorative, being typically represented by tapestry tweed, covert, rep, English cricket cloth, cashmere, kasha and jersey. Lacish embroidery, borders of every description, plaids and stripes are staunchly endorsed.

A combination of flannel and jersey has been introduced in a two-piece frock, the jumper being of gray jersey, and the skirt of flannel. Another interesting version of the two-piece frock comprises a jumper of a bold plaided wool, and a skirt in solid color repeating the dominant shade of the plaid.

Another outstading feature on many sports frock is fine tucking, in all varieties of quilt effects, diagonal and bias treatments; so also are vari-colored wool and metal embroideries, fine suede and hand painting, in the trimming field.

Rust and tomato shades are going exceedingly well in the sports line, as also are all tones of brown and tan.

Double Breasted.

The double-breasted mode is prominent in sports coats. These are collared and cuffed with matching velvet, self-material or fur. The majority of topcoats for sports and travel wear accentuate the slim, straight-line silhouette, with now and then a shoulder flare. Travel coats of homespuns in large plaids, and tweeds in stripes and plaid and bordered patterns are being well sponsored.

As to knitwear, sweaters, of course, are the big item. The newest in these is the jacquard turtleneck type with hose to match. The sleeveless jacquard pull-over. V-necked, is also new and will no doubt be generally favored. Long knitted coats continue to be popular. The knitted evening coat has been introduced, especially suitable for wear to country club dances.

The chief characteristic of sports clothes in general is color-huge splotches of it. The range is as complete as it is delightful, embracing citron, gold, cranberry, pansy purple, sage and bottle green, pink and rose tones, yellows and ombre.

Velours, Felts To Be Popular For Fall Hat Styles

Fashion has decreed off-the-face hats as a radical change. Velours and felts are the most popular for street wear, but more dressy occasion calls for ensemble, which are of velvet and satin, and satin and pompadors, a novelty velvet. Paris count black as the most successful and best color in hats for the entire season. "Black," says Mrs. R. K. Henderson, manager of the millinery department of the Perkins-Timberlake stores, "will be worn to the extent of five to every other color." Mrs. Henderson has just recently returned from an eastern buying trip and is well informed on the subject. Colors, however, to the taste, good in millinery, are pencil blue, copper lustre, alpine green, lettuce green, oakwood, jay blue and black prince. For more formal occasions metallics and flower-trimmed hats are up-to-date, with a hint that ostrich will play her part in beautiful displayal. Novelties, however, are leading in combinations of colors, for the present.

WELL CHOSEN SHOES ADDS TO SMARTNESS

Shoe Expert Says it Is Most Important Feature Of Apparel

By H. F. SANDERFORD.

Footwear judiciously selected adds more to the smartness of the fall dress or suit than any part of the wearing apparel.

In general the styles for the coming season are plainer and more refined than ever before. Designers have effected a distinct departure from the gaudy, dazzling designs of previous seasons. This affords milady an opportunity to plan her fall costume with more assurance of style correctness and to display her feminine style instinct in her selections. The Booterie has made an exhaustive study of ready-to-wear and millinery fashions as well as footwear modes and has intelligently assembled the correct materials and patterns in fine shoes and hosiery, and offers the following information on correct wear for street, afternoon, party and dance.

For Street Wear.

Black patent pumps and oxfords with straps or ties to be worn with sheer chiffon hose of gunmetal, slate, black, sudan and morille; Indian tan kid and calf pumps and oxfords, with Cuban box heels, matched with chiffon or sheer thread silk chiffon hose.

For Afternoon Wear.

Black satin pumps worn with beaded or cut steel buckles and dainty strap designs, black patent D'Orsay and regent opera pumps, plain or with cut steel buckles or throat ornaments, black velvet pumps with hand embroidered vamps to match special dress is also very new. The following shades of hose should be worn with black slippers; sandalwood, pansy, French nude, sudan and rose grey. Chestnut brown satin and light shades of brown kid in both pumps and straps should be matched or blended with the dress or hat. Spanish spike heels predominate for afternoon dress.

For Party and Dance.

Pumps in D'Orsay and regene opera effects with full spike heels are smartest. Silver kid, gold kid, white satin, gold and silver metal cloth and black satin with cut steel buckles or silver beading on throat or vamp are favored materials. With the exception of black satin party slippers should be self matched with hosiery. Black should be worn with hosiery of mauve, moonlight, apricot, flesh, cherup or tea rose unless perfectly matched with the evening gown.

Odd-Size Dept. At Perkins Gives A Needed Service

A new feature installed by the Perkins - Timberlake company and more popular than can be imagined by ordinary-sized people, is an exclusive section devoted to sizes for small women, where the little women can be pleased with the most up-to-date styles in their own side. To the extremes, and as hard to fit, ordinarily, is the special section devoted to larger women, carrying up-to-the-minute garments in stouts, medium stouts, short stouts, and all sizes for the women usually hard to fit out of regular stock. This feature is an unusual one that the store will perfect.

NOVELTY FOUND ON KIMBERLIN-SMITH BALCONY

New Quarters and Best Of Merchandise Displayed For Public

Stepping into the balcony of the new Kimberlin-Smith quarters at 918 Indiana, a pleasing spectacle is to either side. In beautiful new quarters of ivory with draperies of blue, Mrs. Mary Gross has a complete and elite assortment of the latest thing in hats. Mrs. Gross who has had her millinery department in the Kimberlin-Smith store for the last five years and who has heretofore been independent has now formed the Mary Gross company, by selling a half interest to Mrs. Ethel Goolsbee.

Good Looking Hats.

As usual Mrs. Gross has everything that is stylish and good looking in both small and large hats. The black, pirate shape hat was estimated by Mrs. Gross to be very stylish for the young ladies. She also mentioned the prominence of metallic trims. The ranking of the big hat is yet to be established, but it is here to stay. In the big eastern races women wearing small hats were considered and remarked upon as looking just the same, or all alike, therefore the feminine enthusiastes who do like such inconspicuousness raided the hat shops favoring large hats. This more made the large hat a demand and its popularity is not fickle but of a permanent liking.

Baby Shop.

Also in the balcony and of interest to young mothers is the baby shop of Mrs. Ike Marcus, who smiling stated, "I take care of all of the babies and boys and girls."

For the young sire and damselles the jockey caps are good. Bits of feather trim and ribbon are also required by miniature fashion. For the tiny miss, crepe de chine and georgette caps are pretty in peach, flesh, blue and white, with coats to match. For the younger school lassies and lads Mrs. Marcus has an assortment of youthful styles in kasha cloth, balbriggan, silks, crepes and jersey. She also has everything to please in kiddies boots and shoes.

The sunny front of the balcony is appropriately occupied by the beauty parlor of Mrs. E. B. McKee, a graduate of the E. Burnham school of Chicago.

In conjunction with the new quarters Mrs. McKee has installed new equipment. The main addition is the Sunaero hair drier, with the motto "Every day is sunshine day in our shop." This is indeed true because huge bay windows, and the situation at the front of the building make the shop an unusually sunny and airy one.

Goat and Baby Put To Sleep Two Days By Kiddies' Prank

MACOMB, Ill., Aug. 29.—(AP).—A goat and a baby are awake and well here today apparently unaffected by the influence of "sleeping tablets" administered by three mischevious youngsters.

Finding the tablets at home the three children powdered them and sprinkled the powder on watermelon rinds which they fed the goat. Shortly after the goat, on whose milk the six-months-old baby of Clarence Haley feeds, fell dead asleep and all next day the baby drowsed heavily.

Today the goat awoke after two days and two nights sleep and shook herself and the baby, wide awake and waiting for milk, took the cow's milk till the parents were sure the soporific effect of the boys' prank had entirely passed.

Nothing more serious resulted from the episode than a scare for two families and sound spankings for three youngsters.

Coal an Important European Factor

BERLIN.—Coal still rises in Europe as an important political factor, being involved in many of the political and economic negotiations between nations. Around it revolve many problems of industry, unemployment and diplomacy, with Germany, France, Poland, England and the Saar district all affected to a greater or less extent.

Recently coal proved the most important factor of a German-Polish controversy. Poland insists upon Germany taking a monthly allotment of 350,000 tons of Polish coal, whereas the German government has emphatically fixed the maximum of Polish coal imports at 100,000 tons.

The semi-official Deutsche Diplomatische Correspondenz pointed out recently the significance of coal as a political factor and cited how, in the economic negotiations between France and Germany that commodity had become the central object for consideration: how the problem of the Saar coal mines, the deliveries of war reparations coal, the growing importance of German coal in solving the acute iron ore problem of the Lorraine mines, and many other almilar developments all tended to place coal in the center of political discussions.

Our Footwear is designed to harmonize with the new garment styles for fall and winter. That's why you can be sure of securing the right footwear to match or contrast with your new apparel—new models from J. & T. Cousins and other makers.

Fashion Notes

Frocks, gowns and wraps for evening wear are bewitching, luxurious silks, gorgeous metal brocade and wonderful laces are employed in their modeling. Colors are brilliant.

—o—

Millinery keeps pace with the change of the garment silhouette. Crowns are low, following the contour of the head and with small soft brims, irregular in line. Velvets, ottoman and plush lead in millinery coverings. Trimmings are diverse and placed in many enhancing ways. Navy blue, brown, camelia red, Chinese blue, and purple are the best colors.

SUITS CROWDED OUT OF FAVOR IN FALL WEAR

Coat and Dress Season Seem to Have Been Settled

This is undoubtedly a coat and dress season with suits, tailored or otherwise, taking a back seat in popular favor.

At least this is the impression of the Perkins-Timberlake store experts who believe that dresses will be selected to harmonize with coats. Fine tailoring, however, is emphasized in both the coat and dress.

Ensembles differ this season in that the frocks to these costumes are developed in styles and types which make them independent of the coat shown with them, and yet harmonizing when both garments are worn together. Sometimes the relationship is only implied by a contrast of tones with a mere repetition of color in both pieces.

The cloth, velvet or silk coat is shown for most part with a slik dress. The cloth dress is more generally used in sports ensembles. At a style show recently held in New York, an interesting interpretation of the sports ensemble was offered in a coat of antelope, lined in striped cloth of which the dress was also made. The stripes ran diagonally, and as the costume was worn by a slight, youthful figure, it was indeed attractively striking.

The flare is not neglected in the ensemble, although in this type of costume straight lines are more generally adhered to. However, side and back fulness has been noted, and a flare developed from the shoulder.

Velvet is extensively used as a medium for developing entire garments, and is also used as trimming. Youthful ensembles are developed in long coats of cashmere duvetyn, combined with dresses of silk crepe or satin. These are brought out in brilliant reds and blues. In the tailored ensemble, the coat and dress are frequently both of tweed or homespun.

Ensemble coats in the majority are long. More formal models are fur-trimmed, with fitch, wolf and fox much in evidence. Fur on the hemline is not generally used, being confined to the collar.

Dresses of ensemble models are one and two-piece types. If two-piece, the blouse is usually hip-length. Flares and pleats are prominent.

Coats.

Flares predominate in the coat silhoutte. Fulness is achieved in a variety of ways—by the back flare with straight-cut front section—by pleats, usually used in connection with tailored styles—by side fulness, which is generally seen in conjunction with the high waistline and fitted shaping. The short flare is often coupled with a deep fur border.

Variations of the flare show fulness at the front sides and back. Goers which widen to a circulaar line below the knee introduce fulness in some models, while others use egodets and fur flounces. Finely pleated sections are sometimes inserted in dressy models. One of the latter type which I have particularly in mind shows a section that drops from an Empire yoke to the knees, the looseness of the section being offset by the trimly belted straight body of the coat. Deep pleats are also in evidence, introduced at the sides.

Straight-line coats, however, will still continue to be popular, and coats are still adjusted in wrapped fashion, despite flared treatments, which serves to retain the impression of slim lines.

Collars are developed in a variety of ways. There is the new Queen Anne collar, shaped to frame the throat in a semi-standing fashion; the full length stole collar of fur; shawl and standing collars, all of which are popular. Some coats feature detachable fur collars.

Colors favored for fall coats are the youthful red shades; brown, green and gray tones. Green is very good, and is used in several tints—in dark beetle and hunter shades—lighter green tones often tinged with yellow; green of the olive cast; and green in peacock tones. Gray is used in conjunction with tailored lines. It blends beautifully with kimmer and the new goat fur.

Then there is a decided trend to burgundy purple, red browns, plum shades, cranberry and royal blue. Black, of course, will always be worn, and it is best when developed in silk mediums.

Trimmings of fur, embroidery and velvet are much used. In this connection there has been a lavish use of long-haired furs. In the short-haired furs, recksable, civet cat, mole, natural goat, mink, baum martin, squirrel, krimmer, fitch and skunk—especially the South American skunk of a rusty brown shade, more intense in color than red fox—have been widely adopted to embellish cloth coats. Paris approves a rust blend in furs, and many are dyed this shade. Individuality in fur trimming is achieved by such effects as metal-brushed skunk, and stenciled squirrel and gazelle. Fur lining is for the most part used in coats of roomy, wrappy type, and is a luxurious features of the ultra-smart coat.

Combinations of furs are being widely adopted. One smart model effects collar and cuffs of beige nutria edged in matching fox; another model a band of black long-haired fur on a border of blue gray squirrel.

Some coats effect only fur collar and cuffs; others have elaborate borders, which include horizontal bands of great width, as well as plaques, slabs and panels that run up the length of the coat.

Handkerchiefs Form Dazzling Display Of Colored Fabrics

Handkerchiefs on display at Perkins-Timberlake are enough to dazzle ones eyes because of their remarkable and beautiful colors and their dainty weave. Hand made handkerchiefs from Switzerland and France, daintily feminine, in unusual and high shades, add to the tone of fall costumery.

Fashions

Chadda check, a soft cashmere-like wool in subued checks; rep cord, a mottled hard surfaced wool; charmeen, a favorite of last year, carried over; polo cloth, a brand new, finely but loosely woven wool; Scotch heather, also new—a vaguely mottled jersey; wool jersey, very good, tropical worsteds, new mannish fabrics—the materials used in men's spring suits; cashmere jacquard, a cashmere in a figured ombre effect; drop de san, a covert-cloth-like material; camillion plaid, a shaded plaid with long hairs; aurora novelle, a cashmere-like wool in ombre effect; striped charmeen, charmeen in a new patterns; maureque ombre, a lovely shaded cashmere; English huddersfield tweed, a mannish patterned tweed; herebone, a herringbone-like wool; covert cloth, a strong renaissance of the old favorite; lorelaine, a hard-surfaced twill-like fabric; and mirroleen, a silk-like finish wool.

Trimmings

The main, fore-most and most popular trimming is fur. From high shades, to sober tone, and of any width. Good. Next in rank to fur are the French novelty metal ribbons, in all combinations and contrasting colors. Narrow widths are used mainly for sewed trimmings, but a wider ribbon may be used for sashes.

A Store's Desire To Serve!

The most important factor in a store's success is measured by it's desire to be of some real service to its customers, friends and community. The greatest of our ambitions since the establishment of W. B. McClurkan & Company of Wichita Falls in 1906, has been to render an honest personal service to each customer of this store, when we consider and honor as a Guest in Our Home.

Greater Plans for the Future!

Rendering the standard of service which we wish, demands that more complete stocks and greater space be available to each department throughout the store. To accomplish these ends, additions are now in process of completion that will double the floor space available, allowing us to reach somewhat nearer the ideal service which we strive continually to render.

New Fall Styles

APPEALING especially to the discriminating buyer who chooses with assurance, that her selection will be approved as the season advances. McClurkan's announces a complete readiness in all that's new in apparel for fall.

New Dresses of Silks

Those who demand and admire the whims of Fashion will be enthused at the fickleness present season silhouettes display. Forgetting entirely the lines of past seasons, Fashion has created for Fall frocks distinctive of the New Season, depending chiefly upon long sleeves in many novelty effects and trimmings of metallic laces and embroidery, uneven hem lines of startling variety and materials of conspicuous quality—Priced from $18.75 up to $89.75

New Coats

An exhibit of such extensiveness that it may be said to portray each phase of the new coat mode in wide and interesting variety, invites your inspection and assures your approval.

Never was fur more advantageously used in the creation of smart coats than at present. It will be found here, there and most every where in unexpected visions of the Season's preference. Priced $29.75 to $197.50

New Dresses of Woolens

Deserving the position they are destined to fill in the wardrobe of Matron and Miss for school, business, sports and street wear, woolen dresses are shown in a variety well qualified to elicit the applause they will receive.

Princess effects with the flare bottom, so popular, are most prominent, though a definite tendency is noted toward the Spanish Bolero effects.

Heavy laces and embroidery of metals and bright colors embellish many of the smart dresses of Charmeene, Mirroleen, Charmova, Twill Bloom, Wool Canton in colors the season approves. Priced $29.75 to $95.00

Furs

Smart pelts of fur that add just the needed touch of completeness to the Ensemble, feature fine quality skins of Baum Martin, Hudson Bay Sable, Stone Martin, Platinum Fox, Peach Fox, Alaska Fox and Chestnut Fox.

Footwear

The tendency in Footwear favors conservative effects. A feature of the new season being the prominence accorded Black Satin or Patent Pumps with Spike Heels. Most prominent of the brown tones are Hazelwood and Woodland.

NEW STYLES ON SHELVES AT MONTGOMERY'S

Typically American Cuts Shown in Latest Fall Modes

By JEAN MONTGOMERY.
The Montgomery Company.

"American styles for American men; styles without the monocle, styles that owe no allegiance to foreign designing; styles that are purely and truly American"—that is the big thought in connection with men's styles for fall, according to Jean Montgomery of The Montgomery company.

"The typical American figure is distinct and different from that of our cousins across the sea," says Mr. Montgomery, which, of course, is due to the vigorous and energetic life we lead, contrasted with the more sedentary existence of the European. We are an athletic and outdoor nation. Beginning with the youth and his devotion to the great national game of baseball, through high school and college with his more strenuous participation in football, basketball and track, and on to his business life with its push and go, its diversions of tennis, golf and motoring—the typical American figure is moulded and developed.

Interpret Life.

"It is interesting to note," continues Mr. Montgomery, "how the styles for fall interpret the characteristics of American life, thought and action. Broad, vigorous shoulders, squarely and staunchly built, that suggest the American idea of tackling a job and seeing it through; a smooth, supple drape to trim fitting hips that typifies the lithe figure of young America; balanced, symmetrical lines which take their inspiration from the grace and agility, poise and self-confidence of American manhood at play or in business."

Commenting further on the origin and development of the American style idea in men's clothes for fall, Mr. Montgomery had the following to say:

"Perhaps your readers would be interested in taking a peek behind the scenes to see how these styles were actually created and developed.

Close Students.

"Designers of men's clothing are very close students of human nature—they must be. The styles they create are not mere fanciful ideas of the imagination but they are produced only after exhaustive study and research. And so it was with the American style idea in men's clothes for fall, originated by the House of Kuppenheimer, Chicago, one of the world's largest clothing manufacturers.

"The designing staff of this institution in its close observation of American life sensed the fact that the Anglomania wave in men's fashions had run its course. A close study of styles in Europe added further conviction to their belief that American designers were hiding their light under a bushel.

"In truth, England is not the directing genius of men's clothing. The product of American skill in style and production is far superior to that of England or any other country and it is so realized over there. They look to America as setting the standard in the production of men's clothing.

"While the aristocratic element of Europe is notably well-dressed, a comparison of European cities with those of Ameroca, clearly demonstrates the fact that America is a much better dressed nation.

"Then why should we look to Europe for style leadership? Why not give to American designing art the rightful place it has won through sheer merit? And why should American men, characteristically of an independent nature, wear styles of foreign flavor and thus take a secondary position in the matter of dress?

Typically American.

"The House of Kuppenheimer felt that the need was great and that the time had come for the creation of styles which proudly proclaim the fact that they are truly and typically American, styles that borrow nothing from the European.

"As the great artist studies the subject to be portrayed on canvas, designers in creating true American styles have studied the lines, the form, the action of representative American manhood. They have taken their inspiration from such men as Red Grange, Joie Ray, Will Rogers, Douglas Fairbanks, William Tilden and others who represent characteristic phases of our national life. A study of the fall styles will show how the American idea has been brought out in every line and contour.

"Prominent men throughout the industry have enthusiastically acclaimed the movement, noted editorial writers have lauded it and comments far and wide strongly indicate that the public will whole-heartedly welcome true American styles for American men—and expressions of opinion I have had from a number of our city's most prominent men show that Wichita Falls will be no exception."

Caillaux Coming To U. S. Next Month

PARIS, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Official announcement was made today that Finance Minister Calliaux will sail on the liner Paris, September 16, to initiate the debt funding negotiations with the United States. The remainder of the French mission is to follow either on September 19 or 23.

Popular New Modes Shown In Profusion at Big Store Here

Claude Milller, of Miller-Ferguson company, placed flare coats and circular and flared skirts with the new bolera, two-piece effect, foremost in the fashion decree, in an interview Saturday. Also he stated, very popular for sport and general wear are the two-piece balbriggan dresses which are in reality little sports suits, some of which are hand-painted, in all popular and favorite colors.

The newest thing in evening dresses, as displayed by a recent shipment, bring out the flares and circulars, also in the party and dance frocks, in hand-painted and rhinestone effects. Imported beaded chiffons are beautiful in pastel shades in odd and pretty designs.

Different Coats.

Coats, which will soon fill every feminine mind and raise a question, are good in crackle-top trimmed in squirrel and beaver of burgundy, and needle-point and dove bloom. Zenia red is also of prominence in color for youthful wearers, and old, Montibella cloth is very attractive trimmed with Hudson seal, squirrel, beaver and red fox.

Rather in the background because of the rush on outer apparel are the dainty lingerie displayals which are really dearer to the feminine heart. Pleasingly feminine are the new dance sets of the daintiest fabrics and most pastel shades, composed of step-ins, brassieres, and garters. Brassiere top step-ins are popular with the younger miss who doesn't like to bother with lots of clothes, and who delights in pretty dainty lingerie.

KRONER ON RISE

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 29.—(AP).—A sudden and violent rise in the Danish kroner led the government to call a meeting of the parliamentary currency council to discuss the whole currency question.

FIRST SHOWING for AUTUMN

THE Footwear styles for the new Fall season are plainer and more refined than ever before. Designers have affected a distinct departure from the gaudy, dazzling designs of previous seasons. This affords milady an opportunity to plan her fall costume with more assurance of style correctness and to display her feminine style instinct in her selections. The Booterie has made an exhaustive study of ready-to-wear and millinery fashions as well as footwear modes and has intelligently assembled the correct materials and patterns in fine shoes and hosiery and invites your inspection of the many new creations now on display. In the hosiery section will be found beautiful silken stockings to either match or contrast with new fall costume shades.

Quality Shoe Store

Here is a lovely creation of black velvet. The vamp is adorned with a dainty embroidered design of lavender. This model is also shown in patent with lavender kid inlay on the vamp.

Graceful and distinctive is this pattern of black satin trimmed in self material. It also may be had in chestnut brown satin with golden brown satin strippings, or if you prefer, black patent with washable kid linings.

FLARES WILL DOMINATE IN FORMAL GOWNS

Full Skirts to Command Wide Wear in Latest Fall Styles

Full skirts for fall, as shown by the Perkins-Timberlake company, are introduced by pleats in tailored dresses and flares in formal gowns. High collars, cape effects and scarf arrangements are all points of interest in the new made.

There is a general impression of elaboration in dresses, but this is more a matter of intricate styling than trimming detail, although trimmings have again come into their own. A few features that contribute to this effect are fuller skirts, long sleeves and the continued endorsement of high collars.

As to high collars, an intriguing detail is introduced by having them finished with a single scarf end. Evening gowns are sometimes accompanied by scarfs that tie in high collar fashion around the neck. Vestee treatments are much in evidence, and panels that finish in high collars that button up the front.

Cape effects, both in street and formal types, are frequently seen, with the one-sided cape a unique feature.

Silhouettes Prominent.

In spite of the prominence of the flare, the straightline silhouette has emphatically not been neglected, and will continue to have its staunch adherents. In this category, are costume types developed in navy twill or black satin with pastel colored slips; tubular models, always associated with beaded effects; and coat dresses in masculine versions of the tailored mode, developed in covert cloth or twill.

A trotteur frock retaining the straightline silhouette, introduces a new fabric called Louison, a combination of silk and wool, in which the silk threads are used to trace a fine pattern.

Elaborate fabrics, such as gold and silver cloth and brocades, are developed in straight-line gowns. A charming silver cloth model effects a generous bow at one side, giving a suggestion of the flare. Crystal beading and rose embroidery form a colorful border on the skirt.

Varied Flares.

There are any number of different versions of the flare. The back flare has come into prominence, either so subtly suggested as to be hardly noticeable, or used as a distinct feature.

In fact, in most of the new fall types, elaborate skirts are emphasized —flares, pleats, flounces and panels all come in for a generous share of attention.

Sleeves are long and generally tight fitting, although the peasant type is much used.

High colors are exploited in all types of gowns. Red is represented in an amazing assortment of shades, and green is certainly given a place in the sun. Gay and colorful embroideries, often showing an ultra-modern or futuristic trend, are extensively used both on tailored frocks and more formal interpretations.

Simple Idea Is Necessary For Women's Hats

By SARA FULLER
Cinderella Hat Shop.

Hats, whether tailored or dress types, still preserve the simple silhouette. So dictates Paris, that arbiter of Fashion.

Fall hats ar small, but shapes are more inclined to size than the small snug hat or last season. This is accomplished in many instances by a greater spread being given the small brim. There is quite a tendency for brims to flare up from the face, ont and up. Styles in general are much more wearable than formerly. Many middle-aged women have been sadly neglected by the milliner in the past. For instance, the little cloche hat is not so becoming to the matron, whereas the new off-the-face styles are far fore suited to her.

As in other sartorial fields, color is dominant in fall millinery. The lovely brown tones that blend so well with different furs will be much used, as will also dark red tones, with high colors stressed in velvets.

Velvet is emphasized as an outstanding fabric for the early season, with felts and velours making the more tailored type of hat. French milliners are quite extensively introducing the velvet and felt combination.

Crowns are a bit larger and higher than those of last season, and are plainer in effect.

Velours are going so well no doubt because of their soft, furry appearance which renders them extremely becoming to most faces. Felts and velours are particularly adaptable to interesting treatments in the way of cut-outs and appliques.

NEW CASE OF "SINJU"

Japanese Lovers Enter Suicide Pact, But Man Fails to Kill Self.

TOKYO.—Another case of "shinju" is attracting considerable attention in the Japenase newspapers. "Shinju" is a word meaning the double suicide of lovers whose future seems hopeless. In the recent tragedy the "man in the case" was Shintaro Kitazato, son and heir of Dr. Baron Kitazato, famous Japanese physician and investor. Young Kitazato did not succeed in his attempt to end his life, but the girl, a beautiful geisha, was found dead.

The body of Kitazato was discovered by a fisherman in Lake Chusenji with several gashes in the throat which later proved not to be serious. The would-be suicide told the police he had fallen in love with a geisha and that because he was already married they decided to commit "shinju." According to the young man, they tied themselves together and threw themselves into the deepest waters of the lake where the girl soon succumbed. Kitazato, however, decided at the last moment he did not wish to die and, struggling desperately, succeeded in untying himself from the geisha. He said he managed to swim to shallow water but when there, overcome with remorse and feeling that he was in duty bound to accomplish "shinju," he slashed his throat with a picket knife.

Jolesch-Thomas Experts See Patent Leather Shoes As Favorites For Fall

"Patent leather pumps in D'Orcy effects are going to be the 'thing' in women's shoes for this fall," says J. R. Wilson and F. F. Taylor of the Jolesch - Thomas Shoe company. "Buckles of metal, cut steel, with inserts of materials to match garments will be worn on most all of them. Satins will be popular, too, both in black and the shades of brown, and the buckles will be used on them, too.

Gunmetal Satin.

"A gunmetal satin with high heels and gray kid trimmed straps is expected to be one of the most popular of our offerings. Later in the winter a black velvet pump, or velvet and patent combination will be popular, while a silver patent leather pump with a flower effect inlaid on the buckle will be worn extensively. Iridescent patent leather and a bronze patent leather are two lines carried that will be very popular.

"Colored kids in autumn browns and Indian tans in either plains or strap pumps will be worn, too.

Some Modifications.

"The shape of women's shoes will show some modifications this fall. The toe is to be a trifle narrower and a bit longer, but not extreme in any sense of the word.

"Men's shoes show little departure from the past. Light tans with short broad lasts will lead the sales. We carry one novelty tan pigskin that will be liked by many.

"Attractive appearance is joined with durability in children's shoes this year. Elkskins are popular, with numerous trimmings and the like arranged to make a very neat shoe of the durable leather."

Accessories Give Wide Range In Color and Style

Oddities Found in Profusion in Stock Shown By Perkins-Timberlake

Necessary to the feminine wardrobe and minutely regarded and outlined in the fall modes are hosiery, gloves, bags, jewelry, perfumery and toilet goods.

R. M. Tittle, manager of the department at Perkins-Timberlake, under which fall these necessary items, remarks that short skirts have put chiffon hose in the most prominent place in the foreground of fashionable hosiery. Hose are not to be fancy this next season with the only exception made in some instances o fsport wear. Contrary to the usual idea of the feminine toilet to have her hose match her dress, the hose will be worn in the shade matching the temperament rather than the costume. The main shades are flesh, rose tints and light tans.

hort Gloves.

Short gloves of French import were good. Novelty cuffs, from the most dainty of handwork to embroidery in silk and contrasting colors, in ficelle, apricot and Vassar tan are elite. The plain gauntlet slip-on glove in kid will still be worn for sport wear.

To fitfully carry the vanity of the nation are the beautiful assortments of bags. For evening and dinner usage the French imported metal cloth bags set with stones with all color combinations are extremely popular. Also good for such use are the tapestry bags, which are designed with beautifully combined colors. For street wear the lizard skin leather bags are pretty in all shades, practical and popular. An attraction about the lizard skin bags is the fact that they can be washed in soap and water. Colors which are more desirable in bags are pansy, pencil blue, tans, browns and grays.

Antikue festoons lead the array of jewelry in novelty. Similar to the lavalier, but prettier in odd design, cut and stone. Bracelets and choker beds in high colors are still popular, along with the bobbed hair combs set with stones for flapper misses.

An unusual addition has been made to the toilet goods department of Perkins-Timberlake, now an agency of the Marie Earl preparatories. Only three other cities in Texas handle these toilet goods, not because of unpopularity, but because of their extremely high rank and their expensivness.

The Story of Marie Earle.

Marie Earle has devoted her life to the study of the proper care of the skin, and to the perfecting of preparations to preserve it. Her formulas, founded on the bedrock of scientific knowledge, she obtained from an uncle, a famous London skin specialist. The brilliant success of her Paris salon attracted many American visitors, among them some of our foremost social leaders, who finally persuaded her to open a headquarters in New York. Since then her vogue has grown enormously. Discriminating women appreciate the vast difference between ordinary commercial preparations, produced in bulk from cheap ingredients to sell, and the Marie Earle preparations, made in limited quantities from carefully selected materials, actually do restore beauty.

Carnation Bait Is Subtle Lure for Rats

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—(AP) The fragrant garden variety of carnations, used as bait, has proved far moreirristible than cheese to the rat population of the Hal. of Records and courthouse buildings here.

Discovery was made recentiy by L. C. Robinson, chief janitor of the two buildings, after several weeks of investigation, that rats have a liking for carnations. Through the use of the flowers as bait in traps large numbers of the rodents, which gradually were reducing hundreds of law and record books to a sad state of dilapidation, were exterminated.

Correct Clothes for College

Half the thrill of going away to college is in the clothes you wear. For the co-ed, and for the college man, no other one thing is quite so important as correct and attractive clothes in winning the admiration of the campus. Smart togs will number you immediately among the favorite "rushees," and will add a new zest even to the daily grind of study.

For Classes She Will Wear

For Shopping She Will Wear

For the Campus She Will Wear

For campus wear, her coat is a genuine Swansdown, natural color, soft and rich in fabric with a large collar and the new pointed cuffs of mountain sable. Her hat is woodbrown Austrian velour with basket weave crown, a Vogue model. Gloves are of caramel suede, with silk stitched cuffs; her shoes are golden brown kid with russet piping and strap, and her bag is a blonde envelope of pin seal with handkerchief of tan and blue crepe de chine, lace edged.

For Tea Time She Will Wear

Afternoon tea will find her gowned in a stunning black crepe satin flare model tied in front with a jeweled yoke in gay colors over silver net. Her feet will appear in dainty black satin high heeled pumps with bows outlined in cut steel beads.

(SOUTH WINDOW)

And for the German

For a dance frock, Miss Co-ed has chosen a wisteria crepe roumaine with the new back V neck finished with a French bow and long ties. The tunic, embroidered in pearls and rhinestones is edged in white fox, and a shoulder flower is of pansy velvet. Silver brocade, one strap slippers and silver chiffon hose match.

Her hat is a large velour in shades of wild aster and queen bird with a bunk of tiny colorful gardenias on the side.

The coat, of queen bird cashmere features the new flare, and is richly braided, with platinum fox fluffing around the neck, down the front and around the ripples of the hemline. Gloves of grey French kid have cuffs lined with gray ombre grosgrain shading to black velvet. The handkerchief she selected is oval, of lace edged georgette, and is hand painted in gold and dainty colors.

FRONT WINDOW

And "After the Ball"

Her "Treasure Chest"

Is a Wheary Wardola, "the trunk that rolls open," surfaced in polished blue and lined with grey and silver fittings, and was chosen to carry her smart wardrobe. Her accompanying case and hatbox match in black grain patent leather with bindings of walnut cow hide.

FRONT WINDOW

Yes, We Are Collegiate!

And His Suits Will Be

As the correct thing for campus wear, a Society Brand model, "The Row," a two-button, double breasted suit with the raised broad shoulder effect, the fitted back, snug hips and the peaked lapels. Tailored of Haddington, a fine diamond weave, it represents the last word in college togs. His hat is a Coolidge gray Crouft Knapp with fancy matched band, and his oxfords are from Bion F. Rynolds in black with the square toe.

Another suit is the "Langrock" three button from the line of "Clothes for College Men" with the full box back to the coat, and the wide straight trousers with 20-in. bottoms. One of the new brown cheviots with lines of gold and grey fashions this model which is worn with a Crofut Knapp light tan hat with matched striped band, and the new Yellowstone calf oxfords with the square Rolls-Royce toe.

When the Wind Sweeps Down—

The "Barclay," a Society Brand model, is his overcoat, broad of shoulder and wide of lapel, tailored of brown toned Warwickshire, a soft diamond weave fabric.

Burning the Midnight Oil

In pajamas of broadcloth with the new shawl collar in wide stripes and checks of gold or violet. The lounging robe is black and wine silk brocade with wine satin collar, cuffs and cord.

And for the Dressy Hops—

His tuxedo is the Society Brand Blackstone model with the easy fitting coat, low pockets and straight trousers. His hat is a Borsalino of soft silky black scratch felt, and crush model, with a glint of silver in the nap. Smart patent leathers complete the outfit.

For Campus Lounging

Comes his jergen from Scotland, house of McGregor, of soft brown chamois leather, with waistband and cuffs of knitted wool in diamond patterns of tan, blue and flame.

He Traveled Via "Wheary"

The Wheary Majestic, the utmost in a man's trunk, will carry his wardrobe to college, while his gladstone and bag will be of brown shark, leather lined.

"Flares" To Be Dominant In Ladies Wear

"A flare bottom skirt with the flare more accentuated behind than in front, is to be the predominant mode in women's clothing this fall and winter," says Mrs. Stella Mason, in charge of the W. B. McClurkan company ready-to-wear department. Mrs. Mason has just returned from a trip to New York to buy for her concern and is well qualified to talk on the newest things in women's ready-to-wear and women's clothing.

"Straight front possibly," Mrs. Mason says, "but the back must flare way out. This applies to coats as well as dresses. There is a noticeable tendency, too, to the princess effect, straight front and beltless. This will doubtless be very popular as the season advances.

"Also the 'balero jacket' is very similar to that worn in many Mexican costumes, is to be effected with both silk and woolen costumes, though possibly more popular with wool than with silk.

"Long sleeves will be very much in vogue. Street costumes will all be characterized by long, close fitting sleeves, and most of the dinner dresses even will have the same of some flimsy material. Trimming will be very popular on these.

Flannel for Sports.

"Crepes, crepe backed satins, cut velvets, velvet chenille in the silks, and mirror lean and charmeen in the wools are to be very popular materials for clothes. For sports garments flannels and balbriggan will be in demand.

"Cuckoo, Piranja, Epinard green, crayon blue, Bokara, and black will be good colors for dresses, too.

"Coats are going to be very attractive this fall. There will be straight line models with all-popular flare back, and some wrap styles. They will nearly all be fur-trimmed. Needlepoint, veloriana, Yolanda and the like will be used extensively, while tanager, cacique, cracklehead blue, cuckoo, black and queenbird will be popular colors."

TANS POPULAR IN WOMEN'S GOODS.

"Reversible satins and velvet chenille are to be the popular silks this fall and winter," says Miss Gladys Porter, in charge of women's dress goods at McClurkan's. "And as for colors just remember tans and shades of tans. Anything that has that light brown or its modifications for a predominant note will be all right this coming season," thinks Miss Porter.

And after she tell you that, Miss Porter will undo rolls of fine silks, of pretty woolens, endless varieties of them, seemingly for no other purpose than just to make your choice the harder.

Velvet chenille on crepe or chiffon will be very popular, she says, with the blues getting the best of the colors here, while the reversible satins and crepes, most of them something entirely new will be worn a great deal, even in the early fall.

In the tans and shades of tan there are firestone, oakcrest, sawdust, goldbrick, casserol, cork, snuff, stonebrown and Manzanita. Myrna flannel, Asia twill, Marcheta, Mirabelle flannel, any of these will be popular woolen fabrics, while metal glow, a hard finished worsted with a silk cord and a tendency to changeability in color will be worn a great deal.

Bengaline and faille will be popular dress materials, and here again, Miss Porter says, tans and shades of tans will prevail.

Fur trimmings are going to be very popular this fall, too, she says. White, black and brown reversible coney, reversible sable saxette, lynx thibetinne, squirreline, squirrelette, tan beaver tops and thibetine, any of these will be popular, while bright colored braids and embroidered net will be worn extensively also. All of these are carried in stock at McClurkan's.

LITTLE VARIETY IN WOMEN'S GLOVES.

"Kid gloves are just a variation of last year's gloves, short cuff with a pencil line touch to the coloring. The body of the glove will be tan or some variation of tan.

"The beaded bag will be 'worn' again. It is back in style in all of its glory, with a new novelty petitpoint to make it all the more attractive. Bracelets, beads, and the like are to be worn again, and earrings will be very popular.

PATENT LEATHERS IN WOMEN'S SHOES.

Patent leather pumps and brown and black satin pumps are to be very popular for women this fall, according to T. W. Crawford, manager of the shoe department of the W. B. McClurkan company. No oxfords will be worn, he says. Brown and lighter browns with a tendency toward tan will be an especially popular mode for satin shoes. Woodland brown is the name of a popular new color being shown at McClurkan's.

With men light tans with broad last and toe are the thing this fall. Wing tips will be popular with some, too, he says. The McClurkan company is featuring a "Junior College Special," a light "balloon shoe" with more than ordinary broad last and vamp. For the more conservative the old shoe can be found, with little variation from last year's modes.

MEN'S HATS TO BE MORE FORMAL.

"Men's hats are to be more formal this year. Men are getting away from the older slouch idea and for once roll brims and dignified single creased crowns are to be worn again," says W. D. Swint of the W. B. McClurkan men's furnishing department. "Light blue, dark blue and the shades of gray will be very popular," he says. "The blues and grays go well with almost any suit you buy, and this year as in the past will be the best colors."

McClurkan's has a large line of men's hats and caps on display now. Caps are to be either eight piece top or plain top, with light colors and loose weaves prevailing. The outdoor man will want his cap the salesmen think, but the tendency back east is away from their use. Scotch felts and velours may not even be seen this winter, and the straight brim hat worn last fall that is being seen with the coming of fall will disappear with the first overcoats.

Colors are the thing in shirts and ties. Flashy ties with a shirt a bit more sombre, but colorful, nevertheless will be quite the thing with the better dressed man. Blue shirts with heavy cords of white or another color will be worn extensively, Swint says. Men are getting away a bit from the white shirt. Stiff collar shirts with collars attached will be worn more with the approach of winter.

Stripes, plaids, checks, all of these will predominate in ties, with flashy colors the key note. Hose will be about the same, silk and silk woolen with French plaid designing in fancy colors the feature of the "just so."

Sweaters will be worn again. McClurkan's have something new in what they call a goose neck slipover. It is expected to be very popular in collegiate circles over the country. The neck folds up like a collar, and can be worn with a tie. Something else new and sure to be popular is the "lumberjack" sweater, built of loose knitted jersey with open button front and an elastic bottom. Both this and the goose-neck sweater will come in rather flashy colorful plaids. More sombre colors and designs for the more conservative can be had, of course.

In men's ready to wear the tendency is to discard the old box back coat and too loose fits and to accept instead, a wedge shape effect, broad shoulders, close fitting hips both in coat and in trousers, and loose pants legs, but not so loose, so to speak.

The biggest departure will be in the riddance of the extreme straight lines in the coat and the extreme bell bottom tronser. Trousers will still be big at the bottom but a large measure of the old "balloon" will be gone. The broad shoulders to the coat are an all important item. Grays, blues and novelty effects of those colors will be second to tans and shades of tan, this year.

Juveniles have a pretty assortment of clothing laid out for them. McClurkan's hasn't a juvenile suit in the house that does not come with at least one pair of long trousers. Most have them with two pair, but some have one pair of "shorts" and one pair of the longer ones. Woolen jersey cloth button-on suits in stripes and plaids will be very popular. These have an eton collar effect to be worn with either bow or four-in-hand tie. Sweaters to match big brother's lumberjack sweater will also be in demand.

What the Best Dressed Men of America and Europe Will Wear This Fall

By F. L. MERCER.
Manager Men's Clothing Department Perkins-Timberlake Company.

The entire style theme this fall is to give you height. The wider shoulders and lapels and the narrowness at the hips do it! Buttons are placed higher,—that helps too. The trousers are full over the hips and taper slightly to the shoes. Many double-breasted vests will be worn with single breasted coast and double breasted coats with single breasted vests. Every detail is intended to accentuate height.

The "Brackens"

The new colors to be featured this fall by Hart, Schaffner, and Marx are shades of the browns, sometimes favored the Brackens, grays and blues. A famous stylist took his inspiration for these fabrics from a mountainside in Scotland. It was covered with bracken, a fern that in the fall takes on a rich shade of brown. Men are breaking away from the dull monotony of other days. You have seen it in the brilliant neckwear and golf shoes. Antwerp blue and the bottle blues will be nothing newer than these I have mentioned.

The "Four Winds.

The single breasted "Four Winds" top coat will be a favorite in men's overcats. Stylish for clear days, warm for chilly days, dry for wet days, in all the new colors,—it will be one of the most popular garments among men this fall. There will be nothing smarter than the new double-breasted, three button, two to button, overcoat. Then those "up-town" will have ulsters for motoring, with their heavy warm collar, deep pockets and plenty of room, the very coat for the outdoor man.

The Popular Shirts.

Younger men will wear the attached collar shirt in darker patterns. Pleat shirts, with French laundered cuff and separate collar to match, in very loud pattern of a darked shade will also be worn. Soft shirts with separately laundered collars and soft cuffs in fancy tans lavenders, grays, and blues will be popular, too. There will of course, be the same demand for soft white shirts, with broadcloth to be the most popular fabric.

Men's Fall Hats.

In men's fall hats, Cinder, Pearls, Willow, Pine, with contrasting bands in plain colors will be the vogue for well dressed men. Fall hats have wider brims, measuring 2 1-2- 2 5-8-2 3-4 inches. There will be very few snap brims. Most all hats will have bound edges and must not be worn pulled down over the eyes.

Boys' Fall Clothing.

Four-piece suits, with coat, vest, one pair of knickers, golf style, and one pair of long trousers will be in demand among the young fellows. The same patterns and styles as prevail among their older brothers will be in vogue here, too. Caps for boys will be made in shades to match the new clothing. Coat sweaters are mostly in browns and tans and the same shades that the older men have.

Why Marry? If So, How? Questions On Marital Relations Answered For Record News Readers by Teacher

Dr. Charles D. Johnson, Head of Household Management Course in Baylor Tells Who Ought And Ought Not to Marry—And Why They Shouldn't

WACO, Tex., Aug. 29.—The same thing that would result in the production of freak or inferior potatoes, chickens, cattle and hogs is the cause of marital difficulties in hundreds of American homes today—the wrong people are married.

This is the statement of Dr. Charles D. Johnson of Baylor university, whose course in household management, the first in the south and the third in the United States, has attracted nation-wide attention. Dr. Johnson recently granted an exclusive interview to a staff correspondent of the Wichita Falls Record News in which he discussed, somewhat freely, the modern marriage problem.

Wrong Ones Marry.

"The greatest cause of marital unhappiness, and consequently divorce, is that the wrong people marry," Dr. Johnson began. "Men of the scientific world are careful to see that the right kind of potatoes are grafted together, and they are careful in their selection of breeding stock for chickens and hogs. We know which of these to mate. But when it comes to human beings, the highest form of life in the world, the wrong people are allowed to marry."

Dr. Johnson's now famous household administration course was instituted two years ago because, he says, "Baylor university had no course in which opportunity was offered for a study of the scientific nature of human beings which dealt with native mental capacity, personal racial and social characteristics and emotional attitudes which would form the basis for reasonable selection in marriage.

Other Studies.

"The purpose of the course was to study also the cultural values attaching to family life, such as house planning and decoration, selection and use of silver and scientific development of proper environmental conditions."

Incidentally, Dr. Johnson says that human beings should mate themselves for the cultural and not the instinctive attraction they hold for each other.

"The wife who wuold keep her husband happy, however, must not overlook the material necessities which go to make up a happy home and which contribute to a congenial, comfortable environment. She should know how to cook, if this is necessary in the individual case, just as she must know that pictures of dead ducks should not be placed over the dining room table," he said.

"What kind of folks should marry?" Dr. Johnson was asked.

"First," was the reply, "no two races should intermarry. This is not advisable (and most frequently it is impossible) because of the difference in traditions, habits and mental and emotional attitudes of the various races. In intermarriage, also, there is a tendency to produce a stock below the highest average of either of the races so wed.

People of different cultural levels should not marry. The king's daughter should not wed the duke's chauffeur. The theory that 'opposites attract' is untrue and unfounded. If there is any genuine attraction at all, it is only temporary.

Marry for Love.

"Love ought to be the basis of all marriages, but this love needs to be a reasonably based thing. In other words, many things must be taken into consideration to assure both contracting parties that their love for each other is genuine; that it is sensibly based; that married life for them is possible and practicable.

"Traditions should parallel. Religion and professions should be alike, or nearly alike. Women should not marry men to reform them. They cannot re-make men. They cannot, on a moment's notice to themselves, change habits and practices that have been forming over an entire lifetime, or for a long period of time. Women may be able to train down bad habits their husbands have, however.

"The silliest marriage in the world, and therefore the most dangerous to marital happiness is the 'love-at-first-sight' affair. A safe, sane marriage contract cannot possibly be drawn up in 10 minutes or a ten-day courtship," the professor says.

Old-Fashioned Home.

Dr. Johnson is in favor of an old-fashioned home, where the young people can live and have pleasures and privileges that the apartment house does not afford.

At this juncture Dr. Johnson told of taking his classes in household management to model homes in the city.

"But you did not mention apartment houses," the reporter said.

"We skipped the apartments," Dr. Johnson. "Apartment house life is going. This is especially true of the large apartments. It is unwise and anti-social for a whole colony of people to live under the same roof.

Dr. Johnsons course attracted so much attention in Texas that executives of the M-K-T railroad volunteered to send to Waco, for inspection by the class, a model Pullman car and a dining car. The cars were sent to Waco for the special benefit of the class of 65 girls taking the course last spring.

Old Fogey Ideas Holding Back Air Trade, Is Charge

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Col. William Mitchell, former head of the army air service, says an American super-airplane capable of a non-stop flight to Paris with a ton of explosives has been perfected, but government permission to test it has been withheld.

"The producers of this plane believe and I believe that the huge biplanes they have built are capable of flying to Peking with a single stop at Nome, Alaska. And this with a ton of explosives. The planes are ready. They will make 113 miles an hour for 60 hours. But we can't prove it unless the army and navy heads see fit to grant us permission. Old fogy ideas are holding back the inevitable."

SEEK TO BUY RAILROAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(AP).—The Pennsylvania railroad today applied to the interstate commerce commission for authority to acquire control of the Western Allagheny railroad by purchase of its capital stock.

Newly Invented Gun Disappears

BRIVE LA GALIARDE, France, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of a newly invented rapid-fire gun built on the lines of the Lewis gun. The weapon disappeared from the railroad depot here while in transit.

The gun, invented by the workmen of a Tulle arms factory, was being shipped to a proving ground for trials before a parliamentary commission prior to its adoption by the army.

FASHIONGRAMS

By Mrs. Augusta South Of the Parisian

Just Returned From New York's Fashion Centers

SUGGESTIONS for colors of the oncoming season are taken from birds which New York fashion dealers have taken from the Museum of Natural history. These were shown on a large easel wrapped in swatches of the blending shades, making a unique and artistic display. The tones are very soft and rich, due, no doubt, to the texture of the materials. They show neither suede nor pile fabrics this season, but the effect is similar, though many have an invisible diagonal background and a higher lustre than heretofore.

The smartest waistline is still just below the hipbone, although it keeps trying to creep up to where nature intended it.

For fall, the small velour hat promises to down the long supremacy of felt.

As if swollen with its own importance, the pouch bag grows larger as its popularity increases.

Necklines for fall are developing a new outlook, being high in the front and low in the back.

The dress mode for fall is less simple and less boyish than last year. Decorative embroidery, deft manipulation of fabrics, graceful godets and fluttering scarfs lend a decidedly feminine touch.

The Spanish shawl continues its popularity for evening wear—only this season its flowers may be painted as well as embroidered.

Many fall frocks are going to double their smartness by being two-piece, and of Balbriggan.

The new mode for fall and winter is all flares and fullness, although so deftly handled as to retain the slim silhouette.

For evening, gold and silver kid envelope bags add considerably to the chic of a costume.

Goodman Lawyers Charge Illegal Quizzing at Trial

DALLAS, Aug. 29.—Contending that W. J. B. Goodman, Haskell, Okla., militia captain and football star, was convicted here for the slaying of Charles Swinney, Dallas night watchman, on illegal questioning and hearsay testimony, defense attorneys filed a comprehensive amended motion for new trial. Judge C. A. Pippen, who tried the case, announced he would probably hear the motion next week. He indicated, however, that he might not act upon the motion until the trial of Joe Brown, also charged with murder in connection with Swinney's death. Brown's case is scheduled to go to trial before Judge Pippen Monday.

Goodman was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary last week.

It was set out in the petition today that illegal questions were asked by state's attorneys and that the hearsay testimony was introduced by Assistant District Attorney John [illegible]

Ultra-Smart Frocks From French Masters Offered By P. B. M. Here

By JOSEPHINE FISH.
P. B. M. Co.

The correct and the ultra-smart in frocks, dresses, ensembles, coats and hats as presented for discriminating women of Wichita Falls by P. B. M. Co. have their authority in the foremost French and American designers of the day. Expert American designers reflect truthfully the whims of famous Parisian originators such as Jenny, Chanel, Patou, Lanvin, Poiret, Marshall-Armand and Worth, and Wichita Falls shoppers are given the fashion only a few days from the Paris boulevards.

Milgrim, famous for Paris replicas, has sent the store a model of pansy faille rich with Mongol embroidery in fine gold. The Chinese influence is further felt in the long tight sleeves and the Oriental neckline. Another Milgrim is of black faille with Mongol embroidery in amethyst, and a tiny daisy design in white.

Other Models.

Louis Lustig, renowned for exclusive models, fosters the ensemble, the loveliest having a queen bird coat of carmina edged with silver fitch fur, with a dress of fuschia crepe. Another attractive ensemble is of sea swallow fortuna, the coat edged in Hudson blue fox, and the dress of mirroleen. The ensemble is accepted in fashion's highest circles as the proper street costume and afternoon frock.

Gershel creates delightful models for afternoon and street wear in satins and mirroleens. They are "different" and his favored colors are cedar, black and the new black prince shade.

Arthur Weiss sponsors the genteel street frock of cloth, and one of the most beautiful is of navy charmeen in jumper effect with circular skirt. A vest of white casha claims tiny white buttons, and the border of the jumper is richly braided and embroidered in white silk and gold.

For the dinner or dance is suggested a gown from Bab. The designer favors highly the use of gleaming metallic effects for evening. One model is of white chiffon with graceful flares, shimmering with silver lace and beads.

The smartest coat for sports or street is the genuine Swansdown garment of softest finest fabric. Colors are natural, beige and the warm brown tones, and models with fur utilized mountain sable, beaver and beige squirrel in luxurious effects.

Hats Match Frocks.

The millinery stock supplies a hat for every frock in the store, either in the exact shade, a harmonizing shade or in the proper contrast. This season, it is pointed out, colors are identical in silks, wools and all dress and hat fabrics.

Austrian velours, hatters plush and velvets lead the mode, and the newest shades are bois de rose, pencil blues, wood browns, terrapin and wild aster. Metallic effects are good and monkey fur, burnt peacock, hand embroidery and hand painted futuristic effects join to make the new hats "new." The pirate hat in typical Captain Kidd shape is attractive.

Exact copies in line, color and material of French models are carefully made by Warshauer, Rawak, Vogue, Knox, Laurel, DeMarinis, May Smith and Jardine who supply smart hats for P. B. M. Co.

$900 Loot in Bold Robbery Is Sought

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 29.—With one of two youths under arrest identified as the bandit who in a daylight robbery Friday robbed the safe of the Lone Star bakery, detectives Saturday began a search for the $900 loot with which he made off.

The suspect was identified by Miss Alice Peters, daughter of the owner of the bakery, as the youth she surprised ransacking the safe and who ran over her making his escape.

Both boys under arrest are said to have police records. One is 22 years old and the other 20.

SAY CONVICTS TURNED OUT TO "BOOTLEG"

Charge Federal Prisoners Given Temporary Leave By Officials

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Charges that federal prisoners confined in the Dade county jail have been released temporarily for the purpose of "bootlegging" have resulted in United States District Attorney W. M. Gober starting an investigation involving the sheriff, jailer and guard.

Prisoners convicted at the last term of the federal court in Miami were being allowed freedom and bootlegging privileges at night and confined in jail in the day time, Gober said reports to him indicated. Bribery of officials responsible for their confinement also were reported.

Released at Night.

"I was informed recently that two federal prisoners from Tampa who had been convicted in the federal court in Dade county last spring were being allowed privileges by the guards not accorded ordinary prisoners," said the district attorney.

"I requested the department of justice officials in Jacksonville to send a man to investigate the reports and the reports and the results of the investigation were startling."

Known Bootleggers.

The inquiry revealed that the prisoners were released from jail at night and were known to be engaged in bootlegging.

"We first started our investigation against the jail guards alone," he said, "but further developments led me to request the Jacksonville justice department office to include all jail officials responsible for the safety of the prisoners. This, of course, included the sheriff of Dade county.

The district attorney was called to Jacksonville tonight to confer with department of justice officials there about the case.

Persons from as far away as Santa Clara, Calif., have signed up for the trip. Denver, Colo., is well represeuted as well as Wellington, Kan., and many points in Texas.

Quarrel Over Tin Horn Ends Fatally

DURANT, Okla., Aug. 29.—(AP) Roy Jennings, 19, lay dead here today as the result of a quarrel that started over a dime tin horn.

Bryan county officers were looking for Cecil Kirby, 20, who is alleged to have fatally slashed Jennings with a pocket knife at a country dance here last night.

TANKERSLEY GETS BOND

Ex-City Collector of Fort Worth Accused in Shortage of Funds.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 29.—Bond of Albert Tankersley, former city assessor and collector of Fort Worth, accused of misapplication of city funds, was fixed at $6,000 this morning. He was indicted in connection with the alleged $60,000 municipal shortage, discovered by the new city manager upon his advent into office. The indictment against Tankersley alleges only a $3,000 misaplication, however.

A Beautiful Array of New Fall Styles

Are assembled at our store ready for your choosing. Here the style-interested woman will find glorious new ideas developed in wonderful materials of fascinating shades and designed in frocks and coats and all "the little things" she will wear with them.

THE DRESSES—

Silk and cloth models, new in fabric, new in line and distinctive in detail. Each type is a style success, the materials are excellent, and the workmanship is superior.

Colors—Raspberry, Snow Bird, Pencil Blue, Bakaraha, Cuckoo.

Materials—Satin Back Crepe, Crepe Roma, Cut Velvet, Frost Crepe, Charmeen Mirrorline. All show charming newness and are attractively priced from

THE COATS—

Seldom have fur and fabric blended so ably in coat fashions. But now, in skillful harmonizing combinations, each brings out the beauty of the other. There is a truly wonderful collection of the smartest types presented here and prices as attractive as these prevail throughout the entire display.

Colors—Golden Pheasant, Purple, Oxblood, Green, Lipstick, Grackle head, Black.

Materials—Pinpoint, Suede, Coruna, Needlepoint

GLOVES—

Colorful and decorated in clever and unusual ways, these gloves in the various styles fashion approves are exceptionally noteworthy for their true fitting qualities and attention to details.

PURSES—

Smart new purses and pouch bags to harmonize with each costume. Some are real French imports and fashion is impartial to size and kind—so we see a diversity of type in many leathers and silks.

BRACELETS—

These clever bracelets do much to add charm to Milady's costume. Colorful or modestly hued they are an accessory that is necessary to the chic ensemble.

Autumn Millinery

Women wishing to keep posted on the new will delight in the advanced millinery creations. They delineate a newness as refreshing as Autumn's brisk winds. Motifs of color and garniture and as pleasingly varied as the shapes.

Colors—Green, Purple, Blue Jay, Cuckoo, Black.

Materials—Velvet, Velour, Felt, Hatters' Plush. Reasonably priced from

$3.95 to $16.50

FURS—

There is nothing so smart and rich appearing than a fashionable neckpiece gracing one's neck. Then too, it gives the wanted comfort during the cool fall weather. Styles are many, as are the furs and the quality is fine.

HANKIES—

Dainty and colorful are the handkerchiefs that are an indespensable complement to the woman's fall costume. They are daintily edged and centered with filmy lace or plain and tailored.

BEADS—

The distinctly feminine note is prominent in jewelry for fall and these very delightful beads are the result. The season's favored colors may be matched, promising a rich harmony.

Fable of Hungry Fame-Seeker —By George Ade

Moral: It is almost impossible for a Drum Major to pass along Main street without being noticed.

Once there was a Greenie who borrowed some Tackle and went fishing off Catalina Island, hoping that he might get a Nibble from a Tuna. To those who never have seen a Tuna it may be imparted that this Marine Monster is a Minnow two sizes smaller than a Submarine. It is fully as long as a Freight car and if domesticated, could be used for towing Barges The Yap who rode back and forth across the dancing Waves, trolling an attractive Bait and begging the Fish to give him some Trade, was playing in rare Luck, because he never got a Strike. If he had, the poor Woofus would not have remained in the Boat.

On another Occasion a cheerful Imbecile polished up a dinky Rifle such as the Merry-Makers at Coney Island use in shooting at sheet-iron Ducks and other movable Targets. He put on a Boy Scout Uniform and went out into the Hills, hoping that he could scare up a Grizzly Bear. All day he scrambled around, kicking at the Underbrush and making Noises which were meant to insult the Bear and induce him to come out and put up a Battle. The Guardian Angels who fly over Cars driven by Women and protect the Patriot who buys Fireworks must have been on the Job that Day because the doubtless Nimrod never saw Hide or Hair of a Grizzly. That is why he lived to get back home and eat a hearty Supper.

It happened that a Young Man who thought he was, whereas he really wasn't, came into more sweet Currency than you could shovel with a Scoop Shovel in Three Months. One Night in a select Club, which has since been padlocked no less than three times, he found himself gazing at a hypnotic Brunette even as an English Sparrow might gaze at the beautiful but deadly Cobra.

He never before had seen so much Brunette packed into so few Clothes and he he knew that Life would not mean anything to him unless he could be near her, to inhale the 30 or 40 kinds of Perfumery she was using and have all the others Johns chewing their Wrist Watches in Envy.

This one made Pola Negri look like a Clegryman's Daughter. You could hear the Current crackling.

The yearning Child of Fortune tried to semaphore a few Signals to the dusky Queen and get her interested but she had no Line on the Bank Roll and did not like the Soft Shirt he wore with the Dinner Jacket, so she threw him about 1,500 feet into the Air and rode away into the Night with a big Sausage Man from the West.

For several Days the Sailors on his Yacht had to watch him to keep him from going overboard with the Anchor in his Arms, which would have been his only chance of sinking. He thought that he had been given a Dirty Deal, whereas he should have been singing at the Top of his Voice, for if little Rita Pozets, the undulating Vamp, had taken a real Fancy to him, it would have cost him over $600,000.

Poor Brakes Break Many a Man.

Two years ago a prominent Member of the Chamber of Commerce of Oklahoma City, Okla., was in Europe taking his first real Rest since the Syndicate in which he was interested struck the Gusher. He watched the wheel at Monte Carlo and, being quick at Figures and able to see right through any Proposition on the Jump, he felt almost sure that it would be a Cinch to win all the depreciated Currency and close the Dump.

He sat up for two Nights and wore out two Pencils doping a System which could not lose. He explained the Modus Operandi to his two Traveling Companions and said it was a Pipe if backed up by enough Coin, so as to keep on doubling. He wanted Bill and Bud to put in $50,000 apiece and let him go in and shoot up the Place, but they were Leery and said that the Suckers had already put up too many Buildings and laid out more Flower Beds than were needed. They were cold around the Ankles and devoid of Sporting Blood. There was Nothing Stirring and consequently all of the Boys are back home and living in comfortable Circumstances.

These Examples have been cited to prove that many a Chump who thinks that the Breaks are against him is really the favored and pampered Child of Destiny. Herbert J. Prangle, of whom we are compelled to write, was not so fortunate. He went fishing and the Tuna got him. While searching for the Grizzly he had the Tough Luck to wing one. When he smiled at the Beautiful Female she gave him a quivering Embrace and darn near smothered him. He found a Chance to play his System and after he got into the Game he learned that he couldn't escape.

All of the which are Figures of Speech. The Story is that Mr. Prangle, from the time he was in his Teens, had formed an aching Desire to be famous, notorious, acclaimed, celebrated and popular.

He wanted his Name on the Scroll, so that his Mother would be proud of him. Uncle Jason had always claimed that Herb had a broken Yolk and was all messed up inside of the Dome. He wanted to prove that he (Herb) belonged in the Hall of Fame instead of a Home for Collapsed Mentalities.

Looking the Part.

To look at Mr. Prangle, about the time he was eased out of College and began to ramble in the daisy-dotted Field of Literature, it never would have been suspected that he had this lurking Determination to Prove to the whole World that he was a Heller. He was skinny and wore powerful Glasses and had a bulging Head, like the large end of a Gourd. He was bashful in Company. Strangers often asked if he had passed through any Serious illness when quite Young. If an attractive Cutie gave him a couple of roguish Looks and began to ask him pert Questions, he yammered for a little While and then sank below the Horizon.

Who would have dared to predict that Herbert J. Prangle was planning to write Love Stories so sizzling that he would have to use Asbestos Paper? To look at him he was just as passionate as a Rubber Glove.

Even as the bloody Historical Romances are written by slender Maidens just out of Smith College and all that Free Verse about Nymphs dancing in the shadowy Wildwood is turned out by hardfaced old Grouches wearing Overshoes, and Advice to the Lore-Lorn comes from a Police Reporter, so it was inevitable that this Clam would write about having Bosoms and Clinging Kisses.

For a long Time the Immediate Friends and Relatives little suspected his Intentions. He kept on producing Manuscrips that were rejected with Thanks. They put up with his Delusions and kept him hidden away in a Cheerful Room where they would not have to look at him very often and consoled themselves with the Reflection that there is one Jinx in every large Family.

Then there came a Day when the Book Reviews all began to gibber and say that a new Light had appeared in the Heavens and it was Some Light. About 2000 Candle Power.

They agreed that Herbert J. Prangle, author of "Seared Souls," was indecent, audacious and salacious but a Master Analyst of all the Fundamental Emotions and a Genius with a large G.

All at once his apologetic Kin began running up and down the Streets asking everyone, "Have you read Herbert's new Book?"

Soon after the Volume had been barred from many Libaries and denounced from the Pulpit, and Hollywood was demanding the Picture Rights, and the Tremolo Sisters were camped on the Front Porch to interview the daring and devilish Author it is claimed that Herbert received, in one Day, no less than 100 Requests for Photographs and Autographs.

The Glare of the Limelight.

For a matter of Years he had waited and hoped for this Day to come. All through the toilsome Nights he had been sustained by an intrepid Belief that some Day the World would Simply have to recognize him. He felt within himself the Pulsations of True Greatness and he knew that, eventually, the Universe would vibrate in Sympathy.

Well, he began to get the Vibrations and they nearly ruined him. He suddenly discovered that One may not acquire one Portion of Fame without taking on about three Portions of cheap, low-down Notoriety. Herbert, the shrinking Violet, suddenly found himself in a Class with the Ford Joke, the Radio, the Statue of Liberty and Ziegfield's Follies. All the Farm Hands in Iowa were fully informed regarding his Peculiarities and Eccentrcites and blighted Love Affairs.

He found that he could not stir out of Doors without being trailed by a dozen Hussies in shameless Attire and sticky Rouge, known as Publicity. He learned, in a Hurry, that the Laurel Wreath had a lot of Thorns in it. Strangers crawled up the Fire-Escape to get a look at him in his own Room. The Public Prints were full of eviled References to his Checkered Career and it was whispered about, under Cover, that his tough Novel was really a Story of his Own Life.

Which was fairly hard on a harmless Boob who was just as pure as Rainwater.

If a distant Relation whom he never had seen, got into a Jam anywhere it always came out in the Dispatches that the accused Party was a Cousin of the well-known Novelist. This is known as Advertising.

Mr. Prangle received countless Invitations to address the Women and the Rotarians and the Free Thinkers but he could not generate sufficient Vocal Energy to make Himself heard to Himself. In fact, he couldn't do anything except sit in a Back Room and write on Paper. When the fierce Glare smote him he was scorched to a Cinder.

At present his unmarried sister has him up in the Woods, feeding him Glutten Biscuits and Milk.

Two Men Seriously Burned as Joker Ignites Benzine

DANSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP).—Two employes of the Power Specialty company were in the Dansville general hospital today with severe burns received when a "practical joker" tossed a lighted match into a pail of benzine in which the men were washing their hands. Their hands and arms were soverely burned. The joker was not held.

British Seamen In Africa on Strike

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Efforts to settle the strike of the British seamen thus far have been without result. The strike leaders say that the only way to end the difficulty is to pay seamen the old rate of wages until they reach their homes in England. They also demand the release of seamen arrested at Durban for participating in the strike.

Foreign vessels are busily at work at neighboring wharves loading maize and citrus, while British steamers are being delayed.

FINE PROGRAM FOR KIWANIANS

Texans and Oklahomans From 53 Clubs At Austin, Sept 7-8

The eighth annual convention of the Texas-Oklahoma district of International Kiwanis will be held at Austin, Texas, on September 7 and 8. Delegates and visitors from 53 clubs in these two states will be in attendance. Two special trains are being run out of Oklahoma, one from Muskogee carrying delegates from Eastern Oklahoma and one from Oklahoma City carrying western Oklahoma.

District Governor, Julian Bobo, of Wichita Falls, has announced the convention program, on which appear Raymond M. Crossman of Omaha, trustee of the international organization, who will represent the international body: Dr. W. M. W. Splawn, president of the University of Texas; Dick O. Terrell, San Antonio, past district governor; James L. Powell of Muskogee, immediate past governor, and Horace Hagan of Tulsa, past commander of the American Legion of Oklahoma.

As an entertainment feature the convention committee has brought to Austin Jules Brazil, internationally known Scotch entertainer and song leader. Brazil is a leader at all international conventions and will be a big feature at Austin.

2 KILLED BY HAIL

BELGRADE, Serbia, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Giant hailstones yesterday killed two persons and injured 60 others in the town of Starisivath during a tornado. The wind devastated the plain of Banat, uprooting trees and cutting off communications. The damage is estimated at many thousands of dollars. During the day another storm of extreme violence ravaged a part of Bosnia.

The Sunshine Release - By FANNIE HURST

Copyright, 1925, by
The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummux", "Humoresque"

On Mary Eddinger's shoulders, with their curious capacity to remain white and plump, rested the tyranny of bad crops and notes falling due, frost-bitten orchards and hush money for a wild young brother's scandalous proceedings.

Mary looked so untouched. There was no writing on her face except the amiable sweetness that kept it round and plump.

Yet Mary had never known what it was to be young.

And just when things were at their worst for Mary and the ill-starred Eddinger family, the moving-picture company that was handling her decided to star her in a series of pictures called "The Sunshine Release."

THERE never was a time in the life of Mary Eddinger when she could say that she felt, in the true, glowing sense of the word, young. It always seemed to her, even when the sheen of youth was most luminously on her, that somewhere behind the yellowness of curls and the blueness of eyes, there must lurk a little old face as weazened with years as she felt.

You could not, from your fourteenth year, have been the nucleus of that little Kansas household, as Mary had been, and not feel at least spiritually weazened.

On Mary's shoulders, with their curious capacity to remain white and plump, ever since she could remember had rested the tyranny of bad-crops and notes-falling-due and hoof-and-mouth-disease and frost-bitten-orchards and broken-reaping-machines and hush-money for a wild young brother's scandalous proceedings.

By the time she was seventeen, the household had learned that it could lean on Mary. Her mother, with her tired gray pug of hair twisted on top her head, knew she could lean on Mary; sighed for the strain on Mary's youth and loveliness and leaned all the more. Her father, who grew more shame-faced with failure as the years moved on, set in his corner and puffed at his Meerschaum—and leaned. Marshall, who was two years Mary's senior and, his first year in State Agricultural School, got himself into a scrap that had cost all the hush-money, wrote home regularly now that the matter was adjusted, letters which invariably began: "Dear Sis: Can you let me have——"

But on Mary's eighteenth birthday, ironically enough, the "one-hoss shay" of the Eddinger household fell literally apart. With all of Mary's connivings in that pretty yellow head of hers which showed so little of the ache and strains behind it, the proverbial hard-hearted village tight-wad claimed his mortgage rights. After years of fighting with the rangy farm-land, the Eddingers lost their holdings.

The morning of Mary's eighteenth birthday, the three of them, and Marshall off at Agricultural School, woke up, literally without a roof over their heads.

The old man sat in the corner and puffed his Meerschaum. Mary's mother opened her dry lips and closed them, after the manner of a fly trap. There were no tears, there was not even any talk. The Eddingers were at the end of their rope. That is, Mary was at the end of her rope. Almost.

The actual end of the rope was the family's 1925 model, seven-passenger car that Mary, with her miracle of managership by trading in the 1918 model, selling off a rusty old reaping machine and stacking her butter, egg and broiler money, had managed to eke out of last year's crop-failure season.

It was around that seven-passenger 1925 model that Mary's decision of desperation centered.

On two or three occasions people had said to Mary, "Why, child, you don't get a day older. You look fourteen. You ought to be a movie star." From such acorns of incident, did Mary's oak tree of a decision grow.

Two weeks later, with Marshall home from Agricultural School, four railroad tickets in her little handbag and $324.00 left from the sale of the seven-passenger sedan, the Eddinger family boarded a tourist special for Hollywood.

Well, the miracle that is almost an every-day occurrence in Hollywood, happened. Mary, with her yellow hair and her look of babe-about-to-be-surprised-by-the-moon, and the Mediterranean blue of her eyes, and the burn of Kansas pink in her cheeks, struck the fancy of about the fourth casting director who clapped eyes on her.

Mary was vacuously pretty enough to strike the fancy of a director who reasoned that the composite intelligence of an average audience was about fourteen years of age.

Mary looked so untouched. There was no writing in her face, except the amiable sweetness that kept it round and pink.

The second month that the Eddingers were in Hollywood, Mary was playing a part in a picture, wearing blue and white checkered rompers, pink socks half way up her legs, Buster Brown slippers and her yellow curls, that in Kansas she had need to braid tight to keep them from jumping about her face, bobbing now to the merry salary of $100.00 a week. Mary had her picture in the paper as a new and talented little ingenue discovered by Director Lewin. Mary had professional pictures taken and signed them "yours ever so sincerely, Marion Duval."

The end of the third month of Mary's stay in Hollywood, the Eddinger family was living in a little Egyptian bungalow with Italian trimming and a Spanish patio, one of those typical marshmallow-filling-looking little affairs that hang on the clay flanks of Southern California.

The Eddingers had never been so well off in their lives.

The little god-of-all-things-as-they-ought-to-be must have held his fat sides with the laughter of satisfaction.

And then didn't this go and happen! The old man, in a state of sheer groggy satisfaction that must have resulted from basking in the sun and eating good food, fell down the side of the cliff on which bordered the cream puff of a bungalow, and, horribly enough, broke his back.

Month after month old man Eddinger, in a plaster cast that made him a wretched mummy, lay moaning in an agony which not even Mary, in the hours she sat by his cot, could assuage. Mrs. Eddinger, who had been revelling in the first creature comforts she had ever known in her life! It was pathetic to see her go out like a lamp. Mary, who loved her, used to cry sometimes as much with the pathos of that as seeing her horny old father tortured there on his back.

And yet, in what poor solace they could ring out of the situation, Mary and her mother, sitting outside of an evening to watch the matchless California sun dip into its horizon, used to argue that at least it might have been worse. There was money for doctor bills. In Kansas there might not have been.

Meanwhile, by a stroke of fortune that at least served in part to counteract the family calumny, Mary was given the leading role in a picture called "Amy-Loo—A story of curls and nonsense and a tom-girl who would not grow up."

The tom-girl was Mary. Cast for the role because of her youth; her irrepressible youth and the undefiled; the untouched prettiness of her face and the curls that shook so. Then this happened. . . .

Poor Mary, if it hadn't been really tragic it would have been funny. The insistence of Fate sticking its finger into the pie of any possible Eddinger complacency.

Young Marshall, with certain proclivities that had already asserted themselves, expensively for Mary, completely lost his head in this land of make believe, the sixth month the Eddingers were out there, in an escapade that caused the whole community to share innocently in the aura of notoriety bound to result from a happening of this kind, and brought down complete calamity upon the little household.

For a while it actually looked as if young Marshall would go to prison. Worse than that, the old man, lying whimpering on his back, had got wind of it. It was as if Mother Eddinger, with the poor tired pug of her iron-gray hair slopping sidewise on her head, had simply not the strength to fight further. All day in her room she lay prostrate, to the whimpering and the anger of the old man, the sulking of Marshall, frightened, ashamed, in his room, and the comings and goings of Mary, darting home when she could from the long and exacting studio days.

In the end, and by actual mortgaging of her next two years' income, Mary saved Marshall from prison. Later, and for the two full years before he died, the old man was even able to sit up and expand in the last sunlit moments of a life that had been singularly devoid of them.

The old woman somehow never quite came back from the shock. There was something a little simple about Mother Eddinger, sitting there day after day in the corner of her room, looking out yet not quite daring to venture out, except to the wheedling and the coaxing and the sweetness of Mary.

It was about this time that, because of her youth and her apparent untouched prettiness, her air of irresponsibility, the merriment in her blue eyes and her buoyant, glad manner, her company decided to star Mary in a series of pictures called "The Sunshine Release."

$10

Cash Payment Buys a Lot Hill Crest Addition

$10

Per Month Pays For a Lot in Hill Crest Addition

Hillcrest Addition Lots

Are Selling Fast!

At $250 to $350 Per Lot They Won't Last Long

BUY HILLCREST LOTS

in advance of development and you are certain to profit. Hillcrest is in the direct and immediate path of the city's expansion. Take advantage of this opportunity. Nowhere in Wichita Falls will you find more attractive, low priced home sites. Nowhere in Wichita Falls will you find an investment with more logical reason for rapid increase in value than these lots in Hillcrest. And remember the low prices of $250 to $350 per lot, with extraordinarily reasonable terms of $10 cash and $10 per month, with 5% discount for all cash. At these prices and terms, there is certainly no sounder investment.

WICHITA FALLS

will never cease to grow and expand. You have only to drive over the city and open your eyes and see the transformation and expansion that is now going on. Property in and around Wichita Falls has steadily increased with amazing rapidity. Those who have looked forward with confidence toward the future, have constantly profited, and the greatest profit on the least investment has been, and will continue to be from purchases of low priced lots in a district such as Hillcrest, which is certain to develop rapidly.

LOCATION

Holliday street is soon to be paved south from Tenth street, and this paving will serve Hillcrest Addition which adjoins Holliday street on the east. This paved highway will continue on to the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, the Municipal club and the Weeks' City Park, and then on to Lake Wichita, where it will connect with the old Lake Wichita highway. The contract for this paving has been let, and should be completed within a few months, as the actual work on the paving has already started. The travel on this highway will probably be greater than any highway leading from the city.

HILLCREST IS NOT RESTRICTED and the purchasers of lots in this addition will own them with no strings tied to them. While a greater portion of these lots will probably be sold to thrifty people who want to own medium priced homes close to the business portion of the city, this will not necessarily mean a cheap addition, as the greater portions of it is elevated above the city and overlooks the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. Sound thinkers and investors quickly grasp the opportunity of an addition situated as Hillcrest. It is a well known fact that in all large cities, the finest and most valuable residence property is located in the County club districts. The possibilities of Hillcrest, on account of its location, will cause it to develop into a higher class residence district, than the price of these lots would suggest. Act now. Remember these low prices. Those who purchase now will receive the profits.

UNDERPRICED

$1,000 will be the value of every lot in Hillcrest within a short while, and you do not need extra vision or foresight to see this. All you have to do is to see these lots and know the facts. The paving of Holliday street south from Tenth street and the highway by both Country club and to Lake Wichita is not a dream, but the actual work of paving Holliday street is now being done, and Hillcrest borders on Holliday street, eight blocks of it on the pavement, and when you know these facts and realize how close to the business section this addition is, you can readily see that "these lots are almost a gift." You owe it to yourself to investigate Hillcrest.

When you own a piece of earth, you own something that cannot be taken away from you. When you have it paid for you have something worth while.

This addition will be built up rapidly. I have already sold several lots on which nice modest homes will be built, some of which are now under construction.

PENDING EVENTS

suggest that profits made by the original buyers in Hillcrest during the next 12 months will be the greatest in the subdivision history of Wichita Falls during a like period. Many who realize this are taking advantage of today's prices. This demand threatens to far exceed the available supply. That means higher prices and greater returns to those who buy now.

AGAIN I REPEAT

Buy Hillcrest lots while you can get your choice. A purchase of one or more of these lots is the best and surest investment for profit making in this city.

TO REACH HILLCREST

drive south from Tenth street on Holliday, or call at my office or phone me. I will be glad to show you this addition.

Unfaithful Wife Swings Hammer At Her Husband's Head

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 29.—Being the master of one's home becomes now reached the point of being dangerous, if the experience of an "irate husband" is an example.

Remindful of the day when a man was within his rights when he found an unfaithful spouse, a young San Antonio husband tried to assert himself when he found his wife out driving with another man.

"Things ain't what they used to be," the husband said, breathing a sigh of relief, after his wife had been placed in jail.

Instead of being duly submissive the wife rushed in to a restaurant, got a hammer and started after her mate.

BROOKHART HOLDS LEAD.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—With only two counties remaining to be tabulated Daniel F. Steck's net gain in the senate recount of the Iowa senatorial returns stood today at 927 if both contested and uncontested ballots are held valid.

REVOLT IN MANAGUA.

SAN JUAN DEL SUR, Nicaragua, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Advices from Managua, the capital, reported Luis Rivas, governor of Managua, has seized Tiscapa fortress and refuses to obey the government. Dr. Ramony Reyes, minister of finance, is said to have been arrested.

There has been no communication with the capital since early this morning.

Ten Men in Race For LaFollette's Post

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Ten candidates were entered in the race for the unexpired term of the late Senator LaFollette today. They included six who will try their chances in the primary September 15 and four who will pass up the primary and run as independents in the special election September 29.

The republicans will have four candidates in the primary. They are Roy P. Wilcox, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., former Governor Francis F. McGovern and Daniel Woodward.

Beverages With High Alcoholic Content Permitted by Russia.

MOSCOW, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Manufacture of liquors containing 60 per cent of alcohol and vodka of 40 per cent will be permitted in soviet Russia from October 1 under a decision reached by the general executive committee.

The right to manufacture alcoholic drinks is granted to private firms, as well as the state and co-operative distilleries and sale is permitted throughout the soviet federation.

Accountant Sought In Mystery Killing

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Gordan Rowe, San Francisco accountant, was being sought today for further questioning regarding the supposed murder of Mrs. Bessie Loren, Oakland nurse. Police said Rowe left the home of his mother in Fruitvale, a suburb, some time after midnight Thursday in company with his wife and that his present whereabouts are unknown to them. Police who were watching the Rowe home said they did not see the couple leave the house.

From Mrs. Rowe, mother of the accountant, police said they learned that Roweand his wife were believed by her to be somewhere in Berkeley.

Majestic Opens Here Wednesday With 5-Act Bill

FINE PROGRAM PROMISED FOR WICHTA FANS

Vaudeville and Feature Film to be Shown Three Nights Each Week

With all preparations complete for what promises to be a banner vaudeville season, the Majestic theatre, formerly the Wichita, opens its 1925 winter bill Wednesday evening of this week with a well balanced program of five vaudeville acts and a feature picture.

The theatre will bring to Wichita Falls this year the best the Keith and Orpheum circuits have to offer in the two-a-day line and patrons of the stage are looking forward with more than usual interest to this year's amusement venture. The acts will appear in matinee and evening performances three nights each week, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There will be no Saturday showings as heretofore.

A Double-Header.

For the opening bill Manager O. H. Rahl is offering a double-header feature with Magra Waldron and company, premere danseuse; and Harry Coleman, popular idol of the legitimate stage and now in vaudeville who, supported by Gladys Hart, has a comedy skit set to music that deals with the never-ending tale of love and marriage.

Last season Coleman quit the legitimate theatre after ten years of success in Broadway productions. On several occasions he had enjoyed stardom. When he left the legitimate stage he entered vaudeville and attained such a pronounced success that he cast his lot permanently in this role. He has been presenting a series of one-act plays, the current number of which is the William K. Wells musical number "Love As Is." Miss Hart, his supporting lady, followed Molly Kling in "Blue Eyes," "Good Morning Judge" and "Irene." Edward Welch, who also appears in the cast, has had lengthy training in New York's Winter Garden revues.

Her program is called a unique classical offering. It combines all the grace and technique of ballet and is handled in an artistic and accomplished manner by a real dancing artist. However, it has the spontaniety and abandon that is necessary for a successful dancing presentation.

Starts During War.

Starting her professional stage career as an amateur dancer for soldiers in Washington during the world war, Miss Waldron overcame parental objections and after careful training under the famed Porta-Povitch, she went on the stage something as a matter of experiment. She agreed, if marked success did not speedily greet her efforts, to give up a career and enter college. In less than two and one-half years, however, she was headlining vaudeville acts and is now recognized as one of the favorites of the vaudeville stage.

In addition to the two star acts, the Majestic offers Jean Boydell, a comparative newcomer to the stage, but one who has scored a signal success during her short stay before the footlights. She styles herself "A Unique Pepologist" and includes in her bill a running fire of song and humor. She brings to the stage a flashing personality of the kind occasionally found and altogether provides an interesting attraction.

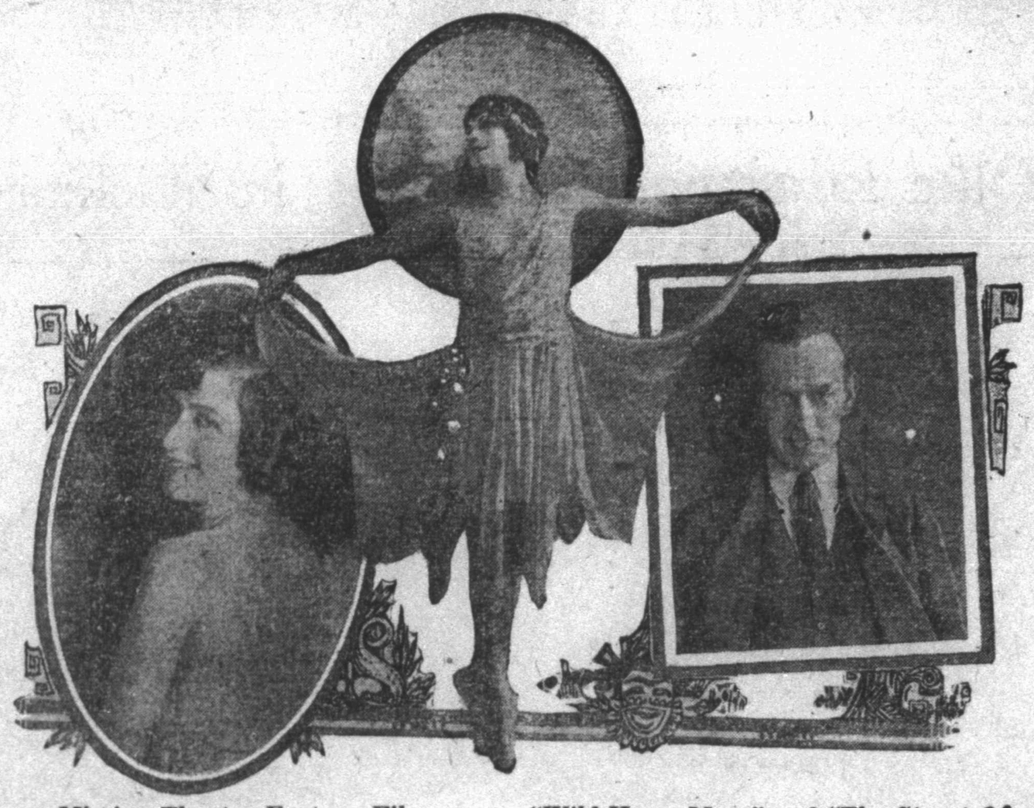

Arthur Babcock and Mlle. Dolly, eccentric comedians, bring Greenwich Village to Indiana avenue in their skit that combines all the humor and much of the oddity found on New York's far famed artist row.

Completing the vaudeville numbers is The Kitaros company, equilibrium experts who go through all the orthodob tumbling and balancing acts of the Japanese troupe and then throw in some extra ones for good measure. The Kitaros' rank extremely high in vaudeville circles and are warranted to present an offering out of the ordinary. They have few equals and no superiors in this country.

"Breed of The Border" Appears At Gem Sunday

A "circus cowboy," a delightful daughter of the desert, an ex-gun fighting sheriff, a mannish and husky woman, a trick Ford, a coon bartender and a little old souse can get into plenty of trouble and plenty of comedy, as "Breed of the Border" which appears at the Garden theatre on Sunday and Monday attests. The picture is the third of the series produced and directed by Harry Garson starring the popular athlete and actor, Lefty Flynn, and it provides its rollicking star with his best material to date. Director Garson has caught faithfully the spirit of the desert, and the story of William Hoffman contains rome of the tensest drama ever seen in this type of picture. The exteriors were taken in the famous Death Valley. Dorothy Dwan, Louise Carver, Milton Ross, Frank Hagney and Bill Donovan are prominent in the cast. Paul Gangelin and Dorothy Arzner made the screen adaptation of the story.

Three Stars Appearing on Majestic's Opening Vaudeville Bill Wednesday

Mission Theatre Feature Film

RICHARD DIX AND ESTHER RALSTON IN A SCENE FROM THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE "THE LUCKY DEVIL"

"The Lucky Devil" At Mission This Week Is Dix Best

Picture Starring Popular Player Comes To Screen

"The Lucky Devil," Richard Dix's atest starring picture for Paramount at the Mission this week, is another of those Byron Morgan automobile tales, chock-full of laughs, thrills and just the right kind of romance, the feminine appeal being furnished by Esther Ralston, who played Mrs. Darling in the screen version of the Barrie classic, "Peter Pan," and also appeared in "The Little French Girl" and "Beggar on Horseback."

"The Lucky Devil," directed by Frank Tuttle, is a story of a young demonstrator of auto camping outfits who through a fluke wins a beautiful roadster. It develops that the car has been the center of a sensational divorce suit and when Dix, as Randy Farman, meets Doris (Miss Ralston), "the only girl," she recognizes the car and will have nothing to do with him, believing him to be the good-for-nothing Rudolph Frankiyne.

Randy sets off after Doris and her mother who are touring the country in a battered Ford. He comes upon them, stalled, just as he runs out of gas. He explains how he came into possession of the racer to their satisfaction, takes the gas from the flivver and tows them into town.

There's a big road race to be run off at the fair grounds. Two hundred dollars is the entry free, and Randy wins the money by staying two rounds with a prizefighter, only to have it taken away from him by an officer who mistakes him for a thief.

Doris is all sympathy and takes it upon herself to "stake" him from her meager savings. Randy, after much ado about everything with mechanics who plan to "throw" the race, decides to drive his own car. He does, and to tell you just how he makes out would be but to spoil an evening's entertainment that we wouldn't want you to miss for the world.

With all due respect to "Manhattan," "Too Many Kisses," "The Shock Punch," and others, "The Lucky Devil" is away up and beyond anything Dix has ever done before.

SIGNS DEATH WARRANT

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 29.—(AP).—King Boris yesterday signed a death warranet for Stoyan Petroff, who had been given the extreme penalty by the civil court for banditry. The king commuted to a long term of imprisonment a death sentence imposed on one of Petroff's companions in the crime.

"Wild Horse Mesa" and "The Street Of Forgotten Men" At Olympic This Week

JACK HOLT AND BILLIE DOVE IN ZANE GREY'S "WILD HORSE MESA" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

"Say it with cigarets" is Jack Holt's advice to all those who yearn to make friends with the little understood Indian.

After a month's stay at Red Lake, Ariz., for the filming of the new Zane Grey film, "Wild Horse Mesa," during which time he had ample opportunity to familiarize himself with the likes and dislikes of the red men, since the motion picture camp was close by the Navajo Indian reservation, the noted Paramount actor returned with the positive statement that a package of most any kind of cigarets is the key to the red man's heart.

The picture is appearing at the Olympic today, Monday and Tuesday.

"A cigaret will awaken any Indian but a dead one," said Holt with a laugh. "And once you haul out a pack of smokes and let an Indian take one, you are his friend for life."

Incidentally Holt pointed out that none of the mediums that carry the national advertising of the cigaret manufacturers reach the red men, and the result is the Indians are not particular about the brand of cigarets they are offered. They'd walk a mile for a cigaret even it it isn't toasted! As long as it's a smoke it satisfies!

The feature at the Olympic Wednesday, Thursday and Friday is "The Street of Forgotten Men," a Herbert Brenon production for Paramount of George Kibbe, Turner's Liberty magazine story, by that name, and underworld romance of the Bowery in the late 90's.

Percy Marmont, Neil Hamilton and Mary Brian are featured in the cast. According to advance reports, "The Street of Forgotten Men" is a second "Miracle Man."

"O. U. Wildcat" To Be Last Feature From Ches. Davis

Rube Hooper as C. C. Pill To Appear in Comedy Role

Owing to the request of hundreds of Palace theatre goers and many who did not have opportunity to see the play, Ches. Davis will again present Rube Hooper's own comedy version of soldier life in France, "O. U. Wildcat," with Rube himself being cast in the stellar comedy role as private C. C. Pill and the same supporting cast as appeared with him several weeks ago in the same bill on his introduction with the Ches. avis musical revue here. This will be farewell week for the Ches Davis company, the show closing its engagement here Saturday night. The entire company has become a big favorite with Palace theatre goers and is enjoying its ninth week here with packed houses at each performance. An entire change of vaudeville, songs, dances and specialties will be featured by the company all week with the Spanish Troubadours, the Imperial trio, Hooper and Hooper, the Renaud sisters, Owen Bennet, But Southern and others too numerous to mention.

MAY M'AVOY TO STAR, PALACE THEATRE SHOW

Richard Washburn Child Novel Is Immortalized

Holding the mirror up to nature sometimes is a thankless task, but that is what "The Mad Whirl," Universal-Jewel all-star production, to be shown at the Palace theatre next Wednesday and Thursday really does. That which is thus mirrored is the jazz complex in general and specifically as it has to do with the relaxation of parental guidance when it comes to sons and daughters approaching young manhood and womanhood.

"The Mad Whirl" is the screen version of "Here's How," famous story by Richard Washburn Child, former minister from the United States to Italy. The avowed purpose of the story was to center attention on certain social conditions as they apply to the family relationship, under prohibition.

Some time ago Universal made "Wine," a Universal-Jewel which has been acclaimed by students of the conditions so vigorously arraigned, to be one of the greatest preachments extant in favor of united support of the prohibition laws. "The Mad Whirl" treats of a somewhat similar condition in the same striking manner but has not other similarity.

May McAvoy has the feature role in a cast notable by reason of the fame of those who interpret this sensational story. Others are Jack Mulhall, Myrtle Stedman, Barbara Bedford, Alec B. Francis, Ward Crane, George Fawcett, Marie Astaire and Joseph Singleton. The picture was directed by William A. Seiter, who directed "The Family Secret" and "The Fast Worker," two successful Universal productions.

Fun Mixes With Thrills in Late Harry Carey Film

That Harry Carey can make an audience laugh as well as thrill is said to be proven by "Soft Shoes," his new Hunt Stromberg production which is at the Palace theatre today only.

"Soft Shoes" is a picture entirely different from anything which this popular western star has ever been starred in. Although it starts and ends in the great open spaces of the far west, the majority of its action is laid in the underworld of San Francisco.

As a western sheriff who inherits wealth and comes to the big city to see the bright lights for the first time, and there gets mixed up in an exciting gang war, not to mention falling in love with the pretty little feminine leader of one of the gangs, Carey is said to offer one of his most delightful performances.

Lillian Rich is the star's leading woman in "Soft Shoes," and Francis Ford is prominently cast. Other players who have important roles are Harriet Hammond, Stanton Heck, So-Jin, Majel Coleman, Paul Weigel, Jimmie Quinn and John Steppling. Considerable humor and interest revolves around Hank, a clever canine actor, who accompanies Carey to the big city.

CALENDAR FOR THE PALACE THEATRE

Sunday Only—Harry Carey in "Soft Shoes." Also comedy and Jack Hoxie in "Lightning Bryce."

Monday and Tuesday—By special request Ches. Davis will present Clyde "Rube" Hooper in "Oh You Wildcat." On the screen Theodore Roberts and Viola Dana in "Forty Winks" a Paramount special.

CAPT. EDDIE IN JUBILANT MOOD IN VISIT HERE

Dealer is Told of Car Progress During Past Week

"Lots of people didn't give us much chance for success when we launched the Rickenbacker Motor company just four years ago. Today our company has one of the finest plants in Detroit, including our own body-building plant, and thirty acres of ground that is alone worth $750,000 more than we paid for it. We ranked nineteenth among motor-car manufacturers in volume, as against eighty-seventh when we started in four years ago, during the month of June, and I think our July production, which was the largest in our history, will put us in seventeenth place. We have 103 distributors scattered all over the world, and more than 600 associate distributors, and our volume of foreign business is satisfactory in the extreme."

These were some of the things that Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, vice-president of the Rickenbacker Motor company, told his dealer organization here last week. But the thing that is especially pleasing to Capt. Rickenbacker is the profound effect on motor-car design which his company has exerted in spite of its comparatively short history as far as years go.

"Judged by the way our company has influenced motor-car design, we are one of the oldest in the business today," said Capt. Rickenbacker. "Take the four-wheel brake for example. At the Point Loma race, back in 1915, I drove the first four-wheel-brake car seen in America, a Peugeot. It certainly showed me what a four wheel brakes meant. I did not win the race, for a broken connecting rod put me out, but I was miles in the lead when I went out, for nobody else could make such time into the turns as I could.

"In July 1923 we announced four-wheel brakes. Our announcement brought a storm of condemnation. Everybody knows where the four-wheel brake stands today. We introduced air cleaners in 1923. Nobody had heard of such a thing on a motor car. Today twenty manufacturers are using them. Our dual flywheel has since been copied by more than thirty manufacturers who are using the same principle to reduce vibration. We are the first to use an oil purifier. Our vertical eight was the second motor of this type to go on the road in test work in America. Just before we left Detroit, Isotta-Fraschini, pioneer of the straight eights, applied for permission to use our principle of carburetion on the straight eight. We introduced the ball-bearing steering spindle, and it has literally revolutionized steering-gear construction. For a company only four years old we have made contributions to the advancement of the industry that I do not believe have been equalled by any other company, regardless of its age or influence."

50 Yale Students In Ford Factory In Prize Contest

How would it strike you to become a Ford factory worker, spend three months on the job, then write a report of your impressions and enter it in a prize contest?

This might not appeal to every one, but there are fifty young men from Yale University who are taking a try at it, and everyone of them is enjoying it.

Of course, they haven't as yet reached the report writing stage, for their three-month course in the old school of experience at the river rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company is only just fairly getting under way.

Clad in work shirts and overalls, these ambitious young men look like anything but college boys. Nevertheless, they are enthusiastic over the work and foremen in charge of departments in which they are employed report that they are showing unusual aptitude.

The young men are employed in the production forces at the Rouge plant, where they have full opportunity for studying organization and for securing first hand knowledge of Ford methods, management and handling of men. For the most part the pupils have found lodgings during their stay here with families of Ford workers which brings them into intimate relation with the home life of these men. Every week they hold a conference and exchange experiences.

Those in the group were especially chosen for this unique course by the department of social service of the Rivinity School at Yale. While at work here they receive the regular scale of wages paid Ford employes.

At the close of their three month employment in the factory, each student is to submit a written report based on his personal experiences and impressions. These reports will be entered in a prize contest. Judges will be James J. Davis, secretary of labor, Raymond B. Fosdick of Princeton, Jerome Davis and Edgar S. Furniss of Yale and Henry Ford.

Comfort Is Feature of New Dodge Commercial Cars

The passenger automobile of today, compared with that of a few years ago, shows clearly the results of almost unlimited effort which designers and engineers have devoted to increasing driving ease and riding comfort. Controls are easier to operate, springs are longer and more flexible, seats and upholstering are more comfortable, bodies are more roomy, closed car production has been vastly increased.

"But how much effort has been devoted during these years," asks P. C. Varner of McFall Brothers, local Dodge Brothers dealers, "to making the commercial car and truck more comfortable for the driver. This man, who must drive six days a week, many miles a day, through all kinds of weather, deserves all the comfort which can be built into his cab."

Improve Commercial Car

The comments of a number of merchants and drivers who were in the McFall Brothers' display room yesterday to look at the new closed cab Dodge Brothers Commercial Car show that they are quick to perceive the many improvements.

The seats are truly comfortable because the cushions are built exactly like those of a passenger car, with coiled springs and plenty of padding and are upholstered with genuine leather. The cab is roomy and the controls are easy to reach and operate.

One feature which instanly attracts the attention of every driver is the tray or shelf above the windshield for carrying order books, gloves and the like within easy reach.

Steel Throughout

The new cab is all steel throughout, with full length steel door. The side windows are raised and lowered by means of cranks similar to those used in high grade passenger cars. The plate glass windows slide in noiseless runways. The full ventilating type shield is wind and water proof.

The spare tire carrier is mounted under the rear of the body, leaving the full side panel available for attractive display advertising.

"Increased comfort and pride in the attractive appearance, easy handling and smooth running of this new commercial car, mounted on Dodge Brothers dependable standard chassis," says Mr. Varner "encourage better care and inspire the driver to added interest in his work. The all-day-long smile and cheerful disposition of the driver who does not suffer discomfort, strain and fatigue are business assets which it would be difficult to overvalue."

Safety Factor Is Design Of Latest Model

Safety is one of the most important factors in the automotive industry. Automobile manufacturers have long recognized this and so improved their product that it is most unusual to hear of an accident caused by defective mechanism or parts on a car.

"Leaders among automobile engineers are going even farther than merely to make their product safe," declares Charlie Nolen, sales manager of the Dixon Motor Co., local Buick distributors. "They are constantly working to make correct driving so easy that it will be difficult for a car operator to make an error.

"Most careful thought was given this problem when the present better Buick was being designed, and as a result of a new lighting system was incorporated which makes night driving safer by providing a flood of bright lights directly in front of the car when driving in traffic or meeting other cars on the road.

"The headlights have two instead of the filament, one being in the exact center and the other slightly above center. When the lights are turned on 'bright,' the lower or center filament is lighted and a strong ray of light is sent directly ahead, its beams lighting the road far in advance.

When the 'dimmer' is used the upper filament comes into play. The same brilliant light then is reflected downward, brightly illuminating the road directly in front of the car to the advantage of the drivers of both cars.

"As a further aid to safety, the switch, which controls the current to the two filaments is placed in the center of the steering wheel, where it is directly under the hand of the driver. He thus has constant control of his lights without taking his eyes from the road.

FAVOR UNIFICATION.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Two Methodist conferences, the Central Swedish and the Chicago-Northwest German, today voted in favor of uniting the northern and southern bodies of the denomination. The German ministerial vote was 72 to 6; the Swedish, 38 to 0. The German laymen's association favored unification, 40 to 20.

OAKLAND CARS STAND UP TO LENGTHY TRIPS

Endurance Tests Have Proven Value Of Automobile

Today the average motorist thinks no more of driving his car 50 to 200 miles for even a week-end trip than he did a decade ago of driving 25 miles. A trip through four or five states or even half across the continent in a motor car is considered an ordinary event for a two or three weeks' summer vacation.

This has been brought about by the remarkable durability of cars today, together with smoother riding qualities which have been enhanced by full balloon tires, and the four wheel brakes which have made such trips, even at high speed, comparatively safe.

Yet one undesirable feature of motor car performance remained in taking such long trips—engine vibration. At the high speeds necessary on long runs, ranging from 25 to 45 miles an hour, the vibration of the average motor is particularly noticeable.

Develop Balancer.

It was to eliminate this objectionable feature that engineers of the Oakland Motor Car company and the General Motors Research corporation developed the harmonic balancer which positively eliminates all torsional engine vibration.

The exclusive feature of the new Oakland Six has been acclaimed by experts as the greatest mechanical achievement of automotive engineering that has been introduced this year, comparable to the introduction of the two other great developments in motor car construction, the four wheel brakes and the balloon tires.

Though the new Oakland Six was introduced only slightly more than a month ago, thousands of letters have been received by Oakland dealers throughout the country from owners who attest to their joy of touring in this practically motor-vibrationless car.

Simple In Design.

The harmonic balancer is simple in both principle and design; is non-wearing and requires no adjustment. It consists of a light steel bar, pivoted to the shaft at its center and tensioned by stiff springs at both ends. The weight of the bar and the stiffness of the springs are so selected that the harmonic balancer has a natural frequency of vibration practically the same as the crankshaft itself. When there is the slightest movement of the shaft, the harmonic balancer picks it up and vibrates in the opposite direction, thus neutralizing all torsional vibration.

The principle of its operation might be stated simply by saying that the simplest way to stop any object that is moving is to push it in the opposite direction with a force equal to the force of the moving object. That, in essence, is what the harmonic balancer does.

Price Slash Is Spur to Sales

Sweeping price reductions in the price of Hudson and Essex motor cars—both coaches and other closed models—announced by the Hudson Motor company this last week, astounded motordom in general.

Announcing that a total of 166,369 Hudson-Essex cars have been sold within the eight-month period ending the 1st inst., the factory announcement made it plain that the same management which established the Hudson Motor Car company now, as for the last 16 years, controls and directs the design of its product and the company policies.

"The tremendous production," says the factory statement, "gives advantages in economical purchase of materials, saving in manufacutre and low cost of distribution that are recognized throughout the industry as being unequaled by any other organization."

The price slash, applied on the Essex coach and three body types of the Hudson—coach, sedan and brougham.

"The automobile manufacturing and merchandising business has developed into a survival of the fittest battle," was the comment of Glen Conner of the Wichita Hudson-Essex company, powerful and highly productive, not only leading but setting a faster and faster pace all the time. This present reduction in prices is indicative of this policy of leadership—a reduction made at a time when the quality of both Hudson and Essex cars was never higher or the prices lower.

"The manner in which purchasers of motor cars have rushed to take advantage of the price reductions, as well as our minimum down payment and long-time credit terms on all cars, indicates that the buying public appreciates quality when combined with low prices and easy payments."

Dodge Cars Get Prices Cut, Too

Steadily increasing production and usstained demand has enabled Dodge Brothers to again announce a reduction in the prices of their motor cars, with the exception of the roadster and chassis.

"Coming at a time when Dodge Brothers' product has reached the highest peak of mechanical perfection in its history, and when sales all over the country show an unprecedented ratio of increase, these new prices undeniably establish a new high level in motor car value, at a new low level price," said Julian McFall of McFall Brothers, local Dodge Brothers representatives.

With the largest expansion program in its history now well under way, Dodge Brothers have been able to effect further manufacturing economies, particularly in the manufacture of closed models, and it is this fact, according to Mr. McFall, which has enabled Dodge Brothers to again pass on to the purchaser the reduction which took effect early last week.

"This latest reduction is only another indication of the high faith Dodge Brothers has kept with the buying public in returning to them the benefits of increased production, as well as more and more actual, usable motor car value each year."

OLDSMOBILE'S AUGUST SALES SHOW INCREASE

Believed Month Will Be Biggest in Factory's History

August will come very close to breaking all previous monthly sales records in the 28 years history of the Olds Motor works, as the result of the enthusiastic reception given the new series "D" cars since their first official showing, August 15.

A flood of telegrams and orders have been pouring into the office of D. S. Eddins, general sales manager of the company, from dealers in every section of the country, asking for the doubling of allotments and in many cases requesting as many cars of each of the body types as the factory can ship for several months in advance.

The Larson Oldsmobile company of Philadelphia immediately wired for 300 additional closed cars for the last two weeks in August. Two days two weeks in August. In two days 118 orders were taken by the retail branch in Detroit, the city reputed to have the most critical and motorwise buying public in the United States.

A Great Reception.

Three days after the introduction of the new Oldsmobile, a wire came from the Chicago branch for 200 more cars, with the statement that never before in the history of Oldsmobile in Chicago had such a reception been given this pioneer car.

From Salt Lake City, from Denver, from San Francisco, Los Angels and Sacramento, Calif., from Nashville, Tenn., from Washington, D. C., from Portland, Ore., from Indianapolis, from Sandusky, O., from Duluth, Minn., from Buffalo, N. Y., and many other cities throughout the country came telegrams in the same tenor—the greatest reception and the greatest sales ever accorded this car in the same period of time.

The Oldsmobile company of Portland, Ore., wired that their showrooms looked "like the first night of a popular Broadway show" and that they had more orders on hand than ever before in their history.

Thirty-six orders with deposits were taken in Indianapolis the first two days the cars were shown.

Try Them Out.

J. W. Leavitt and company of San Francisco not only wired of the wonderful reception but stated that they had tried the cars out on the famous steep San Francisco hills and that they had taken them in high gear without an effort. The Denver branch wired the factory that one of their salesmen had just unloaded a new car and after putting 40 miles on it had climbed Lookout mountain in high gear with five passengers whose total weight was 823 pounds.

Probably the remark most often made by purchasers and prospects, as reported by dealers, was a reference to the amazing low price, particularly in view of the many mechanical improvements and the more beautiful coach work.

Every facility at the factory is being used to the utmost to keep up with the orders; and in light of present production schedules there will be new monthly sales records hung up during the remaining months of the year.

Langford Says Lincoln Car Is Long-life Auto

There seems to be a general impression that a high grade automobile is expensive to own and operate. Such is not the case, according to W. S. Langford, Langford Motor company, Lincoln dealer, who points out a few facts that have not been emphasized before.

In the first place, it is not the policy of the Lincoln factory to build yearly models. This makes it possible for the owner of a Lincoln to keep his car perpetually up-to-date, by adding such improvements as are made from time to time in the new cars. This can easily be done with little cost as replacements may be made very reasonably, and all improvements are interchangeable with cars previously sold.

The exceptionally low cost of replacement parts makes the upkeep cost a minor matter, even for families of moderate means. Henry Ford's policy of making a reasonable profit on new cars and selling parts for them at as nearly cost as possible, works to the advantage of the purchaser of a used Lincoln.

Operation of New Balancer Explained

Vibration has long been the nemesis of reciprocating motors and engineers have resorted to all manner of devices to eliminate this disturbing element from what is apparently the most satisfactory type of engine for automotive use.

"The General Motors company like many others has struggled with the problem for years and has at last succeeded in developing a device which destroys all the vibration waves set up by the motor," says J. L. McElbreath, Oakland distributor, "and are using it exclusively in the new series Oakland.

"The Harmonic Balancer is such a simple device that one wonders how it accomplishes its purpose. It consists of a steel bar rigidly bolted to a throw of the crankshaft. It is pivoted at its center point and held in tension by a series of laminated steel springs at each end. There are no moving parts in the sense that moving parts are usually understood and no adjustments are ever required. When the motor is idle the device is also at rest. When the motor is running and the torque of the shaft multiplied by the enormous force of the six pistons sets up a vibration the Harmonic Balancer is actuated to also set up its vibrations which are equal exactly to those of the crankshaft. Instantly the vibration waves meet and destroy each other and the motor runs with that smoothness idealized in the electric motor.

San Marcus School Ready for Term

SAN MARCUS, Aug. 29—As time draws near for the opening of the schools throughout the country, San Marcos Academy makes the final preparations for its students, who will attend in greater number this year than ever before. J. V. Brown, president, believes exceptional success will attend the terms of 1925-26 from the students' standpoint and that of the academy as well, and every effort is being exerted to the end that this expectation will be realized.

Nothing is allowed to interfere with constant and continual progress at S. M. A., new features being added yearly and the most up-to-date methods employed.

The excellence of the faculty is of credit to the state. Every department is under the direction of an instructor who is himself or herself a scholar and high in academic accomplishment. The military feature of the school is of recognized standard and expertly conducted, giving the boys training that proves valuable to them all their lives whether they enter the army or not.

September 15 will mark the opening of the eighteenth session.

CINDERELLA'S SLIPPER FUR

Mistake in Spelling Brings Impression It Was Glass

How many people realize that Cinderella's slippers were made, not of glass, but of fur? Every child who knows the story wonders at the fairy's selecting such uncomfortable material as glass for Cinderella's footwear; but the story is a literary curiosity. It is believed to have originated in Egypt long ago and was rewritten by that French prince of story tellers, Perault. T. C. Sach, an authority on the subject, writes that Perrault wrote that Cinderella's slippers were made of "vaire," but his printer, in an age where still less importance was attached to spelling than even today, made "vaire," (a fur) into "verre" (glass) and the error was perpetrated in the English translation. "Vaire" is really an heraldic fur composed of silver and azure, and is conjectured to have been either ermine, miniver, or the underpart of the gray squirrel; in any case, to wear it was a privilege of nobility, so that Cinderella's fairy-bestowed fur slippers denoted that the wearer was of the highest rank.

No Relief From Potato Prices

WASHINGTON—Housewives who have been paying two or three times as much for potatoes this year as last were given little promise of relief in a resume of the potatoes situation published by the department of agriculture.

The potato shortage, the department said, applies to the late crop as well as the early and to sweet potatoes. The weather recently has been favorable for a large late production, but on the other hand the crop will have to run the gauntlet of possible early frosts. There have been reports of a tendency towards blight and rot in the eastern producing sections. Virginia, Kansas and Kentucky have been further behind in production thus far and shipments on the whole are about 10 per cent below last season.

"The present tariff of fifty cents per hundred pounds on potatoes is a barrier against imports unless prices go very high," said the department.

MACHINERY TO BE EXHIBITED AT T-O FAIR

Latest Invention for Labor Saving Will be Demonstrated

An array of the latest inventions for labor saving on farms and ranches will be on display at the Texas-Oklahoma Fair(October 3 to 8, inclusive, according to R. E. Shepherd, fair secretary.

Visitors will find that cows can be milked in several different ways; pigs can feed themselves by machine; patent nests where hens are trapped and an accurate account of the number of eggs can be kept. There will be new inventions of plows turning the soil in a different way. New binding and cutting and shocking machines will be exhibited.

The machinery department will be the largest display ever held in Southwest Oklahoma or Northwest Texas. Additional display space for several of the larger firms exhibiting will be made by the fair association.

Manufacturers are to send factory representatives for the fair to demonstrate the various new inventions which have recently bee mande as improvements in many standard farm labor saving machines. The array of farm machinery will be the latest models and types. Many of the power inventions, which will be on display, have not yet been put on the market, according to information received by the fair secretary.

Auburn Financial Rating Is High

Twenty-five years old and a cool million cash in the bank. An enviable condition and one attained by the Auburn Automobile company, according to advices received by Auburn Wichita Motor Co.

"There are many others who will be interested to learn that the Auburn manufacturers aparently have solved the problem of meeting competition and keeping step with the leaders of the industry without resorting to financial alliances that have so characterized motor-car history in recent years," commented the local representative.

It is stated that Auburn this year will show the finest financial statement they have ever published, disclosing a very strong cash position and balanced inventory.

Marmon Closed Car Prices Same as Open

Three Marmon closed models can now be bought at exactly open-car price. They are the five-passenger standard sedan, the brougham-coupe and the new Victoria coupe, which was introduced to the public last week.

For some time Marmon engineers have been striving to get the closed cars at the open-car price level because it was realized that, with the exception of a very few people who like open cars for specific reasons that apply only to themselves, the desire for inclosed cars is universal.

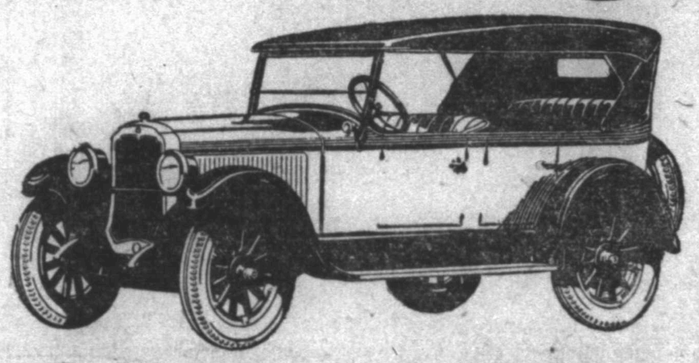

"There is hardly anyone," says D. L. Fritz, "who would choose an open model instead of a closed car if the prices were identical. Marmon has realized this for some time and every effort has been made to hasten the day when an announcement could be made such as is being made now.

"Production on closed cars was increased to bring down manufacturing costs and by these savings, the equalization of prices was made possible."

CHRYSLER SIX

Women Are Quick To Sense Chrysler Quality

The Chrysler Six taught the American public that neither high cost nor cumbersome size is necessary to the superfine motor car.

That's the reason for the ever-strengthening hold of the new Chrysler Six upon the great numbers of discriminating men and women who are not satisfied with anything short of the utmost in motor car quality, comfort and performance.

Women especially find the Chrysler Six the ideal personal car—easy to handle, carefree, smooth running and delightful in its ease of riding.

The situation today is perfectly plain. Chrysler Six engineering, achieving even more revolutionary results, has simply made it unnecessary to pay a huge premium for motoring luxury.

In roadability, in generous seating capacity, in every phase of performance, in dependability and in long life, this new Chrysler Six equals, or surpasses, all the other fine cars.

Yet its new purchase price is far lower. Its upkeep cost is far lower. Its operating cost is far lower.

Add to this, the irresistible riding and driving appeal of the Chrysler Six to the man and woman who know motor cars—and you have one conclusive reason why new Chrysler Six sales mount month after month to new high marks.

Try this Chrysler Six performance yourself. We are always eager to have you prove the car's unprecedented results to your own satisfaction.

"MOTORCADE" PLANS TRIP TO FLORIDA AREA

Illinois Automobile Club Will Provide Unique Tour

An unusual feature is provided in the "Motorcade" of the Illinois Automobile club which leaves Chicago early in October for an unusual expedition to Florida and return.

A special moving picture camera will accompany the Willys-Knight six pilot car to take pictures of the caravan at interesting and historic places on the trip. The same equipment was carried with this Willys-Knight six when it made the same trip early in July and August to select the route over which the Motorcade was to travel.

It is expected that some unusual photographs of Chicagoans and their families and friends will be taken on this most pretentious cavalcade when more than 100 members of the I. A. C. will take their vacations a la motor to the sunny southland.

IOWA PARK, Aug. 29.—A commercial printing and embossing plant will open in Iowa Park about Sept. 1 in the Boyd building formerly occupied by Mrs. Harbour's millinery shop as announced by the owner, W. Dickson, former editor and publisher of the Iowa Park Herald. Mr. Dickson has recently traveled over a portion of Texas and southern Oklahoma in search of a desirable location for a commercial plant. He has lived in Iowa Park for several years and is in close touch with the business activities of the entire county.

SHIP TONNAGE LESS

LONDON.—(AP)—The new edition of Lloyd's Register of Shipping shows the world's gross tonnage owned in June, 1925, to have been 64,641,418 tons, of which steamers and motorships total 62,380,376 and sailing vessels 2,261,042. In 1924 the total tonnage was 64,023,567, of which 61,514,140 tons were steamers and motor ships and 2,509,427 sailing vessels.

During the 12 months from June, 1924, to June, 1925, there was an increase in the steam and motor tonnage owned in the world of 866,236 tons, and a decrease in the sailing tonnage of 248,385 tons, making a world net increase of 617,851 tons. In Great Britain and Ireland the increase amounted to 334,873 tons; in Italy to 196,449 tons, and in Norway to 175,249 tons. A considerable reduction is, however, shown in the United States tonnage, which was 579,487 tons less than 12 months ago.

Potash & Perlmutter Dissucss Judge Gary's Health Rules —By M. Glass

"I Make My Own Health Rules, Mawruss, and So Far I Ain't Been So Unsuecessful At It Either."

"Well, Mawruss, the truth is out at last, and all them people which has been waiting with baiting breath to hear just how it was that Judge Gary, President of the Steel Trust, came to be as old as he is—however old that may be—have now got their curiosity satisfied," Abe Potash observed the other day, "because the Judge comes out with a statement to the newspapers that the reason he has reached the age of seventy-something is that he has observed a certain number of health rules.

"I forget the exact amount, but they was probably ten, as ten is a favorite number with people who hand out health rules, world's most famous men, greatest books, biggest battles, and such articles as bananas, eggs and frankfurters, which customarily sell in dozen lots, except when the purchaser ain't looking."

"I hope you don't think the Judge has been holding out a few health rules on you, Abe," Morris Perlmutter said.

"Say!" Abe exclaimed, "I could never be short changed on health rules, Mawruss, because health rules is something which I never accept anyway. I make my own health rules, Mawruss, and so far as I ain't been so unsuccessful at it neither."

"Well, I wouldn't give up hopes if I was you," Morris said satirically, "which anyone who eats every day a lunch which takes an hour and a half to finish, y'understand, ain't going to give out no statements to newspapers on his seventy-something birthday. He will have to leave such statements to his heirs, executors and administrators to give out, while he himself is resting in the grave which he has dug with his own stomach, understand me."

"That's where you make a big mistake," Abe said, "because one of the first health rules that Judge Gary gives out is to eat slowly."

"Sure I know," Morris agreed, "but if the President of a Steel Trust eats slowly, Abe, he's got doch two dozen Steel Trust vice presidents in the office taking care of the customers, whereas, when you eat slowly, you oser worry that your business is being looked after by a partner who is getting dyspepsia from trying to sell goods on an empty stomach."

"But you eat a hearty breakfast, Mawruss," Abe protested, "while all I eat is a couple slices toast and one cup of coffee, which is also one of the rules laid down by Judge Gary."

"And you and the Judge get an awful kick out of telling about it," Morris retorted.

"Well, if everybody ate a light breakfast, they could stand a heavy lunch," Abe observed.

"They usually do," Morris said, "and what's more, they lie about their breakfast too, Abe, even when they use it as an alibi for a perfectly tremendous dinner."

"My dinner is my own business, Mawruss," Abe said, "because I ain't eating for newspaper publication like Judge Gary, and if I was, Mawruss, I shouldn't expect anybody else to follow my example, y'understand, on account of health rules for a Steel Trust President or a garment manufacturer not being of much assistance to a house painter, a sand hog or a woman who works in a match factory."

"There is also some few thousand other occupations which ain't run according to the health rules of Steel Trust Presidents or garment manufacturers," Abe continued, "but I take the house painter for an example because he could read President Gary's and my health rules till he is blue in the face, and still he wouldn't know how to escape such a suckness as painter's colic the way Judge Gary and I escaped it. Other sicknesses which me and Judge Gary avoided by living according to our health rules and being a Steel Trust President or a garment manufacturer and not a sand hog or a match worker, were the bends and phossy jaw."

"Well, what steel trust diseases did Judge Gary escape, by living according to his health rules?" Morris asked.

"He didn't say," Abe replied, "but he doesn't mention getting Coupon Cutter's Thumb, which is an occupational disease like Housemaid's Knee except that it comes from cleaning up non-registered first mortgage railroad bonds with heavy shears instead of cleaning up office floors with a scrubbing brush, yellow soap and a pail of water. This, however, is practically the only occupational sickness which a Steel Trust President is liable to, Mawruss, and he can pass such a risk on to a vice president the way a moving picture star can schenck a high dive to a low paid double."

"But wasn't there no other health rules the Judge gave out, other than the light breakfast which you and him say you eat?" Morris inquired.

"To tell you the truth, Mawruss, I couldn't remember the rest," Abe said, "but if you want me to, I'll make up a few health rules for millionaires which have as much to do with the health of millionaires as Judge Gary's rule have to do with the health of non-millionaires, for instance: Millionaires shouldn't ought to sleep on park benches in the winter time without overcoats and nothing between their waistcoats and their chests but a folded newspaper. Millionaires can easy catch pneumonia this way. Another rule for millionaires escaping tuberculosis is for millionaires not to work in fur factories where particles of fur are liable to get into millionaires' lungs, and above all, no millionaire should ought to live with his wife and three children in one room with a window opening onto an airshaft."

"Is any millionaire liable to break such rules as your, Abe?" Morris asked.

Millionaires are just as liable to break my health rules as non-millionaires are to keep Judge Gary's," Abe insisted. "Which whatever the Judge may say for publication, Mawruss, millionaires escape flu and tonsilitis in the winter by making it a rule to ride in private railroad cars and steam yachts instead of in a crowded subway trains and ferry boats."

"Well, that's a simple rule to follow, Abe," Morris said. "All you need is a private car or a steam yacht."

"Sure I know," Abe said, "but to a man who has caught flu or tonsilitis from a crowded subway train or ferry boat, Mawruss, reading Judge Gary's rules ain't going to improve his health unless they would help to take his mind off of his flu by making him so indignant that he has apoplexy to worry about also."

"But don't you think that Judge Gary acted in good faith when he gave out them health rules?" Morris asked.

"Good faith ain't always good sense, Mawruss," Abe said, "and particularly when such health rules come from a gentleman who for so many years thought that it was healthy for a steel worker to spend twelve hours at a stretch in front of a blast furnace."

"Well, when they printed them health rules, the newspapers evidently thought that ordinary people are interested in the health of millionaires," Morris suggested.

"Ordinary people are," Abe concluded, "and usually they hope to find it's bad."

Burk, Iowa Park, Electra, And Others to Participate

Besides the exhibits from the Wichita Falls schools, Electra, Burkburnett, Iowa Park and several other schools from Wichita county will have exhibits at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, October 3 to 8, inclusive, according to Burl Bryant, superintendent of the educational department of the fair.

Other counties in Texas and Oklahoma will have exhibits at the exposition. County superintendents in the Wichita Falls trade territory are to prepare school exhibits to send to this year's exposition.

School exhibits are becoming better each year and the educational department this year is expected to eclipse all former displays. Rural schools took a prominent part in the educational work last year and many fine displays were shown.

Mr. Bryant is of the opinion that the educational department will be crowded this year and additional space may be required to house the exhibits, which he thinks will be the best ever assembled in the history of the fair.

Will Commemorate Life of Composer

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa, Aug. 00. (AP)—A tablet to perpetuate the memory of Rev. William S. Pitts, composer of the internationally known song, "The Church in the Wildwood," soon will be erected on the church near Nashua, which was the inspiration for the song.

Rev. Mr. Pitts came from Wisconsin in 1857 to become pastor of the church, known as the Little Brown Church in the Vale. It was then in the midst of a thriving settlement, which has since been abandoned. Services, however, are held in the little church each Sunday afternoon, conducted by the pastor who serves at Nashua.

A tablet also will be erected in memory of the church's first pastor, Rev. John K. Nutting.

'Give Europe Your Best in Cars,' Is Rickenbacker Plea

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—"Don't use Europe as a dumping ground—don't ship your obsolete models over seas! Send them your best—your latest. If there's any dumping to be done, of fag-ends of factory runs, sell them at hime at reduced prices if necessary, but keep them where the buyer is informed; knows just what he is getting and so that you can trade them in on future models. Then customers at home and abroad will have confidence in you and your product."

This is the advice offered by Captain E. V. Rickenbacker to his friends and rivals in the automotive industry.

"Europe and all other countries are now buying our automobiles as never before. There's a veritable craze for American made cars the world over. Only one thing can slow up that demand in my opinion, and that is for some short-sighted concerns to re-ihstate a policy which before the world war was all to common.

"That was to use the export trade as a clearing house for obsolete or out-of-date models, and to treat the foreign market as a dumping ground. It was this practice which discredited American made cars abroad in the early days of the industry. Since the close of the war American engineering has progressed with tremendous strides while European has practically stood still. The reason is not far to seek. Europe emerged from the conflict, broke in finances and in morale. There was no purchasing power, no incentive to improve products and no money with which to do it anyway.

"America was more wonderfully organized than ever—our equipment had improved while others had been destroyed or rendered obsolete; purchasing power in this country had more than doubled. So our automobiles are incomparably better than any other country can produce, while our prices, due to our superior methods, are half."

Rain and Sun Play Part in Losing Game

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—(AP) Rain and sunshine play tricks on the average person's bump of forgetfulness and make busy days for the lost-and-found department of the Los Angeles street railway. Alfred T. Clothier, manager of the department said that 1,800 umbrellas left on the street cars in one day testified to this.

A rainy morning will find many street car patrons carrying umbrellas. Sunshine in the afternoon means a busy time for employes of the department, for hundreds of the workers and shoppers get off the street cars leaving their umbrellas still beside the seats they occupied.

An aggregate of 13,371 miscellaneous articles were turned in to the department during the first six months of 1925. Money found loose and in pocketbooks totaled $3,883.57, of which $1,282.18 was returned to the owners.

U. S. Citizens Will Have Immigration Privilege in Cuba

HAVANA.—Citizens of the United States will receive the same privileges given Cuban citizens by the immigration authorities, under a recent department ruling.

The treasury department has exempted tourists and other travelers from payment of the one-quarter of one percent tax on money above $50 taken out of the country by travelers. Secretary of the Treasury Cartaya authorized steamship companies to issue identification cards to passengers, which, on their leaving the country, absolves them from either making a statement as to the amount of money they are carrying or payment of the tax.

Ford Bodies Are Changed But Car Will Be the Same

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor company in a statement issued yesterday following the announcement of improved Ford bodies and chassis refinement, said:

"We do not want the impression to prevail that we are producing new Ford cars.

"Bodies for Ford cars have been materially improved but the model T chassis remains unchanged except for a lowering of the frame and a few other important changes. Bodies, in four types, have been completely redesigned and built lower to contribute to better appearance, driving and riding comfort and roadability of the cars.

"Body improvements and chassis refinements at this time are more pronounced than at any time previous since the adoption of the model T chassis. They are, however, entirely in accordance with the policy of the Ford Motor company to give to the public the benefit of every improvement which we find practical for Ford cars.

"By preserving the design of the model T chassis, the company is safeguarding continued good service for owners of approximately 9,000,000 Ford cars and trucks now in use throughout the country as well as for new car purchasers.

Ring Wouldn't Mind Being the Last Guy on Earth—Taxi-Riding Only Hardship. —By Ring Lardner

To the Editor::

One point the Bible and these scientists seems to agree on is that the human race ain't going to last forever and sooner or later as Mr. Brisbane points out they will be just one man or woman or child left on the face of what has been so aptly turned Mother Earth. This being the case the first quetstion that naturally spring to a persons' mind is will it be me and if so wottle I do (by Irving Berlin)?

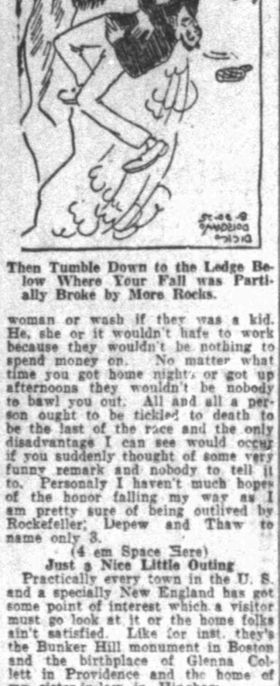

To begin with of course it would take quite a while to find out that you was all alone ((by Irving Berlin). If your telephone is anything like our one you could not make sure that way because sometimes we can set all day with the receiver to our ear and not get nothing but static. You would half to write letters to a great many people, even people you do not know, and when the letters was all returned marked no one here by that name, then you would have some circumstantial evidence that the population was about gone.

Faint Chance of Dream Being Realized

To make it conclusive all that would be necessary would be to put up a sign in front of your house or place of business saying no parking here and if nobody parked you would know for sure that the human race all but you had perished.

What next? At first glance the question of food would seem like the most serious proposition a specially if you had never learned to cook, but on second thoughts you could live on sardines or go down town and get your meals at the automat as long as your change lasted. As for transportation the absence of motormen, engineers and chauffeurs don't mean that they would be no st. cars, trains or taxis left and you would be a poor fish if you could not learn to drive one or the other. Further and more I can't think of nothing more pleasanter than driving a taxi around town without caring nothing about what the mter said or whether the signs was go or tosp.

The last person on earth wouldn't half to shave if they was a man, bother about their hair if they was a woman or wash if they was a kid. He, she or it wouldn't hafe to work because they wouldn't be nothing to spend money on. No matter what time you got home night or got up afternoons they wouldn't be nobody to bawl you out. All and all a person ought to be tickled to death to be the last of the race and the only disadvantage I can see would occur if you suddenly thought of some very funny remark and nobody to tell it to. Personaly I haven't much hopes of the honor falling my way as I am pretty sure of being outlived by Rockefeller, Depew and Thaw to name only 3.

Just a Nice Little Outing

Practically every town in the U. S. and a specially New England has got some point of interest which a visitor must go look at it or the home folks ain't satisfied. Like for inst. they's the Bunker Hill monument in Boston and the birthplace of Glenna Collett in Providence and the home of my sister-in-law in Hingham.

Well any way a party of us was recently up to Stockbridge, Mass., as the guests of the Crowninshield boys and having a pretty good time what with golf, bridge and one thing another when all of a sudden one of mine hosts says before you go back home you must go throug the Ice Glen. What is the Ice Glen he was asked. Why he said it is a Glen between 2 big mountains where the temperature is always below freezing point winter and summer and even now in the midst of the heated term you can pick big hunks of ice out of the various nooks and crannies in the Glen.

Well we played golf in the A. M. and got all heated up and then come back to the house and bathed and dressed, me in beautiful white striped trousers and white shoes that didn't yet hardly know me by name. With mine host leading the way and 2 of the guis and I following we started out on the great adventure which will go down in my annuals as the most fun I had outside of the few days subsequent to the removal of my appendix.

To describe the Ice Glen in detail is impossible as well as corroding to a man of my sensibilities. Sufficient to say that the way you got through was to slimb on oll fours to the top of rocks that made the woolworth bldg. look like a rug and then tumble down to the ledge below where your fall was partially broke by more rocks with the surface of which was as soft and smooth as Dempsey's left hand. Two or three miles of this and I wished you could of seen my shoes and trousers to say not a wd. in regards to my shirt and face. As for ice they wasn't no spot in the whole joint where you couldn't of boiled a steak by just taking it out of your pocket.

As we staggered towards the exit one of the gals counted on me 426 fosquitoes, 79 horse flies and 32,456 beads of perspiration. We met a corpse of Girl Scouts entering the Glen from where we was going out. They had their stockings rolled so that their knees was bare and they was all equipped with heavy blankets to wrap themselfs up when they came to the places where it was coldest. When I thought of what the mosquitoes, flies and heat was going to do to these innocent lassies, I would of broke down and laughed if I hadn't of been crying.

If I can ever coax the Crowninshield boys to come out to Great Neck I am going to set aside one afternoon for a picnic in the incinerating plant.

RING LARDNER.

Pierce-Arrow To Make Parlor Car

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—Exemplifying the last word in bus building achievement, the new Pierce-Arrow buffet parlor car designed and constructed exclusively for the Pickwick Stage company to put in service on a special schedule between here and San Francisco, will be given a preview, in the display rooms here.

Many of the appointments are being kept secret until the formal debut of this unique motorized palace Pullman; but it is hinted by those in authority, that a series of surprises are in store for those who are fortunate enough to book passage on the inaugural run.

No slightest detail has been over looked that will add to the comfort of the passengers, it is stated.

A. C. Lusby, general manager of William E. Bush, Inc., said the new Pierce-Arrow motor coach chassis on which this luxurious new Pickwick bus has been mounted, has been especially developed by the Pierce-Arrow engineers after years of study into modern transport needs and resulting service of thousands of these new units all over the country has proven they are right in every detail for fast, comfortable passenger travel.

Obscure Signing Of Magna Charta

LONDON.—(AP)— A service held recently on the spot where the barons met King John commemorated the 70th anniversary of the signing of Magna Charta.

Many members of the clergy, Boy Scouts, fire fighters, representatives of friendly societies and hundreds of others marched for two miles from the village church of Egham across the Mede to the Old Windsor End, where speeches were made in the enclosure by the Right Rev. Bishop Darlington, of Harrisburg, Pa., and Sir Joseph Cook, the High Commissoner for Australia.

Nearly 10,000 attended and with bowed heads they repeated the following prayer in unison:

"We praise Thee, O God, for the great deed in this place 700 years ago, whereby the laws and liberties of this realm were defended against tyranny and a victory was fought for justice and freedom."

STREET CARS ADEQUATE FOR BIG FAIR NEEDS

Will be Able to Handle 25,000 People a Day

The street car system of the Wichita Falls Traction company will be able to handle 25,000 people day and night to and from the Texas-Oklahoma Fair, October 3 to 8 inclusive, according to L. L. Albritton, manager. The company is preparing plans to haul the crowds, Mr. Albritton stated, and every detail will be arranged so that the best of service can be given.

Trailers on all cars, if necessary, will be used to handle the crowds going and returning from the exposition. The rolling stock of the traction company will be placed in first class condition by the opening of the fair.

It is planned to have five minute service to and from the fair grounds all during fair time. Traffic men will be kept at the loop to prevent accidents and congestion.

The fair crowds will be handled without sacrificing the service on other lines. Some of the better cars are to be overhauled and put into the best possible condition for the fair traffic.

The traffic company has several cars that can accommodate 150 persons each trip. Better time to and from the fair grounds will be made this year. The roadbed and repairs along the lines tends to speed up street car traffic in all parts of the city, and especially on the lake and branch line leading to the expedition grounds.

Ford Trucks Are Popular This Year

Sales reports received by the Ford Motor company from branches throughout the country during the past week show an increased demand for trucks and tractors with retail deliveries exceeding those of last year.

Figures from these reports, which cover the first 20 days of July and which were just given out, give the sales of Ford one-ton trucks as totaling 12,168, an increase of 30 per cent over the same number of days in July last year.

While the greater portion of the truck sales cover industrial installation, there is a noticeble increase in deliveries in rural sections where harvesting of crops is under way or is just beginning. Another feature indicating that farmers are coming into the buying market in increasing numbers, comes in the report of Fordson tractor sales. Retail deliveries of Fordsons during the first twenty days of July numbered 3,664, an increase of 43 per cent over the same number of days in July a year ago.

In view of these reports and the business conditions they indicate sales during the remaining weeks of the summer will continue, it is anticipated on a higher level than ordinarily for this season of the year.

ELECTRA

Word has been received in Electra, by Superintendent B. M. Dinsmore, that the Electra high school has been awarded a single unit affiliation for manual training, a half unit for advanced arithmetic, and half unit for commercial law, making the total credits of affiliation thirty. These units are determined by the state department of education and Electra has the greatest units of affiliation of any other school in this part of the state with the exception of the Wichita Falls high school.

Mrs. J. A. Norwood of West Wharton entertained with a surprise shower this week honoring Mrs. John Hightower, who moves to Vernon soon. After an evening of playing games and contests, the hostess served delicious refreshments to the following: Mesdames Robert B. Cunningham, Gordon B. Crow, C. E. Schlemeyer, T. P. Taylor, J. L. Kinney, E. E. Ford of Dallas; J. L. Graham, E. D. Chesney, M. V. Ray, Lenna Gillum, W. B. Rucker, J. C. Mosley, J. L. Clayton, S. N. Belser, and Miss Francis Norwood.

Mrs. H. A. Kaye was hostess to a pretty affair last Wednesday evening honoring Miss Mary Sue Richardson's birthday. Her rooms were decorated with pink and white and the living room was decorated with ferns and other flowers, and on the dining room table was a lovely pink and white birthday cake with lighted candles in pink rosebud holders. The favors were tiny bottles of perfume for the girls and base balls for the boys. Games and music were enjoyed and readings were given by Miss Merle Dotson and Master Hugh Dale Saye.

Austin Tennis Star Is Only 16 Years Old

AUSTIN.—Berkeley Bell of Austin, who recently went to the semi-finals of the national junior tennis championship at Chicago, and was eliminated in the round before the finals by Cranston Holman, the eventual winner, is only 16 years old and has before him two years more of competition. Local sport fans are confident he will win the national junior net championship before he passes into the senior division.

Bell's main asset is a speedy chop, which he employs with great steadiness and accuracy. It was this stroke that carried him to victory over Emmett Pare, junior tennis champion of Chicago.

JUNIOR WORK WILL FEATURE AT T-O FAIR

Farmers and Ranchmen Expected to Derive Benefit From Exhibit

The Junior club work to be shown by boys and girls at the Texas-Oklahoma Fair, October 3 to 8, inclusive, will be of interest to farmers, ranchmen and even to many of the city folk, according to Guy L. Jones, superintendent of the agricultural department of the exposition.

Like every other product of the farm, it costs real money to rear boys and girls. Proper training of these boys and girls, however, like proper methods of tillage, soil management and other agricultural procedure, is conducive of excellent results, and a satisfactory return on the capital invested.

Junior club work for boys and girls is rapidly being acknowledged as a proper means of developing the best traits of our American youth brought up on the farm. It is not enough to pass up the problem of junior club work with the statement that the boys and girls on the average farm of today have more privileges and better chances for success than their fathers had when they were young, Jones stated.

Boy Scouts Given Charge Of Memphis Affairs For Day

MEMPHIS, Aug. 29.—Memphis Boy Scouts held the reins of Hall today. An election was held in the scout's organization last week and the following officers were installed for Saturday's duties: Mayor, Adrain Odom; city attorney, Russell Baldwin; chief of police, Stirley Greenwood, and for the county judge, James Hammond; attorney, James Anthony; sheriff, Billy Johnson, clerk, Eldon Thompson; tax collector, Vance Johnson; tax assessor, Donald Shepherd; treasurer, J. G. Gardner, Jr.; justice of the peace David Hudgins; constable, Everett Ross.

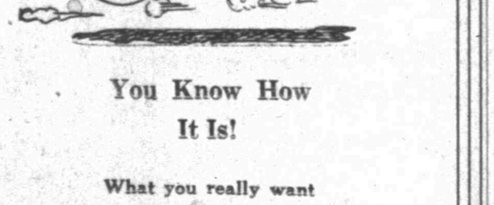

The plan was sponsored by civic organizations here and was put in force Saturday to give the boys an insight into city and county affairs.

Crane and Haner Form Partnership

Announcement has been made by J. C. Crane, prominent insurance man of this city, that he has formed a partnership with Fred W. Haner and that the firm will hereafter do business under the name of Crane and Haner. Offices are to be maintained in the Waggoner building.

Mr. Haner, although a young business man, has had wide experience in the insurance business. He has resigned a post as special agent with the American Indemnity company to take up his new work in Wichita Falls.

MARTIN AND WINTERS HURL GOOD GAMES

Fitzgerald and Turgeon Hit Homers to Aid In Twin Win

WACO, Aug. 29.—Paddy Martin stepped out in rare form, and with the steady pitching of Jess Winters in the nightcap helped the Spudders to a double win over the Waco Cubs Saturday afternoon, 7 to 0 and 10 to 3. This marked the first shutout over the Cubs in Katy Park this year.

Paddy was never in danger of losing the first game, only two of the Cublets being able to get as far as second base. Jess Winters weathered the last game in nice style, and received credit for his first game. The blond right hander from Abilene had worked in four games but never received credit for a win or a loss.

Get Early Lead.

The Spudders jumped off to a one-run lead in the first inning of the first game. Metzler walked and took second on a wild pitch. Distel was given a free ticket to first base. Fitzgerald skied to right. Bodie singled to center scoring Metzler, and sending Distel to third. Turgeon walked, filling the bases, and Laird, the Grandview rookie, ambled to the showers and Pratt brought on the veteran Roy Crumbler, who retired the side without further damage.

The Spudders scored another in the third inning on a double by Bodie and a wild pitch which sent the Spud first sacker romping home.

Four more were sent over the pan by Wichita Falls in the fourth inning. Query singled past second and took second on Martin's sacrifice to first. Metzler doubled past third and Query scored. Distel doubled to right, sending Metzler to third. Fitzgerald hit a home run over the right field fence, scoring Metzler and Distel ahead of himself.

A single by Query, a sacrifice by Martin and a single by Metzler scored another for the Spudders in the fifth. This closed the scoring in the first game for both sides.

Waco Scores.

Waco broke off to a one-run lead in the first inning of the second game. Cohen started the scoring with a single, advanced to second on a single by Brown. Pratt was hit with a pitched ball, filling the bases. Galloway hit a pop fly back of second and Cohen raced home.

Lyle and Winters then hooked up in an old-time hurlers' battle until the fifth inning when the Spudders took a 2 to 1 lead. Metzler singled through the box. Distel doubled to left sending Metzler to third. Fitzgerald then came through with another timely single to right, scoring both Metzler and Distel and taking second on the throw in.

Waco flashed back in the fifth with a pair, and again taking the lead. Perrin singled to left. Cohen sacrificed and Winters threw wild, both runners were safe. Brown slapped a single to right, scoring Perrin and sending Cohen to second. Both runners advanced while Distel was tossing out Pratt. Galloway walked, filling the bases. Foss forced Galloway at second, Distel to Turgeon. Foss was safe when Bodie dropped Turgeon's throw, Cohen scoring.

The Spudders once more went into the lead in the sixth inning. Turgeon started things off with a home run over the left field palings. Callaghan was safe at second when Brown spilled his fly. A sacrifice bunt by Dorman and a sacrifice fly by Jonnard sent Callaghan over the pan.

Is Easy Victory.

The Spuds put the game beyond all chances of a loss in the seventh by running in a half dozen tallies. A double by Metzler, a walk to Distel and an infield hit by Fitzgerald filled the bases. Bodie smacked a single past second, scoring Metzler and Distel and sending Fitzgerald to third. Fitzgerald scored and Bodie took third on Turgeon's single to center. Gould went to the relief of Lyle at this stage of the game and Marty Callaghan, the wild Irish rose, greeted him with a double to right that scored Bodie and sent Turgeon to third. Bubber Jonnard then put on the finishing touches with a single to center that scored both Turgeon and Callaghan.

Cobb Celebrates As Detroit Ruins Athletics 9 to 5

Georgia Peach in Majors 20 Years; Greets All His Friends

DETROIT, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Tyrus Raymond Cobb celebrated his 20th anniversary as a member of the Detroit team today by driving in one run and scoring himself with a double and single in four trips to the plate. The "Georgia Peach" shook hands with fully 1,000 fans before the game. Hale, Philadelphia third sacker, got a home run with none on base in the seventh. Hellmann's triple with the bases loaded in the fifth helped Detroit to amass seven runs in that inning. Score:

Cardinal Is Winner

HENDERSON, Ky., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Kentcky Cardinal, which failed to show any kind of form in the Kentucky derby, won the Dade Park derby, worth $5,000 added here today by one and one-quarter length over John T. D. Tick Tock.

Tick Tock was third. The time was 1:50 4-5 which clipped one and one-fifth seconds off the old track mark for the mile and an eighth.

DELANEY IS BETTER

BRIDGEPORT, Con., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Jack Delaney, contender for the world's light-heavyweight championship, was reported as being "greatly improved" at Saint Vincent's hospital today after an operation yesterday to relieve septic poison pressure caused by abscesses of the throat. He probably will be able to leave the hospital in two weeks.

The PASSING HOUR

~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

WE HUMAN FOLKS

I thought I was good enough to star
With never a hint of work—
The days that I might have practiced, true,
Were the days that I chose to shirk;
I haven't the kind of record now
That the other fellow makes,
But mostly I think it is all because
I didn't get the breaks.

The day I fanned with the bases full,
I was out the night before—
And the day that I dropped a counting fly
I might have been out some more—
That a golden horseshoe takes—
And the reason that I am bound for the bush
Is—"I didn't get the breaks."

BELL COUNTY charges epidemic of chicken thefts to hard times. Hard times for the chickens?

BILL WRIGLEY is building a million dollar ball park in Los Angeles. And the fans in Los Angeles and Chicago are still asking Bill for a million dollar ball club.

Bad Policy

WHEN Umpire Jack Daly forfeited to Fort Worth the game of Sunday, Aug. 23, because after Catcher Goff of Houston was parked the Buffs could not take the field, having no other receiver, he was acting fully within his rights but pursuing an extremely poor policy as far as the Texas league is concerned.

Because the beneficiary happened to be Fort Worth, the usual cry would of course follow that the league arbitators favor the Panthers. Daly—an unbiased official—probably weighed that in his mind and took the view that if he did not go through with it, he would be doing Fort Worth an injustice.

Texas league clubs can only carry two receivers. Houston's other catcher was in the hospital. Even if one of Goodwin's other men in an emergency could catch, it would be unjust to ask him to play a dangerous and unaccustomed position and risk further crippling a battered ball club.

This is the usual case where the actions of player should be punished by fine and by a suspension on McCurdy's return to duty. Putting the Buff's only maskman out of the game could only have a bad effect.

Where two games have been advertised and 6,000 fans pay to see them, there is the legal probability that every man jack of them could recover on a suit for his gate admission. That is a theory that will probably never be tested, for it is apparently always the Lome club that gets the advantage of a forfeit and a home crowd does not care how the club wins—so long as it wins.

But the forfeit places the Texas league in the uncomfortable position of advertising an exhibition it is not delivering.

THE ball player who is suing a Springfield hotel for a tumble sustained when he slipped on a cake of soap may recover. How was he expected to recognize it?

WELL, the judge has been working now for four years and nobody has put on a Landis day yet.

YOU MIGHT get the movement headed by Messrs. Gandil, Weaver, Williams, Cicotte, Jackson, Felsch and Riseberg.

Texas May Be Missing

IN ALL probability, when the lists are summoned up at Oakmont, Texas will not be lucky enough to place in the qualifying field. If this forecast comes true, it will be the first time in several years that a Lone Star entry has not poked his name into the match competition.

The prophecy this year is based on the fact that few of the Texas players will compete and that in view of the reduction of the qualifying field from 32 to 16, the medal competition will be so keen that luck as well as skill will be required to horn into the select company.

It requires no prophetic gift at all to foresee that the 16 players who do qualify will include by far the fastest of America's golfers today and that while there is no possibility of speculation as to who will be the unlucky who fail, those who get in are going to be playing their best golf from tee to slot at Oakmont.

After all, what the new arrangement really resolves itself into, is that the starting field will be made up largely as the second day's match play has been at tournaments of recent ears.

INTERSECTIONAL grid games have done wonders for the sports, as football writers. And fearful and wonderful things to grades.

No Inheritance?

YOU READ a lot—press agent stuff—on young Bob Fitzsimmons. He is to follow in the footsteps of the man who once held the middleweight and heavyweight championships simultaneously. He has inherited the fighting instinct of the ruddy Cornishman. He is to do this and that.

Perhaps Young Bob has inherited these things. But there is something he has not drawn from the lineage—he lacks the queer physique which a great many well versed fighting critics place as the chief source of the success of Fitz—that and the blind luck in the Corbett bout that could hardly be inherited either.

Fitzsimmons was a fistic freak. It was his queer anatomy—the tremendous long arms, far beyond the ordinary length for his height and poundage, that made him. He had a heavyweight's drive and punch with a heavyweight's arms, when he was a legitimate middleweight in ring left. Naturally that made him a champion in one division. His heavyweight title is usually agreed to have been luck in his first encounter but his frame stood him in good stead then.

PIRATES TAKE DOUBLE BILL OFF PHILLIES

Pittsburgh Hammers Out Victories in Easy Fashion

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Displaying a formidable offensive in both games of a double bill, the Pirates today hammered out victories over Philadelphia by scores of 11 to 2 and 13 to 1. In the opening game the league leaders assaulted Decatur and Betts for a total of 15 safeties, a big fifth inning in which six runs were scored aiding in the accumulation. Before they could be retired in the first inning of the wind up game the Pittsburghers knocked Couch from the box and put the game on ice with a six-run lead. Traynor had a pair of home runs in the second game. Harper's circuit clout averted a shut out for the Phillies. Score:

WHITE BEAR, Minn., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Elain Rosenthal Reinhart of Dallas, Texas, today won the woman's western golf championship for the third time by defeating Mrs. Harley Higbie of Detroit 2 and 1.

Foreigners Win

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 29.—(AP)—An all-foreign tennis combination won the 1925 national mixed doubles championship in the final match of the tournament week on the turf courts of the Longwood Cricket club today. Miss Kathleen McKane of England and John B. Hawkes, Australian Davis cup star, took the title by defeating Miss E. H. Harvey of England and Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., in straight sets. The scores were 6-1, 6-4.

CATS 6; BEARS 3.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 29.—Bunching four hits off Watt in the ninth, the Cats scored four runs to beat the Bears, 6 to 3, in the final game of the series today. Smith started the rally with a Texas leaguer over second base and after Walkup's sacrifice, Davis dropped another Texas leaguer in center, followed by an unaccepted chance on Calvo's grounder to Watt and Konetchy's single. Walkup succeeded Wachtel on the hill in the third inning after the latter had allowed the locals to over take the Cat lead.

Coyotes Shaping Up For Opening of 1925 Football Season

4 LETTER MEN TO BE BACK IN LOCAL LINEUP

M'Callum in High Hopes For Outlook On This Year

By MACK TURNER.

The tentative schedule of the Wichita Falls High School Coyotes has been announced and but little time is given the boys from the first day of practice to the initial game in Hollis, Okla.

Bud McCallum is in high hopes this year with the prospects in sight for his year's team. Four letter men will be back and three of last year's reserve are ready to step into vacancies left by graduates. With the spring training results known, the each has a fair line on his men.

Captain Welch Curtin will be one of last year's crew back. He will be remembered as the hero of last season's hectic 0 to 0 tie with Electra.

Steed Returns.

Buck Steed, one of the best broken field runners in this section will also return to the backfield. Steed was counted on heavily in last year's drive but went out in the first conference game with Vernon, a result of a broken arm.

Wymore Downing will be back and is counted on as an important cog in the red and black machine. Ed Powell, the fourth letter man, will also be back in either the line or backfield.

Jewell Sisk, Frank Dobson and rank Ray will be the three reserve men to step into places this year. McCallum has a list of 30 with a chance of adding new ones who have recently moved into Wichita Falls. Of all t nthis list there is but one that should be absent from the first practice. Coyal Francis, who has been greatly depended on in the rush, recently met with an accident while at work at the American Refinery and is confined to the hospital. He will be out for some time.

The opponent and date for the first game has not yet been definitely settled, but chances for a scrap with Meridian college or Nocona on September 19 are probable.

Altus Here Sept. 26.

On September 26 the club will meet Altus, Okla., here. On October 3 they are planning a game at Bowie, but this has not yet been arranged. October 17 they meet Grandfield at Grandfield. On November 6 they go to Lawton for a game, and November 14 play Abilene on foreign soil. Thanksgiving day they meet Fort Worth Central High on Coyote field.

The first conference game will probably be played October 10 with Electra. Vernon and Amarillo will be played some time after that date.

BRAVES SPLIT PAIR.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—(AP)—More than 32,000 persons, said to be the largest crowd ever to watch a cellar team in Boston saw the Braves divide a double header with Chicago today. The Braves won the first game in the ninth after two were out on Gibson's double and Padgett's single. The score was 3 to 2. In the second the visitors won 12 to 6, a margin in which the heavy hitting Weis, Freigeau and Jahn played a part. Between the games admirers presented an automobile to Walter Gautreau, Braves second baseman. Score:

Duke Trammel Back In Ring Thursday Night

RUTH IS FINED $5,000 AND PUT OUT BY BOSS

Yankee Slugger Disciplined By Huggins for Misconduct

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29.—AP).—"Misconduct off the field was responsible for the $5,000 fine and indefinite suspension imposed on Babe Ruth today," Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees stated tonight.

"I absolutely refuse to discuss the circumstances which led up to the fine and suspension, except to say that Ruth was guilty of misconduct off the field," Huggins stated.

Ruth in Hiding.

Up to an eary hour tonight Ruth could not be reached for a statement He was said to have appeared at a residence in the west end but left a few minutes before newspapermen arrived, saying that he intended to catch a 5 o'clock train for New York.

An investigation revealed that Ruth was not on the train and had not appeared at the station when it departed.

First news that there had been trouble came this afternoon when the Yankees took the field for the game against the Browns, and Ruth was absent from the lineup. Inquirers were informed that Ruth had deserted the club and gone to New York, but Huggins was confronted with the report and he admitted the fine and suspension, and that he had ordered the slugger to New York.

Employes at the Buckingham hotel declared that Ruth was smiling and seemingly not worried over the turn of events.

Other Escapades.

This is only one of the numerous spectacular escapades of the New York star, who in addition to being proclaimed baseball's most valuable player in 1922, is the highest salaried player in history, and probably was the greatest drawing card of all time.

During the fall of 1921 Ruth violated the rules of organized baseball prohibiting "barnstorming" tours by members of pennant winning teams. For that incident Ruth was suspended without pay for the first 30 days of the 1922 season.

On other occasions Ruth's high-strung temperament similarly exhibited itself with the result that he had run-ins with umpires.

Ruth set out early in 1923 to regain some of his lost prestige and his deportment that season was so good and his playing record so excellent that he was awarded baseball's most valuable player prize at the close of that season.

Suffers Breakdown.

In the spring of the 1924 season, Ruth attempted to maintain his wonderful play, but the strain of taking off weight accumulated during the winter proved too much and the swat king suffered a physical breakdown. He was kept out of the game during the early part of the season, but virtually regained his stride at the close of the season.

Last spring Ruth became ill at the training camp and just before the season started he again suffered a tated confinement in the hospital and an operation.

The "Babe's" work this season has been far below standard, and in one instance spectators saw a "pinch hitter" batting in Ruth's place. His work caused much comment and recently it was announced that if he signed a new contract during 1926 it would be at a much reduced salary with a further cut promised if his work failed to measure up to his former standard.

Ruth's present salary is purported to be around $52,000 a year. Computed on this basis, his salary approximatel $8,000 a month or about $298 a day. Consequently, if his salary demands are held up by his suspension, Ruth loses, in addition to the $5,000 fine, $298 a day salary.

Pompey Wins

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP).—Pompey, 3 to 1 shot, of the Shone stables, triumphed against a brilliant field of two-year-olds in the $50,000 Hopeful stakes, feature race of the closing card at the Spa today, setting a new track record for the six and one-half furlongs with a time of 1:17 4-5. W. J. Salmon's Flight of Time was second and Chance Play, Log Cabin stud, third.

Golf

AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

By BILL STRACHAN.

Trap Shots Difficult.

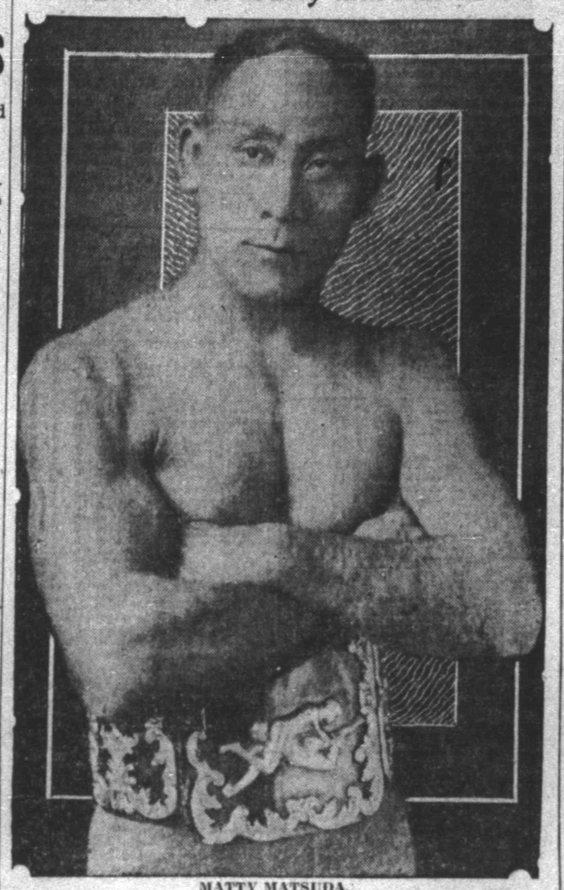

The most difficult of all golf shots is the one where the player must extricate the ball from the sand at the foot of a steep bank. Even expert players are apt to make a sorry mess out of this. The reason is that most golfers get trap fright.

When in a bad position the shot must be studied more carefully than the ordinary shot. First, one must ascertain the condition of the sand whether it is flaky or heavy, wet or dry.

The principal thing is to get the ball out and forget about any great distance. The heavy niblick should be used in all cases as the shot must be played almost straight up in the air.

Keeping the head down is essential, but not everything. One must hit well behind the spot where the ball rests and to do this the club should be brought down adbruptly. The hands should maintain a firm grip on the club as this along will prevent the club head from turning. Another important thing to remember is that conziderable resistance is offered to the club head and only a strong grip will enable the club to cut the sand and go through.

"No Holts Barred" in Jiu Jitsu Match With Matty and Pasha Here

MATTY MATSUDA.

A strictly jiu jitsu bout, no holds barred, in which Matty Matsuda will undertake to throw Kala Pasha twice within an hour or forfeit his split of the gate receipts will be provided Tuesday night at the wrestling arena, Indiana and Eleventh streets. This will be the feature of the card which will also include two other important bouts.

Matsuda, welterweight wrestling champ of the world, will concede some 25 pounds or more in weight to the Turk, but he is confident that his privilege of using any jiu jitsu holds in his repertoire he can down his opponent within the prescribed period of time.

This will be the first jiu jitsu match ever held in Wichita Falls and is already attracting considerable attention from local sportsmen.

In the semi-final match, Jack Gorman, the West Texas favorite, meets Jack Woods of Shreveport in a finish match, best two falls out of three. Two local men, Office C. E. Griffin of the police department, champion of the city hall, and Willis Lawson will wrestle one fall to a finish with a 15-minute time limit.

Final Pitching Average of Twilight League

"Choc" Thompson, pitcher and outfielder de luxe of the pennant winning Texhoma Oilers had the highest percentage with three wins against a lone defeat for a .750 mark. However, "Plumber" Courtney of the Bankers was the real leader with five wins against two defeats in nine games. Glidewell, the American ace, was close behind with seven wins and three defeats but needed a bit more assistance in bringing in his wins in the 13 games he hurled.

WASHINGTON OVERWHELMS CHICAGO 12-1

Harris Leads Senators In Terrific Slugging Fest

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Terrific slugging, especially by Harris, who smashed out four hits including two home runs and a double, gave Washington an overwhelming victory over Chicago, 12 to 1, making it two straight. Zachary held Chicago to six hits and might have scored a shut out if Goslin had not fumbled Kamm's single in the fifth. The boot put Kamm on second base and he scored on Edward's single. The visitors were helped in their run making by erratic support behind Robertson and Edwards. Robertson lasted the first three innings and then gave way to a pinch hitter, Edwards was hit opportunely by the league leaders and also was wild. Score:

K. O. KING TO TRADE PUNCHES WITH ANDREWS

Billy Carney and Young Murdock Also to Be Slated

The Thursday night fight card has been practically completed with several good matches in line for the program. Duke Trammel will attempt a comeback into popular favor in Wichita Falls when he exchanges mits with Heavy Andrews of Chicago in the 12-round main bout. Andrews is a stable mate of Mahoney's and has a long string of kayos for a youngster.

Carney vs. Murdock.

Billy Carney, the Katy Shops kid, will be rematched with Young Murdock in an 8-round fight. Carney states that the referee would not have to be embarrassed by his decision this week, as he is going to send Murdock down for the count.

Murdock is not as easy as Carney would believe, yet the Katy Shop glovester looked mighty good in his bout last Thursday and may outpoint the local youngster.

Ray Parker, who is just in from a great run as a Denver favorite, is to meet Young Rich. Vernon favorite, in a 6-round bout. The Vernon f

WHAT'S DOING HERE AND THERE IN WEST TEXAS

Rule

One of the most interesting meeting of the Missionary society of the Methodist church was held on the lawn of Mrs. P. H. Campbells Monday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock. The guests were greeted by Mrs. E. T. Breedlove who led them to the porch where Mrs. Jess Campbell and Ed. Verner served punch. Twenty-two members answered to roll call with their favorite verse of scripture. Mrs. A. C. Murry of Dallas was a guest. A dainty ice course consisting of orange sherbert and macarons with roses as plate favors was served by the hostesses.

Mrs. James E. Lindsey entertained her two sons, James and Delwin with a house party last week-end. On Wednesday evening many games were played on the lawn and a watermelon feast enjoyed. On Thursday Mrs. Lindsey chaperoned the youngsters to Old Glory where a day was spent in swimming, fishing and other out of door sports. Friday a picnic was enjoyed by the guests at the Stamford lake, then that evening they closed their party with a pretty entertainment on the Lindsey lawn with about twenty guests present. Those enjoying the week-end party were: J. W. Kelley, Frank Campbell, Raymond McCandless, Wilbur Arrington, James and Delwin Lindsey.

Mrs. Grady Keith entertained her Sunday school class with a pretty lawn party Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Many out doors games were enjoyed by the children and a very happy afternoon was spent. Refreshments of cream and cake, candy and fruits were served to about fifteen children.

The new theatre building is nearing completion. It will be an up-to-date building in every respect. H. S. Leon, proprietor of the Rule theatre informs the public that he will install new, modern seats and other improvements, and will be ready about September 1 to give a first class picture show.

The cotton crop around the Rule trade territory is the best tin several years. Several bales have been ginned. The feed crop in most sections is good much better than in several years. The merchants of Rule are preparing for full business with one of the largest stocks carried in the history of Rue.

Haskell

Miss Madeline Hunt daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Hunt and one of Haskell's most popular young ladies, was hostess to a house party last week. It was composed of the following out of town girls: Misses Shirley Gibson, Dallas; Orleene Hunt, Dallas; Vivian Favors, Knox City; Mary Eula Sears Merkle; Chrystelle Owens, Plainview and Elizabeth Baldwin of Haskell. Thursday evening Miss Hunt introduced the following young men to her guests in her home and dancing was the diversion: Messrs. Reynolds Wilson, John Pace, Earnest Sanders, Herman Weinert, Gaines Post, Kenneth Gates, Vernay Anderson, and Maurice Smith. On Friday morning the hostess, assisted b yher mother, gave a 42 and bridge party. O. Galloway, Fort Worth. Miss Hunt presented members of her house party with linen handkerchiefs and high score in bridge was made by Mrs. Marlin Wilson of Rule, low bridge by Miss Mary Eula Sears of Merkle high 42 by Miss Frankie May Brooks and low 42 by Miss May Bell Taylor. Again on Friday evening the young men were invited and accompanied the house party and hostess and a few invited guests to English park where after a swim, a weiner roast was enjoyed around a camp fire.

From last Saturday night until Monday the following enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene English who invited them to share in the fun of camping out on a beautiful spot on California Creek: Misses Ermie English, Melba Bledsoe, Ora May Haynie, Fort Worth; Messers. Jack Sutherland, Hugh and Roy Ratliff and Mrs. Edith English.

Mrs. George Thomason complimented ther daughter with a sun-rise breakfast at Bledsoe's lake last Friday morning and a splendid time was enjoyed by Misses Joy Sorrells, Frances Ferguson, Geneva Williams, Annie Beth Thomason, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. George Thomason.

Mrs. Gammell, teacher of the Gleaners Sunday school class of the Methodist church, took her class last Tuesday to Bledsoe's lake for an all-day picnic. Mesdames W. M. Mask and Poteet and Rankin Gammell were als present besides the class.

The class roll follows: Vannie Lee Marrs, Allen Jones, Jamoi Poteet, Ella Mae Berry, Nancy Gueset, Lena Bell Kemp, Lucia Mask, Lou Ella Woodson, Vivian Bernard, Velva Thomas, Beatrice Thomas, Hazel McIver, Ruby Cox, Ruby Spurlock, Kathryne Wingo, Anna Bell Burt, Madge Hambleton, Juanita Howelth, Mildred Robertson, Ore Burlson, Ruth Martin and Bessie Bee Kaigler.

On Tuesday evening the New Pavilion at English park was formally opened by a band concert by the Haskell band followed by a dance. The pavilion is 40 by 90 with an interior 32 by 80 railed off skating and dancing space.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Spurlock are enjoying a family reunion this week-end. The guests list includes: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Snyder and daughters Hazel and Edith; Mrs. Roy Sinor and baby, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Mrs. M. M. McNeece is entertaining her sister, Miss Anita Woodward of Stephensville.

Mrs. Bertha McNeil has entertained the following in her home within the last week: Mrs. D. M. VanPelt, Houston; Mrs. H. C. Hord and children, Houston, and Miss Ora May Haynie of Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morrison of Dallas are visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. George Morrison.

Mrs. Ted Alexander and baby visited her sister, Mrs. J. C. Henson of Seymour last week.

Mrs. Matthew Alexander and daughter, Maxine of Stamford and Mrs. Harry Hord and son, James Douglas of Houston, attended the opening dance of The English park pavillion last Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander came home Tuesday morning from St. Louis and Chicago. Mr. Alexander bought goods for the F. G. Alexander and Sons store and Mrs. Alexander from a summer with relatives in and around Chicago.

A wedding of much interest to Haskell was that of Miss Annie May Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Caldwell and Frank Harris, of the F. G. Alexander and Sons dry goods store who were married Saturday and left immediately for Wichita Falls and other points on their wedding trip.

Haskell is to have a new apartment house as Mrs. N. McNeil has let the contract for a two story one to be erected on her lot west of the Methodist parsonsage. Work on the foundation was begun the early part of the week. When completed the building will be modern in every respect and will be equipped with hot and cold water and will have a furnace to heat during the winter. It will be stucco finished and will do much to care for the shortage of apartments in Haskell.

Watermelons are coming into Haskell thick and fast at the present time. Many varieties and sizes are to be seen in cars and wagons about the street. Several of the finest varieties are being kept for exhibition purposes at the Haskell fair, October 1, 2 and 3.

Charley

Cotton around Charley is opening rapidly and picking has been started on several farms. The first bale was ginned Saturday morning.

Miss Lois Pearman of Denton is visiting friends here this week.

W. A. and Osie Foster were in Lone Oak a few days last week.

RADIO SINGER DEAD

Is Found in Kitchen With All Burners on Gas Stove Turned On.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Arthur Beiner, whose voice is a radio singer was heard by listeners all over the country through station KYW here, was found dead last night in the kitchen of the home of his brother-in-law. All the burners of a gas range were turned on.

Will Radium At Last Open the Door Of The Great Unknown?

If you are sick and want to Get Well and Keep Well, write for literature that tells How and Why this almost unknown and wonderful new element brings relief to so many sufferers from Constipation, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Neuritis, Neuralgia, Nervous Prostration, High Blood Pressure and diseases of the Stomach, Heart, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, and other ailments. You wear Degnen's Radio-Active Solar Pad day and night, receiving the Radio-Active Rays continuously into your system, causing a healthy circulation, overcoming sluggishness, throwing off impurities and restoring the tissues and nerves to a normal condition—and the next thing you know you are getting well.

Sold on a test proposition. You are thoroughly satisfied it is helping you before the appliance is yours. Nothing to do but wear it. No trouble or expense, and the most wonderful fact about the appliance is that it is sold so reasonable that it is within the reach of all, both rich and poor.

No matter how bad your ailment, or how long standing, we will be pleased to have you try it at our risk. For full information write today—not tomorrow. Radium Appliance Co., 252 Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.—Adv.

Rum Men Blamed In Death of Officers

GRAY, Ga., Aug. 29—(AP)—Feeling against moonshiners was high here today following the deaths yesterday of two Jones county officers who were shot to death while on a hunt for illicit stills.

A coroner's verdict declared that Floyd Malone, county policeman, and Frank Brocker, whose shot-riddled bodies were found at an abandoned mill late yesterday, "were murdered by unknown parties."

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MAR YBLAKE

Virgo

Today's planetary aspects are benign, without being actively favorable. They, however, undergo a very radical change in the evening, when they are distinctly adverse. The signs denote that, during the day, all Sunday observances and recreations can be pursued, with a complete assurance of happiness and enjoyment being derived therefrom. After sunset, it will require a great amount of self-control and determination to guard against the evil emotions that will then arise. You will, if you give way to these influences, become unduly critical, acrimonious, and argumentative. Only a strong will, combined with toleration can so handle the circumstances as to make the evening of today the "End of a Perfect Day."

Children born today will cause their parents very little worry during the infantile period on account of sickness. They will possess strong constitutions, and this will enable them to throw off any passing ailment. In their teens, however, they will be liable to experience a serious illness. This, with timely care and vigilance, will be successfully overcome. In disposition and temperament, they will be rather unruly, deceptive, and disobedient. It will be necessary to exercise much patience, as forceful discipline will only accentuate the evils that it endeavors to remedy.

If today is your birthday, you are exceptional, and in a class by yourself. You are abrupt and laconic in speech, and never hesitate to "call a spade a spade." You have a magnetic personality, and a charm all your own, which very largely destroys the first impressions caused by your conversation. You are intuitive in judgment, and rarely err in the opinions you form of others, and to crown it all, you are demonstrative in love.

You possess much originality of thought, and are full of initiative. From you, all those that know you, always "expect the unexpected;" you never act as others act, and are unusual.

You are generous in your gruff way. You have great ideals, are discreet, and as a consequence, receive many confidences.

In your home life you are very unselfish, and strive to create pleasure and harmony.

Successful people born on this date are:

George E. Root, composer.

Hazen S. Pingree, ex-governor of Michigan.

Rudolph A. Witthaus, toxicologist.

Julian A. Weir, artist.

SYRIA SITUATION BETTER.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The situation in Syria continues to improve, although Suedia is still besieged by rebel tribesmen, according to information from General Sarrail, the high command. The normal life of Damascus has not been interrupted, the dispatches say, no raiding party of Druses having even come within range of the French artillery there.

COAT--DRESS COMBINATION IS POPULAR

By MRS. H. B. WRIGHT.
J. W. Ferguson Dry Goods Co.

This is undoubtedly a coat and dress season. Suits, either tailored or otherwise, will not figure prominently, but dressed will be selected to harmonize with coats. Fine tailoring, however, is emphasized in both the coat and dress.

Ensembles differ this season in that the frocks to these costumes are developed in stlyes and types which make them independent of the coat shown with them, and yet harmonizing when both garments are worn together. Sometimes the relationship is only implied by a contrast of tones with a mere repetition of color in both pieces.

The cloth, velvet or silk coat is shown for most part with a silk dress. The cloth dress is more geneally used in sports ensembles. At a style show recently held in New York, an interesting interpretation of the sports ensemble was offered in a coat of antelope, lined in striped cloth, of which the dress was also made. The stripes ran diagonally, and as the costume was worn by a slight, youthful figure, it was indeed attractively striking.

Straight Lines.

The flare is not neglected in the ensemble, although in this type of costume straight lines are more generally adhered to. However, side and back fulness has been noted, and a flare developed from the shoulder. A charming young matron was seen at a recent international sports event in a gray ensemble, with the coat of dark gray, and a lighter tone of the same shade for the dress. A hint of Empire cut was cleverly achieved in a panel-pleat introduced at the back of the under-arm sides. Wing panels also served to lend fulness t othe coat silhouette. Accompanying her, was a very young miss in an ensemble combining a plaid serge tailored coat and dress with box pleated skirt.

In one smart Fifth avenue shop, color contrast was brought in coat and frock by a scheme of green and brown carried out interchangeably in the decoration of the two garments. Another costume boasted decoration in a futuristic vein, effected by fur combined with braid embroidery.

Velvet Popular.

Velvet is extensively used as a medium for developing entire garments, and is also used as trimming. Youthful ensembles are developed in long coats of cashmere duvetyn, combined with dresses of silk crepe or satin. These are brought out in brilliant reds and blues. In the tailored ensemble, the coat and dress are frequently both of tweed or homespun.

Ensemble coats in the majority are long. More formal models are fur-trimmed, with fitch, wolf and fox much in evidence. Fur on the hemline is not generally used, being confined to the collar.

Dresses of ensemble models are one and two-piece types. If two-piece, the blouse is usually hip-length. Flares and pleats are prominent.

Evening Ensembles.

There are evening ensembles, too—capes of velvet, harmonizing with the dress in one way or another.

Tailored suits are not altogether out of the running. These are presented in hipline coats and seven-eighths coats. They are shown for the most part in tweeds, English cheviots, men's wear flannel weaves and homespuns. Styling embraces double breasted variations, tight hiplines and very slight body lines. Interesting details are velvet collars, broad lapels, pocketing and clever tailoring lines for ornamental purposes. Coats are extreme, either very short or very long.

Rabbi Samuel Phillips To Be Installed Here Next Sunday At Temple Israel

Rabbi Samuel Phillips of Dallas will be installed at rabbi of Temple Israel, Eleventh and Burnett streets, at 4 o'clock next Sunday afternoon September 6, at one of the most elaborate ceremonies ever held at an installation here. The program includes a number of musical selections, and addresses by Rabbi Harry Merfeld of Temple Beth-El, Fort Worth, and Rabbi David Lefkowitz of Temple Emanu-El, Dallas, two outstanding rabbis of the state.

Rabbi Phillips, who has been officiating at Temple Emanu-El in Dallas during the summer vacation of Rabbi Lefkowitz, has arrived in Wichita Falls with his family and has taken an apartment at the Chenault-Wheat house.

The first services here at which Rabbi Phillips will officiate will be held at the temple at 8 o'clock next Friday evening. The public has been invited.

Rabbi Phillips is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and of the Hebrew Union college and is said to be an able speaker and scholar.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the installation ceremonies a week from today, as follows:

Organ prelude, Largo in G. Handel, by Ila Cook; America, congregation; invocation, Rev. Milo Atkinson; baritone solo, Adoration, Mariana, by William E. Young; address of welcome, Louis Pink, president congregation Tempel Israel; violin solo, Legends, Wieniawski, by Prof. Ethel Allen Nelson, with Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff at the piano; address, "The Mutual Pledge, Part 1," by Rabbi Harry Merfeld of Temple Beth-El; duet, soprano and tenor, "I Will Magnify Thee," Mosenthal, by Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes and Mayor R. E. Shepherd; address, "The Mutual Pledge, Part 2," by Rabbi David Lefkowitz; quartet, "Oh Holy Father," by the Shrine quartet, Von Allman, Murchison, Bullington and Ray, with Mr. Pittman at the piano; response, Rabbi Samuel Phillips; contralto solo, "Oh, Rest in the Lord," Mendelsshon, Mrs. Luella Thompson; benediction, Rev. Milo.

The officers of Congregation Temple Israel are: Louis Pink, president; A. A. Howitz, treasurer; M. Goldstucker, secretary.

REAL ESTATE MEN INDORSE PAVING PLAN

Are in Favor of Proposed Bond Issue of $100,000

Because of lack of funds, the City of Wichita Falls can give no funds toward the paving of streets, J. O. Mytinger, vice president of the chamber of commerce and prominent local business man, told members of the Real Estate board yesterday in asking that organizations support for a proposed $100,000 paving bond issue. The realtors indorsed the proposed bond issue following Mr. Mytinger's talk.

"All the city can do now is to keep the street in repair," he said. "When the paving program was begun here some few years ago, the city had sufficient funds so that when Tenth street was paved, it was able to bear a third of the cost of the work. Subsequently, the city was able to bear only a fourth of the cost of street paving. Lately, the city has been trying to do grading work, but the funds now are exhausted and that is not being done.

"Bank books show an overdraft of $38,000 on the city's paving fund, which goes to show that the city is spending ahead of its income for this purpose and now is at the end of the rope," he said. "The budget for the street department last year was $72,573. The books show about $42,000 of this fund 'unspent,' yet there is a big overdraft because the city was in the financial hole on its paving funds at the beginning of the year.

"A bond issue of $100,000 would support a three-year paving program. In the proposed issue, there are various items to be asked for, giving citizens a chance to vote their preference. The city needs the issue and it needs it badly," he concluded.

Two Inspectors In City to Enforce Milk Ordinance

Enforcement of the new milk ordinance will be assisted by Dr. Clarence E. Smith from the milk inspection office of the U. S. Public Health service and Dr. M. Puison, state drug and food inspector, who arrived in Wichita Falls Saturday morning. Drs. Smith and Puison will help the city authorities handle this new adoption, which will be of great service to the city.

Dr. Smith, while in the city, will visit all dairies and milk producers to make the ordinance clearer, and to explain the requirements, a meeting of dairymen and milk producers will be held at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Labor Temple, where the ordinance will be discussed. City Health Commissoner J. H. Patton urges all dairymen and milk producers to be present. "We want the cooperation of all milk producers and dealers in the Wichita Falls district and hope that they will attend the meeting and learn the requirements of the new ordinance," Commissioner Patton stated.

FAITH LODGE DEGREE TEAM WINS HONORS

Invited by Texas Grand Master to Put on Work At Decatur

The degree team of Faith lodge No. 1158, A. F. & A. M., has been signally honored with an invitation from Guinn Williams, grand master of the Masonic bodies of the state of Texas, to come to Decatur and confer the musical master's degree in his home lodge. This invitation is extended in recognition of the work that this team has been doing in the territory surrounding Wichita Falls. The team is composed of the following:

F. W. R. Fritz, worshipful master.
Lawrence Rollins, senior warden.
Thos. R. Wynn, junior warden.
Jacob B. Price, senior deacon.
A. O. Thomas, junior deacon.
P. B. Curd, secretary.
Rev. John J. Bell, chaplain.
Walter H. Caldwell, seafaring man.
G. W. L. Spencer, master of ceremonies
W. B. Baldwin, lecturer and charge.

Go in Special Cars.

Fellowcrafts: G. W. Curd, Carl L. Karges, R. W. Seyler, W. L. Bass, Jimmie C. Warren, J. B. Lawson, I. M. Campbell, C. L. Buck, Frank D. Wolfe, J. W. Still, M. R. Helms, W. W. Haney, Lester P. McNeill, W. R. McCright, Eli F. Morgan.

Quartet:
G. E. Weber, bass.
Paul Rutledge, baritone.
Bert Kurtz, first tenor.
L. D. Parnell, second tenor.
Clayton E. Baldwin, pianist.

The committee in charge of this degree team has made special arrangements with the Fort Worth & Denver and are going down in special coaches attached to the train, leaving Wichita Falls at 1:30 p. m. Friday. These coaches will be set out at Decatur and will be attached to the train leaving Decatur at 2:06 a. m. on the return trip to Wichita Falls.

Masons Going.

It is expected that a number of Masons will accompany the team on this trip. In addition to the team there are a number from Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Electra who have signed up to go. All Masons desiring to make this trip will please get in touch with G. W. Curd, secretary of Faith lodge, so that credentials can be issued. In addition to the grand master there will be a number of prominent and well known Masons from various points in Texas who are making a special trip to see this degree team perform, as well as members from nearby Oklahoma lodges.

This degree team has put itself at the call of the grand master and already plans are being perfected for the fall and winter work, and a number of invitations have been received and this team expects to confer this degree in a number of the lodges in this territory.

TRUTH SERUM O. K.

Texas Criminologist's Investigation Proves Successful in Test.

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 29.—(AP).—Three men today underwent a test of the "truth serum" developed by Dr. R. Ernest House, Texas criminologist. The experiment, held before a special committee of the International Association for Identification, holding a conference here, was declared successful.

The subjects were Victor Malucha and John Strong of Detroit and Leroy Moffitt of Titbury, Ont., all volunteers. They were awakened this morning several hours after administration of the serum and questioned. Dr. House and members of the committee said their answers showed the efficiency of the serum.

Natural Solution of a Vexing Question

Building a great company for the production and transportation of natural gas was a perfectly natural solution of a vexing question.

In earlier days, when gas supplies were found, different communities organized local companies to market this gas. This worked very well until the local supplies of gas were exhausted, when it was found that if service were to continue the gas must come from a considerable distance. This meant a much heavier investment, and very keen competition for the known sources of gas.

Only adequately financed companies could survive, and it soon became evident that the larger the company the more fields it could draw upon, and it could thereby obtain a more certain supply. Soon the economics of the situation brought about a general producing company that could devote its capital and energy toward finding the gas, and on the other hand local companies that could distribute this gas—an arrangement that exists to the present.

Gathering huge resources into one company has enabled the provision of the supply for years ahead, its economical distribution over a much wider area, and the handling of minimum quantities of gas at less cost, with the result of lower prices to the consumer.

Eighteen Million Old Maids By Rupert Hughes

American women have been so busy with their conquests that they are apt to ignore the activities abroad, where things wonderful and terrible are being done under the strangely various conditions.

In some European countries women have far surpassed American women in various fields. We have no woman scientist to approach Madame Curie. We have no soldiers who have fought as hundreds of European women have fought. We have no philosophers who have been as radical as some of theirs.

"Fortunate is that country that has no history," said Tacitus. Our women have made less sensational achievement perhaps, because they dwell in a medium that resists them less. In fact, an American woman can have almost anything that she has the ability, the initiative and the persistence to go after.

Our women acquired the vote by simply convincing enough other women that they ought to have it. The chief enemies of women suffrage were women, as the chief enemies of male suffrage were men.

In Europe, however, the American husband was long a byword for henpecked helplessness. Luckily for the prestige of American men, they gained such tremendous conquests over the tryannies of nature and custom that they could never be accused of lacking either courage or genius, however muc hthey might be charged with excessive chivalry.

In George Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman" there was an amusing quip that went something like this: An American says, "In America men revere their women." An Englishman retorted, "No wonder so many American women marry foreigners."

In the brief while since the success of that play, women have come to the same conclusion that they prefer equality to pretended reverence or empty gallantry.

In Europe where the tradition is stronger that binds women to her ancient inferiority from the time of creation, the women have had a far more different problem.

And yet individuals have shot so far above their level as to shine like planets. There have been monarchs like Elizabeth, who inherited the crown but had to fight for it; peasants who mounted to enormous power, like the first Catherine of Russia. She was the illegitimate child of a armer and was tossed about among the soldiers till she became the slave or mistress of various generals, and finally of the Czar Peter the Great. She made him marry her, saved him from disaster, and succeeded him on the throne. No man in history ever ascended from deeper depths to more glittering heights.

There is no lack of bravery among the European women. Today I read of a young French newspaper woman, Mlle. Arrialy, who was insulted in Italy by a soldier, and demanded an apology from the General in command. When he ignored her, she challenged him to a duel with sword or pistol. She was thrown into a jail and ordered out of the country. When she refused to go, she was strapped to a stretcher and taken to a lunatic asylum. She persuaded the doctors that she was sane, but was persuaded to go back to France.

This fierce Amazon won great notoriety before the war by appealing to women to put an end to the miseries of the world by taking a unanimous vow never to bear an more children. Fortunately—or unfortunately—for posterity this universal pact for cosmic suicide was not agreed upon.

The very opposite spirit has moved another woman in Europe to make an almost startling proposal. Mme. Kersis Kova, who is a deputy in the new-born nation of Czecho-Slovakia, proposes that every man under 50 should assume as a patriotic duty the burdens of polygamy!

It is easy for Americans to be horrified by such a suggestion, but circumstances alter cases. In Europe there are eighteen million more women than men!

In the United States, according to the census of 1920, there were two million more men than women—53,900,431 males and only 51,810,189 females. In native born and foreign born whites there was the same proportion of slightly more than one man for every woman. Among the negroes there was a slight excess of women over men: 5,200,436 males, 5,253,695 females.

But in some states the colored women were in considerably greater number than the men. Thus in Alabama there were 21,000 more negro women than men, in Georgia 25,000 more, in Louisiana 11,000 more, in Mississippi 10,000 more, in North Carolina 16,000 more, in South Carolina 20,000 more.

In the more western and northern states the negro men exceeded the negro women slightly.

This situation has an important bearing on the morality of women. Say what you will or can, where one sex greatly exceeds the other, the surplus sex is certain to relax its standards in competition.

In certain of our states the white women exceed the men. In Alabama in 1920 there were 2,000 more women than men. In the District of Columbia where the many clerical positions perhaps explain their numbers, there were 31,000 more women than men. In Rhode Island 9,000 more. In Georgia 7,000 more. In North Carolina 1,000 more. In South Carolina 7,500 more. In New York 10,000 more. In Pennsylvania 61,000 more. In Massachusetts there were 72,328 more women than men.

And this reminds me of what a handsome stage favorite once told me that, while he was at to be more or less besought in any city he visited, in Boston he was pursued frantically and so violently courted by strange women that he was almost afraid to go outdoors or read his mail. He said that other actors bore witness to the same astonishing situation.

It is not a matter for reproach or for ribaldry it is a matter of pathetic tragic reality. It can not be dismissed with the cowardice of highly moral people who think that they have done their duty to themselves and the world when they have said "How shocking!" and advised other people to indulge themselves in the glorious luxuries of self-control and self-denial.

For nature cries aloud within these eager bodies for the satisfaction and the exercise of their functions and it is useless to pass out tracts or platitudes to armies of women who are helplessly marched forward to maturity only to be confronted with sterility and torment.

The misery is secret and pitiable enough in this country, but imagine what it means in Europe where the colossal grief of the war must be endured in one vast graveyard; where famine has raged and bleak poverty is mocked by gigantic debts to be paid with worthless money. Add to these dismays, the future that confronts eighteen million women for who mno man exists to offer them a home, love, protection, or children. One woman out of every three is doomed to spinsterhood.

A Frenchman, George Antequil, has attacked the problem in a book that has had an immense sale. He openly advocates polygamy as the salvation of Europe.

Europe is today in the condition that made polygamy natural in patriarchial times. And for all our pratings of ideals, conditions control the morals.

Where people live crowded in great cities and a child is a prolonged expense as well as an incessant inconvenience, small families will prevail in spitet of all that can be said. An ambitious father in a city is expected to support his son through college, professional school and establishment in succes—in other words until the son is 24 or 25 years old—if the son lives that long.

Among the rural poor, a child begins to do chores at a very early age. While still a child he is a farmhand without wages. His education is a matter of a few months in free school and he makes up the time spent in lessons by working earlier and later. He can steer a plow, milk a cow, mend a fence, cut hay, and pitch it, and do countless other necessary tasks from boyhood on.

The girls are equally useful, and more than self supporting. A large family is therefore, less a matter of glorious response to duty, than a good business policy.

The people who have advocated laws permitting bigamy or polygamy have been cried down with horror for proposing a regime of poultry yard morals. But polygamy has had the highest religious sanction. It was compulsory under the divine laws of ancient Judea in certain cases.

If a man died leaving no son it was the duty of his brother to marry the widow, and the son of this union was called the son of the deceased man. The unwilling Onan was held up to obloquy for refusing to do this duty.

That was what is known as a levirate marriage, and where there was no brother to marry the widow, according to the encyclopaedia Biblica, "it became the duty of the father of the dead man to come forward and marry his daughter-in-law." The beautiful story of Ruth is based on this obligation.

Under changed conditions, the marmarriage with a brother-in-law was later forbidden as abhorrent.

So it was in our country that the Mormons, reviving the patriarchal custom of polygamy, were treated not as pious conservatives but as criminals. They were attached, lynched, massacred and driven across the desert to an asylum where they practiced the tenants of their faith. There in the new realm, the conquest of old wilderness was hastened by plurality of wives and great numbers of industrious children.

As the cities grew, and pressure increased, the plurality was dropped without inconvenience.

And now Europe is in frightful distress. Crowded cities used to luxury, used to live in luxury, find themselves thronged with women who can never hope to be wives or mothers. The proposal to revive polygamy temporarily is revolting to people taught to regard it with aversion.

But many of the loftiest minds are advocating it. A woman of political eminence in Czecho-Slovakia comes forth and proclaims it as a solemn duty. Since women are the worst sufferers under polygamy, they must be desperate to urge it. And it must be remembered that if no legal steps are taken to relieve the tragedy, vice will reign under its own laws.

It is not becoming in us who have escaped so much of the horrors of the late war to play the Pharisee and add our insults to the inquiries of fate. It is not becoming in people ashore to abuse stormwrung sailors who petison precious articles of cargo in order to weather the tempest. In any desperate situation the lofty principles are the first to go overboard.

If we cannot extend them our sympathy we can at least withold our censure. But who can fail to pity them? How woeful an army that would make if all those eighteen million women could be marshalled in one huge army of forlorn trekking across an endless desert to their lonely tombs.

The daughter of Jephthah was permitted to go into the hills and wail for two months over her frustrated motherhood before she died. But these women must live on.

Let us bring it home to ourselves. And it might come home to us.

Great statesmen are aghast at the possibility of a war between the yellow and white races. China has ordered all Christians to let go and get out. India is in ferment. Eight hundred million people do not like us.

Suppose a war broke and raged as it would for years; and at the end of it we emerged victorious but with so many of our men slaughtered that there were eighteen million more women than men in this country.

The United States had less than four million population all told at the end of the revolutionary war. It was not until after 1840 that there were as many as eighteen million people here.

You might put it thus. Eighteen million was the total male and female population of the following states in 1920: Alabama, California, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri and Ohio.

Imagine all those states with not and single man in them, and the neighboring states called upon to supply husbands and fathers for their eighteen million widows and spinsters.

If you were a man and the government said: "Take another wife 30 days," how would you break the news to mother?

If you are a wife or a fiances—and the order came that your man must add another woman to your household, what would be your reaction?

Would you be selfish enough to say, "Let them pine away! Let them die unmated. I share my love with no one."

You might become very philosophical and tell the hungry hearted ones: "You don't realize how lucky you are. Hang on to your single blessedness! If you only knew how miserable I am, you'd never envy me! If you could know the expense and the torment children are!"

There would be doubtless countless men who could echo Bert Williams' song about the things he would lend his friend. "But I wouldn't lend you my wife! I'll give her to you."

Then again, put yourself, if you are a woman, in the place of one of the eighteen million women. How would you look on life and matrimony and polygamy if you were doomed to be a part-time wife, or none at all?

Perhaps the problem would be solved in the old Amazonian way. Those eighteen million women would organize themselves into an enormous army, march over into the hostile land of homes and help themselves.

How could the men resist them? Perhaps the men would sit by as the women used to do, wringing their hands in anxiety while the female warriors fought for their possession.

The ancient serial of human life promises interesting matter in the next instalments, and like the readers of novels published in parts we can only gasp in vexation at the phrase: "To be continued in our next," and have our suspense for our pains.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The cotton market expedienced the customary quiet of the short week-end session until near the close, when considerable activity developed as a result of rather heavy selling on hedges against the large amount of spot cotton recently bought in southern markets. Fluctuations, while frequent, were not wide, the extreme spread not exceeding 21 points on December the most active month. The market after easing off at the start soon recovered the loss, owing to covering by shorts and prices fluctuated within a narrow range until near the end when prices dipped quickly on liberal placing of hedges and closed at the better showing net losses for the day 20 to 26 points.

The start was easier in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables than due, few trades showing losses of four to 10 points. This initial loss was promptly recovered, October trading up to 21.93 and December to 22.16 or about on a level with yesterday's closing figures.

The market fluctuated within the range of about 10 points for most of the balance on the session on week-end evening up, but near the close considerable activity developed and prices declined under pressure of offerings until October traded as low as 21.72 and December at 21.95, or 20 to 21 points under the early highs. The close was at the bottom.

Closing prices were both the lows of the day as well as of the present downward movement and at present a decline of more than three cents a pound from the high prices of a month or more ago.
Exports to nine day totaled 7,204 bales.

NEW YOR KCOTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The cotton market was under pressure of both hedge and speculative selling aggression today with prices making new low ground for the movement. December contracts broke to 22.69 compared with 23.87 last Monday and 25.70 the high price touched on the advance late last month. Closing prices were the lowest of the day with the tone easy at net declines of 21 to 24 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of three to eight points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. Trade buying and week-end covering checked the initial momentarily but the market weakened later on reports favorable for the picking and ginning.

These reports were accompanied by indications of increased hedging by houses with eastern belt connections and in the late trading selling appeared to be stimulated by reports of an easing spot basis in the Atlantic. October sold off to 22.35 and January to 22.10 and early reports to the reselling on a belief that the reported easing of southern spot markets would be followed by heavy hedge selling in both Liverpool and the local market on Monday morning.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Stock prices turned decidedly reactionary just before the close of today's market after maintaining a fairly steady tone in the early trading. Net declines of one to three points were recorded by a number of recent favorites.

Except for another cut in Pennsylvania crude, which was practically unnoticed by the oil shares, there was nothing in the day's news to account for the selling which probably represented the usual last minute week-end readjustment of speculative accounts and profit taking in anticipation of more unfavorable interpretations being placed on the suspension of operations in the hard coal fields when the miners actually quit work on Monday night.

Large buying orders were distributed among a selected list of motor shares, particularly those of companies engaged in the manufacture of trucks and busses, but the early gains were not maintained. Fierce Arrow common, preferred and prior preferred attained new high levels at 30¾, 88¼ and 180½, respectively. Mack Trucks dropped from 221 to 216¾, where it was off 2 on the day and White closed ¾ lower at 98¼ after selling two points above that figure. Chrysler dropped from 149 to 143¾ and then rallied to 144½, off 1¾ on the day. Most of the other active issues in that group showed fractional recessions.

CHURCH IS INJURED

Husband of Muriel Vanderbilt Picked Up by Boston Cop.

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—(AP).—Members of the Vanderbilt and Church families have maintained silence concerning the cause of the injuries which are keeping Frederick C. Church, Jr., recently married to Miss Murel Vanderbilt, at the Massachusetts general hospital, whose authorities decline to make public his condition.

All that is known is that Church was picked up by a policeman early yesterday in a back bay street. Church, the police said, was in a dazed condition from injuries to his head and they recommended that he go to the hospital.

MEN RAID RECEPTION

Armed Nicaraguans Take Liberal Prisoners at Party.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 29.—(AP).—As a protest against the inclusion of liberals in the new cabinet of President Solorzano, one hundred armed men, said to represent the conservative republican party, raided a reception last night and made prisoner several prominent liberals, including Dr. Roman Y. The prisoners were taken to the fortress of La Lama which is under the command of General Alfredo Rivas, governor of Mangua, who is in control of all military forces in the capital and all communications.

VETS FIGHT IT OUT FOR BIG LEAGUE HONORS

Speaker and Cobb Head American Circuit; Hornsby in National

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—(AP).—The 1925 major league season today is starting its winter fade out, but the eyes of Tris Speaker, seeking the American league batting honors, are showing their old-time judgment which made the Cleveland pilot the batting hero over Ty Cobb in 1916.

It is a race of veterans with the youngsters nowhere in sight. Speaker is blazing the trail with an average of .391, with Cobb 11 points behind. Al Simmons of the Athletics and Harry Rice of the Browns are tied for third place, with .378.

The averages include games of last Wednesday.

Meusel Hitting.

Bob Meusel of the Yankees furnished the fireworks among the home run clouters, by smashing two in one game and going into a tie with Ken Williams of the Browns, who has 25.

In base stealing, Johnny Mostil of the White Sox found the wings of the catchers working better but his 37 thefts are far in advance of his rivals.

Other leading batters: Heilmann, Detroit, .373; Sisler, St. Louis, .363; Wingo, Detroit, .359; Lamar, Philadelphia, .345; Collins, Chicago, .347; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .345; Hale, Philadelphia, .344; J. Sewell, Cleveland, .343.

Jack Fournier of the Dodgers has been the outstanding figure among National league batters during the week. Nine of his 15 hits were for extra bases. Four were circuit blows, three triplets and two doubles. His four homers have given him a total of 21, which makes him a contender for the 1925 honors.

Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals remains in the lead with .384, five points ahead of his teammate, Jimmy Bottomley. The Cardinal leader has a slim chance of exceeding his 1924 total of 42 homers as he has only 33 to date.

Other leading batters: Harper, Philadelphia, .365; Fournier, Brooklyn, .362; Blades, St. Louis, .334; Burrus, Boston, .340; J. Wilson, Philadelphia, .348; Wrightstone, Philadelphia, .348; Wheat, Brooklyn, .347; Cuyler, Pittsburgh, .347; Stock, Brooklyn, .345; Cox, Brooklyn, .345.

The young people played games until 10:30 o'clock when the heart-shaped cake with white candles in red rosebud holders was cut and an ice course served., Little Misses Lillie Hudson and Clara Belle Parnell assisted in the serving. The guests included Misses Laura Parnell, Odia Hudson, Thelma Hudson, Rena Lee Cooper of Wichita Falls, Lucile Johnson, Ola Williams, Clemma Chesher Marion Bowery, Alma Gibson, Jewel Young, Dollie Lee Johnson, Lillie Houdson and Clara Belle Parnell, and Messrs. Herman Parnell, Walter Thomas Cooper, John Kile, Ben F. Johnson, Raymond Rowe, Bentley and Mr. and Mrs. Mat Conley, Clarence Bodine and the hostess and honoree.

DETROIT TURNS OUT TO HONOR TYRUS COBB

Georgia Peach Given a Check for $10,000 by Navin.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Frank J. Navin, owner and president of the Detroit American League Baseball club, presented Tyrus Raymond Cobb, Detroit's manager and veteran outfielder, with a check for $10,000 while 600 enthusiastic fans, city officials and prominent baseball leaders looked on at a banquet given to Cobb tonight in honor of his completion of 20 years of service on the Detroit club.

A $1,000 grandfather clock, as a testimonial from the city of Detroit to one of its prominent citizens, was also awarded to the "Georgia peach" as Cobb is known to fandom. Then followed eulogies in both word and song, individual addresses of praise from city fathers, including Mayor John W. Smith, and civic leaders, followed by a few brief remarks from Cobb himself. Timidly they were uttered as he stood visibly affected by this shower of attention. Cobb, the hero of the diamond, whose name is known to every school boy in the land and who has withstood the jerrings and booings of crowds with stoical silence, was "fussed."

WRINKLES, LINES OR CROWS-FEET
Lemon Juice Tightens Skin

Squeeze the juice of two lemons in a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents, shake well and you have the very mildest anti-wrinkle lotion to tighten relaxed skin, erase fine lines and eradicate crows feet.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion into the skin at night. By morning most of the tell-tale wrinkles, tierd lines and crows-feet are smoothed out, giving a more youthful contour to cheeks, chin, throat. It leaves the skin velvety soft, clear and fresh.
