San Antonio Hold-up Suspect Paroled by Two Governors

STATE EMPLOYE'S KIN

Sentenced to Two Years For Burglary From Travis County

AUSTIN, April 2.—(AP)—Records at the office of the secretary of state show that two men, Jack Smith of Austin, and Otis Yearger of San Antonio, held in connection with the robbery of the San Antonio, National bank at San Antonio Tuesday, are out of prison on conditional pardons. As soon as this was learned today, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, instructed the board of pardons to investigate the case. Aldrich, member of the board, personally undertook the investigation.

The records show that Jack Smith has been convicted twice. Kenneth Smith, his brother, also held in connection with the San Antonio robbery, also is of Austin.

Mother State Employe.

Mrs. Clyde Smith, a widow and an employe in the state fire insurance department, is the mother of the two Smith boys. She did not report for work this morning and it was reported at her home that she had left Austin presumably for San Antonio. For several years she was a clerk in the state senate, and it was through the recommendation of a number of state senators, that the board of pardons recommended to Governor Ferguson, that a conditional pardon, April 4, 1925, be granted Jack Smith.

Yearger was granted a conditional pardon, May 24, 1925, by Governor Ferguson, on recommendation of the board of pardons, after 11 of the jurors, the 12th having died, D. A. McGaskill, former district attorney at San Antonio, C. M. Chamber, district attorney, Mayor John W. Tobin of San Antonio and other prominent Bexar county citizens, recommended the pardon.

Sent up From Travis.

Smith's record shows that he was convicted in Travis county in February, 1922, and sentenced two years for burglary. Gov. Pat M. Neff pardoned him conditionally December 21, 1922.

All Plans Perfected for Sunrise Easter Service Here Sunday With Churches of City Uniting in Work

Unique Religious Experiment to Be Made on Bluffs Skirting Seymour Road West of City; Good Weather Needed Now

A religious service unique in the history of Wichita Falls has been arranged in practically all details for the early hours of Easter Sunday morning when a sunrise meeting in the form of union services will be held by all the churches of the city. The only doubtful factor now is the weather, and those in charge of the affair are hoping for favorable climatic conditions to aid in what promises to be an unusual success from the first.

The services will be held on the bluffs skirting the Seymour road just half a mile west of the city. The trumpet call to worship, which will be the first thing on the program, will sound about 6 o'clock, just as the sun comes up; while the whole thing will be concluded in not more than 40 minutes.

A complete program for the meeting was announced yesterday by Dr. Floyd Allen Bush, pastor of the First Christian church, who has been largely instrumental in arranging the service. It follows:

1. Trumpet call to worship by Boy Scout bugler.
2. Antiphonal Easter greeting, ancient form, "The Lord Is Risen," sung by 100 Boy Scouts.
3. Hymn, "The Morning Light Is Breaking," congregation with Alva Wilgus leading.
4. The Lord's prayer in unison.
5. Song, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," sung by all.
6. Dramatization of the ressurrection story, given by the Drama club, Mrs. O. O. Abernathy directing. The reading of the story by W. B. Hamilton, superintendent of the First Methodist Sunday school.
7. Song, "Up From the Grave He Arose," by united choirs.
8. Address, "The Message of Easter," by Dr. Paul Henry Packard, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church.
9. Easter anthem, "First Christian church choir.
10. The Easter prayer in unison.
11. Song, "Nearer My God to Thee," sung by all.
12. Easter benediction, Rev. Joe Bickley.

To Police Grounds.

The grounds will be policed so that cars may be parked with a minimum of trouble. A cross and tomb will be reproduced on the rim of the bluffs and this will mark the spot of the dramatization. Singers from choirs of all churches of the city will be included in those to contribute to the music, while Alva Wilgus, choir director of the First Presbyterian church, will be in charge. The chief elements of the old time Moravian Easter sunrise services will be incorporated, this dating back as far as April, 1743, in America.

The services here, it is pointed out, will be a duplication in miniature of the famous services of similar kind held in the Garden of the Gods, Colorado; in Riverside, Cal., in Bethlehem, Pa., and in a few other points of the country. Uncounted thousands attend the services each year in the Garden of the Gods.

The first call for the service will be sounded just as the sun comes up over the horizon, approximately at 6 o'clock. Trucks will leave the First Christian church at 5:30 to carry those who have no way of reaching the grounds.

Services Held Friday.

Pre-Easter services were practically wound up Friday when churches of the city combined in varying degree to hold union and individual meetings. Music played an important part in these affairs.

The most pretentious was held at the First Christian church where the congregations of about 10 churches held the first three-hour passion service in Wichita Falls. The meeting started promptly at 12 o'clock and lasted until 3, with the auditorium practically filled by a crowd that came and left as each cycle was finished. Ministers of the various denominations took turns in giving short addresses appropriate to Easter. Special music was also given.

Another three-hour passion service was held at the Church of the Good Shepherd with Rev. F. T. Datson in charge. Morning services were held Friday in the Catholic church, in the St. Paul Lutheran and Trinity Lutheran churches.

At the First Christian church Friday night a dramatic service, "Governor Pilate," was given by the pastor, Rev. Floyd Allen Bush, who appeared in costume to give an interpretative reading of Pontius Pilate's reign in Christ's time.

In the First Presbyterian church a large crowd listened to a Good Friday cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," given by the choir under the direction of Alva Wilgus. Excellent solo and chorus work marked the music.

Ape Man Believed To Be Purchaser, Beating Cost Down

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 2.—(AP)—An "ape man" reported to be frightening residents of North Stonington, Conn., is merely a prospective purchaser of a farm, wearing a fur coat and endeavoring by his antics to frighten away two orphaned sisters, who inherited the farm he seeks. This was the report made tonight by George Denison, game warden, after a day's search fo rthe "ape man" on the Horace D. Miner farm.

"If that fellow goes out there again with the skin of an animal over his head," said Denison, "they are going to put the lead to him. I wouldn't want to try it again if I were he."

Denison said he had found no trace of the man today. The miner girls Muriel aged 19, and Mildred, aged 16, inherited the farm from their father who died recently. Denison said they are armed and ready to shoot and other residents of the neighborhood also have their shotguns at hand and will brook no ape man real estate tactics in the vicinity in the future.

CREAGER'S FOE RAPS WURZBACH

T. P. Lee Takes Issue With Tilson And Wood Over Stand

SAN ANTONIO, April 2.—(AP) T. P. Lee of Houston for several years political antagonist of R. B. Creager of Brownsville, republican national committee man has aligned himself with Creager in the latter's controversy with Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach of Seguin over dispensing of patronage.

In a letter to Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Lee, until now a strong political supporter of Wurzbach, upbraids Tilson and Representative Wood of Indiana for taking the Texas congressman's part in controversy with organization leaders in the senate.

The letter was made public today. Lee, reputed to be the richest republican in Texas, wrote Tilson that "we here are forced to believe that Mr. Wurzbach is willing to sacrifice the best interests of the republican party in this state if he can thereby in this state . . . . if he can thereby increase his powers of patronage in Washington."

Even if Wurzbach had any grievance with Creager or Eugene Nolte, state republican chairman, whether imaginary or real, there was, in Lee's opinion, no justification for "his unworthy and untruthful attack on the republican organization or party of Texas."

Curtain Descends On Stage Tragedian

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—The teeming east side paused today in its grim struggle for the necessaries of life to pay a last tribute to Jacob P. Adler, noted Jewish tragedian, who died last Wednesday. He was 71 years old.

The services were held in the Kessler theatre, the scene of so many of Adler's successes where many of those present had laughed and wept with the dean of Yiddish actors. More than 3,000 persons taxed the capacity of the building; other thousands stood uncovered in the nearby streets and fully 100,000 lined to route of the funeral cortege.

Some of the tragedy of the roles which Adler had depicted so faithfully in his acting was brought to the funeral services by Irving Adler, the actor's son who now is a prison convict, serving a sentence for counterfeiting. He was brought here from Sing Sing today by a prison guard to attend the services.

COST TO BE LOW

Supply Being Piped In From Fields in Wheeler

The chamber of commerce has already fulfilled its guarantee to the Upsher Gas company which required that it be assured of calls for 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas a month if it constructed a proposed 16-inch natural gas line into this city from the Wheeler county fields. Chamber of commerce officials agreed early in the week to secure contracts for that amount of gas, and late Friday afternoon it was announced that contracts had been obtained which would assure the gas company of a demand for at least 17,200,000 feet.

A goal of 20,000,000 feet has been set and it is confidently expected this will be reached in a short time.

The Upham company, which is building a line southeast from the Panhandle fields, reached an agreement the first of the week with business men here to extend its main into Wichita Falls and supply gas for industrial use only at a low cost. On its part, the chamber of commerce agreed to secure the necessary guarantees for 15,000,000 feet a month, and the 17,200,000 figure was reached in less than three days work.

J. W. Clatham, industrial commissioner of the chamber, started after the contracts when definite agreements were reached for the line and succeeded in getting them all signed up in remarkably short time.

Work is now being pushed on construction of the line north of here and it will be ready to deliver gas to this city not later than Sept. 1.

Coolidge Urges Coal Legislation To Settle Strikes

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP)—Congress should enact coal legislation before the present session adjourns, is the opinion of President Coolidge so that any future labor troubles in the mine fields will not leave the public without fuel.

The house commerce committee now taking testimony in various phases of the coal industry, would do well, Mr. Coolidge believes to frame its legislation around resolutions submitted to the presidential coal commission after its investigation of the inquiry only a few years ago. Two definite provisions for handling the coal labor problem stand out in the president's mind as essential to any effective legislation:

Presidential authority to appoint a strike mediation board and machinery fir coal administration in event of a strike.

Before it attempts to draft a bill the house committee, should in the opinion of Mr. Coolidge call all interested parties including miners, operators and members of the cabinet who would be concerned with any labor disputes in the coal fields.

Representative Jacob Stein, democrat, New York, urged the house committee today to enact legislation to unify the coal industry under government control, adding that the industry itself could consolidate its activities if the government would permit it.

He has introduced a bill to create a fact-finding bureau and an emergency board to hear wage disputes in the industry.

The specific charge against Ponzi was the failure to file with the secretary of state a copy of the declaration of trust under which he was alleged to have operated with the Charpon Land Syndicate and for selling certificates of indebtedness without permission from the attorney general and the comptroller as required by the state statutes of 1923.

SENATE WETS RECEIVE JOLT IN HEARINGS

Committee Refuses to Summon Other Than Government Witnesses

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP)—Senate wets who are behind the drive for modification of the prohibition laws today received a couple of rather severe jolts.

The first came with the refusal of the judiciary subcommittee to summon other than government officials as witnesses at the prohibition hearings to begin Monday. The second was in the form if an administration bill tightening up the Volstead act as an essential to more successful enforcement of the dry statutes.

This measure, containing more or less drastic amendments to the Volstead act recommended by Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury, was introduced by Senator Goff, republican, West Virginia, and will be referred to the judiciary subcommittee.

Open for Discussion.

Thus it will be open for discussion during the two weeks of prohibition, hearings and the drys are expected to urge it at the same time they are condemning the liberalization bills offered by Senators Edge republican, New Jersey and Bruce, Maryland, and Edwards, New Jersey, democrats.

Under the ruling of the subcommittee today if these senators want to put on the stand witnesses other than government officers they will have to arrange to bring them to Washington at other than government expense.

This action aroused Senatod Edge, who had submitted a list of 18 witnesses including state and municipal officers, whom he desired to have summoned. He accused the subcommittee of "splitting hairs in favor of the drys" and with acting to prevent the wets and from presenting valuable information."

On the other hand, Chairman Means and Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana said the subcommittee was following a long established practice at hearings on legislation. In such cases summonses rarely are issued, proponents and opponents being required to supply their own witnesses.

Blotters Offered.

The amendments proposed by Assistant Secretary Andrews, who is in charge of prohibition enforcement are designed primarily to dry up sources of liquor supply. Perhaps the most drastic would permit warrants to issue for the search of private dwellings on evidence of manufacture of liquor for commercial purposes.

Other amendments would authorize these steps:

Imposition of severe penalties for the counterfeiting of permits, prescriptions and other liquor forms.

Imposition of drastic penalties upon those who make, sell or transport liquor made from denatured alcohol or rum.

Requirement of registration of buildings and appatatus which have been set up in such a way as to make the manufacture of beer posible.

The placing of all cereal beverage plants under government supervision.

The summary condemnation of vehicles seized in liquor violations.

Before having the bill drafted, Secretary Andrews consulted with Secretary Mellon and officials of the department of justice and the measure has the full support of the administration.

Homes Are Immune.

In a letter accompanying the bill, Mr. Andrews explained the search of private dwellings amendment by saying that liquor operators are taking advantage of existing statutes to use homes as distilleries with immunity.

"They rent these dwellings and establish a family therein," he said, "whose occupation it is to distill alcohol for the bootleg trade. We can break up this source of supply only by having the law provide that search warrants may issue on evidence of manufacture for commercial purposes."

One of the amendments proposes a sentence of two years in prison and a fine of $25,000 for persons convicted of denaturing alcohol or rum for liquor manufacture or selling, making or transporting liquor made from denatured alcohol or rum.

Coolidge Opposes U. S. Acceptance Of League Invite

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP)—President Coolidge feels that the league of nations' invitation to the United States to participate in the world court conference in Geneva in September should not be accepted. He takes the position that the senate reservations speak for themselves and therefore, it is not necessary to send a delegation to Geneva to explain them.

In view of his attitude made clear today at the White House, it appears certain that the league invitation received yesterday by Secretary Kellogg will be declined with thanks. As the situation shaped up tonight, although no reply has been forwarded to Geneva, only unexpected developments would cause the president to change his mind.

He clearly approves of the direct negotiations the state department has initiated with the 48 governments signatory to the world court protocol and sees no reason why it can not be determined in this way whether the United States is to enter the court under the senate stipulations.

Russian Feminine Bandit Again Held For Crime Exploits

SVERDLOVSK, Ekaterinburg, April 2.—(AP)—Catherine Planovsky, Russia's only woman bandit, who has a record of having murdered and robbed dozens of victims, again is in the toils of the law. The public prosecutor alleges that her exploits have covered a long period of years.

In 1921 "Catherine the Terrible," as she is known, was sentenced to death at Chita for murder and was taken from prison to be shot. When the firing squad discharged their rifles the woman fell to the ground and feigned death. Not a bullet had struck her. The soldiers, believing her dead, returned to the prison barracks while Planovsky made a quick escape.

During the ensuing five years, according to the prosecutor's statement, no home in the Urals was safe from the depredations of the band of male robbers Catherine headed and no person secure from murderous attacks.

SEA ROMANCE UNFOLDED BY SHIP CAPTAIN

How Men of Ocean Rally To Aid of Comrades Is Recited

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—The manner in which men of the sea rally to the aid of their comrades when wind and wave batter a ship to pieces was stirringly revealed when the Cunard liner Mauretania reached port today. Its log showed that when the freighter Laleham called for help on March 31, four ships turned from their courses and none gave up the race until the tanker Shirvan had taken off all 37 of the Laleham's crew and the ill-fated ship had been set afire.

During this race for life messages of cheer were constantly sent on to the foundering vessel. Such great speed was made that the Mauretania broke all official records among passenger liners when for a whole hour she maintained a speed of 29 knots. The previous record was made by the same liner several years ago when she maintined a speed of 27.04 knots for an hour. But that was in fair weather and in her race to the Laleham she was fighting against heavy seas.

Coming to Aid.

It was at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when a wireless from the Laleham was sent down to Captain Rostron of the Mauretania advising that the freighter was in distress and giving her position.

Captain Rostron immediately wirelessed: "coming your assistance full speed. Distance 160 miles. Speed 5 1-2 knots. Expect to arrive one a. m." He ordered the great ship swung off its course to head for its disabled little comrade of the deep, had state rooms prepared for the men he hoped to save and broth made to feed them.

The Mauretina learned an hour and a half later through an intercepted message that the tanker Shirvan, the George Washington of the United States line and an unnamed freighter had also joined the race. The indications were that she Shirvan would be the first on the scene by several hours but the others all pushed on so that no chance of a rescue might be lost.

The Laleham sent out another call saying "please do utmost to arrive before dark." And then the Laleham spoke across the water to the Shirvan asking her if she would stand by when she arrived until the Mauretani got there. The answer from the Shirvan was "believe you in sight nine miles away. Do you wish to abandon ship for me to take you off?" this was at 6:30 o'clock.

Condition Acute.

The condition of the Laleham had by this time evidently become acute as they almost immediately told the Shirvan: "we will abandon ship at once."

The stricken vessel wirelessed the Mauretania that its crew was abandoning to the Shirvan but added: "please come ahead."

We will proceed as long as we can be of assistance" the Mauretania responded and continued to steam on, receiving from moment to moment the record of the rescue.

In the first boat from the Shirvan, 10 men were taken off the Laleham and the sinking bulk was set afire lest it become a menace to navigation. While it burned the remaining 18 men stood in the glare and waited their turn. In two other boats they too were saved.

COUNTY BOASTS 17,410 VOTERS

That Many Qualify On Raley's Poll Tax Lists

Certified lists of the county's qualified voters have been completed and are ready for use, it was announced Friday by County Tax Collector Guy C. Raley. The work, which has been in progress since February 1, was completed Friday morning. The lists show a total of 17,410 qualified voters in the county of which 980 have exemption certificates and 16,430 poll tax receipts.

Three copies of the voting lists are made each year by the county tax collector, one as an office file, one for the sheriff, and one for the county clerk. That issued to the county clerk is sub-divided as per precinct and voting box. Thus each voting box will have a list of only those voters who actually reside within its bounds.

Of the total number qualified to vote, 11,505 live in Wichita Falls, the figures show.

Clevenger pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the theft of lumber and poultry. The sentences are to run concurrently.

In addition Clevenger was fined $40 for chicken stealing and $175 for the lumber purloining.

Dallas News Auto Bureau to Boom Wichita Falls

The advantages of Wichita Falls as a center for motor tourists during the season now opening will be outlined to Texas automobile owners in an article to appear shortly in the Dallas Morning News, it was learned Friday upon the arrival of Snyder Atwell, advertising manager of the Dallas branch of the Ford Motor company and Bryan Snyder, Jr., of the Dallas News staf fwho are logging a suggested summer tour in a Ford Tudor sedan.

The News' pathfinders reached Wichita Falls and were immediately taken to Lake Kemp in a Lincoln by W. S. Langford of the Langford Motor company. The route to Lake Kemp was logged and its scenic attractions as well as the beauty of diversion lake and Lake Wichita will be featured in the touring article. The route of the suggested summer automobile tour makes a big loop of approximately 1,000 miles through West Texas. It follows the Bankhead highway as far west as Sweetwater and from there goes north to Amarillo. The return trip to Dallas is made via the Colorado to Gulf highway through Wichita Falls. The article describing the tour also will suggest Wichita Falls as the destination of a shorter tour from Dallas.

NEW PERMITS PASS $100,000

Good Record Will Be Made Excellent Record Will Be Made Here During Week

Building permits for Wichita Falls proper already this week total more than $110,000, figures Friday showed. A total of $111,272 had been reached in the city alone then. Suburban permits were expected to place this $20,000 or more higher.

Friday's permits included two of larger denomination, one of these being for the construction of a brick apartment house by Orville Bullington at 1100 Bluff street at a cost of approximately $10,000, and the other for the construction of a $20,000 residence at 325 Morningside Drive by D. W. Whitehill.

Twelve and one-third miles of steel quarter-inch reinforcing rods is the giet of an order placed by D. W. Whitehill, contractor, with the Panhandle Iron and Boiler works this week. The order, which was made in connection with the construction of the warehouse of the Steve's Sash and Door company in the west part of the city, calls for 60,000 lineal feet of the material. The rods come ordinarily in lengths of 40 feet, more or less.

Bond Increased

Upon application of the district attorney the bail bond of R. C. Cade, charged with robbery with firearms in connection with the recent hold-up of the City Bakery at 2210 Holliday street, was raised from $750, previously allowed by Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwynn, to $5,000. This last amount Cade had not perfected late Friday.

Cade, while not identified as one of those perpetrating the hold-up, had in his possession a watch stolen in the affair. This he claims to have purchased from another of the four arrested in connection with the offense.

HOUSE TO NAME PROSECUTORS OF JUDGE ENGLISH

Nine Managers to Press Charges Will be Appointed

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP) Nine managers may be named by the house to prosecute before the senate the impeachment case against Federal Judge English of Illinois.

This number, two more than originally contemplated was tentatively agreed upon today to satisfy a democratic leader who, after the impeachment of the judge yesterday objected to a ratio of five republicans to two democrats on the house representation.

Chairman Graham of the judiciary committee which recommended impeachment suggested the 5-2 ratio although he said there was a precedent for selecting all of the prosecutors from the party in power, but Representative Garrett of Tennessee, democrat, floor leader objected, contending that if seven were named three should be democrats.

The house was in adjournment today but negotiations for a compromise went forward with the suggestion for nine managers finding favor.

If nine are selected the house prosecutors are expected to be Representatives Hersey, Maine; Stobbs, Massachusetts; Michener, Michigan; Moore, Ohio and Boise, Iowa, republicans and Sumners, Texas, Montague, Virginia and Tilman, Arkansas and Dominick, South Carolina, democrats, the last two to serve if the number is increased to nine.

Selection of the managers is scheduled for Tuesday. At that time the judiciary committee plans to present a resolution urging trial of Judge English at a special session of the senate. This is favored by house leaders but some senators question the constitutionality of the procedure.

DYING FOR AN OPINION

IS THERE any conviction worth dying for?

Nietzsche opines that we should not let ourselves be burnt for our opinions themselves, of which we can never be quite sure, but we may perhaps do so for the right to hold and change them.

But I doubt if there is any wisdom in even thinking it worthwhile to die for the right to hold and change an opinion. That makes our opinion worth too much.

James Russell Lowell observed that a man must be a born leader or misleader of men, or must have been sent into the world unfurnished with that modulating and restraining balance-wheel which we call a sense of humor, who, in old age, has as strong a confidence in his opinions and in the necessity of bringing the universe in conformity with them as he had in youth.

"In a world the very condition of whose being is that it should be in perpetual flux, where all seems mirage, and the one abiding thing to distinguish realities from appearances, the elderly man must be of a singularly tough and valid fibre who is certain that he has any clarified residium of experience, any assured verdict of reflection, that deserves to be called an opinion, or, if he had, feels that he is justified in holding mankind by the button while he is expounding it."

When the great naturalist Agassiz was to deliver his first lecture as a professor at Harvard he had grave doubts as to his ability, to occupy the prescribed three quarters of an hour.

In recalling the fact some years later, he said "When I had spoken a half hour, I had told them everything in the world I knew, everything. Then I began to repeat myself, and I have done nothing else ever since."

Everything has been said before, and said over and over again.

One must agree with Gay:

My tongue within my lips I rein;
Who talks much must talk in vain.

In a world of hourly journalism such as ours, where every clever man, every man who thinks he is clever, or whom anybody else thinks is clever, is called upon to deliver his judgment point-blank on every conceivable subject of human thought, or on what sometimes seems to him to be very much the same thing, there is a never ending flow of banal commonplaces.

Under the circumstances, of course, there is little chance of "beguiling a new tune out of the one-stringed instrument upon which we have been strumming so long."

INSTINCT

Funny that the most near sighted motor driver has no difficulty in distinguishing between a traffic cop and an ordinary pedestrian.

WAYNE B. HAS THE FLOOR.

WAYNE B. WHEELER is writing his prohibition memoirs. Like a distinguished colonel, made so by a political governor, the general attorney of the Anti-Saloon league is responsible for all the credit for the coming of nation-wide prohibition, the adoption by the states of the 18th amendment and the enactment by congress of the Volstead act.

This would be a dark and dismal old world if it were not for the Wheelers and the political colonel who come in the nick of time to resume the morals of the world from the damning touch of the devil and the lives and property of men from the mad war gods and their military machines, when the sword threatens the rights of man and the destruction of the civilizations that patriots have made.

FATED ANYWAY

No use to worry about the people who lost out in the stock flurry. If Wall Street hadn't got 'em, the bucketshops would.

SIGNS OF SPRING

A CHESTY and rusty-red robin on the upper strand of a telephone wire singing his summer sunset hymn as the sun goes down—arrow marks of white chalk on the sidewalks and fences, the mysterious trail-pointers of the youngsters—eleven blackbirds sitting wing to wing on the limb of a dead tree, all facing the wind and warming themselves in an April sun—a fat suburbanite on his back under a battered and dilapidated car—a baseball with a sadly ripped cover on a muddy lawn—the click of marbles and the whir of tops—warm winds that caress and icy wings with a bite and a string—the scouts of spring are abroad—their footprints are in the fields, along the hedgerows—by all the signs it's here.

THE MIDDLE WAY

MANY persons' ideals can be described by some lines of Lowell's:

"I don't believe in principle,
But, oh! I do in interest."

None of us can be too sure we do not belong to this category. We are often told that we can build no super-structure without unshakable principles, but Samuel Butler contended there are no such principles.

"If there be any," he said, "they are beyond our reach—we cannot fathom them; therefore, they have no existence.

"There is one thing certain, namely, that we can have nothing certain; therefore it is not certain that we have nothing certain.

"We are as men who will insist on looking over the brink of a precipice; some few can gaze into the abyss below without losing their heads, but most men will grow dizzy and fall.

"The only thing to do is to gaze on the chaos on which our thoughts are founded, recognize that it is a chaos and that, in the nature of things, no theoretically firm ground is even conceivable."

Even Euclid, it is observed, cannot lay a demonstrable promise. He requires postulates and axioms which transcend demonstration and without which he can do nothing.

His super-structure is demonstration, his ground is faith, the faith that is the biggest element in what we fondly call truth.

Faith and authority are as necessary for Euclid as for any one else.

It is obvious that there is nothing one cannot wrangle about.

Sensible people will agree to a middle course founded upon a few general axioms and propositions about which, right or wrong, they will not think it worth while to wrangle for some time, and those who reject these can be put the conclusions of logic, and sense is better to present practice.

The middle way may be as full of hidden rocks as the other ways are of manifest ones, but it is the pleasantest while we can keep to it and the dangers, being hidden, are less alarming.

In practice it is seldom very hard to do one's duty when one knows what it is, but it is sometimes exceedingly difficult to find this out.

The difficulty is, however, often reducible into that of knowing what gives one pleasure, and this, though difficult, is a safer guide and more easily distinguished.

"In all cases of doubt," Samuel Butler opined, "the promptings of a kindly disposition are more trustworthy than the conclusions of logic, an dsense is better than science."

AMARILLO

AMARILLO is another ambitious Texas city. It expects a population of a hundred thousand on or before 1935. It is away out in the Panhandle, in the very foothills of the Rockies.

Its boomers claim for it that there are farms galore, deep snow storms in the reservoirs of natural gas below it, the blue sky above it, underground lakes of petroleum for a hundred and fifty miles around it, cattle ranches and stock closing days of March, mountain breezes in mid-summer and a fertility of soil that cannot be surpassed.

And just the other day, it was a little hamlet on the frontier and Colonel Charles Goodnight was the first gentleman of the Panhandle. It was just the other day that the colonel and Mrs. Goodnight saved the buffalo from extinction and laid the ground sills for an American civilization. Is Texas on the map? It is for those who read and think, and were born with vision.

ANOTHER HELP

TO LINK the City of Mexico in an air-mail circuit with San Antonio, Chicago and New York should tend to keep the peace between the republic. Whatever makes personal or written communication easier diminishes the causes of friction between nations. A few years ago the altitude would have been something of an embarrassment to the airmen. The center of the City of Mexico is about 7400 feet above sea level. But that is inconsiderable to the pilots of 1926, who recently flew over Popocatepetl, which is nearly 18,000 feet high, to photograph the smoking crater. Mexican banditry has not yet attained to the refinements of applied science which would make it possible to intercept the air mails, and eventually we may expect a passenger service which will make a vacation tour in a land of enchantment possible for many who find it takes too long to make the journey by rail or steamship.

WHO'S WHO

Again is Lew Shank, twice mayor of Indianapolis, in the national limelight, this time as an actor. He is an old vaudeville performer.

LEW SHANK

"The right kind of an actor," he said in announcing his return to his first professional (or artistic) performance, "is a more useful citizen than a mayor. He can make the people laugh because they want to and not because they can't help it.

"I have been keeping in practice for vaudeville by my activity in politics. It is simply a matter of pleasing the audience in either case. Sometimes I have pleased them, and sometimes I have not."

Though the democrats and the opposition republicans had said many unkind things about the motives of some of the mayor's actions in his first administration, they had to admit he had not enriched himself at the city's expense. He had so little ready money at the time of his resignation, following a riotous street car strike, that the vaudeville booking agency which assigned him to a Kansas City theatre had to advance the money for his railroad fare.

DINNER STORIES

The cultured maid servant announced to her mistress, wife of the profiteer:

"If you please, ma'am, there's a mendicant at the door."

The mistress sniffed contemptuously:

"Tell 'im there's nothin to mend."

In the early days of the world war the officer in charge of a British post, deep in the heart of Africa, received a wireless message from his chief:

"War declared. Arrest all enemy aliens in your district."

A few days later the chief received this communication:

"Have arrested seven Germans, three Belgians, four Spaniards, five Frenchmen, a couple of Swedes, an Austrian and an American. Please inform me whom we are at war with."

The old gentleman was lost in a London fog, so thick that he could hardly see his hand before his face. He became seriously alarmed when he found himself in a slimy alley. Then he heard footsteps approaching through the obscurity, and sighed with relief.

"Where am I going to?" he cried anxiously.

A voice replied weirdly from the darkness beyond:

"Into the river—I've just come out!"

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Can You Judge How a Man Will Treat His Second Wife by the Way He Treated His First?—Shall He Disillusion His Finance About His "Wealth" Before Marriage?—Early Morning-Singing Husband.

DEAR MISS DIX.—I am about to be married to a widower who is all that is good and kind to me. But several days ago I met and talked with a woman who knew him and his first wife intimately. She said, "You certainly have John under your thumb, the way you get him to spend money on you, taking you to places and buying you presents. Why, Mary, his first wife, couldn't get a new dress once a year and he never took her anywhere."

Now, while I love my John, I don't want him to turn into Mary's John after the wedding. Can you predict how a man will treat his second wife by the way he treated his first?

WORRIED.

Answer:

You can never judge the way a man will treat his second wife by the way he treated his first wife, because in thousands upon thousands of cases the widower is a new man, reborn in an agony of remorse at his wife's grave.

Many a man who has thought of himself as a good husband, as husbands go, has the scales smitten from his eyes as he gazes down upon his wife's dead face, and he sees for the first time just how cruel and hard he has been to her and realizes that he has made life bitter for her when he could have so easily made it sweet.

His little tyrannies, the pleasures he denied her, the tenderness he failed to show her, the temper and nerves he vented upon her, all rise up to reproach him, and he makes a vow that if any other woman ever intrusts her happiness to his handy that he will guard it more carefully. It is notorious that second wives are almost invariably pampered and spoiled and indulged more than first wives are, and nobody but the widower himself knows that he is trying to make up to the second wife for his meanness to his first wife.

There is also this to be said: that whether a man is a good husband or not depends, to a large extent, on the woman to whom he is married. There are wives who know how to handle their husbands so as to bring out all the best that is in them; who know how to sidestep their rough edges and jolly them along the way they should go, and there are other women who bring out all the cantankerousness in their husbands as a hot poultice brings out the measles. They can't do or say a thing without rubbing their husbands fur the worng way and making them get their backs up, and take a death stand against everything they want done.

Not every good woman is a good wife, nor is every good wife capable of being a good wife to every man. very often people are just mismated. Men and women who are constitutionally antagonistic to each other get married and fight like the Kilkenny cats, but if either death or divorce breaks up their union, and they marry women and men of congenial tastes and habits, they make amiable and peaceful spouses.

Still there is always the chance that the widower hasn't changed his spots, nor altered his views in regard to the way a wife should be treated, so it is the part of wisdom for the lady who is thinking of becoming wife No. 2 to find out what sort of a life the woman led into whose shoes she is about to step.

However, I personally know one man who bullied and bulldozed two sweet, gentle wives into untimely graves, who is so henpecked by wife No. 3 that he is afraid to call his soul his own or to speak above a whisper in his own house. So you never can tell.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am in love with a girl who is accustomed to every luxury that money can buy. She thinks that I am wealthy, but I am not. We are engaged. Do you think I should tell her before marriage that I am a poor man?

ROBERT.

Answer:

I certainly do, Robert. You are not only doing the girl a grievous wrong by inducing her to marry you under false pretenses, but you are everlasting wrecking your own happiness. Because when she finds out your real circumstances, she will get not only the shock of discovering herself poor, when she expected to be rich, but of realizing the the man she trusted is a liar and a four-flusher.

If she is a worthwhile girl and really loves you, she won't mind doing without many of the frills and furbelows she is used to having, and she will love working with you, helping to build up a fortune. But the finer woman she is, the more contempt she will have for you for deceiving her and posing around as a bogus millionaire. After all, it isn't a man's pocketbook that a woman marries—it is the man himself, and if he starts out by giving her a crooked deal it kills her faith in him at the very beginning of their life together.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

Aries.

Today's planetary aspects are more disquieting than adverse. It promises to be one of those days when everything will apparently go wrong and nothing will please. If, as is natural under such conditions, you allow yourself to be worried and vexed, the results will not be in any way satisfactory. If, on the other hand, you exercise self-restraint and maintain a poise attending only to duties that are customary, the day will, in all probability pass without any disagreeable "contretemps."

Children born today are fated, according to the signs, to pass through uneventful infancies and will even at such an early age reveal those signs of exuberant health which they are destined to enjoy. Like all youngsters not affected by sickness, they will be prone to overestimate their prowess and care must be taken in hazardous chances. In disposition, the boy will be rather indifferent to surroundings, uncouth rather than courteous, fearless, daring and reckless. He will possess an active mind be alert, and yet, withal, very cautious in all matters referring to finance. A girl will be a product of the environment with which she is surrounded and possess in addition, inherent ideals and worthy aspirations.

If today is your birthday, the fates do not appear to have much for you in the way of material success although you were born under signs that denote contentment and happiness. You are very conscientious but owing to rather weak judgment, more fitted to occupy a sub-ordinate position than one that demands leadership or gives you control over others. Your vision is not very far-reaching and you are more liable in making a decision to be influenced by actual conditions than by a consideration of these that may arise in the future. You adopt altogether too literally the policy of never crossing a bridge until you reach it.

Your friends are legion as you think ill of no one. You always find it difficult to refuse any request made by either a friend or an associate.

In your home life, you are supremely happy, especially if your mate possesses qualities of leadership and a strong personality.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

AN OLD TIN CAN

A new tin can some patent soup contained;
The soup removed, an old tin can remained.
The sore of can that urchins most unkind
Have found before, and often tied behind,
Behind some pup, to whom henceforth a can
Proved not man's inhumanity to man
But boy's to dogs—for to a dog, my dears,
A can a most uncanny thing appears.

And yet before some urchin picked it up,
Attached a string, and then attached the pup,
Some kinder hand, the kind that often will,
Might set the can upon some window-sill
And plant therein a red geranium
To cheer the spot for many a day to come,
And then some alley post come along,
And in the empty can might find a song.

For what things are is not what matters more,
What matters most is what we use them for.
Old cans, our lives, or anything at all,
May scare a pup, or beautify a wall.
And old tin can may clutter up a yard,
Or, in a window, may inspire a bard—
An old tin can may cheer the world, or fail,
May point a moral or adorn a tail.

DAIL SCIENCE SIX

1. What are two birds now common in America which were brought here from Europe?
2. Are birds warm-blooded animals?
3. Are there any birds that cannot fly?

5. Are barnyard geese domesticated from our common wild geese?
6. From what part of the world does the turkey come?

Answers to these questions in Monday's Record News.

BIRD'S TEETH

It is the belief of scientists that birds evolved from reptiles. It is hard to imagine how the warm-blooded, warm-hearted, bird could could have kinship with the cold and crafty serpent, but an examination of a bird's skeleton shows that it has many characteristics in common with reptiles, especially lizards. Bats are related to mice, are indeed, a sort of flying mice; in ancient rocks have been found the skeleton fossils of flying lizards or Pterodactyls. Birds, like reptiles, lay eggs, too, so that all in all the idea is not so strange as might at first be thought. What is hard to believe, however, is that birds once had teeth, when they were less differentiated from reptiles. You have heard the expression, "Scarce as hen's teeth." Some fossil skeletons of the ancient bird Archaeoptery show that it had a powerful set of teeth, and no doubt it would have been capable of inflicting a terrible bite on its prey.

Now what do you know about that?

VENGEANCE

By Wallace M. Bayliss

It take a long time to get even,
Oftimes a lot more than a week;
And I am not one that is given
To turning, sir, my other cheek.
Just do me a trick that is dirty
And I'll pay you back, s'help me Kate!
If I have to wait till I'm thirty,
Or fifty, or seventy-eight!

Last Yuletide my wife went and bought me
A box of those Christmas cigars!
When throwing them out wifie caught me,
And I HAD to smoke 'em! My stars!
Of course my dear spouse never knew it,
But I took an oath and I swore
If only she lived, she would rue it!
I'd certainly even that score!

This week the chance came I've been seeking:
I've squared my account, never fear!
My vengeance is, truthfully speaking,
Perhaps just a bit too severe,
I bought her a new Easter bonnet,
And bought it when she wasn't there!
Now I'LL act so hurt that, doggone it,
She'll just HAVE to wear the affair!

Chaperone—The idea! That cat next door seems to think nothing of her reputation! I'm going right out there and chaperone them!

Her husband—Did you feed the canaries, dear?

Chaperone—Oh, that reminds me. I MUST stay in and watch the canaries! There will be a scandal if I don't—it's disgusting sometimes the way they bill and coo. John! Where are you going?

Her husband—Out in the kitchen, dear.

Chaperone—John! Come here!

(No Answer).

Chaperone—Well, I don't want to be nosey, but it's my DUTY to see what he's doing. So I'll just walk in, and—GREAT HEAVENS! HE'S KISSING THE COOK!

Her husband—Er—you see, it's like this dear——

Chaperone—I'm going to sit right down here and chaperone you! Go ahead and kiss her now if you wish—it's perfectly all right as long as I'm here, but you children forget yourselves. No go ahead and enjoy yourself, John. It's all right if you have me for a chaperone!

"HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR has been engaged to RANDALL PHELPS for nearly a year when he asks her to break their engagement. He tells her with brutal frankness that he's in love with her chum, FAY SHIRLEY.

Heart-broken, Sylvia gives him up, greatly to the satisfaction of her AUNT AGONY, the shrewd old maid who reared her. Aunt Agony says that Ranny will never stick to any one woman, and she dubs him a lazy good-for-nothing, besides. She encourages Sylvia to marry sober PETER WILK, a bachelor of whom Ranny had always been jealous.

Her opinion of Ranny seems to be justified, too, when he and Fay give each other up, and he marries Sylvia after all, for he falls under Fay's spell once more and worries Sylvia by going out with her and by playing poker and losing great sums of money.

Uncomplaining, Sylvia does her own housework and gets along on very little money. And she is rewarded, for when she tells Ranny she is going to have a baby he turns over a new leaf and is almost a model husband, for a time. Fay announces her engagement to EDDIE CARTER, an old beau, and shortly marries him.

Ranny's young sister, LOLLY, causes a commotion in the family circle by marrying her father's chauffeur, THOMAS BOYLE, who is studying law on the side. MOTHER PHELPS vows she will never forgive the pair, but she finally does.

She and Sylvia become great friends and on the night when Sylvia's baby is born, it is to Mother Phelps she telephones for help. Ranny is out playing poker and Sylvia doesn't know where to find him. Hours and hours afterward, when RANNY, JUNIOR, has arrived, he returns home and comes in to see his wife and child with tears streaming down his face.

"Don't cry," Sylvia whispers to him, "I'm so happy I could die right now!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXV.

It was a week later that Sylvia found out that Ranny had not come home at all on the night when his son was born.

As usual, it was Aunt Agony who let the cat out of the bag.

The trained nurse had left and she had taken over the care of Sylvia and the baby.

She was a perfect nurse. No one could shake a pillow quite as she could. No one could make milk toast taste like regular food and not mush as she could. No one knew better than she how to pat a baby on the back to bring up the gas from its little stomach. She was a wonder, was Aunt Agony!

Her only trouble was that she just would talk!

"I'd give a farm to know just where Mr. Randall Phelps was a week ago, wouldn't you?" she asked Sylvia one afternoon as she sat beside her bed running the baby's flannels through her fingers to soften them for his tender flesh.

"What do you mean?" You mean you wonder where he was the night the baby was born?" Sylvia asked, puzzled. She had supposed that Mother Phelps had reached Ranny on the telephone and that he had come along with her and Dr. Buzzard. "Why, wasn't he here?"

Aunt Agony raised her sparse brows. "You know, of course, that he didn't show up here until breakfast time the next morning, don't you?" she asked acidly. "Surely he made some explanation, didn't he?"

Sylvia plaited the sheet with her nervous fingers. "I didn't know when he came home," she faltered, not looking at her aunt. "Sometimes they play cards until pretty late—"

"And drink themselves sodden, besides, I've no doubt!" Aunt Agony's words snapped in the air like little whips. "As they say, 'Grape-juice kills more than grape-shot.' Your Ranny looked half dead when he walked in here that morning! I was ashamed to let Dr. Buzzard see him! I declare, I was!"

She set her lips and went on rubbing the flannel bands between her hands.

Suddenly she looked up at Sylvia, who lay staring at her.

"I hope you're not cross with me for saying a word gainst your Ranny, my dear girl," she said. "I only do it for your own good. 'A sharp word can come out of a good heart,' you know. 'And sweet words butter no parsnips'!"

"Yes, Aunt," Sylvia answered without thinking. Her brain was busy with that piece of news—with the fact that Ranny had stayed out all night.

She knew that Eddie Carter's poker game broke up always at midnight, now that he was married to Fay. For Fay insisted upon it—she had told Eddie in no gentle terms that she was not going to spend her nights sitting up for him!

But perhaps Ranny had been playing cards with some other crowd that night, and yet Sylvia knew that there was no other crowd anywhere that he ever did play cards with. Then, where had he been until seven o'clock the next morning?

The question went around and around in her head all the rest of the afternoon—where had he been? Where had he been? Where could he have been?

She made up her mind to ask him that very night.

At half-past six when the baby was all tucked up in the breakfast room that had been turned into a nursery, he came.

She could hear him moving about in The Nest for fully half an hour before he came in to see her, rustling the newspaper, humming "I want to go where you go—do what you do," to himself, tossing a word or two to Aunt Agony, in his deep, well-loved voice.

"Why doesn't he come in to say 'hello' to me" she wondered as the minutes ticked by. "He knows that I lie here all day just waiting for him to come home."

It seemed to her that he didn't want to come to her, and not for worlds would she call to him, beg him to come.

Finally she sang out to Aunt Agony: "When Ranny comes home, ask him to bring me the evening paper, won't you? Dr. Buzzard says I can read now."

"Why, Ranny's here already!" Aunt Agony's voice came shrilly from the little kitchen, where she was frying chops that sizzled loudly in the pan. "Ran-nee! Ran-nee! Take the paper in to Sylvia."

And then it was five minutes more before he appeared in the doorway. He looked guilty.

"Hello! I thought you were asleep," he said, laying the folded paper on the bed.

She stretched out her slim arm and took hold of his hand. "Aren't you going to kiss me?" she asked, her dark blue eyes on his face.

There was no coquetry in her question. It was a pathetic plea. For something told her that he had not intended to kiss her. Either he had forgitten to do it, or for some hidden reason, he didn't want to kiss her.

When he went out to supper she took her hand mirror from under her pillow and looked at herself closely in its sheeny depths.

How pale she was, she thought. Perhaps that was why Ranny hadn't wanted to kiss her. It was the fresh, healthy-looking, colorful type of beauty that he liked, she remembered.

Ah, well, soon she would be fresh and fresh-colored again! She would soon be Ranny's sweetheart again—not the frail thing she had been for months!

That thought buoyed her up through the weeks that followed.

She seemed to see less and less of Ranny during the next three months.

For one thing, he developed a taste for the movies. Every night after dinner he would show signs of restlessness, fidgeting in his chair, yawning noisily and stretching himself in his chair.

Then he would say, "I ought to go out and take a turn around the block or I won't be able to sleep. Maybe I'll go to a movie." And he would be off, with no more excuse than that.

"I ought to get someone in to stay with the baby so I could go out with him," she told herself one night when eleven o'clock came and no Ranny with it. "It's not a good thing for a husband to run around alone."

But she knew she couldn't afford to pay a "mother's helper." She was running into debt as it was, and Ranny said that fifty dollars a week was every cent he could give her. Most of the time he provided her with less than that.

So when she came right down to brass tacks and copper pennies, there was nothing to do but to let Ranny go out, while she stayed at home with Ranny, Junior.

"We Just Won't Let Ourselves Care—You and I," She Whispered.

It was on the morning of the Fourth of July that Ranny announced that he was going away for the day.

"Dad's giving a picnic for all his office help, and I ought to go," he said, looking away from her. "Where have you hidden my Palm Beach suit? I never know where any of my clothes are any more."

Sylvia looked at him, wondering whether he was telling the truth. For some reason she didn't believe him.

For one thing, if Father Phelps were giving a picnic, she was sure that Mother Phelps or Lolly would have mentioned it to her. She had talked to them both only yesterday.

And besides, there was a certain hangdog ai rabout Ranny this morning. He did not look like a man who was telling the naked truth. He looked like a man who was lying to his wife.

She wanted to turn and face him—to ask him to tell her where he really was going, but she couldn't.

So, with her eyes blurred with tears, she searched through the clothes closet for his Palm Beach suit.

While he was taking his shower she put all his valuables from his blue serge suit into the pockets of the white one, and under the flap of his bill-fold she found a tiny blue handkerchief with an "M" worked in one corner. It didn't surprise her at all.

It only made her think of another woman's handkerchief that she had found in Ranny's car months ago—the one that she had returned to Fay Shirley. He had been in love with Fay, then.

And suddenly Sylvia guessed at the truth. He was in love once more with someone—someone whose initial was "M." Or, if he wasn't in love with her, he was certainly having an affair of some sort with this unknown girl!

That was the reason he went out every night after supper and stayed until midnight! That was the reason he no longer drew Sylvia close to him and kissed her in that fiery, passionate way of his!

The little room with its blue furniture and its sunshine-colored curtains seemed to spin around Sylvia, whirling her with it. She was sick and dizzy, as seasickness might have made her.

She laid the bill-fold on the dresser and went into the tiny room where the baby lay sleeping in the warm little crib. She locked the door behind her and dropped down on the floor.

She couldn't think clearly.

"I'm knocked silly," she said to herself. "Even if he doesn't care for me he might be decent because of the baby."

When Ranny came to the door to say goodby to her she didn't answer him, and after rattling the door knob softly for a minute or two he tiptoed away.

The door of The Nest closed quietly behind him.

The day passed—how, Sylvia never clearly remembered. There were intervals when she fed the baby, changed his clothes and put him into his bed.

Presently it was seven o'clock, then half-past nine, then midnight. It began to rain wildly.

Ranny out in this storm in his thin Palm Beach suit with the girl whose initial was "M!" What was she like, that girl? Small and dainty and perfumed, like her handkerchief?

The baby whimpered and Sylvia went into his room to turn him on his side.

His small hand waved in the air and fell on his mother's hand like a caress.

"He's sorry for me," Sylvia thought, and she leaned over the tiny thing and whispered in his ear.

"Don't you feel sorry for your mother, you little chick," she crooned to him. "We just won't let ourselves care—you and I! We love our Daddy, even if he has forgotten us!"

Then she straightened up and whispered "silly!" to herself scornfully.

If Ranny didn't love her any more—if he loved this girl who used blue handkerchiefs—she'd free him! She had given him up once before to Fay Shirley and she could give him up to this girl! She loved him too much to hold him against his will!

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Where had Sylvia failed in the business of marriage? Why could she not hold her husband? She determines that in spite of his many lapses she will not let him go to some other woman.

Has a man two sides to his nature and does a woman ever understand him?

IT'S TO LAUGH MITCHELL FINDS

Former Air Service Officer 'Puts One Over' His Superiors

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP)—William Mitchell believes he had the last laugh in his bette with the army air service which resulted in his court martial and resignation.

Just before he resigned Colonel Mitchell slipped over to Bolling Field, made 37 flights in one day and collected extra flying pay covering the three months he was under arrest. Comptroller General McCarl has put his OK on the payment.

Colonel Mitchell had put in the necessary flying time up to November, but when released from court martial restraint he found it necessary to make thirty flights to make up for lost time. For good measure he made it 37, all on January 16.

No description of the flights was given.

Comptroller General McCarl ruled Mitchell should be treated in the same manner as on officer prevented from doing duty by illness. The amount involved was $1,027 and the comptroller remarked that "it may be that he was released from arrest to enable him to perform duty, including flying."

Phillips Buys Landreth Property For Reported $10,000,000 Price

4,500 BARRELS PRODUCTION IS SOLD IN DEAL

Sale Marks Second Big Phillip Buy In District

The Phillips Petroleum company of Bartlesville, Okla., has closed with the Landreth Production company for the purchase of their holdings in the Wilbarger and Breckenridge districts, for a consideration reported in the neighborhood of $10,000,000.

Control of the Landreth company's lases was formally taken over by the Phillips company Thursday morning at 7 o'clock.

The property in the Wilbarger district consists of approximately 4200 acres with 4500 barrels daily production. The lease has at present 52 producing wells with 15 in the course of completion. Included in the sale is that of 800 barrels in the Breckenridge area on what is known as the Landreth company's Gratz lease.

The Landreth holdings in the Wilbarger pool of Noble district as they are generally known have very much occupied the spotlight of north Texas operations since the company's entrance in the field. The company's investment is reported to be about $5,000,000 in this district.

Production in the area is coming from seven different sands as shown by a recent guage of the pool. At present there are 3 wells in the 2580 foot sand known as the Landreth sand; 3 wells in the 2400 foot which is known as the Sloan horizon; 7 wells in the 2350 foot, a sandy lime known as the Milham horizon; 15 wells in the 2270 foot sandy lime known as the Noble; 2 wells in the 1940 foot, the deepest true sand and known as the Dyson AA; 58 wells in the 1870 foot sand which is known as the true Dyson; and one well in the Vernon sand which is found at 1180 feet.

Thursday's sale concludes the activities in this district of one of the most spectacular operations ever carried out in north Texas. Going into the Noble area when that district had but two or three producers the company spent far in excess of one million in an apparently true wild cat zone. Its growth from obscurity to one of the leading productive areas of the district has been one of the most remarkable ever seen.

The sale marks the second large purchase of the Phillips company in this district, the first being that of the Phillips company in this district, the first being that of the Macon Oil company's White lease in north Archer county last year for a consideration of over one million dollars.

Oil Gossip

Loyd Nash formerly scout with the Gulf Production company and stationed in the Olney district has been transfered to the Eastland office. Here Mr. Nash will have charge of the division headquarters. Mr. Flagg formerly with the production department of the Gulf will assume the duties of scout in the south Archer district.

P. M. Buchanan formerly with the Gulf Production company with headquarters at Eastland has taken over the duties of Buddy Hale, scout for the Roxana, and will henceforth cover the Olney territory.

Lester Lucke of the Wanderer Oil company has returned to Wichita after an extended trip to the Cross Plains country.

Brookhart-Steck Hearing Waits On Senate's Request

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP)—With sentiment in the senate shifting back and forth on the Brookhart-Steck senatorial contest from Iowa, the case went over today until Monday at the request of Senator Curtis, the republican floor leader. The delay was sought when Chairman Ernst of the elections committee was unable to present the majority report recommending the seating of Daniel F. Steck, a democrat.

Under agreement the contest will reach the senate floor Monday and be held there until it is decided with debate expected to consume most of the week. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who will pilot the fight for Brookhart, a republican has served notice that he will tolerate no further delay or the sidetracking of the case for any legislation.

The present plan calls for Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, another of the majority report to start the debate, followed by Senator Stephens, democrat, Mississippi who wrote the minority report.

RURAL SCHOOL TO VOTE TODAY

Trustee Elections Are To Be Held In all County Districts

Trustee elections in the various rural school districts of Wichita county will be held today. Ballot boxes, located at the school house of the district in each instance, will be kept open until 7 o'clock.

In the most of the districts where the election is being held the ballots show only names sufficient for the places to be filled; in others, however, there are some four or five candidates for one or two trusteeships, and in these pre-election discussion has developed some interest in the results of the campaign.

Results of the election will probably not be known in Wichita Falls until Monday or Tuesday, according to county Superintendent Burl Bryant, many of the balloting places being difficult of access and the results accordingly slow in coming in.

Dallas Officers Fail to Apprehend Bank Safe Robber

DALLAS, April 2.—(AP)—Efforts to identify four suspects held in connection with the robbery of the Garland First National bank yesterday failed today, and officers continued their search for the robber, who escaped with nearly $5,000.

Officers this afternoon found the truck taken by the robbers from H. R. Smith, driver, in a suburb, near the spot where the robber dropped Smith. Smith's truck was commandeered by the robber shortly after the latter's motor car was wrecked while he was making a get-away. The driver was ordered to chauffeur the robber through the business section of Dallas to a lonely spot in the suburbs, where Smith was put out of the truck.

After failure to identify four suspects today, 11 other police characters were taken into custody for investigation.

SAUNDERS EXONERATED

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 2.—((AP)—Clarence Saunders today won another step in his fight against a federal indictment returned against him in St. Louis with a ruling by Judge Harry B. Anderson in federal court here upholding the opinion of John R. Walker, Jr., United States commissioner, that the indictment failed to show that Saunders had committed an offense against the United States.

BRIDGE NOTES FULLY SIGNED

$20,000 Is Guaranteed Here By Local Business Leaders

The last bit of financing needed to assure the new free bridge across Red river was completed Friday afternoon, it was announced by chamber of commerce officials, when sufficient endorsements of business men here were secured to guarantee notes in the amount of $20,000. This sum is being advanced by four local banks and will be paid to owners of the present toll bridge across the river.

When the new bridge is completed, the present structure will be razed and the materials in it purchased by Wichita county for $20,000, payment of this sum to be turned over to the banks for the notes. The county was prepared to pay the money immediately, but a ruling from the attorney general's department held that the county could not pay out these funds until it received the material; and this, of course, could not be delivered until the toll bridge is razed on completion of the new bridge.

Endorsers of the notes, of course, will not be called on to make good, of course, unless the toll bridge is completely destroyed pending construction of the new bridge. This is regarded as entirely unlikely.

Stanburry Resigns Railroad Commission

AUSTIN, April 2.—(AP)—Latin Stanburry of Austin today resigned as deputy supervisor of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission to accept a position with production department of the Houston Gas company. He had been with the division since 1919 serving in various capacities.

Br. Bell said he had not selected the man he will recommend to the railroad commission as Mr. Stanburry's successor.

KATY DIRECTORS ELECT SATURDAY

3 Subsidiary Lines to Hold Elections In Wichita Falls

A large party of officers and directors of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway are expected to be in Wichita Falls today for the annual stockholders and directors meetings of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railway, the Wichita Falls and Wellington railway, and the Wichita Falls railway. Just who the party will include was not known definitely in Wichita Falls Friday, but it is understood that practically every member of the executive staff of the road, and such of the directors as are directors in the subsidiary "Katy" lines named above, will be in the city.

The stockholders meetings are scheduled to begin early in the afternoon in the office of D. C. Dobbins, superintendent, and in each instance will be adjourned in favor of a directors meeting. Election of directors for the coming year, and by them, the naming of officers of the road is expected to be the major part of the business before them. C. E. Schaff is at present president of the roads named and of the entire Katy system. He however retires on May 1. W. M. McGregor of Wichita Falls is ceretary of the three subsidiaries.

A similar meeting will be held today in the general offices of the Wichita Falls and Southern railway. The stockholders and directors' meetings are annual affairs, being held here every year at this time.

Omong those expected in the city for the Katy meetings is L. F. Loree, chairman of the board of the Kansas City Southern and director in both the M. K. T. and "Cottonbelt" systems. He has been prominent in urging railroad consolidation in the southwest.

Roosevelt's Manager Indicted for Perjury

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—John T. King, former national republican committeeman from Connecticut, and who manager the campaign in that state for Theodore Roosevelt when he ran on the bull moose ticket, was indicted today for prejury in swearing to his 1921 income tax returns.

He was charged with swearing to a gross income of $35,500 and a net income of only $266, whereas testimony before a federal grand jury indicated he should have paid $40,000 tax. The government charged that he should have declared an income over $190,000.

Mr. King was in Federal Judge Knox's court when the indictment was returned. He was arraigned soon afterward and on a plea of not guilty was released in bond of $2,500.

3 TAKE EXAMINATIONS

TORNADO HITS INDIA

LONDON, April 2.—(AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Calcutta says seven villages were razed by a tornado in the Madaripur district of Bengal yesterday. Fifty persons were killed and one hundred injured.

Extra Boxes For Elections Ordered

The purchase of an additional set of ballot boxes to provide voting facilities for the Wichita county republicans in the coming July elections was authorized by the county commissioners at their meeting Friday morning. A total of 78 boxes will be purchased, these to be of a size such that one may be placed inside the other.

Some two months ago requests of the democratic and republican executive committees for the loan of the ballot boxes were read to the county commissioners and the democratic party, in accordance with the custom of past years, granted the boxes already in possession of the county.

This makes necessary a grant of similar equipment to the republican party for their primary election. This the county did not have. The action Friday took the form of authorization for the county auditor to advertise for bids on the new equipment.

The coming primary will be the first that the republican party has ever held in Texas.

The lease has six producing wells and will be sold for a consideration of approximately $110,000.

Quite one of the most gala and brilliant social affairs of this week was the dance on Thursday evening at the Country club when Misses Bernice and Geneva Groves were hostesses to three score or more of guests sponsoring the initial dance at the Country club.

The interior of the club was gay with Easter lilies and ferns arranged advantageously and innumerable balloons suspended from the ceiling, adding a festive note. The essence of springtime were the youthful frocks of pink and green worn by the hostesses as they welcomed their guests.

During the intermissions punch was served by Mrs. Geo. Welch and Miss Alma Gadberry from a table decorated in the chosen flower motif. Happy Holligan caps for the men and tiny parasols with a whistle on the handle for the ladies were the novel favors which contributed to the festivity of the occasion.

BURKBURNETT

BIDE-A-WEE

The Bide-a-Wee club was entertained this week in the home of Mrs. E. R. Simons and the afternoon was spent in fancy and practical stitches and neighborly chatter.

At the close of the gathering the hostess served a dainty refreshment course to the following guests: Mesdames Johnny Anderson, D. L. Cunningham, Allen Barwise, C. Ray, O. Gray, P. A. Wiggins, and a special guest, Mrs. Jack Stemple.

FEDERATION MEETS

The Federated Missionary society of Burkburnett held its first meeting at the new Methodist church with the ladies of that organization as hostess.

The session was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. W. Hodges; with Secretary Mrs. R. E. Fisher presiding, and Mesdames Melton and Kincaid serving at the piano during the afternoon program; while the prayers of the sacred hours were led by Dr. Moore, a visitor, Mrs. Sam Davis and Mrs. W. M. Majors.

The business hour included the record of the last meeting of 1925 by the secretary and the adoption of the recommendation from the executive board that the federation finance the building of three more swings in Hardin Home park similar to those built by the organization last year; and also the sponsoring of a story hour one afternoon a week at the park for the children of the town and surrounding leases during vacation months. Each church will be asked by the committee to be responsible for a story teller.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Ted Cropper, director of the special program, introduced Mrs. Sam Davis who conducted the devotional reading and prayer, giving a fitting and impressive talk on the praise and trust in God as set forth in King David's psalm for our own Christian living.

Mrs. Hodges, wife of Rev. Hodges, assistant pastor of Baptist church, gave a splendid address on "How We Shall Enlist Our Boys and Young Men in Church Work." Her presentation is worthy of comment and emulation in this line of religious work. The unique headings of her subthemes were "Find the Boys, Fetch Them, Foster Them, Feed Them, and Follow Them," all with tact and Christian ability acquired by prayer.

LITERATURE CLUB

The Current Literature club met in regular bi-monthly session at the home of the president, Mrs. R. L. Sparkman, Thursday.

Roll call was answered with current events, and later it was decided to put the club on the budget system for the coming year. Funds were paid to the secretary to be donated or the play ground fixtures at Hardin Home park.

Following the business meeting the lesson on "The Development of the Short Story" was ably led by Mrs. James W. Hodges. A paper on "Main Short Story Types" by Mrs. W. B. Hogg was very much enjoyed. Mrs. Fred J. Curry also read a paper, entitled, "The Vogue of the Present Short Story." This was followed by Mrs. Clayton White's article on the subject, "The Part Played by Local Color in the World's Short Stories." This paper was instructive and interesting. The program was concluded with a general discussion on the short story.

In the concluding social session the hostess assisted by Mrs. C. N. Shaffer, served a dainty refreshment plate carrying out the Easter idea in favors of yellow and white daffodils.

Those present enjoying Mrs. Sparkman's hospitality, were Mesdames Jasper Hicks, R. E. Fisher, Butler Westerfield, C. P. Price, N. O. Shaffer, W. A. Scarbrough, James W. Hodges, Sam Copeland, Clayton White, Jess Cook, Whittaker, Lottie McGee and J. Fued Curry.

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the University Study club this season was the session this week at the home of Mrs. J. T. Miller.

During the business hour with the president, Mrs. W. P. Martin in the chair, the following resignations were accepted with regret, namely, that of Mrs. H. C. Anderson, who is leaving this week for her new home in Ranger, and that of Mrs. J. T. Miller, who is moving from Burkburnett to Wichita Falls at an early date. Both ladies have been good club workers and will be greatly missed among the members.

Other features of the meeting were two splendid and interesting papers forming a "Fine Arts Program" by Mrs. Robert Gilchrist who spoke on "Colors," and Mrs. R. D. Cunningham on paintings and fine art appreciation and value in general.

During the last hour a social session was enjoyed, especially the service of a delicious refreshment plate by the hostess, Mrs. Miller.

Those present were Mesdames Martin, Glen Kincaid, Andy Anderson, E. L. Blum, Russell Chamberlain, Russell Cunningham, Bob Gilchrist, Joe Davis, J. E. Haynes, W. R. Hill, L. E. Harwell, J. T. Miller, J. M. Pogue, E. H. Simons, Bob Ferris, W. D. Utts, M. L. Urban and a special guest, Mrs. Scott.

Political Bubbles

By S. Raymond Brooks

AUSTIN, April 6.—The New Yorker comments that from a recent serial, the Wilson administration must have been a continued House party.

At least two more candidates are to join the five Dallasites in the race for attorney general. Judge Lewis H. Jones of Belton said, while here briefly this week he will probably enter; while George Christian, now first assistant attorney general in the Moody administration, is about to enter the free-for-all.

The "Invisible Empire" will hold its "gigantik, patriotik" celebration along the only invisible track highway in Texas. The ku klux klan celebration will be held midway between Belton and Temple, along the famous highway. The celebration will be on San Jacinto day.

Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, will be among the speakers. Others include V. A. Collins, Cyclone Davis and Dr. I. E. Gates, according to a hand-bill which has been mailed out from Temple.

The menu for the barbekue is one of the interesting things shown on this handbill. It includes; "Cyclops of Baby Beef-barbekue de luxe; Grand dragon pickles; Wizard potato chips; White robed buns and butter; King Kleagle Koffee with Invisible Cream."

"Thousands of klansmen and klanswomen will parade in full regalia," the announcement says. "One thousand candidates will be initiated. Reduced rates on all railroads. The public is invited.

Cyclone Davis is to make the official San Jacinto patriotic address. The afternoon will be given to a prohibition rally, with Dr. Gates and Senator Collins as speakers on this subject. A baseball game will follow the speaking. The parade in full regalia will be at 6:30 o'clock; the address by Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans at 7:30 o'clock, and the public initiation of 1,000 candidates at 8:45. A spectacular fireworks display at 10 o'clock will end the day's jubilation.

Damon's Mound is to have its namesake in the race for the legislature. S. E. Damon, for whose family the Damon Mound oil field was named, will seek the seat in the lower house held the past term by Felix A. Raymer.

Before a city can send its fire trucks to answer an alarm, it must send out and buy gasoline, and pay the state a tax of one cent per gallon on the gas used by the truck. Now Representative George C. Purl, has made known he is preparing a bill to except cities from the payment of this tax on the requirements such as the fire trucks. His bill takes on added importance in view of the near-certainty of bills to increase the one-cent tax to two or three cents. During the past year several states raised their tax, the average rate being above two cents, and several states charging 3 1-2 and 4 cents per gallon.

Charles E. Baughman, candidate for state railroad commissioner, has a challenging paragraph printed on his campaign documents: "I will not barter the prestige of the office, nor hold myself subject to the wishes of any political boss or group." It will be remembered Mr. Baughman was denied confirmation as markets and warehouse commissioner by the legislature a year ago, and thereby retired from office several months before the end of his term. Mr. Baughman has said that certain senators sent him word the only way he could be confirmed was to pledge his influence and efforts toward securing enactment of the amnesty bill. He tells of sending back a message that they "take a running start and go straight to hell."

While Associate Justice William Pierson of supreme court has not yet announced for re-election, he is expected to offer for a second term. So far, no oppotition has developed to contest the place with him.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE POOR LITTLE RICH GIRL

A gal was walking in the park, when what did she espy
But some young lady richly clad upon a bench near by?
And so she said to her, "My dear, please tell what's your name,
Because this ain't no proper place for such a stylish dame."
And so the swell one said to her, "I come here now and then
Because I've never had a chance to meet red blooded men.

"I'm only a poor little rich girl,
Whenever I dine or sup,
Or take my tea, the fellows I see
Are dead from the shoulders up.
I would like to wed a policeman
Or even a bandit bold,
But all we get in our social set
Are boys who have only gold."

"I'd fall for them," the gal exclaimed. "Them cops you think are fine.
Don't take you out to places where they sell synthetic wine,
They dassent go to Harlem to see all-night shows—
And most of them is married men and not so good as beaux.
You better stick to your own crowd, in spite of all their gold."
But still the other sobbed and sobbed, with tragedy untold:

"But I'm only a poor little rich girl
In one of them cultured groups—
Where all of the lads has coin in scads
But nevertheless is stupes.
I shall wait here for a plumber,
Or a six-day bicycle fan—
For I've simply got to unite my lot
With a he, red blooded man."

QUAINT STORES THRILL VISITORS

Age-Old Shops of New Orleans Intrigue Countless Thousands

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—(AP) The Vieux Carre—Old New Orleans—is known everywhere as one of the quaintest spots in America, but probably nothing else in this historic quarter so intrigues the stranger as the perfume and antique shops.

The tiny establishments are similar to those found through France, but there also are the larger shops. They are scattered throughout the quarter, but most of them are strung along Royal street.

In the antique shops, lovers of old things are in their glory, for unlike New England and other old sections of the country, the New Orleans establishments have not yet been cleared of their treasures.

Priceless pieces, many of them brought to Nouvelle Orleans by the first settlers, are on display, and the spirit of the owners is to welcome the strolling stranger whether he is on a buying mission or "just looking."

Feminine visitors get a real thrill from the perfume shops in which alluring bottles contain even more alluring odors. Many of the shops are operated by descendants of the old settlers and they have real family pride in the products they are offering.

In one or two of the places of the town, special attention has been given to typically southern perfumes—magnolia, jasmine, and orange blossom—and the visitor who purchases one of those odors may be sure that when she returns to the "old home town" her hostess at the bridge party will not have "beaten her to it" in the way of perfume.

Wichita Falls Snatches Opener From Oklahoma City Crew, 9 to 6

Infield Sluggers Stand Toe To Toe With Spud Outfield's Heavy Hitters

Lamb Gets Well With Bludgeon, Fitzgerald Poles Homer and Single, Mule And Tony Hit Two Each

Pitchers were a wee bit erratic, also took it rather easily because of cold weather, so base knocks came freely in the first of a three-game exhibition series at the Gardner plant yesterday between Oklahoma City and Wichita Falls.

The Spudders lugged off the heavier end of a 9-6 tabulation.

Spirited rivalry has been introduced at the camp by Brainard's infielders. Bludgeoners of the inner works kowtow to no heavy-hitting outfield in the league they say, and are out to show up the coterie of .300 sluggers who cavort daily in the Spudder pastures.

Slamming honors were even-Stephen yesterday between the inner guard and garden patrol as far as number of safeties garnered is concerned. The two departments split a dozen wallops between them, but the outfielders took the lead in extra bases.

Lamb 3 for 4.

Lamb connected for three safeties out of four attempts. Fitzgerald poled a homer and single in three trips. Bodie got a two-base rap on the first of two official times up.

DeFate and Washburn, with two blows each, and Brainard and Distel, with a clout apiece, upheld the infield batting honor.

The catchers, ordinarily a cruelly bludgeoning pair, were hors de combat. The pitchers' batting crown goes to Dick Morgan, who didn't play, because the walloping Carl Williams, who did play, failed to connect.

The second game of the series is carded for three o'clock this afternoon. Sutherland and Roberts will receive the mound call, announces Manager Brainard.

Lamb did not only smack the apple at a sweet clip yesterday; he stepped about lively in the port pasture, staging several spectacular catches of flies made difficult to judge because of a brisk north wind.

The Indians tabulated a run in the first frame off Carl Williams after there were two down. Socks to left field weren't so good, but the wind didn't hinder right field batters any, for Thompson, the third Tribesman to face Williams, golfed the first offering served him far over the Dixon Motor company on the double-decked starboard barrier. The blow was the longest drive of the spring season.

Lead Doesn't Last.

The Spudders checked a trio in the first inning. Distel and Fitz drew passes. DeFate followed with a single to left, scoring George, and putting Fitzgerald on third. A fly to right by Washburn sent Fitz home, after the catch. Bodie followed with a crackling two-bagger to right center, scoring Tony.

The Savages counted two more in the second. Moore made first on miscue by DeFate. Lamb pulled in Seeds' hard drive to left center. Fitzpatrick walked. Funk followed with a single to right, scoring Moore. Distel bobbled Armstrong's grounder, and Fitzgerald tabulated.

A single by Distel and walks issued to DeFate, Washburn and Bodie forced over a run in the Spudder half of the second.

Wichita Falls refrigerated the affair in the fourth by scoring three more. Fitzgerald opened with a home run over the right field wall. DeFate doubled to right and Washburn dropped a Texas leaguer back of second, putting Choco on third. Bodie grounded out to first unassisted, scoring DeFate. Washburn went to second on the play and scored on single through the box by Lamb.

With two gone in the sixth, the Western leaguers connected for five base hits which abetted by an error and wild pitch scored three runs off Wheeler.

Washburn opened the domestic portion of the sixth with a safe blow at short. Metzler walked. Turgeon laid one down, advancing the runners. Lamb followed with a timely slap to deep center, scoring both Royce and Axle.

Oklahoma City loaded the sacks in the ninth, but Rip cracked down and turned back the advance with no casualty registered at the scoring counter.

TEXAS COURT CHAMPS LOSE

CHICAGO, April 2.—(AP)—Fitchburg, Mass., went into the semi-finals of the national interscholastic basket ball meet here tonight when it eliminated Nanticoke, Pa., the only other eastern team remaining in the title play, by a 22 to 14 score.

Brackenridge high school of San Antonio, champions of Texas, went down into defeat before onslaught of the fast Salem, S. D., team, 22 to 15.

Suzanne to Wed Literary Genius

PARIS, April 2.—(AP)—Mlle Suzanne Lenglen, woman tennis champion of the world, is engaged to be married. Her fiance is Jacques Brindejones Offenbach, and he is not a tennis player, or even a fan, but a poet and critic—described as one of the best of the younger generation. He is a grandson of the famous com-Hoffman," is an operatic classic.

While the marriage will take place at an early date it is not definitely known whether it will be before or after the Wimbledon tournament but it is understood that Mlle Lenglen's entry in that tournament will stand in any case. Likewise it has not yet been decided whether se will continue to play tournament tennis after her marriage or definitely retire from the championship. The couple expect to make their home in Paris.

The news surprised the tennis world; at first it was received with incredulity for it has often been reported that Suzanne was engaged, only to be denied. Suzanne and Jacques have known each other for four years, but as he rarely visited the tennis courts, no one suspected the romance. He was a frequent visitor, however, to the Lenglen home. He encouraged Suzanne in her literary efforts and helped to launch her as a novelist.

Track Meet At College Today

The Coyote tracksters will swing into action this afternoon in an invitation track meet with other teams of this district. Coach Bud McCallum announced that his men will enter the meet in good shape and would be all set to go.

The Wichita Falls leader has sent out letters to all the teams in this district and many of them have been heard from and have accepted.

Coach McCallum will depend on Dempsey Moore, Walter Pinney, Melvin McKinney, Baxter Scoggins, and others of his team to be the ones to get the high points for his team.

The trackers are getting in shape fast for the meets that Coach Bud hopes to lead several of his men into state honors.

Refiners Defeat Coyotes, 4 to 1

Medford's American Refiners are carded for a practice affair this afternoon on the refinery diamond with the water department nine.

The Oilers tagged it on the Coyotes yesterday, 4 to 1, in a fast and well-played seven-inning game.

Roberts and Horton were the high school battery. Glidewell worked with Martindale for the refiners.

JAKE SPEEDS UP

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—Jake Schaefer, challenger for the world's 18.1 balk line billiard title, increased his lead to 368 over Willie Hoppe, defending champion, in the ninth block of the 3,600 point match today. Schaefer won the block 300 to 262 giving him a total of 2,700 to 2,332 for Hoppe.

YANKEES MUCH STRONGER THAN IN 1925 RACE

Huggins Outfit Increases Greatly at Home Run Clouting

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—The New York Yankees who plunged last year from an American League pennant contender to a second division outfit, have apparently come back with a reconstructed lineup of greater home run potentiality than any other club in the major leagues.

Critics in the southland claim their recent burst of terrific hitting, the return to form of veteran pitchers, and a general improvement in club morale, is no mere spring flash. Strengthened by the inclusion of Mark Koenig and Tony Lazzeri in the infield, the team of Miller Huggins has braced its defense and developed a powerful attack, which, observers say, threatens to establish new records for extra base hitting in spite of assertions that the "Jack Rabbit" ball has departed.

Babe Ruth, major league record holder, and Bob Muesel, American League home run champion of 1925, have not yet reached the top of their circuit clouting stride. But Lou Gehrig, Earl Combs, Koenig and Lazzeri have been hammering the ball at a terrific clip. With six fence busters ready to enter the race, Huggins is confident his rebuilt Yankees will have considerably more to say about the disposition of the flag than they did last season.

The early gloom which settled over the erstwhile American League champions as a result of defeats at the hands of the Boston Braves has been dispelled by their impressive showing against the Brooklyn Robins. Eight straight victories were rolled up by the decisive triumph of the Hugmen over the Dodgers.

Critics consider the club stronger defensively this year, not only through the new keystone combination of Koenig and Lazzeri in the infield, but due in great measure to improved form at first base by Gehrig. Veteran pitchers also have rallied to uncommon spring effectiveness, with Shocker, Pennock, Jones and Hoyt apparently in excellent condition to open the campaign.

Ed Pays Instead Of Being Paid For This Wrestling Tiff

CHICAGO, April 2.—(AP)—Instead of collecting, Ed. ("Strangler") Lewis, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, may have to pay for his most recent engagement.

All the strangler received was a split lip and an opportunity to explain to the judges.

His opponent, Charles S. Wheeler, 52-year-old broker, is proud of mind and more of body—proud because family history will record that he engaged the strangler and sore as a result of the drubbing tactics of Lewis. The judge also wants to see Mr. Wheeler. He, too, may have to pay.

Spectators who saw the "affair" without paying, said honors were even when 800 pounds of policemen broke the strangler's famous hold from Wheeler's neck.

The "affair" started when two automobiles in which the combatants were occupants scraped fenders in a snow-ridden street. Angry words followed.

"I usually spank people who talk like that to me," Lewis was quoted.

Whereupon Mr. Wheeler smote Mr. Lewis on the lip.

For a brief period spectators saw Lewis use his fists, but the strangler finding his opponent capable, resorted to his profession until both resembled snow men.

Now they will have their day in court, each preferring charges against the other.

Speedy Field To Play in Woman Golf Tournament

GALVESTON, April 2.—(AP)—With individual registrations for the tenth annual tournament of the Women's Texas Golf Association here April 6 to 10 starting to come in, a field that is representative of the best of women golfers in the state is practically assured. Champions of the past five years have already registered and it is expected that competition will be keener than for any time in the history of the association.

The committee was elected to receive the registration of Mrs. John H. Lapham, of San Antonio, state champion in 1921, and 1923. Mrs. Lapham has the distinction of never having been defeated in a state tourney, although she has not entered any of the state meets since 1923. Mrs. Lapham is considered one of the best golfers in the state and has achieved notable distinction in a number of tournaments held outside of the state.

Mrs. Pauline S. Hedrick of Fort Worth, state champion in 1922, has entered, as have Mrs. Rufus Fenner Scott, of Paris, winner of the tournament in 1924 and Miss Margery Dorrance, of Houston, winner in 1925.

Mrs. Clyde Maddox, of Fort Worth, runner-up in the state meet in 1925 and Mrs. May Whitley of Fort Worth, runner-up in 1924, along with Mrs. R. Hedges of San Antonio, runner-up in 1923 have all signified their intention of competing.

BEAR PITCHER DIES

SAN ANTONIO, April 2.—(AP)—Tragedy called a halt on spring training in the baseball camp of the San Antonio Bears this morning when Harry Leon Drake, 25, Bruin pitcher, died in a local hospital from the effects of septic poisoning.

Drake came south from his home in Leesburg, Va., with a sore throat. Septic poisoning developed and the pitcher never appeared in baseball uniform during the month of spring drill, his teammates took.

"VISITORS NOT ALLOWED"

Players Who Go Calling, Often Hurt Club, Says Vet

By NORMAN E. BROWN.
Central Press Sports Editor.

BRADENTON, Fla., April 2.—"The worst type of ball player to have on a ball club, in my estimation, is a visitor."

The speaker was Bill Doak.

We were sunning ourselves in the bleachers while watching the Philadelphia Nationals work out here. Doak, you'll remember, quit baseball a year ago to devote all his time to real estate. He had moved over to the Brooklyn Dodgers from St. Louis after years of service with the Cardinals.

"By a visitor I mean the type of player who, whenever he gets a chance, goes where some other team is playing and spends the afternoon or evening chinning with them. He hears all the gossip of the other club and naturally spills it when he rejoins his own team. And it's a cinch bet that he tells the other fellows what's going on in his own team. That's bad for a team.

"There may be a bit of ill feeling among the members of a team that isn't serious enough to hurt the team's play. But if an opposing team gets wind of it they can stir it up more and cause real trouble.

"And tales he carries, from salary matters to hotel accommodations, simply help stir up discontent.

Tells Club's Secrets.

"And in addition to this he can sometime unintentionally tip off the other club to playing weaknesses of different players and thereby give them something to work on the next time they play your outfit."

And I got an interesting slant on Doak's views the very next day when I saw one of the men Doak had mentioned during his discussion hobnobbing with his former mates on the Boston Braves while his present team mates were playing an exhibition game without his services. He took a leading part in the conversation.

Players are frequently given credit for possessing among other assets, the fighting spirit or socalled "go-get-em spirit."

"Fans oftentimes think that just because a player is talking all the time to the pitcher or batter, that he is a good fighter and a good man to have on the ball club. The fans don't watch some of these fellows close enough, however. Lots of them quit their chatting when the game goes against them. And that's just when the team needs cheering up most.

"Catchers, for instance, who start out with a cheery line of chatter for the pitcher, will start 'crabbing' when the opposition begins to hammer his battery mate. That's when he should be talking the loudest.

Lauds Late Cardinal Backstop.

"When I was with the Cardinals we had a young 'Pickles' Dilhoefer catching for us. Now 'Pickles' wasn't a great catcher. He was a young lad and on his way up. But what he lacked in mechanical ability and the fine points of the game he made up in fighting spirit. He worked just as hard when we were four or five runs ahead as when the going was rough."

Dilhoefer, by the way, died just when he seemed destined to make a bid for fame as a catcher. He got his start on the sandlots and for a time caught Johnny Sords, now my colleague in sports, and twice offered a contract to pitch for American League clubs.

Doak's chat made it clear that while the slim and sturdy curve ball pitcher was laboring in vain to lift St. Louis out of the baseball rut he was making quite a study of baseball and ball players in general.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS

STEERS READY FOR CARDINALS

DALLAS, April 2.—(AP)—Manager Snipe Conley of the Dallas Steers will send in a combination of regulars and yannigans in the two games with the St. Louis Cards, Saturday and Sunday. The Cards returned from Fort Worth today after a game with the Panthers. With the prediction of spring weather, the Easter-tide performance of the big-time players and the Texas leaguers is expected to be snappy stuff.

In the game with the Steers here Thursday, Hornsby started with a lineup which he said looked like his regulars for the 1926 season in the big league. At any rate the Cardinals had little trouble whitewashing the Steers 11 to 4, it being their 24th straight victory this year.

The Steers today galloped through light practice.

CARDS BEAT CATS, 8 TO 5

FORT WORTH, April 2.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals set down the Fort Worth Panthers 8 to 5 here today in a game enlivened by Manager Rogers Hornsby's big stick. Extra bases told the tale, the Fort Worth pitchers allowing but eight hits while the Cats got 10 safe blows, including Ziggy Sears' homer in the third. Doc Smith hit another in the seventh. The victory gave the Cards their fifteenth exhibition game.

SAN ANTONIO, April 2.—(AP)—Although Des Moines led the hitting 14 to 8, the Bear's drives came when they were needed, and San Antonio won the opening game of the series today, 10 to 4. Thirteen Demons were left stranded on the bags as a result of the effective pitching by McCall and Owens and snappy fielding.

Tibbie Serro was the opportune hitter of the day, driving in five runs. With the bases groaning as the result of two walks and a hit batter, he cracked out a three-bagger down the third base line, bringing in three runs in the third inning, and in the eighth he sent a scorcher to right field, on which two more runs came in.

Bases on balls issued by Stoke and Shupe proved costly for the Demons, for five of the Bears who walked, scored.

S. M. U. Trackers Wallop Christians In Dual Tourney

FORT WORTH, April 2.—(AP)—Southern Methodist university Mustangs got off to a flying start in their first Southwestern conference dual track and field meet when they triumphed over the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs here this afternoon by a score of 85 1-2 to 31 1-2.

A steady north wind swept the field, chilling and slowing up the distance runners considerably.

The Mustangs took 12 first places, allowing the Horned Frogs but four. Morrison, captain of the Pony team, led the day for high point honors, taking three first places and making a total of twenty-one points. Brown of the Mustangs annexed 14 points for second place in individual scoring.

Cortemeglia, burly Mustang football halfback, took first place in both of his field events. Van Winkle, tying him for highest honors, by taking two first places on the cinder path.

Light, Frog pilot, was high point man for his team, making six points in his two events, the low and high hurdles.

McCorkle, playing his first year in the conference, sprinted the century in 10.1 second for the only feature event of the day, beating his co-entry, Dickenson, for the first time.

Tex Plays His Cards So Skilfully New York's Biff Solons Waver On Fence

Commish Favors Wills, But May Swing To Rickard's Point and Sanction Tunney-Dempsey Go

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—Tex Rickard with the Yankee Stadium or Boyle's Thirty Acres as available arenas for his proposed Dempsey-Tunney match has played his heavyweight cards so skillfully that the state athletic commission now must change front or see a million dollar fight go to rival Jersey territory, boxing observers declared today.

The promoter's latest maneuvers in gaining virtually monopolistic control of the heavyweight situation for 1926, have put the commission in a perplexing if not embarrassing position, it was pointed out.

As matters stand now, the New York colons have put their foot down firmly on Dempsey-Tunney negotiations and clung consistently to their demand that Harry Wills, giant negro contender, be given first call for a title bout with Dempsey.

Promoters Ignores Wills.

On two occasions Rickard and his matchmaker, Jess McMahon have been interrogated without tangible result. The promoter's answer, if fistic signs can be read accurately has been to push his negotiations for the Dempsey-Tunney fracas without taking Wills into consideration. In fact, Rickard in so many words has said he does not care to promote a Dempsey-Wills encounter, this year at any rate. And by having two arenas available in rival states, either capable of handling a million-dollar attraction, critics see the promoter in an advantageous position.

Within the past few weeks occasional suggestion has been made that the commission may see a loop-hole which would enable it to eliminate Wills from the picture temporarily and pave the way for Tunney and Dempsey to meet in this state. Considerable political pressure, it has been said, is being exerted toward this end. At the same time, it is pointed out, any alteration of the commission's stand in espousing Wills' title challenge would leave it conspicuously.

One Alternative.

One alternative suggested is that Wills and Tunney fight it out here for the right to box Dempsey, thus settling the status of the two outstanding challengers but Wills already has rejected one opportunity for such a test. His attitude has been that he is entitled to first call without any further preliminaries.

It is possible that some of the atmosphere may be cleared when the commission holds its regular meeting next Tuesday, at which time dates sought by Rickard for Yankee stadium shows during the summer are likely to be acted upon. He already has said he would prefer August 12 or September 3 for his "big shot" presumably the Dempsey-Tunney match.

Guardsmen Card Ring Tourney In Panhandle Camp

The 142nd Infantry regiment of the Texas National Guard, plan to hold in Amarillo on June 17-18 and 19, a regimental boxing tournament.

There will be seven weight classifications and a boxer must be a member of the National Guard to participate. Gold watches, medals, cups, etc., will be given as prizes and the expenses of the boys will be defrayed. This competition will not violate the amateur standing of any athlete.

After champions are decided in the 142nd Infantry, they will meet other regimental champions until eventually the entire state and then the Eighth Corps area is covered. This is an ideal opportunity for your young men and boys to get into clean, wholesome athletics, without expense and the possibility of many delightful trips is an added attraction.

PINEY WOODS TRACK AND FIELD PLAY WELL UNDER WAY

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, April 2.—(AP)—Preliminaries were well under way today in the second annual two-day Piney Woods field and track meet, which has more than 200 entries.

Towns represented are: Nacogdoches, Crosby, Marshall, Center, Troupe, Longview, Beaumont, Alto, Jasper, Tenaha, Humble Houston, and Central.

Last year's records show Houston to be the strongest competitor, with Humble, a close competitor for honors in track events. Tennis entries promise warm contests between Houston, Palestine and Longview.

Yank Boss Opines as How His Nine Is Tough Bunch

ATLANTA, April 2.—(AP)—The New York Yankees may not play in the world's series next fall but they will furnish the American league team that does "a whole lot of bother," Miller Huggins, their manager, said today. Huggins, here with the team for an exhibition match with Brooklyn, gave out a statement which he termed "the first comprehensive resume of spring training developments."

"There is only one place in the Yankee combination that is likely to cause trouble and that is the infield," Huggins stated, adding that his infield was of "tremendous intrinsic strength" but as yet undeveloped.

He is confident that by the time the season opens his combination in the infield will have developed coordination in defensive play.

"I have no doubt about the offensive. All those boys can hit," Huggins said. "I am a great believer in developing the disposition of a player as well as his skill and I am frank to say that as yet I cannot tell what my infield is going to do."

Huggins believes that Gehrig at first; Lazerri at second and Koenig at short will produce. Each is twenty-one years old and lacks only experience.

Two new pitchers are pleasing the Yankee manager, Thomas, obtained from Toronto, International league, has been showing up well and probably will be a regular in the box during the coming season. Thomas, a right hander, is generally termed as "neck pitcher." his delivery is with a short arm twist and the ball is on the batter before the batter knows it, Huggins said.

McQuald, from the St. Paul club of the American association has major league possibilities. He is a fast ball pitcher and has a quick breaking curve, Huggins said. He is likely to remain with the Yankees.

Babe Ruth is in good shape and hitting, Huggins said that Ruth had behaved himself, working hard and was in better shape for playing than at any time since he came to the Yankees.

RODGERS KITE RIDE IS TOLD

Naval Commander of Pacific Flight Once Soared O'er Sea

BOSTON, April 2.—(AP)—Commander John Rodgers who was lost and found in the Pacific on his flight to Hawaii, made his first trip in the air in a kite. Swinging on a board that hardly could be called a seat, he drifted over the waters of that same Pacific in February, 1911, while sailors on the deck of a battleship held fast to the lines that kept him from floating away in the air.

This became known today when it was learned from Samuel F. Perkins of Dorchester that Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd would carry kites on his expedition to the arctic. He will use them as distress signals and also as a means of holating the aerial of his wireless apparatus should he be forced to land in the barren wastes of the northland.

Perkins was responsible for Commander Rodgers' first air trip. He had been demonstrating his man-carrying kites on the Pacific coast and was invited by the navy department to demonstrate their practicability for naval use. He was taken on a cruise, and on the ship was Commander Rodgers, then a junior officer. Several of the officers wanted to try a trip in the air, and after questioning several, Perkins chose young Rodgers.

"He seemed to know what he would do in case of emergency and he struck me as being the one who could take care of himself best,' said Perkins.

Commander Rodgers and Perkins met again in Boston recently when the officer spoke here on his experiences of the Hawaiian flight. At that time, Perkins said, the commander agreed that a kite would have been a handy thing to have had around while they were drifting at sea.

PRINCE DENIES SORORITY YARN

Browning, Erstwhile Fairy Godfather Says Girl's Club Not His

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP) Fifteen-year-old Frances Heenan is engaged to marry Edward W. Browning, she announced tonight. He is building a home for them on a 135 acre estate at Bellmore, Long Island, she added.

The latest Cinderella of the elderly real estate operator made the announcement "to correct the false impression that I am an adventuress" and to protect her beleagured admirer whose attentions to her are under scrutiny of the children's society.

Both Browning and the girl previously had refused to confirm or deny reports of their engagement although they made no secret of their friendship.

The girl now is recovering from burns on the face said to have been inflicted by an unidentified assailant who threw acid on her as she slept, and Browning today offered to undergo a skin grafting operation to save her beauty.

"The date of our wedding has not been fixed," Miss Heenan said, "but it will be sometime after my sixteenth birthday, which is on next June 23."

"Daddy," as she called Browning, has promised to let her pick out her engagement ring at a Fifth avenue jewelers she said.

"I am not marrying Mr. Browning for his money nor for a career," she added.

"I am a home-loving person and I want intellectual companionship with a man with whom I can feel safe."

An investigation has been started by the children's society into assertions that Browning had met the girl at a sorority which he himself had founded. He denied that he had anything to do with founding the society.

the BROWN of the SOUTH

BY NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Editor of Central Press

The American league umpires who have been working behind the plate in spring exhibition games inviving National league teams have had an excellent opportunity to watch the early results of permitting the use of resin by pitchers in the old circuit.

There has been the authorized bag of resin resting behind the pitcher's box at every game (or at least it was present during every game I watched). The pitchers reverted to it frequently during the games—this despite the fact that with few exceptions the weather was not unusually warm—as midsummer afternoons in the National league cities go.

Whether or not the resin was misused I cannot say, of course. The umpires to whom I talked said they had not noticed any violations of the letter or spirit of the rule.

I found this out, however, American leaguers, from managers to pitchers, are interested in the possible result of the free and open introduction of the foreign substances. Use of any substance as an aid to pitching in any manner is strictly prohibited in the young league. I was asked, though, by several coaches and veteran players what National league clubs were using it, how, and to what extent.

Which causes me to wonder whether or not the American league club pilots will experiment with it in morning sessions and exhibition games just to find out how far they can get with it.

Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is one of the old league managers who regrets the legalizing of the resin.

"It was bad enough, the way it was before," said Hendricks to me down south. "Lots of pitchers were using it. Now everyone will try to do something with it. I don't believe a pitcher needs resin if he is a good one.

"And what do they plan to do in the world's series, with one league sanctioning its use and the other depriving its pitchers of the same opportunity? It is too bad that the door was opened."

I asked a National league umpire his opinion as to what effect the rule would have as far as the task of umpiring was concerned.

"It won't bother us," he said. "We always have watched for violations regarding the use of foreign substances in pitching. The new rule doesn't effect the old rule at all. If we find any pitcher abusing the legitimate use of the resin bag they'll be called, just as any player is for any rule violation. The pitchers have been using resin right along for drying their hands. That's all it is to be used for now."

Young Tyrus Cobb Plays Ball, But It's The Tennis Variety

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 2.—(AP)—Young Ty Cobb, whose flamboyant hair has lent much color to the south Atlantic tennis tournament now in progress here, thinks tennis is the greatest game in the world, but has not yet decided whether he will take up the sport seriously.

But one thing seems certain; young Ty will not follow in his father's footsteps as a diamond luminary.

The youth likes baseball and for several years played in a local grammar school league. But since growing up—he is nearly as tall as his father—he has been interested in the game only as a spectator and has turned his active attention to tennis.

Ty Jr., is a student at Richmond academy, the Augusta boys' high school, and has about two more years there, after which he plans to attend the University of Georgia and then very probably, Princeton.

"I would like to take tennis seriously," he said today in discussing his probable plans for the future, "but just now I can't say that I shall. There is my education to think of first—and I'll follow the advice of dad as to what is best for me."

Judge Takes First Fall in Match With Wrestler-Barrister

AUSTIN, April 2.—(AP)—Ralph W. Hammond of San Antonio, national A. A. U. middleweight wrestling champion, and Texas university junior law student, today found the Austin corporation court judge a more formidable opponent than many of the grapplers he has met.

Hammond was fined $10 and costs for speeding. Judge John Cofer offered to appoint a lawyer to defend him, but the sturdy wrestler insisted on defending himself in the first lawsuit in which he has appeared as attorney.

The wrestler-lawyer introduced voluminous testimony, but Judge Cofer couldn't see it his way.

Tilden defeated Jerry Lang, New York, 2-6, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3.

and revoked the clemency September 7, 1923. Smith was convicted in Harris county in December 1923, with robbery with fire arms, and was given an indeterminate sentence from 5 o 25 years, April 4, 1025, he was granted a conditional pardon by Governor Ferguson. Besides the 11 jurors in the case, Sheriff T. A. Binford of Harris county, the records show, Travis county Attorney John W. Hornsby, Senators Wirtz, Parr, Farehild, Holbrook, Ward, Strong, Woodward, O. U. Watson, Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, John H. Bailey, Bob Barker, H. L. Darwin, J. L. Darrough, Fred R. Yearger was convicted in Bexar county in March, 1922, of assault to murder, and was sentenced from 2 to 6 years, being committed to prison December, 1922, and conditionally pardoned May 14, 1925.

Governor Investigates.

Among those who signed Yearger's petition for clemency are 11 of the jurors, D. A. McAskill, former Bexar county district attorney; C. M. Chambers, district attorney; John W. Tobin, Mayor of San Antonio, Sheriff James Stevens, A. W. Harlos, clerk of the 37th district court; carl W. Johnson, W. H. King, W. S. Anderson, district judge, Bryan C. Maurmann, Dave Watson, Ben Allen, and Ike T. Ryan.

ROBBERY RE-ENACTED, TWO MORE IDENTIFIED.

SAN ANTONIO, April 2.—(AP) Re-enacting of Tuesday's noon-hour hold-up of the San Antonio National bank today produced two more "positive identifications" and brought about the release of one of several men held as suspects connected with the $19,000 robbery.

Indictments against six San Antonio men, including the four filed on in justice court yesterday will be asked of the grand jury.

One of these four men had asked for the truth serum, saying he could prove an alibi, and bank employes failed today to identify him as one of the four robbers. This man, however, still was held tonight, like the others, without bond, the police believing they can connect him with the crime.

One Suspect Freed.

A well-known San Antonio police character, arrested as a suspect, was turned loose on the spot during the re-enacting of the holdup when all the bank employes said he was not among the robbers.

"I have always wished I had another face," he remarked as he left to enjoy freedom, "but this old mug of mine got me out of this. I'm glad I've got it."

At least one of the six men now in county jail without bail is expected to go to trial in the 37th district court on April 12, District Attorney C. M. Chambers said. Chambers said he was ready to go before the grand jury with the cases and would take up the matter of Indictments Monday. As soon as indictments are returned he will ask for an early setting of all cases, he said.

The district attorney expected to ask that the men be indicted jointly and that all cases be set for the same date. Special Judge O. M. Fitzhugh has agreed to an early setting and April 12 will be the first open date in the court.

Stage Other Robberies.

The six men now under charges are Jack Smith, Kenneth Smith, Joe Hobrecht, Otis Yearger, Earl Collins and Elmer Wilkins. All have waived preliminary hearing before justice of the peace Anton Adam and have been remanded to jail without bail.

Complaints against Collins and Wilkins were filed today.

The district attorney declared that the investigation had shown that other robberies in which Jack Smith was alleged to have been implicated were staged just at noon and that the bandits wore no masks. All three robberies were similar to the robbery of the bank here, he said.

Collins and Wilkins have been under arrest since the day of the robbery. They were taken in custody after descriptions of the bandits were given by bank employes.

BOSTON, April 2.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

Rather wide interest in wool is reported both here and in the west the week, more especially in the west. Prices here are no biter, but the declining tendency seems to have been fairly well halted for 'the time being, while rather better demand from some of the smaller mills is in evidence.

Grease prices for both fine and medium clips in the territory sections range from 30 to 35 cents, according to the wool, with some heavy shrinking clips in the range of 26 to 29 cents.

DUN'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—Dun's, tomorrow, will say:

A new month and a new quarter have begun without visible evidence of a general set back in business. An abatement of activement has appeared in some directions, yet nothing in the present commercial situation would account for the recent collapse of stocks prices. The speculative resettlement, if increasing conservatism in some quarters, apparently has not had a serious effect upon trade sentiment, and reports from the steel industry stress the important fact that conclusions of contracts are absent. Not only has the leading producer in that line been operating to the full limit of practical capacity, but March pig iron output was the highest rate in exactly a year. Supporting these favorable phases is a railroad traffic larger than that for any earlier week this year and also substantially above the figures for a year ago and bank clearings 11.5 per cent over the total for this period of 1926.

Weekly bank clearings $10,041,409,000.

Charleston Routed By Charley Horse In Indians' Camp

YOSEMITE, Cal., April 2.—(AP)—Charley Horse has driven the Charleston out of the Indian camps in the Yosemite national park. Charley is not the chief's name, but is the trade mark of a certain muscular disease that the red men were threatened with while trying to imitate a real tall man walking through a hoop, the sort of thing the Charleston demands.

Several weeks ago the Indians started doing some of the latest Sunday supplement steps. Then some later Sunday supplements arrived showing how Charleston and Charley horse galloped along together. The Indians returned to the war varnish and the goose step pedalling of the sun dance, the moon dance and the rain dance, and dropped the paleface Charleston.

STOCK-A-DAY

The Delaware and Hudson Company 5¾ Year Record

The Delaware and Hudson railroad is essentially a coal road. It operates 918 miles of lines from Wilkes Barre, Pa., to Rouse's Point, New York, and reaches Montreal and Quebec over the tracks of the Quebec, Montreal and Southern, owned by the Delaware and Hudson but operated separately. The company also operates two boat lines and several traction roads aggregating 400 miles in length.

Other companies are controlled through stock ownership or lease and the road has a substantial interest in still others. The lease of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railway for 999 years has been approved by the stockholders of both roads and is awaiting sanction from the interstate commerce commission. It is generally believed this lease is the initial step in the formation of another eastern trunk line which may include the Lehigh Valley, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the Wabash and other systems, including a new route across Pennsylvania.

About 71 per cent of the freight tonnage of the Delaware and Hudson is coal and of this amount, three quarters is anthracite. The company owns extensive coal areas, product from which is sold to the Hudson coal company. In May, 1925, the shareholders approved the proposal to transfer all coal interest to a new corporation all the stock of which would be owned by the Delaware and Hudson company. In 1924, the last full year of operation, the anthracite mines of the company produced 9,254,240 tons or 13 per cent of the Pennsylvania hard coal output.

Capital stock outstanding consists of $42,503,000 in shares of $100 par. Bonded debt totals $73,909,000. The company has paid dividends every year since 1881 and from 1907 to date has maintained a 9 per cent annual rate. Gross revenues for 1925 were $41,706,543, as compared with $44,954,490 in 1924. Net operating income in 1925 was $6,823,030 as compared with $7,482,000 the previous year.

FARMER RELIEF WILL DEPEND ON COOLIDGE AID

Hearings to Continue Indefinitely But Wait On Jardine

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP)—Hearings on farm relief before the house agriculture committee are to go on indefinitely and before action is taken on any proposals Secretary Jardine will be consulted.

This program was agreed to by the committee today after a discussion as to whether the hearings, which have been in progress for some time should be brought to a close at the end of next week.

Termination of the hearings has been urged by members of congress who fear that unless a bill is reported shortly legislative relief, requested by representatives of corn belt farmers, will not be afforded at this session. Representative Hall, republican, North Dakota, who said his constituents were "getting impatient" took the lead today in urging the committee of which he is a member to speed up action.

Determined to proceed with the examination of witnesses the committee again heard Representative Little, democrat, Kansas, in support of his bills to fix prices, provide for storage of surplus crops and prohibit speculation. He was followed by Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, who legislated provisions of his bill, which in principle is similar to the corn belt measure, but provides for the collection of an equalization fee on more commodities.

Neither his proposal nor the corn belt bill, in Mr. Dickinson's opinion, would result in governmental price fixing.

Appearing before the senate agriculture committee William Hirth, chairman of the corn belt committee, said that unless farmers are afforded relief many would migrate to cities and break the wage scale with suffering and misery resulting.

"The patience of farmers is about thread bare and something must be done," he told the committee, adding that there is still a wholesome spirit among them and that radicalism has made little inroad in the rural sections.

The house committee, as it went ahead, with hearings, was informed that representatives of cotton growers probably would appear to support the corn belt bill.

Justice of Ranger Mitigates Sentence Of Chicago Robber

CHICAGO, April 2.—(AP)—Texas ranger justice somewhat mitigated criminal court justice here today when Raymond Cramer, 35, appeared in court on crutches, pleaded guilty to robbery and was sentenced to prison for from three to twenty years. He held up Henry Gallert, a former Texas ranger, in the latter's butcher shop and locked the proprietor in the ice box.

Gallert escaped through a special door and shot Cramer four times as he was rifling the cash register, the bullets crippling him.

Upon recommendation of the state's attorney the court reduced the statutory punishment of ten to twenty years for robbery with a gun.

Bridge, Gas Line, Fair Reports Given at the Business Council Luncheon Here Friday Noon

Reports of activities of the past week and a further report on the Texas-Oklahoma fair campaign for a sale of an additional $100,000 block of stock comprised the Friday noon meeting of the chamber of commerce business council at the Kemp hotel. Completion of negotiations for a new gas line into Wichita Falls from the Panhandle; completion of the three year fight for a new free bridge across Red river; and several minor activities were reported by Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber.

Everybody Happy.

Securing of the bridge was the occasion for general rejoicing, it developed. County Judge B. D. Martin, who has worked tirelessly and at times in the face of tremendous odds in order that the bridge project might be made possible, was publicly thanked by chamber of commerce officials for the service he had rendered. His efforts, it was declared, contributed more, perhaps, than any other single factor to the success of the movement.

State Senator J. D. Parnell who has also worked long and well on the matter was also commended; and in their turn, Judge Sartin and Senator Parnell paid tribute to the part the chamber of commerce had played in putting the thing over. Attorney A. H. Britain and Attorney C. C. McDonald, both of whom have also had considerable to do with the bridge, werea lso commended.

Fair Reports Made.

A report on the fair campaign was made by Mr. Harrison and W. B. Hamilton, the latter general chairman of the campaign committee. It was announced that approximately $56,000 was already raised and that sufficient numbers of prospects remained unsolicited to make the success of the drive assured.

A meeting will be held early next week at which time additional plans for continuation of the campaign will be outlined.

As New York Views Life

(By The Associated Press.)

In the Catherine street second-hand clothing mart; in the veriest depths of the East Side, the "creations" of the world-famed tailors of Bond street, Fifth Avenue, the Chicago Loop and many other centers of the costumer's art may be purchased at the rate of five dollars a suit.

The enterprising merchant frequently laels his offerings sd as to show the origin, too, one of the largest establishments asserting that "Nothing but the Best Fifth Avenue Tailors in our stock."

Judith O'Grady, of the Bowery, has it "on" her sister, the Colonel's lady of Park Avenue in one very important essential of city life.

Judith has access to many table delicacies which, strangely enough, are not found in any but the most exclusive of groceries and delicatessens. The succulent Auxbergere snail and the crisp broccoli are staples among the penny push cart merchants, as are many of the daintily wrapped imported delicacies offered by the noted caterers.

They are made available to Judith through the insistence of the Ghetto for the eatable common "back home."

Sheer stockings in twenty-two new variations of the fashionable tan, flesh and gray theme, are arranged as a spring hosiery spectrum in an exclusive Madison avenue shop window.

The lyric names of the colors touched are: Toast, sandal, mauve tape, almond, beige, grain, French nude, flesh, atmosphere, champagne, silver, moon light, rock, gravel, shadow, rose taupe, medium grey, rose grey, dust dark grey, gun metal, cannon.

New York's quaintest "convention" hasn't been touted at all by any of the various civic boosters. It is the picturesque meetings of the nurse brigades at a few sunny corners.

While the parks and municipal playgrounds are taken over by the youth of five to fourteen, the newly-arrived and the just-toddling congregate in spots selected by their guardians.

The most extensively patronized is on Cathedral Parkway and Fifth Avenue where a concave fronted building affords a wide harbor from draughts. Here rank after rank of perambulator, go-cart and pram, from rusty, creaking vehicles to velvet-and-fur equipped, gather and a babel of gossip and baby-talk marks the passing day-hours.

The blind are learning aesthetic dancing at Union Settelment House on the East Side. Miss Constance James, a Bismarck, S. D., girl, holds a weekly class, at which fifteen blind girls and boys go through various formations. Their sense of rhythm is perfect but difficulty is experienced in assuming graceful positions.

The fanatical degree to which the average New Yorker carries his heroworship has led to a new game—"identify the star."

It embodies the descent in a body of movie fans upon any place where the great and lesser stellar lights of Motiedom are expected to appear in person, and of attempts to name the celebrities as they alight from cars and enter the place.

There was a serious disturbance at a downtown theatre one recent evening when the actors failed to keep their appointment, and at a hostelry of dignified reputation, police reserves were necessary to clear a path among the "guessers."

The shuffling and scuffling of feet which a very careful listener near Chambers street and the Bowery may hear any day now, is not an invading army, but a sure sign of spring. The migrators "Bo" is preparing to shake the dust and grime of New York City from his feet and strike for the open road.

Police and other competent observers note that "Weary Willie" is growing restive, a sure indication that mild, fragrant breezes and bright skies lurk just around the corner. A week or two is expected to see the first "Bo" on his wandering way, and others will follow in quick succession until the missions and "flop houses" are deserted and can clean house after the winter's tenure.

After Senate Seat of G. O. P. Leader

Charles Curtis, Republican leader in the senate, must fight to retain his seat. George McGill, (above), Democrat, noted criminal lawyer, has begun an active campaign to defeat Curtis, with the administration's attitude toward farm relief as an issue.

'LEGGERS BREAK HIM.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Competition of bootleggers disguising their real business in selling barbers' supplies is blamed by the James G. Barry company for its bankruptcy. Bootleggers, the company avers, sell to barbers at less than cost in order to get records of sales and support applications for withdrawal of alcohol.

WAR FILM ON AT BIG FROLIC

Military Show to Be Given Here Tonight At Majestic

An added attraction is promised the audience at the Military Frolic to be given at the Majestic theatre Saturday matinee and night. "Flashes of Action," an official United States motion picture taken on the front during the great world war should give fully 30 minutes of interesting scenes. These pictures are official and have been selected from a group of such pictures by the officers in charge of the Military Frolic from Fort Sill. It is possible that a great number of the scenes may be easily recognized by many ex-service men who saw action on the front.

Permission was given to show this picture due to the fact that it was for a benefit. The proceeds of the Military Frolic go to the Doughboy Memorial fund and to the local national guard armory. A large attendance is expected, and a good show is promised all. Captain Crenshaw and his troop will arrive Friday night via trucks, automobiles and aeroplanes.

Reserve seats are now on sale at the box office of the theatre, and those desiring early reservations may get them at any time.

The city was bombed again Friday with complimentary tickets for school children for the matinee by an army aeroplane. Lieut. Kenneth Strother and Lieut. Dunford piloted the plane which dropped the tickets.

"Confessions of A Failure," Bickley's Theme at Church

Taking as his subject "Confessions of a Failure," Rev. Joe W. Bickley brought a very forceful and impressive message on Friday evening in his sermon at the Yale Avenue Evangelical church. His text was taken from I Kings 20:40. "As Thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone," Rev. Bickley asked, "Why was this man in trouble? Was it because he was in trouble? No, it was because he neglected what he should have done. That which was his duty. Why did Christ cause the fig tree to die? Was it because it bore bitter fruit, or was it because it bore some other fruit than figs? No, it was because it did not bear the fruit God had intended for it to bear to sustain the human life." The message was enjoyed by everyone present, and a great altar service was held at the close of the meeting. There were three conversions.

There will be services Saturday evening at 7:45 and everyone is requested to attend.

Ladies' Barbershop, or an Expensive Haircut, To Be Osborne's Theme In Men's Meeting at Grace M. E. Sunday

Drummer Evangelist Is Drawing Interested Crowds At Each Service; Exceptional Program Planned For Big Crowd of Men Easter Day

Next Sunday afternoon, Rev. T. H. Osborn will preach to men only at the Grace M. E. church. His subject will be: "Ladies' Barber Shop, or An Expensive Hair Cut."

Thursday night, among other things, Mr. Osborn said:

"There are seven thousand churches in the United States that didn't have a single accession last year, and it is because the church people are not working. We are interested in everything else, except looking for souls. You know, I am here to tell you that most of the churches go week in and week out, month in and month out, and year in and year out, without inviting a soul to give their heart to Jesus Christ.

"There are fifteen million young men in the United States between theages of sixteen and thirty-five, and there are fourteen million of them that don't belong to any church anywhere. There are nine million of them that never darken a church door, week in and week out, month in and month out. There are seven million of them that go to church occasionally. There is no one to blame but you and I.

To Be Held Responsible.

If this city is taken for God, it is up to you and I, and, if we don't get busy, where are we going to come out? God is going to hold you and I responsible for people that are lost. We cannot sit around and just be good church members, and expect to go to heaven on our goodness. 'By their fruits ye shall know them.' Who is accountable for all these millions of young men going to hell, and you have your quota right here in this town.

There is an opportunity for you and I, in this world, to work for God, and the biggest opportunity any nation ever had, we have now, and we have got to get busy, or else there will be a lot of disappointed church members on the Judgment Day.

Taking his text from the 33rd chapter of Ezekiel, he emphasized the fact that each church member should speak to an unsaved person every day about soul salvation.

"You plan for the future. Right now, you are planning for Easter. But, let me tell you, today is the most precious day of your life. Before another Sunday, lots of people will be in eternity.

Some one goes into eternity every second and you and I have got to go just as sure as two and two are four. What kind of a harvest are we going to reap? I am afraid to let a day go by without speaking to some one. When we ask a man to give his heart to God, or to come to the meetings, or if he is a Christian and he dies in his iniquity, you and I get the same credit in Heaven as if we had won him. That's the way God keeps books. If you kept books that way in business, you would be down and out, wouldn't you?

Papers All Right.

"I thank God for the newspapers. The editors and all of them ought to be in here. It wouldn't be the first time, I am used to that. I read a piece in their paper today which ended in that sweet, old prayer my mother taught me, 'Now I lay me down to sleep.' Let's have more of that."

Mr. Osborn's sermons are highly seasoned with very interesting personal experiences, which make them his subjects, some of whom are still living, it is thought best not to publish them.
