Italo-German "Wall" In Europe Is Seen In New Accord

Move Is Said To Be Gesture Toward Peace

Austro-German Pact Believed To Be Foundation Stone In Wall To Prevent Invasion By Soviet Influence

Pact Is Praised

Austria's Business Leaders See Improvement; Leaders In Monarchy Movement Downcast By Action

BY A. D. STEFFERUD
Associated Press Foreign Staff

VIENNA, July 13. — Diplomatic sources tonight said the new Austro-German accord might be the foundation stone of an Italo-German "wall" through the center of Europe.

This wall, they suggested, would be intended to keep Soviet Russian influence out of the Danubian valley and, at the same time, might break up the solidarity of the Little Entente.

Within Austria, however, tradesmen reflected the influence of the controlled press, jubilantly predicting better business with the reappearing of German tourists.

Called Important Move

Newspapers and German quarters called the accord an important move for peace, removing the world's uncertainty over Nazi Germany's intentions toward Austria.

Monarchists remained downcast, declaring no restoration of the Hapsburgh dynasty could be expected within two years.

Unannounced points of the treaty, a high German source disclosed, include Austrian treatment of the swastika on the same basis as is accorded the flags of other countries, as well as the lifting of a 1,000-mark visa fee for tourists from the reich.

Board Adopts Bonds Budget

State Is To Pay Off Total Of $8,965,393.29 On Indebtedness In 1937 Under Bonds Assumption Act Of 1933

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 13.—The board of county and district road indebtedness today adopted a budget of $8,965,393.29 for payment in 1937 of the state's portion of outstanding bonds.

The total represented $4,663,490.37 interest and $4,301,902.92 principal. The interest payment will be the full amount due and the principal payment 90 per cent of that due.

Based On Gas Tax

The budget was based on the estimated return from the gasoline tax, one cent of which has been set aside to retire eligible road bonds.

Payments were under authority of the road bond assumption act of 1933 in which the state assumed bonds previously issued by counties or road district in which proceeds were used for construction of state highways.

Pays Greater Amount

In 1933 the state paid 33 1-3 per cent of the principal accruing in that year; in 1934, 30 per cent; in 1935, 50 per cent, and in 1936, 75 per cent.

Approximately $175,000,000 in bonds remain outstanding, about $25,000,000 having been retired. It is estimated most of the debt will have been liquidated by 1950, al-

Wallace Lashes Out At "Alarmists" On Alleged U.S. Shortage Of Food

Secretary Of Agriculture Declares Groups Trying To Scare Consumers On Scarcity

(By The Associated Press)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 13.—Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, lashed out tonight at "alarmists and propagandists" who, he charged, have tried for their own purposes to scare the consumer about food scarcity" as a result of the current drouth.

Reciting steps the government contemplates to aid drouth-harassed farmers, particularly in the middlewest, the secretary, in a radio address (CBS) said purchases of livestock for which no feed was available will be handled so that neither consumers nor growers are penalized.

No Likelihood of Shortage

"There is no likelihood now of anything approaching a national food shortage," Wallace said.

"We are much better supplied with food for livestock than we were in 1934. There is an ample supply of vegetables and other food.

"Even if the corn crop in the middlewest should be cut severely the effect would not be felt immediately. In time it would be translated into higher prices for pork, but on the whole there is no excuse for substantial increases in food prices now.

"The persons who are using the drouth as an excuse to increase their profits are taking advantage of human suffering."

Summarizing the drouth situation the secretary said, "it is a matter for national concern . . thousands of farmers will need all the help we can give regardless of the weather in days to come."

The government, Wallace said,

The Pennsylvania solon predicted every Democratic senator seeking re-election would return to the senate and that the Democrats would win four or five seats among the dozen or so Republicans up for re-election.

Hamilton Accuses Democrats Of Injecting Racial, Religious Issues Into Race; Farley Charges News Coloring

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 13.—Republican Chairman John D. M. Hamilton and Democratic Chairman James A. Farley today fired their first political "broadsides since opening of their campaign headquarters here.

Hamilton, stopping over before a swing through New England, accused the Democrats of injecting racial and religious issues into the campaign.

Charges News Coloring

Farley, at a first press conference, charged that anti-Roosevelt newspapers were coloring their news to make it appear the president was losing popular support.

The Republican leader asserted the Democrats were spreading propaganda in the east that Gov. Alf M. Landon and himself were anti-Jewish and were spreading reports in the west that Landon's middle name, Mossman, was Jewish.

Fought For Tolerance

He said both he and Landon had had strong Jewish and Catholic support in Kansas and had vigorously fought for religious and racial tolerance when the Ku Klux Klan was a political issue in Kansas.

Farley commented on a statement by Paul Block, newspaper publisher, charging the Democrats with persuading Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York to seek a third term to swing the Jewish vote to President Roosevelt.

"I'm really sorry that Paul Block should attempt to indicate that the people of New York ought to vote against a great public servant like Governor Lehman," Farley said.

Asked if he had seen any indications that sentiment for President Roosevelt was declining, Farley said:

"The demonstration given the

Apache Killer Hangs For 33 Minutes Before Pronounced Dead; His Iron Nerve Never Faltered

(By The Associated Press)

SAN CARLOS, Ariz., July 13.—Earl Gardner, feared Apache killer, paid with his life in ghastly fashion at dawn today on a gallows hidden in a deep and rugged canyon almost at the base of Coolidge dam.

For 33 agonizing minutes Gardner dangled at the end of the noose before he was pronounced dead.

Hacked Wife And Son

The 31-year-old Indian, who hacked his wife and infant son to death with a hatchet, went to his death as he boasted—"like an Apache."

His iron nerve never faltered, not even during the five hours he was kept sitting in an automobile, 25 yards from the abandoned rock crusher that had been converted into a gallows.

Makes Brief Statement

He walked to the scaffold with a sure step, stood quietly while Henry C. Smith, chief deputy marshall, read the lengthy death warrant by flashlight, and said as a last statement:

"I'm glad to get it over with."

A hired executioner pulled the wooden lever which sprang the trap at 5:06 a. m.

STORM DISSIPATING.

HARLINGEN, July 13. (AP)—A slight disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico, approximately 150 miles east of Tampico, apparently was dissipating tonight.

The storm, of slight intensity, caused general rains throughout the lower Rio Grande valley, delaying a bumper cotton crop but aiding citrus and vegetables.

Since no ships were in the path of the diminishing gulf storm, weather bureaus depended on land stations for information.

About two inches of rain fell in the squall which blew into southeast Texas from the Gulf doing considerable damage at Sabine, slight damage at Goose Creek, Baytown, Pelly, La Porte and Port Arthur and interrupting telephone service at several points.

Sporadic Showers Reported

Sporadic thundershowers were reported at Houston, Galveston and Beaumont. Laredo had less than an inch rain but precipitation covered the section extending into Mexico.

San Angelo, in West Texas, reported .18 of an inch rain early Monday night. Showers were spotted throughout the section late Sunday and Monday. No other West Texas points reported precipitation.

Frontier Centennial Exposition Grounds Are Scene Of Much Activity In Preparation For Gala Opening

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, July 13.—With a rush that sent workers and entertainers scurrying through the grounds and brought dozens of new employes who will operate concessions, preparations for the Saturday opening of the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial reached a huge pitch today.

The bub-bub of putting finishing touches on the buildings, streets, and concessions lining the midway extended on into the night, while three new concessions buildings mushroomed along the main entrance.

Opens At 9 A. M. Saturday

Through the excitement and tumult, actually far more orderly than it appeared, Billy Rose, director-general, walked to examine every corner of the big show. Then he announced that the main gates will open at 9 a. m. Saturday.

Completed and ready for the opening was the West Texas Chamber of Commerce building, according to Jed Rix, assistant WTTC manager. The last two exhibits to be put into place were a collection of historic and famous branding irons and a display of mounted Texas longhorns.

With nearly 1,800 reservations listed tonight, the opening of Casa Manana, giant cafe-theater, Saturday night is expected to be a sell out.

Opposition To 'Higher School Aid Is Voiced

Three Speakers Argue Raising Per Capita This Year Will Cause Higher Ad Valorem Levy In State

At Odds On Figure

Some Talk Of Compromise On $18.50 Or $19 Is Heard; Teachers Seek $20; Board To Fix Sum Wednesday

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 13. — Representatives of organizations of property owners appealed to the state board of education today not to raise the per capita school aid apportionmnt and thereby bring about a higher ad valorem tax rate.

Speakers included J. C. Mytinger of Wichita Falls, president of the Texas Association of Real Estate Boards, H. L. Barber of Fort Worth, president of the Texas Property Owners association, H. W. Fisher, representing the Dallas County Property Owners association, and Alfred W. Rohde former president of the San Antonio Real Estate board.

Said Should Be $16.50

They argued that the legislature intended for the per capita apportionment to be $17.50 each year. Since the board raised that figure by $1 for the current year they contended it should be cut back to $16.50 for the coming year.

Members of the board were at odds on the apportionment figure. There was talk that a compromise allotment of $18.50 or $19 might be set. The board will not fix the amount until Wednesday.

Representatives of the state association had asked for an increase to $20.

Property tax payers were directly concerned because the amount of the apportionment may determine the state ad valorem tax rate for school purposes. The automatic tax board is scheduled to meet later in the summer to set that rate.

Might Set Rate Accordingly

Barber and Mytinger argued that regardless of the board of education's action, the automatic tax

Mother Of Seven Faces Charge Of Slaying Husband

BEAUMONT, July 13. (AP)—Falba Sarver, 39-year-old mother of seven, faced a murder charge in Orange county today after her husband, H. W. K. (Martin) Sarver, a constable, was fatally wounded in the head with pistol bullets.

Investigators said Sarver was shot about 5:30 a. m. as he lay in bed at his home 17 miles west of Orange. Mrs. Sarver was brought to the Orange county jail where she refused to talk about the shooting.

Officers said they had notes written by Mrs. Sarver before her husband was shot.

Jail attendants said Mrs. Sarver seemed worried only about the illness of one of her children.

Zioncheck Says He Has Feeling He Is "Exhibit No. 1;" Admission Charged

(By The Associated Press)

SEATTLE, July 13. — Marion A. Zioncheck, Washington's publicity congressman, told his constituents tonight he "had a feeling he was on exhibit," but that he was "exhibit No. 1, if you please."

Before more than 1,000 persons, all of whom paid to hear him speak, Zioncheck quietly told his audience he was glad to come back to his home town on his feet "instead of in a cage or padded cell."

"The worst thing of my whole experience in the nation's capital was the letters I received from my friends saying they hoped I would feel better soon.

"What bothered me more than anything else was that I was unable to represent my district," he said, referring to his stay in a Maryland sanitarium.

"Things are pretty bad when they can trump up a charge against a person and lock him up for 30 days," he asserted.

Zioncheck said he did not come back to explain or apologize for anything he had done in Washington, D. C.

Zioncheck said he saw no difference between what he termed "reactionary Democrats and reactionary Republicans." He assailed them both.

Dakotas And Western Minnesota Receive Rain; High Temperatures Reported Continuing In Other Areas

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 13 — Rainfall in the northwest sector of the drouth land started cooler weather on a new march across the sun baked plain states tonight as renewed onslaughts of heat to the east continued to break records and piled up the death toll.

Good rains struck sectors of the drouth parched Dakotas and western Minnesota tonight, lowering temperatures as they fell and signalizing an expected eastward movement of the cool front.

Fatalities Reach 1,700

Fatalities in the eleven days of oppressive heat exceeded 1,700.

REACHES 98 HERE

Monday's maximum was 98 degrees as recorded by the West Texas Gas company's main line station south of town. It reached that figure between 3 and 6 p. m. Minimum in the morning was 66. At 10 p. m. Monday the mercury was still in the 90's.

Michigan, tormented by the worst heat palgue in its history, counted 393 dead, with no relief in sight for tomorrow. For a 14-hour period in Detroit, heat victims died at the rate of one each 10 minutes.

The central office of the weather bureau here reported tonight that cooler weather was moving eastward from the Pacific seaboard and the northwest.

Showers Expected

Masses of cool air were breaking a path through a virtual wall of hot air which had piled up over the farm belt and showers were expected by Wednesday in most of the west and northern sections of the north central states.

The official weather observer at the St. Paul, Minn., airport said the "dense layer of cool air" moving eastward meant a "certain break in the heat wave—no guess work connected with it now."

Hopes For Relief

The cool front had attempted an advance last night, giving rise to hope of widespread relief today in the Great Lakes region, but the density of the hot air masses prevented the movement.

The showers in the Dakotas and western Minnesota ranged from light to heavy. Precipitation totaling .30 inches dropped the mercury from 106 to 79 degrees at Aberdeen, S. D.

Some relief was expected farther south tomorrow. With Nebraska crop experts reporting the state's corn crop "hanging in the balance," showers and cooler weather were

First Christian, Baptist And Presbyterian Women's Societies Meet In Circle Sessions

The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

MRS. J. R. B. Cooper will be missed in many walks of life. Her children testify that she was a model mother; her grandchildren found her an understanding second mother; her neighbors loved her greatly; she was a profound scholar, a good manager and greater than any of these a Christian in the truest meaning of the word.

It's hard to think that those energetic hands are stilled; that those fingers that sketched the faces of tiny grandchildren or caught the beauty of a fragrant, blossoming fruit tree in the back yard will now lie idle. We believe that in some brighter clime she will be put to work again, where she will receive praise from the Master she so loved and remembered here on earth.

SEEKER AFTER KNOWLEDGE

MRS. Cooper was a remarkable woman. She had a keen, inquisitive mind which she put to use in thorough research in many phases of learning. No sweet girl graduate has been more thrilled over a diploma than was this woman the June morning she received a degree from college, but she did not stop there but continued systematic pursuits into deep subjects.

Her children loved her as few sons and daughters and yet they respected her wishes to live to herself, paying her frequent visits and taking her to the First Methodist church which she loved. Her granddaughter, Ruth, has received an inheritance not given to many little girls through having been associated with this beloved character and a grandson, little Bobbie, who will not be able to remember her, should treasure the sketches she made of him only a few weeks ago.

SHE LOVED NATURE

SHE left her native Mississippi 12 years ago and her friends have seen her eyes turn often to an exceptional oil painting that she had done of the tall cedars that lined her front yard in Holly Springs. "I just couldn't go off and leave my trees," she said, "so I brought them with me." They were almost lifelike the children said, even to a tall one that fell and was later made into cedar chests for the girls.

We knew her in a historical society where she was an attentive listener, sometimes interrupting a speaker with a sharp, "What's that? What did you say?", because she was growing slightly deaf, although her pride an inheritance from her Southern aristocratic rearing, wouldn't let her admit it. She had an insatiable desire for learning and her light remained on late at night as she read on and on undisturbed.

THE SIMPLE THINGS

HER class of junior boys at Sunday school, will miss their teacher. She taught simple truths to the wriggling youngsters. Truths such as "where God is there love is" and the beauty of the birds and the skies and of a pure life.

Who of us know enough to say that she is dead? Isn't perhaps death the greatest adventure in life? She stole away, gave little warning and thus we cannot say Good-Bye to her but we will wait and in a fairer land bid her Good Morning.

HE'LL BE MISSED

SHUT-INS and invalids and folk who don't make a practice of attending church services will miss the radio sermons of that great man of God Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, who through his powerful messages brought lessons home to thousands who would have spent a cheerless Sunday otherwise.

Old Legend Of Area Recalled

"Bloody Handprints Of Alice Todd" Are Said To Be Still Visible On Rocks Near San Saba; Story Is Told

(By The Associated Press)

SAN SABA, July 13.—Among many legends of early Texas is the "bloody handprints of Alice Todd," and old-timers here recall the prints that appeared on rocks in the J. A. Sloan pasture, several miles west of here.

W. I. Hubert, an early settler, remembers Alice Todd, whose home was in Mason county, as a school girl. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Todd, and her small brother lived at Spice Rock. While the father once was away from home, word was brought that the Indians were in the country. Mrs. Todd mounted a horse, took the small son in her lap and with Alice behind, started for the home of a neighbor. The Indians overtook them and killed the mother and son but Alice never was heard of again.

Prints Found On Rocks

Later crossed handprints were found on the rocks at the old Indian camp grounds in the Sloan pasture. They are said to have been legible 40 years ago and the legend explains that green rawhind with which the girl's wrists were tied dried and shrunk until they cut her wrists. She was believed to have placed her hands on the smooth rock and leaned her face on them, making the red prints.

The prints still are discernible, the fingers small and the hands those of a woman. The imprints are four feet from the ground. Sloan, whose father was a pioneer settler, doesn't subscribe to the legend. He says they are an Indian paintg.

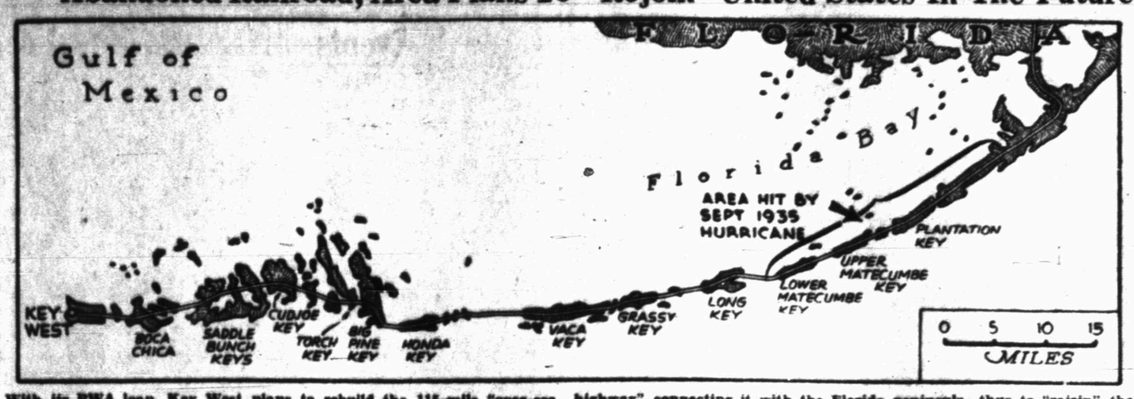
Relief Millions Help Key West's Comeback; New Highway Is To Utilize Abandoned Railroad; Area Plans To "Rejoin" United States In The Future



With its PWA loan, Key West plans to rebuild the 115-mile "over-sea highway" connecting it with the Florida peninsula, thus to "rejoin" the United States. The map indicates the section which suffered worst in last fall's hurricane.

KEY WEST, Fla., July 13. (AP) — This country's southernmost city plans to "rejoin" the United States in the near future.

A $4,300,000 public works loan, recently approved by President Roosevelt, will be used to rebuild the 115-mile "overseas highway" linking Key West and the mainland.

Man and nature have both balked Key West's fight for existence. A careless smoker is blamed for a recent fire which destroyed an important highway bridge, and the Labor Day hurricane swept away miles of the railroad to the mainland, forcing abandonment of the line.

Want Tourist Traffic

Destruction of the bridge necessitates a two-day ferry trip for motorists to reach Key West and virtually cuts off this city of 13,500 from any share in Florida's rich tourist traffic, on which it largely depends.

Federal agencies have spent more than $1,500,000 in carrying out a program to help transform this ailing port into bustling tourist haven, the "Bermuda of America."

To Buy Railway Viaducts

Key Westers plan to buy the unused viaducts and bridges of the Florida East Coast railway and spend the remainder of the loan in converting these for use by automobiles and trucks.

The railway's concrete and steel spans across the deep, swiftly moving waters that separate the coral isles were undamaged by the hurricane of September, 1935.

Repayment of the PWA loan will be made from tolls. The existing highway will be widened and repaved in many places, with the railway's roadbed replacing the low fills across several keys.

Tempting cold dishes—created by the chef of the famous Hotel Shoreham in Washington, D. C.

The appetizing array of cold cuts shown below is a feature of the July menu in the fashionable Louis XVI Dining Salon of Washington's Hotel Shoreham. Here Camels and good food go together. As Robert, watchful maitre d'hôtel, observes: "Camels are the outstanding favorite at the Shoreham."

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER in the National League last season—"Gabby" Hartnett. "I can smoke as many Camels as I like," he says. "A Camel with meals and after sets my digestion right!"

ON THE GO. Bill Ferguson, star salesman (right), says: "Camels give me an extra sense of well-being."

MISS UVA KIMMEY, daring girl parachute jumper. Miss Kimmey says: "I'm a Camel smoker. I like to smoke Camels at mealtime. They make food taste better and encourage digestion in a pleasant way. Camels don't jangle my nerves."

MACHINE-SHOP FOREMAN, John A. Morris (at right) says: "When I've finished my meal, I shove back my chair, take out another Camel, and enjoy myself. Camels set me right! They've got everything!"

Camels add zest to eating—they set you right. No wonder smokers say:

"For Digestion's Sake . . . Smoke Camels!"

MEALTIME often finds us in a state of rush and tension. The excitement and nervousness slow down the flow of digestive fluids.

Remember, then, to pause for a Camel. When you smoke Camels at mealtimes, the flow of digestive fluids is helped back to normal. Alkalinity is increased. You experience the well-being that follows a meal well digested.

Camels are gentle on your throat and they never get on your nerves. Enjoy them often for their cheery "lift"... for their unequaled taste ...for digestion's sake. Camels set you right!

Cooper Rites This Morning

Pioneer Teacher Dies At 3 A. M. Monday In Hospital Of Illness; Services To Be At 10 A. M. Tuesday

Funeral services for Mrs. J. R. B. Cooper, 2010 Main street, who died about 3 o'clock Monday morning in a hospital here, will be conducted this morning at 10 o'clock at First Methodist church, with Rev. Dr. L. N. Lipscomb officiating. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Mrs. Cooper was a former teacher in Junior High school and the oldest person to be graduated from Texas Technological college.

Critically ill for several weeks of a blood stream infection following a sinus trouble, Mrs. Cooper had suffered a hemorrhage into the brain about 6 hours before she was admitted last Thursday to the hospital.

Moved Here In 1924

Mrs. Cooper with her family had moved to Lubbock in the summer of 1924 following the death of her husband in 1922 at Holly Springs, Mississippi. Before removing to Texas, she had taught school in Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and Kentucky.

Her six children, Mrs. E. J. Lowrey, Mrs. G. W. Parkhill, Miss Esther Cooper, J. Robert Cooper and Wilbur K. Cooper, all of Lubbock, and Mrs. J. K. Benton, of Madison, N. J., and a brother, F. W. Kelsey of Chattanooga, Tenn., were here at the time of death.

Educated In Tennessee

Educated at Lynnville Academy, Lynnville, Tenn., and at Martin College, Pulaski, Tenn., Mrs. Cooper was graduated from Texas Technological college in June, 1933, with a bachelor of arts degree. She was 67.

She taught at the Junior High school here from 1926 to 1932, and had since her retirement from full-time duties been a substitute teacher.

Funeral services will be under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Visitors will be allowed at the funeral home from 8 a. m. until 9:30 a. m., it was said. The casket will not be opened at the church.

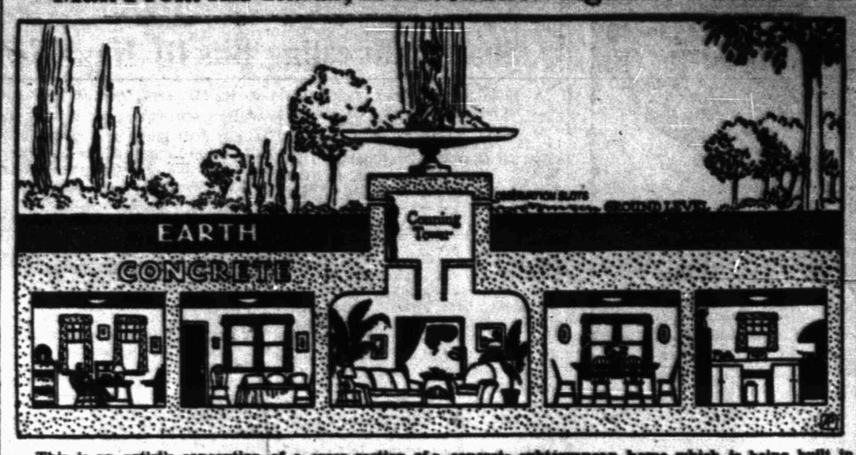
A step-daughter, Mrs. D. B. Welsh, of Salem, Va., and four sisters, Mrs. S. L. Caruthers and Mrs. Dick Grimes, both of Nashville, Tenn., Mrs. F. B. Swearingen, of Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. Hunter Cochran, of Holly Springs, were reported by the family unable to be here for funeral services.

Mrs. Cooper had taught Sunday school classes in the intermediate and junior departments of the First Methodist church for 10 years. A class of junior boys whom she had taught for the past several years will attend the funeral in a group.

Active pallbearers were announced as John Austin, Allan Hill, Fred Adkins, Rufus Scarbrough, H. A. Davidson, W. G. Dingus.

Honorary pallbearers are J. H. Bryan, Dr. F. W. Standefer, W. C. Rylander, Carroll Thompson, R. W. Blair, T. C. Meinecke, J. M. Gordon, A. W. Evans, Dr. M. H. Benson, and A. B. Davis.

Concrete House Under English Field Shelters Wealthy Man From Air Raids; Is Precaution Against Future War



This is an artist's conception of a cross-section of a concrete subterranean home which is being built in England as a precaution against the gas and high explosive bombs of air raiders in a future war.

By ELMER W. PETERSON

LONDON, July 13. (AP)—Plans for Britain's first bomb-proof and gas-proof underground home, where the owner can sleep without fear of air raids, have been announced by a firm of British architects.

It is to be built for an English millionaire, at an estimated cost of $150,000, under a lonely meadow in Hertfordshire. Identity of the owner is a secret.

It will be a luxury mansion, with more than 20 rooms, all air-conditioned. A turn of a switch will flood the rooms with artificial sunlight.

Mole-Like Future Seen

Numerous such homes are visualized for the future by Alan Daly, architect.

"The home now being designed is on luxury lines, but it anticipates the time when the menace of air raids in Europe may compel many home owners to build underground," he said.

No effort is to be spared, it is explained, to make the Hertfordshire home both comfortable and safe. The framework will be of steel with reinforced concrete. Excavations will be to a depth of 12 feet over an area of 200 by 100 feet, Daly states.

The roof, camouflaged as a tennis court and garden, will be of heavy concrete, capable of resisting both bombs and shells. Entrance will be through a tunnel.

Fountain Hides Periscope

Walls of the eight bedrooms and four living rooms are to be of glass, through which will stream artificial sunlight. Miniature landscapes will surround the rooms, giving the impression of being above, rather than under, the ground.

Above the home a periscope, disguised through a fountain, will permit occupants to survey the countryside at will.

"To live in such a home," said Daly, "will be as healthy as living above ground, perhaps more so. The air will be clean and precautions will be taken against dampness, while the artificial sunlight will be health giving.

"To cope with the peril of air bombing there are two obvious solutions in building; namely, blocks of flats at widely spaced intervals, or the underground home. With proper mass production methods there is no reason why the latter should not become popular."

British Budget Leaks Cause Revolt On 'Insurance'; Laws Banning Gambling Aimed At Lloyds; Habit Is Widespread

BY CHARLES P. NUTTER
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

LONDON, July 13.—Whatever else results from the budget leakage scandal, authoritative observers here believe a serious effort will be made to curtail Lloyds accepting bets on events affected by government policy.

There already is a strong demand in the house of commons for corrective legislation making it unlawful to place insurance against tax increases, or indeed against any kindred action that is influenced or decided by political groups or the government.

The reason is that the budget scandal has left a thoroughly bad taste throughout Britain, and many responsible persons believe that the affair should not end with the expose of the facts that drove James H. Thomas from the cabinet and the house, but should result in steps that would prevent such an affair ever happening again.

This could only be done by proscribing insurance companies from accepting risks involving changes in the budget.

Election Wagers Opposed

The wave of revulsion is so great that betting against the holding of an election also may be forbidden, for Thomas is criticized almost as much for winning money on the holding of last year's election as he is for the fact that two of his cronies cleaned up thousands of pounds in the insurance market on the tax provisions of the budget.

It is pointed out that Thomas, as a cabinet minister, was in a position to help influence the decision to hold an election, when he placed bets whereby he would profit if an election were held. Lloyds gave him good odds there would be no election in 1935.

The scandal, moreover may go far toward reformation of the morals of all men in public life. Thomas also has been scolded for gambling on horse races, and for presumably using up time he owed the public in receiving race tipsters in the colonial office.

Sir Alfred Butt, another horse backer, who also resigned from parliament, also is being severly criticised for spending so much time figuring the ponies, and for allegedly cashing in on information he obtained from Thomas on the budget situation.

The situation emphasizes that for thousands of Englishmen the prime interest in life is to risk a few shillings daily on a dog, a horse, an athlete or a football game.

Gambling on football became so obnoxious recently that the football association tried ineffectively to stamp out the practice by withholding announcement of the schedules until the night before games were played. The theory was that if the public did not know what teams were meeting each other pools would collapse and bookmakers could not record so many bets.

The public outcry, however, together with confusion in football clubs, forced the abandonment of this effort.

To the outsider it appears that almost everyone in England bets either steadily or occasionally on horse or dog races, or places money in the countless football pools or other diverse forms of risking money that are available.

Baseball May Be Next

One story now prevalent is that baseball may soon catch hold here because gamblers have learned it is a good betting game.

No big golf match or tennis tournament is played without money being laid on the results. Newspapers publish the odds, bookmakers do a thriving business, and there is a big money turnover on even the most "simon-pure" sport events.

Newspapers reflect the public attitude, quoting advance odds together with sometimes as many as 20 selections by dopesters on horse races. Several pages of some newspapers are turned over to form charts, while Saturday's late editions during the football season are filled with scores, on which thousands of pounds change hands.

Loans Not To Be Renewed

Payment To Be Expected On Nine And Ten-Cent Loans On 1935-36 Crop, Letter From RFC Official Says

Loans made by the Commodity Credit Corporation on cotton from the 1935-36 crop, due July 31, will not be renewed, said a letter received Monday from the loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance corporation at Dallas.

The statement said: "Commodity Credit corporation announced that the ten-cent and nine-cent loans on 1935-36 CCC cotton, form A which mature July 31, 1936, will not be renewed and payment will be expected promptly at maturity.

Should Have Equities

"At the present prices for spot cotton, producers should have substantial equities in the cotton pledged to secure these loans and should be in position to repay the amount of the loans, plus interest and proper charges. Under the 1935-36 cotton loan the program, only a small number of, loans were made and at the present time the corporation holds a total of 90,221 bales as security to these loans."

Cotton men Monday said there was probably more loans made on 12-cent cotton than under the nine and ten-cent loans, in the South Plains area. Recently, some 10,000 bales of the approximate 65,000 bales held in this area, were ordered sold as the quality was not up to that the government required. Much of this already has been disposed of.

No one was able to state the approximate number of CCC bales held in this area, but it was indicated it was less than 25,000 bales.

a miserable condition. My head ached continually, often had bilious attacks and my body was filled with poisons. My stomach became disordered and I was badly constipated. Attacks of indigestion made me so nervous, but try as I might I could find nothing to help me. I was growing worse each day until finally neuritis settled in my shoulders which added to my already miserable condition and I did not know where to turn next—I was actually skeptical of all medicines until I began Gly-Cas—it soon proved its merit in my stubborn case."

"I am feeling like a new person since I have been taking this new Gly-Cas," she continued, "My stomach and bowels are fine, eat and enjoy my meals without any distress afterwards, gas, indigestion and heartburn are all at an end. My nerves have been quieted, headaches never bother me and even that dreadful neuritis has been driven from my body. It is wonderful that suffering people can get such a remarkable remedy—Gly-Cas is a REAL BLESSING."

Interest Charges Reduced By Corporation; Move Said To Be Made To Aid Nation In Faster Recovery

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The action of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in slicing interest rates to its borrowers was described by RFC officials today as a move to help along recovery.

They said it is expected to benefit a large number of banks, industries, borrowers on real estate and farm organizations.

Effective July 1

Jesse Jones, RFC Chairman who is one of the most vigorous official exponent of lower interest rates, made the announcement of the cuts, which range up to 1 per cent and become effective July 1.

Among the reductions were:

To banks and bank receivers—from 4 to 3 per cent.

To industrial concerns—from 5 to a flexible rate ranging between 4 and 5.

On real estate loans advanced by the RFC mortgage company—from 5 to between 4 and 5.

To the Commodity Credit corporation—from 3 to 2 1-2.

To insurance companies, credit unions, joint stock land banks, flood rehabilitation accounts and one other borrowers—4 to 3 1-2.

To accounts intended to finance orderly marketing of farm commodities and, in certain cases, to building and loan associations—4 to 3 1-2.

Accumulates Reserve

Jones said the reductions were possible because the RFC had accumulated an operating reserve "sufficient to cover contingencies" and because the treasury, being able to borrow "at very low rates," had cut its rate to the RFC from 2 3-4 to 2 1-4 per cent.

Nine More Days Remain For Absentee Voting In County

Today and eight more days remain for voting absentee in the first primary election, July 25, Ed D. Allen, county clerk, said last night in cautioning persons to allow time for procedure in voting absentee by mail. Voting by personal appearance at the county clerk's office ends July 22, that by mail, July 23, the final day ballots can arrive to be counted.

A pace of nearly 60 a day has been set thus far for a total absentee vote of 403, including 136 votes in person and 267 applications for mailed ballots.

Summation Of Budget Made

Frist Complete Statement Of Government Financial Prospects For Current Year To Be Given By Treasury

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 13. — An up-to-the-minute summation of the budget—the first complete statement of the government's financial prospects for the current fiscal year—was in preparation today at the treasury.

It is to be made public about a month hence, officials said, after President Roosevelt returns to the capital. It probably will be accompanied by an analysis of, and comment on, the figures by the chief executive.

Inaugurated Year Ago

Such a procedure was inaugurated a year ago when, for the first time, the budget was revised following the adjournment of congress to align it with all appropriation estimates of governmental income.

This time, the revision must reckon with an increased number of uncertainties which have entered the budget situation since Mr. Roosevelt sent his regular budget message to congress in January.

Assertedly Incomplete

The budget was assertedly incomplete, containing no estimate for relief, beyond a statement that certain unexpended balances would be used for that purpose. On the day it was read in congress, the Supreme court invalidated the agricultural processing taxes, creating a half-billion dollar gap in revenues.

Later, congress ordered the soldier's bonus paid at a cost now estimated from $1,700,000,000 to $2,000,000,000. In addition it enacted a tax bill putting corporation taxes on an entirely new basis, aimed at catching a portion of the otherwise remitted processing taxes and, as of the time of passage, expected to produce about $800,000,000 this fiscal year.

Burglars Are Active Here

Wave Of Petty Thefts And Burglaries Investigated By Officers; Filling Stations Are Entered; Loot Small

Police and sheriff's department officials Monday continued their investigations into a wave of petty thieving and burglary that swept through the city Saturday night and Sunday.

A 9-year old youth, who has been in juvenile court many times on theft charges, was released to his parents pending further investigation of the robbery of the S. C. Smart home, 1710 Texas avenue, said Sam W. Fort, police identification officer. Some old coins and some Canadian coins, taken from the residence, were recovered.

Loot Small

To list of places looted included six filling stations and a residence. Loot was said to have amounted to less than $25. Cash was apparently the objective of the robberies.

A 20-year old negro, charged with operating a car without a driver's license, was released by Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg when the man's employer paid the fine.

County Judge E. L. Pitts will continue investigation of a juvenile case which was brought before him Monday.

Two young men who were arrested as suspects in the other burglaries were released after questioning.

Ga-Wa cafe at 1311 College avenue was heaviest loser. About $14 was taken when the cafe was entered through the front door. Nothing else was reported missing. The money was taken from a cash register.

Near Thirteenth Street

Four of the victimized service stations were on or adjacent to Thirteenth street.

Triangle service station at 1301 Avenue M reported theft of about $6.

T. P. service station at Thirteenth street and Avenue J lost about 65 cents in pennies.

Phillips 66 station at Thirteenth street and Avenue Q found nothing missing from the station, but pennies in a peanut vending machine were taken.

Cities Service station at Thirteenth street and Avenue Q reported nothing stolen there. Glass in a rear door was broken to permit entry.

Nothing was believed to have been taken from a Phillips 66 station at Seventeenth street and Avenue H, police were informed.

Other Thefts Reported

Several other minor thefts were reported during the week-end.

H. C. Chambers of Slaton reported that Mexicans took his watch here Saturday night.

W. F. and W. H. Cooper told police that three suitcases were stolen from their automobile in 900-block Main street.

A young man's suit of clothing was taken from the porch at 1902 Broadway, Mrs. E. L. Robertson told police.

Boys who were scuffling in front of Carnett's Electric shop at 1209 Broadway broke a large plate glass window about 5 o'clock yesterday morning. They fled.

Seven men arrested in a poker game early Sunday posted $20 cash bond each for appearance in corporation court.

Six persons were arrested by police for drunkenness Saturday night and Sunday. Five were fined $10 each and the other was fined $15. One man arrested for vagrancy was fined $15.

Woman Charged

Charged with contributing to the delinquency of her 14-year-old daughter and of a 15-year-old girl, Mrs. Mildred Aldrich pleaded not guilty when arraigned before County Judge E. L. Pitts this morning. Bond was fixed at $400. Madison S. Rayburn, assistant county attorney, drew the complaints.

The two girls, charged with delinquency, pleaded guilty, but fixing of punishment in their cases was postponed.

Judge Pitts assessed a fine of $100 and costs in the case of Bill Holland of Slaton after Holland had pleaded guilty of violation of the liquor control act. A. Brassfield, also of Slaton, pleaded not guilty of possession of beer for sale. His bond was set at $500.

The complaints were drawn in the office of County Attorney Jess C. Levens.

Five complaints charging drunkenness were filed Sunday with Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg. One man pleaded not guilty and bond in his case was set at $100. Four others pleaded guilty and were fined $1 and costs each.

Pioneer Teacher Dies At 3 A. M. Monday In Hospital Of Illness; Services To Be At 10 A. M. Tuesday

Funeral services for Mrs. J. R. B. Cooper, 2010 Main street, who died about 3 o'clock Monday morning in a hospital here, will be conducted this morning at 10 o'clock at First Methodist church, with Rev. Dr. L. N. Lipscomb officiating. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Mrs. Cooper was a former teacher in Junior High school and the oldest person to be graduated from Texas Technological college.

Critically ill for several weeks of a blood stream infection following a sinus trouble, Mrs. Cooper had suffered a hemorrhage into the brain about 6 hours before she was admitted last Thursday to the hospital.

Moved Here In 1924

Mrs. Cooper with her family had moved to Lubbock in the summer of 1924 following the death of her husband in 1922 at Holly Springs, Mississippi. Before removing to Texas, she had taught school in Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and Kentucky.

Her six children, Mrs. E. J. Lowrey, Mrs. G. W. Parkhill, Miss Esther Cooper, J. Robert Cooper and Wilbur K. Cooper, all of Lubbock, and Mrs. J. K. Benton, of Madison, N. J., and a brother, F. W. Kelsey of Chattanooga, Tenn., were here at the time of death.

Educated In Tennessee

Educated at Lynnville Academy, Lynnville, Tenn., and at Martin College, Pulaski, Tenn., Mrs. Cooper was graduated from Texas Technological college in June, 1933, with a bachelor of arts degree. She was 67.

She taught at the Junior High school here from 1926 to 1932, and had since her retirement from full-time duties been a substitute teacher.

Funeral services will be under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Visitors will be allowed at the funeral home from 8 a. m. until 9:30 a. m., it was said. The casket will not be opened at the church.

A step-daughter, Mrs. D. B. Welsh, of Salem, Va., and four sisters, Mrs. S. L. Caruthers and Mrs. Dick Grimes, both of Nashville, Tenn., Mrs. F. B. Swearingen, of Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. Hunter Cochran, of Holly Springs, were reported by the family unable to be here for funeral services.

Mrs. Cooper had taught Sunday school classes in the intermediate and junior departments of the First Methodist church for 10 years. A class of junior boys whom she had taught for the past several years will attend the funeral in a group.

Active pallbearers were announced as John Austin, Allan Hill, Fred Adkins, Rufus Scarbrough, H. A. Davidson, W. G. Dingus.

Honorary pallbearers are J. H. Bryan, Dr. F. W. Standefer, W. C. Rylander, Carroll Thompson, R. W. Blair, T. C. Meinecke, J. M. Gordon, A. W. Evans, Dr. M. H. Benson, and A. B. Davis.

Texas Is Sixth In Car Registrations

WASHINGTON, July 13. (AP)—Texas was reported by the roads bureau today to have ranked sixth in the nation in 1935 motor vehicle registration, with a 5.3 per cent increase over 1934 placing the state's total at 1,382,104.

Texas was shown to have had in 1935 1,124,295 automobiles including taxicabs, 754 motor busses and 257,055 motor trucks, tractor trucks and the like. Trailers and semi-trailers numbered 38,262 and motorcycles totalled 3,372.

Of the 1935 Texas total of fees, passenger automobiles paid $10,072,846.

Sixty Thousand Kiddies Given Aid By Shrine Hospital Work

SEATTLE, July 13. (AP)—Sixty thousand crippled children in the United States and Canada have received aid from the Shrine Philanthropic corporation during the past 14 years, the corporation's trustees were told today.

W. Freeland Kendrick, former mayor of Philadelphia and Chairman of the board, said operation of the organization's three Canadian and 12 United States hospitals cost $1,000,000 in 1935. Investment in buildings, land and equipment, he said, totaled $6,500,000 with a permanent endowment of about $3,500,000.

The trustees meeting was in connection with the opening of the national Shrine convention here.

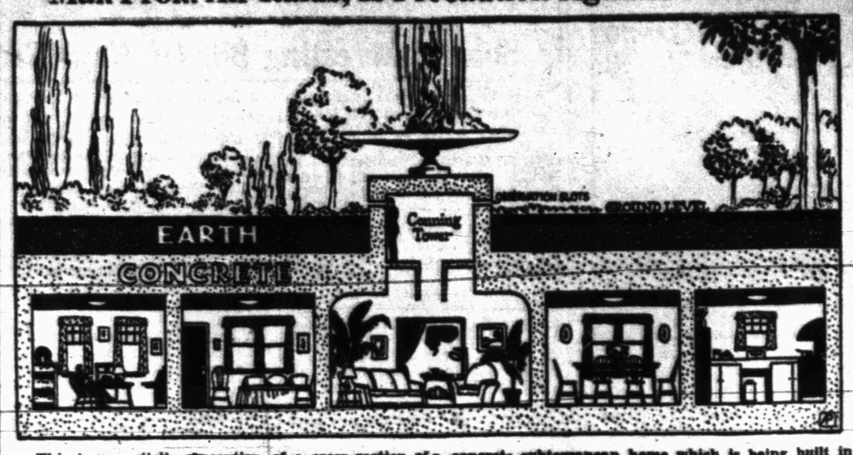
Concrete House Under English Field Shelters Wealthy Man From Air Raids; Is Precaution Against Future War



This is an artist's conception of a cross-section of a concrete subterranean home which is being built in England as a precaution against the gas and high explosive bombs of air raiders in a future war.

By ELMER W. PETERSON

LONDON, July 13. (AP)—Plans for Britain's first bomb-proof and gas-proof underground home, where the owner can sleep without fear of air raids, have been announced by a firm of British architects.

It is to be built for an English millionaire, at an estimated cost of $150,000, under a lonely meadow in Hertfordshire. Identity of the owner is a secret.

It will be a luxury mansion, with more than 20 rooms, all air-conditioned. A turn of a switch will flood the rooms with artificial sunlight.

Mole-Like Future Seen

Numerous such homes are visualized for the future by Alan Daly, architect.

"The home now being designed is on luxury lines, but it anticipates the time when the menace of air raids in Europe may compel many home owners to build underground," he said.

No effort is to be spared, it is explained, to make the Hertfordshire home both comfortable and safe. The framework will be of steel with reinforced concrete. Excavations will be to a depth of 12 feet over an area of 200 by 100 feet, Daly states.

The roof, camouflaged as a tennis court and garden, will be of heavy concrete, capable of resisting both bombs and shells. Entrance will be through a tunnel.

Fountain Hides Periscope

Walls of the eight bedrooms and four living rooms are to be of glass, through which will stream artificial sunlight. Miniature landscapes will surround the rooms, giving the impression of being above, rather than under, the ground.

Above the home a periscope, disguised through a fountain, will permit occupants to survey the countryside at will.

"To live in such a home," said Daly, "will be as healthy as living above ground, perhaps more so. The air will be clean and precautions will be taken against dampness, while the artificial sunlight will be health giving.

"To cope with the peril of air bombing there are two obvious solutions in building; namely, blocks of flats at widely spaced intervals, or the underground home. With proper mass production methods there is no reason why the latter should not become popular."

British Budget Leaks Cause Revolt On 'Insurance'; Laws Banning Gambling Aimed At Lloyds; Habit Is Widespread

BY CHARLES P. NUTTER
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

LONDON, July 13.—Whatever else results from the budget leakage scandal, authoritative observers here believe a serious effort will be made to curtail Lloyds accepting bets on events affected by government policy.

There already is a strong demand in the house of commons for corrective legislation making it unlawful to place insurance against tax increases, or indeed against any kindred action that is influenced or decided by political groups or the government.

The reason is that the budget scandal has left a thoroughly bad taste throughout Britain, and many responsible persons believe that the affair should not end with the expose of the facts that drove James H. Thomas from the cabinet and the house, but should result in steps that would prevent such an affair ever happening again.

This could only be done by proscribing insurance companies from accepting risks involving changes in the budget.

Election Wagers Opposed

The wave of revulsion is so great that betting against the holding of an election also may be forbidden, for Thomas is criticized almost as much for winning money on the holding of last year's election as he is for the fact that two of his cronies cleaned up thousands of pounds in the insurance market on the tax provisions of the budget.

It is pointed out that Thomas, as a cabinet minister, was in a position to help influence the decision to hold an election, when he placed bets whereby he would profit if an election were held. Lloyds gave him good odds there would be no election in 1935.

The scandal, moreover may go far toward reformation of the morals of all men in public life. Thomas also has been scolded for gambling on horse races, and for presumably using up time he owed the public in receiving race tipsters in the colonial office.

Sir Alfred Butt, another horse backer, who also resigned from parliament, also is being severly criticized for spending so much time figuring the ponies, and for allegedly cashing in on information he obtained from Thomas on the budget situation.

The situation emphasizes that for thousands of Englishmen the prime interest in life is to risk a few shillings daily on a dog, a horse, an athlete or a football game.

Gambling on football became so obnoxious recently that the football association tried ineffectively to stamp out the practice by withholding announcement of the schedules until the night before games were played. The theory was that if the public did not know what teams were meeting each other pools would collapse and bookmakers could not record so many bets.

The public outcry, however, together with confusion in football clubs, forced the abandonment of this effort.

To the outsider it appears that almost everyone in England bets either steadily or occasionally on horse or dog races, or places money in the countless football pools or other diverse forms of risking money that are available.

Baseball May Be Next

One story now prevalent is that baseball may soon catch hold here because gamblers have learned it is a good betting game.

No big golf match or tennis tournament is played without money being laid on the results. Newspapers publish the odds, bookmakers do a thriving business, and there is a big money turnover on even the most "simon-pure" sport events.

Newspapers reflect the public attitude, quoting advance odds together with sometimes as many as 20 selections by dopesters on horse races. Several pages of some newspapers are turned over to form charts, while Saturday's late editions during the football season are filled with scores, on which thousands of pounds change hands.

a miserable condition. My head ached continually, often had bilious attacks and my body was filled with poisons. My stomach became disordered and I was badly constipated. Attacks of indigestion made me so nervous, but try as I might I could find nothing to help me. I was growing worse each day until finally neuritis settled in my shoulders which added to my already miserable condition and I did not know where to turn next—I was actually skeptical of all medicines until I began Gly-Cas—it soon proved its merit in my stubborn case."

"I am feeling like a new person since I have been taking this new Gly-Cas," she continued. "My stomach and bowels are fine, eat and enjoy my meals without any distress afterwards, gas, indigestion and heartburn are all at an end. My nerves have been quieted, headaches never bother me and even that dreadful neuritis has been driven from my body. Loans Not To Be Renewed

Payment To Be Expected On Nine And Ten-Cent Loans On 1935-36 Crop, Letter From RFC Official Says

Loans made by the Commodity Credit Corporation on cotton from the 1935-36 crop, due July 31, will not be renewed, said a letter received Monday from the loan agency of the Reconstruction Finance corporation at Dallas.

The statement said: "Commodity Credit corporation announced that the ten-cent and nine-cent loans on 1935-36 CCC cotton, form A which mature July 31, 1936, will not be renewed and payment will be expected promptly at maturity.

Should Have Equities

"At the present prices for spot cotton, producers should have substantial equities in the cotton pledged to secure these loans and should be in position to repay the amount of the loans, plus interest and proper charges. Under the 1935-36 cotton loan the program, only a small number of loans were made and at the present time the corporation holds a total of 90,221 bales as security to these loans."

Cotton men Monday said there was probably more loans made on 12-cent cotton than under the nine and ten-cent loans, in the South Plains area. Recently, some 10,000 bales of the approximate 65,000 bales held in this area, were ordered sold as the quality was not up to that the government required. Much of this already has been disposed of.

No one was able to state the approximate number of CCC bales held in this area, but it was indicated it was less than 25,000 bales.

Interest Charges Reduced By Corporation; Move Said To Be Made To Aid Nation In Faster Recovery

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The action of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in slicing interest rates to its borrowers was described by RFC officials today as a move to help along recovery.

They said it is expected to benefit a large number of banks, industries, borrowers on real estate and farm organizations.

Effective July 1

Jesse Jones, RFC Chairman who is one of the most vigorous official exponent of lower interest rates, made the announcement of the cuts, which range up to 1 per cent and become effective July 1.

Among the reductions were:

To banks and bank receivers—from 4 to 3 per cent.

To industrial concerns—from 5 to a flexible rate ranging between 4 and 5.

On real estate loans advanced by the RFC mortgage company—from 5 to between 4 and 5.

To the Commodity Credit corporation—from 3 to 2 1-2.

To insurance companies, credit unions, joint stock land banks, flood rehabilitation accunts and sine other borrowers—4 to 3 1-2.

To accounts intended to finance orderly marketing of farm commodities and, in certain cases, to building and loan associations—4 to 3 1-2.

Accumulates Reserve

Jones said the reductions were possible because the RFC had accumulated an operating reserve "sufficient to cover contingencies" and because the treasury, being able to borrow "at very low rates," had cut its rate to the RFC from 2 3-4 to 2 1-4 per cent.

Nine More Days Remain For Absentee Voting In County

Today and eight more days remain for voting absentee in the first primary election July 25. Ed D. Allen, county clerk, said last night in cautioning persons to allow time for procedure in voting absentee by mail. Voting by personal appearance at the county clerk's office ends July 22, that by mail, July 23, the final day ballots can arrive to be counted.

A pace of nearly 60 a day has been set thus far for a total absentee vote of 403, including 136 votes in person and 267 applications for mailed ballots.

Summation Of Budget Made

Frist Complete Statement Of Government Financial Prospects For Current Year To Be Given By Treasury

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 13. — An up-to-the-minute summation of the budget—the first complete statement of the government's financial prospects for the current fiscal year—was in preparation today at the treasury.

It is to be made public about a month hence, officials said, after President Roosevelt returns to the capital. It probably will be accompanied by an analysis of, and comment on, the figures by the chief executive.

Inaugurated Year Ago

Such a procedure was inaugurated a year ago when, for the first time, the budget was revised following the adjournment of congress to align it with all appropriation estimates of governmental income.

This time, the revision must reckon with an increased number of uncertainties which have entered the budget situation since Mr. Roosevelt sent his regular budget message to congress in January.

Assertedly Incomplete

The budget was assertedly incomplete, containing no estimate for relief, beyond a statement that certain unexpended balances would be used for that purpose. On the day it was read in congress, the Supreme court invalidated the agricultural processing taxes, creating a half-billion dollar gap in revenues.

Later, congress ordered the soldier's bonus paid at a cost now estimated from $1,700,000,000 to $2,000,000,000. In addition it enacted a tax bill putting corporation taxes on an entirely new basis, aimed at catching a portion of the otherwise remitted processing taxes and, as of the time of passage, expected to produce about $800,000,000 this fiscal year.

Burglars Are Active Here

Wave Of Petty Thefts And Burglaries Investigated By Officers; Filling Stations Are Entered; Loot Small

Police and sheriff's department officials Monday continued their investigations into a wave of petty thieving and burglary that swept through the city Saturday night and Sunday.

A 9-year old youth, who has been in juvenile court many times on theft charges, was released to his parents pending further investigation of the robbery of the S. C. Smart home, 1710 Texas avenue, said Sam W. Fort, police identification officer. Some old coins and some Canadian coins, taken from the residence, were recovered.

Loot Small

Te list of places looted included six filling stations and a residence. Loot was said to have amounted to less than $25. Cash was apparently the objective of the robberies.

A 20-year old negro, charged with operating a car without a driver's license, was released by Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg when the man's employer paid the fine.

County Judge E. L. Pitts will continue investigation of a juvenile case which was brought before him Monday.

Two young men who were arrested as suspects in the other burglaries were released after questioning.

Ga-Wa cafe at 1311 College avenue was heaviest loser. About $14 was taken when the cafe was entered through the front door. Nothing else was reported missing. The money was taken from a cash register.

Near Thirteenth Street

Four of the victimized service stations were on or adjacent to Thirteenth street.

Triangle service station at 1301 Avenue M reported theft of about $8.

T. P. service station at Thirteenth street and Avenue J lost about 65 cents in pennies.

Phillips 66 station at Thirteenth street and Avenue Q found nothing missing from the station, but pennies in a peanut vending machine were taken.

Cities Service station at Thirteenth street and Avenue Q reported nothing stolen there. Glass in a rear door was broken to permit entry.

Nothing was believed to have been taken from a Phillips 66 station at Seventeenth street and Avenue H, police were informed.

Other Thefts Reported

Several other minor thefts were reported during the week-end.

H. C. Chambers of Slaton reported that Mexicans took his watch here Saturday night.

W. P. and W. H. Cooper told police that three suitcases were stolen from their automobile in 900-block Main street.

A young man's suit of clothing was taken from the porch at 1902 Broadway, Mrs. E. L. Robertson told police.

Boys who were scuffling in front of Carnett's Electric shop at 1209 Broadway broke a large plate glass window about 5 o'clock yesterday morning. They fled.

Seven men arrested in a poker game early Sunday posted $20 cash bond each for appearance in corporation court.

Six persons were arrested by police for drunkenness Saturday night and Sunday. Five were fined $10 each and the other was fined $15. One man arrested for vagrancy was fined $15.

Woman Charged

Charged with contributing to the delinquency of her 14-year-old daughter and of a 15-year-old girl, Mrs. Mildred Aldrich pleaded not guilty when arraigned before County Judge E. L. Pitts this morning. Bond was fixed at $400. Madison S. Rayburn, assistant county attorney, drew the complaints.

The two girls, charged with delinquency, pleaded guilty but fixing of punishment in their cases was postponed.

Judge Pitts assessed a fine of $100 and costs in the case of Bill Holland of Slaton after Holland had pleaded guilty of violation of the liquor control act. A. Brassfield, also of Slaton, pleaded not guilty of possession of beer for sale. His bond was set at $500.

The complaints were drawn in the office of County Attorney Jess C. Levens.

Five complaints charging drunkenness were filed Sunday with Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg. One man pleaded not guilty and bond in his case was set at $100. Four others pleaded guilty and were fined $1 and costs each.

America's Olympic Racers May Not Count On Winning More Than 6 Events

United States Vs. The Field Seems Certain

Uncle Sam's Boys Figured To Win Sprints, Hurdles, 400 Meter Relay, But Doubt Is Held In Other Events

(Note: This is the first of two stories on American Olympic track and field prospects, written by the Associated Press sports editor who has covered the last three Olympiads and will accompany the U. S. team to Berlin this week. It deals with the outlook in track competition. Tomorrow the field events will be discussed.)

BY ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, July 13.—At the risk of tossing some cold water on the enthusiasm generated by America's record-smashing final track and field tryouts, it may as well be suggested now that the United States will enjoy no free and easy romp in the quest for Olympic championships at Berlin.

There are numerous hazards attached to the job of keeping footracers tuned up between the time of their embarkation this Wednesday and the actual Olympic competition, August 2-9 inclusive. The coaching staff headed by Lawson Robertson has a job in phychology as well as physical problems on its hands.

Secondly, our picked performers will be up against the strongest kind of opposition in most events. A big majority of our athletes will experience the Olympic pressure for the first time. The final tryouts demonstrated what can happen, even where experience and top-notch ability are concerned.

Challenged By World

While there is no actual "ganging up" against America in the Olympics, this country's performers always have borne the brunt of world challenge.

Summarizing the outlook in the 24 individual track events, including all obstacle races and the relays, the United States appears reasonably sure of triumph in no more than six. This would duplicate our achievement on home grounds at Los Angeles in 1932.

Americans figure to capture the 100, 200 and 400 meter races, both hurdles events and the 400 meter relay. On form our footracers have at least an even chance to capture the 800 for the first time since 1912, together with prospects of breaking through to win the classic 1,500 meters and the 3,000 meters steeplechase. Don Lash, Indiana's fine distance runner, can be given no more than a long-shot chance in either the 5000 or 10,000 meter races. Prospects in the marathon, the 50,000 meter walk and the 1,600 meter relay are doubtful.

Cunningham In Danger

The redoubtable Jesse Owens should outpoint the world.

England has developed a strong trio for the 400 meters, but none has matched the times of the American standard-bearers, Archie Williams, Hal Smallwood and Jimmy Juvalle.

Minus Ben Eastman, the American 800 meter runners will be led by another negro flier, John Woodruff, a potential record-breaker, and the more experienced Chuck Hornbostel. The veteran Canadian negro, Phil Edwards, may prove the man for the Americans to beat.

Even with the powerhouse Cunningham back in form and a fellow Kansan Archie San Romani romping into the picture at his heels, there is no reason for excessive confidence in the "metric mile." The two main reasons are named Jack Lovelock, fleet New Zealander who has beaten this country's best, and England's Stanley Wooderson, who seems to have Lovelace's number.

Forrest (Spec) Towns of Georgia and Glenn Slats Hardin of Louisiana State, appear to outclass all opposition to such an extent that only accidents can keep them from Olympic triumphs in the hurdles.

The marathoners, Johnny Kelly, Bill McMahon and Ellison Brown, all will make their Olympic bows in the classic distance race but it's doubtful if they have more than an outside chance.

Financial Situation Is Greatly Relieved

By BOB CAVAGNARO

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP) — It looked like clear sailing for approximately 450 American men and women athletes, coaches, managers and officials to the 11th Olympic games in Berlin today as the general fund deficit was reduced to $25,000.

As members of Uncle Sam's team assembled at their hotel to acquire credentials and for final instructions preparatory to embarking in the liner Manhattan Wednesday, the wheels of the Olympic machinery whirred to wipe out the shortage. The prospects appeared good it would be done.

"We're only $25,000 short," said Gustavus T. Kirby, treasurer of the American Olympic committee before he went into a conference with the administration committee. "We have 48 hours to raise it and I am sure it will be done."

Forty per cent of the shortage is accountable to the men's and women's swimming teams, and the field hockey and fencing teams. The swimming groups are short $3,000 each and the field hockey and fencing teams are shy $2,000 each.

Wilson Wins Over Anton Club, 5 - 1

WILSON, July 13 (Special)—Lefty Beans Pair was in nice form Sunday and his Wilson mates supported him to the extent of winning a 5 to 1 baseball game from Anton. Pair allowed four hits and, for his part, blanked the Anton batters, who scored in the first inning when Wilson made three errors. The play of Leroy Crews, right fielder, and Giles Shaw, shortstop, for Wilson was glittering, and Catcher Red Pincher played his usual fine game behind the plate and at bat, smacking three hits in four trips, one for three sacks.

McGuire pitched 10-hit ball for Anton and Allen caught. Wilson was held scoreless for five innings, trailing 1 to 0, but in the sixth the score was tied, and the Wilson boys drove in four runs in the seventh to ice the game.

Mickey Cochrane Back Home After Vacation In Wyoming

DETROIT, July 13. (AP)—Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, came home today from a three-weeks' vacation spent on a Wyoming ranch, his skin bronzed, his nerves quieted, but suffering from a sore throat which he said might keep him out of action for ten days more.

Walker Group To Face Tests

Western Amateur Tournament To Offer Strong Challenges To Yates, Goodman, Emery; Moreland To Play

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA, Neb., July 13. (AP)—Blond Charlie Yates of Atlanta, Ga., the defending champion, Omaha's own Johnny Goodman and Walter Emery of Oklahoma City, will embark on a little advance Walker Cup business tomorrow in the 37th annual Western golf championship tournament at the Happy Hollow club.

The three young men not only will be out there shooting over the 6,692 yards of sun-cooked golf course in pursuit of the country's second-ranking amateur honor, but will be swinging just as carefully to prove that no mistake was made when they were selected over other hot shots for Walker Cup duty starting Sept. 2 at Clementon, N. J.

Former Champs Entered

The test will be thorough, for the field arrayed against the trio includes almost every standout in the amateur ranks. Rodney Bliss of Omaha, runnerup to Yates last year and who bowed to Jack Westland of Chicago, in the 1933 final at Memphis, Tenn., is primed for a big bid for the elusive crown.

Charles (Chick) Evans, jr., of Chicago, eight-times winner of the tournament, will attempt to make it nine before he quits.

Gus Moreland of Peoria, Ill., who won the 1932 title, will return to major competition in the tournament, as will Johnny Lehman, the new Chicago district champion.

Tahoka "Ready For Anybody" After Murdering Ropesville

Manager Skip Taylor of the Tahoka White Sox was in town yesterday, and feeling pretty good about his ball club.

"We're ready for anybody, or all of 'em now," he challenged, "and if there's a team anywhere around here which thinks it can play ball, I'd like to hear from it."

No doubt part of The Skip's optimism came about as a result of Tahoka's smashing victory over Ropesville, on the Ropesville field, Sunday. The score was 18 to 6, and "might have been more if we'd really got hot," explained Taylor.

The Tahoka team is expected to be quite a terror in the annual Lubbock tournament, which starts July 26.

Texas PGA Tournament Goes To Houston On July 26-28

HOUSTON, July 13. (AP)—For the first time since the days of the old Texas Open at San Antonio, Texas' ranking professional and amateur golfers will gather here July 26-28 for the Texas Professional Golfer's association state open championship—a 72-hole affair with a pot of gold expected to reach $1,000.

President Willie Maguire of Houston said he expected all of the state's noted amateurs to pit their shots against some 30 outstanding professionals in the medal event over Brae Burn Country club's course.

The 72-hole event will follow the Texas cup matches to be held July 26. Maguire said $900 had been guaranteed with a similar amount likely.

First 36 holes of the tourney will serve as a qualifying round for the National P. G. A. tourney, with the first four professionals to qualify for the National. The final 36 holes will be tacked on for the 72-hole total in distribution of the State Open awards.

Tip-Top, Terry & Childress Win Monday's Softball Tilts

The rampaging Tip-Top Cafe softballers went on another tear yesterday, smothering the City Bus company representatives, 20 to 6, in a city league game.

The regular City Bus team was unavailable, and the makeshift outfit was no match for the pennant hungry Cafe boys, who scored their 20 runs on 15 hits and three errors. Spruiell and Duval, dividing time on the mound for Tip Top, allowed but three hits. Farmer pitched for City Bus, and Harris caught.

In the other game, Terry & Childress Hardware protected their league lead by trimming Southern Auto Stores, 19 to 8. Pitcher Turpin of Southern Auto was off form and allowed too many bases on balls, walking in five runs. Long pitched for Terry & Childress.

Football Fans Urged To Vote For All-Star Team

Grandstand Coach Joshua Fudge, Monday Quarterback Oscar Twiddle, and dependable old Gus Pfiann and all the little fans of Lubbock and surrounding territory are invited to have their say here and now, or forevermore hold their peace.

Football fans of the entire country are voting this and next week for their favorite grid stars. When the votes are counted, the winners comprise the All-Star college team which meets the Detroit Lions, national pro champions, in the annual charity game at Soldier Field, Chicago, September 1.

Eligible for the All-Star team are senior collegians of 1935, and fans who followed the football wars last season should have no trouble recalling their favorites.

After the Chicago game, the All-Stars, or some of them, come to Dallas to meet the Chicago Bears, 1934 pro champs, as a Centennial feature September 7.

The charity game, originated and sponsored by the Chicago Tribune, will be the third in which fans have participated as grandstand coaches. This year they not only select the squad, but the starting lineup for the All-Stars side. Later they will vote for the head coach and his assistants.

To make it easier for fans to remember, herewith are submitted a ballot, authorized for the Avalanche and Journal and for 175 other papers cooperating with the Tribune, and a list of some of the outstanding seniors of last year who are eligible.

Five Events, Including Six-Man Riot, On Tap For Mat Fans Wednesday Night

Another "wild party" is booked for Sled Allen's Auditorium Wednesday night, and judging from advance ticket sales fans consider it probably the wildest yet staged.

It will be an unusual wrestling card—for Lubbock—and something different, to say the least. To all purposes, Sled Allen is set on seeing just who is the toughest in this circuit, for he's putting six of them in the ring at the same time. It will be a survival of the fittest, unless the fittest happens to be "ganged" early in the game. At any rate, the two toughies who stay in there the longest will come back to fight it out just between themselves in the evening's main event.

The "wrestle royal" probably will be the main event so far as color and action go, although it is not expected to last very long.

Eight Men On Card

A total of five events are scheduled, and the price scale has been moved up only as regards general admission for women and children. This goes up to a quarter. Ringsides and men's general admission prices remain the same, but there won't be any ringsides left by gong time at the rate they're going now.

The show starts at 8:30 with Ernie Arthur meeting a newcomer, one Buck O'Neal. Then comes the six-man fight, with Dutch Mantell refereeing.

First two to come out will go back in for another preliminary. The second pair will scrap it out in the semi-final, and the survivors in the two out of three falls main go. The preliminaries will be limited to 15 minutes each, and the semi-windup to 20.

"I'M THE MOST CAREFUL DRIVER IN TOWN"

—HIS CAR IS NOW A WRECK

WHAT happened? This careful driver was safety-minded, of course. That is, he was when it came to having his engine overhauled periodically—his brakes, steering gear and lights checked regularly. But he never gave the tires a second thought until BANG! . . . A blow-out! He couldn't steer! He couldn't stop. Another accident that might have been prevented.

Luckily, this motorist was not hurt. But does it pay to gamble when blow-outs kill or injure thousands every year? Does it pay to be unconcerned about tires, when, by equipping your car with the new Goodrich Safety Silvertowns, you can enjoy real blow-out protection—at no extra cost?

That's because Silvertowns are the only tires built with the Life-Saver Golden Ply—a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the heat generated inside the tire by today's high speeds. By resisting heat, this amazing Golden Ply keeps rubber and fabric from separating. It keeps blisters from forming. And when you prevent the blister, you prevent the high-speed blow-out.

Isn't it better to be safe than sorry? Especially when Golden Ply Silvertowns cost no more than other standard tires. Come in today.

The City's Tax Problem

STEPS to collect the looming delinquent tax amounts would merely have been delayed had the commission adopted a policy of silence on the situation.

Although Lubbock's financial structure a year hence or longer would not have suffered appreciably because one out of every eight dollars assessed from 1930 through 1935 remains unpaid—accounting for most of the $124,000 total—the annual audit report revealed a question mark for the near future if the condition were not remedied..

Long range retirement, upon which the city's present bonded debt of $2,116,945 is based, woud suffer eventually from too much money on paper. Under present methods of keeping records each year's tax revenue is apportioned to the interest and sinking assets, from which the debt is retired, not in the amount actually collected but that assessed.

The unfavorable condition of great amounts of uncollected taxes, facing the city at present, can be strikingly illustrated by comparison with a private business which approaches a new season when new goods must be bought, and finds that its trade for the past season was brisk enough but too many bills were unpaid.

The city's outlook is not alarming. It might have been if the delinquent taxes had been disregarded until a later date.

Whether the city's taxes will need a rate hike or valuations will require further boosting at some future time, is to be answered with success which attends the new effort to whittle down a belated aggregate of past due accounts.

Increases in either the tax rate or valuations would become doubly objectionable when the cause could be attributed directly to a policy which did not demand payment of all just obligations and called upon those who pay regularly to pay the delinquent fellow's, too.

WALLOPS AND GLASS JAWS

It really is too bad, the parents of Little Henry can't brag to the neighbors of his antics.

Mrs. Henry Schleidt of East Hampton, Conn., leaned over to tuck her young hopeful under the covers. We imagine she was about to give him the usual good night peck.

But Little Henry, 3 kicked his mother—breaking her jaw in three places, thus demonstrating either he has the kick of a New Deal relief malcontent or that Mrs. Henry has a glass jaw.

Mrs. Henry probably will keep Little Henry—that's the usual proceedure—but she was as shocked at her son's conduct as a certain, expressionless negro was recently when a punch-drunk Teuton's fist collided with his paleolithic jaw.

"Well, this column may look more like a menagerie this week than anything else, with the pictures of these two funny goofs in it, but I thought it was as good as any, what with the summer being so dull, to give you a little low down on the other two fellows who help Old Archibald get out the paper each week," Old Archibald, the country printer, says in the Hale Center American. He uses cuts of Raymond Delert Donnell of the American and Buford F. Davenport, of the Abernathy Review.

"The (Lamesa) Reporter and the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal are discussed more than any papers that come to this office," J. W. Smith, Sr., says in the Lamesa Reporter. "They are not better than other papers, but they do have an editorial policy that makes the public read them, and if they read them, then they have an advertising value of more than the ordinary sheet, run for advertising purposes only, and they will sell your goods." (Thanks, J. W. We get cussed a good deal, but our shoulders are broad and our hide is thick.)

"In few enterprises is the human element so important as in an agricultural cooperative institution," notes E. F. Huntsucker in the Morton Reporter. "A chain is no stronger than its links and a co-op, no matter how well established or managed, is no stronger than its individual members."

"There is nothing like a sojourn into the city to smooth out the creases in a household or relieve loose-end nerves," Jeane Suits chatters in the Lockney Beacon.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

THE EXPRESSION "QUIZ" IS THE RESULT OF A WAGER

"Quiz" and all its derivatives originated in a joke Richard Daly, a famous Irish character of Dublin, Ireland, and an inveterate better, wagered that he would within 24 hours introduce a meaningless new word into the English language. The four letters Q U I Z were then chalked and posted on every wall in Dublin and Daly won his bet. He was, at the time, the manager of the Theatre Royal in Dublin, 1789.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

SYNOPSIS: It may very well be Lumsdale, old Arthur Burdette's manservant, who killed the old miser. But now, after a little conversation with Dale Shipley's housekeeper while Dale is riding with the hunt, Inspector Hylton is inclined to think it may have been Dale. The tryth is that almost anybody in Hope Enderton might have done it and might have had reason to do it. Now Hylton is talking to the Reeves' maid, and what he hears of Shipley's lateness at their dinner on the night of the murder seems suspicious.

Chapter 21

NEW CLUE

"No Mr. Shipley he didn't come for another five minutes, and Cook and me nearly busting ourselves trying to keep the soup hot."

"I suppose when he did turn up Mr. Shipley looked as though he'd hurried a bit?"

The maid considered. "P'raps he did look a bit put out," she said finally, and the Inspector, watching her closely, shook his head; so far she had been in the realm of aggrieved fact and was reliable; his last question had opened up vistas of being able to establish connection with the village-shaking business up at the Court. Hylton knew from bitter experience of her sort what fantastic realms of sheer invention she would be capable of embarking on with only the slightest encouragement.

He decided to leave well alone and withdrew. He turned out of the drive and had not gone very far down the road when he met Mrs. Reeves walking her horse slowly home. She smiled pleasantly at him.

"Had a spill?" he asked.

"No. Coconut overreached badly and I had to bring him back. Sickening wasn't it? They're having one of the best runs ever. What happened to you?"

"It was too hot for me," Hylton laughed, "I just had to drop out."

She nodded and smiled again in her attractive way and they parted. Hylton kicked his old horse into a trot and went back to the Hoops. Sergeant White was waiting for him there. Presently—the worthy old hack being disposed of—they were closeted together in Hylton's private sitting room.

"Got anything to tell me?" Hylton asked.

"Yes sir, I have got something, though I don't know whether it means anything or not."

"Just one minute, Sergeant. Walk over to that door behind you and poke your head into the billiard room, will you?"

White did as he was bid. "Nobody there, sir," he said a trifle surprised.

"Good. People who play billiards sometimes have long ears. Go ahead."

"It's this sir." The Sergeant produced a small square of yellow cardboard from his pocket and put it carefully on the table. "Edwardes found it. He's our man on the back door at the Court. He was going off duty the other day and took a short cut across the bit of grass in front of the window—"

"The window of the room where it happened?"

"Yes sir. A few yards away from the window he saw this and picked it up."

Hylton very gingerly took up the exhibit and studied it. The cardboard had been folded in half down the middle and had lost something of its pristine freshness, but all the printing on it was still perfectly legible.

"2.30 Monday Jan. 18th," he said reflectively. "Go to the telephone just outside, Sergeant, ring up Morechester 61 and ask who it was who booked an appointment for 2.30 last Monday."

"Right-o sir."

Hylton drew out one of his thin black cigars and lit it carefully. A woman in the case? He wondered.

"Did you get them?"

"Yes sir; they were quite forthcoming about it, told me straight out."

"And who was it?"

"Mrs. Reeves of Ferney House, sir."

The Inspector took the cigar out of his mouth and gave a long, low whistle.

"Mrs. Reeves, eh?" he said. "Wife of Captain Reeves—there seems to be a devil of a lot in this business we haven't begun to get hold of yet, White."

The Inspector left the Hoops quickly and was over at Enderton Court as fast as his long legs could take him; he had decided to have a few plain words with Andrew Lumsdale before going on to see Mrs. Reeves.

He found Lumsdale in the kitchen, sitting down to a generous high tea and reading the paper.

"'afternoon Lumsdale."

"How do."

Lumsdale slowly masticated his last mouthful of food and eyed his visitor in silent and deefnsive speculation.

"Now let me see," the Inspector went on briskly, "Last Monday; when you went in by bus to Morechester you went straight from the bus to the cinema didn't you?"

"That's it."

"Without calling anywhere en route?"

"Ah went straight to t'pictures."

Hylton leaned back and said quite pleasantly, "You may not like to be told so, Lumsdale, but you're a liar. You went straight from the bus to the Post Office, didn't you?"

The brooding blank eyes looked at him steadily, the lantern jaws moved steadily, but the man said nothing.

"You went to the Post Office, didn't you, Lumsdale?"

"Ah might have gone to get a few stamps, ah forget."

"True you might have gone to get some stamps, and if that were all you might have forgotten about it. But it wasn't all, and you haven't forgotten. You went in to get something from the General Delivery where you are known by the name of Langley—that's so, isn't it?"

Lumsdale said nothing, but his steady stare was not quite so aggressively confident.

"And what's more, in the name of Langley, you have been in the habit of getting small packages every month or so for a goodish time, haven't you?"

"Well, suppose I have, what of it?"

Hylton leaned back and laughed softly. "You don't know as much as you think you do, Lumsdale, that's the trouble with your type," he said.

"Apparently you don't know that it's illegal to have a General Delivery address in the same town as your ordinary postal address."

"Ah'm no lawyer."

"If you were you wouldn't be such a damned fool, Lumsdale. You're in danger, and apparently you don't realize it. You stood to benefit very considerably by Arthur Burdett's death; you knew his habits; you knew every detail about the house. We've only got your word for it, mind, that Arthur Burdett wasn't alive when you came back on Monday evening and dead when you went out to find the Sergeant."

"My word's as good as any man's."

"Is it? When I look into what you tell me you were doing on Monday the first thing I find is a lie. Many a man has been arrested and held on less suspicion than that, Andrew Lumsdale."

"What do you want me to do?"

"It isn't what I want, my friend, it's what the Law demands. The Law will find out who killed Arthur Burdett if it takes a year to do it. If you don't want to be arrested on suspicion this afternoon, you better tell me now what all this Post Office business means and what was in those packages."

Andrew Lumsdale was silent for a full minute, and when he spoke it was in a very different tone of voice from the surly defensiveness he had used so far.

"Look here, Mister," he said, "I didn't kill Arthur Burdett. I know as things look a bit black against me; I realized that from the start, but I never did it. In a way you may almost say I was fond of the old fool. All the same I don't see why I should get into trouble for something as wasn't on my plate as you may say, and that's why I kept quiet about the Post Office business."

"Very few people have got into trouble by telling the Police the truth," the Inspector said drily.

"All right then." Lumsdale drew a key from his trouser pocket, crossed the kitchen and unlocked a drawer in the old fashioned dresser. He rummaged about with both hands for half a minute and eventually brought out a collection of photographic postcards and these he threw down in a heap on the table in front of the Inspector.

"That's what came in the packages," he said.

Kingsley Hylton picked up half a dozen of the photographs and studied them slowly, a curious conflict in his mind. Principally he was thinking how true it is that with human nature you never can tell what will happen.

Hylton feeds the flames, tomorrow.

As far as antiquarians and historians have been able to determine, Hrotsvitha, a tenth century nun, was the first woman playwright. Her collection of plays and writings are on view in the Munich museum.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ike Bassett

If the Lemke-O'Brien-Coughlin third party should develop real strength, actually polling electoral votes, a surprising turn may follow the November election. Father Coughlin predicts that the election of President will be thrown into the House of Representatives. Such predictions are common, and are usually wrong—but what if the third party should deadlock the electoral college?

The House, in electing a President, must ballot by states, each state having one vote, and a majority of states is required. The choice must be made from the three candidates receiving the highest electoral vote. The House itself will have been newly elected. Presumably its membership would roughly represent the strength of the three parties.

Could a candidate who failed to get an electoral majority expect to capture 25 states in the House? Would Landonites vote for Roosevelt or Lemke, or vice versa?

METHOD: The House would be forced to act in a hurry. It meets January 3 next, and inauguration day is January 20. The two houses meet January 6 to count the electoral vote. Thus the House would have not more than 14 days in which to elect a President. This takes no account of the time necessary to organize the House by electing a Speaker. Division of House membership into three parties might cause a deadlock over the Speakership and delay a vote for President.

New York is supposed to be a pivotal state this year. But if the election should be thrown into the House, New York's vote would be no more important than Nevada's. A candidate might have carried New York and Pennsylvania and yet be beaten in the House.

While the House was trying to elect a President the Senate would be electing a Vice-President. Being Democratic, the Senate would elect a Democrat—and if the House should fail to elect by January 20, a Democratic Vice-President would "act as President until a President shall have qualified."

DEADLOCK: In recent years the voting pendulum has swung violently to and fro, giving Hoover, Republican, all but 6 states and four years later giving Roosevelt, Democrat, all but 6. A strong third party would change this picture. The chances of any candidate capturing a majority of electoral votes would be reduced.

If the November vote should result in contests over the electoral vote in some states, and if that vote would then determine the national election, depending up how the contests were decided by Congress, a violent struggle could be expected, similar to the Hayes-Tilden scrap in 1877, when Congress was tied in a bowknot till just before March 4. In that Congress the Senate was Republican and the House Democratic.

Both houses are Democratic now. Nothing but a landslide will make the House Republican next year. With a Congress Democratic in both branches, it's safe to say that electoral vote contests would be decided to the advantage of the party in power. If House Democrats could not elect their candidate they would almost certainly deadlock the House, so that the emocratic Senate could elect a Vice President, who would become acting President.

SCRIMMAGE: Voters almost universally assume that either Landon or Roosevelt will be elected by an "overwhelming" vote. But the situation doesn't indicate a landslide, as expert observers see it. A neck-and-neck race seems to be more probable—and the closer the race, the greater the importance of the third party electoral vote.

In 1916 Wilson received 277 electoral votes and Hughes 254. If California's 13 electoral votes had gone for Hughes he would have been elected. La Follette carried Wisconsin's 13 votes in 1924. Many observers expect Lemke to carry several states—and those states may tell the tale of election of a President by the House, probably a Democratic House.

If Landon should lead Roosevelt in the electoral vote, but lack a majority, look out for a grand and vociferous scrimmage when the House tries to elect Roosevelt!

EMPLOYMENT: Enthusiasts working on development of power alcohol believe that 20,000,000 acres could be utilized for production of raw material for alcohol, preferably from the Jerusalem artichoke. A Kansas factory with 10,000 gallon daily capacity is about to turn out alcohol to be mixed with gasoline for motor car use. Corn is used in this case, but artichokes yield ten tons an acre, out of which 25 gallons per ton of ethyl alcohol can be made. Motorists, particularly farmers, are strong for the cheap alcohol-gasoline mixture.

Two other large acreage demands may develop from chemical application of raw materials: one which utilizes pine for paper making, and the other which utilizes cotton membrane mesh for road making. Seven paper factories are under construction in the southern pine belt, and one in Washington is making paper from hemlock.

Half of the paper made in the U. S. uses imported pulpwood, and less than half of the paper consumed by American newspapers—2,000,000 tons a year—is of domestic make. Many minds are busy on how to bring that employment into this country.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

A NUMBER of top-flight industrialists and financiers recently attended a private conference of great import in New York. Leading Canadian business men were also present. On the table in front of the conferees were piled British orders for war materials running into many millions of dollars. One of the participants afterwards remarked: "I always thought I was pretty good at mathematics, but I gave up trying to keep track of the huge sums involved."

The orders covered a wide variety of products—trucks, airplanes, steel, copper, shoes, canned goods, etc., etc. If arrangements made at the conference are carried out, they will enormously stimulate American manufacturing activity. It is worth noting that they will not produce any obvious effect—or become a matter of general public knowledge—until after November.

A neat angle is that all these orders were originally placed in Canada, although the British government of course knew that Canada doesn't begin to have the industrial facilities to handle them. So the Canadians are farming them out in the United States to the benefit of all concerned. By this device the British government—tongue in cheek—is able to tell its citizens with literal truth that its war material business is all being allocated within the Empire.

HINGES: Exceptionally well posted New Yorkers see this move as part of a far-reaching British plan to establish close working cooperation among Great Britain, Canada and the United States. London financial and industrial leaders privately regard such cooperation as the only hope of assuring world peace.

It is also part of the British program that each of the three nations should specialize in the fields for which it is best equipped. Thus it is argued that the United States is expert at manufacturing, but not so hot at foreign trade and finace. So American and Canadian business men should be encouraged to develop their North and South American markets to the limit—but should designate John Bull as the honest broker to handle their export business in Europe and Asia. As an inducement, England own purchases would help keep North American factories busy.

If Britain achieves the clearing house position outlined in this plan, John Bull would be the middleman for vast international commerce. In that case ultimate stabilization of world currencies would naturally be based on the pound sterling. This is the deepest-rooted British object, as it would enable London to dominate world finance and trade to an unprecedented degree.

British leaders are firmly convinced that consummation of this tremendous bid for economic supremacy hinges largely on the replacement of Mr. Roosevelt by a more sympathetic Republican administration.

Letters To The Editor

Your Voice Is As Loud As The Editor's; Write Your Views

TOWNSEND AND BORAH

Editor, The Avalanche: Allow me to express my appreciation for the open forum which the columns of your paper afford to those who hold diverse views on questions of public interest.

In your editorial comment of July 10, on Senator Borah and his candidacy for the U. S. Senate in the state of Idaho, the writer heartily concurs in the high estimate you place on the Senator's long record of usefulness as a public official, in fact gives more hearty indorsement to many of his publicly expressed views on public questions and policies than you, yourself, might be inclined to give who so ably champions his record.

To some of these your attention is called. On Sept. 6, 1935, on the occasion when Senator Borah, after having been introduced by Governor Ross, the present Democratic governor of Idaho, when upon introducing Dr. Townsend, had this to say: "Dr. Townsend's plan goes to the very heart of the present economic situation." On another occasion, before an estimated audience of 12,000, he had this to say: "The Townsend plan would not cost the nation as much as has the New Deal". Such utterances have caused him to be charged with "flirting with the Townsend group". Political expediency is perhaps responsible for his silence in later months on this question, since he was a candidate for the presidency.

Again, you might not agree with his statement, in this same issue of your paper, when he states, "In 1929 it was said that the American farmer was producing too much—was too industrious. In my opinion there never has been produced more than the human race can consume". It would not appear from this statement, that he gave indorsement to the policy of restrictive crop production, under government control, as promulgated under the AAA, and declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court, and which policy is carried forward, in modified form, under the new "soil conservation program." He further states: "Fifty per cent of the people in 1929 were living on less than the bare necessities of life, 70 were living on the bare necessities. Their problem is your problem—your problem is theirs". No doubt the solution of these problems, is what Senator Borah had in mind, when he said "The Townsend plan goes to the very heart of the present economic situation". To the accomplishment of this purpose the Townsend plan lends itself, not only by the increase of the volume of money in circulation, but by its better and more general circulation.

Referring further to your editorial comment, in which you have this to say: "On August 11, when Republicans of Idaho go to the polls to select their nominee for the United States Senate, the Townsend organization will mark itself in one of two ways. It will mark itself as a group of sincere, patriotic American citizens who believe first in principle and second in their goal; or it will mark itself as a group of money-grabbing, selfish people who are blinded to everything save the dream of an unsuccessful California doctor who vaulted to national prominence via the catch-phrase route".

Now isn't it barely possible that this Townsend organization might view this Townsend plan as did Senator Borah, that it would "go to the very heart of our present economic situation"? Isn't it barely possible that they are not adepts in that fine art of differentiation as are some, and that they would regard it as another case of a "distinction without a difference", and that their "principle" was justice, and their "goal" the establishment of that same justice?

Your comparison and classification of Senator William E. Borah, with Senator Carter Glass, raises the question as to how you would rate and value their divergent views on the monetary question, whether you would place your indorsement on Senator Borah and his Jeffersonian policy, or Senator Glass and his Hamiltonian policy.

In Idaho now, support of Borah is tantamount to indorsement of the Republican program. "The tail does not wag the dog". An intelligent exercise of suffrage, is for decisions to be determined by issues, and only by men in so far as their loyalty and support affect those issues.

W. A. Hicks, Lubbock.

OLD FOLKS DEFENDED

Editor, The Avalanche: I have been reading some comments on Old Age assistance. I do not know if it is the just thing to do or not, but it seems to me today the elderly people have very little consideration shown them. When it comes to employment for a living, they are not wanted.

Their children have been cut down for more than one reason financially. The World war for one thing. Everything went sky high and has not gotten entirely over it yet. Our children have to suffer the disaster the same as we elderly people.

It is like this: the hen says to the rooster, "I lay an egg every day and the incubator hatches them, artificial heat warms them, chicken starter feeds them and the poultry house gets them and can not even scratch for them."

LIKES SINGING BEES

Editor, The Avalanche: May I briefly express the appreciation by myself and many others of the good, old time, natural, unadultered singing at the court house Saturday and Sunday the 4th and 5th of July.

It was the pure old harmonious melody, well executed, that made our hearts swell and beat with inspiration and appreciation as in years gone by but never to be forgotten in this life. It had the old time religion, ring and flavor of reality as of yore.

All pure unadulterated music is good. Nothing more elevating and inspirational than good, moral, vocal music. It is life in the home, the church and community. May it cheer us on our way through life, bid us a sweet farewell at death and give us a glorious welcome to the portals of glory beyond. May such singing occasions occur often to cheer, bless and inspire humanity and to render due and just praise to God, the great giver of such blessings and gifts along with the others so little appreciated. Time thus spent is helpful and worthwhile. Come and be a good singer, listener or both.

I was never at a bad singing convention. They were all good or better.

SENTENCES IMPOSED

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 13. (AP)—The Schuylkill county court imposed life sentences upon two brothers today and imprisoned four others of their family, three of them sons, for five slayings in Kelayres on the eve of the 1934 general election. A seventh defendant was granted a new trial.

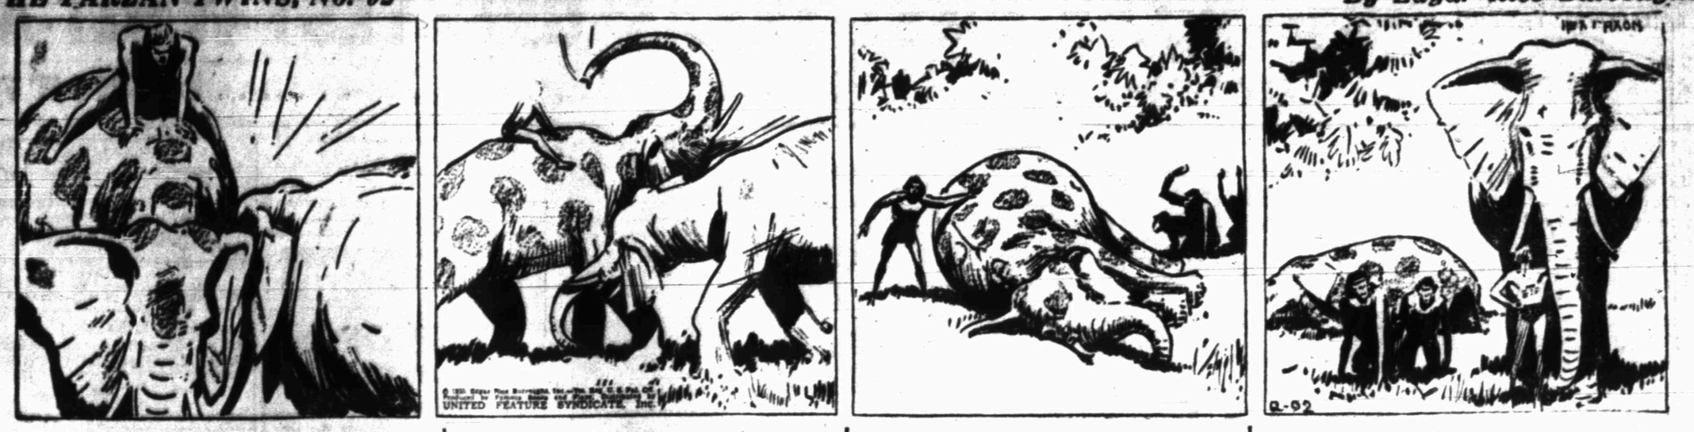
THE TARZAN TWINS, No. 92

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



THE TARZAN TWINS NO 92 E TA OIN Sa... While his ape allies swarmed around Gudah, Tarzan was creeping slowly toward the mad beast's head. Any onlooker would have judged that Tarzan's venturesome enterprise was leading him straight to the jaws of death, for soon he was within reach of Gudah's trunk.

Suddenly Gudah swung his trunk to grasp him. It was the move Tarzan had invited. The ape-man slid back. And in that moment when Gudah's whole attention was on the man-thing, Tantor plunged forward and drove his sharp tusks into the mad elephant's body!

Gudah gave vent to a terrible shriek of pain and rage. Then, with a tremendous surge of strength, he lunged at Tantor. But that burst of energy was his last. Tantor had struck him a fatal blow. The once-mighty Gudah fell forward, rolled over—and was still!

Thus died Gudah, mad guardian of the Vale of Death, conqueror of men and beasts—conquered at last by the gentle Tantor with the aid of his friend, Tarzan, Lord of the Jungle. But the ape-man's task was not yet done. The Tarzan Twins were still in peril!

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Rails and industrial specialties found the going smooth in today's stock market, with a number hitting a stride for gains of 1 to 3 or more points.

While the more popular issues reached into new high territory for the past 5 years or longer, the steels and utilities backed away under profit-taking fire and the motors were none too buoyant during the greater part of the session.

Rainfall here and there in parts of the drouth area inspired early buying in farm implement stocks, most of which recovered sizeable portions of recent declines.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved up .4 of a point to 68.6, a new peak since July 10, 1931. Transfers totalled 1,436,400 shares against 1,689,900 last Friday, which was the largest day's aggregate since April 30, last.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 13. (AP)—Prices were under pressure during the entire trading period on the cotton market today and ended from 9 to 14 points lower.

Poor cables before the opening of domestic exchanges and a bearish effect on sentiment and first call prices at New Orleans were around 50 cents a bale lower.

This opening decline touched off stop-loss orders that carried the market down nearly a dollar a bale. The trade stepped in then and began buying cotton and a mild rally ensued.

Active options never fully recaptured their opening losses and at the finish Oct. was 9 points lower at 12.53, Dec. was down 7 points at 12.53 and Mch. was 14 points off at 11.47.

In addition to the disappointing advices from foreign markets, selling was attributed to rains over the week end.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, July 13. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton at ten southern spot markets today was 13.23 cents a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 13. (AP)—Early declines in cotton were followed by partial recoveries today on trade buying and covering. Bulges were not fully maintained, however, and the market closed steady at net declines of 7 to 14 points.

Houses with foreign connections were selling here at the start while there was also a good deal of realizing. This carried prices about $1.50 per bale below the high levels of last week at their worst.

Exports today 19,901, making a total of 6,182,160 for the season. Port receipts 2,622. U. S. Port stocks 1,321,534.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 13. (AP)—Sensationally swift price changes that included almost a 6-cent-a-bushel breaks both for wheat and corn today ended as a virtual drawn battle.

Wheat closed nervous, 1¼ to 1⅝ under Saturday's latest level, July 103⅛, Sept. 103⅞-104. Dec. 105¼-⅜, corn ⅝ down to 1⅛ up, July 84⅜-½, Sept. 81⅛-82⅛, Dec. 78⅝-¾, oats unchanged to ⅝ higher, Sept. 38½-⅝, and rye ¼-⅜ off, Sept. 70-70⅛. The result in provisions varied from 17 cents decline to an advance of 2 cents.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, July 13. (AP)—Demand for wheat at Fort Worth today was keen but for other grains was only fair.

Wheat No. 1 soft red winter 1.20½-21½; No. 1 hard according to protein and billing 1.23½-24½. Barley No. 2 nom 68-70. No. 2 corn 67-69. Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lb nom 1.32-35. No. 2 white milo nom 1.30-32. No. 2 white kafir nom 1.29-31. No. 2 kafir nom 1.26-28. Corn, shelled No. 2 kafir nom 1.12-15. No. 2 yellow red No. 2 white nom 1.12-15. No. 2 yellow nom 1.08-09. Oats No. 2 red 49-50. No. 3 red 48-49.

"was prepared to take care of the drouth in 1934—and it is prepared this year."

Modified In 1934

"The adjustment program was modified in 1934 to meet the drouth. Changes have been made in the agricultural conservation program that will enable payments to farmers who fail to grow soil conserving crops through no fault of their own. Other modifications are intended to increase production of food and feed."

The secretary pointed out that congress appropriated about $500,-000,000 for drouth relief in 1934" but that such an appropriation is not available this year.

"But we have made funds available," he said, "and the president wants everything done that can be done to relieve distress."

"Among other things, the department of agriculture is perfecting plans for a livestock purchase program, but even if there is no break in the dry weather I do not believe we will have to buy as many cattle as we did in 1934. We purchased 8,280,1e3 head of cattle alone as a result of drouth."

Texas Storms

Other East Texas points receiving rain included Cooper, Trinidad, Athens, Texarkana, Gladewater, Frankston and Jacksonville.

Shreveport, La., also had a trace of precipitation.

Partly cloudy weather, with local thundershowers near the coast, was the forecast for East Texas Tuesday.

folks of Texas, not to be misled by such proposals. Such an extortionate tax could never and should never pass the legislature. . . . It would destroy Texas' greatest industry and . . . cripple our educational system."

In Abilene, Gov. Allred announced that the next time he calls the legislature into special session, it will be for constructive work, not for politics.

Answers Critics

He said he spoke in answer to critics who found fault with his failure to call a third special session to raise funds for old age assistance. He said the same critics would have "lambasted" him if he had called the session.

"I have the satisfaction of knowing, however, that I haven't wasted $150,00 or $200,000 of your money on another futile session," Allred said, adding that no constructive plan, for providing revenue for old age assistance can possibly be worked out until the needs are known.

Brooks Advocates Tax

South Texans heard Pierce Brooks, running on a platform promising the state a "businessman's administration," advocate a tax on gross receipts to meet financial needs, in a speech at Corpus Christi.

He said the tax, as he contemplated it, would fall on the larger business interests "that are able to bear it" and "equalize the tax burden." He spoke in favor of relieving small automobile owners of what he called unduly heavy taxes.

Can Be Some Hope

"If we can once take the government of Texas out of the hands of lawyers for special interests, there will be some hope of inaugurating tax reforms in this state," Brooks said.

F. W. Fischer, appearing at Greenville, said Gov. Allred had been assuming credit for a reduction in the ad valorem tax for school purposes and an increase in the per capita apportionments for schools.

"In reality, he has had nothing whatsoever to do with the school funds," Fischer said. . . . The reason for the recent decrease in the ad valorem tax for schools is because of the immense amount of occupation taxes levied, one fourth of which goes to the school fund, thereby relieving real estate of school fund purposes."

No More Baseball For Flashkamper

LONGVIEW, July 13. (AP)—Seventeen years of professional baseball were behind diminituve Ray Flashkamper today—and there will be no more.

The little second baseman, who has played in 10 leagues, asked for his release from the Longview Cannibals of the East Texas league with the statement that "my legs are getting weak and my heart is not in the game."

Flashkamper, who became one of the Texas League immortals when he played with Dallas and San Antonio, declared he knew when he was through and that he planned to go to Conroe where he will work for an oil firm and play semi-pro ball.

Mr. Bowman and other bus operators have signed a long time contract for the location, it was said.

Work on the attractive new home of Stephens Dry Goods company at 907 Broadway was begun full-swing Monday. Building improvements in the amount of $7,000 or expected to be finished by mid-August when a formal store opening will be conducted, I. A. Stephens, owner said. The remodeling permit was issued Monday.

Approximately 6,000 feet of floor space will be provided in the new location, double space at the present store site, 811 Broadway. Remodeling, for which a contract has been let to J. B. Maxey will include placing a completely new front of structural glass along the 50-foot space and extending the present walls building 55 feet to the alley.

The completed building will house new, modern fixtures and store equipment, and a bacony at the rear will be devoted to offices and storage, Stephens said.

"North Carolina and Delaware are the only other states which provide as large a percentage of state support for public schools as Texas," Mytinger said. "Since 1914-15 the number of students of scholastic age in Texas has increased 42.7 per cent but the amount of money apportioned by the state for public school support during that same period of time has increased 252 per cent."

To Seek Uniformity

The board of education decided to recommend to the board of control and the legislature that appropriation to state colleges for the 1927-39 biennium be placed on a uniform basis and that they be lump sum rather than itemized allotments.

The board recommended an appropriation of $175 for each full time freshman and sophomore student, and $225 for every junior and senior student. Student fees would be in addition to those amounts.

Presidents of the various institutions discussed the question of what constituted technical instruction an the proper differential for such training. Some of the heads of teachers colleges suggested that the higher cost of technical study should be borne by the students taking such courses.

Man Arrested In Chicago Says He's Slayer Of Mrs. Castle

CHICAGO, July 13. b—A man who gave his name as James C. Tobin, 33, arrested by Chicago avenue police on a charge of annoying children, surprised them tonight by suddenly declaring he was the slayer of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle.

Sergeant P. Fleming said police were disinclined to believe his story but that Tobin was being questioned about details of the slaying. The officer said the man admitted he escaped two months ago from the Elgin, Ill., state hospital for the insane.

Mrs. Castle, 24-year-old entertainer, was killed by an intruder who beat her to death with a brick June 29 as her seven-year-old son, Jimmy, slept beside her in a near North Side hotel room.

Baby's Heart Is Outside His Body

EDMONTON, Alta., July 13. (AP)—The heart of a new-born baby boy thumped against his chin tonight, as surgeons at a hospital wondered whether it would be possible to operate and save his life.

Part of the chest wall is missing. The heart is exposed, and protrudes from the body. Otherwise the baby is normal.

The eight-pound child was born Saturday to Mrs. Fred Sadonek of Wasel, Alta., 2 miles northeast of Edmonton. The 37-year-old woman is the mother of six other children.

Dr. E. W. Savarich, who delivered the baby in a hospital at Willingdon, near Wasel, and brought him here, said:

"We do not know quite what to do. It might be possible to operate, grafting an artifical chest wall over the heart."

U. S. Heat Wave

forecast for the eastern part of the state.

Readings Over 100 Degrees

Washington, Ia., 115.5; Princeton, Ind., Henderson, Ky., and Cedar Rapids, Ia., 113; Wateloo, Ia., and Red Wing, Minn., 112; Saginaw, Mich., and Rockford, Ill., 111; Kopinsville, Ky., 110.

Out of the western prairies of Canada a new high mark of 112 was recorded at Emerson, Man. Dominion deaths mounted also.

The rains brought only a temporary break in the high temperatures of Canada's western wheat area. This was also the case south of the border, to the eastern limit of the cool front's advance. However, the showers which recahed a score of states over the week end were heartily welcomed, gave new leases on life to pastures and revived hopes for some late maturing crops.

The corn situtior in the great producing states of Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Nebraska, however, remained highly critical.

Domestic prices for cereals were steady today in the Chicago pits and other domestic markets. Quotations closed about even with Saturday's finish. Trading was quieter after that day's wild outburst of selling, occasioned by the forecasts of approaching moisture which failed to materialize.

The second annual Railroad Week was ushered in to Lubbock with the blowing of engine whistles on two roads here. A series of addresses before luncheon clubs this week has been arranged for speakers representing railroads.

At the Santa Fe station were engines from the three branch lines centering here and the regular switch engine. Paul Chase, a newsboy, was the only non-railroad employe to blow the whistles. Enginemen and others joined in the celebration at the depot.

Three boys did the honors at the Fort Worth and Denver. At the switch engine, in the yards, Bob Fehleison, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Fehleison; Whitney Victory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Victory and John Sam Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sam Lewis, pulled the whistles. At the passenger depot, R. E. Stroup, agent, and other employes pulled the whistle on the motor train.

The T-P made connections with the Santa Fe at Sweetwater virtually on time Monday morning, enabling No. 94 to reach Lubbock on time.

A system of light signals aids the audience in an intelligent interpretation of Blitz concerts. Colored electric bulbs are arranged in tall flower baskets at the footlights' edge. The lights are controlled by pedals operated by the players, and indicate the instrument featured in the music.

Julien Paul Blitz and Flora Blitz will be brought to Canyon by the college fine arts committee, of which Dr. Ford Pronabarger is chairman. Admission will be fifty cents, or the presentation of a student activity ticket.

Bullock Friends Hold Meeting In City On Monday

More than 100 West Texans from a radius of four hundred miles gathered at the Hilton hotel this afternoon to map final plans for an intensive campaign for A. A. Pat Bullock, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction.

The visitors came from an area bounded by Comanche, Nocona, Rochelle, Wink, Childress, and several far northern Panhandle points.

Optimism Expressed

The group brought optimistic messages from all parts of West Texas and from key points in East and Central Texas looking toward the election of the native West Texan.

Emphasis is being placed during the last ten days of the campaign not only on Bullock's qualifications for the state office but also on the fact that he received practically all of his school experience, until he left Snyder four years ago, as a West Texas school man. He was superintendent of Scurry County schools for eight years.

Makes Good Report

J. C. Smyth of Snyder, newspaper publisher who is secretary of the West Texas forces, said reports from every attendant are that Bullock will carry at least nineteen out of twenty counties in the western half of the state, and that the others are rapidly going under the West Texan's banner.

Among visitors to the meeting from nearby counties were: L. E. Huff, Wink, chairman; Ercell Brooks, Amarillo; Dean Robinson, Post; C. W. Crosslin, Childress; J. B. Jordan, Monahans; O. B. King, Knox City; W. T. Hanes, Hermleigh; Frank Parmer, Snyder; H. V. Williams, Lamesa; Cleo W. Tarter, Dunn.

First Showing Of Soil Film To Be At Wolfforth Tonight

Farmers of the southwest part of the county are invited to a showing of soil conservation film tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Wolfforth Baptist church, one of the series being shown over the county sponsored by the vocational agricultural teachers, said L. M. Hargraves, teacher, yesterday.

Owing to a meeting scheduled for the school house, the change to the church was made, said Mr. Hargrave. Farmers of Foster, Barton, Hurlwood and Carlisle are invited, as well as from Wolfforth.

Restrooms At Courthouse To Remain Open Until Midnight

Courthouse restrooms will be kept open until midnight, Commissioners court voted Monday morning after hearing a petition to keep the rooms open 24 hours a day.

After reading the petition, the court issued the following statement:

The Commissioners court heard and appreciated the petition relative to keeping the restroom and washroom of the courthouse open. Upon investigation we find that the courthouse janitor and his wife, who is matron of the ladies' restroom, are very courteous and anxious at all times to accommodate the public in every way; we further find that the restroom and washroom have both been greatly abused and mis-used by only a few people who do not have proper regard for public property. We regret that only a few inconsiderate and irresponsible people make it difficult for us to accommodate the general public as much as we would like to; however, the court has asked the janitor and matron to keep these places open to accommodate the public long hours and during such hours as conditions demanded but to watch them carefully, and the court appeals to the public for general co-operation to help keep these places what they ought to be."

Other routine business was transacted by the court.

"Best Quality & Flavor If not found good may be returned"

JUST after Washington's inauguration, Lorillard stated its policy in the advertisement reprinted at the left. It said in effect: "If any Lorillard product is not found good, it may be returned."

That policy is expressed at its fullest in Double-Mellow Old Golds. Best quality indeed! Prize Crop Tobaccos. If not found good, may be returned . . . and DOUBLE your money back.
