Reagan's speech...

Bork tactics downplayed

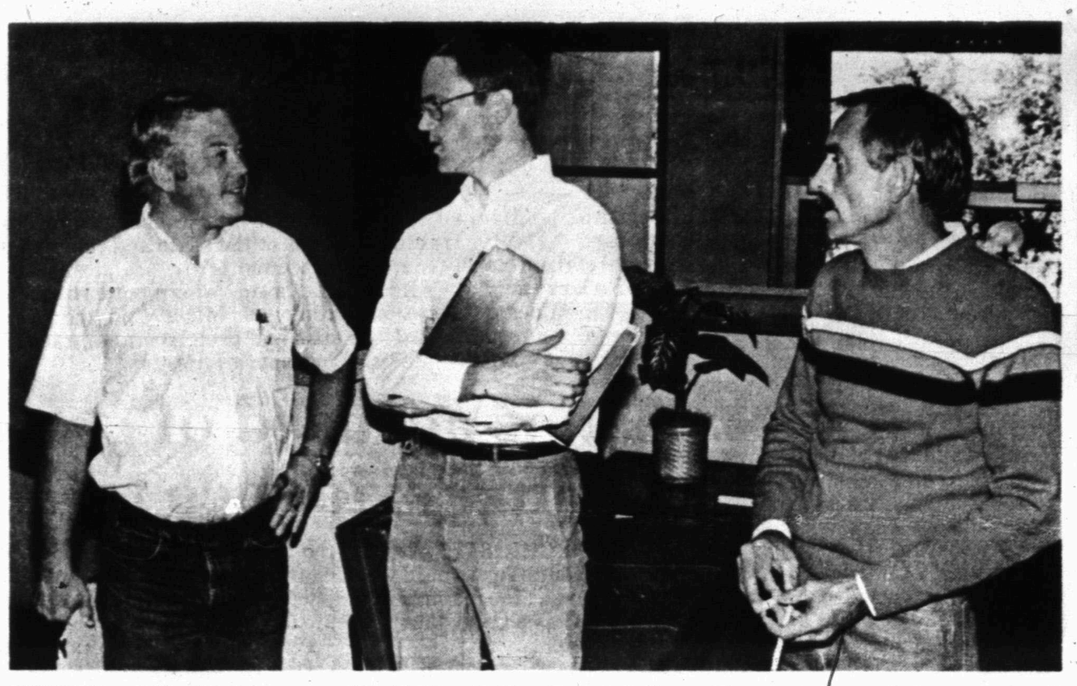

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan today abandoned plans to launch a harsh attack on tactics used to derail the nomination of Robert H. Bork to the Supreme Court, dropping lauguage from a speech that accused Bork's opponents of waging a "sophisticated campaign of smears and lies."

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan's remarks, planned for delivery in a speech to the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce in Somerset, N.J., were being rewritten to reflect Bork's own desire for a less strident debate.

"We want to restrain the language and de-politicize the process and set a dignified tone for this debate," Fitzwater told reporters minutes before flying to New Jersey.

Fitzwater's announcement came about an hour after Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd suggested to reporters that Reagan's public statements are not helping the apparently doomed nomination.

"With the president speaking out now on it, it just politicizes the nomination more," Byrd told reporters.

College announces events in honor of state office holder

An appreciation day for State Rep. Steve Carriker of Roby Nov. 3 at Western Texas College will feature a series of events in appreciation for Carriker's advocacy of community and junior colleges, Dr. Harry Krenek, WTC president, announced Monday at a college board of trustees' meeting.

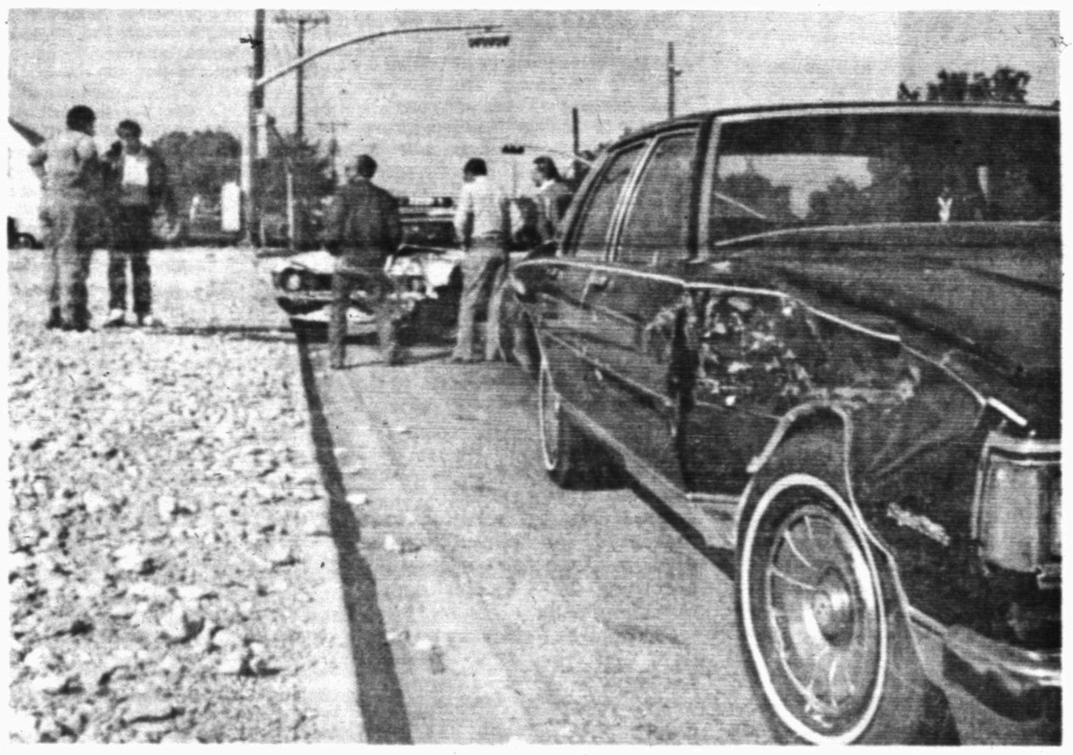

Krenek said the third-term Democrat will be honored with two receptions, the first from 8 to 8:30 a.m. at the faculty office building with faculty and staff members; and from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the Student Center with students and other members of the public.

Nov. 3 will be declared "Steve Carriker Appreciation Day" on the campus.

A fund-raising luncheon with which the college will not be formally connected will follow at The Shack restaurant, Krenek said.

Other business in the 5:45 p.m. meeting included a visit to the School meets tonight...

Report to profile secondary grades

The results of a survey seeking to identify both the strengths and weaknesses of the teaching curriculum at Snyder junior high and high school will be offered to school board members Tuesday.

The report, due from Don Williams, an educational consultant, will be at the regular October meeting of the board. It will begin at 7 p.m. at the administration building.

Williams interviewed teachers at the district's secondary grade levels during in-service activities in August and early September to complete his study.

Part of this survey asked them to identify what they viewed as the district's strengths and weaknesses at their grade levels.

Williams' report is listed as an information item on Tuesday's agenda. The meeting will include also the district's nominations for Scurry County Appraisal District board members.

Because of its large tax base, the district is credited with 66 percent of the total vote toward this board. Under bylaws of the appraisal district, the board could nominate up to five candidates for the five-member board.

The nominations from Snyder ISD and four other county taxing entities must be received by Wednesday.

Also Tuesday, the board is to be addressed by Francene Allen, president of the Classroom Teacher's Association local chapter, who has indicated she has a "proposal concerning the Snyder teachers who now qualify for the Career Ladder placement

Eddie Jim Overman, 25, of 700 20th St. and Coy Truitt Cox, 49, of 309 25th St. were both indicted for subsequent DWI offenses, Overman's occurring on Sept. 5 and Cox' on Sept. 13.

Tarleton State band to march here Friday

The Tarleton State University marching band will make a special appearance in Snyder Friday night, offering those attending the Snyder-Andrews football game a chance to see three marching bands.

The Black and Gold SHS marching band will perform at halftime, as will the Andrews High School band. The 97-member TSU marching band will take the field at game's end and local football fans are invited to stay and view the performance.

"We know some people will probably need to leave, but if they'll wait around, we'll play for about 12 minutes and promise them a good show," said TSU band director Jonathan Hooper.

Hooper planned the trip since his band will be playing in Abilene Saturday afternoon at the McMurry-Tarleton State foot-

Amendment seeks to elevate Speaker's role

Proposition 21 would allow the speaker of the House of Representatives to serve on agencies or committees with executive-level officials.

Current Constitutional law precludes members of one branch, legislative, executive or judicial, from performing the functions of another branch.

But the lieutenant governor, the speaker's legislative counterpart in presiding over the Texas Senate, is considered in the executive branch and thus serves with the governor, comptroller, treasurer and attorney general on such groups as the state cash management committee and bond review board.

Vote

"The separation of powers provision of the Texas Constitution does not create an impenetrable wall between the departments of state government," a spokesman said. "It allows for exceptions when appropriate for the effective management of state government."

Opponents argue that the separation of powers principle

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A few good turns a day won't make you dizzy."

We recently spent a weekend in College Station, and didn't hear one Aggie joke.

Ole what's-her-name's son wanted to visit the A&M campus, and the agenda included a midnight pep rally and a packed stadium on Saturday afternoon.

We saw first-hand what Aggie spirit is all about. Seated just in front of us at the game was a die-hard Aggie, and he told us he would soon attend his 50th class reunion.

He, like all other Aggies, stood the entire game. He sang every fight song and participated in every cheer. Although he could not bend over fully, he did the best he could and he swayed with the best of 'em.

A&M is a tradition-rich school. After every Aggie score, the Aggie kisses his date. The elderly gentleman in front of us gave his lips quite a workout that Saturday afternoon.

It did provide us an opportunity to explain why kissing is rare around our house.

Ole what's-her-name and I attended Texas Tech. The Raiders don't score much, and so we never got much opportunity to practice kissing.

Floyd hits

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Floyd was downgraded to a tropical storm this morning, but still whipped seas off South Florida enough to threaten to sink a ship and force a Coast Guard rescue of 25 crew members.

The previous day, rains and 80 mph gusts raced across South Florida, providing a "practice run" to residents who fled inland or stocked up on supplies.

This has been declared "Spirit Week" at Snyder High School and students are to name five senior nominees for spirit "king and queen" Wednesday.

The student body will also vote on the winners and these will be announced Friday night at a dance following the Snyder-Andrews football game. Those nominated will be announced Wednesday.

The event is being sponsored by the SHS student council.

Three miss 2

Three entrants missed only two games in last week's SDN Football Contest, and the tie-breaker procedure was used to determine the first and second place winners.

John Stanley of 5400 College, Apt. 111, won the $12.50 first place money and Matt McCormick of 3201 Houston won the second place $5. Honorable mention goes to Jimmie Sturdivant, who also missed two games but lost out on the tie-breaker.

Another contest is in this issue.

Girl undergoes more surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — The father of an 8-year-old girl mauled by a lion at weekend flea market says he has no insurance to pay for what is expected to be a long recovery.

"The medical bills are going to be outrageous," said Joel Hernandez, a carpenter. "I'm very bitter, very bitter. They shouldn't have had the lion in there."

Hernandez and his wife, Sonia, answered reporters' questions Monday about the Saturday afternoon incident in which the lion attacked the girl before being shot twice.

"It's like a nightmare. It's like it never really happened," Mrs. Hernandez said.

"I thought I was going to lose her. I thought she was going to die," she said. "It's the worst feeling in the world."

The attack began when the lion's owner was unable to restrain the beast on a chain leash when it apparently became excited after knocking over an ornament. The child's skull was cracked and part of her brain exposed before she was freed.

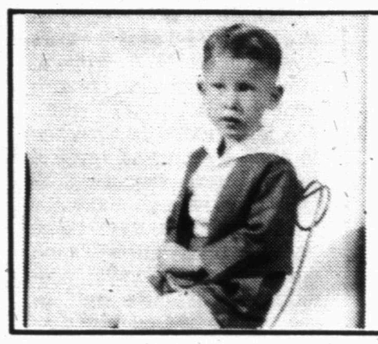

The lion was tranquilized and bound before being taken from the flea market, where it was put to sleep and examined for rabies, which tests concluded it did not carry, officials said.

The owner was identified as Gary Durkovitz of Houston, said police Lt. C.W. Driskell. Durkovitz had operated a booth for three months at the Texas Flea Market, where shoppers could have their picture taken with exotic snakes and the lion.

Roxanne suffered eight depressed skull fractures, "several of them clearly from the fangs of a large animal," said Dr. Michael E. Miner, professor and director of neurosurgery at the University of Texas Medical School.

Other injuries included lacerations of the scalp and removal of a section of the scalp, exposing the brain. Where bone had been removed, Miner said the brain also had been lacerated, causing multiple injuries.

Man is accused of stealing evidence

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A South Texas man who came to court as the plaintiff in a civil suit left as a defendant in a criminal case.

David Hernandez, 33, of Skidmore, came to court expecting to select a jury for his long-standing civil suit against a Corpus Christi hospital when he was arrested on a charge accusing him of stealing evidence from a criminal case.

The charge against Hernandez accuses him of stealing 1.78 grams of methamphetamine from Judge Robert Blackmon's district court last Friday.

Hernandez was being held in the Nueces County Jail today on charges of possessing methamphetamine. Bond was set at $10,000.

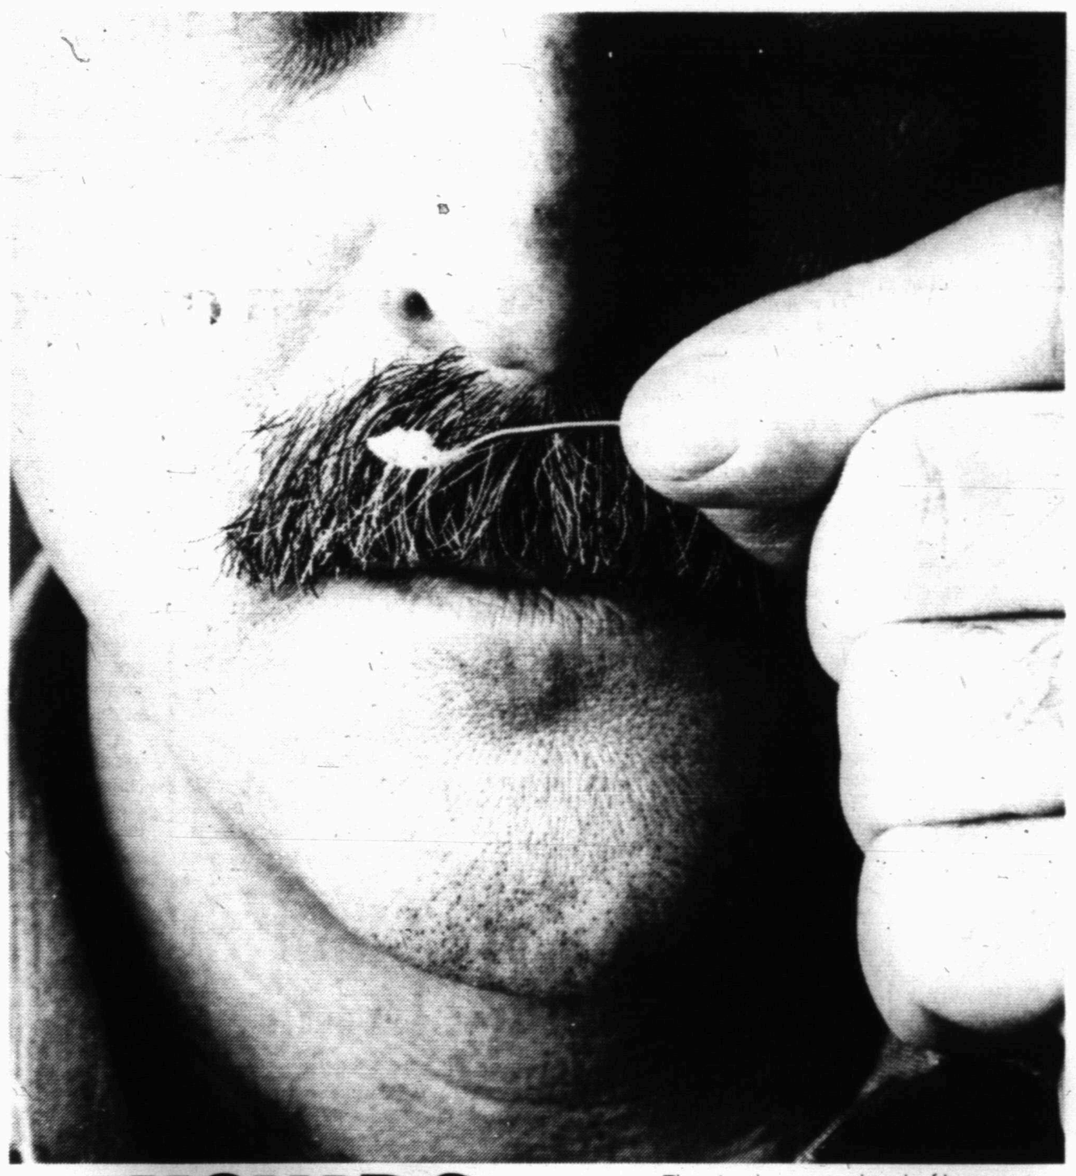

Plainclothes police officers arrested Hernandez Monday as he sat in Blackmon's courtroom, District Attorney Grant Jones said.

Attorneys were waiting to pick a jury for a 1985 civil suit Hernandez had filed against Spohn Hospital.

"The judge called the lawyers into his office and told them what was about to happen," Jones said. "The lawyers walked out and the police officers walked in and placed him under arrest."

The methamphetamine had been used as evidence in a drug case that concluded Friday morning in Blackmon's court, Jones said.

Sigmund Freud died in 1939.

HOW DO YOU EXPECT YOUR KID TO KEEP HIS NOSE CLEAN IF YOU DON'T?

They're the worst kind of hypocrite. Parents who warn their children about using drugs while they themselves are abusing drugs. What parents don't seem to realize is that it takes more than a good sermon to keep kids on the straight and narrow. It takes a good example. Without it, kids are likely to wind up abusing drugs just like Mom and Dad.

If you want your son to be strong. If you want your daughter to have the willpower to walk the other way, practice what you preach.

Because you can't control your children if you can't control yourself.

IF PARENTS STOP, KIDS WON'T START.

Special glue used in some surgery

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I understand that a form of "superglue" has been used in surgery. Can you describe this technique?

DEAR READER — Special glue is used in certain surgical procedures, especially in cementing artificial hips to bones. Gluing metal or plastic to bone is sometimes simpler and more effective than the traditional technique of pinning or nailing.

Some years ago, surgeons eagerly embraced the use of glues. However, some patients developed allergic reactions to these foreign substances, so much of the enthusiasm for glues has waned. New hypoallergenic glues are now being tested and used; they show great promise.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a medical social worker. I see people both as outpatients and in their homes. Patients often ask me how to handle physicians' bills that are not covered by Medicare and coinsurance. I can't say "don't pay," since it would damage my relationship with the local doctors. But if I say "pay it," I'm asking them to do the impossible or undergo a hardship. Have you any advice for people regarding large medical bills?

DEAR READER — Direct communication is the best way to solve the problem you describe. First of all, the doctor should be made aware — before treatment — of the patient's compromised financial situation. It's not fair to the physician or surgeon to discover, after the fact, that the patient does not have full coverage. Most doctors will gladly make adjustments in their fees to suit patients who are not financially secure. However, M.D.s are predictably irritated when, after many months of useless billing, they discover that insurance coverage is inadequate. It's better to be up front with this information, right from the beginning.

Second, as a social worker, you are in the invaluable position of being able to resolve the issue by talking directly to the doctor. The M.D. will usually welcome frank and open dialogue with another health-care professional. You can discuss your patient's financial problems with the appropriate doctor and enlist his or her aid in resolving a fee dispute before it becomes a catastrophe. Sometimes, patients are uncomfortable about doing this, as you well know — so the responsibility of being a patient advocate may fall to you. This is OK. Don't be intimidated by doctors. Remember that you have a very important role in helping people to get well.

Obviously, you care about your patients and take your job seriously. Therefore, the next time one of your clients presents you with an unpaid medical bill, pick up the telephone, call the doctor, explain the situation and attempt to negotiate. By doing this, you'll not only be a better social worker, but you will probably have the genuine thanks of the practitioner, who will be more than willing to put aside the fee issue and move onto more important challenges.

If you're having an operation, you should know all you can about it. Dr. Gott's new Health Report, AN INFORMED APPROACH TO SURGERY, covers everything from second opinions to outpatient surgery. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

U. S., Soviets agree

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators have removed a key obstacle to an arms treaty by agreeing to a timetable for elimination of medium-range nuclear missiles, according to a Soviet deputy foreign minister.

Vladimir F. Petrovsky on Monday told the U.N. General Assembly's First Committee, which discusses disarmament issues, "Agreement has been reached on the article on phasing the elimination of missiles."

U.S. State Department spokesman Dennis Harter, in a telephone interview Monday from Washington, said he had no information on Petrovsky's announcement. Officials at the United States U.N. mission also said they did not know about the agreement reported by the Soviet diplomat.

Petrovsky, the deputy head of the Soviet delegation to the 42nd General Assembly session, said the principal remaining obstacles involve arrangements for verifying compliance with the treaty.

In a related development in Geneva, U.S. senators who met with Soviet arms negotiators said Monday they believed U.S.-Soviet differences on West German Pershing 1A missiles would soon be resolved.

Sorority features music

Mary Lou Scott gave a program entitled "Serious Music" at the Oct. 6 meeting of Xi Alpha Alpha Theta of Beta Sigma Phi.

Scott stated that music is an essential part of our lives even though we don't realize it. We hear music every day whether it is man made or created by nature.

She pointed out that much can be told about a country and its people by its music. For example, a country with a cold climate will have the majority of its folk music in a minor key with a burst of fast tempo whereas a tropical country such as Hawaii will have slow, languid music.

Countries that are considered to be mysterious and with strict social rules such as oriental cultures have folk music consisting of a limited range using only five tones.

Even in battle, music has played an important part. It has been said a singing army is never defeated for music fills the soul. Scott pointed out that during the 40s and 50s lyrics were added to classical music and became instant hits.

In the 70s, words were added to the music of Chopin and Beethoven and the songs made the top music charts. The 80s brought classical music to commercials.

Members participated in "Name That Tune" games. To conclude her program, Scott acted out several opera characters such as Barber of Seville, Madame Butterfly and Carmen.

Carolyn House, president, presided with 17 members present. She also read congratulations from Beta Sigma Phi International to Dena Ellis for eight years of consecutive perfect attendance.

Jeanne Johnson read a selection from the Book of Beta Sigma Phi.

Bette League, ways and means chairman, stated that the recent Western Dance was very successful and that the Christmas paper would be ready for sale in late October.

Sue Sewell, service chairman, announced members' October birthdays and anniversaries.

Brenda Hedges discussed the October social to be held at the Limmer home and Carolyn Limmer, program chairman, stated that Margaret Corkran would be giving the featured program at the next club meeting.

Hostess for the evening's meeting was Mary Lou Scott with Sue Sewell winning the hostess gift.

Careful play is rewarded

Today's deal was not difficult to play. Declarer simply had to take a reasonable approach to his good grand slam contract. But he could not afford to be careless. When he won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, he discarded a diamond. Next he cashed the ace of hearts, discovering that East had a potential trump trick. Making the contract now required declarer to reduce his trump length to that of East, with the lead in dummy at the crucial point in the play.

Declarer played dummy's remaining heart, East splitting his honors. Next came the king of diamonds, declarer overtaking with the ace in dummy to trump a club. Then declarer led a diamond to dummy's queen and ruffed a diamond. A spade to the queen allowed South to ruff the last diamond from dummy. (A club would have done just as well.) Declarer was now able to play ace and a spade. That put the lead in dummy with two cards still to be played, South holding K-9 in trumps, and East the J-6. It looks easy, but try doing it if declarer foolishly discards a spade rather than a diamond on the ace of clubs at trick one.

It was a bit presumptuous of North to bid seven. South might well have held hearts headed by only the K-J, which would have made the grand slam really chancy.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby on Card Games," published by Pharos Books.

Tomatoes require sunshine to ripen, but too much of a good thing can cause sunscald, according to Better Homes and Gardens. This malady shows up as a white or yellow papery blister on the part of the tomato that is most exposed to the sun. Although natural foliage cover usually provides the necessary protection, plants damaged by disease or insects often have insufficient leaf cover. To correct this, let plants sprawl on the ground so they'll shade themselves from the full sun.

Garden Club reviews regional wildflowers

The Snyder Garden Club met Oct. 1 at Martha Ann Woman's Club with President LaVerne Hood presiding.

Britt Canada, WTC professor, was introduced by JoAnn Nunley, program chairman. Canada used slides to explain many local wildflowers. He is the vice-president of Native Plant Society of Texas and heads up the wildflower project.

Members made plans to participate in donating Christmas gifts to patients in the Big Spring State Hospital through the hospital's Volunteer Service Council.

June Boren, chairman of the Scurry County Fair flower show, thanked members for their participation and led a discussion in ways to improve the show for 1988. She commented that this year's show was very successful and viewed by many people of all ages.

Martha Ann Woman's Club representative Jo Erwin accepted $5 donations to help in decorating the clubhouse for Christmas. Members will meet Nov. 30 for the project. She also reminded members of the MAWC Game Day to be held Oct. 28.

On Oct. 5 members attended Judges Council Guest Day at the Abilene Garden Center. Gertrude League is president of District VIII Judges Council. Her grandson, Jim League of Ft. Worth was speaker. He serves as Superintendent of Parks and Recreation.

Members attending the event were LaVerne Hood, June Boren, Bernice Parker, Anna Sears, Maggie Best, Jo Erwin and Mrs. League.

Hostesses for the club meeting were Pansy Ray and Julie Fox. Following the meeting, several members attended a wildflower planting at WTC.

Growth disorders called treatable

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Some 2 million children in the United States suffer from severe short stature and often their parents do not know that treatment is available for many of the causes of these disorders, according to the Human Growth Foundation.

The foundation is a national non-profit group of health care professionals and parents of children with growth disorders.

Parents who understand how growth disorders can affect their child are better able to take corrective measures, says Dr. Joseph Zanga, pediatrician from Children's Medical Center at the Medical College of Virginia.

Early diagnosis of growth problems may be achieved by informal parental observation of their children's size when comparing classmates and playmates and how quickly they outgrow new clothes, the foundation says.

Since growth disorders can result from many causes, a doctor should conduct a complete physical examination of the child for accurate diagnosis, it adds. The examination may pinpoint growth disorders caused by illness and diseases affecting the entire body, such as nutritional deficiencies, diseases of the kidneys, heart and lungs, and severe stress.

Children born with a shortage of the hormone that stimulates growth can now be treated with a synthetic growth hormone. Before the Food and Drug Administration approved this hormone introduced by Genentech, growth hormone was obtained in limited amount from the pituitary glands of dead people.

Digestive tract problems in children can be treated with special diets. They usually have normal growth after the problem is correctly diagnosed and treated, according to the foundation. Children with growth arrest from hypothyroidism — a deficiency of thyroid hormone — usually "catch up" and return to normal growth patterns after treatment with thyroid hormone.

Although heredity also plays an important role in height and weight, many serious growth disorders are treatable, the foundation says.

Players union goes fishing; owners not expected to bite

ROSEMONT, Ill. (AP) - For the second week in a row, the striking NFL players union has come up with a plan that may avert mass defections.

But once again, the owners may reject the plan, setting up a third week of games played by replacement players and those who choose to cross the picket line.

"No," Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council replied early today when asked if he thought the council's executive committee would approve the proposal when it met this afternoon in New York.

The new plan emerged from a six-hour meeting Monday of the 28 player representatives.

The players would agree to return while a federal mediator tried to resolve the dispute for six weeks. If that failed, it would then go to binding arbitration.

"We think this is a fair way to end the dispute," said Gene Upshaw, executive director of the NFL Players Association, who announced the new plan. But the owners want no part of general arbitration, although it's possible they might be willing to submit such economic issues to an arbitrator.

"I've told Gene many times that we won't go to arbitration and I don't think we'll do it this time," Donlan said.

Tex Schramm, president of the Dallas Cowboys, a key member of the Management Council's Executive Committee, also doubted the proposal would be approved.

"We're not going to put the future of the NFL in the hands of an arbitrator," he said.

If the owners do reject the players' proposal - which also demanded that the 1982 contract be honored, that striking players remain on the roster, and player reps and alternates be protected - the question is how many players will cross the picket line?

Last week, there were 37 defections, fewer than expected after a Monday meeting of player reps at the same O'Hare Airport hotel in which the players seemed to back off their demand for free agency. That led to six days of negotiations that broke off Sunday with free agency still a major obstacle to settlement of the three-week walkout.

Monday's meeting took place in the face of reports that the 37 defections of last week might triple or quadruple this week, particularly on teams such as the Washington Redskins, Chicago Bears, New York Giants and Cleveland Browns, who so far have remained solidly on strike. So far, 133 of the 1,585 players under union jurisdiction have returned to work.

In announcing the new plan, Upshaw raised the possibility that rejection by the owners would mean a season-long strike.

"I would say if the owners decline this, then we're out for the duration, out for the year," he said.

But rejection today also would raise the possibility of mass defections by the reporting date Wednesday as players face the prospect of losing their fourth paycheck of the season - one quarter of their yearly salary.

Among those expected to join replacement players was last season's league MVP, Lawrence Taylor of the Giants.

The New York Times, quoting a source close to the All-Pro linebacker, reported today that Taylor would return to the Giants on Wednesday. The newspaper said it could not reach Taylor for confirmation, but quoted his Houston-based agent, Gary Kovacs, as saying there was a "strong chance" his client would cross the picket line in time to play and be paid for this week.

The owners, meanwhile, are feeling their own pressure.

While attendance was up from last week's first strike games, including 61,230 Monday night at Mile High Stadium, where Denver beat the Los Angeles Raiders 30-14, television ratings continued to decline.

In overnight ratings from 15 cities for Sunday's games, NBC had a 10.2, a drop of 13 percent from last Sunday, while CBS drew a 13.6 rating for its first regional games and 10.7 for the second games, a decrease of 14 percent.

Twins win AL crown; set for World Series

DETROIT (AP) - The Minnesota Twins found winning on the road wasn't so difficult if you hit the road with a full head of steam.

The Twins great hope now is that they can take the same formula they used to beat the Detroit Tigers in the American League playoffs and win the World Series with it.

Tom Brunansky keyed a four-run Minnesota second inning with a two-run double and belted a home run to start a three-run ninth inning Monday as the Twins beat the Tigers 9-5, winning the best-of-seven series 4-1 to advance to their first World Series in 22 years.

Minnesota third baseman Gary Gaetti, who was named most valuable player for the series, set the tone in Game 1 when he homered his first two at-bats.

That got the Twins rolling and they never slowed.

The Twins, whose 56-25 record in the Metrodome was the best home record in baseball, won both playoff games there before their frenzied fans, who waved their "homer hankies," and Minnesota used that momentum to beat Detroit twice in Tiger Stadium.

"This is a tough place to play," Gaetti said. "You can get rattled here pretty easily. But opening the series in Minnesota helped relieve the tension and we knew after winning the first two games, we would return to Minnesota anyway."

Twins Manager Tom Kelly said Gaetti's two opening-game homers, and the Minnesota fans' reaction to them, set the tone for his young ballclub.

"I think it showed the rest of the guys that we were capable of doing some damage," said Kelly, the sixth rookie manager and third in the AL to win a playoff title since the inception of divisional play in 1969. "If Gary can hit the ball out of the park off Doyle Alexander, then maybe the rest of us can get something going, too.

"That was the big key to getting us going on the right foot."

Another key factor was the way the underdog Twins shut down the Tigers big guns. Detroit's key hitters - Alan Trammell, Darrell Evans and Kirk Gibson - were never a factor.

"Those early games gave them confidence," said Trammell, who could only contribute a 4-for-20 performance. "At the same time, we had guys like me who were going into slumps.

"To me, that was the key to this series."

No pressure on Giants who can clinch series

ST. LOUIS (AP) - If the San Francisco Giants were feeling pressure going into tonight's game that could put them in the World Series for the first time in 25 years, they sure had a funny way of showing it.

Hollering and clowning around as if it were the first day of spring training, the Giants brimmed with confidence during a spirited 1½-hour workout Monday at Busch Stadium.

The St. Louis Cardinals, meanwhile, were nowhere to be found. Trailing 3-2 in the best-of-seven National League playoffs, St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog went fishing and gave his hobbled troops a day off.

Giants' pitching coach Norm Sherry set the mood of the day by playfully slamming a fungo bat about a foot from slugger Jeffrey Leonard's arm on a card table in the clubhouse. Leonard didn't flinch.

"C'mon, let's stretch," Sherry barked.

Leonard, who homered in each of the first four games without once smiling or sounding excited, calmly finished his game of Hearts with Will Clark and Joe Price before taking the field.

Dave Dravecky, the Giants' left-hander who shut out the Cardinals on two hits in Game 2, prepared for his rematch against John Tudor in Game 6 by playing cheerleader during stretching exercises.

Clark, who never stops chattering on the field, sniffed the cool air, felt the sun on his face and bellowed, "I like this weather. This would be winter down in New Orleans."

Don Robinson led a group of relief pitchers in a lively home run derby, whacking two shots about 400 feet into the second deck in left field.

The Giants could have taken Monday off just like the Cardinals, but couldn't think of anyplace they'd rather be than the ballpark.

"I told the guys they didn't have to work out," San Francisco Manager Roger Craig said. "I was kind of hoping they'd say no so I could go out and visit some of my family here. But they want to work out, they want to keep the momentum going."

The Giants also were aware of a quirk in their record this year. They seem to lose at home after days off and on the road after travel days.

"Most of the times we've taken off we've been sluggish," catcher Bob Brenly said. "It's either sit around the hotel or run around the (shopping) mall with our wives."

"We haven't been real good after off days," shortstop Jose Uribe said. "We like to keep everything in a flow. Everybody wanted to come out."

Craig said left-hander Atlee Hammaker would start the seventh game of the playoffs on Wednesday night if the Giants lose tonight.

Dudek leads Broncos to 30-14 victory

DENVER (AP) - Joe Dudek, twice denied in his dream of playing in the NFL, finally got his chance thanks to the players union strike, and he made his debut a memorable one.

Dudek rushed for 128 yards on 23 carries and scored two touchdowns Monday night as the Denver Broncos stayed in contention in the AFC West with a 30-14 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders.

As a vocal crowd of 61,230 chanted "Dudek, Dudek," the former record-setting small-college back gave the Broncos the running game they missed in their first replacement game a week ago.

He scored two first-quarter touchdowns on runs of 7 yards and 3 yards, set up a go-ahead field goal late in the half by gaining 19 yards on a short pass, and then teamed with fullback Nathan Poole on a time-consuming drive in the final period that led to an insurance score by Poole.

"It was a dream come true," said Dudek, who played at tiny Plymouth State (N.H.), a Division III school. "I know I can play in this league. I got a feel for the game tonight. I was embarrassed by the fumbles but, thankfully, it didn't cost us the game. I wasn't used to that type of hitting. Next time I'll be ready for it."

Broncos Coach Dan Reeves said Dudek and Poole "did a tremendous job of running the ball for us. It was a big improvement over last week."

Denver rushed for 204 yards against the Raiders. In a humiliating 40-10 loss to Houston last week, the Broncos managed a meager 38 yards on the ground.

"Their running game just whipped us," said Raider All-Pro defensive end Howie Long, who crossed the picket line last week. "Dudek quietly amassed a lot of yards. He played real well."

Ken Karcher passed 10 yards to Rick Massie late in the third quarter to account for Denver's other touchdown as the Broncos went to 2-1-1 on the season. The Raiders fell to 3-1.

Karcher left the game moments later with a dislocated ring finger on his passing hand, and second- and third-string quarterbacks Dean May and Monte McGuire mopped up, appearing on alternate plays during Denver's 87-yard, 13-play drive in the final period that was capped by Poole's 1-yard run.

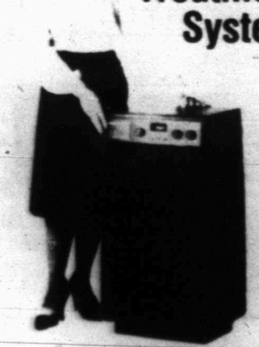

Karcher was confident of playing next week, but the Broncos weren't so lucky with veteran wide receiver Steve Watson, who suffered six broken ribs when sandwiched between two Los Angeles tacklers in the first quarter. He is expected to be sidelined four to six weeks.

Several hundred pickets, including about two dozen striking Broncos, held a peaceful demonstration outside Mile High Stadium prior to the game.

The cork center was not added to the official major league baseball until 1910.

Multiple-personality patient recaptured

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A convicted robber with 11 personalities said he fled from a state hospital because his personalities took over.

Leonard Little of Universal City said he left the hospital because "they treat you really bad. I had to wear these pajamas and these house shoes, and I had nothing to do." Little, who has 11 documented personalities, was back behind bars Monday after his escape from the San Antonio State Hospital last month, police said.

He was arrested and charged Sunday in connection with a robbery earlier in the day. He was jailed Monday in lieu of a $150,000 bond, officials said.

Detectives were attempting to unravel Little's path since he left the hospital Sept. 20 to determine if he was involved in other robberies and burglaries in the city and county.

"My personalities took me over," Little told the San Antonio Light, explaining why he had fled the state hospital. "The next thing I knew, I was laying out in a field with no clothes and no money."

During his well-publicized trial last year, testimony showed that Little's multiple personalities included a teen-ager named Buck, a black man named Flash and an 11-year-old boy who loves Captain Kangaroo and Zorro.

Detectives said that since his escape, Little has been Buck, "Jerry Newton" and Len Little, but during Sunday's arrest he answered to his own name.

About 4 p.m. Sunday, police said two men wearing stockings over their heads walked into a city jewelry store and held up the owner and his wife, taking about $2,000 worth of jewelry from a display case.

One of the men was armed, police said.

Later, as narcotics Detective Frank Randolph headed south on Interstate 37 about 6 p.m., he spotted a stolen car matching the description of the getaway car in the robbery.

Police said Randolph followed the car to an ice house, where a man got into another car with two women. Later, police learned that Little was getting into his sister's car so that she and a woman companion could take him back to the hospital.

Detectives said his sister had been looking for him since his escape and found him Sunday evening along a city highway. She was following him to the ice house to pick him up and take him to the hospital, police said.

When police arrested Little, he allegedly was armed with a small pistol. Police still were looking for the other man involved in the jewelry store robbery.

Little was charged in connection with robbery, unauthorized use of a vehicle and expired license plates late Sunday.

He was sentenced in September 1986 to five years after he was found mentally competent to stand trial for an aggravated robbery in 1984.

He was released in October 1986 after serving only three weeks of the five-year sentence because he had served 21 months in custody pending trials and was given credit for that time.

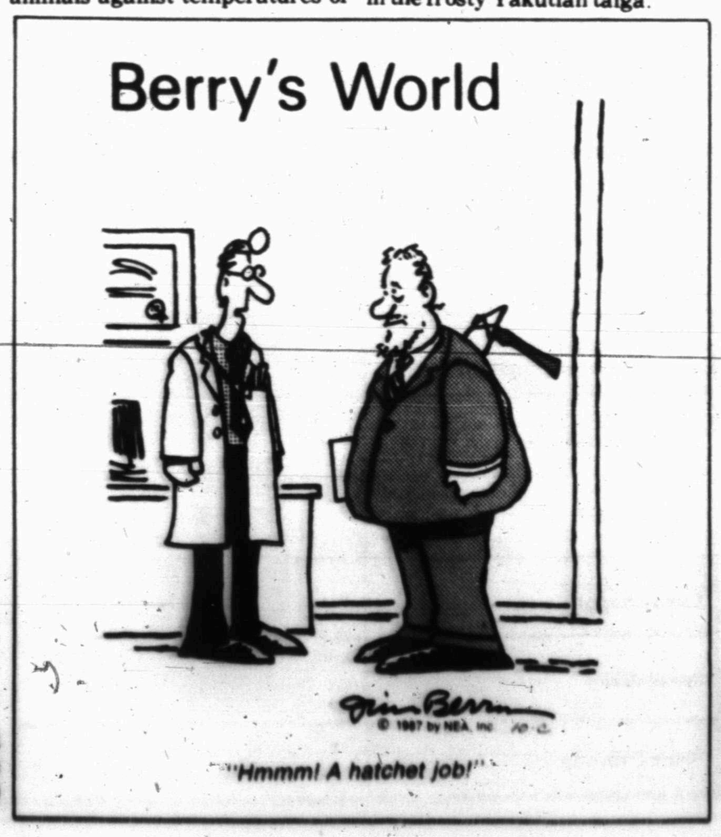

Space monkeys survive landing

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet space monkeys survived their 13-day flight and were reported "fit and well" today, despite a frosty Siberian landing more than 2,000 miles off course, the official news agency Tass reported.

Tass said the monkeys landed in pine tree forests about 25 miles from the city of Mirny in the Yakutia region. Experts struggled to protect the warm-weather animals against temperatures of minus 5 degrees Fahrenheit.

One monkey, Yerosha, caused concern on the fifth day of the flight by appearing on a television monitor with his front left paw free. He removed a nametag from his helmet, and scientists said his food tube appeared blocked.

But Tass said the monkeys "courageously sustained all the hardships linked with the landing in the frosty Yakutian taiga.

Dear Abby

Stepdad and Daughter Became Too Close for Mom's Comfort

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Reading the letter from "Wondering in San Antonio" took me back many years. ("Wondering's" husband of six years thought it was perfectly OK to visit his 17-year-old stepdaughter's bedroom at bedtime to "talk" to her. The girl slept in the nude and made very little effort to cover up. "Wondering" said when she mentioned this to her husband, he accused her of being paranoid, crazy and evil-minded.)

When I was 35, I married a man who seemed to be overly fond of my 14-year-old daughter. He spent much time "tucking her in" and playing physical games — wrestling, hugging and dancing.

When she started to date, he insulted every boy she brought home. They grew closer and closer. By the time she was 28, she hadn't brought anybody home for three years. Their relationship was obvious to me, but she denied it, and he called me "crazy and evil-minded."

I tried to talk some sense into her, but she wouldn't listen.

I retained a lawyer who wrote her a letter demanding that she move from our home. She moved. A few months later, my husband moved out, and in with her. We were subsequently divorced and he married my daughter. They've been together since 1966.

I know that most men are decent, but I think women should be careful when they consider bringing a man into their home as a stepfather.

TRUE STORY,
WILMINGTON, DEL.

DEAR TRUE STORY: Thank you for sharing your experience. A word to the wives is sufficient.

DEAR ABBY: Although my husband and I have been married for 32 years, we still disagree about something that happened on our wedding day. We had agreed that we would be married at a private ceremony at our church, followed by a dinner for the immediate family.

You can imagine my surprise to arrive at the church and find 25 or 30 of my fiance's out-of-town relatives there! Since we hadn't planned on guests, it was an awkward moment.

Later I learned that my husband's mother had invited them, and even arranged for a catered dinner following the ceremony. My husband thought this was a nice thing for her to have done. I thought it was underhanded. I also thought the bride and groom made the wedding plans. The fact that his mother took it upon herself to invite these people caused embarrassment for me and my family.

Don't you think this should have been discussed with us before the marriage? I do. My husband insists that I am wrong, and his mother wasn't in the least out of line.

I've tried to forget it, but it keeps coming up, and I'd like your opinion.

STINGING MEMORIES

DEAR STINGING: To have invited wedding guests without your knowledge and approval was certainly "out of line." I know it's not easy to forget, but no good purpose is served by bringing it up. If it's any satisfaction for you to know that Abby is on your side, I am.

DEAR ABBY: If you receive a gift, and thank the giver in person when you receive it, is it necessary to send a written thank-you note?

CURIOUS

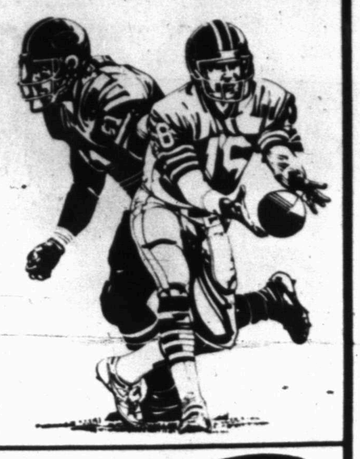

DEAR CURIOUS: Yes. People with the best manners always send written thank-you notes. And promptly.
