ELECTRIC SHOCKS

'Astromonk' Whips Through 'Task Cycles'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bonny, the mild mannered "astromonk" who finds himself 200 miles above the earth today, is reported doing well, munching food pellets, sipping water and whipping through "task cycles" eued by electric shocks.

The Thailand pigtai lmonkey, wired so as to tell just about everything of weightlessness in space, was launched from Cape Kennedy Saturday night in a Delta rocket.

Space agency spokesmen say Bonny will stay in orbit for 30 days.

The delicate sensors implanted in his brain, heart and other vital organs are to help set medical guidelines for future astronauts who may spend months or years in space.

Bonny, named for his pleasant disposition, passed all his behavioral tests Sunday.

A sample test: One of four symbols lights up in the center of a display. Bonny touches the symbol and it goes out. Twenty seconds later all four symbols light up. Bonny is trained to touch the symbol which first appeared by itself.

Each time Bonny gets a test right an extra food pellet pops out.

Ready For Questioning

William McChesney Martin, left, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, chats today with Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., before appearing as a witness at a House Banking and Currency Committee hearing in Washington. The recent increase in the prime interest rate was the subject under discussion.

Nixon Forces Are Confident Of Surtax Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican political arithmetic is pointing toward House approval of President Nixon's proposed surtax extension, but party discipline must hold and supporters concede their margin is narrow.

The extension bill, facing a crucial House test today, has Democratic as well as Republican leaders supporting it. But a large block of Democrats has opposed any long extension until the broader issue of tax reform has been settled.

Nixon forces have given top priority to extending the surtax at 10 per cent through Dec. 31 and then at 5 per cent through June 30, 1970, as part of the administration's anti - inflation moves.

House passage doesn't assure the extension since Senate Democrats are determined to write some meaningful tax-law changes. They call it closing loopholes, and insist the people back home won't stand for any delay.

Passage of the surtax at Nixon's proposed level would bring in an estimated $7.64 billion in the first year and contribute to a $6.3 billion surplus in the unified government budget.

The administration contends such a surplus is desperately needed to dampen inflation, reduce the government's competition for scarce credit and bolster confidence in the dollar abroad.

If Congress fails to approve, an administration spokesmen predicted, the psychological effect would be devastating — more inflation with businesses and individuals rushing to buy and borrow, thus feeding the inflation.

The opposition contends the surtax has not been effective against inflation.

Democratic liberals argued, moreover, unless the surtax is tied closely to substantial tax reforms, the chance to ram these through the present Congress may be lost. If the reforms are not written directly into the bill, they said, the extension should be held to a few months while a reform package is worked out.

Storm warnings already are up in the Senate.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield armed with the unanimous backing of the Democratic Policy Committee, said Sunday the Senate will insist on tax reform before agreeing to the full surtax extension.

"There is a feeling of uneasiness about taxes in the country," Mansfield said. "There is increased grumbling from home. The people want reforms now, not later."

The Senate and House have voted to keep withholding rates on the surtax in effect for 31 days after its scheduled expiration today.

The bill pending before the House would combine the year's extension of the surtax with repeal of the 7 per cent investment credit for business and an increase in deductions which would remove 2.2 million families in the lowest income brackets from the tax rolls.

Says De Gaulle Is 'Henpecked'

LONDON (AP) — A nephew of former French President Charles de Gaulle says the haughty general is "henpicked and dominated" by his wife, Yvonne.

Alaine de Gaulle wrote in a London magazine that Mrs. de Gaulle once told the general: "You're running France; I'm running the house."

Alaine wrote in The People that Mrs. de Gaulle dilutes her husband's liquor with coffee and has complete control of the family budget. But it adds the family still thinks of De Gaulle as "Le Patron."

"The general isn't even allowed to see the account book in which his wife keeps a detailed record of their personal finances," Alaine said. "She starts a new book each year and stacks the old ones in a wardrobe.

"So jealous is she of her private domain that she has a habit of slipping a hair between the pages of these account books — just to see if any curious person has taken a peep."

Although De Gaulle is a very rich man the article said, there are no labor-saving devices in his home.

"There is not even an electric or gas cooker there," Alaine wrote. "All the cooking is still done on an old-fashioned coal range. Nor are there any such things as washing machines or Hoovers — the sort of labor-saving gadgets which, under the De Gaulle regime, became commonplace in French homes."

But even though the general plays "second fiddle" to his wife, said Alaine, "the fact remains that he is very much the patriarch, the tribal chief of the De Gaulle and Vendoux families and has always been, for as long as I can remember, the supreme boss of us all."

Military's Influence In Administration Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today the formation of a "blue-ribbon panel" to study the organization of the Department of Defense, its research and development programs and procurement practices as requested by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Gilbert W. Fitzhugh, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., was named to head the study.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler in announcing the plans said Laird "has said he expects this panel to conduct the most comprehensive review of the Department of Defense since Hoover Commission studies in 1947 and 1953."

The White House had no further information regarding the makeup of the panel or any additional details on its review.

The naming of a commission to study the operation and organization of the Pentagon had been suggested by Laird around the time he was named secretary by President Nixon.

The review comes at a time when there is growing criticism over the high cost of weapons systems.

It also coincides with an apparent climb in the military's influence in administration decision-making. Laird has been trying to loosen the intensive Pentagon centralization imposed during the McNamara years.

However, officials say, Laird has no intention of letting his authority slip or allowing the military to run unrestricted.

"Laird is not a man to give up power," said an associate who has worked closely with the Nixon administration's defense chief.

"He and Dave Packard (Laird's deputy secretary) have laid out firm guidelines."

And, a top official said, "Anybody who gets the idea that we're going back to the old 'wild west' days of service rivalries is all wrong."

By "wild west" days this official meant the years before Robert S. McNamara became Defense Secretary in 1961 when the services fought uninhibitedly over budget shares, weapons systems, and roles and missions.

Within the Laird guidelines, the military and civilian heads of the armed services and the various assistant secretaries of defense are given considerable responsibilities for developing programs and dealing with problems.

Associates noted Laird has permitted the Air Force to handle the dispute over the C5A super transport and the Army to resolve the controversy over disposal of surplus war gas.

In the McNamara era, the defense secretary and his top aides called the detailed shots.

According to Laird's associates, the defense secretary believes that if he has a good man in a job, that official should handle his job without close supervision from the top.

Laird also means it when he says field commanders should not be second-guessed, these sources said.

During the Johnson administration, the U.S. commander in Vietnam sometimes received streams of messages from Washington with "guidance," suggestions and outright orders.

This no longer happens, officials said.

Gen. Creighton Abrams, the man running the Vietnam war, has full knowledge of broad administration policy and it is left to him to operate within that policy.

In the Democratic years, senior military leaders here complained they were consulted by McNamara only after decisions were made.

Under Laird every member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been invited at one time or another to sit in on consultations of the National Security Council, President Nixon's top policy-making body.

During the Johnson administration, Gen. Earl Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, represented all the chiefs at the "Tuesday luncheons" in the White House where courses of action were considered.

Now, too, all reservations and objections by the individual service chiefs are noted on position papers forwarded to the National Security Council, sources said.

A significant indicator of the military resurgence in the Pentagon is the apparent downgrading of the Systems Analysis Office, which during the McNamara years had the power of life and death over key weapons and other programs.

Then there were many reports of the academically-oriented "whiz kids" in systems analysis dealing with brusquely with military opinion. During his campaign last year, Nixon promised to "root out" the whiz-kid approach to formulating programs.

While Laird has retained the Systems Analysis Office, he and Packard are giving the military professionals greater initiative in areas previously dominated by the "whiz kids."

High Winds Rip Midwest

By The Associated Press

A band of violent thunderstorms battered the Midwest today, separating a heat wave that overspread the South and cooler conditions that prevailed in the North.

The turbulent storms raked the midcontinent with high winds, hail and torrential rains. There were several tornadoes.

A twister touched down at Kirksville, in northeastern Missouri, and damaged two building at 15 house trailers. Eight persons were reported injured. Gusts up to 52 miles an hour buffeted the area.

Another tornado spun into northeastern Illinois and unroofed two hangars at the Joliet Municipal Airport. Twelve planes were damaged and a glider was demolished, but no injuries were reported.

The Weather Bureau said a possible tornado whipped Des Plaines, a western suburb of Chicago, and injured four persons. The raging winds unroofed an apartment complex and a townhouse.

Steger Defeats Neptune For Key GOP Position

AUSTIN (AP)—William Steger of Tyler was elected the Texas Republican Party's first new state chairman since 1962 today.

The committee also was to vote on a state vice chairman.

The state GOP executive committee chose Steger over Millard Neptune of Austin in a closed door meeting.

The number of votes for each candidate was not announced.

Steger succeeds Peter O'Donnell of Dallas.

Mrs. John Andujar of Fort Worth and Mrs. Malcolm Milburn of Austin are running for vice chairman, a post being vacated by Mrs. Bradley Streeter of Wichita Falls.

O'Donnell resigned as state chairman after the committee elected him national committeeman May 3. Longtime committeeman Albert Fay of Houston was ousted that day after O'Donnell charged Fay with working against the party's nominee for governor, Paul Eggers of Wichita Falls, last year.

O'Donnell said Fay wanted to run for governor himself but O'Donnell rejected his bid because he felt Fay could not run.

O'Donnell has been sworn in as national committeeman.

O'Donnell was elected party chairman in September, 1962, and was re-elected in 1964, 1966 and 1968.

The new officers will serve until the September, 1970, state GOP convention.

Steger, 48, was the GOP candidate for governor in 1960 and lost a race for Congress in 1962. He began his active GOP work as East Texas chairman of the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign in 1952. He was U.S. attorney for East Texas from July, 1953, to September, 1959.

Neptune, 58, is a lawyer, oilman and rancher and devotes most of his time now to party work. He is coordinator for a number of state committees building a master file of qualified Texans for jobs in the Nixon administration. He ran for state land commissioner in 1968.

Mrs. Andujar is the wife of a Fort Worth pathologist and has been active in Republican affairs since the 1952 Eisenhower campaign. She was a delegate to the 1968 national GOP convention.

Mrs. Milburn also has been active in the party since 1952. She has been president of the state Federation of Republican Women and secretary of the state GOP executive committee. She ran unsuccessfully for the legislature in 1958.

Nigeria Shocks Relief Officials

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria stunned relief officials today by declaring the government is assuming responsibility for aid efforts on both sides of the civil war and that the International Committee of the Red Cross is no longer authorized to appeal for and accept donations on behalf of Nigeria.

The announcement was made by the government's commissioner for information and labor, Chief Anthony Enahoro, at a special meeting attended by representatives of more than 20 relief agencies, including Bernhard Frey, a member of the governing body of the International Red Cross.

Frey, who appeared shaken by the announcement, refused to comment, but other relief officials called the statement a "bombshell" and said "this is the worst possible thing."

There was no immediate comment from secessionist Biafra, which depends heavily on relief for its existence. In a recent statement, however, it retected accepting supplies brought through federal ports or airfields.

In his statement Enahoro said: "Nigerians as a people have always been proud of the fact that Nigeria feeds itself. Nigeria is determined to continue to feed itself."

The new approach means a virtual blockade of Biafra, now down to 3,000 square miles, with an estimated population of three million to four million.

Nigeria has long maintained an announced economic blockade, which remains in force, but some reports have said arms and equipment flights have slipped in among the relief flights to Uli airstrip.

Viet Cong Revenge

HONG KONG (AP) — The Viet Cong warned today that it is holding Americans as prisoners of war and threatened "certain and inescapable revenge" for the alleged murder of more than 100 Viet Cong prisoners by American and South Vietnamese in three different incidents.

The Viet Cong threat, broadcast over its Liberation Radio and monitored in Hong Kong, did not directly threaten that the "absolutely required revenge" would be taken against Americans captured in South Vietnam.

But the coupling was distinct and deliberate, without any intervening words, and would have to be regarded—at the very least—as a veiled threat of reprisal against Americans held prisoner by the Viet Cong.

Says Critics Taking 'Fantastic' Position

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell, a key supporter of President Nixon's missile defense program, says critics are taking a "fantastic" position by contending deployment of the Safeguard system would endanger Soviet-U.S. arms talks.

The Georgia Democrat, head of the Senate Appropriations Committee and long regarded as an expert on military matters, said in an interview:

"It seems fantastic to me that the opponents of ABM contend that the Russians will refuse to negotiate if we deploy Safeguard."

"We have been working on the ABM and on MIRV (multi-warhead-carrying missiles) for several years. That didn't keep them from agreeing to the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

"You can be certain that the Soviets are going to go ahead with their development of their own MIRVS and their own ABM system. It is ridiculous to say that they won't talk because we go ahead."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said in a separate interview that there was no serious attempt made within the Senate Armed Services Committee to strike the MIRV authorization from a military procurement bill.

Stennis, chairman of the committee, said the program of perfecting missiles that could carry a cluster of independently targeted nuclear warheads is linked closely to the development of the Poseidon replacement for the Polaris on U.S. submarines.

Safeguard critics have said there is no need for such a defense system to protect land-based U.S. missiles so long as the Polaris fleet is capable of delivering a devastating retaliatory strike.

A wedding of MIRV with Poseidon presumably would at least triple the striking power of American underseas craft while increasing the range of their retaliatory weapons.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has urged MIRV critics to shelve this issue when the closely divided Senate debates Safeguard deployment.

As of now, 41 senators have signed an appeal to the administration to seek an agreement with the Russians for a moratorium on MIRV development, which they say might otherwise make impossible any arms reduction agreement.

Their contention is that once both nations have multitargeted missiles it will become impossible to tally each other's striking power, short of on-site inspection to which neither will agree.

Russell said he doesn't believe the Soviets would agree to a halt in testing which he said both nations have been carrying on in this field.

Armed Troops Guard Rocky In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was cloistered in a heavily guarded hotel today, preparing for talks with Argentine leaders on this fourth and final leg of his presidential mission to Latin America.

The New York governor and two dozen advisers planned to spend their entire 36-hour visit at the Hotel Plaza in downtown Buenos Aires.

Security guards carefully searched all visitors to the area around the hotel.

Rockefeller arrived Sunday in a chatered jet at the international airport outside Buenos Aires, then flew to a downtown airport in a small U.S. Air Force plane because officials did not want to risk a drive to the violence-plagued capital. Machine gun-toting troops with dogs guarded both facilities.

After a reception ceremony at the downtown airport, Rockefeller delivered an address stressing the need for unity in the hemisphere.

"We must reexamine the common bonds that bind us together," he said. "It is also important that we recognize the fact that there are forces which would divide us in our common efforts to raise the standards of living of the peoples of the Americas and to achieve respect for human dignity, social justice and individual freedom."

Terrorists and anti-Rockefeller demonstrators began causing trouble in Argentina even before Rockefeller arrived.

In Buenos Aires, police used tear gas to quell a demonstration Sunday and arrested 30 persons. The demonstration followed the funeral of Emilio Jauregui, a Communist leader killed by police during an anti-Rockefeller rally Friday.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring Senior High School, where she was a member of the Library Club and the Shorthand Club. She attended Howard County Junior College. The bridegroom graduated from Ponca City High School and attended Oklahoma State Tech before entering the Air Force.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ridgeway of Ponca City, parents of the bridegroom; Mrs. Ollie Knight of Santo; grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shoe Designers Ease Fall's 'Chunky' Look

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether it's the smart, new pant boot for the strap-happy city sandal, designers' shoes for autumn are looking elegant.

In the first combined fall showing by New York-based shoe designers last week, the biggest fashion news was up front, where high riding tongues of leather and fabric are decorated with buckles, brass and cross-over straps.

Toe shapes for fall generally are softly squared and tapered with full-rounded versions making a comeback for evening.

The designers' toughest problem was settling on a heel height amid the ups and downs of the fall hemline. For the most part heels are going up —to just a shade over two inches — and slimming a bit.

The total look for day and night is the modified chunky toe and heavy heel.

"When we introduced that square look, it had to be extreme," says designer David Evins. "Now we're tapering off into correct fashion, to a silhouette that is firm and feminine."

One of the prettiest and newest silhouettes for fall is the pant boot, an ankle-high shoe for day or night with a dressy two-inch heel.

A thick-soled city sandal made with see-through vinyl is in the collection of Herbert and Beth Levine. They like it best with silver and gold but sometimes use no trim at all.

Miss Pond Honored

The quartet tables were laid with white Madeira place mats and centered with baskets of mixed flowers.

The bride, attired in a blue crepe dress, presented gifts to her attendants.

Attending were the bride's mother, Mrs. Joe Pond, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Ralph Baxter of Pampa.

A LOVELIER YOU

Grace Is Beauty Secret On Beach

By MARY SUE MILLER

There's more to a beach bunny than a neat figure and a nifty suit. As at no other time, a girl's grace keys allure. For the necessary pizzazz just follow these pointers:

1. Stretch tall when standing, and be sure to draw the waist up and the derriere under the body. Also, keep your feet and legs in fairly close formation. (Sprawls are for models in magazines, not for real life.)

2. When you walk barefoot, let toes come to ground a split second before heels; with each step, fully extend ankles. The movements are extraordinarily graceful.

3. To take a seated position on the ground keep knees together and bend them a bit. Then, slowly drop right knee to ground; follow up at once with left keee. Now shift your weight to right and let gravity take over. That way, no plop and no scramble to arrange legs thereafter.

4. While seated, hold spine erect. No slumping!

5. If you stretch out to sun, assume the same pulled-together posture as when standing.

6. Rise from the ground by reversing actions taken to sit down.

7. At all times keep your arms and hands relaxed.

After a few tryouts at home, you'll be able to maneuver on the outdoor scene with the grace and appeal of a true charmer.

Section Of Cigarette Labeling Law Expires

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key section of the cigarette labeling law expires tonight, opening the way for federal regulatory agencies to try to impose stringent restrictions on smoking advertising.

The section of the law dying at midnight prohibits federal agencies from modifying current regulations to toughen the current health warning required on cigarette packages or limit advertising.

With the modification ban lifted, the Federal Trade Commission can go on with hearings on an extremely strong package warning, while the Federal Communications Commission can consider the proposed prohibition of all smoking advertising on radio and television.

Although the ban, or pre-emption, part of the law loses effect tonight, the House has passed a bill extending that section for another six years, although with a tougher warning required displayed on each pack:

"Warning: The Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health and may cause lung cancer or other diseases."

But the outlook for the extension is cloudy in the Senate, where Utah Democrat Frank E. Moss is reported working through his Commerce subcommittee on consumer affairs to pigeonhole the House-passed bill.

Although the FCC announced some time ago it would consider the prepared TV-Radio advertisment ban, the agency has extended until Aug. 17 the time for submitting comments on the matter.

Visit Postponed

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger's scheduled August visit to Washington has been postponed because of President Nixon's forthcoming trip to Asia and Romania.

A spokesman for the West German government said Sunday he did not know whether a new date had been agreed on. The visit was to have been made Aug. 4-5.

'Cracker Kills

BERGAMO, Italy (AP) — A 49-year-old man was killed Sunday by a firecracker he lit during a celebration for a newly ordained priest. Police said the victim threw three firecrackers in the air, and one exploded right next to his temple.

Police Blame Explosion On Welsh Extremists

CAERNARVON, Wales (AP) — All police reserves were called up and a bomb alert was broadcast across Wales after a time bomb exploded in the Cardiff post office today, the day before Prince Charles is to be sworn in as sovereign of the Welsh.

Police blamed the explosion on Welsh nationalist extremists who have threatened to disrupt the investiture Tuesday. They said the bomb blew a three-foot hole in the wall of the Cardiff post office, 150 miles south of here.

Prince Charles, 20-year-old heir to the British throne, is to visit Cardiff Saturday after a four-day tour of the country following his investiture as Prince of Wales at historic Caernarvon Castle.

Commenting on the reserve callup, a police spokesman said: "It wouldn't surprise me if we have as many as 3,000 men in Caernarvon alone."

President Nixon's daughter Tricia, who will attend the most elaborate royal ceremony since the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II in 1953, is bringing her own small army of Secret Service agents. Spokesmen wouldn't say how many security men would accompany her, but one said: "We have no fears for her safety in Wales."

The Welsh security force in Caernarvon was beefed up by English policemen, specially briefed to look out for known Welsh extremists.

"We have to memorize 40 or 50 faces of people regarded as suspicious," said one officer. "Nevertheless we look on the investiture as just another job. We will be tolerant with demonstrators, but anyone who gets out of hand will receive tough treatment."

The ceremony will be viewed by an estimated television audience of 500 million around the world. Weathermen forecast a cloudy day.

SORRY 'BOUT THAT PASS

PLYMOUTH, Ind. (AP) — Terry Hite, 22, of Plymouth, piloting a single-engine airplane, made a low pass over his parents' home Saturday.

The plane crashed in the front yard, apparently after striking power lines. A neighbor pulled the injured pilot from the wreckage before it caught fire. Hite suffered a broken arm and cuts.

Sen. Kennedy Planning Quiet Look At Europe This Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is planning a quiet look at Europe this summer, avoiding meeting heads of state who might want to talk with a potential presidential candidate.

Kennedy, the Senate's No. 2 Democratic Leader, expects to take advantage of the August congressional recess for his trip.

But he wants none of the fanfare which marked the last trip of his late brother, Robert F. Kennedy, to European capitals.

This trip also promises to contrast sharply with the European tour which Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, is on now.

Humphrey the 1968 Democratic presidential candidate and a potential nominee in 1972, will visit England, Denmark, Finland, Switzerland as well as spending a week in Russia. He will make public appearances and may confer with Kremlin leaders.

Kennedy's journey will be made as quietly as circumstances permit as part of an effort to lower the sound level of speculation about his political future.

It is Kennedy's judgment that it is entirely too soon to make any calculation about what is going to happen three years from now. He recognizes, for example, that events—particularly a settlement in Vietnam—could make President Nixon all but unbeatable.

At 37 the Massachusetts senator is young enough and politically cautious enough to wait if 1972 looks like a bad year for the Democratic nominee.

There also is the intervening matter of getting re-elected to the Senate next year. Nobody expects any real difficulty but Kennedy's decision to stick closely to Senate business this year indicates he intends to take no chances.

Despite efforts to reduce the decibels of personal publicity, Kennedy is finding it difficult to fend off hundreds of proposals to put his views in print and his face on television.

GOLD FEVER HITS NOME

NOME, Alaska (AP) — There is a gold fever sweeping the younger generation of this former gold rush town where children are mining the streets for nickels, dimes, quarters and an occasional half-dollar.

Object of their efforts is the ground beneath the wooden boards of a walkway along Front Street.

The board sidewalks were torn up last week to make way for a concrete walk.

Possibility Of Texas Income Tax Still Alive

DALLAS (AP) — The possibility that Gov. Preston Smith might bid for a state income tax during a special session of the Texas Legislature was kept alive Sunday by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes.

Barnes told a news conference he does not discount the possibility raised last week by State Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas.

Barnes said Smith was close to recommending an income tax last spring, but never made the move.

As far as other new taxes to finance a 2-year spending bill, Barnes said he hasn't talked to Smith about recommendations.

Barnes said he assumes new taxes along the lines of Smith's previously proposed gross receipts tax on the chemical industry and a tax on moving traffic violations will probably be recommended again by Smith.

As far as the one-vs.-two-year appropriations controversy, Barnes said he will try to cooperate with Smith, who favors a 2-year bill and vetoed a 1-year bill. Barnes said he could not speak for the state's senators.

Indiana Disorders Continue To Flare

By The Associated Press

Disorders spread to two more northern Indiana communities early today, with the firebombing of a Swayzee lumber company and looting in a predominantly Negro area in Fort Wayne.

At Swayzee, 50 miles northeast of Indianapolis and midway between Kokomo and Marion which were hit by early weekend disorders, Town Marshal Marty Guffey blamed arson for the $250,000 blaze which flattened the Grant County Lumber Co.

Guffey said he fired four or five shots at a man who fled the property five minutes before the blaze erupted.

The marshal said the fire apparently was started by a torch thrown onto the roof. A similar oil-soaked firebomb was thrown into the Vincennes Packing Co., a vacant tomato canning factory in the same vicinity, but it failed to ignite, he said.

Police in Fort Wayne arrested Ernest Lee Craig, 19, on a preliminary charge of second-degree burglary. Officers said Craig was apprehended inside a store as sporadic looting occurred in scattered areas.

The cities of Marion and Kokomo were reported relatively calm Sunday night. Three men were arrested in Marion early Sunday on charges of possessing arson materials such as bottles, gasoline and wicks. They were Clarence Nauden, 29, and Henry Williams, 22, both of Marion, and Gerald Gunn, 19, Gary.

Two major fires in Marion Saturday night caused $240,000 damage at the Custer Lumber Co. and $150,000 damage at the Meshingomesia Country Club. Both were ruled arson.

Several other firebombings at Marion caused only slight damage. One of the other targets was McCullogh Junior High School.

A Marion fireman, Gary Rich, was hospitalized with a broken leg when a butane tank exploded in the lumber yard and threw him against the wall.

At Kokomo, where 13 policemen were wounded slightly by shotgun blasts early Friday and 21 persons were arrested early Saturday, a force of 200 state riot troopers was withdrawn Sunday as disorders subsided.

Demanding Cut In Arms Money

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson was handed a letter from British Communists Sunday demanding a 50 per cent cut in the nation's arms program.

The letter was taken to the prime minister's official residence by 1,000 marchers who had attended a Communist rally in Trafalgar Square.

Deepest Raid By Israelis Since 1967

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli army said today its commandos launched their deepest raid into Egypt since the 1967 Middle East war and ruptured a high tension power line linking Cairo and the Aswan Dam. But Egypt denied all knowledge of the raid.

A spokesman in Cairo said: "I contacted all authorities and power experts in Egypt and all of them reported there was no power failure or rupture of electric lines. Israelis might be the victims of false reports."

The attack Sunday night was the fourth commando raid into Egypt since the war and the closest to Cairo. The army said the commandos hit Suhaj, 240 miles south of the Egyptian capital and 135 miles west of the Egyptian-Israeli border.

As usual the army did not say how the commandos reached the target, by land or in troop-carrying aircraft. Spokesmen would only say the commando squad returned to base without suffering any casualties.

It was the third Israeli raid directed against power installations on the Nile River, coming only a few days after naval commandos attacked an Egyptian radar station on the Gulf of Suez. They claimed killing 25 Arab soldiers in that raid and destroying most of the post's installations.

It was believed the commandos in Sunday night's raid moved out of the Sinai Desert and across the Gulf of Suez south of the Suez Canal.

Besides rupturing the 500 kilovolt Cairo-Aswan line, the commandos damaged a second power line supplying Suhaj, the army said. It added the attackers met no resistance or interference on the ground.

An army spokesman said the raid took place at El-Walid Salameh, a small village near Suhaj.

In Tel Aviv, police questioned about 20 Arab suspects in connection with the city's worst bomb blast this year. Ten persons were injured today when a stolen Israeli civilian jeep packed with at least 100 pounds of explosives blew up near Tel Aviv's main entertainment strip.

Authorities said the vehicle had been stolen the night before from a Jaffa resident.

The explosion wrecked a nearby auto, damaged six others and shattered windows in several houses causing most of the casualties, police said.

'Rubber Man' Of Congo Dies

ALGIERS (AP) — Moise Tshombe, known as the "rubber man" of African politics, died Sunday of an apparent heart attack, The Algerian Press Service reported today. He was 49.

A communique signed by 10 Algerian doctors said the former premier of the Congo and leader of the breakaway state of Katanga appeared to have died in his sleep. It said an autopsy was to be performed today.

The announcement of Tshombe's death came two years to the day after a French plane hijacker brought him to Algeria at gunpoint. The plane had been chartered to take Tshombe from Spain, where he had been living in exile, to Palma de Majorca.

After a deal fell through between Algeria and the Congo to extradite Tshombe to Kinshasa (formerly Leopoldville) to face a death sentence, Tshombe's status became veiled in official silence. He was kept in solitary confinement for two years, well treated but denied contact with the outside world.

Tshombe earned his nickname by showing remarkable political resiliency in rebounding from utter defeat after the fall of Katanga in 1963 to become premier of the Congo in July, 1964. The man with the moon face and toothy grin inspired no in-between emotions among Congolese. He was either loved or hated.

Moise-Kapenda—which stands for "Moses Beloved"—Tshombe was born in Musumba Nov. 10, 1919. His father was a rarity, a wealthy African businessman in an economy controlled by Belgians.

Raised as a Methodist with a high school education, Tshombe toured Europe before coming home to run the family's interests, marry the daughter of a tribal chief and father 10 children.

He served on several tribal and provincial councils in the 1950s, and when Belgium was ready to grant its colony independence, Tshombe was premier of its richest province.

Independence came July 1, 1960, and the Congolese army mutinied soon after. Tshombe waited 10 days for President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba to restore order, then declared independence for Katanga.

Backed by Belgian mining firms and an army led by white mercenaries from South Africa and Rhodesia, Tshombe withstood worldwide pressure and United Nations' efforts to end his secession for 30 months.

It was during the first outbreak of violence, in September, 1961, that U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold was killed in a plane crash in Northern Rhodesia, now Zambia. Hammarskjold was flying to a border town for cease-fire talks with Tshombe.

While a U.N. investigating committee said it found no proof to support rumors the plane had been shot down, it added it was unable to determine the cause of the crash.

Six months after Hammarskjold died, the Katanga government announced the death of Lumumba, who then became a hero to many African youths. Some Congolese said Tshombe was responsible for Lumumba's assassination, but Tshombe maintained Lumumba had escaped after being taken into custody in January, 1961, and was shot by villagers.

Five months after Tshombe capitulated in January, 1963, he left the Congo to go into exile in Europe for the first time, living mostly in Spain. But he returned triumphantly as premier in June, 1964, after Simba tribesmen rebelled in the northeast provinces.

Tshombe's troops, again led by white mercenaries, succeeded in crushing the Simba rebellion, but in the fall of 1965 a simmering feud between Kasavubu and his premier broke into the open. Again Tshombe went into exile, never really returning to the limelight until he was kidnaped to Algiers.

Dies

Moise Tshombe, former prime minister of the Congo, died Sunday of a heart attack near Algiers, where he had been detained for two years, the Algerian Press Service announced Monday. He was 49.

Mexican Oil Production Hike Slated

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's daily crude oil production will increase by over 20 per cent within three years, according to an article in Excelsior, with all the new oil coming from a single off-shore platform.

The article said Petroleos Mexicanos, S. A. Pemex, the country's government-owned oil monopoly, presently produces 450,000 barrels daily. The new wells are expected to produce 100,000 additional barrels daily.

Five wells have already been drilled from the "atun" platform, 20 kilometers off the coast of Tuxpan, Veracruz. Seven more are planned.

The completed wells are producing 30,000 barrels of crude oil daily, the article said, and this figure is expected to rise to 50,000 barrels by the end of the year.

The new wells are being drilled in a line of deposits which forms an ellipse 136.7 kilometers long and 64.3 kilometers wide. "Faja de Oro," or "The Gold Belt," the onshore half of the field, was discovered in the 1920.

Land Grant Rebel Faces U.S. Charge

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —Reies Lopez Tijerina, the land grant claimant, was returned to Albuquerque city jail Sunday from the federal reformatory at La Tuna, Tex., near El Paso.

Tijerina will appear Monday at a preliminary hearing on federal charges against him of assaulting a federal officer. This charge stemmed from an incident June 8 in the Santa Fe National Forest near Coyote, N.M.

Tijerina was imprisoned June 11 after his federal appeals bond of $2,000 was revoked. That bond had been posted after his conviction in 1967 on charges growing out of an incident at Echo Amphitheater campground in the Carson National Forest of northern New Mexico.

That case now is on appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Tijerina appears for his hearing in federal court on the same day that the trial of Juan Valdez, 31, Canjilon, is expected to go to the jury in Albuquerque district court.

Valdez is being tried on charges stemming from the June 5, 1967, armed raid on the courthouse at Tierra Amarilla. Tijerina was acquitted on three charges involving that raid in a trial last December. But other charges pend.

The 10th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, meanwhile, has refused to release Tijerina on bond until it can read the transcripts of the district court hearing in Albuquerque on his bond revocation.

New Parking Lot Paving Procedes

Paving of the downtown parking lot on the site of the old Crawford Hotel is proceeding on schedule and the lot should be available to the public July 8, according to Ernest Lillard, director of public works.

Lillard said the lot has been graded and filled, and workmen today are compacting the area. Later this week the lot will be primed, and asphalt will be put down July 7, he said.

A GREAT AMERICAN...

Dwight David Eisenhower was a man of great accomplishment. For the first time, here is the complete biography of the general, politician and statesman who became a legend in his own time. Relman Morin, the AP's two-time Pulitzer Prize winner, provides a detailed and colorful 140,000-word account of the Kansas farm boy who rose to become a hero of World War II and the 34th President of the United States in "Eisenhower: A Gauge of Greatness." Morin, who knew Ike for a quarter of a century, measures the man by the gauge of greatness Ike set up himself.

The result is this handsome volume illustrated by more than 85 pictures in color and black and white. It is available to you through this newspaper at the special price of only $3.

Sea Tragedy Off Ireland

The sunken oyster boat Red Bank, center, can be seen just beneath the surface of Galway Bay, Ireland, today, where it met disaster on a pleasure trip Sunday. Flanking the ill-fated vessel are a lifeboat, nearest camera, and a rowboat. Three boys and five girls were presumed drowned when the Red Bank sank. Eighteen others were rescued.

Hundreds Of Cubans Illegally Entering

MIAMI (AP) — By boat, barrel and bravado, hundreds of Cubans are illegally entering the United States from Mexico.

About 500 are known to have crossed the border at points from Texas to Arizona during the first four months of 1969. Concerned U.S. officials have stepped up enforcement, and at the same time loosened other regulations, in a bid to stem the tide. They think they're succeeding.

A change last year in immigration law has spurred the illegal entries by lengthening the time Cubans who try to come legally from Mexico must wait for a visa.

ANNUAL LIMIT

The law imposed a 120,000-person annual limit on the number of immigrants who can come to the United States annually from other western hemisphere nations. Previously there was no limit.

The rate of legal Cuban immigration has dropped by more than 80 per cent in the last year, but this does not include the more than 3,000 Cubans a month who come on direct refugee flights from Havana.

Most Cubans get to Mexico City legally. But once there, they are faced with the increasing delays plus the problem of paying living costs while being prohibited by the Mexican government from working. Some are quick to accept offers of help in crossing the border.

One Cuban woman recalled her stay in Mexico City with her two daughters: "In the hotel some Cuban asked me if we want to cross the border. I said 'Yes.' We moved to the border in a bus. There, we went to a hotel and a Mexican came to the group and he says, 'you are Mrs. . . .' I said, 'Yes, I am.' "

INTRIGUE

Then, after paying $600, the mother and daughters were escorted to a hole in the fence at the 'border town of Nogales, Ariz., and stepped through it at noon on a dark, rainy day.

The trip was more laden with intrigue for a former Cuban dentist who first had to buy his way out of a Cuban prison where he was serving time for currency violations. The dentist, like other Cubans questioned about their border crossings, asked to remain anonymous.

He said he made his smuggling arrangements two days after arriving in Mexico City, but it was six weeks before he got into the United States.

He traveled with five other persons in a chauffer-driven new car to Monterrey, Mexico, was hidden in a motel until night and then was taken by the same driver—this time in an old car—to a farm near the border.

The group met a young man and an old man under a tree, were led single file 400 yards to the Rio Grande and were ferried across two at a time on a wood and canvas raft which had been hidden nearby. The cost to the dentist: $300.

Once inside the United States, the Cubans are safe because they cannot be deported to Mexico and are not sent back to Cuba. But the government is increasingly refusing entry to any who are caught or turn themselves in right at the border.

During April, when officials said 175 Cubans were known to enter illegally, 31 others were turned back. One woman who was turned back said she succeeded in getting across two weeks later, hidden in a lard barrel.

Immigration Service Officials said nearly all the illegal entrants turn themselves in once they are well past the border since no penalties are imposed and they are allowed to remain in the United States.

The service also has eased regulations to make it easier for Cubans in Mexico City to skirt immigration quotas if they can prove they have relatives already in the United States.

Attendant Injured, But Bandit Flees

Russell Combs, at Bill's Chevron Service, 1101 Lamesa Drive, escaped with a minor wound on his chest Sunday when a masked bandit tried to rob him and threatened him with a pen knife. Combs twisted away from the bandit, and the latter escaped, but without any loot. Combs was not hospitalized.

Police also investigated several thefts during the weekend.

E. A. Sanchez Jr, 709 Douglas, told police someone removed tools and a tire and wheel, valued at $200 from his truck while it was parked in the Hall-Bennett Memorial parking lot. Charles Cunningham, Artesia, N.M., reported someone slashed his tires and cut the hay ropes while his truck was parked in the 500 block of NW 4th. Estimated damage from the vandalism was $140.

Marvin Jones, Lamesa, told police some beer and prescription sunglasses were missing from his car, parked at 703 W. 3rd, after he chased three women away. Mrs. Delia Page, 401 NW 11th, told police her purse was stolen while she was in the T. G. & Y. store in the College Park Shopping Center. A mailman later returned her purse, but she said $12.15 was missing from it.

Robert Biggs, manager of McCrory's Store told police three portable phonographs, were missing after police, notified by a passer-by that a glass door was broken, investiaged. Tom South reported money from a vending machine and pies from another machine stolen at the Ideal Laundry, Fourth and Runnels, after police, again notified by a passer-by, investigated. Entry had been gained through a broken window.

Donna Carman told police a transistor radio and sunglasses were taken from her car, and the vent glass was broken, while it was parked at her home, 703 Settles.

Jet Makes Emergency Landing

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — Nervous passengers cheered and applauded when a chartered Canadian DC8 jetliner landed at Shannon airport Sunday night with two holes in its fuselage and a blown off engine cover.

The jetliner with 260 persons aboard was on its way from London and Shannon to Toronto when the top of a starboard engine burst, tearing two holes in the plane and reducing pressure in the cabin, airline officials said.

Fearing that the reduced pressure might cause an explosion, Capt. Neil Carey, the pilot, of Vancouver, B.C., dropped down from 35,000 feet and sent out a distress call. The plane was 600 miles from land.

City Officials To Seek Federal Aid For Streets

City officials hope to add Big Spring to a list of 16 Texas cities selected to receive state and federal aid to increase the capacity and safety of streets and highways, according to Ernest Lillard, director of public works.

Lillard said a reply from the Texas Highway Department informed him studies of traffic facilities in the city would be necessary before Big Spring could receive money under the federal Traffic Operations Program to Increase Capacity and Safety (TOPICS).

Approximately $44 million will be distributed by the Texas Highway Commission to participating Texas cities under the program. The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads has assigned $22 million to Texas for TOPICS, and the state will match the funds.

The purpose of the program is to increase traffic capacity of city streets without major construction. The money can be used only on main arterial streets that are non-highway streets, Lillard said. The money can be used to improve intersections between arterial streets and highways, however.

Lillard said a conference will be held July 24 with Marvin Springer, city planner, and representatives of the Texas Highway Department to schedule traffic studies to obtain data required for application to the program.

Lillard said the studies include economics, projected housing, origin and destination of inbound and outbound traffic, land use, valuation of present facilities and projection of planned facilities.

"The general objective of all traffic studies is to improve traffic routes and not just specific streets," he said. "We want to determine routes people take and how often these routes are used."

"We won't know how much money to apply for until after the studies are complete," Lillard said. He said most of the required information will be included in Springer's report, which should be presented within the next two years. He said other information was included in the 1960 report but will have to be updated.

Cities already included in the program are San Antonio, Texarkana, Wake Village, Odessa, El Paso, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Corpus Christi, Arlington, Fort Worth, Abilene, Austin, Wichita Falls, Harlingen, Midland and Grand Prairie.

"At first the applicants were limited to cities with more than 5,000 population," Lillard said. When the population requirements were reduced to more than 25,000, Big Spring became eligible, he said.

'Legalize Gay Bars' Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Police cleared the streets in the Sheridan Square area of Greenwich Village early Sunday as crowds of young men complained of police harassment of homosexuals for the second consecutive day.

Three persons were arrested for disorderly conduct and harassment, police said.

The Stonewall Inn has been the focal point of the disturbances since a police raid early Saturday and an ensuing melee resulted in 13 arrests and injuries to four policemen.

Scrawled on the boarded-up windows of the bar were the slogans "Support Gay Power," and "Legalize Gay Bars."

Rising Star Supe

RISING STAR, Tex (AP) — Victor Childers, principal of Cisco High School the past six years, has been named superintendent of the Rising Star Schools. He succeeds Edward Watkins, who resigned to take over the post of federal program administrator for the Carrizo Springs Schools.

Flamboyant Financier Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I make money as a byproduct of success," Barty Lytton once said at the height of his flamboyant career as founder of a $500 million savings and loan organization.

"It is like applause to an actor. I need profits to sustain my confidence. I'm performing well."

The profits dropped. Creditors worried. And 14 months ago Lytton was pushed out as head of the companies that bore his name.

After he was found dead at home Sunday of an apparent heart attack, his doctor said Lytton, 56, developed a coronary condition 18 months ago, as the Lytton Financial Corp. crisis neared its peak.

"It killed him," a friend said Sunday. "When they took his name off the building, it really hurt. He couldn't stand losing."

Lytton's fortunes burgeoned with the savings and loan industry boom after World War II. Using skillfully such gimmicks as his own picture and voice in advertising, he amassed a personal estate estimated at $15 million.

Carload Of Military Bombs On Freight Train Explode

WELLS, Nev. (AP) — A carload of military bombs blew up Sunday night as a Western Pacific freight train rolled through the rail siding community of Tobar 150 miles west of Salt Lake City.

"We were just riding along, and all of a sudden there were flashes and explosions," said Morris Tipton, 48, a transient from Ponca City, Okla., riding on the train Sunday and one of four persons injured.

Highway Patrolman Jerome Richards said there was one explosion but that fire threatened for a time to set off other bombs.

Richards said Army officials at the scene told him some of the bombs were of a type that become sensitive to shock when exposed to prolonged heat.

"There was no immediate explanation for the explosion," said Richards.

"The blast scattered bombs for several hundred yards around the flat sagebrush country and started several fires. They looked like pretty good sized bombs, maybe 500 pounds."

The engineer of the first of four diesel units pulling the 71-car train uncoupled his locomotive and ran it into Wells to report the accident.

Most seriously injured was conductor Taylor M. Johnson, 53, operated on at Elko, Nev., for a skull fracture. Doctors said he had a good chance of surviving.

Tipton, another transient and a brakeman, Freeman J. Stevens, were treated for burns and released.

Two Army demolition experts from Ft. Douglas at Salt Lake City flew to the scene. The public was barred from the area for five miles around and the Federal Aviation Agency forbade planes to fly over.

Army authorities at the Pentagon said only conventional ordnance was involved in the shipment.

Western Pacific officials in San Francisco said the train picked up the explosives at Cornhusker Ammunition Plant in Grand Island, Neb., and was taking it to Port Chicago, Calif., a shipping point for Vietnam.

'GUINEABUN' MYSTERY

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP) — It hops like a rabbit, scratches its face with its hind feet and is trying to grow a tail.

It looks something like a guinea pig, has the albino eyes of a hybrid and the soft hair of an angora rabbit.

And its got Oklahoma veterinarians and zoologists scratching their heads and consulting their textbooks.

Some people call it a guineabun. Its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Henderson of Ponca City, say the mother was a guinea pig.

The father really isn't known, although the Hendersons say the only inhabitant of the mother's cage for several months was a large, white Easter bunny.

DEAR ABBY: After 17 years of marriage, our daughter and her husband were divorced. This was all our daughter's doings. Her husband didn't want the divorce, but she insisted she didn't "love" him any more although he was a good provider and wasn't cruel to her or anything like that.

We have always had a great deal of affection for this son-in-law, so when his birthday came along we bought him a gift. Christmas, too.

Recently he remarried and now we wonder whether we should continue remembering him on gift-giving occasions as before. We know his wife. She's very nice. They've even entertained us in their home.

My husband says he is still our grandchildren's father and we shouldn't let the fact that he married again make a difference. What do you say? I am frankly . . . UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: I'm with your husband. It's a strange "affection" that can be turned off and on with a marriage. If he's a good man and you sincerely like him, continue the friendship, gifts and all.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Here I am with a problem, just like everybody else. My husband is on a running kick. Right after supper he drives clear across Houston to run with his brother.

I am so bored every night without him, I finally go to bed. Then he comes in at 10 p.m. and gets mad because I'm not waiting up for him.

Don't tell me to run with him. I put in a good day's work and at the end of the day I don't feel like running. Your suggestions will be greatly appreciated.

ALONE IN HOUSTON

DEAR ALONE: You ought to be grateful that your husband isn't out "running" with some doll. Be a good sport, and wait up for him. Unless your man is the exception, his enthusiasm is bound to run out soon. If in three months from now he's still running, write to me again.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For the past six years I have lived in Virginia, but New York City is really my home town. I am going to be married soon, and all my relatives and my fiance's relatives live near New York, so we have decided to be married in a lovely little chapel there.

The chapel is not very well known, and will be difficult to find, so my father and my fiance want me to insert MAPS and directions in the wedding invitations! Abby, this is going to be a very lovely formal church wedding, and I want to do everything just right, so even if the map drawings are neat and good looking, is it considered proper etiquette to enclose them with engraved wedding invitations?

A YANKEE IN DIXIE

DEAR YANKEE: I am no authority on etiquette, but for my money, common sense outranks etiquette any day of the week. So if I were you I'd provide my guests with maps and directions, if you want to get them to the church on time.

* * *

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bridge Test

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A9 ♡A7432 ◇J865 ♣106
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This hand is worth one further try for game. Partner in all probability has a six-card suit since he failed to show another suit over your no trump response, so your acenine will be adequate support.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK3 ♡QJ104 ◇632 ♣A104
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Dble.	Rdble.	Pass
Pass	1 ◇	Pass	Pass
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. True, you have no diamond stopper, but your hand is otherwise of the no trump type and partner, for his redouble, seems marked with some strength in diamonds. A pass, of course, is not to be considered as partner's bid of a new suit is forcing for one round, particularly in light of his previous redouble.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable. Your partner opens with one diamond and as South you hold:
♠A ♡J ◇Q10986 2 ♣Q10643
What is your response?

A.—Five diamonds. This is not a hand designed for scientific bidding. The opponents could easily have a game in one of the majors which they may have no trouble in reaching if you keep the bidding at a low level. Furthermore, a thoro exchange of information with partner will still leave you in doubt as to the best contract, so you might just as well take a stab at five diamonds.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ85 ♡AQ873 ◇AJ72
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	2 ♣	Pass	2 ◇

What do you bid now?

A.—While it appears that the opponents have most of the missing high cards, partner may still be found with enough distributional values to produce a game. The best way to find out is a double, requesting partner to take some action and giving him a reasonable choice between hearts and spades.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠10 ♡K9863 ◇AQ7 ♣Q632
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. Your hand should produce several tricks for partner with the fine diamond fit and your ability to ruff out his spade losers. There could even be a slam which your jump may encourage partner to bid.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, East opens with one heart and as South you hold:
♠83 ♡A5 ◇AKQ1064 ♣A102
What do you bid?

A.—Two no trump. This is somewhat irregular from the standpoint of high card values. But you have eight potential winners and in spite of the lack of a spade stopper you should be willing to contract for game if partner has the smattering of stuff he needs to offer you a raise.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK10854 ◇K9854 ♣J9
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	3 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—With this highly unbalanced hand we would force partner into a preference by bidding four diamonds. This will describe a holding of six spades and five diamonds.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, East opens with three diamonds and as South you hold:
♠A ♡A2 ◇KQ1086 ♣Q9843
What do you bid?

A.—It would be pleasant to double for penalties but, unfortunately, partner would not construe your double as business. It is a moral certainty that he would bid some number of hearts or spades. This you are not prepared for and the discreet choice is to pass and take a sure profit.

Cuban Refugee Crime Survey

MIAMI (AP) — Refugees, pouring into the United States from Cuba, commit much less crime than their American hosts, a Miami police report indicates.

Only one of every 30 persons arrested in Miami last year was a Cuban, police reported. Yet a survey shows that about one of every four Miami residents is a Cuban.

This year, in line with the nationwide crime upsurge, there has been a 50 per cent increase in arrests in Little Havana, Miami's sprawling Cuban quarter. But the rate is still only one Cuban arrest out of every 22 made in Miami.

Violence Takes Thirty In Texas Over Weekend

By The Associated Press

Violence took 30 lives in Texas over the weekend in a prelude to the usually bloody July 4 holiday still to come.

Early today, motor vehicle accidents had killed 15, drownings took 6 lives, shootings 7 and miscellaneous violence 2.

The Associated Press count began at 6 p.m. Friday and continued through midnight Sunday.

A Ft. Hood soldier, Spec. 4 David Anthony Jr., 21, died Sunday night in a one-car crash on Interstate 35 near Georgetown.

Deborah Diane Henry, 16, of Ira was killed and two other persons injured early Sunday when their car failed to make a curve and overturned. The accident occurred on FM 2085 about six miles west of Ira in the Snyder vicinity.

James E. Horn was shot to death Sunday at his home in Nacogdoches. Police said Horn's death climaxed an argument over a dog. Officers questioned a 28-year-old man in the case.

Elbert White, 24, of Nacogdoches was killed Sunday after his car collided with a second vehicle's rear, went out of control and hit some trees and then rolled over twice. A passenger in the pickup escaped with slight injuries, police said. The mishap occurred on Texas 149 a mile north of Tatum in East Texas.

Sonia Pace, 14, of Beaumont was killed and six other persons were injured in the collision of a small, foreign-built bus and a second vehicle near Crystal Beach in Galveston County. Witnesses to the Sunday collision said the bus overturned after the accident.

David Harold Fish, 14, of Crowell was killed late Sunday when his motorcycle and an automobile collided on Texas 283 about a mile north of Crowell. Police said young Fish died at the accident scene.

L.Z. Cartwright, 39, was killed and William R. Donald, 26, was injured when their car collided with a vehicle driven by a sheriff's deputy west of Aransas Pass. Both men were from Pensacola, Fla.

E.J. Doffer, who recently moved from El Paso to Dallas, drowned in Cedar Creek Lake near Corsicana Saturday night. Friends said the Dallas Times Herald employe was running a trot line when the mishap occurred.

Authorities were searching Saturday night for the bodies of two men who drowned in Sam Rayburn Reservoir. They are J.R. Foulds, 25, of Deer Park and Glen Lanier, 24, of Pasadena.

Mrs. Louisa Olguin, 50, and her grandson, Alsamo Olivas, 2, both of Abernathy were killed Saturday in a car-train collision near Lubbock. Two others in the car were uninjured.

John David Smith, 14, of Marshall drowned Saturday while swimming in Lake O' The Pines in Northeast Texas.

Giles Tepkins, 40, of Dallas was found shot to death on a Dallas street Saturday night.

Sebastian Samarippa, 20, died of stab wounds he received Saturday on an East Austin street.

Hot Weather Rules Texas

By The Associated Press

After scattered thundershowers skipped across the Texas Panhandle Sunday night, the state was back to predominantly fair weather early today.

The storms Sunday left about a quarter-inch of rain at Dalhart.

At dawn, low cloudiness was evident around San Antonio and Austin, with patchy clouds reported along the Coastal Plains and the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Some thundershowers continued east and south of Brownsville over the Gulf of Mexico.

Again, early morning temperatures hovered in the 70s and 80s across the state.

Fair and hot weather was predicted for the state, with the only relief seen for the northern Panhandle and the area around El Paso and the Lower Coastal Plains, where thundershowers were forecast.

Rescue Three Men Trapped In Cave

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, Mont. (AP) — Three young men who spent the night trapped in a cave in Glacier National Park were rescued Sunday unharmed, Glacier authorities said.

The three, Richard Millsap, 23, Ft. Worth, Tex., Gary Shaye, 22, Albany, N.Y. and Robert Graham, Lake MacDonald, had gone into the natural cavern about 5 p.m. Saturday.

Heavy rains in the area filled the cave entrance with water and mud later on in the evening, trapping the three.

New 'Will Win' Drive Launched

SAIGON (AP)—Seven battalions of fresh South Vietnamese troops launched a new drive around Ben Het during the weekend, government headquarters announced today. It followed a 20-day sweep in which government soldiers claimed killing 254 North Vietnamese.

The first operation was launched June 8 and ended Saturday. Spokesmen said it was entered six miles south of the Special Forces camp in the Central Highlands and they reported 21 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 107 wounded.

Government headquarters said bout 25 per cent of the enemy dead were killed by massive American air and artillery strikes.

Spokesmen said the battalions participating in the new drive—named "Will Win"—were flown in by helicopter from other bases in the Central Highlands to replace battle-weary troops. So far they have reported no significant contact with the enemy, but North Vietnamese gunners hit one of their night camps with 50 rockets and mortar shells Sunday night.

Field reports said one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and one was wounded. They indicated the North Vietnamese troops got within 100 yards of the camp but launched no ground assault and were driven off by U.S. planes and artillery.

Meanwhile, North Vietnamese gunners eased pressure on Ben Het itself, giving the surrounded camp its calmest weekend since May 1.

South Vietnamese forces claim to have killed more than 1,800 North Vietnamese soldiers with the help of American bombers and artillery around Ben Set since May 1. Government casualties in that period were reported as 350 men dead and 1,600 wounded.

The U.S. Command views the Ben Het-Dak To campaign as a test of the South Vietnamese army against the North Vietnamese. No regular American infantry forces are involved in the campaign, but the Americans have offered artillery, engineer and air support.

U.S. artillerymen and a dozen Special Forces advisers are based inside Ben Het along with 700 South Vietnamese civilian irregulars. American advisers also are working with South Vietnamese troops sweeping between Ben Het and Dak To, 10 miles to the east.

The U.S. Command will not disclose American casualty figures, but by unofficial count about 60 Americans have been killed and another 250 wounded in the campaign.

"What do you want with me, Jesus, son of the Most High God?" (Mark 5:7, NEB)

PRAYER: O most merciful Lord, who hast come to bring wholeness to our brokenness, help us to live truly as men created in the image of God, the Father. In Thy name we ask. Amen.

The State Budget Mess

Gov. Preston Smith's veto of the one-year appropriation measure and the calling of a special session of the Legislature for a two-year budget is going to create real problems.

Gov. Smith could have had his biennial budget passed in the recent regular session if he had exercised leadership then to promote an acceptable tax-increase program, and even if he had clearly stated well before adjournment that he would veto a one-year budget. He did neither.

In now demanding that the Legislature in a 30-day special session approve a two-year appropriation bill and $150 million a year or more in new taxes, the governor must assume the responsibility of presenting a tax program that can be agreed upon in that short time. If he does not, the Legislature would be justified in repassing the one-year budget and letting the governor call another special session next January (as he hinted may be necessary) to approve the budget for the second year of the coming biennium.

It may well prove impossible for the Legislature to formulate and agree on the big tax bill in one month. Members will face many, many pressures, and they should have more financial direction than was offered at the regular session.

The Texas Constitution presumes a biennial budget, but does not prohibit the one-year system. Annual budgets were used in the last two years of the Connally administration, legally and satisfactorily.

The people of Texas will have an opportunity Aug. 5 to vote on a constitutional amendment permanently adopting the annual-session, annual-budget system. An incentive for adoption of such an amendment would be to prevent such a mess as we are now in from ever recurring.

Stiffer Law On Minors' Drinking

Increased parental responsibility and duties are called for under terms of a liquor reform law to go into effect Sept. 1.

Under-age drinkers, their parents and suppliers of alcoholic beverages will feel the sting of sharply increased penalties. The law permits a person under the age of 21 to consume lawfully an alcoholic beverage only in the actual physical and visual presence of his or parent, guardian or adult spouse.

Every other case of purchase, possession or consumption by a minor, even in his home or other private place could result in arrest and harsher penalties.

Young offenders would be required to appear in open court before a judge to face liquor law charges — and a parent or guardian must stand beside his son or daughter. And the steep fine — $25-$200 for the first offense and $100-$500 for subsequent offenses, is expected to have its impact both on minor and parent.

Fines are increased for those who supplies or sells alcoholic beverages to a minor. A licensed dealer who knowingly sells to a minor could lose his license or be suspended from operating his store for up to 60 days on the first offense. On a second and third offense, the penalty increases.

The law should have its impact. It does call for more enforcement duties on local authorities, and it certainly does for greater responsibility on the part of parents.

Inflation Cure Going To Be Bitter

By REP. OMAR BURLESON

WASHINGTON — The type of inflation now depreciating our money has never before been based on a psychological factor as it is at the present.

Whatever the cause of inflation, certainly we all know the effects. The experts differ on how to cure it but the medicine, in whatever form, is going to be pretty bitter.

RIGHT NOW the cost of living index is soaring at an annual pace of more than 7½ per cent. This is in the face of restraints already being taken. Wages are climbing currently at the rate of seven per cent.

Evidently the missing weapon in the arsenal to battle inflation is something to offset the assumption that the only way for prices to go is up. Until there is conclusive evidence that the government and business are serious about slowing down the surging economy, inflation will continue to feed on itself.

THE FEDERAL reserve bank has already clamped down hard on credit which forces local banks to reduce many loans and outright reject others. Increasing interest rates and the surcharge tax has not had the effect anticipated. Many experts conclude that record spending continues because of the feeling that costs will be higher if they wait; the belief that sure markets will be available for all products produced and that the modernizing of plants and equipment to manufacture goods is a defense against future production costs. The psychology of the purchasing public seems to be that they should buy now, borrow now, invest and build, and that to delay would be to pay more later.

THERE HAVE been hints of wage and price controls but only a hint. Most feel that such controls would only attack the symptoms of inflation and not get at the cure. Voluntary guidelines applied to both business and labor have not been successful in the past.

The question heard here and throughout the business community is what can be done to curb continuous price rise without bringing a slump causing widespread joblessness? The administration has indicated that some higher rate of unemployment than now exists would be acceptable but of course, a recession to any very great degree would not be favored. This makes it a tricky business in determining that point of acceptance.

The extension of the surcharge tax at the present rate of 10 per cent to Jan. 1, 1970, and an additional six months thereafter at five per cent is supposed to balance the budget with over $6 billion in surplus. A deficit situation only feeds inflation further.

SINCE THIS TAX has seemingly not had the effect expected when imposed in 1968, the repeal of the seven per cent investment credit tax for businesses is calculated to go hand-in-hand as a further brake on business expansion. The third provision is the extension of excise taxes on automobiles and telephones.

Those three actions, coupled with the high interest rates, are intended to convince the seller and the buyer of the jeopardy of our money's value, both on the home front and our dollar's position in international trade.

FURTHER BACK in our history, conditions such as we presently face were determined by supply and demand — more goods and less money, contrasted with fewer goods and more money. The government's role was the control of the supply of money.

In more recent years, the prominence of the government in the economic life of the nation has increased until now it is looked to for necessary adjustments. It has not, however, had to meet the psychological impact on inflation and it remains to be seen whether it can.

Billy Graham

I have many bad habits that I can't seem to break. This is so discouraging that I feel like giving up. Can you help me? H.P.

Some habits can be broken by a simple act of the will. Just determine that they will never be repeated, even once. Never allow an exception to occur. Provide as much as is possible, something to take the place of the habit, whatever it may be. These three things are essential: the resolve, allow no exception, and provide a substitute.

There are those habits that defy every usual method of breaking. Remember that what is impossible with man is still possible with God. Such habits are not usually broken by resolution or determination, but rather by submission and surrender. When you submit to God in an act of faith, you give him the opportunity to come into your life and into your problem. He is far greater than you, and will take your weak will and make it strong through His might and power. Recognize your weakness, and commit it to God through Christ, who will undertake for you. You are strongest when you surrender.

Those People Who Rate Restaurants

NEW YORK (AP) — A really curious customer had lunch at a well known restaurant the other day.

So curious was she, in fact, that when the chef wasn't looking she ran her finger down the kitchen tiles looking for dirt. Then she peered into his refrigerator and, behind his back, peaked into his garbage pail.

HER UNUSUAL behavior began as soon as she entered the dining room. She was very impressed at the height of the ceiling, made a note about the wallpaper, and observed the appropriateness of the art that hung on the walls.

She scribbled little notes on the attentiveness of the waiters. And although she ate her food with pleasure, she ate critically also. She examined her London broil closely to make sure it was medium rare, as ordered.

After reflecting on the quality of the wine and the dessert and the final cup of coffee, and as the check was being presented, she surprised her very solicitous waiter. "I would like to speak with the manager," she said.

THE MANAGER hurried to the table, apprehension creased in his features, and the curious lady identified herself to him as an inspector. Her card showed she worked for Mobil Travel Guides, which rates 25,000 motels, hotels and restaurants.

It was then that she was invited to see the wine cellar and the chef's refrigerator and the quality of the meats and vegetables to be found in the kitchen.

The restaurant received four stars, meaning it was "outstanding; worth a special effort to reach." It fell short of five stars—"one of the best in the country"—but only 11 are so ranked.

IT COULD have received three stars, meaning excellent; or two stars, indicating very good, or one star, meaning good—better than average. It could also have received no star at all, and then it wouldn't be included in the guide.

Racing through the country at the moment are 72 such inspectors, checking food and accommodations that will make up the ratings that go into next year's guides. In a sense they have one of the best jobs in the country, but they can't let it be too widely known.

THE CURIOUS customer of story, for example, declined to permit her name to be used because it might compromise her on her rounds. She is a widow and works up to six months a year to supplement her pension.

More typically, a field inspector travels six to eight weeks, makes about 10 inspections a day when facilities are close together and much fewer at other times, and earns about $125 a week after expenses.

ONE DRAWBACK is that the inspector has to pay for everything—out of his own pocket—and four-and five-star places can cost dearly. So also can gasoline and tips and the various incidental costs of travel.

The qualifications are suprisingly simple. Curiosity, of course. But, according to Marion Stevens, who is in charge of the inspectors, the other attributes sought are rather ordinary: intelligence, ease with people, plenty of travel experience.

Married Men Live Longer

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

To live longer, a man once married should stay married. At every age, divorced men have a higher death rate than either married or single men.

Tennis players and baseball pitchers have one thing in common—they tend to develop similar arm ailments.

AFTER centuries of staring through telescopes at the pockmarks on the face of the man on the moon, scientists argue over whether these lunar craters were caused by crashing meteors, erupting volcanoes, or by both.

Women seeking a new fashion note may turn to some of the fabrics in space suits U.S. astronauts will wear for their attempted landing on the moon in mid-July. Made of a material called Beta cloth, they consist of woven nonflammable glass fibers six times finer than silk.

BICYCLES built for two are providing a new exercise boon for the blind. Usually blind persons ride on the rear seats of the tandem bikes behind a partner with normal vision.

Quotable notables: "After my screen test, the director clapped his hands gleefully and yelled: 'She can't talk! She can't act! She's sensational!'" -Ava Gardner, explaining how she crashed Hollywood.

THE FIRST Fourth of July celebration was actually held on July 8 in Philadelphia, when the Constitution, adopted four days before, was first publicly read. Music at a special dinner was furnished by a captured Hessian band. Sniffed Charles Biddle, early member of an aristocratic Philadelphia family. "There were few respectable persons present."

Weekly chuckle: One Chinese restaurant here is doing so badly that it is considering giving out misfortune cookies.

Worth remembering: "A philanthropist," said Ambrose Bierce, "is a rich old gentleman who has taught himself to grin while his conscience is picking his pockets."

New Drug For Parkinson's Disease

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I hear there is a new L-dopa capsule for Parkinson's disease. Can you give me the name of a doctor close by who could tell me more about it?—C.B.

Dear Doctor: My father is 79 and has had Parkinsonism for 15 years. I understand we can't expect much help, but I am curious about a new drug, L-dopa, and also am enclosing a clipping about another drug recently discovered. What do you make of this "horse bean" and is it available to us? — Mrs. A.J.L.

It can be frustrating to read about, when you hear of a treatment that brings longed-for results — and you can't get it. It is frustrating to doctors, too, when their patients ask for it, and have to be disappointed.

But that is the way it is. There are from 500,000 to 1,500,000 Americans estimated to be suffering from Parkinson's, with the disabling muscular shaking that occurs.

In its earlier stages, or milder forms, sedation and muscle-relaxing drugs are very helpful, and in some cases (usually those not too far advanced) brain surgery has been helpful. And sometimes not.

Now comes information of the drug called L-dopa. Only a relative handful of patients have had it. For example, the research center at Brookhaven National Laboratory a few weeks ago reported on results with 34 patients. Other medical centers are getting enough of the drug to treat small numbers.

It is frightfully expensive, and scarce, and I have seen the figure $3,000 given as the cost — for the drug alone — for one patient for a year.

But it does bring results, although not always striking results. Brookhaven rated benefits as "modest" in five patients, "moderate" in six, "marked" in 13, and "dramatic" in 10 — an executive, a carpenter, and an attorney were able to go back to work. I have been told of a patient in a Midwest center who, not able to walk unaided, began going for walks after a few treatments.

Of course, patients want it! But right now the only way to get it depends on whether your physician knows of an experimental unit in the vicinity which is able to accept another patient.

Why the delay in making it generally available? Scarcity is one reason, but not the most important. L-dopa can have side effects, nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite, constipation, blood pressure changes. I am told that adjusting individual dosage corrects this, but it takes time to learn how to adjust dosage.

There are other questions: How long is the medication effective? What effect may long use have? And so on.

Emphysema can be controlled. Around The Rim

A Child's Rapid-Fire Questions . . .

One thing and another:

Questions fired at you with the rapidity of a machine gun by a ten year old sometimes makes you wish you had paid more attention to mental gymnastics at the time you were doing business with the brain store.

It stands to reason you'd be in a better position to field some of those inquiries, although it could be she is thinking up the next question rather than listening to your answer.

HERE ARE a few of the posers directed my way lately by the ever probing mind:

What do flies do for fun? . . . If you put an alligator in with seven tarantulas, who would win?

How do worms get in apples? . . . How long does it take the light to come on after you turn on the switch?

. . . If we lived in the country, could I have a horse and 12 white mice?

How can God keep his eye on everybody in the world at the same time? . . . Do mosquitoes get married?

I HEARD of a fellow so tough, on the day of his funeral he fired two of his pallbearers.

* * *

JUDGING BY the testimony offered by the plaintiff in a divorce suit in Chicago recently, I'd say a man had grounds to seek a legal seaparation. He alleged his wife made sleeping tough for him by:

Putting sand in his bed, locking all the bedrooms in his house, forcing him to sleep on the living room sofa, refusing to let other members of the household open doors for him, causing his bedroom phone to ring daily at 6:15 a.m., forcing their two children to make sure he was awake by pounding on a piano or on a bongo drum.

Just to make sure he didn't spend too much time in the hay, he claimed, she would march into his bedroom and blow a whistle.

I ASK you now, why should colors have an accepted meaning?

Yellow, especially when worn becomingly by a doll, can be a thing of beauty, yet it is supposed to indicate cowardice.

Blue suggests sadness, I know not why. Black represents evil or death. To me, it also represents stability. Gray is associated with bleakness. Green can mean illness. Red compels the thought of passion — and of debt. Purple can mean lurid prose.

And white? It has always been associated with purity. Brides wear it. Angels flaunt it. Yet white is supposed to represent no color at all, until you go to purchase a colored telephone, when you are told black is the only color for which there is no extra charge.

Government Control Of Thought?

WASHINGTON — Americans are dismayed at the suppression of newspapers by the South Vietnamese government, which considered the publications hostile. But here in the United States today cases are pending in the courts which could lead to complete government control not only of radio and television but also of all printed publications.

THERE WAS, for instance, a case decided in a U.S. circuit court of appeals this last week which ordered the Federal Communications Commission to hold a new hearing on the licensing of a television station in Mississippi, whose present operators have been accused of unfairness in connection with the presentation of racial questions. If a radio or TV station can be commanded to present in its programs opinions which the government may order it to include, the same thing can be made to apply some day to the printed publications in America, too.

THE ISSUE INVOLVED in the Mississippi case, which started in 1962, is still unresolved. The television station has had its license withdrawn by last week's decision but is given the right to apply for a new license. The Federal Communications Commission has been ordered to hold hearings so that all sides may be presented and other applicants be given consideration.

LICENSES ARE issued to radio or television stations by the Federal Communications Commission under a law which says they shall be granted in accordance with "public interest, convenience and necessity." This phrase was intended originally to enable the FCC to decide as between applicants solely on the basis of their capability to build an effective broadcasting system and serve a community over a wave length allocated to the station. Nowhere did Congress say that the FCC has the right to tell a station what to broadcast or what to omit.

IN RECENT YEARS Congress has enacted legislation ordering that "equal time" must be given on radio and television to all candidates for a political office, and the Supreme Court on June 9 ruled that an opportunity must be provided also to answer personal attacks.

But if a government agency like the FCC now can tell a radio or television station what it shall broadcast, the Post Office Department might be able to deny the use of second-class mails to any publication which does not print what the federal government thinks it should.

THERE IS AS yet no law requiring newspapers to give "equal space" to contending candidates, and one reason is that the court decisions of the past have denied authority of this kind to the government.

But, it will be asked, what is the remedy for a situation in which there is obvious unfairness? The people can decline to patronize any medium of communication. Radio and television stations may come to the point where they will, on their own initiative, always present the other side of controversial questions, just as newspapers do when they publish "letters to the editor."

IF THE Supreme Court, however, insists that the government must regulate the methods of presenting news, either over radio or television or by the printed word, the First Amendment to the Constitution — which says Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of the press — will have fallen by the wayside.

Vietnam And Disarmament

WASHINGTON — In early summer President Nixon has moved toward disengagement in the Vietnam War, and in late summer he will undertake to decelerate the arms race. Both tasks are intricately difficult, but Vietnam is child's-play compared with negotiated disarmament.

THE PERSUASIONS brought to bear on Hanoi are the primitive stick-and-carrot techniques. We have killed over 500,000 Communist fighters in Vietnam by the enemy's own count. We can maintain this rate of punishment by air strikes and by continuous upgrading in the armament, transportation and training of President Thieu's national forces. To these terrible tolls in human life we have added the carrot-inducements of open elections and quasi-recognition of the Viet Cong's right to vote against the Saigon government. We have made it possible for both Ho Chi Minh and Richard Nixon, in Senator Aiken's phrase, to "declare victory and withdraw."

SUCH A SOLUTION, while not glorious and hardly worth 35,000 American lives, is in keeping with the Republican campaign promises to end a Deomocratic war. But when the President turns to bargaining with the USSR for mutual arms reduction, he will find none of the elemental factors — like human life and human pride — available to his arguments. The arms race is a Cold War contest, without casualty lists and without territory from which troops can be marched away. A Soviet-American agreement to disarm would involve the internal economics and politics of both the superpowers.

SOME OF THESE complexities have been discussed in the Joint Economic Committee. It seems a more appropriate forum than the Foreign Relations Committee where the word "peace" is bandied about as if it were something that couid be proclaimed by common consent of the Russian and American people. In fact, as three professors of Sovietology have been telling the Joint Committee, peaceful aspriations are not even every helpful.

AS MUCH AS 60 per cent of Russia's resources may now be going into the war machine, and the ministries in charge of agriculture, housing and consumer goods can protest only to the extent that the top leadership permits. This protest is more than it was under Stalin, but pitifully weak. The Kremlin powers, ever since the Cuban adventure in 1962 and the Mediterranean adventure that began in 1966, are turning the Russian State from a continental force to a world force.

FOR OUR PART, the U.S.A. is already a world power. We have dozens of alliances, hundreds of bases and thousands of installations around the globe. We are in the political process of neo-isolation, as Mr. Nixon calls it, and will undoubtedly refrain from any further extension.

But we are not the pace-setter in the arms race. We do not even have the equivalent of FOBS, the Russian Space weapon, or of SS-9, the Russian nuclear block-buster. Aside from our 15 aircraft carriers, Mr. Nixon does not have any trade-off weapons. He is politically locked-in to a rearmament program if he is to insure national safety.

THE CHANCES of mutual and voluntary arms-reduction are almost nonexistent for this summer. The internal conditions of the superpowers cannot change that fast, as the Joint Economic Committee hearings are showing. Disarmament, if it ever comes, will be a matter of decades, not of months.

Youth On Move

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're in the 20-25 age group and move each year, you're not unusual. According to a recent survey by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, more than 45 per cent of the people in this age group move each year.

Make Grass Cutting Easy With A Murray Mower

Summer means it's time to cut the grass. This year, though, it doesn't have to be a tiresome, back-breaking chore — not if a stop is made at Cecil Thixton Motorcycle and Bicycle Shop first.

Thixton has in stock a long line of Murray mowers that make grass cutting simple and easy. Stop by his store at 908 W. 3rd and let him demonstrate why these mowers save you time and trouble.

For trimming sprawling lawns Thixton has four Murray riding models. All have operating controls for the blade, clutch, cutting height adjustment and transmission drive grouped in one location for easy access to the operator. The Super Deluxe Riding model also features a transmission with three forward speeds and one reverse. All models have an austempered steel hi-lift blade designed in one piece.

There are even more mowers to choose from (eight total) in the walking line. Thixton recommends the Super Deluxe Electric Start Self-Propelled model.

Its electric start eliminates time wasted in yanking and reyanking a starter cord. It uses a dry battery — which means no more water. The battery is recharged by plugging it into any house current with an easily-stored cord. After the mowing's done, the handle collapses to take up less storage space.

Thixton also has Schwinn bicycles on hand for play after the work is finished. Schwinn's special structural features on all models include heavy duty chain guards and fenders that hold an adult's weight without buckling and forged steel forks and tubular rims.

On models equipped with gears new convenient dual-position caliper levers make it possible to apply the brakes while gripping any part of the drop handlebars. This gives you instant control and an extra margin of stopping ability.

Thixton says it would take a car to tear up one of Schwinn's bikes. If any part is defective, he offers speedy replacements through a special arrangement with the post office. No charge is made for the replacement. Schwinn grants a no time limit guarantee against all defects in material and workmanship.

Thixton also stocks Harley-Davidson motorcycles. For work or play they're durable, economic, and contrary to common opinion, safe.

Thixton contends motorcycles are safer than most people think. Through May, 1969, he has noticed only three Texas weekend fatalities involving motorcycles.

Thixton himself is a cycle enthusiast; he's been riding them for the last 50 years. During that time he has never had an accident involving another vehicle.

Cycles are economic, too, Thixton says. He rides a Harley-Davidson to and from his work each day, costing only $1.50 each week.

Thixton has a wide choice of Harley-Davidson models to choose from. One, the Sprint, has an improved 350 cc engine for more power than ever. A new carburetor, a new dry clutch, and new mufflers and pipes have been added to cope with that power.

Another machine, the Rapido, set a world's first when it was ridden across the Sahara Desert. The trip covered 54,000 miles between Casablanca and Nigeria.

Residents are urged to visit Cecil Thixton's and let him explain why these machines are called the "out-performers."

Bud Workers End Walkouts

HOUSTON (AP) — Brewery workers returned to their jobs at seven Anheuser-Busch Co. plants across the nation today after Houston employes voted to end the walkout.

Teamsters Local 968 voted 180-35 Sunday to accept a new one-year contract and send its 300 members back to work for the first time since May 15. This followed ratification of the same contract Saturday by workers at the Jacksonville, Fla., plant.

There were the only two plants with expired contracts, but the Jacksonville local sent pickets to shut down Anheuser-Busch breweries in St. Louis, Newark, Los Angeles, Columbus, Ohio, and Tampa on May 27.

There were 10,000 workers affected, with 5,000 of them at the St. Louis plant.

The weekend voting followed a meeting of Teamster Union officials in Chicago Friday who endorsed a general outline for settlement of the 4-day strike.

The company agreed to a one-year contract instead of a three-year pact it wanted and to drop its demand for a staggered work week at Jacksonville.

A company-union statement on the pact is to be made as soon as possible, hopefully today.

Rocato Cuellar, business representative for the Houston local, said the new pact calls for a 30-cent hourly pay boost to $4.20 an hour and increased company contribution to the union's health and welfare fund and pension fund.

The contract also provides for 12 annual holidays instead of 11 and for a fourth week of vacation for brewery employes with more than five years service.

A company spokesman in St. Louis said full production should be resumed by mid-week.

Carter's Offers A Varied Line Of Quality Furniture

Replacing old furniture or trying to find some things for the new apartment or house can be a chore beset with indecision, tedium, and frutstration, requiring a trip here, a stop there, and a rush back to the house to try to imagine what it would all look like.

Save a lot of time and trouble by stopping by Carter's Furniture, 100-110 Runnels, first. It offers a complete and varied line of quality furniture, including Sealy, Tell City, Broyhill, La-Zy Boy, Kroehler, Holman and Virtue dinettes. If the taste is Spanish, Carter's has a large stock in the building at 100 Runnels. In colored accent pieces there are many styles and colors to choose from to match and complement present furniture.

Modern? There's a whole section filled with the latest styles in the newest color combinations.

If French Provincial is the style wanted, shift to the middle of the building and find everything wanted. A look at the furniture by Lenoir House will show the quality Carter's stocks.

Lenoir House captures the grace and charm of pointed front French Provincial design and adapts it for the spirit of youth; the details are countless — carved legs, shaped tops, base rails, carefully carved mirror frames and plastic tops that will not stain, even from polish.

There are many pieces to choose from — enough to permit complete individuality in furnishing a room. The enchanting bedroom suite is handsome in dove white with gold trim and plastic tops. The drawers have center glides and are dust-proof.

Carter's has just received new Spanish and Early American bedroom furniture. Stop by soon and be the first to have some for the bedroom.

Besides the furniture Carter's has a varied supply of lamps, pictures and accessories, bedspreads, decorator pillows, and many other things that could go into a home.

Coody Overcomes Spectre And Wins

CLEVELAND (AP) — The spectre of a dramatic, three-hole collapse was haunting Charles Coody when the big, mild guy came trudging down the last three holes in the Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

"On the 16th, I hit a poor chip about 20 feet from the hole and I had a putt that had to go over two humps," he said. "The first one was five feet short and I thought, oh, good gosh, this is the 16th. I'm on the last three.

"That's the first time I thought about it. I didn't want to think about it, but it's hard not to."

He was referring to his blow up in the last three holes at the prestigious Masters in Augusta, Ga., earlier this year.

But it was a different story Sunday.

He finished with a 271, nine strokes under par on the 6,661-yard Aurora Country Club course and was two strokes ahead of Bruce Crampton, an Australian now living in Dallas. Crampton had a 69 for 273. He won $22,000, making $67,000 for the year.

BREAKS LONG DROUTH
Charles Coody wins it

It was the sixth second-place finish since last September for Crampton, whose last triumph in this country was in 1965. Bob Murphy closed with a 65 for 275 and was alone in third.

Bert Yancey, with a 65, and Frank Beard, 66, followed at 276 while John Schlee, tied with Crampton for second place going into the final round, had a 71 for 277.

Arnold Palmer couldn't get it going and had a par 70 for 279 and a tie with five others for ninth place. Julfus Boros had a 71 for 280, Jack Nicklaus a 74 for 289 and was tied at the figure, far back in the pack, with Lee Trevino and Masters title holder George Archer.

U.S. Open champion Orville Moody had a two-stroke lead going into the final round, but bogeyed the first hole when he missed the green and failed on a six-foot par putt.

But he birdied the fourth from eight feet and the sixth from 20, turned in 34 and had a three-stroke margin over Crampton, who was out in par.

That was cut to one when Crampton birdied the 11th and Coody took a bogey on 12, again missing the green.

It stayed that way for the next three holes, and then came the final three when Coody fought off the gnawing thoughts of the Masters collapse.

BARRY CANNING, TONY MANN WIN IN ASTRO CONTEST

Barry Canning, in the 12-year bracket, and Tony Mann in the 9-year-old division, won the right Saturday to carry Big Spring colors in the Houston Astro contest.

They and their parents will be guests of the Astros at Houston July 25-26-27 when the finals in the regional contest will be held.

Barry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Canning, 2704 Apache, and Tony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woody Mann, 3619 Calvin.

The local contest, sponsored by radio station KBYG, which carries the Astro broadcasts, involved physical fitness exercises, throwing for accuracy and distance, and base running. At Houston, the boys will be matching skill with winners from over the Southwest.

Cubs Dash Cards Hopes

By The Associated Press

Tireless Billy Williams and the non-stop Chicago Cubs are swinging from their heels . . . while the startled St. Louis Cardinals hang by their thumbs.

Williams eclipsed Stan Musial's National League ironman record Sunday as the Cubs all but extinguished St. Louis' 1969 pennant hopes by sweeping a doubleheader with the defending champs 3-1 and 12-1 behind a barrage of extra base hits.

The double triumph sent the East Division leaders eight games up on second place New York and dropped the fourth place Cardinals 14 games off the pace.

Williams, flooded with gifts in a between-games ceremony before 41,060 Wrigley Field partisans, broke Musial's mark of 895 consecutive games in the nightcap. He celebrated the occasion by smacking two triples, a double and a single . . . after doubling in the eighth inning of the opener to ignite the Cubs' winning three-run rally.

"We did what we had to do," said Ron Santo, whose five RBI in the nightcap boosted his league lead to 69. "They came to town to beat us and we beat them. They're still a strong club, but I feel we're going to win it."

"They kicked the brains out of us," said Cards Manager Red Schoendienst, whose club won the series opener last Friday and then took three straight beatings. "Catch 'em? It's possible, but awful tough. Heck, we've got two other clubs to catch before we even begin to worry about Chicago."

The Mets snapped a four-game losing string with a 7-3 victory over third place Pittsburgh; Philadelphia swept a pair from Montreal 2-0 and 5-1 for a six-game winning skein; Los Angeles defeated San Diego 3-1; Atlanta topped Houston 4-3 and Cincinnati nipped San Francisco 7-6 in 10 innings in other NL games.

After Williams' eighth inning double off Bob Gibson, Ernie Banks singled home the first run of the Chicago opener and Willie Smith belted a two-run homer. Smith's blast enabled Ferguson Jenkins, 10-5, to survive Vada Pinson's ninth inning solo homer.

Banks' 13th homer capped a four-run first inning salvo against Jim Grant and Santo clubbed his 15th homer in the fifth after a walk and Williams' triple.

Randy Hundley also homered for the Cubs and winner Dick Selma, 8-3, checked St. Louis on four hits, including Mike Shannon's fourth inning homer.

Smith matched Williams' five hits in the doubleheader as the Cubs made it seven victories in their last eight games.

The runner-up Braves struck for three ninth inning runs—the last one on Felipe Alou's single—to overtake Houston and keep pace with the Dodgers. Joe Morgan's two-out throwing error kept the rally alive and allowed the tying run to score.

San Francisco's Willie McCovey crashed a two-run homer, becoming the first National Leaguer ever to hit 26 before the end of June, but the Reds tied the Giants with a three-run burst in the ninth and beat them on Chico Ruiz' bases-loaded single in the 10th.

Tigers Sheared Like Sheep In Four Games With Orioles

By The Associated Press

The Detroit Tigers went into Baltimore like Tigers and came out like sheep, toothless and all but sheered of their American League title.

Entering the four-game series with the Orioles, last Friday Detroit Manager Mayo Smith called at least three victories for the Tigers a must if they entertained any hopes of catching the runaway Orioles in the Eastern Division.

Instead, it was the Orioles who captured three of four, beating the Tigers 4-3 on Frank Robinson's run-scoring pinch-hit single in the ninth inning Sunday after Detroit had rallied for three runs in the ninth for a 3-2 triumph in the opener of the doubleheader.

Now, with July already upon them, the third place Tigers' growl sounded more like a baa as they stood 13½ games behind Baltimore.

The Orioles also increased their lead over second place Boston to 11 games after the Red Sox bowed twice to Washington Senators 5-4 and 11-4.

Oakland was not having such an easy time in the Western Division, but the A's did raise their lead over Minnesota to 1½ games with a 3-2, 6-5 sweep over the Chicago White Sox with help from the power hitting of Reggie Jackson, who hit his 29th homer.

The Twins split with Kansas City, dropping the first game 7-2 before rolling to a 12-2 rout behind Tony Oliva's five hits, including two homers.

In other games, Cleveland beat the New York Yankees 5-1 before losing 6-3 and California crushed Seattle 8-2.

The Tigers, after dropping the first two games of their series with Baltimore, had only two hits off Mike Cuellar and trailed 2-0 entering the ninth inning of the doubleheader opener before making some noise.

Two walks and Tom Tresh's run-scoring single ousted Cuellar and Al Kaline followed with a two-run, two-out single off Eddie Watt, giving Mickey Lolich, 10-1, the victory.

Bill Freehan's two-run homer gave them a 3-3 tie in the third inning of the nightcap, but then Dave Leonhard 6-0, silenced them the last 6 1-3 innings and the Orioles applied the crusher in the ninth.

Chico Salmon opened with a single and after a force out, a ground out and a walk, Robinson delivered.

Boston threw away its chances in the first game when the Senators scored three times against a major league record-tying five pitchers.

The Senators wasted little time in the nightcap as Mike Epstein, who hit his 16th homer in the first game, capped a six-run second inning with a three-run smash. Frank Howard added his 24th homer and Unser hit his fourth.

Jackson's homer, which left him one short of Babe Ruth's record as the only player ever to hit 30 homers before July 1, gave Oakland a 3-3 tie in its second game. Jackson, who singled in an earlier run, also scored the decisive tally on Danny Cater's single in the eighth inning after hitting into a force out in his last at bat in June—Oakland is idle today.

'Watusi Kid' Surges From Five Strokes Back To Win

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Exuberant Donna Caponi, who surged forward through rain and heat while her rivals wilted, had a feeling she could win the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship even before she teed off.

"I shot 74-76-75 and thought I was due for a good round," the stocky, 24-year-old Californian said Sunday after she nailed down the $5,000 first prize with a 69 for a two-over par 294 and her first tournament victory.

Donna, on the brink of victory after two runnerup finishes in the last three tournaments, shot a 34 in blistering, 108-degree heat on the front nine.

She then weathered a thunderstorm and interruption in play, coming in for a 35 to notch the most prestigious victory in women's golf.

The victory increased her earnings over the past five years to more than $60,000.

"I still can't believe its me," she said over champagne after finishing play over the tight, tree-lined par 73 Scenic Hills Country Club course. "I still can't believe I actually won the Open."

The brown-haired, blue-eyed champion, nicknamed "Watusi Kid" because of her exuberance, surged in from five strokes back going into the final round.

She was challenged until the last shot by Peggy Wilson, who had wanted to win the Open since she dreamed 11 years ago of the thrill of playing before a huge gallery.

The plucky 30-year-old former physical education teacher matched Donna's birdie on the final green but it wasn't enough. She finished with a 73 for 295, a broken dream and a $2,500 second prize.

Kathy Whitworth, the leading money winner on the tour, charged into contention from 11 strokes off the pace with a 69 Saturday, but fell to 73 in the final round for 296 and a $1,500 third prize.

Shapely veteran Jo Ann Prentice, who never found her game after leading the second round, shot a 75 for 298 and tied for fourth with third-round leader Ruth Jessen, who shot 78 and veteran Sybil Griffin, who had 72. Each won $1,330.

Miss Donna Caponi, Burbank, Calif., throws up her arms as she dropped a birdie putt on the 18th and won the Women's U.S. Open golf tournament at Pensacola, Fla., Sunday. Donna turned in a sizzling 69 the last round, including an eagle on 15 that really won the match. She beat Peggy Wilson by a stroke.

Mendoza Whiffs 16 As Cardinals Beat Odessa

Junior Mendoza was in fine form Sunday as the Big Spring Cardinals crushed the Odessa Dorados 9-1. He struck out 16, including striking out the side in the first and third innings, scattered seven hits effectively. He issued only three walks.

Meanwhile, his mates were combing Nick, the Odessa hurler, for 11 hits. They scored two in the first on a single, a walk and error, and that was enough to win the ball game.

Pat Martinez was hot at the plate with three hits in five trips; he also scored three runs. Joe Cadenhead was blanked in his first three trips to the plate, then he got two successive hits. Vasquez was the only Dorado to get two hits.

Friday, July 4, the Cardinals tangle with their arch local rivals, the Big Spring Tigers, in a doubleheader at Steer park. This classic is slated to begin at 1 p.m.

Bad Inning Costs Tigers

The Big Spring Tigers had it all iced away against the San Angelo Lions at San Angelo Sunday until the eighth inning. Then something terrible happened, and when it was all over the Tigers were on the losing end of a 5-3 score.

The Tigers had turned a Weatherall's double and pass to Flemons into a pair of runs in the sixth as Tony Fierro continued to mow down the Lions methodically, not allowing a run.

But then came San Angelo's eighth. DelaCruz opened with a single, Grimaldo followed, and Green doubled them in. Alcala hit safely as did Lombreno, and an error let in the fifth run.

Olague and Mendoza hit in the top of the ninth for the Tigers, but they died on base. Mendoza had four for five for a blistering day at the plate. Weatherall had a pair. The box score:

Butter Boy Batters Cokes In 11 Rounds At Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Curtis Cokes of Dallas, battered and bloody after a game but vain attempt to "spread that butter on my bread," says he will rest for a month before making a decision on his boxing future.

The 32-year-old Texan was thoroughly outclassed Sunday night by World Welterweight Champion Jose Angel Napoles and failed to answer the bell for the 11th round in a scheduled 15-round title bout for the title.

The Cuban-born Napoles had won the crown from Cokes last April in Los Angeles when Cokes failed to answer the bell for round 13.

"I'll rest and think for a month before deciding what to do," Cokes said after the right.

His right eye was swollen shut and cut, and his left was cut and badly swollen. He had been bleeding from the nose and mouth when manager Doug Lord let referee Ramon Berumen count the challenger out on his stool after the bell for round 11.

Napoles, whose nickname "Mantequilla" means butter in Spanish, was a betting favorite and a crowd favorite in the open-air Plaza Mexico bull ring on a drizzly and cool night.

Napoles weighed 145 to 146½ for Cokes.

Swimmers Show Well

Vacations and other events trimmed Big Spring YMCA entries in the Odessa swimming meet to three youngsters, but they gave a good account of themselves. Bryan Jenkins won four places in the eight-year-old division, and Paul Nabors had the same number in the 9-10 division. Sammy Burns placed for the girls in the 11-12 class.

Bryan won first in the backstroke with 45; third in the fly with 44.0; and a pair of fourths in the free style with 41.3 and the breast stroke with 58.4. All were for 50 yards. With a little luck, he might have challenged for first in the free style.

Paul took second in the free style with 31.2, third in the backstroke with 39.7 and fourth in the breast at 47.7 over a 50-yard course. In the 200 individual medley, he was fifth with 3:30.0.

Sammy came in fourth in the fly stroke at 100 yards, clocking a 1:33.2. No more immediate meets are on tap, said Coach Ernie Hobbs.

Trampoline Class Slated At YMCA

A trampoline class for women will be offered at the YMCA, Eddie Trice, physical program secretary, said today. The class will be limited in number and will run from Aug. 4-22. The fee is $5 for members and $9 for non-members of the Y. Shirlene Richters will be the instructor, and the class will meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 10 to 11 a.m.

Ryun Drops Back, Then Out As Liquori Wins Mile Run

MIAMI (AP)—World champion miler Jim Ryun dropped back into last place and then dropped out of the mile race at the National AAU track and field meet Sunday.

The heralded rematch between Ryun and Marty Liquori, who topped him last week with an NCAA record of 3:57.7, quickly turned into no match at all as Liquori won the race in 3:59.5.

Olympic record holder Lee Evans outdistanced the rest of the field to take the 440-yard dash with another AAU record of 45.6 seconds.

John Carlos sliced two-tenths of a second off the 220-yard dash AAU record with a 20.2 second run.

Other AAU records toppled during the meet at Miami-Dade Junior College North Stadium were the discus, the javelin and the two-mile walk events.

Ron Laird sheared his own AAU record in the two-mile walk. Laird, of the New York Athletic Club, hit the tape with a time of 13:31.6.

A Pacific Coast Club athlete, John Cole, set a discus meet record of 208 feet, 10 inches. Cole, named outstanding athlete by the meet sportswriters, beat out world record holder Jay Silvester of Provo, Utah.

Silvester's toss fell one-half inch short of Cole's meet record. The old record was set in 1967 by Gary Carlson with a throw of 205-10.

The AAU javelin record fell to a 230-pound Arizona State sophomore. Mark Murro's toss was a 284-foot, 3-inch record that bettered the old meet mark of 271-9 set by Al Centello of the U.S. Marines in 1960.

The crowd reacted with disappointment when Ryun left the mile race.

Ryun said, "I just quit." He said he left the stadium immediately after he quit the track because "I was emotionally upset."

But he said he returned to the stadium later because "I wanted to straighten this whole thing out."

He said he didn't have any immediate plans, and said he planned to do a lot of serious thinking about his running future.

He Gets Birdie On Tennis Court

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill. (AP) — Don Sieffert got a birdie Sunday—surprising since he was playing tennis, not golf.

The tennis pro was playing an exhibition match with three amateurs at Highland Park Country Club when a sparrow swooped into the path of a hard-hit serve. Sieffert's ball knocked the bird to the ground.

Publicity and public attention at any price is the farthest thing from their minds. They are not looking for something to complain about. They can see things about them which need improvement and they are willing to tackle the task. But they see some good things too.

They don't believe in criticism and protest without offering constructive alternatives. They believe that soap and water and a neat appearance go hand in hand with health and happiness. They know their strength is in their numbers because they comprise the overwhelming majority of the young people in the world today.

Why are they so inconspicuous? Because they are busy doing things which need to be done. More of them perform works of charity than we ever hear about. Air Navigation Plan Unfurled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has proposed a new technique of handling air traffic to relieve congested air lanes, improve safety and reduce flying times by allowing more direct flights between airports.

The new program, called area navigation and made possible by better computerized navigation equipment, would gradually replace a system that restricts airplanes to narrow routes between navigation stations, in effect making them fly dogleg paths from one radio beacon to the next.

It would allow them to fly through vast areas now unuseable because they are not directly between radio beacons.

In a notice of proposed rule-making last week, the FAA set out its plan to establish new area navigation routes, or multiple flight paths. Instead of flying from beacon to beacon, airplanes would, in effect, be able to generate their own phantom beacons in a straighter line.

William M. Flener, chief of the FAA's air traffic service, said the agency has a broad development program aimed at putting area navigation equipment into use as rapidly as possible.

"Area navigation gives us a chance to relieve some of the current air congestion on heavily traveled routes and provide better service to the air traveler," he said.

In the early years of aviation pilots followed light beacons, effective only when visibility was good. They gave way to the low frequency radio, which gave courses in four directions from each station.

In the early 1950s a more reliable method of radio navigation came along—the very high frequency stations that provided range of 360 degrees instead of pilots with courses over a full range of 360 degrees instead of the old four-beam technique. Later distance measuring equipment was added to provide greater flexibility and position fixing accuracy.

It is a great improvement, the current system's major limitation is that airplanes must navigate courses either directly toward or away from a VOR station. This funneling of traffic leads to congestion that has become extreme at peak hours on some airways.

Sporadic Disturbances Scar Pop Music Festival

DENVER (AP) — The city's first pop music festival has ended after two consecutive nights of skirmishing between police and throngs of young people who wanted to get in free.

Three policemen were injured Sunday and dozens of persons were treated for minor cuts and bruises. One youth suffered a broken jaw. Police said 31 youths were arrested, most on charges of disturbing the peace and inciting to riot. All remained in custody early today.

On both Saturday and Sunday nights, management of the festival relented after about two hours of sporadic disturbances and let hundreds of youths in free. Sunday, a cheer went up from the estimated 20,000 people who had paid the $6 admission price when the gates were opened to non payers.

For two hours earlier, about 500 youths had milled around outside the stadium, periodically trying to race past helmeted police to get in for nothing. Each time, police lobbed tear gas in the direction of the crowd and dispersed them.

One of the injured policemen was struck in the leg when a tear gas launcher fired accidentally. Another cannister was tossed by a youth into the back seat of a police car and caused a small fire.

Police said some youths hurled bottles and, in a few cases, bags filled with human excrement.

Ed Meador Gets Whizzer Award

CHICAGO (AP) — Ed Meador, defensive back for the Los Angeles Rams, Sunday night won the Justice Byron R. "Whizzer" White Award at the third annual awards dinner of the National Football League Players Association.

The award is presented to the NFL player judged to have made the greatest contribution to his team, to the league, and to his community.

The selection of Meador from among five finalists was the highlight of the dinner attended by more than 2,000, including pro football commission Pete Rozelle.

Bombings In Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Two explosive bombs and two firebombs were set off in separate areas of the city Sunday, one wrecking the first floor of the University of Washington's administration building.

Police said two of the bombings appeared to be linked.

No one was injured.

The last of the incidents occurred shortly before midnight, when a paint store front was wrecked by a bomb made from explosives placed in a sawed-off segment of an automobile exhaust pipe.

John Cyra, owner of the firm said the bomb was placed inside a plywood cover he had put over the window after a firebomb had broken it three weeks ago.

Two cars were damaged early Sunday by firebombs in the Green Lake area of North Seattle. The cars had been left, unlocked, outside the owners' homes—about two blocks apart. Police said they assume the same person or persons placed the two car bombs.

KNOTT — Knott Saddle Club and Knott residents generally will be hosts at noon Tuesday to the 40 or more trail riders out of Odessa who are riding from Lake J. B. Thomas to Odessa.

The members of the Headin' West Trail Riders left the lake early today en route to Luther where they plan to spend tonight. They will be in Knott at noon Tuesday.

The 90-member Knott club has assembled gallons of beans, yards of weiners and a mountain of bread to feast the visiting riders. The dinner will be served in the old Knott school.

Quinten Earhart is president of the Knott club and is being assisted by Cecial Allred and Lloyd Robinson, directors, and all members of the group. A number of the Knott riders plan to join the trail riders here and continue with them on their journey to Odessa. The riders are due to arrive in Odessa July 4 to take part in a parade. Roy Briggs is the trail boss for the Odessans.

The caravan will spend Tuesday night at the Holcomb Ranch in Martin County and then head straight west for their destination.

Driver Hurt In Accident

Lindy D. Williams, 710 Pine, was admitted to the VA Hospital Sunday with minor injuries received when the car he was driving was involved in a collision with one driven by Robert Luna, Sonora, at Fourth and Gregg. Williams is reported in satisfactory condition.

Police also investigated five minor accidents during the weekend.

Sunday a car driven by E. D. Fierro, 507 Douglas, struck a gas line and fence belonging to Paul Thomas, 600 NW 8th. Cars driven by Ruby W. Nichols, Odessa, and Glenn Eugene Phipps, Denver, Colo., collided at Third and Gregg.

Minor accidents Saturday occurred at Twentieth and Gregg between cars driven by Gloria Jean Dodd, 2114 Warren, and Charles C. Scott Jr., Route 1. Cars driven by Howard A. Sneed, Route 2, and Reba M. Kennedy, 417 Westover, were involved in an accident at Fifteenth and Main.

A collision occurred in the College Park shopping center between cars driven by Stephen Gonzales, Floresville, and Ester C. Blewett, Big Spring.

Consumption Of Oil Outlook

LONDON (AP) — World oil consumption is expanding rapidly but the rate of increase may be smaller in the future, the Petroleum Press Service said today.

It said the principal cause of the possible decline in the rate of increase will be less rapid growth of oil sales in Europe and the United States, where stiffer competition from other fuels is a factor.

The service said oil consumption of the non-Communist world in 1968 was 11,800 million barrels, up 1,000 million barrels from 1967.

It attributed the strong expansion to favorable industrial and marketing developments, notably in the United States.

U.S. oil consumption, which rose 7 per cent in 1968, is likely to increase less than 4 per cent in 1969. U.S. oil consumption may rise only 4 per cent a year throughout the 1970s, it said.

The 10.4 per cent rise in European oil consumption in 1968 should be regarded as an above-average performance, it said. The service expects non-Communist world consumption to increase an average of around 6 per cent a year throughout the 1970s.

Arrest Clears Up Burglaries

Arrest of a 40-year-old former Lubbock man on a charge of contributing to the deliquency of a minor has cleared up two house burglaries and solved five other miscellaneous thefts, Sheriff A. N. Standard said today.

The man, identified as William Lapolian Patrick, was charged with a misdemeanor in county court and planned to enter a guilty plea, the sheriff said.

The arrest also solved the attempted theft of two head of livestock, which the sheriff's office has been investigating.

MRS. TROY LYNN WILHITE

Couple United In Marriage

Miss Regina Craker and Troy Lynn Wilhite exchanged nuptial vows Friday afternoon in the Lone Star Church of Christ. Jamie Duncan, minister of North Jefferson Church of Christ in Mount Pleasant, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Craker of Lone Star, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilhite of Mount Pleasant, formerly of Big Spring.

Miss Jimmy Carol Lilly sang "Walk Hand In Hand With Me."

The altar was adorned with an arch entwined with greenery and yellow roses. Tall arrangements of greenery and roses flanked the setting and family pews were marked with yellow satin bows.

The bride was attired in a gown of Alencon lace over taffeta designed with a fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves. Graduating lace tiers extended from the center back to the floor, and she wore a shoulder-length veil of tulle. Her headpiece was made of silk and accented with pearls and roses, and she carried a nosegay of yellow roses tied with yellow and white net.

Miss Becky Edge of Lone Star was maid of honor. She wore a street-length gown of yellow designed with a bodice overlayed in Alencon lace and long, tapered sleeves. She carried a bouquet similar to the bride's.

Carl Wilhite served as his son's best man. Ushers were Ronnie Lilly and Pee Wee Gee.

Miss Tonya Wilhite distributed rice bags.

Mrs. Wilhite is a graduate of Daingerfield High School, and the bridegroom graduated from Big Spring High School. He attended Howard County Junior College and East Texas State University.

The couple will be at home in Houston.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Guess what?

I have found a terrific way to get ball-point ink stains out of washable clothes, and it will even work on synthetic leathers.

You would never guess what does the trick. It's HAIR-SPRAY!

Just take a can and spray some on the ink spot and rub.

It blots the spot out. Then, if necessary, when on washable fabric, rinse in warm sudsy water.

Always treat the ink stain as soon as possible . . . Jean Hoban

I wouldn't have believed it, Jean, but you know, it worked! At least it did on the three brands of ball-point pens I tested. Just a squirt or two of the old hairspray and out came that spot . . . doesn't even take much rubbing . . . Heloise

P.S. And if you find a brand that won't work, try cheap old rubbing alcohol. Works for me.

Dear Heloise:

I think I've found the solution to making syrup without it getting all sugary.

Most recipes call for about the same amount of water as sugar.

But the secret of making syrup is a LONG boil. I usually add about TWICE the amount of water as I do sugar. I use mostly a light brown sugar (you may use part granulated) and about two tablespoons of corn syrup. I boil it to the right consistancy but DON'T let it get too thick.

Then I add maple flavoring. When cooked this way the syrup will keep indefinitely on the pantry shelf . . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I had two sets of china salt and pepper shakers — the kind with a cork in the bottom.

The corks, being old, were broken off and had been pushed up inside.

After trying to buy corks at several stores, I found a good substitute. I used the rubber squeeze tops from eyedrop bottles.

They are so easy to put in and never fall out.

They can also be trimmed off if too long . . . Granny

Dear Heloise:

I never knew what to do about my watch when I went to the beach. There was always danger of getting sand in it, yet I needed to have it with me.

Then one day I hit upon a great idea. I took one of those little plastic pill containers and put my watch inside.

What a handy-dandy . . . I could see it at all times, and yet there was no danger of getting the watch ruined by sand and grit . . . Miss L.A.N.

Dear Heloise:

I don't sprinkle my pillow cases but iron them dry by using spray starch.

This gives them a nice new finish. And besides, they repel the dirt better. They are certainly not stiff and are much easier to iron . . . Peggy Baker

Dear Heloise:

Do you want to turn those everyday refrigerator biscuits into a Sunday Dinner treat?

Try sprinkling on your favorite seed — poppy, sesame or caraway. Good! . . . Betty Klopotek

JOAN — WIFE OF LAST OF NEAR-LEGENDARY BROTHERS

'Private' Woman In Public Kennedy World

(EDITOR'S NOTE—She is the wife of Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, the last of the near-legendary Kennedy brothers. As a Kennedy, she is almost always in the limelight. But Joan Kennedy is a quiet, "private" woman—in a public Kennedy world.)

By ANN BLACKMAN
Of The Boston Globe

McLEAN, Va. — Joan Kennedy is a tall, radiant woman with fine, tanned features and thick, tumoling, silver-blonde hair.

Her voice is soft and well-modulated. When she relaxes into a laugh, it starts with her shoulders, then a smile creeps up her cheecks making little creases around her eyes. And then it bursts—a full, spontaneous belly laugh which can only come from a happy woman.

Joan Kennedy is the wife of Edward Moore Kennedy, Democratic U.S. Senator from Massachusetts. There are times when she sails one weekend in Nassau and skis the next two at Stowe, Vt.—but home is a handsome, rambling house in a wooded section of McLean, Va.

Despite being so pretty that even little boys stare, Joan Kennedy remains unspoiled. Energy, determination and genuine warmth lie beneath that glamorous surface.

Born Virginia Joan Bennett on Sept. 2, 1936, the daughter of a staunch Republican, New York advertising executive, she was a shy girl, with an extroverted sister. Her family was interested in the arts and Joan began playing the piano when she was 5.

She met Ted Kennedy when she was at Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart in Purchase, N.Y., majoring in classical music and English literature, and he was at the University of Virginia Law School. They were married Nov. 29, 1958, by the late Francis Cardinal Spellman.

After 11 years of marriage, they have three children: Kara Ann, 9, a winsome, happy third-grader with shiny long hair, Teddy Jr., 7, who's in the second grade and says he likes science best, and a red-haired, blue-eyed Irishman, Christen Patrick Joseph, who's 1½ years old.

Mrs. Kennedy is frequently alone because the senator travels often. But in most cases she prefers to remain at home with the children.

"Joan Kennedy's qualities have strengthened since Robert Kennedy's death," a close personal friend said. "She makes a determined effort not to talk about the way things were. She has quiet resources and she's a deeply religious woman."

"I want religion to be meaningful, not mechanical for my children," Mrs. Kennedy said over breakfast recently.

"I'm all for church reform. It's important to educate the parents as well as the children so they can answer the tough questions kids ask.

"For instance," she continued, "Kara and Teddy ask me if they'll see Uncle Jack and Uncle Bob in heaven."

She drank more coffee because it was still early. The sun hadn't yet melted the night's light snowfall from the patio. The senator entered the alcove.

"Here, star," he said, referring to her filming the day before as he handed her a picture of herself in the morning newspaper. And everyone relaxed a little.

Later the same morning, she hopped into her little blue Chevy convertible—which looks like any other blue Chevy except the license reads "USS 1"—to drive herself to Beauvoir, the Episcopal school her children attend. Kara was singing in her class chotr and Mrs. Kennedy wanted to be there.

"These things are so important to the kinds," she said as some 30 boys and girls tramped by, draped in blue gowns which didn't quite cover the sneakers, rubber boots and sturdy shoes underneath. They sang about asking God to make them "crystal pure." Their mothers beamed and nudged each other in the sides, whispering, "Aren't they cute?"

"You should have been here when we were sledding down the hill in front of the house," She said afterward. The sun melted a great blob of snow from a branch and Mrs. Kennedy blinked, thick lashes shadowing her gray-green eyes.

But the same eyes cloud when she speaks of politics. "I guess I do have a political role, don't I," she said uncertainly. She was in the car again, driving, talking, trying to articulate ideas she's throught about, but perhaps has not said out loud before.

"It's changed. Everything keeps churning, I mean changing. Last year I would have given you something that would look nice in print."

Reaching the crest of the hill where a sweep of house came into view, Mrs. Kennedy said, "I haven't really worked things out in my own mind yet." Yes, she says she does share her husband's dreams. But then she hesitated when she was asked about the possibility of him running for president. Her jaw tightened slightly and her smile faded.

"I can't say I'd urge him to run," she said. There was a long pause. "Anyway, it's his decision, not mine." She laughed, but this time her eyes didn't dance.

"Joan's always there when there's a big decision to make," a Kennedy associate said. "She's not a Senate wife in the normal sense, but she's always there for the working (important) issues."

With his sisters, she was with him last August in Hyannisport when he was being pressured to accept a draft for the presidential nomination.

"It was a fearful time," she said, haltingly. "I was concerned about his personal responsibilities, and I was frightened."

Then she and her children sat with him in the inaugural stands last January when Richard M. Nixon was sworn into office.

Two weeks later, during the fight for Senate whip, Mrs. Kennedy sat in the office of Senator Mike Mansfield, the majority leader, waiting for the votes to be counted. When Kennedy won, there was immediate speculation he was already beginning the battle for the White House. Headlines read: "Ted Starting Drive for '72."

Joan Kennedy wondered out loud why there was so much talk about the future. "It's too early to predict anything about anyone," she said emphatically. Then she added, of course, she'd campaign for his re-election to the Senate in 1970.
