Colliers Win First Libel Suit Battle

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 30.—The first phase of the million dollar libel suit against P. F. Collier and Son Company by R. B. Creager, Republican national committee man was won today by the company.

Federal Judge Hutchinson sustained a deense motion to quash a writ of citation, assertedly served on the Texas agent of the company.

Ed O'Kelly Dies Suddenly Saturday

All Ballinger was shocked Saturday morning when the death of Ed J. O'Kelly was reported. Mr. O'Kelly passed away at 1:45 o'clock Saturday morning after an attack which lasted only a few moments. For several months decedent had been in poor health and a few weeks ago was dangerously ill for some time. Apparently he became better and for some time had been able to be about town mingling with his friends in his usual happy way.

Friday Mr. O'Kelley went in his car to Roscoe, but when he reached there he was feeling bad and phoned to Ballinger for his son Hammond to come after him. When Hammond arrived at Roscoe his father was feeling better and the two came on back to Ballinger. Arriving home Mr. O'Kelly was apparently all right and after a hearty supper he retired and slept well until about 1 a. m. when he called his wife and told her he was sick. A physician was immediately summoned and all possible was done for him but death came shortly afterwards.

Mr. O'Kelly was 60 years 4 months and 6 days old. He came to Ballinger in 1906 and engaged in the hardware business here until 1918. Since that time he followed several lines of business and was active until the time of his death except for a few brief illnesses.

Mr. O'Kelly was a man who made friends. He always had a joke and a smile for everyone, everyone knew him and liked his company. There was perhaps no man in all West Texas better known and better liked. While it had been known for some time that his ailment was very dangerous and that death would likely result at any time, yet the news of his passing shocked the citizenship.

Funeral services were announced Saturday morning to be held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 from the family residence, 309 Tenth Street. Rev. E. W. Bridges, former pastor of the Ballinger Meth-

A new organization was formed in Ballinger Tuesday and will be known as the Central West Texas Association of Mutual Insurance Corporations. This new association was organized with the following officers: S. T. Cobb, president, Coleman Mutual Aid Assn.; C. C. Rollins, vice-president, Abilene Mutual Life; R. L. Stokes, secretary-treasurer, Winters Mutual Life; by the secretaries of the San Angelo Mutual, San Angelo; Peoples' Mutual Life of Abilene; the Abilene Mutual Life, of Abilene; Winters Mutual Life, of Winters; Ballinger Mutual, Ballinger; Coleman Mutual Aid, of Coleman; and the Santa Anna Mutual Life, of Santa Anna, Texas.

The purpose of this organization is to build up in this section of the country a higher standard of Mutual Life Insurance. This Association was made a permanent organization, and will be chartered under the Laws of Texas. The meeting will be held once each month in the various towns of association members and all will be visited by every secretary in the organization. Since the Forty-first Legislature passed new rulings and laws governing mutual insurance associations it has made mutual insurance SAFE. The buyers of mutual need not have any fear. Legion to Elect Officers And Discuss Cheer Fund

The Pat Williams Post, American Legion, will meet Monday night in its last session of the fiscal year. The annual report of activities and election of officers will require most of the time of this session. Cards are being mailed to each member of the post urging him to be present at this meeting.

The Ballinger post has had a good year and the annual report will be worth the time of every member to hear. Great strides have been made towards pushing the organization out of debt. The large debit reported on the first of the year has been reduced to only $100, and with two more dates booked for the 1929 show the ex-service men hope to come out of the "red" completely. Engagements will be played by the Legion troupe in the near future at Norton and Paint Rock.

The resume will show that the post has carried on the usual amount of activities during the year. A good showing has been made with the state department on membership, and the local post has had a small part in everything attempted by the Texas department in the past twelve months. The post has been represented at all conventions and have done its share for the disabled soldier. Ballinger Legionnaires also furnished one program at the veterans' hospital in Legion, Texas.

Following the annual report and election of new officers, the Legionnaires will discuss plans for the Goodfellow Christmas Cheer Fund and taking care of the needy at the holiday season. This has been an annual custom here for a number of years and the work does not conflict with that of the charity board. The Goodfellows' movement is strictly a Christmas proposition and in addition to giving the very poor a taste of Christmas joys, the children come in for a full recognition by the Goodfellows' Santa Claus. The move has been a popular one in Ballinger for many years and last year the fund grew to such proportions that the Goodfellows were able to take over a large portion of the community Christmas as well as administer to other needy cases during the holidays.

After other business has been disposed of the members will have the opportunity to renew their membership for 1930, and by doing so at this time the organization's journal, the American Legion Magazine, will not be stopped on January 1st.

TO GIVE HOUSTON MUSEUM COLLECTION OF OLD RELICS

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 30.—From the four corners of the earth John E. T. Milsaps, former Salvation Army major and descendant of men who served illustriously in more war-like armies, has picked up a valuable collection of curios he is willing to give the city if a natural history museum is built in the Civic Center. Already he has given the public library more than 8,000 books.

I. Milsaps, the major's grandfather, died in the Alamo in defense of the new country to which he came when it was a part of Mexico. On the honor roll of the Confederacy the name of Ephraim Milsaps, father of the major, is written.

The major himself, a determined youth in his teens, sat on the second floor of an old building here and made ammunition for the South. He bears a scar on one thumb to attest his work in trimming bullets. Since that time, he has been in two wars himself, serving in the Salvation Army. At the battle of Manila he got valuable trophies. Again in the World War he went out with the soldiers and returned with historical bric a brac. To these bits he has added the collections of many years spent in many countries.
