Whooping Crane Death to Bring U. S. Charges

Federal authorities plan to file charges in the case of a whooping crane shot to death by a hunter Jan. 4.

The crane's death reduced the number of known whooping cranes in the wild to 47. Thirty-eight adults and nine young birds now remain wintering in the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge here. A few others are in captivity.

The birds, one of the world's scarcest species, are protected under federal statutes on migratory birds. Phil Morgan, manager of the refuge, said that he had been in touch with other federal officials and "undoubtedly action will be taken; charges will be filed."

After the shooting was reported, the bird was taken to a private veterinarian on San Antonio. The whooper died within minutes of arriving there.

The bird, a full-sized adult, was fatally wounded Thursday morning by a hunter who reportedly was looking for snow geese. The hunters were on a private lease on the northwest side of the refuge. Morgan said they reported the shooting to the owner of the lease who notified refuge officials.

Baytown Couple "Tourist of Week"

TOURISTS OF THE WEEK—Mr. and Mrs. Sigurd M. Osterhus, Baytown, Texas and four of their five sons were the latest "Tourists of the Week" selected by the Rockport Chamber of Commerce. One of a number of free prizes was a night's lodging and breakfast at Key Allegro Motel. Mrs. Eva Shaner, manager of food services and the gift shop, holds a gift certificate.

A Baytown couple and four sons were the lucky family selected as the latest "Tourists of the Week" in the Rockport Chamber of Commerce hospitality program.

Mrs. A. Y. Wofford Appointed to Fill Husband's Post

Mrs. Ludene Wofford was sworn in Monday as County Commissioner, Precinct No. 4, succeeding her husband, Albert Y. Wofford who died Jan. 4. She will serve until the general election on Nov. 5.

With Mrs. Wofford's appointment to the Commissioner's Court by County Judge John D. Wendell, she becomes the second woman named to the Court following her husband's death.

The other is Mrs. Wanda Sparks who was appointed to the Court following the death of her husband, Commissioner Jack Sparks who died in April.

In another action Commissioners W. B. Allen, Raymond Owens, Mrs. Sparks and Mrs. Wofford voted to divide road and bridge funds equally for construction and maintenance of roads in the four precincts. They also voted to share the time equally—nine days in succession—in the use of road equipment.

Judge Wendell disagreed with their decision and said, "The county should be on a voluntary unit plan" which would be similar to the optional county road law passed in 1947.

"This would make the Commissioners Court a policy decision," he said.

Jackson President Shrimp Association

Jim B. Jackson, of Rockport, was elected president of the Texas Shrimp Association at its 18th annual meeting in Corpus Christi last Friday.

A speaker, Frank Voltaggio, board chairman of the association, said water pollution poses a serious threat to the future of commercial fishing along the Texas coast.

Voltaggio said that water pollution has not noticeably affected the Gulf Coast shrimp fisheries so far.

But he added that in the future polluted water could contaminate shrimp larva beds and seriously damage the shrimp population. "Without eggs, there aren't any shrimp," he said.

Officials indicated that oyster production areas already have been damaged by pollution.

Oscar Longnecker of Brownsville, executive secretary, said that he testified on the problem before the President's advisory council on water and air pollution.

The problem of pollution in domestic fisheries has become a major concern of the federal government, he said.

Otherwise, Longnecker said, the outlook in the shrimping industry is excellent.

The Texas Coast fishery output during 1967 was the best since 1954, Longnecker said. "Shrimp is the most valuable fishing in the United States," he added. "The dollar value went well past the $100 million mark."

Longnecker said the shrimping industry's main problem has been marketing shrimp. (continued on page 8)

Proceeding west, Turney had to drive off the road on a curve as an on-coming vehicle veered over into the path. Turney drove off the road and went through a fence but was not injured, and only minor damage occurred to his car.

Navigation District Has Busy Session

Rockport Upsets Warriors to Scramble 28-2A Race

The Rockport-Fulton Pirates pulled off a major upset here last Friday night with a 55-49 verdict over Tuloso-Midway and threw the District 28-2A race into a four-way tie for first place.

Tuloso-Midway, the undisputed leader prior to the upset, is now tied with Taft, which whopped Calallen, 86-38; Bishop, which was another upset victim, 49-48; and Gregory-Portland, the team which surprised Bishop. All are 3-1 in district play.

Rockport was winning its first district game in four tries and is now 6-10 for the season. Tuloso-midway is 14-4 for the season.

The Pirates trailed at 7-5 early in the game, but went ahead after that and never trailed again. A full-court press from the opening tipoff paid off for Rockport. "We had to keep Tuloso-Midway from getting to its spots for shots, because if they do, they'll kill you," Coach Dave Segler said.

The Pirates wearied in the last quarter under the strain of the press and the Warriors (continued on page 8)

CORRECTION—

A "Letter to the Editor" published in last week's Pilot quoted Mrs. J. A. Horvath as praising Aransas County Library, suggesting that signs be put up pointing the way to the library, and also suggesting that the library be given more publicity. Somehow, in the published letter the word "publicity" came out "privacy." We regret the error.

The winter session for the Aransas County Riding Association was postponed last Sunday because of bad weather. The session will be held Sunday, Jan. 14 at 2:00 p.m. if weather is permissible.

Vouchers will be written on interest and sinking fund for two certificates of deposit, one for six months in amount of $4,500 and one for five months in amount of $25,200. Vouchers will be written on maintenance fund for $8,000 to cover one six month CD and for $4,100 for a three month CD.

There was discussion of contribution of Aransas County Emergency Corps in recognition of their services to the area, especially during the recent hurricane. Commissioner Little moved that a donation of $100 be made from the rent account. Commissioner Fox seconded the motion and all voted aye.

Bills payable from the rent account were approved and checks signed. Vouchers were signed to cover bills payable from maintenance fund.

Messrs. Andrew, Thwing and Pruitt, representing the Citizens' Advisory Committee of Aransas Pass, appeared before the Board in regard to their proposed plans for development of a ski and recreation area adjacent to Conn Brown Harbor in Aransas County.

After some discussion it was agreed that the committee would submit to the Navigation District complete details of their proposed plans with rough estimate of costs; also, they will define ownership of property.

Duckworth appeared before the Board, requesting their approval of his assigning his lease with the District to the (continued on page 8)

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

PREVENTING HUNGER

One of the World's foremost problems always has been a lack of food, and it now appears that the situation is growing worse. During the last year, for instance, food production remained static while population increased about 70,000,000.

Since the Second World War, hunger and famine have been averted principally because the United States, Canada, and other countries distributed their great surpluses to many areas, but now these have been depleted. There no longer are stockpiles against emergencies, and the United Nations has warned that famine is almost certain over the next 24 to 28 years unless present trends are reversed.

What is the answer? For one thing, America is putting some of its unused acreage into production again. For another, the emerging countries are being educated in agriculture. Lastly, the population rate-growth must be leveled.—Grit.

LIFESAVING SHORTCUT

The difference between life and death for many soldiers in Vietnam is a team of people, helicopters and ships. Men are living who would have died in other wars. First to an injured soldier usually is the medic. He gives emergency aid and is followed by a helicopter. The injured man is hoisted to the chopper and flown immediately to a ship offshore. Within 20 minutes, a man can be getting hospital care.

The smallness of Vietnam and ready access to bodies of water sufficient to handle large ships make it possible. Dedication of the men on the team make it a reality. Every life thus saved becomes a tribute to men capable of meeting a bad situation and making the most of it.—Topeka Daily Capital.

GRIND ON, PROFESSOR

The University of Wisconsin has sounded a new note in education via a class in ice cream making—a full semester course in the food science department. Grind on and on, Professor, 'till the cup of knowledge runneth over.

In the older school, the underclassmen—usually bossed by Father—just cranked and cranked, and the exercise ended when the paddle froze. Nobody flunked, and if memory serves there were no drop-outs.

Regardless of pedagogic trimmings this time, relating to such businesslike aspects of the industry as manufacturing conditions, length of storage, Federal regulations and standards, and cost—it looks like a swing back to elementary things. Out there, they are said to have come up with 65 different flavors. The faculty thinks them up and the students make them.

It's a hopeful sign. If there have to be cranks on the campus, by all means let them be the kind attached to ice cream freezers.—Nashville Banner.

TOO YOUNG? GOTTA BE

A judge in Portland, Ore., not only is astute. He's observing. He ruled that city ordinance established "an unreasonable classification system" in barring teen-aged performers but allowing teen-aged musicians in night clubs. After seeing a go-go dancer in action, the judge agreed with the girl's attorney that the job requires a lot of energy and "only the younger ones can stand the gaff."

He might have added that only the young or those young at heart would want to.—Topeka Daily Capital.

WINTER IS CORN POPPIN' TIME

The other weekend the lad in the long line at the supermarket checkout counter had just one single, solitary item while everyone else's carts were full of food. The one item the boy had was a package of popcorn.

The crowd was making him nervous. He wanted to pay his money, take the popcorn and get going. He had some poppin' he wanted to do. He didn't say so; you could see it on his face.

These cold, wintery days are just right for poppin' corn. As far back as man can remember, back on the farm, he and the rest of the family sat around the open fire place along about this time of the year and watched the grains pop open in the wire basket mounted on a long wooden pole. Popcorn was a necessity at Christmas. It was strung on a string and used to decorate the tree and what was left over, depending upon how ambitious the family members were, the strings were stretched across windows, and there was a length of it across the mantle above the fireplace.

Times have changed. Fast is the living pace today. The wire basket popper is gone, replaced by an electric job. No one uses strung popcorn any more for decorative purposes. Everything's plastic and glass now.

But folks are still popping corn just the same. Soon as cold weather comes around someone in the family gets the urge to toss up a bowl full and that just starts it. Other members of the family join in and from then on throughout the winter poppin' popcorn is a universal affair.

The candy dish in front of the TV in the living room is gone. In its place is a big bowl of popcorn, oozing with salt and butter, and about the time the hero on the screen wins the girl, the gulping of the corn progressed so far that everyone makes a dash for the kitchen for a tall glass of water, and the commercial goes unseen.

Pop corn is as Christmassy as holly and mistletoe and it always has been so, especially for the folks raised on a farm, back when a dollar was a dollar and the cheapest way of decorating the room at Christmas time was with the stuff. Not only a holiday bill of fare, it was eaten as a snack, sitting around the fire, talking trivialities and eventually to make a dash to the cold, cold kitchen to get drinking water from the bucket with the dipper in it.

RELIGION NOT ON WANE

Christianity is not on the downgrade, the Beatles notwithstanding.

Big business has come to the defense of religion. A Christmas greeting card company says just take a look at the kind of greetings people are buying. That's proof enough that religion is just as strong as ever. Every year more religious types of cards are bought, says Irving I. Stone, president of the American Greeting Card Co.

Kids, he said, may buy the Santa Claus kind of cards but adults are leaning even more toward the holy varieties. And furthermore, he says, the trend is extending into Easter and Thanksgiving.

Even in Russia, he said, religion is gaining despite the attempts of the government to regulate churches. A book of Bible stories recently put on sale there created a rush.

The Beatles have tried to cover up for the statement by Charles Lennon that Christianity is on the wane. It was an unfortunate remark and not apt to be repeated because of the stir it caused. You'll notice, too, those who started the talk that "God is dead" have about closed their traps.

For first real traffic jam of winter will come when a lassy in a miniskirt tries to cross an ice-covered street downtown.

The Republic of South Africa is at the southern tip of the continent.

Rockport demonstrated again last week that it is a city with a "heart."

This time the occasion was what at first appeared to be the mysterious disappearance of a well known gentleman who lives at Key Allegro Island Estates.

One evening the man took his wife to the International Airport at Corpus Christi for a flight to Dallas. Later that evening he was seen in a Rockport drug store.

The next morning two men from a roofing firm and one man from a nursery arrived at the man's home about 9 a. m. to discuss a roofing project and some yard work.

The gentleman's car was in the garage, lights were on in his home and subsequent investigation disclosed that the electric percolator was on.

After waiting for quite a while they contacted Carl Krueger who became concerned. As time went on Constable Buddy McLeister and Sheriff Joe Earl Hunt were contacted.

Hours passed, and still no sign of the gentleman. The word began to spread not only around Key Allegro but throughout Rockport. "Do you suppose he might have fallen into a canal?" was a question repeatedly asked.

Then came some good news. Krueger learned that the missing man and a friend, who also was away from his home, had made tentative plans to go hunting for shells and unusual rocks that morning.

Even as late as 9:30 that night, the two men still had not returned home.

Early the next morning, a representative of the Rockport Pilot called the home of the first missing man. A gentleman cherrily answered. The caller asked, "Am I speaking to the man who was missing and had a lot of people worried?"

The man said indeed he was the one, explaining that he and his friend had gone all the way to Padre Island to do their shell hunting, had eaten a late dinner before returning home, and were sorry they had caused so much concern.

The gentleman and the Pilot man both agreed that Rockport area people really do care about the welfare of their neighbors. Had this been a big city, no one would have known or cared that a man supposed to be missing.

Thursday Bridge Club Meets

Mrs. James Bracht entertained the Thursday Bridge Club at her home last Thursday afternoon, with two tables of bridge.

Members playing were Mrs. Benny Bloomer, Mrs. T. J. Johnson, Mrs. Bob Mosier, Mrs. Harold Picton, Mrs. Tom Rogers, Mrs. Jerry Wendell, Mrs. Lynn Wendell and the hostess.

Mrs. Jerry Wendell won high score, Mrs. Bracht second high and Mrs. Bloomer was low.

Piercing Your Ears Can Be Dangerous

Do-it-yourself ear piercing, a practice that has recently become fashionable again, is risky, says Today's Health, the family magazine of the American Medical Association.

Piercing performed by an unskilled person increases the chances of infection and the development of scar tissue. The physician will carefully measure and mark the ears before piercing, because both ears may not be exactly alike. After piercing the ears with a sterile needle, he will insert temporary earrings or metallic wires, which are usually worn for three or four weeks until the wounds heal. This is a critical period and your physician's instructions should be followed carefully to prevent infection or closure of the opening.

The small, self-piercing ear-ring loops which are being promoted across the country are not considered safe, says Today's Health.

These devices have sharp points which are supposed to pierce the ears within a few days as they are worn. Infections requiring medical treatment have developed from the use of these self-piercers. Furthermore, it is difficult to be certain that the piercers are evenly placed on the ear lobes.

The physician will not pierce ears having any type of rash or infection or if small cysts are present in the ear lobe. Persons subject to keloids (scar overgrowth) or who have this tendency in their family, or those who are allergic to nickel or other metals should not have their ears pierced.

A recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association reported on two public school nurses who were "aghast at the number of girls with irritated, swollen and oozing ear lobes. In a class of 80 sophomores, ten had their ears pierced in the previous three months, and six of them reported inflammation and itching."

Ear piercing is not a very difficult procedure, but it can be risky in the hands of a non-physician.

Letters to the Editor

Holiday Lodge
Rockport, Texas,
Jan. 9, 1968

Dear Editor:

May we, a Saskatchewan, Canadian couple who followed the whooping cranes to your lovely scenic area and its warmth, express opinion and thought? Our reason for staying here—on our way, probably to the state line, we received among brochures one that included square dancing as well as fishing and hunting, etc., as attractions to this lovely holiday area. Your tourist guides were very helpful, a real asset to your community. We obtained suitable lodging easily—also handy to the square dance hall.

Since enjoying the fun and good dancing here and especially the friendliness extended right from our first evening here, we very much regret leaving. But Texas is a large state with much to see, so we must continue on our way.

Long will we remember square dance friends, the round dancing, the very fine local caller, and guest callers. And especially shall we remember the very good youthful dancers. You may well be proud of these young folk, they deserve every consideration. And, too, we should comment more on fine teenagers such as there are, instead of condemning all teen-agers because of the very few. Personally I have yet to see a bad teen-ager, but find that most are fine youngsters trying hard to please their adult world that expects so much.

Everyone needs good activity for mind and body, and contact with friendly, congenial folk. Else why live! We love dancing and music and have derived wonderfully good times thru square dancing.

ing and it's companion round dancing.

Your square dance club has a wonderfully complete hall with many excellent features, including its site on this beautiful and historic beach. They are to be commended for all the labor and planning involved. This building will long be a community asset and should be used as a cultural center. Too many communities lack such a site for their activities. More over parents and their sons, and/or daughters can and do meet here for square dancing. How many other recreations have their family unity?

Not only dancers extended warm and friendly service and greetings—neighbors at our lodgings, (m m delicious fish); the lovely blonde in a local drug store, and her handsome dark haired employer. In fact in all business places it was much the same to their "y" all come back soon," we would reply, and mean it too, "love to." Who wouldn't?

Tis true Texans heart, friendliness and warm hospitality is as big as everything Texas is reported to be.

—A Visitor.

Is A Silent Killer Loose In Your Home?

A silent killer may be loose in your house. The deadly criminal is carbon monoxide—CO—a colorless, odorless, tasteless gas produced every time a carbon-containing material burns.

A leaflet from the American Medical Association reports that CO combines with blood 200 times more easily than oxygen. If you breathe air containing a normal amount of oxygen and a moderate amount of carbon monoxide, your blood will be starved for oxygen. When blood cannot supply oxygen to your brain, permanent brain damage or death may result.

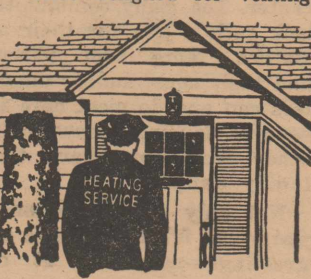

Dangerous quantities of CO usually accumulate when a cool, slow fire burns in limited air. Since you can't see, smell, or taste it, the gas is hard to detect except by your symptoms—drowsiness, headache, confusion, nausea, and muscular weakness. CO poisoning may confuse you so that you cannot reach fresh air to relieve the symptoms and prevent serious injury.

To prevent a carbon monoxide attack in your home—

- Have all heating systems checked annually for operating efficiency. Make sure that vents, pipes, flues and chimneys are tight.
- Make certain that your heating plant is not starved for air.
- Be sure that all heating devices designed for venting are properly vented to the outside.
- Provide additional fresh air for charcoal grills and hibachis used indoors.
- Never tamper with ducts or vents of a heating device to get more heat out of it.
- Be sure that heating devices have been tested by a reputable firm. Follow the manufacturer's recommendations for installation and use.
- When changing types of fuel, ask a qualified serviceman to adjust all appliances involved.
- Don't close your fireplace damper until you are certain the fire is out.
- Be sure that your garage is sealed from the house. Never run the car in a closed garage.

Fresh Fish Best Buy On Today's Food Counter

Seafoods on the market today are a far cry from the salt cod upon which the fishing industry was founded, according to Bill Schwartz, seafood marketing specialist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Schwartz says there are 240 commercial species of fish and shellfish marketed in the United States today, and more than 50 of these species abound in Texas waters.

"When you are looking for variety," says Schwartz, "fishing products give you more choice than any other food group. You can buy fish fresh, frozen, canned, dried, salted, smoked, and packaged in convenience packs."

"Fish," he goes on, "are one of the most delicious and nutritious foods. They are an excellent source of high quality proteins since an average serving supplies the daily requirements for an adult as well as the minerals and vitamins necessary for good nutrition."

According to Schwartz, marine fishes are especially rich sources of iodine (required for the proper functioning of the thyroid gland), containing 50 to 200 times as much of this essential element as any other food.

He says that since fish are among the most economical protein foods which can be served, housewives will find seafoods easy on the pocketbook.

"The preparation of fish is simple and never requires special equipment," according to Schwartz. "You can cook fish in a truly amazing variety of ways—there are baked fish, broiled fish, grilled fish, planked fish, poached fish, boiled fish, steamed fish, and the ever-popular fried fish."

New Federal Tax Deposit Forms

New Federal Tax Deposit forms are to be used by employers and businesses for tax periods beginning in 1968, R. L. Phinney, District Director of Internal Revenue, announced today.

These new forms will replace those formerly used for making deposits of withholding and social security taxes, excise taxes, railroad retirement taxes, social security taxes for agricultural employees, and income withheld from non-resident aliens, foreign corporations and tax-free covenant bonds.

A supply of the new Federal Tax Deposit forms will be mailed to employers and business firms needing them, Phinney said. Forms will be pre-printed with identifying information by class of tax and tax period.

Taxpayers will continue to make their deposits with Federal Reserve Banks or authorized depositories as in the past. However, they will no longer receive validated receipts from the Federal Bank to attach to their returns when filed with IRS. Even though they do not attach proof of their deposit, taxpayers should continue to claim credit on their return for these deposited payments. Under the new system, the Federal Reserve Banks will transmit the deposit forms to the United States Treasury where the information will be converted to magnetic tape. The magnetic tape containing the deposit data will be furnished Internal Revenue Service for crediting taxpayer's accounts.

Business depositing any of these taxes for the first time, or those needing additional forms, should request them from the Director of Internal Revenue Service Center, 3651 Interregional Highway, Austin, Texas 78740, in time to make the required deposit. Requests should include taxpayer's name, address, identifying number, class of tax and the taxable period to which the deposit is related.

Because of the different types of Federal Deposit forms, Phinney cautioned taxpayers to be sure to use the form that shows the proper class of tax and period.

LUCKY POOCH gets to snuggle close to French movie actress Mylene Demongot on set of her first American film, "The Private Navy of Sgt. O'Farrell."

You say you wonder what your phone will be like in the year 2000?

By the turn of the century, chances are you won't recognize the familiar telephone. Based on services already in use or on the drawing boards, you can expect some pretty far-out developments.

For example, Picturephone® see-while-you-talk service, already in limited use, might well be offered in full color and three dimensions. With it, you could do the family grocery shopping, look at the new cars, or buy a new hat without leaving the house.

Electronic switching equipment, now in trial use, will call you back when a busy line you have called is free, or transfer your calls to another phone while you're away from home.

Telephones will be free to go where you go. A cordless portable extension phone, complete with dial, is currently undergoing tests.

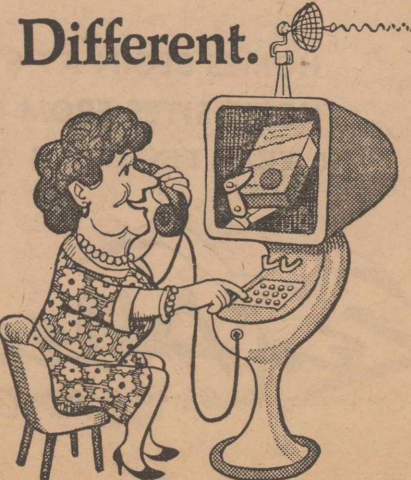

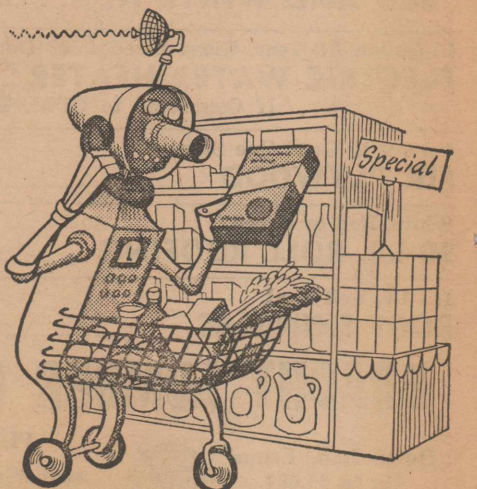

Money handling will be revolutionized. You won't need to write checks or pay cash for most purchases. A telephone call to your bank's computer will take care of the payment. The same system will automatically pay monthly bills which you authorize and keep track of your bank balance. It might even figure your income tax.

By the year 2000, your telephone will probably be doing many other jobs that now seem unthinkable. But then, television, satellites, computers—even the telephone—were "impossible" 100 years ago.

Looking ahead to keep ahead in communications is one way we try to make your every "hello" a real good buy.

Tribute To Fallen Soldier

The following was published in "Letters from Our Readers" in the Corpus Christi Caller Monday morning:

Editor, the Caller:

Because of blood ties, I went, saw and was impressed. He was young and handsome, Henry Garcia, Jr., who had come home. He had been in a land far away in the jungles of Vietnam.

As I drove in town I noticed the homes and the business district displaying the American Flag, and what a beautiful sight it was! So I made a little investigation and was told:

Sir, today we honor one of our townsmen who gave the last full measure of his devotion in order that we here may keep our freedom and way of life.

Yes, Mr. and Mrs. Rockport went all the way to express their sorrow and sympathy, and this gesture of these good warm-hearted people is like a balm that soothes a bereaved, broken and aching heart, and it should be a great consolation to the family.

There were many, many flowers, and as we left the church we came to the station where we must say farewell. The flag was at half mast. A light breeze was swaying, this way and that, saying perhaps in flag language, goodbye, Henry.

The Marines were at attention—the rapid fire of their guns—a moment of silence—and then the mournful notes of taps. And like the east that catches the sunset rays of the west, I too caught, in that moment, something that caused my emotions to shed a tear.

O Lord, how strange are Thy ways to have taken Henry in the best of his days . . .

Kerr County Deer Experiment Proves Wildlife Maxim

Deer counts on a 900-acre pasture in western Kerr County dramatically illustrate the wildlife management maxim — you cannot stockpile wildlife.

The surveys were conducted over the past seven years by the Explorer Scout Troop of Kerrville, landowner Bob Ramsey, and Game Warden Don McClure of Kerrville.

The research site is a 900-acre pasture, enclosed in a deer proof fence, in southwestern Kerr County and is part of a ranch operated by former Department Wildlife Biologist Bob Ramsey.

In 1961, the deer census of the pasture was 323 deer consisting of 69 bucks, 207 does, and 47 fawns, for a density of one deer per 2.78 acres. The population dropped to 125 deer in 1966 for a density of one deer to 7.1 acres and in 1967, the population dropped to 54 deer or one deer to every 16.7 acres.

The 1967 count made prior to the hunting season and showed 13 bucks, 40 does and one fawn. The low fawn count was attributed to poor range conditions due to the lack of rain from September 1966 through August 1967.

Records kept during the experiment show only 37 bucks, with eight points or more, were taken from the pasture during the 1961 through 1966 hunting season. No other deer were taken.

Counts for the period between 1962-1967 show that a total of 93 fawns was born to the herd which numbered 323 when the experiment began.

In basic arithmetic, the experiment started with 323 deer, subsequently 93 fawns were born which should have brought the total population to 416. However, 37 bucks were taken by hunters which would have brought the population down to 379. But counts only came up with a total of 54 deer in 1967.

Just where did the other 325 deer go? The best answer was supplied by the landowner: The deer died and the meat was wasted.

A Department spokesman says this experiment only emphasizes the reason for the Department's recommendation of a sizeable deer harvest. "Many of those 325 deer could have been taken by hunters over the six year period and placed in their deep freeze."

There would have been a number of deer lost due to age, and some could have escaped through the fence, but it would have been a small percentage of the 325 that were unaccounted for, he continued.

This was only an experiment to find out what happens when deer aren't hunted. Yet many landowners unknowingly accomplish about the same thing yearly by not fully utilizing their deer herds.

Department biologists indicate the same tragic waste goes on for other wildlife species as well.

Landowners with quail will hold off hunting in order to increase their supply.

However, data from past research indicates that approximately 20 quail out of 100 quail survive the winter, but these 20 are adequate to bounce the population back to normal, provided satisfactory conditions exist.

A similar situation exists for the landowner who has a small lake. Often, he will hold off fishing for several years after stocking to let the fish multiply. When he gets around to fishing his lake, he may be disappointed as to quantity and size of his fish.

Instead of having the large fish he desires, he will have a great many small fish simply because he failed to take a harvest.

Wildlife studies of the past have indicated that wildlife supplies cannot be stockpiled. When stockpiling is attempted, then the balance between population and habitat is upset and something has to give.

It generally means the less hardy will die due to inability to compete with the stronger for food supplies and those remaining will have smaller body size.

To successfully utilize the wildlife resources in many cases, a certain number have to be harvested or removed to make way for others.

hot water

6 reasons why you'd like an electric water heater

1 PLENTY OF HOT WATER

Two heating elements — one near the top, one near the bottom — maintain plenty of hot water all the time.

2 INSTANT HOT WATER

No flue or vent is needed, so your electric water heater can be put where you need it most. A short pipe run means instant hot water.

3 CLEAN AND ODORLESS

An electric water heater is flameless. It doesn't create soot, fumes or odor. The heating elements are completely enclosed.

4 EXTRA STORAGE SPACE

No matter where you put your electric water heater, you can store things around or on top of it. It's safe because it's flameless.

5 LOW COST OF OPERATION

With CPL's special water heating rate, the cost of operating an electric water heater is lower than ever. And installation is economical, too.

6 CPL WILL HELP YOU BUY IT

If you're putting an electric water heater in a new home, or adding your first to your present home, CPL will pay you $20.*

*Offer applies to 40-gallon or larger quick-recovery water heater.

termining body and give it power to hire a county road engineer to supervise construction and maintenance of county roads. He would have full control of the county road department equipment, materials and supplies based on the county as a whole without regard to commissioners' precincts.

"If the county could not afford a licensed engineer, it could hire a person qualified and who knows road building and maintenance. The road engineer or superintendent of roads would have the responsibility to the Commissioners Court of this duty except from a policy making standpoint.

"It is my feeling that under such a program the road and bridge equipment could be used where it was needed and money expended where it was needed instead of a division of monies and equipment as heretofore done, making it impossible to complete certain jobs undertaken by individual commissioners before equipment is passed on to the next commissioner's precinct."

In other actions the Commissioners appointed Ray Boone road superintendent for the county-at-large, voted to advertise for bids for all county supplies and equipment, and approved the budget for 1968.

The Old Way Wasn't So Bad

The Scripture reading from Ephesians 4:17-24 states:

It is difficult to talk to our "sinful old nature" when the old didn't seem so bad. It is difficult to think of a new nature when the new is so often similar to the old.

Shall we then say that we are still unregenerate? Or that, having been baptized as children of the covenant, we have always carried the new nature? Or shall we confess that we may be hiding from ourselves?

It may be that we are afraid to compare our two natures, lest we really understand our motives more clearly. It may be that we will find too many Commissioner Little moved that Mr. Duckworth's request be complied with, motion was seconded by Commissioner Fox and the vote carried. Written approval was signed by the Commissioners.

Attorney Clark reported that Carroll Weaver had signed a contract for road repair and presented contract for signature of Commissioners. There was discussion of recent telephone call from Mr. Cones with Kelly Bell concerning the advertising for bids for oil and gas leasing on Cove Harbor property owned by the District. Attorney Clark will investigate this matter further.

There was also discussion of taxes and insurance policy on the Sea Shell Shoppe, now leased to Mrs. Ruth Gwynn.

In his report, the Harbor-master stated that all repairs had been completed on docks at Fulton and Rockport. Moody Electrical Co. is awaiting receipt of additional material on order before completing electrical repairs at Fulton Harbor.

He reported that repairs had been made to three cabanas badly damaged by hurricane and they are being re-located on Rockport beach. He stated that plans were made to begin repairs on beach road in the near future. He brought up the fact that the Chevrolet dump truck owned by the District is in very poor condition and gave estimate of cost necessary repairs. The Commissioners agreed that an attempt will be made to purchase a good used truck.

decisions still being made from selfishness, at the expense of others. If so, in hiding from ourselves we hide from God.

We must see that there are forces within us which incline us to evil as well as good. Only then may we see God also governs us in order to protect our neighbors. Only then may we see that we too need forgiveness. Only then can God increasingly work His will in our new nature.

The United States is the world's largest market, absorbing all shrimp that come in, he said.

Longnecker said per capita shrimp consumption in the United States this year reached 1 1/2 pounds, doubling the intake of several years ago.

The increase can be partly attributed to shrimp industry and federal government publicity, he said.

Longnecker said that in other shrimp producing countries an average of about 30 per cent of the catch is consumed. As a result, about 50 per cent of the shrimp consumed in the United States is imported.

Due to the high rate of consumption in the United States, however, the price of domestic shrimp has remained stable, and shrimping associations have found no need to lobby for protective duties.

Longnecker indicated that the production of Texas and Mexico Gulf Coast fisheries has fluctuated by no more than a few million pounds annually, indicating the output of Texas fisheries is remaining fairly stable.

He said that there is no indication that the annual shrimp population will decline, unless pollution or some unforeseeable situation causes damage.

Right now, shrimping associations and government agencies are aiming at improving "quality control" in processing shrimp for delivery to American households, Longnecker said.

Aliens Must File Forms

The United States Immigration and Naturalization Service reminded all aliens in this area today that only 20 days remain in which non-citizens must file their annual address reports as required by law.

Mr. Joe F. Staley, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service pointed out that address report forms are available at the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service office and at all Post Offices for the convenience of non-citizens required to report their addresses to the Government each January under a provision of the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952.

Staley said the only non-citizens not required to report their addresses are persons in diplomatic status and foreign representatives of certain international organizations.

Staley stated: "It is hoped that all persons subject to this law will go to the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service office or Post Office and fill out an address report form before the Jan. 31st deadline to avoid possible serious penalties."

Mrs. W. G. Maness of Fulton returned home this week from Spohn Hospital.

The average U. S. smoker puffed on 4,290 cigarettes during 1966, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said in pointing out that 541 billion cigarettes were consumed.

A voter registration drive organized by Secretary of State John Hill in his capacity as chief election officer opened in newspapers across the state today.

Qualified persons may register by filling in the accompanying form and mailing it to the tax assessor-collector in the county of their residence.

Hill said one of his purposes in the drive is to publicize new laws affecting voting rights which otherwise might go unnoticed by the average citizen.

One of the new laws enacted in 1967 makes registration necessary, for the first time in Texas history, for persons over 60 years old who live in rural communities and towns under 10,000 population. Heretofore, persons over 60 were required to register only if they lived in a city having more than 10,000 inhabitants.

In order to vote in state-wide elections, a person must meet the following qualifications on the day of the election. He must be over 21 years old and a citizen of the United States; he must have resided in Texas one year immediately preceding the election, and he must have registered for the voting year in which the election is held. In order to vote in local elections (county school district, etc.), he must also have resided in the county for six months immediately preceding the election. Residence in the city for six months is required for voting in a city election.

A new law enacted in 1967 permits voters who move from one Texas county to another within the period of six months preceding an election to vote on state-wide offices and issues if they have lived in the state for a year. Formerly, a voter was totally disfranchised for a six month period following removal to another county unless the county from which he moved was in the same congressional, legislative or judicial district as the county to which he moved.

The Texas Election Code enumerates "idiots and lunatics, and all persons convicted of any felony except those restored to full citizenship and right of suffrage or pardoned" as classes of persons who are not qualified to vote.

Texas voters must register annually. The 1968 voting year will begin March 1 and will end Feb. 28, 1969. The registration period for the 1968 voting year began last Oct. 1 and will end Jan. 31, 1968. Any citizen of Texas who now possesses the necessary qualifications for voting or who will attain them by Feb. 28, 1969, may register during the current registration period.

Most fishes are equipped with an air bladder, a sac containing air or gas.

Except for three limited classes of voters, all persons wishing to vote at any time during the 1968 voting year must register by the Jan. 31 deadline, even though they may not yet possess full qualifications for voting. The only registration permitted after Jan. 31 is by persons who move into Texas after Oct. 1, 1967, by persons who become 21 years old after Jan. 31, 1968, and by former aliens who are naturalized after Jan. 31, 1968. The first and second classes may also register during the regular period. Registration certificates issued to persons not yet qualified to vote are marked to show the date on which they will become qualified.

Registration certificates will be mailed before the beginning of the voting year on March 1 to persons who apply by mail. Voters may also register by applying in person at the county tax assessor-collector's office or a registration station.

Only the husband, wife, father, mother, son or daughter of a voter may act as the voter's agent in applying for registration if the relative is a qualified voter in the same county.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 209 W. Ninth Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will answer your questions.

Q—Is an undergraduate college student eligible for Class I-S(C) to complete his academic year?

A—Yes, if while satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction at a college, university or similar institution of learning he is ordered to report for induction, he is eligible, except that he shall not be placed in Class I-S(C) if he has previously been classified I-S(C) or has been deferred in Class II-S after June 30, 1967, and has received a baccalaureate degree.

Q—Did the Military Selective Service Act of 1967 change the entire law that provides the legal basis for the present operation of the Selective Service System?

A—No. The legal basis was established by enactment of the Selective Service Act of 1948. The Military Selective Service Act of 1967 only amended certain portions of that basic law.

Q—If a person liable for registration with the Selective Service System, within five days after his 18th birthday, fails to register with a draft board, what should he do?

A—He should go to the nearest draft board without delay and register. At the same time he should furnish his own local board in writing with an explanation of his delay.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
In compliance with Article 1659, Vernon's Civil Statutes sealed bids will be received in the office of the County Judge, until 9:30 o'clock A.M. February 12, 1968, for materials and supplies. Quantities and specifications may be received at the office of the County Judge.

The County reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities.
JOHN D. WENDELL,
County Judge.
