One of the many unforeseen benefits resulting from Snyder's selection as a finalist in the All-America City contest is prominent mention in trade publications and company periodicals. The latest and one of the largest such developments for Snyder is now in the mill following a visit here Thursday by Larry Payton of Lone Star Gas Company's public relations staff.

Not a West Texan, Payton confessed that he was not exactly sure where Snyder was, but he found it in a hurry once the announcement was made that Snyder was an All - America City finalist.

"You know, out of 551 cities and towns served by Lone Star Gas Company, Snyder is the only one to attain this honor," said Payton as he talked with a group of local officials and community leaders at an informal meeting Thursday afternoon. "And next time I come out here, I'm going to bring my wife so that she can see this town."

Payton came to obtain material for an article on Snyder for the Lone Star Gas Company publication, "Blue Blazes." In addition, he hopes to use the material in publicity dispatches that Lone Star Gas Co. will send to various media in the next few weeks.

Of course Snyder still has hopes of going further and becoming one of the 11 All - America cities to be selected in the contest sponsored by the National Municipal League and Look Magazine. However, Payton reminded that merely to be selected as one of the 22 finalists is a signal honor within itself and that it has promoted interest over a wide area.

DEMANDS TALKS BEGIN

Hanoi Blames US

By LEWIS GULICK
Assoriated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — A top member of North Vietnam's negotiating team returned from Hanoi today with a demand that the United States start expanded peace talks immediately.

Back after an absence of more than five weeks, Le Duc Tho, reputed strongman of Hanoi's delegation here and a member of the ruling Politburo at home, read an airport statement accusing the United States of responsibility for delay in the conference.

"The United States government must immediately agree to hold the four-party conference, originally set for Nov. 6," Tho said.

The United States was forced to seek postponement of the new round of talks because South Vietnam refused to attend.

U.S. and South Vietnamese officials are still trying to work out a formula under which Saigon would send a delegation.

Adhering to North Vietnam's propaganda line on this point, Tho said President Johnson was forced to declare an unconditional bombing halt in order to get an enlarged parley including South Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front as well as Hanoi and Washington representatives.

But the broadened conference set for Nov. 6 did not get under way because "the U.S. government speaks with one voice and acts with another," Tho charged.

Tho was met at Le Bourget Airport by Xuan Thuy, nominally head of the Hanoi delegation at the peace talks, but outranked by Tho, who is listed as delegation adviser.

The gray-haired, elegantly dressed North Vietnamese leader also was welcomed by Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the NLF delegation, and the Soviet ambassador to France, Valerian Zorin.

Mrs. Binh, missing no opportunity to stress her claim to status as head of independent delegation, arrived in an official French government car bearing the NLF's starred red blue flag.

Tho reiterated the Communist view that the United States must negotiate with the NLF as a sovereign delegation regardless of whether the Saigon government agrees to participate.

The reluctance of South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu to sit at the same table with an NLF delegation—which he considers an illegal rebel movement—was the main reason for the deadlock.

Some new talk from the North Vietnamese about restoring the demilitarized zone between the two Vietnams indicated this is one item in which U.S. negotators will be interested when the expanded conference gets under way.

DeGaulle Mum About Devaluation

By RODNEY ANGOVE
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle remained mum today about devaluation of the franc. But much of the world considered it a foregone conclusion, and was only wondering how much the value of French currency would drop.

West Germany's finance minister, Franz Josef Strauss, spoke Friday as if devaluation of the franc had already been decided.

But the word "devaluation" has not been pronounced in public by any French official. It will not be a fact until De Gaulle says so.

Although devaluation would help the country out of its severe financial straits, there remained a slim chance that De Gaulle would rather fight.

He met three times Friday with Premier Maurice Couve de Murville, and one of these meetings was attended by Finance Minister Francois-Xavier Ortoli. Neither made a statement after the sessions.

Sources at the Elysee Palace said De Gaulle might make a television announcement over the weekend. He scheduled a special Cabinet meeting today.

Strauss made his statement at the end of a long meeting of the Group of 10, the central bankers or finance ministers of the world's 10 most industrialized none-Communist countries together with Switzerland and the Bank of International Settlements on efforts to shore up the French economy.

"Here we have the question of the devaluation of the French franc, "said Strauss. "The French government has to decide the extent of it. But there is unanimity that there will be no consideration of a devaluation of other currences."

Italy's Brass Confer While Cities Seethe

ROME (AP) — Italy's most powerful political leaders confer with President Giseppe Saragat for the second day today to try and solve the nation's political crisis, while the cities seethed with student unrest.

Saragat is expected to announce his choice of a new premier after the talks end Sunday. Mariano Rumor still was considered the leading prospect despite a power struggle raging within his own Christian Democratic party.

Students continued sit-in demonstrations at scores of universities and high schools from Sicily to the Alp. They threatened more unrest.

Police were alerted in Rome, Turin, Naples and other major cities in the wake of disorders which included three high school bombings in Rome early in the week and massive demonstrations marred by violent clashes in Turin.

Most of the students have gone unpunished under an amnesty approved by Parliament last month, but dozens of minor clashes with police have left many injured on both sides.

University students, pressing for greater power in running campuses and curriculums, have been joined by high school students.

Saragat meets today with a delegation from Italy's largest party, the Christian Democrats, and also scheduled talks with the Communists, Socialists and some lesser parties.

Today marked the first time an Italian president officially summoned party secretaries to confere on a government crisis.

Jet's Landing 1-In-Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 107 persons aboard a Japan Air Lines jet can thank the highest tide of the year and a cool pilot for their "one-in-a-million" survival of a crash-landing into San Francisco Bay.

They didn't even get their feet wet Friday when the DC8, arriving from Tokyo, bellied into the foggy shallows of the bay, three miles short of the runway at San Francisco International Airport.

The National Transportation Safety Board said in Washington it was the first successful ditching since jetliners began operations almost a decade ago.

A 10-man investigative team from the agency began today probing the reason for the crash.

Peter H. Covert, 42, a passenger from Spring Valley, N.Y., said the landing in seven feet of water went so smoothly most of the passengers took pictures of the ditching operation. There was no panic, he said.

"They just kept on snapping pictures," said Covert, who has 3,000 hours flying time as a private pilot. "It was a damned good water landing."

At the point of impact, just of Coyote Point, 18 miles south of San Francisco, there was a rising seven-foot tide, the highest of the year, the Coast Guard said. Normally, water is no more than four feet deep at the spot.

South San Francisco's fire chief, John Marchi, said the seven-foot depth was sufficient to cushion the impact, but not deep enough for the plane to sink. He called the rescue "a one-in-a-million shot."

The plane's pilot, Kohei Asoh, 47, of Yokohama, with the airline 14 years, said his plane cut through the fog at 11 feet and settled into the water at a speed of 177 miles per hour.

"I don't know. I can't say what was wrong," Asoh told a news conference. He spoke in broken English, with the aid of an interpreter.

Asoh said the plane's mechanical system was functioning normally and there was "no indication anything was wrong" with the electronically controlled landing system.

Reds Active During Halt

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command said today enemy activity has continued "at a brisk rate" in the demilitarized zone in the three weeks since President Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam.

A spokesman said reconnaissance had disclosed 210 indications of enemy activity in the DMZ since Nov. 1. Of these 22 were labeled "significant"—artillery and machine-gun sites seen firing on allied positions south of the DMZ or firing on U.S. planes patrolling over the buffer zone.

The remainder were classed "insignificant," the spokesman said, including sightings of small groups of enemy soldiers, vehicles, sampans and light.

Of the 210 indications of enemy activity, 71 were spotted in the northern half of the zone and 139 in the southern half, he said. He added that U.S. artillery and jet strikes had been used in the DMZ 67 times since Nov. 1.

In the latest such incident, U.S. artillery silenced a machine-gun nest Friday in the northern half of the zone after a Marine reconnaissance plane was fired on by enemy ground gunners. It was the third report of American guns firing into the northern part of the zone.

North Vietnam called the bombardments "impudent acts of provocation."

WORSE TO COME?

New Taxes Irk Britishers

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The British recoiled with shock and anger today from the latest tax increases, while financial experts predicted worse was in store if the French franc is devalued.

Some financial commentators said the 10 per cent sales tax slapped on consumer goods in Britain, a government move to save the pound sterling from a second devaluation in just over a year, would fail to solve the country's domestic difficulties.

And they said measures so far announced in Bonn would not save the French franc from devaluation, nor solve the world's monetary crisis.

Heavy devaluation of the franc, reported in Bonn, rumored in Paris but not confirmed by French President Charles de Gaulle, will mean more trouble for the pound sterling, said the experts.

The immediate effect of the British government's move to cut back consumer spending was a spending spree. People rushed to stock up for Christmas before the new tax measures reached the stores.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins told the House of Commons Friday the pound will not be devalued. But as a defense of its international value, he announced a package of tax increases on drink, tobacco, gasoline, consumer durables, luxury items, food and clothing.

An innovation was an import deposit system, under which importers of goods other than food and raw materials will have to deposit 50 per cent of the value with the government. The deposit will be repaid six months later, Jenkins said.

The man-in-the-street reacted with criticism.

"Diabolical," said Don Saggers, a London accountant. "Murder," said Bill Smithson, a printing executive. "I'll emigrate," said Maureen Norris, a telephone operator.

Harold Hutchingson, political correspondent for the pro-government Sun, forecast the squeeze will mean victory for Edward Heath's opposition Conservatives at the general election in October 1971.

Heath launched his attack on Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government in a speech at Derby today.

Conservative spokesmen charged the reason for the cuts lay not in international monetary discord but in mismanagement at home. A showdown is expected in the Commons Monday night, when the Conservatives reportedly will seek a vote of censure against the government.

Jaycees Ask Addresses

Darrell Rains, chairman of the Jaycees' "films for Christmas" project, today urged families of American servicemen in Vietnam to send the addresses of the servicemen to him.

"We'll contact the families later and send home movies to the servicemen," he said. The addresses may be mailed to Rains at Post Office Box 622, Snyder.

Rains said the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 8231, has endorsed the project as being worthy of the wholehearted support of all citizens.

Cavern Officials Protest Closing

SANTA FE (AP) — State officials are protesting the inclusion of Carlsbad Caverns National Park in a federal order to close national parks and monuments two days a week as part of an austerity program.

Gov. David Cargo said Friday the caverns park is one of the few in the nation that pay their own way. The state said the park did not use all of its $572,350 allocation last year and reported revenues of $568,181.

The caverns now are closed Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Limestone Dumped Into Blazing Mine

MANNINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Although termed a dangerous move, tons of big limestone chunks dropped down two air shafts today in another effort to fight the flames trapping 78 men in a coal mine.

The roaring fire has defied all efforts to bring it under control since a series of explosions ignited it before dawn Wednesday and trapped the men. The other 21 miners working the midnight shift managed to get to the surface or were pulled from air shafts.

There has been no word from the 78 since the first of the explosions which apparently shattered the internal communications of Mountaineer Coal Co. No. 9 mine. Mine officials hold little hope that the men are alive.

The decision to fill the two shafts with the limestone blocks came Friday night. John Roberts, a public relations official of Consolidation Coal Co. Mountaineer's parent firm, said the operation could take hours and would be an "extremely dangerous" task.

"They'll be going out like bullets," Roberts said, if mine pressures blow out the big blocks.

Workers finshed dumping the 1,000 tons of limestone down the air shafts at 3 a.m. today.

Consolidation officials said earlier they did not want to risk other lives in the rescue efforts as long as the fire raged or there was the possibility of more explosions.

A blast early Friday sent tremors all the way to the company store, about four miles away, and shot flames streaking skyward.

Cotton Crop Will Top 40,000 Bales

Scurry County's 1968 cotton crop apparently will go well beyond the 40,000-bale mark.

That was the indication at the end of the week as gins continued operations with 36,247 bales already processed.

Some gins reported that the pace had slowed considerably during the past few days, although some cotton still was moving from the fields. Others still had substantial backlogs on the gin yards waiting their turns and more was arriving.

Generally, estimates were that at least 80 per cent of the crop, and possibly more, had been ginned. Good weather this week sent the harvest into the home stretch without interruption.

The figures reported Friday afternoon by the county's nine gins included the following:

Inadale, 7,189 bales; Hermleigh Planters 2,648; China Grove, 3,985; Snyder Paymaster 6,398; Fluvanna Co-Op 3,220; Snyder Co-Op 8,087; Snyder Planters 1,560; Dunn Planters, 1,750; Ira Layfield 1,410.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Three months ago, I was the maid of honor at my best friend's wedding. Shortly afterwards she announced she was expecting. (In fact, 20 years ago I read them often and am determined to keep them.

she hurried the wedding a little because of her condition.)

Well, now I am getting married and I promised this friend that she could be my matron of honor. But Abby, she's in her 9th month. How will that look? She'll be terribly hurt if I don't ask her as we've been best friends since first grade and I'd rather die than hurt her feelings. Should I ask her and hope she refuses? What if she accepts? Please help me as I am running out of time.

DESPEARTE

DEAR DESPERATE: If you don't want her because of her obvious condition, don't ask her. (She might accept.) But if you'd rather "die" than hurt her feelings, how about postponing your wedding until after she delivers? (I assume YOU'RE not in the same kind of rush?)

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Years ago, when my widowed mother came to live with me and my husband, she made our lives so miserable that I determined that I would never bring such misery to my children if I ever had to live with them. One day I sat down and wrote myself a letter. In it were some pertinent rules, and on the outside of the envelope I wrote, "To be opened on the day I go to live with my daughter, heaven forbid." I tucked it away in an old book and forgot about it. I've been widowed and self-sufficient for 6 years, but now I was recently forced to give up my job and go to live with my oldest daughter. I've opened that letter and I think your older readers might benefit from it, as I intend to. Here are the rules:

1. Give what you can toward your keep. Any budget will stretch just so far.

2. Keep yourself clean and neat.

3. Remember, it is THEIR home. Be especially considerate of HIM. He allowed her to bring you here.

4. Give them privacy at every opportunity.

5. If they want to go away on a vacation, but are hesitant because of you, offer to visit another relative or friend so they will be free to go.

6. Don't offer any advice or express any opinions unless asked.

7. Volunteer information that they might be too embarrassed to ask for, such as arrangements for your burial, hospitalization, etc.

These rules were written over ten and am determined to keep them.

Sincerely,
WIDOW X

DEAR ABBY: Whoever started that stupid rule of courtesy, stating that ladies should leave an elevator first? I am always annoyed with gentlemen who stand rooted to the floor of an elevator and refuse to get out ahead of women who are in the rear of the elevator, struggling to get out. If those stupid men would just step out of the elevator ahead of the women it would be so much simpler for everyone.

"ANNOYED"

DEAR "ANNOYED": "Women and children first" is the rule when abandoning a stricken ship, but common sense should prevail when leaving an elevator.

Police, FBI Search For Bank Bandit

HOUSTON (AP) — A bandit fled Friday from the First State Bank of Greens Bayou, taking $8,830 in the first robbery of the 21-year-old institution.

Miss Evelyn New, 23, told police a young man bearing a blue and green striped shirt demanded that she fill a bag with $10, $20 and $50 bills.

The robber apparently was unarmed although the note he handed Miss New ordered her to fill a bag "quick or you're dead."

Police and FBI agents searched for the bandit in a wooded stretch of the Huntington Bayou area near the bank.

CRMWD To Open Bids On Pipeline

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will convene at 10 a.m. Dec. 3 in Big Spring to open bids for construction of a pipeline from the Martin County pump station to Midland and a terminal storage facility at Midland.

Completion of these two item will put the district in position to begin service to the City of Midland.

Also a likely topic will be the water sale contract with the City of San Angelo. Terms of the contract have been agreed upon in substance but the final form is not yet complete. Meanwhile, San Angelo has awarded a contract for slightly more than $181,000 for the construction of a pump station at the south end of the CRMWD's new lake at Robert Lee.

Reports on progress of eight or more other facets of the new lake project will be given by O. H. Ivie, general manager. Paschal Odom, assistant to the general manager, also will have a report on the lake water injection program which was begun a week ago at the rate of about 2.7 million gallons per day. The district transfers water from Lake Thomas to de-watered zones in the Martin County well field in winter months to have it near points of demand during summer peaking periods.

PFC Garza Wins Badge

DUC LAP, Vietnam — There is one Army badge that only combat infantrymen can wear — the Combat Infantryman Badge. It was awarded to Private First Class Oscar Garza, 20, near Duc Lap, Vietnam, on Oct. 25.

Pvt. Garza, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salvador M. Garza, and wife, Paula, live on Route 2, Snyder, is assigned to the 4th Infantry Division as a rifleman.

The CIB has been awarded since late in the World War II for sustained ground contact against an enemy. It is not awarded to members of other combat arms, such as artillery, armor or engineers.

In honor of its singular meaning, the badge is worn above all other awards and decorations, over the left breast. It is a blue rectangle with a silver rifle mounted on it and a curved wreath at the top. Subsequent awards are represented by stars in the center of the wreath.

Burglary Suspect Is Really Nailed

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Charles Wolford nailed a burglary suspect Friday at the cleaning shop where he works.

Wolford, called by neighbors after a window was broken, discovered a predawn intruder in a restroom. He nailed the door shut and called police. Officers removed the nails and Darrell L. Sears, 28, was charged with burglary.

Mrs. Kennedy Works With Handicapped

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy spent part of the fifth anniversary of the death of one of her sons with handicapped workers and shoppers whom she asked to aid the retarded in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Dressed all in white, the mother of two assassinated sons said Friday was "a day for each American not to mourn the late President, but to do what he would do if he were here."

"I see the hope of the future . . . because people care," she told 200 handicapped workers at the Morgan Memorial Goodwill Corp. workshop in Boston's South End.

Recalling another slain son, she said, "Bobby tried very hard."

Her smiled dimmed briefly when she was asked the source of her courage.

"That's a very difficult question, isn't it," she said quietly.

"I just make up my mind I'm not going to be vanquished. If I'm depressed, then it has a depressing effect on everyone" in her family, she said.

Her day began with attendance at a morning Mass in St. Francis Roman Catholic Church at Hyannis Port, and ended with a special evening memorial Mass.

Costly Fire In Galveston

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Flames destroyed three buildings in the old downtown section of this island resort city before firemen gained control about 12:15 a.m. today.

Officials said the loss would run into thousands of dollars. One of the structures was a big liquor warehouse and another housed the L&L Vending Co.

Walls of the L&L building collapsed, tumbling bricks into the 2000 block of Mechanic Street at the front and into the alley behind. The cavein also sent masonry bursting through the roof and into the first floor of the two-story Flamingo Lounge next door.

For a time the blaze threatened an entire block across the street from one of the twin buildings of the American National Insurance Co. All available men and equipment were used.

Several firemen narrowly escaped being crushed as walls of the vending firm's building crashed down.

Authorities said the fire apparently started in the L&L Vending Co. It was discovered about 8:20 p.m.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

In a period when crime is increasing four times faster than the population — when a large minority of the people seem to not only refuse to assist law enforcement officers in their efforts to protect the people in their persons and property, but actually make a positive effort to hinder them — and when the majority seem to just want to "not get involved," it is refreshing to find four citizens of Scurry County who are willing to get themselves involved in something that could have been very unpleasant for them, in order to see the law enforced in this County.

Several weeks ago the women of the community were having a meeting at the Inadale Community Center. Two of the women noticed a man driving back and forth in a pickup who appeared to be "casing the joint." Their suspicions being aroused, when they got home they told their husbands of the man's actions. The four of them went back to the Community Center. As they were driving in, the same man the women had seen earlier drove his pickup out from behind the building and off down the highway. They followed and stopped him. After they talked with him and got his license number, they went back to the Community Center and found the main line leading from the propane tank had been taken loose and the gas was being allowed to escape.

They reported the incident to the proper authorities, and after an investigation was made by Sheriff Keith Collier, the man was arrested, indicted and convicted of a felony. We all owe a sincere "thank you" to Mr. and Mrs. Buford Light and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schattel. It was our property — property which belongs to the people of Scury County — which they were protecting. But more than anything else, they were practicing good citizenship. Except for their willingness to "get involved," it is doubtful that the crime would have ever been solved.

ABOUT THIS QUESTION:
The first Thanksgiving was celebrated by the Pilgrims in gratitude to God for an abundant harvest. Today, as never before in this country, we are blessed with an abundance of material goods. But beyond this we have the greater wealth of FREEDOM . . . to worship, to think, and to speak as our conscience dictates. We truly have reason to be thankful.

Associated Press Writer

LONE STAR. By T. R. Fehrenbach, Macmillan, $10.00

No question exists about it. Writing a history of Texas is a rugged chore. Few people try.

Some excellent history about Texas is written. But generally it is in segments.

Now T. R. Fehrenbach of San Antonio has made a monumental effort and achieved a monumental book.

He calls it "Lone Star" and it is a book to read, not necessarily to study.

Fehrenbach simply takes off in a cloud of dust and tells the story of Texas, never getting himself bogged down in bypaths and trivia.

The book has none of the detailed footnotes beloved by the academic world. But it has 719 pages of pertinent detail and is well indexed.

The fact is that the author is as much a writer as historian. He written half a dozen history books as well as innumerable magazine pieces.

Fehrenbach writes much like the late Walter Prescott Webb, noted Texas historian, and he quotes Webb at several points because he believes Webb was great.

The author is not content to list events. He seeks to give them perspective and meaning.

This is dangerous ground for an acadmic historian because he then sometimes must spend a lifetime defending his conclusions against attacks by fellow historians.

Fehrenbach has no such worries. He is writing for the average reader who likes some guidance in understanding the sweep of history. The opinions are his and he seems a very observant and thoughtful student of the Texas scene.

His final chapter is devoted to telling why Texans are unique. It is something that should have an extremely wide audience because it is as good an analysis as can be developed.

One of the key observations: "The great difference between Texas and every other American state in the 20th Century was that Texas had a history. Other American regions merely had records of development.—The AP.

EUGENICS AND THE PROGRESSIVES. By Donald K. Pickens, Vanderbilt University Press, Nashville, Tenn. $7.95.

Eugenics is the science or theory, mostly theory, of improving the race.

It was a major study until the rise of Hitler and the occurrence of the Depression, when it died abruptly in the form it took before the 1930s.

The earlier eugenics centered basically on heredity. By ignoring or twisting Mendel's Laws of inheritance, the eugenists could advocate and seemingly prove anything that their bias indicated.

The current theory of environment found a place only when it supplemented the eugenists' racial views.

Donald K. Pickens of North Texas State University at Denton explores the pre-World II eugenists alongside the many reform movements called progressivism of which eugenics was a part.

Dr. Pickens' study has modern-day use because the theories of the earlier age still hang around.

The eugenists called themselves scientists. They were not. They were only theorists with strong bias.

What they really wanted to do was preserve the Anglo-Saxon aristocracy.

To achieve this, various eugenists proposed and advocated naturalism, antipurbanism, ruralism, selective breeding, ending immigration, sending Negroes out of the country and allowing the poor and the elderly to pass from the scene because they had lost out in the war of survival of the fittest.

Americans believe we now have a more humane and sensible approach to improving the race—education, health aids and welfare aimed at helping children.

Future generations could reject our present methods as the eugenists' theories of earlier years are rejected now. All we can do is try.

The Depression, with its emphasis on economics and environment, and Hitler's ridiculous and criminal racial acts pretty well destroyed the theories of the eugenists of the pre-1930s.—The AP.

NEW ECHOTA LETTERS. Edited by Jack Frederick Kilpatrick and Anna Gritts Kilpatrick, Southern Methodist University Press, Dallas, $5.00

The Cherokee Phoenix was a newspaper for the Cherokees which was founded in 1828 in Oklahoma not long after Sequoyah invented the tribe's syllabary.

The late Jack Frederick Kilpatrick, of the Southern Methodist University faculty and Mrs. Kilpatrick took the writings of a missionary in the Phoenix to illustrate what the newspaper was like. Mrs. Kilpatrick is a descendant of Sequoyah.

The missionary was Samuel A. Worchester whose contributions were published in English.

The subject matter ranges from language, current events, crimes and the like.

Particularly graphic are the minister's stories of the harsh treatment suffered by missionaries to the Cherokees when they were in Georgia.

Included is an explanation of the syllabary.

It is a beautifully printed book, as well.—The AP.

Filled Bran Crepes With Cranberry Sauce

"Come for Sunday Brunch" is a frequent invitation extended during the holiday season. To serve an elegant main dish that requires little last minute preparation, consider these Bran Crepes with Cranberry Sauce. Bran flakes increase the nutrition of the pancakes, giving them a delicate pleasing flavor. Each thin, lightly rolled cake encases a rich orange flavored cheese mixture. The crepes may be made ahead and reheated in a lightly buttered chafing dish at serving time, topped with cranberry sauce.

Bran Crepes With Cranberry Sauce

2 cups cream style cottage cheese
2 packages (3 ounces each) soft cream cheese
1¼ cups sugar
½ cup finely chopped pecans
2½ teaspoons grated orange rind
¾ cup prepared pancake mix
1¾ cups milk
3 eggs
1½ cups bran flakes, crushed to make 1 cup crumbs
Melted shortening or salad oil
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Dash of salt
1 cup water
2 cups fresh cranberries, washed
½ cup diced orange

Combine cheeses, 2 tablespoons sugar, nuts, and 2 teaspoons orange rind; mix well. Set aside. Beat pancake mix, milk and eggs until smooth. Stir in cereal. To cook each crepe, brush a 6 to 7-inch skillet with oil. Pour 2 tablespoons batter into pan. Brown first side; turn and brown second side. Repeat process. Spread each crepe with 2 tablespoonfuls cheese filling; roll up. Keep warm in chafing dish or shallow pan in slow oven (300 degrees F.). Combine remaining sugar, cornstarch, salt, and remaining orange rind in saucepan. Add water; bring to a boil. Add berries; cook until skins pop. Stir in orange pieces. Serve with crepes. Yeild: 24 crepes, 8 servings.

ON THE HOUSE

Transparent wood finishing materials fall into two general categories: those which lie on the surface and those which penetrate. The surface coatings include varnish, lacquer, shellac and the various synthetics. The penetrating substances include sealers and stains, linseed oil and turpentine.

All have the same purpose — to protect and beautify the wood without hiding its natural grain. The surface coatings may be applied to raw wood or wood from which the old finish has been removed, as well as to previously finished surfaces which are in sound condition and which have been properly prepared. But a penetrating finish is designed to fill the pores of the wood and so cannot do its job unless it is applied to bare wood.

In using these so-called natural finishes, bear in mind three points: (1) All finishes change the tone of wood, tending to make it darker; (2) wood darkens with age; and (3) when an entire wall has been finished, it appears darker than a small sample of wood with the same finish. It is wise, therefore, to select a surface or penetrating finish that produces a shade lighter than you actually want it to be.

Stains and penetrating sealers usually must be wiped off within minutes after they have been applied. The directions on the container of the product you buy will tell you how long a time should elapse between the application and the wipe-off. The latter is necessary to prevent some of the material from remaining on the surface, preventing proper drying. It also regulates the intensity of the color. The quicker the wipe-off, the lighter the shade. Oil stains also can be made lighter by diluting them with turpentine or recommended thinner.

One of the oldest penetrating finishes, designed to give wood the patina it usually achieves only after years of tender care, involves the use of a mixture of boiled linseed oil and turpentine. After the linseed oil and turpentine have been mixed, spread it on the wood, using either a clean paint brush or a clean, lintless cloth. As soon as you have completed the application and wipe off any excess, being sure to wipe and not rub. After waiting about an hour — and using still another cloth — rub and keep rubbing. In fact, repeat the rubbing chore as often as you want during the ensuing weeks, the idea being to give the wood a rich, mellow appearance.

There are different theories on the proportions that should be used for this mixture, but we have found that two parts of boiled linseed oil and turpentine produce the best results. By the way, you purchase the linseed oil already boiled; don't try to boil it at home.

QUESTION: Is it practical to install a cedar closet in the basement? I have been told that a basement is not a good place for it because it is too damp there. My basement does not appear to be damp and I have never had any trouble with water there. What is your advice? And what suggestions do you have for building it?

ANSWER: No reason for you not to build a cedar closet in your basement under the conditions you have described. But you must build it properly to be sure that it becomes an effective moth-repellent storage facility. No special carpentry skill is needed, since it involves only a frame of 2 by 4 lumber, with the addition of walls and doors. Once the frame has been constructed, attach ¾-inch exterior plywood to the floor, side, back and ceiling. Install a 2 by 4 at each side of the closet front to serve as supports for two doors, which can be of the inexpensive hollow - core type.

From there on, it is merely a matter of lining the closet with a moth-repellent material such as aromatic red cedar. The cedar pieces can be of random length, installed horizontally for a pleasing effect. Remember that the ceiling and floor must be covered with the cedar as well as the walls and the inside of the doors. Since hollow-core doors are very thin, apply the cedar to them with an adhesive, plus nails along the thicker edges and ends. Add shelving, a clothes rod and catches to keep the doors closed. The closet can be made airtight by placing stripping around the doors. Most important of all, remember that, while the exterior of the closet can be finished as desired, do not apply any finish to the cedar, as this would destroy its mothproofing qualities.

QUESTION: I want to repaint our kitchen, not so much because it needs it as because my wife is changing the color scheme. It previously was painted with enamel, which is still very glossy. I hate to think of sanding off the gloss, which I understand is necessary before repainting. Is there any alternative?

ANSWER: Yes. Ask your paint, hardware or lumber yard dealer for the wall bonding material that goes on over a glossy surface and prepares it for repainting.

Coasters, Trivets

Having tile installed in your home? Keep leftover pieces and turn them into handy coasters and trivets. All you need is a backing material such as cork or felt and some strong, clear-drying glue with which to adhere it to the tile.

Tile Used In Designs For Gracious Living

At one time the only place you'd find ceramic tile in a home was in the bathroom. Then American manufacturers began to diversify the colors, sizes and shapes of their product. And today ceramic tile is used "inside, outside, all around the house."

Tile is one of the oldest man-made building products still in widespread use today. Cavemen first produced crude tiles some 250 centuries ago by baking riverbank clays in the sun.

Throughout most of recorded history the material was acclaimed for its esthetic appeal, but this reputation for beauty was overshadowed for a while by tile's practicality.

However, the spotlight has been put back on the surfacing's decorative abilities by American tile manufacturers who offer the modern consumer a choice of more than 1,000 tile colors and color combinations, 500 distinct designs and over 100 different sizes and shapes.

Color and black - and - white photographs of settings and actual installations illustrate articles in "Designs For Gracious Living" that tell of the decorative applications as well as the practical uses of tile in kitchens, bathrooms, dining rooms, even living rooms and bedrooms.

Winter sports flourish in Australia, which has more square miles of snow than Switzerland.

CAREER CORNER

By F. J. LAIN

Miss Lain awards a Mercury portable, courtesy of the Royal Typewriter Co., to Mrs. T. E. Chandler, Amory, Miss., for her question:

"Why are employers reluctant to hire experienced people over 45?

A — The other day a 34-year-old acquaintance made the asinine statement that he wouldn't hire a man over 40. I started to mention the new federal age discrimination law but instead just left him with this thought: "If that's the case, what happens six years from now when the bells toll for you too?"

WHEN AGE DISCRIMINATION occurs, you can usually chalk it up to bias or ignorance. More doors are opening, but stereotype thinking about age and hiring is still fogging some minds. It goes something like this.

"OLDER WORKERS DON'T GET OUT AS MUCH WORK." Nonsense. Dozens of studies of productivity have shown that older workers can and do hold their own with younger workers, and, in some cases, out-produce them. The meaningful variables are between individuals, not age-groups.

"THE JOB'S PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS CALL FOR A YOUNG MAN." Maybe so if you're a piano mover, but the vast majority of industrial jobs don't demand the muscle of a Paul Bunyan. A related excuse is "the health" of the mature worker. This too lacks validity as doctors will tell you that aging is a gradual process; people are not programmed to fall apart at 45. Nevertheless, it's a practical idea to take your medical report with you to the job interview.

"WE CAN'T HIRE ANYBODY OLDER BECAUSE OF OUR PENSION PLAN." As a last resort, you may be able to waive your claim to retirement benefits. Some enlightened employers will hire outside the pension plan if there's no other way.

"HE'S TOO CLOSE TO RETIREMENT AGE." The selection of 65 as the compulsory retirement age is an arbitrary one. Again, it depends on the individual. As psychologist Dr. Jack Botwinick has pointed out: Plato, at 50, was still a student. Jules Verne was writing his imaginative stories at 70. And Konrad Adenauer, Chancellor of West Germany was 73 when he won the post, and 87 when he retired. There are plenty of other misconceptions and myths about older workers, but let's. . .

THINK POSITIVE. The mental attitude of some over-45 jobseekers is their biggest barrier to obtaining employment. It's only human to feel rejected and unwanted after a few deflating experiences — but if you buy that idea, you'll do a terrible job of selling yourself. Speaking of selling yourself, you can send for. . .

A FREE PAMPHLET — "Do's and don'ts for mature jobseekers." Published by the National Association of Manufacturers, this brief but helpful guide has just been revised and I'll send it to those who write me in care of this newspaper before the end of this year. But you MUST enclose a business-size 10 envelope, self-addressed and stamped with a six-cent stamp. Please mark "mature guide" on the outside of the correspondence envelope; this helps me to send you the pamphlet more quickly. In the meantime, don't let those 45-bells ring a depressing note— put this in your belfry and toll it:

PLUS, POINTS FOR MATURE WORKERS include the likelihood that you value your job more, resulting in less job-hopping and absenteeism. You tend to be dependable, sensiblt, careful and keep your mind on your work. And since you don't have to learn everything from scratch, you're probably more easily trained than younger workers — if you've remained flexible and open to new ideas.

COMPUTER BALLOTS TO COME?

Huge Voting Snarl In Texas

Editor's Note: Texas voters set ballot records in the general election this month. And election officials were swamped — for many reasons. A look at election day and what the future may hold.

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer

Election day 1968 turned into a nightmare for Texas election officials—and for many voters.

Just over three million Texans cast ballots for the U.S. presidency and that record turnout jammed the voting process. That—and some strange occurrences.

Examples of how voting day across the state sometimes appeared:

In San Antonio, lines stretched so long that citizens waited two hours to reach the voting booth and those in line at normal closing time of 7 p.m. were allowed to vote. Some were casting ballots as late as 9 p.m.

In El Paso, angry voters waited in lines as long as five hours. One precinct, serving 3,138 voters, did not end balloting until 1 a.m. the morning after election day.

The real snarl really began when voting ended.

In Texas counties using paper ballots the counting went on and on.

The longest delay came in Tarrant County, which includes Fort Worth. The last ballot in Tarrant County was counted at 8 p.m. Thursday, 49 hours after the polls officially closed Tuesday.

At one point, of 17,000 votes unreported in the state, 13,000 of them were in Tarrant County.

Tarrant County Clerk W.C. "Red" Cowen blamed the slow counting pace on paper ballots used in 82 of the county's 159 precincts.

In Denton County, one precinct did not finish counting the papers ballots until 1 p.m. Thursday

In Nueces County, which includes Corpus Christi, vote canvassers worked through Thursday counting the 4,500 absentee ballots cast.

In San Antonio, one Bexar County Commissioners race was not settled until mid-morning the day after election when the last of 19,000 mostly paper absentee ballots were counted.

But other places with paper ballots did not have the same troubles.

Travis County (Austin) used paper ballots in all 81 precincts. By 2 a.m. election night, 66 of the boxes were counted and the rest were in by noon, Wednesday.

Paper ballots also were used in Abilene and all but a few boxes were counted by midnight and the rest came in shortly afterward.

How were the paper ballots, with many races and a long list of constitutional amendments, counted so quickly in some places?

Stuart Harris, the chief clerk in Austin, said, "Well of course, we put on extra help. And we started counting the votes as soon as 10 ballots were cast in some boxes. We knew which boxes we would have to do that in."

Stewart said election law allows such counting if the vote totals counted are not given to outsiders.

The largest turnout in the tate was in Harris County which includes Houston. There, 474,011 votes were cast for president. All votes were cast on machines and they were counted election night.

On standard, stand-up votin machine, just open the back an read the votes on meters.

Wichita County (Wichita Falls) officials estimate it took 13 1-minutes to count each paper ballot in the general election.

So why don't all counties go the voting machine route? The hief argument is cost of the machines.

Wichita County Auditor Joe Gowdy figures it cost 34 cents to count each paper ballot cast in the general election.

In Harris County, the cost per vote was 22 cents. But that does not include the investment in voting machines.

The standard machine costs Dallas County about $2,000 County Auditor George Smith said he isn't sure how long they last, but "we have some here we bought more than 20 years ago."

Dallas County tried a new "punch-card" type of voting machine in 112 of the county's 293 precincts.

Described by a critic as "a paper ballot in a suitcase," the punch-card voting machine, which costs the county $140 each, has slots in which a cardboard ballot is placed.

The voter then takes a metal stylus and punches holes in the card next to the name of the person for whom he is voting.

The cards are then run through a computer which counts the holes and prints out the results of each race.

Dallas County Commissioners voted 4-1 to try the machines with county Judge Lew Sterrett violently dissenting.

Some problems occurred in the Dallas counting. Some voters did not punch all the way through their ballots and some cards jammed in the computing counter and were mutilated.

Election officials, with party poll watchers looking on, had to repunch some holes to complete the counting. The final tabulations were not completed until early the next morning.

But a supporter of the punch-card ballots, County Commissioner Mel Price, minimized the problem and said only about one per cent of the ballots were not properly punched.

And with four of the five Dallas County Commissioners Court members favoring the process, it looks as if that county will continue to experiment with the cheaper machines.

Don Marvin, who operates the City of Wichita Falls computer center, believes punch-card voting will be the method of the future.

Marvin said adequate controls could be set up to insure that a computer programmer could not rig a computer to give a dishonest count.

He said a computer could read between 385 and 400 voting cards a minute with final results available in most elections two hours after the punch-card ballots were taken to a central computer.

Marvin said of computer voting, "I don't see how it can go any other way, especially as long as trends indicate people are going to take a more active interest in government."

Eye Learning Disabilities In Children

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — One child in 10 has some degree of learning problem, but he can be helped, educators and parents were told Friday.

"In children with any degree of learning disability, there are astonishing learning abilites to be found," sad Dr. Will C. Rogers, clinicial psychologist and consultant to the Texas Education Agency.

Addressing a session of the Texas Association for Children With Learning Disabilities, Dr. Rogers assured his listeners, "these children can be helped."

The first step in such cases is parents and teachers admitting there is a problem, he said.

Some 2,000 educators and visitors are expected to have registered for the association's annual two-day convention before it closes today.

Today's features included three workshops for teachers, parents and administrators, directed by Dr. Sheldon Rappaport. He is founder and president of the Pathway School of Norristown, Pa., a school for children with learning learning disabilities. One of the workshops will be on "behavior management at home and in school"

America's Negro Comics: Please Color Them Funny

By JERRYBUCK
Associated Press Writer

Was the road from blackface to black power paved with a million laughs? Did a funny thing happen on the way out of the ghetto? Was that a belly laugh coming from the back of the bus? The answer is, yes and no. Listen to some Negro comics:

—"I sat at a lunch counter for nine months. When they finally integrated, they didn't have what I wanted." Dick Gregory, 1963.

— "I keep hearing that black is beautiful. So I painted the inside of my apartment black and the first thing I lost was my bowling ball. Then I couldn't find my wife and kids." Slappy White, 1968.

The civil rights movement gave voice to the Negro comic. White audiences long nurtured on Stepin Fetchit, Rochester and Amos 'n Andy discovered a new kind of Negro comedian.

Many had been around a long time, working the old Negro vaudeville circuit, playing club dates, sometimes appearing on television if they fit what Godfrey Cambridge described as the "'image' of what a Negro comedian should be." But largely they were unseen by white audiences until the early 1960s.

"When everybody sees Moms Mabley, they say, my goodness, where does she come from?" said Cambridge. "Where did Pigmeat Markham and 'here come de judge' come from?

"Well, that's one of the prices white America had to pay for discriminating against black people. Because these people have been working for 50 years."

Not everyone agrees that the past was totally bleak. "Listen," argued Joe Glazer, a veteran booking agent, "Pigmeat Markham and the others were making pretty good money in those days. A thousand dollars a week—that's good money, isn't it?"

Glazer added, "Conditions have changed a lot in the past few years. Television brought all that about."

The Negro comedian the white audience discovered was no shuffling Sambo, rolling his eyes, shooting craps and turning grey when he walked past a cemetery at night. Nor was he a conniving Kingfish. He had something he wanted to get off his chest—and it had nothing to do with stealing checkens or eating watermelon.

Angry, bullnecked Dick Gregory kicked the door down in 1961 and with a buzzsaw delivery he left his white audiences drawn and quartered and clutching each other in laughter. "Segregation is not all bad," he would say, nervously flicking the ashes off his cigarette. "Have you ever heard of a wreck where the people in the back of the bus got hurt?"

Negro humor has always been a masterful combination of the put on and put down. For a hundred years it had been a convenient foxhole the Negro could dive into for shelter in time of need. Now it is on the march.

Fred Weintraub, who gave two unknowns named Bill Cosby and Richard Pryor a boost at the Bitter End in Greenwich Village, said, "It was bad to use ethnic humor for a long time because many thought it was a put down. Today, it's great to do ethnic humor because it gives them roots. But the fine line between the two is what's in good taste.

"But look," he said, "I've watched comedy at the Bitter End for years and I don't think it has anything to do with color. If they're funny, they're funny. A guy like Cosby is going to make it regardless."

Most Negro comedians have begun to turn away from straight-out racial humor. Cosby hasn't relied on it since before his days at the Bitter End. Still, for most, the comedy is within the framework of their Negro culture.

Why do many Negro comics emphasize ethnic humor?

"It's a springboard" says Cambridge, the rotund Friar Tuck of the black comics. It gives you a solid base. It tells you who you are. People always say Cosby, for example, is non-racial. Well, what does that mean? He grew up in South Philadelphia. Fat Albert one of Cosby's characters is Negro. He doesn't have to mention it all the time, but he is.

Cambridge said that as the civil rights movement progressed, so did the humor. "The back-of-the-bus jokes are out. Now, for instance, my routine deals with my trip to Europe, that I've made it, whatever change, whatever humor you've brought out of it, that's it. So that primarily what is happening is that we're unfolding new experiences as we're allowed to participate in society."

Johnny Carson, as host of the "Tonight" television show, probably has done as much as any man to help the Negro comedians, although he says: "We use them because they're funny, not because they're Negro. Flip Wilson is a very funny man. Occasionally, he'll make some references to the fact that he's colored, but otherwise he stays away from racial material.

"I think that when a Negro comedian only does racial comedy it has to hurt him in the long run," he said. "He can get a laugh because he happens to be colored and because he makes the audience uncomfortable. He can say, if you don't laugh, I'm going to move into your neighborhood. It gets a laugh, but after a while it loses its bite."

"I don't say Negro comedians shouldn't make jokes about social inequities," Carson said. "But racial humor's a hook. I think they do it to ingratiate themselves with the audience. It puts them at ease. But it'll be great when they don't have to do that."

New horizons are opening for the Negro comic. Cambridge will have his own variety show on CBS in mid-season. NBC is readying a new series for Bill Cosby, also possibly for later this season. "Soul," a kind of Negro "Laugh-in," has been aired by NBC and is being considered as a regular thing.

New Marine Research Planned By A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&M University, the state's only institution of higher learning with sea-going capabilities, is setting still larger sights on the sea.

As one of six U.S. univerities selected by the National Science Foundation for sea grant institutional support, Texas A&M is initiating 22 new marine research projects.

The school plans construction of an oceanographic and marine campus at Galveston, where the two ships belonging to A&M will make their home port.

A&M has maintained an oceanography department since 1949 and has become a national leader in the new field of "remote sensing," or studying the ocean from space.

HSU, McMurry Have Cooperative Courses

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)— Hardin-Simmons University and McMurry College, through a cooperative arrangement with Abilene Christian College, have initiated new bachelor of science degree programs in vocational home economics and agriculture.

Abilene Christian College will determine curriculum requirements in home economics education and agriculture, while Hardin-Simmons and McMurry will establish general education requirements for the degree programs.

Students may receive their degrees from their respective institutions, although a majority of their work in the major fields will be taken at Abilene Christian.

Fish Hatcheries Busy

AUSTIN (AP)— Texas Parks and Wildlife fish hatcheries produced and distributed 15.9 million fish during the fiscal year that ended Aug. 31. This is 14 per cent more than the previous year. Most of the fish—some 13 million—were black bass.

Relations With Pretoria Warming

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

PRETORIA, South Africa, (AP) — A low-key visit by a U.S. State Department official has added a bit of warmth to relations between Washington and Pretoria.

No important change is expected in America's attitude toward South Africa as a result of the call by the assistant secretary of state for Africa, Joseph Palmer, but his visit was welcomed by many South Africans.

In diplomatic language, Palmer was on a "familiarization" tour of the African subcontinent. His was the first significant meeting in Pretoria in a decade between South African leaders and to-level U.S. officialdom. A similar visit by his predecessor, G. Mennen Williams, was never "convenient" because of Williams' sharp attacks on apartheid.

Race is the reason behind stiffly formal relations between the United States and South Africa.

Strictly administered racial separation is law of this land. White supporters of the South African government view America's attitude as hostile and hypocritical. "Why", they ask, "should Americans who cannot solve their own race problems prescribe solutions for this country? Why can't Washington understand that South Africa is the West's firmest bastion against communism in Africa? Why must the Yanks curry favor with blacks at our expense?"

For their part, Americans who take time to think about South Africa probably are puzzled. Some Americans are convinced that apartheid just won't work in the long run and that efforts to enforce it threaten peace in Africa and race relations around the world.

The country has 3.5 million whites, 13 million Africans, about two million persons officially classified as "colored" those of mixed blood—and more than 500,000 Asians.

White South Africans like to cite these statistics to Americans and remind them that only about 11 per cent of the U.S. population is nonwhite.

About 6,000 Americans live in South Africa. Most are businessmen and their famlies and most agree business was never better for the 275 U.S. firms operating here.

Official U.S. policy is neither to encourage nor discourage American investment, but simply provide the facts. The facts seem to encourage investment. Americans take more than $100 million from this country each year. Profits average 20 per cent.

The United States is South Africa's second largest trading partner, behind Britain.

New Paris Hospital Is Dedicated

PARIS, Tex. (AP)—The new $3.5 million St. Joseph's Hospital has been dedicated.

The four-story structure, for which more than $500,000 was raised locally, has 101,823 square feet and is one of the most modern hospitals for its size in the Southwest.

Junior Editors Quiz on LAKES

QUESTION: Where does a lake come from?

ANSWER: Lakes are merely good-sized depressions in the land that have been filled with water. The depressions may have resulted from the shape of the countryside, or they may be in valleys cut by running streams, perhaps blocked by a man-made dam at the lower end. Again, they may have been gouged out by the slowly moving rivers of ice called glaciers (upper left) which once covered much of North America. Such glaciers pushed masses of rubble ahead of them, and when they ceased moving, the rubble often acted like a dam, holding back the water when the ice melted, thus forming a lake. Lakes get water in other ways, too (upper right). Streams may run into them (1); the rain helps (2), as well as seepage from groundwater (3) and discharge from underground springs (4). Lakes lose water by evaporation from the surface (6), seepage out (5) and spillover outlets (7) which often act as the headquarters of streams and rivers. Lakes are extremely useful. They hold water back, enriching the soil; they give us wonderful swimming, fishing and boating. And what's so beautiful as the shimmering surface of a lake?

Canal's Closing Termed Wasteful

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — An expert on Middle East oil says the closing of the Suez Canal has cost the petroleum industry $1 billion in excess tanker charges on deliveries to Western Europe.

"The continued closing of the Suez represents a substantial economic waste, pure and simple," said F. C. Osment, president of the American International Oil Co.

"The sad thing is that none of these excess costs have accured to the benefit of the political adversaries who have kept this important waterway closed."

The chief executive of the Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) subsidiary was inspecting an offshore drilling platform in the Gulf of Suez on the morning of June 5, 1967, the day the canal was closed with the outbreak of the Arab-Israeli war.

Osment said the canal's closing has caused a tanker construction boom, has stimulated interest in new Middle East pipelines, and has caused some Western European areas to place greater emphasis on indigenous and imported gas supplies.

"The canal closure served as a catalyst in furthering the pace at which innovations are being developed in the petroleum industry, but while these developments should help to balance the economic disadvantages caused by the closure, they cannot entirely counteract them," he said.

"It is important to distinguish between being able to live without Suez and wanting to live without Suez."

Osment said any short term benefits from the closure go to third party shipowners who are not a party to the conflict.

"The long benefits accrue to the western world whose flexibility and self-sufficiency may very well have been noticeably improved by side efforts stemming from the necessity of coping with this problem," he said.

Prior to the war, international companies were moving 3,400,000 barrels of oil daily through the canal. They now are shipping 4,200,000 barrels a day around the southern tip of Africa. A ship sailing from the Persian Gulf to Great Britain now must travel 11,000 miles compared to 6,200 prior to the closing.

Osment said the cost of shipping crude from the Persian Gulf to northern Europe jumped from $2.90 to $18.60 a ton within two weeks of the closing of the canal.

"Just about every major international oil company took a financial buffeting as a result, since only a portion of these increased costs could be passed on to consumers," he said.

The shutdown, he said, has been a catalyst in speeding up by three to four years the long term plans for construction of supertankers. The average size of tankers under construction increased from 62,000 tons at the end of 1966 to 136,000 a year later. One survey indicates 200,000-ton tankers will account for one-half of the total world tonnage within five years and, by 1983, tankers in the 400,000 to 600,000 ton category will comprise 10 per cent of the world fleet.

Osment said supertankers can reduce the cost of transporting oil by one-third but pose problems in that many international waterways cannot handle them because of water depth.

He said new pipelines are being considered by Israel, Iran and the United Arab Republic.

"But pipelines would not have the flexibility of a tanker and would be subject to political risks similar to those of the Suez Canal," he said.

He suggested that an eventual reopening of the canal possibly could result in transportation economies even though the Suez itself could not handle the supertankers.

"For example, supertankers could trans-ship to smaller tankers which could move through the canal and deliver to Mediterranean destinations," he said.

"Thus, as is often the case, sweeping generalizations that are somewhat dangerous."

Spending For Reformitory Approved

AUSTIN (AP) — Working behind closed doors, the Legislative Budget Board tentatively approved spending recommendations Friday that include $5.4 million to build a new state reform school for boys.

Sen. Dorsey Hardeman, San Angelo, who was defeated for re-election, made the motion that ended the board's public meeting and sent it into executive session.

The new reform school, authorized in an appropriations bill provision this summer, will be in Giddings. The Texas Youth Council recommended the site because the city will donate the land.

Giddings, 34 miles east of Austin, is in the district served by Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham, unopposed candidate for house speaker in the 1969 legislature.

The board tentatively approved Youth Council and state Agriculture Department budgets for submission to the next legislature but deferred action on a proposed budget for the Liquor Control Board.

A staff recommendation on the liquor board was ready, but the board directed that it be reworked. Contents of the original proposal were not released.

The Youth Council budget which won endorsement totals $16.6 million in fiscal 1970 and $11.1 million the following year, with the Giddings school construction accounting for most of the difference. The council's present budget is $10.3 million.

A $4.3 million 1970 budget and a $4.5 million 1971 budget was recommended for the Agriculture Department, up from the current $4 million appropriation.

Dec. 13 was set for the next board meeting, but it may have to be changed because of travel plans of speaker Ben Barnes, who also missed Friday's meeting.

Be Ye Thankful

The human is at his best when he prays . . . when he reaches up to the Divine. That's when time becomes part of eternity. As when the pilgrims were struggling to make a go of it and even more so, we need to pause, take stock and thank God. Gratitude is a high virtue. Our cause to praise God is great. Our fathers bequeathed us rich land, good example and sustaining ideals. We must not inherit one without the other. The generous harvest of every year is ours and His. And His is the larger part for God has always been at work. What have we done to merit such blessing? We should join the call to worship this Thanksgiving Day, in the church of our choice . . . Consider why we should prosper as no other people on earth, fall on our knees and speak loud our thanks to the God of all. Your own soul will be aglow and your Thanksgiving dinner will have more taste if you will first remember Him, and if you will feed and clothe some other person, in His Name. This stimulating fellowship with God and our fellows could make this our greatest Thanksgiving Day. Then, "Come, ye Thankful people, come, and raise the song of Thanksgiving."

Historical Panel Winner Of Award

AUSTIN — The Scurry County Historical Survey Committee, headed by Hugh Boren Jr., is one of 29 in Texas 254 to qualify for the 1968 Distinguished Service Awards presented by the Texas State Historical Survey Committee and its private affiliate, the Texas Historical Foundation.

The announcement was made by Charles R. Woodburn, committee president.

"Distinguished Service Awards are the highest official recognition and commendation of county historical survey committees by the State of Texas," Woodburn said.

"These awards are presented to county committees which have accomplished state goals for the historical recordation, appreciation, marking, preservation and surveys of Texas history. The work is embodied in the Survey Committee's 5-year program, RAMPS."

The exacting requirements for qualifying as a DSA county include:

Sponsoring a minimum of four approved official Texas historical markers;

—Presenting a minimum of six programs to business and civic groups concerning the RAMPS program;

—Observing at least four public dedications of official Texas historical markers;

—Sponsoring or participating in two or more historical tours in the county;

—Providing material for distribution to the traveling public concerning the county's historic, recreational and scenic attractions;

—Observing one or more historical appreciation events; and —Conducting or completion of one of the following historical preservation projects — museum, restoration, written history, living history or archives.

Other counties qualifying for the award are Anderson, Bowie, Brazoria, Garson, Coke, Comanche, Crosby, DeWitt, Freeston, Galveston, Garza, Grayson, Hill, Jack, Johnson, Lampasas, McMullen, Marion, Midland Mitchell, Polk, Robertson Runnels, Tom Green, Upshur, Washington and Wise.

Snyder Seaman Is On USS Mattaponi

USS MATTAPONI at sea — Seaman Robert C. Davidson, USN, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Davidson of 2000 Avenue M, and husband of the former Miss Linda M. Richardson of 1505 Twenty - eighth Street, all of Snyder, is in the Western Pacific serving aboard the fleet oiler USS Mattaponi.

Mattaponi is a unit of the U. S. Seventh Fleet operating off the coast of Vietnam. This is the 27 year old oiler's fifth overseas deployment since 1942.

Examiner Labels Gas Sale Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief examiner of the Federal Power Commission issued a stinging report Friday that a $160 million sale of natural gas reserves in Louisiana is illegal.

Examiner Robert M. Weston ordered Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co., to return the gas to the producer, Pan American Petroleum Corp., and to make future purchases from the Bastian Bay field under FPC-regulated rates.

The decision is subject to review by the commission.

"It should have been plain to the most naive, obtuse or recalcitrant Texas oil company or pipeline company that what was involved here was the sale of gas in interstate commerce," the examiner said.

The companies made the transaction as "in-place bulk sales" in 1960. Tennessee Gas, a division of Tenneco Inc., of Houston, Tex., built a short section of pipeline to the site under a general FPC authorization as a "minor" facility because it was being used to take gas which cost $160 million.

The FPC also ordered the companies to apply for approval of the leasehold transaction, and in June 1967 hearings were ordered on the applications.

Weston recommended an investigation of Tennessee Gas' rates for 1960 through 1968, the period during which gas was taken from Bastian Bay.

Although no accurate estimate of reserves could be made at the time of the sale, Weston said, Pan American and Tennessee Gas "somewhat arbitrarily" set the quantity of recoverable reserves at 759 billion cubic feet.

"There is not the slightest excuse existing or offered for failing to ask the commission to disclaim juridistiction over this bulk sale of gas, if Pan American and Tennessee were deluded enough to think the sale nonjurisdictional," the examiner ruled.

Tennessee had a producer affiliate, Tenneco Oil, which could have bought the Bastian Bay gas at the risk of the stockholders, the examiner said.

This was purposely not done, Weston contended, because with Tennessee Gas the owner, the customer rather than the stockholders took any risk that gas quantities might have been overestimated.

The actual reason the gas was bought and sold in bulk rather than by the thousand cubic feet was to avoid regulation and load cost on the consumers, Weston concluded.

He said in-place bulk sales are, in principle, contrary to the public interest.

Noting that a substantial amount of refunds will be due Tennessee Gas when it returns the reserves, Weston recommended an investigation of the company's rates to determine its earnings since 1960.

"It would be wholly inequitable and unfair to consumers," Weston said, "to allow Tennessee to keep such money and thus profit from its illegal actions."

Nugents Fly To Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Luci Johnson Nugent and her husband, Airman 1.C. Patrick Nugent, "cooed and cuddled" aboard the plane taking them to an overnight visit to the island of Hawaii, says a fellow passenger.

Luci, the President's younger daughter, told newsmen Friday she and her husband thought they should get away together for at least one night during Nugent's five-day leave after seven months in Vietnam.

The couple flew to the island Thursday, leaving their 17-month-old son Lyn with a friend in Honolulu. They returned to Honolulu late Friday after spending a night at the plush Mauna Kea Beach Hotel in Kamuela, Hawaii.

"Was that the Nugents?" asked a fellow passenger on their flight from Honolulu to Hilo. "They cooed and cuddled all the way over."

RUN, EFRAIN, RUN! — Snyder's talented halfback, Efrain Cervantez (22), runs around right end with an unidentified Lamesan in pursuit. A game offical and Tornado quarterback Terry Kinard appear in the background. Lamesa took its sixth victory of the season by a 19-9 score.

Vikings, Colts Face Challengers

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Spocts Writer

Baltimore's shutout-minded Colts and the Minnesota Vikings, who take quarterbacks apart, risk their division leads Sunday in the top attraction of an eight-game National Football League program.

The Colts have blanked two of their last three opponents—new York and St. Louis—while providing adequate protection for passer Earl Morall. As a result, they have a four-game win streak and a one-half game led over Los Angeles in the Coastal Division.

Minnesota has smeared the passer 18 times in the last three games against Washington, Green Bay and Detroit while giving up a total of only 221 pasing yards in those three games. The Vikings lead the Central Division by one game over Chicago.

Sunday's program is an unusual one because most of the clubs are playing teams they seldom meet in regular season.

Six of the games are interconference affairs. In addition, to Minnesota, 6-4 at Baltimore, 9-1 the only game involving teams in the same conference is Philadelphia, 0-10, at Cleveland, 7-3, and they are in different divisions of the East.

New York 7-3, and Los Angeles, 8-1-1, both struggling to keep pace with the leaders in their divisions, meet for the first time since 1966 at the Los Angeles Coliseum. When Green Bay, 45-1, invades Washington, 4-6, it will be their first clash since 1959.

New Orleans, 3-7 and Detroit 3-6-1, two teams that have never met, collide at Detroit. Atlanta, 2-8 will be at St. Louis, 5-4-1 and San Francisco, 451, will be at Pittsburgh 2-7-1, their first since 1965.

Dallas, 82, one game in front of the Giants in the Capitol Division, will be at Chicago, 5-5. They are the only teams that have met previously this season either in exhibition or regular season. The Bears edged the Cowboys 30-24 in an Aug. 3 exhibition at the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

The big story at Baltimore probably will be the ability of the Colts' offensive line to protect Morrall. Minnesota puts on a big rush, dumping the quarterback 38 times in 10 games, high for the league. Baltimore's balanced attack has more scoring punch through the air and the Vikings are toughest on pass defense.

The leather should be popping in Baltimore when Bill Brown and Jim Lindsey try to crack that Colt defense.

The last time the Giants played in Los Angeles they were bombed 55-14 in 1966. New York's offense has been spotty lately, except for the Dallas game, and the Los Angeles attack also has been sluggish.

The Rams will be without Bernie Casey in a game they almost have to win to stay alive for that big Dec. 15 date with Baltimore. The Giants also need a win to fan hopes of bringing the race down to their final game with Dallas Dec. 15.

Cleveland has opened up a 1½-game lead on St. Louis in the Central Division and gets a crack at winless Philadelphia, which was involved in a midweek row over the temporary suspensions of Mike Ditka and Gary Ballman. Cleveland's five-game win string is the longest in the league. After Bill Nelsen twisted an ankle last week, the Browns brought back Frank Ryan to throw two touchdowns passes in relief.

Detroit is in a desperate spot, 2½ games back with four to go, as it entertains New Orleans. The Lions must go to the well against Thanksgiving Day against Philadelphia. The Saints are having quarterbck trouble with Billy Kilmer out and Karl Sweetan hobbled. Detroit's offense has scored only one touchdown in the last 19 quarters.

The Cardinals also are in a tight spot, needing nothing but wins if they are to bring it down to that final Saturday game with Cleveland. Atlanta comes into St. Louis fresh from an upset win overthe Chicago Bears while the Cardinals must put together the pieces after being shut out in Baltimore.

Green Bay needs to knock off Washington because the Packers trail the Vikings by 1½ games with San Francisco, Baltimore and Chicago still to play.

Don Meredith hopes to play for Dallas despite last Sunday's knee injury in Washington but the Bears have lost Virgil Carter, their quarterback, as well as gale Sayers for the season.

LONG RUN — Snyder's Randy Levens zips around left end for a substantial gain with Lloyd Jenkins (84) in pursuit. Valvin Garcia (65) leads the blocking while Joe Greer (76) gets set to trap an unidentified Tornado. The action occurred during the thrilling District 3-AAA football clash here Friday night.

GOLDEN TORNADOES TRIP BENGALS 19-9

Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes spotted Snyder's Tigers nine points, then rallied with a strong defensive effort and the "whirling Dervish" running of tailback Bennie Williams to take a 19-9 victory in the final District 3-AAA football match of the season for both teams here Friday night.

The Tors closed out with a 6-4 record while Snyder finished with a 3-7 mark.

The Bengals, putting forth one of their best defensive efforts of the campaign, took an early lead on the first play from scrimmage with fullback David McGinnis stepping 68 yards for a touchdown. Mitch Rambin's conversion kick was wide. On the run, McGinnis was cleared through left guard by crisp blocking, then he cut to his right and went all the way.

Midway in the period, Lamesa took over at the 50 and drove inside the Tiger 15 with quarterback Terry Kinard, Bennie Williams and fullback Aaron Manuel all contributing valuable yardage. The big gainer was a 17 - yard pass, Kinard to wingback Kenny Martin. But the Tigers held.

About a minute later, Lamesa had another golden opportunity following a fumble recovery at the Snyder 22, but another stout defensive effort stopped the visitors at the 13. Both of the first period drives by Lamesa were thwarted by strong defensive play in the Snyder line and hard - hitting by the defensive cornerbacks and halfbacks.

Snyder took over following the second drive and marched 71 yards to the Tor 16 without scoring. Efrain Cervantez contributed a 40-yard gainer around left end, and Lee McNair, the Tiger quarterback, did a great job of scrambling for a 21-yard gain to the 20, aided by a timely block thrown by Merce Hernandez. Rambin attempted a field goal from the 27 when the defense stiffened; and the ball was wide left.

Willis Harrison intercepted a Kinard aerial at the Tor 48 and returned it to the eight yard line as the first period closed.

Lamesa played tough defense again, so the Tigers had to settle for a field goal with Rambin kicking accurately from the 16 with 11:19 remaining in the second period.

THE YARDSTICK

Snyder		Lamesa
7	First Downs	13
193	Yards Rushing	220
8	Yards Passing	131
1 of 11	Completions	10 of 23
2	Intercepted By	0
9 for 28.3	Punts, avg.	6 for 37.3
3 for 25	Penalties	1 for 5
2	Fumbles Lost	3

Until this point Snyder had dominated the game. But the Tors recovered quickly when left end Lynn Pearce charged through and blocked a punt. Lynn Vaughan scopped the ball up at the 12 and sailed across for the TD. Kinard's kick was off target.

Late in the period, the Tors drove in from the 30 with Kinard getting the TD on a fake and run over left guard from the one. Larry Harris' pass failed to click as the Tors took command, 12-9 at halftime.

Snyder's defenders had come through again, stopping an earlier drive on the one.

Lamesa marched 62 yards in 13 plays in the third period for the final TD. It resulted from a 10 yard pass, Harris to Pearce, and Harris kicked the extra point.

The Tigers almost got an easy score early in the fourth frame. Taking over following a fumble at the Lamesa 45, the Bengals reached the 40 before being forced to punt. Steve Holder's kick took several bounces and appeared to hit a Lamesa receiver with one of the Tigers recovering. However, the officials apparently didn't see it that way, so Lamesa took over at the five.

Larry Greene played perhaps his best game of the year on defense. Willis Harrison, Jerry January, Mitch Rambin, Del Hirst and others also made strong efforts defensively. Randy Levens also looked good on offense. Blocking on the wide plays was tremendous on several occasions.

Lamesa can credit the hard running of Williams for the difference in the game. His second effort on several runs enabled the Tors to keep their momentum.

Chargers Stand In Jets' Path

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Huckleberry Finn is in big trouble this weekend . . . and the New York Jets may be too.

Huckleberry occupies the time spot right behind the American Football League game between New York and San Diego on Sunday night's National Broadcasting Company program schedule. You can bet that after the Heidi fiasco of last week, Finn won't see any air until the clock has run all the way out on the Jets and the Chargers.

The Jets hope when that happens that they'll be a step closer to their first Eastern Division title. A victory would reduce the magic number for clinching to one over defending champion Houston, which is idle this weekend.

In otter AFL action Sunday, Miami is at Boston, Buffalo at Denver and Oakland at Cincinnati.

In the National League, Atlanta is at St. Louis, Dallas at Chicago, Green Bay at Washington, Minnesota at Baltimore, New Orleans at Detroit, New York at Los Angeles, Philadelphia at Cleveland and San Francisco at Pittsburgh.

Two touchdowns in the final minute last Sunday—while NBC's audience was watching Heidi—gave Oakland at last-gasp victory over the Jets despite Joe Namath's finest day of the season.

San Diego survived a mudbath in Buffalo and John Hadl tossed two touchdown passes, giving him 20 for the season. New York won the first meeting against San Diego on a last-minute touchdown by Emerson Boozer.

Cincinnati halted a seven-game losing streak by beating Miami last week, giving the Bengals three victories for the season, as many as any expansion team has ever had. Tough-running Paul Robinson gained 134 yards and has 839 for the season.

The Boston-Miami matchup provides a head-on collision between two ex-Syracuse fullbacks, Jim Nance of the Patriots and Larry Csonka of the Dolphins. Csonka had missed the last two games but is expected back for this one.

The Patriots opened with a quick lead against Kansas City last week, turning fumble recoveries by Doug Satcher and Jim Hunt into 10 fast points. But the Chiefs eventually wore the Pats down and maintained their half-game lead in the West.

Injuries have completely depleted Buffalo's quarterback corps and the Bills will use handyman Ed Rutkowski to call the signals against Denver.

The Broncos have quarterback woes too with Steve Tensi hurt again. Marlin Briscoe will probably get the call.

Cowboys Cut Willie Townes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Massive Willie Townes, Dallas regular defensive end, was placed on the inactive list for the rest of the regular National Football League season Friday.

Townes, who has a thigh injury, will be ineligible for four more weeks of play. He would miss the Eastern Division playoff if Dallas gets that far, but would be able to play in the NFL championship game or the Super Bowl against the American Football League.

Townes already has missed four weeks of play because of the injury and then pulled a hamstring while trying to work back in shape.

Larry Cole, a rookie from Hawaii, has been filling in for Townes and scored a touchdown last week against Washington.

Cardinals Sing Happy Tune: 16-0

ROBY — Hermleigh's Cardinals closed out its season here Friday night on a happy note, turning back the Lions 16-0.

Tom Chorn, the talented Cardinal running back, sliced across from the four in the first frame and scooted 10 yards in the third period for Hermleigh's touchdowns. Ronnie Helm ran over for two bonus points following the second TD.

The Cardinals also received credit for a safety when a high snap from center resulted in the ball going out of the end zone.

Roby drove to the Hermleigh 15 in its most serious drive of the night, but stout defensive play quelled the uprising with Helm, David Pena and Scott Richburg leading the defensive charge.

McCaulley Nips Hobbs

HOBBS — McCaulley shaded Hobbs 50-46 in a wild and wooly Six - Man football skirmish in a game in which the lead changed several times.

There were two outstanding offensive players on the field — Lorin Pearce for Hobbs and Donnie Gann for McCaulley. Each boy scored four touchdowns.

The score at halftime was 14-14. The host Panthers, led by Pearce, jumped into a 40-28 lead in the fourth quarter, then fell behind as McCaulley scored following an interception and again following a fumble recovery.

Trailing 40-50, Hobbs scored again in the last two minutes of play.

Donnie Hale did a good job on pass defense for Hobbs, and Rudy Martinez and Felix Granada also were outstanding.

Highlands Tips Bulldogs 30-26

IRA — The host Bulldogs dropped a 26-30 decision to Highlands here Friday night in a Six - Man football tussle that was exciting from start to finish.

Joe Briseno was outstanding on offensive for Ira, scoring on runs of 65 and 30 yards. Terry Sterling also tallied on a 6-yard scamper. Billy Payne was credited with two points after a successful conversion kick.

What kind of basketball team is Snyder going to have?

Many people have been asking that question during the past few weeks as the High School Tigers prepare for their first tilt at Andrews Tuesday night. The program opens with a "B" team clash at 6:15 p.m.

Coach Ned Underwood admits his team has a chance at the South Zone title, but he said he feels Lamesa and Colorado City have strong teams. Coach Jerry McLeod will lead the "B" team. The Tigers will be competing against these two teams, Sweetwater, Brownfield and Lake View for the South Zone crown. The top two teams will meet the top two teams in the North Zone for the district championship. The North Zone includes Levelland, Slaton, Litlefield, Estacado and Dunbar.

Probable starters for the season opener include Jodi Williamson and Bill Hood at guard, and Benny Ward, Wesley Bishop and Jim Patrick up front.

"If we have a strong point," Ned pointed out, "it would have to be desire. A lack of size and experience are our weaknesses."

If the Bengals are weak, then some AAAA teams in the area are in trouble. Snyder bested Big Spring and San Angelo in scrimmages and lost a close one to Odessa — one of the favorites in its league. The Tigers also held the upperhand in a drill with Hamlin.

The squad includes four lettermen from last year — Jerry January, 6-1 forward; Jim Patrick, 6-3 post man; Benny Ward, 6-1 forward; and, Jodi Williamson, 5-8 guard. January and Patrick alternated as starters in 1967, Ward and Williamson saw considerable action, but neither were regulars.

Plenty of help also will be available from the fine "B" team of last year. Forwards Wesley Bishop and Randy Rushing, Dennis Carlton and Dennis Wolfe, guards Bill Hood and Lee McNair are ready to answer Coach Underwood's call. In addition, sophomore Bruce Almond could be of considerable help.

January and McNair joined the squad after the close of the football season, and they participated in two workouts Saturday. Another drill is on tap for Monday in preparation for the opener at Andrews.

All of the home games will be held in the Scurry County Coliseum. The schedule includes nine non - district games, 10 district tilts and three tournaments.

The schedule:

Horns Face Another Crucial Turkey Day Stumbling Block

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP)— Three times since Darrell Royal became coach at Texas, it's been do or die for the Longhorns on Thanksgiving Day: Beat Texas A&M or forget the Cotton Bowl. Three times Texas has beaten the Aggies.

The fourth test comes Thursday.

Some Texas students are confident enough to sell "Cotton Bowl candy" on the campus but Royal is wary of the Aggies, laden with lettermen from the 1967 Southeast Conference team.

"It's hard to get by the people we've got to get by" to go to the bowl, Royal said. "Their team has the same personnel that beat us last year."

The Aggies won that game, 10-7, on an 80-yard touchdown pass play from quarterback Edd Hargett to wingback Bob Long and a field goal and extra point by Charlie Riggs.

All return this year, plus veterans Rolf Krueger, Harvey Aschenbeck, Larry Stegent, Buster Adami, Ross Brupbacher, Jim Piper, Tommy Maxwell, Ivan Jones and All-American linebacker Bill Hobbs.

Texas has 13 seniors including the SWC's all-time leading rusher, Chris Gilbert, who missed half of the 1967 Aggie game with a hip bruise. The Longhorns have been bolstered by some stellar sophomores such as fullback Steve Worster, who could become Texas' second leading rusher for a single season behind Gilbert.

Worster has 749 yards, and by gaining 98 against A&M could go ahead of James Saxton to the No. 2 spot. Gilbert, the leader, has gained more than 1,000 yards in each of his three varsity seasons.

Hargett is the heart-and-soul of the Aggie attack, throwing for 2,100 yards this year on 150 completions in 303 attempts. He ranks among the top six college passers of all times in career pass completions, aerial yardage and total offense and has thrown 171 consecutive passes without an interception.

His 36 touchdown passes in three years tie him with Sammy Baugh, the TCU star of the 1930s, for a SWC record.

Long before Gilbert and Hargett came along, the Longhorns and Aggies were battling for honors and tradition.

The first time the Aggies met a Cotton Bowl-bound Texas team coached by Royal was 1959 at College Station, in Royal's third season. The Longhorns, ranked 4 in the nation, trailed 10-0 at halftime, but won 20-17 and finished in a three-way tie for the SWC title with Arkansas and TCU.

In 1961 third-rated Texas led only 6-0 at halftime but pulled away to win 25-0 for a conference co-championship with Arkansas and again went to the bowl.

The next year Texas was fourth in the nation but had to rally in the last half from a 3-0 deficit to whip the Aggies, 13-3, for another co-title with the Razorbacks and another trip to Dallas on New Year's Day.

Last year A&M had the Cotton Bowl invitation sacked up but grabbed a clear-cut championship by defeating Texas. Had the Longhorns won it would have been a three-way tie between Texas, A&M and Texas Tech.

It was the first time a Longhorn squad coached by Royal had lost to the Aggies.

And now it's time for the test again.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The 1968 Kentucky Derby was over in a little more than two minutes, while a hearing to determine whether the actual winner won without an illegal medication is moving into its second week.

The hearing, being conducted by the Kentucky State Racing Commission, was recessed Friday until Monday morning.

Friday's testimony included that of a laboratory technician, who said he detected a suspicious urinalysis on Derby night May 4. James Chinn told the commission he has no doubts the sample contained phenylbutazone, an illegal medication in this state.

Chinn said that one test producd a postive reaction that was the strongest "I have ever seen." He admitted, however that he was not a qualified expert on other experiments for detecting the drug and had to rely on the findings of state chemist Kenneth W. Smith.

On the basis of Smith's findings, the three stewards at Churchill Downs withheld the winner's share of the race from Dancer's Image, an action that the horse's owner, Peter Fuller of Boston, has appealed to the commission.

Earlier Friday, the three stewards—Leo O'Donnell, Lewis Faily, Jr., and John Goods—testified that they had "complete confidence" in Smith's report, which was submitted to them on Monday May 6, two days after the race.

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's precedent-breaking Saturday World Series opener next fall figures to make double trouble for professional football in a stepped-up scuffle for the October television spotlight.

The 1969 baseball season will run from April 7 through Oct. 2, followed by best-of-5 playoff sets between division winners in each league starting Saturday, Oct. 4 and the best-of-7 Series beginning Saturday, Oct. 11, The Associated Press learned Friday.

The playoffs, result of the new 24-team, four-division major league format, put baseball on a collision course with pro football for national television audiences at least two, and possibly three times . . . in the heart of the football season.

In recent years, there was only on Sunday conflict between World Series baseball and regular season pro football.

"We're not moving into their season," said American League President Joe Cronin after confirming that the baseball schedule had been set three month ago. "Heck, they've moved into ours. They start their season in July now."

Gilstrap, longtime Texas coach before becoming athletic director, will address an estimated 500 persons attending the first Hall of Fame dinner in the Breckenridge Armory.

BITTER PILL FOR DEGAULLE

Money Woes Aired Openly

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

BONN, Germany (AP) — Efforts to save the blighted French economy have created a new method of coping with monetary problems.

Devaluations used to be a lone wolf thing—carefully concealed, even lied about until the last moment. Nobody, least of all a foreigner, was told anything.

The French move toward devaluation of the franc was conducted in a kind of international goldfish bowl. Representatives of 11 countries and at least two international organizations discussed it for three days.

Now, said the U.S. secretary of the Treasury, Henry H. Fowler: "The day of the narrow, nationalistic, short-range view of international finance has been replaced."

On Friday, it was a bitter gift for the 78th birthday of President Charles de Gaulle, the symbol of every nation's right to go it alone. It was doubly bitter, because he had said that devaluation of the franc would be the "worst possible absurdity."

De Gaulle now is getting international insurance for what remains of French reserves. They have dipped below $4 billion from a high of $6.7 billion before the destructive strikes and riots last spring and the wage increases that followed.

The insurance comes in the form of a $2 billion fund that France can use, under the watchful eye of its international partners. It will be drawn down if Frenchmen continue to shift their holdings out of francs into other currencies. It will also have to be called on if France can not export as many goods as it buys from abroad.

The 10 or more countries involved will want to know what is happening to their money. They will no doubt have some polite but firm words to say if they think it is being squandered by unwise policies.

West Germany will be contributing the largest amount—$600 million. The importance of the sum indicates a superior West German position in the world economy.

Foreign Minister Willy Brandt is fond of saying that his country is an "economic giant, but a political dwarf." Reticence born of defeat in World War II has prevented West German leaders from throwing their weight around internationally. Now it may be increasingly felt.

The United States is the second largest contributor to the fund, with $500 million. Lately French-American relations have improved, although officials of both countries are quick to deny that French economic troubles have anything to do with it.

In any case, France is no longer in a position to encourage much speculation against the U.S. dollar, as it was often accused of doing in better French days.

Safety Board Lifts Rule On Facts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board, charged with probing all fatal air crashes, has lifted a rule that sealed the lips of investigators for more than a quarter century.

The board confirmed Friday that an order put into effect without publicity Oct. 23 instructed its 11 field ofices to make public promptly any factual information about aircraft accidents in their area.

The field men—those closest to the accident, and therefore the best informed—heretofore have been almost completely under wraps.

Under the old "part 311" pf regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board, they were allowed only to tell newsmen the name of the pilot, identify the plane as to type and say whether the accident was fatal.

Beyond that they could only refer questioners to CAB headquarters in Washington, a process that could delay detailed information on crashes for days.

In effect, instructions from safety Board Chairman Joseph J. O'Connell Jr., are to give the facts openly, freely and in an above-board manner, but not to get involved in speculation as to what happened or as to the causes of an accident.

"Our business in investigating is the collection of useful information as to aircraft accidents, O'Connell told the field men. "This information is no good unless we disseminate it. The gag rule is inconsistent with the whole concept of accident prevention."

Field officers are instructed not to wait to be queried about an accident but to telephone news media immediately on such an occurrence.

Sentenced In Death Of McAllen Man

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Jesse Hancock, 22, of Evansville, Ind., was sentenced to 40 years in prison Friday after he entered a plea of no contest to a murder with malice charge.

Hancock received the sentence from Dist. Judge Tom Hartley after he entered the surprise plea just three days before he was scheduled to go on trial in 92nd District Court.

The Indiana man had moved to Elsa earlier this year and had been charged in the shooting death of David Earl Rollier, 24, of McAllen.

Rollier, a Green Beret veteran of Vietnam combat, was shot to death June 14. His body was found outside his automobile about four miles south of McAllen. Officers said Rollier had been shot six times with a 22 caliber weapon.

Hancock was apprehended after Hidalgo County authorities discovered that someone was using blank checks and credit cards taken from Rollier's body.

A Department of Public Safety handwriting expert identified the signatures on checks cashed at Harlingen and Brownsville as that of Hancock.

Hidalgo County Dist. Atty. Oscar McInnis said the murder weapon was found never.

Insects Eyed As A Food

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — As the world's population increases a serious study is needed on the possibilities of insects a food for humans, says a University of California expert.

"It is curious," says Dr. Ronald Taylor, "that people don't mind eating invertebrates like lobster, crab and shrimp, which are scavengers of the sea, but recoil at eating caterpillars and grasshoppers, which feed on green plants."

Taylor, research pathologist at the university campus here, has been studying for several years the food possibilities of insects. He lectures on the subject and usually winds up by frying a batch of wax moth larvae, sprinkled with salt, and offering them around.

"I find men are more likely to try them than women," he said Friday in an interview. And more people will eat them if I cook them before their eyes than if I bring them ready cooked."

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

40 Years With Phone Co.

"Oh, I guess I just like people."

That statement by Ethel Mae Sturdivant, who observed her 40th anniversary with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Friday, explains why she has worked at her job so long and why she likes it so much.

Fellow employes gave Ethel a surprise party on the second floor of the local office Friday afternoon, and they presented her with the gift of a ruby ring. Also present for the special occasion were Bill Slocomb, staff supervisor for the Abilene District; Jewell Newby, group chief operator in Snyder; and, Bud Seward, district traffic superintendent from Abilene. Seward presented Ethel with a 40 - year service pin. A 40-year anniversary cake and punch were served.

"I started out my career here in 1928," recalled Ethel. "It was during the depression, and I had to transfer to Slaton, then to San Antonio and to El Paso in order to remain with the company," she added. She returned to Snyder in 1934 and has been here since then.

She said she originally accepted employment with Southwestern Bell to earn sufficient money to go to college.

"You know," she laughed, "I've only got credit in West Texas History and in Bible — I took those courses here through the extension service so they would have enough students for a class."

"Are you planning to retire?" Ethel was asked.

"Why no, of course not, she replied — of course, they won't let me stay around here for another 40 years"

Youth Is Convicted Of Murder

QUITMAN, Tex. (AP) — A district court jury Friday night convicted Jerry Hadaway, 18, of murder without malice in the shotgun slayings of his mother, father and grandfather.

The six-man, six-woman jury assessed a five-year prison sentence for the young East Texas farm youth after it spent several hours in finding him guilty.

The week-long trial went to the jury Friday soon after arguments by attorneys.

Speaking for the defense attorney F. L. Garrison told the jury: "The state wants you to believe the statement of confession which this young boy wrote in 1967 at the time of the shooting. But they want you to believe nothing else the defendant said."

In the statement, admitted to evidence, the youth said he shot his father after the older man told him, "I'm going to stomp hell out of you."

Then, his attorneys said, young Hadaway shot his mother and grandfather in a reflex action and that he held no animosity for them.

Lowell Holt, speaking for the prosecution, told the court that young Hadaway resented working on the family farm. Neighbors testified that the parents were "very strict" with the youth and compelled him to do more than the usual amount of chores.

Of the April 1967 shooting, Holt said: "If it's not cold-blooded murder with malice aforethought, then we don't have them, anymore."

Texas Votes Canvassed, Now Official

AUSTIN (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey carried Texas by 38,960 votes over Richard M. Nixon in the November presidential election, which saw third party candidate George C. Wallace get nearly 600,000 votes.

The official vote totals which were canvassed Friday, showed the Democratic ticket of Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie got 1,266,804 votes to win Texas' 25 electoral votes over the Republican ticket of Nixon and Spiro T. Agnew, who got 1,227,844.

Wallace, the American Party candidate, received 584,269 votes.

The other official vote totals in contested statewide races included:

Attorney General—Crawford Martin Democrat, 1,950,193; Sproesser Wynn, Republican, 807,499.

Comptroller—Robert S. Calvert, D, 1,875,656; John M. Bennett Jr., R, 854,620.

Treasurer—Jesse James, D, 1,977,220; Manuel Sanchez, R, 784,000.

Land Commissioner—Jerry Sadler, D, 1,925,757; Millard K. Neptune, R, 804,550.

Agriculture commissioner—John C. White, D, 1,883,340; E. G. Schuhart II, R, 827,414.

Railroad commissioner—Jim C. Langdon, D, 1,851,472; Jim Segrest R, 853,089.

Seven of the 14 proposed amendments were defeated, including those to:

—Raise the state welfare ceiling from 160 million to 175 million a year, 1,114,971 to 858,911.

—Raise legislators' salaries from $4,800 a year to $8,400 1,021672 to 980,793.

—Provide tax exemptions for money spent by industries in installing anti-pollution devices, 996,044 to 949,922.

—Provide tax refunds on tobacco products in Texarkana, 1,509,841 to 598,927.

—Provide revenue bonds for industrial development, 976,943 to 939,023.

The seven amendments approved included those to:

—Abolish the state ad valorem property tax 1,251,528 to 700,078.

—Permit consolidation of governmental functions in El Paso and Tarrant counties, 916,191 to 906,826.

Cooling Off Seen For Retail Sales

AUSTIN (AP) — Taxes and the probability of reduced federal spending early in 1969 may dampen Texas and national retail sales, the Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

"Retailers in Texas and across the nation are still riding the crest, but some can see" signs of change, the bureau said.

"In Texas, as nationally, inflation and the surtax have not had the expected cooling effect, shoppers obviously using their increased incomes, and even savings, to offset increasing prices and taxes."

Income tax payers must "have a final reckoning" next year when the taxes retroactive to April 1 from July 1 this year must be paid. "Also, the social security tax rate will make another advance and federal spending will probably be curtailed," the bureau said. These developments may curb the boom, it said.

Optimistic economists "see a continuance of the rising momentum, after a relative lull in October. They base this opinion on the strength of most business indicators, with no really weak sectors; rises in income; the sharp increase in housing starts; the high level of car sales, with a record 9.5 million cars estimated for 1968, topping the 1965 high of 9.3 million; plans for increased capital investment; the baby boom; and the willingness of shoppers to spend money."

Even though the Christmas shorter this year due to a late Thanksgiving, some economists predict a record holiday spending season, the bureau said.

Texas retail sales increased 7 per cent in October, compared to September's figure. Sales in Austin were up 12 per cent, Houston 10, Dallas 15, El Paso, Fort Worth and San Antonio 7 per cent.

Stewardess Entitled To Jobless Pay

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Celeste Lansdale, who was fired from her job as an airline stewardess for being married, has been granted jobless pay by the Florida Industrial Commission.

An appeals referee for the commission ruled that Mrs. Lansdale was entitled to compensation since marriage did not constitute misconduct.

Mrs. Lansdale's husband, Richard, an attorney, said he will file suit against United Air Lines for back pay. The airline has agreed to give Mrs. Lansdale her job back.

Wildcats In Midland Area

AUSTIN (AP) — Four wildcat oil wells, all in the Midland district, were drilled during the past week, the Railroad Commission reported Saturday. The year total of wildcats is 242, or 176 fewer than a year ago.

The commission said four wildcat gas wells were drilled, one in the Midland district and three in San Antonio's No. 2 district, to raise the total for the year to 387, or 86 fewer than a year ago.

A total of 74 oil wells were completed during the week, raising the year total to 4,517 or 1,065 fewer than a year ago. The 39 gas wells completed passed the total for the year to 1,974, or 234 fewer than a year ago.

The commission said 92 wells were plugged, 35 of them dry holes.
