School Bond Election Called June 7

Board Hires Ag Teacher

Max Malone was hired by the school board Saturday as an instructor of vocational agriculture in Olton High for 1958-'59 school year.

Mr. Malone, a native of Olton who will be graduated from Texas Tech next month, will succeed J. C. Lane, who has played a leading role in building Olton's FFA chapter as one of the top in the nation. Mr. Lane has been an FFA advisor here for the past four years. He is retiring from teaching to farm here.

Graduated from OHS in 1950, Mr. Malone is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Malone of Route 1. He will receive a bachelor of science degree in agricultural education.

In addition to his four years of college training, the new member of the vo-ag teaching department has served a four-year hitch in the navy since high school graduation.

He did his practice teaching stint this year in Littlefield High School.

While a student in Olton High, Mr. Malone was active in sports—football and basketball—and FFA. He was president of the Class of 1950 and was vice president of the FFA chapter.

Harold Warren is the other member of the department. He is concluding his second year here.

Allow Travel Expense

In addition to hiring the new ag teacher, board members voted to pay each teacher in the ag department four cents a mile travel expense after they had used their federal-allotted travel money of $800 yearly. No travel expense will be paid in excess of $300, it was decided.

In other Saturday business, the board agreed to accept an offer from Chastain and Creel, paving contractors, to have the school's bus loading area paved.

The paving firm is doing some pavement seal coating work for the city now. In addition to the bus loading area, two "wings", which run adjacent to the streets to the east and to the south of the high school building, will also be paved.

The accepted contract is for 70 cents per square yard.

Sitting in on the Saturday session was Joe W. Harper, who will become superintendent of schools here July 1. Mr. Johnson, who will assume superintendent's duties at Abernathy on that date, reported that Mr. Harper was "pleased" with the action the board took.

$550,000 Required For New Buildings

A $550,000 bond election for expanding Olton School facilities has been called for June 7.

Board of trustees decided to schedule the election in a meeting which began Saturday morning and continued well into the afternoon. In their April meeting, members of the board decided against scheduling the balloting until "after September 1."

Reason for changing the earlier decision was that interest rates on bonds have taken a downward turn. The trustees feel that they can save the school district interest money by having the election as early as possible.

Bob Davis, representing three bond companies, is handling details of the bonds. He met with the board in a regular meeting Tuesday night and suggested to the board that now would be a good time to schedule the election since he could make a better interest rate deal than he had been able to do in the past. Members of the board took no action Tuesday night, but agreed at that time to discuss the idea again Saturday.

Mr. Davis made his proposal to the board, and the board considered it in executive session—a representative of this newspaper was not present. After the board met throughout the morning and took time out for lunch, Supt. Noel Johnson made announcement of the decision shortly after 2 PM.

Interest rate on the $550,000 worth of bonds will be 3.397 per cent, if they are voetd. "This is the lowest rate Olton Schools have ever had on bonds, with one exception," Mr. Johnson, who considered the low rate "a stroke of luck," said.

Though the deal has been made, the board will meet with Mr. Davis again Friday night to iron out minor details and attend to formalities. Companies which will handle the proposed bonds are Columbian Securities, which Mr. Davis represents; R. J. Edwards Co., which was represented Saturday by Ernest Dickey; and Municipal Securities.

If the bonds are voted, they will pay for the construction of some 14 additional classrooms, expansion of the present cafeteria, and a new gym.

Plans for the expansion were drawn several weeks ago by James Atcheson and Atmar Atkinson, Lubbock architects.

The proposed gym features floor space approximately 75 by 100 feet, dressing rooms for boys and girls teams, two coaches' offices, and a seating capacity of 1500—750 permanent seats and 750 of the folding type.

Cafeteria plans call for an overall expansion of the present setup. A folding partition will be used to divide the eating area and it will be possible to feed 1500 students a day.

A highlight of the classroom construction will be a roofed area equivalent in size to four classrooms, but with no partitions. This will be used as a wintertime play area for youngsters. When the additional classrooms are needed walls will be constructed in the area.

TO RAISE TAXES

The proposed improvements will cause taxes to be raised. Exactly how much is not known at present. However, Mr. Johnson emphatically pointed out that there will be no more than a 25 per cent tax increase.

In addition to balloting on the bond issue June 7, voters will also vote to decide for or against Senate Bill 116 which technically has to do with the way school tax money may be spent. The bill was passed on the state level two years ago, but it is necessary that it be voted on the local level before it may be put into effect.

Mr. Johnson pointed out the bill had been voted for in 90 per cent of the local district elections where it has come up. "The only time it has failed has been where the people were not informed as to what it was," Mr. Johnson said. A detailed explanation of the bill will be offered in future issues of this newspaper.

PETITION IN CIRCULATION

A petition asking that the election be called is in circulation this week and the board will take official action on it in the Friday night session. It is necessary that a petition be presented to the trustees so than an election can be officially scheduled.

The bonds will be for 20 years. However, the school district will have the option of paying them off in 15 years if it so desires.

To be on a Saturday, the election will be in the school cafeteria. Election officials will be named between now and Friday. A total of 1,000 ballots will be printed.

Included in the interest rate of 3.397 per cent, is the bonding company's and attorney's fees. "The only thing it won't cover is the paying of election officials and the bonding company is prohibited by law to do that," Mr. Johnson said.

Olton's last school bond issue was in 1953 and the interest rate was 3.6 per cent, including legal proceedings fees.

All board members were present for the Saturday meeting. Motion to call the election was made by G. T. Sides and second was by Doyle Pinson, Mr. Johnson announced when the executive session had ended and the press and the bond company men had been permitted to come back into the meeting.

Memorial Service By Dr. Dennison

Time turned backward Wednesday night for Olton Methodists as they heard a former pastor preach a memorial sermon at the old church building.

Preaching was Dr. Dallas Dennison, pastor of the Methodist Church here when the old building was erected in 1934.

Olton Methodists are about to vacate their present building and move into a magnificient $150,000 structure at the northeastern edge of Olton. First service in the new building has been scheduled for the first Sunday in June.

BAND TO MARCH

Olton High School Band will march in Armed Forces Day parade in Clovis, NM this Saturday, band director Fred Stockdale announced.

MOTEN RESIGNS

Eckard Named Enterprise Editor

Editorial reins of the Enterprise were in the process of changing hands this week.

Dolph Moten, who has covered Olton's news events since the last week in February, has resigned to accept a position with The State Line Tribune in Farwell. He will leave Olton the latter part of this week.

Sharing duties with Moten this week, and stepping into fill his shoes next week, will be Connie Eckard who was discharged from the Air Force only last week. A graduate of Texas A&M, Eckard was with The Seguin Enterprise before entering the service. His wife, Joyce, will join him here some time in June.

"I am really sincere," Moten commented, "when I say that I have been impressed with the attitude of the people here. They are greatly interested in the growth and betterment of Olton as a community. I want to thank the people for making this one of the interesting and enjoyable periods of my journalistic career. I am sorry to be leaving."

Although Moten is reluctant to leave Olton, he feels the position of editor-manager being made him in Farwell is too good to refuse.

Eckard has been associated with various Texas newspapers since he started as a "printer's devil" with The Arlington Citizen in 1947. Since then he has worked with The Dallas Morning News, The Hondo Anvil-Herald, The Bryan Daily Eagle and The Pasadena Citizen.

While at Texas A&M, he was editor of the Commentator, a quarterly magazine for the school of arts and sciences; news editor of the college newspaper, The Battalion, and wrote for the quarterly magazine, the Agriculturalist. Between his junior and senior years he served as news editor of The Navasota Examiner, a weekly in southeast Texas.

He was also secretary of the Texas A&M chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, and treasurer of the Press Club. His other activities included co-captain and two-year letterman on the boxing team and vice-president of the Aggie Players, college drama group.

Mrs. Eckard, a native of Tuckerman, Ark. was photographer for the Daily Lass-O while she was a student of Texas State College for Women in Denton.

Ralph Glover Fires ORC's First "Hole-In-One" Shot

Ralph Glover, Olton Southwestern Public Service Co. manager, shot an often-thought-of, seldom-done, hole-in-one at Olton Recreation Center course last Thursday afternoon.

It was the first one-shot hole ever played in the history of Olton's course. Also, it was the first in the five-year golfing career of Mr. Glover.

The attention-attracting feat was accomplished on 165-yard long No. 2 hole about "5:35," Thursday afternoon, witnesses reported. Par for the hole is three.

Playing with the left-handed swinging Glover at the time of the one-shot were Carroll Cox, president of ORC; Howard Buchenau, who won the club's sweepstakes tournament last month; and Randee Buchenau, son of Howard, who is a member of Olton High's golf team.

The three witnesses signed Mr. Glover's scorecard to verify the unusal effort.

A seven iron was used for the blast. "Usually, I use a four or five iron, on No. 2," Mr. Glover pointed out, "but there was a strong north wind blowing toward the green."

The ball hit the green some "eight or 10 feet" in front of the cup and then "rolled out of sight." Mr. Glover said he didn't know if it had gone in the cup or rolled off the green on the far side. Other members of the foursome, who were probably keeping a closer watch on the ball than was Mr. Glover, who was occupied with his follow-through, tried to tell him the shot was a hole-in-one. However, we wasn't convinced until he saw the ball in the cup.

Just this spring, Mr. Glover, who has been playing 'cow pasture pool' for five years and regularly for two years, took a series of lessons from Glenn Miller, pro at the course.

For that particular round, Mr. Glover had a score of 49 on the par 36 course. On hole No. 1, he had a double bogey—seven strokes on the par-five hole. On No. 3, the first hole after the feat, he was one over par with a five on the par-four hole.

Brand of the ball he used for the shot was "Titleist." For the accomplishment, manufacturers of the sphere, will mount THAT ball on a metal ash tray which will be engraved with appropriate information.

Missed Turn Slams Ford Into Chevrolet Building

Just another fella named Thompson.

Ernest Thompson, 15, of Plainview, misjudged his turn coming from Highway 70 on to Main Avenue and crashed the 1950 tudor Ford he was driving into the showroom of Thompson Chevrolet Co. at about 10:05 PM Tuesday. Damages to Thompson's showroom were estimated in excess of $1,000.

Police Chief Vernie Head was behind the car and saw the entire occurrance. Thompson, apparently unused to espanades such as the one which runs along Olton's Main Avenue, tried to turn too soon. Realizing his mistake, and attempting to correct, he lost control of the car. Head estimated Thompson's speed at about 20 miles per hour at the time of impact.

Myra Kimball, 13, Olton junior high student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sills, was one of the five passengers who included Jack Alvis, 14, Shirley Anderson, 15, and Peggy Smith, 13, of Plainview and E. J. Kartes, 18, of Kress who is the owner of the automobile. The group was returning from Plainview at the time of the accident.

All six were rushed to Olton Memorial Hospital where they were treated by Dr. Lynn Fite. Thompson was given a sedative and put to bed. He was found to be "shaken up" but suffering only from minor cuts and bruises. A skinned knee and small head cut suffered by the Smith girl were the only other injuries. All were released from the hospital Tuesday night.

ironing things out

Without a doubt, the Junior-Senior banquet Friday evening was one of the liveliest, if not the MOST, I've attended in Olton.

If entertainment is what you were after, entertainment is what you got. And such as array of talent! Wonder why they keep it hidden so much?

There was a GREAT variety of ability displayed. I say LET's HAVE MORE OF IT!

Thanks heaps, Juniors, for inviting Troy and me. I wouldn't have missed it!

And just what is "Clubwoman of the year?"

Well, many towns have one. So Olton does, too. Last year was our first, and Mrs. Paul Burrus received the honor.

It all began in these columns. Yours truly kept hinting for some club or group to make up such an award, and nobody did, so yours truly did.

It took a lot of thinking and "figgering," but seems to have worked out pretty well.

All clubs that have women members are invited to participate. They do not have to be federated clubs. In our case, we have six: Olton, New Century and Bykota Study Clubs, Garden Club, P-TA and Classroom Teachers.

They are given a list of qualities on which to judge and select a candidate from each club, and these nominees are turned to me. Then, a committee of five impartial persons, none of whom have any direct connection with any of the clubs, is selected to meet secretly and make the final selection from information turned in about each candidate.

NOW—here comes the good part.

Last year, we had the plaque engraved, called Mrs. Burrus down to the Enterprise, and very unceremoniously presented the award to her. But we thought it could be better.

And, I'm so glad to know, so did the other women.

And, so this year, we're going to have some sort of get-together, for the sole purpose of presenting Olton's 1957-58 Clubwoman of the Year. All the clubs are getting together (that is, representatives from each club are) to make the plans. It will be somewhat hurried this year, because time is running out this month.

But at the same time, it will permit recognition of ALL the candidates in a much more meritorious way, and lend dignity and meaning to the very award itself.

I am so thankful to all the clubs for their response and cooperation in this project. I believe it will get better every year and grow into a major social function of the club year.

But more important, I believe it will remind the public that women do a great many worthwhile things through organizations such as ours, and perhaps it will even incite more women to do MORE things.

So watch for announcement of the specific plans. It will come soon.

Bandera Dude Ranch Announced As Destination Of Senior Trip

Completing many years of labor at the books, Olton High School seniors will become dude ranchers immediately following graduation.

Senior class co-sponsor Bob Fisher announced this week that 45-47 members of the graduating class will leave here after graduation Friday night, May 23, and spend four days and nights at a dude ranch near Bandera, in Southwest Texas.

Seniors will make the trip by chartered bus.

"Besides the bus we will probably take a car or two," Mr. Fisher said, "because of the large number making the trip."

All costs for recreational activities are paid for. Money has been raised by members of the class since they were freshmen. Money raising has come from wide and varied activities.

Recreational activities at the Bandera ranch will include swimming, horseback riding and numerous games. Also paid for are meals and lodging.

Accompanying the seniors to the dude ranch will be Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and Mr. Fred Mullinax, co-sponsor of the group. Parents of seniors making the trip will include Mr. and Mrs. Orian Hackler, Mr . and Mrs. Buck Nicholas, Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Hatley and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Silcott.

There are 54 members of the graduating class.

Ammo-Phos Ordinary Fertilizer

AMMO-PHOS
is water soluble...

Experiments prove that crops take up more phosphate from water soluble Ammo-Phos fertilizer than from common mixed fertilizer.

MAKE THIS EASY TEST

Place one-half teaspoonful of the fertilizer you are now using in a glass of water. Then place a similar quantity of Ammo-Phos in another glass of water. Stir both mixtures for several minutes. Notice how water soluble Ammo-Phos goes into solution while the mixed fertilizer collects at the bottom of the glass. Even if left for several days, the ordinary mixed fertilizer will not dissolve completely.

With Ammo-Phos your crop gets what you put in the ground.

Vegetable Growers, Gamblers Have Something In Common

While vegetable production in the area is a small part of the overall agriculture picture, the number of acres being planted in truck crops is increasing.

Most noticeable sign of the additional interest in vegetables is the contract which 30 farmers have to grow 255 acres of cucumbers with Brown-Miller Co., Texarkana, processors of Rainbo Pickles.

Earlier in the year, the contracts were signed and the planting date is scheduled to be as near to June 1 as possible. Brown-Miller will furnish cucumber seeds to the farmers who have signed contracts for $1 a pound. The seed is scheduled to be made available this month.

A yield of 75,000 bushels is expected to be harvested from the signed-for acreage. Cucumbers of Grade No. 1 have been contracted for $5 cwt. The price decreases, of course, with the grade.

Farmers will deliver their crops to Olton when they are harvested. The cucumber-growing plan was promoted by Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

From the standpoint of local businesses, the cucumber idea, and the entire vegetable program, is good in that it will release money in the community during the summer—at a time when business is ordinarily slow in a farming community which depends entirely on cotton and grain.

LAST YEAR WAS ROUGH

Vegetable growers tend to have attitudes more like those of gamblers than do conventional cotton and grain farmers. This trait may possibly be traced to the fact that vegetables don't have the cushion of a support price and therefore the market may go up and down like a yo-yo from year to year.

Farmers here who have tried vegetable-production seem to agree that a farmer shouldn't invest more than "he can afford to lose" in the unpredictable crop. Too, they leave the impression that it's poor business to jump in and out of the business. Due to the fact there are years when profits are lean, if any, vegetable-men feel the smart thing to do is get into the business and stay in. By doing this, a grower is assured of having a crop during the "gravy" years.

For onion farmers, last year was a bad one.

Cleo Smith, who farms north and west of Olton, had 25 acres of onions last year and "lost money." However, he bounced back this season with 46 acres. This might seem that Mr. Smith is making like the aformentioned "double up and catch up." However, he said such was not the case. "This looked like it would be a good onion year," Mr. Smith said.

Last year's price was too cheap, Mr. Smith explained. Early in the harvest period, they brought $1.85 per 50-pound sack. However, as harvest progressed the price quickly dropped to a $1 a sack and less.

Cleo feels that, due to the additional labor involved, among other things, a farmer must get "something over $1.50 a sack" and produce 400 to 600 sacks per acre to "make any money."

Using local labor, Mr. Smith got this year's onion crop in the ground around the first of April and expects to harvest the latter part of July.

"That cloudy, cold weather we had earlier in the spring was hard on onions," he pointed out. Onion growers, like cotton farmers, like to see warm, sunshiny days and lots of them.

Mr. Smith, who, with A. J. Givens, operates an onion packing shed in Olton at harvest-time, said there's between 100 and 150 acres of Olton-area land in onions this year.

Last year, Mr. Smith's first in the onion-growing business, he processed the crop here and then turned it over to a broker. His plans are to follow the same course this year.

"Just Right For Cabbage"

Henry Aigaki, who is a neighbor of Mr. Smith's, has been growing vegetables for 25 years and in the Olton-area since 1952. Prior to coming here, he farmed in Colorado. Carrots, onions, and cabbage are the main crops he's grown. He said he'd tried other crops through the years, "but only on a small scale."

This year, Mr. Aigaki has 40 acres of cabbage and 50 acres of onions. The damp, cool spring has been "just right for my cabbage, but too cool for the onions," he said.

Both crops were planted the first of March. "I considered planting some carrots this year," he explained, "but I decided against it because last year was a good carrot year and I was afraid this year would return to normal since more carrots than usual will be grown."

Another thing that made Mr. Aigaki decide against growing Bug Bunny's favorite dish was that they require more labor at harvest than do onions and cabbage.

When asked about last year's vegetable crop, Mr. Aigaki acted as if he wished he hadn't been. "Last year was no good," he said, "I went in the hole." The price of onions wasn't good and "my cabbage was hailed out—just before harvest. That was rough!"

Prospects for this year's crop depend on the weather, Mr. Aigaki, who hires 15 laborers steady to carry on his vegetable program, believes. Lots of hot weather is what he is hoping for.

CUCUMBER PLAN GOOD

Henry believes the cucumber plan which is going into effect this year here is good because the crop is contracted before it is grown. However, he is not farming cucumbers this year because he didn't want to pull his labor away from his other two vegetable crops.

"Since it's been hard to get National labor this year, I've been using native help," he said and pointed out that he wasn't as satisfied with the labor situation now as he was when braceros could be used.

In addition to the 15 hands, Mr. Aigaki employs steadily, he usually hires "60 to 65" additional helpers to set out onion plants.

One of the big labor costs is keeping the onion crop free of weeds. Last week, both Mr. Aigaki and Mr. Smith joined an Olton insecticide dealer in an experiment with weed poison. The poison, which is supposed to kill the weeds and leave the crop unharmed, of course, was applied with a tractor and a sprayer. The poison had never been tried in this area, Mr. Aigaki said, "but if it will work we will save a lot of hand labor."

Though it would be incorrect to say that vegetable producers and gamblers must have the same characterictics, it's not difficult to see that vegetable growing, with all its hazards and lack of security, could, like gambling, get in your blood.

OCCA Committee Talks Dollar Day

A sub-committee has been considering Olton Dollar Day ideas for the past week.

At a meeting last Thursday morning a Dollar Day committee, which is a sub-committee of retail trades committee, discussed the Dollar Day idea and agreed to attempt to find out the feelings of merchants concerning such a promotion.

Rain's Damage To Cotton Varies In Community

Rain damage to young cotton in the area varies from 'washed out' to 'none at all'.

However, that which will have to be planted over is in the great minority and a summary of the overall picture would probably show that cotton near Olton is in good shape.

Speaking generally, it is safe to say that the young plants may be 'scratched up' where moisture has caused the soil to crust over.

Amount of rain received this week varied throughout the community. James Gallagher, who keeps rain records for Pioneer Natural Gas Company, reported .54 in Olton Sunday night and .13 Monday night.

May 19-24 To Be Observed As Cotton Week

In observance of the crop which is the life-blood of agriculture in this area, as well as other sections of the country, May 19-24 is set aside as National Cotton Week.

Though the number of acres planted in King Cotton are curtailed by government allotments, it continues to earn the right to wear its majestic title.

Flag Tournament Set Tuesday At ORC For Ladies Of Olton

Olton women will tee off in the Recreation Center's first Ladies Flag Golf Tournament, Tuesday, May 20.

Glenn T. Miller, club pro, said that ladies who plan on participating in the tourney must shoot a round of golf for score sometime prior to next Tuesday.

Scheduled to run all day, the tournament will be based on nine holes. There will be no entry fee and a small trophy will be given to the winner.

Due to some question as to how the tourney will function, Miller outlined the rules by which it will be governed. The score that each lady shoots in her qualifying round will be used as her handicap next Tuesday.

When the contestant arrives for competition, she will be given a small flag with the number of her qualifying score on it. When she has used up this number of strokes in her tournament round, she will place the flag in the ground at the point where her ball comes to rest.

Winner of the tourney will be determined by the flag which is furthest from the starting tee. In the event the contestant still has strokes remaining after completing nine holes she will continue to play until the qualifying score has been used up.

Agriculture's Brightest Spotlight Held By Beef Production

OLTON-AREA GRASS BETTER NOW THAN IN YEARS; MARKET IS GOOD

Beef production, after taking a terrific walloping from its worst enemy, drought, is coming back into its own in North Lamb County.

A High Plains agriculture columnist wrote recently, "Beef production is one of the really few bright spots in agriculture at the moment." Needless to say, it's difficult, if not impossible, to get local cattlemen to admit that such is the case. However, the general admittance among beef producers seems to be that their business is returning to "normal."

As in most cases, no one thing has made the business outlook bright; a group of reasons have brought the improved picture. And, oddly enough, the drought itself, as costly as it was, is one of the reasons. During the dry years, '52-'57, ranchers were forced to sell off, or at best decrease the size of, their herds. This had a tendency to make the cattle population less while at the same time the consumer continued to use as much, and possibly more, beef.

DROUGHT OVER

Adding to the brightness of the beef production picture is the fact that THE drought is over. There's a constant possibility, of course, that another will set in, but the dry spell of 1952 through 1957 is broken. This year, grass looks better than it has in years.

Rains last fall, during the winter and this spring have done much to put grassland back in the normal position it enjoyed in pre-drought years.

Merrill Brigance, who operates a 5,000 acre ranch five miles south of Olton, though not overly optimistic, said he feels better about the livestock prospects now than he has in recent years.

Good grass and good cattle market are the reasons for his feelings. In regard to the price of cattle, he pointed out that some spring calf crops have been contracted for fall delivery at prices in the neighborhood of 28 to 30 cents a pound. "That's a nickel a pound above last year's price," he explained.

This spring's calf crop was normal, and possibly better than normal, because the cattle were in better shape, he said.

MAY STAY GOOD

If the area continues to receive sufficient moisture, the market on both stocker and fat cattle is expected to stay good. With moisture a'plenty and grass good, stockmen will be buying replacement cattle for those which were sold during the drought. This will tend to hold the price of stocker cattle up.

Mr. Brigance also pointed out that no ranches here are carrying a normal stock of mother cows because of the grass situation—though it's good this year, pastures have not fully recovered from the five-year parching they suffered. "It'll take three good years to get our pastures back in as good a shape as they were before the drought," he estimated.

On the darker side of the bright beef picture is the possibility that the rains might be over for the summer. If this happened, ranchers wouldn't be buying replacement cattle and the price of stocker cattle would be expected to drop accordingly. If the situation became severe, some breeding cattle would have to be sold because of a lack of grass and this, too, would make the price tumble.

COYOTES NO PROBLEM

"I don't guess we lost a calf to coyotes this year," Mr. Brigance said when questioned about the animal which is sometime a menace to new born calves. "But one year, not too many years back, we lost 27 calves (via the coyote route)," he said.

The difference in this year and that year as far as the coyote problem is concerned is that jackrabbits were scarce then and they aren't now. "If there's plenty of jackrabbits, coyotes don't bother calves much, but when the jackrabbit supply runs short, the coyotes get hungry," Mr. Brigance said.

Jackrabbits are more plentiful during times when there's sufficient moisture.

MORE CATTLE FEEDING

Mr. Brigance, who ordinarily feeds from 100 to 150 calves during winter months, feels this country has a wonderful potential for cattle feeding. Because of the area's ability to produce abundant grain crops, he feels the cattle feeding business will become a more prominent part of the local agriculture picture as time goes on.

Tornado Alerts Sunday Nite Cost Citizens Sleep

Sirens wailed and tornado-conscious residents of Olton scurried for their storm cellars late Sunday night.

Fire trucks raced up and down the city streets between midnight and 12:30 AM screaming their warnings to the citizens. Around 2 AM the clouds began to clear and people started moving back to their homes which had been untouched except for a smattering of raindrops.

Reports said the closest actual tornado activity was at Fieldton, although there was no reported damage there.

Mayor D. Y. Ray and Police Chief Vernie Head reminded citizens of the warning system now in effect. The sirens of the fire trucks will indicate there is a tornado in the area while the big siren at the fire station is warning that a twister is headed toward the city.

How to swallow a bitter pill

First, find a bitter pill. There are so few nowadays. It all started because children, bless 'em, are so good at resisting bad-tasting medicine. You can medicate their chins or hair, but getting the stuff in them is beyond the ken of science. Kids can spit a country mile. So pharmacists began sugar-coating pills, putting medication in capsules, or mixing with sweet syrup. And we soon found that adults, too, like medicine the easy way. So now, most of our prescriptions are quite pleasant to take. If you should run into one of the few bitter ones, believe us, there are good medical reasons for it.

WOMEN OF THE BIBLE by Metta N. Thomas, Twentieth Century Christian Publishing Co., $2.00

In this little, beautifully-bound book you meet a long procession of Biblical women from Eve to Lois and Eunice.

The author gives as one of her purposes in writing this series of character studies the following quotation from the Bible:

"Whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning . . ." (Romans 15:4) .

And much can be learned and applied to our lives from a study of the lives of these women. For the virtues and the vices of the women of olden times are with us today. Fashions may change, but human nature remains the same through the ages.

With a great deal of compassion and understanding the fallen women of the Bible are pictured. The contrasting attitudes of the self-righteous Simon and the righteous, forgiving Jesus are a lesson for us in the chapter about the Sinful Woman.

From the albums of the Old and New Testaments you see word portraits of the good women, the great women. The author says, "Much of the strength, happiness, and security of the world is dependent on womankind."

She quotes from Psalms 144:12 ". . . that our daughters may be as cornerstones hewn after the fashion of a palace."

And she gives some suggestions to mothers of today based on the admirable characteristics of the good mothers of the Bible:

"1. Begin early. Your child learns more the first six years than he will ever learn after that.

"2. When you tuck your child in bed at night pray to God for guidance and thank him for your child. Soon your child will want to pray to God, too.

"3. Always take time to express thanks at mealtime.

"4. Establish a regular period in the day for family devotions.

"5. Call attention often to the beauty of the world as God has made it. Create and cultivate in the child a sense of wonder as you view the sunset, the rose, the stars, the birds.

"6. Give your child a Testament or Bible for his very own just as soon as he is able to carry it.

"7. Make much of special occasions in the home. . . Try to make occasions for the family to work together, play together, and pray together."

Although this book lacks the polish and the completeness of Edith Dean's ALL THE WOMEN OF THE BIBLE, it is a valuable source of information and inspiration.

BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS FLOWER ARRANGING BOOK, Meredith Publishing Co., $2.95

In the spring, a woman's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of flowers. (Also spring cleaning, weeds, and dandelions, ugh).

But in order to reap the most from her harvest of cut flowers, she should learn something of flower arranging.

For there is a world of difference between poking flowers down in a vase and creating an artistic arrangement.

This new book on flower arranging, complete with 200 pictures, is packed with inspirational know-how for making lovely arrangements for everyday and special occasions.

GARDENING, A NEW WORLD FOR CHILDREN by Sally Wright, Macmillan, $2.75

This book is a delightful must for the child with a green thumb.

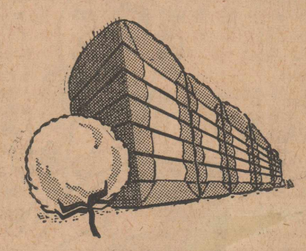

Such exciting chapter titles as "party garden, cook's garden, celebrations ahead, the world of make-believe, bouquet garden, a nose garden, thereby hangs a tale, odd behavior garden, believe-it-or-not, just to be different, pocket-money garden, for the young scientist, getting down to earth, winter gardening, hobby riding, lilliputian gardens, the spirit of adventure, love it and leave it" make this book fun to read even for the adult arm chair gardener.

175 Persons Entertained At Junior-Senior Banquet

Colorful decor, elaborate costumes, and plentiful talent joined forces Friday night to entertain some 175 persons as the Junior Class of OHS staged the annual Junior-Senior banquet for the Class of 58.

Based on a "Showboat" theme, with live and realistic background, the affair presented three groups of performers in complete costume of the Old South. Banquet King and Queen James Carson and Shirley Nichols were crowned by Charlie Giles and Nell Smith.

Junior Class President Charlie Giles, as Cap'n of the "River Queen," emceed the dinner. The entire lunchroom was decorated accordingly, from a ramp through which guests entered, to life preservers conveniently placed around the walls, paper "waves" surrounding the tables, miniature boats for centerpieces, and nut cups, place cards and programs carrying out the theme. The ceiling was completely draped with red and white crepe paper streamers, and bales of cotton were placed around the "deck."

The decorating was done in about three hours' time, according to Jimmy Goss and Don Johnson, Junior class sponsors.

The three groups of entertainers were the Carolina Belles, the Kapering Chorus from Cottontree County, and the Merry Minstrels. The Carolina Belles, accompanied by Harold Carson, sang and pantomimed "Oh Little Liza" 'Chlo-e." They were Patsy Moss, Joan Buchner, Sandie Loveless, Doniece Silcott, Kay Sherman and Gayle Machen.

Following the coronation of the King and Queen, ten Junior girls did a top-hat routine, "Balling the Jack" accompained on piano by Judy Price. The chorus line was composed of Juanelle Andrew, Sydney Hair, Linda Clark, Charla Granbery, Ellen Jones, Charlotte Loveless, Barbara Roberts, Pat Peterson, Judy Ogletree, and Jane Thurman.

Entertainment was climaxed by the performance of the Merry Minstrels. Sonny Bryant acted as interlocutor. Other blackface comedians were Royce Bodkin, who surprised the audience with a knee-lock dance, and later with a solo, "Swing Low;" Jerry Meyer, who was identifiable only by his high-style cornet-playing; L. H. McAdams, who presented a unique version of "Roses Are Red;" and Jimmy Robbins, Bill Austin, Joe Miller and Mac McGill, all of whose ad-libbing and antics kept the audience howling.

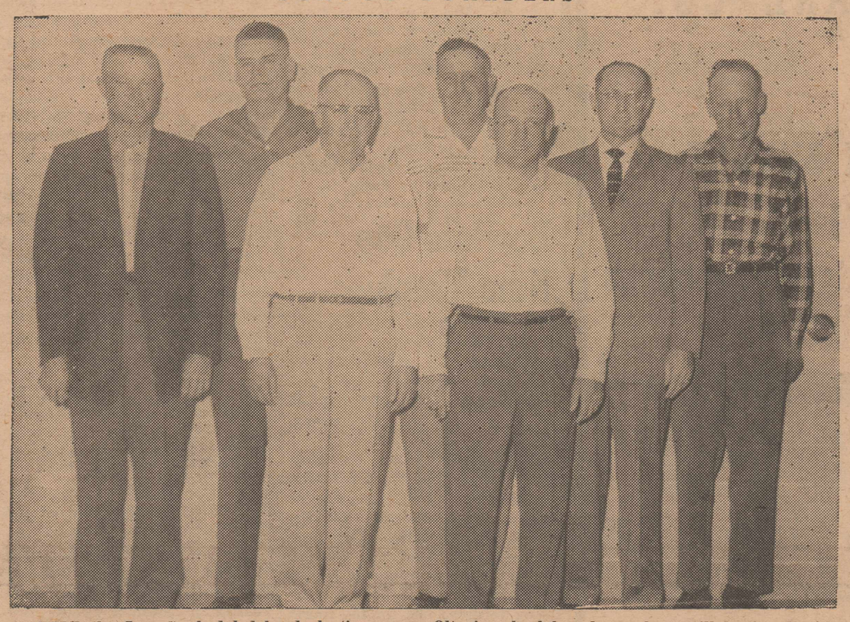

A trio, "Ole Man River," by Bill Austin, Jerry Meyer and Joe Miller sparked the act.

Waiting tables were 13 girls of the sophomore class, made up as Southland Mammies and Chillun. They were Gayle McAnally, Jean Williams, Janet Oak, Judy Chester, Koenia Schenck, Prissy Bostick, Judy Lacewell, Sharron Dennis, Pat LaFrance, Joyce Cruce, Sue Witten and Janice Campbell.

Invocation was said by Sonny Bryant. Marmaduke Royce Bodkin gave the Junior Welcome, with Senior Response by Colonel Kent Wozencraft. Fred Gordon, elementary school principal, said the benediction.

Parents of seniors were also guests at the banquet.

Remaining On Schedule

Progressing as scheduled.

This is the current status of Olton Recreation Center's swimming pool. Dr. James E. Fite, chairman of the committee, reported opening day which has been set for June 1, would probably be adhered to.

Concrete has been poured in the bottom of the pool and early this week gunite was being shot on the sides. Underwater light pockets have been installed.

A meeting of the committee was set for Thursday to discuss and arrive at the opening day program, Dr. Fite said.

Teachers Often Not Appreciated

Here it is time for our school teachers to take a well-earned summer vacation. Many of them will spend their "vacation" in colleges working on higher degrees or on some required refresher courses, etc. Others will take jobs to try to supplement their salaries.

Since this is "Teacher Appreciation Week," we should take time from our own busy schedule and think of the many things we have to be thankful to our teachers for. They not only have scholastic responsibilities, but are called on to help in community projects through donations of time and money.

Let's show our appreciation, not only this week, but in the future, by showing much more respect for these dedicated men and women and by trying to instill this respect in our children. Why not try working with pride in our school and its teachers? Why not try working with our teachers and not against them? Let's give them the credit they are due. They are trained people—trained to educate our children.

When there are problems, let's try to settle them in a mature way, for our children are watching—we must set the example that they live by. Working together we can make a wonderful team and turn out a wonderful group of well-balanced young men and women ready to take their places in the world. Working in opposition, we can turn out a group of one-sided, spoiled children that feel sorry for themselves and that expect the world to give them something for nothing. Which do we want in Hart?

This & That

BY MYRT LOMAN

Last week was "Teacher Appreciation Week." It is a pity that sometimes we have to be older to learn to appreciate so many things that are done to try to help us in the future years.

A teacher, who is a teacher, because he or she has something to pass on, is of such great value. They are not in the school room for pay, as there are ever so many positions that pay more.

The Seniors have not realized they are now Mr. and Miss to the world. They are not children anymore. They are going out into the world to make SOMETHING of THEMSELVES, and to be a SOMEBODY. They must realize the world does not owe them anything; they must work, and work hard, toward their goal.

There will come a time, and ever so soon, when they can look back to their school days and say, "Why did I not try to take every advantage the teacher tried to give me? Teacher was not mad at me, that I might be able to help myself. Just trying to help me meet some of the many things I am so soon to come face to face with. Some day, teacher, I will wish it were possible for me to thank you in person, for your time and patience in trying to teach me. I will want to apologize to those who tried, and I did not respond."

All in all, our teachers were once young, and know we cannot put old heads on young shoulders. Before this term of school is out, go to your teacher and give them THANKS. They are human and love a compliment, just like you and I.

tat

The seniors were greatly missed from our church services, still being on their trip. Hope they had a wonderful trip.

tat

Did you know the American Legion is trying to sponsor a Little League this year? They need our support, not our neighbors' support, but mine and yours. Perhaps you do not have a child that age, but does your neighbor? At our age we do not have the energy we once had, but our youngsters are still full of it. So let's help them dispose of some of it, and, in the proper way.

The Legion needs our moral support, and financial help, so let each of us back our ears and get at the task. Any member of the Legion will be happy to take your money, or leave it at the bank, with Norlan Dudley. We each can give of our moral support.

I don't think Hart has ever started anything we did not put our HEARTS into.

Understand some money is still needed for lights for the field, and the field can be used for any outdoor sport.

The ladies are still trying to get a soft ball team. If you are interested in playing, please contact Mrs. Stewart Newsom.

Please will you put your HEART in HART, and let's try to help our fellow man?
