Local Head Start program gets review by state group

Representatives of Governor Ann Richard's office met with local officials here Thursday for an in-depth study concerning Scurry County's Head Start program.

Snyder Child Day Care Center, which operates the local program, was chosen by the Texas Head Start Collaboration Project as one of eight model programs to study nationwide.

Exchanging ideas at the meeting were Nancy Hard and Gwen Chance of the governor's office, and Stephanie Brown, with the Abilene office of the Texas Department of Human Services. They met with local and county government officials, school and college administrators and other local agency representatives.

Fritz said that being chosen as a model program brings recognition to Snyder in positive ways. She praised the school system and other organizations and agencies which help to make the local Head Start program a success.

Included in the Texas Head Start Collaboration Project are the Texas Department of Human Services, Texas Education Agency, Head Start, Texas Instruments, United Way, Corporate Child Development Fund, Communities Foundation of Texas, Tenneco Corporation, parents and other child care providers.

Attending the meeting were Troy Williamson, mayor; Ricky Fritz, chamber of commerce; Dr. Tom Scannicchio, Snyder ISD; Dr. Harry Krenek, Western Texas College; Linda Sparks, CPS, Texas Dept. of Human Services; and Stephanie Knipe, R.N., Scurry County Health Unit.

Others were Jeff Fowler, Scurry County United Way; Jimmie Bender, Child Care Management Service; Becky Medina, Child Care Management Service; and Roann Clay, Scurry County Head Start director.

Also attending were Snyder Child Day Care Center board members, including chairman Rodger Sullenger, vice chairman Darryl Calley; secretary Alisa Cain; Barbara Granato, Roy Idom, Pat Wittie, Marie Clark, Darla Traylor, Belia Romero and Bob Cole.

Scouts to pick up food bags Saturday

The annual Scouting for Food drive begins Saturday morning in Snyder and throughout the county.

Cub Scouts from Pack 61 and 177 and Boy Scouts from Troop 27 began distributing plastic collection bags door-to-door earlier this week. Citizens are asked to put canned goods and other non-perishible food items in the bags and place them outside their homes at or before 9 a.m. on Saturday.

Scouts will begin picking up the filled bags at 9 a.m. Depending on the weather, it will take the volunteers until early-to-mid afternoon to collect all the bags.

Residents outside Snyder city limits, or those in the city who did not receive a collection bag, are asked to place food donations in their own bags and take them to Gentle Dove Ministries or any of the local grocery stores.

Ira and Hermleigh residents can place their bags in front of Ira Community Center or Hermleigh Community Center for pickup Saturday.

The 1991 effort collected over 6,500 pounds of non-perishible food and the local scouting organizations were awarded a "Hunger Heros" End Hunger Award from the South Plains Food Bank for their work.

All of the food collected is distributed through the food bank at Gentle Dove Ministries here.

SCOUTING FOR FOOD — Troop 27 members Joe Mac Cheyne, left, and Chad McMillan will be among the Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts picking up filled Scouting for Food bags door-to-door Saturday morning.

Agreement reached...

Europe, U.S. avert possible trade war

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The United States and the European Community reached a trade agreement today that settled a dispute over E.C. farm subsidies and averted a trade war.

The agreement was announced simultaneously in Brussels and Washington.

"I am hopeful that the breakthrough that we achieved today will spur movement across the board" toward resolving remaining differences in forging new liberalized international trade rules, President Bush said.

Talks have been under way in Geneva under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade for several years, but recently had been frozen because of the U.S.-European dispute over agricultural subsidies.

The final details on farm subsidies were reached after two days of talks in Washington. The United States first gave its approval, then the European Community.

Details of the agreement were not released.

"There was unanimous backing," an E.C. official said after a late afternoon meeting of the trade bloc's executive commission.

In a joint statement the two sides, "In agriculture we have resolved our differences on the main elements."

"We have full expectation that the breakthrough will unlock the negotiations and provide new impetus necessary to complete the Uruguay Round," the statement said.

Bush agreed. He said the two sides should now be able to "press forward...to a successful conclusion" in the trade talks.

The next step, he said, is for the United States, the 12-nation European Community and "all the other parties to return to the negotiating table in Geneva."

He said he had called British Prime Minister John Major about the breakthrough earlier in the day.

SACROC operator to be determined during early 1993

A Pennzoil spokesman said Thursday afternoon that unit partners have scheduled a meeting early next year to determine who will operate the SACROC unit in Scurry County.

Pennzoil and Chevron have been in a transition period following Pennzoil's purchase last month of Chevron's interest.

Pennzoil representatives reportedly have been meeting this week with other interest owners. One report said "progress had been made, but the issue of who will operate the unit has not been determined."

Hugh Gray, a Pennzoil employee, has been in the SACROC office for about the past month. He referred questions concerning the local operations to Pennzoil's corporate office in Houston.

Dave Webster, Pennzoil spokesman, said his company is in the process of evaluating the field and looking at ways to get more oil out of the field and reduce operating costs.

He said the company normally did not comment on individual fields or areas.

Pennzoil on Sept. 30 announced the purchase of a large portion of Chevron's domestic oil and gas fields. This included Scurry County's SACROC unit in which Chevron owned a 20.84 percent interest.

At the time, Chevron acting superintendent Terry Hurst said Chevron would notify other interest owners of the transaction and would resign as unit operator.

Hurst remains in the local SACROC office along with Gray from Pennzoil. At the time of the sale, Hurst had predicted a transition period. Some employees in the local office have indicated that Pennzoil had made job offers.

When Pennzoil purchased Chevron's interest, a spokeman said many of Chevron workers would be hired by Pennzoil.

Chevron announced in August, 1991 its intent to sell its interest in SACROC. At that time, SACROC had 95 employees and 55 contract employees.

Webster said Thursday afternoon that SACROC currently has 28 employees, all on the Pennzoil payroll.

The legal aspects of the sale have been finalized, and the acquisition doubles Pennzoil's production capabilities.

Youth chapter of NAACP to be organized

Scurry County Chapter of the NAACP is inviting local youth, organization members and other community members to the Lincoln Community Center this Saturday to help organize a youth chapter.

The Texas State NAACP youth advisor will be at the meeting to help with the organization. An election of officers is also on the agenda.

All youth, interested members and friends are invited to come and bring one can good to be used in a basket for the needy, a local NAACP spokesperson said.

The meeting will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the center. Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

For additional information, call 573-7772 or 573-3961.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A well-adjusted person is too busy to worry in the daytime and too tired to worry at night."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Roger Enlow, in Granbury's Hood County News, told a story that underscored the widening generation gap.

A ninth grade drama student in Granbury, rehearsing her lines, came across the word "Watergate."

She suddenly stopped and looked at her instructor. She asked, "What is Watergate?"

Some of her fellow students hounded her. "Listen guys, I can't help it," she replied. "I'm only a freshman."

O.G. Nieman of the Hereford Brand was telling about the primary school youngsters who were studying the states and trying to learn the capital cities.

The influence of television was observed when the teacher asked one young fellow the capital of Louisiana.

When the little hand shot up, he announced, "Batman Rouge."

Speaking of the generation gap, the Wall Street Journal reported that we likely become more critical of a group if we lose our affiliation with it.

"Such as, when we're no longer a part of the younger generation."

Dave Bryant, in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, pulled up beside an elderly woman's car at a downtown red light.

She had rolled down her window and was singing "Amazing Grace" along with the radio. When the light turned green, she pulled away, still smiling and singing.

Bryant understood when he observed her bumper sticker: "Spirit Happens."

JFK assassination buffs urge Clinton to reopen investigation

BOSTON (AP) — Conspiracy theorists on the assassination of John F. Kennedy have urged President-elect Clinton to appoint a special prosecutor and reopen the federal investigation.

Author Jim Marrs, whose book "Crossfire: The Plot That Killed Kennedy" helped inspire director Oliver Stone's movie "JFK," said President Bush should not be trusted to oversee the review of secret documents.

Marrs, at Emerson College's Kennedy Assassination Conference on Thursday, said that while Bush was not involved in any plot to kill the president in 1963, he was "mixed up with people" from the CIA, FBI and other intelligence agencies who were involved. Marrs did not elaborate on his allegation.

Last month Bush signed a law requiring the FBI to make public most of its voluminous files on the assassination. The material ranges from top-secret intelligence reports to news clippings and tax returns.

The president is to appoint a five-member citizens commission to review documents officials want to keep secret. The commission would have the power to make the disputed materials public.

FBI officials have testified before Congress that the confidential material contains no big surprises. FBI files relating to the assassination entail about 500,000 pages and more than 220,000 of them were made public by 1978.

Marrs, whose book promotes the theory that more than one gunman and government officials were in on the assassination, said Clinton, as president, should select "a special prosecutor with subpoena power ... that could lead to prosecution."

Marrs appeared at the day-long seminar on Kennedy's death with fellow conspiracy theorists Robert Groden and Mark Crouch. Groden and Crouch also have written books on the Dallas assassination.

None of the men offered new suspects in any possible conspiracies to kill Kennedy, the 35th president. But all three strongly disputed the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone.

Your Birthday

Nov. 21, 1992

The aspects indicate you might become closely involved with someone in the year ahead who could be very fortunate for you in material ways. Ironically, this may be an individual who doesn't care much about money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You won't win any popularity polls today by trying to impose your views on others, especially if they are of a political nature. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for Scorpio's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you refuse a loan to a friend that you can't afford to make, you're being sensible, not stingy. The individual making the request is out of line; you're not.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In matters that affect your career today, don't bring people into the picture who aren't directly involved. They could turn out to be factors that could work against you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you are working closely with a co-worker on a special assignment today, equality is extremely important. Remember, neither of you is the boss.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Guard against the inclination today to be too possessive of loved ones or friends. It could cause them to run away, rather than toward, you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Disagreements between you and your mate could have a low boiling point today; there's a chance either party might readily misinterpret the meaning of what the other says. Weigh your words carefully.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It might be wise today not to work with tools or materials with which you are unfamiliar. Even though you may be anxious to get something done, wait until you have qualified help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be a bit of an impulsive spender today, which isn't good news for your budget. Don't let your urges cause you to buy things you really can't afford.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) An ebbing of interest is indicated today regarding something about which you're presently very enthusiastic. But if you get too involved too quickly, disappointment is likely.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to waste your time and energy today on an emotional issue about which you can do little. It is something that can be resolved only through objectivity and logic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be optimistic today, but don't bank too heavily on things that have an unrealistic premise. You could be setting yourself up for a big letdown.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is a very fine line today between acceptable assertiveness and aggression. If you're not careful, you might step over it — with the wrong person at the wrong time.

Names submitted

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards has submitted about 600 of her appointees to the Texas Senate, but she asked that the Senate hold off on confirmation proceedings.

Senate leaders said Thursday they would comply with Richards' request.

Under the state constitution, Richards was required to deliver the names of her appointees to the Senate by the tenth day of the special legislative session that convened Nov. 10.

But Richards has maintained that the Senate does not have to act on those appointees.

Richards called lawmakers into a special session to devise a new school finance plan. She has said she doesn't want any potential political fights over appointees to detract from that issue.

There had been some speculation that one of Richards' major reason for calling the special session was to push some of her more controversial appointees through before the new Senate takes office in January, with four more Republicans. Richards is a Democrat.

But Richards' deputy press secretary Chuck McDonald said that even if the Legislature passes a school finance plan, "We don't plan to hold the Senate in session to conduct appointments. That could be done during regular session."

The regular legislation session starts in January.

Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, and chairman of the Senate committee that recommends appointees, said there is no harm in delaying action on the appointees.

"We're here to deal with school finance," Barrientos said. "The governor must submit them but that doesn't mean the Senate has to take them up. And if we don't take them up they'll be all right, they'll re-submit them in the January during the regular session."

Meanwhile, the appointees are eligible to continue serving.

Dear Abby

Couple's Exchange of Letters Leads to Exchange of Rings

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1992 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: When I told my friends I had a pen pal on the USS Midway during the Persian Gulf War, they smiled apprehensively and said, "Gee, that's nice." Little did they (or I) know at the time that what I once considered an innocent correspondence would turn into a full-fledged love affair. Yes, Abby, I, too, succumbed to an age-old romantic technique: writing letters.

After 10 months and hundreds of cards, letters and love notes, we truly opened our hearts to each other and fell in love — sight unseen.

When the war ended, Mike and I agreed to meet when he returned to the States. With butterflies in my stomach, I flew to Long Beach, Calif., to meet "my" sailor while he was on a four-day leave.

One kiss, and the rest is history! At our second meeting (after writing to my mother to ask her for my hand in marriage), Mike flew to New York to put a diamond ring on my finger.

Our third meeting: I flew to California again, we rented a car and drove to Las Vegas and were married in one of those romantic little chapels! Some people think I'm crazy. Some people think I'm lucky. Either way, Mike and I are very happy, and we thank God for the wonderful blessing of love.

For those ladies and gents who claim "all the good ones are taken," try reaching out a little, and never underestimate the power of words. I will cherish those letters forever.

So, from my heart to yours, Abby, I thank you for encouraging me, as well as others, to write to "Any Serviceman." It was the best advice I've ever taken in my life.

MRS. MICHAEL J. PAULI,
BABYLON, N.Y.

DEAR MRS. PAULI: While not everybody who has participated in Operation Dear Abby has managed to snatch the gold ring, many have found friendship, and it is a project in which people of all ages can participate. But letters such as yours are especially thrilling. May you and your husband enjoy many happy, healthy, successful years together.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing "Welcome to Holland." I am still crying. My son, Greg, was born with neurofibromatosis. He died in January after one of his tumors became cancerous.

The thing I regret most is that I spent too much time wishing it was Italy, and not enough time enjoying Holland.

Please thank Emily Pearl Kingsley for putting into words what many of us are not able to. Also, for those with children whose handicap may result in the child's death, please tell them about Compassionate Friends — the nationwide organization for parents of children who have died. It is helping me as it helped others. The age of the child — or how he/she died — doesn't matter.

CONNIE ACTON,

Recognition Day set Sunday

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards has declared Sunday West Texas Farm Workers Appreciation Day and some workers hope the statewide attention will help them in their fight to improve working and living conditions.

"It is appropriate that the people of Texas set aside a special time to recognize, honor, support and thank the people who harvest the food we eat," Gov. Richards said in her proclamation read at a news conference Thursday.

To mark the day, farm workers plan to march from El Paso's county courthouse to San Jacinto Plaza downtown and hold a rally sponsored by the Border Agricultural Workers Union.

"The most important thing is that this proclamation makes the farm workers feel that they have the support of the community," said Carlos Marentes, the union's director. "When they are in the field they often feel they are alone and that nobody cares what is happening to them."

Simon Gonzalez, 27, said the chile harvest has slowed and there is little work available at this time of year. He said he won't be laying out a Thanksgiving spread at his home.

"We make very little. That costs too much," he said.

Army Corps of Engineers cuts 2,600 jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers' blueprint to streamline itself is being well received by two Texas congressmen who have argued for greater fiscal restraint in the federal government.

At a Washington news conference Thursday, Corps officials unveiled a reorganization plan that will pare some 2,600 jobs nationwide by 1995 — 169 of which are in Texas.

The realignment will eliminate five of the Corps' 11 division offices starting in February, including in Dallas. Other affected cities are New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Omaha, Neb.

Reps. Joe Barton and Pete Geren expressed regret at the Texas job loss but said fiscal restraint is needed.

"We need to reduce the budget deficit and we need to streamline the government to do that," said Barton, R-Ennis. "I think Texas has to bear its share of the burden, as long as it's not just targeted at Texas."

Geren said he didn't know how the restructuring plan would be received on Capitol Hill. A year ago, Congress rejected a plan that would have closed 22 of the Corps' 37 district offices. The current plan doesn't close any district offices.

"Certainly, any time you have major changes that impact employment, you're going to have criticism from the affected districts," said Geren, D-Fort Worth.

But, he added, "I would think with the intense pressure the budget's under, it would be difficult to reverse those recommendations."

Corps officials estimate the restructuring, which would have a one-time cost of $215 million, would result in $115 million in savings annually.

The shuffle would cost 179 of the current 197 positions in Dallas, leaving only 18 employees in the field. In the Galveston district office, 158 of the 412 jobs would be eliminated.

The Fort Worth district office would be the only one in Texas gaining jobs, with 168 positions added to the current 1,175. The gains include 46 new jobs in the district office and 122 staffers for a new South Central Administration Center.

It is the first major reorganization since 1942 for the Corps, which is the nation's largest engineering agency with about 40,000 civilian and military personnel.

The first phase is due to begin in February, with cuts in the district offices taking place in fiscal 1994, said Lt. Gen. Arthur E. Williams, the Corps commander, who announced the plan at a news conference.

"It's a plan which represents government," said Nancy Dorn, assistant secretary of the Army for civil works.

Administrative overhead now eats up a quarter of the Corps' $3.4 billion civil works construction budget.

The Corps has a dual role: military construction and civil works, such as construction of lakes, and maintenance of inland waterways, deep-water ports and flood control projects.

Williams said the restructuring will not affect delivery of services. Few employees will be displaced, he added, with most job cuts expected to come through attrition and retirements.

The Corps has a placement program to find new jobs for those affected by the reorganization, Williams said. Others could seek transfers to different Corps offices.

Williams said the Corps picked which division headquarters to close based on a number of factors, including cost of living, workloads, and location of transportation hubs.

The new division headquarters will be in Boston, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Honolulu, Vicksburg, Miss., and Portland, Ore. The South Central Division, which includes Texas, would be headquartered in Vicksburg.

Frank Stewart has been writing for the Los Angeles Times syndicated column "Sheinwold on Bridge" for several years. He has just published a book of his articles under the title "Two-Minute Bridge Tips" ($11.95, P.O. Box 962, Fayette, AL 35555). The book follows a question-and-answer format. Over a double-page spread, you are presented with four problems. Then you flip the page and read the four columns from which these problems were taken. For frosting, there is a bidding question in every column. However, despite the title, it took me more than two minutes to read each article.

Today's deal from the book features an excellent principle: Try to make life easy for your partner.

Defending against four spades, West led the heart four: jack, ace, seven. Back came the heart 10: eight, king, three. West switched to the diamond three, allowing the contract to make.

Was West wrong? On this layout, certainly. A third heart for East to ruff gives the defense four tricks. But if South had the same hand with 5-2-2-4 distribution, the diamond switch would be the only way to defeat the game. Was it an unlucky misguess?

No, it wasn't. The misdefense was East's fault. Knowing from the opening lead that South has three hearts, East should have cashed the diamond ace before returning the heart 10. This makes it easy for West.

If South is void in diamonds, the play will cost at most two overtricks — a small price to pay.

Always protect your partner from error if you can. Remember, he's only human.

Season tourists bring big bucks to S. Texas

PHARR, Texas (AP) — The Winter Texans who migrate to the Rio Grande Valley pumped more than $200 million into the local economy last season, according to researchers at the University of Texas-Pan American.

About 87,000 visitors spent the winter in South Texas in 1991-92, a 4 percent increase from the previous year, according to The Winter Texas report.

"From 1985 to the present, we've seen an average growth rate of approximately 4 percent per year," said Dr. Vern Vincent, who prepared the study with two other professors. "That's really a phenomenal growth rate."

The Winter Texan report was released and discussed Wednesday at Texas Trails RV Resort in Pharr.

About 73,000 Winter Texans lived in recreational vehicles and motor home parks in 1991-92, a 4 percent rise that makes up for a 4 percent drop in the previous year.

Another 14,000 winter visitors lived in apartments, condominiums, hotels and motels, a number that was not updated since the 1990-91 study.

Of the $222 million that Winter Texans contributed to the local economy, $147 million went for living expenses and $75 million went for one-time expenses, such as furniture and automobiles, the report said.

The study, which covered a five-county area, determined that the average Winter Texan is 68 years old, married, retired, lives in an RV and stays for 41/2 months. Seventy percent of the visitors come from Midwestern states.

Dr. Gilberto de los Santos said 93 percent of those surveyed were repeat visitors who planned to return. And 7 percent were first-time visitors — 4 percent fewer than two years before.

He said he was "very surprised" that the study indicated 28 percent of the Winter Texans who stayed in the Valley in 1991-92 had stayed in another sunbelt state within the previous five years.

"It means that, apparently, the Valley has something I think that's more advantageous to them," he said. "Part of it is cost, but I think part of it is the quality of life here in the Valley," de los Santos said.

Some other highlights of the study's results include:

—The average monthly expenditure per Winter Texan household is $934, an increase of only $20 per month from two years ago. Average one-time expenditures rose from $1,774 to $2,125.

Tigers host Ponies in '92 cage opener

The Andrews Mustangs visit Snyder today to help the SHS Tigers open the 1992-93 boys' basketball season.

Coach Bud Birks' SHS crew returns only three seniors from last year's 18-13 campaign, and no starters, losing the top six players from a year ago.

Steven Bollinger, Anthony Alvarez and Tory Garza will be expected to furnish the current version of the Tigers with senior leadership on the floor.

Bollinger is a 6-2 swing man, expected to play at the wing and the post for Snyder this season. Alvarez, at 5-8, is a point guard, and Garza, a 6-2 wing.

Also expected to make an impact for the Tigers this year are seniors Barretta Collins and Adrian Sneed.

Collins, a two-way starter on the Tiger football team, is a 6-1 wing player, and Sneed, at 6-3 can play either inside or outside, according to Birks.

Also joining the Tigers since footbal season ended are senior post Chris Stansell, junior posts Jimmy Henry and David Krenek, and junior wing Jim Pat Griffin.

Snyder's usually controlled half-court offense, could burst into a fast break now and then this season.

"We'd like to try to run a little more," Birks said. "but the running game is a two-edged sword. If you don't have those monsters like we've had the last two seasons to get you the rebounds, it's hard to run.

"We're going to try to run, but we can't just take off and not block out.

"At times, depending on the situation, we will try to speed the game up a little bit."

Today's battle against the always-tough Andrews Mustangs tips off at 8 p.m. at Scurry County Coliseum.

The freshman game starts at 5 p.m. followed at 6:30 p.m. by the JV tilt.

The Tigers' next outing will be Saturday at San Angelo Central. Their next home appearance is Tuesday, Nov. 24, against Sweetwater.

District 2-4A competition starts Jan. 15, here, against Frenship.

Howard Classic...

WTC Lady Dusters trip Blinn

BIG SPRING — The long-distance game has been a proven factor in the early-season success of the Western Texas College Lady Dusters.

The Dusters hit seven three-pointers, two under their per-game average, Thursday, but relied on free-throw shooting and inside play to beat Blinn College, 78-68, in the opener of the Howard College Hawk Queen Classic.

Posts Paulita Murrell and Andrea Kearney were the only Dusters to crack double digits scoring. Kearney hit five buckets and her only attempt from the free-throw line for 11 points.

Murrell only made three field goals, but swished six clutch free shots to help bring the Dusters from a 13-point second-half deficit.

"Paulita hit six big free throws at the end of the game," said WTC coach Ron Jones.

"I was disappointed that we came out as slow as we did, defensively. You can use the excuse that we started at noon, but the other team was playing at noon, too. We were just slow to get going.

"You don't like to win that kind of game," Jones stated, "but, at the same time, you like to be able to win when you're not playing well."

The win extends the Dusters' winning streak to eight games. Western Texas, now 9-1, has not lost since falling to Lubbock Christian University in the campaign's second game.

As a team, The Dusters connected on 19 of 25 freebies Thursday. Blinn, which got only 11 free throws, converted eight.

WTC freshman Karen Gabriel scored nine points Thursday on three treys. Teammate Allison Garcia, a sophomore, chipped in nine on three baskets, one from 3-point land, and a pair of free tosses, and freshman Ayesha Howard contributed nine on three field goals and a 3-of-4 night from the line.

The tournament continued for the Lady Dusters today, when they battled familiar foe Cisco Junior College in a noon contest at the Dorothy Garrett Pavilion at Howard College.

In other games Thursday, Western Junior College Ahtletic Conference teams completed a sweep of outside competition when host Howard ripped Grayson County JC, 81-53, and South Plains College smacked Cisco, 98-61.

Following today's noon WTC-Cisco tilt, Grayson and SPC square off at 4 p.m., and Howard entertains Blinn in the 8 p.m. nightcap.

BLINN — Babbs 2 2-2 6; Hughes 3 0-0 8; Johnson 1 0-0 3; Simper 7 0-0 18; Fingers 4 0-0 9; Boyles 2 2-4 6; Frey 1 2-2 4; Webb 2 2-3 6; Helton 4 0-0 8; TOTALS — 26 8-11 68.

WESTERN TEXAS — Gabriel 3 0-0 9; Bullard 2 0-0 5; Garcia 3 2-4 9; Howard 3 3-4 9; Isom 3 0-0 7; Huseman 1 2-3 4; Roland 1 3-6 5; Decker 0 2-2 2; Kearney 5 1-1 11; Crowell 2 0-0 5; Murrell 3 6-6 12; TOTALS — 26 19-25 78.

Halftime score: Blinn 35, WTC 33. 3-point goals: Blinn 8 (Hughes 2, Johnson 1, Simper 4, Fingers 1); WTC 7 (Gabriel 3, Garcia 1, Isom 1, Crowell 1). Record: WTC 9-1.

Vernon faces Tulia in 3A tilt

Several schoolboy football playoff games have captured the interest of local fans, including tonight's 8 o'clock contest at Tiger Stadium pitting state-ranked Vernon against Tulia.

Also set for today, District 2-4A champion Lubbock Estacado takes on District 3 champion Sweetwater at 7:30 p.m. at Lubbock's Jones Stadium.

District 2-4A runner-up Plainview battles District 3 runner-up Andrews at Lowrey Field in Lubbock, set for a 2 p.m. Saturday kick-off, and Borden County squares off with Ft. Hancock at 7 p.m. Saturday at Lobo Stadium in Monahans.

The No. 2 Vernon Lions come into Friday's contest in Snyder after demolishing Brownfield a week ago, 59-0.

Tulia's Hornets took a different route to the Area round of the Class 3A playoffs, tying Perryton, 28-all, last week, but advancing on penetrations, 5-4.

Vernon is the District 4-3A champion, sporting an unblemished 11-0 record. Tulia is the surprise runner-up in District 2. After being picked dead last in the loop in preseason polls, the Hornets carry an 8-2-1 mark into Friday's battle.

Borden County will be trying to end the four-year reign of the Ft. Hancock Mustangs in Saturday's 6-man clash in Monahans.

The four-time state champion Ponies were idle last week while the Coyotes were handing Klondike a 63-20 whipping in Lamesa.

Borden County moved to 10-1 a week past on the strength of a running game that saw three different backs crack the 100-yard barrier.

Senior Clint Wills, who has over 2,200 yards on the ground this season, ran for 158 yards and three touchdowns, then added one more on a 32-yard interception return.

Wills also recovered a fumble, intercepted a pass and averaged over 45 yards a kick as the Coyotes punter.

Other offensive stars for Borden County included Kirk Jones, who rushed for 114 yards and two TDs, and John Paul Harris, who scooted for 110 yards and a touchdown.

Coach Danny Medina's Ft. Hancock squad returns three starters on each side of the ball from last year's state title team.

Included in the list of returnees are all-staters running back Vincente Ramirez, E-LB Sergio Maldonado and DL Brent Henderson.

"I don't think they'll be able to win their fifth championship," said Borden County coach Bobby Avery. "There's some good teams in the playoffs that should be able to beat them.

"Lazbuddie ought to be able to take them this year. Maybe we will."

Friday's 4A contests match up the top four teams in the region.

Plainview (9-1) and Andrews (9-0-1) are both powered by grinding running games. The pair have the top two offensive teams in the area, in terms of yards-per-game statistics.

Sweetwater (8-1-1), after losing its opener to Snyder, has gone unbeaten since and will take on (6-4-1) Estacado's balanced running-passing attack, led by senior quarterback Zebbie Lethridge.

Area cagers in non-district tilts

Ira and Hermleigh both battle non-district opponents as the 1992-93 basketball season hits its stride today.

Ira hosts Klondike in boys and girls games, beginning at 6:30 p.m. while Hermleigh battles Abilene Christian High, there, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Ira's boys took a 1-0 record Tuesday after downing Grady, 60-51.

Friday's contest will be the first of the season for the Ira girls.

Hermleigh's Lady Cardinals will be looking for their second straight win tonight against ACHS.

The Lady Cards shocked Southland Monday, 35-29, avenging a 40-point loss in a preseason scrimmage.

Hermleigh's Cardinals are still searching for their first win after Tuesday's 62-57 loss to Southland.

WTC's Kearney signs to play b'ball at NLU

Western Texas College sophomore Andrea Kearney has signed a national letter of intent to play basketball for Northeast Louisiana University.

The Lady Indians' head coach, Roger Stockton, made the announcement Thursday.

Kearney is a 6-0 post in her second year at WTC. She averaged eight points and five rebounds a game as a freshman a year ago, and currently scores 6.6 per game and sweeps five boards, helping the Lady Dusters to a 9-1 start.

"She will have some game experience coming in," Stockton said, "and that will be very beneficial.

"She does a good job posting up and playing defense, and that's where we'll need help next year."

Kearney, who was an all-district honoree at Wharton High School, joins 5-11 foward Anita Bell of Clinton, Miss., 6-1 post Scharlotte Jordan of Sicily Island, La., and 5-7 point guard Ashley Smith of Alexandria, La. in the largest fall recruiting class ever for NLU.

"We're really excited about signing these four," said Stockton. "The coaches did a good job. We got help at the positions we needed."

Eckersley grabs MVP trophy

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Oakland's Dennis Eckersley is ready to defend his selection as the AL Most Valuable Player to anyone who doesn't think a reliever deserves the honor.

"I may not have played nine innings every day, but I sure did grind," said Eckersley, who earned the honor by converting 51 of 54 save opportunities. "I was nervous for nine, so if that counts, I was ready every day."

The Athletics' closer, who also won the American League Cy Young Award last week, said Thursday he values his second award even more. He spent the day staying near the phone, daring to hope he would win.

"Part of me was waiting by the phone because I thought I deserved it," Eckersley said. "It's hard to say because I'm not that cool to think I deserved an MVP. But if there was any time in my whole life I thought I deserved it, this is the moment."

Eckersley, 7-1 with a 1.91 ERA, won convincingly, getting 15 of a possible 28 first-place votes and 306 points in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. He was followed by Minnesota outfielder Kirby Puckett with 209 points, including three first-place votes, and Toronto outfielder Joe Carter, with 201 points and four first first-place votes.

Mark McGwire, Dave Winfield and Roberto Alomar also received first-place votes.

The 38-year-old right-hander is only the ninth player to win both the Cy Young Award and MVP honors in the same season. He joins Don Newcombe (1956), Sandy Koufax (1963), Denny McLain (1968), Bob Gibson (1968), Vida Blue (1971), Rollie Fingers (1981), Willie Hernandez (1984) and Roger Clemens (1986).

Eckersley joins Jim Konstanty (1950), Fingers and Hernandez as the only four relievers to win the MVP.

In getting the career-high 51 saves, Eckersley helped the A's win their fourth AL West title in five years. But he's still haunted by the game-tying, two-run homer he gave up to Alomar in the ninth inning of the AL playoffs' Game 4.

"I just feel I've got a lot of responsibility in front of me for last year," he said. "But (winning the MVP) does help, no doubt about it."

In the last five years, Eckersley has been successful on 220 of 246 save opportunities, establishing himself as the most dominant closer in the game's history.

He began his career as a starter with Cleveland and threw a no-hitter on Memorial Day 1977 against the California Angels. Eckersley played for Boston and Chicago, where his career waned as he struggled with alcoholism.

After being dealt to the A's in 1987, he joined the Oakland bullpen and overcame his drinking problem with the help of Alcoholics Anonymous. Two years later, he had a World Series ring.

7th graders post sweep

BIG SPRING — Kelly Gentry scored 13 points to lead Snyder's seventh grade A team to a 34-31 victory over Big Spring in Thursday's basketball season opener.

Snyder's B team MVP, Toby Delce, also knocked down 13 points, pacing the Tigers to a 31-24 victory.

"The A team game was a thriller," said Snyder coach Matt Glenn, who along with Charles Bollinger coaches the teams. "We were behind just about the whole game, but pulled it out in the last two or three minutes.

"It was a great team effort."

Gentry, the A team's Most Valuable Player, was followed by Chris Riggins, who nailed nine.

Clay Berryman finished in double figures for the B squad, hitting 10 points.

The young Tigers will be back on the court Monday, Nov. 30, when they host Colorado City at 5 p.m. and 6:15 p.m. in Travis Gym.

SHS Lady Tigers visit Abilene for cage battle

Snyder's Lady Tigers will battle Abilene High in a non-district basketball game at AHS today.

Junior varsity action begins at 6 p.m. followed at 7:45 p.m. by the varsity contest.

Coach Jerry Tucker's varsity squad is coming off a 60-47 upset of San Angelo Lake View in Tuesday's season opener.

"These girls really played hard from start to finish," Tucker said following the game. "They gave it the effort and things clicked. They never quit and they played together well as a team."

Senior Kristen Huff led the Lady Tigers with a game-high 22 points against the Maidens Monday. Annie Ragland, who scored 11, and Hayley Patterson, who canned 10, also finished the night in double figures for SHS.

Snyder's girls will return to Abilene for a matchup with Cooper on Monday, before making their home debut Tuesday in a double-header with the SHS boys as both teams host Sweetwater at Scurry County Coliseum.

As tragedy grows, all parties point fingers

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council and U.N. chief are blaming each other for the delay in getting food to Somalia, where thousands are dying of disease and starvation.

By U.N. estimates, at least 300,000 Somalis have died in one of history's worst famines. Two million more are said to be in immediate risk of starvation.

Lack of security is the main problem. In a land where government has collapsed, clan-based gunmen provide the only "order." Even humanitarian aid workers must hire them for protection.

The Security Council has told U.N. officials and peacekeepers to cooperate with "Somali authorities," but these are the same clans looting the food, and they want no new guards to keep them from the booty.

One key warlord, Gen. Mohamed Farrah Aidid, has threatened to send 3,000 U.N. peacekeepers home in body bags if they come to Somalia.

Mogadishu's airport has finally been secured by 500 Pakistani peacekeepers, but they have not yet taken control of the sea port, and gunmen keep extorting "docking fees."

U.N. envoy Ismat Kittani told reporters on Thursday in Mogadishu, Somalia's capital, "The resolutions of the Security Council and the mandate talk about ... Somali authorities. Authority ... does not exist. In some cases, the authority is no more than three or four people with guns."

Kittani's predecessor, Mohamed Sahnoun, resigned in October after being reprimanded for openly criticizing the U.N. relief operation as slow and inadequate.

The Security Council could change peacekeepers' orders, letting them shoot to defend their mission — the orders under which U.N. troops in Bosnia-Herzegovina now operate. But then they would not be cooperating with the "authorities."

Security Council ambassadors and the office of Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali are ducking responsibility for the foundering aid effort. Each says it is up to the other to initiate new orders.

In a statement Nov. 13, Boutros-Ghali implicitly blamed delays on the Security Council's instructions.

"I wish to emphasize on this occasion that the mandate of the United Nations operation remains unchanged. We are making an intensive effort to secure the consent of the Somali authorities concerned for the deployment of the U.N. security force," Boutros-Ghali said, and again noted that this was "the mandate put forward by the Security Council."

Security Council ambassadors reply that they cannot act on a problem if the secretary-general's office has not officially brought it to their attention.

"I think we're all frustrated. Everything that is being tried does not help us to solve the first problem, which is to get things into Somalia to help save the population," U.S. Ambassador Edward J. Perkins said.

Ambassador Jose Luis Jesus of Cape Verde, who presided over the council when the peacekeeping mission received its orders, said, "You cannot allow the people to be killed just because one man does not want to cooperate. .... Therefore we should go, and if attacked, defend.

"But we have to elicit from the secretary-general a report telling us .... 'These people don't agree, take measures.' Nothing is coming from them."

Key U.S. officials arranged to meet today to try to get President Bush to break the deadlock by leaning on the Security Council and U.N. chief to send in the peacekeepers with new orders.

Glamorous treatments not very good

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Severe chest pain, which accounts for about 750,000 hospital admissions annually, can be treated as well in small community hospitals as in big medical centers, say authors of a major new study.

Their work found that ordinary medicines, including aspirin, are as effective as high-tech procedures available only in major hospitals.

The report answers important questions about the best way to treat a condition called unstable angina, a dangerous condition that often foreshadows heart attacks.

The new study found about 10 percent of patients go on to die or suffer heart attacks within a year, regardless of whether they are treated with ordinary medicine, receive clot-busting drugs or have angioplasty.

The clot-busting drugs are widely used to treat heart attacks, while angioplasty — a procedure that uses skinny balloons to force open clogged arteries — is a routine treatment for chest pain.

"The message is that for the vast majority of patients with unstable angina, you can adopt a conservative approach," Dr. David McCall of the University of Texas in San Antonio said Thursday.

The study, conducted on 1,392 patients, is the largest ever undertaken to figure out the best treatment for unstable angina, the No. 1 cause of admissions to hospital coronary care units.

The results were disclosed at the annual scientific meeting of the American Heart Association, which concluded Thursday.

Unstable angina is chest pain that strikes when people are not exerting themselves. It often results from a blood clot partially blocking a heart artery.

Aspirin is already a key treatment for preventing new or recurring heart attacks and strokes. Now it is clearly the standard treatment for unstable angina as well. Aspirin's major drawback is the possibility it will trigger unwanted bleeding.

Earlier this week, Dr. Robert Goldstein and colleagues from the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences in Bethesda, Md., reported the most impressive evidence yet of aspirin's power in people recovering from heart attacks or angina. They found that those getting one aspirin tablet daily had a three-fold reduction in their death rates after two years.

In the latest study, the medically treated patients received aspirin as well as four other drugs — the blood-thinner heparin, nytroglycerin, beta blocks and calcium blockers.

Since clot-dissolving drugs, like TPA, are effective in thwarting heart attacks, many doctors hoped they could successfully break up the clots that cause unstable angina as well.

However, 11 percent of the patients getting TPA died or suffered heart attacks, compared with 9 percent receiving aspirin and other drugs. The difference was not statistically meaningful.

"This settles the issue of thrombolysis (clot-busting) for unstable angina," said the study's director, Dr. Eugene Braunwald of Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital. "There is not a shred of evidence in favor of it."

In the comparison with angioplasty, the outcomes were also virtually identical: 10 percent of medically treated patients died or had heart attacks, compared with 9 percent receiving angioplasty.

When initial medical treatment failed to stop the pain, patients were sent to get angioplasty. Those getting angioplasty as first-line treatment had less pain and needed to be readmitted to the hospital less often.

"In an era of cost containment, patients can be treated conservatively in community hospitals," said Braunwald. "If they don't do well, they can still be triaged to tertiary medical centers."

Disaster drill delays start of Cuban aid caravan

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Activists transporting a shipment of medical supplies and other goods to Cuba could face fines and even jail time if they don't obtain required export licenses before crossing into Mexico.

More than 100 volunteers with Pastors for Peace, a Minneapolis-based religious group, were planning to take a 43-vehicle aid caravan into Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, today.

The group had hoped to start its mission by 8 a.m. CST, but decided to wait until a city-sponsored disaster drill at the bridge was over. That exercise was expected to take about 90 minutes.

The shipment, 16 tons of donated medical and school supplies, powdered milk, bicycles and Bibles, is bound for the coastal town of Tampico, where the goods are to be loaded onto a Cuban freighter.

But caravan organizers have refused to apply for export licenses required under a recent law that strengthened the United States' longstanding trade embargo against Cuba.

"Our position is that to enter into a licensing agreement with the federal government will legitimize the embargo, which we oppose," the Rev. Lucius Walker, one of the caravan's leaders, said Thursday as the group made its final preparations for the trip. should be abandoned. Supporters noted that the collapse of the Soviet Union had deprived Cuba of it prime trading partner.

Prosecution strategy leaked to defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A memorandum outlining the federal prosecution of four police officers on charges they violated Rodney King's civil rights was received by a defense attorney, it was reported today.

The memo, known as an "order of proof," was received by attorney Michael Stone, who represents Officer Laurence Powell, according to National Public Radio and the Los Angeles Times.

The memo listed what evidence prosecutors planned to use and witnesses they intended to call, NPR said in a report to be broadcast on its "Morning Edition" newscast today. The memo also reportedly discussed potential weaknesses in their case, NPR said.

The Times, quoting sources it didn't identify, said the memo also questioned King's credibility as a possible witness.

Nevertheless, an unidentified Justice Department official told the Times the memo's disclosure did little damage to the prosecution.

"We do not believe that the release of the memo presents a serious problem for the case," the official said, indicating that prosecutors have adjusted strategy since the memo was disclosed.

The Times said Stone received the memo by mistake in the mail, notified the court and prosecutors, and returned it. NPR said that "it appears unlikely that the memo was given to the defense by mistake," but didn't elaborate.

The Justice Department's Office of Public Integrity was investigating the incident.

Struggle continues over school finance

AUSTIN (AP) — The chairman of the House GOP caucus says Republicans intend to stick together to get a school spending plan they favor.

Republican support is critical to passing a constitutional amendment on school finance, as desired by state leaders. It takes a two-thirds vote of the Legislature to put a constitutional amendment before voters, and Republicans number 58 in the 150-member House.

The House on Wednesday mustered enough votes to keep alive a proposed school finance amendment that would allow some local property tax money to be shifted from wealthy to poorer school districts.

The amendment is designed to meet a Texas Supreme Court mandate to come up with a constitutional plan to equalize school funding by June 1, 1993.

But the 86-59 vote fell short of the two-thirds required. Only two Republicans voted for the measure, and five were shown absent.

Rep. Tom Craddick, head of the Republican caucus, said GOP lawmakers in the House want passage of a spending plan, which requires only a majority vote, before they help pass a constitutional amendment.

"Our main purpose basically is to get the best school finance plan we can get for the state, and if we give in on the constitutional amendment, we are not going to have the input, because then they don't need a two-thirds vote. They'll just need a simple majority," said Craddick, of Midland.

"I don't think it's partisan. We are looking after our districts and the input we can have," he said

Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis planned to meet today with lawmakers to try to win votes, said Bill Cryer, Richards' press secretary.

"We're going to go to the table with them and talk to them and maybe we can come to some common ground," Cryer said. "Obviously, they (Republicans) are the major portion of the people who have to win over."

Leaders who have been working since Wednesday to find House votes still need to pick up about 10 more, he said, adding, "Those are going to be hard votes to get."

Richards has said that a number of spending plans could fit under a proposed amendment that allows redistribution of local property tax money.

Craddick said the caucus backs a plan by Rep. Steve Ogden, R-Bryan, that includes a countywide school tax rate up to $1, determined by local voters. School districts could tax up to 40 cents more to enrich programs under the plan. Public education is funded mainly by local property taxes and state aid.

Ogden's plan also would take away most funding supplements that school districts get for students with special needs, leaving extra funding only for special-education students.

Ogden has said his proposal could work without a constitutional amendment, or it could be the spending plan that accompanies the proposed amendment. He said he's fine-tuning the proposal.

Radio show won't get access to 6th Floor

DALLAS (AP) — Officials have shut down plans by radio host Morton Downey Jr. to broadcast live Nov. 23 from the former Texas School Book Depository's sixth floor, where John F. Kennedy's assassin was thought to have perched.

Dallas County Judge Lee Jackson and several county commissioners said they were stunned to find out Thursday that Downey planned the broadcast without seeking their permission.

"I am furious," Jackson said.

The former Texas Book Depository now houses the Dallas County Commissioners Court — the county government entity.

Commissioners have usually had the final say on any use of the area, now the Sixth Floor Exhibit, a museum of artifacts about the 1963 assassination of President Kennedy.

Downey had arranged for the broadcast with the Dallas County Historical Foundation and local station KGBS-AM. The foundation operates the exhibit, but the county owns it.

By late Thursday, county officials said they found a document that says news media interviews are banned on the sixth floor without commissioners' approval.

According to the plan, Downey's sixth floor show was to feature a three-hour discussion of various conspiracy theories.

The Warren Commission had concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in the assassination.

"I understand the sensitivity of the assassination," said Don Walker, vice president and general manager of KGBS. "But if they're that sensitive about it, they should have never made a place called the 'Sixth Floor.' "

Film director Oliver Stone was initially turned down by the commissioners when he asked to use the sixth floor for part of his movie "JFK." After sweetening his request with a $10,000 donation to the Sixth Floor Exhibit, he was granted access.

Police note one arrest

Snyder police made one arrest, worked a traffic accident and responded to a domestic dispute Thursday.

Police arrested a 60-year-old woman at 9:47 a.m. from Municipal Court on a county warrant for harboring a runaway child.

At 4:06 p.m., police worked a two-vehicle accident in the 3700 block of Avenue E. Involved were a 1983 Chevrolet driven by Christopher Michael Huddleston of 2306 41st St. and a 1989 Chevrolet driven by Gregory Crawford of 114 Peach.

At 3:29 p.m., police were notified that someone had driven off from Skinny's on Coliseum Drive without paying for $5 worth of gasoline. A report for Class C theft was filed.

Police responded to a family dispute at 10:52 p.m. at the American Motor Inn. A woman told police that her husband had assaulted her and left with their four-year-old son. An offense report for Class C assault was filed.

Boys Club board meets

Scurry County Boys Club board began reorganization plans during a meeting Thursday evening in the TU Electric Reddy Room.

Eighteen members of the board — including 13 new members — attended the meeting. Members were asked to fill out a brief form concerning their willingness to serve on various committees.

The committees, including a committee to nominate officers, are to be named and contacted prior to the next board meeting, set for Dec. 15.

Club Executive Director Jack McGlaun presided Thursday in the absence of the president and vice president.

Briefly discussed were a potential fund-raiser, admitting girls to the club and grants.

Attending were Chip Roemisch, Rhonda Ward, Leon Ward, Bruce Kallemeyn, Isrreal Hinojos, R.C. Patton, Joe Fowler, Dave Harlin, Mike Levens, Larry Anderson, Derwin Thompson, Charlie Reynolds, Bill McClellan, Julie Sentell, Mary Wilkins, Larry Braziel, Joel Hook and Bob Doolittle.

Will Rogers is credited with saying, "You know, I truly believe that our public men in high office want to do something worthwhile for us, but they just can't think of anything to do."

First Peace Corps group heads to Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — They have the traditional Peace Corps idealism. But these Peace Corps volunteers have a post Cold War mission: to bring the capitalist experience to Russia.

"I guess we don't know quite what to expect," said Gretta Larson, a volunteer from Scottsdale, Ariz.

Larson is one of 102 volunteers who are flying to Moscow today as the first Peace Corps volunteers to serve in Russia.

"It is difficult to imagine that 30 years ago anybody seriously could have foreseen that these 100 would be welcomed and invited to Russia," said Andrei Kolosovsky, the No. 2 official at the Russian Embassy.

Kolosovsky and acting Peace Corps Director Barbara Zartman addressed the volunteers at a ceremony at the Lincoln Memorial on Thursday.

"We offer our goodwill, our expertise, our spirit," said Zartman.

The volunteers endured a misting rain and chill wind. Parts of the speeches were drowned out by low-flying planes from nearby National Airport.

"Authentic Russian weather," was how Kolosovsky described the day.

Don't ignore chronic chest pain

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For the past year I've experienced severe chest pain. It doesn't always occur during stressful situations — sometimes it's when I'm watching TV. I'm a smoker and a drinker, and my father says it's normal for everyone to have them, but I have my doubts. I'm 26 years old.

DEAR READER: Chest pains are never normal in anyone, even in smokers and drinkers.

Although it's unlikely that someone 26 would have heart trouble, stranger things have happened. More likely, your unhealthful habits are affecting another part of your anatomy, such as your stomach or lungs. For example, peptic ulcers (and other related disorders, such as gastritis) are surprisingly common causes of chest pain in young men who smoke and drink heavily.

Don't be taken in by your father's denial. (By the way, is he a smoker and drinker, too? I'll bet my shirt he is.) Listen to what your body is telling you and do something about it.

My first suggestion is that you completely swear off booze and cigarettes for two weeks. See how you feel then and take it from there. My second suggestion is that you get checked out by a doctor. Because he will probably tell you to stop smoking and drinking for two weeks to see how you feel, you'll save money by following my first suggestion. If, after two weeks of abstinence, your chest pains persist, get to the doctor.

I wonder if your father is having chest pains, too. Otherwise, why would he tell you it's normal for everyone to have them? If I'm correct, HE'S the one who really needs the doctor, because he is at least in his 40s, a time when heart problems certainly begin to menace men. Show him my response to your question and let me know what his reaction is.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Heart Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a spot similar to a bruise on my left arm that is small at times and as big as a half dollar at others. Could it be cancerous or dangerous to my health? There is no pain involved.

DEAR READER: Have this checked out by a doctor. If it's not a bruise, it needs attention and possible removal; if it is, I'd be curious why you have a chronic bruise on your arm. Could there be something wrong with your blood clotting? The doctor can sort this out with an examination and blood tests, if necessary.

Water Commission announces recycling program for cities

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Water Commission has put its money where its mouth is by announcing a new $4 million program to help cities develop recycling and composting programs.

"These programs are very important because in Texas today, local governments are spending over $1.2 billion to pay for the disposal of the trash that we generate," said John Hall, water commission chairman.

Hall said the program, dubbed "Clean Cities 2000," provides financial and technical assistance for 30 cities to begin recycling household and workplace trash, yard waste, used motor oil and tires.

The program also will help cities to find markets for recyclable goods, he said.

Hall said Fort Worth, Lubbock, Beaumont and Harlingen and rural areas in East Texas, Central Texas and the Panhandle have already been designated to receive funds.

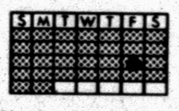

More communities will be announced later, he said.

"We recognize at the Texas Water Commission that we will not be successful in our endeavors unless we actually form a strong partnership with local governments and with the private sector," Hall said.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

PARABLES – THE GREAT INSTRUMENT OF TEACHERS!

IN BIBLICAL TIMES, THE OLD STORY-TELLER, THE RECITER OF PARABLES WAS THE TEACHER, THE INSTRUCTOR OF THE PEOPLE—HIS CLASS-ROOM WAS ANY CONVENIENT STREET CORNER WHERE YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE LISTENED TO WHAT HE HAD TO SAY. THIS METHOD, AGES BEFORE THE PRINTED BOOK, WAS JUST ABOUT THE ONLY WAY TO INFORM. THOSE WHO COULD READ THE WRITTEN WORD WERE FEW AND FAR BETWEEN SO, BY WORD OF MOUTH, HISTORY WAS PASSED DOWN FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER—BUT THE PARABLE WAS MORE THAN JUST HISTORY—IT PRESENTED TO THE LISTENER MORAL ETHICS, IT MADE HIM PONDER ON WHAT WAS THE RIGHT THING TO DO AND WHAT WAS WRONG! WHEN JESUS BEGAN HIS MINISTRY, HE RECITED THE LAW, HE GAVE HIS "SERMON ON THE MOUNT" BUT THESE DIRECT TEACHINGS WERE MUCH TOO STERN AND DEMANDING—AND TURNED MANY PEOPLE AWAY....
