JACKSON BEGINS FUND RAISING CAMPAIGN — Sen. Henry M. Jackson waves to some two thousand people gathered at a $250 a plate fund raising dinner at the Century Plaza Hotel here Sunday night as he and his wife, Helen, were introduced. He spoke in his speech of not supporting additional funds for South Viet Nam in what he described, "as a bottomless pit."

Sadat Seeking French Weapons

PARIS (AP) — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt arrived in Paris today seeking French weapons and diplomatic support in the Mideast conflict.

Sadat, on his first visit to a Western country since he became president in 1970, was greeted at Orly Airport by President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing.

Sadat and Giscard d'Estaing were to hold their first working session later today. The Egyptian president is accompanied by a high-powered delegation including War Production Minister Ahmed Kamal el Badri.

Sadat is seeking planes, tanks and guns from France to offset the refusal of his traditional supplier, the Soviet Union, to re-equip his arsenal. Arab sources here said he will also ask Giscard d'Estaing to consider a European diplomatic initiative in the quest for a settlement with Israel.

Sadat has said he still trusts Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, but Kissinger's peacemaking efforts must be speeded up.

He has also said that Egypt will not go to war with Israel unless Israel attacks first.

Ford Giving New Path To War?

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Le Duc Tho, the North Vietnamese leader who negotiated the Vietnam ceasefire agreement signed two years ago today, has declared the Ford administration is "giving a new path to the war" by urging additional military aid for the Saigon government.

In military action, the South Vietnamese command said two of its A37 bombers were shot down today by North Vietnamese anti-aircraft missiles during a battle west of Saigon near the Cambodian frontier.

In an address on North Vietnamese television monitored in Saigon, Tho said South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu must be overthrown because he has "scrapped" the Paris agreement.

Tho negotiated the agreement with U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and the two later were jointly awarded the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize. Kissinger accepted his award, but Tho rejected it on grounds that the fighting in South Vietnam had not stopped.

"Of late," Tho said, "Ford, Kissinger and (U.S. Secretary of Defense James) Schlesinger have called for additional military aid to the Nguyen Van Thieu administration, and this means giving a new path to the war."

Ford announced last week that he would ask Congress for an additional $300 million in supplemental military aid. Congress had cut military aid for the fiscal year by half the administration's original request to $700 million.

A spokesman said one pilot was killed and the other rescued in the shooting down of the A37 bombers. In the ground fighting, a communiqué said 41 North Vietnamese and 6 government troops were killed and 29 government men were wounded.

The action was part of a nine-day-old counter-offensive by 2,000 South Vietnamese trying to block a North Vietnamese division threatening Kien Tuong Province.

account for about 20 per cent of all blindness and are usually incurable, Dawson said. But he said research by the Gainesville team has shown that it takes only a very small electric current to prompt the undamaged portion of the retina to send visual messages to the brain. A tiny electrode placed on the eye's outer surface can transmit electrical currents to inner layers and cause a blind person to see light, Dawson said.

One of Dawson's volunteers who saw light for the first time in years described the scene as "brilliant as the aurora borealis."

In other labs, animals are undergoing tests to determine how much electrical current is needed to produce the actual visual image on the eye, Dawson said. The University of Florida plan involves implanting 50,000 to 100,000 tiny light converters, miniatures patterned after the solar light panels used on the Skylab space station and other space vehicles. The small converters would excite previously inactive nerves in the retina. If the converters — known as photovoltaic cells — could stimulate enough nerves, an image would form on another portion of the retina and be relayed to the brain. And there would be sight.

But Dawson said that to be useful, researchers must make the artificial retina so complex it would be able to recognize subtle differences in intensity from thousands of points that reflect light to it each second. Without this sophistication, a person would see only patterns of light and dark, rather than specific objects.

Wildcat Strike Hits Railroads In Midwest

By The Associated Press
A wildcat strike hit railroads in the Midwest and South today as shopcraft workers walked off the job, apparently protesting the lack of a contract.

The Burlington Northern, Chesapeake & Ohio and the Louisville & Nashville were the key targets of the walkout.

But within hours after the walkout began, a spokesman for the St. Paul-based Burlington system said operations began returning to normal after a federal judge issued a temporary injunction ordering four craft unions to end their wildcat strike against the railroad.

"Things are gradually getting squared away," a Burlington spokesman said. "I assume the craft unions will comply with the order."

WALK-OUT

Burlington has about 47,000 employees and the spokesman said the four craft unions represent 6,250 workers. Of that number, about 4,000 were said to be members of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen.

Also affected by the walkout was the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and the Chessie System, consisting of the Chesapeake & Ohio and Baltimore & Ohio lines.

A Chessie spokesman was unable to say how many employees had walked out, but pickets were spotted in West Virginia, Ohio and Michigan.

Pickets also appeared at Louisville & Nashville yards in Atlanta, Mobile, Ala., and Nashville, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky.

No passenger trains appeared to be affected during the walkout.

NEGOTIATING

Judge Joseph Sam Perry of U.S. District Court in Chicago issued a restraining order in Chicago at 4:45 a.m., CST, calling for an end to the Burlington Northern walkout.

The order is effective until 6 p.m. Feb. 5, and a hearing on the order was scheduled for 10 a.m. Feb. 3.

Picketing began at midnight by members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Blacksmiths and International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.

Union spokesmen had not been reached for comment this morning.

The reason for the walkouts were unclear, but major rail unions have been negotiating contracts with the nation's railroads in Washington. Burlington spokesmen said the national negotiations over wage increases apparently figured as a cause of the walkout.

Henry Kamradt, president of Local 17-75 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said some 300 workers at the C&O went on strike in Grand Rapids, while pickets also appeared outside the entrances to Chessie system property in Flint.

Kamradt said the walkout could affect service to Detroit, Chicago, New Buffalo and Flint.

County Adopts Holiday Slate

County Commissioners Court this morning adopted eight days as holidays for county road department and library workers this year.

They asked other officials to establish the same holiday schedule for their offices.

Whether Good Friday or the day after Christmas, a Friday, was a holiday was left to the department head to choose.

The State of Texas, his employer, District Judge Ralph W. Caton said, sets his holidays and vacation policy. But Judge Caton said he did not take all the holidays because they would interfere with court operations.

In other business, the court:

• Authorized reemploying George Adkins, who resigned earlier for a higher paying position. Adkins will start work for the county at its lowest rate although he has several years of experience with the road department.

• Set a policy of requiring a 90-day waiting period for reemploying those who resign and draw their contributions to the retirement program.

• Voted to send a road department employee to an Air Force Base near Little Rock, Ark., for two 2½ ton military trucks being provided through Civil Defense.

W. D. Berry, director of Civil Defense here, told the court about a trailer which can be had for $30 per day to haul the two trucks. County engineer Neel Barnaby called the trailer "highway worthy."

"Our record of range fire is about as bad as any in West Texas in the last few years," Berry said.

Through a program to better equip rural fire fighters, $75,000 to $100,000 worth of equipment had been obtained in the last two years, Berry said, "and some of it's not being utilized." Civil Defense departments may obtain excess government equipment at little or no cost.

Decision on whether to accept the two trucks had been pending since November, 1974, Berry told County Judge Bill Tune.

Postponed discussion of securing tables and chairs at the fair barns. Bruce Griffith, county extension agent, said 14 tables and 198 chairs had been located. "I hope that somebody's got some borrowed," Griffith said.

"That's not even half the tables or half the chairs," Commissioner Jack Buchanan said.

• Accepted the low bid of $492, without trade, for a new electric typewriter. Successful bidder was Graham's Office Machines.

• Met again with representatives of Xerox about obtaining stiffer paper, which won't jam in the district clerk's copying machine. Recommended was 20 pound, sulfate paper. "That's what we bought in the past," Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, said.

• And heard the county engineer commend Texas Electric Service Co., Cap Rock Electric Co-op Inc. and a rural telephone company for "splendid cooperation" in moving utility lines upon request.

Barnaby told the court hot oil was being laid on new hangar ramps at Howard County Airport and a dip in Oasis Street. The court voted for the road department to fix two bridges.

Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas did not attend the meeting because of sickness, Tune said, and Commissioner William B. Crocker was out of town. All action required unanimous votes of Commissioner Ike Rupard, Buchanan and Tune.

MILD DAYS

A HERO GOES HOME — Partially paralyzed and almost unable to speak Spyridon Moustaklis, a Greek war hero who will be returning to a country where one government tortured him, sits in a chair in a Washington hotel room during a recent interview.

Greek War Hero Tells Of Torture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Partially paralyzed and almost unable to speak, Spyridon Moustaklis is going home, a Greek war hero returning to a country where one government tortured him.

Moustaklis, 48, has just completed several weeks of medical treatments at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for the lingering effects of torture he suffered under the recently deposed military regime in Greece. "We must go home and continue working," said Christina Moustaklis, his wife who is a dentist. They arrive in Athens on Tuesday.

At the mention of going home, Moustaklis smiled with the one side of his face that isn't paralyzed, and his deep blue eyes grew wide. "Natali," he said, obviously pleased at one of the few words he can still pronounce. Natali, the couple's only child, remained in Greece during her parents' trip here. She will be three on Wednesday.

Asked how he was tortured, Moustaklis pulled back his shirt to show scars on his neck and shoulders, ugly reminders of the time he was burned with electric cattle prods. Asked if he would like to see his torturer punished, Moustaklis squirmed and made a motion with his hand. His wife said that meant, "Yes, machine-gunned to death."

The career military officer was left paralyzed on his right side and unable to speak when he was struck in the neck while in jail. He was arrested by the Greek military police in May 1973, following a naval mutiny that was to have been a protest against the military regime. He said he had not participated in the protest.

The U.S. government aided that military regime, and there were signs both governments did not want Moustaklis to come here for medical help.

Mrs. Moustaklis said that the day before they were to leave for Washington, they received telephone calls from the American Embassy in Athens and George Levidis, consul general of Greece in Washington. Both callers suggested they not make the trip, Mrs. Moustaklis said.

Monthly Rate Due Increase

Effective Feb. 1, the monthly rate for the Herald will be $2.75, instead of the present $2.50. This does not apply to those who have paid their subscriptions a year in advance.

In December the Herald changed its daily newsstand price from 10 to 15 cents weekdays, reflecting a rise in costs, principally sharp rises in newsprint.

The World At-A-Glance

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Seni Pramroj's centrist Democratic party, the chief opposition to Thailand's military dictatorship for 30 years, led in early returns today from national elections intended to set the country on the road to a durable democracy. However, with more than half the results in from Sunday's elections, four parties identified with the military regimes were gaining and had a good chance of figuring in the coalition government that is certain to result.

SOUTHAMPTON, Bermuda (AP) — The United States team was expected to withdraw from the world contract bridge tournament today in protest against the failure of the World Bridge Federation to expel two Italian players accused of cheating by using foot signals. After discussing the charges by an American journalist and others against Gianfranco Facchini and Sergio Zucchini for nearly eight hours, the federation's appeals committee said the two were "severely reprimanded for unnatural movements of their feet and touching their partner's feet." Italy and the United States were favored to make the finals of the tourney.

'Red' Fights Gas Flames

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Firefighter "Red" Adair's swift sword has failed to sever the head of a fire-belching oil well, so today he began slowly digging a tunnel to stab the monster in the belly.

It may take three more weeks to snuff the 125-foot-high flames that have burned for more than a week at a leaking natural gas well in the San Fernando Valley, officials said Sunday.

The legendary Adair whizzed in by private jet last Monday and has pumped tons of mud and heavy salt water at the blaze, which hardly flickered as it spat flames back.

A new approach started today as crews drilled a 7,000-foot tunnel from a nearby well into the burning one so they can pump more mud and salt water directly into the underground cavern. Southern California Gas Co. officials said the drilling will take about three weeks.

Synthetic Eyes May Help Blind To See

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Synthetic eyes patterned after the light panels on space vehicles may help some blind people see, says a researcher at the University of Florida.

Dr. William Dawson, director of the sight laboratory, says it's a tough project, but he is optimistic that researchers are near a breakthrough.

Dawson said scientists at the university have been working to duplicate the retina, perhaps the most crucial part of the eye. The eye's cornea and lenses already have been duplicated, he said. An entire synthetic eye may be developed in six to eight years, he said.

The retina, the eye's innermost portion, is the "seeing" instrument. It focuses light rays and transmits them to the brain. Retinal disease and damage

HOPE FOR THE BLIND — Dr. William Dawson, left, shows how he inserts an electronic contact lens into a patient's eye. It is a first step in what researchers hope will lead to an artificial eye. Traffic Mishaps, Home Fires Up Tragic Count

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents and home fires sent the violent death toll in Texas climbing during the weekend.

The tragic count from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday went to 24 fatalities, including 13 in motor vehicles, four in fires and seven from assorted other causes.

In one of the worst traffic accidents, a Southern Pacific train struck a car Sunday near Dayton in Southeast Texas and the crash killed Joseph J. Glover, 19, of Hull and David L. Fregia and Donald E. Fregia, 20, both of Liberty. The automobile was knocked 500 yards down the track.

BLOODY AFFAIR

Police reported Dale A. Kinzel, 34, of Austin and his son Chris, 4, died Sunday when another car rammed their vehicle as it was pulling back onto an expressway after they had stopped to watch a fire destroy a mobile home. Kinzel's wife, 32 and also named Dale, and son Chip, 6, escaped injury.

Casey M. Dunigan, 12, was killed Sunday night in Houston as the motorcycle he was riding and a car collided on a shopping center parking lot.

Nederland police discovered the bloody bodies of Janet Saide, 18, and Sandra Lee Dugas, 27, both of Groves, in the trunk of a car late Sunday, and inside a house they found the body of Robert Sheppard, 35, of Nederland. Beside him were several common insecticides and a drinking glass, officers said.

DON'T KNOW
"We don't know at this point if we have three murders or a double murder and suicide," said Justice of the Peace Carl Moon.

Fire early Sunday killed John Whisenant, 62; Grace Miller, 47, and her daughter Kimberly in a house outside Austin. A ruling was withheld pending an arson investigation. Justice of the Peace John Webb said the three died from inhaling smoke.

Police said Raymond L. Hendley, 34, died Saturday night of injuries suffered earlier in the day when the motorcycle carrying him collided with a car in Rosenberg.

BODY IN BAYOU
R. C. Burroughs, 46, of Houston died Saturday night when the motorcycle he was riding hit a trailer parked on a roadway in Houston.

Albert Martin, 35, was found shot to death at his Houston residence Saturday night after an argument with a woman, police reported.

William Carl Reynolds, 47, was killed Saturday night when struck by a car as he crossed a Houston freeway. The body of Linda Henry Thornton, 27, of Houston was pulled from a car submerged in Greens Bayou about two hours after the car crashed through a service road guard rail Sunday.

Helen Prasil, wife of the senior vice president of Southern Union Gas Co., died in a fire at her Dallas home Saturday. The cause of the $25,000 blaze was not determined.

Houston police said a youth was found dead Saturday near a grocery store after a man told them he fired shots at a would-be robber. The youth was identified as Benny Frank Toland, 17.

LAST WALK
Curtis Hodge, 47, of Houston was shot to death Friday night behind a drive-in grocery. Police said the shooting followed an argument between Hodge and a woman.

A Grand Prairie youth was killed Saturday when the car he was driving struck two light poles near Patterson. He was Steve Scott Ackerman, 19.

Lee Andrew Dunson, 66, of Houston died Saturday in a two-car collision east of Richmond on Texas 59.

Dallas County sheriff's officers said a Brownsville man was killed Friday night when he apparently walked into the path of a car on an Interstate 35 service road just south of Bear Creek. The victim was identified as Frank Cardenas, 39.

Mystery Killing

DURANT, Okla. (AP)—An autopsy report expected to be released today may shed some light on the mystery killing of Arthur Lake, 50-year-old bulldozer operator.

Lake was shot to death Friday afternoon just before he quit work.

Bryan County Sheriff O. W. Highfill said Sunday the autopsy report was expected to be released today, and it may help in solving the case.

Highfill said Lake apparently was filling the diesel fuel tank on his machine when he was shot. Apparently no one saw the shooting other than an assailant but two men who owned the land Lake was working on heard a shot around 5:15 p.m.

Assault Suspect Returned Here

James Earl Johnson, 29 was arrested in an Odessa hospital Sunday afternoon following emergency treatment on a charge of aggravated assault.

This was in connection with an attempted arrest of Johnson here Saturday afternoon for disorderly conduct.

At that time, said police, he wrestled free of three officers, ran into a house and fired four rounds from a .22 weapon.

His bond was set at $3,000 by a justice of the peace in Odessa, and he was transferred to the Big Spring jail.

Suggests Federal Job For Agnew

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Gov. Milton J. Shapp has asked President Ford to give former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew "an innocuous job" in government.

Shapp, a Democrat, said Republican Agnew should get the job "in the national interest" to keep him from hurting the country by dealing with Arab investors.

In a letter sent to Ford on Friday, Shapp said, "Please find an innocuous job for Spiro Agnew in your administration where he can do less damage to the nation than he apparently is going to do in private business."

He referred to one transaction in which Agnew allegedly raised Saudi Arabian money to buy the Mount Victory Coal Co. in Kentucky.

Too Busy Daydreaming To Give Car Pooling A Chance

SEATTLE (AP)—A bicycle-riding sociologist believes most commuters are too busy daydreaming to give car pooling a chance.

After studying data on the commuting habits of persons in 98 U.S. metropolitan areas, the University of Washington's Dr. Avery Guest said he doesn't blame the commuters for wanting to travel alone.

"Most of us are workers surrounded by large numbers of other people and are family persons with wives and children," he said in an interview Sunday. As a child cried in the background he continued, "It is very difficult to set up a situation at home or work where a person can get peace and quiet.

"Some people just like to be by themselves and not have to talk to anyone. For some it's a break in the day, a period when you don't have to worry about the kids just yet or about the job," he said. "And in a way, it's an enforced opportunity to daydream and to be alone with your thoughts."

Guest said this is why carpooling generally hasn't caught on, despite concentrated efforts by government and business.

Working under a program sponsored by the National Institutes of Health, he has studied U.S. Census data from the 98 metropolitan areas for the past year. Persons were asked about transportation use in the census.

He said numerous other studies have asked persons if they would ride public transportation if it was clean, took less time and cost only a fraction of what it takes to go by automobile.

"And overwhelmingly those questioned still have opted for the automobile. They quite frankly prefer to commute, even if they don't specifically say so."

Guest has decided that, "On the whole, automobiles and automobile cities are a good thing. They lead to a varied, generally happier life that you don't get if you walk to work."

Will Close Four Plants

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Trus Joist Corp. says it will close four of its manufacturing plants in this country.

President Peter T. Johnson said Friday that facilities at Winchester, Va., McKinney, Tex., Santa Rosa, Calif., and Phoenix, Ariz., will be shut down temporarily, laying off about 100 persons.

Johnson said the closures were caused by economic conditions, mainly the anticipated slow activity in multifamily and commercial construction.

Debate Unit Tallies Wins Could Make Veto Prevail Against Gas Rationing?

Mary Jon Cherry and Donny Knight won four matches and lost two in the preliminary rounds of the Anglo State invitational debate and speech tournament Saturday.

Out of 54 debate teams, only eight made it to the quarter finals. The Big Spring team fell to Midland Lee and missed getting into the quarters. The BSBS team earlier beat Houston Lamar and three other schools. Members compete next week in Brownwood.

The other debate team included Mariella Wise and Sheri Snodgrass with Martie Latta going along to observe. Debate is coached by Craig Fischer.

Robert Sadler took speech students in ex-temporaneous speaking, James Burleson, Scott Sullivan and Joe Millaway. In original oratory, James Williams is the entrant. James Dunam and Dale Johnson entered poetry interpretation and Julie Gatts and Jaimie Petty in prose speaking.

Burglars Hit Three Places

Mutt's Lounge, The Tropics Lounge and the Sands Restaurant were all burglary victims during the night Sunday with every one of the three losing money out of coin-operated machines.

Mutt's is located at 303 E. 3rd. Entry was gained through the air conditioner hole, after the unit was pulled down. There was around $130 taken from the juke box, pool tables and cigarette machines.

The Sands was entered through the front door, and money was taken out of the juke box and cigarette machines, plus around $100 in change from the office cash box. Several government bonds made out to George Clyde Cole was also missing.

The Tropics reported forced entry through a door, and around $50 was missing from coin-operated machines.

TO FOLLOW OREGON TRAIL Westward Ho The Wagons!

ALDERWOOD MANOR, Wash. (AP) — Hundreds of Americans born too late to go West in wagon trains may soon have the opportunity to go East in the prairie schooners.

Men, women and children aboard horses and wagons are to leave various points in the nation for Valley Forge, Pa. Estimated time of arrival: July 4, 1976 — in time to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday.

Ken Wilcox, 57, of Alderwood Manor near Seattle, will be wagon master for the Washington state contingent of the Northwest wagon train. It is to depart June 7 from the U.S.-Canadian Peace Arch at Blaine, and include wagons representing Pennsylvania and Alaska.

The venture is being funded in part by the State of Pennsylvania and private companies. A $3 million budget includes building 51 wagons in Jonesboro, Ark., the rental or purchase of horses, and food.

Wilcox figures the train will travel about six hours a day or about 20 miles. "We could make it a lot faster than that if we wanted to really extend the horses — but it's a long trip," he said. The old routes are mostly paved roads these days. "When they put in the highways, they did just like the pioneers did — they went where the going was easiest," Wilcox said.

But there will be conveniences including trailers — for those wishing a hard cover in bad weather — and catered food. "In the old days they must have been tougher than we are," he says with a grin.

Plans are for the train to follow the Oregon Trail and parts of the Lewis and Clark Trail.

By Oct. 1, after traveling through Oregon and Idaho, the train is to arrive at Ft. Laramie, Wyo., where it will stop for the winter.

Levi Looking Like Cinch Bet To Be Next U.S. Attorney General

WASHINGTON (AP) — All signs point to a prompt Senate confirmation of Edward H. Levi to be U.S. attorney general, a survey of key senators has disclosed.

Levi goes before the Senate Judiciary Committee today for formal questioning after having met privately with many senators in the past month.

Levi, 63, an antitrust expert, has been president of the University of Chicago since 1968 and dean of its law school before that.

President Ford nominated him for the Cabinet post to replace William B. Saxbe, leaving after a little over a year as attorney general to become ambassador to India.

Opposition to Levi's nomination initially surfaced from conservative and Republican ranks on the grounds that he once belonged to a liberal lawyers organization and is not known to be a vocal Republican.

However, this opposition has faded in recent weeks as he has won thumping endorsements of the American Bar Association and has been making the rounds in the Capitol to talk with individual senators.

"I don't know of any opposition," said Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., the ranking minority member of the Judiciary Committee.

Republican leader Hugh Scott, also a member of the committee, said the outlook for Senate confirmation of Levi's nomination is good.

He and others indicated the panel might be able to end its hearings in a day.

Both Illinois senators, Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III, and Republican Charles H. Percy, have been filled with praise for Levi.

Only three requests to testify in opposition to Levi's nomination have been received by the Judiciary Committee.

One came from the Liberty Lobby, a conservative group.

We'd Rather Have Our Own

Thursday's Gallup Poll had some interesting figures about Americans' feelings concerning the energy crisis and what America should do in dealing with the Middle East oil-producing nations.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's recent refusal to rule out force in dealing with the Middle East over oil policy apparently doesn't set too well with the majority of respondents. Only one in 10 of those polled would favor military intervention in the event of another oil boycott such as that which was imposed in the fall of 1973.

Gallup surmises that the recent American experience with the Vietnam war may have a great deal to do with the nation's reluctance to enter into a fresh military operation — even for vital energy resources. Instead Americans would rather have us become self-sufficient (35 per cent) or place economic sanctions on the nations which embargo the oil (24 per cent). Such an economic sanction would include putting an embargo on food and other items now being shipped to the oil-rich nations.

Interestingly, only 3 per cent would have us seek oil from other nations, 4 per cent would have the United States negotiate with the Arab nations and 2 per cent would have us meet the Arab demands. That pretty well indicates Americans are not in the bargaining mood for their oil, but are not ready to go to war for it. Instead they would rather become self-sufficient and use economic sanctions to keep the price and availability of petroleum in line.

This carries with it a great message for the economy of West Texas. With a greater effort towards national self-sufficiency in energy, the petroleum industry of West Texas will become even more active and profitable. Likewise, the agriculture community could be affected by an embargo of food from this nation. But any reduction of food shipments to the oil-producing nations would be diverted to other nations needing our food supplies.

Nevertheless, if the Gallup Poll figures are anywhere indicative the American people would take a more progressive line of action than military force. They realize that we can no longer remain dependent on foreign energy sources and must achieve energy independence as soon as possible. They also recognize the long-range strength of food over guns.

Tarred With Same Brush

A state Senate sub-committee has alleged that some — and perhaps a better word would be "small percentage" — nursing homes in Texas are falling far short of providing adequate, humane care.

Unfortunately, well-operated nursing homes get tarred with the same brush. It may be, as the committee contended, that many of those individuals confined to homes could be better served in their own home surroundings, but there are enough bona fide patients to keep reputable nursing homes busy. Operated right, they constitute an asset to their communities. It will be to their advantage if the small fraction of unscrupulous places are weeded out.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I am going on 26, and have been married since I was 17. My marriage was never really good, and it got worse, so we separated for eight months. Now he's back and he's being so good to both me and the children, constantly telling me how much he loves and needs us. But during our separation, I found an identity of my own, and a man I love very much. Can I force myself now to give up the only real happiness I've ever known?

W.S. True happiness cannot be thought of as something removed from reality. It was Alexander Pope who said, "False happiness is like false money. It passes for a time as well as the true, and serves some ordinary occasions; but when it is brought to the touch, we find the lightness and the alloy, and feel the loss."

You say you recently found an identity of your own, but a separation didn't entitle you to do that. Your relationship to your husband remained intact, and when he had recovered enough to return to you, there was the obligation to pick up where you left off.

God is able to help you fight off this illicit relationship, and to bring to your marriage the kind of devotion and fidelity that it now requires. Jesus often asked needy people, "What do you want me to do for you?" However you phrase your

Good, Bad Package

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — A more independent Congress that has some serious questions about the Ford administration energy-economic program is likely to produce some hot debates over the next few weeks.

Helping to generate the heat is the President's contention that his program is a package of inter-related measures that cannot be broken down and reconstructed without suffering critically and perhaps fatally. But economists already are picking apart the ingredients. Governors of states in the Northeast contend the energy tax is discriminatory. Labor insists the tax rebates be more to the advantage of the poor.

Bankers are still trying to make up their minds. They would like to believe that deficits of $35 billion and in excess of $40 billion in successive years won't force up interest rates, but are arguing among themselves.

Insurance men, who must watch interest rates with a magnifying glass and measure every fractional change, are beginning to lose faith in the prospect for lower rates.

Kenneth Wright, chief economist of the American Life Insurance Association, told members a few days ago: "The normal expectation in a period of deepening recession, reduced inflation rates, and prospective easing of monetary policy would be for a substantial downturn in both long and short-term interest rates."

"In the year ahead, however, a record amount of long-term corporate financing is in prospect and the need for Treasury financing of federal deficits is expected to reach a postwar high."

"Primarily as a result of these over-riding influences, both short-term and long-term interest rates are expected to move down by relatively small amounts in the first half of the year, with a likelihood of renewed upward pressure in the latter part of 1975."

Much the same view is being taken by economists regarding inflation. The standard forecast originally called for a sharp drop in inflation and interest rates. The outlook now is for a mild decrease and, tentatively, another move upward.

Perhaps the biggest question about the Ford program is how a tax-induced higher price for energy can help the economy, or even reduce dependence on foreign sources of supply without hurting the United States.

Homeowners in the Northeast have already imposed restraints on themselves, lowering their thermostats because the price of fuel oil has doubled in two years. Will higher prices mean further cuts or will they decide they have no choice but to use as much as before?

The President's program is complex, but is it a total package, like a watch, from which no part can be removed? There is widespread feeling in financial circles that the claim doesn't stand up.

Albert Cox, Jr., an economic adviser in the Nixon administration, comments: "Taken as a total package, President Ford's economic proposals are not constructive."

Cox believes there is both good and bad in the package, and that the package thus needs to be dissected. And that seems likely.

CIA Straight Jacket

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Even before the most recent expose of charges against the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), its freedom to conduct clandestine operations abroad had been quietly placed by Congress in a straitjacket with deeply disturbing implications for this country's security.

THE STRAITJACKET was an innocuous-sounding amendment to the foreign aid bill sponsored by Rep. Leo Ryan, California Democrat. His amendment, requiring President Ford to report to Congress the details and justification of every secret CIA foreign operation before it can be approved, sailed through last month without visible opposition from an administration benumbed by the anti-CIA onslaught.

What makes the Ryan amendment a straitjacket for intelligence operations is its singling out the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees among the "appropriate committees" of Congress which the President is ordered to take into his confidence.

MEMBERS OF those two committees include the most vociferous critics of the CIA, particularly its clandestine operations or "department of dirty tricks." Until now, they had no regular access to intelligence secrets. Supersensitive information had been limited to a handful of senior members of armed services and appropriations committees, making up the CIA oversight panels. Now these secrets will be distributed among nearly one-third the total membership of Congress, including the CIA's most intransigent critics.

GERALD R. FORD and future Presidents are thus forced to risk virtually uncontrollable security breaches by hostile members of Congress, some of whom never have accepted the need for CIA's secret political operations abroad. In today's post-Watergate atmosphere, where leaks of state secrets have become a way of life for politicians, this raises a real question whether the CIA's foreign operations can continue at all.

There can be no ducking the clear language of the Ryan amendment, which began operating two weeks ago, when Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the new chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, asked for a list of present CIA undercover operations abroad, with their justification attached. A letter from President Ford was dispatched to Sparkman last week with the complete list.

SPARKMAN, who has never been a CIA critic, obviously sought this explosive piece of information to protect himself from CIA critics on his committee. Sparkman is now discussing with the CIA a possible method for safeguarding this information, perhaps a "need to know" committee rule which would place each Senator under oath not to reveal it. However, skeptics, including many in Congress, doubt the information can be kept inviolate.

WHEN THE Ryan amendment was passed by the House and Senate with scarcely a murmur in mid-December, neither the White House nor the CIA made any serious effort to organize resistance. One Republican moderate on the Senate-House conference committee that wrote the final version of the foreign aid bill last month was amazed when the White House did not appeal for help.

"They were shell-shocked from the Chilean expose," he told us. The hottest issue then was not drastic expansion of congressional CIA oversight but how to handle another congressional effort to dictate policy in the attempted cut-off of Turkish aid.

Moreover, the damaging expose of CIA's efforts to influence Chilean politics, followed by allegations of domestic spying, created an anti-CIA move which intimidated the White House.

Congestive Heart Failure

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain what congestive heart failure is. Can it be damaging to the heart? What is the cure, if any? Should someone see a heart specialist? — L.A.

Congestive heart failure (CHF) means that the heart muscle has lost its efficiency. This can result from damage to the valves which becomes either narrowed or loosened — often the result of rheumatic fever.

With the internal structural damage, the heart usually becomes enlarged because of the strain of pumping through a defective valve opening. The "back wash" effect from valves that do not close properly reduces the heart's pumping efficiency, and as a consequence fluid accumulates in the tissues — the lungs and legs chiefly.

Heart failure can also be caused by heart attacks or congenital valve problems. Symptoms of CHF are usually shortness of breath, coughing, swelling of the lower legs (edema) and a dusky-colored skin, all direct results of the reduced circulation and the sluggish uptake of oxygen in the lungs.

It is a serious condition, but it can be handled by the family physician. He would be familiar with the extent of the heart damage in any individual case and know if it is advisable to bring in a specialist.

Treatment includes use of digitalis to strengthen the heart muscle, and diuretics to promote release of excess fluid through the kidneys. Bed rest is necessary in the initial stages, and activity should be kept to a minimum. A diet low in salt is advisable, and if you are obese, you should lose weight.

Since CHF is caused by heart damage, the word control is more appropriate than cure, except in instances where a valve can be replaced. Surgeons have had considerable success in valve replacement.

Dear Dr. Thosteson:

Fifteen months ago a doctor diagnosed that I have Morton's neuroma. He said it would be ripe for excision last summer. But we have moved and the doctor where I now live prefers to inject the nerve rather than remove the tumor.

I am a teacher and on my feet, and it is difficult for me. How can a doctor tell when the tumor is ripe? — M.F.

Morton's neuroma — or Morton's toe — involves the disturbance of a nerve in the foot which causes pain in the area of the third and fourth toes. I dislike the term "ripe." What your previous doctor meant to tell you was that, other treatment failing, the best way for you to get relief was from surgical removal of the nerve tumor.

Conservative measures such as use of arch support or steroid injection are often effective enough, but they do nothing to eliminate the cause. I agree with your previous doctor.

Surgical removal should provide complete relief.

Problem At Home

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

I identify with the Los Angeles chief of police, Edward M. Davis, who was moved to remark not long ago "I'm damn sick and tired of the United States trying to solve international problems rather than grapple with domestic issues."

"THE HELL with all the poor people in the rest of the world," Davis told a Sacramento audience, "I get so damn sick and tired of the leaders going to other parts of the world to solve other people's problems. 'If that's being an isolationist, then ... I'm an isolationist.'"

"We can't even keep our kids alive," Davis continued, referring to juvenile gang shooting in Los Angeles. He pointed out there had been 70 such fatal shootings in 1974.

"THIS IS going to happen where you live. I guarantee it — unless we do something," Davis remarked. "This sin of neglect is going to be visited upon your children."

Davis, I gather, thinks we should get a lot more involved in the raising of our children and should quit trying to strap the responsibility on the backs of the preacher, the scout leader, the school teacher and the

IT'S TRUE that some children, like some investments, will have to be written off, no matter how much time you devote to them. But, if they can't look to adults for guidance and inspiration, who can they look to?

You may think you're all heart if you toss them the car keys and tell them not to dent the fenders but the job of shaping character is a little more complex than that.

Civic groups and 'liberal do-gooders' all talk, but they don't do much in a constructive way, according to Davis.

THE INFLUENCE of the American home may be ending as we know it. If that be the case, then we'd best find a good substitute for it in a hurry.

When the law of the land doesn't apply equally to all, and it hasn't for a long time in this country, something is radically wrong.

An educational system that advances a student who can barely read or write must be regarded as inadequate. People who are pushed into the world so poorly equipped are prime candidates to lead lives of crime. How else can many of them compete?

DAVIS IS OF the opinion that our teaching system should put more emphasis on the task of giving minority students "some opportunity to cope with life."

We're not going to solve our problems by trying to mediate a fight between Israel and the Arabs or sending missionaries to India.

FOR SOME reason, a lot of well-heeled people would rather contribute to a charity that operates in Senegal than to offer help in cleaning up a poverty area in their own neighborhood.

It may not be too late to work toward untangling the Gordian knot but time is getting short.

Notable Example

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — Those snickers coming from the Pentagon are in anticipation of the big flap over the Central Intelligence Agency. Nothing could please certain of the power barons in the Department of Defense more than to have the CIA clipped and its functions drastically curtailed.

THIS IS far from being one of those bureaucratic struggles that perennially wrack the government. CIA estimates of the military threat posed by the Soviet Union have in conspicuous instances been lower than the estimates out of the Pentagon.

Maj. Gen. Daniel O. Graham, director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, has in the recent past openly expressed the view that the military and the military alone should define the threat to America's security. This would mean, of course, far-out views to justify all the far-out weapons the three services want.

In an article Graham wrote for an army magazine in April, 1973, he said:

"To sum up I think that the time is ripe for the military to reassert its traditional role in the function of describing military threats to national security."

IN OTHER words this is our bailiwick and CIA keep out. He warned in the same article of the "danger of the military profession as a whole losing its function of defining the military threat for the national leadership."

During the debate over the limitation on Anti-Ballistic Missiles in the SALT I agreement, CIA's estimate of the risk involved was far less than that of the Defense Department. The Pentagon power barons did not take kindly to CIA's estimate which finally prevailed.

THE BUDGET for CIA in the current fiscal year is $129.3 million. That will jump in the next fiscal year to $228.3 million, part of the jump attributed to a new CIA building.

But this is peanuts alongside the top-secret budget of the CIA. Here is the rub. The CIA gets an estimated 15 to 20 cents out of the intelligence dollar. If that could be scaled back, the Pentagon intelligence empire would be the happy beneficiary.

Just ahead is another sharp difference between the CIA and the military that promises to become a hotly debated issue in the Senate. Involved is Diego Garcia, the island in the Indian Ocean that the Navy wants to convert from a "facility" to a formal base at an estimated cost of $20 million.

ADMIRAL ELMO Zumwalt, recently retired chief of naval operations, painted a dark picture of Soviet capabilities as justification for a base on Diego Garcia. The CIA appraisal was much more moderate.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D., Mo., wanted to know why, with the great arsenal of nuclear-powered submarines with multiple-targeted missiles free to roam the oceans, it was necessary to establish still another American base.

Senate Democrats, by an overwhelming majority, voted for a bipartisan committee to investigate the CIA and other intelligence agencies over a period of nine months. This grew out of charges of domestic spying in violation of the agency's charter.

IF THIS IS to be more than a television spectacular — a punitive expedition — there should be a serious examination of the role the CIA has played in foreign and military intelligence estimates.

While no one will say so out loud it is obvious that the Pentagon powers would like nothing better than to have complete sway to make scare headlines over the dangers ahead.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The federal-state program under which a majority of Texas nursing homes operate has been rated "best in the country" by a report read into the minutes of the Texas Department of Welfare Meeting at Austin this month. This year-end review of publicly funded programs in all states was published by National Features Syndicate in their medicare and medicaid report from the nation's capital. The independent reporting organization said its evaluations are a summary of what "Washington officialdom thinks" about the manner in which public health assistance programs are administered.

"Texas' No. 1 rating is the result of a lot of work by a lot of people," said Rogers Wilson, president of the Texas Nursing Home Association. "Our profession has adopted goals of excellence and high ethics, our state department of welfare and department of health which monitor our operations have established high standards. Working in close cooperation we have achieved and maintained an exceptionally good situation in Texas. This rating is a real tribute and high honor and everyone involved deserves a share of the credit."

Among all states and U.S. possessions operating under the medicare Title XIX program, Texas alone was classed No. 1 in score. In addition to being "best," Texas ranks second in the nation in number of nursing homes. TNHA, on which Wilson is president, has 635 member facilities with a total of 53,063 beds licensed for various levels of patient care. Floyd Cox, president of the North Texas chapter of TNHA and regional director of Monterey Life Systems, Inc., owners of Big Spring Nursing Home, expressed in two simple words: "We care."

Wilma R. Legear, Adm. Big Spring Nursing Home

Ford's Big Tax Package Draws More Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's proposed $16 billion tax cut is coming under more scrutiny from the House Ways and Means Committee amid new criticism of the antirecession package.

The committee resumes hearings on the proposed tax cut today. The panel interrupted consideration of the proposal last week to vote out a bill that would force a 90-day postponement of Ford's $3 levy on every barrel of imported oil.

The postponement will be difficult for Ford to veto since it is combined with a $36 billion increase in the Treasury's borrowing authority. The full House is expected to vote on the measure either late this week or early next.

Meanwhile, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, who is expected to declare his candidacy next month for the Democratic presidential nomination, criticized Ford's tax rebate proposal, saying:

"So when we talk about tax rebates and the figures show the $50,000-a-year man getting $1,000 and the $5,000-a-year man getting $12, there is a plan that begs for amendment."

"Now that the President has finally prescribed a 'treatment' for our energy and economic ills, people are asking if the cure isn't worse than the disease," Jackson said Sunday at a Los Angeles fund-raiser in his honor.

Members of the Ways and Means Committee also have challenged sections of Ford's tax measure.

Meanwhile, the Senate was expected today to approve formation of a special committee to investigate the CIA, FBI and other intelligence agencies, some of which have been accused of overstepping their legal jurisdiction.

On Tuesday, the Senate is scheduled to take up rival proposals dealing with the contested New Hampshire Senate race between Democrat Louis C. Wyman and Democratic John Durkin.

The Democrats want to seat neither man, sending the matter back to the Rules Committee for further investigation. One Republican proposal would declare the seat vacant until a new election can be held while another would seat Wyman pending an investigation by the Rules Committee.

Also this week, Senate liberals are expected to resume their effort to change that body's filibuster rule, reducing the margin of votes needed to cut off debate from two-thirds to three-fifths.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said a cloture petition may be introduced today, meaning the Senate would vote Wednesday on whether to end the debate on changing the filibuster rule and bring the proposed change to a vote.

The youth signed a statement late Sunday confessing to the two killings as well as the Jan. 11 slaying of a Summit man and four recent burglaries, they added.

Sheriff Edward O'Connor and Dist. Atty. Jerome Cahill said there was no immediate reason for the ambush of the two policemen, who were members of the five-man rural township police force in the town of Summit.

Cahill's office said the youth was scheduled to appear at a juvenile hearing today in Waukesha, where prosecutors would seek a waiver in order to charge him as an adult.

The bodies of patrolman Robert Atkins Jr., 28, and part-time patrolman Wayne Olson, 52, were discovered near their patrol car in Summit after police in nearby Oconomowoc were unable to raise the pair by radio.

Authorities said rifle shots punctured the car's windshield while it was parked behind the town hall which also serves as Summit's police headquarters.

Officials said the assailant apparently rode a bicycle to the scene and hid in evergreen shrubbery beside the building.

The bodies of the policemen were found outside the car. Authorities said Olson, apparently shot while in the driver's seat, may have been dragged from the car or may have staggered to some bushes.

They said Atkins staggered or ran from the vehicle with a leg wound and wounded himself again in a leg while trying to draw his service pistol before he was killed.

Police said the teen-ager provided information about four burglaries and the slaying two weeks ago of Ronald Hoeft, 43, who was shot while pursuing his car as someone drove it from his home.

Home Damaged — Fire damaged the ceiling of a house on Texas 350 on Sunday morning, the sheriff's office reported. The structure, 15 miles from Big Spring, belongs to Nile Bailey. Silver Heels and Jonesboro firemen responded to the blaze.

Truck Found — Carl Gray reported his 1957 wrecker truck missing Saturday night. But the sheriff's office noted the vehicle had been found Sunday afternoon at a service station by IS-20 and Texas 350.

FIRES — Grass fire on NW 33 near the railroad at 5:05 p.m. Sunday; quickly extinguished.

HUNT'S $60,000 Senator Brands Report False

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. James O. Eastland has branded as "totally false" a report that he received $50,000 to $60,000 to intervene with the Justice Department on behalf of Texas oil billionaire Nelson Bunker Hunt.

The report, contained in a syndicated column by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten, said Hunt and his brother, W. Herbert Hunt, were charged with hiring a private investigator, Patrick McCann, to wiretap some employees of their father; the late H.L. Hunt.

The Hunt brothers allegedly sought the taps because they were suspicious that some people were influencing the senior Hunt to turn over control of the Hunt Oil Co. to his second wife's family.

After the Hunt brothers were indicted, they went to Eastland and took steps to get a parole for McCann who already had been jailed on the wiretap charge, the Anderson column said.

Eastland, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, acknowledged calling Richard Kleindienst, then deputy attorney general, about the case but says he asked nothing but "a square deal" for Hunt.

The Anderson column says Courtney Pace, Eastland's administrative assistant, also contacted the Parole Board about a parole for McCann.

According to the Anderson column, Jerry Partchen, an attorney in the case, has testified before a Dallas grand jury that "Sen. Eastland received a $50,000 to $60,000 payoff" for his efforts on behalf of Hunt.

Pace, contacted by The Associated Press, declined to comment on the allegations. "I have nothing to say on the matter," he said.

Eastland was unavailable for comment. But he was quoted by the Jackson, Miss., Clarion-Ledger as saying: "The implications and statements (in the Anderson column) are totally false. I have never taken a bribe from anyone, anytime or anyplace."

MAKING SELECTION — First lady Betty Ford looks over sketches by dress designer Albert Capraro last week. Mrs. Ford asked Capraro for his ideas for her White House wardrobe after reading a report that his clothes sell for as little as $70.

Mrs. Ford Watching Wardrobe Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — First lady Betty Ford's new spring wardrobe will be made and designed in America. It also will carry an anti-inflationary look.

Mrs. Ford, a bargain-conscious shopper, read about designer Albert Capraro in the Washington Star-News last week and was struck by the story's report that his clothes sell for as little as $70, her press secretary, Sheila Weidenfeld, said.

Capraro, of New York City, was asked by Mrs. Ford's staff to bring sketches to the White House. He flew here Wednesday with a dozen.

The First Lady was described as insistent on buying clothes made and designed in the United States.

But, Mrs. Weidenfeld said, another important factor was cost at a time when Mrs. Ford, like other U.S. housewives, is watching her pennies to counter the impact of inflation.

"She couldn't afford couture dresses," her press secretary said.

Mrs. Weidenfeld said Mrs. Ford ordered two of the dresses and now awaits Capraro's return with sketches of other garments that would be tailored to make best use of her own supply of fabrics.

Capraro was quoted by Mrs. Ford as saying: "I don't have a large budget for clothes. So I want to work out with you a spring wardrobe of clothes that will suit many purposes. Ones that I will feel comfortable in for many events. Frequently I have to change on a plane — so they have to be able to work at a moment's notice."

Mrs. Weidenfeld said Mrs. Ford began the talk with Capraro by showing him two or three of her dresses she especially liked to give him an idea of what she had in mind.

It happened Capraro had designed them before setting up shop for himself.

Delighted at the discovery, the First Lady and the designer got down to business and Capraro soon will be returning to the White House, Mrs. Weidenfeld said, with sketches and renderings of dresses he proposes to make for Mrs. Ford.

His day dresses are expected to retail around $80, with evening gowns at $200. She also asked Capraro to make up five evening dresses from fabrics President Ford brought her from his November trip to Japan.

Capraro described Mrs. Ford as a "perfect model," size six, 5 feet 5½ inches tall, weight 106 pounds.

He said her eyes change from blue to green depending on the clothes she's wearing.

"She was very open about talking about the type of clothes she wants especially since her operation. While she doesn't want to concentrate only on high necklines, she is very definite about wanting clothes to cover her arms," he said.

Butler Is Speaker At Club Meet

Dr. Lee Butler, chaplain at the Big Spring State Hospital, was speaker for the meeting of the City Home Demonstration Club Friday in the home of Mrs. A. W. Page.

In discussing the problems of people, the chaplain said good mental health means how we act toward ourselves and other people in our community. He said those in the best mental health are able to survive the trials of day to day living.

There are a number of programs being used at the hospital, among them Outreach which includes 10 counties. This is a followup for ex-patients and out-patient care. There is a Work Village in two phases, and a program that encompasses those dismissed patients who still maintain their residence on the hospital campus but are paid for working either at the hospital or on other jobs. They are still under hospital supervision.

A question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Alton Underwood is the club nominee to the District meeting, and the club voted to furnish cookies to the state hospital once a year.

The City club will host the next HD Council meeting.

All former members of the club are to be invited to the Feb. 14 luncheon that is slated for 11 a.m. at the Kentwood Center. Mrs. W. N. Norred will be hostess.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Page and her cohostess, Mrs. B. F. Mabe.

Mrs. Bill Conger gave the devotion.

Howard Dodd Talks About Fire Safety

How to practice fire safety in the home was stressed by Howard Dodd, city fire marshal, when he spoke Thursday to the Elbow Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Joe B. Evans.

"The best thing to do is prevent the fire from starting," said Dodd, who listed fire hazards as being cigarettes, overloaded fuses, electrical motors on home appliances, children playing with matches and storage of inflammable materials. He said it is advisable to keep a small fire extinguisher in the home but, in emergencies, soda makes a good agent to fight flames, especially grease fires in the kitchen.

Mrs. Evans gave the devotional and, during the business session, Mrs. Dale Soles was named nominee to the District 2 meeting in the spring. The 1975 home demonstration club recommendations were accepted, and plans were made to provide cookies for the state hospital. The Feb. 6 meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Herman Fowler.

International Women Tell Altrusa Club Of Customs

Mrs. Jung Ja Simpson, a native of Korea, and Mrs. Margarita Palmer of Venezuela discussed their native lands when they were guest speakers Thursday at the Altrusa Club luncheon. The women were introduced by Mrs. Loyd Wooten of the Altrusa international committee.

Mrs. Simpson, who came to the United States with her husband in February, 1965, lived in Odessa for a short while before the family moved to Big Spring. In discussing customs of her country, she said some single girls have jobs outside the home, but after marriage, they remain housewives, staying at home to care for their families.

Engagements usually last from six to eight months as the families become acquainted and learn what each is to bring to the marriage. Generally, women do not drive automobiles, and the upper class families have five or six persons as household employees. When the father dies, property goes to the eldest son.

Describing her home town as having about 20,000 population, Mrs. Simpson said most of the farming in the area consisted of rice paddies, with Japan being Korea's largest rice customer.

Mrs. Palmer was reared in the Venezuelan coastal city of Puerto de la Cruz which has a population of approximately 28,000. Venezuela, which is larger than Texas, has a tropical climate which helps provide the orchid as the national flower. The country is known for its diamond mines and gold, besides being one of the largest oil-producing countries in the world.

In Venezuela, children begin preparatory school at the age of five and, although schools are strict, there is no spanking allowed. There is no such thing as "baby sitting", for older relatives take care of the younger ones instead of outsiders being hired to do so. Mrs. Palmer said she first came to the United States to learn to speak English and, while in El Paso, met her future husband who is from San Angelo.

Mrs. H. D. Cowden presided for the club's brief business session.

Nominations Open For Year's Biggest Heel

DEAR ABBY: My nomination for Heel of the Year is "Slim Smith," which, of course, is not his real name.

Slim is good looking, clean shaven, and believe it or not, he wears his dark, wavy hair cut short. He's a sharp dresser and a natural born salesman with a million-dollar smile and true-blue eyes, like Paul Newman.

He came into the cocktail lounge where I'm a waitress, had two drinks and we started talking. Then he discovered somebody had lifted his wallet. I took care of his bill, and then he asked me if he could see me home after work. I said okay. (We used my car because his was in the shop.)

When we got to my place, he said his pad was being painted and asked if he could sleep on my couch. I said okay. The next day, he drove me to work in my car, and promised to pick me up after work. He never showed up.

You guessed it. That heel had taken everything in my apartment he could hock, and he took off with my car.

Not only that, I lent him $100. The police found my car in a town 300 miles away, and Slim is still missing. Sign me.

Thanks Trooper For Jailing Him On DWI Charge

DALLAS (AP) - A 44-
year-old motorist arrested for drunken driving has written a "thank you" note to the state trooper who jailed him.

Trooper Charles Huddleston, assigned to the Dallas-Fort Worth turnpike, received the note from the Dallas man he arrested Sept.
19.

The driver was subsequently placed on nine months probation. He said he decided after the arrest to overcome his drinking problem before he killed himself or some innocent person.

After receiving treatment at a private hospital, the motorist said, he is able now to resist the temptation to have "just one drink."

As a result, he considers the arrest "the greatest thing that could have happened to me."

"The purpose of my letter is to thank you for stopping me that day and probably saving a life (or more) due to my intoxicated condition.
You were very courteous and performed your duty justly, and I appreciate your help very much."

Capt. Joe Mladenka, who heads the trooper detachment on the toll roads, observed that his men often must take abuse in arresting drunk drivers.

It is "very very seldom"
they get a note of appreciation, he said.

Glasscock Due Emergency Loans

Farmers and ranchers in Glasscock may be eligible for emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration.

The county has been designated for these loans for production losses from October 1973 through 1974, said Gerald Crump, who is in charge of the FHA office.

Applications or information may be obtained from him at Room 220 in the Federal Building.

Tot Swimming Class Slated

A new series in teaching the young to swim will be given at the Big Spring
YMCA beginning Feb. 10.
This class will be for children 6 months to 3 years of age. One parent will help in the water with the child.
Class will meet twice weekly from 11-11:30 a.m. on Mondays and Fridays. John Schiebel will be the instructor. Phone the Y for registration and information at 267-8234.

United Way Meets Tuesday

Annual meeting of trustees of the United Fund (Way) is set for 5 p.m. Tuesday in the Texas Electric Realty Room.

Reports on the past year's work will be made.
Recognitions given for outstanding work, and new officers named, including the 1975 campaign director.
Financial reports will be received, and action will be taken to change officially the name from United Fund to United Way, although the Howard County unit has operated under the latter name informally for the past two years.

Deadline Near

Deadline for ads for the Scout Exposition brochure is nearing. Bill Priebe reminded Scout unit leaders today. He said that these must be in the council office by Feb. 2. Those who need forms may call him at 2-3177 or Mick Willett at 3-7708. The Exposition is scheduled for March 8 in the Howard County Fair Barns.

Meet Today

The Big Spring Property Owners Association is to have its regular monthly meeting 6:30 p.m. today at Furr's Cafeteria, officials reminded.

NO FOOD OR WATER Two Fishermen Escape Death

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two Jamaican fishermen, rescued after spending 15 days in a small boat in the Caribbean Sea, were scheduled to be flown to their homes today.

Linnal Brown, 22, and Hanval Hamapi, 23, discussed their experience Sunday night aboard the Norwegian ship Brevik.

The Brevik rescued the two fishermen four days ago and next docked at the Port of Houston.

"We waved to the ships but they just passed," Brown said. "They didn't think anything was wrong. But we had no food or water."

Brown and Hamapi set out from their home port of Rocky Point, Jamaica, the morning of Jan. 8, heading for the fishing grounds of Portland Rock in the Caribbean.

They carried enough water for 11 days in their 18-foot long skiff although they planned to return home the next day.

"After we had finished fishing and were on our way home, our motor broke and we began to drift," Brown said.

They did not realize it at the time but they were trapped in a current which carried them westward toward the Yucatan Peninsula.

They were not worried at first because the boat was filled with fish and lobster.

EXPOSURE
However, as the days went by, the aid, they began to be frightened and sadder from exposure.

They tried to signal ships but the ships' crews misunderstood, thinking all was well with the two fishermen.

"I was hungry," said Hamapi. "I couldn't get enough to drink. I had to drink seawater. I found I couldn't move my arms. My body was weak."

Then they were spotted by the crew of the Brevik. Capt. Eric Werenskiold said a look through a telescope revealed the two fishermen in the boat, Hamapi lying unconscious and Brown waving frantically.

The tiny boat was about 35 miles from Jamaica and still drifting toward Yucatan.

Werenskiold said he did not believe the two could have survived much longer. "It was almost given out," Brown said. "We would have been dead in another day."

Hamapi said, "God sent the captain to us."

SAYING GOODBYE — Andrew Levitt hugs his son Daniel Sunday at Kennedy Airport in New York before the 6-year-old boarded a jet for Tel Aviv. Levitt was ordered by the State Court of Appeals to return the boy to his mother in Israel although Levitt argued the boy would not be safe because of guerrilla attacks.

It's June-In-January Weather For Texans

Texans relished a touch of June-in-January weather across parts of the state again today, and it was generally mild in other sections.

Dry west winds sent thermometers soaring Sunday, and moist breezes from the south reinforced that trend today, also spreading clouds inland from the Gulf of Mexico.

Overcast skies pushed as deep into the state as San Antonio, Austin and College Station in early forenoon and were expected to move farther toward the north. It was clear elsewhere.

Forecasters saw prospects for more normal temperatures by Tuesday. They looked for the latest cold front to push into western areas of the state tonight.

While the mercury sagged to 34 degrees at Dalhart in the panhandle near dawn, readings at other points stayed as high as 67 degrees at Brownsville and 69 at Victoria in the south.

Sunday afternoon readings ranged up to the nation's high of 93 degrees at Cotulla in Southwest Texas. New local records for the date were set at several points, including Amarillo 78, Austin 82, San Antonio 87 and Victoria 84.

Arrival of cooler air tonight was expected to bring occasional light rain along with freezing temperatures in parts of the Texas Panhandle. Forecasts also promised scattered thundershowers tonight or Tuesday in North Central and Northeast Texas and possibly showers in the southeast and south central Texas.

Bicycling

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has praised bicycling as a recreational activity. He said that cycling, as with all sports, must be exercised with loyalty, generosity and respect for people.

The pontiff spoke Sunday to thousands of amateur cyclists gathered in Rome for their national congress. Many brought their bikes to a Vatican courtyard where the audience took place.

The Pope was an avid cyclist in his youth.

News Study Oil-Exporting Nations To Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — The Twentieth Century Fund announced Saturday it had approved a two-year study of the major news services that develop and transmit news to newspapers, radio and television stations.

"The purpose of this study is to analyze the news sources that provide the largest proportion of the information diet available to American consumers," said Edward Jay Epstein, who will conduct the study.

He said he will devote most of his analysis to The Associated Press and United Press International but also will examine several of the supplemental news services, such as those operated by The New York Times and the Washington Post-Los Angeles Times.

These decisions were announced Sunday at the end of a three-day meeting in Algiers of the oil, finance and foreign ministers of the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

A communique said the OPEC members "welcome the dialogue between the industrialized countries and the developing countries and are, in this spirit, prepared to participate in an international conference such as that proposed by the government of France which will deal with the problems of raw materials and development."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and Chief Justice Warren E. Burger attended the annual Roman Catholic "Red Mass" invoking divine guidance in the administration of justice.

Accompanied by their wives, the President and Chief Justice heard Bishop James Rausch preach Sunday that abortion "directly attacks the right to survive." Bishop Rausch also said the continuing arms race is a threat to the survival of mankind.

James B. Lake Jr., a New Orleans patent attorney, testified that he overheard U.S. District Court Judge Lansing Mitchell tell a group of friends in 1968 that Brown's case had been assigned to his court and he was "going to get that nigger."

Lawyers for Brown argued before Cassibry Friday that Mitchell was "hopelessly paranoid" about black militants.

Mitchell, called as a witness, said he couldn't remember what he said seven years ago, but added, "I categorically deny I would ever make such a statement."

Another lawyer testified he was present when Lake said Mitchell had made the comment, but couldn't remember Mitchell saying it.

After hearing all the testimony, Judge Cassibry said, "I think Mr. Lake's version of what happened, happened."

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Testimony that a judge who sentenced H. Rap Brown to prison had said he was "going to get that nigger" casts a shadow over the appearance of justice in the case, a federal judge says.

U.S. District Court Judge Fred C. Cassibry added that he believed the testimony about a colleague on the federal bench probably was true.

ALGIERS (AP) — The oil-exporting countries have agreed to a meeting with their customer nations and plan a summit meeting of their own in four to six weeks to try to work out a unified position.

These decisions were announced Sunday at the end of a three-day meeting in Algiers of the oil, finance and foreign ministers of the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

A communique said the OPEC members "welcome the dialogue between the industrialized countries and the developing countries and are, in this spirit, prepared to participate in an international conference such as that proposed by the government of France which will deal with the problems of raw materials and development."

to the American view that the conference should be confined to the oil crisis and that negotiations to ease it should not be complicated by discussion of other raw materials. But a member of the OPEC secretariat said the oil countries realized they cannot force subjects of discussion on the United States and the other industrialized countries.

The source said the communique "says what the OPEC countries would like to happen, not necessarily what they expect to happen. The essential thing is that we have accepted the principle of a dialogue with the importing countries."

SUMMIT MEETING
The communique said the chiefs of state of the 13 nations will hold OPEC's first summit meeting between Feb. 21 and March 8 in Algiers to thrash out their position. Reports from Paris said a preliminary conference might be held in late March to draw up the agenda for the conference of exporting and importing countries.

OPEC members are Algeria, Ecuador, Gabon, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and Venezuela.

The communique was phrased in moderate language and carried no reflection of an Algerian demand for commitment to a total oil embargo against the United States if it took military action against any OPEC nation.
